Omaha Hatchet Murdered Caught, Is Rushed Away

TO STATE PEN FOR SECURITY

Lincoln is Awaiting the Arrival of Triple Murder Suspect.

By United Press. LINCOLN, Neb., Nov. 23.—The "hatchet murderer" who is suspected of killing three persons in Omaha has been captured in that city and is being brought to the State penitentiary here for safe-keeping, it was announced late today by prison authorities.

Warden Fenton said he had received a telephone call from Inspector of Detectives Danbaum in Omaha and that he said the prisoner and his captors had departed for Lincoln.

WAHOO, Neb., Nov. 23.—Belief that a young mulatto sought for three ax murders in Omaha was hiding here spread today when a mysterious assault case was reported to police.

Frank Pilek told officials that he was knocked unconscious as he emerged from his home last night. All he saw, he said, was an uplifted club which crashed down on his head.

Pilek knew no motive for the attack. Wahoo is on the Union Pacific railroad, 40 miles from Omaha and it was considered possible that the ax murderer had fled from that city and was hiding here.

A thorough search of the town, however, proved unavailing.

ILLNESS OF KING WORSE

By United Press. LONDON, Nov. 23.—Anxiety gripped millions of Britons in a vast empire today because a gray bearded man lay ill of a cold in a big stone mansion in London.

That man was George V, king. His cold was merely one such as many of the subjects experienced, yet since he was monarch, his case seemed different.

Before the stone mansion—Buckingham palace—scores of citizens lingered. Guards tried to keep them moving. When a fresh guard was mounted at 11 a. m., the music of its band was lacking.

Within the palace, doctors came and went. About noon, Lord Dawson of Penn, physician extraordinary to the king, and Sir Stanley Newett, surgeon apothecary to the king, issued a bulletin indicating that the king's illness had taken a turn for the worse.

The trend of the king's condition was described as "a slight extension of the mischief in the king's lungs."

White House, Soon to Have New Tenant, Designed in 1792, by Irish Architect

By HARRY W. FRANTZ, United Press Staff Correspondent. WASHINGTON.—Uncle Sam's choice residential property on Pennsylvania avenue, soon to house a new president, was designed in 1792 by James Hoban, Irish native of Dublin who then resided at Charleston, S. C.

The occupants of the white house with few exceptions have gone down to an undying immortality, but the name of its builder is known chiefly to architects and antiquarians, and is not chronicled in some of the best known encyclopedias. Little is written of his early life, save that he was a successful architect of southern plantation homes.

Few would challenge a statement that the white house is the most generally admired building in the United States. Its classic Ionic design, its singular balance and grace, its rich but not gaudy ornamentation, and its peaceful environs have impressed countless tourists as well as distinguished architects from the world over.

HUNT FOR BOOZE, 3 ARE SHOT

Officers Stumble Onto Robbers' Hideout; One Policeman Killed.

By United Press. DENVER, Colo., Nov. 23.—Tumbling into a hiding place of two suspected holdups, Patrolman Harry R. Ohle was killed and Patrolman R. K. Evans was wounded here shortly after midnight last night while searching for illicit liquor.

The officers, members of the "bootleg squad," went to the home of a negro to search for liquor. Opening a door into the bedroom, the patrolmen were greeted by a fusillade of shots. The negro was wounded, probably fatally. The two suspects escaped.

Police believe the two, one a white man and the other a negro, earlier in the night had held up a store in the neighborhood and thought the officers had come to arrest them.

DEATH CLAIMS OIL OPERATOR

Fred Shoffstall, brother of F. S. Shoffstall of Ranger, died suddenly of a heart attack while on an oil field lease, according to information received here.

Mr. Shoffstall, who was about 50 years of age, lived in Indiana but recently had been making his headquarters in Cisco. He was engaged in oil operations near there. He is survived by a widow and several children, by two sisters and two brothers, one of whom—F. S. Shoffstall—lives in Ranger and is connected with Chestnut & Smith.

New Settler Is First Passenger

By United Press. LUBBOCK, Tex., Nov. 23.—The first passenger to step from the first regular passenger train coming into Lubbock over the recently completed $8,000,000 Fort Worth and Denver railroad was George Chadwick of Vernon.

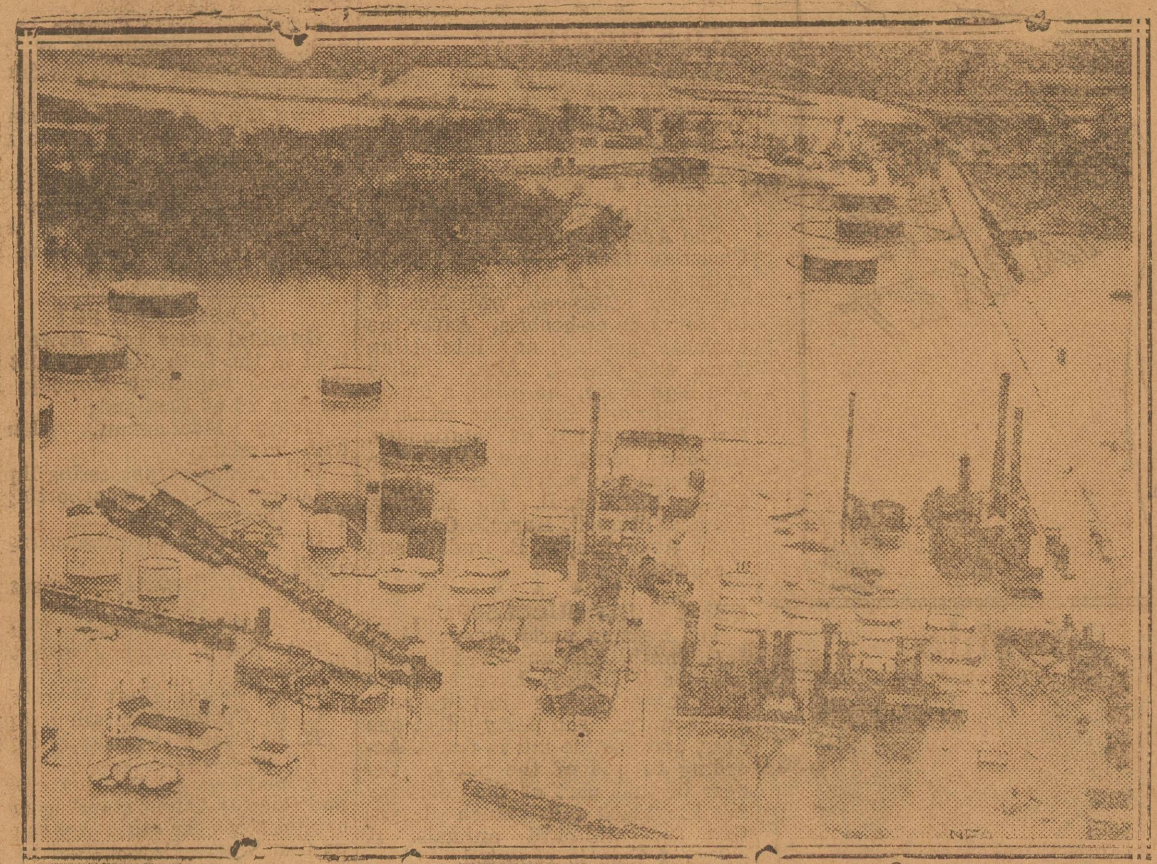

Accompanied by his family, Chadwick came here today to take up his residence.

