BROOKHART LEADS CUNNINGHAM IN IOWA

FARM RELIEF ADVOCATE IS FAR IN LEAD

The Administration
Receives Body Blow,
The Result of Primary

By United Press.
DES MOINES, Iowa, June 8.—The probability that three candidates will be in the field for the election to the senate from Iowa, loomed today, as the nomination of S. W. Brookhart, republican nominee seemed assured.

"We assure the citizens of the state that this campaign, is not ended, that it will continue until we have won," a statement from the headquarters of Howard Clark, who ran third for the nomination.

The returns from 1,501 precincts show Brookhart, leading, with 553,223. Cummins, 112,792; Clark, 49,654.

Visiting County
Brookhart appeared in person in every county of the state during the campaign, impressing upon the voters his advocacy of farm relief which he charged the administration had neglected and appealing for a return to the senate which unseated him in favor of Daniel Steck, his democratic opponent in the 1924 election. Meanwhile Cummins has remained at work in Washington, his supporters arguing that his usefulness to Iowa was better served thus than if he had abandoned his senatorial campaign at home.

Farm relief was regarded as the most important issue to the people of Iowa both Cummins and Brookhart have sought during the campaign to take advantage of it. Cummins' leaders have pointed out that Cummins is one of the senior senators, that he possesses power and influence in the senate, and that he is far more capable than a new senator of securing farm relief for the corn belt.

DENISON TRACT DAM REBUILT BY GHOLSON

A dam 34 feet high, 600 feet wide, and covering 200 acre-feet, right in the middle of a 3,000-acre tract, recently has been restored to its former glory, by two enterprising Ranger business men. This dam, which is on the south fork of the Cottonwood creek, broke during the heavy rains of 1921 and the dam and its volume of water were swept down the canyon. This dam which was built by the Gulf production company, who were at that time heavy operators in this section of the country, was never rebuilt and lay in its devastated state until a vision of future needs inspired John M. Gholson, the owner of the land, and W. P. Dykema, of the Southern Gasoline company, whose large plant is near by, to undertake the task of rebuilding it some months ago.

It was a stupendous task. The dam had given way down to the original creek bed and it required 7,000 yards of dirt to replace it. This was accomplished and the heavy rains of this spring have filled the basin about half full. This dam is said to be in a beautiful location and was on what is known as the U-Bar ranch, before boom days, but became famous during the hectic years of 1918-1919 as the Dennison tract.

It has recently been stocked with 1,000 catfish and in a few years will provide a happy fishing ground for those privileged by friendship or relationship to enjoy its beauty and privileges. It lies about seven and one-half miles northwest of Ranger, not far from the big casinghead gas plant of the Southern Gasoline company, and assures them and Mr. Gholson a perpetual water supply.

BANK BANDIT ESCAPED IN AIRPLANE

By United Press.
DALLAS, June 8.—An oral statement admitting that he piloted an airplane in which one of the bandits escaped who held up the Jefferson Bank & Trust company last week, was made to the police here today by one of the two suspects arrested here last night.

Identity of the aviator and another suspect was made by officials of the bank when four masked bandits escaped with approximately $20,000 in a noon-day holdup. No charges had been filed shortly before noon.

In a statement to Chief of Detectives Gunning, the aviator said that he carried one of the holdup men to Houston where the plane was sold. Then the men came back to Dallas and were picked up here Monday night.

One of the suspects recently was pardoned from the state penitentiary where he was serving a robbery sentence, Gunning said.

The detective believes that a part of the bank's loot is concealed at Houston.

WANT RECORDS OF GOVERNOR'S OFFICE IN CASE

Alleged Osage Indian
Slayer Puts Up Hard Fight For Freedom.

By United Press.
PAWHUSKA, Okla., June 8.—The highest officials of the state and other prominent men were subpoenaed by the defense in the first of the Osage murder trials in which the state is attempting to prove that an enormous plot was enacted by white men to murder the aborigines for their wealth.

The subpoena was mailed from Osage county postoffice at noon to Gov. M. E. Frapp, Lieut. Gov. W. J. Holloway, former United States Marshal Alva McDonald and Parker LaMoore, secretary to the governor.

They will testify in the trial of Ernest Burkhardt charged with murder of W. E. Smith, who met death when his home was bombed three years ago. Mrs. Smith and a servant girl also were killed.

Parker LaMoore's subpoena requested that he produce all telegraphic and other correspondence between the governor and the United States district attorneys' office, the Oklahoma bureau of identification and Assistant United States District Attorney Edwin Brown relating to the release from prison of "Blackie" Thompson.

Thompson, it is alleged, furnished the federal operatives with evidence for which he received his release from the state penitentiary after he had served 23 days of a 25-year sentence.

Chamber Endorses Supervised Play Ground Movement

The supervised play movement was endorsed by the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce at its meeting last night. It also was decided to send C. C. Patterson, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce as a representative of the body to the convention of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce at Amarillo on June 21 to 23, inclusive. A number of other important matters relating to industries sought after by the body were discussed and considerable correspondence read, but no final action was taken.

