REESE GIVEN FIVE-YEAR SENTENCE

Nitro Explosion Kills 1,000 Germans

TWO RHINELAND TOWNS WRECKED; HUNDREDS HURT

Earth Shock Felt Thirty Miles Away; Many Persons Blown to Atoms.

BERLIN, Sept. 21.—One thousand persons were reported killed today in an explosion of artificial nitroglycerin at Ludwigshafen, according to dispatches here. Hundreds more were reported wounded.

Many buildings were wrecked at Ludwigshafen and Mannheim. Hospitals in both cities are crowded with the injured, press reports said.

Mannheim and Ludwigshafen are on opposite sides of the Rhine, Ludwigshafen being in Bavaria, and Mannheim in Baden. The towns are centers of chemical industry in Germany. Ludwigshafen especially has enormous plants. The cities are connected by an iron bridge.

Bodies Blown to Atoms. The terrific blast, according to press reports here, spread disaster on both sides of the river. Thousands of terrified men, women and children swarmed into the streets after the explosion.

A large area of the chemical works is laid in ruins. Bodies of many of the victims were blown to atoms. Others were found in the tangled masses of debris.

Frantic wives fought against police lines in the vicinity of the wrecked area, seeking to break through and ascertain whether their husbands had been saved.

Surgeons and nurses were called in from nearby cities to aid in caring for the wounded, dispatches received here said.

BIG DIVIDENDS ARE EXPECTED OF T. P. OIL CO.

Increase in Values Points to Stock Dividend, is Belief.

The Texas Pacific Coal & Oil company last year earned $4.72 a share on its stock. This stock only has a par of $10, so the company practically earned 47 1/5 per cent on its par value. In the past, the company has declared numerous stock dividends. From 1918 to 1920, the company paid out 65 per cent—an annual average of 21 per cent for each one of the three years.

Surplus accounts as of Dec. 31, 1920, amounted to $22,211,812. This is $26.29 for each share of stock outstanding. It is enough to retire the stock 2 1/2 times. This sum would be large enough to pay a 200 per cent stock dividend and still leave a nice sum. Oil and gas lands were carried at $25,667,670 under assets. Mark well—these figures date back for several years.

Note this: The company is negotiating with the United States treasury for a revaluation of its oil lands. It is understood that the revaluation would increase the book value of their oil lands and gas wells by $87,000. The possibilities for market action of this stock are such as to warrant close and watchful scrutiny.

Outside of capital stock, the only liability of the company is accounts payable. Against this are current assets which cover this item amply. Unlike oil companies in general, Texas and Pacific has no funded debt. Nor is there any issued preferred stock. Should the treasury allow this estimated increase of book value amounting to $87,000 as stated above, it is not at all unlikely that a stock dividend will be declared. The company has a 50 per cent or greater interest in 147,785 acres of lands in Texas. It controls entirely about 165,500 acres.

Undoubtedly the company's holdings are much more valuable than any figures officially given out would indicate. It may be only a matter of time before the company declares a dividend that will surprise the public by its value.

At present, the stock is on a 25 cents per share, quarterly basis. There is a directors' meeting scheduled for Sept. 28. There is no question but what the regular dividend will be declared at this meeting.—Dallas Times Herald.

WHICH HALF?

KALAMAZOO, Mich., Sept. 21.—Two inmates of the state hospital for the insane escaped about a week ago, Dr. George F. Inch said early today. The superintendent said, however, he did not believe either would commit murder.

One of the fugitives was Louis Gergman, of Columbia, Michigan. The other James Morrow, of Chicago.

Bergman, said Dr. Inch, suffers from the hallucination that he owns half of the United States, and Morrow is of a quiet manner.

KU KLUX PROBE PUT UNDER WAY IN WASHINGTON

Burns Ordered to Put Secret Service at Work; Congress May Act.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—"Unmasking" of the Ku Klux Klan today was under way in congress and by the department of justice. A resolution asking the appointment of a special committee to investigate alleged illegal activities of the Klan was introduced in the House by Representative Tague of Massachusetts. Democrat. Tague asserted that more than 100 acts of abduction, unlawful seizure, trial and punishment of free citizens had been charged against the Klan. He charged that the Klan has violated the constitutional guarantees of free speech, trial by jury, unlawful seizure, protection of life, liberty and property, free religious worship and assembly, and the prohibition against involuntary servitude.

Acting under orders of Attorney General Daugherty, approved by President Harding, government secret service agencies, headed by William J. Burns, were delving into every secret of the Klan organization in many parts of the country.

Daugherty declared "the government will not be run or intimidated" by men behind masks. Grand jury investigations are expected in New York, and perhaps other cities.

WILL SPEED TREATY.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—Decision to speed ratification of the treaty with Germany, Austria and Hungary was reached at a conference between President Harding and Senator Lodge, republican leader, and chairman of the senate foreign relations committee.

Senator Lodge told the president he would call the foreign relations committee together tomorrow, and that the treaty probably would be reported without much delay. He anticipated prompt action in the senate, and said he thought no active opposition other than that indicated by Senator Borah.

