NEW POLISH CABINET HAS BEEN FORMED

PILSUDSKI NOW IN CONTROL OF CITY, WARSAW

Fighting Continues
And Heavy Loss Of Life Is Reported

By United Press.
WARSAW, Poland, May 15.—Professor Edmund Bartel, today, succeeded in forming a new Polish cabinet. His government will take the place of that of Premier Witos, who resigned today along with President Wojciechowski.

PRESIDENT OF POLAND AND PREMIER RESIGN

By United Press.
WARSAW, Poland, May 15.—With the revolutionary army of Marshal Pilsudski in control of Warsaw, President Wojciechowski and Premier Witos have submitted their resignations to M. Rataj, president of the sejm Polish house of representatives.

The resignations were accepted. Rataj is now acting president of the republic. He will immediately commission a prospective premier with the task of forming a cabinet.

SITUATION BECOMING SERIOUS IN POLAND

By United Press.
WASHINGTON, May 15.—Direct State Department dispatches from Warsaw today stated that the Polish situation is growing more grave because of general strike and arming of socialistic civilians by Marshal Pilsudski, who completely controls Warsaw. The fighting still continues.

PRICES PAID FARMER ARE ON DECLINE

By United Press.
WASHINGTON, May 15.—Farmers are getting less money for their products now than at any time since last year, the federal reserve board in its industrial review today pointed to a general recession of agricultural prices, with grain, cotton, wool and livestock all going down.

2 World's Records Are Smashed At Manhattan, Kans.

By United Press.
MANHATTAN, Kans., May 15.—Two world's interscholastic school records and eight carnival records were broken and featured the annual high school carnival track meet held under the auspices of the Kansas State Agricultural College here today. Eight states sent representatives to the meet.

REALTY DEALS SHOW INCREASE OVER LAST YEAR

Nothing on earth is so valuable as the earth itself and no people are more intimately familiar with happiness conditions or growth and advancement than dealers in real estate. So, in this installment of the Ranger business survey, it is the purpose to let the heads of three real estate firms of the city and the man who owns more rental houses than any other man in the city, do the talking.

C. E. May who has been in the real estate business in Ranger since 1918, by a few months, the oldest dealer in the city said: "Ranger real estate now has a more stable value than any time in the last five years. More people are buying homes or contemplating building than at any time since boom days. Bargain seekers are out in the cold. Very seldom can you buy under the market. If something unforeseen doesn't happen, real estate values are going to continue to advance. The paving of a residence street with restrictions as a protection to the man who builds a nice home is the thing Ranger needs most."

C. E. Maddocks said: "Real estate values in Ranger are about 50 per cent higher than at this time last year. The demand for homes is so much stronger, there is no comparison. At this time, about everybody who has a job and expects to stay in Ranger, is anxious to own a home. Our sales for the past three months were more than 200 per cent greater than during a corresponding period last year."

Gas Explosion In Coal Mine Takes Four Lives

PITTSBURGH, Kans., May 15.—A gas explosion in the Cigarette coal mine late Friday cost the lives of four miners. Jesse Jamieson, 60 years old, his sons Hallie and Crockett and George Hollis.

Ended Strike

Sir Herbert Samuel, chairman of the British Royal Coal Commission, is given credit for ending the general strike. His peace proposals, calling for immediate resumption of work, a short continuation of the government coal subsidy, acceptance of a temporary wage cut, by the miners and adoption of the government coal commission's recommendations, finally brought peace to the two factions.

Marx To Form A New Cabinet For Hindenberg

BERLIN, May 15.—Following the failure of Otto Dressler to form a new German cabinet, President Van Hindenberg, tonight asked the former Chancellor Marx to attempt to organize a ministry to succeed the recently resigned Luther government. Marx promised his answer tomorrow.

Zimmerman Opens His Campaign For Governor

NAPLES, Texas, May 15.—O. F. Zimmerman, known in evangelistic circles as "Zim the Tiger," a gubernatorial candidate, opened his campaign before a big crowd here today. "Zim" declared that Ferguson was the chief and only outstanding issue of the coming campaign. "There is just one issue, and only one in this campaign, and that is Fergusonism," he said.

STATES RIGHTS IS COMMENDED BY PRESIDENT

Advance Paternalism
Of The Government
Is Severely Criticized

By JOHN MONTGOMERY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
WILLIAMSBURG, Va., May 15.—Government rule by organized minorities and bureaucracies was loudly condemned by President Coolidge today in a speech at William and Mary College where Virginia is celebrating the 150th anniversary of its part in the American Revolution.

Speaking before the governors and representatives of the states comprising the original thirteen colonies, the President upheld the pristine principles of Constitutional Government, reasserted faith in states' rights and again assailed sectionalism in administration, and legislation.

The growing paternalism of the federal government was regarded with disfavor by the President who urged the states to recapture and make secure their sovereign power. "The states should not be induced by coercion nor favor to surrender the management of their own affairs," he said.

"The federal government ought to resist the tendency to be loaded up with duties which the states should perform. I want to see the policy adopted by the states of discharging their public functions so faithfully that instead of an extension on the part of the federal government there can be a contraction."

Artificial propagandists and agitators are influencing Congress to a dangerous degree, the President believes. "Direct primaries and direct elections bring to bear upon the political fortunes of public officials the greatly disproportionate influence of organized minorities," he declared.

BAPTISTS PUT BAN ON EVOLUTION

HOUSTON, May 15.—The Southern Baptist convention laid its plans finally and definitely on the attitude that all of its schools, seminaries, boards and agencies shall take toward the question of evolution. The resolution question was determined Saturday when the convention in its third day's session adopted a resolution to that effect proposed by S. E. Hall of Pine Bluff, Ark.

The Saturday afternoon session, originally assigned to unfinished business has been suspended as the convention has completed its work and is ahead of the schedule.

AMUNDSEN HAS REALIZED HIS SOLE AMBITION

Nome Disappointed
At Not Receiving
The Big Explorers

By United Press.
NOME, Alaska, May 14.—Success has crowned Roald Amundsen's ambition of years to fly across the north pole.

At anchor near Tellur, 70 miles north of here, the sturdy craft of the Amundsen-Ellsworth-Mobile expedition rests after a 2,000-mile voyage from Spitzbergen to Alaska.

Aboard it are the 17 men who dared all to make the dash from one side of the world across the top to the other. After passing the pole Wednesday morning, the ship apparently headed for Point Barrow, and that night was at Point Barrow.

Last Two Days Flight. Thursday it followed the posts and cruised through the Bering sea and through the Bering strait.

Friday it devoted exploring in that region. During the night the ship was located near Tellur, Alaska. There was no information to indicate any land had been discovered. Then at 7 o'clock this morning, the people of Nome waiting for three days, heard the hum of the motors and saw the form of the big ship sailing in the distance.

OIL PRICES ARE BOOSTED A QUARTER

An advance of 25 cents a barrel on the price of all grades of crude oil in the North Central Texas district was posted by the Prairie Oil & Gas company Saturday morning. The raise, the second boost in the price in comparatively recent weeks, is highly welcome news to oil men as it adds approximately $2,000 a day to the revenue derived from oil in this country.

The bulk of the oil produced in the Ranger and Eastland fields will command a price of from $2.45 to $2.53 a barrel, under the new schedule. The price level is now one of the highest that has been reached since the end of the great boom more than five years ago.

Activities in the Eastland district have undergone decided stimulus in the past week with the finding of a new sand at 1,500 feet four miles east of the county capital that any open a new field; the encouraging oil showing of the wildcat well of Corcelius Bros., of Eastland, seven miles southwest of Carbon, and the announcement that one operator plans to drill 10 wells south of Eastland.

only one of its kind in West Texas. The installation of an equipment of that sort, is taken as an earnest of Mr. Gallagher's faith in Ranger. He has been steadily in business here for more than four years, living with his mother who owns her home in the city. Whatever the merits of the new washing system, and it is claimed they are multifold, it is the most expensive and substantial plant of the kind outside the larger cities.

The building up of Mr. Gallagher's business to its present dimensions from a small start, is one of the items in the count of Ranger's progress within the past few years.

Waste Oil Fire Gives Department Long Run Saturday

The smoke column rising from an old pool of waste oil on the Desdemona road, at about 9 o'clock Saturday morning, fooled the sense of perspective of numerous Ranger people who believed it a fire in the outskirts of the city. So strong was that belief at Saint Rita's school that someone turned in a fire alarm and the fire company rushed to Young addition with all their fire fighting equipment before discovering the error.