The proposition of inaugurating a "Buy-It-At-Home" campaign was discussed and agreement reached to conduct one under the auspices of the Ranger Times. Editor Chopsie S. Welsh agreed to aid in the campaign and help put it over.

It was decided to call on the city commission and find out why the Chamber of Commerce can not get the funds that are due it collected with the other taxes of the city. John Gholson will head the committee to call upon the commission at its session this afternoon to thrash out the matter. According to the report of Secretary Patterson, its hand-to-mouth existence for the body, because of inability to get funds from the city that are due.

This report brought out considerable discussion on the part of all present. Gholson took the position that the city acted as a collection agency for the Chamber of Commerce and that the funds collected for its maintenance could not be diverted to any other source. Dr. L. C. G. Buchanan made some remarks about the proposition and agreed with Gholson, as did Ed R. Maher. The city commission came in for considerable criticism on that score and for numerous other matters. Several bills were allowed and the deficit in the boy's week program was made up.

PRODUCTION IS FOUND NEAR THE DEPTH OF NO. 1

Several Hours Yet To Tell Number Barrels
The Well Will Make

Showing both oil and gas at a depth of 3,450 feet at 2 o'clock this afternoon, the Hodges Heirs well was drilling in. The former well on this tract, which was brought in during the boom days and is still making around 55 barrels a day, got the pay at 3,476 feet. With the drill at the top of the sand, and a good showing of oil and gas, it looks like history is going to repeat itself in that area, and the Texas & Pacific Coal and Oil Company are again to set the pace for others of the oil fraternity in re-drilling around Ranger.

Never since the news of the discovery well, McCleskey No. 1, was flashed around the world, has a well in Ranger been watched with such consuming interest as the Hodges Heirs well. Ranger people have had a hunch that it would come in a producer. They said the signs were right. It was drilled by the same pioneer company that struck the first pay sand in Eastland county, the Texas & Pacific Coal and Oil Company, and almost in its stone's throw of the discovery well, and on the property of old timers in Ranger, just as that famous well was.

To those who believe in the supernatural, the well drilling day and night, right in sight of traffic from the highway, seemed to stand as a (Continued on Page Two)

CITY-COUNTY HOSPITAL HAS NO HEAD

The City-County Hospital is without a superintendent again, or will be as soon as Miss Hinkley, the present incumbent, resignation goes into effect. A special meeting will be held on June 15 to elect a new one.

At the two last meetings of the board, only two members were present, and there being no quorum, no business could be transacted. Despite the recent publicity and hornet's nests, that were stirred up about the board not meeting, and which resulted in the next meeting or two having a full attendance, the meeting have narrowed down again to two members.

Miss Hinkley still is here but has tendered her resignation on account of other plans, effective as on July 1. This will give the board ample time to make a selection of applicants for the position and have them here in time to take charge at that time, provided they have a quorum attendance on the 15th.

Field Marshal Ludendorff's Wife Seeks a Divorce

Husband Shows Signs Where Sweet Woman Chews Him

A real, live man-eating woman was arrested here last night after a fight in which the woman and her husband and five other men took part. The husband showed Judge Sam Day his stomach from which a piece of flesh as big as a man's hand was torn. He stated that his wife had bitten it out.

She was brought to court and fined $10 and after a friend had paid the fine the men battled in the fiercest fight seen here for years, the battle being continued the ten miles between this city and Ranger where the parties were arrested again.

CONGRESS HAS ADJOURNED. Congress has adjourned for the term. This is a bit of pleasing news. It will give the erstwhile lawmakers of the nation an opportunity to go home and fix their political fences, and explain to the dear people their various actions and inactions.

The past session has been one of investigations of investigations, and criminalizations and recriminations. With the exception of passing an appropriation bill to erect a few federal buildings where needed and not needed, and a few other things, the present session has done practically nothing.

You will hear more about the farmer in this campaign than you have heard before. The same old line of bull and hot air on what the erstwhile congressmen will do to help the down-trodden producers of the nation will be dispensed, broadcasted and published over the nation. Nothing was done to relieve the distress of the man who furnishes the foundation of all wealth, and nothing will be done.

Investigations were made of the atrocities committed by the "Greasers" just across the Rio Grande. A whole family was wiped out through shame. Bandits had kidnaped American mine owners and engineers and mistreated them. Raids have been made, and nothing done.

They had a prohibition investigation that resulted in just an investigation. More money has been wasted during the past session than is needed to feed the poor of a state, and to educate an army of children.

Congress has adjourned, that's the best thing it has ever done. It will give the people an opportunity to rest until the erstwhile protectors of America begin their biennial tour dispensing hot air.

The people do not need any more laws. Enforce the laws on the books and you will have good government. The best test of a bad law is its enforcement. Enforce all laws alike, and if it is found out through enforcement that a law is a bad law, then repeal or modify it.

ENCOURAGE THE BOY. Boys who are willing to work and want to work during their vacation should be given employment. They should be encouraged. A large percent of them are ambitious and want to earn enough to help them through college.

League Plans To Give Women A Nationality

In the second place there was created the difficult question of the nationality of children resulting from such a marriage. As the mother had no nationality, the child cannot claim that of its mother; and if it is born abroad it has no claim on that of its father's.