BORAH OPPOSES PACT.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—Announcement that Senator Borah will oppose ratification of the new peace treaty with Germany may cause a complete reversal of the administration's plans with regard to that pact.

SENATE BUSY WHILE HOUSE MEMBERS LOAF

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—Congress reconvened at noon today after a recess which began Aug. 24. Under a gentleman's agreement, however, the house immediately began a series of three-day recesses until Oct. 4, while the senate goes ahead full speed on the tax revision, peace ratification treaties with Germany, Austria and Hungary, and a number of other important matters, including the anti-beer bill, funding of railroad debts, refunding of allied debts and the Panama tolls bill.

A lively fight on the tax bill is promised. The Democrats plan not only to make a minority report on the measure but to attack it vigorously on the floor, counting on support in part of their fight, at least, from Senator LaFollette and other Republican members. According to the Democratic leaders, their guns will be trained particularly against the provisions repealing the excess profits tax and reduction of the maximum income surtax rates.

DEATH WAS TO HAVE BEEN 'CUT' OF THIRD MAN IN T. & P. HOLDUP

SCRIP ALMOST 'IN,' BUT NO RUSH FOR 25 PER CENT

Merchants' Association Would Be Thankful if Receipts Were Brought In.

After today, it is thought regular hours for exchanging scrip for cash or paying off deposits in the Guaranty bank, will be discontinued. If such a ruling becomes effective those who are yet to be paid will still receive their checks at the offices of the Retail Merchants' association but they will have to be taken to E. M. Humes to be signed.

Almost the entire amount of scrip which had been issued had been paid for last night when the offices closed after a night session, but only a small per cent of those holding receipts for the remaining 25 per cent of their accounts in the bank, had appeared and surrendered the receipts.

Feel Safe. Mr. Humes said this morning if depositors thought they were not going to receive their money in full they would come in a rush, but since they know they are going to be paid, they are in no hurry about the matter.

This attitude on the part of the receipt holders is not considered fair, since the committee is giving its time without cost to anyone, and it wishes to have the whole matter closed as quickly as possible.

The amount received from the banking board and the amount of scrip and receipts issued will check up almost to a cent," Mr. Humes said, "but if an impression should become current that the Retail Merchants were short on funds there would be a wild scramble to have all receipts cashed."

Several holding both deposit receipts and scrip came to the night session last night and were paid off.

LIQUOR MADE, NONE IS DRUNK —GRAND JUROR

The grand jury of the Eighty-eighth district court, which has been in session for more than two weeks, adjourned last night and at 11 o'clock this morning its report was given to Judge Hill but had not been made public this morning. The report is said to be an interesting document.

It is thought that forty bills for felonies were returned and eight for misdemeanors. The grand jury examined nearly 300 witnesses and reached the conclusion, according to a statement of one of the number, that much corn liquor is made in Eastland county but no one ever drinks it. Just what goes with the liquor, the juror said, is a mystery. All the witnesses who came before the body were positive that they had not taken a single drink since the eighteenth amendment became effective.

HOLIDAY FOR BALL GAME.

By United Press.

FORT WORTH, Sept. 21.—The local city employees were given a half holiday here today in order that they might attend the first game of the baseball series here between the Memphis and Fort Worth teams to decide the Dixie championship.

THE WEATHER.

Tonight and Thursday, partly cloudy, probably showers in extreme west portion. Cooler tonight except in the panhandle, warmer in north portion Thursday.

Death was the cut in the spoils, planned for the third man in the attempted robbery of the Texas & Pacific passenger train No. 11 last week, which led to the slaying of Billie Edwards and Charlie Morris. Death also was to have been the portion of the messenger on the train, if all had gone well with the plans of the robbers.

And if the plans had never been entered into, Charlie Morris, known as "Indian Charley," who was an escaped convict with a price on his head, would have been a free man in a few more days. His old father and mother were seeing to that matter. With wonderful persistence they had continued their appeals to the governor of Oklahoma to pardon their son for the crime for which he was doing penance when he escaped from prison. His consent had been gained and all had been arranged when the fatal night of the robbery came.

The father and mother told Barry Nalls and other officers that they had planned for their son to come home with them and live in peace. Nalls was in the secret of the plot, days before the robbery happened, he told a Times reporter yesterday and its details were as cold-blooded as anything he had ever heard. "It was planned by the two men killed," he said, "to enter the train and get the money, and then kill the messenger, that his mouth would be closed. With the money safely in their possession and their escape effected, they were to kill the third man, who was to furnish the car, and then split the proceeds."

The robbers, Nalls said, had thought that $100,000 was coming to the Peoples State bank on the train they attempted to rob, and it was this money they were seeking when their deaths came. The officer is certain that the third man's home is in Fort Worth and that he owes his life today to the fact that the plan failed.

The plot was discovered by a Fort Worth detective and Nalls was scheduled to take part in the capture when it was made but he was on trial at Eastland and could not go. However, he was in Fort Worth the day after the attempted robbery.

