Million Dollar Damage Done by Missouri-Kansas Flood

HIGHWAYS RAILWAYS TORN UP

Only One Drowning Reported; Rumors of Others
Unverified.

By United Press.
KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 17.—Homes were wrecked, automobiles carried from highways and railroad service demoralized by floods which swept over the south of Kansas and Missouri today leaving in their wake damage that will run into millions of dollars. Homes were ruined, livestock drowned, railroad tracks and sections of highways flooded or swept away.

Although there were many unverified reports of drownings, the known death toll stood at one tonight.

LONDON, Eng., Nov. 17.—Death and widespread ruin were left by a severe three-day storm which moved into England from Central Europe today.

Fifty persons are known to be dead, many are injured and homeless and damage already estimated at many millions of dollars. Small ships in the harbors sank at their anchorages or were torn away and dashed like toy boats against the rocky coast or beaches.

Larger ships fought a losing battle and called for help.

So severe was the gale in England that London is virtually cut off from the rest of the British Islands.

Communication to the continent is almost severed. Only a few of the many telephone and telegraph lines are working.

Aged Eastland Merchant Dies

EASTLAND, Nov. 17.—D. H. Singletary, 73, died Saturday morning 6:15 in his room at the Jordan rooming house in Eastland where he had lived for the past two or three months. Funeral services will be conducted by the Rev. F. E. Singleton, pastor of the First Methodist church of Eastland, from the Barrow Undertaking company's parlors at 3 o'clock this afternoon. Interment will be in the Eastland cemetery.

Mr. Singletary had been engaged in the grocery business in Eastland for a number of years. About a year ago he sold his business on East Main street and went to his old home in Georgia, that being the first time he had visited it in 34 years. Returning to Eastland, the latter part of last summer, he opened a grocery business in the Arnold building on West Commerce street. Soon after launching the new business, he became ill and never recovered.

Mr. Singletary never married. All his relatives live in the state of Georgia.

6 DEER ARE SEEN HERE

Deer—six of them—were brought back as proof of their skill as hunters by a group who set out from Ranger a few days ago. Dick Elliott, J. M. Turner of Overton and J. C. Turner of Houston returned Saturday evening from Mason county with the limit—two deer each.

One of them was a 12-point buck. There are plenty of deer down here, Mr. Elliott declared. His group was out only a day and a half in obtaining their limit.

The Ranger bunch arrived in Mason with the first deer of the season, he declared, and Tom Dodd, Jim Dodd and J. O. Matheny enjoyed a turkey dinner which had been offered by the people of Mason to the hunters arriving with the first deer of the season.

KEYES AND 7 ARE INDICTED

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 17.—Asa Keyes, district attorney, and seven others were indicted by the Los Angeles county grand jury today on charges of conspiracy to give and receive bribes.

The charges were contained in two blanket indictments. The first charges Keyes and the others with 10 overt acts in the prosecution of the $100,000,000 Julian petroleum case which collapsed. The second charges 40 overt acts in connection with the dismissal of felony charges against A. I. Lasker.

PIONEER HERE REACHES END OF LONG LIFE

Fought Indians, Engaged in Mining, Operated Store in Early Days.

Death has ended the picturesque life of O. C. Scarborough, pioneer merchant of Ranger, Indian fighter and early day settler of the mining district of New Mexico. Mr. Scarborough died Saturday evening at 6 o'clock at his home on Tiffin road at the age of 76.

The funeral services will be held at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon at the Christian church in Eastland.

Mr. Scarborough was born in Bienville Parish, La., and came to Ranger in 1878, engaging in business here. About 1885 he went to New Mexico, being a pioneer there, and in Silver City he engaged in the mining business and was there when the Apaches went on the warpath. He also lived for a time in California. However, he resided most of his life in Eastland county. For a number of years, he had engaged in the buying and selling of oil leases—a business in which he remained active almost until the end of his life.

His final illness was brief, as he became seriously ill last Thursday.

Surviving him are his widow, two nieces, Mrs. M. H. Hagaman of Ranger and Mrs. O. F. Chastain of Eastland; two daughters, Mrs. Frank Holmes of El Paso and Mrs. Alma Bowles of Eastland, and grandchildren living in San Angelo, Eastland and El Paso.

HOOVER WILL LEAVE TODAY FOR VOYAGE

Good Will Tour Will Be Made to South America.

By United Press.
PALO ALTO, Calif., Nov. 17.—The final rites of farewell were performed at the San Juan hill home of the President-elect and Mrs. Hoover today. And everything was in readiness for the departure tomorrow on the good will South American tour.

Mrs. Hoover performed her last duties dear to a woman's heart by giving detailed directions for care of the flowers which bloom in prodigious profusion about the home.

During the day, President-elect and Mrs. Hoover said farewell to many people who called to wish them a pleasant trip. Several neighbors and Republican political leaders dropped in to tea after the Stanford-Washington game which Mr. and Mrs. Hoover attended.

Thousands Visit New Store Here

A flood of customers that was little short of marvelous began sweeping into the big new store of Montgomery Ward & Company Saturday morning at 9 o'clock when the doors of the store were opened for the first time and at six minutes past 6 in the evening, a total of almost 7,000 had entered the store. A man at each entrance kept count to see how many came in the store and, in that period, 6,967 entered. This figure was greatly increased by the number who kept arriving until the doors closed last night.

Many of the people were actuated by a desire to see the varied stocks with the idea in mind of making purchases later but there were more than 2,000 individual sales made during the hours stated above.

J. E. Pettus, district superintendent, was here and he declared he was delighted with the business done and with the future outlook.

DOG GOES TO JAIL.

PHILADELPHIA—When Frank Zehr, 49, was arrested on a charge of driving while intoxicated here his little white fox terrier refused to leave his side. The animal fought valiantly to remain with his master when he was removed to police station and threatened to bite officers who tried to force him away.

Finally police officers allowed the dog to go to a cell with his master.

Rescued From Death

LAD LOSES FOOT IN ACCIDENT

Injured, He Lay Between Tracks as 20 Freight
Cars Passed.

By United Press.
WEATHERFORD, Nov. 17.—Adventurous spirit of Tommy Terrell, 15, of Dallas, was somewhat subdued tonight as he recalled his narrow escape from death earlier today. The boy was riding on a freight train to California when he felt beneath the cars and sustained a crushed foot which necessitated amputation.

He lay between the tracks while 20 cars passed over him. Tommy left home with a boy companion Friday and will be returned when his condition permits.

Legion Grateful For Aid Extended

Appreciation of the Carl Barnes post of the American Legion for the co-operation of the public during the recent celebration was expressed by L. G. McPherson, post adjutant at the time of the seventeenth district convention of the legion and the dedication of the airport. The contributions of cash, time and effort by many individuals and organizations made possible the success of the events, Mr. McPherson declared, and the legion is deeply grateful.

Boys Get Terms For Auto Theft

By United Press.
OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 17.—Four youths, all under 21 years of age, today pleaded guilty to violation of the national motor theft laws and were sentenced to 18 months in prison.

COMMITTEE WILL MEET TOMORROW

District Awaiting Decisions on Eligibility With Keen Interest.

With only one official game in the Oil Belt district until Thanksgiving, the greatest interest is now centered in the meeting of the district executive committee Monday in Abilene where matters of eligibility affecting players on various teams will be decided.

Ranger, Cisco and Abilene players are reported under consideration. Until the committee disposes of these matters, no one knows just "who is who."

On the basis of games played on the football field however, the Ranger Bulldogs—regarded as the "dark horse" team in early season—are on top without a defeat, though a tie mars an otherwise perfect record. So near that the shadow of their wings falls over Ranger are the Abilene Eagles who have two more games on their schedule—San Angelo this week and Cisco on Thanksgiving.

Ranger's only conference game comes on Turkey day with Breckenridge providing the opposition. San Angelo and Brownwood likewise will meet on Nov. 29. Eastland, the seventh member of the loop, has already completed its schedule.

How They Stand.

	W	T	L	Pct.
RANGER	4	1	0	.900
Abilene	3	1	0	.875
Cisco	4	0	1	.800
Breckenridge	3	0	2	.600
Eastland	2	0	5	.286
San Angelo	0	0	4	.000
Brownwood	0	0	5	.000

Saturday's Results.

Breckenridge 12, San Angelo 0.
Cisco 34, Eastland 0.

How the district in general views the eleventh hour outbreak of eligibility charges may well be seen in the following comment of the Abilene sports writer:

"The era of ineligibility may soon pass on. Faced by the prospects of another district executive committee meeting next Monday evening, the local high school authorities have gone up and down their player roll and back again in quest of realities and technicalities which may have been overlooked.

"And the result is that the high school authorities are satisfied their squad will pass muster.

"We hope and trust the high school authorities are correct; also that all other officials over the district think the same thing about their own clubs and are right."

VESTRIS MYSTERY REMAINS

Messages Picked Up By Navy Stations Will Be Studied.

By United Press.
NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—The Lamport & Holt liner Vestris sank last Monday with a loss of 114 lives solely because of "exceptionally bad weather," Frank Johnson, chief officer of the vessel, testified today in the federal government investigation of the disaster. He was the first witness called for the third day of a hearing before United States Commissioner Francis O'Neill.

The witness, who was promoted to chief officer only the day before the Vestris sailed from New York, contradicted virtually every other witness. He said he had not noted anything wrong with the ship until 7 p. m. Sunday. Previous witnesses had said the Vestris was listing badly Saturday night and Sunday morning.

One Way to Win From the House

By United Press.
NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 17.—Six armed bandits early today entered a gambling house near here, forced the players about a dice table to lie flat on the floor and relieved them and the "house" of approximately $5,000 and then calmly backed out of the place and fled in a large auto.

The bandits took the gambling place by complete surprise.

Chief Officer of Ill-Fated Vessel Says Weather Cause

By United Press.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—All messages relating to the Vestris which were picked up by naval radio stations last Sunday and Monday while the ship was sinking have been forwarded to United States Attorney Tuttle in New York, navy officials announced today.

By United Press.
NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—Why 114 persons lost their lives in the wreck of the Vestris was obscure by a jumble of facts, opinions and conjectures tonight at the end of the third day of the federal government's investigation into the disaster.

Two witnesses testified today before United States Commissioner Francis A. O'Neill and the crowded courtroom leaned forward expectantly to hear their story. The witnesses were officers on the liner which went down last Monday, 240 miles off the Virginia cape.

OFFICIAL IS DEAD.

By United Press.
CALVESTON, Nov. 17.—Carlton S. Ney, 36, district agent for the United States shipping board here, died today of pneumonia. He had been ill at a hospital for only a few days.

Knocked Down By Truck, Man Then Run Over By Car

By United Press.
FORT WORTH, Nov. 17.—A man believed to be Phillip Coates, 60, of Tobey, Ill., died Saturday in a Fort Worth hospital after being knocked down by a truck and then run over by an auto which was following the truck.