To meet this situation the League has asked the entire world to accept the ruling that a woman marrying a foreigner shall only lose her native nationality on condition that at the moment of her marriage she is regarded by the law of the state to which her husband belongs as having acquired the latter's nationality.

The proposed law which was drawn up after profound study by Professor S. Kaufman of Warsaw, was finally cast into final form and approved by the League's commission of International Law experts.

At 10:30 this morning the well was drilled at 3,440 with a showing of oil. At 2 o'clock visitors from the well and officials of the Texas & Pacific Coal and Oil Company reported that the well was drilling in, with a showing of both oil and gas at 3,450 feet.

Several hours yet are necessary to determine just what the drill will find, but it seems certain that another well is due in late this afternoon or tonight in the neighborhood of the discovery well.

The McCleskey well which came in early in 1918, was the lodestar that attracted 30,000 people to Ranger in just a few months, and transformed Ranger from a little trading village, the center of rich agricultural interests, into a seething, hurrying city, and through the after developments evolved the sturdy, growing city that Ranger now is.

Lions Hear Talk On History Of French Legion

An address by Capt. W. H. Scott, president and now of the Eastland Telegram, featured the noon luncheon Tuesday of the Eastland Lions club in the Elks club rooms.

Captain Scott told Lions the story of the French Foreign legion and the discipline maintained in the regiment, detailing the manner in which court-martials are held, and the impossibility of Texas sympathizers to obtain a reprieve of the punishment meted out to Bennett Doty, Fort Worth boy, and member of the legion, now under sentence of death for desertion and striking a non-commissioned officer.

During the meeting it was decided to ask all members to pay 50 cents each as part of the expenses of the Comanche band to the national convention at San Francisco.

Clarence Berry, newly elected president and stated that he wanted the club put on a sound basis. There must be no outstanding debts and all bills must be paid on time, he said.

German Genius Invades American Movie Industry

By LINCOLN QUARBERG (United Press Staff Correspondent) HOLLYWOOD, Calif.—German genius and industry are invading Hollywood with steadily increasing force, and today the Teutonic influence all but dominates movie making in some of the American studios.

With the mammoth UFA, Berlin's great film studio, as an alma mater, American companies are drawing up on Germany for stars, directors, technical men and writers. The effect is already noted in several studios, where the types of stories and the technique employed in the picturizations are fast becoming Germanized, with German actors and technicians making the films.

Emil Jannings, Ernst Lubitsch, Hans Kraly, Pola Negri, Lay de Putti F. W. Murnau, and many others, all graduates of the German School, are playing foremost positions in American motion picture production. Other German picture personages are arriving each week.

Famous Players-Lasky has just brought to Hollywood the former producing chief for UFA, Eric Pommer. He will be a producer for the Paramount firm, making three super-specials as a starter, featuring Miss Negri and Jannings, who was formerly a great dramatic star in Germany.

Another late importation from many is Paul Leni, noted UFA artist and director. Leni, brought to Hollywood by Universal Pictures Corporation, was known in Europe for his portrait paintings, as well as his film directing. He directed Jannings in several European film successes.

In the Eastland Telegram of Friday May 28th a news item concerning the arrest of E. E. Ray, formerly of Eastland but now of Breckenridge, on a false swearing charge, stated that Mr. Ray was placed in jail in lieu of bond. Mr. Ray states that so far as his being placed in jail is concerned the article was not correct as he was not placed in jail on that charge and had never been in jail. The Telegram, in the light of Mr. Ray's statement, was misinformed and makes this statement of correction in justice to Mr. Ray.

TEXAS BOY IS SAVED BY BRIAND

By United Press. PARIS, France, June 8.—Acting on Premier Briand's instructions, War Minister Paul Painleve today telegraphed the general commanding that of the Orient at Damascus ordering him to prevent the execution of Gilbert Clare, American member of the Foreign legion. Clare is believed to be Bennett Doty of Fort Worth, Texas; Memphis, Tenn., and Biloxi, Miss.

This step was undertaken despite the fact that Paris has not been officially informed of any order to execute Clare. The war minister having no facts in the case beyond the information that the American was charged with attempting to desert. Premier Briand's act in which he used his powers of grace without consulting President Doumergue, was a dramatic one. Getting his information of the case from the newspapers without official reports conforming that the American was in danger, he acted even before being approached by friends of the prisoner.

'Lizzies' Pour It All Over the Green Caps, Score 8 to 3

Leveille-Maher's "Lizzies" poured it all over the Green Caps in Nitro park Monday afternoon in a six-inning bout, score 8 to 3. Hodges was in rare form and held the erstwhile slugging Green Caps runless for four innings. In the fifth and sixth innings, errors, walks and a couple of hits let in three runs.

The "Lizzies" were held scoreless the first two innings, despite the fact that they made three hits in the first frame. In the third frame, the "Lizzie" boys got to Adkins for a bunch of singles and two-baggers that iced the game. When the slaughter was over in the third inning, six runs had been chalked up.

