AIRSHIP "NORGE" FLIES OVER NORTH POLE

VAST EXPANSE OF POLES NOW KNOWN BY MAN

No Continent Is Found By Any Party That Has Made The Trip

ROME, Italy, May 12.—Premier Mussolini was informed of the success of the Amundsen-Ellsworth-Mobile dirigible Norge in flying over the north pole while presiding at a session of the cabinet today.

For the first time in history an airship has flown over the north pole.

At 1 o'clock this morning, according to advices here, the dirigible Norge, carrying the Amundsen-Ellsworth-Mobile polar expedition roared over "the above the world." Thus the names of Lincoln Ellsworth, American, Captain Roald Amundsen, Norwegian, and Commander Mobile, Italian, and their crew were added to that of Peary, Matt Henson and to Commander Richard E. Byrd and Floyd Bennett as the only men who have ever seen the north pole.

Up to the time the pole was passed, no land had been sighted—only a vast expanse of polar ice, according to advices received here. From there today the Norge is believed to be moving westward over a region heretofore unexplored, and in which Amundsen and his command hope to find land in the region of the north pole.

Up to early today, no further report had reached as to their progress.

The King's Bay expedition speeded toward the north pole through fair weather. The desire of the expedition to cross the roof of the world to Alaska exploring the polar regions a hitherto unexplored area, en route. There is considerable speculation as to whether the area will be found to contain a polar continent.

Former Arkansas Officer Gains A Release In Court

AUSTIN, May 12.—Without passing on the validity of a pardon granted A. J. Gourley, former sheriff and tax collector of Miller county, Arkansas, by Acting Governor S. B. McCall of Arkansas, the court of criminal appeals today ordered the discharge from custody of Gurley, whose extradition from Texas, Texas, to Arkansas to finish serving a sentence for misappropriating public funds, has been sought several weeks. By this action, the court reversed the Bowie county district court which had refused to release Gurley in a habeas corpus proceeding after Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson had honored a requisition of Governor Terral of Arkansas for the return of Gurley to the Arkansas state penitentiary.

Rock Island Gets Permit To Build Line

WASHINGTON, May 12.—The Interstate Commerce Commission today authorized the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railroad Company to construct a line of railway from Liberal, Kas., to Amarillo, Tex., a distance of 145 miles.

This new line will cut the distance on the Rock Island trans-continental service, and at the same time put Texas in closer touch with Kansas and open a new trade territory for both states.

It also may have some bearing on the direct line contemplated between Fort Worth and Tucuman, N. M., by the Texas Panhandle and Gulf.

LUTHER CABINET RESIGNS AFTER REICHSTAG VOTE

Thread Is Traced To Doorn Where An Ex-Ruler Now Lives

BERLIN, May 12.—The German Reichstag today voted lack of confidence in the government of Chancellor Luther. The vote went against Luther after his forces had defeated two previous motions of lack of confidence. On a third motion the government lost.

The cabinet of Chancellor Hans Luther of Germany resigned today after the Reichstag had voted a lack of confidence in his administration. The present government outlined the fascist conspiracy allegedly directed toward tutsche. After Chancellor Luther's resignation, according to the statement, Hindenberg was to have appointed a cabinet of "experts" which would have failed to obtain the Reichstag confidence. Then the Reichstag would have been dissolved and power turned over to the army and the "Fatherlandist" or extreme nationalist organization.

The agreement on "expert" cabinet list is alleged to have been reached. After the discovery of the conspiracy, the Prussian government announced its intentions of disbanding all right wing extremist organizations such as the Wolves, Vikings, and Olympians.

The fall of the Luther government was another climax to another startling day in Germany.

During the night, the police announced they had uncovered an alleged plot to overthrow the government, to force President Hindenberg to resign and then to make him dictator.

The plot was said to have a thin thread reaching to Doorn, where Kaiser Wilhelm is in exile.

The Luther cabinet took office in January, 1925. Recently it was under fire as a result of the program of President Hindenberg involving the establishment of a uniform flag for Germany.

Mail Planes Hop Off On First Trip From Southwest

DALLAS, May 12.—Two national air transport carrier planes hopped off here at 8:15, northbound, inaugurating a 12-hour mail service between the southwest and Chicago.

From Fort Worth approximately 400 pounds of mail, more than 10,000 individual letters were dispatched to Chicago. From Dallas approximately the same amount.

The cost of air mail per letter is 10 cents from Ranger, Eastland and other points.

Letters may be mailed at Ranger and Eastland for the air service and when they arrive either here or in Fort Worth immediately will be transferred to the air mail department and dispatched. Letters mailed in Ranger one evening will reach Chicago the next evening.

DALLAS.—According to the United States Geological Survey public utility power plants in Texas used 2,139,943 barrels of fuel oil in 1925 being exceeded only by California in this use, and led all the states in use of natural gas as fuel with 13,750,882,000 cubic feet.

ROTARIANS STAGE PLAY WEDNESDAY

They played store at the Ranger Rotary Club at noon Wednesday — put on a two-act drama composed by A. Joseph, W. N. McDonald, Marvin Collie and Miss Marie Flahie, and staged under the direction of Miss Flahie, the first act being a badly kept store, the second, a model mercantile establishment. And, as one member of the club was heard to say as he came down the stairs: "It was a wow!"