Forrest Goes To Thurber As Superintendent

Lyman E. Forrest for two years principal of Ranger High School has been elected superintendent of city schools at Thurber for the coming year and has accepted the position. He will leave with his family for Thurber soon and lay plans for his year's work, it is announced.

Principal Forrest came to Ranger from Thurber two years ago, he having been principal of the high school there for some years prior to taking up his work in Ranger. The position now accepted by him is in the nature of a promotion, the salary being substantially higher than his present salary, it is said.

Mr. Forrest received his A. B. degree from Trinity College, Wapakoneta, later taking post graduate courses at Texas University and Texas A. & M. College.

His acceptance of the position in Thurber will come as a distinct surprise to his many friends in Ranger, where it is understood his present position was open to him so long as he cared to hold it.

Holloway Favors Supervised Play For Saving Young

Juvenile delinquency knows no season, therefore a recreation program is important all year round, and to work out the provision of such an adequate playground and recreation program for Ranger is one of the purposes of the playground movement, which interests many of our citizens, said Supt. F. R. Holloway of the Ranger city schools, Friday. "Playgrounds keep children out of the juvenile courts," the Ranger superintendent said.

"They are one of the best preventive measures our cities have developed. They keep children so busy that they don't have time to do the things they ought not to do. As a juvenile court judge recently put it, 'Bill's so busy stealing bases that he hasn't time to steal anything else.'"

Free Time Problem
"The free time problem of our children is a tremendous one and this playground measure will be our first effective attempt to do something about it here in Ranger. School children have at least three hours, excluding the dinner hour, left free each day for five days a week. Besides there is the whole long Saturday and Sunday."

"And then there is the long summer vacation, which means a still greater leisure problem for most of the city's children, because only a part of them can find employment. While the children are in school they are safe. It is during these long periods of leisure that they get into trouble."

Something To Do
"Experience has shown that children prefer to do the right thing. Give them something worth while to do and they will not get into trouble. That is the simple and obviously effective plan which some of Ranger's citizens wish to put into effect. It is merely asking the city to provide the modest budget which such a program of constructive activities will require."

"Practically everyone recognizes the necessity for the supervised playground program in summer, to take the place of the formal school work which is suspended for the time, but it should be realized that an after school play program is equally important. There are just as many temptations for the child in winter as in summer, and the zest for them is even greater, because the children are tied down at their desks for so many hours that when they are released in the afternoon they may well be compared to caged animals."

Prieta Martinez Suffers Both Bones Of Right Foot Broken

"RED'S GREATEST TOUCHDOWN!"

Harold Grange, Famous Football Star, Places All That Wealth Can Buy at His Dad's Feet.

BY ROY J. GIBBONS
WHEATON, Ill., May 15. Behind the mask that Fame so frequently forces upon its favorites...

This is what the old dad has always wanted to putter around in, but never could afford. On his modest income as a deputy sheriff...

Builds $75,000 House
With money pouring in from all sides in the form of gate receipts, movie contracts and royalties...

It will have a billiard room and every other modern convenience. But most of all, it will have a large and spacious garden surrounding it.

Trains in the Garden
This garden will also be Red's gym. Under the watchful eye of his father...

Insists on Working
"My dad and brother Garland mean everything to me. I'm going to see the kid thru school and I'm going to make the dad take it easy if I can.

Money Won't Bother Him
"Harold will never be a playboy. His money will never bother him. He's got the Grange spirit too deeply planted in him."

no definite plans. He'll be out in California most of the summer in the movies.

And next fall he plans to enter school again to complete his studies for a degree at the University of Illinois...

"I know this can't last forever," says Red of his present fame. "But I've got everything I've ever wanted. And I'm going to make the best of what's at hand while it's here."

"I honestly haven't a single business program mapped out for myself when I finish playing football."

"I may go into the lumber business but I haven't given it any definite thought."

"And you can put this down as gospel truth. I positively not planning to marry anybody, here in Wheaton or any other city."

"Red's" father has quit his deputy sheriff job.

Just now he is busy directing the work of refurbishing the house that his son gave him.

"It's a mighty fine house," says the old man. "And Harold is a son to be proud of, just like his brother Garland."

"They're real men. That's what I raised 'em to be. That's all that counts. Character and not money is what the world needs today. Money is nice. But between the two character is the most important."

"And," says Harold, "if anybody thinks I'm going to settle down to a life of playboy

Ranger Relay Team State Winners Will Not Go to Chicago

The tentative trip planned by the Ranger relay team, winners of the Texas State meet, to the national meet in Chicago, has been definitely abandoned according to Coach Blair Cherry. The near close of school term, the heavy expense of the trip and the fact that other duties have prevented the team from keeping up its practice, led to this final decision, it is said.

It is believed the team will be still stronger next year and at that time, it is planned to take the winners, if such they be, to the national meet.

Thurber Miners Are Re-Inforced; 2 New Pitchers

Two hurlers have been secured by the Thurber Miners of the Oil Belt League and it is likely that one of the new members of the staff will be given an opportunity when the Miners play the Ranger Magnolias this afternoon at Nitro Park.

Harvey, former quarterback of the Ranger Bulldogs and former star pitcher for the Ranger high school team, is one of the twirlers obtained by Thurber. The other is "Lefty" Caraway, who was given a tryout with the Wichita Falls Spudders this spring and showed up well.

British Amateur Golfers Win The Challenge Event

SANDWICH, England, May 15.—American amateur golfers were vanquished today in their first test this side of the Atlantic when Major C. O. Hetzel, a British officer, won the Saint George challenge tournament. Major Hetzel, fighting most of the way against high winds from the English channel turned in a score of 158 for 36 holes, which was sufficient to beat the American amateurs, 69 entrants.

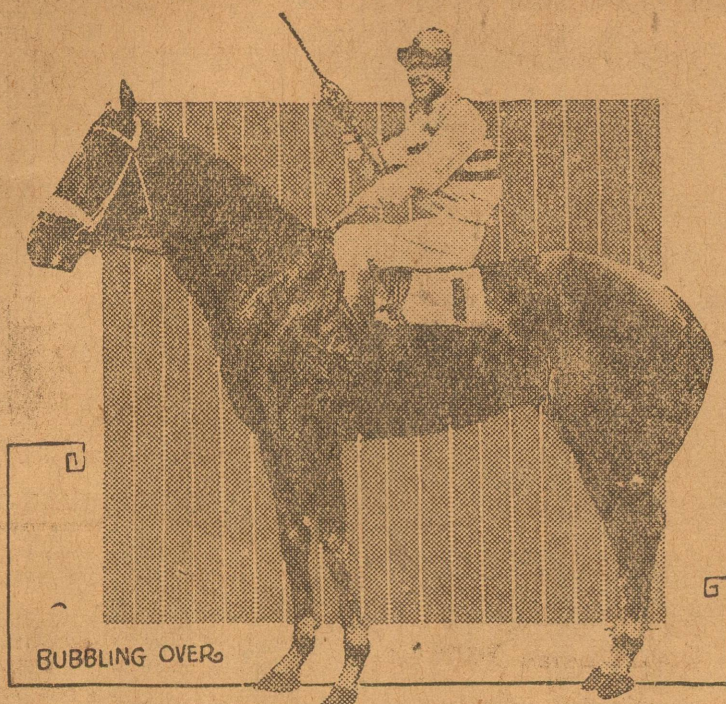

The winner was low for the morning round with 80 and turned in the best performance of the day with 78 for the second 18.

George Von Elm of California and Robert Harris, the English amateur champion were tied at 181. Von Elm was the leading American, although he had trailed Bobby Jones, Atlanta ace, at the end of the morning round.

Texas League Teams Scored Only 3 Runs In Friday's Games

Texas League scored exactly three runs Friday, rain putting an end to all but the San Antonio-Wichita Falls game which resulted in a 2 to 1 score in favor of Wichita Falls. Old baseball fans do not recall a day when so few runs were marked up in the league.

BUBBLING OVER WINS

BUBBLING OVER

By United Press. WASHINGTON, May 15.—Setting a new speed record in the Glen Curtiss trophy race for a navy seaplane, Lieutenant T. P. Jeter drove a single seater fighting ship 80 miles on the Potomac at an average speed of 131 miles an hour.