Both teams played a fast fielding game with Watson of the Green Caps at second and Pace in centerfield, also of the Green Caps starring. Shanks at first for the Lizzies played a jump up game, and assisted in two pretty double plays.

The game was not won until the last man was called out in the sixth inning. The Green Caps showed fight all the way through and present an entirely different lineup to what they had in the first part of the season.

Yankees Success Is Due Largely To Miller Huggins

NEW YORK, June 7.—A year ago when the Yankees were headed nowhere in the American league and were battling to remain out of the basement, one man was blamed for the tremendous flop and that man was Miller Huggins.

Today the Yankees are at the top of the junior circuit and stand an excellent chance to hang on to that precious position, but in the comments on the form reversal one hears nothing about the same Miller Huggins who has continued as the pint-sized manager of the Yanks.

Huggins probably would be the most tragic figures in baseball if he believed one-tenth of the diatribes directed against him. As it is he fails to inspire praise and offers an excellent target whenever anything goes wrong.

A man who has managed a team winning three pennants and a world's series in three years might be expected to draw the plaudits of a hero. But not Huggins. The attitude of sports writers and the general public seemed to be that the Yankees were victorious in spite of Huggins rather than because of him.

And last year's debacle seemed to confirm the impression that the Yanks as a team depended wholly upon the antics of Babe Ruth and that any bush leaguer could make more of a success than Huggins.

This, as said before, is another year. Colonel Ruppert, the genial owner of the Yankees, always has had oceans of confidence in "Hug" and this confidence appears to have been well placed.

A great deal of the 1926 success of the Yankees, certainly, must be laid to Ruth's reformation. But aside from the great slugger the New Yorkers have a powerful team and one wonders if Huggins shouldn't receive some of the glory.

The charge has been made frequently that Ruppert has bought winning ball teams but this year it is noticed that six regulars were developed in major league baseball by Huggins. These are Meusel, Combs, Gehrig, Koenig, Lazzeri and Collins. And this sextet is worth a lot more money than any club owner could furnish on a moment's notice.

Declares County Schools Finished Successful Term

All rural schools in Eastland county have closed their terms for the season and all have had successful terms, according to Miss Beulah Speer, county school superintendent.

"Every school in the rural districts is now out of debt except one and it only owes $100 which doubtless will be paid soon," Miss Speer said.

According to Miss Speer, all of the rural schools have turned in their final reports and these are now about ready to be forwarded by the county superintendent's office to the state department of education at Austin.

Butcher's Clerk In Japan Finds Money; Returns It

TKYO, June 7.—"Great must be the sorrow the person who lost this."

That, Asajiro Ishii, butcher's clerk, told newspapermen is what he thought when he found an envelope containing 10,000 yen in crisp new bills. So Ishii hastened to the police box with his find.

A few minutes later a clerk for a real estate firm rushed frantically to the same police box to report loss of the money. The police restored it after deducting 10 per cent as a reward for the honest Ishii.

Value of Output Of Chewing Gum In 1925, $47,124,000

WASHINGTON, June 7.—The department of commerce announces that, according to data collected at the biennial census of manufactures, 1925, the establishments engaged primarily in the manufacture of chewing gum that year reported a total output valued at $47,838,000, of which amount $47,124,000 represents chewing gum and $714,000 other products, such as breathlets, candy, and vending machines. The total value of products as compared with 1923, the last preceding census year, shows an increase of 17 per cent.

Of the 41 establishments reporting for 1925, eight were located in New York, five in Illinois, four each in New Jersey and Ohio, three in California, two each in Kentucky, Massachusetts, Missouri, Pennsylvania, and Tennessee, and one each in Delaware, Indiana, Maine, Michigan, Rhode Island, Texas, and Virginia. In 1923 the industry was represented by 45 establishments, the decrease to 41 in 1925 being the net result of a loss of seven and a gain of three. Of the seven establishments lost to the industry, four had gone out of business prior to the beginning of 1925, one reported products valued at less than $5,000 (no data for establishments with products below this limit of value are tabulated at biennial censuses), one was combined with another establishment, and one reported the manufacture of confectionery as its principal product and was therefore transferred to the confectionery industry.

Camel is the smoker's sign of friendship

IN THE home, or at the club—in busy office or crowded street—whenever friend meets friend, you will hear that magic invitation—have a Camel!

And wherever Camels are lighted, men come together in more friendly understanding. No other cigarette ever had or made so many friends or brought so much added friendliness to the world as Camel, for Camel's quality is a universal language.

Camel is more than a cigarette. It is an experience in smoking enjoyment—the finest this old earth affords. Camels contain the choicest Turkish and Domestic tobaccos grown, and these fine tobaccos are superbly blended, as in no other cigarette. The enjoyment of Camels goes on forever, for they never tire the taste no matter how liberally you smoke them. They simply never leave a cigarette after-taste. No other cigarette in the world is like them. Millions of experienced smokers who could well afford to pay more will buy and smoke only Camels.

Whenever and wherever you meet a friend, let that be a standing invitation to the sheerest enjoyment that ever came from a cigarette.