Forty-eight were present including visitors, and the total membership of thirty-three except one. The program was first in a contest being staged with "Gold Dust" Boone, as the actors designated him in the rally which made the play-store a scream. Miss Allie Johnson was the star of the aggregation, and that is not discounting the splendid work of the other players. Her role as sloven, dance-mad, gum-chewing, give-the-customer-what-you-like-and-get-rid-of-him saleslady set the Rotarians howling. The other actresses included Miss Ernestine Davis, Miss Evelyn Russell, Mrs. Maxey, Miss Faye Pierce, Miss Alice Humphrey, Miss Ruth McDonald, Miss Mary Louise Standard, Miss Flahie, and Miss McDonald giving readings with Miss Humphreys at the piano.

Both Mr. Joseph and Mr. McDonald played parts in their own drama. The curtain, the store equipment, and stage settings were all of a kind to engage the attention of producers and connoisseurs. Mr. Joseph gave a reading—an original poem—and it brought down the house.

NEGOTIATIONS OPENED WITH COAL MINERS

Lockout Notices Are To Be Withdrawn By The Government's Orders

LONDON, May 12.—The general strike had been ended, but the coal strike will go on, it was announced today, eight and one-half days after a general strike became effective.

Withdrawal of the general strike order was announced after a meeting at Premier Baldwin's residence, No. 10 Downing street, between members of the government and representatives of the Trades Union Council.

A. J. Cook, secretary of the Miners Federation soon afterwards, told the United Press that the coal strike would continue. It is presumed that negotiations to end the coal strike will begin at once.

"There is no change in the situation as far as we are concerned," Cook said.

Miners Summoned

Cook today summoned miner delegates from all parts of the country to meet in London Friday to decide whether the coal strike will continue beyond that day.

It was unofficially stated that the government has agreed to obtain withdrawal of lockout notices at the mines. The notice announced the end of the then, existing national wage agreement which precipitated the miner's strike, and which in turn brought about the general strike.

Conditions

The conditions upon which the general strike was called off are as follows:

1. Negotiations for peace in the coal industry would be resumed and the government coal subsidy would be renewed for such a reasonable period as may be required.
2. A national wage board would be established to include representatives of the miners and the mine owners, presided over by a neutral chairman.
3. The parties should be entitled to raise any relevant points before the wage board.
4. There would be no revision of wage rates unless there was assurance that the Royal Coal Commission re-organization measures would be adopted.
5. After agreement on other points and consideration of every means of meeting the immediate financial difficulties, the wage board may, if absolutely necessary, proceed with the preparation of a new wage agreement.
6. Such agreement should be simpler than the one just expired and should not decrease the proposed minimum wage. Revision of wage scales would be provided if warranted.
7. Recruiting of new adult workers would be prevented, if unemployed miners were available.
8. The final condition is that workers displaced by closure of colliery should be transferred if possible or maintained for a certain period. This maintenance, to be in addition to the present dole. Houses would be constructed for the transferred workers.

MINERS REJECT PROPOSALS TO END THEIR STRIKE

LONDON, May 12.—The miners' executive committee this afternoon rejected the Trades Union conference proposals for a solution of the miners dispute. They explained that in calling off the general strike, the Trades Union council took sole responsibility.

LONDON CELEBRATES END OF THE STRIKE

Streams of uproarious joy accompanied the end of the general strike in London's streets today.

Along the Strand, which is compared to New York's Broadway, women wept for joy and men danced. The strikers joined in the celebration. The news everywhere was greeted with cheers. The good news set the house of commons to roaring cheers as soon as it was convened at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

Unofficial couriers legging it down the Victoria embankment toward Black Friars bridge across Westminster bridge to South London and down to Whitehall toward Trafalgar Square and the Strand first started the news circulating through London.

STRIKE CALLED OFF.
"General strike called off" was flashed over the wire around the world early this morning. The announcement brought a thrill of joy to every Englishman, strikers included, and a sigh of relief to every American, who has been watching the turn of affairs across the pond. The sufferings of England are reflected in America. English and America are brothers.

The war was brief. It should have been brief. It was the clashing of two huge bodies that had they remained in conflict much longer would have spelled ruin to both sides. Hereafter, labor and capital in England will have a clearer understanding of each other's rights. Capital will know that she cannot arbitrarily cut the wages of the laboring man down to such a point that he cannot make a living for his loved ones. English capital knows by now that laboring men and women are human and are entitled to at least half way decent treatment.

The coal strike will continue, also was announced. But with the announcement came the news that negotiations would be entered at once to end that strike so that English industry may be resumed in factory and mine.
Labor gained a victory. The government has agreed to obtain the withdrawal of the lockout notices at the mines. The lockout notices at the mines brought on the general strike. Mine owners were trying to throttle miners into submission and make them stand for a cut in wages that made living intolerable. The question of wages for miners will be left to an arbitration board, which may give justice to the toiler under ground.
All wealth is based on three persons—the farmer, the miner and the mechanic.