The man walked into the side of the truck crossing the street and was knocked down. The driver of the auto said he failed to see the man lying in the street.

COUNTY'S COTTON IS INCREASED

Yield This Year is Nearly Double Crop of Last Year.

Cotton in Eastland county continues to show a gain over the production of a year ago—in fact the increase is almost 100 per cent. On Nov. 1, a total of 5,456 bales had been ginned as compared to 2,904 bales on the same date of 1927.

Nearly all the counties surrounding Eastland county register a gain over a year ago. This year's and last year's figures for some of the neighboring counties follow: Brown 11,70—7,170; Calhoun 8,187—7,350; Coleman, 84,336—25,929; Comanche, 6,818—5,438; Erath, 11,180—8,565; Jack 2,926—2,921; Palo Pinto 3,373—2,913.

BIGGEST STORM IN YEARS HITS FOREIGN LANDS

Twenty-Five Are Killed, Hundreds
Are Injured in European Gale.

By United Press.
LONDON, Eng., Nov. 17.—The worst storm in many years spread havoc in Europe and on the Atlantic ocean today. At least 25 were killed and hundreds injured. Property damage was estimated at millions of dollars. Shipping was almost paralyzed. Several ships were wrecked, others were in distress and trans-Atlantic liners were delayed from 10 to 15 hours.

It was impossible to make even an approximate estimate of the damage which was enormous. It was estimated for instance that $250,000 damage was done to the Southampton docks. Houses were blown down, telegraph lines demolished, farms devastated and boats lost.

Fifty houses were blown down at Newport, Eng., and an undetermined number in Coblenz, Germany, where 13 persons were killed. It was estimated that at least 12 were killed in England and several hundred injured.

In England, 344 inland telephone lines were down affecting almost every district in the country. The lines of 1,800 subscribers were disrupted and approximately 120 telegraph wires out of London were down. One telegraph line was working to France but none to Switzerland or Italy while communication to Germany and Belgium was seriously delayed.

Search For Bodies Of Flyers Drowned After Plane Leap

By United Press.
VICTORIA, Tex., Nov. 17.—A fleet of boats continued searching today for the bodies of Luist Olson and Private Sneedecker, army flyers from Brooks Field, San Antonio, who were drowned in Matagorda Bay Friday afternoon when their plane went into a nose dive after a collision with another plane which was towing a target.

Both flyers made perfect parachute jumps, landing in 12 to 15 feet of water. Boats went immediately to their rescue but due to a rough sea and high winds were not able to reach the scene for an hour. The plane was found drifting on the bay, a complete wreck.

The flyers were members of a large squadron engaged in machine gun target practice. It was reported the flyers had not been equipped with life preservers and that no hydroplane or motorboat was held in readiness for rescue work.

Methodist Ministers to Occupy Pulpits Today

Noted ministers of the Methodist denomination will occupy the pulpits of Ranger today.

Some of the most gifted pulpit orators who are attending the Central Texas conference of the Methodist church will be heard by church-goers of Ranger.

The Rev. L. A. Webb, formerly of Ranger, will speak at the morning hour at the First Baptist church. Dr. J. W. Fort will preach at the evening service.

At Central Baptist church, the morning sermon will be delivered by the Rev. Edwin Heinsohn and

REPORT BY SECRETARY INTERESTS

Over Million and Half Contributed By Conference
Last Year.

The Central Texas conference in session here voted unanimously at the Saturday morning session to hold the next annual conference at Hillsboro. This decision was made by the conference after the invitation from Corsicana, the only other place placed in nomination, had been withdrawn in favor of Hillsboro.

At the Saturday morning session, Bishop Moore delivered the opening sermon, taking as his text the gospel found in the twenty-first chapter of St. John.

Reports by presiding elders of the work of their districts, which were made in part Friday, were concluded at the Saturday morning session.

Dr. T. D. Ellis, secretary of the board of church extension, delivered an address Saturday morning in which he gave a detailed account of the handling of the funds entrusted to his department. He said that in the 45 years of the board's existence, not a single dollar had been lost on a loan made for the purpose of erecting churches and parsonages. In this connection Dr. Ellis expressed the opinion that, in many instances, too expensive churches and parsonages were being built.

P. O. Waddill, statistical secretary, made his report, which revealed that the conference had contributed for all purposes during the year the grand total of $1,562,976, an increase of $74,348 over last year. This amount was as follows:

Foreign missions, $43,937; home and conference missions, $18,971; extensions, $9,839; education $39,197; American Bible society, $1,557; general conference expenses, $1,236; for Golden Cross, $2,510; bishops, $7,008; presiding elders, $51,224; preachers in charge, $416,007; conference claimants, $24,835; superannuate endowment fund, $21,165.

This report also showed that the Woman's Home Missionary society of the church had collected $136,217 during the conference year.

"... ALL IS VANITY."
 Poking into the relics left by vanished peoples is a fascinating sort of task. To stand in the middle of a waste space and realize that a populous city, filled with eager, hungering men and women and laughing children, once stood there, is to realize deeply the vanity of human endeavor and the changes that time always brings.

Dr. Albert E. Jenks, head of the department of anthropology at the University of Minnesota, recently returned from an archaeological expedition into the remote Mimbres valley in New Mexico, where he found traces of the existence of a prehistoric civilization.

The valley country today is empty. Daily the sun climbs into the cloudless sky that blesses the American southwest; and it shines down on a scene that is supremely peaceful and quiet, as though that section of the world had been finished ages ago and had lain idle, ever since, satisfied with its solitude, enduring serenely its eternity of empty silence.

But this valley, nearly 2,000 years ago, became the center of a nation. A strange tribe of Indians came into it—from where, nobody knows. They tilled the soil, built towns, learned how to make bricks from the desert clay, became experts in the arts of making pottery and woven cloth, formulated their own religion, retold their ancestral myths and established an orderly, happy nation.

For a dozen centuries this life continued. Europe passed from the weakening hands of Rome to the rough ones of the barbarians. Empires waxed and waned. A thousand years of history slipped by. And all the time the valley sheltered its own isolated life, as untouched by all of these things as though it had been on another planet.

Finally, some 700 years ago, the nation died. What happened we do not know. Possibly a famine came and forced the people to migrate. Perhaps a hostile tribe came and wiped them out. A pestilence may have stricken them. No one can tell. We only know that the valley became deserted, the houses crumbled into dust, and the desert wind whistled softly over the barren fields where the ancient people had raised corn and cotton.

Today the valley looks as it did 2,000 years ago. It has seen the rise and fall of a nation that endured longer than the empire of ancient Rome. It has the same bright sunlight, the same cloudless skies, the same dreamy peace that it had before its vanished inhabitants came. Nothing is changed.

It is a fascinating, sobering subject for contemplation.

DANGER PASSES.

More United States marines are being withdrawn from China. Seen only a small emergency force will be left there. Thus a situation that once looked very ticklish comes to a peaceful conclusion.

When we sent our marines to China a couple of years ago, it looked very much as if the bloody days of the Boxer rebellion were to be repeated. Indeed, it seemed possible that much worse would happen, and that many American lives would have to be sacrificed in a large-scale intervention move.

But the dire prophecies did not come true. China worked out her own salvation, and our fighters had little to do. The war that looked probable did not materialize.

You might add that to the list of things we have to be thankful for.

Canadian lawyers say they are surprised by the latitude given the press in court matters in this country. Perhaps the Canadian editors aren't much given to the use of the word "alleged."

Wanted: A Nice Out-of-the-Way Place to Spend a Honeymoon!

Mail Planes Will Have Telephonic Connection Soon

CHICAGO.—"U. S. Government and N. A. T. radio engineering are co-operating in perfecting plane-to-ground and ground-to-plane radio telephony," Lester D. Seymour, assistant general manager of the National Air Transport Inc., announced today.

"These engineers have practically completed their research work and we are already installing the ground and plane equipment necessary," stated Mr. Seymour.

"This installation is being made on our Chicago to New York route and ships, and as soon as we have completed that division, we will continue from Chicago to Dallas."

"Radio telephone communication from planes in the air to fields along the route, is another step in the adaptation of the principle of radio. We already have in use radio beacons and wireless telegraphy, and with this new invention, it will be possible for the pilot to talk to the various field officials while flying along the route."

Among the many advantages of this latest device pointed out by Mr. Seymour, perhaps the most important one is that which increases the element of safety, for now the pilot will never be in doubt as to the weather conditions he will encounter in the vicinity toward which he is flying.

Reports gathered by the weather bureau observers situated along the entire route, will be transmitted to a central point where broadcasting stations are being located. From here, the division superintendent will communicate with the pilot advising him whether he may land at the regular fields on his route or if weather conditions are such as to require him to land at some other field.

SCIENTISTS SET FOR EXPEDITION TO SEE ECLIPSE

Britons Will Travel to Malaya for Phenomenon in 1929.

By United Press.
 GREENWICH, England.—British scientists rapidly are preparing an expedition to observe the eclipse of the sun in 1929.

While they had only to travel a few miles to Giggleswick, Yorkshire, last year to witness the total eclipse, this year they have to go to Malaya.

The track of the 1929 eclipse cuts across the northernmost portion of Sumatra, the Malay peninsula, the southernmost portion of French Indo-China, and the Philippine islands, and ends in the Pacific ocean.

Col. Waley Cohen, a member of the expedition, has inspected the sites for two camps. These are situated at Alorstar, the capital of Kedah, and Patani, in southern Siam.

Already, the grounds of the observatory here are crowded with equipment such as huts and wooden shelters to protect the scientists from wind, rain and sun. In one corner, swathed in tarpaulins, is the telescope which Dr. J. Jackson, one of the leaders of the expedition, had had specially made for his own use. It is 21 feet in focal length, with an aperture of seven inches. It will take plates 15 inches square and photograph an area of the sky three degrees in width and three degrees in depth. The astrophysical equatorial telescope used for the international photographic mapping of the skies, will also be taken.

The advance party of the expedition sailed for Malaya, Feb. 16.

Little Girls In Wichita Kidnaped

By United Press.
 WICHITA FALLS, Tex., Nov. 17.—Attacks on two girls here last night resulted in the arrest of a man who admitted having served four terms in the State prison. The younger of the girls, age 6, told police she was kidnaped while returning home from a grocery store. She said a man grabbed her and carried her to the river bottom, north of the city.

Escaping from the man, the girl said she ran screaming toward town until help arrived.

The older girl, age 12, said she was accosted early in the evening but escaped from the man.

Stories of the girls are being investigated by the district attorney's office.

BULL ELEPHANT THAT KILLED 7 FINALLY SLAIN

Joseph Grove, American, Downs Huge "Devil-Devil" in Burma.