NEIGHBORS' WIVES

BEGIN HERE TODAY

John and Fay Milburn, to whom a baby girl has just been born, buy a home of their own when the advertising agency in which John is a partner and copy writer, lands an important new contract.

Previous chapters told of the impression made on John by Nell Orme, whom he met at a swimming party while Fay was in the hospital, and who, according to Pat Forbes, was having trouble with her husband. Months later the Milburns, dining at the Forbes, meet the Ormes there, and Fay tells John how charming she thinks Nell Orme is.

Dr. Dick Menefee, John's best friend, marries Margaret Wayne, and Margaret Wayne's younger sister, Clara, runs away and marries Clifton Lane, whom John cordially dislikes.

A party is given by the Noel Boyds and Vera Boyd, who is rather keen about John, fastens on him and, promising to regale him with some scandal, asks him outside, where they sit in a closed automobile and drink gin. He warns her that they are taking a big risk, and she laughingly points to the front door, where her husband, Noel, is standing with his arms around a girl.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
(The names and situations in this story are fictitious.)

CHAPTER XX

John's eyes grew wide with amazement, and he looked at Vera curious to see what effect her husband's indiscretions had upon her.

But she merely smiled. "You see, Noel can't very well say anything to me. Besides, John, you've not kissing me. Look there—isn't that delicious?" She pointed with her finger, and John saw Noel kiss the girl again and then the two of them went back in the house.

"Too cold," Vera laughed. "Too cold out there on the doorstep, even for my amorous Noel." She reached for the gin bottle, took a man-sized drink and said, "Noel does like his little flirtation."

John was silent, and Vera leaned over to him, ostensibly to hand him the bottle, but she let her arm remain where it was—pressing against his.

What kind of woman was this one sitting beside him, he wondered, that she could sit and watch her husband

But the quartet went grimly on, impervious to insult carry on an outrageous flirtation without being any more concerned, apparently, than if he had gone to the door to shake hands with a departing friend.

"Noel's had a couple of drinks too many, I suppose," said Vera, "or he wouldn't be making such a fuss over that little Perkins girl."

"Perkins?" exclaimed John, surprised. "I thought her name was Cecil."

"Cecil is her first name."

"Someone introduced her as Miss Cecil," he said. "At least, that was my impression."

There was an awkward interval of silence and John finally reminded her: "You said you were going to tell me about Pat Forbes and Eleanor Mason."

"Oh, did I?" She seemed drowsy and was leaning on his shoulder.

"Come, now," he said, rather sharply. "Tell me the scandal."

"Oh, it's nothing much. Pat had a rather bad case on her, and she on him. They've been carrying on furiously for the last month or two, but they've broken up now."

"Did Marian Forbes know about it?"

"Yes, she found out somehow. Marian rather bores me—she's so old-fashioned."

"I always found her pleasant enough," he retorted.

She looked at him curiously. "Don't misunderstand me. I like Marian well enough. She simply doesn't understand her husband."

"Oh, I see—not broadminded, eh? You knew all about this affair between Pat and Eleanor?"

"Of course, they met here a good deal at my house. I am the confidante, you know, of troubled hearts and my house the refuge of misunderstood souls."

She gazed at him a long time in silence, her burning black eyes belying the placidity of her pale face.

John grew distinctly uncomfortable. He knew, as clearly as though she had told him, that she wanted his arm around her, his lips against hers. He shook himself and reached over to open the door of the sedan.

"We'd better get back," and he waited for her to move.

An expression of annoyance flitted across her face. "What's your hurry? They don't need us in there."

"They might not miss me," he argued, "but they'll be looking for you pretty soon. After all, you know, you're the hostess and you can't desert your party like this."

She shrugged her shoulders. "Well—" and she thrust out one slim foot and moved down on the step.

She was a little cool toward him the rest of the evening.

John found, when he went inside, that several were busy playing bridge and others, in the adjoining room, were dancing to the phonograph. Pat Forbes, who was warm from Charlestoning, looked up at his entrance and yelled loudly, "Here he is. Where the devil have you been, John? We need you. Trying to organize a quartet?"

A voice said behind him, "No matter where you were, John, you'd better have remained. For the love of Pete, don't inflict any of that barber shop harmony on this party."

John looked. It was Paul Davidson. "Why, Paul," he cried, sticking out his hand, "you're here? I didn't see you."

"No one would have seen him," spoke up Noel Boyd, with his meaning smile, "if I hadn't gone out to the kitchen and dragged him in. He was trying to discover what I'd been putting in the punch."

"From the taste of the punch, I don't think you've been putting anything in it," retorted Paul. "However—" and he slapped his hip pocket and showed the edge of a silver flask.

Noel Boyd turned abruptly away from Davidson. "Come on—let's sing," he commanded. John, Pat Forbes, who had stepped away, returned at that moment with another man whom John did not know and who, Pat informed them, "blew a nasty bass."

Noel, without another word, started "Sweet Adeline," John singing tenor, Pat his customary baritone.

Voices were raised in loud protest.

"Cut it out," cried the bridge players. "How do you expect us to play cards with all that racket?"

And someone cried from the room where they were dancing, "We can't hear the music. Let up." But the quartet went grimly on, impervious to insult.