Churchill Downs, Louisville, Ky., May 15.—While approximately 70,000 spectators, mostly Kentuckians, bubbled over with enthusiasm, Col. E. R. Bradley's entries, Bubbling Over and Bag and Baggage, spread-eagled the Kentucky derby field this afternoon and won the first and second place in the Fifty-second America's greatest turf classic.

Reckman was third, well beaten by the Bradley pair, which simply galloped away with the rich turf prize worth $50,075 this year, leading the field, including the vaunted Pompey, pride of the East, far behind. Rhinock was fourth and Pompey was fifth.

Bubbling Over, the winner, was well ridden by Albert Johnson. He ran the derby mile and a quarter over a fast track in 2 minutes and 3 4-5 seconds, within 3-5 of a second of the track record, and within 2-5 of a second of the derby's record held by "Old Rosebud."

This was the second time that Colonel Bradley's horses had run first and second in the Kentucky derby.

Pompey, so the majority have it, will take the straight money this afternoon. If past performances have any bearing on the race, so they argue, he is certainly due to make the laurels, for in ten starts as a two-year-old he paid seven times as winner. During this period he brought $121,630 to the coffers of his owner, W. R. Coe of New York, which sum is a very good year's salary for a horse.

Kentucky's entry in Kentucky's race is Bubbling Over, owned by Col. C. E. Bradley. Horses entered by the Colonel are always respected. The people of this racing state are in almost all cases sticking with the home talent. Bubbling Over has a good record behind him, having won the Champagne Stakes at Belmont Park and making a good appearance in several other events.

By NEA Service. LOUISVILLE, May 15.—Bubbling Over, by virtue of a sensational victory in the Preparation Pure at Lexington the other day, is considered just as good a bet, if not more so, than the widely heralded Pompey. The stellar showing boosted Bubbling Over's stock considerably as a Derby favorite. Bubbling Over is from the celebrated Bradley stables. And that in itself means quite a bit. This son of North Star III and Beaming Beauty won several important starts in 1925, among them the Champagne stakes at Belmont and the Nursery Handicap. Bubbling Over is sure to be well backed when the contenders go to the post.

Sellers' Trim Lizzies; Final Fifth Is Fatal

A game that sent the grand stand into hysteria and showed easily the most snap, pep, speed and altogether good playing since the Business Men's League was started, ended in an 8 to 7 score in favor of the Sellers over Leveille-Maher Friday evening at Nitro Park, Ranger, the Salesmen staging a rally in the final fifth, after it looked like the Lizzies had the game on ice.

The score was 7 to 3 in favor of the Lizzies when the Sellers went to bat in the final twilight inning. Shank, who had pitched good ball throughout, made an error which let Wagner get on first. Jonz followed with a single and Coleman taking advantage of a fielder's choice in an effort to catch Wagner at third, was safe on first when two batters by Starr and Green tied it up and Green came in on what was marked stolen base, and made the fatal five, which gave the Sellers the edge and the game.

Umpire Nurse made some close decisions but without was counted A-1. It was noted however, that the home plate is partially concealed and will have to be examined and whitened for one-umpire games. Although as fair for one as another, it makes all but night-to-plate-center splitters balls instead of strikes.

The hits were even, Shank, Davis, Hayley and Pirkle getting hits for the Lizzies, and Cullon, Jonz, Starr and Green, for the Sellers. Pirkle got the only two batters for the Lizzies. Both Shank for the Lizzies and Echols for the Sellers did good work in the box, holding both teams scoreless till the second half of the second inning. The errors stood 8 to 9 against the Salesmen. The game was called at 6:10 and barely came to a finish of the required five innings before it was too dark to see the ball. The gate keeper resigned before half the crowd was in so a number saw the game free.

It is doubtful if any two teams in the league are more evenly matched than the two which played Friday. However the season is yet young. These games are attracting more and more interest and for real thrills have the big league games skinned a mile.

Chautauqua Backers Called, Meet Monday

The Ranger Chautauqua scheduled for May 31 to and including June 5, will be held under canvass at some location not yet designated.

A meeting of the three women's clubs sponsoring the Chautauqua, together with all guarantors, is set for tomorrow at 10 a. m. at the Chamber of Commerce, at which important business will be transacted in connection with this important event, it is stated, and the ladies are insistently urging a full attendance.

This will be the third season for the Chautauqua, it is said, and the program includes such attractions as Alamo serenaders; the comedy, "Apple Sauce"; Gray Sisters' concert; the big musical review, "Oh, Percy," and all-star cast in "Smilin' Through" and other numbers said to be of exceptional merit. More important still, the ladies who have these educational entertainments in charge have made a good start towards beautifying the school grounds and carrying on other civic work from the net proceeds of prior Chautauquas as they will continue to do it, it is announced.

Fans On Toes For Two Games This Afternoon

If Eastland keeps up her rate of improvement and reverses that loss-ball-accidental score, taking the game from Breckenridge, today, and Ranger takes one from Thurber, on the Ranger field, as per expectations, it will be a tie up between the Ranger "Mags" and the Breckenridge Dynamos for first place in Oil Belt League. Should Breckenridge and Ranger both win today, both playing on their own grounds, with the grand stands to help them, then next Sunday's game between Ranger and Breckenridge on the Breckenridge diamond, will give Ranger no more than a chance to tie it up. Should Ranger lose to Thurber today—But the Mags are not talking in terms of losing. And yet, baseball is baseball and the Miners have shown some good form recently.

Any way you take it, two crowds of fans—one at Ranger and one at Breckenridge are going to watch the games this afternoon starting when the clock strikes three, with deep and profound interest. The standing of two good Eastland county teams hangs in the balance. All hope may be upset before the end of the games. It is said the Miners have some hidden aces and are coming to to Ranger with blood in their eyes.

Dangerous in Any Competition

By NEA Service. LOUISVILLE, May 15.—Canter must be taken into consideration in the coming Kentucky jamboree. Canter was one of the big winners of the 1925 campaign. Among other races the Griffith nag won the Kentucky Jockey Club Stakes, Pimlico Futurity, Pimlico Homebred Stakes and the Sanford Memorial at Saratoga. Canter ran second to Pompey in the Belmont Futurity. Canter is a dangerous contender in any competition.

Eastland Lions Chew Up Ranger Beasts on Field

Blood is said to have flown freely during the bitter battle waged in Eastland Friday between the Ranger and Eastland Lions clubs. True none of the aforesaid blood got outside the veins of the rip-roaring beasts of the two neighboring cities, but it flowed down the veins which stood out in great whipcords on brows, and venom which it took several drinks of soda water to quench, was manifest between the two teams.

Salvation Army Tent Meetings Draw Big Crowd

The following comes from the heads of the Salvation Army relating to the tent meeting now in progress in Ranger, which is said to be drawing larger crowds each night:

In spite of the cold weather, the meeting continues with interest. The pentecostal fire is able to ride over all cold weather. We are expecting God to sweep in and give us mighty revival. The evangelist's message, "Conviction" gripped hearts and two came forward and were blessedly sanctified. The service closed with Hallelujah chorus and all went away "feeling that it was good to be there."

Saturday night, the subject was "Running From the Spirit of God," showing how people do fight off conviction and run from God, thereby losing their souls. Special songs will be rendered, "What Will it Profit a Man if He gain the Whole World and Lose His Soul?"

Be there or you will miss a blessing.

Don't Set Piano On Fire; Latest Spanish Slang

MADRID, Spain.—"Please don't set the piano on fire," is the newest Spanish catch, meaning approximately "don't start what you can't finish."

Its origin is curious. At San Roman de Montes, near Toledo, Isidro Alvarez, who ran a dancing establishment and was peevish of the success of another similar place recently opened in the same town, broke in to the rival dance hall, and pouring into the piano a gallon of petrol, set the instrument on fire. The flames spread rapidly and in spite of all efforts the whole building was destroyed.

You can have everything your children need by not having any children.

Royal Pomp Bows to Strike Emergency

The traffic crush in Whitehall when England's general strike broke out shattered an age-old tradition. The Horse Guards on duty found it impossible to relieve one another, with customary ceremony, owing to the unprecedented tangle of traffic. The stuck to their posts, for there was business to do, but they were mere chips in the current.

MUSSOLINI NOT LIKELY TO RISK WAR WITH TURKS SO LONG AS HE FEELS SAFE

By J. W. T. MASON
(Written for the United Press)

NEW YORK, May 14.—Danger of Mussolini involving Italy in a war with Turkey in the immediate future is too remote to be considered within the realm of practical international politics. Despite his outward display of energy and his fiery oratory, Mussolini is among the coolest headed statesmen in Europe. Since he became dictator of Italy he has invariably chosen small affairs to magnify for their political effect and has never allowed himself to get involved in any complication from which he would not withdraw if he realized he had undertaken more than he could accomplish.

