FIERCE FIRE RAGES AT GALVESTON

Business Men Declare That Direct Returns on Project Have Materialized.

The unmistakable pulling power of the Ranger Trade Carnival has been testified to by many merchants of the city who recently joined in what inherently was a testimonial meeting to set up a sort of clearing house for their ideas and experiences in connection with the carnival.

Although it was at first thought that the wide advertising campaign inaugurated by the Retail Merchants' association would do most good for the merchants who sold the smaller and less expensive articles, it was found at the meeting that a large and profitable contract for the purchase and installation of boilers in the oil districts near Ranger resulted directly from the effects of the campaign. This fact was asserted by the head of the boiler concern who spoke at the meeting personally.

Visitors Here Increase.

In addition to this it has been noticed that an increasingly large number of residents of the smaller communities adjacent to Ranger and even some of those living at more distant places, are coming into Ranger to do their shopping. Grocery stores report an increased volume of sales. Dry goods stores declare that their sales have exceeded the average of a like period in the past. Furniture stores reiterate the optimistic views of other merchants. Hotels, theatres and other public institutions remark a similar increase in their businesses and, proportionately, revenues.

Rest Room Planned.

An effort is now being made by the association under the auspices of which the carnival is being held, to obtain a display room on one of the chief business streets of the city in which the prizes to be awarded on the closing day of the carnival will be shown. In this room also, it has been announced, a rest room and other conveniences for the comfort of visitors to the city will be provided. Women especially will be asked to make use of this rest room during their visits to Ranger and, if they live in the city, to use it during their shopping trips down town.

COUNTERFEITER, NINETY, WANTED TO GO TO PRISON

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 2.—A jail sentence of one year and a fine of $1 was imposed in the federal court here on William Smith, alias Robert Bossman, a 90 year-old counterfeiter, following his plea of guilty.

Smith said he had passed bad money in the hope of getting into jail, as he was "well treated there."

CIVIC CLEAN-UP OF WIDE SCOPE TO BE LAUNCHED IN RANGER; CITIZENS MUST AID

To suddenly come upon a street lined with well-kept yards, free from paper, leaves and other manner of trash all in one pleasant impression, regardless of how often it is viewed, but it is particularly so with strangers or the casual visitor. What is true of a residence street is also true of a business street. A dirty thoroughfare downtown can do nothing else but convey the impression of a dirty town.

The streets of the business district of Ranger are dirty. Paper and trash and great bars of sand have accumulated upon them, the latter acting as a dam to create waterholes. Individuals and the Chamber of Commerce have made efforts to clean the paved area and their efforts have brought results, but only for a little while. A street cleaned today will be dirty again tomorrow, or next day, unless the process of cleaning is continually kept going.

To this end R. D. Lincoln, sanitary commissioner, has devised a plan which is receiving the co-operation of citizens as well as the business people, and will be put into effect until such a time as the city can secure funds to care for the streets.

To Clean Paved Streets.

Mr. Lincoln and his co-workers have arranged with the Ranger Sanitary company to clean the paved district every night for a stipulated sum. Since the city has no funds, business people are going to be asked to donate a set amount each week, and the leader of the movement gives assurance that this amount will not be more than $1, to pay the sanitary company for its work. The sum thus gained will be ample, it is thought, to pay all expenses.

With the plan properly organized and running smoothly, it will be placed under the direction of city officials who are paid for that class of work, and he will be responsible to the commission for its efficiency.

As pointed out by Mr. Lincoln, after the first thorough cleaning, which will require a large force of men, a very small

ELECTION OF DEMOCRATS TO BE 'COASTING'

Gov. Cox Terminates Long Western Tour; Sure of Success.

By Associated Press

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 2.—Governor Cox closed his month's western campaign trip here tonight with a mass meeting at convention hall at which thousands of Democrats from Missouri and Kansas heard and cheered the League of Nations and the battle standards of the party.

Great satisfaction with the results of his western trip and utmost confidence of the results of the election a month hence were expressed by the governor. He repeated confident claims of election and said that the fight would be like "coasting."

POLICE CALLED IN TO SAVE LANDLORD FROM HOUSE SEEKERS

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 2.—House hunters vented their anger in threats against James C. Ahern, 76 years old, of 2732A Gamble street last Sunday, when they found he was asking $35 a month rent for three-room flats at 1467 to 1475 Belt avenue, which formerly rented for $12 a month. Police protection was necessary to prevent a physical attack on the landlord.

There are 10 flats in the row owned by Ahern. Five are now vacant and two more are to be vacated. Neighbors today said some of the tenants had been forced out by their inability to pay the rents demanded by Ahern.

Tenants of some of the flats said that three years ago the rental was $12. Two years ago it was $14, but a short time later it was advanced to $21 and in August of this year Ahern, they said, demanded $26 for the end flats and $35 for the others.

BANK ROBBERS ON WAY TO PRISON SOON AFTER ARREST

EMPORIA, Kan., Oct. 2.—Five hours after they had attempted to hold up Thomas Kelley, cashier of the Neosho Rapids (Kan.) State bank yesterday, two men, who gave their names as "Jones" and "Smith", were on the way to the state penitentiary to serve indeterminate sentences of 10 to 20 years each.

The attempted robbery occurred at 7 a. m., when Kelley arrived at the bank. The robbers, unable to open the vault, picked up $25 in pennies, locked Kelley in the building and fled. They were arrested at 9 o'clock, taken into court and sentenced at 11 and at noon started for the penitentiary.

CARNIVAL PULLING MONEY.

In discussing the matter generally, Mr. Lincoln declared that the efforts of the Retail Merchants' association were bringing many strangers into town each day and for them to find the downtown area in its present condition left a bad impression upon their minds as to the cleanliness of the city in general, and he imagined that it might have an influence on the amount of shopping they did. He was positive that if visitors reached Main street from the train and found it clean and shining they could not help but feel that Ranger was a clean little city, well worth coming to.

When the street cleaning began, he said, the lower end of Main street would be attacked first in order that passengers on trains and those entering the city would get a good impression at the first glance. He believes that it is very difficult to change a first impression.

People Must Aid.

The sanitary commissioner explained that the success or failure of the plan depended upon the co-operation accorded it by the people. If they failed to support it, then it would fail, but at the small cost Mr. Lincoln is sure that with the good to be gained everyone will gladly do their share; and, as he explained, it is only until the city gets into a position to finance it itself. At that time it will take over the organization now being built up.

The details of the plan is that the sanitary company each night will go over the paved section, removing all loose paper and sweeping up such dirt as has accumulated during the day. At the end of each week it will call upon merchants and professional men for the $1 collection, if it amounts to that much. But the sanitary department will have direction of the work and see that every subscriber gets full value for his money.

Indicted for Throwing the World's Series

The biggest bomb ever exploded in organized baseball was dropped recently. It was the indictment by the Cook county grand jury in Chicago of seven members of the Chicago White Sox, including many of the stars, and one ex-member. The players are under indictment for conspiracy to throw the world's series of 1919. The members of the team are Outfielders Jackson and Felsch, Infielders Weaver, McMullin and Risberg, and Pitchers Williams and Cicotte. The former player is Chick Gandil, who played first base for the Sox last year.

PAY OR PLAY BETS ON WHITE SOX NOT TO BE RETURNED

CHICAGO, Oct. 2.—Now that the pennant hopes of the Sox have gone glimmering, the gamblers will give the speculative public a wallop by confiscating all money bet on the Sox winning the American league flag.

The money is bet "pay or play," and bets cannot be declared off except between friends who do not insist upon the pound of flesh. Big money went up on the Sox three weeks ago, when they took the lead in the race. Most of it comes out of the stockyards district. It was taken by race track bookies and sent to New York and Cleveland, where the local teams were backed.

The South Side fans are shrieking curses on players, gamblers and bookies. They have been the most loyal rooters for a score of years and have enabled Ciskey to build up one of the finest baseball plants in the country.

AUTO RACES OVER LONG STRETCH WON BY JIMMY MURPHY

FRESNO, Cal., Oct. 2.—Jimmy Murphy won the 200 mile San Joaquin automobile race here today and a purse of $5,000. Eddie O'Donnell was second, two lengths behind and won $3,000. Tommy Milton was third, seeking a purse of $1,500. Murphy's time was 2:43.22.

RANCH OWNERS ARE HELD FOR TAKING LANDS FROM REDMEN

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 2.—George L. Miller, Joseph Miller and Zach T. Miller, owners of the 101 ranch near Ponca City, Okla., were arrested today on indictments returned by the grand jury charging them with violation of the federal penal code for conspiracy to defraud the United States government.

The men are charged with obtaining deeds to "thousands of acres of Indian lands" adjoining their ranch under false pretenses.

MISSISSIPPI MAN CUTS NEW TEETH AFTER HUNDRED YEARS

RIPLEY, Miss., Oct. 2.—"Uncle Jack" Terry, 108 years old, a resident of the eastern part of Union county near here, and all of whose brothers and sisters lived to be at least a century old, has had the unique experience of cutting his third set of teeth. "Uncle Jack" was asked if this was the truth and declared the third set of teeth were of little practical value to him, being easily broken.

At 104, "Uncle Jack" used to walk a mile to attend religious ceremonies at his church.

DATE FOR POLL TAX PAYMENT SET FORWARD

Special Session at Austin Ends After Major Bills Pass.

AUSTIN, Oct. 2.—The Texas legislature ends its special session tonight after passing finally all of the major measures before it except the bill proposing divorce of packery, oil mill and gin interests. The election measure now ready for the governor's signature provides that the time for payment of poll tax be extended to Oct. 22, and that no person may vote without a poll tax receipt or an exemption certificate. The industrial bill passed finally through the adoption by both branches proves that it shall be a felony to interfere with workmen engaged with common carriers of the state if violence is used and a misdemeanor if only threats are used in violation of the act. The change of venue provision to the effect that cases involving violations of the law may be transferred to Travis county upon motion of the attorney general, was retained.

The packery, oil mill and gin bills died upon the calendar of the house while the Davis-Miller bill proposing the creation of a commission to probe industrial troubles and the bill proposing the licensing and bonding of employment agencies were passed finally.

Besides being an officer in a large advertising agency in New York City and claimed to be the highest paid woman in Wall Street, Miss Alice Houston handles the advertising work of a dozen banks.

WALL STREET GIRLS NOW WEAR WOUND STRIPES

International News Service.

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—Wound stripes for victims of bomb explosions—that's the latest fashion among the girl stenographers and clerks of Wall street.

A few days ago a fair typist in a Wall street broker's office who was injured by falling glass in the recent bomb outrage was able to report for work for the first time.

On the right sleeve of her waist she wore a tiny gold chevron, much like the wound stripes worn by soldiers during the world war.

"It's my wound stripe," she explained, "and why not? I was wounded and shell-shocked" while in the performance of hazardous duty—trying to get to a lunch room during the noon hour—and I decided I am entitled to a bomb explosion decoration to show what I went through."

Other Wall street girls are adopting the wound stripe idea.

THIRTY THOUSAND IN FURS STOLEN IN DARING HAUL

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2.—Thirty thousand dollars' worth of furs were stolen from a shop here today, the robbers carrying in an auto after a running fight with a detective who answered a burglar alarm and found the men transferring the goods from the door to a machine. The robbers smashed a plate glass window.

PAYS WOMAN'S FINE, SHE, FREED AT JAIL; MARRIES HIS RIVAL

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 2.—Women, women, alas, appreciation isn't a part of them," murmured Benjamin Hoelzel, a mine foreman of Shawneetown, Ill., as he ambled slowly from police headquarters in East St. Louis last night.

For Hester Kirkie, also of Shawneetown, whom Hoelzel had viewed as his bride-to-be, had just departed, the blushing bride of Harry C. Owset, Hoelzel's rival, and the mine foreman's romance was nipped in the bud.

And it was rather a costly romance, too. It had necessitated Hoelzel paying Hester's fine and getting her out of jail at Belleville, after she had been sentenced for six months on a charge of stealing. But Hoelzel was consoled through looking forward to the day when Hester would be Mrs. Hoelzel.

He learned of Owset, the rival, yesterday, and, with Hester calmly watching as the two men engaged in wordy battle over her at Relay depot, East St. Louis, yesterday afternoon, the police found the trio. They were taken to the station, where the claims of the men were set forth.

"Choose which of them yez will have," said Night Chief Matthew Flaherty, playing the role of cupid for the nonce.

Hester chose Owset and they departed for St. Louis to become married, for the Illinois laws forbid persons marrying there until after they have been divorced a year.

And Hoelzel turned over to Flaherty keys to Hester's trunk, which he had held, and departed, Shawneetownward.

BUBONIC PLAGUE CASE IS FOUND HOUSTON, REPORT

GALVESTON, Oct. 2.—United States public health authorities said today that a case of bubonic plague had been reported from Houston. The victim is a resident of Galveston and was employed on a tug plying between here and Houston. He was stricken in Houston but had lived next door to a place where one other case of plague had developed.

MAN BIDS FRIENDS FAREWELL AND THEN TAKES OWN LIFE

GEORGETOWN, Oct. 2.—H. F. Footman of the Jarrel community near here told a friend yesterday that he wanted to be as little trouble as possible. Early this morning he was found lying on his bed with a pistol wound in his breast. He had spent Friday morning bidding friends good-bye. He said that he desired to be buried on Sunday. Little attention was paid to his remarks.