The farmer and miner produces, and the mechanic takes the raw material and makes the finished product. Labor has its right and should be respected. So has capital. Capital furnishes the money to make the production of finished products possible. The farmer is the only one of the trio that cannot put a price on his own commodity. He is dependent solely on the law of supply and demand, and the gambler in raw materials, grain, cotton and other products.

The strike lasted eight and a half days. It could not have lasted much longer. England was suffering as a result.
Labor has always been a sufferer in England and other lands. The miners of Great Britain have been fighting for better conditions. Now they will receive them.

AIR MAIL SERVICE.
The development of transportation facilities in the past 20 years has practically annihilated distance. New epoch in the history of the southwest opened today, when the first mail-carrying airplanes hopped off from Fort Worth and Dallas carrying tons of letters to Chicago. Distance has practically been annihilated. God in his wisdom endowed man with brain to make him better and improve his fellow being. God endowed man with wisdom that he could invent flying machines, telephones, radios and telegraph.

The man in Ranger and Eastland now can call up his partner in New York and Chicago, or San Francisco, and in a few minutes transact important business. A family living in Eastland and Ranger tonight can pick up the receivers of the radio, or turn on their loud talker and hear an artist in London sing. He can bring out his talking machine and hear the melodious voice of Caruso, who has gone to his reward.

The flying machine, the airplane and the dirigible, are the two greatest inventions of the age. While perfection has not been obtained, the airplane has been improved to such an extent as to make it possible for use in commercial purposes. The recent flight of Lieutenant Commander Byrd demonstrated its usefulness. Now the flight of mail between the southwest and Chicago and other northern cities. This service means the saving of approximately 24 hours in business. In the business world time is valuable and means money saved.
The success of the operation of the service should redound to the upbuilding of this section of Texas. In time, we expect to see the airplane in almost as common use as the auto today. In time, and it will not be far distant, the flying machine will be so perfected that one can mount in his plane, visit his kin a few hundred miles away and return in a day.

Lee Suggested For Lieutenant Governorship
Special Correspondence.
THROCKMORTON, May 12—At a meeting of citizens held here Monday, R. Q. Lee of Cisco, president of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, was nominated to allow his name to be placed as a candidate for the nomination of lieutenant governor.
Judge A. H. King, a member of the legislature from this district, fathered the move and pointed out that West Texas was entitled to one of the major offices in the state. Mr. Lee, who was present, denied the position. He was here on his tour of West Texas preaching the doctrine of diversified farming, and raising more hogs.
Mr. Lee spoke along the lines he has spoken throughout his campaign and brought an indictment against the policy of farming followed by the south. A 12-cent price for cotton was forecast by him for this fall, based on the present acreage and crop outlook. He urged more feed and more poultry, hogs and cattle. As an example of what can be done in quality poultry production, he exhibited a carton of Bankhead eggs as marketed by the Bankhead Marketing association of Eastland county. Producers of these eggs, through quality receive a substantial premium over the market for their eggs and the T. P. dining service recently contracted to use Bankhead eggs on all its diners.
E. H. Whitehead, publicity manager of the West Texas chamber, who accompanies Mr. Lee on his trips, spoke on the work the organization is doing and outlined the hog transportation campaign which has placed upward of 60 cars of high bred gilts upon West Texas farms this year.

Daring Nudity Makes Appearance On Spanish Stage
MADRID, Spain, May 12—The nude is invading the Spanish stage, introduced by Spanish artists who have worked abroad.
Until recently, few shows could be found reprehensible by the most puritanical, but gradually the costumes began to conceal less and less to the evident satisfaction of the majority of audiences.
The latest sensation in a Madrid theatre is the costume worn by a well known dancer who appears with her back nude to the hips and just two strips of diamonds on the other side.
Among other daring costumes is a singer's golden flimsy dress, so thin that it conceals almost nothing. She sings while lying on a sofa in the middle of the stage.
Barcelona, the capital of Catalonia, does not remain behind. In one new revue there girls arrive in sheet clothes, undress on steps especially put up near the orchestra seats, hand their clothes to theatre attendants, and climb to the stage to start their part.

Mellon Urges National Policy Against Frauds
NEW ORK, May 12—A national policy for preventing the sale of fraudulent securities was urged by A. W. Mellon, Secretary of the Treasury, in the American Bankers' Association Journal here today.
"One of the important problems confronting this country is the prevention of the sale of fraudulent securities," said Mellon. "The state governments are doing what they can to combat this evil. The Federal government itself is exercising the full power of its regulatory organizations to lesson the perpetration of frauds through the mails. In spite of all, more than half a billion dollars, it is estimated, are lost each year, largely by small investors. In many instances this could have been prevented if the investing public had been impressed with the necessity for investigating the security or asking the opinion of some competent adviser."
"Much can be accomplished by education and perhaps the real solution of the fraudulent security problem depends on the success of education are slow and capital is being lost so that it would seem to be the duty of the Federal government to provide adequate legal machinery for protecting the public."
"It has been suggested that the situation could be met most simply and adequately by a law under which such securities as appear to be fraudulent could be brought to the attention of the United States Department of Justice through proceedings in the nature of an information. The Attorney General could then be authorized to investigate such securities and if he found evidence of fraud to issue a summary order forbidding their further sale under heavy penalties.

