BOY SCOUT MOVEMENT FORMULATED IN EASTLAND COUNTY

$16,000 WORTH COUNTY BONDS REDEEMED

COMMISSIONERS PLAN TO TAKE UP MORE SOON

Treasurer Reports Good Cash Balance On Hand In The Banks

Announcement was made Saturday morning by E. S. Pritchard, county judge and chairman of Eastland county commissioners, that 14 Eastland county courthouse bonds valued at $1,000 each, would be taken up at once. These bonds are in the hands of the state treasurer at Austin, and were issued in 1897 at the time when the courthouse was being built. They would mature in the ordinary course in 1937 but fortunately a clause was inserted in the contract that the bonds could be redeemed any time after 10 years. The saving of interest in this purchase is considerable to the county, it was stated.

Two bonds also on the courthouse for $1,000 each, held by the county permanent school fund, will be taken up at the same time bringing the total amount to be redeemed to $16,000. Mr. Pritchard stated that with these payments there was still left in the courthouse sinking fund the sum of $4,000, and that there was still owing on the courthouse a matter of $14,000, which will be taken up next year.

The record of the administration shows that when the present county commissioners went into office the courthouse sinking fund was $7,000 in debt, while the county owed $36,000 besides. All this has been paid off while in the last three years there has also been paid $313,000 in road bonds and interest.

Further the books of the county treasurer shows that $22,000 in Burkett road warrants have been paid, while $10,000 in city and county hospital warrants have been met. The Burkett road warrants were issued eight years ago.

Warrants for the purchase of road machinery such as tractors, graders, and terrippers with a total of over $30,000 have been paid off while 700 miles of road have been graded and widened.

That the accomplishments of the commissioners is worthy of praise is shown also by the county treasurer, who stated that when he came into office three years ago there was only $22,000 in funds in all the departments of the county, while over $100,000 was outstanding against the county for road bonds and interest, most of it due within 30 days. This the books show has all been paid off and at the present time over $415,000 stand to the credit of the county in cash at local banks.

The whole of the county assessment now reaches the sum of $38,000,000 a substantial reduction from the old boom days, while during the past two years the tax rate has been reduced from $1.60 to $1.54. Of this $1.09 is taken up to pay road bonds and sinking fund, leaving a balance of 45 cents for the payment of all other county obligations.

EUCCHARISTIC CONGRESS TO OPEN SUNDAY

CHICAGO, June 19.—The twenty-eighth Eucharistic congress with a blessing from Pope Pius XI "to all of our children" was officially and formally opened at midnight Saturday.

At that hour a procession of acolytes garbed in red cassocks moved in solemn dignity from the door of the sacristy of Notre Dame church.

A small man, garbed so that his shoulders seemed weighted down with cloth, gold and vestments, came at the rear of the procession.

He proceeded to the center of the altar and repeated the Versicle, with which sacrifice of the mass in Catholic churches, has opened for centuries.

"I will go unto the altar of God, to God who giveth joy to my youth."

The soft tones of the organ sounded and the choir intoned the "Kyrie." With this opening pontifical high mass, His Eminence Alessius Cardinal Charlot, archbishop of Rennes, France, as celebrant, America's greatest religious gathering held to the homage to Christ, and God, was under way.

CIVIC CLUBS AID IN ORGANIZATION OF BIG COUNCIL

Regional Head Will Present Case to Cities; Women are Interested

Plans for a big Boy Scout movement in Eastland county were being formulated over Friday and Saturday by E. E. Voss, deputy regional executive, Boy Scouts, from regional headquarters at Houston. Mr. Voss is directly under J. P. Fitch, national regional director at Houston, and employs most of his time traveling the southwest organizing the Boy Scout movement in all parts of this section of the country. Mr. Voss met civic leaders in Ranger Friday. Mr. Voss interviewed Virgil Seaberry, president of the Lions Club, H. P. Brelsford, president of the Rotary Club, Dr. J. H. Caton, and Alex. Clarke, while other civic leaders will also be brought into the movement as times go on. Meetings with the Lions and Rotary clubs will take place Mr. Voss said, and the plan of action to bring Eastland county into the group of counties to be organized in this district will follow.

To Place Scout Executive The primary part of the situation to be discussed will be the placing in the district of a first class field executive who will devote the whole of his time to the Boy Scout work. He will have charge of the district that comprises Breckenridge, Cisco, Ranger, Eastland, and possibly some other towns. He will direct the work of Boy Scouts and will pass most of his time at the various scenes of activity.

At Ranger, Friday night, Mr. Voss met C. C. Patterson, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce and several of the leading citizens, and a meeting has been planned to take place at the noon luncheon Wednesday of the Ranger Rotary Club. There the matter will be discussed and a mass meeting of leading citizens will be held in the evening, where a civic committee will be formed and the situation thoroughly thrashed out.

Ranger has already applied for a second class charter but with the present movement started they will join in the larger organization which will place the town with the others as a first class district.

Breckenridge Coming In Mr. Voss said he had an enthusiastic meeting at Breckenridge and stated that he will return there in a few days to proceed further with the organization, which he said was no easy matter trying to get five counties lined up under one executive head. Breckenridge like Eastland has no organized Boy Scout directly under national headquarters, he said.

The cities to be organized in this district are Breckenridge, Mineral Wells, Weatherford, Eastland, Cisco, and Ranger.

She was arrested on the information of Earl Davis, a railroad telegraph operator, who said he entered the Brown house last night following the hearing of a shot and a woman scream. He found Brown in bed fatally wounded. Mrs. Brown sought to kill herself, he said, but he got the gun from her.

JIM PRESENTS 'MA'S' CASE TO CISCO VOTERS

Moody's Record Is Attacked; Crowd Is Largely Ferguson's

(By Staff Correspondent) CISCO, June 19.—Cisco was crowded Saturday afternoon for the first big political speech of the present campaign when the redoubtable Jim Ferguson occupied the rostrum on behalf of "Ma." Autos crowded the streets and parking space for late comers was away out in the country, since it seemed as if most of the folks in the county were bent on hearing the speech. A huge new marquee had been erected on a vacant lot that occupied a whole block but this was far too small to care for the crowd which surged backward and forward as they hung on the edge of the seats placed in side. Over 5,000 must have been present.

Soon after three o'clock H. P. Brelsford of Eastland, mounted the platform followed by Jim Ferguson, and an appeal was immediately made that all the precinct managers must come to the front. Among those on the platform were R. L. Crawford, Putnam; Milburn McCarthy, Eastland; W. O. Russell, Gorman; J. H. D. Fleming, Seranton; H. L. Mayhew, Cisco; L. B. Weaver, Rising Star; E. B. Whitehair, Cottonwood; J. F. Price, Baird; W. M. Compton, Nimrod; John W. Brown, Nimrod; Mayor J. M. Williamson, Cisco; L. D. Donaway, Dothan; J. R. Wigniton, Rising Star; Allen D. Dabney, Eastland; Senator H. P. Brelsford, Eastland, and several Breckenridge folk.

Jim then started in and declared that he was in a peculiar position since he was the only wild man out of politics in the county, and the only husband of a living governor. This campaign was peculiar, he said, and it was being presented to the people in a peculiar way. For this campaign there was neither opposition, platform or character, and it was backed by nothing except hate of the Ferguson.

Will Win by 150,000 Votes He declared that their opponents had no complaints against the present administration but they had sought a campaign that was without rhyme or reason, and nothing was like it in the history of Texas. For more than sixty years there has

GERMANS VOTE ON TAKING THE KAISER'S LAND

BERLIN, June 19.—With bitter feeling between the republicans and monarchists, Germany will go to the polls tomorrow to decide whether the former German dynasties will retain their riches, unofficially estimated at between four and five hundred million dollars, or whether the property shall be confiscated by the state. The first national referendum ever held here is a drafted by the socialists and communists, calling for "confiscation without compensation" for the estate of the former ruler.

Twenty persons were injured in a fight last night when steel helmets clashed with the communists in street brawls, caused by discussion of the referendum. Balloting will begin throughout Germany at 9 in the morning in the first national referendum ever held in this country. The result of the ballot will decide whether the former German dynasties shall retain their riches, unofficially estimated at a value of $400,000,000 to $500,000,000. This treasury was largely amassed in their capacity as regents. Should the radical proposal emerge successful at today's balloting the ex-rulers entire property will be confiscated by the state.

Text of Bill. The bill submitted to the nation was drafted by socialists and communists. In its essentials it provides: 1. The entire property of the German regents who ruled over the German federal states up to the 1918 revolution, as well as the property of all members of these former ruling houses, is to be confiscated without compensation.

2. The proceeds from the confiscated property of the former rulers are to be used for the benefit of state welfare institutions, for unemployed, war-cripples, war widows and orphans, the victims of the inflation of German currency, for old age insurance and other similar benevolent purposes.

DUNN-STOVER POOL EXTENDS RISING STAR

Production Declines Past Week, Talent To Give New Area Play

The newly discovered oil field four miles east and a little south of Eastland and known as the Parsons field, was extended one-half mile east and one-half mile west Friday with the bringing in of the W. A. Martin and associates No. 1 Bob Wright and the drilling in Thursday of the Eastland Oil company's No. 1 P. G. (Greene) Wright. The Bob Wright well is east of the Gulf's No. 2-A-1 Parsons, the discovery well, and the P. G. Wright well is south and west of the discovery well.

Pay was found in the Bob Wright well in the Parsons sand at a depth of 1,450 feet. It has not been drilled in, but has been flowing since Friday afternoon. Preparations were being made Saturday afternoon to drill it in.

The Eastland Oil company's well on the P. G. Wright was given a 20-quart shot, following which production, which was only a few barrels, was increased to more than 100 barrels per day.