He talked to the mother and father of Charlie Morris, who he said, appeared to be very fine folk.

The belief that the plot to rob the train was originated in Ranger was denied by Nalls. It is believed the fact that Nalls had knowledge of the plans of the robbers and that they were known to be after the money of the Peoples bank was the cause of the impression becoming current that the scheme was hatched in Ranger. That Edwards and Morris had formerly lived here lent color to the belief.

HUNDREDS ATTEND IMPRESSIVE FUNERAL OF N. J. NOVAKOVICH

The body of N. J. Novakovich, who died several days ago in Fort Worth, following an operation, was buried this morning in Evergreen cemetery under the auspices of the Elks. High mass was preached by Rev. R. A. Gerken and Rev. Molloy of the Catholic church. Pallbearers from the Elks' lodge were: Karl E. Jones, Raymond Teal, Wade Swift, James Poppajohn, Nick Limpis and C. V. Morris.

During yesterday and last night the body of the dead man lay in state in the family apartments on Walnut street. Around it was banked flowers of many hues until the room in which the body lay seemed an exotic garden in which the dead man was sleeping. Wreath after wreath of flowers had come from friends and from organizations of which he was a member.

The photograph of his little daughter, who died a year ago, was surrounded by a halo of roses and lilies of the valley and hung near the body of her father. Over the scene flickering candles, symbols of his creed, cast a dim light, which lent to the scene an earthly vision of what heaven might be expected to be.

During yesterday and this morning hundreds of friends passed before the body and to most, the quiet peace of the dead man left an impression that will be lasting. Services at Church. At 9 o'clock the body was moved to the Catholic church. It was followed by a long line of automobiles filled with friends and acquaintances of the family. At the church it was met with a last solemn requiem sung by the priests. Accompanying the singing, the organs gave forth sweet music that had the soft sadness of a benediction. From the church the body was moved to the cemetery where the last tributes were paid to the dead man and the body passed forever from sight.

Funeral arrangements were in charge of the Milford Undertaking company.

MICHIGAN FAMILY BATTERED TO DEATH WITH NAIL-STUDDED CLUB

By United Press.

DOWAGIAC, Mich., Sept. 21.—The only clue today to the fiendish murder of the three members of a family was a bloody finger print and a nail studded club.

William Monroe, his wife, Mary, and their daughter, Neva, 17, were found in bed, their skulls crushed. Aridith, 12, another daughter, was found probably fatally injured. Her face had been beaten beyond recognition, and her skull fractured.

Playmate Discovers Crime. Grace McKee, daughter of a neighbor, and playmate of the Monroe children, she had not seen her playmates since Saturday, and believing they were ill, knocked at the Monroe cottage. There was no response, and she entered the unlocked door.

"Mama, mama," mumbled Aridith, who was lying on the floor with her arms clasped tightly about a table leg. The McKee child, horrified at the misery of her blood-covered chum, ran from the house, screaming.

Ralph Gillette, brother of Mrs. Monroe, rushed into the house. In the main bedroom, he found Monroe and his wife dead in their bed, their faces crushed. Monroe had evidently been killed instantly while asleep, as his hands were still hanging down by his side. The wife, it was believed, had been awakened by the impact of the club on her husband's head, as she had one hand raised, as though an effort had been made to defend herself.

In another room the lifeless 17-year-old Neva was found, her face also crushed.

ANOTHER 'PARTY' VICTIM!

SHERMAN, Texas, Sept. 21.—Masked men last night tarred and feathered Fred Zeigler, clerk in the Brinkley hotel here.

Zeigler was on the job at the hotel this morning, but refused to discuss the affair. Witnesses who saw Zeigler taken by the masked men declared there were four automobile loads. Officials are investigating.

GRAFT IN MEXICO

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 21.—Newspaper charges that more than 200,000 pesos of silver are missing from the special fund of the Chamber of Deputies, out of which salaries of members and "extraordinary expenses incident to the celebration of the Mexican centennial anniversary were to be met," created a sensation here. It is declared that an official who might be able to clear the mystery has been missing since Monday.

JURY DEBATES FOR FOURTEEN HOURS BEFORE RETURNING ITS VERDICT AT 2 O'CLOCK TODAY

Crowded Courtroom Hears Closing Arguments, Which Last Until Midnight; Believed Convicted Man Will Appeal.

Special to the Times.

EASTLAND, Sept. 21.—Five years in the penitentiary is the punishment assessed against Dan Reese, charged with the murder of B. Davis in Ranger on May 18. The jury, after being out fourteen hours returned a verdict at 2 o'clock today. At that hour attorneys for the defense had not yet filed notice of appeal but it is believed they will this afternoon.

Reese was basing his hope of acquittal on a plea of self-defense and throughout his trial, which began Monday morning and was concluded at 11:45 o'clock last night, maintained an easy air of assurance. This air was unbroken when he took the witness stand in his own behalf yesterday afternoon. His story was told in a straight-forward manner. His only uneasiness was when Prosecuting Attorney Dunnam pleaded with the jury to inflict the ultimate punishment for the crime that had been inflicted upon Davis. At that moment he squirmed in his chair, but his face did not reveal if he was merely tired and changed his position or if he was contemplating the dire destiny the attorney was asking the jury to assess.