Commenting on the arrival of the first train, B. Sherrard, president of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce, said "It is truly typical that the first passenger should be a new settler in Lubbock. We believe the new line will be the means of bringing in thousands of new families to the South Plains."

Ratliff and Helms, Under Death Verdict, Look to High Court.

The Marshall Ratliff case is set for hearing before the Court of Criminal Appeals at Austin on December 19, defendant's brief in the case having just been filed. Ratliff is under death sentence for the murder of G. E. Bedford, Cisco policeman, on December 23, 1927.

The case of Henry Helms, who is also under death sentence, is set for hearing before the Court of Criminal Appeals at the same time as the Ratliff case. Helms was convicted on charge of robbery with firearms in connection with the Cisco bank robbery on December 23 last.

Helms is now in the county jail at Dallas while Ratliff is occupying a cell in the death row at the Huntsville penitentiary.

Preparing For Election Probe

By United Press. M'ALLEN, Nov. 23.—Scores of telegrams were sent from here today summoning witnesses to appear before the Congressional investigation committee on election fraud charges. The telegrams were in the nature of subpoenas and were signed by the sergeant at arms of the house of representatives.

Included in the list of persons summoned were all the Hidalgo county election officials, county officials and employees of county offices. County clerks have been requested to bring all the tally sheets, election boxes and other records pertaining to the election, to the hearing.

Real Service—Robbers Caught While You Wait

By United Press. TRAFFORD CITY, Pa., Nov. 23.—Less than two hours after four men had robbed the First National bank here today, three of them were captured and lodged in jail, police reported. Some of the loot taken from the bank was found in the car, police added. It was reported that $18,000 had been taken but the amount recovered could not be determined.

BY THE WAY

A dangerous precedent has been established by the Oil Belt district committee—a precedent which we do not believe they fully realize the import of or they would take steps to alter it.

The precedent is this: That no team in the future will feel safe in using any player whatever. If he has not been protested, of course he is subject to protest and, if found ineligible, all the games in which he was used are subject to forfeiture. But heretofore whenever a player had been protested and ruled upon, the school felt no hesitancy in using the player thereafter.

It would be better—far better—for the sport's welfare if a player's eligibility is called in question, that the committee take ample time to delve into the case and give every school any reasonable amount of time desired to go thoroughly into the matter and secure all the data available—then after making a decision, consider the matter as closed—unless in some very rare instance. These "off again, on again, gone again, Finnegans" situations—where a boy is eligible on Tuesdays and ineligible on Thursdays—is eligible when it is raining but ineligible on sunny days—eligible at breakfast but ineligible at supper—eligible during the dark of the moon but ineligible during the full moon—no repeat, such a situation as that is not good for maintaining public interest in the sport. It is likely to produce general dissatisfaction.

This re-opening business is not beneficial to the district. When Ranger entered the season, some folks outside of Ranger thought the Bulldogs might have a pretty good team this year. Hammett's case came up and the action was unfavorable. The Bulldogs played Eastland without Hammett, and barely won—26 to 25—from a team that had lost to another conference member by 50 points just one short week before. Apparently, Ranger with Hammett would not be a formidable contender. Hammett was ruled eligible in two sessions of the board. He started playing. The little thought of Bulldogs gave Abilene the surprise of its career by outplaying them in a 19-19 tie. They won over the fighting Bobcats of San Angelo who had startled the State by outgaining the far-famed Cisco Lobos in a 13-13 battle. But if Ranger's record had been surprising up to this point, what shall we say of the next chapter—the 13-0 disaster that the Bulldogs handed to the Lobos? "Upon what meat doth this our Caesar feed that he has grown so great?" we can hear the Ciscoans murmur after regaining consciousness. They decided it was "Hammett"—the case was re-opened and this time Hammett was ruled ineligible.

AS CLEAR AS A FOG IN LONDON

"If" and "Suppose" Are Important Words in Oil Belt District.

Once more the attention of the oil belt fans will swing to the gridiron.

The eligibility battle seems to have ended and the gladiators who are still eligible will return to battle.

Three games are carded for the next few days. The Abilene Eagles will invade San Angelo tomorrow for a bout with the Bobcats. On Tuesday on the Ranger gridiron, the Bulldogs—minus Hammett—will clash with the Breckenridge Buckaroos. And on the following day at Cisco, the Lobos will do battle with their old time foes, the Abilene Eagles. After these games, what?

Abilene is generally expected to defeat San Angelo and Cisco. Ranger fans hope that their favorites will be able to win from Breckenridge. Should these events come to pass, Abilene and Ranger will meet Saturday, Dec. 1, with the district championship at stake.

On the other hand, if Abilene comes through against San Angelo but loses to Cisco—and if Ranger can win from Breckenridge—it looks as though Cisco and Ranger would clash for the second time this year, and the district title would be the prize for the victor.

Still on another hand—this makes three hands, if you have that many—what if San Angelo should defeat Abilene? That is a possibility and should be considered. Of course, it is very unlikely—but when we recall that the Bobcats fought Cisco to a tie and that they will battle Abilene with super-human spirit, it is faintly possible that San Angelo might win. If they did and the Abilene team was then obliging enough Wednesday to defeat Cisco—and supposing Ranger in the meantime had been able to win from the Buckaroos—then the Bulldogs would win the district title forthwith.

But supposing the Buckaroos should win from Ranger—then it wouldn't matter what happened as far as the Bulldogs are concerned in this wild race.

"ARMY" WILL HAVE TAG DAY SATURDAY

Proceeds Needed to Help Salvation Army Activities for Year.