Italy needs peace more than anything else for her rehabilitation which is now proceeding so well and so prosperously. Mussolini, to preserve his own hold on the government requires from time to time to give vent to spectacular displays and to temperance, so well loved by the Italians. It is possible that if he saw his power slipping he might take a chance with fate and involve Italy in a war for the glorification of the fatherland and the re-establishment of his personal authority. But, there is no sign whatever that his control over Italy is in any way weakening.

Deranged Woman
The action of the mentally deranged Irish woman who tried to assassinate him and Mussolini's own display of courage and calm at that time have solidified the dictator's hold on his country as no war could do. Mussolini does not now have to divide his attention between keeping himself in power and working for Italy's benefit. His seat is secure and will remain secure as long as he can demonstrate to his countrymen that his rule is nationally beneficent.

A war with Turkey would be too dangerous an undertaking for Mussolini to venture into it as a deliberate act of aggression. However, it might result, the expense would be very large and Mussolini would have to increase taxation to finance the campaign. Increased taxation is the most certain way of undermining any statesman's popularity, especially if the result does not benefit the people at large. An Italian-Turkish war could bring no economic benefits to Italy. There is not enough to be gained in Asia Minor for the Italians to pay the expenses of a protracted conflict. Glory and prestige even would be doubtful results of a victory, for were Italy to win a decisive victory over the Turks the other European powers would fear a disturbance of the balance of power in the Near East and would cooperate to undermine the Italian success. It might even be that after Italy had embarked on an Asia Minor campaign, France and Great Britain would unite in a declaration of principles preventing the Turks from being crushed. Italy would be unable to resist such a combination.

The possibilities of victory for Italy in Asia Minor would not be rosy even if the Italians were given a free hand. An alliance between Italy and Greece against Turkey, even, would not give the odds of victory to the European powers. Turkey showed surprising military ability and capacity in their recent defensive war against the Greeks. So much had they learned from the World War that they were able to brush back the Greeks, with ease, and but for the intervention of Great Britain, would have annihilated the Greek armies. The unexpected strength shown by the Turks not only caused a revolution in Greece but also was the immediate cause of Lloyd George's overthrow in Great Britain, he having picked the Greeks to win and having encouraged them to undertake their fatal operations in Asia Minor.

Nothing would be more precarious under these circumstances, than for Mussolini to proceed blithely forth upon an adventure which failed so lamentably when it was last attempted by the Greeks and Lloyd George. The Turks are not the undisciplined mob in battle array that they seemed to be before the World War. They, too, like Italy, have been under the direction of a dictator and fascism, under a different name, has been of as much comparative benefit to Turkey as it has to Italy. The two movements of government in Italy and Turkey have much in common. Instead of conflict between them, it would be more normal for the two dictatorships to incline toward each other for cooperation and mutual strength. In fact, Mussolini, who lives in terms of the unexpected, may come forth as the friend and associate of Turkey before long. If he is able to raise Italy's financial power to the point where Italy can make loans to Turkey for developmental work, such a policy as this would be of general international benefit.

Goldman Concert Band Has Joined The Broadcasters

By WILLIAM J. FAGAN
(United Press Radio News Editor)

NEW YORK, May 15.—Although WEAF has announced its re-scheduling of the Goldman Concert Band broadcasting for the summer of 1926, nothing has been heard regarding the broadcasting of New York's other major summer musical event, the Stadium concert.

Last season, WJZ and its associates, WGY and WRC, sent the Philharmonic's Lewishon Stadium concert out on the air, and it is reasonable to expect that they will be repeaters during the season which commences here in July.

At any rate, it is interesting to note that several of the conductors of last season will again yield the baton over the 100 odd musicians who complete the Philharmonic personnel, including Willem Von Hoogstraten, Nikolai Sokoloff and Henry Hadley. Frederick Stock, conductor of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra, ostensibly replaced Fritz Reiner of the Cincinnati Orchestra on the 1925 list.

Following is the schedule of the Philharmonic conductors whose interpretations of classic works will undoubtedly be heard by the radio army:

July 7 to 28, Van Hoogstraten; July 29 to August 3, Sokoloff; August 4 to 10, Hadley; August 11 to 17, Van Hoogstraten; August 18 to 24, Stock; August 25 to September 1, Van Hoogstraten.

Ball Player Improves The Cricket Game

By United Press.
LONDON.—The remarkable spectacle of an American improving English cricket has finally come to pass. An American baseball player has been called in by an English cricket club to teach the recruits how to throw.

The Australian test team players are here determined to give the Old Country another training and enthusiasm over the game is intense. The history of test matches between England and Australia, which dates about forty years, shows that the Australians hold a considerably greater portion of the honors.

The Australian cricketers have long excelled in two very important departments of the game. Their fielding is usually superior and their throwing is faster and more accurate.

These considerations persuaded Percy George Howard Pender when he made his revolutionary decision to inculcate an element of baseball in the Surrey Cricket Club, of which he is captain. He called in Shorty Muirhead, an American, to coach the team.

Muirhead turned up in the approved baseball uniform and immediately gave the Surrey cricketers a valuable lesson. He showed them the efficacy of throwing low. The English cricket method has been to throw the ball from the field to the wicket in a long high arch. Muirhead convinced his pupils of the advantage of keeping the ball close to the ground and bounding it home.

Back-lot stuff, of course, but very helpful to the cricketers. Muirhead worked with a baseball bat, slugging grounders to men in the field, and then holding his club end up from

Cheney Actors Display Talent, School Dramatics

Both Mrs. Marion Peters, director and Miss Mable Knight, secretary of the Little Theatre at Ranger are making favorable comments on the mixed school play given out in the arena at Cheney last night and drawing a tremendous crowd in spite of the cold weather. Tom Knight and Dewey Jones, also of the Little Theatre express pleasure at the way the Cheney players acted.

Ranger talent supplied music for the occasion. Leo Underwood, Miss Jaine B. Rucker, Aubrey Harkrider, Willis Cox Jr., Byron Reeves and Floyd Killingsworth giving several renditions.

Representative M. H. Hagaman of Ranger and Principal Andrews of the Cheney schools delivered addresses. M. F. Peters of Ranger and Secretary C. C. Patterson of the Chamber of Commerce, who in collaboration with W. W. Housewright, chairman of the trade extension committee, assembled the Ranger talent for the occasion, were among those present.

The play was given in connection with the closing exercises of the Cheney school which is said to have had an exceptionally successful term.

Bothered With Headaches?

A lot of people are. Some have headaches from one cause some from another. A very common cause is eye strain. Probably it causes more headaches than any other one thing. Here is good news—Where headache is caused by eye strain the headache can be stopped by getting rid of the eye strain. Glasses do that in thousands of cases. We supply them.

Burton McKay Spudded In No. 5, Ryan Survey

Special Correspondence.

STRAWN, May 15.—The Burton McKay Oil Corporation has spudded in their No. 5 well on the Isaac Ryan survey, adjoining the city limits on the south, and work will be rushed until the test is completed.

The pay is expected in this well at between 700 and 800 feet, but if not found at that depth, drilling will be continued until a fair test is made.

C. W. Donley of Ranger has completed a derrick for a well on the Thomas Ranch six miles west of Strawn. It is expected that this well will be spudded in about May 20. The contract depth on this well is 3,500 feet.

Eastland High Graduates Hear Sermon Today

Rev. J. Richard Spann of Southern Methodist University, Dallas, will deliver the baccalaureate sermon for the Eastland High School graduating class Sunday morning, May 16, at which time the following program will be given:

No Arrests Made In Cisco Jewelry Burglary Case

It was stated at the Eastland county sheriff's office Saturday morning that up to that time no arrests had been made in connection with the burglary of the Locke Jewelry Store in Cisco last Thursday evening at which time diamonds, watches, rings, etc., valued at $2,000 were stolen.

The robbery of this store is said by officers to have been one of the boldest burglaries pulled off in this section. It was stated shortly after 9 o'clock. Entrance to the building was gained by prying the screen wire off of a back door to a millinery store and through it reached the jewelry store.

