Three Killed In Dallas Fire

SIX OTHERS BADLY HURT; TWO MAY DIE

Thirty Roomers Trapped on Second Floor of Bryan Street House.

DALLAS, Texas, Oct. 17.—Three persons, two men and a woman, met death here early today in a fire which swept the Bryan street rooming house. Six others were seriously injured, two of whom will probably die. The property loss will amount to $10,000. Two of the bodies were taken from the ruins. The third victim died several hours later at the city hospital.

The fire broke out at 3 o'clock this morning on the first floor, and the stairs were burned before the alarm could be given. Thirty roomers were trapped by the flames. A number of those injured were hurt in leaping from the second story windows, one of them having been seriously burned before jumping.

The Dead:

MRS. LOLA MONTGOMERY, 45, burned to death in her room.
F. W. FELCH, 55, El Paso mining engineer. Felch was a Shriner, a member of the El Paso temple. His mother lives in Buckeye, Wash.

F. S. CARTER, clerk, died from burns in hospital.

The injured are:

Miss Opal Wilson and Mrs. Faye Ham, daughters of the woman who was burned to death. Miss Wilson, 15 years old, is dying as the result of burns about her face and chest. Her sister was burned, and suffered a fractured ankle and injured back in leaping from a window.

H. J. Ryan, badly burned and ankle fractured in jumping from window.

Paul Kosse, fractured ankle and burns.

M. B. Murray, burns.

Luther Touchstone, burns.

Gas Stove Starts It.

The origin of the fire has not been definitely determined but Fire Chief Meyers, after questioning a number of the occupants of the house, said he believed it started from an overheated stove in the bathroom.

The building was an exceptionally large two-story structure. It was run by Mrs. Mary J. Harper, and her son, U. U. Harper. Harper declared he was awakened by the flames, and that the halls were masses of flames when he reached them.

Wild confusion was manifested by the roomers as they were awakened by the roar of the fire. Many screamed and ran back and forth through the house, attempting to awaken others. A number jumped from upper story windows.

A number of other roomers were reported to be painfully or slightly hurt, but they did not report their injuries to the police or hospital.

Thrilling Rescue.

While the flames were at their height, three firemen put a ladder against the building and rescued an aged man, who had been trapped at a window on the upper floor, while other firemen kept the flames from the window with water.

Thorough search was made of the ruins with lanterns, and an additional daylight search failed to reveal other bodies.

U. S. DISARMAMENT DELEGATES

SIMMONS' 'ILLNESS' CAUSES ROW

INVESTIGATION OF GATESVILLE SCHOOL ENDS

AUSTIN, Oct. 17.—The members of the board of control returned to the capital this morning, after the inquiry into the conduct of the juvenile training school at Gatesville, completed Saturday. Just when they will make their report on the probe into the charges of brutality and cruelty to the inmates made following the death of Dell Thames and the subsequent charge of murder against H. G. Twyman, is undecided.

RIGS GOING UP, IRONS SCARCE, SAYS BUILDER

Crossman & Whitener are erecting a second derrick for J. H. Fraser's Northern Texas Petroleum company on the Bradford tract, near Frankell, where the company got a producer about two weeks ago. Crossman was in town a few nights ago and says during the day he counted five rigs being hauled out into the field, which indicated that the increase in drilling activity has begun. A scarcity of rig irons was another good indication, he said.

DALLAS LOSES FIGHT ON TELEPHONE RATES

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—Dallas, Texas, in the supreme court today lost its fight to prevent the Dallas Telephone company from increasing its rates. "Despite the state's contention to the contrary, lower courts held that the company could increase rates without the municipality's consent.

The supreme court today declined to review the case.

The Dallas Telephone company several months ago increased telephone rates 100 per cent, making the new rates $4 and $10 respectively for residence and business telephones, monthly. Federal Judge James T. Wilson granted the company an injunction restraining the city of Dallas from interfering with the new charge. A number of Texas cities where a similar situation exists will be affected by today's decision of the supreme court not to review the case.

DIES IN BATHROOM.

DALLAS, Oct. 17.—Sid Ansley, aged 60, of Sherman, was found dead early today in the bathroom in a local hotel.

Ku Klux Wizard Rebuked When He Says Officials Called It "Theatricals."

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—A clash between W. J. Simmons, imperial wizard of the Ku Klux Klan, and Chairman Campbell of the house committee on rules, marked the reopening today of the wizard's examination on Klan activities. It started when Simmons touched on the question of his physical condition, which forced the suspension of the hearings last week.

Simmons declared that Assistant Attorney General Crim remarked at the time he collapsed: "Damn such faking; I've been expecting it all along."

"I was also told," Simmons continued, "that Mr. Crim and Chairman Campbell had said it was 'theatricals, intended to create sympathy.'"

Chairman Campbell interrupted by pounding with his gavel on the table.

