KANSAS CITY, Oct. 4.—Admitting that they have few clues to work upon, the authorities today redoubled their efforts to find the man who is declared to have shot and killed Miss Florence Barton, young society woman, and wounded Howard R. Winter, her fiancé, while the couple were riding in a motor car near the city Saturday night.

According to Winter's story, the man with two companions approached the car and asked directions. Then he climbed aboard the running board and opened fire.

Miss Barton died while Winter, who was not severely wounded, was driving her to a sanitarium at Independence, Mo. She was the daughter of a prominent shoe merchant.

HIJACKERS HOLD UP H-K. SWITCHMEN

Railway Workers Lose $8.10 And Watch When Tackled in Yard.

Hijackers who last night waylaid two switchmen in the Hamon-Kell yards, about a block north of the depot, obtained $8.10 and a watch, according to reports to the local police force. The area where the robbery took place was in total darkness and no distinguishing marks of the bandits could be seen. The railroaders responded promptly when told to "put 'em up" and forked over their possessions without argument.

They had taken warning from previous raids of the banditti, however, and left most of their valuables elsewhere. It seems to be becoming a general practice in this vicinity to leave money in a place of safety after nightfall, as the last few hold-ups have yielded only a few dollars in each case.

COX LAUDS WOMEN AS LEADERS IN PROGRESS

DAYTON, O., Oct. 4.—At home after a campaign tour covering more than 11,000 miles, which took him into every state west of the Mississippi river except three, Governor Cox, though supposed to rest for two days before extending his campaign into Kentucky and Tennessee, today continued his plea for the League of Nations as the paramount campaign issue.

In addressing a meeting of women here he asserted that throughout the years women have been "leaders in the progress of the world," and declared that "the wrath of women made to suffer in the war will pursue Franz Joseph, William Hohenzollern and Nicholas Romanoff through all eternity."

MARION, Ohio., Oct. 4.—Senator Warren G. Harding left his motor car today to make a speech near Fremont at the dedication of Ohio's memorial tablet erected in honor of soldiers who lost their lives in the world war.

In an address prepared for the occasion Harding praised the heroism of the expeditionary forces and asked that their services make an example for American citizens' peace time patriotism. He did not touch upon political issues.

BIG REDUCTION MADE IN COTTON CROP FORECAST

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—A reduction of 660,000 bales from the forecast of the cotton crop announced last month is predicted today by the department of agriculture. The prediction is based upon latest reports on crop conditions.

Today's forecast estimates the year's production at 12,123,000 bales.

WANAMAKER GEM THEFT INSIDE JOB, IS POLICE THEORY

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Oct. 4.—The police today expressed the belief that the theft of jewelry valued at $8,000 from the rooms of William H. Wanamaker of Philadelphia, in a hotel here on Thursday night, was an "inside job," done by some one familiar with Mr. Wanamaker's apartment, who knew where he kept the jewel case.

The list of stolen articles given out today embraces pins and cuff links set with precious stones.

HAMON-KELL CONGESTION IS RELIEVED

Many Cars Transferred Daily By Texas & Pacific to New Road.

All congestion of the local yards of the Hamon-Kell road has been relieved and the company is receiving from fifty to eighty cars each day from the Texas & Pacific company. At present more cars are being sent into Breckenridge each day than can be unloaded.

New equipment has been added to the new road and with dry weather its roadbed has been put into first class shape, which allows for the handling of many additional cars each day.

Through this greater efficiency the embargo placed against the line at Dublin by the M. K. & T. railroad has been lifted and the company is receiving many cars from that point each day bound for Breckenridge.

The passenger traffic of the road, especially between Ranger and Breckenridge, is increasing each day according to officials of the road.

Truck and Driver Disappear; Murder by Casing Thieves Is Considered a Possibility BRECKENRIDGE, Oct. 4.—J. C. Simmons, together with a motor truck which he was driving for the "Transfer" company, has disappeared from the face of the earth. Neither the truck nor its driver has been seen in several days and officials of the transfer company fear that Simmons has been killed by casing thieves and his truck taken to carry on their work. The truck driver has been in the employ of the company for some time and is known as a steady, reliable man, and company officials are positive that he has not stolen the truck and disappeared, as has been suggested by officers and others.

It is pointed out that casing thieves are getting so bold that almost any method may be expected from them that will serve their ends, even to murder.

Stephens county officials are seeking the best man and notices are being sent to adjoining towns and camps for officers and men to keep a lookout for the truck.

Sentiment is growing intensely bitter against thieves who are stealing vast quantities of oil field casing and if Simmons is found dead and it can be laid to their door, rough methods in dealing with the situation is expected to follow from citizens.

HUGE NUMBER OF DIVORCE CASES IN LONDON COURTS

LONDON, Oct. 2.—The divorce courts reopen in a week after the summer recess with a record dock of from 2,000 to 2,500 cases against 1,471 when the list term opened. As 700 of the pending cases are leftovers the courts expect the busiest time in their history until the Christmas recesses.

Undetected suits constitute the bulk of the increased activity of the King's Proctor to prevent divorces on prepared evidence—was brought out in the recent Zamberger trial—promises to lend increasing interest in the coming cases.

Graves of 50,000 French soldiers who died in the world war are untraceable.

OKLAHOMA BOUNDARY CASE SOON

Supreme Court Convenes at Washington With Many Important Suits.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—The United States supreme court reconvened today for its regular term to find the docket crowded with important cases. Among other suits to come before the tribunal are the Texas-Oklahoma boundary dispute, half a dozen anti-trust cases, former attacks on the prohibition amendment, suits to test the constitutionality of the anti-profiteering clauses of the food control act and of the federal farm loan act.

Court officials also expect actions to test the validity of the suffrage amendment recently promulgated.

TWO DEAD MEN FOUND IN AUTO STUCK IN RIVER

ROCHESTER, Oct. 4.—Its nose in the mud at the bottom of the Seneca river, the automobile of George Hall of Wolcott was found late yesterday. Hall and Glenn Conway, an employe, went to the state fair at Syracuse Saturday. Their bodies were found in the Seneca river yesterday.

The machine was fifteen feet from the pier at Three Rivers and must have plunged over the bank of the Cold Springs road.

ing early this fall, they will use the same trenches and the same dugouts that sheltered the allied heroes during the five years of war. They have wonderful facilities for these maneuvers, and actual battles will be fought at Verdun and at Reims, in Artrix and the Aisne and on the Marne.

COOPER FAVORS BONDS FOR NEW HIGH SCHOOL

Says Tax Rate Increase Would Be So Small as to Not Be Noticed.

"Schools are the greatest asset any city can have and all nearby towns are beginning to look toward Ranger as an educational center," V. V. Cooper, member of the Ranger independent school board, made this statement this morning when questioned as to his opinion of a bond issue to build a new high school building.