Strawn Farmers Will Begin Harvest Oats On Monday

Oat harvest probably will begin Monday, in the Strawn vicinity, according to Ah Pitcock, who came in from there today and saw fields of grain ripening and ready to cut. Interviews with a number of farmers reveals the fact that the oat crop will break all recent years' records, and the only question in regard to the wheat crop seems to be whether it will be good, extra good or a bumper.

Very little rust has been reported and very little is feared as the sun shiny spells between rains seem to have given the wheat time to rid itself of the pest or to reduce it to a harmless minimum.

Most fools are self-made men. When starting trouble remember it takes much longer to end it.

The Early Byrd Catches the Grand Prize

Harmony "Not only is this one country, but we must keep all its different parts in harmony by refusing to adopt legislation which is not for the general welfare."

Our adherence to the World Court was touched upon by the President in a brief tribute to that part of the constitution that protected United States from external interference in our domestic affairs.

"Much emphasis has been placed on our political independence," he said. "It has become one of our most fundamental traditions of government, and rightly so. In our domestic affairs our sovereignty rises to its most complete state. We tolerate no outside interference."

However he immediately added, "While the rights of the citizen have been in no wise diminished, the rights of humanity have been very greatly increased."

"Our country holds to political and economic independence, but it holds to co-operation and combination in the administration of justice."

The President regretted the bitter sectionalism that prevented concerted action in movements for the general welfare of the nation.

"Our country ought to be done with all sectional divisions and all actions based upon geographical lines," said Mr. Coolidge.

Political Action "It would be difficult to suggest anything more likely to enhance the progress of our country than united political action in all parts of the Nation in accord with the advice of Washington for the support and maintenance of those principles of sound economics and stable constitutional government in which they so substantially agree."

"All sections have the same community of interests, both in theory and in fact, and they ought to have a community in political action to attempt to proceed upon any other theory can only end in disaster."

But such co-operation must not lead to centralization of government the President warned. The power of the states must be preserved, he declared.

"If the Federal Government should go out of existence, the common run of people would not detect the difference in the affairs of their daily life for a considerable length of time," he pointed out. "But if the authority of the States were struck down disorder approaching chaos would be upon us within 24 hours."

Procedure "No method of procedure has ever been devised by which liberty could be divorced from local self-government. No plan of centralization has ever been adopted which did not result in bureaucracy, tyranny, inflexibility, reaction, and decline."

"Of all forms of government, those administered by bureaus are about the least satisfactory to an enlightened and progressive people. Being irresponsible they become autocratic, and being autocratic they resist all development."

"Unless bureaucracy is constantly resisted it breaks down representative government and overwhelms democracy. It is the one element in our institutions that sets up the pretense of having authority over everybody and being responsible to nobody."

The speech was delivered in the historic "Sir Christopher Wren" building of the college, the oldest academic building on this continent.

DERVIN GALEREATH GOES TO AMARILLO Derwin Gilbreath, who has been with the Murray Drug Store in Eastland for some time, left Saturday night for Amarillo, where he goes to work for the same firm in a drug store.

Christians Pay Homage To Dean Of Its Ministers

Dr. Randolph Clark of Ranger, said to be the oldest Christian minister in Texas, was given an ovation and special attention by the press during the state convention of Christian churches held in East Dallas church, which closed Saturday night, according to Rev. H. B. Johnson, pastor of the Ranger church who has just returned from the convention.

"The East Dallas Christian church is the most remarkable church plant I ever saw," said Pastor Johnson, who was warm in his praise of Dr. L. D. Anderson of Fort Worth who delivered an early morning address each day during the convention, and who has reconsidered his resignation and will remain in Fort Worth. Other important features of the convention noted by the Ranger pastor were addresses by Dr. Chalmers McPherson, Dr. Rice of India and Mrs. Offra Anderson of the Japan and China missionary fields.

SALEM COMMUNITY CLOSSES SCHOOL WITH PICNIC

The Salem community enjoyed a picnic on the occasion of the closing of the year's term of the Salem public school Saturday. The affair is reported to have been largely attended.

Ranger Country Club Beautifying Course and Park

The Ranger Country club is blossoming out with the spring-time both figuratively and literally. A wealth of wild flowers on lawns and fairways, newly mown fairways, newly sanded and oiled putting greens, stately oaks surrounding the Old English style lodge, overlooking Hagaman lake make up an ensemble of things lending added charm to the spot which has long been recognized as one of the most picturesque of any country club ground in the country.

The piano has been repaired and tuned. The floors, waxed. A large sign warning off trespassers had been placed at the gate and it is said, no more vandals or others except actual club members and invited guests will be admitted, so the beauty of the place may be permanent and perennial.

One of the most important improvements is in the road leading to the grounds. The county is grading this road and plans are being laid by club members and people living along the route, to surface it with chat. This work as well as the beautification of the grounds is being carried on by the greens committee composed of C. B. Maddocks, Charles Terrell and Robert Coyle.

Officers of the club say there will be no change in policy so far as maintaining a club center for Ranger is concerned. The inhibition against vandals and trespassers is to apply to those who have no permission to enter the grounds. The country club has long been a civic center, it is noted, and will continue to be. Sarcely a week passes, it is pointed out, that some church, school, lodge or club does not use the grounds by special permission for a picnic or other function.

Our annual coal strike seems to have gone abroad for the summer.

Oak Ridge School Exercises Close Work of Term

The crowning event of the year in the Oak Ridge community was the closing exercises of the school Friday evening when all the little folks, misses and young men in their best bib and tucker rendered a delightful program for the entertainment of their parents and visitors.

The occasion was taken advantage of by the Trade Extension committee of the Ranger Chamber of Commerce, headed by W. W. Housewright to attend and help in the entertainment. Judge L. H. Flewellen delivered a short ten minutes speech, and Misses Marguerite McDonald, Evelyn Long, Emma Stephens, Beiva Dixon and Marguerite Adamson, sang and played.

The program of the school consisted of recitations, dialogues and musical numbers and was as follows:

Welcome, Alberta Windham; dialogue, Mothers Club; recitation, Fern Litton; dialogue, J. J. of Country Life; recitation, Norma Goforth; dialogue, "Getting Office Help"; recitation, Nina Crow; dialogue, Mary Lou's recitation; recitation, Ellen Pokrus; recitation, Irene Goforth; dialogue, recitation, Preston Williams; dialogue, "Tell Me What You Eat and I'll Tell You What You are"; recitation, Black Boley.

Secretary True Goes To Dallas To Convention

Miss Winnifred Dunkel will be in full charge of the Ranger Retail Merchants' association headquarters during Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of this week. Mrs. Alice True, the secretary, will attend the state Retail Merchants' association convention held in conjunction with the Texas Credit Men's association during that time.

Mrs. True is anxious to have as many members of the Ranger association as possible, attend the Dallas convention. Headquarters will be established at the Adolphus hotel, it is announced, and she asks all members of the Ranger body to look her up at that place and make as good a showing for Ranger as possible.

Maine-Bestirs Itself And Now Seeks Tourists

PORTLAND, Me., May 15.—Maine is in the midst of an intensive campaign to sell its climate to the American people.

True "boosters" of the Pine Tree state look upon the Florida boom as sort of an accident. They point with pride to the more than 1,000,000 persons, who, they claim, were attracted to this commonwealth last summer, and express no doubt but that this number will be appreciably increased during the coming vacation season.

The million tourists who visited Maine during the summer of 1925 left approximately $100,000,000, according to the State of Maine associates, resulting in a state-wide increase in business of 15 to 30 per cent.

As result of the last vacation boom, the organization claims, there is now on deposit in banks of the state more money than ever before.

Even Mellie Dunham's fiddling expedition to Detroit was part of the state's publicity drive, Gov. Ralph O. Brewster admits. Some 30 other old-time fiddlers previously had played for Henry Ford. According to the governor, a tremendous amount of work was necessary to make Mellie's visit outstanding, that Maine might benefit by the attendant advertising.

Also part of the publicity project was the recent tour of 150 Maine pilgrims, who visited Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Alabama, Virginia and the Carolinas, to spread the fair name of the Pine Tree state. Governor and Mrs. Brewster led the party.

For three years, the state's publicity bureau has been functioning, with "Winter in Florida, summer in Maine," as its slogan. At a recent meeting in Augusta, the Maine Pharmaceutical association, composed of some 500 druggists, voted to constitute themselves as branch information bureaus for the publicity bureau in furthering Maine's booster plans. Hundreds of cities and towns throughout the state are appropriating money for use in carrying out the state publicity campaign. Last year more than $25,000 was thus raised, all being expended for newspaper and magazine advertising.

