DANCES GALORE FEATURE THE WEEK.

Ranger is so full of pep right on the eve of its big party that it can't hold in until the jubilee really begins, so it's expending its surplus fund of enjoyment in dances.
Tonight there is going to be a "get-acquainted dance" at the American Legion hall—it's a two-fold purpose dance, get acquainted with one another, and with the new floor recently laid in the ballroom of the hall.

Hunt and Brimberry, a local orchestra, having for its slogan "Good until the last note," are going to furnish the music—and they are good—and the floor is fine—and the occasion one that should be celebrated.

On Thursday night at the Gholson hotel there will be another dance. This dance is scheduled to last four hours—which means that it will dance the Home-Coming Oil Jubilee in.

Through the courtesy of the Gholson hotel this dance was made possible. It was realized that a large number of visitors would be here at that time and in order that they might not have any time to hang heavily on their hands, or feet, the hotel at once got busy and arranged a dance for jubilee eve night.

Gus Coleman's Rainbow serenaders will play for the dance—and that insures good music. The Rainbows never fail to please—everybody will be full of the jubilee spirit and it is most fitting that the great event should be thus ushered in.

CHILD WELFARE CLUB POSTPONED.

On account of the jubilee the Child Welfare club will not meet this week. Members please take notice.

REPORT OF W. M. U. OF FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH.

The W. M. U. of the First Baptist church met in regular session Monday afternoon and tackled comforts and quitted until they went into business session. During that hour Dec. 9 and 10 were set as this year's bazaar dates and a letter was read inviting this body to attend an all-day meeting Wednesday at Carbon of the W. M. U. association, at which time a state officer, Mrs. J. E. Leich, will be present and conduct a school of instruction. The president urged that as many members as possible attend the meeting.

PERSONALS.

Mrs. David D. Redman and son, David Jr., of Dallas are guests of Mrs. Stanley McAnally at the R. R. Stafford home on Spring road. Mrs. Redman will be remembered by old-time Ranger folks as Miss Dora Mayne Cole, daughter of Major Howard Cole. Mrs. Redman and son will remain in Ranger through the jubilee.
Roy W. Gilbreath, manager of the J. C. Penney company's store in Ranger, spent Sunday and Monday in Dallas at the State fair, in connection with the J. C. Penney booth there.

Gold wire drawn so fine that 3,500 yards weigh only one ounce, was recently exhibited in England.

Good News for Mrs. Haldeman

Our camera caught Mrs. George Haldeman at her New York hotel in the act of reading the cable's assurance of the safety of her husband and Ruth Elder after their New York-to-Paris monoplane "American Girl" was forced down near the Azores. She'll have a long wait, though, before he makes his way back home by steamer.

Speaking of commee pots, the Ranger Tin shop has just completed one of the biggest ones that we have ever seen. It is about eight feet high and three or four feet in diameter and holds 660 gallons. It will be used in making coffee for the jubilee barbecue.

Get your pencil. There are 128 ounces in a gallon and 660 gallons make 84,480 ounces. Allowing seven ounces to a cup the pot will hold 12,068 cups of coffee. John Thurman hasn't said how many times he expects to make it full.

The town is already taking on the jubilee spirit. Now get your mind out of the gutter, we mean mentally and so forth we don't mean anything with reference to spirit ferment.

Some of the old-timers are already beginning to drift in. Sunday night Chief Jim Ingram ran into an old acquaintance and invited him to enjoy the hospitality of the city bastille for the night. Monday morning Jim turned him out and told him how glad he was to have had him and all, but explained that he expected to be busy with strange crooks this week and that he didn't have much time to fool away with crooks that he already knew and that this guy might spread the word around.

Johnny Boyd's father came in yesterday for the jubilee and had the most peculiar snake we have ever seen. It was a little fellow and had an almost perfect outline of a woman's head on the back of its head. We've heard of women being referred to as "snakes in the grass" but that's the first snake we ever saw that had a woman's head on it.

COLLEGE STATION, Oct. 18.—The largest football crowd ever assembled on Kyle field at Texas A. & M. college is expected for the Aggies-S. M. U. game here Nov. 5.

The attendance for the game is expected to exceed 15,000. Five special trains, two from Dallas, two from Houston and one from Waco already have been chartered.

In view of the importance of the game on the standings of the Southwestern conference, the game will be one of the most important conference tilts of the present season. Football critics rate the Aggies as the most formidable opponents for the Mustangs in the conference race. S. M. U. beat the Aggies 9 to 7 at Dallas last year.

AUSTIN, Oct. 18.—Good news for pecan shippers has been issued by the state railroad commission which permits a through rate to apply this fall on pecans concentrated for shipment. This means that the pecans can be shipped from the source to a concentration point and then go on to destination at the same rate, as though they had been shipped direct from source of destination. Approximately 900 cars of pecans were shipped last year.

AUSTIN, Oct. 18.—Dr. H. Y. Benedict, president of the University of Texas, has been officially informed that the total enrollment of the School of Mines of the University at El Paso this year is 803. Of this number, 121 men and one woman are taking engineering; 86 men and 150 women are taking academic regular courses; and 207 men and 238 women are taking academic irregular courses.

