Gang Ties Up Watchman, Tries to Loot Entire Village

RETAIL MERCHANTS ASSOCIATION TO HOLD BANQUET MONDAY EVE

BUT GET LITTLE IN THE RAID

Attempt to Burglarize Almost Every Safe in Texas Town.

By United Press.
FENTRESS, Tex., Oct. 26.—Three robbers presumably working out of San Antonio tied up Watchman Will Lancaster here last night and then proceeded to work on practically every safe in the village but hasty checkup this morning has so far revealed no extensive shortages. The post-office safe containing receipts for the week and also records was attacked by the burglars without success and its contents were found unharmed. Entrance was also gained into the town bank and the safety deposit vault opened although no losses have yet been found there. Several other establishments were entered before the gang left without much reward for several hours work. Fentress, a small town and summer resort, is located about 40 miles south of Austin.

College Queen

Ellen Lanham of Dallas, Tex., was chosen All-College Queen from among representatives of 14 colleges and universities from all over the country, at the annual All-College Ball during the Texas State Fair at Dallas. Miss Lanham was princess from the Oontz School for Girls in Philadelphia. She is also a former student of the University of Texas.

SPLENDID FEATURES ARRANGED

President of State Association of Credit Men Will Speak.

"Closer co-operation between the merchant and the credit bureau," will be the subject of John E. Phillips, credit manager of the Fair, Fort Worth, who will be the principal speaker at the Ranger Retail Merchants' association banquet Monday night at the First Methodist church, beginning at 7:30 o'clock. Phillips is president of the association of Retail Credit Men of Texas and is a forceful speaker. A turkey dinner will be served by the women of the Methodist church. The banquet will be held in the basement of the church. Mrs. Alice True, secretary, today estimated that 75 would attend the meetings. She asked that anyone who has not purchased a ticket to the banquet, do so at once. The tickets may be obtained at the local office of the association. Music will be furnished by an orchestra led by J. M. Edwards and this will be followed by the invocation, led by the Rev. George W. Shearer. The banquet will follow.

Edison Receives Congressional Medal

In the laboratory at West Orange, N. J., Thomas Edison the other night received one of the nation's highest awards—a special congressional medal of honor, recognizing his years of service as an inventor. Here is Edison before the microphone as he spoke the words broadcast throughout the nation. On the table is Edison's first model of the phonograph, which was returned to the inventor for the occasion from the British museum. Left to right are Ronald Ian Campbell, British charge d'affaires; Andrew Mellon, secretary of the treasury; Mrs. Edison, Edison and John Grier Hibben, president of Princeton University.

Is Out For Week Before Officials Learn of Escape

Wichita Falls Man, Convicted of Killing His Father, is Made a Trusty and He Makes His Getaway; is Life Termer.

By United Press.
HOUSTON, Oct. 26.—Henry Toussaint, civil engineer, who was convicted in Wichita Falls in 1922, for the brutal murder of his father, has escaped from the Darrington prison farm, southeast of Houston. Toussaint, according to information from the farm Friday, made his escape a week ago, although no report of it previously had leaked out.

ANOTHER CRUCIAL STRUGGLE

Breck-Cisco Game Saturday at Breckenridge Will Be a Thriller.

When Lobos meet Buckaroos Saturday afternoon on the Breckenridge gridiron, 7000 wild-eyed fans will fill the immense stadium to view a game that is expected to be one of the most thrilling in the history of the Oil Belt district. The game is also expected to go far toward determining the championship of the district. Both teams are in splendid condition, physically and mentally, for the game. There are almost no injured members of the first string and all are in fighting mood to play at top speed. Coach P. E. Shotwell may fling both his triple threat axes into the game at the very start—something that he has not done all season. Heretofore he has started Boon Magness, punter, passer and runner, and then Boon, after making beautiful gains, has tired, he has been relieved by his brother, Aubrey, not quite as good a punter but an even more dangerous broken field runner. If both these stars start the game, with Graham, husky fullback, and Robinson, shifty quarterback, who ran 80 yards with the opening kickoff for a touchdown last week at Brownwood—well, you can look for things to happen. However—Coach W. B. Chapman is liable to have his hidden ball plays in evidence this week. All of which is mere surmise for no one except the teams and coaches know what strategy each eleven will resort to. If Breckenridge loses, it will be because of the ends. See how that prediction works out. From tackle to tackle, the Buckaroos average around 177 pounds. But Carey at one end, though a fighter, is light and the other wing position has not been definitely settled—several taking turns. On the other hand, the Cisco linemen are heavy enough for linemen. Miller at one end weighs 168 pounds and he is plenty solid, likewise fast. Meadows at the other end weighs 160 pounds. Only one thing seems certain about Saturday's game—and that is it will be so hard fought that it will be in doubt until the very end. That's the reason why Eastland, Ranger, Cisco and Breckenridge fans will be there in record-breaking numbers.

It was reported at Huntsville Thursday that Toussaint had disappeared three months ago and that officials at the farm had not discovered he was missing until this week. G. F. Murphy, farm manager, denied that Toussaint had been gone for this length of time, and said he had seen him at the farm Saturday. Toussaint, who was serving a life sentence for the slaying of his father, has been a trusty on survey work in the vicinity of the Darrington farm. Somewhat of a dabbler at painting, he at one time received considerable publicity for the paintings he had put on the walls of his cell at the penitentiary at Huntsville. On one wall he had painted a portrait of Jesus Christ and on the opposite wall had sketched a monkey. After he had finished these two, he painted a portrait of "Ma" Ferguson and Dan Moody on the walls.

19 BANDITS, AFTER RAID, LOSE LIVES

Set Fire to Hacienda, Are Pursued by Federal Troops.

By United Press.
MEXICO CITY, Oct. 26.—Federal troops killed 19 rebels in a battle after a raid on a ranch at Agua Calientes, a dispatch reported today. The rebels set fire to the famous La Punta hacienda and shot an entire herd of imported bulls after the owner refused to pay $5,000. The federal troops set out in pursuit and inflicted heavy losses on the raiders.

Here's One Who Will Not Shave

By United Press.
ROSWELL, N. M., Oct. 26.—J. L. Chatten, prominent stockman living near Elkins in the northern portion of Chaves county, will not shave until Al Smith is defeated for president of the United States, according to an announcement made here. "I have voted the democratic ticket for 50 years," said Chatten, "but this time I am for Hoover. I expect to get in trouble with my wife for not shaving, but the old beard is going to stay on until Al is defeated, even if it takes four years from Nov. 6."

Workmen Killed In An Explosion

GADSDEN, Ala., Oct. 26.—Two workmen were instantly killed here early today when the cylinder flew out of the engine in the regular blowing room of the Gulf States Steel company. The dead are Charley Kelly and Luther Hodge, both of Alabama City. The blast came without warning, neither of the victims having an avenue of escape, and were dead when other employees reached the scene.

PUBLISHER'S MOTHER DIES AT AGE OF 76

Funeral of Mrs. Catherine Murray Will Be Held Today.

Mrs. Catherine Murray, 76, mother of Walter Murray, publisher of the Ranger Times and Eastland Telegram, died at her home at Gatesville, Thursday night at 8:10 o'clock, according to a message received here by Mrs. Walter Murray. Funeral service for the aged woman will be held this afternoon at the First Baptist church of Gatesville. Burial will follow at the Gatesville cemetery. She is survived by six sons, and two daughters, as follows: Lieutenant Colonel Will Murray, Long Island, N. Y.; John Murray, Odessa; Jim Murray, Dalhart; Walter Murray, Ranger; Edward Murray, Indiana; Clarence Murray, Gatesville; Mrs. C. E. Dodson, Fort Worth and Mrs. Curtis Lauderdale, Lampasas. The husband, R. T. Murray, 85, and Mrs. Fannie Brady, Amarillo, a step-daughter, survive.

1,000 Pounds of Pecans on Tree

By United Press.
GAINESVILLE, Oct. 26.—A native pecan tree on the G. O. Breeding farm in the cross timbers east of here, has the reputation of sometimes producing a thousand pounds of pecans in one season. The tree is unusually big, having a spread of 66 feet by actual measurement. This year it bids fair to make a profitable yield. The nuts are large and well-formed for native pecans and are well marked, making an attractive product for the retail market. The kernels are big and fine flavored. Mr. Breeding, who is a pecan fancier and who is doing much to promote the industry in this section, says he plans to name this pecan the Western Stewart and to sell buds from the tree to other farmers on account of the unusually large size of the nuts as a native product. THROCKMORTON — 200,000-gallon filtration plant nearing completion in this place.

STILL ARE HUNTING MURDERER

Hope to Drive Slayer of Two From the Underbrush.

By United Press.
HASKELL, Oct. 26.—Authorities from three counties resumed their search along the Brazos river bottoms today for Bill Fritz, 35, charged with the slaying of Dudley Hamilton and his son, Earl, at Rochester, Wednesday night. The search is being conducted by officers from Haskell, Jones and Stonewall counties. The slayer is believed to have sought refuge in the thick underbrush along the river after his escape from the scene of the crime in his automobile. The Brazos river bottom is a thickly wooded section and sparsely settled. Posses hope to drive the slayer from the bottoms into the open country where guards have been posted.