In every store and show-window in Maine this summer tourists will see posters bearing these words: "40,000,000 bushels of potatoes; 15,000,000 acres of forests; 500 lakes and streams; 2,500 miles of seacoast and Lafayette National park."

Prairie Employee At Eastland Is Victim of Forger

Paul S. Oles of the Prairie Oil & Gas Company in Eastland, was the victim of a forger who forged his name to a number of checks on a bank in Independence, Kas., in which Mr. Oles carried an account. The forged checks, it is stated, were for $20 each and were passed by a youth apparently about 15 or 16 years of age, but very clever. So much so in fact that the officers have so far been unable to apprehend him.

Secret Tombs Are Abandoned By Yale Frats

By A. ROBBINS (United Press Staff Correspondent)

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 11.—No longer will the trembling undergraduates be led into the inky blackness of the "tombs," and the visitor to New Haven inquire in horror why so many mausoleums are allowed around the best residential streets—

With the opening of a new fraternity center, near the Yale theater, the century-old tradition of secrecy will be abandoned. For more than 100 years the Yale societies have been built around the system of privacy, both in buildings and in affairs, so that outsiders hardly knew which fraternities were represented at Yale and the campus is studded with queer looking "tombs."

The change was hastened and brought to a head by the fact that three of these fraternity tombs will be torn down to make way for the new $6,000,000 Sterling memorial library. The new houses will be like any other clubhouses. They will have private halls for fraternity meetings, but the rest of the buildings will be open to non-members as well as members.

Crowds Throng Piggly-Wiggly On The Opening Day

Something like 1,500 sweet pea blossoms vanished like frost before the morning sun, at Piggly-Wiggly's opening Saturday as did a vast number of sandwiches, weinies, cups of coffee and other treats and favors given out to signalize the event.

Seven clerks were kept busy trying to take care of the crowds, which at times, reached the proportions and characteristic of a mob. They jostled one another good naturedly. It is said, and everybody went away pleased with the event.

CHAPTER XLII

Morton put his hand to his eyes in a bewildered manner. "My God," he groaned. "What will come of all this?"

He gently disentangled Nona's clasping arms and waded to a couch by the window. After a moment he turned to look at her, as she still stood beside the little table, her head listlessly drooping.

"I don't know what in the world to say to you, Nona. I've told you so many times how things are with me. But you make me feel like a brute, and heaven knows I don't want to hurt you."

She ran across the room to him and crouched beside him on the sofa. "Harry," she pleaded, "just let me stay with you. That's all I ask. I know it's unwomanly to beg you like this, but I can't help myself. You are everything to me, Harry!" She tugged at his coat again. "If I go to London it's the end for you and me."

Morton looked at her gravely and held both her fluttering hands tightly in his own. "Listen, Nona. Maybe I've been wrong to tell you to go away. God knows I don't want to do you any wrong. I've lived through too much in my time not to be compassionate toward other people."

"It's a fine thing that I should have to plead for compassion, isn't it?" said Nona, bitterly. "When all I really want is love? But even your pity will satisfy me, if it lets me stay with you."

Morton looked at her again. "Nona, dear, I can't make a decision now. I haven't told you yet, Nona, but a great disaster has struck my home. I came away to see you only because it seemed that the message was urgent and because I am fond of you."

"Audrey is lying very ill in my apartment. The doctors do not know whether her mental balance will be restored. She collapsed night before last, just after I got home from your apartment. She has lain unconscious ever since, and at any moment she may awake and call for me. When she does I must be there. If I weren't I should break my heart."

Nona stared at him uncomprehendingly for a second. Then her face softened to pity. "Dear Harry, I am sorry. Why didn't you tell me? I wouldn't have intruded upon you at such a time if I had known."

Morton bent over and kissed her. "That's my old sweet, unselfish Nona, ready to forget her own woes for those of others." she

"Is there anything I can do?" she asked. "I'll come with you if you want me to."

He shook his head. "There are nurses and doctors and even I can do nothing, Nona. Audrey would not know you if you came. But I thank you for the wish to come."

He picked up his hat and she clung to him for just a moment. "I do love you," she said. "But I know you love Audrey better."

"Not better," he said, "just differently."

The doctor met Morton on the stairs leading to Audrey's room. "Doing very well, I think," he said, as Morton followed him into the hall. "The nurse tells me she has been stirring a little and speaking in her sleep. She should awaken some time today and give us some clue as to her condition. I am hoping for the best."

Then he turned to Morton. "You haven't been to bed since she was taken sick, the nurse says—not that she would need to tell me. You're looking like death itself. I tell you, man, if you wish to be of any use to that girl when she does come to you have got to go to bed at once—take a sleeping potion—anything, to make you sleep."

Morton shook his head. But the doctor went on. "Now you go up stairs and draw a warm bath. Get into it and stay for three-quarters of an hour. Then the nurse will bring you a glass of liquid, which you are to take. After that get into bed and stay there till five o'clock this afternoon, unless your ward wakes and calls for you. Whether you sleep or not, lie flat on your back. But I think you'll sleep."

Morton assented helplessly. The doctor picked up his bag and hat. "By the way," he said, as he neared the front door, "who is this John Parrish?"

Morton stared at him. "He is—or was—my secretary. But he quit my employ a few days ago. Why do you ask?"

"Because," answered the doctor, "Miss Morton is calling for him. All of her feeble, broken exclamations have alternated his name with yours. If he is within reach better send for him. She is sure to want him when she wakes up."

Morton replied, "I hoped she would fall in love with him at one time, doctor. But she was interested only in her mistaken idea that she wanted to marry me. I don't know whether I can reach him soon. They quarreled before he left."

The doctor said nothing more but went out toward the elevator, while Morton stood in the doorway watching him.

When the rectangle of light rose in the shaft behind the grating and the iron door of the elevator slid back, a young man stepped out, rushing toward Morton's door with such haste that he nearly knocked the doctor's satchel out of his hand. "Mr. Morton!" he gasped, his frightened eyes bulging. "How is Miss Audrey?"

The doctor looked up quickly, while the elevator man waited. "This is Parrish, doctor," said Morton, and the other smiled and stepped briskly into the waiting lift.

Morton turned to the young man. "Audrey is very ill," he said, "but we hope she will take a turn for the better today. She has been calling for you."

Parrish flushed. "I came the minute I heard from your Crofton office that she was ill. When can I see her?"

Morton smiled. "Not so fast, young man. She doesn't know anybody now. She hasn't been conscious for two days. I've sat with her every minute."

Parrish grasped his arms. "She isn't going to—?"

Morton frowned. "No, you young idiot. She isn't going to die, the doctor says. But we don't know what state her — her nerves will be in when she comes to. She has had a complete collapse. But come into the dining room and have some breakfast."

Parrish made a deprecatory gesture, but Morton led the way. When they were seated at table, he leaned forward toward the younger man. "Let me give you some advice. When Audrey wakes up, if she wants to see you, we'll let you go in. It's my conviction that she likes you much better than she herself realizes."

"If you're wise you will be calm and gentle and let her talk herself out. That is, of course, if Audrey is able to see you at all. God knows how she will be. Parrish, I've almost gone mad these last hours."

He sprang to his feet and began to pace the floor.

Parrish gazed at him in silent consternation.

The nurse appeared at the door. "I have prepared your medicine, Mr. Morton. When you have taken your bath I will bring it to you." Her tone was quietly reproachful.

Morton threw his arms wide. "Great heavens," he exclaimed. "I'll come. I'll take the medicine—but I wish to goodness you wouldn't bother me. I'm alright, I tell you."

He started toward the door.

When he had gone the nurse said to Parrish, "He says he's all right but he's just on the edge of the kind of crash that laid Miss Morton low."

Parrish was speechless. When she went away he tried in vain to eat the fruit and cereal set before him. At length, leaving the table, he sauntered into the hall and up the stairs. Near Audrey's room there was a little landing aloft and here he took up his post, his anxious eyes glued to the bedroom door.

The nurse came back from giving Morton his sleeping potion and saw Parrish sitting there. She went on into the room, giving him a curious glance.

A moment later she was back again, excitement in her eyes. "Are you by any chance John Parrish?" she asked.

The boy rose, nodding. "What is it?" he choked. "Is she worse?"

"No," the woman replied. "She's awake for the first time and she's asking for Mr. Morton and you. I've told her that he is asleep. The doctor says we mustn't cross her. Will you come?"