"Such a center cannot exist," he continued, "without ample and adequate school buildings, and it is my opinion that the bonds should be voted." Mr. Cooper declared that on the school district's taxable valuation, to vote $250,000 worth of bonds would not raise the tax rate enough to be felt even by the largest property holders.

The present tax rate is only 50 cents on the $100 valuation, on a $16,000,000 rendition. To care for a bond issue of this sum mentioned it would only be necessary to raise the rate one or two cents.

Other Members Agree. Other members of the school board are strongly in favor of calling an election to vote the bonds for a new high school building as soon as possible, in order that it may be ready for occupancy by the beginning of the term next fall.

Mr. Cooper expressed the opinion that if the election was called it would carry without resistance.

As has been pointed out by members of the school board, with the completion of the ward schools which will be soon, and with the efficient corps of instructors, Ranger lacks only a new high school building to be in a position to compete with any city in the state as to educational advantages.

EUROPEANS FIND TIME TO CRITICIZE OUR SELFISHNESS

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—The slogan "America First" is unpopular among Europeans who deem it an expression of selfishness, according to the Rev. Charles S. Macfarland, general secretary of the Federal council of churches of Christ in America who has just returned from a series of religious conferences in Switzerland and a speaking tour of Western European cities.

"For an American to be in Europe at this time, is humiliating and sometimes almost disheartening," said Dr. Macfarland. "I found the people there confused. They do not know what to make of America's present aloofness; it seems to them such a sharp contrast to our attitude during the war. I found the people of Europe industriously working at the problems of reconstruction. While their economic needs are great, one of their greatest needs at the present time is that of moral support.

"The American nation and the American people, on the whole, have not as yet suffered irretrievably in the estimation of Europeans," continued Dr. Macfarland. "They still believe in us and look to us for help. But thoughtful Europeans are disturbed about one phase which frequently reaches across the sea—'America First.' To them it sounds like the words that used to come from across the Rhine—'Deutschland über alles'—but with the same aggressiveness, but with something of the same selfishness."

Court officials also expect actions to test the validity of the suffrage amendment recently promulgated.

FORTY-FIVE PERSONS ROBBED IN RESTAURANT --BY ARMED BANDITS

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—Six masked bandits entered a cafe here early today, lined up forty-five patrons against the wall and robbed them. The bandits escaped with cash and jewelry valued at more than $5,000.

HOLD RUSSIAN PRINCE FOR UNPAID BOARD BILL

PARIS, Oct. 4.—On the vulgar charge of trying to beat his board bill, Prince Ivan-Jean Schackowsky, formerly of the Russian Czar's court has been arrested by the Paris authorities. The prince said he had been waiting for $5,000 due him in commissions on contracts for General Wrangel's navy but that the money had failed to arrive.

Believed Organized Gang Is Responsible for Wholesale Thievery.

Staff Correspondent.

BRECKENRIDGE, Oct. 4.—Found with 2,900 feet of stolen two-inch casing in their possession, two prominent men in Breckenridge were placed under arrest yesterday afternoon by Deputy Sheriff J. M. Ellis, after attempting to sell an oil operator his own casing. The men, whose names are being withheld, were given until 3 o'clock this afternoon to restore the pipe to its rightful owner or charges of theft will be laid against them. The casing was found by its owner near the homes of the men under arrest and was identified by him when he went to look at it with the idea in mind of purchasing the entire 2,900 feet.

The men under arrest claimed that they had a bill of sale to the casing but when a member of the sheriff's department went for the document it could not be produced.

Other Had Marked It. The casing was taken from a lease near town and removed to the homes of the men being held. Its owner had placed identification marks on it. After discovering his loss he was in need of such a class of casing, and, making inquiries as to where a quantity could be purchased, he was shown the 2,900 feet in question. He immediately recognized it and notified the sheriff's department, who made the arrests yesterday.

Organized Gang. All over the Breckenridge field vast quantities of oil field casing is being stolen and sold daily. It is believed that the thieves are banded into an efficient organization composed partly of men with plenty of money to carry forward operations and who are in touch with the entire situation. So numerous have become the thefts that many steals are made which are not reported to the officers at all, and the condition is such that officers can no longer cope with it.

The thieving is becoming bolder each day, until in many cases the thieves only move the stolen stuff from one lease to the next. It is believed that the organization extends to tool dressers, drillers, teamsters and operators.

Outer Districts Suffer. The outer districts of the field are the worst sufferers because little protection is provided. Operators have tried the scheme of marking their pipe but the thieves soon learn the markings and either erase them or sell the casing where it will be placed in the holes at once, where it can no longer be identified.

One scheme that has been worked is that the members of the organization will approach an operator known to be all right. An offer will be made to him to furnish enough casing to put down a well at 50 per cent of its real value. It is then delivered as needed. The operator is safe. If questioned he can probably produce a fake bill of sale that will relieve him of responsibility. The pipe is in the well and no one can dispute the operator's ownership.

Use Libel Bluff. One other weapon that casing thieves have used in the past is threat to bring libel suits against those who have their arrested provided they push the charge and do not get a conviction. This has caused several of those who have been arrested to be released.

Because of the prominence of the men now under arrest together with the fact that it is known that prominent men are connected with the casing thefts, it is believed in some quarters that they might be high up in the organization.

BREAKING HIS OWN RECORD EVERY DAY

LONDON, Oct. 4.—Terrence Mac-Sweeney passed a fair night in Brixton prison, according to a bulletin issued by the Irish Self-Determination league. The league reported that he had had several hours' sleep but appears little refreshed. Attendant doctors find little change in the condition of the lord mayor, except that he is very weary, the bulletin states.

This is the fifty-third day of the Irish lord mayor's hunger strike.

PENITENTIARY STRIKE BROKEN

BISMARCK, N. D., Oct. 4.—Forty-eight of the 137 inmates of the North Dakota penitentiary here, who refused to work or to go to their cells, have been placed on a bread and water diet, and the "strike" has been broken, it is announced.

PROGRAM

MAJESTIC—5 Acts Pantages Vaudeville and Fritz Field's Follies in "Oh, Doctor."

LIBERTY—Henry Walthall in "Little Shoes," also "Pirate Gold" and "Ruth of the Rockies."

LAMB—Mabel Normand in "The Slim Princess."

at the Temple theatre last evening and will remain there for two days. Jeanie Macpherson, who wrote the continuity for such De Mille successes as "Male and Female" and "Why Change Your Wife?" is the author of the story. The theme deals with Ruth Anderson, pretty daughter of a country blacksmith. Sent to boarding school by the rich young man of the neighborhood, David Markley, it is understood that she is to marry him. But at the last moment, Ruth elopes with Jim Durr, a product of the village. The latter is killed in an accident. She returns to her native village, but her father, gone blind and enraged at her infidelity toward Markley, drives her from the house. Through a dramatic turn of events she and Markley are brought together.