Fire Fighters In Bitter Struggle To Check Flame Spread

By Associated Press.

GALVESTON, Oct. 2.—Galveston's second disastrous water front fire in three days, tonight was slowly eating its way through fifteen thousand bales of Mexican sisal stored in section A of pier 41, while firemen, rangers and yardmen, who have been fighting the blaze since this morning, late this evening prepared to prolong the struggle all night. No estimate of the damage caused by the flames was possible tonight. Both the theory that the fire was of incendiary origin and that it resulted from spontaneous combustion have been advanced but fire department officials tonight refused to commit themselves to either theory.

PAGE PRESCOTT

Lionel Prescott, thought by his mother to be working somewhere in the oil fields in the vicinity of Ranger, is being sought by Mrs. Prescott, now stopping at the Hotel Theodore. Mrs. Prescott has traveled all the way from California in search of her son. He will probably visit Ranger on Sunday, Mrs. Prescott declares, and it is her hope then to communicate with him.

HARDING ASSERTS WILSON 'CRABBED' HIS OWN LEAGUE

WEST JEFFERSON, Ohio, Oct. 2.—Declaring President Wilson had "crabbled" his own League of Nations, Senator Harding said at a Republican rally today that if elected he would work for an international association, but never consent to the barter of America's nationality. The brief reference to the league was added by the nominee after he had completed a prepared address on agriculture and industrial co-operation for national betterment.

Hailed as "Uncle Warren" by many of the farmers in the crowd, he was cheered frequently as he spoke for improved farming conditions, but the loudest applause greeted his declaration on the league.

COX AND HARDING TO DINE TOGETHER WITH COLONEL HAYS

MARION, Ohio, Oct. 2.—There will be something very new under the political sun in the history of presidential campaigns on Oct. 4, when the nominees of two great parties will lunch together and speak from the same platform.

Governor Cox and Senator Harding are scheduled to appear in Spiegel Grove, near Fremont, according to an announcement from Harding headquarters.

Plans for the candidates to appear together at the Ohio State fair in Columbus last month fell through, because of Senator Harding's refusal to attend.

The two nominees, accompanied by their wives, will be the guests of Colonel Web C. Hays, son of President Rutherford B. Hays, at his home.

The date is the ninety-eighth anniversary of the birth of Rutherford B. Hays, and the ceremonies will mark the unveiling of a bronze tablet in Spiegel Grove state park.

EIGHTEEN ADRIFT IN SAIL BOATS IN GULF, REPORT

GALVESTON, Oct. 2.—Two light boats, one containing thirteen men and another three men and two women, are adrift in the gulf, according to a wireless picked up by the naval radio station here from the tanker Sunoil, which rescued one boat containing four men this morning.

MAN BIDS FRIENDS FAREWELL AND THEN TAKES OWN LIFE

GEORGETOWN, Oct. 2.—H. F. Footman of the Jarrel community near here told a friend yesterday that he wanted to be as little trouble as possible. Early this morning he was found lying on his bed with a pistol wound in his breast. He had spent Friday morning bidding friends good-bye. He said that he desired to be buried on Sunday. Little attention was paid to his remarks.

Russian women are volunteering to fight against General Wrangle, the anti-Bolshevik leader in South Russia, and already several thousand have been sent to the first line trenches.

Fire Spread Checked.

Efforts to confine the flames to the section in which it started have been successful, and fears are entertained that the concrete roof, overhead, will tumble off the intense heat. Should this occur the section overhead, filled with merchandise, will become prey to the flames.

7,800,000 pounds of cotton and sugar is stored nearby. In addition to all available equipment of the local fire department as well as a fire boat, four tugs, the Kelly, the Propeller, the Stuart and the Messenger, are playing streams on the burning sisal.

The compartment in which the sisal is stored is 300 feet long, about 100 feet wide and about ten feet deep. Besides the sisal it holds between 25,000 and 30,000 bundles of cotton, a quantity of linoleum. The sisal is owned by the Eric corporation of New York and is valued at about $570,000.

A dozen or more war time gas masks constructed to withstand the fumes of poison gas in France, today found employment as fire fighting aides. Because of the intense heat and smoke the front ranks of the firemen wore these respirators.

MAN, GIRL WIFE FOUND BEATING WAY IN BOX CAR

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 2.—"Come out of that, you ——" two terminal railroad agents gruffly ordered as they espied a figure reclining in a box car in the East St. Louis yards at 6 a. m. today.

The occupant of the car came forth timidly. The agents saw a slight boyish figure attired in khaki trousers, black coat, cap, sweater and army shoes.

"What are you doing here?" one asked.

"Waiting for my husband. He's gone for my breakfast," was the reply.

The officers then discovered that their prisoner was a woman. She said her name was Mrs. Edna Baker, 20 years old, of Terre Haute, Ind. In a few minutes her husband, Charles Baker, 25, a cook, appeared, carrying breakfast for his wife under his arm.

They told police they were on their way from Kansas City to their home at Terre Haute, Ind., and ran out of funds when they arrived in East St. Louis at 9 a. m. They planned to complete the trip in a boxcar. Baker had $1.10 in his pocket.

Baker said that they made the trip to East St. Louis in "civilized" style. Their four-year-old son, Ross, had been sent on ahead when they realized they would have to beat their way. A piano, six chairs and two beds had also been shipped to Terre Haute, they said.

Mrs. Baker will be sent to Terre Haute by James K. Ewing, humane officer of East St. Louis. Baker will have to make his own way.

TEXAS LEAGUER CLAIMS RECORD FOR 'WALKING' BASES

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—The remarkable record of drawing eleven straight bases on balls was made by Outfielder Nick DeMaggio, of the Beaumont Texas league team recently in four games. On Sept. 2 he drew passes in his last three times up. Sept. 4 he drew five passes on five trips to the plate. On Sept. 5 in the play-off of a game ordered finished he got one pass in his only time at the plate.

In the game that followed he walked his first two times up, a total of eleven straight walks. In his next time at bat he did not wait to walk to first, but made a single. Probably such a walking record never was equaled, either by intentional passing or otherwise.

M'SWINEY STILL UNCHANGED, LATE BULLETIN SAYS

LONDON, Oct. 2.—Tonight's bulletin of the Irish Self Determination league says Lord Mayor MacSwiney's condition is unchanged.

BETTER HOMES AND OTHER LIVING ACCOMMODATIONS MAKE WINTER HERE LESS RIGOROUS

A greater degree of comfort will be the lot of Ranger residents this winter as compared with their rigorous experiences last year.

Not only are housing accommodations more plentiful and hotels more numerous and commodious, but a better type of house has come into existence since the flush of the boom days and people have learned more about taking care of their health and comfort with the facilities at hand.

Sidewalks Improved. Last winter trips to and from homes and the business district were looked forward to with foreboding. Sidewalks were few and far between. Mudhoes were numerous. Altogether it was a very difficult and disagreeable time that the pioneers of the oil rush had in Ranger.

stances sidewalks reach virtually all perma-nent homes in Ranger. The street side-walks, too, have been extended and the streets themselves from the center of town.

Houses Now Dry. Bungalow owners in every part of the city have taken advantage of dry weather during the summer months to build board-walks to outhouses and the streets nearest their homes. Frame bungalows which last year were sometimes flooded during rainy weather because they rested on the surface of the ground, now have been elevated on piles or banked about with a protection of earth.

Garbage Disposal Simplified. The disposal of garbage and house sweepings, which, last year, was the cause of considerable worry to householders who feared discomfort and even disease if haphazard methods of disposing of such refuse were continued, has been simplified and systematized.

It is certain that living in Ranger this winter will be much more attractive than last, according to residents here who withstood the hardships of last winter's rigors.

tated to a public stenographer this appeal, which she afterward used:

"We, the undersigned, have organized and launched a drive, to start Sept. 29, for the purpose of raising money for the families of the dead and maimed victims of Thursday's horrible outrage. Most of the families of the victims are poor, and many will be plunged into debt through this catastrophe, so we ask you, as Americans and citizens of New York City to give what you can. Miss Rogers is duly authorized to accept checks or money, and will give you all the information desired. Checks should be made payable to W. W. Cunningham, attorney. We wish to thank you on behalf of those you have so generously befriended."

There followed the forged signatures of twenty prominent brokers and the names of several firms.

Miss Dodd admitted she doesn't know any "W. W. Cunningham."

Detective Pierce Fleming was standing at Broad and Wall streets yesterday when the superintendent of the building at 20 Broadstreet sent a boy to tell him of the woman collector. Fleming saw her writing down names and then arrested her.

Mr. Talley is seeking the woman who advertised, according to Miss Dodd, for "pretty girls of refinement to do outside work."

SHIP-LOAD GIRLS IN SEARCH FOR HUSBANDS ABROAD

NORFOLK, Va., Oct. 2.—The good ship Tainui, flying the British flag, left her moorings here today on the second leg of her journey for a matrimonial paradise for 200 young women on board. The Tainui is bound from London via the Panama canal, to New Zealand, where these young women hope to find husbands. "We are going to New Zealand to be married if we can find the right kind of husbands," said Miss Ruth Mace, one of the women in search of a husband. "We are not looking for wealthy men. We desire to help build good homes and a good nation. We are willing to share the troubles of our husbands."

"There are few marriageable men in England. Most of those who could be married don't desire to burden themselves with a wife. They find life too easy as it is. An Englishman today is not like the Englishman of 1913. They do not want to settle down and help build a home. Their morals have undergone such a change that the girl has to be very careful whom she goes with."

GOVERNMENT ANTIQUATED, HOOVER TELLS SENATORS

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—Calling the administration and organization of the federal government "antiquated," Herbert C. Hoover told the United States Senate committee on reconstruction and production that a definite reconstruction plan governing finance, labor and even departments of the government is a pressing need of the entire country.

Mr. Hoover suggested the appointment of a national commission to solve the whole housing problem, which he said is nationwide, and warned the committee that an attempt by each city to settle its housing difficulties independently would create a competition that would defeat the general purpose.

As a result of Mr. Hoover's suggestions, Senator William M. Calder of Brooklyn, chairman of the committee, said he would at once investigate the scope of his committee's powers, with a view to creating such a reconstruction program as Mr. Hoover outlined. Mr. Hoover addressed the committee at its request in the Engineering Societies building, 29 West Thirty-ninth street. Hoover Filmed in Talk.

He was questioned at length by Senator Calder and Eugene Meyer Jr., former managing director of the War Finance corporation, regarding reconstruction, housing, transportation and the extension of the postal savings system. His replies were punctuated by the snapping of a half dozen picture cameras.

"Transportation and building," said Mr. Hoover, "suffered most through our war activities, and they have lagged behind until they now represent two of the most acute problems we have to deal with. The necessities of war caused us to change the current of their activities completely."

The housing needs are immediate and call for an extensive inquiry on a national scale. It is not this city alone that is concerned, but all cities. The housing problem is most acute in the cities for the reason that much of the population of the country has been drawn into the cities.

"Production, now insufficient, must be increased, and this can be done only by increasing the tools of production. More commodities should be made available for the people and the standard of living should be raised. This, of course, brings us to the question of national savings."

Mr. Hoover referred to the excess profit tax as not a tax on profits but ultimately a tax upon the consumer. He upheld the income tax, however, as wholly "just and fair," and said he would disapprove exempting from state taxation any one line of industry. He made this assertion when asked by Senator Calder what he thought of the exemption of new buildings.

"Mobilize" Refrigerator Cars. On the question of transportation, which he admitted is closely related to the housing problem, Mr. Hoover suggested that refrigerator cars be "mobilized" for other uses. He pointed out that such cars had seasons of idleness and any railroad having a sufficient number of them to handle its business must, during the dull season, have some refrigerator cars merely occupying space.

Asked if he would favor granting priority to shipments of building materials, Mr. Hoover replied that any priorities in transportation would have a tendency to lower the railroad's efficiency and that experience in such matters during the war proved that priorities should be granted only when the situation is desperate, as the railroad's facilities are wholly inadequate.

"Had we had a series of reconstruction plans, we might have forefended some of the problems that now confront us. One of the reflexes of the war's great endeavors was an orgy of spending, from which we are just emerging and which has played an important part in defeating reconstruction.

"We need a well-rounded reconstruction program, and this comes to the practical rationing of capital as against non-essentials. The program should be educational and should bring an indirect pressure without the volume of the governmental restriction we had during the war."

I think that, if your powers are wide enough, it would be well for you to extend your inquiry to the question of reconstruction of the departments of the federal government. That is one of the most immediate problems. We have the most antiquated organization and administration in our government that we have in any kind of activity in the United States, and it is not a credit to our skill and intelligence.

War Showed Weakness. "This is pertinent now because during the war we experienced in a vivid manner its terrible weaknesses, and we know now what those weaknesses are better than before."

SHIPPED STOLEN CARS TO FOREIGN COUNTRIES—CHARGE

DETROIT, Oct. 2.—Charged with shipping more than $200,000 worth of stolen automobiles through eastern ports to Scandinavian countries, six Detroit persons, one of them a woman, have been arrested here and are being held by federal authorities under the Dyer interstate automobile theft act. It was announced today. Three of the men are alleged to have stolen the cars on the streets here during a period of a few months. The cars, it is said, were sent overland to eastern ports by those new under arrest here, and shipped to Norway, Sweden, and Denmark, where they were sold. Most of the cars are said to have been practically new.