Rising Star. The Dunn-Stover pool, five miles southwest of Rising Star, was extended one-half mile to the west with the coming in of Conway Bros. and Barkley's 300-barrel well on the north end of the W. W. Allen tract. This well is a half mile south of the Humble well, E. P. Kilgore No. 1, which came in for 300 barrels two weeks ago. The sand was reached at 1,150 feet and was drilled 15 feet into the pay.

The Humble is drilling an offset to this well, which makes 12 new tests that have begun in this vicinity in the last 10 days. The derrick on the Prairie Oil & Gas company's Trammell No. 1, which was burned, has been rebuilt and the tools are now out of the hole. Conway Bros. are drilling at 500 feet on the G. W. Hill farm, five and a half miles north of Rising Star.

Mike Morgan Well. The Mike Morgan well, near Carbon, which caught fire when it was being drilled in, has a new derrick and is being cleaned out. This well is making several million feet of gas, and 60 barrels of oil but its exact production will not be known until it is cleaned out and the six-inch casing set.

Eastland and Ranger operators say that a big play is to be given the Parsons field and a large number of (Continued on page four.)

A THOUGHT FROM THE BIBLE

THE TITHE—"The tithe of the herd, or of the flock, * * * the tenth shall be holy unto the Lord." Lev. 27:32.

PRAYER—On the first day of the week may we lay aside Thy portion, O Lord, as Thou hast blessed us.

WHO SHALL BE THE JUDGE.

The Bible is the guide of life for all men of all creeds, nations and races. It is inspired by God, who gave it to mankind through the great Jewish people. In the Bible may be found many roads that lead to happiness. In it may be found comfort for the poor in heart, purse and spirit. It is the guide book of all religions. It is broad in its scope and covers all subjects that relate to God and point the way to higher things. All religions are based on the Bible. Every faith places its own construction on it, and for that reason every man should have due regard for the other fellow's faith, because the faith of the other man is based on the same book that yours is based on.

It is not for any of us to judge the other fellow, for it is not written, "judge ye not, lest ye be judged." Men view religion from different angles the same as men view the common things of life. The old adage that many men have many minds applies to religious beliefs the same as to other things, therefore, we should ever bear in mind that he has as much right to his faith as we have to ours. At all times, it should be our prayer, Please God teach us to have due regard to other faiths so that we may better serve Thee and our fellow man.

Every man should have a right to his own faith, but should not try to force that faith down the other fellow. No man has a right to construe the Bible for the other fellow. It is a God given right that Americans fought bled and died for, and many martyrs suffered the tortures of the rack and flames for, that man be allowed to think as he pleases and to worship God, according to the dictates of his own conscience. In countries and lands where folks are not allowed to construe the Bible according to their own way of thinking and depend upon the priest or preacher to do it for him, will be found a union of church and state, and ignorance and superstition still holding sway. Education is backward in those lands. The Bible sheds light on all things that lead to God, higher living and blessedness, and for that reason it should be read by all, because it gives light, and more light is what the world needs.

It does not behoove us to find fault with other faiths, because there is too much good in all religions to find fault with them. They are different roads seeking the same goal.

NECESSITY FOR TWO PARTIES.

The necessity for two strong political parties, so that one can check the other, was never better demonstrated than in the Pennsylvania senatorial primaries. Pennsylvania is practically a one state governed commonwealth. For years the republican party has held full sway and a nomination for state office or for congress or the senate on the republican ticket meant an election. The expose of ring rule, rottenness and corruption as well as the purchase of votes made by the senate committee investigating the republican primary to name a senator is appalling. One candidate spend more than a million and a quarter dollars. The bosses ruled supreme.

Competition in business and politics keeps both clean. Boss rule always bears rottenness. Now is a good time for Pennsylvania to clean house and the democratic party should embrace the opportunity and organize and put out a strong man against the nominee that was selected through bossism and by a slush fund.

Texas should take the lesson to heart and ever keep clean.

 4. Castles and other buildings are to be converted into homes for orphans, war cripples, and convalescents.

5. All previous decrees, arrangements and agreements regulating questions in the scope of the above bill are nullified by the passage of this bill.

20,000,000 Vote.
 According to the German constitution, 20,000,000 votes must be cast, if the bill be accepted.

It remains doubtful whether this number will be attained at today's polling. Twenty million votes means almost twice as many as were cast for socialists and communists together at the last general election, and socialists and communists are the only political parties advocating the bill.

All the rest, the nationalists, Stresemann's Folk-party, the Catholic centrist party, the democratic party and the fascists, although from different motives, are opposing the expropriation bill and are bent on doing everything in their power to prevent its passage.

The intricacy of the constitutional provisions for the national referendum affords them an easy means of frustrating the bill. All they need to do is to keep their followers from voting. Their propaganda against the bill has shown that they are fully aware of this advantage.

He called attention to the attorney general that have passed who endeavored to run for governor before the sitting governor had run the second term, and also howed how they had wrecked their political careers while doing so.  Ferguson then rushed into personalities and declared that Moody was suffering from a swelled head and a new wife which was bad for any man to say the least of the trouble. "How can a man get anywhere like that," he asked.

The crowd howled with glee and shouts from the audience of "Pour it on him," was heard from all sides while women screamed with laughter.

The War Record
 Ferguson then delved into Moody's war record and showed official Washington documents which he read. This showed, he declared that, Moody had evaded the draft call early in 1918 by declaring that he had dependent relatives and did not go up for service until 60 days before the armistice. Ferguson alleged that Moody had obtained relief from the draft call by fraud.

Moody has been called a smart young man by some of his friends. Ferguson declared, and proceeded to discuss what he called "Moody Smartness." He said that Moody had been likened to a coming Thomas Jefferson, and declared that he had committed enough errors to show that he was too ignorant to run for any office much less the office of governor.

Movie Queens Set Precedent In Realm of Fashion

By LINCOLN QUARBERG (United Press Staff Correspondent)
HOLLYWOOD.—Gay are the summer fads of the movie queens.

Always irrepresible, the motion picture girls are wearing original creations—some outlandish, some useful.

Knee-pads, electric-lighted dresses, transparent bathing suits and ice-caps are among the innovations.

Deauville and Biarritz must look to their laurels when the film favorites give play to their imaginations.

Colleen Moore, First National star, for example, is wearing wide-brimmed straw hats—from two to three feet in diameter.

Mary Astor, from the same studio, has adopted the French knee-pads. These are worn with short skirts. They are buttoned affairs which stretch from the bottom of the kneecap for a space of eight inches above it.

Marie Prevost, former Sennett and Christie bathing beauty, now headliner for Metropolitan, has new-fashioned love-anklet. It is of solid gold with a heart-shaped padlock for a clasp.

"It's worn under the stockings," Miss Prevost said, "on the left ankle."

Corinne Griffith has originated in idea which is both economizing and beautifying, she declares. She wears electrically-lighted gowns. The dress is of white, flimsy material; tiny bulbs of different colors are fastened in its under-slip, and a small dry battery is so secreted also.

"At night, I can change the color of my gown at will by lighting the different colored globes," says she. "This gives a beautiful transparent effect, besides making one's gown appear like several different ones."

The cooling device is announced by Anna O. Nilsson. She has devised a hat with a rubber false crown, in which ice is inserted, acting as a cooling agent.

Dorothy Seastrom is thrilling the beach-gazers with a transparent bathing suit. Not that the onlookers are able to discern the charms beneath the suit. But the costume is so constructed of shimmering beads that when the charming young player enters the surf, the beads take on a transparency, heightened by the effect of the glistening water.

Another new beach outfit is one designed by Dolores Del Rio, Mexican actress. Her surf outfit is cut man-fashion, but with a collar of silk. A loose Windsor tie of the same color as the suit is worn with the collar.

Plan Filibuster On Harbors Bill By Farm Bloc Men

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON, June 19.—Hint of a filibuster on the Dawes-Haugen-McNary bill as a means of preventing action this season on the rivers and harbors bill, was made in the senate today. Senator McNary, republican, Oregon, in charge of the farm relief bill, asked unanimous consent that it be voted Monday afternoon. Senator Willis, republican, Ohio, objected, and Senators Harrison, democrat, Mississippi, and Swanson, democrat, of Virginia, charged that Willis' objection savored of a filibuster.

The leaders of both houses agreed to adjourn June 30, and the situation may either force postponement of the adjournment date or result in the rivers and harbors bill being shelved for this season.

Although the senate unanimously agreed to a limited debate on the farm relief bill and its amendments, it is possible to get around the rule by introducing new amendments and taking specific time on each new amendment.

Poison Recipe To Rid House Of Rat Pests

WASHINGTON, June 19.—Rats increase in number with almost unbelievable rapidity and the problem of how to get rid of them should be tackled before the pests have entrenched themselves in a home or barn, Uncle Sam advises the country through the agriculture department. Poisoning is the most efficient means known for destroying rats. Powdered barium carbonate is the best mixture as it is odorless and tasteless, Uncle Sam says. The poison should be placed on hamburger steak, sausage, fish liver, bacon, cheese, some vegetable or fruit.

Hampton, formerly with the Gullaborn Motor Company, at Eastland, they have secured the franchise for Hudson-Essex cars for Ranger and Eastland. Business Men's League Trophy Is On Display

A sterling silver, gold lined loving cup, with oxidized band around the top, just about a two-inch etched band, will be the trophy that will go to the victorious team of the Business Men's League of Ranger, when the season closes at the end of the summer.

This lovely cup, which stands 14 inches tall, and is eight inches across the top, is the gift of Huey-Phil Hardware company of Dallas and J. H. Mead & Son of Ranger.

To be finished, it needs only the name of the winning team or no one can foresee or predict which name will adorn it when the time comes for the engraving.

The cup has been on display in Mead's store all this week and has attracted much comment.

It is big enough and handsome enough to make any ball team work themselves to a frazzle end to obtain it and is a reflection of the public spiritedness of the men who made it possible.