The man who was singing bass and who seemed a friendly sort of person, said to John, "You sing a wicked Whiskey tenor, Milburn," and Pat chimed in, "You should hear the boy when he's in form. The pipes are a little rusty tonight, eh, John?"

Noel said, "Nobody is giving credit where credit is really due. Unless, a song is led properly it's rotten. Without wishing to pin any roses on myself, I call attention to the perfection of the—"

"Modest bird, isn't he?" Forbes interrupted.

John noticed while they were singing that the Perkins girl, whom he had seen Noel kissing a short time before, kept looking over at the quartet. She cast anxious eyes at Noel, and John began to wonder just how far this thing between her and Boyd had gone. He felt a little pity for her, and a little later, when he found that she was engaged to the bass singer of the quartet, whose name was Jones, he began to feel a little sorry for him also.

The singing was broken up a little later through the ingenuity of Paul Davidson, who led an organized assault on the punch and threatened

John remarked to Pat, "Do the boys know the Ormes?"

"Oh, yes. They'd have been over to night. I guess, but Howard had to go out of town on business and Nell went with him."

Fay, John observed, was playing bridge with Margaret and Dick Menefee and the man named York. He wondered whether she had noticed his and Vera's absence and wondered also how he could explain it to her in case she had. He might lie, of course, but the thought was hateful to him. As long as she said nothing to him, he resolved, he would keep quiet.

He strolled over to their table and put his hand on Dick Menefee's shoulder and studied his cards. A voice whispered in his ear, "I saw you and Vera. Now tell me all about it."

He turned around quickly, bristling, and Eleanor Mason—for it was she—must have read hostility in his look, for she instantly murmured something in apology.

"Now, John, don't be mean. I saw you coming in; that was all." She smiled mysteriously. "What I said about Vera was true, wasn't it?"

John said slowly, "To be utterly frank with you, Eleanor, I am not interested in Vera Boyd. If she doesn't already know it, I'd just as soon she did." He thought it was a light of satisfaction that had come into Eleanor's eyes, but she said, "That will make Vera fight all the harder."

John frowned in displeasure, and a moment later he found an excuse to return to Fay's table. For the moment, he found, they had stopped playing cards and were discussing books. Dick Menefee, he saw, was red of face and silent and Margaret was saying to York, "Why, no, I have never read it."

And York remarked, in a cold dogmatic sort of way that instantly angered John, "Well, if you haven't read Cabell, you're simply not well read, that's all."

Dick's face grew redder than ever, but he smiled and said, "Well, I guess we'll have to plead illiteracy, won't we, Margaret?"

York calmly lighted a cigaret, as if his pronouncement had ended the discussion, and John, a sort of nifty for the easy-going Menefee surging within him, looked steadily at York and remarked, "I hadn't know that James Braach Cabell was so indispensable."

York looked up. He had, John noticed for the first time, a long thin nose and thick lips. He looked at John tolerantly, as if glad to welcome an outsider into the argument, and asked, "You've read him?"

"I've read 'Jurgen' and 'Beyond Life.' That's all."

"What do you think of him?"

"I think he's good, but I'm not sure that he contributed so much to my appreciation of literature. I'm afraid you're a little too enthusiastic."

NO-NOX

MOTOR FUEL

STOPS KNOCKS

PUTS CARBON TO WORK

PUTTING the old demon, carbon, to work sounds like a paradox—nevertheless that's just what GULF No-Nox Motor Fuel does and here's how it happens: Compression is power. The more compression the more power. Greater compression is secured by reducing the displacement or space in the combustion chamber. Carbon deposits materially reduce this space—old time gasoline would not withstand this added carbon compression—clicks—knocks—pings or detonations of distress quickly following sudden acceleration or heavy pulls.

No-Nox withstands higher compression—stops the knocks or detonations, thereby increasing engine efficiency. GULF No-Nox and Carbon Deposits work together for more power and greater mileage.

Turns Mountains Into Mole Hills

This guarantee goes with it: GULF No-Nox Motor Fuel is Non-Noxious, Non-Poisonous and no more harmful to man or motor than ordinary gasoline—that it contains no dope of any kind—that the color is for identification only—that it positively will not heat the motor, winter or summer.

GULF No-Nox Motor Fuel is priced three cents per gallon higher than ordinary gasoline—and is worth it.

 "Not at all. I maintain that it is necessary to read him in order to say that you are well read."
 "Nonsense!" John retorted sharply, and saw Dick look at him gratefully, "that's as ridiculous as saying that a man's not well dressed unless he wears purple garters."
 York looked rather annoyed. He shrugged his shoulders. "Of course," he answered slowly, "merely reading him and appreciating him are two entirely different things."

"Yes, and appreciation doesn't necessarily mean infatuation. Come now, York. Another month or two and you'll have discovered some brand new blazing genius." He was going a little too far in reproving York, he thought, but Dick's embarrassment stuck in his mind.
 Dick broke in. "Let's finish the rubber," he said, "or add up the York said, with rather bad grace, John thought, "Oh, add up the score. I've had enough."
 Later John asked Noel Boyd, "Who in the hell is that fellow York? Where did you run onto him?" and Boyd answered coldly, "Why, he's a very good friend of mine. Quite a student of literature and collects first editions. He's sorry he didn't please you." He turned away and John felt like a fool.
 On the way home he said to Fay, "I'm rather disgusted with the boys—Noel and Vera both."
 She turned to him with a peculiar look. "You didn't seem to be so very disgusted with Vera," she commented.