The alleged conspiracy is said by federal officers to be the largest found to exist since passage of the Dyer act. Belle Warner is said to be the first woman arrested on a charge of violating the act.

THE "AD HOUND" SAYS:

The Advertising Pessimist is King of the lot. To nurse carefully the thought that advertising doesn't pay is usually a forerunner of surrounding the idea with a shell so hard the crust can't be scratched by all the guns of argument and proof. This is where the expression "hard shell-ed" originated and one that saves paragraphs of description.

The profits you make by getting your ad-copy in early is a big item. Better looking ads, better position, means bigger results for you. Why not cash in on this fact?

I. The $5, $7.50 and $10 hat sale is still on for Monday. If you did not look them up Saturday be sure to do so tomorrow.

II. Among the lovely dresses of blue tricotine you should see this one. Hand painted flowers in yellow, red and green outlined in jet beads trim the round neck, three-quarter sleeves and graduating tunic.

III. If you have admired those pretty $15 sweaters but thought the price was a little too much, get one next week for $11.50 or a $10 one for $7.95.

IV. One of the clever, classy suits of the season is a dark blue velveteen (a wool duvetyne that will wear) elaborately embroidered in a darker shade of silk. Deep fringe edges the bottom of the medium long coat in the back, while the front is cut shorter and belted. The collar is of gray squirrel.

WOMAN COLLECTING FOR 'BOMB VICTIMS' IS HELD BY POLICE

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—Charged with forgery in the third degree in connection with the collection of funds from Wall street brokers for the alleged purpose of aiding the families of the Wall street explosion victims, Mary Dodd, 26, of 124 West 71st street, was locked up in the Charles street police station last night for several hours by Assistant District Attorney Talley.

Mr. Talley, who described the woman as "pretty, well dressed, well educated and of evident refinement," said she not only confessed her guilt but gave him information that has caused him to begin an investigation which, he believes, will disclose that several persons in this city have been using charity as a cloak for crooked schemes and advertising for "pretty refined" girls to do their collecting.

Miss Dodd, who admits she collected money under the name of Mary Rogers, told Mr. Talley she came here from Cleveland about two months ago and answered one of the "pretty refined girls" advertisements. Miss Dodd collected $17 and the woman who employed her gave her $15 and told her to go ahead with the work.

She decided, she said, she could do better by working alone, and collected $150 from brokers for a "beefsteak dinner for wounded soldiers in Fox Hills hospital, S. I." at the hotel Nassau, Long Beach. She said conscience forced her to return $50 to a "kind gentleman" who had given her that sum.

Then the explosion gave her the idea of collecting for the families of the victims. She went to 60 Broadway and dic-

Cleveland Wins First American League Flag

Speaker First Manager to Turn Trick, Though Many Have Made Near-Successes; Overcame Many Obstacles.

DETROIT, Oct. 2.—Cleveland by defeating Detroit here 10 to 1, this afternoon, clinched the championship of the American league.

The Indians pitched Oldham hard and coupled their hits with Tiger's errors. Errors by Jones and Young were followed by singles by Speaker and Garner, giving Cleveland three runs. After that they hit hard and frequently, making a runaway game.

By HAL C. HAMILTON, International News Service Staff Correspondent.

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—Cleveland has entered the list of American League cities which have won league championships, and Tris Speaker can have anything in Cleveland he wants, from the statue of Mark Hanna down.

How Tris accomplished a thing that had been written down in the minds of Cleveland fans as an impossibility, is something of a mystery, but he did it mainly because he was able to faithfully guard his team against a persistent jinx that has followed the club from the time Ban Johnson located it in the Forest City. Some brilliant managers have guided the destinies of the Cleveland team, and some of the greatest ball players baseball ever saw have served their stardom in that city. Yet every year some conspiracy of fate has taken a pennant out of the city.

Ray Chapman, a brilliant shortstop, was killed this year, and for a time it seemed impossible for the team to recover from that blow. But the smiling confidence of Speaker, his ability to make his players rise to great heights, saved the day. Chapman's death only delayed the day for clinching the flag.

Other Managers Failed. Larry Lajoie, famous second baseman, tried hard to manage the old Naps into a pennant. He was a star player, but not much shucks as a manager. Joe Birmingham, a really smart manager and a good ball player, tried it with a star team and failed. Lee Fohl, who succeeded Birmingham, was an extraordinary developer of young talent, and he had some wonderful ball players he didn't have to develop; but he, too, fell down on the job.

It is now generally known that Speaker was offered the job of managing the Indians in the winter of 1918-19, but turned down the proposal. He declared he did not believe it did a player any good to assume a managerial burden and expressed the belief that he could do the team more good by just playing centerfield and hitting the ball. He didn't convince James C. Dunn, owner of the club, and the Cleveland fans, however. They persisted in their efforts to get Speaker to take the job, and he finally consented, in the middle of the 1919 summer, when Lee Fohl suddenly resigned.

Right here, the fortunes of the Indians turned. From an apparently apathetic good baseball team the men turned themselves into a club of raging fighters, and they made the White Sox step right lively at the end of the season. The season was almost over before the Sox finally won the game that put them out of reach of the Speaker ensemble.

Speaker Gets Teamwork. Speaker's showing with the team in the latter part of the season drew the attention of the critics as nothing else could have, so he was started off this season with the assurances of the critics that he would win the pennant with his team. And he has.

It is a sort of brotherly love thing that has worked this miracle for Cleveland. There isn't a member of the Cleveland team who won't practically swear that Speaker is the best pal he ever had. He eats, sleeps and talks baseball with the men he directs. He gets every last ounce of energy out of his men, and they play ball the Speaker way. After all it is teamwork that counts in baseball rather than the intricate baseball puzzles a manager figures out, and Speaker has proved himself an adept at getting this sort of co-operation.

Speaker's fears that managing the club would interfere with his hitting and fielding are fully refuted by his averages for the season. He has fielded in the sensational style that only Speaker can flash, and his hitting is nearly 100 points better than it was in 1919.

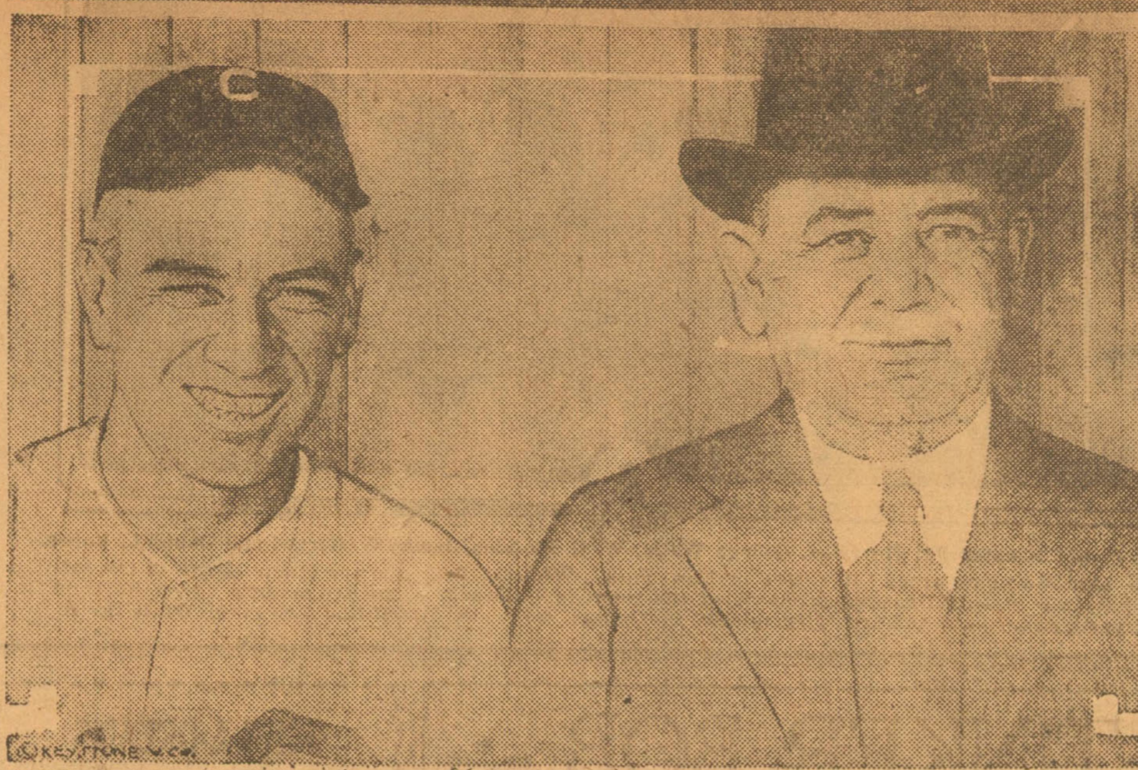

Speaker is one of the greatest ball players the game has ever seen. He generally is referred to as the personification of grace as a fielder, but his hitting also leaves little to be desired. When a man can hit nearly 400 throughout a season it is pure knowledge of how it is done and not a lucky way of driving a ball. Speaker is that kind of a hitter. In addition, he is one of the best run-getters in the American league, has led the circuit nearly all season in the matter of driving in runs and is a base-runner of great skill.

Speaker was sold to Cleveland by the Boston Red Sox for a cash consideration of $50,000 and three ball players. He was sold to the Red Sox by the Little Rock club of the Southern league for $500. As a matter of fact he was sent to Little Rock in payment for rental of the Little Rock park used by the Red Sox as a training field, but when he touched up the ball for a .350 average that year he was quickly called back to the majors.

SEVERAL MOTORISTS FINED FOR PARKING NEAR FIRE PLUGS

Several residents of the city took an expensive way to learn the law. They parked their cars near fire plugs and members of the fire department drove them to the police station where their owners reclaimed them for $20.70 each. To each of those who were fined Fire Chief Charles L. Buttomer explained that he had time after time issued warnings that fire hydrants could not be blocked by parked cars and people did not seem to mind the warning, forcing him to use more drastic methods.

THEIR PENNANT-WINNING SMILES

The Cleveland Indians have been the favorites in the pennant race all season and have had a slight edge on the White Sox in the final drive. They were picked by most critics to win out eventually over the Chicagoans. The wrecking of the Sox by the indictment and suspension of half the team virtually makes the pennant Cleveland's. Speaker, and Oscar Dunn have a right to smile. Their smiles will be larger if they lead the Dodgers.

Farrell had rather the best of the encounter, according to the popular decision, his straight left being an especially effective blow. He usually started it for the chin and in the second round was not serious, however, and the bout continued fast throughout, both giving and taking enough punishment to make it interesting. It was a dingdong match with little clinching to mar its action. In the semi-windup Jimmy Debbis put Tex Ray to sleep in the seventh round of what was to have been a six-round go. Somebody got mixed up on the distance, but everybody enjoyed the encore except Tex.

The entertainment was highly pleasing to the club members and the management promises more performances in the future.

Ranger Fans' Opinions

Ranger fans are not all agreed on the outcome of the world's series. Probably most of them pick Cleveland to win and a large number lean toward the Indians in sympathy because of Tris Speaker being a Texas boy and personally known to many persons in this section. As a general rule, Cleveland's swatting characteristics are cited by their adherents as a reason for their prognostication, and strangely enough, it is the pitching strength of Brooklyn upon which the Dodger supporters base their beliefs.

It is a safe bet, judging from the interest displayed on the street, that the Majestic will be packed every afternoon when the series is played there in a scoreboard.

Here is the way some of the prominent fans express themselves:

Ralph Stockman: "Cleveland's hitting strength is too much for the Brooklyn pitching staff. Cleveland will win easily."

Dr. Harkrider: "Cleveland will win—I don't know why."

L. T. Summers: "The pitching in a short series usually is the deciding factor. Brooklyn's pitchers have the advantage in this series."

C. J. Dietrich: "Consistent and timely hitting will win for Cleveland."

J. P. Monday: "I think Speaker alone can beat Brooklyn."

E. D. Lincoln: "Brooklyn will win five games."

Joe Harness: "Brooklyn's pitching staff will be too much for Cleveland."

Jack York: "Pitching is a wonderful asset in a short series and the consistent fielding and wonderful pitching of Brooklyn will win over Cleveland's hitting strength."

J. A. Gullahorn: "Tris Speaker was a schoolmate of mine. I want him to win."

HUSKY ATHLETES REPRESENT BROOKLYN IN WORLD'S SERIES; EIGHT PLAYED BOSTON IN 1916

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—The Brooklyn Nationals will go into the world's series with a team of athletes, which so far as physical build is concerned, appears to be about right for a supreme test of the national game. Among the regulars the two oldest players of the team are First Baseman Konechky and shortstop Olson, each 35 years of age. That age is considered young among men in virtually every line of endeavor except athletics, but notwithstanding that, Konechky and Olson are the seniors of Manager Robinson's entry into their work, both at bat and in the field, has been an important factor in winning the National league pennant for Brooklyn.