"Such a law would not interfere with the flow of legitimate investments or the prompt sale of securities which is so essential in the investment business. The great majority of investment bankers are honest and scrupulous men who investigate with extreme care every issue sponsored by them. Only a small number are actuated by a desire to defraud and in trying to protect the public we must not harass and interfere too much with legitimate operations. The investment banker plays an important part in the country's development. It is for his protection, as well as the public, that a sound national policy should be established whereby the sale of fraudulent securities can be prevented."

CENTRAL WARD TEA HONORS TEACHERS
The P. T. A. of Central Ward entertained with a delightful tea Tuesday afternoon in honor of the teachers of that school, at the home of Mrs. Roy Jameson. The club literally "said it with flowers" for the house was a veritable mass of lovely roses, crepe Myrtles, honeysuckle and other spring flowers. The teachers themselves looked as though they might have been culled from some rose garden of girls, as they were charmingly gowned and most radiantly happy.

Mrs. L. L. Neal, outgoing president of the club, Mrs. P. R. Carroll, incoming president, and Mrs. Saunders Gregg, first vice president, were in the receiving line. Miss Helen Howdeshell and Mrs. Jameson looked after the comfort of the guests and supervised the serving of a most delicious plate luncheon. A frozen salad, a Boston brown bread sandwich, mints and ice tea, all served on a green plate, formed its menu, the success of which was due largely to the chairman of the refreshment committee, Mrs. E. M. Glazier. The program was a most important part of the afternoon's pleasure and was arranged as follows:

Piano solo, Louise Pitcock; reading, "Ten Minutes from a Trolley," Evelyn Russell, piano solo, Marguerite Adams, vocal solo, Mrs. L. P. P. Housewright and Fred Baker; piano solo, Miss Nell Tibbels; vocal duet, Ruth and Mary Alice Barker; Ukulele number, Central Ward girls; Max and Jean Williams in duet, with "Uke" accompaniment.
Each year the members of this club do something to show their appreciation of the loyal earnest work done by the teachers during the school term and this was just another annual event that cements the tie between the teacher and the parents.

Forrest Feasts Boys Of Senior Class Tuesday

A banquet attended by some forty persons, everyone of whom made a speech and nobody was bored, is the description of the unique feast served by Principal Lyman Forrest and Mrs. Forrest at Ranger High School cafeteria last night to twenty senior class men, the track team, coaches and superintendent.

After listening to the speeches stressing clean sports and their value to school, individual and community, made by Superintendent Holloway and Coaches Cherry and Davis, Principal Forrest opened up a query box asking such questions as "How do you like being a newspaper man?" of Bill Knight, editor of the annual, fitting each query to the individual and making it a real round table affair at which everybody spoke and nobody spoke at length. The dinner was elaborate.

Times And Telegram Land Big Contract With Tanglefoot

The George M. Savage Advertising company of Detroit has just closed a large contract with the publishers of the Ranger Daily Times and the Eastland Daily Telegram to carry considerable space in these two papers telling the world about the necessity for using Tanglefoot fly paper and Tanglefoot fly spray.

These papers were selected because of their reaching the great masses in Eastland county and in practically all the homes.
A product like Tanglefoot could not possibly benefit the advertising medium of any paper or agency without benefiting the public many fold greater. Tanglefoot fly paper has been a household and mercantile word for many years and has played a major part in eliminating summer diseases. It sells itself, but there is another product manufactured by the Tanglefoot company that is not so well known and yet is more far reaching than the Tanglefoot fly paper for unlike the fly paper, it goes to the insect instead of the insect coming to it.

This is their Tanglefoot fly spray, which kills all household insects. Moths, flies, mosquitoes, bed bugs, fleas, roaches and ants, all yield to the ghost when Tanglefoot spray hunts out their breeding places and sounds their death knell.

Tanglefoot spray is 100 per cent active, and while it is deadly to insects, it will not injure the fabrics, rugs, human beings nor animals. All these insects are enemies of health, each one carrying its own germ and as an exterminator of these pests, Tanglefoot spray holds first place.

The publishers of the two largest circulated papers in Eastland county feel justly proud of this contract and can't resist patting themselves on the head just a bit, for it is quite a victory to secure a contract of a nationally advertised product like Tanglefoot. Most national advertisers confine their advertising to the major papers and it was only the fact that the George M. Savage company realized that the Times and Telegram were live wire timber, that landed the contract.

L. H. Kassel & Co. of Fort Worth are the state agents for Tanglefoot.

Family Needing Aid Is Found By Welfare Folks

A case of destitution almost without a parallel in Ranger is reported by Mrs. E. L. McMillen, chairman of the investigating committee for the Child Welfare association, at 1517 Lackland street.

The husband and father, who came to Ranger from the coal fields of Henryetta, Okla., on the advice of physicians, who hoped working on big lines, in the drier air might help his cancer, did not find the relief sought, it is reported, and his entire nose, mouth and throat now are cancer eaten, and his condition is most pitiable. His wife, and seven small children ranging in ages from a daughter of 12 to a babe in arms, four months old, have absolutely no means of support and are in extreme need of clothing, bandage rags, food, money or anything contributing to the support of the family.