Frost Leases Store To Atlantic And Pacific Company

Judge Cyrus B. Frost, owner of the Frost building on the south side of the Eastland public square, announced he has closed a five-year lease contract with the Atlantic & Pacific Tea & Coffee Company by the terms of which that concern will operate one of their chain grocery stores in his building. The building is being remodeled by the company to suit the needs of a special system they use.
 The Atlantic & Pacific Tea and Coffee Company, whose headquarters are in Boston, Mass., is one of the largest, if not the largest operators of chain grocery stores in the country, having stores in all of the best cities and towns in the United States. They expect to be in operation in Eastland in about one month.
 Robert Clougher, vice president of the Atlantic & Pacific Tea and Coffee Company came to Eastland and personally looked over the town and surrounding territory before his company closed a deal for the lease on the Frost building. "I am really astonished at the splendid country and the great possibilities you have here," Mr. Clougher said after a drive over the town and surrounding communities which took him to a number of the large gasoline plants and the plant of the Oilbelt Power Company near Eastland.

Sesqui-Centennial Stamps On Sale At The Postoffice

The newest thing in stamps is the Sesqui-Centennial stamp. It is a little longer than the regulation 2-cent stamp, is centered by the Liberty Bell, mounted, and bears the dates 1776-1926. It is very striking in appearance and will remind everyone who applies one to an envelope that the United States is now celebrating her 150th anniversary of the signing of its independence.

Many Apparently "Old Women" Are Young In Years

Suffering and Pain Makes Them Look Old Before Their Time. Mysterious Malady Is the Cause.
 It is positively distressing to see the number of young women today who, at thirty, go about looking like they are at least forty. All the pain and suffering which they endure is reflected in their looks and you can easily tell when a woman or girl has failed to safeguard her health.
 The discoverer of St. Joseph's G. F. P. believed that if they could find the dreaded malady which is preying on women, and provide a relief for it they would be able to end most of the pains in back and sides, the headaches, nausea, loss of appetite, and that awful feeling of depression; conditions which have made many women virtually slaves to suffering for so many years.
 How well they succeed by their years of patient effort is best told by the praises of the thousands of happy women whose enthusiasm over the wonderful changes that St. Joseph's G. F. P. has brought about in their condition knows no bounds.
 Through the use of G. F. P. many thin, frail and nervous women are made strong, steady and happy again; young girls who formerly suffered from irregularity, pain, sickness and embarrassment are made regular and relieved of pain; women are enabled to realize the wonderful blessings of motherhood with surprising ease; and women in later years pass through the change of life with so little difficulty as to scarcely realize that they have been through this remarkable transformation. When women realize that this great change in their former condition is brought about by this phenomenal medicine, nothing can keep them from praising the wonderful St. Joseph's G. F. P.
 Worry and depression over her failure to regain her health will "age" any woman prematurely. When the generative organs are freed from the catarrhal inflammation, which keeps them weak, nervous and irritable, women quickly become miracles of restored vitality, with that cheerful and buoyant appearance of youth.

Ramblin' Round' In Ranger

East bound motorists who have never been any further east on the Bankhead Highway than where the road to Thurber shoots through the wilderness will be pleased and overjoyed to discover on their next tour that the road has been worked on to the Erath county line and that work will be started on that portion of the road in the next few days. The coming back, however never did seem as rough as the going over.

Every day has brought its supply of the younger set from the various Texas Colleges. They come rolling in, rest up for a few months, and then once more start on their pursuit of knowledge. Or maybe I should have said they stay home for a few months and then go back to college to rest up for the next summer. Pre-season football dope is having its fling and each college is a sure contender winner next year. And don't forget that when they return for the Christmas holidays each will have an alibi for the team's failure to carry the conference title.

After the Elk's dance tonight all eyes will turn towards Eastland awaiting the Jack Gardner frolic at the new Links club. As we understand it Artie Collins will start warning up tonight about 9 o'clock and will be plety warm before the strains of "Home Sweet Home" are broadcast and the boys start the fight for the checking room.

Officials Settle Hallmark-Okra School Dispute

At a regular meeting of the Eastland county school board held Saturday afternoon in the offices of Miss Beulah Speer, county school superintendent, and presided over by Briggs Owen, chairman of the board, the matter of transferring a portion of the Hallmark district territory to the Okra school territory, was taken up and after lengthy discussions by both proponents and opponents of the proposition, was passed by the board and left as it originally was.
 Some time ago a number of patrons of the Hallmark school presented a petition to the county board asking that certain parts of the Hallmark district be transferred to the Okra district. This petition was acted upon by the county board and the transfer ordered made. Another petition, signed by other patrons of the Hallmark school was presented to the board objecting to the transfer and asking that the former action of the board be rescinded, which was done at the Saturday meeting.
 All members of the board were present and took part in the deliberations.