The statistics of the Brooklyn players show that the average age is 28 years, the average weight 178 pounds and the average height about five feet, eleven inches.

1916 Records. What the Brooklyn club did in the world's series of 1916 against the Boston Red Sox gives little data upon which to base the chances of the Superbas in the coming series. There are now only eight men playing with Brooklyn who took part in the 1916 series. Zack Wheat in five games, batted for .210, which is far below his normal average, and fielded for a mark of .333. Myers' batting average was .182 and his fielding mark 1.000. Johnston took part in three games, hit for .300 and fielded for .500, having one putout and one error. Miller had a batting average of .125 in two games and fielded perfectly. Olson went through the five games, hit for .250 and fielded for .840. The other three players in the 1916 series were Pitchers Marquard, Pfeffer and Smith. Marquard did not get a hit in his two games, but had a perfect fielding record. Pfeffer in four games hit for .250 and fielded perfectly, while Smith, in one game got a hit which netted him a batting average of .200. He accepted one putout and had seven assists for a perfect fielding record.

Some of the three pitchers now with Brooklyn succeeded in winning a game in the 1916 series. Pfeffer took part in five games, pitching 14 2/3 innings. He was charged with one defeat. Smith pitched 13 1/3 innings in one game and was charged with the defeat while Marquard pitched eleven innings in two games and was charged with defeats in three.

NO EARLY REDUCTION IN PRICE OF FURNITURE

We quote the following news item from the Dallas Morning News of October 1:

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Sept. 30.—There can be no immediate reductions in the price of furniture without seriously affecting the wages of the workers, according to a statement made today by John L. Young of Cleveland, Ohio, president of the Retail Furniture Dealers' Association of the United States.

Reports circulated recently that furniture is due for an immediate decline in price led the association to instruct Mr. Young and the executive committee to come to Grand Rapids and investigate the situation.

"However," said Mr. Young, "we deem it desirable and for the best interests of the American home that concerted effort be exercised by the manufacturers to reduce manufacturing costs, other than labor, and to reflect these reductions in the finished product as soon as possible."

LOOKING AHEAD.

That a diversity of interests, each carried on simultaneously, will bring more money to any given community than will activity confined to any one line, is an economic truism.

Take the case of farming resumption, for instance. Here an activity that in the pre-war days furnished a means of income for several thousand persons.

That the Ranger Chamber of Commerce is alert and ever looking for means whereby the wealth production of the Ranger district may be increased is shown by the quickness with which it has seized upon the suggestion that the time is now ripe for the resumption of farming hand-in-hand with oil operations.

The policy of the Chamber of Commerce in encouraging the resumption of wealth-producing industries that have lain dormant for the last few years will meet the approval of every citizen.

"RISE AND SHINE."

Announcement by the West Texas Chamber of Commerce that it would rather hold its convention in Ranger before January means, if this expressed desire is consummated, that the city must be on its toes to prepare for the influx of visitors from all parts of the West.

By that time Ranger, by constant watchfulness and cultivation of the habit, should have made clean streets a chronic condition. Walks should be built in those sections where travel is heaviest.

here before the holidays or in the spring. Ranger should ascertain the steps which must be taken to properly "doll itself up" for the occasion, and start to work in plenty of time to see that all preparations are complete.

THE WOMAN WHO SAW

Columbine and Her Harlequins.

Some critic of the drama—and if it wasn't Brander Matthews, then he will have to excuse the Woman for thinking it was—has said that the skeleton of every true drama is a pantomime.

The other day the Pullman car was crowded, and exactly half of its occupants were riding with their backs to the engine. Directly across the aisle from the Woman sat a very old lady in the deep black and crepe of a widow, accompanied by a young girl who wore one of the prettiest hats the Woman has seen this year.

Directly facing them were two youths dapper and complacent, who regarded the girl with joyful smiles. By all the signs the Woman recognized she knew that in another moment the masculine attack would begin and she guessed that though the old lady might be heaped with attentions till she reached her journey's end, they would not be exclusively feminine ones.

Approaching carefully the parties of the second part the girl opened her shopping bag and laid it on her lap. Then she took off the alluring veil, disclosing her charming features, marred for the moment by a slightly matter of fact line from nose to mouth.

But Man Cannot Live Without Cooks.

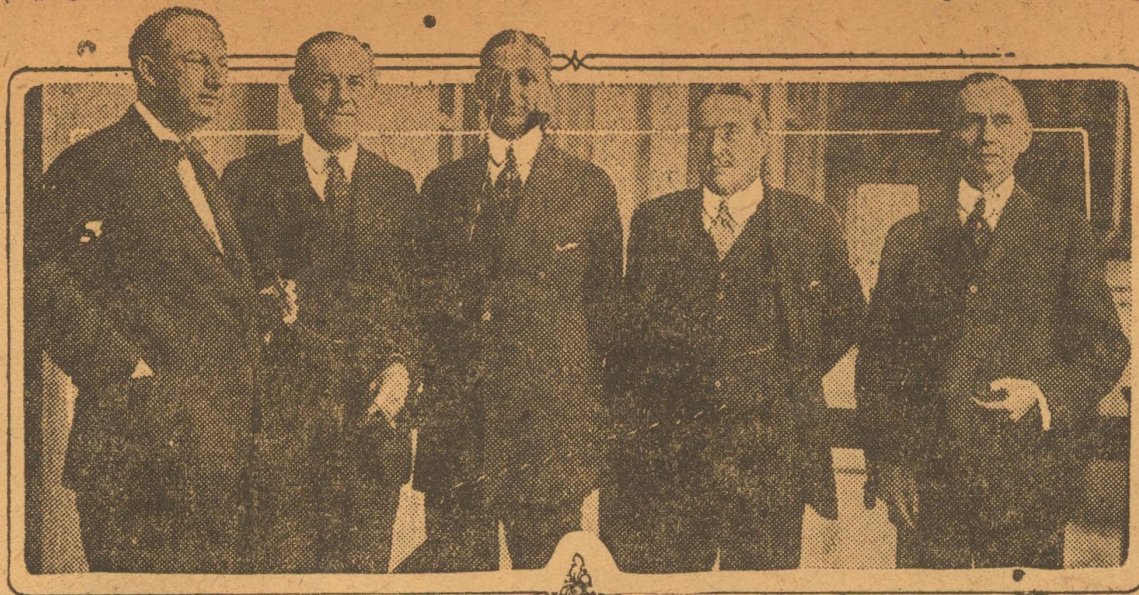

Going down to the shore on the 5:18 Commuter's Special the Woman met an old friend, whose fame when they had played together here in high school days rested on his prowess as a swimmer.

Here evidently were the two masculine ruling passions—food and sport—met in even struggle. Wise in the ways of cooks and of men, the Woman forebore to comment.

Though she has been teaching in the Davidson Seminary at Petersburg, Va., for the past fifty-six years, Miss Nora Fontaine Maury Davidson is still active despite her 84 years of age.

TINKER BOB

By CARLYSLE H. HOLCOMB

THE STORY OF JACK THE RABBIT.

Have you thought who it might be that rushed through the thicket toward the place where the King was talking to Jerry the Jay and Young O Possum? No, it wasn't Old Man O Possum, nor Mother O Possum looking for her son.

"What's the matter?" asked Tinker Bob, as Jack came close and rubbed his nose on the King's knee to make sure it was the King, his friend.

"Matter!" exclaimed Jack. "There is matter enough, poor Lady Duck!" And that is all he could say.

He Just Grinned and Showed His Teeth.

ture of the Forest is more than the good King knew. "Tell me about it," he said.

"Well, it's like this: I was feeding on some of the sweetest lover in the Hunter's field when the little Breeze came along and told me that someone was near. I hid in a squat which I had made before and told the little Breeze to keep away from me.

"I couldn't see who it was, but in a moment I saw that it was Mr. O Possum. After a moment of talk Red Fox started away on the run and he ran faster than I ever before. When Red Fox was gone I went to O Possum and asked him what the trouble was and he just grinned and showed his teeth and told me if I ever said that he was talking to Red Fox he would chew my ears off.

"Poor Lady Duck, I thought—" and then he was interrupted by the shrillest cry you ever heard, and it sounded closer and closer. Jack and Young O Possum hid in the thicket to see what was going to happen. What do you think it was?

To Be Continued.

JOHN-A-DREAMS

(CIV. DREAMS OF COSMETICS.)

Young girls, more often than older women, dream of cosmetics and the use of them. They are frequently inclined (as I glean from their letters) to ignore such visions; because they believe that they mean nothing and are superinduced by memory.

This is wrong. While it is true that memory plays a great part in our dreams, the fact remains that certain dream-actions, no matter what brings them about, are true indications of either past or future, and should never be brushed aside and we are absolutely certain that they are meaningless.

The lipstick is a sure harbinger of secret, forbidden kisses; and to use it in your dreams is a hint that you will try to hide the suspicious red of your mouth.

Quite different is the meaning of rouge. It foretells illness. The white cheeks you are trying to cover and conceal are signs of suffering.

If you put powder on your face in your dreams, you will tell a lie—you will conceal your true nature and hide the true meaning of your words, because the person to whom you will tell the falsehood is, in your correct opinion, not worthy of your confidence.

To put anything on your hair, whether

Law of Business Groupings Forecast Ranger's Growth

Just a fraction less than one-third of Eastland county's entire population have their homes in Ranger. This estimate is based on figures given out by the census board, which places the population of the county at 58,505 and that of Ranger at 16,205.

Students of such situations declare that the condition makes it inevitable that Ranger, situated as it is between El Paso and Fort Worth, and now being the third city of the western part of the state, and containing the bulk of the population of the county, will make the leading city of this section.

The argument continues that this section is already thickly settled and is becoming more so each year, and in every thickly settled community cities grow in proportion to the density of population that it supplies with necessities.

To back this statement it is pointed out that with the connecting link of the Hamon-Kell railroad, now building, which will give direct communication with Wichita Falls on the north and with communication already established in other directions by the same road, and the Texas & Pacific, Ranger is located at a strategic point to be a distributing center, not only for oil supplies, but every article that is consumed.

Many Wholesale Houses. As the third city in West Texas, Ranger has more wholesale grocery houses than any town except Fort Worth and Wichita Falls, and possibly more oil well supply houses than has Wichita Falls. It is a law governing growing cities that allied business under different ownerships naturally group themselves. To prove this statement it is only necessary to glance at any leading city—Fort Worth, Akron, or Detroit, as an example. It is pointed out that through this law Ranger will remain the leading wholesale center, even with the population of this section constantly on the increase.

These places will reach out for more business all the time as they are now doing and as their trade increases others following the same vocation will engage in similar lines of trade. This argument is given aside from the fact that it will probably supply the majority of the oil field equipment for operations all over Texas.

Momentum is another factor that students point to as being a means of creating a greater city each year. The statement is supported by facts that when a town reaches the size of Ranger its momentum carries it forward. In other words, the vast amount of money already invested is a means of attracting other money day by day, and those who have made investments are continually casting about for other means to invest that will help carry the city forward.

On this forecast it is believed by all civic leaders that all the natural resources, other than oil, will quickly be in a process of development.

Experts are convinced that among other industries, a brick plant and a cement factory would be an ideal investment here.

It be a perfumed preparation, a dye or a cosmetic powder, is a sign of cares and foreshadows gray hair. Naturally, this does not mean that you will turn white over night; but a year or two hence, the youthful lustre of your tresses will fade.

There is much significance in a dream which depicts a girl or woman among others of her sex, all engaged in powdering or rouging themselves or each other. The meanings narrated above, referring only to what you do when you are alone, do then not apply. Done in company, such actions mean great preparations for an important family event—a wedding, a christening or an engagement—but whether you will be directly concerned must be determined by the progress of the dream.

If you see a man of your acquaintance using cosmetics, you may set him down as false, foolish and in no manner worthy of your consideration or that of your friends. If not you, but some other woman, thinks much of him, warn her before it is too late.

To see an old woman using cosmetics indicates that you will be a guest but will feel very uncomfortable.

In the next chapter I will tell you of dreams of Statues.

Polo played by women's fours, a distinct novelty in this country, though an established competition in England, is contemplated as a special feature of the interclub polo contests at the fall meeting of the Boston fair association at Readville.

October 4 will be a red-letter day in the North Texas oil fields. It is opening day of Jinkurn townsite.—Adv.

FREIGHT COSTS FIFTY DOLLARS ON EVERY COW SHIPPED TO GERMANY

BERLIN, Oct. 2.—The German department of agriculture and the German Red Cross are trying to help Americans who have offered to send 5,000 cows to Germany to obtain cargo space in vessels to send the cattle across the Atlantic.

Germany. Meantime the Red Cross has been trying to smooth away the difficulties here and obtain permission to receive the much desired animals.

The Red Cross officials estimate that the ocean freight charge will average $50 a head.

While no restrictions are placed upon the breed of cows needed, it is pointed out that Holsteins more readily acclimate themselves as that is the predominant breed in Germany.

Japs Arm Bandits to Aid Their Plans of Monopoly in East China

By Associated Press
PEKING, Oct. 2.—The Japanese betray an ambition to monopolize the operation of the Chinese Eastern railway, in the opinion of a commission consisting of an American, a Frenchman and an Englishman which was sent by the Chinese government to Manchuria and Eastern Siberia this summer to inquire into political conditions there, particularly as they affected the railway.