By HAROLD P. MILLS
 United Press Staff Correspondent
 SHANGHAI.—One huge foot and one mighty tusk of "Devil-Devil" the rogue elephant which for months terrorized the natives of the Mimbud district of Burma, killing seven persons and destroying thousands of dollars worth of crops, now repose in the Shanghai office of the United Press—the gift of Joseph R. Grove, slayer of the great pachyderm.

Before, Grove completed 16 years in the jungles of Burma, sailed for his home in San Francisco and stopped long enough in Shanghai to distribute a number of big game trophies to newspaper men.

In Burma Grove was superintendent of an oil field owned by an English concern.

"Devil-Devil," the rogue elephant, was killed after a three-day hunt in the jungles. The beast measured 9 feet 4 inches at the shoulders and is stated to have been the largest elephant ever killed in Burma.

After a three-day search in the bamboo jungles Grove came upon "Devil-Devil" unexpectedly. Both man and elephant were surprised. The average Burmese elephant, which is of the Asiatic species, will flee at the sight of a man. Not so with "Devil-Devil." Before Mr. Grove could get his gun to his shoulder the great beast charged. With the enraged beast within six feet Grove let go with his .404 Jeffries, an English-made magazine rifle dealing a blow of 4,000 pounds.

The bullet failed to stop the elephant. Grove jumped and the beast thundered by, but turned to charge again. Another bullet from the Jeffries rifle killed him.

During his years in Burma, Grove has killed 16 elephants. To the United Press he said that the best and surest way to kill one of the beasts is to aim for an imaginary line between the ears.

In Burma it costs 50 rupees to shoot an elephant. On the other hand, a reward of 40 rupees is paid for killing a tiger, 20 rupees for slaying a leopard and 10 rupees for killing a bear.

On one occasion when charged by a wounded rogue elephant, Grove and a companion were compelled to roll down a hill, a distance of some 200 yards, to escape the infuriated beast.

Navy Chief At Disaster

Vice Admiral M. M. Taylor, who directed the Navy department's rescue forces at the scene of the Vestris sinking, is expected to make the Navy Department's report hereon. Admiral Taylor was aboard the Battleship Wyoming, which picked up several survivors, and was in complete charge of a number of naval vessels at the scene.

None Identified In Dallas Case

By United Press.
 DALLAS, Nov. 17.—Two small girls who were attacked by a negro Friday night while on their way to a neighborhood grocery store were unable to identify any of the suspects arrested in connection with the case.

All but one of the score of negroes held in the case were released after the girls had failed to identify any of those held as their assailants. One was detained for further questioning.

The girls were walking to the store Friday evening when a negro struck one of them down with his fist and carried the other girl through an alley to a deserted house. The girl was detained for nearly an hour and then liberated, when the negro became frightened by possees searching the neighborhood.

The students, two women and two men, had been missing for a week after starting a hike in Snow mountain district.

THE Worsted-tex Suit

It fits around the collar and shoulders

One of the most difficult things in tailoring is to produce a ready-to-wear suit that fits snugly and comfortably around the collar and over the shoulder.

That is one of the great things about the Worsted-tex Suit. The collar and shoulders give you that smooth, clean-cut, smart appearance usually associated with custom-tailored clothes.

It is one of the most remarkable suits we have ever featured in our business.

CHEVROLET IS PRESENTING A NEW SIX CYLINDER CAR

Passing on to the motoring public the benefits of economies arising out of tremendous volume production, the Chevrolet Motor Company, today, introduces "the Outstanding Chevrolet of Chevrolet History—A Six in the Price Range of the Four."

In making this important announcement, W. S. Knudsen, president and general manager, points out that the sensational public reception accorded the car in recent years has enabled Chevrolet at this time to offer the added power, speed and smoothness of six cylinder performance at practically the same prices that contributed so much to the world-wide popularity of the four.

Preparations for the greatest year in its history are now being made by the Chevrolet Motor Company. Production of the new car was started last week and the company's fifteen plant factories across the country will be turning out cars to be shipped to dealers by December 15. Deliveries to the public will start January first.

Although no definite schedule has been set for 1929, Mr. Knudsen declared that production of the new car would probably exceed 1,250,000 units thereby surpassing all former records.

In its new offering Chevrolet has retained the highly successful valve-in-head principle. The motor is of the high compression type with a non-detonating head and develops 22 percent more power than its famous predecessor; its acceleration is measurably greater and its speed has been stepped out to satisfy maximum requirements. The piston displacement is 194 cubic inches.

Despite this greatly improved performance standard, thousands of miles of testing under every road and weather conditions at the General Motors Proving ground in addition to many cross country runs, have shown that the new Chevrolet engine will operate with an economy averaging better than 20 miles to a gallon of gasoline.

This is practically the same fuel economy enjoyed by the owners of the previous four cylinder model.

Seven Models.
The motor develops 46 horsepower at low engine speed and as a result of the automatic lubrication of the valve mechanism the motor is exceptionally quiet throughout the entire speed range.

Seven models of passenger cars and three commercial types comprise the line, which according to General Motors officials, embodies the greatest dollar value ever offered in an automobile. Included in the passenger car line are five closed and two open models. All bodies this year carry the famous Fisher stamp of craftsmanship. The commercial car line embraces a new and larger Utility Truck of one and one half ton capacity, a new light delivery chassis and the sedan delivery.

From an appearance standpoint as well as from inherent design, the car is completely new with a wide range of attractive colors and fine car appointments formerly found only on the more expensive makes.

Despite the score of advanced features, prices remain practically the same, chiefly as a result of the

WASHINGTON LETTER

WASHINGTON—Prohibition in the United States has been a great windfall for Canada. One Canadian newspaper estimates that $300,000,000 of Uncle Sam's money will have been left above the border before the year is out. It has been suggested that a government commission be appointed to determine how to get rid of all this dough, because the dollars are cluttering up the Dominion like so many old razor blades and nobody knows what to do with them. Nevertheless, Canada is bearing her cross bravely.

Dr. Ray Hall, assistant chief of the finance and investment division of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce of the United States Department of Commerce, which is his full title, tearfully admits that according to the reports of commerce department and consular representatives, tourist traffic across the border has grown with such joyful leaps and bounds partially, if not very largely, because Canada has no prohibition. His reports show that in one province our tourists spent an estimated $2,000,000 for liquor, and in another province another estimated $2,000,000 for the same vile purpose.

No full reports for 1928, of course, are yet available on the amount we have stuffed into Canadian pockets. But in Quebec, it is estimated to have increased from $50,000,000 in 1927 to $60,000,000 this year and Nova Scotia reports a 50 per cent increase in tourist business.

The $300,000,000 estimate of the Canadian newspaper, cited above, may be somewhat exaggerated, as the conservative Mr. Rger Babson has estimated the total at $250,000,000. Estimates for 1927 ran from $225,000,000 to $275,000,000.

Canadian immigration authorities say a million of us passed over the border on Labor Day. Not only that, but at other times, visitors were to be found sleeping in parked cars and in hotel lobbies because there weren't enough facilities for so many of them.

Ontario gets the largest number of Americans, Quebec next and British Columbia third. In 1927 the records show, 2,410,987 visited Canada for 24 hours or more. This year the number presumably will run somewhere near 3,000,000.

Dr. Hall insists that some Americans go to Canada and never take a drink while there. He points out that there are many other beautiful things about Canada—beautiful scenery, beautiful roads, beautiful hunting, beautiful fishing, beautiful French-Canadian girls and what not. It may be merest coincidence that our motorists have begun to appreciate these beauties only since Canada established liquor permits as an added attraction.

Writing of those liquor permits, one of our government representatives recently forwarded a note of warning for visiting Americans. Said he:

"It's not the initial cost. It's the upkeep!"

How like a flower the ladies are these days; when they fade they dye!

Report By Secretary Read With Interest

The statistical secretary's report also revealed there are 487 houses of worship in the district with a total valuation of $2,947,533, against which is a total debt of $788,527.

Nine district parsonages in the conference are valued at $62,500 and against these is a total indebtedness of $260.

Figures Are Impressive.
Parsonages in the conference belonging to the pastoral charges number 225 with a total valuation of $325,372, against which there are debts totaling $52,430.

The conference carries insurance totaling $3,079,925 on which premiums amounting to $23,359 are paid.

There are in the conference 23 Wesley Brotherhoods with a total membership of 973, and 307 Fellowship of Stewards.

The conference owns three well known educational institutions, Southwestern university, Georgetown; Texas Woman's college, Fort Worth, and Weatherford college, Weatherford. This property is valued at $1,802,295. These schools have a total endowment of $58,263, and have indebtedness totaling $496,968.

The one orphanage in the conference is located at Waco. It has a staff of teachers and officers numbering 22, and 378 inmates. The orphanage property is valued at $853,053 with a total indebtedness of $41,000. Money expended amounts to $126,783.

In the conference are 227 pastoral charges and 521 church organizations.

In the conference, during the conference year just closing, 20 preachers were given license. There are 192 preachers without charges.

The membership of the conference district totals for the year, 89,800, a gain of 1,133 over last year.

A total of 3,431 were baptised in the conference during the year. Of this number 2,737 were adults and 694 were children.

There are 338 Epworth league organizations with a total membership of 8,900 in the district. Sunday schools in the district total 441. These have 6,243 teachers and officers and a student enrollment of 68,990.

The Woman's Missionary societies number 251 in the district and have a total membership of 7,370.

Many New Dealers Are Added By The Graham-Paige Cars

The success of the Graham-Paige line, which has attained production of 70,406 in its first ten months, is emphasized by figures on the growth of the company's dealer connections, which have increased 140 per cent this year, according to J. R. Rutherford of Rutherford Motor Co.

"At the end of 1927," says Mr. Rutherford, "six months after the three Graham brothers assumed ownership control of the company, the dealer list in the United States and Canada totaled 740. After the New York show, the Graham-Paige line met ready and popular acceptance, and the growth of the dealer list began in earnest. Today, in ten months, 1040 new distributors and dealers have joined their fortunes with those of the three Graham brothers, making a total of 1780; or, including overseas dealers, 2093.

"To those in the automotive industry, figures on the growth of the selling organization are every more significant than increased output, for they are evidence that those whose training and experience enable them to judge, deem the Graham-Paige company to be headed toward continued growth and increased importance in the industry."

COLORADO, Tex., Nov. 17.—The Mitchell county grand jury Monday will open its investigation of the fatal shooting of Mrs. Billie Green on a farm four miles from here Friday afternoon.

According to the dead woman's husband, Bert Green, the shooting was accidental. He said at the preliminary hearing late yesterday that his wife had obtained a rifle and had started after a Mexican with whom she had had trouble. When Green attempted to take the rifle from her, the weapon was discharged, he said.

Yes, Silence Is Golden
Irving Nelson, a substitute quarterback at Iowa, who had quit the squad two days before, was rushed into the Minnesota game to kick for the point after touchdown that would win the game. He dropped the goal all right, but he almost pulled a tactical error when he went on the field that would have gunned the works.