Winners Will Tie Into Magnolias, Nitro Park, Today

Thurber Miners and Ranger Magnolias will meet at Nitro Park this afternoon in what is expected to be one of the snappiest games of the Oil Belt League.

From dope handed out by both parties, it looks as though both were scheduled to win—they may tie, or one team may give the other a real licking, but a thrill is in store for fans of both teams that is a foregone conclusion.

Ranger Magnolias are feeling mighty proud of their victory last Sunday and are going to put up a stiff fight to stay at the top.

Thurber Miners are going to show the petroleum bunch that they can play ball as well as dig coal and are going to win. They are holding Caraway in reserve, and the Ranger Mags have Ollie their latest addition, as an extra drawing card.

At any rate, regardless of the dopsters, it's going to be a real game, played between two strong teams and is sure to be played before a capacity crowd.

SUPERIOR

SUPERIOR DAIRY RATION

Increased production at least cost is the one big thought uppermost in the minds of all cow owners, and Superior Dairy Ration has the following four-fold superiority: (1) Increased milk production; (2) longer lactation period; (3) stronger calves and healthy cows; (4) convenience and dependability.

There is a great deal more to a dairy feed than the essential analysis. Superior Dairy Ration is not only accurately balanced, but also contains the very essential vitamins and mineral matter necessary for a long and maximum milk production and the development of strong, vigorous calves and healthy cows. It is made from these selected, inspected and analyzed high grade milk-producing feed elements, that are proven before mixing:

Corn Gluten Feed, Old Process Linseed Oil Meal, Prime Cotton Seed Meal, Kinsley Ground Maize Heads, Wheat Bran, 8-15 per cent Alfalfa Meal, Cane Molasses and 1-per cent salt.

National Parks Will Open For Summer Sunday

By United Press.
GARDNER, Mont., June 19.—Director Stephen T. Mather, of the National Park Service, will start the summer procession of tourists to the national parks tomorrow at the opening exercises in Yellowstone Park.

Although many of the parks are open throughout the year now for recreation during the winter, June has come to be the park opening season for Glacier, Mt. Lassen, Mt. Ranier Zion and some of the smaller parks which have official opening dates.

Crater Lake park, in Oregon, will not open until July 1, however, while Mesa Verde, Colo., and Sequoia, Calif., opened in May.

The opening day at Yellowstone is always the occasion for a unique celebration. Cowboys and Indians usually participate and one year the "big chiefs" of the states held a governor's conference that day, but this year the Rotary Clubs of the vicinity will put on the show.

Dealers Report Banner Year For Chevrolets

Sparkling sales talks by a large delegation of the West Texas section of the business managers of the Chevrolet Motor Company of Texas, featured the convention of West Texas dealers held Friday in the Gholson Hotel. Twenty-four members of firms from this area were present while M. R. Newnam, president of the Oilbelt Motor Company, presided.

Prior to the opening of the convention luncheon was taken, at which an orchestra provided by M. R. Newnam, rendered music, while other enjoyable features were also given.

Felix Doran, sales manager of the Chevrolet Company of Dallas, E. E. Riley, assistant sales manager of Dallas, George F. Fuller, sales promotion manager, Dallas, and E. L. Stacey, district manager and representative for this district gave talks.

Much of the convention was given over to a discussion of sales problems and the every day business problems effecting the sale of cars, and the discussion was instructive as well as entertaining. The way the sales are put over in big cities and the art of salesmanship as it affects both client and salesman also had its place in the program.

After the speaking part of the program had been got through members then signed up their contracts for the year 1926-27 which many stated would be the banner year in the business.

M. R. Newnam made the welcoming address while Walter Murray, president of The Times Publishing Company of Ranger spoke on Chevrolet from the advertising standpoint.

The following is a list of those present:

D. C. Clarke, Comanche; C. W. Williams, Comanche; Ralph Kindel, Weatherford; Ralph Kindel Jr., Weatherford; A. Dodson, Cross Plains; C. V. Morgan, Baird; C. O. Pass, Cisco; C. S. Osborn, Grandbury; T. Tolbert, Granbury; E. E. Hales, Gorman; C. C. Scott, Moran; Aubra Dodson, Cross Plains; T. Smith, Mineral Wells; Glen Luttrell, Moran; Bert Drake, Dublin; E. R. Carter, DeLeon; J. H. Rotramel, Eastland; H. H. Higginbotham, Stephenville, and F. C. Gray, Rising Star.

Liquid Servitors Shipped by Truck To Breckenridge

Gus Coleman, manager of the Southern Ice Utilities Company of Ranger, delivered a motor truck full of liquid servitors, to buyers in Breckenridge, Saturday.

These liquid servitors are the most sanitary method known of hardening pop. It is handled through a "punch and take" method, and issues completely refrigerated is the process of punching. Several of these servitors are in Ranger places of business and are making money for the owners and friends for themselves wherever they are placed.

The man who spent all his money last winter is lucky. He can't get restless this spring and quit his job.

Court Reporter Brightens Court House Gloom

A touch of the feminine is seen in the office of Miss Ivie Moore, official court reporter of the 88th district court, which is located on the second floor of the Eastland county court house, and which its occupant has recently had renovated. The entire inside of the room has been painted and varnished, new rugs and new furniture has been placed and about the room, are numerous potted flowers. The office and its surroundings are spotlessly clean.

On Miss Moore's typewriter is a placard on which is printed in large bold type "Travel the Smile Route," and Miss Moore says she is endeavoring to do this. How well she is succeeding in this is evidenced by her great popularity in the court house and with those whose duties bring them there from other parts of the county and state.

Justice Attempts To Solve Queer Clause In Will

The case of Alvah H. Ferguson et al vs. Joe Lee Ferguson et al from Haskell county, in which former Governor James E. Ferguson of Temple, is one of the plaintiffs, was submitted to the Eleventh Court of Civil Appeals at Eastland Friday. Governor Ferguson was not present, but was represented by attorneys. His brother, Joe Lee Ferguson of Haskell, was present.

The case is one contesting a will made by Mrs. Kate F. Morton, a sister of the Fergusons, who died about two years ago. About $300,000 in property is involved. The will was permitted to probate at Haskell.

Mrs. Morton made a will in May, 1924, the peculiar wording of which is the ground on which the contest is being made by the members of her family who are not satisfied with its terms. The paragraph in the will which furnishes the gases for the contest reads, "I am going on a journey and I may never come back a live so I make this will, but I expect to make changes if I live." This will stated that it was Mrs. Morton's last will. She lived two years after it was dated and the contestants claim that it was not her last will.

Call Court House Hottest Place And Easy Reducing

The recent hot weather has brought a request from the young ladies employed at Eastland county court house, and others whose duties in the various law offices and abstract plants in the city take them often to the court house, for additional fans in the offices where they work, some of which have no fans at all.

Entirely too small for the present needs of the county, the court house is congested in all departments, and this, with the additional fact that the building was erected some thirty years ago when little attention was given to proper ventilation, makes conditions in most any of the offices almost unbearable this hot weather. The clerks say. It is understood that Judge Ed Pritchard and his court recognizes the justness of the request for additional fans being made by the young ladies and that the matter is to be given immediate attention.

REWARD FOR FIRE BUGS
Notices offering $100 for the arrest and conviction of anyone convicted of arson within the city limits of Eastland, have been posted by the Eastland city commission. The notices are printed on heavy white cardboard and beautifully framed with glass over them.

There was a man in our town And he was wondrous foolish; He used no water in his car If the day was kind or coolish.

Sheriffs Deputies Clean Up Cisco Booze Joints

There was weeping and wailing and gnashing of teeth in Cisco Thursday night, while many usually law abiding citizens with their mouths watering until it nearly choked them, were forced to watch the passing down the gutters of over 100 gallons of rich beer and about 60 gallons of wine.

The wine, according to the sheriff's officers was the best sample of exhilarating nectar seen in these parts for many years. It was made from the luscious juices of hand-picked grapes, blackberries, dewberries, raisins and corn, and two drinks was said to be enough to send the average man through all the stages that make up the inebriated vision.

The wine went down the gutter and small boys followed it to the creek where crawfish after getting a smell of the juice turned on their backs and came to the surface, while minnows hopped from the water like trout.

Altogether five homes, stores and a filling station were among the places visited and according to deputy sheriff Virgil Foster not a dry hole was found. Deputy Sheriff Seaborn and Judge Sam Day also took part in the raids.

Mrs. Muldoon—"Tryin' to drink out of a bottle in a motor bus."

Announce Action For Custody of Monahan Babes

Action will be taken within the next few days to release the children found at the home of Howard and Babe Monahan from the custody of the couple, according to W. J. Barnes, Eastland county attorney.

Attorney Barnes stated Saturday that he would attempt first to arrange matters through the attorney that represented the Monahans at the recent trial, but if the negotiations failed he would take the matter to court in the usual way.

It was also announced that no further criminal action was being considered and that the law would be satisfied with taking the children out of the custody of the parties and getting them a new home.

It was also stated last night that the Monahans have now made their home in Eastland.

Sheriff Holds Notorious Crook Despite Federals

By United Press.
 DALLAS, June 19.—A crook of nationwide notoriety and wanted by officers in several northern and eastern towns as well as by the federal officers is languishing in the jail of a northern Texas town unable to accompany even the federal officers for whom he was captured.

The sheriff who has him in charge, when asked to turn his prisoner over, calmly smokes his cigar and answers, "No, sir."

This came out here recently when federal sleuths attempted to secure some court action which would secure the transfer of the prisoner to their own hands but they were unable to get help.

The crook, according to the sheriff, saw fit to curse himself, the works in general, and then belittle the small town "hick sheriff," who captured him and to cap the climax laughed long and loudly at the town's new jail.