The commission was composed of Dr. J. C. Ferguson, American adviser to the president of China; M. Padoux, French financial adviser to the Chinese government; and E. Lenox-Simpson, British official whose official title is statistician to the president.

They left Peking June 16 and inspected the whole line of the Chinese Eastern and later continued their investigation in Vladivostok. In a report to the Chinese government the commission states:

"The Japanese attitude toward the Chinese Eastern railway today is correct in outward appearance; nevertheless beneath the surface are to be seen numerous indications of their deep desire to dominate, if not control its administration.

Interfere With Operations.
"They overlook no opportunity to interfere with the working of the line: they constantly watch the movement of traffic, and they have made every possible attempt to install themselves in a commanding position both along the railway and in buildings belonging to the company. Last year they made a deliberate attempt to seize the section south of Harbin (Changchun-Harbin) by moving up to Harbin all material necessary to convert the line from Russian broad-gauge to standard gauge (South Manchurian system), an effort which was successfully resisted by the agents of the Allied powers. Since then they have attempted to cover this failure by offering to lease from the Chinese Eastern for a term of years all the freight space on the Changchun-Harbin section and thus to establish an effective Japanese monopoly, an effort which has also come to naught."

Under the head of criticisms of Chinese politics, the commission reported that "country districts, particularly the Sungari valley and the sections of the railway in the mountain districts of eastern Kirin, are full of bands of hunchutze (Chinese bandits) preying upon the country and frequently plundering steamers and junks.

Japs Arm Brigands.
"The territorial officials maintain," the report continues, "that once Japanese evacuation is carried out this danger will disappear. They point to the great number of Meiji rifles captured and the arming of bands with Japanese machine guns as proof that foreign nations have assisted brigandage in order to break down Chinese control. At the station of Imlanpo, 100 miles east of Harbin, a car full of grenades was seized by the Chinese garrison a few days prior to the commission's visit, evidently consigned to brigands, who are said to number 6,000 to 7,000 in this district alone."

Glow of Camp-Fires Tint Sky as Hundreds Wait for Opening of New Oil Town

Jimkurn Townsite Is Picturesque Scene As First Contingent of Lot Buyers Wait For First Words of Auctioneer.

Special to The Times.
JIMKURN, Tex., Oct. 2.—Before the coming of tomorrow's dawn, silent caravans of sojourners and fortune seekers will be trailing along beneath the stars, with their faces turned toward a new Mecca, the newest town in Texas, right in the heart of new development in the North Texas oil fields, midway between the Breckenridge and South Bend districts.

Tonight the camp fires are glowing adjoining the townsite, which will be opened Monday morning, the townsite officials already being on the ground and encamped in the new townsite office building, awaiting the inrush of humanity to the new town.

Scene Is Colorful.
There is always much of heart interest and the spectacular in the opening of a new townsite and the mad clamor of human beings, with their beds and baggage, their tents and their stores of merchandise, their goods and chattels, to inhabit the new places of the earth. Comedy and tragedy, quiet and confusion, strangely intermingled during the first rude rush to carve out a city in some former land of solitude; and Jimkurn will be no stranger to the sight, such as have attended other townsite openings since the memory of man runneth back.

Many From Ranger.
Hundreds of persons from Ranger, Breckenridge, Eastland, Cisco, Crystal Falls, Ivan, Caddo and elsewhere, urged by curiosity or fired by ambition to start life all over again in the hope of succeeding in a brand new town, peculiarly favored by nature with a strand of deep, clear running water at the edge of town, boasting of perfect natural drainage and marooned in a vast sea of oil, with gushers to the north, south and east of it shooting up their streams of golden treasure for the benefit of all and the enrichment of many, will, by the time this is read, be on the road in covered and uncovered wagons, in snorting flivvers or high-powered motor cars, on foot and on horseback, bound for the new townsite nine miles north of Breckenridge, that will be born Monday.

Ready to Open.
All is in readiness for the opening of the fifth town to be added to the map of Texas by Col. Jake L. Hamon, multi-millionaire oil operator and railroad builder. In addition to the newest town, Jimkurn, Col. Hamon has fathered the towns of Jakeshamon, Frankell, Edhobby and Breckwalker, named after the colonel and his friends and associates of his. Jimkurn, named after President James M. Kurn of the Frisco railroad system, who recently visited the town in company with prominent officials of the Frisco, is in Stephens county, nine miles north of Breckenridge at the terminus of the Hamon-Kell railroad, and it is expected that trains will be running to the end of the line by Nov. 1.

Area Rich in Oil.
Some of the largest oil wells brought in recently in the North Texas field have been in the vicinity of the new town and several of the larger oil companies are putting in camps adjacent to the townsite. With the completion of the railroad Jimkurn will at once become the distributing center for a score or more miles to the north, east and west and as such the road will be the only outlet to the south, its importance as a railroad terminus cannot be overestimated.

Today the only building in Jimkurn is the townsite office. By noon Monday it is expected that a new, throbbing city of tents and shacks, to be later supplanted by brick buildings, will have sprung up. In the twinkling of an eye, oil well supply houses, lumber yards, banks, hotels, business houses, grocery and meat markets, moving picture theatres, lunch and cold-drink stands will be open and ready for business, catering to the pioneers who are now on their way to the new townsite with tents and stores of goods and light building materials, where naught but the lone coyote has heretofore kept his nightly vigil, awakening the silence of the North Texas prairie by howling at the stars that will on Monday night beam down upon a new town.

SENDS THREATENING LETTERS IN HOPES OF GETTING RAISE

tors today established the identity of the writer of six threatening letters to Mayor Peters and others which followed the Wall street explosion.

The man, whose identity was not revealed, will be arrested shortly, it was stated. He is a government employe.

He said he sent the letters in the hope that he might get an increase in wages. Just how he hoped to accomplish this he did not make clear. The man was caught by postal inspectors putting a threatening letter in a mail box.

BROWN VELOUR AND SQUIRREL FUR IS NEW COMBINATION

The wrappy coats have it according to the verdict of the fashion designers. The conservative, belted models will be seen very little save for business and sport wear. Here is a very stunning style in a wrappy coat. It shows that new combination of brown and gray. The coat is brown velour with an unusual collar of gray squirrel fur which is very effective.

Tomorrow the new townsite of Jimkurn, 9 miles north of Breckenridge, will open.—Adv.

ALLIGATORS ARE HATCHED BY HEN AT CORPUS, WOW!

CORPUS CHRISTI, Oct. 2.—A hen owned by Dr. W. E. Wills, of this city, is suffering from something akin to nervous prostration, according to the physician.

Dr. Wills found a nest filled with alligator eggs while on a hunting expedition recently. He brought six of the eggs home with him.

A solitary hen in the doctor's barnyard was determined to set and although the sun would have hatched the alligator eggs, Dr. Wills decided to humor the fowl and put the eggs under her.

Biddy waited for but one egg to hatch, according to the doctor, and then left the nest, running and cackling wildly.

ODESSA HAS LEGAL 'FREE LOVE' WEEKS, REFUGEES ASSERT

LONDON, Oct. 2.—Some particulars of the reign of terror in Odessa are supplied by a special correspondent of the Daily Telegraph who is with Gen. Wrangel's forces. He writes: "An officer who escaped from Odessa with his young wife and sister-in-law said several personal friends of the two women had been seized, nationalized and sent to the Chinese lines. "Nationalization of women is conducted systematically by young Jewish Commissaries. Each month, from May to August, certain weeks were fixed and officially proclaimed 'free love' weeks. Also in seven months, two weeks, beginning May 1 and June 27, old style were declared 'cleaning weeks.' During them all bourgeois or persons not laborers or employees of Commissaries were compelled to sweep the streets, which were indescribably dirty."

DEATH THREAT SEALS LIPS OF RUSSIAN REDS IN AMERICA

CHICAGO, Oct. 2.—"I would rather die than tell anything that might injure my comrades in the cause," was the impatient cry of Witty M. Sheehman, former secretary to Nicholas Lenine, the bolshevik premier, when he was questioned again and again by federal investigators yesterday.

While the Red agent dodged questions and kept his inquisitors in the dark his home at 2919 West Division street was again raided. Government officers found that more than $15,000 had been expended for propaganda in the Chicago district during the month of July.

Chiefly interesting was the discovery of orders from the soviet in Moscow and received in Chicago on Sept. 14 threatening death to any member of the Communists who should reveal the contents of orders. In view of the fact that there are more than 7,000 reds in the Chicago district, this was considered a somewhat sweeping threat.

Seek Alliance With I. W. W.

Documents found in Sheehman's home also revealed much interesting information regarding the United Communist party, of which he is a group leader.

"Regarding myself, I have told you all I know," Sheehman said. "Regarding the United Communist party I can say nothing. I would rather die than tell anything which might injure my comrades and our cause."

From minutes of the central executive committee of the United Communist party, typewritten in Russian characters, it was learned that a committee had been named to get into touch with the I. W. W. in the United States and to work out plans for affiliations, "as per instructions of the Third Internationale of Moscow."

This is one of the most direct links yet found by the government connecting up the Communists in this country with the soviet propaganda emanating from soviet Russia, according to federal agents.

Another paragraph states that "the delegates of the Moscow Third Internationale" attended this meeting Sept. 15 and informed us that his mission in the United States is to unite the Communists, the I. W. W. and the Communists of Mexico in the name of the Third Internationale and demand that all join the Communist party."

The $15,321.11 which was expended in the Chicago district for organization and propaganda during the month of July came principally from the collection of dues from members, salaries to organizers for the month amounted to more than $3,000, and the expense of running the executive offices was $1,900.

The organization printed newspapers in several languages and succeeded in circulating them from hand to hand. Copies of this document, which came into possession of the police and federal agents, clearly indicate the destruction of the present system of government in America, as well as elsewhere, through mass actions and physical violence.

First Leper Ever Cured Tells of Restoration to Life and Hope

HONOLULU, Oct. 2.—Twenty-five years a leper but now discharged by the physician of the United States public health service in charge of Kalihii Leprosy Investigation station here without an apparent trace of the disease in her body, is the record of Mrs. Rosalie Blaisdell of Honolulu, given to the Associated Press in what is believed to be the first interview of its kind ever published.

Refined Chaulmoogra oil, prepared by Dr. A. L. Dean and his conferees of the University of Hawaii, and administered by Dr. J. D. McDonald, director of investigation station, Dr. F. E. Trotter, president of the territorial board of health, and their associates is credited by the public health officials with having arrested the disease in three years, five months and seven days of treatment.

Today Mrs. Blaisdell is living at her home here, going in and out among her friends and taking up the threads of a busy life which were cut when the mad lady forced her "without the camp."

Her manner is cheerful, almost vivacious; her mental energy unusually keen; her movements quick and decisive as those of a person in perfect health; the skin of her hand, as the Associated Press representative took it in departing, is soft and as smooth as a baby's.

Only one apparent ill effect of the disease remains in the occasional twitching of one eye. There the leprosy bacilli destroyed a nerve before the treatment took effect.

Mrs. Blaisdell is a full blooded Hawaiian, last of a long line of "priestesses of the flame" in the old Hawaiian temple worship. Before she entered the Kalihii institution for treatment she organized the Daughters of the Sons of Hawaiian Warriors, one of the strongest of the Hawaiian societies in the islands. She speaks English fluently, also Hawaiian and her information upon world affairs is far above the average.

"Neglected 'tabus,'" "My grandmother told me to observe our old 'tabus' (rules of conduct) or I would be stricken with leprosy," said this daughter of a race that believed in a Divine Trinity 3,000 years ago and taught the power of mind over matter centuries before the Christian era. "I did not heed her warning and in 1895 a red, burning spot on my right cheek announced that my punishment had come. It appeared off and on but not in aggravated form until 1908.

"From then on I became worse. Eruptions, as we call them, appeared every three months. My face and other parts of my body and limbs became swollen and inflamed during these periods.

"In March, 1917, I was sent to the Kalihii hospital. From that time until I was released the other day I took different kinds of treatment, each marking a step of progress in the manner of resting and administering the curative essence of Chaulmoogra oil.

"During the earlier stages of the work at Kalihii chaulmoogra oil was hard to take," Mrs. Blaisdell continued, describing the remedy. "At present an injection is administered once a week, while the remedy is taken internally three times a week.

"Sometimes, in about 10 per cent of the cases, the oil brought on a leprosy fever, accompanied by eruptions, and the doctors instructed me not to take the capsules until these had passed. This was hard to do for we felt that we were losing time and some of us disobeyed. I did so once and continued taking the capsules during the eruptions. Before I was on the road to recovery again my recklessness had cost me the joint of one toe.

"Hope of recovery even in a leprosy colony was to be expected, but it was a revelation to learn from this woman that cheerfulness, laughter and joy of living were the rule, rather than the exception among the 100-odd patients at Kalihii.

"We had our afternoon teas, our amateur theatricals and, of course, in a community whose great majority was Hawaiians, our musicals. If new awnings were needed for the buildings, the board of health furnished the material and we did the sewing. Co-operation was the keynote of the station's activities, for we knew that the territory's funds were heavily taxed to meet the expense of our treatment.