Either Mrs. McMillen, whose telephone number is 316, or Mrs. W. H. Burden, whose number is 345, if called, will gladly go and collect the necessities to relieve these destitute people.

Radio Switching Now a Science; Delays Obviated

By WILLIAM J. FAGAN (United Press Radio News Editor)
NEW YORK, May 12—Switching over from the studio to points of remote control broadcasting has become with WJZ, New York, a matter of intense interest to radio fans because of the rapidity with which the shift is made.

The announcer in the studio, signing off a program feature, says: "We will now take you to—" and immediately the voice of the announcer at the hotel or auditorium where the program will be continued comes in with, "—the Hotel Commodore, where you will hear a dinner concert, etc."

There is no break in the continuity of the speech and the system created a small furor in local radio circles when it was first introduced.

WJZ, Chicago, has come forth with something similar, except that the studio announcer, in signing off the studio, completes his announcement, accompanied by ever increasing strains of the orchestra from the remote control point, until his announcement concluded, the "mixer panel" brings up the tone of the band to its full proportion.

There is a definite trend among broadcasters to eliminate even the reasonable delays which might be expected in remote control switch-overs. No radio fan ever complained about a brief quarter or half minute wait necessitated by the plugging in of an outside wire line. He instinctively felt that it was a rather complicated process requiring much flashing of secret "Are you ready?" back and forth. However, with the development of the new technique, it is rather to be expected that the broadcaster who permits lapses in going to be flooded by letters from the fan ever ready to choose the slightest excuse for a critical comment.

Rain Interferes With Salvation Army Revival

Last night's rain stopped the Salvation Army tent meeting in Ranger, but the interest is still good, it is reported. Tonight, there will be a special services when the two new soldiers enlisted will be formally enrolled by the Army's regular ceremonies which are said to be interesting.

Rev. Herschel Murphy's fine falsetto voice tenor solos are among the most interesting features of the services in the tent and on the streets. The choir is showing decided improvement under his leadership.

"WINDING STAIRS" TELLS OF ROMANCE OF FRENCH LEGION

There is always one refuge for a man seeking haven from the trials of civilization—from the weight of the law, sometimes, too! It is a refuge sought by men of all countries and many races, but, once within its sanctuary, a man may not leave until he has redeemed himself.

It is the Foreign Legion which France maintains in far-off Morocco, on the northern coast of Africa. Song and story have been written of the romance, the adventure, the tragedy, too, that befall those who wear its uniform.

And now comes a photoplay to depict, in thrilling and dramatic form, the story of one who became a legionnaire that he might regain his name and return to his home in England. It is "The Winding Stair," the John Griffith Wray production made from the famous novel by A. E. W. Mason and now playing at the Lamb Theatre.

Playing the role of the young English expatriate serving as an officer of the Foreign Legion, Edmund Lowe has perhaps the most dramatic and colorful part he has been given on the screen in a long time. Opposite him, as the heroine, is beautiful Alma Rubens, cast as an American dancer who wins the love of the young officer.

In the excellent supporting cast of this Wray production are seen Mahlon Hamilton, Frank Leigh, Captain Calvert, Warner Oland, Chester Conklin, Emily Fitzroy and June Thomas.

NORMA TALMADGE PUTS BRAND NEW KICK IN "KIKI"

Norma Talmadge puts a new kick in "Kiki." Any one who saw the picture at the Liberty Theatre yesterday will vouch for this fact. From now on Norma Talmadge and "Kiki" should be synonymous, for never has a motion picture star

Norma engaged in fistieuffs with her rival in love or hurling breakfast dishes at any one who dared disturb her beauty nap?

Ronald Colman, as Victor Renal, a Paris theatre manager, makes an ideal leading man for Miss Talmadge. It is the handsome actor's first appearance opposite Norma. Others in the large cast who do credit to their roles are Gertrude Astor, been so aptly fitted for a role as Miss Talmadge for the title character in the gay story of modern Paris life. The First National picture fairly bubbles over with mirthful situations, yet throughout the story runs a highly dramatic theme—the adventures of a little street gamin who aspires to stage fame and the luxurious life of a "great lady."

Norma Talmadge in "Kiki"

Miss Talmadge, as "Kiki," who is always ready for a fight or a frolic, reveals herself as a comedienne of the first water. It is difficult to envision this harum-scarum miss in "Kiki" as the same Norma Talmadge who created those immortal screen roles in "Smilin' Through," "Secrets" and "Craustark." Who could have imagined the lovely

Marc MacDermott, George K. Arthur, Erwin Connelly, William Orlamond, Frankie Darro and Mack Swain.

The skillful direction of Miss Talmadge's greatest picture produced by Joseph M. Schenck for First National is another feather in the cap of Clarence Brown.

