GIANT ROCKET WOULD TRAVEL 70 MILES HIGH

International News Service.

WORCHESTER, Mass., Sept. 28.—An actual test of Professor Robert Goddard's rocket, which, it is claimed, can travel virtually seventy miles in the air, will be made shortly. The time has not yet been definitely decided upon.

The rocket, it is said, is practically ready to be tried out. It weighs thirty pounds, twenty-five of which is high explosive. A sufficiently large rocket would hit the moon, it is claimed.

Professor Goddard started his invention during the war and has been at work on it since. His laboratory, at that time was carefully guarded by soldiers, as the rocket was expected to provide the army with a terrible new engine of destruction capable of shooting two hundred or more miles.

The Smithsonian Institute and the war department provided a working fund of more than $5,000. Clark College, where Professor Goddard is head of the department of physics, gave him leave of absence. He also received assistance from Worcester Polytechnic Institute.

The propulsion power of the rocket lies in the internal combustion engine fed either by finely pulverized smokeless powder or liquid explosive at regular intervals by clockwork. The rocket has an outer cylindrical shell of thin metal. The combustion chamber opens into a nozzle, each exploding cartridge giving the rocket a further kick into space.

FROCK SHOWS NEW HINDU TRIMMING

By ELOISE.

Have you noticed the popularity of the new Hindu trimmings? You probably have, but do not recognize it by its new name. It is our friend henna with a slightly different tone and a brand new name. It is being used very effectively and profusely on the new navy and black serge and satin frocks. Often facings of it are employed on panels and sleeves and many overblouses and vestees are made of Hindu georgette, silk or chiffon. The most usual trimming, however, is Hindu embroidery or beading.

Here is a very pretty frock made of navy blue poiret twill with Hindu silk braid trimmings both waist and skirt. Many rows of the braid outline a panel on the skirt, but the blouse is covered with a rather intricate design. The blouse is made with kimona sleeves which reach but a few inches below the elbow. A narrow belt of the material marks the waistline.

A Hindu colored hat with a silver ornament connotes the outfit, which is suitable for street wear with or without a fur or wrap.

NEGRO BAPTISTS WILL RAISE HUGE FUNDS

COLUMBUS, Sept. 28.—At its closing session here the Negro National Baptist convention decided to hold its sessions at New Orleans next year.

The delegates adopted a plan, mapped out by a committee, to raise a $25,000,000 fund to be devoted to educating negroes and for evangelical work. It is planned to raise the money in ten equal yearly installments, each state being given a quota.

CALIFORNIA SOON TO PRODUCE LEMON SUPPLY OF NATION

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Sept. 28.—California will soon produce a lemon crop large enough to supply the entire United States.

This statement is made in the annual report of the citrus industry by G. Harold Powell, formerly with Herbert Hoover of the United States food commission and now general manager of the non-profit and co-operative marketing organization of citrus growers, the California Fruit Growers exchange.

With an estimated increase in production of lemons of sixty per cent in the next few years, California, besides supplying the entire national demand, will be the largest lemon producing area in the entire world.

According to figures in the report the total supply of lemons, both domestic and foreign, in the United States last year was 5,379,408 boxes. Of this number, California shipped 3,226,034 boxes.

There are 36,000 acres of land in the state devoted to the culture of the lemon (only 20 per cent of this entire acreage is at present bearing fruit). In the 13,000 non-bearing acres the trees are in various stages of maturity.

Speaking in his report of the problem to be met with this enormous increase Powell states:

The most active co-operation among growers and shippers will be required to make possible the marketing of the future lemon crop. Delicious fruits are agricultural specialties. Unlike other commodities, they must be disposed of when the crop is ripe and not as dictated by the conditions of the market. The problem of distribution is being given careful study and even now lemons are available on all markets every month of the year.

In order to keep the trade and production in even balance, the demand for lemons must be increased to meet the supply.

SANTA FE WILL BAR MARRIED WOMEN AS OFFICE EMPLOYEES

TOPEKA, Kan., Sept. 28.—As a result of the recent official announcement at the general offices of the Santa Fe railroad here that married women employed in the general auditor's office should adjust their affairs with a view of giving up their positions, a score of young married women, most of them brides, have left the company.

The official order specified that in cases where the husband's salary was not sufficient to maintain himself and his wife comfortably, the wife would be permitted to continue her employment.

It was explained that the standing rule not to employ married women in the general offices was suspended during the war and that the intention now is to re-establish this regulation in all departments.