Throughout the trial the widow of Davis and his daughters were in the court house. Mrs. Davis was dressed in deep black, its somberness unbroken by a touch of color. As if in the spirit of youth, a touch of red was added to the morning costume of one of the daughters.

SERB-ALBANIAN WAR MAY FORCE LEAGUE ACTION

Balkan Struggle Would Test Body's Power to Enforce Peace.

By United Press.

GENEVA, Sept. 21.—With the Serbians starting an offensive against the Albanians along the Adrena front, Europe today was trying to avert a new Balkan war.

The Serbian-Albanian clash was before the League of Nations today for action. It was believed the league would order Serbia to abandon the attack. If Serbia refuses, the league's power to enforce its orders will be put to a severe test.

PERSHING LANDS

HAVRE, Sept. 21.—General John J. Pershing arrived here today. Havre was beflagged in honor of the American commander in chief, who has returned to France to escort back to the United States the body of America's "unknown soldier."

General Franchet D'Esperay and Captain L'Hopiteau, representing Marshal Foch, welcomed General Pershing, who had put on his khaki uniform, with few decorations. "I am glad to be back," and glad it is under different circumstances," he said laughingly.

General Pershing was entertained at luncheon at the Hotel DeVillie, where the mayor was host. General Pershing returned to France on the liner Paris, which was escorted into Port Havre this morning by two French battle cruisers, ten torpedo boats and ten destroyers. A regiment of infantry lined the quay and the great crowd cheered enthusiastically as Pershing landed. He was presented with a bouquet of American beauty roses by a delegation of school children and was welcomed in the name of Mayor Meyer. The general wore two decorations; the French war cross and the insignia of the Legion of Honor. After being welcomed at Havre he went to a railway station and left for Paris by special train. The plans for his itinerary of France are incomplete but he expects to leave for Coblenz Friday.

NOMINATIONS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—President Harding today sent the following nominations to the senate:

To be minister to Switzerland, Jos. C. Grew, Massachusetts.

To be minister to Denmark, John D. Prince, New Jersey.

To be assistant secretary of agriculture, Chas. W. Pugsley, Nebraska.

To be colonel in the finance department, Herbert M. Lord, of the quartermasters corps (chief of finance with the rank of brigadier general).

Crowds Hear Address. The defense concluded taking testimony at a late hour yesterday afternoon and a night session was held.

Despite the lateness of the hour, a large crowd heard the address of County Attorney W. V. Dunnam who concluded the argument for the state. The prosecuting attorney began speaking at 9:40 p. m. and spoke for forty-five minutes. At the close of his speech, court adjourned after Judge Davenport, presiding over the Ninety-first district court, instructed the jury not to begin their deliberations on the case until this morning.

"If there ever was a case in the history of Eastland county in which the defendant should receive the same punishment as he gave another man, this is the case," Mr. Dunnam declared in the course of his address.

"The scriptures declare that who so sheddeth man's blood by man shall his blood be shed."

Taking up the testimony, the county attorney said there was no doubt that the accused had slain B. Davis and the only question was whether Reese was acting in lawful defense of himself. He quoted the words spoken between the two men before the shooting commenced.

Comments Davis. "When Davis came home and was advised that Reese had violated every rule of decent men and had gazed with profane eyes into the privacy of the bedroom of Davis' innocent daughter, Davis had a right to demand of Reese what he was doing there and what his purpose was," the speaker declared.

When Davis questioned the defendant about the matter, said Mr. Dunnam, Reese drew a pistol which he had been carrying "for a purpose, and that purpose not a good one," and, standing on the stairway several steps above Davis, fired the fatal shots.

Turning dramatically toward the place where Mrs. Davis and her daughters and a son were sitting, the county attorney said: "And by that act, that gray haired woman was deprived of her loving husband and those children were robbed of their father who loved them and whom they loved."

Tears trickled down the cheeks of the wife and daughter of the slain man.

Questions Reese's Testimony. Dunnam next took up the statement that Reese made to the effect that after firing once, he (the defendant) didn't remember anything more. And yet in the next breath, according to the county attorney, Reese denied that Clint Marvel, a roomer in the house where the shooting occurred, seized the defendant by the right arm, knocked his hand up and then threw him to the floor.

The lawyer said that Reese lied when he said he remembered nothing further or he lied when he denied that Marvel did not commit the action described above.

The widow of Davis nodded her head several times at this statement as though emphatically approving it and at the same time she fixed an unwavering glance on the defendant who looked the other way.

The closing argument for the defense was made by State Senator Joe Burkett, who immediately preceded Mr. Dunnam. Burkett declared that if a number of witnesses testified that a thing happened in a certain way when the physical facts showed that it occurred in another manner, men with common sense would decide that the witnesses were mistaken.

Not on Stairs. Applying this general truth to the case before the court, Burkett said

The evidence showed the pistol shots ranged upward, therefore the defendant was not on the stairs when he shot Davis.