He sprang toward the door. "Be quiet, now," the nurse admonished him. "Remember that she's in a very precarious nervous condition."

Parrish made an obvious effort to control himself.

Audrey's room was still partly darkened, but the nurse was tiptoeing from window to window, slightly raising the shades. Then she went to the bed, where Audrey lay, with her face turned away from the door.

"Here is a guest, Miss Morton. Mr. Parrish has come. I think you wanted to see him. But you must talk very quietly or the doctor will be angry."

Pale and large-eyed, Audrey turned her head toward the door. Suddenly she held out her arms weakly. "John," she said.

The boy was on his knees beside her, holding her hands in his. "Audrey, dear, are you better?"

She nodded slightly. "I feel all right. But so tired. I've been asleep all day—and my head is so heavy. I wonder why it is."

The nurse stepped up brisk and cheerful. "You've worn yourself out sleeping, Miss Morton. But you will soon feel yourself again. Just take it easy."

"What are you doing here?" asked Audrey, for the first time noticing the uniform of the first time noticing the uniform of the nurse.

"I came in to relieve Mr. Morton."

The nurse lied. "He insisted on sitting with you every minute, and I've just got him to go to bed. He's worn out."

"Don't wake him," said Audrey. "I want to talk to John here, anyway. Would you mind—?"

The nurse smiled and withdrew.

"John," said Audrey, when she was gone, "I've been wanting to tell you I was sorry I called you a stick-in-the-mud. All the time I've been asleep I've been dreaming about that and about daddy. You're both so (Continued on page three.)"

Cowboy Wants Two Step Sons Put In Jail

By United Press.
DALLAS, May 15.—A cowboy's "lament" that was full of pathos is in possession of the local chief of police.

From out in the "wide open spaces" of the Texas Panhandle came a letter to Chief of Police Claude Trammel:

"Please catch two fellows who are operating in your city, burglarizing, and put them in prison with long sentences," was the plea in the letter.

"They are my step-sons and every time they are caught my wife makes me get them out. It costs me nearly a thousand dollars every time, in addition to replacing the goods they stole," the letter said.

Weights On His Wrists While Ray Beats The Piano

By United Press.
ST. PAUL.—Short punches and jabs have their place in the world of music as well as in fistiana.

Huston Ray, for instance, knocks about as much income out of a piano annually as Jack Dempsey knocks out of other folks' chins, and the screen.

The boy pianist has just patented a system of using weights with which he trains to play. They are not unlike weights used by boxers in gymnasiums. Ray hangs the weights on his wrists when practicing to strengthen his hand and wrists and stimulate circulation. They lend force to his touch.

"In playing the piano," Ray told the United Press, "the touch is the thing. I weigh 130 pounds and at times, sitting on the edge of my bench, I lift my body on any finger of my two hands. Out of curiosity I once made a test and found that I could put 128 of my 130 pounds of weight on my fingers in playing."

"I use short punches and jabs much as a boxer does. It requires much force in the rendition of certain numbers and I must keep my fingers and wrists in shape. I can play for three hours with a five and one-half pound weight on each wrist without tiring."

Ranger Building & Loan Association,
Mr. J. H. P. Jones, Secretary,
Ranger, Texas

Dear Mr. Jones:

After moving to Ranger, Texas, seeing property being sold for less than one-half of its value, finding the people desiring to move away from the town, and finding that there were no companies loaning money on real estate in Ranger, and knowing that a building and loan association would remedy all of these conditions; and after discussing the matter with a number of citizens interested in Ranger, I decided that an investment in the Ranger Building and Loan Association would not only enable me to get paid for saving my money, but would at the same time assist in making Ranger a better place in which to live.

So for the above reasons I have invested in the Ranger Building and Loan Association. I consider this investment safe, profitable and convenient.

Yours very truly,

Real Art Noted In Sowing Seed Evenly and Thin

Sowing seed outdoors, evenly and thinly is a real art acquired only after considerable practice. The knack, however, is gained by trying out a few packets. The trick is in holding the packet flat between the thumb and second finger, with the forefinger held above it in a position to tap the packet regularly and just sufficiently to cause the seed to feed out. When the packet is opened the flap is creased to make a little trough down the center through which the seed, under the gentle tapping of the forefinger, will trickle slowly forth so that it is possible to sow it reasonably thinly. More seed is wasted by thick sowing than in any other manner for when the plants come up in thick tufts from seed dropped in a mass only a very few of them have a chance to grow.

Sow seed as a general rule with a covering equal to twice its thickness. The finer the seed the less the covering of earth until the finest and dust-like seed only to be sprinkled upon the surface and pressed in. Vegetable seed, fortunately, is, for the most part, on the coarse side and can be sown much more easily than flower seeds, many of which are powder fine.

The ground having been spaded and worked to a fine tilth, make the rows for the seed run north and south so far as practicable as a matter of securing an even division of sunlight. Make the rows with the point of the hoe or with a plant label for the smaller ones or some other convenient pointed instrument, such as the big blade of a jackknife, and then scatter the seed. The depth of the row for the seed is determined by the size of the seed. Thin sowing will do away with considerable thinning after the seed is up.

Cover the seeds and tamp the earth firmly over them. This aids in germination by bringing seeds and moist earth into close contact at the start. If covered with powdery earth it will be necessary to wait for a rain to pound the soil and make the contact.

All of the early garden seeds are now to go into the open ground and transplanting of others will be the order of the day.

Fine wedding present is a "Small-fox" sign for nailing on the door when bill collectors start.

TEXAS FURNISHES WORLD WITH BEAUTIFUL PHLOX TO DECORATE THE GARDEN

When the English botanist, Drummond, sent seed of a brilliant little plant he found in Texas home to England in 1835 it was a nine-days' wonder and figured prominently in all the English horticultural publications. This plant, after a European training, came in force into American gardens bearing its collector's name, Phlox Drummondii. One writer in 1837 said:

"A bed of this plant has hardly yet been seen for it is far too precious and uncommon to be possessed by anyone except in small quantities." There is no difficulty now in having beds of any size we desire of this brilliant Texas annual. Its range of color and form have been greatly increased since the day of Drummond, who would hardly recognize it as the same plant were he alive today.

This is one of the showiest and most easily grown of the whole race of annuals, coming into bloom quickly. It is best sown in the open ground and the plants should be given six inches of room in which to develop. It is too often sown broadcast and not thinned. It gives a mass of bloom but of inferior quality and the blooming season is short. We now have star-flowered and fringed sorts but while interesting they are inferior in beauty to the large-flowered grandiflora types with their varicolored petals with lighter or darker eyes.

From the original purple types we now have at least a dozen distinct colors in Phlox Drummondii. It is an excellent plant for cutting as well as for its brilliant masses of bloom in the garden. It is used with fine effect in rose beds and in window boxes. They are at their best, however, in masses of substantial proportions in the garden. It is one of the annuals that is well planted in mixed varieties. The scarlets and crimsons are particularly vivid.

Jap Film Stars Receive $450 Month's Work

By United Press.
TOKYO.—A light upon the salaries paid moving picture actors in Japan has been thrown by the young ladies who have been appearing in the minor roles of the Toa motion pictures production, who have walked out on strike. These young women claim that they have been working for a year with the company without salary, on condition that they be taught the way in which stars are made. Now that they are experienced artists, the company offers them 10 yen a month (around $4.50) to stay on, so they have struck.

Chrysler "70" satisfies the growing desire to make the dollar go farther—to make it buy more comfort and enjoyment.

Chrysler "70" is far less costly to buy and to keep. It gives twice the gasoline and oil mileage of many cars which it equals and surpasses in speed.

But Chrysler "70" superiority doesn't stop with a phenomenal performance. It goes deep into materials and manufacturing. No car is built with such superior Chrysler materials; no car is built to last so long. The result is that Chrysler "70" runs up without constant maintenance in a way that arouses the admiration of men and women who own the very costliest cars.