Nelson was so excited over the sudden opportunity for a heroic role that he momentarily forgot the rule imposing silence upon a newly substituted player, and he was about to tell Brown, center and captain of the team, where to pass him the ball.
He had the words all ready to get on the air when one of the Iowa players sensed the situation and roared "Shut Up." And he shut.

Poor Kids, All Excited
Young substitutes under the pressure of excitement have been known to commit critical blunders, and one case is recalled that occurred in a Harvard-Princeton game a number of years ago.
A situation developed early in the first quarter when Princeton was played in a zone for a field goal and the three points looked like a deciding margin.

Frank Murray, a highly skilled drop-kicker, was sitting on the bench with his substitutes. Bill Roper, the coach, turned to him and told him to get out of his blanket.
"Go in there and kick," Roper said. "They'll know what you're coming out for and you won't have to say anything." He told him to report as a substitute for one of the ends and that Lourie would move one of the backs over to end until another substitution could be made.

It was Murray's first shot at fame and he was so excited he completely forgot the instructions of the coach. Lourie, the captain and the greatest back on the field, stood by when the youngster approached the referee.
Named the Wrong Man
Murray was almost speechless and mumbled a few words that couldn't be understood. Finally Lourie asked, "Who goes out?"
The substitute seemed to snap out of his daze and said "You do. You go out."

Lourie knew that some mistake had been made, and so did the Harvard captain, who was standing with the group. Lourie signalled to the bench and was flagged to stay on the field.
But the referee ruled that the substitution had been made officially, and against the protest of the Harvard captain he sent Lourie from the field. And Princeton darn near lost the old ball game.

Phils Out on Their Feet
In announcing that Heine Sand and $50,000 had been shipped to St. Louis for Tommy Thelenov, Bill Baker, owner of the Phillies, said he was spending big money in spite of the fact that 1928 had punished the club with its first financial smack in history.
If it was the worst year Philadelphia ever had it must have been terrible, and it must have been horrible to behold, for some of the much better clubs had disastrous years.

Cleveland, for instance, according to the admission of its owner, lost more than $100,000.

SPORTSMATTER

BY FRANK GETTY
UNITED PRESS SPORTS EDITOR

Harvard is beating back! After putting in two drab seasons, Arnold Horween, the Chicago heir to millions, has reorganized Harvard football according to midwestern standards and the 1928 Crimson eleven ranks among the eastern leaders.
Football was in a pretty bad way at Harvard when Horween, who played under Perck Haughton's regime, was brought back from Chicago to assume charge of the situation. Fraternity politics had crept into the selection of the football team. Harvard was trying to pit plays of the 1915 era against teams employing the modern, wide open game. The material had deteriorated.

Such was the status of things at the end of the 1925. Mal Logan, another former Harvard star who was first offered the job, turned it down. "Get Arnold Horween," he said, "if you can. He's the best of them all if he'll take the job."

Eleven Has a Punch
Horween took the job. He started slowly. He knew that he couldn't work a miracle overnight. He estimated it would take two or three years to build up a winner. The 1928 eleven has all the earmarks of the best Harvard team in five years.
The Harvard eleven has a punch this season. Captain Art French, Dave Guarnaccia and Tom Gilligan are the three best ball carriers Harvard has had since George Owen and Charley Buell departed.

The Army's powerful machine defeated Harvard, 15 to 0, in the late October, but the Crimson came back to prove itself game in the last half by holding the Army scoreless. Costly fumbles enabled the Army to score early.
Those who have bemoaned the softening of the Harvard football players were dumfounded after the game when reports were circulated that the Crimson eleven played "dirty football" against the Army Captain Sprague and three other Army regulars limped to the sidelines before the terrific conflict was over. Harvard didn't play "dirty football," as Referee Ed Thorp pointed out after the game.

but good, clean hard football. Harvard was out to win, but bad breaks hampered them.
After Army had won from Yale, 18 to 6, the West Point players all agreed that Harvard had the toughest team.

Reorganized System
Harvard is not short on material any longer. The Harvard freshman football teams more than hold their own with the freshman teams of Yale and the strong eastern prep schools.
Horween has reorganized the whole system at Harvard and he has done a good job of it. Getting any school out of a football rut is a tough job, but when football has softened as it has at Harvard during the last days of Bob Fisher's regime it must take something of a miracle man to bring back the golden victories.

The middle westerner who, once played professional football has corrected the evils in the Harvard plays a modern up to date game. There are no fraternity politics. Harvard teams go out to win now.

BRECK IS VICTOR BY 12-0 SCORE

San Angelo, Battered By Heavy Foe, Loses to Buckaroos.

The Breckenridge Buckaroos, who will provide the final conference opposition of the Ranger Bulldogs on Thanksgiving, are going to deal trouble to the Bulldogs, judging from the power that the big Green machine displayed Saturday afternoon in turning back the speedy Bobcats of San Angelo. The Buckaroos won to the count of 12 to 0.

A short pass, tossed by Boon Magnus just to the line of scrimmage, was gathered in by Graham, big halfback, who dashed down the sidelines, broke loose from a tackler and continued on his way for 44 yards to score the first touchdown, which came in the first half.

The other score came indirectly as the result of a pass. Ligon threw one to Boon Magnus for 20 yards. Two line plays by Graham netted a first down on Angelo's five yard line and it took four more tries to get across, Boon Magnus taking the ball over. This tally came in the third quarter.

The teams had battled on practically even terms in the middle of the field until Graham's gallop. Immediately afterward, Baker intercepted a forward pass and glanced off the receiver's hand and then Baker hurled a pass to McCamey for 32 yards. McCamey was tackled so strenuously that he was carried off the field. On the next play, Baker was injured and the Angelo captain had to be taken out.

The absence of McCamey for the remainder of the game, the absence of Massey who did not go in until the third quarter, the absence of Hamberlin, ruled overage, prevented the Bobcats from unleashing the sparkling offensive that gave Ranger so much trouble two weeks ago. Russell, 125-pound halfback, did some clever ground-gaining and the Bobcat line, led by Grimes, powerful tackle, did great work.

But it was not so much the absence of stars that cost San Angelo the game—it was the presence of a heavy, fast team confronting them gradually wearing down the lighter opposition and that for the first time in weeks was playing the brand of football of which it was capable. For the initial occasion since the Cisco defeat, the Buckaroos had "found themselves" and they will be in perfect tune for the Turkey Day game at Ranger.

Whoofus Whiffletree's Woozy Wonderings

What good comes from a protested game anyway? The public remembers who won the game on the field, not who might have been awarded the game on a technicality afterward by a committee. The fans of Cleburne and Ranger recall that Roy Lumpkin sledged-hammered his way to victory for the Oak Cliff Leopards two years ago; they do not remember that the state interscholastic league afterward threw out those games. They remember that Sherman had the greatest team in the state three years ago and the majority of the fans of Texas regard Sherman as the uncrowned champion of that year. They remember that Beaumont defeated Waco two seasons ago and Waco gained no admiration by raising a point after the game and getting the defeat thrown out—when the evidence clearly showed that Waco had violated a rule, too.

When the king of Sweden 20 years ago pinned on the jersey of Jim Thorpe the medal awarded him as the world's greatest all-around athlete, the world so recognized him and still acclaim him for his Olympic victory though someone afterward dug up that he had played baseball one summer for $40 a month, or some such amount.

The fans still recall that wonderful run made by Carver around right end with Lumpkin leading the way for a 75-yard gain and a touchdown—one of the most beautiful plays ever seen on a West Texas gridiron. They remember that juggled ball in mid-air last Monday that Garland Hinman caught and carried across the goal line. Those plays will always be remembered and treasured.

"The moving finger writes and, having writ, Moves on; nor all your piety nor wit Can lure it back to cancel half a line. Nor all your tears wash out a word of it."

If Cisco is awarded the championship, although we do not look for this to happen, the Lobos will know in their hearts that they were licked and not entitled to it. They know that they could only tie San Angelo—and Ranger beat the Bobcats. They know that they were completely outplayed by Ranger and that they were whipped 13 to 0. Knowing that they are the inferior team and that they are usurpers, the Lobos couldn't represent the district with success.

HOOKS AND SLIDES

Kearns Sings Old Story

Jack Kearns says he is through with the fight business as soon as Mickey Walker is washed up and the temptation is too great to resist to say that Kearns is about through now.

The little piece herewith is not about Walker but about Kearns. Men tire of a tricky business such as boxing is after they have been in it as long as Kearns and want to get out of it. Few are able to do it, however. Either they have to continue as a means of livelihood or the fascination of the business holds them.

Bill Gibson swore when Tunney retired that he was through with the fight business. After having thrown away several fortunes, Gib found himself with a roll big enough to keep him for life after he got his cut of Tunney's two Dempsey shots.

But Tunney hardly had made his announcement when Gib was hot in the chase after Knute Hansen, the heavyweight, and when the contract squabbles are settled Bill probably will have the man.

But He May Mean It.

Kearns probably means what he says and if he retires he no doubt will stick to it for two reasons. He is the smartest manager in the modern history of the ring in two ways. He was smart in handling his fighters and he was smart in handling himself. He has plenty of money now and he can do just as any whim or fancy strikes him.

There is another thing about Kearns also. He has a vanity. Babe Ruth never will play with a minor league club and Kearns never will associate himself with a bum fighter. Champions are his only dish and there aren't any near champions running around loose.

Wallace Back Again

Returning to the ring after an absence of almost a year, Billy Wallace made an impressive showing in beating Bruce Flowers. Wallace proved himself to be in good condition again and his timing was unusually good for a boy who had worked so little for a year.

But he seemed to have lost the power of a punch that made him one of the most dangerous hitters in the lightweight class several years ago. He hit Flowers with three crashing right hands in the first round and they didn't even shake up the negro. And Flowers is no Paulino. Wallace dumped him twice later in the fight but he couldn't keep him down.

With a jaw breaking punch, however, Wallace can go quite a ways in the class now if he keeps himself in shape and doesn't have any more accidents because the division has very little class in it outside of the champion.

Nice Voters

California, at the recent elections, voted down an amendment aimed to kill boxing in the state. Massachusetts voters passed an amendment permitting Sunday baseball and football and Cleveland voted for a bond issue to build a huge stadium on the lake front in which the Cleveland Indians will play their games. It is possible that, with the same intelligent direction that was shown in the Massachusetts campaign, Pennsylvania may soon vote for Sunday baseball.

DO YOU KNOW THAT—

The Notre Dames wore green jerseys against the West Points a couple of years ago. . . . And the numbers were all wrong. . . . ## SPORTSMATTER

By George Kirksey

Beginning their fourth season in the National Hockey League the New York Americans have taken a leaf from the notebook of the New York Yankees, world baseball champions.