Mounted Cowboys Visit Creamery And Create Stir

Two cowboys mounted, booted, and spurred, furnished excitement in Ranger for a few minutes Tuesday afternoon. They rode into the door of the creamery, on their bronchos (really farm horses), then seeing a negro across the street, gave him a chase until he found cover behind Burton-Lingo lumber yard, whereupon the "wild and woolly" men of the plains rode off, yelling in the old time style. No one reported them to the police. In fact, this taste of wild life was said to be enjoyable.

pointed postmaster of Ranger, was sent to Washington today. This bond must be approved and the commission sent back to Ranger before the change in postmasters is effected, it is stated. This will, in all probability consume ten days' time or possibly more, it is indicated.

Sivante-Palm Library Attracts Great Attention

AUSTIN, May 12.—Dr. Lee M. Hollander, associate professor of Germanic languages in the University of Texas, is making a study of the Sivante Palm Library, the first gift of books made to the University. Sir Swante Palm was Swedish consul at Austin for many years. In 1897 he presented his library of some 10,000 volumes and several thousand newspapers and pamphlets to the university. There is no accurate record of the size or content of the collection. Rich in books on the fine arts, travel, bibliography, Texas history, and Swedish literature and history, the collection has always been considered by faculty members as a most valuable contribution to the university.

Former Ranger Buy Dobbin When Fare Is Advanced

DALLAS, May 12.—The Dallas Street Railway Company lost at least one patron when it recently advanced the fare from 6 cents to 7 cents on street cars in Dallas.

John Mayfield, a former Texas ranger, convict guard, cowpuncher, horse trader and farmer, invested $40 in a transportation system of his own. Disgusted when the fare was raised from 6 to 7 cents, "Old Man" Mayfield bought "Pig," an Indian cow pony, which he now rides to and from work.

Mr. Mayfield rode through Dallas traffic to the courthouse and complained to Sheriff Schuyler Marshall because there was no hitching post in the downtown district where a fellow can hitch his horse. The sheriff promised to take the matter up with the county commissioner's court and see what could be done.

ran down the steps.

With a sharp exclamation, Morton burst in, "Daddy!" she cried.

"In heaven's name, Nona!" he cried.

Lifting her wounded arm, he examined the jagged gash that ran from elbow to wrist. It was bleeding profusely, but it was not deep.

"What on earth?" he began, but the girl's head drooped and she lay limply against the arm of the chair, her body began to slip gently toward the floor.

Picking her up as though she were a child, Morton turned to the stairs. "Bring cotton, hot water and some antiseptic," he said to the butler, who stood staring in the doorway.

He had just laid Nona on the bed in one of the guest rooms when Audrey burst in, "Daddy!" she cried.

"Hush," said Morton, without turning around.

"Well," gasped Audrey. "Aren't you even going to kiss me, after our long separation? Who is that woman?" He face darkened. She crept around him so that she could see the face of the girl on the bed.

"Why, it's Nona! What happened to her arm?"

"I don't know yet. She's fainted," he replied.

Under the ministrations of Morton and Audrey, Nona opened her eyes at last. She smiled faintly at Morton. "I almost flopped," she said.

"Almost?" he repeated. "You DID 'flop,' and you've been under 15 minutes. Do you feel like telling us what happened?"

Nona sat up and pushed back her hair. The wounded arm in its fresh bandage, lay on the coverlet.

"It was Joe—Joe and that little thin girl," she began.

"The man that tried to get money from me?" gasped Audrey.

Nona nodded. "And the girl that tried the badger game on Harry. She's hated me ever since that night.

"Today I was asleep in my apartment when the bell rang. I opened the door and Joe and she walked in. Then, without warning, he threw me down on the sofa, and held his hand over my mouth. I saw the girl go into my bedroom. I kicked and struggled. And one,—she smiled—once I bit him. I guess that's when I got this. Then I fainted."

Morton and Audrey were listening rapidly.

"When I came to, they were gone. I ran into my bedroom and all my jewelry was gone, too. Then I got a taxi and rushed here. I didn't know anybody else to turn to."

Morton nodded. "You did just right. But I imagine it's useless to give a police alarm. They're out of town by now. Perhaps it's just as well. They'll have enough money to keep them quiet for some time, if they took those rings and that bracelet and pin of yours. Let's hope they won't come back to bother us."

Audrey shivered. "Yes, let's hope. I have a horror of that man."

Nona sat up still straighter against the pillows. "I'm not much hurt, am I? I've got to be ready to work next week on the new show."

"No," said Morton, "you're not much hurt—just a shallow flesh wound. You probably fainted partly from nervous exhaustion."

Nona was making signs to him behind Audrey's back. He turned to the girl.

"Will you go and select something for Nona to wear?" he said. "Her dress is covered with blood." Audrey ran out and closed the door.

Nona leaned forward. "I just wanted to tell you, Harry, that if you're still interested in that young fool, Parrish, you'd better get busy looking after him. He's going to get in very hot water, if I'm not mistaken. Maybe he already has."

Morton frowned. "What's he been doing?"

"Well," said Nona, "he's been running around with Violet Montgomery, the very wildest woman in Abe Sunshine's company. I've seen him with her at Regnell's four times, since you've been away, and once he was drunk."

Morton mused, between smiling and frowning. Before he could speak Audrey came back into the room, with several dresses over her arm. She was frowning absently.