Farmers Excused Of Jury Service By Eastland Judge

Assignments on the criminal docket of the Eastland county court-at-law were called this morning by Judge Tom J. Cunningham. Thirty-six jurors to serve for the week had been summoned, but not more than one-half of these were present owing to the fact that the court had excused all farmers drawn on the jury who had work in their crops that needed to be done at this time. "This is the time when the farmer must either make or lose his crop and those who feel that they need to be in their fields are being excused," Judge Cunningham said.

WHY BLAME NEWSPAPERS? WHITTEMORE WAS A CROOK BEFORE HE COULD READ

"Why did Dick Whittemore, the offspring of five generations of honest Americans, develop such a criminal nature?" queries Sidney Sutherland in an article in this week's Liberty, and answers his question with: "Prosecutor Pecora and Whittemore are a unit in blaming the newspapers!" "Well I saw in the papers how easy it was for a game guy to knock off a joint," quoth Whittemore. "Mr. Pecora's wording of the indictment was different: "The papers smear the story of a successful holdup all over page one. That prominence alone glorifies the crime in the weak minds of wayward boys. After we get the crooks sentenced, considerable time has elapsed. The story is cold, and the editors stick the brief item back in the paper. If they would play down the crime and play up the retribution it would help law enforcement tremendously." "But," points out the writer, "Whittemore was stealing hymnbooks and peanuts long before he could read!"

Brazilian Claims Decisive Remedy For The Leprosy

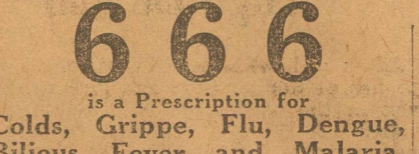

By United Press.
RIO DE JANEIRO, June 7.—A decisive remedy for leprosy has been found growing in abundance in Brazil, claims Dr. Geraldo Kuhlmann, Brazilian botanist.
 A plant from which an oil is extracted superior in activity to chalmogra oil which has long been employed extensively to relieve the leprosy, thrives in abundance throughout this country. This Brazilian oil can be produced at a considerable less cost than the Indian chalmogra oil, stated Dr. Kuhlmann in a lecture before the Association of Commercial Employees.
 From this plant, the "Carpotroche braziliensis," commonly known in Brazil as the sapucainha plant—is extracted an oil, which, when analyzed at Brazil's principal research station, that of the Oswaldo Cruz Institute, showed optical activity of more than one degree greater than that of the best chalmogra oil, declared Dr. Kuhlmann.

Woman Mayor Assumes Duties In Seattle, Wash.

By REUEL S. MOORE
 (United Press Staff Correspondent)
SEATTLE, June 7.—Seattle has a new mayor today—and a petticoat government.
 The new mayor is Mrs. Bertha A. Knight-Lanes, one of the most picturesque women of America.
 She has surrounded herself with a group of new appointive officials which she hopes will be able to effect the reasonably strict law enforcement that she demands.
 "I want to be reasonable about these things," she told the United Press. "I know the difficulties of law enforcement with public sentiment the way it is regarding the prohibition law for example."
 "There isn't going to be any dynamiting in my administration—but there is going to be carried out a consistent, thorough program of enforcing obedience to our laws."
 Mrs. Landes made an issue of clean city government in the campaign which resulted in her election. Now Seattle citizens are waiting with interest to see how well Mrs. Landes can "clean up" the city.
 Mrs. Landes has had a colorful career in politics. She came to Seattle in 1895 with her husband, Henry Landes. She raised her family—a boy and a girl—but when they were married and gone from home she became active in women's club affairs.
 In 1922 she ran for the city council and was elected—she hardly considered her candidacy seriously when she first decided to run. Then she was elected to the presidency of the city council. Civic affairs began to feel her influence a great deal.
 Mrs. Landes became a sensation when Mayor Brown went east to the last democratic convention in New York. She automatically became head of the city government. She ousted two chiefs of police in twenty-four hours. The first was William B. Severyns, whom she ousted for "refusal to obey orders." She appointed Inspector J. T. Mason acting chief, ousted him, and then named Captain C. G. Bannick.
 Her administration was brief. May 16, 1925.
 In the Matter of the Estate of Jack Royce Montgomery, a Minor. In the County Court at Law, Eastland County, Texas.
 Notice is hereby given, that I, Jessie Montgomery, guardian of the estate of Jack Royce Montgomery, a minor, have this day filed my application in the above entitled and numbered cause, for an order of the judge of the county court at law of Eastland county, Texas, authorizing me as the guardian of the estate of said ward to make mineral lease upon such terms as he may order and direct, of the following described land, belonging to the estate of said ward, 1-36 undivided interest in the S. W. quarter of section No. 14, block 2, E. T. Ry. Co. survey of lands in Eastland county, Texas.
 Said application will be heard in the county court room in the courthouse in the city of Eastland in Eastland county, Texas, on the 17th day of June, A. D. 1926, at which time and place all interested parties may appear and contest said application if they desire to do so.