"If all the rest of your statement is as false as what you relate in regard to myself," he shouted, "it is utterly without foundation. The conversation you mention did not occur. I made no such statement."

Representative Rodenburg, Republican, of Illinois, declared the witness should not dignify such reports to insult the committee.

Campbell permitted Simmons to go on after he said he "did not believe Campbell made the statement."

Simmons launched into an attack against the newspapers which exposed the Klan. He also turned against C. Anderson Wright, former Klan official, who wrote a series of articles against the organization. He asked the committee to recall Wright and told of his "police record" and his "record in the army."

Wright, Simmons charges, represented himself falsely as an overseas air officer and wore a major's uniform, which he was not entitled to.

Asked about distribution of fees, Simmons said that $8 of each $10 fee went to Edward Young Clark, imperial klan leader, and $2 into the klan treasury. In addition, Simmons said, Clark received expense money.

MERCHANTS MEET TONIGHT TO VOTE ON CONSOLIDATION

Definite action on the consolidation of the Chamber of Commerce and the Retail Merchants' association was deferred this morning at a meeting of the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce, who ordered the report of the special committee on the consolidation plans, tabled and another report submitted at a meeting this afternoon.

The report adopted by the directors of the Chamber of Commerce is to be submitted to the members of the Retail Merchants' association who will meet tonight, it is stated. Details of the consolidation plans will not be made public until action has been taken by the Retail Merchants' association.

WAVE OF FIRES SWEEPS OVER TEXAS CITIES

DALLAS, Oct. 17.—The wave of fires, which has caused heavy damage to Texas cities, continued over the week-end. Three fires of major importance were reported.

At Athens, four buildings were destroyed by a fire which raged yesterday, causing $75,000 damage. The buildings destroyed included the Collins building, which housed the Collins Hardware & Furniture store, and the local telephone exchange.

In Dallas, two men and a woman were burned to death, and six others seriously injured when fire destroyed a rooming house in the central part of the city.

Reports from Decatur indicate that the loss from the fire which swept one side of the square Sunday night, will reach $60,000. Four buildings were destroyed.

WAR RISK BUREAU AT FORT WORTH AND WACO

Manager Peters of the Chamber of Commerce has been informed that War Risk Insurance Bureau sub-offices are being maintained in Fort Worth and Waco for the benefit of ex-service men in this territory and that all claims for compensation will be promptly attended to at these offices.

BIG FEATURE FILMS AND CIRCUS MAKE STRONG AMUSEMENT WEEK

"Birth of a Nation," "The Three Musketeers," "The Old Nest" and "Affairs of Anatol" Among Headline Pictures Assembled Here in One Week; Circus on Friday.

Ranger motion picture fans are offered a program at the local theatres this week that has seldom been equalled in even the larger cities of the country—four of the most successful recent releases and the old-time favorite, "The Birth of a Nation," being slated for exhibition at the Temple, Majestic and Lamb theatres. In addition to the motion picture productions, the Gentry Brothers show will give one performance here on Friday. Special orchestras will accompany "The Three Musketeers" and "The Birth of a Nation," and render scores that have been especially written for the pictures. The wholesale showing of stellar productions such as feature the theatre program this week, has seldom been attempted anywhere by theatre managements and the showing of such pictures here almost simultaneously is a distinct compliment to this city's appreciation of high-class productions.

"The Affairs of Anatol," presented by an all-star cast led by Wallace Reid and made up of a large part of

RAYMOND TEAL OPPOSES WHITE IN CITY RACE

Last Minute Entry Gives Two Candidates for Each Vacancy.

The city commissioners race, to be run off Saturday in the special election called to fill the vacancies existing in the offices of street and finance commissioners, has been enlivened by the eleventh hour entrance of Raymond Teal, one of the contenders in the last general election, who made an unsuccessful fight on the "Non-Partisan" ticket. Teal is running on a "Ranger First" platform without any frills, he said this morning, and with the determination to work earnestly for the best interests of the city.

Four contenders are now in the race to fill the vacancies created by the resignations of S. J. Dean, finance commissioner, and M. R. Newnam, street commissioner. The ticket now stands with Raymond Teal and J. M. White, candidates for finance commissioner, and I. N. Roush and Dr. C. O. Terrell, candidates for street commissioner. Dr. Terrell who announced his candidacy some time ago, completed the necessary formalities for entering before the ballot closed Saturday night.

The election will be held Saturday at Fire Hall No. 1, 310 Elm street, with the following election officials in charge: E. J. Barnes, president; A. F. Hartman and J. F. Connell, judges; Karl Jones, L. H. Hagaman and J. A. Pitcock, clerks. The candidates elected will serve until the next general election.

The meetings now in progress at the church are held at 10 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.