The attorney said that wounds received by the defendant on the night of the killing were accounted for—or an attempt was made to account for them—by the state by saying that they were inflicted by Davis' son, with Reese's pistol after B. Davis was killed.

No Blood on Pistol.

But, Burkett said, there were no blood stains on Reese's pistol while there were spots which he believed to be blood on the pistol of B. Davis.

If there were blood stains on Davis' gun that would tend to bear out the contention of the state that Davis was armed at the time of the killing and attacked Reese and beat him with a pistol before Reese drew his own gun. The speaker dwelt on the testimony of Justice of the Peace McFatter who had testified that after the killing he was told by Mrs. Davis that her husband had gone to a bureau drawer and obtained a pistol prior to the tragic occurrence. The justice of the peace had further testified that he was a good friend of the deceased and Burkett spoke of that statement. He also referred to the testimony of E. W. Sparks of Ranger, who told of having heard Mrs. Davis make the statement to Squire McFatter.

LAW AND ORDER LEAGUERS SEEK WAY TO MAKE CITY OFFICIALS OBEY THEIR OATHS OF OFFICE

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Sept. 21.—An appeal to congress to enact a law to compel city officials to obey their oaths of office in enforcing the 18th amendment has been made in the form of a resolution passed by the Chicago Law and Order league with assurance that it will be brought up in congress during the next few days.

The resolution, after asserting that while Mayor Thompson of this city has announced that all his appointees have been instructed to enforce the law, states that there are not less than 3,500 "dry bars" in the city of Chicago where intoxicating liquor is sold, "and the principal offenders in permitting this situation to continue are the mayor of Chicago and the general superintendent of police."

The resolution states that Chief of Police Fitzmorris of Chicago, stated before witnesses that "as long as the government allows intoxicating liquor to be shipped into Chicago, I will not mop it up."

The Argument.

The resolution then continues: "Now, when the mayor of Chicago and his general superintendent of police take the position that we have shown to you that they have taken, and the conditions as to the illegal sale of intoxicating liquor in Chicago are very bad, and when the mayor and chief of police have under them about 5,000 policemen, we believe that the time has come in the history of this government to find out whether there is not a law that will reach officials of a great city like Chicago, who practically nullify the 18th amendment to the constitution. The time has come when the government of the United States, if there is no law to compel the officials to obey their oaths of office, ought to enact such a law and we appeal to the senate and house at Washington and ask that, if necessary, a law be passed to cover such cases as this.

"One of the dangers to the permanency of this great republic is that in the great cities lawlessness prevails, the constitution is disobeyed, and what may be the result? A great country may go down from the vice and lawlessness and devilry of the great cities."

The resolution was proposed by Arthur Burnage Farwell, president of the Chicago Law and Order league and copies sent to both the vice president and speaker of the house with the request that a committee be appointed to investigate the situation in Chicago relative to the "nullification of the 18th amendment."

CENSUS REPORT SHOWS COUNTY HAS LOST HALF ITS FARM WEALTH

In 1910 Eastland county had 2,931 farms in cultivation, which contained 173,631 acres of improved farm lands. During 1920 it had 1,409 farms in cultivation, containing 115,012 improved acres or a loss of 33 per cent. During 1910 the county harvested 12,214 bales of cotton, 353,009 bushels of corn, 274,956 bushels of oats and 100,195 bushels of wheat. The figures are given by the United States census bureau and those for 1920 regarding the quantities of this crop are not available.

In 1920 1,452 tenants occupied farms. In 1920 the number had decreased to 654. Owners on farms in 1910 was 1,529. In 1920 that total had decreased to 855. The percentage loss of tenants in the ten years is 55 per cent and that of the owners is 44.7 per cent.

Values of farm land during those years decreased $771,840, according to the report, with corresponding decreases in the number of livestock in the county.

According to the report there were only twenty-six sheep in the county in 1920. This is against 465 in 1910.

A BUSINESS TONIC.

The banking situation, business men admit, has been the weak spot in Ranger's commercial structure for several months; in fact, since the closing of the First National convinced people that banks could close up. Then came troubles for all the other banks. With confidence unshaken, a storm beat about them.

Happily that condition has now passed. Two banks consolidated and weathered the storm, and its last report shows the consolidated structure to be in splendid shape. Another closed its doors, but checks are being received for deposits in it, without any loss to depositors, and with the opening of the People's State bank, the financial situation is again looking up. It is again established on a solid foundation and the public confidence is no longer unsettled.

However, the situation is not completely recovered, but is only convalescing, one might say, and further tonic of new money is needed to restore the financial institutions to their former robustness. Bankers admit that deposits here are now easily $1,000,000 and possibly $2,000,000 under what they should be if Ranger had all its money at home. The dread of having money tied up, if not lost, has driven hundreds of thousands of workers' savings into the old sock national. Some business men have played safety first and scattered their money in five or six banks. The result of this practice is that Ranger banks attend to all these firms' banking business, but handle little of their money. This is an imposition. It creates an undue amount of overhead expense.