Only five players who wore the star spangled uniforms last season will be wearing them this season. Numerous trades and transactions have been made during the off season, all of them with an idea of giving the Americans scoring power. The Americans have ambitions to become the Yankees of hockey.

For the past two seasons the Americans have had to play second fiddle to their younger rivals, the Rangers, in New York and the owners of the Americans want something done about it this season.

The Rangers had a tremendous following in New York last season and inasmuch as they won the world hockey championship, playing all of the games away from home, they undoubtedly will be more popular than ever this season which opens November 15.

Conacher Outstanding

Although the Americans have been in the National Hockey League a year longer than the Rangers, the star spangled group (so-called because they wear red, white and blue sweaters decorated with stars) has never enjoyed the popularity or success of the younger team.

The five Americans who are left as a result of the shakeup are Jackie Forbes, goalie; Billy Burch, center; Lionel Conacher and Leo Reise, defense; and Normie Himes, spare.

Conacher is the outstanding star of the Americans. He hails from Canada where he has a reputation as one of the most versatile athletes in the Dominion. He is a former heavy-weight amateur champion of Canada and once boxed with Jack Dempsey in an exhibition match. He is one of the greatest rugby football players, Canada ever developed. He can hold his own at lacrosse. He is a star baseball pitcher and has performed on the mound for Toronto in the International League.

The Americans this season will be under the management of Tommy Gorman, who replaces Shorty Green. Last season the Americans finished last in the American Group.

Among the newcomers who will wear the star-spangled uniforms this season are Babe Dye, former Chicago Black Hawks star who twice has led the National Hockey League in scoring; Harry (Punch) Broadbent, who was brought from Ottawa; Harry Connors, who was obtained from the Boston Bruins in a trade for Red Green; Johnny (Rabbit) McVey, who was obtained from the Black Hawks in a trade for Alex McInnis; Johnny Sheppard, who was brought from the Detroit Cougars; and Jesse Spring, who was recalled from Niagara Falls.

The Americans open the season with the Ottawa Senators at Ottawa tonight, but New York will not get its first glimpse of the re-organized Americans until they meet the Rangers in the first game of the season in New York at Madison Square Garden, Sunday night.

T. C. U. Has Good Tennis Prospects

FORT WORTH.—For the first time in several years, the tennis prospects at Texas Christian University are bright for a successful season. With an influx of several star net men from last year's freshman squad, Capt. Weir McDiarmid is expecting to put on the field a strong contender for conference honors.

In the first match of the year played with Trinity University, the Frogs won every match. They showed unexpected strength both in doubles and singles. Two brothers, John and Weir McDiarmid, form the nucleus around which the team will be built this year. John has No. 1 ranking and Weir No. 2 in the competition so far.

John McDiarmid spent last summer tramping over the Middle West, entering tennis tournaments and seeing the style of play of other sections. He won the junior championship of Ohio and was runner up in several other matches. He is a sophomore at T. C. U. and much is expected of him in his three years of competition.

WACO OUT OF CHASE FOR TITLE

Cleburne Finishes Work That Corsicana Started Previous Week.

Waco is looking forward to a successful football season in 1929. As far as this year is concerned, the Tigers have gone into seclusion.

They remind us of a negro we once knew, who had a quarter and was allowed to get into a dice game. He threw a six and his next toss was a seven. As he saw his only quarter disappear, he remarked, "That seven show did come abrupt."

Last week Corsicana took Waco down, 19 to 13, and two days ago, Cleburne played 0-0 against Waco. Thus the Tigers fade from the picture.

They won the state championship four out of the last six years and went to the finals in the other two seasons. Therefore for them to be eliminated without getting out of the district would be as though Gene Tunney were to be knocked cold by a preliminary scrapper.

But it helps the sport in the State. It breaks a monopoly and restores competition. No one dislikes Waco—Coach Tyson has produced great teams and all honor to him for it. But folks had gotten a bit weary of the unvarying success won by the Tigers.

HORNED FROGS LOSE.

S. M. U. GOES DOWN.

By United Press.

Basketball Team Is Discussed At State University Already

AUSTIN, Tex.—Despite the loss of several stars, among them Joe King of Dallas and Captain Johnny Eske of Dallas, Coach Fred Walker's 1928 basketball team will be entirely capable of taking care of itself this year.

Holly Brock of Beaumont, one of the fastest and most spectacular players ever seen on the local court, will be leading the Steers and playig none of the forward positions. Brock has been a star ever since he came to the university, and in this, his last year, he is expected to do great things.

As a running mate for his captain, Walker will have "Sugar" Camp of Rockdale, John Looney of San Antonio, Thad White of Dallas and James Miller of Peru, Ind., to pick from. Any one of these men is fully able to take care of the assignment, and Camp looked especially good last season.

"Big 'Un" Rose of Dallas, Frank Cheatham of San Antonio and Leo Baldwin of Wichita Falls are a trio of centers that would do credit to any team, and James Comby of Austin, who comes up from the freshman team, will be another aspirant for the position.

"Red" Wray of Donna and Nona Rees of San Antonio are both old letter men, but they will find plenty of competition among the group of guards who starred as freshmen last year.

Coach Walker is optimistic over prospects, and all indications point to a good year for the Orange and White.

Prexy Pours It On Regarding Tangled District Situation

Sarcastic suggestions are made by Prexy Anderson, sports editor of the Abilene News, who says:

"With regard to the present ineligibility stir we have a number of suggestions to make, which may be accepted in part or altogether. For the uninformed, let it be said that the district committee has become jealous of the football teams in the Oil Belt; the committee now meets from once to twice a week to discuss eligibility of players, and the returns on the committee meetings are awaited as anxiously by the fans as the latter once awaited results on the football games.

"The games have now become a minor item, and it is scarcely worth while to hire a gate keeper. The fans know that the result out there on the field is of little import. No one really knows who won until the committee gets together and thrashes it out.

"Our first suggestion would be to give the championship to Brownwood and be done with it. No one would have the heart to think of declaring a Brownwood player ineligible; no one, by the way, would ever have thought of ruling out Hamberlin of San Angelo if San Angelo had not so surprisingly popped up and won a game.

"The boys down at Brownwood would appreciate the title more than fans elsewhere because they had held such slight hopes of getting it. Then too if Brownwood were allowed to represent this district in the state race, there would be a chance for Amarillo to get out into the semi-finals just once. We have a kindly regard for Amarillo in spite of some of the things we say.

"Our second suggestion would be to turn the whole affair over to J. McAllister Stevenson, West Texas League president who last summer told them all when and where to get off in most arbitrary fashion. If J. Mc wanted to move our Class A franchise out to Eskota, we wouldn't raise a hand against it.

"There was one thing we can remember with joy about the West Texas league. There was only one source of disturbance. In the Oil Belt football race, one is likely to be attacked from every corner. We find ourselves pining now and then for summer and the baseball season to roll around again. It was always so nice and quiet out there in the grandstand, with no one around to disturb you.

"But that's getting away from the point. Our suggestion to stop protests is that the team of each protester be disqualified if the protest is not sustained.

"Our score offerings for the day: Abilene 28, Haskell 6; McMurry 20, North Texas 0; St. Edwards 19, Trinity 0.

"Hoping that there will be no protests on our privilege to pick these scores, we dizzily remain your ineligible expert."

URGES PLANE PIGEONS.

By United Press.
PARIS.—A plea for the use of carrier pigeons in future ocean flights is made by M. Machet-Souplet, well known French authority on aviation, who believes that many lives could be saved, as during the war, if one or more of these birds were carried by every aviator crossing the sea.

He believes that on the average pigeons prove as efficacious as radio so far as flying is concerned and quotes an English statistician to show that during 17 months on 30 occasions scaplane pilots in distress released carrier pigeons and rescues were made in 45 cases. In nearly every case, the radio had failed.

BY THE WAY

Sherlock Holmes can get a job if he will come to West Texas. San Angelo has raised a "gumshoe fund"—that's what the Angelo paper calls it. "The old urge to 'clean up' the Oil Belt has struck San Angelo," we read. A few days ago, the Bobcats were deprived of a game and a half in the win column because a player was over-age and certainly no one will criticize San Angelo in wanting to see that everybody else has to obey the rules that were invoked against the scrappy little Bobcat band.

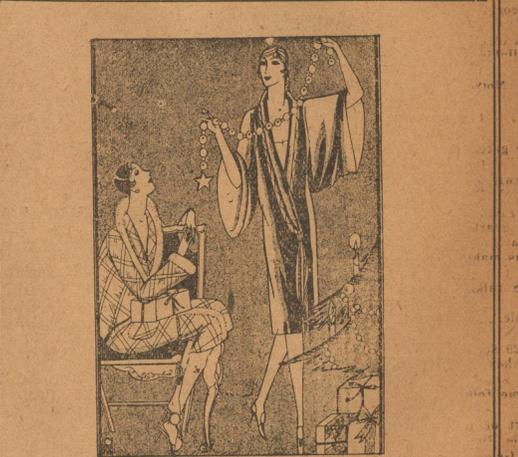

"Since the Oil Belt has cast the die, so to speak, in hopping on the little San Angelo club, they (meaning fans of San Angelo) have decided it is time the big teams are disciplined," says the Angelo sports writer. A fund of $60 has been raised to investigate players on other teams, the article declares.

In the Arabian Nights, there is the story of a genie that begged the fisherman to release it from a bottle in which the evil spirit had been sealed up. The fisherman did so and the genie then destroyed him. There is also a story related of Abraham Lincoln, who as a boy, grabbed a wolf by growing tired of holding on to the dangerous animal, young Abe yelled, to companions to "come and help me turn the wolf loose."

Cisco may find that it needs help in turning loose of the wolf that has been grabbed. Latest information is that not only is Slaton, Lobo lackle, under question but that one of the regular backfield members of the Cisco team is being investigated as to possible ineligibility.

One team has been disqualified and three others are under a show-down—apparently because a town was unwilling to let the game settle the matter.

Speaking of modern collegiate degrees, bachelor just has to have arts these days.

PREDATORY ANIMALS DISCUSSED

Concerted Effort to Rid County of Wolves Favored.

Special to The Times.

EASTLAND, Nov. 17.—A representative gathering of citizens and business men of Eastland county, gathered at the city hall in Eastland Thursday afternoon, Judge E. S. Pritchard was elected chairman of the mass meeting and presided during its deliberations. E. R. Coleman, of the United States department of agriculture, bureau of predatory animal eradication, was present and made a very interesting and instructive address on the subject of destroying wolves and other predatory animals. He pointed out that the successful growing of goats, sheep and turkeys required that the country be rid of predatory animals in order that growers might be protected in their industry. In this connection he explained that the national and state governments would pay one-third of the salary of a skilled trapper, and also that the government would supervise the work of trapping wolves and other predatory animals. He also explained that the eradication of predatory animals was being carried on in Palo Pinto, Erath, Comanche, Brown and Callahan counties. In fact, all of the counties surrounding Eastland county except Stephens county.