TEXANS NAMED TO ATTEND BURIAL OF UNKNOWN SOLDIER

AUSTIN, Oct. 17.—In keeping with a request from Secretary of War Weeks that he appoint three ex-service men to be present on Nov. 11 at the burial of an unknown soldier in Arlington cemetery, Governor Neff this morning announced the appointment of Wayne Davis of Goliad, Ernest O. Thompson of Amarillo, and Paul Wakefield of Houston, to represent Texas at the ceremonies.

Expenses will be paid by the national government.

HOW U. S. MAY STOP STRIKE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—Interest in the impending national railroad strike centered today in the reaction of the Railway executives to the proposal of the public group of the railroad labor board of the "one feasible plan" to prevent the tieup of the country's transportation system.

In brief, the board's solution is as follows:

"1. That the railroads immediately put into effect freight reductions equivalent to the wage reduction made July 1.

"2. That requests for a further wage decrease be withdrawn.

"3. That employees withdraw the strike order pending any applications for further wage reductions which the carriers subsequently might file."

Federal action in connection with the strike has been confined until today to the conference arranged by President Harding between the labor board representatives and the interstate commerce commission, the impression being that the President intended to leave the matter temporarily in the hands of the two agencies created by law to supervise railroad transportation.

The sole exception today was Postmaster General Hays' reply to the announcement that mail trains would not be given special consideration in case the strike developed. Hays' answer was a flat-footed statement that the mail trains would run.

THE STRIKE IN BRIEF

Moves to prevent a nationwide strike and preparations to meet it if it materializes were made today.

With assurances from high Washington officials that the railroads would be kept running, President Harding had under consideration the calling of a railroad conference of executives and employees to avert the strike.

When union leaders in Cleveland were informed of the conference plan, they said they would answer the call to attend if President Harding sent it out.

At the same time, from the headquarters in Chicago and Cleveland, railroad union men went ahead with strike preparations, such as the sending out of the formal call for the walkout, beginning progressively on Oct. 30. In Chicago, a meeting of unions other than the Big Four brotherhoods was planned.

Forestal Food Shortage.

Throughout the country today, mayors and governors prepared for measures to prevent any shortage of food or fuel because of the strike.

Despite advice to the contrary from Chicago coal men, a pool of the large cities indicated there was enough coal supply to run for several weeks, at least.

Food stocks generally are not low, although many of the smaller cities, without large storage facilities, might be inconvenienced.

Mobilization of motor trucks to haul food in case they are needed was the plan hit upon in practically every city. Kansas City was prepared to use airplanes, also. It was not believed, however, that the hauling of milk and other perishables will be interfered with.

Industries in every section of the country will be affected by the strike.

NO REAL RAIN SINCE JUNE 25, FIGURES SHOW

Not a single good rain has fallen in Ranger since June 25, according to a weather report that has been kept for the last four months by A. A. Abney of the Lincoln Tank company. The rainfall on that date was the last of a series of real rains that occurred during the month, it is shown. Several showers fell during the months of July, August and September and a small shower on Oct. 2. The first and only frost of the season was on Oct. 8. Abney has been keeping a daily tab on the weather since Aug. 1 last year. The rainfall record since June 1 follows:

Rains—June 2, 7, 8, 9, 10, 12, 21, 25.

Showers—July 16, 20, 14; Aug. 3, 12, 26, 30; Sept. 6, 29; Oct. 2.

DEFINITE PLAN NOT FORMED BUT DECISION MADE

Mails Will Be Moved, Is Official Statement by Postmaster General.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—The federal government will keep the railroads in operation.

This was the definite assurance that came out from a high administration official, as President Harding and other government leaders renewed their attempts to avert a nationwide rail strike.

A feeling pervades official Washington that the called strike will not materialize on an extensive scale, but at the same time the government realizes the transportation lines must be kept in operation whatever happens, because the very existence of millions of people depends upon them.

No Plan Yet.

The federal government has as yet framed no program of action. Whether the government would seize the roads in case the strike is called, no prominent official would say.

The experts put to work by Harding were members of the labor board and the interstate commerce commission. The labor board members were studying figures on living costs and railroad workers' wages, with a view to determining whether wages could safely be further reduced.

The interstate commerce commission was studying the rate reduction angle.

"The mails will be moved," Postmaster General Hays declared today in the first official statement on the rail strike from a government official here.

57,000 MOTOR TRUCKS TO CARRY FOOD TO NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—A fleet of 57,000 motor trucks, or as many of them as are found necessary will be mobilized in the event of a transportation tieup, to bring New York its daily quota of 1,500 carloads of food-stuff, Health Commissioner Copeland announced today.

There are adequate supplies in storage to last three weeks, he said, but importations by trucks would begin at once.

The coal situation, he said, was somewhat less favorable, owing to scant storage facilities.