Contrasts of settings are a feature of "Something to Think About." The picture marks the return of Elliott Dexter, last seen in "For Better, For Worse," to the screen. Gloria Swanson plays the role of "Ruth." Theodore Roberts is the old blacksmith and Monte Blue, Mickey Moore, Theodore Kosloff, and Julia Faye are included in the cast. The picture is a Paramount.

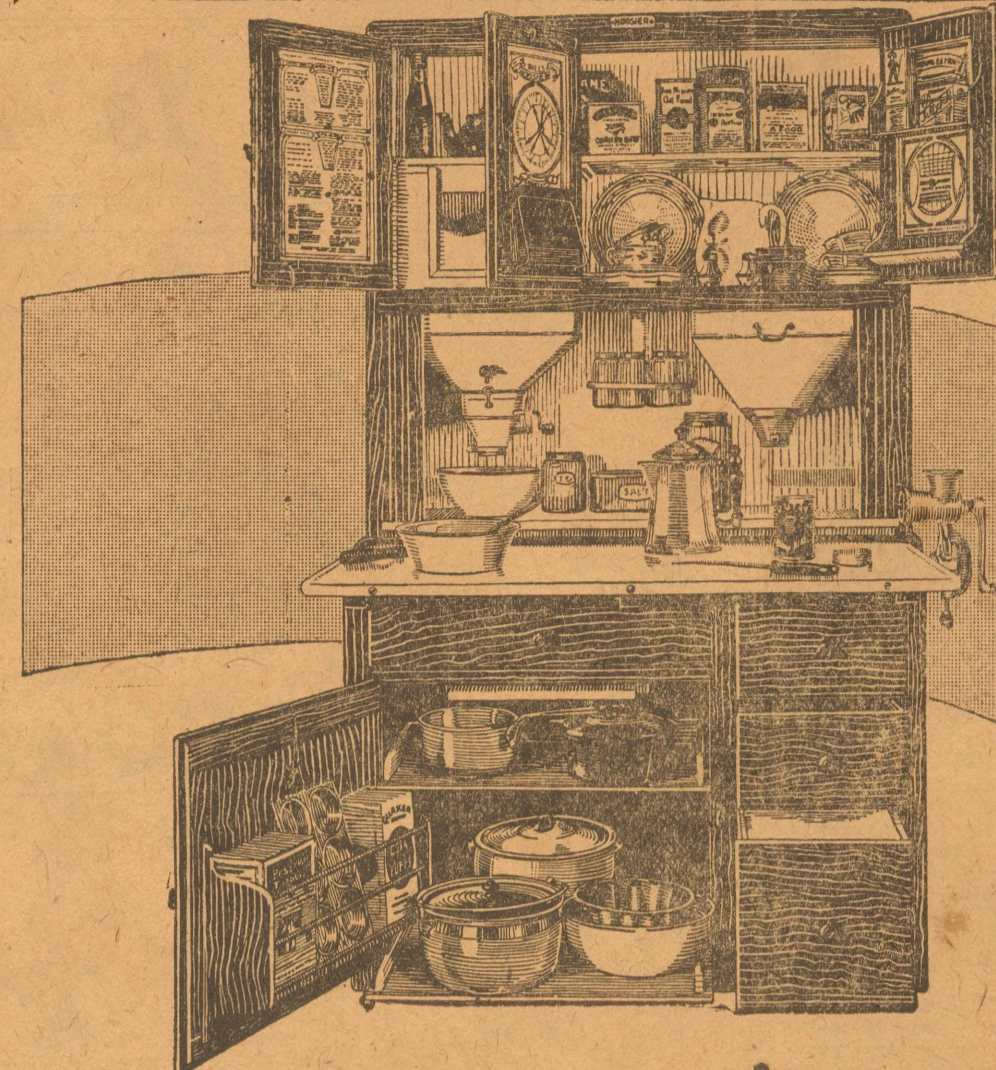

There is a glow and thrill of action to "Thunder Mountain," the play which tops the bill at the Majestic this week. The dialogue moves too fast to be boring, though there is nothing strikingly dramatic about it. But the action which is interspersed through the playlet, winding up with the popping of guns, a cabin on fire and the walls tumbling beneath the force of an explosion. The action is realistic and the onlooker wakes with a start when the curtain falls to the fact that it is only a show after all.

Fritz Fields Follies open the show with their usual cheerful skit, only this time it is more so. "Oh, Doctor" is a riot of laughter, furnished by Fields' facial reactions to the tribulations caused by the disappearance of his youth-restoring tonic. "The General" didn't drink it, but Doc thought he did, and when the old boy disappeared and a strange baby is furious. It's all straightened out in the end and the hero gets "Sweetie," who is sweeter than ever this week, in the most approved happy ending style.

Charles and Mame Butters present a strong jaw act by the lady which is camouflaged by her partner's songs. He comes on alone and startles the audience into rereading their programs by delivering a couple of songs in very creditable style. Then the lady comes out and is hoisted to the ceiling, suspended by her teeth. There she whirls and gymnasts in a picturesque manner. Winchell and Green captured the house in their song, dance and chatter skit. The singing wasn't so bad, the dancing was better and the chatter was, er, ah, uh-huh. It had some bright lines and the uh-huh jokes got over pretty good. That good-looking young fellow in the lefthand very front box kinda spoiled one joke, thought when, in response to direct examination, he replied that he DID have some likker.

The Riding Lloyds present an Indian encampment in a sawdust ring. Two of the men and one of the women do regular circus stunts and better aboard the deck of two of the prettiest paint ponies imaginable. One slim young Potchontas sings a plaintive air that isn't bad at all. It's a good act, and ends a good show.

Occasionally it happens that a scene written in the script of a motion picture is omitted unintentionally or despite the best efforts of all concerned to get it in. "Dollars and the Woman," which will be shown at the Opera house theatre four days was made in Vitagraph's Brooklyn studio during one of the worst storms of the season. Snow was piled high everywhere, and for several days the Brighton beach elevated railroad, almost the only means of reaching the studio in the outlying Flatbush section of Brooklyn, was out of commission. The picture was completed, save for

SPORTS
Ol' Dope Sheet Gives Indians Edge On Series

But Baseball "Dope" Is Like Long-Range Weather Forecasting And There's Much Uncertainty Over Outcome. In Hitting, Base Running, Fielding and All-Around Teamwork the Cleveland Tribe Takes Rank Over Dodgers—Work of Pitchers Will Be Big Factor.

By JACK VELOCK. International News Sporting Editor. NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—The envelope of uncertainty that always lends zest and interest to a world's series enshrouds the coming clash between the Indians and Dodgers.

Viewed from the standpoint of a confirmed American League booster there will be nothing to it but the Indians. From the perspective of a National League partisan the Dodgers are likely to make it so hot for Cleveland that the rubber plants at Ebbets Field will melt and gum up the park.