It would appear that Ranger banks have been purged of the poisons that beset them. They are on the upgrade. Money which rightfully should be in them and is now elsewhere may be returned with safety. If that is done; if the risky sock and the cumbersome foreign account are done away with and the money replaced in home institutions, the banks will be in much better position to help in forwarding the best interests of the town.

The Hub Ice Cream & Storage company was sold yesterday at auction, with two local men buying in the building and refrigerating plant. Directly after the purchase the latter two men went to Breckenridge and it is not known what their intentions are concerning the building and machinery, but it is thought possible a company will be organized to operate a refrigerating plant at the same location or that Mr. Hagaman will install the machinery at the Odessa refinery, of which he is one of the owners, to be used for the purpose of making wax from paraffin.

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—The birds and beasts that live in the Bronx Zoo are preparing for an early and hard winter. Although they live in luxury and don't have to worry about where their next meal is coming from, they are instinctively hoarding up food. All classes of animals scent a stiff winter, keepers say. The squirrels are putting in full days storing up unusually large quantities of nuts. The prairie dogs, a month ahead of time, are secreting lots of food into their underground homes. Robins and blackbirds are flocking together and showing unmistakable signs of preparing for migration to southern climes.

BLOODY ORGY OF HATE QUIESCENT
IN "BLACK DIAMOND" MINE FIELDS
FOR PERIOD OF ARMED TRUCE ONLY

West Virginia Inter-County Labor Union War Rests While U. S. Troops Stand Guard—Bitterness Not Lessened by Federal Intervention—Present "Trigger Trial" Pregnant With Future Strife.

By SIEGFRIED D. WEYER,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

(Copyright, 1921 by the International News Service.)

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—The attempted "March to Mingo," which resulted in bloodshed during the recent weeks and finally forced the government to send troops into the "battle zone," was not the first mass action on the part of union miners in West Virginia. Twice before the latter have moved in force to spread the gospel of "the right to organize," which, they claimed, they could not propagate by peaceful means because of the coal operators' guard system.

The worst warfare raged in 1912 and 1913, which arose from the union miners' efforts to organize the Paint and Cabin Creek districts of Kanawha county. How comparatively mild was the recent fighting may be judged from the casualties in that bloody struggle eight years ago.

Nearly 700 men were killed, of whom about 500 were Baldwin-Felts detectives and 200 deputy sheriffs and armed citizens opposing unionism.

Since then the United Mine Workers of America have made great headway in organizing the West Virginia coal fields, but the richest of all—that in Logan county—remains to this day a thoroughly "open shop." It is the bulwark of the coal operators, defended, as was seen recently, by an invincible army of anti-union men, private detectives, state troopers and armed citizens. A good many people have been puzzled by the support of supposedly "uninterested" citizens to the coal operators and by the readiness of hundreds of inhabitants, who on the face of things, have no part in the controversy between miners and operators, to take up arms and risk their lives in the battle against the union men.

The answer is simple: These citizens are, for the most part, in lines of trade or profession which are directly or indirectly dependent upon the coal operators. In the forefront of this "auxiliary army" are traders whose business has flourished for years under the open shop rule. They dread the union as a spectre that will deprive them of their prosperity. They dread, above all, strikes, which, they fear, would paralyze trade and industry in their sections.

Situation Pregnant with Trouble.
Strikes, too, are the main bugaboo of the operators in their determined last stand against unionism. It is the old, old story. At present with the workers unorganized, the operators are the dictators. With the union triumphant in that richest of the country's "black diamond" fields, the employees would sooner or later be in a position to turn the tables and dictate to the employers.

That is why the war has been called in these dispatches an Armageddon between labor and capital. It may be proper to state at this juncture that the purpose of these articles is not to argue the right or wrong of either side, but merely to set down the fundamental facts and to give a background of the struggle, which is destined, before it is settled, to play an epoch-making part in the social-economic history of the United States, for the present military occupation is merely an armed truce.

The Coal Operators' association, in a "brief" of many thousand words submitted to the senate committee now investigating the Mingo troubles set forth eight main points in support of its own case.

Briefly summarized, they are:
First—That to recognize the union in this coal field would put the coal industry in this section at the mercy of its competitive fields.
Second—That it has been repeatedly demonstrated that mine workers, when organized, frequently, for imaginary causes, go out on strike, thus interrupting the output of coal and thereby increasing the cost of production.

Third—The production of coal, if all miners are organized in one union is put at the mercy of the officers of such union.

Fourth—Strikes cause the failure of the producer to fulfill outstanding contracts, resulting in direct loss.

Fifth—The United Mine Workers of America is not a corporation, a partnership or a legally responsible entity. Any contract made with it, or with any subdivision thereof could not be legally enforced, and no adequate damages for breach thereof could be recovered.

Unionism Devaluing.
Sixth—The miner, working under an individual contract of his own making, has both the incentive to better his condition by efficient work and the sense of responsibility under his contract, while, once a member of the union, he is made to feel that he can do as he pleases, and the organization will stand behind him, all of which results in a lowering of the individual standard of honesty and efficiency.