Hundreds and hundreds of people of Ranger, it is hoped, will aid in making the Salvation Army tag day a success tomorrow. The high school pep squad—40 to 60 girls—will sell the tags or rather the neat little Salvation Army buttons—and a liberal response is expected.

The annual campaign for the construction of the new stadium and the result has not been as splendid as hoped for. A big success tomorrow would help a whole lot toward reaching the amount needed for the year's work. There are cold and needy people whose welfare depends upon the way that the more fortunate people of Ranger—those who have jobs and health and comfortable homes—respond to the appeal for funds for the "Army."

The pep squad girls will report at 9:30 a. m., at the campaign headquarters, in the chamber of commerce office.

MONKS RESTORING ABBEY

By United Press. With the rebuilding of the western front of the ancient Guckfast Abbey, near Ashburton, England, monks who have been doing the work say that in four years the edifice will be completely restored to its one-time beauty. It will also crown the life-work of the abbot, Don Anscar Vior, who helped rebuild the foundations and 22 years ago was placed in charge of the work. At first only one monk was appointed to mix mortar for the solitary builder, but gradually more were added until now 60 monks, from France, Germany and Britain, are engaged. The cathedral dates back to the eighth century and was suppressed 800 years later, after which it gradually sank into decay.

Can't Sleep For Saving His Home From the Flames

By United Press. HOUSTON, Nov. 23.—W. H. Holst is convinced now that somebody wants to burn his house.

Holst woke up last midnight and looked out the window. It was unnaturally light outside as from the reflection of a fire. He got up and went out. Under one corner of the house, a pile of newspapers was burning merrily.

Holst put out the fire and went back to bed. He woke up again at 1:15 a. m., and looked out the window. More light. Out he went again and there was another jolly blaze. This time it was fed by a collection of rags that had been placed where the newspapers had been before.

Holst extinguished the fire and called police. He gave them the name of a suspect, put them on guard and went back to bed.

ROBBERY HERE OF GROCERY

Knob Knocked Off Safe But It Is Not Opened by Robbers.

Robbers last night stole between $12 and $15 in cash and about $60 worth of merchandise from Jobe & Son's grocery in Ranger. The knob was knocked off the safe but the intruders were unable to open the safe. They took the money from the cash register and helped themselves to a liberal supply of tobacco, canned goods, bacon and other wares. Entrance was gained by "prying" open the back door.

Police were told that two boys were seen in a Ford roadster near the store earlier in the night.

The two boys caught at Olden had a Ford roadster according to information here.

Authorities are investigating to determine whether there is any connection between the Olden burglary and the Ranger robbery.

Are All Ready If They Can Find 'Em

By United Press. WICHITA FALLS, Nov. 23.—Sawed-off shotguns have been made part of the equipment of a squad of police officers assigned to work on the series of knob-knocking and house burglaries which have occurred in Wichita Falls during the past six weeks.

Four of these weapons were purchased by the city and delivered to police officers several days ago.

Police officials believe now that if they can only locate the thieves they will be able to hold up the police end of any battle that might come.

Father Did Not Like Daughters

By United Press. LOS ANGELES, Nov. 23.—Because he did not like "girl children," Theodore Oakvid, 44, beat his 12-year-old daughter to death and then attempted suicide yesterday.

The mother, Mrs. Isabel Oakvid, when questioned today, said her husband "hated girl children."

Two sharp knives and a whetstone on the floor indicated the man intended to kill his whole family but they escaped.

Afer 10 Years of Liberty 72-Year-Old Convict Held

By United Press. DALLAS, Nov. 23.—Fingerprints of a 72-year-old man revealed that he was William Norton, who escaped from the Iowa State penitentiary 10 years ago, according to Douglas Walsh, superintendent of the police records bureau here.

Norton was arrested on suspicion. He told fingerprint experts that he had been arrested on several occasions but had never been identified as the escaped convict.

Officers at the Iowa penitentiary will be advised of his arrest.

$1,000,000 LAW CASE WON BY OLD DEFENDANT

By United Press. AMARILLO, Texas, Nov. 23.—A verdict for the defendant was returned in district court at Panhandle in Carson county shortly after midnight in the $1,000,000 breach of promise suit of Mrs. Donnie Vandever of Electra against J. A. Whittenberg, 71-year-old pioneer West Texas multimillionaire.

Members of the jury broke down and cried when the defense counsel in his closing argument described Whittenberg's former wife who died four years ago. The touching argument also affected the millionaire oil and cattle man and he wept with the jury.

Mrs. Vandever, a cook on one of Whittenberg's ranches, sought $1,000,000 damages for alleged breach of promise but the jury decided that no marriage contract had existed between the pair. Whittenberg occupied the stand 10 hours and denied that his relationship with the woman had been anything but as employer and employee.

Whittenberg's wealth is estimated at $20,000,000, made from oil which was found on his large land holdings.

TURKEYS BRING FARMERS $55,200

Special to The Times. A canvass of produce houses at Stephenville discloses the fact that there was paid out for turkeys there the past two weeks $55,200 and for peans during the same period $5,000; cream, eggs and chickens, $2,100, making a total payment for two weeks of $63,300.

It is estimated that the payroll for labor during the dressing period was $400. Produce men estimate that around $20,000 will be realized alone on peans. About 40 percent of the turkeys have been marketed.

White House Soon Have New Tenant

 James Hoban, who elected to receive a gold medal of eight or ten guineas and the balance in money. A plan submitted by John Collins was considered to be second in merit, and he was given a consolation prize of $150.

Bedroom Shortage.
 Hoban was named to supervise the construction of the building; subsequently he became superintendent also of the United States capitol, for which the original design was made by Dr. James Thornton.

According to tradition, Hoban intended that the president's house should have three stories, but since "economy" was a current theme of political agitation, the building was reduced one story in height, with the result that the house has ever since been inadequately supplied with bedrooms.

Funds for the building were secured from sale of lots in the federal city, as Washington originally was called, and by moneys furnished by Virginia and Maryland. Returns from lot sales were inadequate, and Hoban wrote the commissioners at one time: "The present situation of our funds rendered it impossible to pay the time roll due yesterday."

Mechanics had to be brought from England, and due to scarcity of laborers, houses had to be furnished to negro workmen. Once the commission resolved "to hire good laboring negroes by the year, the masters clothing them well and finding each a blanket, the commissioners finding them provisions and paying 21 pounds a year wages, the payment to be made quarterly or half-yearly."

Upholsterers Bothered.
 The house was seven years under construction and was not yet entirely completed when occupied by President and Madame John Adams in November, 1800. A communication to the commission Oct. 20, of that year, urged that the building be closed to visitors because crowds of people frequenting the house were interrupting the upholsterers "who are exerting every nerve to prepare for the reception of the president."