NEW RECORD IS MADE ACROSS THE CONTINENT

Flyers Are Weary After 24 Hours, 52 Minutes In Air.

By United Press.
LOS ANGELES, Oct. 26.—The monoplane Yankee Doodle, holder of speed records for non-stop flights in both directions across the continent, was being groomed today for a new effort to lower the existing mark for a trip from west to east. Capt. B. B. D. Collyer, pilot, and Harry Tucker, millionaire sportsman, arrived at Mines field, Los Angeles at 2:08 p. m. Pacific coast time yesterday after completing the non-stop flight from Roosevelt field New York, in 24 hours and 52 minutes. The previous record of 26 hours and 50 minutes was set by Lieut. Macready in 1924. When the two flyers arrived, they showed the strain of their 25 hours in the air. They were deafened temporarily by the roar of their motor. The plane was in good shape, however.

EVERYONE THINKING OF GAME

Streets and Cars Decorated, Stores Closed for This Afternoon's Tilt.

Abilene Eagles and Ranger Bulldogs clash this afternoon at Lillard Field in the most important game in West Texas up to the present. Flags are flying throughout the business section. Traffic is heavy. Ranger citizens are wearing big badges, "Welcome," printed in red on a white background—the high school colors. "Beat the Eagles" stickers are everywhere in evidence on automobile windshields and there is an occasional "Fight Ranger" sticker sighted on the Abilene car here and there—the advance guards of the host that will arrive for the game. The special train from Abilene will arrive at 2:30 and will be greeted by Rotarians. Stores will close at 2:30 and will re-open three hours later. In the early afternoon, autos from Cisco, Breckenridge, Eastland, Strawn and other cities were in evidence. Numerous newspaper men will be on hand—the biggest flock of writers since the great games here in 1926. There really is not any use writing about the game itself now for by the time this paper is read, the game will be over and the Ranger fans, rejoicing in victory or downcast in defeat, will have returned to their homes from the hellsides. We'll merely hazard the prediction that the Bulldogs will prove themselves fighters.

CHIROPRACTIC MEET TODAY

By United Press.
SAN ANTONIO, Oct. 26.—San Antonio is host today, tomorrow and Sunday to the Universal Chiropractic convention. Outside of the regular business sessions of the convention during its three-day meeting, will be a "most beautiful back" contest. It will be open for girls and women above 18 years of age. Prizes as announced by the contest committee are: First prize $300,000, with other prizes totaling $200,000. The contest will be held in the municipal auditorium and will close with the appearance of Josephine Lucchese in a recital. Dr. F. Lee Lemly, Dallas, secretary of the Texas Chiropractic association and Dr. J. H. Lege, San Antonio, will have charge of the contest.

ZEP NOT TO FLY TO WEST

By United Press.
LAKEHURST, N. J., Oct. 26.—Plans for the western trip of the giant Graf Zeppelin were unexpectedly cancelled today by Dr. Hugo Eckener, who said bad weather condition necessitated the cancellation. Eckener said that if the weather was favorable a start for Europe would be made Monday. He added that this depended, of course, on the irritable being ready for the long overseas test. His haste to return to Germany, he explained, was that he desired to make several trips across Europe before the winter snow sets in.

Georgia Commissioner Assails Crop Estimate

(By United Press)

ATLANTA, Ga., Oct. 26.—The Department of Agriculture crop estimate was attacked in a statement today by Eugene Talmadge, Georgia commissioner of agriculture. Talmadge said a survey revealed the 1928 crop in this state short 219,000 bales from the government estimate of 1,060,000. "The federal cotton bureau has made this mistake in all other cotton states," he said. "A serious error exists in the estimate for the entire crop. It is well for the southern senators and representatives to bear in mind that one of the employees of this same bureau gave out a statement last fall when cotton was bringing a good price or about what it was worth, that there was entirely too much cotton goods and products on the market for the demand. After this statement, the price of cotton was depressed 5 cents a pound in less than two weeks."

$100,000 IS THE LOSS IN FIRE AT BROWNWOOD

By United Press.
BROWNWOOD, Oct. 26.—Fire destroyed four buildings and the machinery of the Texas Brick company here last night. Origin of the blaze is not determined. Loss is estimated at $100,000 which is partially covered by insurance. Texas Brick Co. Plant and Four Buildings Are Destroyed.

Dan's Generosity Makes Wife of Bob Silver Very Glad

By United Press.
KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 26.—Mrs. J. R. Silver, wife of Bob Silver, who escaped electrocution last night when Gov. Dan Moody of Texas commuted his sentence to 99 years imprisonment, expressed great joy here today and said she would leave immediately by auto to visit her husband at Huntsville prison. Mrs. Silver is staying with friends here and had given up all hopes of saving her husband from the electric chair. "I am so happy I can hardly wait to see Bob again," she said.

COMMITTEES NAMED FOR LEGION MEET

Appointments Announced By Dr. Palmer General Chairman. Minor details relative to the entertainment of the many visitors who will be here for the seventeenth district convention of the American Legion, and the dedication services for the municipal airport, are being worked out, according to Dr. W. And after all, the man who does that has truly lived; and by increasing the happiness of his generation, has helped to brighten this somewhat cold world.

FAMOUS NOVELIST DIES.
 George Barr McCutcheon is dead. The author created many glamorous romances, early in this century, of imaginary, tiny kingdoms of Europe. He drew pictures of palaces, glittering uniforms, lovely princesses, dashing American heroes.

In quite a different vein—and yet somewhat like those royal romances, too, in its quixotic nature—was "Brewster's Millions," the story of a man who had to spend a million in a year in order to inherit seven millions. It abounds in fund and action. It was a great stage hit some 15 years ago.
 McCutcheon will not occupy a lofty place in the history of literature but his "Graustark" tales will be recalled with pleasure by thousands of readers who will pause to pay a tribute to a man who added to their joy.

PROTECTING EASTLAND COUNTY.

Eastland county has juries of which the citizenship may well be proud.
 It is no light act for 12 good men and true to bring in a verdict that a fellow human being has proved himself so dangerous and deadly an enemy to mankind that he has forfeited his right to live. But it is an act that, when occasion arises, must be done or the lives of law-abiding citizens will be further endangered.

Not once but three times in the past few weeks have Eastland county juries spoken the verdict that has brought the cold clutch of fear into the heart of every potential lawbreaker in Texas. The murderer and highwayman laugh at long prison terms but the thought of the electric chair leaves these outlaws pale of face, with knees shaking and eyes glassy.
 We are not at this time considering the evidence in each case in which the verdict of death was returned. If the courts deem such a penalty too severe in any case, the defendant's rights will be safeguarded.

But we do believe that the fact that four times this year a jury has said "We fix the punishment at death" means that Eastland county is going to be considered as an unhealthy place for criminals and, by the same token, a place where the laughing faces of little children, happy in the love of a splendid father, will not suddenly be drenched in tears because that father has been shot down by a hijacker; and that law-abiding men may go about their daily vocations with greater assurance that bullets through the back, fired by a godless hand, will not strike them down in the full vigor of manhood.

Ford Airport At Dearborn Equipped With Modern Aids For Aerial Traffic

DETROIT, Mich.—Paved runways, permanent, fire-safe buildings, a complete facilities for the efficient handling of passengers, mail and express are combined in one airport for the first time in the history of American aviation. The airport is Ford's, located at Dearborn, eight miles west of the heart of Detroit on a paved highway.
 More than 30,000 passengers have passed through the splendidly equipped airport passenger station thus far this year, to take the air in the fleet of Ford tri-motored metal planes operated by the Stout Air Services, chief users of the port for passenger service. In addition, the Ford company's own planes have been constantly on the move, carrying mail and freight to Chicago, Cleveland and Buffalo. The big ships have made more than 10,000 take-offs and landings at the port, since its opening three years ago; smaller planes use the facilities of the field frequently, with the result that the Ford port is one of the busiest in the world.
 A feature of the port which makes it particularly popular with pilots of heavy planes is the system of paved runways which is unique in America. A strip of concrete pavement 1600 feet long and 75 feet wide, augmented by a shorter strip of non-rigid pavement, gives planes facilities for take-off in two directions. Another such concrete pavement, 3000 feet long, is to be constructed; so take-offs and landings may be made in any of four points of the compass. Stanley Knauss, general manager Stout Air Service, Inc., reports that his pilots are enthusiastic about the new runways, particularly for taking off. "The take-off from the smooth, uniform surface," says Knauss, "is always positive. The pilot knows that the plane lifts off only when it has attained flying speed, for there are no bumps or ruts to bounce the plane into the air in 'false' take-offs."