SPLITTING WORLD SERIES MAZUMA IS TASK FOR MATHEMATICIANS

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—Division of the thousands of dollars paid by baseball fans to witness the world's series games is annually the topic of curious interest as is the division of any large sum of money.

Small Parks Make New Attendance Marks Impossible

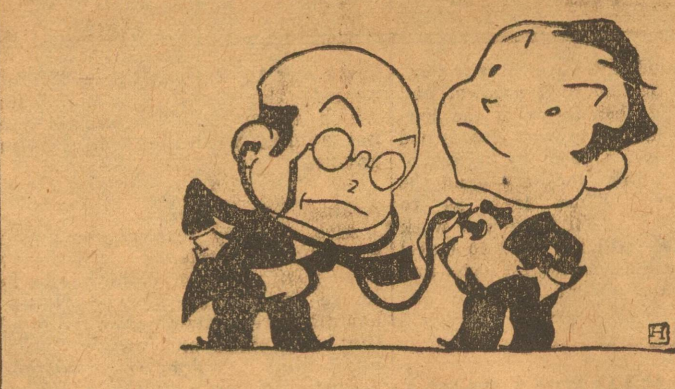

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—Notwithstanding the general increase in baseball throughout the country, it is unlikely that in the coming series to decide the world's championship that new records will be made in attendance for a single game or for the series.

THE MENACE IN MEXICAN OIL

American oil interests were astounded at the recent announcement of President de la Huerta endorsing the Carranza government's oil policy and proposing its continuous enforcement. This policy is respectable enough in its phrasing, but its "federal zones," by which the Mexican government declared its ownership of the lands along navigable rivers, was confiscation, according to some of the oil men, and the so-called "subsoil rights," requiring revalidation of concessions, was a trick, it is alleged, by which a Mexican administration might levy extortionate taxes, plunder innocent concessionaries in favor of unscrupulous investors and collect unlimited graft.

American attorneys have denounced the Carranza oil policy as a government attempt at robbery, and high legal opinion in Mexico has held the same view. But the wrong that might be done individual investors under such authority serious as it might be, is a lighter phase of the situation. The real danger lies in the possible international complications.

Fully to appreciate that phase of it, it is necessary to consider the economic indispensability of oil and known oil reserves. Geologists say the unmined petroleum in the United States is 6,000,000,000 barrels, which will be exhausted in twenty years at our present consumptive and exportive rate of 300,000,000 barrels annually. The British Empire requires 45,000,000 barrels yearly. That was its consumption in 1918, and it is significant that during that year the United States furnished 44,000,000, or practically all of it. Further, the British Empire's unmined reserves, by virtue of political and commercial control, are estimated at 21,000,000,000 barrels, sufficient to meet its demands for more than 400 years.

Ibanez looks upon oil as the "Fifth Horseman." It is not an extravagant appraisal. Certainly the world is oil crazy. The craze is a modern manifestation of the gold-hunger, trade-hunger or land-hunger that inspired the exploration and conquest of other days. Mexico, with its incalculable oil wealth, is the "shorter route to India" of a vanished century. The possession of oil means power and dominion.

Such is the force back of the clamor and strife and intrigue for oil lands in Mexico. It is a situation that could easily upset the peace of the world, were such ingredients present, say, as knavery at Mexico City and imperialism at Washington and super-imperialism at London. The United States, however, may be in a comparatively easy position with regard to oil. In addition to our remaining well resources, we have unlimited quantities of rich oil in shale which, in the near future, will be utilized for oil on a commercial basis.—St. Louis Post Dispatch.

HENRY FORD'S LATEST OFFENSE

If anything more were needed to convince the managing Republicans of the country that Henry Ford's defeat for the United States Senate in Michigan was righteous and worth all it cost, the announcement that the Ford Motor company has reduced the prices of its products to the pre-war level will supply confirmation never to be questioned.

To place Mr. Ford's unfitness for senatorial honors absolutely beyond dispute, it is said that besides cutting prices from 14 to 31 per cent, no change will be made in the wage scale now in force. Such disregard of the ethics of politics and business is made the more shocking by Mr. Ford's unaccountable failure to attribute the drop in prices to the competition of paper automobiles from abroad. He does not even shriek for a protective tariff. All that he says is that "there is no wisdom in trying to maintain an artificial standard of values, for inflated prices only retard progress."

According to good judges, the artificial standard of values upheld by the Republicans of Michigan made the price of Truman H. Newbury's senatorship look cheap at anywhere from $500,000 to $1,000,000. An expenditure of $178,000 was confessed, and this inflated price, whatever it was, gave the Senate to the treaty-wreckers and retarded the greatest progressive movement of the age. Mr. Ford may be a master of industry, but he never will rank high among our money bag politicians until he learns how to keep prices up and wages down and succeeds in fastening the blame on the Democrats.—New York Globe.

ONLY 200,000 YEARS!

Some one continuously is seeking to take the joy out of life. At a recent meeting of the British association the distinguished Egyptologist, Dr. Petrie, predicted that because of the gradual fixation of the free carbon in the atmosphere life on this planet would cease within 200,000 years.

And a thousand years, is as a day—when it has passed, and, perhaps, a day is a thousand years under such conditions.

If 200,000 years is to be the limit of life as we know it, we should prepare for the event. The period is short enough, goodness knows. Of course, the man in the street will say, "Oh, what's the difference? I shan't be here. When we are dead, we are a long time dead." But the man in the street is mistaken. There is a difference to consider, and as a matter of fact nothing truly dies.

If Dr. Petrie is right, we shall just change houses and methods and processes of living. In any event, it is the proper thing to do is to live about right while we are here. As a pebble tossed into the stream stirs the ripples until they dimple in vibration to remotest shores, so life—the same life—projects itself thru the cosmos. The transmission of ourselves through our children goes on and on through the centuries. The first man lives today, and shall live through the aeons. So we should go right ahead planting our corn and potatoes, culturing our roses, dispensing kindness and happiness, evoking laughter, drying tears and doing all things else that will help to make this old earth worth while against the time when the League of Nations functions and we have rounded out that measly period of 200,000 years. After that we may consider what is the next best thing to do.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

JOHN-A-DREAMS

CLVI. DREAMS OF STATUES.

Marble statues are among the dreamy things that foretell the unusual. Only in a few cases is it possible to define the meaning with any degree of exactitude—it may be an inheritance, it may be an accident, it may be a sudden and most extraordinary voyage, which is thus prophesied.

For this reason, it is impossible to go deeply into detail speaking of dreams of statues, but I will cite the few cases which are established.

The statue of a man usually means that, through a man's doing, the whole course of your life will be changed.

The statue of a woman usually means that you and another girl or woman, most likely your dearest friend, will become involved in a wild adventure.

If the statue remains motionless the outcome of it all will be well. If the statue speaks or moves you may prepare yourself for an upheaval in your soul that will last for months, perhaps for years.

A broken statue is a sign of a broken pledge. To step on one of the pieces means that you will be the faithless one.