The operators argue that when a miner is "through" working for them he has no longer the right to live in a "company house." They compare his status to that of a maid or a chauffeur or a butler; once these servants quit or are discharged they have to "get out."

In the majority of cases that has been understood by both sides, and miners, after being "through," have peacefully moved out. In other cases the courts were appealed to, and the result in the end was the same. The trouble began when Baldwin-Felts detectives undertook to evict a tardy ex-miner by force.

To quote from the coal operators' "brief":
"Mine houses are as much incident to the business of mining coal as are tipples, or as are desks in an office. The courts have so held. Occupancy of the house by the miner is a mere incident to his employment, and his right to such occupancy ends when his employment ceases. Under this law the mine owner has the right to evict any miner wrongfully retaining the occupancy of the house after his employment has ceased, provided such eviction can be made without a breach of the peace."

Orgy of Hate.
On the fateful day of the Matewan Battle Albert and Lee Felts, with a party of fellow detectives, evicted a number of union miners nearby. Excitement ran high. The whole population of the little mining town was incensed. All the long pent-up hatred against the detectives rushed to the fore. Ugly stories made the rounds of alleged brutality displayed by the evicting detectives, especially against women and children. There was a dispute over their legal right to evict. After the evictions the detectives had to go to Matewan to catch a train. There they were met by Sid Hatfield, the young chief of police of the town. There were words, at first polite, "joshing," as is the custom there before a storm; then bitter, insulting. A crowd collected, and suddenly the bloody orgy was on. It lasted a minute and a half, after which seven detectives and three townsmen, including C. C. Testerman, Matewan's mayor, lay dead.

It was the signal for "Armageddon." The trial last January, February and March, ending in the acquittal of Sid Hatfield and fifteen others, was but an episode, as was the killing of Hatfield and young Ed Chambers by "Star Spy" C. E. Lively at Welch, W. Va. But both events served powerfully to inflame the minds and steel the determination of both sides to prepare and arm for the final round.

Now United States soldiers are again patrolling the battlefields, and until the last of them is gone there will be peace. And the second "trigger trial" is on—this time the defendants are tried not by men from their own county, Mingo, but from a strange county, Pocahontas. The trial and its outcome will have a significant bearing on the future course of the mining war. It is being watched by 600,000 union miners throughout the country, and, indeed, by organized labor as a whole as it was watched by capital as a whole.

Everything indicates that both sides have "only begun to fight."

PASSENGERS ON
LINER MENACED
BY CARD SHARPS

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—The 742 cabin passengers who arrived recently on the Aquitania were kept at high tension during the last two days of the voyage from Cherbourg by the belligerent and menacing attitude assumed by ocean card sharps who had been cheated out of possible victims.

The last few hours of the voyage brought about a man-hunt aboard the big ship the like of which has seldom been seen on a trans-Atlantic liner. Only the successful elusiveness of the man sought saved him from a sound thrashing—or possible worse man-handling.

Barred Out of Game.
As soon as the Aquitania left Cherbourg last Saturday the passengers were told that notorious card sharps were on board. In vain the gamblers sought to entice possible victims into games. On Thursday, disgusted, the card sharps left the smoking room and adjourned to the bar. Well filled with Scotch and other liquors, they returned to the smoking room, where several wealthy men were playing bridge. They tried to force themselves into the game. When refused entrance they roared abuse at their intended victims.

The players left the room to escape the torrent of abuse hurled at them, but the gamblers were not to be denied. They picked out three or four of the players and followed them about ship, shouting disparaging remarks. On one occasion the wife of one of the victims of the ire of the gamblers sought to interfere. She in turn was made the target of their spite.

Death Threat Made.
All day Friday and until yesterday morning the gamblers kept ysterday. When the vessel was waiting in Quarantine they centered their assault upon one of the men passengers whom they cornered in the smoking room. They threatened him:
"Wait until we get you on the pier. We'll kill you for trying to break up the game."
The man, frightened, appealed to Purser Spedding. He immediately assigned several of the staff of the vessel to look after the belligerents. The drunken gamblers, seeing what was coming, hid themselves. When the vessel docked, pier detectives escorted the gamblers off, and then escorted their would-be-victims from the pier.

WOMAN HOLDS GROUND
WORTH NEARLY MILLION FOR "CAT TO PLAY ON"

By Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—A woman who owns a yard facing fifty feet on Fifth avenue at 89th street, in the center of the city's most fashionable shopping district, refuses to sell it because her cat "has to have a place to play in." The property is worth about $750,000, according to real estate men.

The dollars paid on it each year in taxes would, if stacked dollar on dollar, make a hurdle not to be sneered at by anything sport of the cow who jumped over the moon. The cat is "just one of these yere everyday walkin' round cats." It was never known to take a prize at a cat show.

Other wealthy people have given strange reasons for refusing to sell business district property which was eagerly sought by many buyers. Some time ago a man who owned a building in Broadway just below Times Square, wanted contract stipulations that none of the prospective buyers would lease it to certain businesses. His list began with aviary and went right on down the alphabet to zylphone dealers, skipping so few lines of business that none would take the place.