 Landing on the paved runways is made feasible by the substitution of a wheel for the usual tail skid and by the use of brakes on the landing gear wheels.
 Ford port equipment consists of a huge, heated hangar capable of housing many planes, large and small, a smaller hangar, a storage house for parts and motors, a factory where the big ships are produced at the rate of three a week, and the passenger station. Concrete warming-up strips are provided in front of the main hangar and all buildings are connected by paved drives and walks.
 Although the Ford port is unique in its class, ports in other cities may soon rival it. St. Louis, Tulsa, Philadelphia, Detroit and New York are planning similar plants with an even greater equipment of paved runways.
YOAKUM.—$350,000 bond issue will be voted on for improvement and extension of State Highway No. 72 from South Mustang Creek, Sweet Home, to this place.
WICHITA FALLS.—$400,000 First Methodist church here completed and largest pipe organ in Texas installed.

Finds Newspaper Advertising Pays

Business of Frigidaire Corporation has approximately doubled over the same period of last year following a widespread newspaper advertising campaign based upon its new line of household refrigerating equipment, according to E. G. Biechler, president and general manager, who attributes much of the increase to use of newspaper space.
 "The newspaper of today, when used to promote a quality product is one of the greatest aids that business or industry can enlist," he said. "It obtains and retains public confidence for any product that merits it."
ELECTRA.—Three miles of new Greyback Crossing road cleared and graded.

Bran muffins

WAIT until you see those muffins as they come from the oven. Wonderfully light and fluffy—never soggy. And when you break one open and let a lump of butter melt in that tender texture, get ready for a taste experience such as you never had before. No other muffin ever had such a rich, nut-like flavor.

The fine thing about eating these wonderful muffins is the health they bring you. For that cupful of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN helps supply your eliminative system with bulk and fiber that prevents constipation. So many foods in our diet—meat, eggs, milk, sugar, fats—lack this necessary roughage.

But muffins are not the only food where you can get healthful and tasty results by adding ALL-BRAN. Put it in dressings. Sprinkle it in soups. Mix it in griddle cake batter. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is equally effective for health when eaten as a cereal. Doctors recommend it. But be sure you get the genuine Kellogg's. It is 100% bran and furnishes "bulk" in generous quantities. Part-bran products, at best, can only be part-way effective. Just eat two tablespoons of ALL-BRAN daily (chronic cases of constipation, with every meal). Delicious with milk or cream, fruits or honey added.

Grocers everywhere sell Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Use it and you'll free yourself from constipation. Also from the use of habit-forming cathartics. For Kellogg's ALL-BRAN works as nature works. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

LEGION WILL ELECT NAME THE NOMINEES

B. H. Murphy manager of the Gholson Hotel, and B. H. Peacock, civil engineer, were nominated last night as commander of the Ranger post of the American Legion.
 The election of officers will be held next Thursday night and the installation will be held the Thursday following Nov. 11.
 Other nominations were:
 First vice commander, Harry Henry.
 Second vice commander, Mickey Carlin.
 Adjutant, Leon G. McPherson, Boyd Davenport, O. C. Peavy, J. B. Heister.
 Sergeant at arms, Lonnie Her-ring, C. D. Davis, Otis Brady.
 Finance officer, A. N. Larson.
 Service officer, F. P. Brasher, M. F. Starr, Dr. C. C. Craig.
 Historian, George W. Manning, H. O. Pope.
 Chaplain, E. E. Trammell, Dick Elliott.
 A check for $25 was received from the local chapter of the Knights of Columbus to be applied to the entertainment fund for the seventeenth district convention of the American Legion to be held here Nov. 10 and 11.
 Adjutant Yates of Cisco assured the members of the local organization that Cisco would co-operate with Ranger in the convention to be held here. He asked that members of the Ranger association be present for the Cisco Armistice celebration Monday, Nov. 12, and asked that a float be entered in the parade. The members of the organization voted to send the float to Cisco.
 Reports from all committees appointed for the convention indicated that everything was in readiness for the entertainment of the visitors. Captain Parham of the Salvation Army told the legionnaires that his group would serve coffee and doughnuts on the streets the first day of the convention.
 The coffee and sugar will be furnished by local wholesale grocery houses and the doughnuts will be furnished by Speed's bakery at a nominal cost. The refreshments will be free to all legionnaires.

More Progress In Trans-Sea Phone System Achieved

While the American Telephone & Telegraph company was a pioneer in radio-telephone development, its desire to furnish the best and most dependable telephone service to Europe has led to the company to carry on for many years, extensive research in deep-sea long distance telephone cables," states Walter S. Gifford, president of the American Telephone & Telegraph company.
 "This research and development work has resulted in perfecting, in the Bell telephone laboratories, a deep-sea long distance telephone cable that will permit of a telephone cable across the Atlantic ocean. Until now, a submarine telephone cable that distance has been impossible because current sufficient to carry speech could not be sent by submarine cable such long distance without its fading in the process, and the devices for amplifying it which are used on land, such as leading coils and repeaters, could not be attached to the wire in the core of the cable under water.
 "The difficulties have not prevented submarine telephone cables for short distances, such as from Key West to Cuba or across the English channel, but they have prevented the laying of the trans-Atlantic telephone cable.

 "The new development of the American Telephone & Telegraph company is the outgrowth of the discovery of permalloy in the Bell telephone laboratories a few years ago. Now, high speed permalloy loaded telephone cables have already been constructed and laid. Permalloy is also used for loading coils on land telephone lines.
 "Permalloy, together with other developments that have been worked out in the laboratories, now makes possible the construction of a long distance submarine telephone cables. When not being used for telephone conversations, this telephone cable will permit of telegraph operation at a higher speed than the latest high-speed telegraph permalloy cable. Such a trans-Atlantic telephone cable, the building of which is now under construction by the American Telephone & Telegraph company, would give not only added capacity for overseas telephone service, but a greater reliability than is possible by the best known radio methods, for in spite of the use of both long and short waves, the inherent deficiencies of radio at times interfere with service."

DONATES COINS AS HARBINGERS OF GOOD LUCK

AGED FRENCHMAN DISTRIBUTES FOUR DOLLARS DAILY IN ATTEMPT TO BRING FORTUNE

By United Press. PARIS.—Bringing good luck to the world is the self-made business of a little earnest old man of fifty whose cards read, Pierre Paillet, philanthropist.

M. Paillet works hard week days and Sundays at his job which consists of punching holes in copper five centime pieces or sous and distributing a thousand of them, or four dollars worth each day, to the people of Paris.

His theory is that inasmuch as a son with a hole in it brings good luck, just like a four-leafed clover, he can spread good fortune everywhere by distributing as many as his income permits, eventually achieving a perfect world.

For his job he has equipped himself with special leather pockets to hold the coins, and at home, he has installed a regular machinist's punch for making the holes.

Mme. Paillet disapproves of the whole business reminding him how he got into trouble during the war. Pierre at that period was engaged in writing the number thirteen on all the letters and mailed parcels he could lay his hands on, feeling that by spreading enough bad luck he could stop the war. But he was mistaken for a spy and it was all he could do to explain his way out of a term in prison.

SPORTSMATTER BY FRANK GETTY UNITED PRESS SPORTS EDITOR

Arthur C. (Dazzy) Vance, at the age of 35 a veteran as ball players go but during the 1928 season, with the sixth place Brooklyn Dodgers, he turned in a record of 22 victories against 10 defeats. The big red-faced pitcher again reigned supreme in the strike-out division, topping the National League hurlers by fanning 200 opposing batters.

During the past seven years in the older circuit, Vance has proven to be one of the most consistent pitchers in the league. His career is similar to that of Charley Root, of the Chicago Cubs, Ed Kummel, of the Philadelphia Athletics, Tony Knuffman, also of the Chicago Cubs, and Jess Petty, team-mate of the "Dazzler" with the Robins, in that world's series glory has never been theirs to share.

When the Robins won the National League Pennant in 1920, Vance was then toiling with the Memphis and New Orleans teams in the Southern Association. In bolstering his pitching staff for the 1922 campaign, Uncle Wilbert Robinson sent Larry Sutton, Robin scout, to New Orleans to look over a pitcher named Phillips. Sutton reported back to the Fatbush headquarters with the advice, "Thumbs down on Phillips, but buy Vance."

Squire Ebbs demurred, but finally Sutton received permission to buy Vance.

Has Highest Salary He did and the terms for the sale were $1,000 down with $4,000 more if he made good. Today, Vance is probably the highest salaried pitcher in the National League, and has been the best find ever made by Sutton.

The Dodgers once were noted for being strong pennant contenders over four years, concurrent with the presidential year. Since 1912 the Brooklyn team has won three National League pennants, and were dangerous contenders in 1924. The 1924 season found Vance at his best, being voted the most valuable player in the league, and figuring prominently in the success of the Dodgers with a record of 28 victories and 6 defeats.

However, even with the famous "Dazzler" in the line-up the Robins were eliminated as pennant contenders by the New Giants just two days before the close of the 1924 season. That is as near as Vance has gotten to a world's series, as a player.

Since joining the Robins, Vance has been the most capable performer on the mound for Manager Robertson. Vance won 18 games and lost 12 in his first year, the season of 1922. The previous year he was known as the strike-out king of the "Minors," with a record of 163 strikeouts.

Struck Out For 1922, Vance retired 134 batters by the strike-out route. The next year he won 18 games, but lost 15 and struck out 197 hitters.