Now the sheriff, his feelings injured, says the man will serve a sen-

Bathing Beach At Lake Cisco Is Open On Sunday

The Lake Cisco bathing beach will open Sunday, June 20, for the season. The new bathing beach is on top of the bluff overlooking the lake and the long climb down the wooden stairway has been eliminated. The pool is a concrete pool 200 feet square ranging in depth from six inches to nine feet. Diving apparatus slides and equipment for water sport has been installed in the pool. Grady Berry, former Brownwood citizen, will manage the amusement features at the lake this season.

Boating on the big lake will be one feature of the resort. In addition to the fleet of motor boats and the big passenger launch that have been on the lake for the past two seasons a number of small row moats and several new motor boats have been added which will be for hire. Water now extends back a distance of five miles from the dam and at points the lake is two miles in width from shore to shore. Water is 75 feet against the day at present nearly 20 having been impounded this spring.

A new Spanish cafe has been opened at the lake which specializes in serving Mexican and Spanish foods. A dancing pavilion is being erected and a band stand will be provided for band concerts which will take place at regular intervals during the summer.

The second annual bathing girls' revue will be staged at the lake on July 5 with appropriate prizes offered to the winners. The revue staged last year was attended by 15,000 people and made quite a hit.

J. M. (Jim) Searcy Announces For Constable

J. M. (Jim) Searcy, of Ranger, in announcing for the office of constable of precinct No. 2, says that he feels that he is well qualified to hold the office. In view of the fact that he served as deputy marshal at M-nard, Texas, for some time, and since living in Ranger, has done duty as night watchman, he feels that he could execute the office of constable with ability and satisfaction.

Jim Searcy has lived in Ranger for the past seven years. He has never asked for office before and assures the voters that if they give him their support in the coming election, he will perform each and every duty of the office with the same faithfulness of service that he has applied to his past positions.—Adv.

Rain, Rain, Sad Refrain Society Folks Now Hear

By RENA B. CAMPBELL
"Rain, rain, go away," is the refrain of practically all of the pleasure loving Ranganer, who like the boy in Mother Goose's rhymes, "wants to pany." April showers in June are not anticipated and therefore not appreciated.

It's too wet to swim and to damp for picnics, and if one has to get off of a highway when motoring, it's too muddy for anything but an airplane to get by—so what are we going to do for pleasure unless the clouds roll away?

The Jack Garner dance at the Elks club in Eastland on Wednesday night promises to be the event of the week and a great number of Ranganer dancers are planning to go there, for you can always get to Eastland regardless of the swirling waters under the T. & P. viaduct, and the "thank you ma'am" on South Commerce street, for if you can't go by the lower road you can by the upper road, which is not only high and dry, and often lonesome, but affords a longer way round, which folks who trek that far for a dance should not mind.

With the new swimming pool opening up at Cisco's big dam today, interest in swimming is sure to pick up. This pool is expected to be even more popular than the lake has been as the long stroll to and from the bathhouse to the lake, is a thing of the past.

Lake Leon is still a favorite with local swimmers, on account of its nearness and the wonderful freshness of its waters.

Acorn Acres has a party or two scheduled for the week, and a number of intimate little dinner and luncheon affairs, which hostesses are too afraid of bringing down the ire on themselves of some one they did not include among those present, to give out for publication. But really one should not blame the hostess but rather those who resent not being invited for we can't all be invited every time our best friends entertain—we ought cheerfully to give the other fellow a chance sometimes.

One of the best loved women I know of never objects to being invited at the last minute to fill in for a guest who reneged, nor gets mad if she isn't invited—she's broad, that's all.

Hot Day Desserts

By JANET JANUARY

ALLURING hot day desserts are frequently a problem to the busy housewife. Ready-made ice cream is the obvious solution, and this can be served in a number of unusual ways that are economical and easy. Ice cream is a general favorite, offered in a number of flavors, fruited and nutted, comparatively inexpensive, and quickly prepared in any desired quantity.

These points alone should recommend its frequent use on the home table, though there are other points quite as important. The most compelling points have to do with ice cream service. There are many ways of serving the dainty that give a touch of elegance to the simplest meal. Take for instance the various shells, fruit, pastry, meringue, candy, and cake. Appropriately sauced with home-made sauces this manner of service is a delight to the eye and a teasing temptation to the appetite.

The ice cream may also be repackaged in little individual moulds, sealed with a greased strip of paper, and buried in salt and cracked ice for an hour while the rest of the dinner is being prepared. Or it may be purchased all ready frozen in such moulded shapes.

The at home cook soon learns to make the various sauces of fudge consistency, crushed fruit and others. Her success stimulates her fancy and she soon learns new combinations and she is sure to have one or more kinds tucked away in the refrigerator waiting the coming of the cream. Whipped cream delicately flavored, even nutted and tinted, adds the last word of daintiness to the dish as a masking cloak, or decorative trimming.

In the older days flavorings to add to sauces, or for retouching the ice cream were limited to vanilla, lemon, almond, rose, and one or two more negative varieties. Today we have a wide selection including the wine and liquor flavorings that have the bouquet, color and taste of the real thing though they are strictly within the prohibition law.

Meringue shells may be found at all good bakeries, candy shells are made to order, cakes and pastry shells are made at home and fruit shells are also fashioned with a sharp knife by the at home cook. The sauces and their making will be a future story; today we will give the recipes for filling and preparing the different shells.

Meringue Shells

Take two half meringue oblongs, hollow a little from the soft centers fill with the ice cream, press together and mask with rich good sauce. Dust with powdered nuts or top with whipped cream.

Pastry Shells

Make good short pie crust, roll thin and cut in rounds with a scalloped cutter, press each round over with a greased inverted patty pan and bake a delicate brown. When done slip the shells from the pans to cool. When ready to serve quarter fill the shells with chopped and sweetened fruit, mound with ice cream and cover with a sauce made of crushed and sweetened fruit, the same as that used in the bottom of the shell.

Angel Cake Shell

With a sharp knife enlarge the round center of the cake leaving a good sized ring. Fill the bottom and spread the sides with rich pressed fruit. Fill and spread the top with ice cream masking the whole with butterscotch sauce, and decorate the top with toasted almonds. All things should be ready when the cream is brought in and the dish served as soon as it is ready.

Fruit Shells

Grapefruit and orange shells are made by cutting the skins in fancy ways and carefully removing the fruit, notch the shells when emptied and put them into cold water until needed. Cut a slice of the banana skin lengthways, remove the fruit and fill the shell with the cream, use a banana sauce with this dish. Hollow out the centers of large baked apples and fill with the cream, using a whipped cream sauce, nutted and flavored. A new way to serve ice cream in cantaloupe is to fill the center of one-half with cold fruit gelatine and let it jelly. When ready fill the other side with ice cream, turn the halves together and tie with a narrow satin ribbon drawing the spoon through the loops.

Acorn Acres Tea Rooms and followed by bridge, and a dinner given by Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Overley at their home in the States Camp, at which Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Ernst, former Ranganer folks and intimate friends of the Conway's were present.

Other parties, none the less charming, were just little two or three table events, were full of sincere wishes for "bon voyage" for this well loved young matron, as the larger parties were. Mrs. Conway will sail on the Coronica.

TUESDAY BRIDGE CLUB NOTICE

The Tuesday Bridge Club will not meet Tuesday with Mrs. Harrold Durham, as Mrs. Durham has just returned from a visit to her sister at Bronte, and wishes to postpone the club for a few days. The date of meeting will be announced later.

COUNTRY CLUB DANCE ALMOST RAINED OUT

The Country Club dance set for last Friday night and greatly anticipated was almost rained out by the torrential rains of that day. This is the second time that this has happened to proposed dances at the club, and the orchestra has begun to set itself up as a drought buster.

However, about twenty seven brave couples braved the slippery road between the Strawn Highway and the club, and those who succeeded in making the trip without anymore fatalities than ruining clothes and shoes, by having to get out and push recalcitrant cars back into the road, and arrived at the club house had a splendid time.

The Rainbow Serenaders, who negotiated the same Via Dolosa, were at their best and their spirits were not at all dampened by the afternoon's deluge.

It is planned now, providing old Jupp holds off, to have a Fourth of July dance, which on account of the National Holiday falling on Sunday, will begin at midnight on the morning of the fifth and continue until daylight. Whether it will be followed by a sunrise breakfast or not has not yet been determined, as the plans at present are only tentative ones.

THURSDAY BRIDGE CLUB LUNCHEONS

The Thursday Bridge Club, which met with Mrs. E. E. Crawford, Thursday afternoon, began the afternoon's pleasure, by partaking of a delightful two course luncheon, beginning at 1:30 p. m.

The club meeting was held in the Crawford home on Elm street, which for the occasion was decorated with vases and baskets of sweetpeas.

Mrs. Frank Brahney made high score and received a pair of silk hose, while Mrs. C. C. Craig, made low and received some dainty handkerchiefs. Club members present were Meses. Frank and Walter Brahney, J. T. Gullahorn, John Thurman, M. K. Collie, A. N. Harkrider, B. S. Dudley, M. L. Holland, C. C. Craig, Roy Jameson, Ed Maher and Miss Alice Boor of Los Angeles, California.

PREBYTERIAN CHURCH SOCIETIES TO MEET

The Auxiliary will meet in a social meeting Monday afternoon with Mrs. Allie Armer, at 3 o'clock, with the members of Westminster Guild will drive over to Strawn to meet for a social hour or two with Mrs. Fred Hiatt.

PASTIME CLUB MEETS WITH MR. AND MRS. ROY JAMESON

An evening party that began with a two course dinner and ended with the awarding of bridge prizes, was given Wednesday night, when Mr. and Mrs. Roy Jameson entertained the members of the Pastime Club, at their home on Elm street.

Sweetpeas, in many hues, were used in a lavish way for the floral, and were especially effective as center pieces on the dinner tables.