If a statue falls on you, someone will try to make you forget your duty to yourself, or to your home, to your husband or to your parents, to your best interests or to those of your employer.

To see many statues, especially if you walk between or among them, is a proof of wayward thoughts. Try to change the pictures that crowd your mind.

Dressed statues are usually indicative of the things that will happen soon, nude statues of the events of the next months.

To find a statue in your home is a hint that the great and unusual event will have its beginning inside your own walls. To see it elsewhere means that your failure will depend upon something that will happen elsewhere.

If you see one or more statues near to your eye, whatever is in store for you will happen in your own city. If they seem far away, it will occur in the course of a trip. If you view them through opera glasses, you will go abroad and there the unexpected will develop.

These interpretations apply only to marble statues. Of others I will tell you some other time.

The next chapter will deal with dreams of Matches.

RIPPLING RHYMES

HOUSE OF HAPSBURG.

The princes of the Hapsburg line in camp and court now cut no ice; they have to fast while others dine, their standing's off, they lack the price. Some eighty duchesses and dukes now stand around with frigid feet; their titles now seem empty flukes since they can't get enough to eat. They send to us the warning cry, from roofless castles where they urk, "Unless the ravens bring us pie, we bravely fear we'll have to work." With noble courage thus they face a future fraught with dread and fears, these seions of a kingly race that loafed for quite a thousand years. Far better, face the headman's ax than be a landless or a clerk, but proudly they'll get down to nicks, and if they must, why, they will

ANOTHER CRY IN THE FOREST

A shrill cry in the midst of the Forest when all is silent is indeed thrilling. It may mean many things, it might mean that there was a sudden appearance of a stranger in the Forest. Or it might mean that an enemy was near, or even worse, it might mean that some creature was being hurt, and the call was for help.

So when the shrillest cry is heard out in the deepest silence, Tinker Bob, King of the Forest, has to stop a moment and think, for it is hard to tell what the trouble is. Of course, when a cry like this is heard, Tinker knows who it is all right—for this time it was Bobby Owl.

It seemed very strange that Bobby Owl would be out in the daytime, for he cannot see very well when the sun is shining. The King thought it must surely be very important, as long as Bobby was screaming so loudly in daytime.

"What does all this mean?" asked Tinker Bob, as Bobby came into the presence of the King like a flash.

"Hoot, hoot," said Bobby. "Something terrible has happened to poor Lady Duck." Tinker Bob was so sorry to think of such a thing, for Lady Duck was one of the first creatures he had known in the Forest.

"Say it to me quick, is Lady Duck hurt in trouble? If anyone in the Forest has any harm to do to Lady Duck I will hang by his toes from the tallest limb that reaches out over the river."

In the thicket nearby there was a log that was hollow in one end, and O-Possum was in that log. He never went to be river at all, but just went far enough to be out of sight and then turned back in to the thicket where he could hear all the King should say. When he heard the King say that someone would hang by their toes he was much afraid. With all his fear he thought it best to be very still.

"Hoot, hoot," said Bobby. "I saw Red

Fox leaving her house and sneaking along through the bushes so that no one could see him. Then I went to her house, and what do you think I found? Well, there were feathers and feathers until it made me sick and I had to leave. And, oh,

"Hoot, hoot," said Bobby. "Something Terrible Has Happened."

King, when I started away I saw—Right here Bobby stopped, for another sound was heard that echoed through the Forest.

"Woo-oo-wooo," it sounded right close to the King. Tinker Bob turned about and not far away he saw Red Fox, jumping and howling for all that was in him. You see, young Mr. Black Snake had heard what the creatures said about Lady Duck and thought he would punish Red Fox himself before the King had a chance, so he hit him on the foot. But Tinker Bob must go to Lady Duck's house and see for himself.

"Tomorrow—Is Red Fox Guilty?"

hastening to chasten these offenders against the dignity of demeanor which these maidens had evidently not donned with their old fashioned gowns.

Asking Too Much.

Mrs. Stanley was young and not entirely inexperienced. It showed she had been quite easy for her to keep house in the two lower floors of her mother-in-law's home. But after the baby came she was so tired at night that her husband insisted on advertising for a maid.

The applicants were few and far between, and demanded the usual short hours and long wages. But at last came one who would condescend to wash the dishes and dust for a sum that five years ago would have supplied two ordinary households with a maid who included the week's washing in her repertoire.

Mrs. Stanley sighed with relief and exultation over her discovery of this treasure. But her triumph was short lived.

"You'll sleep on the third floor," she informed the applicant, "as we have no extra room downstairs."

The prospective treasure regarded her in amazement and prepared to depart. "The third floor? Oh, I couldn't consider that, ma'am. I might forget something and have to go all the way back for it."

There's a Barrel Organ Motoring.

Romance, it seemed, received its mortal wound when the gypsies took to making up their caravans of Fords. But the other day the Woman saw the blighting progress of efficiency carried one step further. On a tin Lizzie, plain and unadorned, drawn up at a curbstone, was mounted a barrel organ, its corolling prolonged by a prosaic connection with the engine of the car. Gone were the colorful graces of a dark-skinned Italian beneath a vivid red headress as she enjoyed stray pennies from the passersby. The proprietor of this modernized hurdy-gurdy swung his feet idly over the tailboard, turning only once to retard the spark as the melody grew sentimental. Perhaps he had nipped up a mechanical contrivance to collect the pennies too. But the Woman Who Saw didn't wait for that!

MISCHIEVOUS OUIJA'S EFFORTS AS DETECTIVE SENDS FOUR TO COURT

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—Two court cases Saturday disclosed how much trouble an Ouija can cause when it becomes mischievous.

In Essex Market court, Mrs. Anna Kennedy was before Magistrate Koenig to answer a charge of disorderly conduct preferred by 18-year-old Margaret Youngheim. Margaret said she was attacked by Mrs. Kennedy as she was returning home from work and that she lost several strands of hair in the encounter.

It came out in court that the small china pig, with a slit in the back, in which Eddie, a younger Youngheim than Margaret, was accustomed to keep his life savings, was relieved of its contents, amounting to $7, a few days ago. Margaret immediately got out the Ouija and beseeched the spirits to tell her the name of the bank robber.

She said the indicator went to the letters, H-E-L-E-N. Then Margaret went into the next flat and asked Mrs. Kennedy's daughter, Helen, to produce the $7. Helen assured her she knew nothing about it. That is, why they were in court.

The mischievous spirit went over to Brooklyn Thursday and the result is that another pair were in court. William Morris, a Hawaiian, 31, was held in $500 bail for trial. He was charged with assault upon his erstwhile companion, James Cooper, another Hawaiian.

THE WOMAN WHO SAW

The Letter, Not the Spirit.