Let us show you the Chrysler "70" in it, drive it. That is the only way to fully appreciate its remarkable

Business Men Are Not Eating Much These Days

By United Press.
YOUNGSTOWN, O., May 15.—

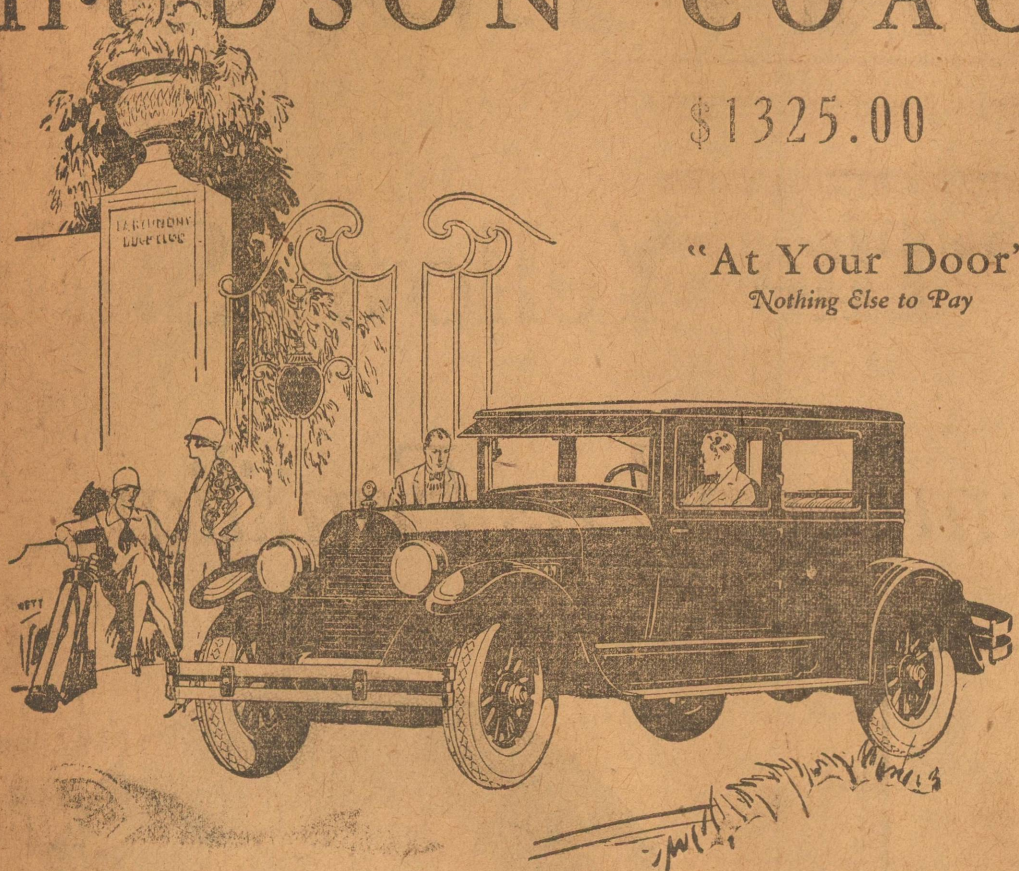

Those halcyon days when business men sat down at a restaurant table, and slowly and peacefully consumed big, hearty meals, are now things of the past, and together with pretzels and free lunches, have been thrown into the limbo of retrospection.

This is an "eat-on-the-run" generation, according to Tom Robinson, 67, who has completed more than 40 years service as a waiter. "Today," Tom recites ruefully, "They rush in breathlessly, give their orders and rush out, after devouring a few graham crackers and a glass of milk."

All Closed Car Comforts — Masterful Performance — Low Cost

Note Well These Claims—They Are Supported by 800,000 Owners

Lasting pride of ownership comes from masterful performance, ease of operation and maintenance, from reliability and economy.

These qualities cannot be revealed by any other test than actual performance over long periods of time and in the hands of every type of user.

Hudson holds first advantage because of its patented Super-Six—the world's most famous motor. More than 800,000 have been built by Hudson under its exclusive principle. For 11 years it has been outstanding because of distinctive smoothness, wide flexibility, power, speed, and reliability.

Hudson is easy to steer. Its power range is so great that gear shifting is lessened, and the riding action is so well arranged that long hours at the wheel are not tiring.

Economy is found in low operating and maintenance cost.

These are the qualities that make genuine satisfaction. Upon such a chassis is mounted the Coach. It gives all closed car comforts. It is sturdy, beautiful in line, and complete in every practical detail. Its sale has exceeded that of any closed car priced above $1,000. That production has led to greater economy and much lower prices. It has permitted many improvements in chassis and body.

So today's Hudson Coach is not only the best ever built. It also is priced lower than ever before.

Oppose World's Court But For Cal Coolidge

By PAUL R. MALLON,
United Press Staff Correspondent.
WASHINGTON, May 15.—A Kiwanian banker-farmer of a small Iowa town who visited Washington on a pleasure trip recently brought an interesting story of how the staunch republican chambers of commerce groups in his cornbelt state view the recent blending of national issues in congress.

They are strongly against the world court, he said; even more strongly against the administration farm relief program; but just as strong as ever for President Coolidge.

"The better business people of our town still have strongest confidence in Mr. Coolidge even though we believe he is wrong on American adherence to the world court and on some of the most important angles of farm relief legislation," he said.

"There is a lot of sentiment spreading for former Gov. Frank Lowden of Illinois, because of his stand for farm relief, but our group generally thinks Mr. Coolidge with the sanity of his many other policies is a better man to rely upon than anyone else.

"I don't believe the way we feel on the world court and farm relief, however, will make any votes against the administration for Senator Smith W. Brookhart in the June primary. Our group has always been opposed to Brookhart, and I don't know any one of my friends who is going to vote for him. We would rather stand by the president in his general policies."

Strange enough, Brookhart stood against the world court and for the kind of farm relief legislation the Iowa group desired.

Democrats Active.
The democratic machinery for the congressional campaign is running in full blast again. Statements setting forth the democratic position upon pending issues are being issued continuously from the newly organized democratic publicity office here. Stump speakers are becoming more and more active through the states and Representative Oldfield, democrat, Arkansas, chairman of the democratic congressional campaign committee, is making an effort to reach every democratic organization in the country with campaign material.

Not One in 52 Years.
For 52 years the state of Pennsylvania has not elected a democratic senator, yet democrats here see a chance for former Secretary of Labor William B. Wilson, democratic candidate this year, because of the split in republican ranks. If Wilson

Haugen Farm Relief Bill To Boost Prices

By CHARLES P. STEWART,
NEA Service Writer.
WASHINGTON.—If congress adopts the Haugen farm relief plan and it gets by the president—who, however, doesn't like it—it will mean higher food prices.

Some of the plan's friends have denied this, or, at any rate, they said, the increase will be trifling.

For instance, take a 10-cent loaf of bread. Only two cents worth of wheat goes into it. The baker's overhead and profit account for the other eight cents. The Haugen plan will increase the cost only of the 2 cents worth of wheat, so the consumer won't be much, if any, affected.

That's the argument. Congressman Gilbert N. Haugen of Iowa punctures it. As the plan's author, he, if anybody, ought to know how it will work.

Congressman Black of New York asked him, point blank, the other day, "Will your bill raise the price of food?"

"There's no denying it will add to prices," was Haugen's answer. The Iowa did, indeed, say the considerations referred to above, would act as a brake on the advance, "But, to be frank," he conceded, "we assume the bill will raise the cost of living."

Just how stiff the increase will be Haugen admits he can't tell. That's one of the things about a protective tariff that it's mighty hard to do up in advance, and a protective tariff is what Haugen's aiming at—a protective tariff, in reverse.

The manufacturer's protected by a tariff. Labor's protected by immigration restrictions.

The farmer's protected by nothing at all.

Cotton Acreage In Cultivation 48,900,000 Acres

By United Press.
WASHINGTON, May 15.—The cotton area in cultivation on June 25, 1925, was 48,900,000 acres. The crop reporting board of the agricultural board announced officially today. Yield of lint cotton per acre for 1925 was 167.2 pounds.

The cotton production for 1925 census ginners as reported to March 20, was 16,860,000 bales.

should be elected he would be the second democratic senator from Pennsylvania since 1856, a period of 80 years.

New Gold Rush Has Started In Alaskan Fields

By United Press.
WRANGEL, Alaska, May 15.—The lure of gold is again bringing stampede to this northern country.

Although returns last season from the Cassiar fields would not seem to warrant much excitement, many mining outfits are invading the Dease river district seeking the yellow metal.

Favored by a mild winter, prospectors and miners began pushing into the interior early in the season. But the advance was very business-like, not a bit resembling the earlier sourdough days.

Snow-packs and ice have disappeared, to further detract from the story-book conception of a northern gold rush. Cassiar is not another Klondyke. Word from Telegraph Creek, B. C., up the Stikine river, told how the river was free of ice early and of light snowfall in the mountains.