"Daddy," she said, "I don't understand Mr. Parrish."

Morton's eyebrows lifted.

"I just called him up to ask him to a dinner party because you were home and Nona was here, and he said quite curtly, that he had another engagement."

Morton laughed. "I don't see that that's hard to understand. Almost any young man is likely to have engagements for dinner now and then."

He looked at Audrey. She was the picture of dejection.

"Well, I'll tell you. We three will have dinner out tonight, somewhere where there is music and gaiety. We all need pepping up." He looked at Nona, and found her watching him closely, with a little smile around her lips.

"All right," said Audrey, listlessly. Then, irrelevantly, "Mr. Parrish and I had a big quarrel while you were away, Daddy, but I didn't think he'd hold a grudge."

"What did you quarrel about?" asked Morton.

"He said I was a foolish butterfly,"

BILIOUSNESS

Retired Minister Tells How He Keeps in Good Form With the Assistance of Black-Draught.

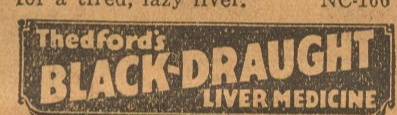

West Graham, Va.—The Rev. Lewis Evans, a well-known retired minister, now past 80, living here, has a high opinion of Black-Draught, which he says he has taken when needed, for 25 years.

"For years I had been suffering with my liver," he says. "Sometimes the pain would be very intense and my back would hurt all the time. Black-Draught was the first thing I found that would give me any relief."

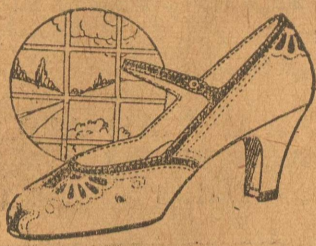

"My liver has always been sluggish. Sometimes it gives me a lot of trouble. I have suffered a lot with it—pains in my side and back, and bad headache, caused from extreme biliousness."

"After I found Black-Draught, I would begin to take it as soon as I felt a spell coming on and it relieved the cause at once. I can recommend it to anybody suffering from liver trouble. A dose or two now and then keeps me in good form."

Made from selected medicinal roots and herbs, and containing no dangerous mineral drugs, Black-Draught is nature's own remedy for a tired, lazy liver. NC-166 ablaze. "Why don't you interfere?" she asked Morton. "He'll be ruined—and then what will you do for a secretary?"

Morton concealed a laugh. "There are better secretaries in the sea than have ever been caught. It's his own inalienable right to go to the dogs as he pleases. Don't let it worry you."

Audrey subsided. But both Nona and Morton noticed that she did not eat the food that she had ordered.

She kept her eyes away from the dance floor, except for occasional furtive, searching glances. Parrish and the girl danced again and again.

"Daddy," said Audrey at last, "please take me home. I'm tired out."

Without a word, Morton beckoned to the waiter to bring his check. Parrish and Goldlocks were just leaving the restaurant. Audrey sank back limply.

"And now," said Morton to the young man who stood before his desk next morning, "tell me how much money you have borrowed. Your accounts with me are O. K."

Parrish threw his head back haughtily. "Don't be insulting, Mr. Morton. Of course, my accounts are straight. I'm not a thief—but I did borrow."

"From whom?" asked Morton.

"From the men in the office."

"Why did you do it? Was it any fun?"

"Well," said Parrish, dropping his eyes, "Miss Morton said I was a stick-in-the-mud. And I couldn't stand that."

"So you started out to be a cake-eater and a four-flusher?" queried Morton relentlessly.

The young man did not answer.

"How much did you borrow?"

"Three hundred dollars. Every time I went out with—Miss Montgomery it cost me about fifty dollars. I spent all my savings, too."

Morton wrote a check and handed it to him. "Pay back your friends in the office, and return this money to me in weekly installments. And be glad it cost you only a few hundred dollars to learn that you're a young ass."

Parrish looked directly at him. "I'll take the loan, Mr. Morton, and I'll give you a note for it. But I can't work for you any more. I'm a failure at everything. Miss Morton doesn't like me, and you are losing patience with me. I'm going back to Crofton and get another job."

Morton nodded. "Perhaps it's just as well, Parrish." But his eyes dwelt kindly on the downcast face of the younger man.

When Parrish had gone out, taking his brief case and his other belongings, Morton sat very still some time, staring at the window. He did not even smoke.

The door of his office opened suddenly, and he started up. Audrey came in. "Please come on to lunch with me, Daddy. I'm so lonely."

He smiled at her reached for his coat and hat, and followed her out through the outer office to the elevator.

Outside the office building he stopped, and placed his hands on her shoulders, turning her around to face him.

"Are you unhappy, dear?" There was infinite tenderness in his voice.

Audrey's eyes filled with tears. "Daddy," she said, solemnly, "let's invite Mr. Parrish to dinner tonight. I feel that I'm to blame for his—"

"Parrish," said Morton, "has quit. He is on his way to Crofton."

How to stop BOILS!

There's only one way to stop boils. Stop the cause of boils! That's common sense—isn't it? All right. Boils thrive because the blood gets so weak in healthy, red cells that it can't throw off the impurities that get into the body. There's not enough rich, red blood to purify the system.