Jack Williamson of Eastland explained the activities of the chambers of commerce of Eastland county in seeking to carry forward this desirable work.

J. E. T. Peters of the Cisco Chamber of Commerce called attention to statistics which clearly disclose that the destruction of predatory animals made it possible and greatly increased the growth of turkeys, sheep and goats.

Walter Ray of Cisco explained to those present his efforts at constructing a wolf-proof fence, and the very great difficulty of fencing out wolves, and told of the destruction of sheep and goats, emphasizing the desirability of carrying forward the work of destroying predatory animals.

Judge Pritchard, Bert Britain, Gilford Gray and C. L. Garrett made interesting talks on the subject.

Guy Dabney of the Cisco Banking company made a very interesting and instructive talk, explaining that he was engaged in the sheep and goat industry in Tom Green and Mills counties, and in this connection pointed out the efforts he had made in destroying predatory animals, and the very great benefit derived. He also called attention to the fact that his interest in the growing of sheep and goats had led to many farmers discussing business with him, and that from reports made to him he found the people generally expressing an earnest desire that the county carry forward the work of destroying predatory animals.

Mr. Westbrook, who has recently moved to Eastland county and is now engaged in the sheep and goat business, made an interesting talk, and in this connection stated that the successful carrying on of said business depended on the destruction of predatory animals, and made a strong appeal to the commissioners' court to take steps looking to the accomplishment of the desired end.

J. R. Stubblefield of Eastland offered the following resolutions, which were unanimously adopted:

First. That members of congress and United States senators from Texas be requested to use their best endeavors to secure adequate appropriations by the national government to carry on the work of destroying predatory animals in Texas.

Second. That members of the state legislature be respectfully petitioned to make adequate appropriation by the state of Texas of funds to carry on the work of destroying predatory animals.

Third. That the commissioners' court of Eastland county immediately make appropriations and pay the required salaries of such number of trappers as in the discretion of the court are necessary for carrying on the work of destroying predatory animals, and that the commissioners' court be respectfully requested to co-operate with the national and state governments in carrying forward said work.

A large number of farmers, stockmen and business men were in attendance upon the meeting, and so far as expressions from various people went the sentiment was universally in favor of the work being carried forward as outlined above.

State Supervisor Visiting Ranger

The five vocational agricultural teachers of Eastland county and others in neighboring counties met Saturday in a district conference presided over by C. L. Davis, state supervisor, of Austin, who is making a tour of inspection of this section. The session was held in Rising Star.

Mr. Davis will visit the agriculture class of the Ranger High school Monday, of which Ben Whitehouse is the instructor. Ranger, Cisco, Eastland, Rising Star and Gorman have federal agriculturists.

U. S. OYSTERS ABROAD.

PARIS—Europe has begun buying American oysters. Berlin, having shown the way, by serving blue points and in milk stew, Parisian restaurateurs have made inquiries and it is understood that arrangements are being completed for the regular shipment of Cape Cods, Buzzard Bays, Lynhavens and Blue Points.

The price of oysters in Paris varies with the quality and the point of origin, ranging from 20 cents to $2. The best oysters come from Portugal, the most famous of the Portuguese being the Ballon and Marannes. These are the highest in price.

France's chief source of oysters are off Cancou in the English channel, but the beds are being rapidly ruined by the oil discharged by passing steamers which forms a scum on the surface of the water over the beds, killing the oysters below.

Clams are already being imported in some quantity from America by Paris.

HIALEAH DRESSING UP.

MIAMI, Fla.—With the fast approaching track meet season furnishing an inspiration, the Miami Jockey club is getting ready the Hialeah track. ## EXPATRIATES IN PARIS LAMPOON AMERICAN LIFE

Gertrude Stein and Others Break Out in Rash of Words.

By RALPH HEINZEN.

PARIS, Nov. 16.—It might interest America to know that some of her voluntary expatriates who make up the racial literary element of the famous Latin Quarter consider the United States too "Victorian."

"Transition," a publication boasting that it is a century ahead of contemporary literature, canvassed these American expatriates and asked why they prefer to live outside of America.

"The United States is just now the oldest country in the world. There always is an oldest country and she is it; it is she who is the mother of twentieth century civilization," replied Miss Gertrude Stein, famous radical writer and author of "Tender Buttons," the work which 15 years ago started the literary onslaught against the mechanical world.

"America is now Victorian, very early Victorian. She is a rich and well nourished home but not a place to work."

The American composer, George Antheil, creator of mechanical opera and other musical novelties, says that "musically, it is impossible to live in America. My Polish origin makes me love the ground I was born upon, New Jersey."

Hilaire Hiller, who paints pink negroes and is an advanced thinker among artists, prefers to live outside America because "in America there are no facilities for the enjoyment of leisure or apparatuses for reflection."

A. Lincoln Gillespie Jr., answered the query is a mass of words. "Because in Europe I find Meaning Scurry in their Organize-Self-Divert—hours loll here all summer-rife-Expect-Just-stat. Get is 'less-necessary. Liquor-Gamme abroad somewhat breathier, the Spiritual future of America is not to evolve till a present diabetes is admit removed. Twirl America's total lack of parent-sagacity to exemplify an special-wide-correcting-them good will toward and to cull an early admiration from the children."

Harry Crosby answered in poetry:

"away from Weakness toward Strength away from Civilized Sordidness toward barbaric splendor away from Malted Milk toward Straight Gin away from Shame toward Nakedness away from Canaries toward Lions"

But the position of many expatriates becomes perilous because M. Chiappe, prefect of Paris police, has given orders for the

Mary Pickford's Sister Beaten

Here is Lottie Pickford, sister of Mary, as she appeared before being kidnaped, beaten and robbed. Miss Pickford and her escort, Jack aDugherty, were returning from a night club in Los Angeles about 3 a. m., when four men attacked them, knocking Daugherty unconscious and carrying Miss Pickford into the hills where he was beaten and robbed. She was later released.

Mrs. Rollings will be remembered as Miss Jeanette Lamb, formerly with the Times.

GIRL RESERVES MEET.
The Girl Reserves met Friday afternoon. Betty Davenport presided. An inspirational talk was given by Mrs. Wallace Wagner on giving baskets to the needy on Thanksgiving. Mary Edlo Davenport selected for her subject "The First Thanksgiving." Refreshments of hot chocolate and cake were served by the home economics girls under the supervision of Mrs. George Nelson.

DOVE STUDY CLUB ENJOYS GARDENHIRE RANCH.

The Dove Study club met at the home of Mrs. Jennie Gardenhire of Frankel Thursday afternoon. After an interesting lesson, the afternoon was spent looking around the Gardenhire ranch, which at this particular time of year is especially beautiful. Those enjoying the afternoon were Mmes. J. F. Steed, H. B. Groce, G. C. McGowan, Ida Hunt, J. D. Reiss, R. W. Gordon, H. G. Burch, Misses Ann McEver and Ellen Gardenhire. The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. R. W. Gordon.

Mrs. Richmond led the study of "The Problems of Your Growing Child." Mrs. L. Herring was hostess for the afternoon, serving sandwiches, tea and wafers. The new "merrywhirl" which the association recently bought will be erected Monday afternoon. The club plans to make it a community affair. The whirl is an absolutely new playground device, carrying 75 children at a time. The rhythm orchestra, which the club is sponsoring, will give its first public performance on Nov. 25.

VISITORS GUESTS OF INFORMAL RECEPTION.

A welcome that upset the inclemency of the day was extended the women visitors of the Central Texas conference which is convening in Ranger this week, on Friday afternoon from 3 to 5, when the women of the First Methodist church complimented the visitors with an informal reception at the home of Mrs. A. B. Conway, 424 Pine street, from 3 to 5.

Although it was necessary on account of the rain to convey the callers to and from the church, the drabness of the day was forgotten by the cheer extended them inside the Conway home where various churches and church societies in Ranger bade them welcome.

A color motif of yellow was carried out by the use of masses of yellow chrysanthemums, which filled vases and floor baskets. Yellow candles in silver candelabra further accentuated the autumn colors, as well as formed the center of the tea table which was draped in an antique lace cloth. Two silver services, nuts in crystal nappies, and other tea table requisites, completed the table appointments. Mmes. R. R. Stafford and Mrs. Lula Riddle poured tea.

Incoming guests were welcomed by Mrs. Mabel Lewis, who in turn introduced them to Mrs. Conway, who headed the receiving line, which was composed of Mmes. M. H. Hagaman, chairman of the entertainment committee, George W. Shearer, James O'Neil, Charles Conley, Ray Campbell, W. H. Johnson, R. J. Norman, Wesley Hook of Waxahachie, J. H. Stewart of Weatherford, Hickman of Breckenridge, A. W. Hall of Corsicana, C. O. Shugart of Cisco.

Others in the house party were Mmes. A. H. Allison, C. D. Wood, C. E. May, L. H. Flewelling, M. K. Collier, A. J. Ratliff, Roy Jameson, Fred Warren, Don Parcell, Stanley McAnally, John M. Gholson, O. L. Phillips, Spurgeon Reynolds. During the calling hours a beautiful musical program consisting of vocal, violin, cornet and piano, was given by Mmes. B. F. Grainger, A. H. Allison, Marion F. Peters, Misses Belva Dixon, Mary Bonner Campbell, Nell Tibbels, Gillian Buchanan, and Mr. Maddox.

Tea, coffee, salted peanuts and squares of home-made cake iced in yellow, were served to some 150 callers who responded to the invitation of the Ranger churchwomen.

All of the churchwomen of Ranger were asked to be present, though a majority of the callers were out of town women.

Mrs. Saunders Gregg will leave Monday for Fort Smith, Ark., to visit relatives.

OFFICERS "KIDDED."

By United Press.

SIKESTON, Mo.—Gid Daniels, police officer, and Will Masterson, nightwatchman, believe that someone has been "kidding" them.

They were held up by masked men, robbed and forced to take a long three-mile hike. Then their money and valuables were returned to them and they were ordered to get back on their beats.

Many married men are outspoken—by their wives.

JOFFRE ALMOST ALONE IN HOPE FOR ARMISTICE

Wanted "Logical and Rational Peace" While Others Urged Sword.

Editor's Note—From the files of the war and state departments the United Press has gathered a series of three armistice anniversary stories, the facts of which are not generally known. In this, the third of the series, is revealed how Marshal Joffre of France wanted a "logical and rational peace" while his comrades in arms were demanding urgently "peace by the sword—not by negotiation."

WASHINGTON.—Almost alone of the military leaders in the Allied cause during the World War, Marshal Joffre of France toward the end of the war discussed the possibility of making peace with Germany in a tone that was remarkable for its mildness and lack of vindictiveness.