A unique collection box, which will travel by train, airplane and ship to every United States marine corps post and station in the world, is for the purpose of raising a fund for the erection of a memorial tablet in Belleau Woods military cemetery, France, to the marines who lost their lives in battle.

PENNSY ENGINEER TOOTS JAZZ ON WHISTLE

AKRON, Sept. 28.—Jazz music from a freight engine.

It can be done.

A finished artist in "engine jazz" is the engineer who toots the whistle on freight engine No. 9,369, which runs frequently between Akron and Hudson, on the Pennsylvania railroad.

Read this tribute paid by a local admirer:

"The artist engineer has such complete control on the whistle cord that he can play a different tune as a warning approach for each crossing.

"He can make it wail like a broken-hearted maiden who has been jilted by the proud lord of the manor, or he can put distress into it such as can be made by a squalling infant whose feeding time has been allowed to elapse by the nurse with no bottle in sight.

"He can trill the sound and can play staccato, or 'slur' it, and he can do a fine tune in the arpeggios.

"He can make it stutter like 'Beautiful K-k-katie,' or when passing a field of grain he can give a good imitation of 'Comin' Through th' Rye.' When meeting a crossing 'Sunbonnet Sue' sometimes can be heard.

"If he is nearing a crossing in the vicinity of industry the chances are he will give a few notes of 'Everybody Works but Father,' or the 'Anvil Chorus.'

"If his water in the tank is getting low he can suggest the subject to his fireman with the strains of that anti-Bryan 'How Dry I Am,' showing that he is hip to the appropriateness of things in his selections."

A group of American naval officers sailed for Peru to help reorganize the navy of that country.

STAMFORD VETS SENT TO HOUSTON AS CITY GUESTS

STAMFORD, Sept. 28.—Five Confederate veterans will go to Houston, Texas, Oct. 3, to attend the Texas Confederate Veterans' Reunion. They are the guests of the city of Stamford.

BLIND BROOMMAKERS STRIKE FOR MORE PAY, MAKING NINE DOLLARS

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 28.—Eight blind men, employed in the broom factory at Jefferson avenue and Howard street, operated by the state for the blind, have struck, and one has quit and left St. Louis because they have been refused an increase in wages from the 9 to 10 a week which they now receive. Their strike has been in progress since Thursday, and five of them announced today that unless they can obtain an adjustment from the factory authorities they intend to take their grievances to Gov. Harding.

The factory is under the supervision of the Missouri commission for the blind, Annie E. Harris, secretary of the commission, declined to discuss the matter.

The men said that those who had struck were the best qualified broommakers at the state factory and that each was willing to work on a piecework basis. They said that they can average three dozen brooms a day each, which at the scale paid in union broom plants here of 70 to 85 cents a dozen for the class of brooms made at the state factory would enable them to make $12.00 to $15.30 a week.

They said that warehouse brooms, one of the kind they make, cost 54 cents each, or $6.48 a dozen, which would be $19.44 for the three dozen, which is their average daily output each. These brooms sell for $9.50 a dozen, which would be $28.50 for each day on the output of each man, they say.

One said that for some reason the authorities in charge of the factory had placed a limit on the number of brooms each man is allowed to make, fixing the number at 32 a day, and that he had been reprimanded once for exceeding the limit.

He and his associates said that when they presented their request for higher wages to the commission they had been told that if they "were not satisfied they could get out."

They said that they have no desire to become objects of charity; that they are good workmen, and that they want to work, but that they want living wages in return for their work.

They said that the $18 a week men at the state factory are those who get a $3 allowance provided by the state in case where blind men have blind wives, and that the allowance has nothing to do with their broom-making.

Smiling "Robbie" Guides Brooklyn Team to Pennant

For the Second Time His Master Mind Has Brought the Dodgers on Top and Into a World Series—His Ability to Develop Pitchers Is Widely Known.

By H. C. HAMILTON, International News Staff Correspondent. NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—Wilbert Robison and the President of the United States stand about the same with Brooklyn inhabitants. Just now Wilbert has something on the President, for he is rolling in the glory of the second world series he has led the Dodgers to.

The smiling Robbie, discounted as a probable contender for the National league pennant when the season opened, has gone ahead without much to worry about and has landed the team on top. The season he has turned the trick since he signed to manage the club after John McGraw let him get away from the Giants. Robbie led his team to a National league pennant in 1916 and although he didn't cover himself with any great amount of glory in the world's series with the Red Sox that followed, he earned so much respect for himself that the numerous club owners have sought to devise means by which he could be paid loose from Charles Ebbet's payroll.