In 1924, he was at the peak of his career, winning 28 games, striking six and striking out 262 batters. For the season, Vance allowed an average of only 2.15 earned runs per game in 35 games.

Following the 1924 season, his record, while not the best, compares favorably with the leading hurlers in the league. In 1925, Vance won 23 games and lost nine for the lowly Robins. That year Vance pitched the only no-hit game of the season on Sept. 13, against the Philadelphia Phillies. He was slow in getting started in 1926, turning in nine victories and 10 defeats, and striking out only 140 hitters.

During 1927 season, Vance won 22 games and lost 10, setting his strikeout mark at 184, and this year, another presidential year, found him once more hitting his stride, winning 22 games, losing 10, and striking out 200 hitters.

Hooks and Slides

Cochrane Worked for It Mickey Cochrane may not have deserved the American League's most valuable player prize in preference to Heinie Manush, but he certainly worked for it.

By his individual efforts Manush had much to do with the transformation of the St. Louis Browns into a first division club but Cochrane had his own personal responsibilities with an important team in a torrid pennant race.

Cochrane worked behind the bat in nearly every game of the season and he had more duties than to catch what the pitcher threw at him. He had to strain himself in every minute of every game to put some fight in the team.

The ball players say that Cochrane was one of only two "money players" on the team and that in their way of saying something mighty important about the players on a team that were just nosed out of a championship.

Foxx Couldn't Get Tough Mechanically Jimmy Foxx may have been more valuable to the Athletics than Cochrane was. Some baseball men think he was because he caught, played third base and first base and hit nobly. In the positions he was forced to fill he was more necessary than Cochrane because there was a very good catcher sitting on the bench.

But Jimmy is just a boy and he couldn't have the influence on his teammates that the older Cochrane had and he couldn't call the older men on the team as Cochrane called them plenty.

No Kick Either Way The voting of the committee of writers upon whose judgment the prize was awarded indicated that opinion was so closely drawn between Cochrane and Manush that no serious kick could have been made if either one had received the slight majority.

Selling Wholesale Now The owners of the San Francisco Pacific Coast League club may pull something new in the way of disposing of its outfield as a unit.

Batteries have been sold before and the St. Louis Browns and the New York Yankees bought second base combinations last year but it is not recalled that any major league club ever bought an entire outfield from one club.

The San Francisco magnates have been trying to get a pile of money for Smead Jolley but major league purchasers balked at the price. They then suggested that they would throw the other two outfielders, Earl Averill and Ray Johnson, in for the proper price.

And the Cleveland Indians are said to be ready to talk business if they already have not agreed upon terms.

DID YOU KNOW THAT— Virginia played all through the Princeton game with only two substitutes. . . . That's all they had. . . . The Garden is a half-million behind the profits of 1927. . . . Rickard's firm made $400,000 in June, July, August and September last year. . . . And dropped $375,000 during the same period this year. . . . New York U. said Lestat Manfredi, the east's greatest pitcher, couldn't play college any more. . . . He was too friendly with the Yanks. . . . And the Red Sox are said to have the young man who starred for Boston College in the Navy game. . . . Jack Sharkey aired Jimmy Johnston as one of his four managers. . . . and will profit 25 grand per year thereby. . . . The Yale Daily News wants the university to open up and cover the press box. . . . So the writers won't get wet any more. . . . Manager Johnson may pitch once in a while for the Senators.

French Flying is Needing Program For Safety Sake

By United Press. PARIS.—A Guggenheim safety program is the first need of first need of French aviation, according to numerous trans-Atlantic experts who have visited the aerodromes of Europe during the past summer. The French do not deny it, and have hastened an investigation which has been under way during several months into the causes of accidents in all branches of the French air services. Among their notable findings were the following:

1. No less than 54 per cent of the accidents in civilian, commercial and military aviation were due either to professional errors or faults in pilotage. Yet they were responsible for 62 per cent of the deaths and 63 per cent of the injuries in French aviation during 1927. The figures for the first half of 1928 showed no improvement.

2. Stalling of motors was responsible for 22 per cent of the accidents, but it is admitted that this include only such accidents as caused injuries to the flying personnel.

3. Accidents due to fire while in flight, hopping off or landing have been remarkably few, but this is one of the dangers uppermost in the mind of every pilot and mechanic and the government experts emphasize the necessity of separating as much as possible all materials of an inflammable character.

Other "security" factors, which will play a role in the transformation of the national air material will be better filtering devices, parachutes which may be easily applied, better stabilization of the planes by more modern wing coefficients, and better ground training for pilots.

INNOCENT CONVICTS PAID— Oscar Slater, who became world famous when he was freed from prison and given $30,000 compensation by the British government, for wrongful conviction on the charge of murder, was not the first to be compensated for serving a sentence for a crime not committed. A number of cases have been recorded in the last 50 years. One notable case was that of Adolphe Beck, a Norwegian who received pardon and $25,000. He had been convicted twice for frauds on women and had served seven years.

PHARR—Much building construction in progress in this city.

GRAND OLD MAN OF OIL CHOSEN AT EXPOSITION

New Yorker Entered Industry 63 years Ago. Governor Presents Medal.

TULSA, Okla., Oct. 26.—International Association of Petroleum Engineers of the oil industry has been organized at the International Petroleum Exposition here to honor the pioneers of an industry which holds second place in the commercial world and is among the first in the advancement of civilization, Barney E. Hovigan, exposition director, reported officially today.

The veterans' association has 73 charter members whose total number of years of service in the industry is 3,822. James Amm of New York city, who has served the industry brilliantly for the greater part of 63 years he has devoted to it, was elected Grand Old Man of the Oil Industry of the World and was awarded the gold medal of the exposition. All of the veterans received bronze medals upon which is represented the Drake well which was brought in in 1859. Joseph H. (Uncle Joe) Evans, Tulsa's Grand Old Man of the Oil Industry, was the official host to the "old timers."

Honorable Henry S. Johnston, governor of Oklahoma, presided during the presentation of the medals. The governor spoke of the veterans as the men who laid the foundations in the primitive days of modern industry for an organization which they have lived to see as one of the greatest in the world. To them, the governor said, the world is indebted for the progress shown in such achievements as trans-oceanic passage of airplanes and dirigibles, comfortable automobile and railway travel, splendid highways and the powerful engines which make modern city building possible.

The world's fair of the oil industry opened in Tulsa Oct. 20 and closes Oct. 29. In it are being shown the latest advancements in equipment, machinery, scientific and technical instruments and methods in the industry by means of $10,000,000 worth of displays. Attendance already has passed the 75,000 mark and 250,000 are expected to pass through the gates before the closing date.

Family Menu

BREAKFAST—Grapes, cereal, cream, broiled lamb cutlets, bran muffins, milk, coffee.

LUNCHEON—Tapioca tomatoes with cheese, hearts of celery, peanut buttered bread, apple sauce, cookies, milk, tea.

DINNER—Ham baked in fresh sweet cider, martini potatoes, creamed cauliflower, endive, grape pie, milk, coffee.

Any amount of ham, from a whole one to a slice, is delicious baked in sweet cider. Choose a slice cut two or three inches thick and parboil for 15 minutes before baking. Then rub with 1 tablespoon brown sugar thoroughly mixed with 1-2 teaspoon mustard. Stick cloves into rim of fat and put meat in casserole or roaster. Pour over 1-2 cup sweet cider and bake 1-2 hours in a slow oven. Watch closely for the last half hour as the brown sugar and cider mixture will burn easily when reduced.

Tapioca Tomatoes With Cheese.
Four tomatoes, 1 tablespoon of sugar, 1 teaspoon salt, 1-8 teaspoon pepper, 2 tablespoons butter, 1 tablespoon minced onion, 1 cup diced celery, 5 tablespoons minute tapioca, 1-2 pound American cream cheese, 4 tablespoons buttered crumbs.

Peel and chop tomatoes. Combine with celery and onion and simmer for 20 minutes. Add sugar, salt, pepper and butter. Stir in tapioca and when mixture thickens cook over hot water until clear. Put a layer of tomato mixture into a well buttered baking dish. Add a layer of finely chopped or grated cheese. Continue layer for layer until all is used. Cover with buttered crumbs and bake 30 minutes in a moderate oven.

FUEL FOR HOT STOVE LEAGUE

A total of 257 players participated in American League contests during 1928, 193 of them appearing in more than fifteen games, while sixty-four were in less than fifteen.

Henry Manush, St. Louis, finished at the head of the batting list with a percentage of .382, three points ahead of Leon Goslin of Washington. This is the second time Manush has led the American League. He finished first in 1926 with a mark of .377. Manush also led in the manufacture of base hits with 41, and in two-base hits with a total of 47.

Babe Ruth, New York, crossed the plate most often, having a total of 192 runs, and for the ninth time led the American League in home runs, finishing with 54, six shy of his 1927 record. Babe has bagged 470 home runs in his career.

Earl Combs, New York, secured the most three-base hits, 21. Lou Gehrig, New York, again led the league in runs batted in, with 146, topping his team mate Babe Ruth, by one.

Myer Best Stealer.
Charles Myer, Boston, stole the most bases, 29.