The white house was burned by the British in 1814 but rebuilt under direction of Hoban within the next four years. The original free-stone from Virginia quarries was covered with white paint, which gave rise to the name white house. The damage by fire was chiefly to the interior.

During the rebuilding, the president occupied the Octagon house, designed by Dr. James Thornton, architect of the capitol, an attractive building still in fine repair and now occupied as the headquarters of the American Institute of Architects.

The white house was remodeled during the first administration of Theodore Roosevelt, who with his family temporarily occupied a house on Lafayette Square. Executive offices were added to the west wing of the original building.

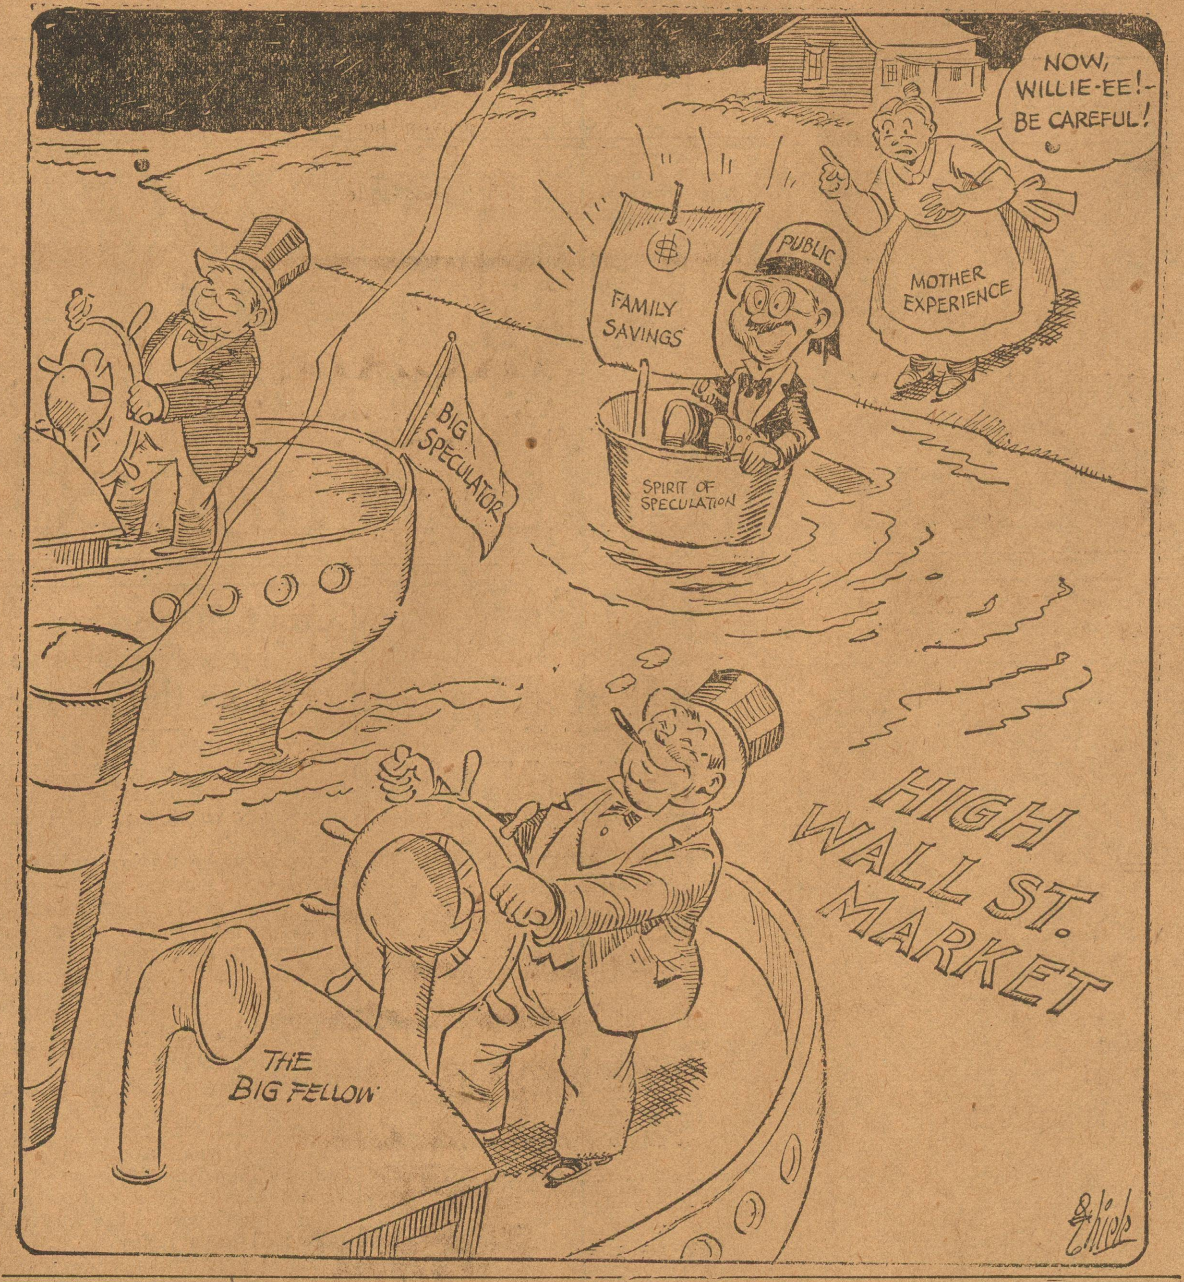

Menus for the Family

By Sister Mary
BREAKFAST—Stewed prunes, cereal, cream, broiled cottage ham, potatoes hashed in milk, crisp toast, grape jelly, milk, coffee.
LUNCHEON—Baked cabbage with bacon, Boston brown bread cranberry bread pudding, milk, tea.
DINNER—Rabbit chili con carne, mashed potatoes, cauliflower in cream sauce, head lettuce with French dressing, deep dish apple pie, milk, coffee.