Was With Orioles. Robison is a graduate of the old Baltimore school of ball players. He was a member of the famous Orioles when they were so strong that other teams found themselves practically out of the running against them. John J. McGraw, manager of the Giants, and Hugh Jennings, manager of the Tigers, are other survivors of that famous old team who are managing big league ball clubs now.

Robbie was born near Hudson, Mass., and it was in that section that he learned the rudiments of baseball and put them into practice. From the sand lots of New England he broke into professional baseball via the Haverhill club of the New England league and became the team's regular catcher. John K. Tener, who later became governor of Pennsylvania and then president of the National league, was the star pitcher of the Haverhill club and Robbie handled his shoots. Together they formed one of the best batteries that ever saw duty in New England. Later Robbie was sold to Baltimore and Tener went to Chicago, where both made great reputations.

In Baltimore Robbie became a close friend of John J. McGraw, a friendship that exists to the present day.

Made Study of Batters. Robison, as a catcher, learned much about the weak points of batters the hard way. So systematic did he make his study of them that his knowledge of the game has come to be regarded as the most marvelous in baseball. He has carried it with him in his management of the Brooklyn club and with astonishing success.

It was while with Baltimore that Robison achieved fame and set a major league record when he made seven hits in a single game.

Robison and McGraw remained together when they were sold to the St. Louis club. McGraw to become manager, but when McGraw went to New York to take charge of the Giants Robison was left with the remnants of the once great team that had represented Baltimore. Later when the Giants were in need of a coach for pitchers McGraw went to Robison and took him south. So good was the work of the former Baltimore catcher that he was immediately signed to a contract.

Developed Many Stars. Robison then began to again shine as a major leaguer. His ability to develop young pitchers and to save the oldtimers who were beginning to slip was almost uncanny. McGraw freely gives credit to Robison for the development of Rube Marquard, who at one time seemed to be a sure lemon, and to others who have gained fame as hurlers for the Giants. It was Robison who made a star of Ferdinand Schupp, who sat on the Giants' bench for two years before he finally proved himself equal to big league duty. Numerous others have been made into stars through the genius of the old catcher. When Robison got the chance to manage Brooklyn McGraw gladly let him go. Since reaching there he has pulled Rube Marquard back from the edge of minor league oblivion and has reconstructed A. Mannaugh and Burleigh Grimes until they have become leading pitchers.

Robison himself attributes a great amount of his success to his knowledge of pitchers. Never since he took charge of a team has it felt a lack of hurlers. In 1916, when he won his first pennant for Brooklyn, it was pitching skill that placed the team on top, and as much can be said this year.

Pat, always happy, with a smile for everyone, Robison has won a host of friends in baseball. His players are for him from the batboy up, which is another secret of his success.

RUTH ADDS TWO MORE HOME RUNS TO TOTAL

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 27.—Babe Ruth ran his home run total to fifty-three here this afternoon when he hit three in the first and sixth innings of the game with Philadelphia. Rommel was the victim of both circuit clouts. In neither case did the four-ply blow score a runner ahead of Ruth.

A. & M.'s First Game With S. M. U. Oct. 9 at Dallas

By Associated Press. COLLEGE STATION, Sept. 28.—With all the major games on the Texas A. & M. football schedule still several weeks ahead, Coach Bible and his assistants, Rothgeb and Anderson, are well pleased with the showing made by the squad at this time of year and are working hard to make the eleven the strongest in the state.

The first game of importance will be played at Dallas Oct. 9, when the Aggies ace the Southern Methodist university eleven, a team always considered dangerous early in the season, due to the ability of Coach Rix to get his men in condition rapidly. The Aggies' hardest game is expected to be that with the University of Texas on Thanksgiving Day at Austin.

Only three linemen are missing this year from the team of last year. They are Wilson, Alexander and Davis. Of the letter men available six are linemen—Drake and Carruthers, tackles; Murray and Scudder, guards; Pierce,

SERIOUS CHARGES GROW OUT OF BASEBALL GAMBLING QUIZ

Investigation of gambling in baseball, being conducted by the Cook county grand jury at Chicago, by officials of the Chicago Cubs and by President Ben Johnson of the American league, has shown that a condition exists that will kill the game unless wiped out immediately. The charges already made indicate that there was something wrong with the world's series last year and that there are a few men in the big leagues today who have listened to the lure of money offered by the big gambling cliques. Rube Benton, Giant center, and Gouger, end. Of the backfield letter men, Coach Bible has Mahan, fullback; Knickerbocker, quarterback; Weir, Martin and Morris, halfbacks. O. Frazier, who was unable to play most of the season last year on account of injuries, is back this year and in good condition. He is considered a valuable backfield man. In addition there is much new material which promises to give the old letter men strong fights for their positions.