Now—S. S. S. builds back the blood to fighting strength. S. S. S. builds red-blood-cells—builds them by the millions! Boils dry up!

S. S. S. is the thing. Impurities that cause boils and other skin eruptions can't stand up against the rich, healthy, red blood that S. S. S. builds. That's all there is to it.

Stop boils with S. S. S. It's the way. Get it at any drugist. The larger bottle is more economical.

THE FOLKS BACK HOME

Farmers Busy Planting Crops; Corn Not Killed

Eastland county farmers are not behind with their corn planting to any appreciable extent; the corn has not been killed, and the crop is very promising, according to various farmers interviewed within the past few days.

H. V. Hodges, a dairyman, living two miles southeast of Ranger, who has a fifty-five acre farm planted to corn and other grains, says he knows of no farmer whose corn is not doing well. Other farmers state that they took some chances planting in the mud but the rains followed so soon the soil did not bake.

G. H. McClesky, another Ranger dairyman who has more than fifty cows, reports the rye and barley the best in the history of the county.

Oats are heading out fine in all portions of the county and oat harvest will come on within a few days, it is said, particularly where the crop is to be mowed.

Free predictions of the largest wheat crop ever grown in Eastland county are being made by various farmers heard from.

BOTH VERSIONS OF STRIKE

Premier Baldwin Gives His Version Of The Situation

By the Right Hon. Stanley Baldwin, P. C., Prime Minister Great Britain Written Exclusively for United Press Copyright, 1926 by United Press. Copyright all countries unauthorized reproduction prohibited.

LONDON, May 12.—I have received your invitation to convey a statement through the United Press to the American people. It seems almost superfluous, in view of the way in which the American public appears to have grasped the significance of the struggle in which we are involved, to reiterate the principles which are at stake.

At the beginning of the second week of the strike, it is reassuring to be able to state that the community has shown itself not only determined to overcome the threat which has been made to its constitutional and political rights, but fully capable of defending them efficiently and calmly.

There is no longer any doubt that transport and other vital services can be carried out effectively and are being improved every hour. Ultimate victory for the nation and of the cause of the constitutional government is, in fact, assured. For there must be no confusion between stoppage in the coal industry and the general strike.

They are two distinct issues. Stoppage in the coal industry has followed nine months of inquiry and negotiations. These negotiations will, I hope, be resumed directly, the general strike has been cancelled by the Trades Unions Congress and I shall continue my efforts to see that in any settlement justice is done both to the miners and the owners.

No one, I repeat, must confuse the issues in the coal industry, which are purely local and industrial, with the general strike which was called while negotiations between the Government, mine owners and miners were still in progress.

By calling this general strike, the Trades Union Congress tried to deter the railroads should not run; that transport should not move; that unloading of ships should stop; and that the nation should be paralyzed.

The attempt to hold up the nation has failed and it is to be hoped that before long the Trades Union Council and the men who have obeyed the orders, will realize the futility of continuing the general strike, collapse of which is inevitable.

Jameson Exhibits Head of Oats With 87 Grains On It

A head of oats 12 1/4 inches long containing 87 grains is on display at Jameson's grocery store, brought in by Mr. Jameson Tuesday, who accompanied Ab Pitcock to his 500-acre field of wheat and oats in Lacasa Valley.

This field bristles with grain and gives promise of one of the best grain crops ever seen in Central-West Texas. All the grain fields in Lacasa—Frankell vicinity are looking good, and are taken as an earnest of the grain crop situation throughout Central-West Texas. As Mr. Jameson expresses it, "Ab Pitcock is sitting on top of the world this year."

LOCHRIDGE—A telephone company has been formed to serve this city and vicinity with telephone service. It is the Lochridge Telephone Company.

Labor Retaliates Against Lockout Of Mine Owners

By the Right Honorable J. R. Clynes, M. P., president National Union General and Municipal Workers. Written exclusively for the United Press. (Copyright, 1926, in all countries, by United Press.)

LONDON.—No doubt the people in other lands misunderstand the position of British labor because there is a natural dislike of anything approaching a general strike. We can only state the facts and leave the verdict with the people.

The strike was begun with the greatest reluctance and began not because the leaders wanted it but because millions of workmen could see no other way of defending miners and showing their sympathy with men who already had suffered heavy wage reductions.

Many men who are against labor in this unfortunate conflict know the value of stating that trades unions are waging war against the British nation. These men cannot be classed as deliberate liars, but they are talking most egregious nonsense. There is no attack on popular gov-

Pimply Faced People Learning New Method

It is simply a question of knowing what it takes to clear out those diseases of the skin, like bumps, blotches, pimples, rash, eczema, "breaking out," etc., and the makers of Black and White Ointment, and Black and White Soap seem to have just what the skin needs to get rid of them quickly. The fact that more than two million packages of them are sold every year proves how popular they are.

Black and White Ointment and Soap are economically priced, in liberal packages. The 50c size Ointment contains three times as much as the liberal 25c size. All dealers have both the Ointment and the Soap.—(Adv.)