WOULDN'T MEAN 1/2 OF 1 PER CENT FREIGHT REDUCTION

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Oct. 17.—The proposal of the public group of the railroad labor board to prevent a railroad strike by lowering both wages and freight rates would not prove feasible, Warren S. Stone, grand chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, declared today.

W. G. Lee, president of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, would make no direct statement today regarding the plans. "Our understanding and our belief," Stone said, "was that the 12 per cent reduction, effective July 1, would be passed on to the public in lower freight rates. This has not been done."

"The suggestion cannot be worked out. By the time the reduction got to the consumer it would amount to one-half of 1 per cent. The middlemen would absorb practically all of it."

SHORT OF MONEY?

CHICAGO, Oct. 17.—The railroad brotherhoods have a strike fund of $2,000,000, which is insufficient for a general strike of any great length, John Gruneau, leader of the so-called "outlaw strike" of last year, declared today.

HOUSTON PREPARES.

HOUSTON, Oct. 17.—Preliminary preparations for participation in the national rail strike have been made by heads of local unions, totalling about 10,000, here today.

The union heads met yesterday to prepare for the walk-out. Some fear was expressed that the strike may affect the Houston ship channel, which is controlled by the International & Great Northern railroad.

No fuel or food shortage is expected. A good fuel supply is on hand, and food may be shipped in via the gulf.

RUSSIA AS IT IS TODAY

IS ALMOST LIKE ANYWHERE ELSE, SAYS ASSOCIATED PRESS CORRESPONDENT; EPIDEMICS AND DANGERS EXAGGERATED.

NOTE—One of the staff correspondents of The Associated Press who entered Soviet Russia when Lenin opened the doors of that country to admit American food and relief workers started from Constantinople and proceeded to the Black Sea ports of Trebizond, and Batum. He went on to Tiflis, in Soviet Georgia, and thence, apparently across the Carpathian mountains to the lower Volga river district, the heart of the famine country. Then he moved northward and finally reached Moscow, traversing the territory to which American food was sent. On the way he sent cabled reports, giving first-hand information of conditions in the famine district.

In the appended article, he describes in detail the conditions he observed in Batum and Tiflis.

BATUM, Sept. 20.—Entrance into Russia through the Black Sea may be compared to a visit to a dreaded battle front. There's lots of fear of death and destruction but somehow one does not find them. These elements to uneasy sleep seem to lurk always just a little farther along.

The traveller has himself rammed full of vaccines, vaccines against cholera, pest, smallpox and typhoid, is made properly in advance, only to find that these diseases are just now out of season. The only thing he needs is quinine, not for himself but for malaria patients about the seaports.

Little Violence.

Fear of Russia should not be based on fear of violence, of bodily hurt, so much as to the discomfort of living in a land where social and economic conditions are very hard. Money is hard to earn. Dock laborers at Batum, when they work, may earn 8,000 rubles, or 8 cents, per day, and this is the price of two pounds of bread.

After all the stories of revolution and counter revolutions, the murders and whatnot, one is distinctly surprised to find people going about as usual. There seem to be more people than ever before. One wonders where they come from. They swarm about the cities, the train stations in the country, thick as ants.

Yet rich and poor seem alike engaged in the process of getting out of Russia. Many of the rich have done so. Their old life has been broken up, their social life, their life of educating and rearing families. Their manner of living and thinking doesn't fit in to the new chaos, and they prefer to get to Constantinople—so much so that it has become almost a Russian city—and thence filter through to Europe and there live on charity and their wits. Some manage to retain wrecks of their fortunes, for old Russia was rich beyond the dreams of western Europe. Everybody seems to have had gold and jewels in abundance. Those with property are still slipping away, and without too much difficulty or hindrance from the soviet.

Only they must use caution. A certain Melikov, the Russian-Armenian owner of the newspaper Horizon, in Tiflis, had his home requisitioned, so he got leave to depart for Constantinople. On the way his baggage was searched, a diary was found telling his inmost reflections about the Bolsheviks and the new order of life, a diary that he possibly was intending to publish. The foolish man was hauled before the "Cheka", the secret police with extraordinary powers, from whose decision there is no recourse, and he was executed.

Easy to Get In.

Landing from one of the various passenger and freight vessels that run weekly in and out of Batum, to and from Constantinople, the traveller finds that the Bolsheviks are not such dreadful people after all. It is far easier than getting to or from ship in Constantinople, where the allies reign.

There are a lot of guards at the gangplank, to steer departing travellers through the customs, but most anyone passes back and forth who wishes. There is first the formality of telling the port control who you are. He is a good-humored, patient, glorified Red guard who knows no language but Russian, and that indifferently, there are so many dialects of Russian. He wears a peaked cap pushed on the back of his head, with its red star and space and shovel of labor.