Dreaded Molokai. "Our only dread was that we would be sent to the 'other side,' the designation we gave the old leper colony at Kalaupapa, Island of Molokai. However, nowadays patients never, or very infrequently, are sent to Molokai. I do not think that any of those at Kalihii will go there; they Chaulmoogra treatment has achieved such wonderful results.

"Thirty of the Kalihii patients were released on parole some time before I came out, also on parole, and not one has been returned to the station on account of recurrence of the disease. Seventy-eight patients in all have been released on parole within the year."

Leprosy came to Hawaii about 1840, according to Mrs. Blaisdell, its first appearance here being in a Chinese. Ignorant of the disease, the Hawaiians of that day failed to take precautions against it until it was too late and today the majority of cases is among the members of that fine old race that once ruled supreme in the islands.

Chaulmoogra oil is extracted from the nuts of the chaulmoogra tree, a native of Burma and other Asiatic countries. In the station grounds at Kalihii is a young chaulmoogra tree, planted and cared for by the patients, the emblem of their home.

Before her release "snips" were taken from Mrs. Blaisdell's skin for bacteriological treatment and investigation—she had thirty-eight snips taken during her treatment. The result of the last official examination and a special examination taken at her own request is contained in the following statement given Mrs. Blaisdell by one of the attending physicians.

"My efforts on Sunday to obtain from you at least a few fragments of dead bacilli from five former localities chiefly affected, I must tell you ended in complete failure, although I tried my best to find a few for demonstration purposes."

GERMANY FACES SURE CHAOS UNLESS DEBT IS DISSOLVED, BELIEF

BERLIN, Oct. 2.—Germany is drifting steadily in the direction of bankruptcy.

That conclusion—which has often been expressed in the past week—is strengthened, if anything, by the statement of Minister of Finance, Wirth to a Cabinet meeting called to discuss national finances.

This announcement that the national debt is 242,700,000,000 marks was not a surprise to those in high financial circles, but created something of a sensation, followed by pessimism with the general public.

The announcement tends to confirm the belief held in many quarters that it would be utterly impossible to pay off or to carry a steadily increasing burden. Some go so far as to say that going through with bankruptcy would not be the worst evil that could befall Germany, since it seems inevitable in the end. The bankruptcy, they say, would give Germany a new start on a new basis.

TWO WHOLE DAYS AND NOTHING TO DRINK

International News Service. RENO, Nev., Oct. 2.—Two entire days and nights in the Nevada desert without food and only the rusty water from his radiator as a possible means of quenching his thirst—that was the experience of John L. Eaton, aerial mail service pilot who was rescued after he had managed to send a telegram giving his position to air mail service officials here. The story of Eaton's forty-eight hours in the desert was told here by two army flyers who were the first to reach him after his message had been received.

Eaton's forced landing was at a point forty miles west of McGill, a little desert community, the home of a few wandering sheep herders. But Eaton did not know that the desert town was forty miles east of him. Had he known, he would have reached it, for he walked more than that distance in the opposite direction, going deeper and deeper into the desert as he walked and unknowingly leaving all hope of finding human habitation behind. After a day's struggle through the desert sand without food and only the little water he had drawn from his radiator and carried with him, Eaton turned about and retraced his steps to his abandoned plane. He reached it and determined to "stay with the ship" though there was little hope of rescue. On the third morning just at daylight Eaton saw a speck on the eastern horizon. It was just a speck, but it moved. The flyer struggled toward it. The speck took human form—it was a man. Waving his hands and calling as loudly as the condition of his parched throat would permit, he somehow attracted attention.

The man he found was a sheepherder, looking for some of his flock that had strayed from the others. He agreed to take a message to McGill for the pilot and relay it to Ely to be telegraphed to Reno. Eaton returned to his plane. Late in the afternoon he saw another speck on the horizon, then another. Gradually they assumed the form of airplanes and he knew he was safe. The planes had been sent from Reno and carried mechanics to repair the plane in which Eaton had so nearly lost his life. But more than that, they carried food, and Eaton wanted food more than rescue from the desert just then. Eaton was taken to Eiko, a station on the air mail route, and from there he went to Salt Lake City, resuming the following day his regular flight in the transcontinental air service.

YOUTH SETS FIRE TO BUILDING TO REVENGE OWNER

TO BURN DOWN THE BUILDING TO GET REVENGE.

That is how Elmer H. Frahm, 22, an elevator operator, bases his sordid confession of how he kindled four fires in the Victoria building in a year.

He dictated it today after his arrest on a charge of arson, following three fires in the building Sunday. The first fire, on Aug. 6, 1919, did $100,000 damage. The second last Sunday morning did $3,000. The third caused a loss of $600. The last was extinguished with an inconsequential loss.

Frahm earns $70 a month. He said he worked nine hours and fifteen minutes a day for this. He declared that William Sacks, who owned the building, had raised rents "sky high" and made "lots of money" out of it.

Refused to Split With Him. Because Sacks refused to "split" with him and increase his salary, he decided to burn down the skyscraper the operator, asserted.

BRUIN RUNS AMUCK WHEN HE BREAKS CRATE IN TRAIN

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Oct. 2.—A large cinnamon bear, donated to the Columbian park zoo, this city, by E. E. Arbuckle of Greensburg, Ind., took possession of the express car on the passenger train today. The bear was shipped in a crate, but soon after the train left Greensburg the animal tore the crate to pieces with its teeth, and George Anderson, express messenger, ran from the car. The animal broke into a crate of chickens and ate a number of them. After reaching Lafayette the bear again escaped from his captors and ran into a hotel, finally taking refuge in an ice box in a rear room, where it was captured.

Kismet on Screen—Starts Stage Life as Wee Tot—Stop Thief, Another Child Star—Holds Record—A Freckled Faced Fighter.

"Kismet," which will be presented to the motion picture public in the late fall, promises to be one of the biggest events of the season. Otis Skinner, who by reason of his remarkable characterizations has been a conspicuous figure on the American stage for a good many years, makes his debut as a screen star in "Kismet," playing the famous role of Haji, the beggar. In this role Mr. Skinner enjoyed the greatest success of his stage career.

"Kismet" has always appealed to me as the most ideal of my various vehicles said Mr. Skinner. In fact, it is the only one of my plays that I have been really anxious to see upon the screen, but I would never consider its being filmed unless it could have the sort of mounting that I really believe it is worthy of. And now it is being presented in a manner I had never dreamed of."

Shirley Mason. At the age of two and a half years, Shirley Mason was booked through the agency of Mrs. Taliaferro, mother of Edith and Mabel, for a part with Peter F. Daly. A year and a half later she was engaged by William Faversham for the role of "Little Hal" in "The Squaw Man." Her correct name is Flungrath. She has two sisters, Viola and Edna, the latter is working in pictures in England. She appeared in Augustus Thomas' famous play, "The Burglar," later appearing with Joseph Jefferson in "Rip Van Winkle." She supported Edith Wayne Matthison in "The Piper."

Otis Skinner in "Kismet"

She also appeared with Richard Bennett in "Passers-By."

She is nineteen years old, and was born in Brooklyn, N. Y. Her picture career is a long one, and includes "The Apple Tree Girl," "The Wall Invisible," "Come On In," "Good Bye Bill," "Cochi Dura the Kaiser," "The Rescuing Angel," "The Final Close-up," "The Winning Girl," "Her Elephant Man."

Tom Moore and Hazel Daly. "Tom Moore and Hazel Daly meet their Waterloo in "Stop Thief," the picture adapted from the Broadway success by Carlyle Moore.

"As a merry pair of crooks they have had things all their own way but now, with a revolver drawn on them, the tables are turned. The plan was to be there for the wedding, clean out the house, stage a wedding of their own, go straight, and live happily ever after! But the bridegroom was not so slow—the ending was not exactly as they had anticipated, but very happy. Plenty of laughs and thrills with Tom Moore at his best."

Lila Lee. Lila Lee made her first hit as a child when she sang "Look Out For Jimmy Valentine," in Gus Edwards' Revue. Then she was known as "Gutless," a name she retained until she made her screen debut. Recently she has been seen as leading woman for Houdini in "Terror Island," and Thomas Meighan in "The Prince Chap."

Earl Williams holds the record among motion picture stars for the length of time he has remained with a single company, almost thirteen years.

The star is a native son of California. He was born in Sacramento, the son of Augustus P. Williams, a California pioneer. His mother, Eva Page-Williams, was a sister of James Paget, a notable figure on the stage a generation ago. During his picture career, Mr. Williams has had for his leading women such prominent stars of today as Anita Stewart, Clara Kimball Young, and Corinne Griffith. The pictures in which he has appeared that loom large in the background are "The Christian," "The Love of John Ruskin," "My Official Wife," and "Arsene Lupin." Among his most recent successes are "The Fortune Hunter," from the famous play by Winchell Smith, and "Captain Swift," by Haddon Chambers. He is now working on "The Romance Promoters," adapted from a well known story that appeared in Ainslee's magazine.

Wesley Barry as "Dirty"

Shirley Mason

Sylvia Breamer. The battling kangaroo used to be Australia's only claim to fame. That was before the spreading of filminia. Now, the Antipodes has annexed a new and more lustrous laurel to its terrestrial brow. It has become famed as the home of two of filmdom's most ravishing heroines—Sylvia Breamer and Edna Bennett. Sylvia started her histrionic arabesques in Australian stock companies.

Sylvia Breamer

Tom Moore and Hazel Daly in "Stop Thief"

Then the silent drama "called" and she migrated to these shores, where she soon became one of the stellar lights in the Triangle firmament. Starring engagements in "Missing," "Dawn," "A House Divided," "The Moonshine Trail" and other films subsequently established her as a prime favorite in the realm of the canned drama.

Wesley Barry. The newest star of screenland is Wesley Barry, freckle-faced boy of "Daddy Long Legs," "Go and Get It," "Don't Ever Marry" and "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm" fame.

Although but 13 years of age, little Wesley is one of the most popular characters of the screen world. For three years he has been carefully coached by Mr. Neiland, and during this time he has been given more important work in each succeeding picture. And now Wesley plays the big part in his own production, "Dirty," a story especially written for him by Mr. Neiland and Marion Fairfax. In this picture Wesley plays the part of a newsboy whose chief characteristics are to scrap and his love for his mother, played by Colleen Moore.

AIRPLANE FELL IN FLAMES; BUT IT WAS ONLY A MOVIE STUNT
NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—Reports that an airplane had fallen in flames into Gravesend Bay caused the police, including even harbor police from Manhattan, to rush to the scene from all directions, attracted thousands of persons to the shores of the bay and brought about a search for bodies that lasted hours last night—long after the searchers were satisfied the flaming plane was a photoplay thriller.
Corpl. Riley and Patrolman Long of the Bath Beach Station, who were sent to the foot of the bay 23rd street, saw what appeared to be the frame work of an airplane and a ball of fire on the surface of the water. They also saw a boat launched from a steamer, a life saving crew put out from the foot of Bay Ninth street and two motor boats start for the wrecked plane from a pier at 22nd avenue.

Before any of the rescuers could reach the plane, however, a steam yacht appeared, got the plane in tow and "put out to sea under cover of darkness." For hours the searchers scoured the bay but no trace of bodies could be found.
Later the police learned that Mrs. Mary Richardson, owner of the Fort Lowry hotel, on the bay at 17th avenue, had been asked to lease the hotel for the purpose of making a picture of a falling airplane at night.
WEIGH SCHOOL KIDS IN CINCINNATI, OHIO
CINCINNATI, Ohio, Oct. 2.—Weighing and measuring of every school child in Cincinnati has started.
The work is being done by the teachers. Charts detailing the results of this work will be turned over to the city health department. District health officials will then make a thorough physical examination of those children who, according to the charts, are under weight.
This is the most thorough and systematic inspection ever attempted of Cincinnati's school children.

NEWS NOTES FROM MOVIELAND
By Daisy

Virginia Fox. St. Petersburg, Florida is soon to boast of a real honest-to-goodness star of its own, according to news just received from the Metro Film Corporation in Hollywood California.
Virginia Fox, who, during the past two years, has risen to the enviable position of leading "water witch of the Mack Sennett gathering of seaside sirens," has stepped out of the spray and last week affixed her name to a contract with the Buster Keaton Comedy Productions company.

According to the terms of the contract Miss Fox will appear opposite Mr. Keaton in all the comedian's forthcoming Metro productions. She was chosen for this position because of her typical ideals of beauty, personality, grace and character—typifying hearty, wholesome, healthy and vivacious American girlhood. All this is straight from her press agent.

Miss Fox attended the Southland Seminary, her home town, for two years, going from there to an open-air school for a like time.

After leaving St. Petersburg in 1916, Miss Fox went to Los Angeles, where she was quickly secured by Mack Sennett to appear in his comedies. When the comedy king sent his famous bathing beauties on tour in 1919, Miss Fox was numbered among them, and appeared in New York at the Broadway theatre with that organization. After a tour of the principal cities of the country she returned to the west coast studio, and since that time has been playing important roles in comedies. Her work in "Married Life" was worthy of particular note, and it was this performance that earned her the right to become a leading personality in the film world.

Lillian Walker Sues. Lillian Walker has started an action for divorce against her husband, Charles E. Hansen. The couple have been living apart for some time.