The Suburban Lady was in Provincetown during the Tercentenary of the Landing of the Pilgrims. With all due solemnity she climbed the great monument and pilgriaged to the West End to the little stone that marks the some-where-near-here spot of the landing. In the white and shining Pilgrim House she read the old time rules for guests with a feeling of escape that made the eight o'clock breakfast hour quite bearable in comparison with the five-thirty rising bell of earlier days.

The instructions for the celebration requested the townspeople to wear Puritan dress during the celebration if possible, and so it was that the Lady saw many a Priscilla walking the streets demurely with downcast eyes and sober mien. She felt quite in touch with by-gone days as she walked along thinking how vain it was to make the past live again for the present generation. Then she smiled appreciatively at three fair Puritans standing before a low white fence. At the instant of her passing, however, the three swung themselves atop the fence and jazzed shrilly in high soprano voices:

"Vamp a little, lady,

Vamp a little, lady,

The magistrate advised him to ask Ouija how his case is going to come out in the court of special sessions.

LOST MUSTACHE ON WHITE SOX, WANTS REPARATION

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 4.—Complications have arisen as a result of the indictment Tuesday of eight White Sox players for their actions in "throwing" the world's series games last year. Michael Mulligan McAuliffe, assistant bailiff at the South Side municipal court, who lost a 27-year-old mustache as the result of the series, is threatening to sue Deany Costello, professional bondsman.

McAuliffe didn't have any money last fall, but he had confidence in the White Sox. He bet Costello his mustache against $25 the White Sox would win. McAuliffe shaved his mustache, gave it to Costello, and kept a clean shaven on his upper lip for seven months, according to the articles of agreement. Tuesday night, when he learned that he had lost on a "foul" he began calling up his friends to see what recourse was open to him. Yesterday he called on Scott Godley, chief of police; Robert Phelan, chief of detectives, and several others to see whether or not he could force Costello to give him the $25, and whether he could not recover damages for the loss of his whiskers.

JAPS FEAR U. S. AND ENGLAND MAY COMBINE TO RULE WORLD

By Associated Press

TOKIO, Oct. 4.—A belief prevailing in Japan that the United States and England may join hands in restraining Japan in her Far Eastern policy has been the basis for much comment in the press.

Japan's brilliant writer, Ichiro Tokutomi, the editor of the military organ, the Kokumin, wrote a special article on American-English relations in which he called the United States the "infanta terrible" of the world. Mr. Tokutomi regards the prospect of co-operation between England and America with some anxiety. "The world will be obliged to agree with what they agree, he observes, but he consoles himself with the thought that such co-operation is unlikely owing to American suspicions of England and lack of world knowledge.

After summing up his conclusions as to the position of England as arbiter of the world, Mr. Tokutomi says:

"But there comes England's competitor, whom England at least in her own hearts fears as a formidable power. America may be called an exponent of the world's different races. But the mainstay of the American people is the Anglo-Saxons. England and America are brother nations with the Atlantic between them. The destiny of the world is now entrusted to these brother nations.

"If they should co-operate in solving the problems of the world, however unreasonable the results of such solutions may be, the world will be obliged to agree," thinks Mr. Tokutomi. But he asks: "Is America willing to act the role of younger brother and follow England's lead? Americans want to be first in everything. Will they be content to take the second place in the solution of the world's problems?" He doubts it, saying: "To think that America will follow the lead of England as the younger brother dutifully obeying orders in the solution of the world problems and will be the unique supporter of England is the observation of a blind man."

Mr. Tokutomi describes the American in this way: "In a word the American is a rustic person who does not know anything about the world. He enjoys globe-trotting and Europe is his pleasure ground where he dumps his money. But on all occasions he carries his own country in his traveling bag. Consequently aside from satisfying his own desires for pleasure he does not enlighten himself, says much by his observations of the world.

In short, Mr. Tokutomi observes, the war has Americanized the world rather than influenced America. Mr. Wilson's advocacy of the democratization of the world was in his opinion an illustration of how America tries to measure the world with the rule he applies to his own country. The American considers that it is his mission to force Americanism upon other nations.

Produce Market System Costly to Both Farmer and City Dweller

By Associated Press

CHICAGO, Oct. 4.—Chicago's market for fruit and vegetables from middle west truck farms is a "treacherous inefficient system working at the expense of both producer and consumer," the Illinois Agricultural association declares in a statement made public here today.

The association, which is composed of nearly 100,000 Illinois farmers organized in farm bureaus, has recently determined to establish a fruit and vegetable marketing department, and as a step toward this end recently sent an expert into the South Water Street market, the largest of his kind in the world, and the Randolph market. At the same time he reviewed prices in grocery stores.

What the produce grocer receives on these markets bears extremely little relation to what the consumer pays for the same vegetables, the association declares. Officials said they had names and figures to back up their statements. The investigator reported produce was being taken back to be dumped because there was no sale at all.

There is room for farmers themselves to improve their methods, the association's investigator reported. He said he found need for more honest methods and for better standardization. At association headquarters here today it was said that the first efforts of the association in developing marketing methods would be "at home" with the farmers for betterment in these respects. The association's statement summarizing the report received, says:

"Producers have no way of telling the supply or demand of the market and cannot supply the market intelligently. Some days there is a flood of certain kinds of produce and very often there is a shortage of that same product the next day.

"Prices differ 100 per cent to growers on the same products and the same quality, even the same hour of the day.

"There is little standardization of packages and considerable dishonesty in packing.

"The price received by growers on the quantity on the market has little or nothing to do with retail prices in Chicago.

"Some 600 auto trucks from a radius of 50 miles from Chicago come to the Randolph and South Water markets each day. These truck gardeners sell to commission men, wholesale houses, speculators, peddlers, hucksters and consumers. In order to get a stand for the next day's market, truck growers begin to arrive at 4 p. m. The drivers sleep on top, or under their wagons, according to the weather conditions, waiting for the market to open up next morning.

"The price a grower gets depends largely upon how good a guesser he is on the supply of produce on the market that day which he has brought in and his dicker ability with the buyers he meets. Investigation shows that some growers sold tomatoes in the box and bags of corn for more than twice as much as others on the same morning. A market may fluctuate from 50 to 100 per cent in garden products within a few hours' time.

"Day after day, many trucks go home with part of their load to be dumped and other days there is a shortage.

"The investigator's report includes a long list of truck growers who hauled some of their load home during the week of Sept. 13. "One grower took home a half a load of crates of cabbages, each containing 25 heads, because he was offered only 75 cents a crate. He said his reason for not selling was that crates cost 35 cents each and he could not afford to sell for that price. A Franklin Park gardener took home sweet corn because he could not get over 20 cents for a bag of four dozen. A number of cases showed quantities of corn and tomatoes brought home because there was no sale at all.