The passengers, who have carefully collected all sorts of credentials in Constantinople from soviet commercial missions, crowd about him, and he takes their names and looks casually at their visas. The Americans, who have only a bit of typewritten paper, a receipt from the United States consul, for their passports, generally have a soviet letter in addition. The control officer doesn't stamp their paper afresh to show they may land. He merely indicates with a wave of the hand that passengers may embark, and they do, full of surprise that they have not been disturbed. Travellers in Europe are so in the habit of being bothered that they think something is wrong, here, that they haven't been.

Ashore, in the sunshine, amid the tree-lined streets, sitting in a carriage with rubber tires, driving to a good restaurant, the traveller is still wondering why something hasn't happened to him, but it probably will not so long as he has money to pay his way and especially if he is an American, thanks to American charity influence and the general good standing of Americans in the hearts of the people.

In Batum, now controlled by the Moscow soviet, affairs seem to slip along in a certain loose groove. Nobody worries much about the political changes, but they do fear the "Cheka".

Bathing au Natural.

The most notable social change in the people of this little San Francisco, set by the seashore amid palms and flowers, at the foot of a fertile hill country, is that on the beach. In the old days the girls and women of the city used to bathe often without bathing suits in a space set aside for them where no men were allowed. During the past two years the wire fence shutting off this space has been stolen and the place for the women may be encroached upon; but many of the women continue the old custom of bathing without suits.

While there is less and less furniture in the fine houses behind the park, at the leading restaurant may be had as good a meal as in Paris or London at one-third Paris or London prices. The strict morale of the early soviet days has gone everywhere. Nobody resents or prevents anybody from having a good time, if they have the money. The poor, who live in requisitioned villas or who sleep in the empty warehouse sheds along the waterfront, according to their luck, do not resent any longer the good fortune of others. Those who have better clothes or better quarters are merely more fortunate, that's all.

For the spring, summer and fall, the ports and littoral of Black Sea, for foreigners with money, would prove cheap and pleasant resorts, Bolsheviks or no Bolsheviks. A big house may be rented for $6 to $10 a month, and servants may be had for their keep, and glad of the job.

BULLETS IN CEILING, POISON IN TUMBLER, 'SUICIDE' IS SAVED

OAKLAND, Oct. 17.—A double attempt at "suicide" as a means of winning the favor of the woman with whom he was in love failed in the case of Joe Martinez, 35 years old.

After having been spurned by Mrs. E. K. Nutting, Martinez went to his room, poured out a glass of poison and fired three shots through the ceiling, the police say. He was writhing on the floor in apparent agony when the police arrived. Martinez was hurried to the emergency hospital, where it was discovered that he had not taken any poison and had pointed his revolver at a safe angle away from himself when he shot.

He left a suicide note addressed to 1962 Telegraph avenue, the home of Mrs. Nutting, in which he said "Don't blame anybody but myself for this."

HIT WIFE WITH FRYING PAN, BREAKING WEDDING BLESS

CHICAGO, Oct. 17.—Helping his wife "cook supper" led Fred Wolff, a Chicago salesman, into the divorce court. Wolff, according to his wife, acted like a "wolf" in the kitchen of their home. When he struck her with a frying pan it broke up their five years of marital happiness.

"I heard pots and pans being thrown around," Mrs. Wolff told Judge Lewis. "My husband got so angry that at last he struck me with a frying pan. We never made up after that."

FIFTY MEN FOR EVERY JOB, IS MEXIA REPORT

MEXIA, Oct. 17.—Pronounce it Me-hay-ha, please, when you step off the train into this little oil town, which is attracting those interested in oil from all parts of the United States.

At the present time the Mexia pool proper covers an area six miles long and by half in width, and there is nothing to condemn it from extending further. Then twelve miles in advanced another wildcat that is a good producer, and with many others drilling in outside territory, there is no telling what the field will develop into. There are approximately 200 rigs and drilling wells now under way in the country scattered around Mexia and this number is being increased daily.

People who have been attracted by the new sights are compelled to sleep in their cars on the grass, or in place that is large enough for one to rest. The thousands that are coming into Mexia represent all nationalities and all vocations, and thousands have left, failing to find work, there being at least fifty men for every job. The "rough-neck" fresh from the Oklahoma and other oil fields is in evidence, and most of them are having a hard time getting along.

The town is building like no prairie town ever built before, and one coming down a street in the morning would not recognize it on going home in the evening. Tents are in evidence on every spot, and shacks are going up by the hundreds, all rushing the completion, to take care of the influx of people and rake in the dollars that seem to be plentiful, although all you have heard for a year is "hard times." There is very little evidence of this in Mexia, although many are living from hand to mouth, but this element will have to leave very shortly.

In the next few months something will be known as to the possibilities of this development, and there is no doubt here that the production will run in excess to 100,000 barrels daily in a very short time, after some of the forty wells on top of the sand are opened.