Ty Cobb, Philadelphia, batted for .323, making the twenty-third consecutive season this durable star has hit over .300.

Alvin Crowder, St. Louis, was the leading hurler in won and lost with a percentage of .808. He won 21 games and lost 5.

Herb Penneck, New York, twirled the most shutouts, 5, despite the fact that he was out the greater part of the season.

Fred Marberry, Washington, well-known iron man, appeared in the most games, 48.

Charles Ruffing, Boston, pitched the most complete games, 25, and was defeated most often, 25 times.

George Pipgras, New York, pitched the most innings, 317, and allowed the most hits, 317.

Henry Johnson, New York, walked the most batsmen, 103. Bob Groves, Philadelphia, struck out the most batters, 176.

Bob rang up the longest winning streak of the year, winning 14 straight before the Yankees took his measure on Sept. 11. Groves, with Pipgras, of the Yanks, also won the most games, 24.

Seven players took part in all the games played by their clubs: Joe Sewell, Cleveland, 155 games; Lu Blue and Heinie Manush, St. Louis, 154 games; and Lou Gehrig and Babe Ruth of the Yanks, 154 games. Incidentally, Joe Sewell ran his consecutive game streak to 938.

Cleveland made the only two triple plays of the major league year, performing one on May 22 against Chicago, and one on June 9 against the Yankees.

Uhl of Cleveland pitched a one hit game, May 13, against Philadelphia.

Lou Gehrig, New York, was the only player to score as many as five runs in a game, turning the trick June 12.

There were thirteen home runs hit with the bases loaded, and Al Simmons, Philadelphia, did it twice.

Leon Goslin, Washington, had the longest batting streak of the season, extending through 25 games. On this streak, Goslin collected 35 hits in 100 trips to the plate for .350. The pitcher who halted him was Wilkey Moore of the Yankees.

Ruth Star Scorer.
Babe Ruth, New York, had the longest scoring streak, scoring twenty-two runs in sixteen consecutive games before he was halted.

Five hits in a game were done eleven times, and Miller, Philadelphia, performed the feat on two different occasions.

Harry Heilmann, Detroit, outfielder, performed a rare feat on July 26, when he hit a triple and a home run with the bases filled on each occasion in the same game.

Four hits in a game were made 110 times. Heinie Manush, St. Louis, stood out in performing this feat, turning in four hits on nine different occasions.

Four runs in a game occurred seventeen times. Lu Blue, St. Louis; Edgar Rice, Washington; Earl Barnes, also of Washington; and Jimmy Foxx, Philadelphia, each scored four runs in a game twice.

Two home runs in a game were made twenty-nine times, Babe Ruth of the Yankees doing the trick seven times.

American League pitchers blanked opposing teams sixty-nine times. Of this number Boston was shut out most often, fourteen times, while the Detroit club was blanked at the least number of times, five. Philadelphia was also blanked five times.

Regan, Boston, hit two home runs in one inning in a game at Chicago, June 16. Both drives came in the fourth inning. Ken Williams, when with the Browns

CITROEN URGES HIS ENGINEERS TO VISIT U. S.

Believes All Frenchmen Should Spend Some Time in America.

By United Press.
PARIS.—No Frenchman's education is complete until he has spent some time in the United States, according to Andre Citroen, millionaire automobile manufacturer, sometimes referred to as the Henry Ford of France.

"What applies to the ordinary Frenchman," said Citroen, "applies tenfold to the engineers, particularly if they are engaged in undertakings which have even a casual relation with industry."

"Each year I send 15 of my engineers to America and they return different men. The expense is nothing considering the gain. They come back not only with a background but with a spirit and an energy, a cheerful confidence which overcomes all obstacles."

"Of course they learn the way things are done and this is valuable, enormously valuable. And American manufacturers have been so invariably courteous even to navigating the most intricate questions that the engineers have come back with the kindest souvenirs. There is much to learn in a purely technical way for the United States today is the paragon of the industrial world and it doesn't rest upon its laurels; it moves on and every year there is something new to be learned."

The Americans have never hesitated to show our engineers the most secret of their processes judging rightly that the secret of American success is the spirit which animates it. Out of this spirit has grown the marvelous technical achievements."

"If I had my way all Frenchmen would spend part of their lives in America. If every Frenchman had something of the American's power of organization and capacity for intensity of effort, France would forge ahead on industry much more rapidly than she is doing now."

Citroen proposes establishment of a government subvention-operating with private enterprise, each to contribute funds, for the sole purpose of facilitating visits to America for the purpose of study.

Swofford Is Likely To Play Against Tech's Matadors

Special to The Times.

FORT WORTH.—A rumor was rife at the Texas Christian University Horned Frog camp that some of the Purple reserve backs would see a great deal of action in the fray with the Texas Tech Matadors, Saturday. Coach Matty Bell has no less than nine backs who are about equal when it comes to advancing the pig skin.

It is probably that Bell will give Toler, Griffith, Grubbs and Eddleman a much needed rest and start Morgan, Thompson and Leland in the backfield. The latter however, has played almost as much as the first and is considered to be equally as good both on offense and defense. Currin and Hammond are also good men who will probably see action. In order to keep a passer in the line-up, it is likely that Grubbs and Toler will alternate at quarter.

In the line, Buck Barr and Les Swofford will probably get the call at tackles, allowing Capt. Williams and Red Moore to watch from the lines. Howell Hopkins and Clifton Bruce can also take over the tackle assignments without loss of strength.

At guards Ivory Reid and Phil Handler will probably get the call. Handler started the game against the Aggies but did not see much action. Lester Brumelow and Fain Reynolds will be held in readiness, if the Bull Fighters begin to gain through the middle of the line.

At center, Noble Atkins, big 200-pound first stringer, may give way in favor of Johnny Hirstine and Robert George. Both are good men and will probably see much action. At the ends Bell will probably continue to alternate nine men, giving them all a part of the fray. Robertson and Martin who played such great games against the Farmers will probably not start the game. Robertson is suffering from a wrenched leg. Baxter, Walker, Alexander and Flynn are other wingmen who will see battle.

Reports from Tech are to the effect that much enthusiasm has been aroused over the scrap with the Frogs and that 500 fans will follow their team to Fort Worth to see the game. Tech is making a bid for a place in the Southwestern Conference this season and her great battle against the Texas Longhorns earlier in the season when the score was held to 12-0 did much to enhance their prospects. If they can defeat the Frogs their bid will be aided materially. The Matadors have a score of veteran players back this year, and are calculated to give any team a battle.

In 1922, performed this feat, and Hack Wilson did it in the National league when with the Giants. Prior to 1900 this feat was performed five times.

Johnny Mostil, Chicago White Sox outfielder, tied the American League record for outfield put-outs in a game when he handled eleven chances without mishap. This he did on May 22 and thereby tied the record set by Oscar Felsch in 1916, when the latter was a member of the White Sox.

CIRCUS WILL SOON APPEAR

It has been definitely announced that the Sells Floto is to exhibit here for matinee and night shows Wednesday, October 31, to the delight of the small boy and girl as well as the grownups, and it only remains for the circus enthusiast to purchase his or her ticket in advance in order to be assured of a place from which to view the extraordinary array of this veritable wonderland.

The monster menagerie, forum of freaks in vast array, cavalcades of beautiful horses, camels and elephants and 500 internationally celebrated equestrian acrobatic, gymnastic, acrobatic and hippodromic champions are but parts of the huge enterprise to which the programme adheres.

Three herds of elephants open the circus tournament presented by Sells Floto Circus, introducing lady elephant trainers Effie Rairden, Irene Ledgett and Bobby Cornett.

Then a ceaseless procession of athletic specialists fills rings, rigging, platforms and hippodromic oval. There are riders of note in the circus world, which include Taylor, king of wild animal trainers, will present for the first time in circus history a collection of Siberia and Bengal tigers and African lions, and many more trophies and acts too numerous to mention, which have been imported for their novel demonstrations aground and aloft and who have made a sensation abroad. The active participants in arena exploits number five hundred and clown—a bunch of them, right up to the minute, to delight the kiddies.

Sells Floto promise a rare treat in their menagerie, 53 cages of rare wild animals, five herds of elephants, three herds of camels, a two-ton hippopotamus and a pygmy hippo of which there are only two in America, one with Sells Floto circus the other with Bronx Zoo in New York City, arranged so the public may view the marvels of forest and jungle. Five hundred horses are used in the circus proper.

Chewing gum has become such a craze in London that cleaners in trains, buses, theatres and motion picture houses are complaining of the extra work of removing the "parked" wads from under the seats. Dealers say the demand for gum grew greatly during the summer, and they believe touring Americans were responsible for much of it. The Londoners then took up the habit from the visitors.

The Prince of Wales wore two hats while playing golf the other day, a soft felt for walking down the fairways and a stiff-brimmed chapeau for making shots. Wonder if he puts on his admiral's uniform when he comes to the water holes?

Stephenville Star To Be Quarter For Aggies on Saturday

Special to The Times.
COLLEGE STATION.—The return to uniform of W. E. (Sheik) Davis, of Stephenville, who was injured early in the season, has bolstered up considerably the hopes of Texas Aggie coaches over solving the quarterback problem of this year's team and Davis is expected to start at quarter in the game Saturday with the Arkansas Razorbacks at Fayetteville.