We not only have "Pink Tights" from Universal, but "Silk Hosiery" from Thomas H. Ince's studio. Now begins a series of pictures with titles copied from women's wear.

OPERA HOUSE. "Dollars and the Woman" One of Her Best Efforts.

Alice Joyce will be seen at the Opera House theatre for three days in another big special production, entitled "Dollars and the Woman." This is an adaptation from the widely read magazine story by Albert Payson Terhune.

The motion picture public link the name of Alice Joyce with big things, and each release strengthens this faith in the ability of the actress. "Dollars and the Woman" is appropriate for two reasons. First, it is a continuation of Vitagraph's policy of producing stories by great authors, and secondly, it gives Miss Joyce a role somewhat different from anything which she has appeared before.

Thumb" has the role of Arthur Crewe, a friend in need. Mr. Kent is well known as a film actor. Jessie Stevens, one of the oldest screen comedienne, makes her return to the screen in "Dollars and the Woman."

TALYOR, Mo., Oct. 1.—Frank Keller, of Taylor, has paid $4,025 for Superior Giant, a one-year-old boar, son of Bob's Belle. The purchase was made at Delaney Brothers' Poland China hog sale near Leintner, where forty-three sows and gilts and five boars were sold at an average price of $274 per head.

Better take a day off Monday and attend the Jinkum townsite opening.—Adv.

DUVETYN FROCK IS AUTUMN FAVORITE

The very smartest frocks of the hour are fashioned of soft finished duvety. This one is made of brown in a straight low-waisted effect. The skirt is narrow with an apron tunic. In fact the tunic is of four aprons.

LAMB.

It is a Saturday Evening Post story by F. Scott Fitzgerald, translated to the screen by the Fox Film Forces that is to be the attraction at the Lamb theatre today. "The Husband Hunter" is its title and it was published in story form under the name of "Myra Meets His Family."

Eileen Percy, newly raised to stardom, is the featured player. Mr. Fitzgerald's story is one admirably suited for this latest recruit to the heights of stardom, and one that contains an almost limitless amount of humor, with a thousand laughs guaranteed. The direction was done by Howard M. Mitchell, who has toiled out among many other successes, the popular Shirley Mason pictures.

Miss Percy plays Myra—one of the types known to society as a husband hunter. She hunts and captures her prey, but before the marriage the prey decides to make a test of her love. So he introduces her to his family, and a most peculiar family it proves to be. Poor Myra really comes to believe that she is engaged to the son of a lunatic, and a feeble minded old lady who keeps for pets some thirty odd poodle dogs. But the test works, and Myra proves her love and also punishes her fiancée for developing a mythical family with the idea of sacring and terrorizing her. The picture is chock full of surprises, one following on top of the other. It is one of the daintiest comedies of the season, and Eileen Percy helps to make it so.

TEMPLE.

Cecil B. De Mille's latest production, "Something to Think About," is different in theme from anything he has attempted in the past. He has expended his artistry and meticulous attention to detail upon an intensely human story of real folks. The result is a picture in every respect up to the usual De Mille standard. "Something to Think About" opened a three days' run at the Temple theatre today.

The story, written by Jeanie MacPherson, who transcribed "Male and Female" and "Why Change Your Wife?" to the screen, centers around Ruth Anderson, daughter of the village blacksmith. A rich man, David Markley, lives in the neighborhood and, becoming interested in Ruth as a small girl, sends her away to school. She returns a young and beautiful woman, and it is understood that she and Markley are to marry. On the impulse of the moment she elopes with a youth of the village. Her husband, killed in an accident, leaves her destitute, and, returning to her native town to find her father blinded, she is in despair, until a series of dramatic events leads to her reconciliation with Markley.

A cast that is practically all-star interprets "Something to Think About." Gloria Swanson has the role of the heroine and proves that she is just as effective an actress in gingham as she is in fine clothes. The picture marks the return of Elliott Dexter to the screen as leading man. Theodore Roberts is admirable as the old blacksmith and Monte Blue has an important part. The picture is a Paramount.

GRAND-DAUGHTER OF BEECHER QUILTS SCIENTIST CHURCH

Mrs. Margaret Beecher White, grand-daughter of Henry Ward Beecher and charter member of the First Church of Christ, Scientists, has resigned from that and the Mother Christian Science church in Boston. This became known when yesterday she told a reporter for the World that she intends to continue her practice as a healer and lecturer independently.

According to both Mrs. White and members of the staff of Albert F. Bittmore, head of the Christian Science publicity bureau for New York state, at 52 Vanderbilt avenue, the severing of Mrs. White's relations with the Christian Science church, of which she has been a member eighteen years and a practitioner sixteen, was accomplished some time ago without bitterness.

SWAGGERING GUNMEN AND SAUCY DAUGHTERS OF THE WEST AT ELKS' FESTIVITY

Cowboys in chaps and broad brimmed hats, and miners adorned in red shirts and redder handkerchiefs will mingle freely with the sold-down gamblers and gun-men at the Elks' Roaring Camp celebration, Oct. 6.

Ranger women will drop back two decades and attire as were the dance hall girls of '89, will laugh and smile with the roughnecks down Dead Man's Gulch way, as they dance to the tunes our fathers and mothers knew.

Ranger, under the guidance of the Elks, is going to forget its staid ways and celebrate as they did during the days of the California gold rush. Everything will be complete except the funeral—no had man will have an opportunity to add another notch to the handle of his gun, for all guns will be checked at the door.

Camp Building.

Already the camp is assuming shape. Two rows of shacks, even as the original Rearing Camp, are filling both sides of a well defined street from Main to Pine.

At the general store the tenderfoot can be outfitted in gay chaps and broad brimmed Stetson. Next door will be the Palace Saloon with its flashing girls and loud voiced men, but the liquor will not kick, the kick, with the funerals, will have to be left at the gate. Beyond the saloon will be the "den of iniquity," probably known as the "Last Chance Gambling Hall"—or perhaps "The No Chance." Here an obliging dealer will sit and deal black-jack to the merry tune of the roulette wheel. "Smiling Nell," the lookout for the faro game, will probably be the wife or daughter of an Elk, and the money won and lost will be Elk money without value.

Choose "Prettiest Girl."

But that is not all, once and forever, the identity of the most popular girl in the city will be established and because she is the most popular girl, and naturally the prettiest, she will be adorned with diamonds, presents from the Elks. Someone also will leave the celebration with a new automobile.

The solemn Padre will be present during the celebration, and will win the heart of the dance hall queen, and lead her away from the paths of sin. After he is convinced that she will be true, they will saunter over before the justice of the peace and have him tie the knot, while miners and cowboys dig up their dearest keepsakes for wedding presents.

To Last Four Days.

Raymond Teal, who is known as a humorist and an entertainer, has much to do with staging the celebration, as has Secretary Carter of the Elks lodge.

Both men declare that those who attend the celebration and enter into the spirit of the affair will have something to remember that will always bring up pleasant thoughts and perhaps a forgotten thrill.

The celebration lasts for four days.

COP LEARNS AUTO VICTIMS ARE HIS OWN PARENTS, HURT

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—Twenty-one persons were injured by autos in and near this city yesterday. Newark reported the death of John Robbins of 627 North Seventh street, that city, from injuries received Wednesday night when he and his wife were struck by an auto while crossing the street at Bloomfield and Roseville avenues, Newark. William Y. Bogel, 23, living at the Hotel Montclair, Montclair, N. J., was arrested on a charge of having run them down.

Patrolman Charles Robbins saw a crowd surrounding the couple after they had been injured, and when he reached the couple, found they were his parents. He asserts witnesses to the accident told him the operator of the machine failed to stop. He took the injured couple to the city hospital. Supplied with the license number of the machine, Patrolman McGrath pursued it in another. Mrs. Robbins is in a critical condition. Her skull and right thigh were fractured.

Patrolman McGrath said detectives examined Bogel's car at 5 o'clock yesterday morning and found one lamp broken. When he routed Bogel from his bed, the latter admitted striking the couple and said he was too frightened to stop, McGrath said.

John Blooman, 51, of 99 West 133rd street, was struck by an auto truck at Peck Slip and Front street yesterday and removed to Volunteer hospital with a fractured skull. Oswald Hansen, 23, of 23 1-2 Second street, Brooklyn, was struck near his home by a United States mail auto yesterday. He received injuries to the head.

Bertini Paglucci of 217 Sullivan street, Brooklyn, was sentenced to fifteen days in prison yesterday by Magistrate Steers in Brooklyn traffic court after he had pleaded guilty to the charge of driving an automobile over the Manhattan bridge at 45 miles an hour.

NO BALLYHOO AT SALE OF LOTS IN NEW TOWN, JINKURN

JINKURN, Tex., Oct. 2.—Without the jangle of trumpets, brass bands, barbecues or the other means that have in times past been resorted to to secure up crowds or townsite openings, the townsite of Jinkurn, nine miles north of Brokenidge, will be opened up bright and early next Monday morning.

"Ballyhoo stuff" may have helped sell lots in new towns with nothing to recommend them, but so far as this townsite is concerned, the town itself is its best is the townsite well drained, but it will coming of the railroad, a vast ranching drawing card. Located along the banks also be the northern terminus of the and oil territory, heretofore a score of perfect natural drainage. Not only Wichita Falls, Ranger and Fort Worth miles or more from any railroad, will pay of deep, clear water, the townsite boasts railroad, new railway nearing completion tribute to Jinkurn as a distributing of perfect natural drainage. Not only between here and Brokenidge. With the point.

LOCAL AUTOMOBILE DEALER TELLS OF EFFECT ON MARKET OF DROP IN FORD PRICE RATES

The New York Times says that Henry Ford is not playing the idealist when it comes to selling automobiles. He is not reducing the price for the sake of the people, but because of a sluggish market. In other words Mr. Ford has taken this step to stimulate his sales.

However, with his unexpected announcement of a 31 per cent cut in prices, in less than two days after, the Franklin Motor Car company announced a reduction of 17 1/2 to 21 1/2 per cent.

The effect of the Franklin cut has more or less effected many other cars on the market. The Studebaker corporation followed a few days later with a drop of $125 on the Special Six and $200 on the Big Six. The Hudson and Essex as well as the Cleveland and Chandler also took a slight drop. The Pierce-Arrow in the midst of this took a jump of $300 and the Nash and Dodge announce that they can see no change in their prices until next year as their prices are based on material contracts with a fair return for their efforts.

In speaking of the unsettled market, local automobile men differ to some extent about the effect the price cutting will have. When the opinion of Mr. Gullahorn, manager of the Oilbelt Motor company was asked, he stated that he expected a sluggish market until money loosened up a little.

"The public has grown so wary because it has been stung so many times," Mr. Gullahorn explained. "It has had a dollar raise on so many things on the excuse of the raise in the cost of production—which investigation has shown only a ten cent raise—that now it is rebelling. The man who plans to buy a two or three or even five thousand dollar car is going to feel that he should get it for less if he can reduce 31 per cent. And even if that man can afford to pay the price asked he is sure to feel that he is paying too much. That is the way that I feel that the country is going to respond psychologically to Ford's reduction, and that is the way all the automobile men I've talked with today get it."

"Ford sells a man his first car, and after that the convert buys a higher priced one. But don't think that I consider this furnishing a cheap car to a poor man philanthropic work any more than I consider the present reduction patriotism or idealism. It is a matter of business."

Report Shows Areas Patrolled by State Rangers

AUSTIN, Oct. 2.—The state ranger force in Texas, composed of six companies, has a total of sixty-one officers and men, according to a report made by Governor Hobby to the legislature in connection with his request for legislation empowering the governor to employ special rangers in an emergency.

The report showed the number of men in each company, their stations, and the territory patrolled by each company, and stated that with the exception of two privates on special duty, all the men were at their respective stations. The personnel of the companies was given as follows:

Headquarters Company, Austin, Capt. J. B. Brooks, commanding; Capt. R. W. Aldridge, quartermaster; one sergeant and four privates.

Company A, Presidio, Capt. Jerry Gray, Sergt. H. A. King, eleven privates.

Company C, Laredo, Capt. William

Bren, Sergt. Harry Keen, ten privates.

Company D, Brownsville, Capt. W. L. Wright, Sergt. J. J. Edds, nine privates.

Company E, Marathon, Capt. J. L. Anders, eight privates.

Company F, Del Rio, Capt. W. W. Davis, Sergt. J. L. Dial, seven privates.

Headquarters Company is used for emergency calls, the report stated, while Company A patrols the border between El Paso, Presidio and Jeff Davis counties, as well as covering the back country eastward. Company E patrols the line from Presidio and Brewster counties to the line of Terrell and Val Verde coun-

DRUG TRAFFIC IN SING SING SHOWN WHEN DOPE SEIZED

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—Sing Sing prison officials discovered yesterday a drug traffic which, it is said, has resulted in the seizure of $1,500 worth of heroin and cocaine.

Seven prisoners out of twelve reported involved in the smuggling and use of drugs were sent to Clinton prison at Dannemora. Five of the drug users had to receive medical attention in the hospital and two are still under treatment.

Warden Lawes is absent on prison business, so no official statement could be obtained last night. Prison employees reported that two convicts named Clayton and Farnoy were the ring leaders and that they were locked up in punishment cells.