While others were demanding "peace by the sword, not by negotiation," or were declaring that they could not treat with Germany so long as that country persisted in certain allegedly atrocious practices and continued to occupy the territories which it had conquered, Joffre was talking about peace as "a boon for humanity" and was suggesting very broadly that the German people were sincere in their desire for peace and perhaps could be trusted.

In a statement made to Washington Dawson of the American embassy staff in Paris a month before the armistice, the erstwhile French commander-in-chief set forth his views with regard to the armistice which Germany had requested and which was then the subject of negotiations between Washington and Berlin. This statement, published here for the first time, was in no sense a confession of weakness or surrender on the part of Joffre; as a military man he appreciated the necessity of exacting guarantees from Germany which would prevent a resumption of hostilities; but it nevertheless reflected a friendlier spirit than could be found anywhere in the Allied ranks at that time, particularly among military men.

"Enough of War" Joffre's statement follows: "I believe that every one has had enough of war for all have suffered heavily. In consequence it will be a boon for humanity to stop the war, but there must be guarantees so that it may be not only the end of this war but the end of wars for decades and decades to come. We can attain this result only by being very strict in our demands.

"The armistice will be long, several months or perhaps more. I doubt if peace can come for a year yet, and the armistice should not end entirely until peace is signed. The armistice might be renewed at intervals running one into another. The first might be for one month, after which our military precautions and effort might be reduced, if Germany's good faith were then established. That month will enable us to know.

"Germany is, I think, reduced to extremity, but her desire for an armistice might be only a ruse of war. In this case her bad faith would become evident during a respite of one or two months, allowing her to reconstitute her strength. There may be people in Germany who have such hopes from the armistice, but there are certainly others who know better. Germany is not a unit, there are divergences of opinion within her borders as elsewhere. But we ourselves could do much more than she during this time; therefore the situation would not be to her advantage.

"Certain governments of the Entente have not yet decided upon all the measures which might be taken with a view to the armistice and to peace.

"Although Germany as a whole desires peace, and we desire peace, yet we have the upper hand, and we must have a logical and rational peace. Above all, we must suppress the German governmental system. It has already been done away with in other directions, even in Austria, and in Germany itself many small states would be happy to have more freedom. I entirely agree with President Wilson that this present system must disappear or it would be a permanent menace to peace."

WAR VETERANS, 24 AND 86, IN DISAGREEMENT

Youngest Legion Member Through With Conflict; Oldest Would Welcome It.

By United Press.

MIAMI, Fla., Nov. 17—Two enlistments in the army in 1917, both fraudulent, gave to the United States two decorated heroes and the American Legion its youngest and oldest members.

Both, after 10 years of peace and absence from the various French battlefields where they served their country, have taken up their residences in Miami where they occasionally meet at the American Legion post.

George A. Mackenzie, now aged 24, as a youth of 14 tricked the enlistment officers at Jacksonville by presenting a signed document from his father stating he was of serviceable age. In an emergency, when enlistment authorities insisted his father appear in person, he canvassed the city docks on the waterfront and for two dollars persuaded a grayed old sailor to appear in the role of parent and swear the youth was telling the truth.

John A. Boucher, 84, veteran of the civil and Spanish-American wars, pared down 20 years from his age and as a fighter of 54 was accepted by Uncle Sam for duty. But on his arrival in camp he ran afoul of an officer who served as recruit under him in the Spanish war, who, recognizing the real age of the old warrior promptly secured his discharge.

Not to be put off so lightly, Boucher journeyed to another city and giving his age as 48, was accepted and passed by medical examiners. Not long later he sailed for France, active duty and an act of heroism netted him a decoration.

Boucher, who still stands erect, with head and shoulders thrown back to display the unmistakable stamp of the military man, known as a fighting democrat and on all occasions during the campaign furthered Smith's candidacy.

They differ in respective attitudes toward any future war in which the United States may engage.

As far as Mackenzie is concerned, he says, he had about enough of the army, though he looks with no regret on his one fling. Boucher, in whom the spirit of fighting and things military may be more deeply rooted, stands ready to go to arms again.

The Outstanding Chevrolet of Chevrolet History

- a Six in the price range of the four!

The Chevrolet Motor Company announces The Outstanding Chevrolet of Chevrolet History... a Six in the price range of the four!

Spectacular as Chevrolet's achievements have been in the past... notable as its engineering triumphs have proved themselves to be—this remarkable new car dwarfs every previous Chevrolet accomplishment. Not only does it introduce into the low-priced field an entirely new measure of performance, comfort, beauty and style—but it is sold at prices so low as to alter every previous conception of motor car value.

The new six-cylinder valve-in-head engine—developed from more than a hundred motors designed especially for this sensational car—stands out as an engineering masterpiece. With a power increase of approximately 32% over the previous Chevrolet motor, with sensationally greater speed and faster acceleration—it offers a type of performance that is literally astounding. And it affords an economy averaging better than 20 miles to the gallon of gasoline!

In appearance, this Outstanding Chevrolet is destined to become an automotive sensation—so smart, so stylish and so distinctively appointed that it rivals the costliest custom creations! The marvelous new Fisher bodies are longer, lower and roomier with adjustable driver's seat in all closed models—and reveal the matchless artistry of Fisher designers. With their modish new colors, their smart dual mouldings and their distinctive concave pillars, they achieve a degree of original beauty that has seldom been equalled in motor car design.

You are cordially invited to visit our showroom and secure complete detailed information about this sensational new car which will be ready for delivery beginning January 1st.

RUTH DEWEY GROVES

AUTHOR OF "WHEN A GIRL LOVES LOVE FOR TWO" etc

CHAPTER I
The bag was empty!
But Jerry couldn't believe it. Again and again she thrust her hand into the felt folds, poking and digging in a space that could not long have concealed a pinhead.
Her roommate, powdering her nose before the golden oak dresser, heard her gasp and wheeled in alarm.
"What's the matter?"
"My money is gone!"
"No!" Myrtle stared at the open bag in Jerry's nerveless fingers as though it were poisonous. "Maybe it fell out. Let's look in the closet."
The search was a frantic one. Every inch of the dark cubicle was covered.
"I warned you not to leave it here," Myrtle said when at last they gave it up. She was exasperated because she knew what the loss of the money would mean to Jerry Ray. When a girl refused to treat herself to a soda for weeks and weeks... "Why didn't you give it to Mrs. Addison?"
She knew the answer to that too. If their landlady knew that one of them could save money they certainly would get that threatened raise in their room rent.
"I thought it would be all right for one night," Jerry sobbed.
The theft was fast becoming a reality to her. For nearly a year she had saved that money, dime by dime, quarter by quarter and dollar by dollar. It had been almost impossible to believe, when she opened the bag and found it gone, that it had been stolen, that it really was gone. Why she had starved for it—for the chance it was to bring her.
It seemed sort of funny that only a few minutes ago she had run up the stairs ahead of Myrtle, who wasn't going to Atlantic City, tripping over the hole in the carpet before their door, as usual, but with an unusual song in her heart. As quick as that everything could change. The song was a dirge now.
Myrtle tried in vain to comfort her until George came. Then she had to go. George couldn't be kept waiting.
Jerry lay on the bed, white and tense, her disappointment eating deeper into her consciousness as her thoughts traveled backward. Another year at the lace counter before she could have a vacation again. Another year of automats and self-service restaurants, of movieless Saturday nights and not even a late magazine to read. Myrtle had argued heatedly over what she called Jerry's crazy idea. But Myrtle didn't know.

Myrtle didn't want things the way Jerry wanted them. Myrtle Crane was content to look forward to a future with George in a three-room flat. Myrtle believed in love. Jerry didn't.
"I've seen enough of it," she said when Myrtle wanted to know how she got that way. "I know what it did to my mother. It's just a snare."
Her mother in the hot kitchen at Marblehead. There was no gas in their neighborhood and the grocer on the next street was glad to give them boxes and crates—her father wouldn't buy oil when he could get summer fuel for nothing. And her mother's room under the sloping roof—hot in summer, cold in winter.
And her father and her brother Harry. Both of them hated work. Harry had married a cute little kid he met at a dance. Jerry had listened in silent anger to Doris' ravings about Harry. Harry had promised Doris love and romance. Jerry twisted her lips in contempt as she dwelt on that year Harry and Doris had spent at home after their marriage. She could not forget Doris' disillusionment when she discovered that Harry was more interested in what he had to eat than in how she looked or what she thought of him.
But such a thing could never happen to her. Her mother's experience was enough. She had never heard her say one word against marrying for love, but Jerry had guessed at her bitter awakening.
Once her mother had confided to Jerry that she was the only beautiful thing in her life and in Jerry's heart had been born then and there a fierce resolve to compel beauty for her mother, to bring some luxury into her life.
She wanted, with a longing that had grown with her through the years, to rest her mother's hands, to see the callouses disappear and the broken nails mend. She wanted skillful fingers to rub out the furrows on her mother's brow, but above all she wanted to see those drooping shoulders lift and a light shine in the dull blue eyes.
And for this she had come to New York. She told them frankly at home that she was coming to marry money. They laughed at her, all but her mother. She warned Jerry gravely against making a mistake.
But New York had disappointed Jerry. Rich men did not come seeking brides at Fane's department store. She met a few boys, friends of George, but they were like the boys she had known at Marblehead, satisfied to have just a "job"—nothing else.

That would not do for Jerry. If you believed in love it was different—you must marry blindly. But if you were not a sentimental boob you could make your marriage a career. Jerry had read somewhere that marriage was a matter of propinquity. Being what she called intelligently interested in marriage she looked up propinquity in a dictionary and learned that it meant nearness in place of time.
If that was all there was to it why not benefit by it? Going around with boys who had nothing but love to offer, you would marry for love. For love! Jerry believed that most people knew more about it than a hen knows why she lays an egg. It was a nice word, but you might as well marry for stardust, or roses, or nectar, or anything else that sounds well.
But if you met only the "right" people you could pick out a man whose promises—if he didn't talk about love—were something besides wind. Jerry decided to give herself that chance. This was shortly after she came to New York.
The best way, she concluded, since the mountain didn't come to Mahomet, was to go to the mountain. A real mountain. That was the advantage of knowing that marriage was a matter of propinquity—you could choose your field. Jerry knew she appeared soulless to Myrtle, but then Myrtle was a fool, she thought. She wondered why people were so blind when all about them were the wrecks of love marriages.
She was not ashamed of her decision to marry for money. She wasn't going to "sell" herself or anything like that. The man must be someone she could respect and like. She saw no reason why marriage should be approached in a coy, oh-it-just-happened manner.
Myrtle had scoffed when she explained this. "Well, I'd rather marry George than a man I didn't love even if he had a million," she said.
Jerry flared back at her. "It's George because propinquity didn't make it somebody else."
"A Vanderbilt or an Astor, huh?" Myrtle broke in. "Don't be so funny, Jerry. I got enough laughs out of you already. You don't owe me any more. Every time I think of you and your shadow strolling down the Boardwalk trying to pick up a billionaire I choke."
"You've got the wrong idea," Jerry had answered serenely. "I'm not going to Atlantic City to parade the boardwalk."
"You don't expect to meet a Social Registrant in a second-class hotel do you?"