PETEY, LISTEN HARD!

Buffalo, N. Y. —on a Saturday!

When it's your good luck to butt into Buffalo, go to that store on Ellicott Square where the dark haired clerk slips out Camels with both hands—plus a tank of talk on the side!

The thing that tickled me most was his sureness that I was after Camels! As soon as I had my coin on the counter and before I could say a word, he flashed me a package of Camels! When I asked him how he knew I wanted Camels, he took a pull on his laugh stock and soaked me with this:—"Can't tell you, old mayonnaise—I'm dressing!"

After he had waited on several other men who drew their Camels like I did, this salesman said:—"For a fact, most men here smoke Camels. They hit the popular taste! Camels have the right body and the right mildness and the right flavor! They're ALL right!"

And, Pete—he added this without a stutter: The more I see of the world and the more I learn about cigarettes, the more respect I have for Camels and Camels quality! I don't believe a better cigarette could be made at any price!"

And Pete—oh, Pete—listen to this gem:—"And it's an odds on bet I'm a good judge. I've tried 'em all—and my taste is the jury box!"

If that isn't a swell line of Camel talk, I'll sell my shoes! But, Peter, that salesman is right! It's my belief that no cigarette in the world can be favorably compared with Camels—they're so smooth and mellow and delightful!

I'm herewith slipping between the sheets, old book. So, you tell 'em the rest—you're so full of knowledge!

Sincerely
Shorty.

pretty design matches the material in color. The choker collar is of real beaver and to match are small pockets placed a little to the front and out of line of the ordinary pockets.

III.

You would like these two brand new blouses with their distinctive new shades and names to match. Do you know the exact color of Aztec or Peion? You certainly wouldn't hate either of these colors. Aztec is near a brick shade which almost turns to gold as you look at it, while Peion belongs to the blue family of colors. The material is georgette and the clever designs for the round neck and front are worked out in at least six or eight shades of seneiele, beads and metal threads.

LANDMARK IS BURNED, LOSS WILL BE HIGH

Old Ames Home on Desdemona Road Destroyed by Night Fire.

Fire completely destroyed a residence and contents on the Desdemona road last night at 9 o'clock. The loss is placed at $4,600 on the house and contents. One thousand dollars insurance was carried on the residence, which belonged to J. B. Ames, J. H. Ames, a brother, lived in the dwelling and his loss on furnishings was placed at $600. No cause is given for the fire. No one was at home at the time it started. Mr. Ames said that he came to town about an hour before the flames broke out. The fire department laid a line of hose to the burned dwelling, which is just inside the corporation. The alarm was turned in too late for it to be of any assistance.

The dwelling contained six rooms and at one time was a landmark, having been built more than twenty years ago. When first erected it had the distinction of being the largest dwelling in this part of the state. It was built by the father of its owner.

ARC LIGHTS IN TRANSIT FOR USE ON LAMAR ST.

The street lights between the Hamon-Kell and Texas & Pacific depots will be installed upon their receipt, and they are now in transit. The Electric Service company has had the equipment ordered for six weeks and has been notified of its shipment. Three additional lights, of 250 candle power each, will be placed along Lamar street between the two stations. At present one light is in service at Railroad avenue and Lamar street.

The city commission ordered this improvement several weeks ago, but it has been delayed because the equipment could not be obtained.

MIRROR REFLECTS DEATH STRUGGLES OF MAN IN WELL

CHICAGO, Sept. 28.—By means of three mirrors, hung in a shaft seventy-four feet deep and thirty-six inches in diameter, watchers yesterday saw Thomas Dorbatuk die, and today rescuers sought to remove his body from the bottom of a well at Waukegan. Fruitless attempts were made to save the man's life when his head became wedged against a rock after he was overcome by gas fumes. The rock projected twelve inches into the shaft.

Firemen, wearing gas masks, attempted to reach Dorbatuk, but only one man could descend at a time and he was wedged too tightly to be removed. The fumes even penetrated the firemen's mask and none could remain in the shaft.

When hope was abandoned a large mirror to which was attached an incandescent bulb was lowered into the shaft and tipped at an angle to permit Dorbatuk's reflection to be transmitted to a second mirror near the mouth of the shaft. The rescuers adjusted a hand glass until it mirrored the reflection of the tragically seven-foot below. Dorbatuk could be seen struggling weakly. The men called to him. He attempted to reply, but his head dropped against his breast as he gasped out his last breath.