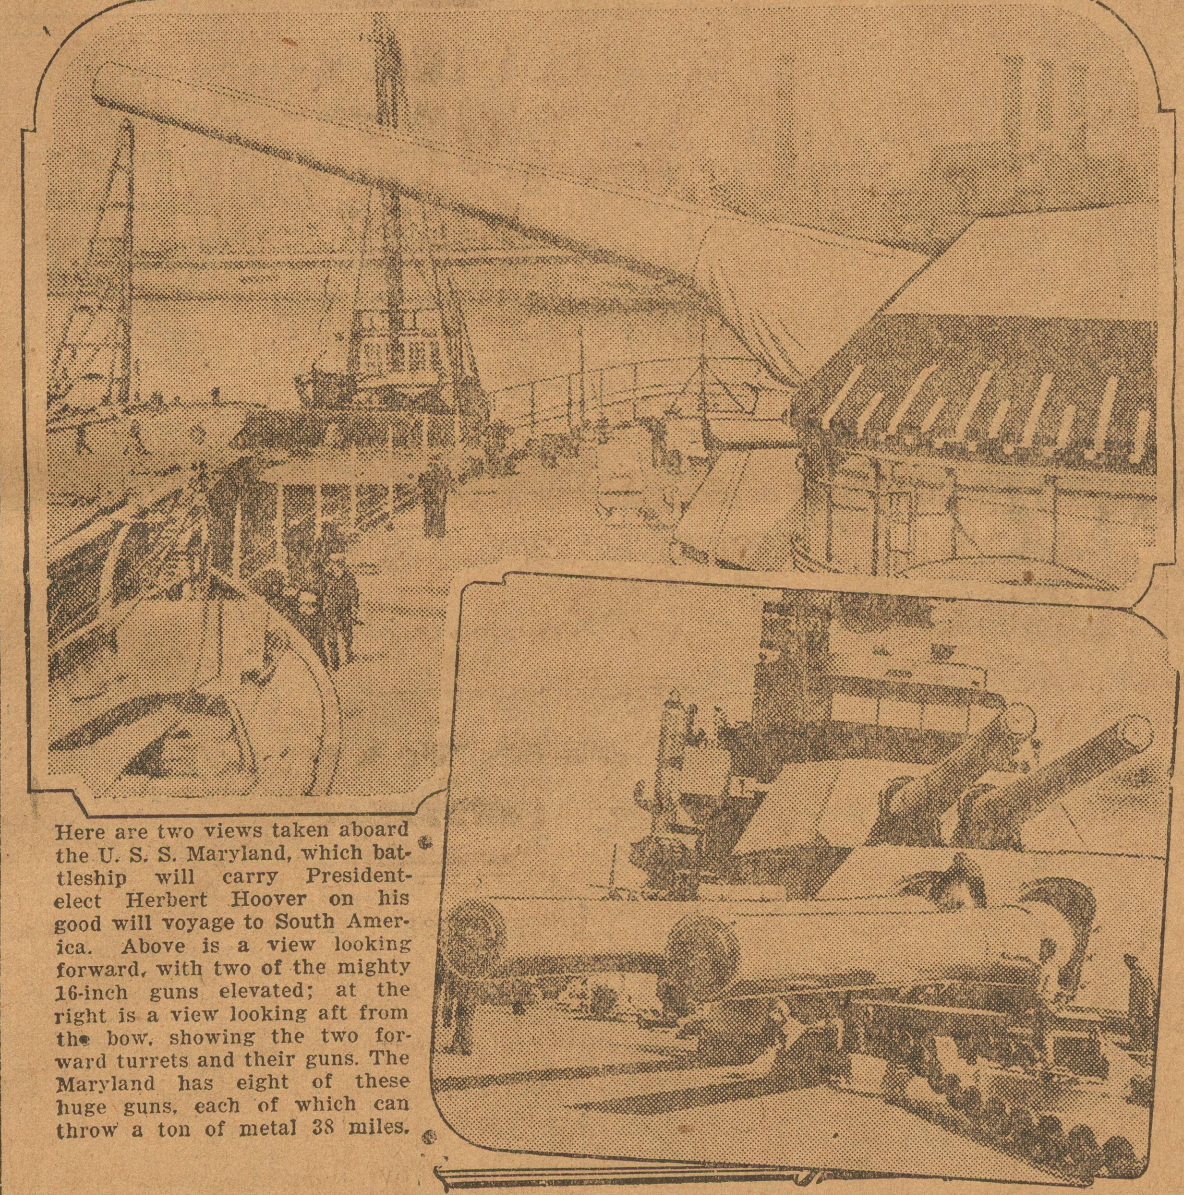

Instead of beef, rabbit can be used for making "chili". Cook the rabbit in boiling water until the meat falls from the bones and then use it just as you would beef.
Cranberry Bread Pudding
 Two cups cranberries, 1 cup water, 1 cup sugar, 3 to 4 cups coarse bread crumbs, 4 tablespoons melted butter, 1 teaspoon cinnamon cream.
 Add sugar and water to cranberries and bring slowly to the boiling point. Cook about ten minutes. Put a layer of crumbs in a well buttered baking dish, add a layer of cranberries and cover with butter and cinnamon. Continue layer for layer until all is used, making the last layer of crumbs. Sprinkle cream over the crumbs and bake 30 minutes in a moderately hot oven. Serve warm with top milk or whipped cream.

A scientist finds cattle thrive on food wastes of the forests. Probably what started him on his research was the fact that part of the human race has been breakfasting for years on sawdust.

BY THE WAY—

 not favorable to the majority of the district committee that has reversed itself with the season nearly ended. Let us hasten to state that we feel those conclusions are unfair to the committee for we maintain that throughout they have acted with sincerity and honor. But surely the majority members can see the effect that the sequence of events has on the "man in the street," who is the fellow whose coin causes the turnstiles to click, by the way.

All of this could have been avoided if Ranger had only lost to Cisco, of course. It could have been avoided if Cisco had been required to present its proof away back yonder or forever after hold its peace.

We will not take the position, however, that any and all eligibility cases should be ended for eternity, once they are ruled on. There are exceptions. Perhaps the Hammett case was such a one.

But we do contend that when the committee rules a man eligible, all games in which he takes part should be regarded as official world without end, for the committee has sanctioned the use of the player. It has endorsed the note and would be held responsible for the payment thereof in any court in the land. When a player, once ruled eligible, is ruled ineligible, his ineligibility should become operative from there on out.

The Constitution of the United States prohibits the passing of an ex post facto law. But in effect that is what has been done in this case. Ranger did not use Hammett until the district committee said he was eligible. Now if the district committee wants to change its ruling it should not legislate for past acts but only for the present and future.

As evidence that this is a commonsense view, the people of Ranger can point to the position taken by every newspaper in the district, with the sole and lone exception of the Cisco paper which naturally stands by its own authority.

Columbus, Ga.—"I don't see why women will drag around, in a half-hearted way, never feeling well, barely able to drag, when Cardui might help them out of their feet, as it did me," says Mrs. Geo. S. Hunter, of this city.