Dinner was served at 7:30 and at its conclusion tables were arranged for the ever popular bridge. When the tallies were checked up the ladies high score prize, a piece of lingerie went to Mrs. Chas. Conley, and the men's high score prize, a tie, to Mr. Marlowe of Fort Worth. Mrs. Aubrey Jameson received a vanity case as low score prize and Dr. H. A. Logsdon, a jar of Mrs. Jameson's famous home-made jam, as low score prize.

Around the tables were grouped Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Crawford, Chas. Conley, C. C. Craig, Gus Coleman, Marlowe of Fort Worth, Aubrey Jameson, J. T. Gullahorn and Dr. Harry Logsdon.

Former Crown Princess Cecily Faces Charges

By United Press.
BERLIN.—A suit for embezzlement has been filed against the former Crown Princess Cecily by the Berlin branch of the Association for the Protection of the Republic. In its writ to the court, the association declares that "Mrs. Cecily, princess of Prussia," committed the embezzlement in connection with an attempted fraud.

The organization's suit is based on the following facts, as related by the democratic deputy, Dr. Bohner, during a recent session of the Prussian diet.

A pair of valuable Sevres vases had disappeared from the public "Schloss museum," in the premises of the old imperial castle at Berlin.

On investigation it was learned, so Dr. Bohner asserted, that the vases belonged to the disputed property of the former crown prince, who, however, was willing to leave them to the museum in exchange for a couple of valuable Rembrandt paintings.

The deal was concluded when the former crown princess asked permission to see the vases once more before they were definitely added to the museum's collection. She furthermore asked, for sentimental reasons, that she be spared a visit to the museum in the old imperial castle and that the vases be brought to her for inspection at some other place.

This request was granted by the director of the museum, according to Dr. Bohner, with the understanding that the vases be returned immediately after the inspection, and the valuable art objects were transported to the Netherlands palace, one of the former princely dwellings not open to the public.

Then they disappeared mysteriously. They are said now to be at Oels castle, Silesia, the residence of the crown prince and his family.

On inquiry as to the whereabouts of the vases, the director of the Schloss museum has allegedly been informed by a secretary of the crown princess that, "since the state was not keeping its word, the crown princess saw no reason why she should keep hers."

Dry Powdered Milk For Babies Of a Caravan

By Viola Russell Anderson, M. D. U. S. Children's Bureau (Written for the United Press)
WASHINGTON.—Vacation season is approaching, when trains and trails will be crowded with whole families bound for the seashore, mountains, and "wide open spaces."

When traveling, by train or automobile, the latter mode of transportation being on the whole preferable for babies, dried powdered milk may be used instead of fresh cow's milk. All the precautions observed while at home to guard babies and little children against disease—producing germs should be redoubled while traveling, and "Caravaners" will find powdered cow's milk an ever present help. The advantages of powdered milk lie in its greater certainty of cleanliness and purity, and the greater ease with which it can be prepared for use.

A liquid of the same constituents as whole fresh cow's milk is obtained by mixing water with the powder according to the directions on the can. The water should be boiled first, and allowed to cool somewhat before the milk mixture is made.

In fact all water used while "gypsying" should be boiled, the possible exception being water taken from a source which is marked safe by the local health department. A water, boiled or pure, must be screened against flies, and held in clean containers.

Water may be boiled over the camp fire for 5 minutes, then covered and kept covered till used, or a solid alcohol stove may be carried for this purpose. These are small, cheap and efficient.

If the baby is on the bottle, the bottle and nipple, spoon and mixing bowl, should be boiled for 5 minutes before making up the feeding. The hands should be thoroughly washed before the milk is mixed. While traveling, unless a portable refrigerator is part of the outfit, it is not wise to make up more than 1 or 2 bottles at a time. Even carefully prepared formulas may spoil in hot weather after being subjected to the vicissitudes of "auto gypsying."

Styles Change In Tourists Camps, Many Sanitary

By Viola Russell Anderson, M. D. U. S. Children's Bureau. (Written for the United Press.)

WASHINGTON, June 12.—Styles change in tourists' camps as well as in skirts. The average tourist camp of today is large enough to accommodate the crowd comfortably, and hygienic and sightly enough to be an interesting place to live for a short while.

Still there are plenty of little old yesterday's models left to catch the dirt and to be a menace to the health of the baby. Plan to stop only at camps known to be sanitary; they are new well advertised.

The regular routine of the baby's life should be maintained in camp as at home. Make camps in time to put him to bed by 7 o'clock, bathed in a clean nightgown, and trucked away in his own sleeping nook, screened by fine mosquito netting. The water for the bath, as well as for drink or food should be boiled for five minutes and kept in clean containers.

The little baby is fed over three or four hours by the clock. Four regular meals are given to the older baby. A well balanced daily ration contains a cereal (cooked if possible), at least one fresh, green vegetable, fruit (stewed till baby is three years old), and a quart of milk. Give nothing between meals.

The food supply at the camps is limited and expensive, so come into camp provided with fresh, green vegetables, butter, eggs, and fruit. These are often for sale along the road. If one carries a refrigerator milk and meat are safely transported if they are obtained at clean stores.

Auto Plant Saves Thousands Yearly Through Salvage

One of the great sources of economy in a motor car plant is the salvaging of material formerly considered as waste. When production is high some large and surprising figures result.

pany, which has just installed a huge lumber salvage plant to replace an older one, between 5,000 and 6,000 pounds of nails are recovered daily as one of the minor by-products. These come from boxes and boards which have been used in shipping various materials into the Hudson plant. The principle salvage product, of course, is the lumber, the output of which may run from 75,000 to 100,000 feet a week; so the nails may be considered as a minor by-product. Some of the nails when recovered are in suitable condition for reuse; the rest are sold as a scrap product.

all incoming boxes and lumber. Many boxes can be used just as they are for shipping out parts or for incidental work around the plant. The rest are sawed up so that all usable lumber is saved from them. The scrap material then left over is fed into a huge grinder which reduces to fragments about the size of shelled corn. This is fed by compressed air into one of the furnaces of the main power plant, where it burns with an exceptionally high speed and intensity. At capacity this material will supply 800 to 1,000-horse power an hour.

After the material is ground, and while on its way to the furnace, it is led over a series of powerful magnets which search out the daily tons of nails.

"It is methods like these," said Mr. Hampton, Hudson-Essex distributor, "which make possible the remarkable Hudson-Essex values. Every possible economy is made and the resultant advantages shared with the public."

Scientific Study Reason Given for More Truck Sales

Credit for the large increases in the use of truck and busses during the past year belongs to scientific study in the opinion of Edward F. Loomis, secretary of the motor truck committee of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, speaking before the transportation classes of the University of Pennsylvania recently. There has been a great advance in the study of the motor vehicle's relation to transport during the past year or two. Mr. Loomis pointed out. Shipping and trucking companies are studying routes so as to use less congested streets and thereby reduce time losses. Scientific planning of streets of motor travel. Electric railway companies and independent companies installing bus lines are making studies both of existing volume of population and probable trends. All these factors, the speaker stated, point to continued development of motor traffic on a sound basis.

Three Million Miles Of Roads In United States

One of the most remarkable features of the gigantic road building program this country is engaged in is the diversity of road types adopted to meet varying conditions of traffic, location and available funds.

The adoption of various types of roads marks the severance from old world construction which has always held to one type of road, and ushers in a new era of road building where the road is adapted to the conditions it will be called upon to meet.