Since the opening of the 1928 season, Coach Dana X. Bible has been faced with field general problem for his 1928 grid machine inasmuch as there are no men on the squad, with the exception of Frank Ish who, however, is somewhat light in weight, who fall within the category of "natural" quarterbacks. Ralph Dorsey, who has run the team a large part of the time this year, is a converted half-back and has shown more ability at half than at quarter. Hollis Bible, who started the game against the Horned Frogs last week, was also shifted from back. Davis was quarterback during his sophomore year on the 1926 squad and last year he made his letter, playing at half, being also substitute quarterback to Joel Hunt. Due to Hunt's stellar qualities, Davis got very little chance last year in field generally. In injury received early this season has kept him out of uniform but he is now back in the lineup and will be given a chance to show his ability against Coach Francis A. Schmidt's Razorbacks this week end.

IRATE STUDENTS TAKE REINS OF CHINESE SCHOOL

Tsing Hua College, Gift of United States, Now Ruled By The Pupils

By D. C. BESS, United Press Staff Correspondent. PEKIN.—The students of Tsing Hua college near Pekin, gift of the American government to China, have taken the law in their own hands and decided to rule their own school, regardless of teachers or officials.

As an initial move, they stormed the residences of five teachers at midnight, dragged them from their beds, and compelled them to sign resignations.

The students declare that henceforward they will not have any teachers they do not want, will disregard regulations which they do not like, and must approve a president before he can be appointed. Their attitude has become so distasteful to J. V. A. MacMurray, the American minister, who has been ex-officio and adviser of the college, that he declines to have anything further to do with the school.

Tsing Hua was built with part of the $11,000,000 given to China in 1911 by the American government in remission of a portion of the Boxer indemnity funds. It has been known as a model institution, located on the grounds of the beautiful Tsing Hua Hwan palace grounds seven miles from Pekin. Graduates of the school have been sent in considerable numbers to the United States for advanced education, also with the remitted American funds.

Students Long Restive. The students at Tsing Hua have been restive for some time, probably due to disturbed conditions in China. Chang Tso-lin attempted to subdue them by appointing a military man, graduate of West Point, as president. This man applied military methods to the students, and kept them very quiet indeed. But the military president departed with Chang for Manchuria last spring.

More than 1,100 students have been sent from Tsing Hua to the United States, and the alumni form one of the most influential groups in China today. There has been a serious dispute between the alumni and the students, as the former do not approve of the cavalier action of the youngsters. Tsing Hua probably is unique in the proportion of teachers and servants to students. It has only 300 students, but has 100 teachers and 200 servants. Of course, in a country where servants may be obtained for $5 to $10 gold a month, the cost is not great.

The present dispute arose largely over the question of going to the United States. The trustees decided three years ago that Tsing Hua should be made a full university, and that only a few persons from all parts of China should go to the United States, selected on the basis of a competitive examination. Tsing Hua students resented this change.

AUTOISTS FEAR YOUNG TELLS

Boys with catapults, which are similar to the ancient bow guns, are becoming such a menace to autoists in England that complaints are being made to the Automobile Association. The new catapults are made of metal and strong elastic, and lads in search of targets shoot stones at speeding cars with such effect that they not only damage the machines but endanger the lives of the passengers. One boy of eight did $25 damage to an auto and narrowly missed the driver. Parents are being warned to keep their juvenile William Tell away from highways.

BELGIAN ROADS FIGHT MOTORS

To compete with the growing motor transportation, the Belgian Railways are giving cheap weekend tickets, reduced rates for parties, and combined rail and motor car fares, and are working on a plan for door-to-door transportation for both passengers and freight. Passenger cars are to be improved and equipped with modern comforts for travelers. Showing the popularity of motor transport, the municipal trade department at Ghent reports that at least 85 surrounding villages are now connected with that town by regular motor car services.

WARSAW, Oct. 24.—A Peasant ran amuck in a small village near here today, bayoneting all he encountered. He killed seven, including two policemen, and wounded five before a strong detachment of police disarmed him.

He Hasn't the Wings of an Angel

This unusual portrait of His Honor, the Mayor of Newburyport, Mass., was taken the other day at the door of his executive office. If you could see the interior, you would find it furnished with Spartan simplicity. Even the wrought iron grill-work of the door is of plain design, but these things are not the choice of "Bossy" Gillis, who doesn't have the key. The law, it seems, had the temerity to cast His Honor into a common jail, all on account of his having sold some gasoline without a license.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK?

By EDSON R. WAITE Shawnee, Okla.

Karl E. Humphrey of El Reno, Oklahoma, president of the chamber of commerce of the state of Oklahoma, pays a most remarkable compliment to the press of his home state, and through them to the newspapers of America. "The Oklahoma state chamber faced the year 1928 with a vital message to transmit to Oklahoma citizens," Mr. Humphrey says. "We boiled this message down until we evolved the slogan 'State Loyalty Pays!' But the mere repetition of a slogan is of little avail unless you inform your public how to make something pay. Our problem was to increase consumption of Oklahoma products by popular demand. In 1927, Oklahoma's income was just about 1-2 billion dollars. Only one-third of this represented manufactured wealth. We felt that by inculcating the spirit of state loyalty into all Oklahomans, we could eventually double the value of the products of Oklahoma factories.

"In our emergency, we turned to the newspapers of Oklahoma. We offered them memberships in the state chamber, with all benefits of membership, but with dues payable in advertising at published rates. Imagine our delight when more than one hundred Oklahoma publishers offered to take memberships—not at their convenience, if you please, but almost without exception with some statement as this: 'Anything you send us in the way of advertising, we'll print. We wish to do our part.'

"The so-called state loyalty campaign evolved by our advertising committee reached a total of 560 inches in twelve months. Never in my experience in civic undertakings of all kinds have I seen such whole-hearted cooperation on the part of any group of men or any business interest. And the best part of it is, something of the whole-souled loyalty of our newspaper publishers seemed to find its way into the printed pages. The response to our campaign has been almost magical. The first advertisement of the series, in which Oklahoma products were featured in a general way, assured the success of the entire campaign by the attention it attracted and the machinery it set in motion toward the achievement of our objective.

"I need no other proof of the power of the press. Granted a worth-while cause, a crusade meriting united effort, and the newspapers of a state or a nation can carry through any reform, any project, any effort for the good of all."

Reading Habits Of Two Presidential Candidates Differ

Special to The Times. NEW YORK.—Herbert Hoover does most of his reading in the strangest hours of the 24, between two and five o'clock in the morning! He sleeps before and after that period, averaging between five and six hours a night of slumber.

Governor Smith does his reading at the more conventional hours of the day and evening.

Hoover just now is making biography and autobiography of great statesmen his literary hobby—topped off with innumerable detective stories.

Smith reads at the breakfast table—newspapers, bills, public documents. He detests tragedy in literature, loves orations and humor, rarely opens a novel or mystery tale.

These are the reading habits of the leading presidential candidate as presented by their respective biographers, William Hard and Henry Moskowitz.

Hoover always retires fairly early, relates Hard, "but in the interval between two and five o'clock he has a convivial party all by himself. He gets lemonade, apples and other fruits from the California basket that is always kept by his head, and reaches for books."

"He reads by subjects rather than by authors. He takes a fit of interest in Egypt or Central Asia. Thereupon he wants all the most authoritative books on the subject gathered in a heap at his bedside. He likes to sash about in the original data of his subjects and has caused to be conveyed to his bed great sheaves of unpublished George Washington papers from the Congressional library. Such subjects thrill him. If they make him too wide awake and he feels he needs a sedative, he reads a murder mystery. Of these he reads—it seems to his secretary, who has to get them for him—myriads."

"Governor Smith," says Moskowitz, "finds his intellectual 'kick' in bills, reports and public documents. These constitute his detective stories and his novels. Sad tales do not interest him. That there is enough sadness in human life without having to read about it, is his point of view. He loves the light touch in literature and in drama—and he loves orations."

The governor reads an imposing pile of newspapers, both friendly and unfriendly, each day to keep his finger on the public pulse, and is quick to carry his criticism to the publisher if he thinks an attack is unfair. One such instance resulted in his long personal friendship with Frank Munsey, although the publisher remained a political foe until his death.

Radio Beam Transmission A speech made in Canada was heard plainly in London while the Marconi beam which transmitted it was also being used continuously for high-speed telegraph service.

Life in Danger, Hertz Reports

NEA Chicago Bureau

John Hertz of Chicago, president of the Yellow Cab Company, has reported to police that his life has been threatened and that he has been warned his grandchild would be kidnaped. Recently Yellow Cab garages in Chicago were bombed and the racing stables of Mr. Hertz burned, destroying eleven thoroughbred horses at a loss of $200,000. The trouble is described as the result of a taxi cab war.

Drug Detecting Accord Signed By 12 Nations

WASHINGTON.—An international agreement for the detection of smugglers of narcotics which sets a precedent in relations between nations has just been completed by the State Department of the United States with 11 other countries.