"I suffered with dreadful pains in my sides. I had to go to bed and stay sometimes two weeks at a time. I could not work, and just dragged around the house."

"I got very thin. I went from a hundred and twenty-six pounds down to less than a hundred."

"My mother had long been a user of Cardui, and she knew what a good medicine it was for this trouble. So she told me to get some and take it."

"I sent to the store for Cardui, and before I had taken the first bottle I began to improve. My side hurt less, and I began to mend in health. I took the second bottle, and felt much better. I followed this by two more bottles."

"Cardui acted as a fine tonic. I do not feel like the same person. I am well now, and still gaining. My sides do not trouble me at all."

WESTERNIZATION OF AFGHANISTAN MEETS TROUBLE

King Amanullah's Modern Ideas Receive Protests of Islamic Priests

By United Press. LONDON.—The westernization of Afghanistan, contemplated by King Amanullah in a series of progressive reforms, has reached the saturation point much sooner than provided for in the royal program. Reports from Simla are that the king has decided not to issue the decree that women should discontinue the wearing of the purdah veil. Opposition of the Mullahs, a powerful body of Islamic priests, was too strong.

Frock coats, boots, trousers and felt hats were practically enough for one generation of wild mountaineers. Some even consented to the shaving off of their beards, in spite of the injunction of the prophet. Seven hundred tribal headmen assembled in the capital in August, listened to their king prescribe the wonders of western civilization. They shook, instead of kissing, the royal hand; they sat on seats in the royal garden, instead of on the more comfortable ground; they tolerated the exhibition of pictures, in direct defiance of the Islamic law.

The tribesmen had heard vaguely, of how Queen Souriya had discarded the purdah during her European visit. They knew that the queen and other ladies of her household had appeared unveiled at a banquet and reception in Kabul. They had heard, and listened well, but they listened more attentively to the words of the Mullahs.

Hostility in Rural Sections. King Amanullah listened, too. Deputations of up-country Mullahs warned him that the court should not set an example of laxity. The king, an ardent and conscientious reformer, pointed out that Afghan peasant women often discarded the purdah while working in the fields. This was done for convenience, without prejudice to the institution of the purdah, the Mullahs declared. After addressing the king they returned to their people. Dissatisfaction spread quickly. Amanullah decided to proceed more slowly with his modernization campaign.

Hostility to the king's intended move was chiefly confined to the outlying districts, where it was interpreted as an attempt to deprive Moslems of the Islamic rights. It is true that the purdah is not even theoretically demanded by Islam, but custom and long practice have established the veil as a necessity.

One of Amanullah's first moves in westernization had to be rescinded immediately. It prohibited marriage before the ages of 18 for women, and 22 for men. Mountaineers who consented grudgingly to the top-hat and the razor would have none of this tampering with matrimonial customs. They cared very little more for the insistence on monogamy for all public officials. The more advanced Afghans are in sympathy with the king's plans, and even the other elements have obeyed most of his decrees. But the power of the Mullahs can not be disregarded. In the meantime, the purdah remains a national institution.

Former Eastland Hurler With Braves

By Dixon Stewart. United Press Staff Correspondent. Percy Lee Jones, baseball's "$500,000 pitcher," is now a member of Judge Emil E. Fuchs' Boston national league team-having gone to the Braves as partial payment in the deal by which the Chicago Cubs acquired Rogers Hornsby.

Incidentally the steak and onions are Jones' favorite diet and if the Braves expect Percy Lee to win ball games they must see that this dish is available to break the monotony of the city's traditional beans. Percy Lee's presence in the city is unlikely to cause a shortage in the onion market, but only because Mrs. Jones rigidly enforces the "no victory—no fried onions" rule.

An In-And-Out. Jones can have his steak with fried onions whenever he wins a ball game and during the 1927 season made 39 attempts to win his prize. The records reveal that Mrs. Jones had to fry onions only ten times during the season, her spouse being credited with ten victories and six defeats. In the 39 games Jones worked in he pitched 155 innings, allowing 81 runs, issuing 56 walks and fanning 41 batsmen.

Jones has unusual ability but during his career with the Cubs has been an in-and-out. During the last two seasons Jones has enjoyed only indifferent success, although known as the "Cubs' Giant Killer," because of his success against the men of McGraw at various times. Boston needs a "Giant Killer" as was shown in one series last season when they lost eight games in four days to the New Yorkers, and the change of atmosphere may be beneficial to Jones.

Percy Lee was born in Dallas on Oct. 23 1899. He started his professional baseball career with Eastland in the West Texas league and first attracted major league attention in 1921. Jack Doyle, Cub scout, watched Jones pitch in a semi-pro game at Dallas one Sunday afternoon and a few hours later put him aboard a train enroute for Cub headquarters.

Jones was sent on to New York, where the Cubs were playing at the time. Big cities held no terrors for Percy Lee and his first words to the Cub representative who met his train were, "Well, where's the main stem of this berg?"

One Rail Brakeman. The irresistible desire to visit the "main stem" of whatever town he was quartered in, had much to do with Jones' inability to settle down into major league form and after three years with the Cubs the southpaw was sent to Los Angeles, in the Coast League. After two years with Los Angeles and Seattle Jones returned to the Cubs, via the waiver route, and for the past two seasons has been a member of the Bruin curving corps.

At the start of the 1927 season Jones gave promise of being a consistent winner, but after leading the Cub pitching staff for two months Percy Lee slumped badly and pitched only occasional good games for the balance of the year. During baseball's off season Jones makes his home in Dallas, and is employed in a commission

RUTH DEWEY GROVES

AUTHOR OF "WHEN A GIRL LOVES" "LOVE FOR TWO" etc

THIS HAS HAPPENED
Jerry Ray decides that love is a delusion and makes up her mind to marry for money.

Jerry thought he must be deeply interested in her to want to know so much about her.

And now she knew that it had dropped her right into an entirely new universe, a universe that hitherto had been only a dream to her.

Jerry wished he hadn't mentioned Dan. For the moment he was out of her mind.

Thought of Dan dispelled some of her thrill. She didn't want him to think that she had refused his offer to bring her to Dr. Belden's simply because Alester could account for more gold—but that was precisely why she had refused him!

Jerry felt decidedly uncomfortable. "We'll drive out to Port Jefferson and drop in for tea at the Rolling Stone inn on our way back," Alester was saying.

This was more than she'd ever expected out of life—and her enjoyment of it was clouded because a man with dark blue-gray eyes had magnetism in his touch.