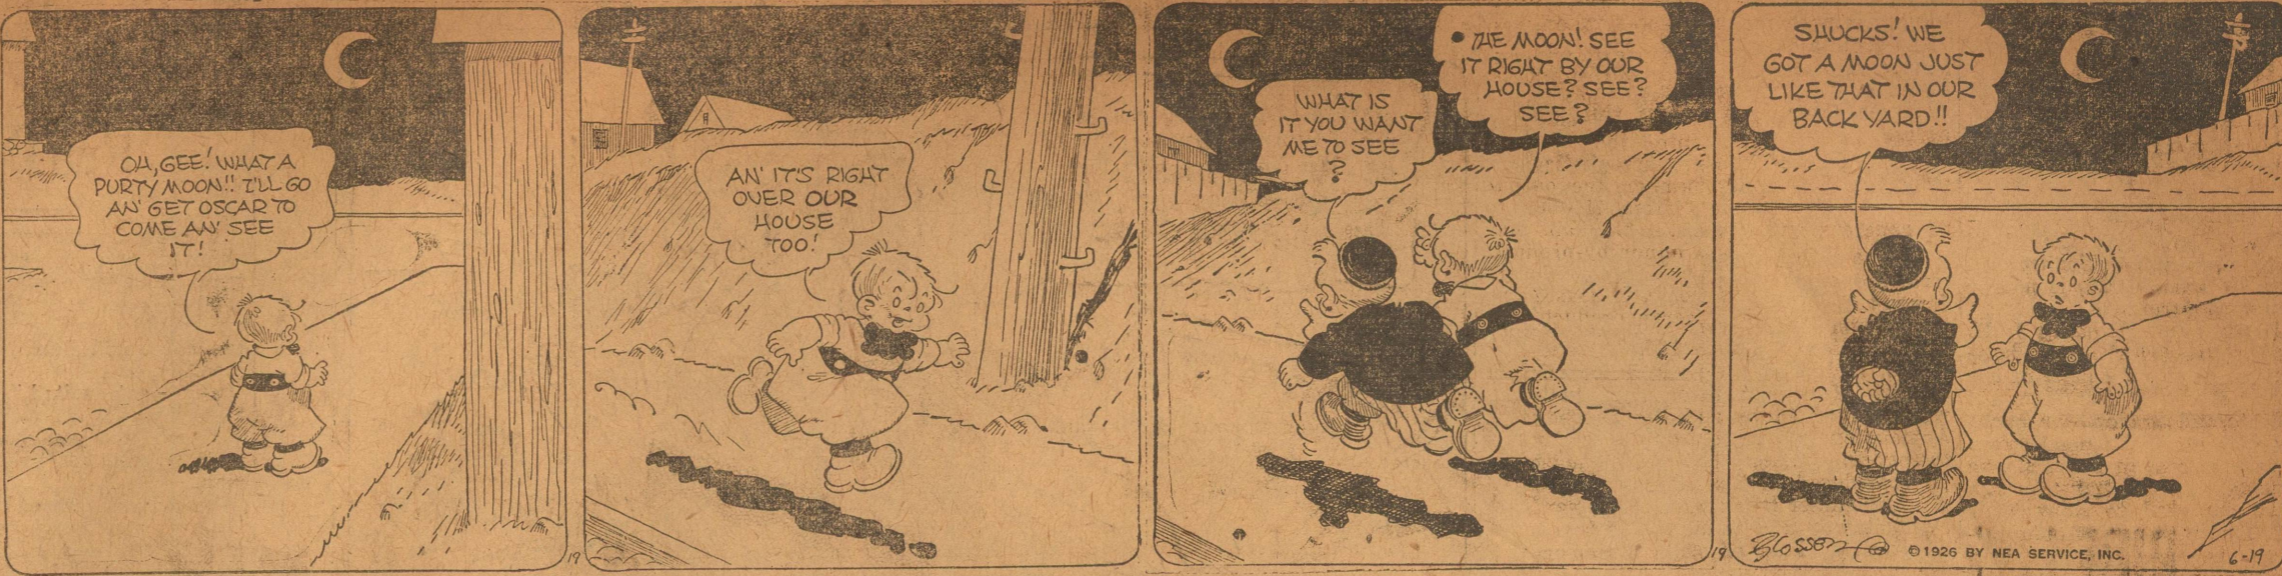

Generally speaking the present day plan advocates the construction of the highest type of road possible keeping the road, however, within the boundaries of its possible earning power.

Roughly, there are four types of roads now in use. These are the graded but unsurfaced roads, the lighter type surface with natural binder, the lighter type surface with artificial binders, and the base type.

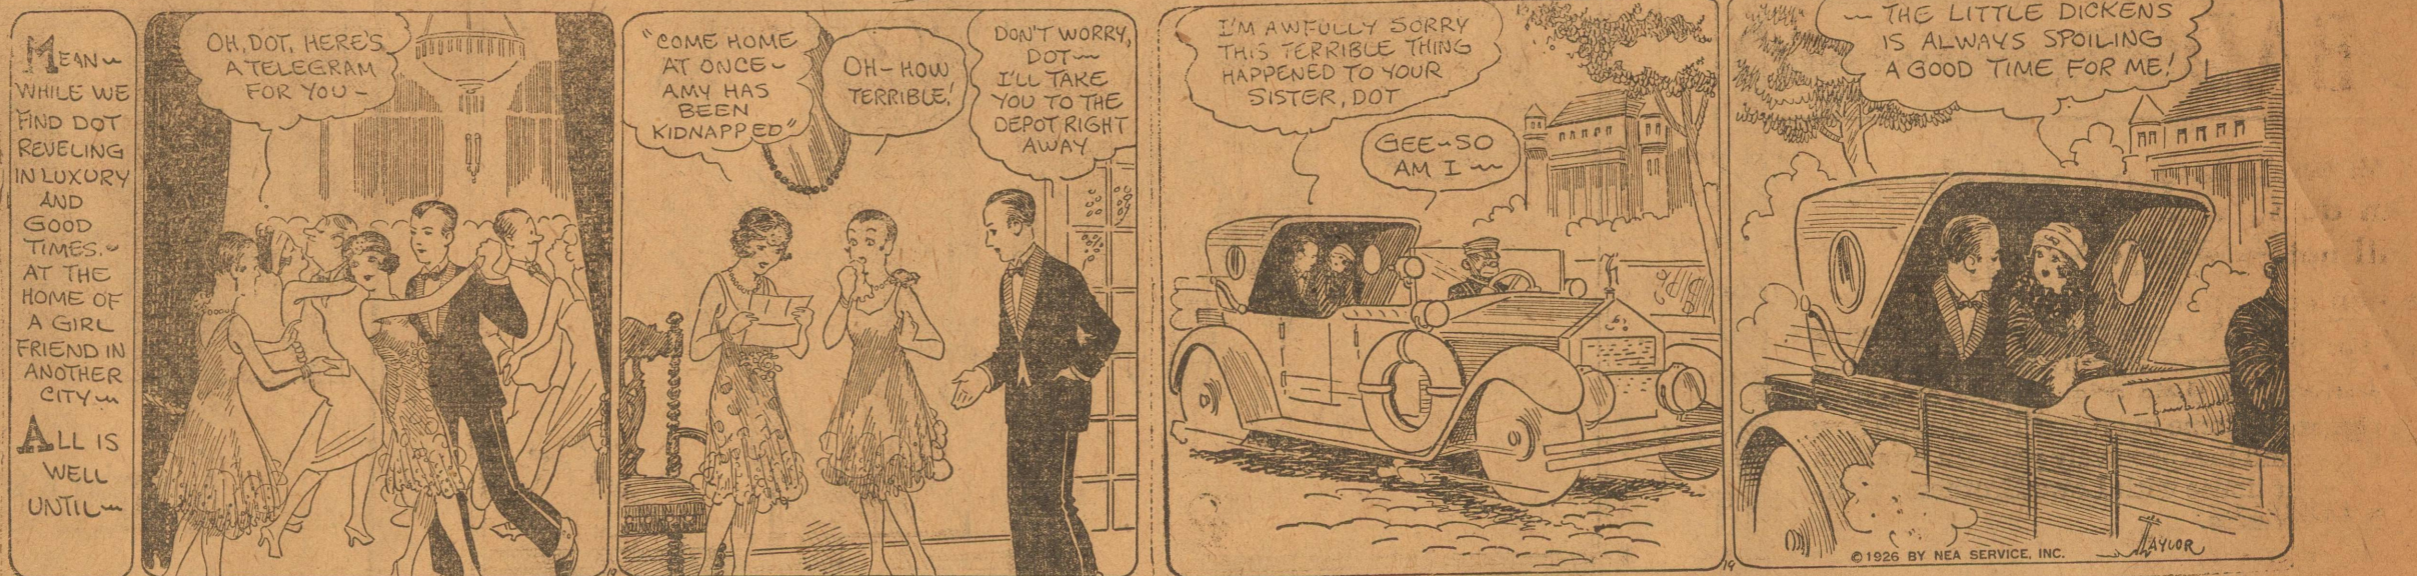

3 Million Miles of Roads in America

The mileage of roads in the country—some 3 million miles—is so great and the traffic over many miles so light that building hard surfaced roads over more than a relatively percentage of the total mileage will be impossible for years to come. This does not mean that our road builders are neglecting these lightly traveled stretches. These roads are being improved through grading and draining so that as little trouble as possible with mud, dust, and impassability will be experienced. In the south and some other parts of the country sand clay roads are coming into favor, the sand packed with the natural surfacing, forming a fairly good surface.

While this lower type of road serves its purpose with some facility, traffic of any density necessitates large maintenance expenditures. The next higher type of road, surfaced with asphalt or some other type of artificial binder has found much favor in roads with only a moderately heavy traffic. In this type of road the surfacing material is laid and compacted and the binder material spread over the surface. Penetration of the binder ties the particles of surfacing together, forming a sheet which resists the wear and tear of traffic with reasonable ease.

Under careful vigilance this type of road has been found well suited to the secondary roads of the nation, but under main line traffic the maintenance is too excessive to make this type of road popular. This is especially true of roads where there is a great deal of bus and truck traffic, for the pounding of these heavy vehicles requires a hard road surface which can not be torn apart.

First Concrete Laid in Europe

While the first concrete streets were laid in Europe the adoption of concrete to road building first occurred in the United States.

Wayne county, Michigan, is commonly termed the home of the concrete road, for here, under the direction of Edward N. Hines, the first concrete road was laid and year by year this county has advanced the art of concrete road building. Today there are some 38,000 miles of concrete in the country.

Brick roads are favored in many localities, especially Ohio, where there is a state-owned brick plant to furnish brick for road construction. Where the brick wearing course is laid upon a heavy concrete base this type of road is lasting and excellent. Older forms of construction which laid the brick in a sand bed or upon some light base are obsolete for these roads will not withstand the constant pounding of modern traffic.

"We have been told that any fool can drive a car and most fools do." No doubt this is right, up to a point. Any fool can drive a car, but it is in stopping the beast that they come unstuck. Ninety per cent of accidents are caused by fools who drive but cannot stop. Through towns, over crossroads, in passing and in overtaking, they drive on their hooter (that is, sounding the horn without slackening speed) and trust to the other fellow giving way. It is when two of the same species meet that trouble comes.

"The man past middle age who takes to motoring and buys a big, fast car is the most dangerous man on the road." He tells his friends that he learned to drive in three days. He has no idea of pace or distance, and has no road sense whatever. His one idea of getting out of trouble is to jam his foot on the accelerator instead of slowing down. The time arrives sooner or later when he finds himself in such a position that neither violent "footing" nor acceleration will help him. After the crash, which of course was the other fellow's fault entirely, what is left of him either becomes a motorist and cures all those who are then what he was before his crash, or he gives up driving altogether. In either case, the safety of those who use the highways is much increased.

"The supersports motorists is often a great nuisance on the road and puts the wind up many people, but he is generally a good judge of pace, distance and space, and is more annoying than dangerous."