By this agreement the narcotic secret service in the United States will cable direct to the narcotic secret service in Germany, Great Britain and the other countries whenever a suspicious person or cargo or ship leaves the United States. Even more important to the United States since more "dope" is smuggled into this country than is smuggled out of it, the same information is cabled to the Treasury Department by all of the 11 countries which have agreed to exchange information.

The countries signatory to this new agreement are: Great Britain, France, Germany, Italy, Belgium, The Netherlands, Spain, Czechoslovakia, Japan, the Free City of Danzig and Denmark. The state department expects shortly to make formal announcement of the conclusion of the arrangement and to publish the texts of the correspondence with each of the different countries.

The Southwestern Bell Telephone Company predicts that by 1950 Texas will have a population of 7,015,500, a gain of 1,488,000 or 28.7 per cent.

The only paper mill in Texas is at Orange on the Sabine River.

Texas is drained by 11 principal river systems, only three of which, the Canadian, Pecos and Rio Grande, originate outside of the state.

The Panhandle High Plains region covers almost 18,000 square miles and the number of farms in the region has increased more than fivefold since 1900.

In the South High Plains region of Texas cotton growing has expanded from 74,195 bales in 1919 to 322,062 bales in 1926.

FLAPPERS PRAISED
NEW ORLEANS.—The self-reliance of the modern girl has made her a better home maker and has better equipped her for the burdens to come in later life, according to Miss Jean B. Pinney of the American Social Hygiene Association.

"There is nothing the matter with the younger generation," said Miss Pinney. "It is thinking more intelligently, and the young girl of today is likely to be a better mother than was her own mother. She can be because she has profited from her worldly experience."

"The younger generation think more intelligently about fitting their children for life," said Miss Pinney. "For one thing they don't tell their children myths about their origin."

LESS WORK FOR MORE PAY SOON SAYS EXECUTIVE

By United Press.

NEW YORK.—Business in America has entered an era wherein drudgery soon will end and workers will receive constantly increasing compensation, declares Walter S. Gifford, president of the American Telephone & Telegraph company in an interview appearing in the current number of The American Magazine.

Business is no longer a struggle of one firm against another, he adds, but has developed into obtaining a greater knowledge of nature by which costs are reduced, labor saving devices made possible and men and women permitted to make important savings of both time and money.

"The eight hour day has become almost a standard and there is talk of the five-day week," says Gifford. "We are healthier and richer than ever before. Yet it is my belief that we have just started. Machinery will increasingly take the load off of men's shoulders in factories. Every one of us will have more chance to do what he will, which means greater opportunity both materially and spiritually."

Gifford declared that new business methods, especially the new practice of conducting ceaseless research, has effected a saving of $650,000,000 in the Bell telephone system alone and that telephone users are saved $100,000,000 a year that they would have had to pay if the antiquated methods still prevailed.

"The masses," he continued, "will profit more than the wealthy. If a man has an income of $50,000 to $100,000 a year he is not going to be affected appreciably by what he has to spend for living necessities; but the man who has an income of $150 a month is going to be vitally affected. If we can reduce his budget by as little as five or 10 dollars a month, we will have given him worthwhile assistance."

FRECKLES AND HIS FRIENDS

Betty's daddy has arrived from Africa. All the little African native children in the park ask where you are—you're glad to go back with your daddy aren't you Betty? Well yes—but they've been real nice to me here! We came to say good bye to you Betty! This is awfully nice of all of you—where's Freckles? He probably doesn't know all of us are here to say good bye to you—I'll go and look for him—gee! He's around someplace surely!! All right Oscar—see if you can find him—we'll be leaving in a few minutes—I hate to think of saying good bye to him!!

MOM'N' POP

I was sweeping the hall when I heard a knock on the new neighbor's door then a soft voice followed: I came here to get the rest of that $100 bill for that park job! I peeked out just in time to see the new neighbor's wife bring a dust mop down on the head of the toughest looking rough-neck I ever saw— NO! DID HE HAVE ON A STRIPED SWEATER? YES, HE DID! THEN SHE SCREAMED "DOUBLE CROSSER!" AND CHASED HIM DOWN THE STAIRS WHALING HIM WITH THE MOP— NO! CAN YOU BEAT IT? CALLED HIM A DOUBLE CROSSER, EH? THE NEIGHBORS CAME POURING OUT INTO THE HALL AS THE TOUGH STOOD ON THE LANDING SHAKING HIS FIST AND CALLING HER HUSBAND A CHEAT—ADDING THAT IF ANYTHING WENT WRONG WITH THE JOB IN THE PARK IT WAS HER HUSBAND'S FAULT SO! I GUESSED THE NEW NEIGHBOR'S GAME PERFECTLY!! —I SMELT A RAT WHEN THE NEW NEIGHBOR INSISTED THAT I STAND BY THE BENCH. I CONSENTED—THEN GRABBING HIM, I WHIRLED HIM AROUND TO WHERE I WAS STANDING. JUST THEN A BIG BRUISER JUMPED FROM BEHIND THE BENCH AND IN THE DARK MISTOOK THE NEW NEIGHBOR FOR ME, AND THEY CARRIED HIM HOME IN AN AMBULANCE— NO! HONESTLY, POP I'M SO GLAD YOU DIDN'T DO IT!!

8. What is the least salary one should marry on? Forty-five dollars a week. 9. Should one marry secretly or against parents' wishes? Only when the objections of parents to the marriage are unreasonable. 10. Can you live with his or her people and be happy? No. 11. Do you have Bible reading or prayer in your home. No. Attend church? Regularly. 12. Is the girl with a home as happy as the single girl with a position? Far happier. Married Men Happier. 13. Is the single man really happier than the married man? Great as are the responsibilities of the married man, he is invariably the happier. 14. What influence has the working wife on the home? Unless the husband is ill or unable to find work, no married woman should go to work—it can only have an unhappy effect on the home. 15. What is your attitude toward mixed marriages? Mixed marriages should be avoided. 16. Does owning a home increase happiness? Yes, if the debt incurred is not too great. 17. Do you save systematically? The answers to this question were "yes" and "no," just about 50-50. 18. Your own suggestion, word of advice to others? "Don't marry the first fellow that comes along." "Don't gossip." "Avoid too friendly relations with other married couples," and "be utterly frank with your mate and discreetly secretive with your friends and neighbors" were some of the interesting answers to the last question.

New Legion Chief Didn't Get to France in War

By NEA Service. BLOOMINGTON, Ind. — The new national commander of the American Legion is one of those unhappy Americans whose services in the World War were highly essential but not at all spectacular or exciting. Colonel Paul V. McNutt, the 37-year-old chief of the soldiers' organization, knew too much about field artillery for his own good. Because of his knowledge the army authorities kept him at San Antonio, Tex., where he just won election to the Legion's highest office, training artillery units. He was considered one of the foremost theoretical field artillery instructors in the country—and that was just his hard luck. Colonel McNutt is youthful to be a national commander; but then, he has traveled far for his years in other ways, too. He is dean of the Indiana University School of Law, and has been granted a year's leave of absence from that post to carry on the duties of his new Legion office. He won the appointment three years ago, having the distinction of being the youngest man ever made a dean at Indiana. Born in Martinsville, Ind., in 1891, McNutt studied at Indiana University, graduating in 1913 and went to Harvard to study law. He finished his law course in 1916, returned to Indiana to become an assistant professor of law, and on the outbreak of the war joined the army, receiving his training and commission as artillery captain at Fort Benjamin Harrison. He was assigned to San Antonio, and spent the remainder of the war there, having won promotion to a lieutenant colonel. He is now colonel in the reserves and commander of 326th field artillery. It was in San Antonio that Col-

WOMEN'S PAINS They Were Relieved by Cardui Which This Georgia Lady Took on Her Mother's Advice.

Columbus, Ga.—"I don't see why women will drag around, in a half-hearted way, never feeling well, barely able to drag, when Cardui might help put them on their feet, as it did me," says Mrs. Geo. S. Hunter, of this city. "I suffered with dreadful pains in my sides. I had to go to bed and stay sometimes two weeks at a time. I could not work, and just dragged around the house. I got very thin. I went from a hundred and twenty-six pounds down to less than a hundred. My mother had long been a user of Cardui, and she knew what a good medicine it was for this trouble. So she told me to get some and take it. I sent to the store for Cardui, and before I had taken the first bottle I began to improve. My side hurt less, and I began to mend in health. I took the second bottle, and felt much better. I followed this by two more bottles. Cardui acted as a fine tonic. I do not feel like the same person. I am well now, and still gaining. My sides do not trouble me at all." For sale by druggists, everywhere. Give it a trial. NC-183

WHITELWIND BY ELEANOR EARLY

THIS HAS HAPPENED
Sybil Thorne is going to have a baby. Only two people know of her marriage, and both were pledged to secrecy. Sybil meant that no one else should ever know. But now she must tell—and there are times Sybil thinks she had rather die.