There had been days when she worked in the humid, breathless atmosphere of Fane's on which she'd have been tempted to gamble with her soul at stake for a drive like this.

The sweeping wooded hills, the sudden descents upon little harbor villages, the landscaped grounds of beautiful estates, the luxury and speed of the high-powered motor car—all were exquisitely new to Jerry.

At Port Jefferson they turned back, inland, and drove far beyond the speed limit on their way to the inn. Jerry thought of many ed, but he didn't do that either. They talked. He's been asking her questions all afternoon. Jerry thought he must be deeply interested in her to want to know so much about her.

Where did she come from? Where did her family live? Presently, when she was wishing that he would talk of something else, a waiter appeared with a tray and Jerry found a tall glass filled with amber fluid and tinkling ice set before her.

Jerry surmised that he must be a frequent visitor here. And for an instant she felt that the doorman regarded her in what might have been surprise or confusion or alarm.

They were shown to a pleasantly placed table on a screened porch. Jerry noted that it had a more luxuriant centerpiece than the other tables.

Again it seemed to Jerry that she inspired something like consternation when the waiter glanced at her. She became self-conscious.

There seemed to be no hurry about bringing their refreshments. Indeed, Alester did not bother to give an order. Jerry expected him to ask what she liked.

Alister lifted his glass. She couldn't take tea without sugar. "Will you please have the waiter bring some powdered sugar?" she asked, wishing she didn't sound so timid.

"Sugar!" Alester repeated. "I don't think you'll need it with this. No one ever has improved upon Slim's mixing."

Jerry wondered what he meant. Perhaps iced tea came to the table already sugared at the Rolling Stone Inn.

She looked around for sugar for her tea. There was none.

THEN ALL-BRAN SAVED HIM FROM CONSTIPATION

A message for people who use laxatives

Mr. Skiles wrote us a voluntary testimonial after Kellogg's ALL-BRAN had saved him from dreadful constipation.

For years I have been so constipated. After trying every kind of drug possible, I could only get temporary relief.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to relieve constipation. Just eat two tablespoonfuls daily.

the north shore of Long Island. But their camp is wrecked the first evening when an airplane crashes into it.

Alister smiled as he watched her go. "Not so dumb," he told himself complacently.

CHAPTER V She must not argue with Alester Carstairs about money, Jerry told herself.

"Lucky for you I didn't break an arm," she said. He regarded her gravely.

"I'm glad you didn't, of course," he replied, "but I'd be happy to assume any liability I might incur with you."

Jerry was slightly confused by his remark, and her confusion annoyed her. "He hadn't done anything to cause her to add a double meaning to the things he said."

"He's a renowned surgeon," Alester told her. "What did he say about you?"

Excitement! Why, not 48 hours back the bottom fell out of her world and it had been a tragedy.

TAKE 'EM AS THEY COME

Forget Abilene, banish Cisco from mind, get rid of all thoughts of a possible district championship—and concentrate on the business before us. Breckenridge must be beaten next Tuesday or the Ranger hopes will be as out of date as a brown derby. Play the games as they come along, cross each bridge as you get to it, otherwise in looking off into the distance, you'll stub your toe on something right at you.

"Ranger don't look so hard." That's what our friend, the Breckenridge sports writer, declared a few days ago. The Buckaroos are figuring on defeating Ranger. You may reply "Boloney" but you do not realize the seriousness of the situation if you make such a comment. Ranger's offense was built around Hammett and they must go into that Breckenridge game without their punter and passer, who incidentally ran the team and did quite a bit of ball-carrying.

Furthermore, the Bulldogs are going to see the best kicking they have met all season. Boon Magnus can kick the ball high and far. His brother, Aubrey, is almost as good a punter. Both are exceptional passers and both are nice running backs. Then there is Graham, 170-pound halfback, who can run, hit the line and grab the passes. He caught one against Angelo, wrenched loose from a tackler or two, sidestepped two or three more and need 45 yards for a touchdown. Then there is Bus Ligon who is an even better passer than the Magnus brothers, and is probably as accurate a heaver as there is in the district. And, gentlemen, the size of that Breckenridge line! It averages 175 pounds from tackle to tackle. And the reserves! Coach Shotwell has eight backfield men and one is as much a first-stringer as another and he has plenty of big fellows to toss into the line positions if one of the starting players is injured.

"If you are so smart, why ain't you rich?" someone asks, meaning "if Breckenridge is so darned good, why didn't they win the district championship?" In other words, said fan is intimating that we are laying it on too thick and making it too "scaary" in talking about the Buckaroos. We'll call your attention to a thing or two that may cause you to see the peril of that game Tuesday, however. Contemplate some cold figures!

Breckenridge opened the season with a 26 to 0 win over Comanche—always a strong class B team. Then they beat the big Weatherford squad, 39 to 7. Notice the increase in the score. Then they crushed Eastland, 56 to 6. Once again note the increase in the count. Then they walloped the John Tarleton reserves by the staggering score of 75 to 0.

We submit that any team that can pile up such scores in succession has power—lots of it.

But to continue with our story. The next game was a 19 to 0 victory over Brownwood. Doesn't look so good—but Shotwell apparently was "holding back," trying to keep the score down so as to guard against over-confidence for the next game. Then came disaster for Breckenridge—the Cisco Loboes winning, 26 to 0.

Amarillo Ace

Before accepting that victory at its face value it should be remembered that Cisco had been over-confident the week before and had been tied by San Angelo. That counted half a loss. The Loboes HAD to beat Breckenridge to remain in the race. (Cisco was playing its game on the field then and not in the district courtroom.) And when a team HAS to do a thing, it is very liable to do it. They were not over-confident—Angelo had taken that out of them. On the contrary, they knew the big scores that Breckenridge had been making and at that time, the Buckaroos were regarded as the strongest contender for the district championship. So Cisco went into that game fighting for all it was worth. Their line played to perfection. Eddleman was a battering ram. Little was a wing-footed mercury.

Cisco was at its best that day. But even then Breckenridge held them to a pair of touchdowns the first half and had two golden opportunities itself to score. Twice the Buckaroos were within the 10-yard line but pass over the goal line, squarely in the hands of a player was dropped. A little earlier, a pass right into the hands of a Buckaroo, with an open field, was dropped. These misfortunes disheartened Breckenridge, and, in the second half, Cisco widened the gap.

Since then, the Buckaroos have been floundering around—looking good in flashes, looking not so good at times. They won from Stephenville 40 to 0; they lost to Abilene 81 to 6.