Warden Lawes has been particularly careful to guard against drugs getting into Sing Sing, but it is very hard to keep them out because so many convicts are working outside the walls on new construction and it is so easy for dope peddlers to leave drugs where the convicts

LONE NEGRO PROGRESSIVE HOLDS PARTY CONVENTION, ENDORSES G. O. P. LEADERS

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 2.—John W. Fowler (colored) of Oakland, progressive candidate for assemblyman from the Thirty-ninth district, and the only one-man convention in the state, formally adjourned himself here today after appointing himself as the state central committee of his party, of which he was the lone representative.

Fowler was the only person who qualified as a progressive party delegate at the August primary. When he arrived here for the convention he found that he was all the convention his party possessed. Nothing daunted, Fowler, as chairman, called himself to order as delegate, formally opened the convention and proceeded to routine business.

After appointing himself a committee on resolutions, Fowler endorsed Harding, Coolidge and Shortridge on the ground that "it appears to the progressive party of the State of California that it is to the best interests of the people" that they be elected. The convention chairman, who was also secretary and sergeant-at-arms, then proceeded to call for the keynote speech:

"This is the remnants of the progressive party," Chairman Fowler in his keynote speech to Delegate Fowler declared. "Like the prodigal son, we have come home, but not after spending our substance in riotous living. Instead, under the glorious leadership of Theodore Roosevelt and Hiram Johnson we have enacted some of the greatest statutes in the history of the land.

"But now on the front porch we see Harding and Shortridge, waiting to welcome the prodigal son. The fatted calf has been killed amid great rejoicing. The other boy who stayed home is Samuel Shortridge and we all say to him, just as was said in the Bible story, 'All that we have is thine; take it and use it.'"

Chairman Fowler also urged more freedom in Ireland, praised the conduct of Terence MacSwiney, and condemned the Democratic party in ringing tones.

To perpetuate party organization, the chairman then appointed John W. Fowler of Oakland, state central committee to carry the standards of party purity over the ramparts of civic need and wherever else the going was good, and adjourned unanimously. The final official act of the convention was the appointment of Delegate Fowler to convey the greetings of the progressive convention to the Republican state convention.

Hudson and Essex Cars

Return to Bed Rock Prices

Reduced $200 to $450

Thousands have planned to buy Hudson and Essex cars this fall. For five years the Super Six has been the world's largest selling fine car. In eighteen months Essex sales made an unmatched record. What must now be the demand for them at these bedrock prices? But labor and material shortages in early summer had forced reductions in schedules for fall and winter. And now the return to normal in prices assures such an immediate increase in sales that a scarcity of Hudson and Essex cars seems certain.

Choose your car now. Learn how the price reduction increases its attractiveness. And remember that in either Hudson or Essex you obtain exclusive motors, for they are patented.

You can save $200.00 to $450.00. Act promptly if you want delivery this fall.

RANGER LEADS IN SALE OF AUTOMOBILE ACCESSORIES IN ALL OF NORTH TEXAS FIELD

More automobile accessories are sold in Ranger than in any other city between Fort Worth and El Paso.

This statement is based on actual sales records of the different accessory houses in Ranger, the records having been sustained month after month in a way that proves that the swelled volume of business in accessories is not a temporary thing.

Not only does Ranger supply with accessories the owners of trucks and automobiles within the confines of the city exclusively, but daily purchases are sent to camps, cities and communities within a fifty-mile radius.

In many cases automobile owners and truck operators who are unable themselves to come to Ranger and make purchases of needed parts send their orders with truckers who ply in and out of this city and have them filled in this manner.

Tires, too, are bought in Ranger by virtually every user within fifty miles.

A number of truckers who come to Ranger at regular intervals from oil camps and the more distant points in the oil fields make a regular side-line of taking orders from truck and auto owners near where they headquarter and filling them in Ranger. Their remuneration takes the form of a small commission for hauling and purchasing. It is understood that several men who have adopted this side-line find it very profitable because of the volume of commissions they earn in case their acquaintance among automobile and truck owners is wide. It pays the truck and automobile owner to give the commission because accessories, like many other articles, can be purchased in Ranger at a lesser price than in the blacksmith and automobile repair shops in the fields. The variety of stocks and range of parts also makes the buying of such necessities in Ranger advisable.

HEAVIER TRAFFIC FROM SOUTH OF TOWN SINCE REPAIRS WERE MADE ON EASTLAND HILL, SHOWN

Since Eastland hill has been repaired and made passable without discomfort to automobiles and trucks, a great number of oil field dwellers and farmers living between Eastland and Ranger, whose visits to Ranger were retarded because of the difficulty of readily negotiating the hill, have begun to come into this city.

Although the road between Eastland and Ranger is in none too good condition, all of it is passable, even in rainy weather. Heretofore the hill, especially after rains, was well nigh impossible of passage.

Because of this fact many farmers and oil field workers who lived in the territory intervening between this city and Eastland were forced to go to the latter place for shopping purposes, even though they preferred Ranger and lived closer to this city.

This condition, however has been rectified now with the re-establishment of a good road surface on the incline of the hill and already an appreciable increase in traffic from the territory concerned has been made manifest.

Ride-Easy Spring Is Big Problem to Car Builders

The science of spring-making is comparatively new among the mechanical arts. The days of the old Concord coaches, with bodies hung from the frame by leather straps is not so very far distant. The steel spring, built up of separate leaves, is an invention with not many years of history behind it, and the designing of a spring to meet all of the requirements of automobile travel is by no means an easy matter.

"To make a spring that will be easy riding at ten miles an hour and still be strong enough to cushion the shocks of heavy bumps at sixty miles an hour is by no means an easy task," says a distributor.

"It has been proved beyond question, however, that the long spring has a decided advantage over the short for automobile usage. The long spring has a slower yield and a slower rebound than the short. It gives the effect of an undulation rather than an abrupt shock."

a very big job to make suitable spring covers, especially if you can get some of the members of the family interested to the point that they will sew the covers together on a sewing machine. Since the lubrication of springs protected in this way will remain in place a very long time and will not gather grit and dirt, the slight expense and trouble which the making and fitting of the boots will entail will be worth the effort.

MUD AND DIRT HINDER WORKING OF SPRINGS

The leaves of an automobile spring are intended to slide upon one another when the car is in motion. Many car owners allow the springs to get dirty, to go without lubrication and to become very rusty. The leaves become so dirty that instead of sliding on each other, they work almost as if they were one solid piece of steel.

When the car strikes a hole or a bump in the road the springs are compressed, and instead of each leaf working as a separate unit, the lower leaves of a rusty spring are held fast to the upper leaves. The reaction from the compression of such a spring is many times greater than the reaction of a clean, well-lubricated spring where the leaves are allowed to slip on one another as they should.

The advantage of the latter material is that it is much cheaper than leather, and being waterproof it will keep dirt and moisture away from the springs. It isn't

RUBBER, NOW HUNDRED YEARS OLD, FIRST USED AS MEANS FOILING POCKET PICKERS

Rubber as an article of commerce is exactly 100 years old.

From humble beginnings, its production in thousands of forms has become so necessary to mankind that it has become one of the greatest world industries and seems destined to develop even more as new uses for it are discovered.

Last year the United States produced $667,204,000 worth of rubber products. Of this total the Goodyear Tire & Rubber company of Akron, O., manufactured slightly less than 25 per cent, or more than $168,000,000 worth.

Although a century old, the rubber industry made little progress for eighty years—the greatest strides having been made in the last two decades.

Some indication of how great an increase has been made in consumption of raw material for rubber products may be seen from the fact that in 1900 the world's production of crude rubber, both wild and cultivated, was but 53,890 long tons, while in 1919 it was 2,300,000 long tons.

It was in the summer of 1820 when rough lumps of "caoutchouc," as rubber was then known, were constantly arriving in England, but solely as curios.

In the same year Thomas Hancock, an Englishman of Stoke Newington, became impressed by the strange elastic properties of raw rubber and was amazed that it should be used only for erasing pencil marks. He established a laboratory in his home and after experiments fashioned rubber into thin strips for the purpose of keeping stockings and gloves in position and also for keeping pockets from being picked.

Hancock was beset by obstacles. The rubber had to be attached by needle and thread—and the rubber split at each needlehole. When he started in business with Macintosh to "waterproof" cloth, he found that the tailors insisted on sewing the cloth, which allowed rain to seep through—and his trade suffered.

Doctors argued that the "waterproofs" were unhealthy because they induced perspiration and brought on colds. Hancock later triumphed over all his difficulties and built up a large rubber business.

The centenary celebration was held this summer in London, when employees of Hancock's rubber company made an excursion in motor cars—on rubber tires.

NOTHING BASHFUL ABOUT SINN FEIN COURTS; THEY CALMLY TAKE JURISDICTION OVER EVERYTHING

DUBLIN, Oct. 2.—No attempt has yet been made by the government to suppress effectively the Sinn Fein civil courts. Where the Sinn Fein arrests and try prisoners for criminal offenses the police interfere, release the men charged and break up the courts where they can be discovered. But civil trials, in the nature of arbitrations between warring parties, are openly held every day. In many districts they have completely superseded the king's courts and the litigants appearing before them include members of every class in the community. Unionists as well as Nationalists.

The Sinn Fein judges, appointed by election, are sworn in publicly with due ceremony and regular attorneys, though nominally officials of the high court of justice, appear before them. The assize judges at the recent assizes found that about 70 per cent of the cases listed for trial had been withdrawn from the record and transferred to the republican courts.

The Westmeath county council has decided that all British courthouses in the county shall be closed and have asked the republican police to prevent the buildings from being used for the holding of courts not recognized by the republican government.

At Swinford the East Mayo republican court held a public session and tried 30 cases mostly involving title to land and houses.

At Loughrea an Ulster Presbyterian appeared before a republican court as plaintiff in a land dispute between him and some Sinn Feiners and the court decided in his favor.

In Cury City one of the largest dry goods stores, which has its headquarters in Belfast, was defendant in an action for profiteering brought by republicans and won their case.

At Kiltinagh the railway station master complained that a goods train had been raided and petrol stolen from it. When it was proved that the petrol was not intended for the military but for private purchasers, payment was made to the station master.

The criminal trials are of every kind and it is claimed that in cases of theft the republican police are very successful in recovering the stolen property. Breaches of order in drinking shops are severely dealt with and illegal attempts to obtain drink at prohibited hours are sternly punished. In Shankill county, Dublin, the republican police closed a drink shop where disorder occurred and in county Louth they have prohibited all dancing in public houses. Illicit dis-

Marking on Sides of Motor Car Tires Protects Fabric

The sidewall of an automobile casing is not simply an advertising billboard for the manufacturer, nor is its main use to specify size and type of tire. The sidewall carries practically all the markings on the casing. It has a much more important mission in life. Like the skin on the body, its duty is to protect the carcass underneath.

As some skins are red, some white and some yellow, so are some sidewalls red, some white and some tan. Some are gaudy, others conservative. Some are black and blue striped.

While the sidewall is a thing of beauty, it is primarily compounded for endurance and resiliency.

At the edge of the rim it forms a seal against water seepage. It prevents chafing the rim and the inner fabric, and serves as a bulwark between rim and tread line against rays of the sun, the grinding of the road and the moisture which causes rotting.

The enemies are oil, grease, ruts, and curbs. According to the Miller school of tire roasting, it has an important part in giving the tire grace and elegance of appearance, which, combined with uniformity and maximum mileage, give a perfect tire.

At the upper edges, it serves as an anchor for securely fastening the edges of the tread. Altogether it is only a fraction of an inch in thickness.

Japanese women, aside from their habitual employment as aides to their families in farm work, as carriers and shopkeepers, also are catering business offices and stores in increasing numbers as stenographers, clerks and saleswomen and they serve as conductresses on all bus lines in Tokio.

ENORMOUS WASTAGE IN TIRES WILL RESULT FROM IMPROPER CARE

Ten million casings to the graveyard of lost auto tire mileage for 1920! So enormous a wastage cannot fail to exercise an influence on tire prices. Indeed the figure is a conservative one that 50 per cent of the 40,000,000 tires manufactured this year will be sufficiently cared for to permit them to deliver half of the mileage built into them by the makers.

The motorist who is hoping for a price cut that he may buy tires for less than present levels, is overlooking this and other factors that determine costs. The law of supply and demand in good tires is operating against reductions and towards higher prices. Manufacturing, overhead and distributing expenses have already been cut to the bone by new and improved machinery and methods.

"Before-the-war" prices already prevail among most standard makers. Prices are lower now than they were ten years ago. And this does not take into account that tire mileage, with the Miller company for instance, has more than doubled, and that this cost-per-mile basis is the only real way to determine mileage. If mileage were taken into account actual cost per mile is less than half as much as ten years ago.

With uncertain costs of labor and materials it is by no means certain that present price levels can long be stabilized. Within the past year there has been only one general price change recorded. Another factor necessarily affecting tire prices, both directly and indirectly, is the railroad rate increase.

Later every one of the 10,000,000 casings prematurely junked, must be replaced with a new tire. With tire production cut down temporarily, due to present conditions, the motorist will do well to buy against a possible shortage. He will certainly not get them cheaper, and it may be an advance.