Smoker Planned For Mass Meeting On Friday Next

The date of the mass meeting of Eastland county citizens to discuss the Eastland county fair, has been changed and the meeting will now take place Friday night, June 25, according to arrangements made by George Briggs, secretary of the Eastland Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Briggs said that the rural districts are already planning their exhibits, and that the county as a whole were more than satisfied with the fair last year, although the work was accomplished under conditions that were extremely difficult.

The gathering will be in the nature of a smoker, with a regular round table discussion, Mr. Briggs said. It was also stated that the reason that the date was changed is because Mr. Briggs will attend the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention at Amarillo next week and could not return in time. The meeting will be in the Chamber of Commerce rooms.

Architects' plans are now being prepared for a modern hospital, to be built by Dr. George B. Hamilton, at a cost of $75,000.

B. C. Deulkey, superintendent of schools, has returned from a week spent in inspecting West Texas

McCracken, while attending the state firemen's convention in the "Magic Valley," took occasion to view the city halls as Olney has voted bonds for a $25,000 city hall. Man Who Can't Stop Is Cause Of Accidents

A letter in serio-comic vein, signed "Rugby," published in the Auto-car, an English periodical, has a certain parallel in the automobile driving practiced all too often in the United States. It is quoted herewith in the hope that automobile drivers who read it will, if it applies to them, quit their foolishness.

Burglars Ransack Eastland Store For Varied Loot

The Eastland "Oil Belt" grocery store was entered by burglars Friday night and goods valued at several hundred dollars were removed.

The burglary was discovered Saturday morning when the owner went to open up. He found the place littered with debris while the lock of the door had been smashed and a chain cut.

The thieves were not very discriminating in what they took, according to sheriff's officers who are investigating the occurrence, as among the goods stolen are several hams, auto tires and tubes, butter, cigarettes, tobacco, several cases of shortening, and much other property that go to make up the average county store.

Sheriff's officers believe that the stuff was removed in an auto, and they are confident that they will effect an arrest.

Olney Farmers Plan To Visit Eastland Farms

OLNEY, Texas, June 19.—One of the great oil fields of Texas, a rich grain section, a prolific cotton section—and now Olney is beginning the development of the poultry industry. It is likely that a committee will visit Eastland county, "the egg basket of Texas," before the movement gains momentum in order to study methods there.

The Olney oil district with a daily production of nearly 20,000 barrels, is witnessing extensive activities, some 75 wells now drilling. With approximately 1,350 producing wells in the field, Rhea Anderson, oil operator who is more closely in touch with the field perhaps than anyone else, declares that he cannot recall a single producer drilled since the discovery of oil three years ago that has been plugged, which reveals that production is steady and long-lived.

It would be difficult to find a town of 6,000 with more diversity of industries than Olney, as manifested by three grain elevators, three cotton gins, three casinghead gasoline plants and two refineries.

A crop of wheat, oats and barley estimated at 400,000 bushels is being marketed here. Ten thousand gallons of natural or casinghead gas-

Wembley British Exhibition Hall Sells At Auction

By United Press.
 LONDON.—Wembley, the land property of the British Empire Exhibition of 1924 and 1925, is up for sale at auction today.
 The liquidators, including J. H. Thomas, member of Parliament, hope in this way to get back a little of the huge amount of money that Wembley cost the State and to close the books that show such a sad financial story.
 Widespread interest in being shown in this unusual sale and many foreign bidders are expected to show their hands. The property is of considerable value because Wembley is a promising suburb with fine roads and numerous connecting railway lines joining it with the heart of London. The ground contains 132 acres. The Palace of Machinery is a magnificent building of reinforced concrete. The concrete floor space covers thirteen acres.

 The Palace of Industry is a similar structure. The concrete floor covers ten acres. The Palace of Arts is also of concrete and covers one acre.
 To the sporting world the most interesting question is the fate of the famous Wembley stadium (which is the largest in the world. It has accommodations for over 100,000 spectators, including two huge grandstands. The past three cup finals were played there and the Football Association has an option on it for twenty-one years. This option must be considered in the sale. It has a circular cinder-track with a 220 yard straightaway and is adaptable to almost any kind of athletic tournament.

No Glory When Auto and Train Run Dead Heat

The big car was speeding toward a railroad crossing when an express train hove into sight. Immediately the two men in the front seat began an argument as to whether or not the car could beat the train to the crossing.
 "Don't get excited," said the driver; "I tell you I can make it easily."
 "And I tell you the train'll beat us to it by minutes," shouted the other man.
 The driver increased his speed while the argument continued. Finally the man in the rear seat could stand it no longer. Holding on to the side of the car, he shouted:

Five Million Dollar Plant For Pontiac

General Motors corporation is to build in Pontiac at once a $5,000,000 plant for the manufacture of Pontiac automobiles.
 This plant is to be ready Jan. 1, 1927, to turn out Pontiacs at the rate of 1,000 a day.
 It will be built on Modern Housing corporation property just across the railroad from the Baldwin avenue plant of the Fisher Body corporation. The first units of the factory will be almost twice as large as the present Oakland plant. It will have a total of 1,400,000 square feet of floor space as compared to 750,000 square feet in the Oakland plant today.
 Members of the executive committee of General Motors corporation, in session in Pontiac at noon today, reached the decision and President Alfred P. Sloan Jr. made the announcement that they would build at once. A. J. Brandt, vice president of Oakland, in charge of operations, has been working on plans for the factory for three weeks. Every piece of machinery that goes into the plant will be brand new.

 The executive committee, all of whose members were here today, include Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., Harry H. Bassett, Donaldson Brown, Henry S. Dupont, Charles T. Fisher, Fred J. Fisher, Lawrence P. Fisher, Charles S. Mott, John L. Pratt and John J. Raskob.
 The main building will be an assembly plant more than a quarter of a mile long with two stories and basement. It will be 150 feet wide and will have a total of more than 600,000 square feet of floor space. The car storage and shipping department will be in another building 900 feet long and 450 feet wide with all shipping and receiving docks under cover. The motor plant will be 375 by 700 feet, and in addition to this there will be a power plant. All of these buildings are to be erected this summer and fall and tentative plans are for additional buildings to be erected subsequently.
 The $5,000,000 expenditure authorized today represents investment in buildings and machinery alone. Other necessary expenditures will run it up to far beyond that figure. When it is completed the General Motors Corporation will have an investment in Pontiac of more than $15,000,000. This new factory has been under discussion ever since the Pontiac was received with such enthusiasm by the public. In fact it was the project behind the Pontiac car. General Motors Corporation had the new plant in mind when the car was introduced. Its building depended solely upon the way the car was received, and this reception has exceeded their highest expectations.

 Each of these departments will have its own scheme of worship it was stated, and members are invited to attend the church early as a treat is in store.

Paul looked up irritably. "Oh, I say, Rita, cut it, won't you?" he said.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

John and Fay Milburn buy a home of their own shortly after their baby girl is born and the advertising agency in which John is partner and copy writer lands a new contract.

John, in love with his wife, but a romantic individual, is fascinated on meeting Nell Orme, of whom Pat Forbes, a friend of John's, hints that she is having trouble with her husband.

Noel and Vera Boyd, a young married couple, give a party and Vera shows an interest in John which does not return, but which rouses Fay's jealousy. Noel Boyd later boasts of an arrangement with Vera where each leaves the other to do as he pleases.

Fay takes the baby to visit with her parents, and during her absence John runs around a great deal with Fat Forbes, whose wild tendencies have caused some trouble between him and his wife, Marian.

Word begins to go around that John is being indiscreet, and Nathaniel Graham, his business partner, takes him to task. John resents this, and a gradually growing breach between him and Graham is widened.

Eleanor Mason, who has literary talent and is known to many of the Milburns' friends, invites John to "fill in" at a party. She leaves early in the evening, pleading a headache, and John takes her home.

There her headache miraculously disappears and under the influence of a few drinks she is soon carrying on a violent flirtation with him. John kisses her roughly, whereupon she gets coquettish, and he leaves soon after, promising to come back.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
(The names and situation in this story are fictitious.)

CHAPTER XXX

He drove home in a sort of fit of vicious recklessness. It had been raining, and the little car careened and skidded dangerously around corners. Eleanor Mason's face kept flitting before his eyes, and he tried to shut it out, but her yellow hair and laughing lips—inviting his kiss—were some strange, melting will-o'-the-wisp that pursued instead of fled.

John tried to reflect calmly on the events of the last two hours, and with reflection came a hard, cold anger at himself; for, he felt, he had somehow forever cheapened himself—and if Fay should learn of it...

He saw himself again yielding to Eleanor's bold advances and pressing rough kisses on her. It was far different, he thought, from the little scene with Dorothy Francis. True, he had kissed Dot, but it had been a goodyby kiss, a chaste, friendly, little kiss. And Dot, anyway, was so far out of his reach—an old memory coming back and flitting away again.

Of course, he reflected, Fay would not be able to see any difference in them—although Fay entertained a hearty dislike for Eleanor—but husbands, he was sure she thought, did not bestow their kisses like mere salutes.

"A cheap flirt," he growled, thinking of Eleanor. "Fay was right about her after all."

It occurred to him then that the true reason for his feeling of anger toward Eleanor was not that she had trapped him into this flirtation, but that, once he had yielded, she had seemed a little afraid of him.

"Like a schoolgirl," he muttered. "Always playing with fire and yet afraid of getting their fingers burned."

He resolved that he was through with Eleanor Mason.

Things moved on in an uneventful way for several days. Nat Graham seemed a little more cool and less than ever to say, but John was not bothered particularly—he had plenty of work to do and little time to think of Nat's peculiarities.

Starting out from home earlier than usual one morning, he encountered one of his neighbors—Robinson, his name was, and he was short and stout and walked with a limp.

"Hop in," John invited, and the other hobbled over.

"Thanks," he said in a loud, hearty voice. "Wife still away?"

"Still away. And I'm getting tired of it, too."