But last week they found themselves and they looked again like that mighty machine that was flattening 'em all out for half the season. They met San Angelo and never at any time did the Bobcats really get in the vicinity of Breckenridge's goal—though you will recall that, against Ranger, the Angelo team had three chances to score. Breckenridge beat the Bobcats 12 to 0. Ranger only beat them 7 to 0—and remember, Hammett was playing against Angelo. He will not be playing Tuesday against Breckenridge.

The Buckaroos looked mighty good. They are liable to look better when they play Ranger—their old rivals whom they have never beaten. They are going to play as hard against the Bulldogs as A. & M. plays against Texas.

THE PRAYER OF PAUL
Act 20:36-38; Eph. 1:15,16; 3:14-21.

GOLDEN TEXT — Rejoice evermore. Pray without ceasing. In every thing give thanks. 1 Thess. 5:16-18.

INTRODUCTION

Prayer was a great part of the life of Jesus and His disciples and the early church. The Lord made provision for His people to keep in touch with Him through prayer. At this day much of that feature of worship is neglected and ignored. Through prayer the early Christians welcomed persecution, opened prison doors, and defeated and dethroned rulers. Being in partnership with God through prayer they were enabled to endure to the end and conquer the world for Christ before going to their reward was one the group.

At Miletus

Paul was hurrying to Jerusalem, and not having time to visit the church at Ephesus, he sent for the elders to meet him at Miletus. He reminded them of how he had served the Lord in all humility, with many tears, and temptations, and how he had kept back nothing that was profitable to them. He further pointed out their duty to the church, in that of diligently watching after the spiritual welfare of the members, assuring them that false teachers would invade the flock and destroy the harmony they enjoyed at that time. Concluding his counsel, he commended them to God and "kneeling down, and prayed with them all" Surely a sight that intensified the joy of angels, but the ridicule of evil minded men. It is good for friends to pray together when they part, they may be enabled to pray the more feelingly one for another when parted which is one part of our Christian duty. They parted with abundance of tears, and most affectionate embraces. Paul was affectionate himself and he had very affectionate friends. Those that are most loving, are commonly best loved.

Five Years Later

Since his affectionate farewell to the elders at Miletus, about five years of perilous experience for Christ's sake has been recorded to the credit of Paul. He is a prisoner at Rome, and writes a letter to the Ephesians. In this Epistle we discover that Paul is as strong on thanksgiving as on petition. He has not forgotten his friends nor their tender expressions for him at their last meeting. Having heard of their Christian devotion he wrote "I cease not to give thanks for you, making mention of you in my prayers." Praying for others. That is characteristic of a big hearted Christian. Thanking God for the success of others, is the spirit found among men who have "Pure religion and undefiled before God." It is a spirit that is so interested in the kingdom of God, that it keeps itself unspotted from the world. Paul prayed "That the God of our Lord Jesus Christ, the Father of glory, may give unto you the spirit of wisdom and revelation in the knowledge of him. The eyes of your understanding being enlightened; that ye may know what is the hope of his calling, and what the riches of the glory of his inheritance in the saints." Paul was anxious for his friends and all children of God to connect up with that inexhaustible source of power that he was so well acquainted with. Paul's imprisonment did not shake his faith in God, for he had learned that "all things work together for good to them that believe." And what is a few hours of discomfort to a believer in the face of Jesus saying "Blessed are they which are persecuted for righteousness sake; for theirs is the kingdom of heaven." He realized that the redemption of humanity was more important than his personal reverses. Therefore, in the midst of his humiliation, he could say: "For this cause I bow my knees unto the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, Of whom the whole family in heaven and earth is named." He prayed that Christ may dwell in their hearts, and that they be rooted and grounded in love. Love was the greatest of the Christian graces with Paul. He was anxious that they know the love of Christ which passeth all understanding. He was in an exultant strain, he was seeing glorious visions from his pent-up life of bondage. That Christians have strength of character and determination to press to the high mark of their calling, was the great desire of the apostle. One is impressed that prayer, in the lives of these founders of the church was not a main factor, but THE main factor. Let us remember that the prayers of Paul was not for the people of that age only, but they were for all disciples of Christ to the end of time. It is encouraging to have any one pray for us, but when we read of Jesus praying for us, and then these prayers of Paul, surely we should be inspired to "Rejoice evermore." and "In every thing give thanks."

TURKEYS, Then and Now

HOW DIFFERENT then! First a tree was felled. Then it was cut up in suitable lengths for the huge oven-fireplace . . . a tedious, tiresome task. Next a wild turkey was hunted down in knee-deep snow with the aid of a cumbersome blunderbuss. Then the patient, Puritan housewife fired up the fireplace and amid stifling heat--roasted the turkey . . . and herself.

But now . . . a plump turkey is purchased ready-dressed. No tree is felled and no stifling heat enters the kitchen. The housewife, in a cool, crinkly house dress roasts the turkey in the oven of her spotless gas range. Simply the turn of a valve to release this care-free fuel that cooks in a cool kitchen! And in other rooms of the home, the same fuel is used to heat where heating is desired.

Has not gas made a wonderful difference 'twixt this first Thanksgiving and the one today?

School Teacher For 62 Years

The younger generation of today isn't a bit different from that of a half century ago, says Prof. James C. Burns of McComb, Ill., instructor in Latin and history at Western Teachers' College. And he ought to know because he has been a school teacher for 62 years, being one of the oldest instructors in point of service in the United States.

SCHUBERT WORK NOT PERFORMED FOR 44 YEARS

By United Press. CLEVELAND.—Cleveland will be the first American city in which the "Seventh Symphony," by Franz Schubert, will be presented, and when the Cleveland orchestra presents the work it will be the first time the "Seventh Symphony" has been performed since 1884. The first presentation was made in 1883—in Europe—after John Francis Barnett, a comparatively obscure musician, had deciphered the original manuscript.

The first performance, which was under Sir August Mannes, was so successful that it was repeated the following year. There is no record of any subsequent performance.

The story of the "Seventh Symphony" is this: The manuscript passed after the death of the composer, to his brother, Ferdinand. He later made a present of it to Mendelssohn, who, like Schubert, died at an early age. His brother, Paul, inherited the manuscript and turned it over to Sir George Grove, who left it to the Royal College of Music, where it now is.

The original manuscript was merely a sketch, with many details of harmony figuration and orchestration indicated in outline only or omitted entirely. The task of deciphering the work was left to Barnett, and the first presentation of the "Seventh Symphony" followed in 1883.

It was through Herbert F. Peyer, New York music critic, that the manuscript score and orchestra parts were made available for Nikolai Sokoloff, director of the Cleveland orchestra.