"On these same days a round of the Chicago retail markets was made to compare growers' and consumers' prices. On Monday the produce received 16 cents a dozen for sweet corn, on Wednesday 8 cents, and on Friday 9 1/2 cents. The same three days the average retail price at a large number of stores in the Loop (downtown district) and in suburbs was 50 cents a dozen on Monday and 45 cents on Wednesday and Friday. On these same three days tomatoes sold for an average of 1-2 cents a pound by growers and 9 cents a pound by retail stores. Cabbage sold for 1-2 to 1-2 cents a pound and the average retail price the three days was 4 to 5 cents a pound.

Gardeners hauled home all these products on these same days for the reason that they could not get a price to pay for the containers and work of preparing for the market.

From these figures the Illinois Agricultural association draws a conclusion that supply or price growers receive has little or no relation to the price consumers pay. Gardeners on the market are in a constant race to purchase at prices in accordance with the supply and the price producers receive, there would be greater consumption and more demand for their products."

BANG-UP BILL OF CLASSICS AND COMEDY ON AT OPERA HOUSE

One of the best all-round vaudeville bills ever shown in Ranger opened a three-day engagement at the Opera House last night to a big and appreciative audience. From the moment the curtain went up on the snappy dancing of the two sisters in the Esther Trio to the minute the last bar was thrown by the Ball act, the bill held the interest of its spectators.

The Esther Trio, a tumbling act with the two dancers and a nut comedian, opened the show. The act moved along at a swift pace furnishing new thrills and good comedy. The antics of the comedian on the table, being worthy of special mention.

Dolly and Whitman in "School Days" proved a bright spot on an otherwise lull bill. For real clever comedy, this would have to be by desired.

The act is a most little piece, indeed from the back seat back with a nice sweet crowd to win the hearts of a much less numerous audience than the one present last night. The system is a combination of no mean merit. He had every kid in ent, wondering just how he did it, when the audience, as well as grown folks present, swayed, standing still from one side of the stage to the other.

The Harmony Five, two women and three men, present a series of grand operas and classical selections. Ranger is not a grand opera town and the fact that they were heavily applauded, spoke well for these excellent artists. The solo, "Your Eyes Have Told Me So," sung by the soprano, was especially well rendered.

Harborne & Cook followed in an act called "Without Rhyme or Reason." This act is especially well named. These comedians kept the audience in an uproar for ten minutes, being called back several times.

Frear, Baggot & Frear closed the bill. They are usually clever in throwing baseball bats at each other and manage to manipulate as many as four bats at the same time. Two of the members of this team were formerly professional ball players, and if they can catch fouls as well as they do bats they ought to make good on most any team.

Alvie Joyce in "Dallans and the Avaman" is the feature picture offered.

As a result of quick burial under a thin covering of earth, hundreds of bodies of soldiers of the world war today are found lying out in the open on battlefields of Europe. These bodies have been brought to light, either by the wind or by wanton acts of people.

PLAYGROUND HEAD URGES PASSAGE OF RECREATION BILL

Passage of the Fess-Cappell bill which proposes an appropriation of $10,000,000 to help the individual states give children greater recreation facilities is urged by E. Dana Caulkins, manager of the national physical education service. His business is to help public officials to provide play spots and other facilities for the public.

BETTER THAN WHISKEY FOR COLDS AND FLU

New Elixir, Called Aspirinal, Medicated with Latest Scientific Remedies, Used and Endorsed by European and American Army Surgeons to Cut Short a Cold and Prevent Complications.

Every Druggist in U. S. Instructed to Refund Price While you Wait at Counter if Relief Does Not Come Within Two Minutes.

Delightful Taste, Immediate Relief, Quick Warm-Up.

The sensation of the year in the drug trade is Aspirinal, the two-minute cold and cough reliever, authoritatively guaranteed by the laboratories; tested, approved and most enthusiastically endorsed by the common people as ten times as quick and effective as whiskey, rock and rye, or any other cold and cough remedy they have ever tried.

All drug stores are now supplied with the wonderful new elixir, so all you have to do to get rid of that cold is to step into the nearest drug store, hand the clerk half a dollar for a bottle of Aspirinal and tell him to serve you two teaspoonfuls with four teaspoonfuls of water in a glass. With your watch in your hand, take the drink at one swallow and call for your money back in two minutes if you cannot feel your cold fading away like a dream within the time limit. Don't be bashful, for all druggists invite you and expect you to try it. Everybody's doing it.

When your cold or cough is relieved, take the remainder of the bottle home to your wife and babies, for Aspirinal is by far the safest and most effective, the easiest to take and the most agreeable cold and cough remedy for infants and children.—Adv.

Austria Between Devil and Deep Sea; Party Favoring Teutons Says Its Foes Would Restore Monarchy With Sword

VIENNA, Oct. 4.—The Social Democratic party of Austria, numerically the largest in the Austrian parliament, charges in an appeal its leaders have issued asking for votes in the election for the National Assembly on Oct. 17 that the counter-revolutionaries have been victorious in Hungary and that their "lynchings and guillotines are preparing the way for restoration in that country of the rule of the Hapsburgs." This is the line of which the Emperor Francis Joseph and his son Carl, were descendants.

"Carl Hapsburg has broken his word and refused to resign the Austrian throne," the socialists aver. "He is to be made king of Hungary in Budapest and from there he is to bring German Austria into subjection. The blood of our peasants and our workers is again to be placed in the service of the Hungarian feudal lords, who are arming for war to reconquer Slovakia, Siebenburgen, and the Banat." The socialists then charge that the Kunschak-Funder group of the Christian-socialist party in Austria is the tool of the Hungarian monarchists.

This appeal and other campaign literature, not only of the Socialist groups but the Conservatives as well, cleverly continues the agitation for union with Germany. "From the day of our break down," it says, "we social Democrats have said German Austria alone cannot be a living state. Economic misery will be our lot so long as union with Germany does not free us."

It blames France for preventing this end but declares that the history of the Czechs, the Poles and Jugos-Slavs proves that a people finally achieves its own right of self-determination in spite of all opposition and all obstacles if only it remains firm in its desire.

The Social Democrats put forward as their issues the reforms they have advocated since the formation of the republic and which they assert have been defeated by the combined bourgeois opposition. In the main these are suppression of the power of the clericals, taxation of capital and great estates, age and invalid insurance, school reforms including separation of schools and church, adequate for public servants, and similar measures.

To this end it demands the socialization of great industries, mines, vast realty holdings and banking so that "their earnings, instead of enriching private persons may give to the state the means for fulfilling its social and cultural tasks."

The Christian Socialists are charged with obstructing this program so long that the control of many of the most valuable natural sources of wealth such as the iron mines of Styria and Carinthia have passed to Italian control and now foreign protests make impossible the full realization of the socialization scheme.

It is the intention of the Elks to reproduce everything down to the last detail that was a part of the mining camps of the gold rush of '49.

Many unique features are being planned for the amusement of the crowds that are expected to attend.