JAP MURDERER SLUMBERS ALL NIGHT WITH VICTIM UNDER BED

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—Police officers are amazed at the coolness of a Japanese being sought for the murder of a compatriot, in a Broadway hotel this week. Nitaro Yasuhara, a Japanese cook, entirely unknown to the Hotel Empire at Broadway and Sixty-third street, was found dead, strangled under a bed in one of its guest's rooms Wednesday afternoon. A table cover was tied about his neck, but he had not been strangled with it. He had been strangled by pressure of two thumbs at the top of his windpipe. The cloth, a tea towel used for a table cover, had been tied slackerly around his neck, apparently to give leverage to the murderous thumbs.

Tan Kobin, a Japanese, registered as from New York, had no baggage and paid in advance at 8:30 o'clock Tuesday morning for the room in which Yasuhara was found yesterday afternoon.

Dead Five Hours.

Unusually puzzling features confronted the police in their investigation. The hotel servants reported that Yasuhara had been seen at the door of Kobin's room with Kobin about 10 o'clock Tuesday morning. Yasuhara was completely clothed when his body was found under the bed. He had been dead more than five hours, an assistant medical examiner stated. Kobin was seen Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock filling the tub in the bathroom opposite his room in a narrow corridor off the main hallway of the second floor. Yasuhara was dead in Kobin's room at this time, according to police deductions.

How the man could have been strangled by the towel knotted so loosely about his neck puzzled all investigators. The victim showed none of the usual evidences of strangulation except a slight extravasation of blood from the nostrils. The mouth was closed, the tongue did not protrude. A swelling under the jaws led to discovery of the method of killing by thumb pressure on top of the windpipe, a typical Japanese ju jitsu trick. The detectives collating their evidence decided Kobin chose the unusual hour of his arrival at the hotel on Tuesday because he had an appointment with Yasuhara, who appeared at 10 o'clock as expected. They believe that some business to be performed for Kobin by the cook was discussed and that Yasuhara left the hotel on that errand. He was reported to have been seen in one of the Japanese resorts of the neighborhood early Tuesday evening. He may have returned to Kobin with a report which was not satisfactory.

Evidence of Slayer's Coolness.
"A man who could leave his hotel room to go across the hall and take a bath, leaving a murdered man under his bed, would be cool enough to sleep in his bed with a dead man under it," said one of the detectives. "It looks as if Yasuhara was killed Tuesday night and Kobin slept there because he had paid for the room. It also looks as if Yasuhara was croaked by thumb pressure and became unconscious, but did not die, and his murderer took the towel table cover and tied it around Yasuhara's throat to choke him until he was dead with the leverage of the tied towel to hold his thumbs on the other man's windpipe."

What prompted the killing proved beyond police discovery last night. Both the murdered and the missing man appeared to belong to the floating types of Japanese of the kitchen and restaurant service type.

Political possibilities in the slaying were suggested when the police learned Yasuhara was rumored to have been in his government's employ in England, from which he arrived last July with plenty of money and high recommendations from persons of importance. The diversity of the work he took here added to the notion that something other than merely making a living was Yasuhara's object in life. He spent several weeks in Morristown, N. J., working as a waiter and he was a carpenter and a cook in other employments.

AUTHOR OF WORLD FAMOUS POEM TELLS ORIGIN OF THE STORY

Hughey D'Arcy, little known as the author of one of the world's best-known poems, "The Face on the Bar-room Floor," a poem that has made a universal appeal and has brought fame to many actors, portraying the part of the "bum," recently gave out the real facts of the origin of the story and how he was prompted to write this heart-touching piece of verse. Here is the story: "One Saturday night, about the first of August, 1887, some folks were seated in a prominent cafe on Fourteenth street, when through the swinging door came a man. He made a touching figure—his coat, a rusty Prince Albert, fastened at the throat with a safety pin; his trousers soiled and torn and his shoes heelless and ragged. He asked for a drink. One of the members of the party gave him his glass, and then the bartender threw him out. I found out who he was—an artist, homeless and friendless. It was the next day I wrote "The Face on the Barroom Floor." From that evening I never lost track of him until recently. He has gone—He is with Madeline!"

THE FIRST GROUP PHOTOGRAPH OF THE SONS OF THE JAPANESE MIKADO

One of the most interesting photographs received from Japan is this exclusive one showing for the first time the four sons of the mikado of Japan. Aside from the interesting fact that it is the first photo showing the four princes together, it is the first time the Crown Prince Hirohito (left) has been seen in Japan wearing European clothes. The picture has the official release of the department of the imperial household of the imperial court of Tokio. From left to right, Crown Prince Hirohito, Prince Sumi-no-miya, the 6-year-old son of the emperor; Prince Takamate-no-miya, the 16-year-old son of the emperor, and Prince Atso-no-miya, the 19-year-old son of the emperor.