"Don't blame you. Been through it myself. 'Bout every other summer the wife goes away for about two months. I tell you, a fellow does get tired being alone."

"Yeah, I'm getting fed up."

"By the way, Milburn," and Robinson looked at him slyly and poked him in the ribs. "What's this I hear about you making speeches on the front lawn in the early hours of the morning?"

John groaned. "I thought Mrs. Blodgett would take care of me," he said. "Just what did she say, Robinson? I suppose she told your wife and your wife told you. Was that it?"

"Say, you know her methods pretty well, don't you?"

"Well," laughed John, "they all work alike. What did I do to disgrace the neighborhood and the name of Milburn?"

"Oh, it seems you came home in the last stages of intoxication, and you had a disreputable looking companion with you who staked all night with you and who insisted on making speeches to on the lawn. Seems you were praising the liquor you'd been drinking—some kind of sin."

John laughed loudly. "I don't know how Pat Forbes will enjoy being called disreputable looking," he said. "I've always thought he was a party looking gent, myself. That's a good one."

"Well," said Robinson in a friendly tone, "leave it to Old-Lady Blodgett to make the worst of a situation. To tell the truth, Milburn, I never paid any attention to it. I say to my wife, 'Myra, I say, the old lady's jus out with her knife again. Milburn's wife's away and he's been out on a stag party having a good time. What of it?' I says. 'The man's a decent, law-abiding citizen and entitled to a little kick-up once in a while, ain't he?'"

"And what," asked John, "did your wife say? That's what troubles me."

"Well, the wife's pretty broad-minded. She just laughed and said, 'The next time you see Mr. Milburn, tell him what Mrs. Blodgett said about him and warn him about her.'"

"You tell Mrs. Robinson I thank her very much," said John, and impulsively stuck out his hand to the fat man beside him. "I'm afraid some of the neighbors will take a different view. I suppose I'm a terrible drunkard and souse in the estimation of a good many, by this time."

"They had reached Robinson's office. He told John not to let it worry him, thanked him for the lift, invited him to call and "have a home-cooked dinner," and hobbled away.

"A pretty decent scout," John thought. "Wish they were all like him. Damn the Blodgetts, anyway! Why do such people have to live? I suppose Fay will learn about it, the first thing when she gets back."

The more he thought of it the more he was tempted to call up Mrs. Blodgett and tell her to mind her own business. "Serve her right if I did," he growled, but he thought better of it.

"At that," he told himself. "I think I'd do it if it wasn't for Fay."

Fay's letter that day informed him that Judith had celebrated her fourth of July with a pony ride.

"Of course," Fay wrote, "her grandfather had to hold her on, but he was greatly pleased. Now she's saying pony."

Briggs strolled in while he was reading the letter, and when John looked up he asked, "Well, what's the young prodigy doing now?"

"Riding horseback, by heck! Try and beat that," and John peeped in for his pipe.

"You win," Briggs laughed, and retreated.

That afternoon John went to Adolph's barber shop for a shave, and told that worthy about Judith's pony ride, making the tenth that day he had informed.

"That's not 'ting," Adolph shrugged, and proceeded with marvelous tales of his own six. There was one, he told him, who had memorized the alphabet at two years, and another, athletically inclined, who at the age of four was chiming himself twenty straight times.

John closed his eyes and snorted in loud disgust. "Adolph," he said, "you make me sick. I'm half tempted to try another barber shop."

"No, no, Mr. Milburn, you wouldn't do that. Noooy else can cut your hair like Adolph."

John admitted it was true. "But, if it wasn't, I'd quit you in a minute. You don't treat your customers with the respect they deserve."

Paul Davidson was waiting for him when he got back to the office, and Paul explained that he felt a little lonely and wanted John to cheer him up.

"You're the only one who understands me," he added.

"I never knew before that you were such a puzzle," John laughed. "What's the matter?"

Paul didn't answer. "The Playhouse gang are giving a special performance soon," he said after a pause, "and there's a rehearsal tonight. Like to come? Hope you can—I've a good reason."

"I thought you had given up amateur theatricals," Paul said, and the other shrugged.

"Oh, they seem to think they can't get along without me. I can't very well desert them when they're asking me as a favor."

John studied for a while. "I'll come," he assented, and Davidson promised to call for him and invited him to have dinner with him.

The play was some highbrow thing which John privately thought a little dull, although Paul, whom he had never seen on the stage before, was a revelation to him as leading man; and there was a girl who played opposite him—a striking brunet—who showed exceptional talent.

Paul introduced John to her after the rehearsal and suggested having supper. During the meal, which Paul enlivened a bit by pouring from a flask, John had time to study Paul's actress friend. Rita Johns was her name, and her air of proprietorship with Paul amused him.

Davidson didn't like it—of that John was sure. In fact, he saw Paul squirm once or twice when she announced plans that included Paul and which that worthy apparently had not been consulted about.

"Oh-hoh!" John thought. "So Paul's got himself sewed up, eh? Well... and he old boy, wasn't going to fall for any woman."

"I've been telling Paul," Rita said, turning to John and lazily exhaling a cloud of blue cigarette smoke. "That he should quit practicing law and go on the professional stage."

"I'm sure he would make a go of it," John agreed pleasantly, "but why deprive the bar of a good lawyer? After all, the legal profession needs talent, too."

Rita, Paul thought it necessary to explain, had had a professional offer herself. "But," he added humorously, "Rita needn't worry. She has beauty, ambition and influential friends. I have none of them."

"Oh, you have beauty," John laughed.

Rita's black eyes snapped determinedly. "Never fear, Paul's going to do as I say."

Paul looked up irritably. "Oh, I say, Rita, cut it, won't you?" he said a little testily, and rose. "Come on, Rita, I'll take you home. John," he added quickly, "come along."

John felt that Rita was a little displeased because Paul had invited him along, and little was said during the ride. When she had left them Paul, driving John home, broke a long silence to tell him that he had to help him out of a hole.

"It's Rita," and he announced, a little desperately, "I want you to break it up between us. She wants to marry me."

Road Information Necessary To All Travelers

Reliable information has become as necessary for the so-called pleasure ride as for the extended trip, according to C. C. Patterson, secretary of the Eastland County Motor Club, who says that it is a waste of time devoted to recreation to set out for the afternoon or evening without knowing exactly where road work will be encountered.

"The idea of being well informed regarding the local roads as a prerequisite to pleasurable pleasure riding is just beginning to dawn upon motorists," Mr. Patterson explains. "until quite recently such information was regarded as necessary only when preparing for an extended trip. Very rapidly modern motorists have learned the advantages of being well equipped with touring information, and they are applying the idea of preparedness to their daily health spins."

"The American Automobile Association with which this club is affiliated estimated that seventy-five per cent of the motorists who stand in line at one-way stretches of construction could have taken other roads for their drives, which means that the twenty-five per cent of the remaining, composing tourists, have to be further delayed by unnecessary local traffic.

"What is more surprising, few of these drivers who are held up at such points know in advance what they are coming to. Otherwise, of course, they would avoid such delays."

"The need of information as to routes, detours and road construction simply for daily use, is becoming more and more pronounced. Apparently motorists are learning that good touring methods and A. A. A. club service are as valuable in the short run as in the long."

Chevrolet Sales During May Are Best In History

For the first time in the history of the Chevrolet Motor Company sales during the month of May have exceeded sales during April, according to figures just made public by the sales department of the company.

During May 70,935 Chevrolet cars were sold in the United States, making a total of 84,944 cars, including Canada and export, the largest number of three-speed transmission cars ever sold in one month by any automobile manufacturer. Sales increased by 23,650 cars over May, 1925, when 47,285 Chevrolets were sold in the domestic market.

For the first five months during 1926, up to June 1, 250,927 cars were sold in this country alone, an increase in sales of 84,138 over the same period in 1925, when 166,789 cases were sold in the United States.

A tremendous expansion of dealer representation is also shown, the number of direct and associate dealers representing the Chevrolet Motor Company increasing by 2,488 in the first five months of this year over the same period in 1925. On June 1, 1926, 8,398 dealers were merchandising Chevrolet cars, and on June 1, 1925, there were 5,910 dealers in the United States. Applications for dealer franchises still continue to pour in to the sales department daily. At the present time sales are running at the rate of more than 18,000 weekly. The best weekly sales record prior to this year was the week of May 2, 1925, when 10,700 Chevrolet cars were sold in the retail domestic field.

Domestic sales are continuing at so high a peak that the mammoth production facilities of the Chevrolet Motor Company have been taxed to their utmost capacity to fill the demand. In fact, the company would have been unable to fill this spring's order had it not been for the reserve stock built up during the winter. This is illustrated by domestic sales totaling 70,935 cars in May while factory production for domestic distribution was approximately 61,000 during this month.

A tabulation of monthly domestic sales for 1926 and 1925 follows:

January	25,003
February	38,150
March	53,505
April	68,331
May	70,935
Total	251,827
1925—
January	11,258
February	18,184
March	36,719
April	53,283
May	47,285
Total	166,789

TRAFFIC LAWS FEW

In Constantinople there are few, if any, traffic laws. The native motorist goes through town at 40 miles an hour passing street cars on either side, careening corners and violating every safety rule.

Frigidaire users are delighted at its low cost of operation

We say that the operation of Frigidaire costs less than ice. Frigidaire users will tell you that they hardly notice the difference in their electric bills after Frigidaire is installed.

For the convenience of dependable electric refrigeration is a revelation to every Frigidaire user. The fact that it needs no attention whatever, that it is absolutely automatic, that it keeps food colder, better, longer, makes delicious desserts, and freezes those enticing Frigidaire cubes for iced drinks, that it makes the preparation of meals so much easier—these are things that only a Frigidaire user can appreciate.

"This modern 'ice man' calls once—with Frigidaire, and the ice stays always."