TEXAS BRONCHO RIDER NOW A MOTORCYCLE COP

International News Service KANSAS CITY, Oct. 4.—It's a far cry from riding a broncho with the Texas Rangers on the border to patrolling the streets of Kansas City on a motorcycle as a member of the police force, but that was the jump made by George E. McGee, 32 years old, who has been added to the motorcycle squad.

McGee also is a linguist of no mean ability. He speaks and writes the Chinese and Spanish languages. He enlisted in the army in June, 1917, and went overseas with the Forty-second (Rainbow) Division. He was discharged last July.

"I was born on an English ship under an American flag in Chinese waters," McGee said in his application for appointment. "My father was a United States government attaché at Canton, China, and remained there eleven years after I was born."

WAR FRIENDSHIP ENDS WHEN 'BUDDY' TAKES SUNDAY RAGS

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 4.—Luther Jenkins, 21 years old, and James L. Thompson, 20, swore at the conclusion of the war that they would never be parted.

They had been buddies together in the Argonne-Meuse drive and had become inseparable.

Thompson took his buddy home with him and dined and wined him accordingly in the months that followed.

This week, however, Luther thought the time had arrived for the parting. While James was slumbering, the pal arose and departed with James' Sunday best, so the latter said. Everything from a new gray suit and hat down to underwear, Luther took with him in his flight, James added.

Yesterday Thompson had him arrested. The prisoner still was wearing Thompson's clothes. He pleaded for mercy. Thompson would show no leniency.

The officers then stripped Luther of his finery and when the exercises were complete, the buddy was left nothing but his shoes.

James took his raiment home, while the officers located a pair of overalls for his friend.

MORGEANTHAU GIVES TWELVE TIMES AS MUCH AS PRESIDENT

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—Henry Morgenthau, former Ambassador to Turkey, today "matched the president" for himself and each of his 11 grand-children by contributing $6,000 to the Democratic national campaign fund.

In a letter to George White, Democratic national chairman, enclosing his check for the amount, Morgenthau said that "joining the league thousand club is a practical demonstration of the member's unequivocal approval of President Wilson."

Membership in the "league thousand club" is attained through "matching" the president by contributing the same amount which he contributed—$500—to the Democratic treasury.

Secretary of State Colby and Mrs. Colby have each "matched the president" it was announced, with $500 contributions.

JUST GAVE UP SUFFERED SO

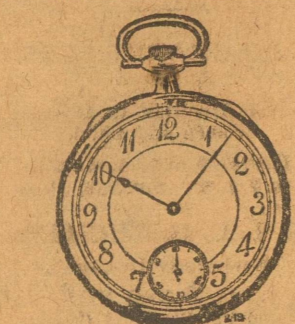

Weakness, Pains and Other Troubles Had Discouraged This Arkansas Lady. She Took Cardui, Found It Helpful. Got Well!

Harrisburg, Ark.—After serious symptoms had become apparent, Mrs. Belle Wilkerson of Route 1, in this place, says she "got worse and worse."

"I wasn't able to stand on my feet and had to go to bed," she explains. The . . . grew worse, and for about three weeks nothing seemed to do me any good. I grew so weak and nervous and could not sleep. I began to have pain in the lower part of my body and all across my back. There was a great deal of soreness and pain in my left side. . . . I just gave up, for I suffered so. I grew discouraged and thought I was not going to get well.

"My head not only ached, but would feel so light and dizzy. . . . I decided then I would take Cardui, as I read of how many women it had benefited, and some whose case was like mine. When I began Cardui, just after a few doses, I noticed a change. I slept better at night . . . and felt like I could eat something. I got up and began to do the work in the house and yard, and after three or four bottles of Cardui I was well."

"If you suffer from disorders peculiar to women, take Cardui—the Woman's Tonic. It should help you, like others. Adv."

Every Drop of Your Blood Should Be Absolutely Pure

Any slight disorder or impurities is a source of danger, as every vital organ of the body depends upon the blood supply to properly perform its functions.

Many painful and dangerous diseases are the direct result of a bad condition of the blood. Among the most serious are Rheumatism, with its torturing pain; Eczema, Tetters, Erysipelas and other disfiguring skin diseases; general debility, which makes the strongest men helpless, and many other diseases are the direct result of impure blood.

You can in a large measure avoid liability to disease by the use of S. S. S., the wonderful blood remedy that has been in constant use for more than fifty years. S. S. S. cleanses the blood thoroughly. It is sold by druggists everywhere.

MADRID WASHERWOMEN WASH UNDER WINDOWS OF ALFONSO'S PALACE

MADRID, Oct. 4.—The laundrywomen of Madrid are probably the finest of their profession in the world. Nowhere else does the linen come home so delightfully clean and it is an accomplished with cold water. Within sight of the windows of King Alfonso's palace any day of the week, including Sundays, may be seen acres after acres of snow-white linen spread out to dry along the banks of the Manzanares. In the turbulent waters of this creek, for its nothing more in spite of its sonorous name, virtually all the washing for the million or so inhabitants of Madrid is done.

A closer corporation than that of the Madrid washerwomen can scarcely be conceived. Some of those working here have been in the profession over 40 years, not always as pastmistresses, for they have to serve an apprenticeship lasting to undertake work on their own account. A woeful reception meets any newcomer coming with a bundle of linen to wash. All kinds of insults are hurled at her by the regulars; her linen disappears as if by magic and is found again only after long search. Any maid not an ordinary dirty linen porter is in even worse case. He is splashed with suds and is lucky if he escapes with his clothing intact.

The experienced laundrywomen assert no woman learns how to wash properly until she has passed 40 years of age. Till then she must work as an understudy to others, earning only the small pittance of one peseta daily while doing so. When she sets up for herself she at once takes apprentices and rapidly amasses a modest fortune. It seems, however, they never retire to enjoy their riches, for the call of the tub is too strong for them ever to desert the Manzanares until the final call comes.

"The Military Order of the World War" is the new name adopted by the "American Officers of the Great War." A national convention is to be held every fourth year in September.

ARMISTICE DAY IS DATE FOR RED CROSS MEMBERSHIP DRIVE

Armistice day, November 11, the American Red Cross will begin its fourth roll call, and membership campaign. Today and tomorrow the state convention is being held in Waco to formulate plans for the drive. Roll call directors from all points in the state will be present at the conference.

Members of the local chapter of the organization are making extensive plans for the roll call drive during the days set and hope to enlist the membership of every resident of Ranger.

The membership fee is $1, but donations of any amount will be accepted. Fifty per cent of the amount from memberships go to national headquarters of the organization, but all donations in excess of $1 remain at home.

In the membership drive of last year the local chapter secured funds to employ a welfare nurse. This is the only town in the county that was that fortunate. If the nurse is retained it will be necessary that the membership in Ranger be 100 per cent.

Miss Anna L. Fisher, of New York City, formerly a Red Cross worker in France and later a Near East relief worker in Syria, is now a full-fledged captain in the Arabian army of the Prince Feisal at Damascus.