Langston so far has refused to make a statement in the case.

GRACEFUL FIGURES ALL IN DRESS, GOWN EXPERT DECLARES

CHICAGO, Oct. 17.—Graceful feminine curves are not in matter of gravities and potatoes nor starches. It's all in the dress, according to Miss Evelyn D. Hanson of the art institution extension department, who has caused a tremendous uproar by announcing that men were much better dressed than women, and that when a man appeared in violent red tie it might be put down as a fact that his wife bought it for him.

Miss Hanson says any sort of a figure may be camouflaged until it appears perfect. For the stout woman she advised vertical lines placed close together, no kimono sleeves and no circles. The thin woman with a slender face and pointed chin must avoid long neck lines and pointed ends on collars. She must also avoid triangles.

"The thin woman looks best in just the materials that her stout sister cannot wear," said Miss Hanson. "Soft textiles that tend to detract from the angularity of her lines she will find most becoming."

"The most important line in a stout woman's attire is that from the underarms to the bottom of her skirt. Her garments should be semi-fitting under the arms."

MRS. SHIPPEY AND SON CHANGE NAME TO FORGET

By Associated Press.
KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 17.—Mrs. Mary Blake Woodson Shippey, who on Sept. 29 was granted a divorce from Lee Shippey, Missouri writer and poet, has been given permission by Judge E. E. Porterfield to change her name to Mrs. Mary Blake Woodson. The court also granted the petition of her 12-year-old son, Henry Lee Shippey Jr., that his name be changed to that of Blake Lynch Woodson, the name of his maternal grandfather.

In her petition for changing her name, Mrs. Shippey stated that the name was a "constant reminder of a most distressful event which threatened her health and mental condition."

Mrs. Shippey was granted a divorce after she had testified that her husband had admitted to her he was the father of a child born to a young French girl whom he had met while overseas on war work. Shippey and the young girl now are in Mexico, Mrs. Shippey testified at the divorce hearing.

ROUND OF FESTIVITIES! ON WEDDING CELEBRATION

BOSTON, Oct. 17.—Dennis O'Brien, of South Boston, celebrated his twenty-fifth wedding anniversary by getting into a fight, a fire, going to the hospital, getting arrested and taking an extended auto ride. Then he took another ride in the police patrol wagon, as the result of an argument with a neighbor, Julius Chase. During the scuffle that took place in the latter's apartment on the top floor they tipped over a lamp and set fire to the carpet and curtains.

The fire department and police arrived at the same time. O'Brien was taken into custody on a charge of drunkenness and Chase was removed to the city hospital.

GIBBONS-O'DOWD BOUT TRANSFERRED TO TULSA

TULSA, Okla., Oct. 17.—The Mike Gibbons-Mike O'Dowd, fifteen-round middleweight boxing contest, scheduled to be held in Wichita on Tuesday night, Oct. 18, has been transferred to Tulsa, and scheduled for one week later, Tuesday, Oct. 25. M. A. Weil and A. B. Russell, president and secretary of the Western Athletic association of Wichita, late today signed a contract with the Oil City Athletic club of Tulsa providing for the transfer of the bout to this city. The $35,000 purse guaranteed the boxers will stand.

GRUDGE FIGHTS AND SLUGGERS SELDOM PLEASE

At Least One Clever Boxer Necessary to Make Bout Worth While.

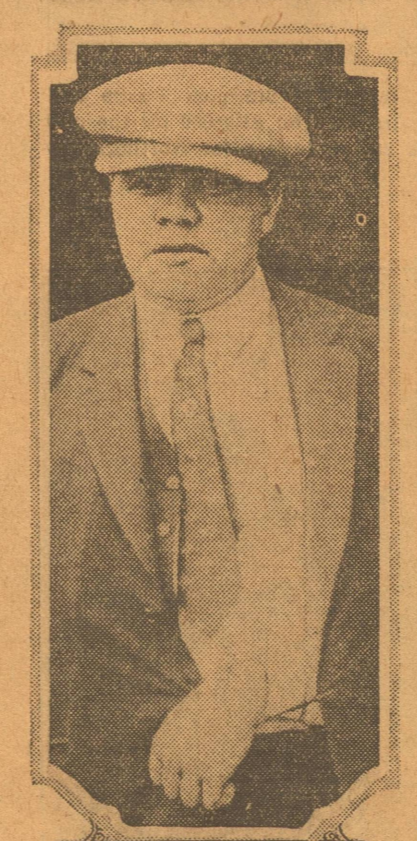

By OTTO FLOTO.