The father of her unborn child is Richard Eustis, an adventurer and a philanthropist. Sybil lived with him only two weeks, during a period when she was supposed to be vacationing in Havana with Mabel Blake. Terminating a ghastly honeymoon, Sybil returns to Boston with Mabel, determined that no one shall ever know of her sordid romance.

When she learns, however, that she is going to have a child, she is forced to tell her secret. Mabel is helpful and sympathetic. Her brother, Tad, is quite wonderful about it. But Valerie, her brother's wife, is inclined to scoff and taunt. Poor Mrs. Thorne, afraid of a scandal, sets immediately about getting announcements printed.

Then Sybil tells Craig Newhall, who has loved her for years, and hoped that some day she would marry him.

Now go on with the story:
CHAPTER XXX
Only Craig's lips twitched, and a little cord in his neck. Sybil thought of a sketch she had seen of a foreign dictator, with a leonine head. People called him the Tragic Man of Destiny.

Now Craig looked like that—a composite of tragedy. She saw the agony in his eyes, and she could have cried aloud. Her own were full of fear—wild, hunted fear. And so they sat—reading one another's misery in dreadful silence.

She reached and touched his hand. It lay on the tablecloth motionless. And when she fondled it, it felt like ice.

He opened his mouth to speak. "Why—"
Words came hard. He seemed to wrench them out, with effort.

"Why—didn't you tell me—before?"
"I couldn't," she told him.

"In factually she patted his hand."
"His name was Richard Eustis. I hate him now. I—I left him—in Havana. Shall I tell you about it?"

She talked in small, jerky sentences. "I think I must have been crazy. It was all so sudden. The Captain—and those women. Mab begged me not to. And then that very night. Oh, it was awful. Drink—drink—drink. Five months now."

A dull red suffused the grayness of Craig's face, and an obsequious waiter, hovering near, stared in startled surprise.

"Oh, please!" Sybil interrupted herself nervously. "Send that man away. I—I know he is."

Then Craig shifted his dreadful, penetrating gaze from her pale face, and motioned abstractedly. "Bring Miss Thorne breast of chicken, please, under glass, with mushrooms—and coffee."

She remonstrated, feebly, shaking her head. Tears were in her eyes, and a little hysterical laugh on her lips. "Oh, Craig—Craig, you angel! Who else, in all the world would feed a bad girl chicken under glass?"

When it came, she toyed with it, and tasted a bit when Craig begged her to—and poured large cups of fragrant coffee.

"Cream, my dear? Three lumps, isn't it?"
Like a bit of pleasant domesticity. Tragedy set with social niceties.

The waiter handed a steaming cup to Craig, and discreetly withdrew.

"Oh, life—" Sybil threw out her hands. "It's so funny. I tell you that I am married. That I am going to have a child. And then I pour you a cup of coffee. Quite as if it didn't matter. I—I break your heart—and then—I give you three lumps of sugar. Life's so—comical!"

She laughed nervously. "I suppose—if we weren't so polite—you'd beat me soundly. You don't hate me, Craig?"

He shook his head.

"I—I think I'll go away next month." She pressed her fingers to her mouth to quiet the trembling of her lips. "Until May."

"To—him?"
"Oh, no—no! Craig, you don't understand. He doesn't know. I haven't seen him—since Havana. I don't want EVER to see him again."

They were quiet then.

"People will probably say dreadful things," she hazarded, at last.

"I suppose so," he agreed.

He was thinking of their crowd. Dolly Weston and the Graysons. Valerie and her friends, and the righteous Mrs. West. And all the drinking, loose clique of the country club. People who commit only conventional sins are always intolerant of the unconventionalists.

"You poor little kid," he said, as he thought upon their wagging tongues.

"Oh, Craig, you're wonderful! You're so good, you hurt. I—I'd almost rather you SLAPPED me!"

Sybil was trembling violently. "M—my t—teeth are ch—chat—ting. I'm so shivery!"

"Nervous reaction," he told her, and bundled her into her coat. Then he called a cab, to take her home.

He tucked her in warmly, and gratefully she pillowed her head on his shoulder. His arm about her shoulders held her close.

The steps at her house were icy, and, lest she slip, he carried her to the door. There he shook hands, and stood for a minute, speechless, with bare head, and his face as wintry as the night.

"Aren't you going to kiss me?" she cried.

She raised her head, and he touched her lips lightly with his. "Good night, little girl."

She let herself in quietly. The house was dark, and cold, and cheerless. She tiptoed upstairs, and down the hall to her room.

Undressing in the dark, she crawled into bed, and curled up, to keep warm, like a child, with her arms about her knees.

Then, in the cold and the dark, tears came—and all the bitter sorrow and regrets that come at midnight to tired women, alone with their thoughts.

Valerie suggested a trip to South Carolina. Sybil herself felt that it would be better to go away somewhere.

But Mrs. Thorne, after consulting Mr. Crandon, felt that nothing would be gained by secrecy.

At three p. m. on January second Mrs. Thorne told her psychoanalyst all about it. She had gone to him directly from the store, where she had ordered, of a discreet clerk, 500 elated announcements of her daughter's marriage.

"Mrs. Edward Thorne announces the marriage of her daughter, Sybil—"

"Don't you think we had better date them July?" she had asked tearfully of Tad.

"But Mother!" expostulated Sybil. "I didn't know him in July—I hadn't even met him!"

Valerie shrugged her shoulders eloquently.

"I'll drive you down town, Mother," she offered. "And you can take a taxi to Mr. Crandon's."

The afternoon sun was slanting across the crimson rug in Mr. Crandon's consultation room. In the alcove beyond a maid was busying herself with tea cups and a delft crackle jar. There were spicy caramellings in a blue vase, and a crackling fire, and a kettle humming on the crane.

Mr. Crandon had learned that a confidential atmosphere is a decided aid to psycho. He drew a Boston rocker a little nearer the blaze, an helped Mrs. Thorne off with her moleskin wrap.

"I must have your help," Mrs. Thorne said, settling a turkey red cushion at her back. "It's about Sybil. She's going to have a baby."

Nothing ever surprised Mr. Crandon. He pressed his finger tips together, and shifted his mild blue gaze to near-sighted contemplation of a hangnail.

"I want you to tell me what line to take with her," continued Mrs. Thorne.

And then, from the beginning, she told the story as best she could.

She told about John Lawrence, and what a difficult girl Sybil was at 18. She reviewed a few earlier affairs, and told what she knew of some later ones. She led tactfully up to Craig Newhall.

"I think," she hazarded, "that there was a sort of understanding between Craig and Sybil, but of course I can't be sure. You see, Sybil never tells her mother anything." Mrs. Thorne pressed a black bordered handkerchief to her eyes. "Now when I was a girl—"

"Yes, yes," soothed Mr. Crandon gently, and, patting her hand, led her tactfully back to the subject in hand. "Mr. Newhall is something of an austere young man?"

"Why, no, I don't know as you'd call him that," demurred Mrs. Thorne. "Maybe he's not just Sybil's type, but—"

"As to that," interrupted Mr. Crandon, "has passion always been a strong factor in your daughter's life?"

Mrs. Thorne bristled a little. "Passion?" she repeated distastefully. "Why, as to passion—" she floundered a bit helplessly.

"I should think," continued Mr. Crandon without waiting for her to go on, "that your daughter's inhibitory and repressive powers—you see, my dear Mrs. Thorne—it is like this. . . It would be better, perhaps, to consider her case from the beginning. Let us, for a moment, consider her infancy. Do you, by any chance remember Sybil's first lawless action?"

Mrs. Thorne pondered vaguely. "She always was a defiant child," she admitted. "I remember how she used to kick her little puff off at night. And the way she threw her bottle out of the crib. But, tell me, Mr. Crandon, you don't think inhibitions—"

"I certainly do!" exclaimed Mr. Crandon.

LEAGUE HEALTH GROUP STUDIES DENGUE PLAGUE

By United Press.
 GENEVA, Oct. 26.—Immediate protection of the remainder of the world from the dengue epidemic which has just ravaged Greece was one of the principal tasks before the international health organization of the League of Nations when it convened here yesterday.
 The commission had as a basis for its work the report of its high commissioner who was rushed to Greece when the fever first broke out and who aided the Greek authorities in their fight against it. The league's health commission will endeavor to elaborate a program at once for preventing the spread of the epidemic to other countries and also establish the best measures for the fighting of the disease.

 The commission at its present session will also have before it the final reports of the recent anti-tuberculosis congress at Paris which was held for the purpose of establishing what results can be attained from vaccination on animals, cattle and human beings against tuberculosis.
 Similarly it will have for final study the report of its commission of experts on the so-called sterilization treatment of syphilis. This will cover the results obtained, their durability, the possibility of recrudescence and the training of doctors in the method.

Traveling Salesman Is Set To Work

L. F. Bookman, genial representative of the Mergenthaler Linotype company, made a terrible mistake today. He came around to the Times office and began chatting about football, which of course resulted in the force slowing up. And this was not so good, as everyone was anxious to get through early so as to see this afternoon's big game here. But a solution was worked out by unanimous vote, Mr. Bookman not voting. He was "drafted" into service and, seating himself in front of one of the linotypes, he demonstrated that he can use 'em as well as he can sell 'em.