Just above the Times Square section of Broadway an aged property owner had a vacant five-story building that an automobile sales house wanted to lease. The papers were drawn up, and when the interested parties had gathered to sign it, the automobile representative remarked that his concern was going to put "a nice electric sign on the roof."

The owner laid down his pen and said no electric signs were going on top of his building. The deal was not closed and the building remained empty for six years when the owner died.

SPANISH SHIPS WILL CARRY HUGE CROP OF
PEAS FROM MEXICO

By Associated Press.
JUAREZ, Mexico, Sept. 21.—Most of Sonora's tremendous garbanzo (chick pea) crop, which will be between 200,000 and 250,000 sacks this year, will be carried from that Mexican state by a Spanish steamship company to Spain, according to reports at the American consulate.

Sonora raises only a small amount of garbanzos for local consumption or for the United States compared to what is shipped to Spain. Many farmers grow their own chick peas in the state, for it is one of the principal foods.

Heretofore, Sonora's garbanzos have been stored at Nogales and sent by rail into the United States, then to New York and by steamer from there to Spain. The Spanish steamship company offered a special rate this year of $16 a metric ton to carry the beans, or chick peas, hence the change.

BLINKING FRIENDS IS EASY WAY TO WEALTH "HOT" CHECKERS' VIEW

As a means of securing the needed "ham and" money to leave the city, the "hot" check route is being rather overworked recently. Several of those who were pining for the "green hills far away," have used the system, and it is very simple.

One business man who is nursing a "hot" check of that variety this morning was wondering why they always pick on him. "I help buy fast transportation for every bird that has lost contact with a payroll," he complained.

My son had taken Tanlac, and it had done him a world of good, so one day he brought home a bottle and said, 'Mother, I want you to take this.' When I had finished that bottle, I felt like a different woman, and by the time I had finished my second bottle, I was out in the garden hoeing.

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—Must the estate of a deceased divorced man continue to pay weekly alimony exacted of him in his lifetime?

Cullud Constable Wants Business; Advertises How Good His Lawing Is

By International News Service
 MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Sept. 21.—You've got to hand it to Constable H. B. Allen of Cass district, this county, for being on the job. Allen is a negro who was recently appointed to the position of constable. His field of operation includes part of the famous Scott's run section of the county. After he had duly qualified for the job Allen armed himself with an eight-inch Colt revolver, a sawed-off shotgun and a sorrel horse, on which he travels up and down Scott's run preserving the peace and dignity of that part of the state.

But that's not all of it. Allen decided that his work was to be thorough in every particular. So he went to a printing office and had some hand bills struck off. They read as follows:

"H. B. Allen, Constable for Cass district. Is any one bothering you? Is there any trouble going on anywhere that you can't stop? See me, I'll show you a thing or two. We have laws in this state and we have men who know how to use them.

"We have officers who fear nothing but God, and we will go anywhere in the world to get a man. I am your friend; the law is your friend. You can't get along without the law.

"Then why don't you have a talk with people who know the law? I am located at Osage, West Virginia. Phone 7137-E3.

"See me at night; see me in the day; see me any time."
 "H. B. ALLEN."

GLORIA IS GLORIOUS IN "GREAT MOMENT"

Gloria Swanson has come into her own stardom. Her first stellar appearance will be in "The Great Moment," which will be the feature attraction at the Temple theatre Thursday and Friday. Gloria's dominant personality and peculiar fitness in interpreting the picturesque roles of the DeMille photoplays has earned for her the stellar position in the Paramount firmament, and "The Great Moment" is something she may well feel proud of in serving her first Paramount offering.

Written especially for her by Elinor Glyn, the famous author of the equally famous love story, "Three Weeks," the story abounds in the colorful and unusual atmosphere characteristic of everything Elinor Glyn writes. There is dramatic con-flit, effective and picturesque characterization, acceptable incident and a fine flavor of the essence of romance.

The idea involves a situation that is unusual—that of a man and woman who separate when desperately in love with each other, because each believes the other wants freedom. The heroine is Nadine Pelham. She is the daughter of an English nobleman and a gypsy dancing girl of St. Petersburg—it is characteristic that Elinor Glyn should have made her heroine a daughter of the fiery Slavic race—she does not believe that the English peoples are capable of the deeply passionate love.

The blood of a gypsy mother and the blue blood of an aristocratic father cause a conflict in the girl's temperament. She is about to submit to marriage with her English cousin, when she meets the one man in the world while with her father on a business trip to America, a virile civil engineer played by Milton Sills.

A great highlight of the picture is reached in the rugged west when Nadine is bitten by a rattlesnake on her shoulder. The engineer rips open her blouse, cuts open the wound and sucks the blood from the bite. Then he carries the unconscious girl to his shack and gives her the age old remedy for snake bites—raw whisky. The father, coming upon them, misunderstands the situation and forces them into an immediate marriage before the girl has hardly recovered consciousness, then he leaves.