"I'm not going to a second-class hotel. Listen, Myrtle. What do you think I've been saving my money for? I'll tell you. I'm going to have a week in the best hotel in Atlantic City. The right clothes, the right place, and I know I'll find the right man."
Now, thinking over all the sacrifices she had made the money she had wanted to send her mother and hadn't because it was to free them both from the ugly confines of poverty, Jerry felt weak and defeated.
The room was stifling hot, filled with the heat of the city's masonry that even the night could not entirely release. Jerry had let her mind drift to pictures of the things she wanted for her mother and herself. Smooth beaches, roof gardens, the deck of a white and mahogany yacht—she had read of them, seen photographs of them, seen fleeting glimpses of them in the news reels.
If such places and things existed why should she not aspire to them? Certainly the people who had them had not been content to want less, she reasoned.
Her room, by contrast with the things she had dreamed of, seemed doubly hot. And how she hated it—the jaundiced wall paper and threadbare rug, the curtains that hung with a listless ness like her mother's movements.
Tired. That was it—the room was tired, perhaps tired of the stream of colorless tenants who came and went, their drab-patterned lives making no imprint. Tired, as her mother was tired of the years that came without event, unheralded, unsung. Flat, tedious years. Years like a gray soil that had put forth one blossom to justify its existence and then had gone on moulding, dying.
Saving to lift her mother, by the only way she knew, into a more gracious world than this, had not been an unadulterated hardship. It had been thrilling to watch her savings account grow. Yesterday, when she had withdrawn it from the bank because she would have no time on Saturday to attend to it, she had felt like dancing out with it. What were sodas and shows then?
The risk of leaving it in her room overnight had seemed unavoidable. She was leaving on Sunday morning. She had worried a little over there had been a sneak thief in the house two years before, she had heard, but she was too elated over the prospect of what lay before her to think much of trouble.
Her new suit case was packed with lovely things. Not a faded or mended garment in it, such as filled her share of the limited drawer space in the mutually-used dresser.
She could see it now, from where she lay on the bed. Well, she had that much to show for her thrift. Some pretty clothes. Too bad she hadn't bought the evening dress here that she had planned to get in Atlantic City. She had thought it would be exciting to shop there. She wondered what good the clothes would do her now.

FLOOD CUTS OFF A TOWN FROM WORLD

Five-Inch Rain Brings Trouble to Parts of Two States.

By United Press.
KANSAS CITY, Nov. 17.—Flood conditions similar to those of last spring have hit Eastern Kansas and Western Missouri today. Rivers, many over their banks, flooding the lowlands, have demoralized train service and have rendered many highways impassable. More than five inches of rain has fallen here in the past 30 hours.
Promise of relief from the threatening streams came early today when a chilling northeast wind began to blow and the rain changed to a drizzle.
Lower temperatures and a break in the rain which is believed to have broken November records for precipitation are forecast.

WICHITA, Kans., Nov. 17.—Augusta, Kans., 20 miles east of Wichita early this morning sent out a call for assistance as rising waters from White and Walnut rivers practically isolated the town. Two persons were reported drowned and many others were marooned. Reports which came there that six were drowned could not be confirmed. Five firemen from Wichita department left here in an auto but were forced to abandon the car about a mile west of Augusta.

WORLD AIR ROUTE.
OTTAWA, Ont.—An air route around the world is seen as a strong possibility in the near future by J. A. Wilson, controller of civil aviation, who recently returned from a stay of two months in the British Isles and Europe. "Enormous developments in inter-empire communication may be expected within the next few years," Wilson said. "While efforts so far have been to some extent concentrated on flights to India and Africa, the eyes of British fliers are turning toward Canada." The R-100 and R-101 will shortly be ready for their trial trips and in the early spring would be ready for trans-Atlantic trips to Montreal.

Greatness of the State Set Forth In Concerted Way

"Together for Texas" is the slogan adopted by the Chambers of Commerce of Texas in a widespread advertising campaign to help stimulate Texans to even greater interest and pride in their state.

"Everybody ought to know more about Texas," said Wayne C. Hickey, secretary of the Ranger Chamber of Commerce, Saturday. "We don't realize the tremendous resources and possibilities of our state, nor do we tell them to our visitors and to the rest of the nation nearly as much as we should. That is why the Chambers of Commerce of Texas are glad to have the opportunity, through the courtesy of the Outdoor Advertising Association of Texas, of presenting a series of poster messages to the entire state. Since Nov. 1 nearly 1,500 of the big 24-sheet posters have been enlisted in this public service, representing, during the four months they continue, a donation of an $80,000 advertising campaign by the Outdoor Advertising Association of Texas."

At the annual convention of the Texas association, held at Dallas, April 9 and 10 of this year, a plan was presented by Wilbur A. Wright of Corsicana, which won the unanimous approval of the members in attendance. With the aid of W. A. Lyon of San Marcos and J. S. Phillips of San Antonio, president and secretary of the association, plans were perfected to enable every member of the association to conduct this campaign at a nominal cost, and to co-operate fully with the respective Chambers of Commerce and the leaders in each community, in delegating to fullest efficiency the purposes of the campaign.

The basic thought back of this "Texas plan" was to bring out, over the signature of the Chambers of Commerce of Texas, a series of powerful poster-messages which would also hold conspicuously before the eyes of the public certain specific lines of state progress sponsored by the Chambers of Commerce, and by the leaders in the industrial and social life of the state.

In the first poster of the series, appearing in November, over the ringing slogan, "Together for Texas," the "interest-challenging statement of fact is made that Texas is "the only billion dollar agricultural state." Accompanying this is the statement of one of the state's outstanding needs: "Greater highway facilities will make Texas greater."

In January, the poster messages will be devoted to the educational interests of the state, the fact being urged that: "Greater educational facilities will help make Texas greater."

Following this, in February, the posters turn to the agricultural field and present the fact that "Planned planting brings bigger

Brother Dutton, 85, Begins 43d Year of Work With Lepers

By NEA Service.
HONOLULU.—A smiling, energetic man of 85, with cheery wrinkles about his eyes and a flowing, patriarchal white beard is waiting for death to take him on the job as he goes into the 43d consecutive year of one of the most self-sacrificing tasks any man has ever had.

He is the famous Brother Joseph Dutton, Catholic lay missionary in the leper settlement on the island of Molokai.

Brother Dutton has been in the leper colony, without a moment's intermission since the summer of 1886. He will stay there until he dies.

It was in 1843 that Brother Dutton was born in the village of Stowe, Vt. His family moved to Wisconsin while he was a boy, and after graduating from an academy at Janesville, Wis., he enlisted in the northern army and served throughout the Civil War.

At that time he had no notion of the northern army and served throughout the Civil War. Commissioned a captain shortly before the war expired and transferred to the quartermaster's department, he remained in that post for more than a decade after the close of hostilities, working principally on the adjustment of war claims.

Then, in 1886, he heard of the great work being done for the lepers at Molokai by the famous Father Damien, immortalized by Robert Louis Stevenson. He became fired by the ambition to help so he went to San Francisco and sailed for Honolulu, going from there by boat to Molokai, where he went to Father Damien and offered his services.

From that moment he has not left the island.

Father Damien died a few years later, and since that time Brother Dutton has been perhaps the best known and most widely-loved man on Molokai. He has never spared himself; often his day's work has extended for a full 24 hours.

Shortly after Father Damien's death Brother Dutton devoted himself to the construction of a home for orphaned boys and for the helpless cases among adult lepers. For years he seldom left this building, surrounded, constantly by pitifully stricken and disfigured lepers to whom he devoted all of

The most recent photograph and map showing the location of leper colony where he has worked for 43 years.

Through all of this he has kept cheerful and active. He is known throughout the Pacific—and throughout medical and missionary circles, as well. In 1908, when the American fleet made its round-the-world tour, Admiral Charles S. Sperry honored Brother Dutton by having the fleet parade, with all flags flying, off the coast of Molokai.

A few years ago the territorial legislature of Hawaii prepared to pass a bill to give Brother Dutton a life pension of $50 a month. Brother Dutton refused to accept it, and at his request the bill was withdrawn. During his lifetime Brother Dutton has contributed more than $10,000 of his own money to the work of the colony.

Brother Dutton still proudly retains his membership in the G. A. R.

LETTERS TO SANTA CLAUS

Dear Santa Claus:
I am a little brown-eyed girl, almost 3 years old. Would you please bring me for Christmas a big doll, one that says "Mama" and goes to sleep. And I would like a stroller and a bed for her, too. I also want a tea table and chairs, a set of real china dishes, a little broom, a ring, a little wagon and an airplane. I guess this will be all.
I love you.
MARY JOY WILSON.
Hillcrest Addition.

Dear Santa Claus:
How are you?
Will you bring me a little walking doll, a doll bed, a sack full of candy, a little car, a big sack of peaches, a big sack of apples, a big sack of oranges, a doll that will open and shut her eyes, a doll buggy and a teddy bear, a set of dishes, a little table and some chairs, a little cabinet and some dresses and gloves. I am 7 years old and in the second grade.
And have been a good girl.
JOY BOWEN.

CHINESE FAMINE DUE

By United Press.
PEKIN.—China is certain to suffer from one of the most severe famines in history at the end of this winter and early next spring.

Reliable reports made by consular officials, missionaries and investigators for the China famine relief commission, show a probable death toll variously estimated at from 50,000 to 250,000.

There have been serious crop failures and floods in some districts, but the chief cause of famine will be the depredations of bandits and soldiers, who have taken the surplus grain of the farmers and left them nothing even for seed.

Reports show that bandits are numerous in at least seven of China's 18 provinces and that hundreds of villages and small towns

Turn Worry to CONFIDENT VITALITY

Winter winds cannot bring serious colds to healthy vigorous bodies. Only in cases of lowered vitality, do flu germs get a chance to cause real trouble. Waterbury's Compound is a tonic that promotes such ruddy health and body growth that it helps make frigid weather lose many of its ill effects.

Waterbury's Compound contains the strength-giving vitamins extracted from Cod Liver Oil, and made pleasant to the taste, assists the body to be highly resistant to colds or disease. But when colds and coughs are already annoying, almost immediate relief is given by the Creosote and Guaiacol included in Waterbury's Compound.

Doctors everywhere recommend Waterbury's Compound to persons of weak, run-down and peevish condition. Thousands are praising its wonderful benefits. Get a bottle from your druggist today. Then, you, too, may feel like a new person.