DENVER, Oct. 17.—Grudge fights generally develop into fistie farces. Likewise those much advertised and anticipated bouts between "slugger" in nine cases out of ten result in extremely tame and unsatisfactory affairs. Therefore fight fans who closely follow the game were not at all surprised when the Willie Jackson and Pete Hartley clash proved to be about as rotten a setto as the one between Downey and Johnny Wilson turned out to be at Jersey City. If you are a real student of the game and care more for real boxing, real science combined with clever footwork and clean hard-hitting, remain away from the "grudge" battle or stay at home when two slugging bruisers with nothing else to commend them are earded to furnish the entertainment.

Our old friend, Battling Nelson, was always a hard fighter and one who gave a fine run for the money. But recall all of Bat's great fights and you'll note there was a clever boxer on the other end. Any time Nelson hooked up with a simon pure slugger like himself there was a lot to be wished for. Few, if any, lightweights we know of could assimilate to the same degree the amount of fistie fodder the Battler could. Al Woolgast was one of those or a near approach to it and what a long drawn out affair it proved when Woolgast won the crown from the Battler at Port Richmond, Cal.

Nelson's Greatest Fights. Then look back on the bouts in which Nelson engaged against Joe Gans, Jimmy Britton, Owen Moran and that type of fighter and one could wish for no better entertainment. Nelson arose to great heights against clever opponents because of his ability to absorb all they sent his way and come up smiling for more. And yet the Battler did not "take" all this punishment. He had a peculiar manner in which he blocked many of the blows that appeared to be landed on some vital spot in his make-up. But nevertheless those who ever saw Nelson against this type of fighter were well rewarded for their time at the ringside. Willie Jackson is a slugger pure and simple. He bored in much after the fashion of Nelson but unlike Nelson, Jackson must do all his execution in the earlier rounds or its a case of the bout going the limit. After the third or fourth round he seems to "shoot his bolt" and the danger of the one punch knockout for which he is noted has passed. When Jackson fought Ritchie Mitchell in Milwaukee I sat in the corner with Pinkie Mitchell, a brother of Ritchie's. After the third round had passed Pinkie shouted to his brother: "Alright now Richie, that was the third round, all danger has passed now so soak him for fair."

Babe Ruth, Tarzan of Swat, against the doctor's orders, took part in the fifth game of the world series with an infected arm. After the game the arm became worse, and blood poison threatened to set in. The Babe appeared at the Polo Grounds with his arm in a sling and, much against his wishes, was compelled to watch the sixth game from the stand.

Hartley is another of that "Durable Dane" type and of course against a boxer of similar make up he showed poorly — no wonder the fans booed the show.

Carp's Next Bout.

In London exchanges which have come to hand we note the British are taking seriously the coming bout between Georges Carpentier and George Cook (who's Cook?) which is scheduled for Dec. 2. The date is a long way off but the interest is already beginning to brew and experts are of the opinion when the scheduled day arrives a greater gathering than any London has yet housed will be present to see Georges and Cook in action. Cook is said to be a tough fellow who can take a lot of beating, but is classed as a light hitter for a heavyweight. He is a sort of Battling Nelson among the heavyweights, a man who can absorb so much punishment the other fellow wears himself out in the attempt to beat him. Perhaps so, but let's wait and see what Carpentier does with him.

Of course Georges can not afford to take much of a chance for he is booked to meet one Thomas Gibbons of St. Paul in this country, and the aforesaid Mr. Thomas Gibbons is some shucks when it comes to fighting. If Cook should chance to defeat Carpentier of course the Gibbons engagement would be canceled. If Cook makes a fairly good showing Carpentier will not be considered the same drawing attraction he is now. That's why he's taking no chance. Of course we grant he's taking an awful chance with Gibbons, who should be returned the victor after the clash has taken place with the great French idol. The Kaiser took a chance, and see what happened to him!

COLONELS WIN AGAIN; NEED ONE GAME TO COP

By Associated Press.

BALTIMORE, Md., Oct. 17.—Louisville forged to the front in its post-season brush with Baltimore when she came through victorious Sunday, 7 to 6, in a game replete with thrills almost from the start to finish. Louisville has four victories with the Orioles three.

For three innings this afternoon's contest was close, after which Louisville bunched hits and bases on balls off Thomas for a quintet of markers. From this point on, the Colonels looked like easy winners until the International league champions knocked Wright out of the box and put five runs to their credit. Cullop was trotted to the hill and disposed of Bentley with a man on third. Manager McCarthy changed in the next round when Manager Dunn switched his line-up and Tincup, who won yesterday's game finished without trouble. In the seventh inning, while Baltimore was making its big rally, the Colonels made a very strenuous kick on Boley's hit which drove in the last two runs. They claimed it was foul and as a result of the lengthy argument Umpire McGowan banished Catcher Myer and Second Baseman Herzog. Louisville now needs but one more game to wind up the series, while the Orioles must take two in order.

The largest crowd of the series, either here or in Louisville, was on hand. The official attendance was 12,545 and receipts $16,084.35.