GOLD IN CAPITAL GROUNDS
Discovery of gold in the grounds of the new canal at Canberra, Australia, has raised the question of how to mine it. Government officials declare that as the land is held under lease, which conveys no right to work underground and there is no mining ordinance, the government has no provision under which approval can be given to mining in the territory.

Too often nowadays mothers, in their efforts to do for their families, find it a burden.
Thousands of these mothers are now, in the privacy of their own homes, and at small expense, using St. Joseph's G. F. P. to build them up and strengthen them.

Among these happy mothers is Mrs. Pauline Fowler, who lives at 1120 E. Quincy St., San Antonio, Texas.

Mrs. Fowler says, "I hadn't been feeling what you could call real good for some time and just recently I got so I felt tired out all the time, and couldn't walk more than thirty yards without feeling exhausted.

"I didn't know what to do to get back my strength until I began hearing my neighbors tell what G. F. P. is doing for them.

"I feel so much stronger by the time I had finished the first bottle, I kept right on using this medicine, and now I feel just as strong and healthy as I ever did."

Taylor Woman Paints Scenes Of Thurber Hill

A year ago last spring when the wild flowers were in full glory of blossom and every hill and valley ran the whole gamut of colors, Mrs. Margaret Neubauer of Taylor, a sister of Mrs. John Thurman, took her paints, canvases and easel and spent many hours near the Thurber Hill on the Strawn highway, east of Ranger, putting on canvas some of those beautiful spots that abound on that scenic drive.

Mrs. Thurman has an exhibition several of the finished pictures, which should be of interest to those who love this road, season in and season out.

The hills, the road, the yellow and blue flowers of springtime are perfectly depicted in the various pictures and yet each one is so typical of the spot from which it was painted that any one ever having seen this scenery knows at once that it is the Thurber Hill road.

CISCO IS CONSIDERING BUILDING NEW HOTEL

Efforts to build a modern, fire-proof hotel in Cisco, are being renewed. A committee of Cisco business men, who have been studying plans for such a hotel in that city for some time, and who have considered numerous propositions, again have a proposition before them which has splendid prospects of materializing, it is stated.

Much Jealousy Exists, Claim Bruce Favored

By RODNEY DUTCHER
 NEA Service Writer
 WASHINGTON.—Being Andrew Mellon's son-in-law has certain drawbacks.

Mr. David K. E. Bruce took over the job in the face of the jealousy of goodnes knows how many rivals for the hand of Miss Mellon and now he encounters the jealousy of his comrades in the consular branch of the foreign service.

To say now fully this present jealousy is justified might be unfair to Mr. Bruce. Somehow, everyone speaks well of Mr. Bruce and even the envious concede there is nothing wrong with him. But the consular boys are peeved because they believe he is being favored by their superiors in the state department as a matter of standing in with Secretary Mellon, who is the third richest man in the United States.

Although Mr. Bruce's ability does not seem to be questioned, they contend that he has not yet demonstrated it in the service and that in spite of that fact he is being favored over hundreds of others in his own classification.

After Mr. Bruce had spent a few months in the foreign service school, had won the rank of a vice-consul at a salary of something like $2500 and had been married to Miss Ailsa Mellon with great pomp and with the entire Washington police force holding back the crowds, he was appointed to a vice-consul's post in Rome. That was in May, 1926.

Since that time, according to other consular men, Mr. Bruce has been almost constantly "on leave" until his recent return to Washington.

Mr. Bruce's friends explain that his long absences from duty were due solely to the poor health of Mrs. Bruce which gave him and his multi-millionaire father-in-law considerable worry.

But the rub came when Mr. Bruce resigned his job. The department, it appeared, didn't want Mr. Bruce to go. Some of its higher officials felt that if there was any way to keep Mr. Mellon's son-in-law, it ought to be done.

So a telegram was sent to Mr. Bruce offering him another temporary assignment and promising him that the department would discuss his future with him when the assignment was over. The assignment happened to be a diplomatic job at the International Radio-telegraph Conference now in progress here. Mr. Bruce was made an assistant to William R. Castle, the assistant secretary of state who represents the department as a delegate at the performance. It is a very nice temporary assignment.

Now the other consuls here say that Mr. Bruce who was selected in the first place from several who wanted the Rome berth, has been given a position here that might well have gone to any one of numerous other men who had been working hard and conscientiously the last few years. They complain that it is bad for the morale of such men to see this plum go to Mr. Bruce.

They figure that almost anyone else who had resigned as Mr. Bruce did, after such protracted leaves of absence, would have had his resignation accepted forthwith.

The consular men believe that after the radio conference is over, Mr. Bruce will be made a diplomatic secretary. There is much more social prestige, but much less work to that job than to a consularship. Friends of Mrs. Bruce, however, report that she prefers to live in Washington near her father and that Mr. Bruce probably will be given a post in the state department itself under one of Mr. Mellon's admirers.

Back Over the Norse Trail in This Queer Craft

This rather queer looking contraption is the powerful Sikorsky amphibian plane in which Frances Grayson hopes to fly back over the trail Norsemen sailed a thousand years ago. The attempt to fly to Denmark marks the first usage by American flyers of a plane that can land on either earth or water in trans-oceanic flights.

High School Boy
Hurt Seriously
In Car Accident

Bernice Stevens, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Stevens of the Caddo road, is in the City-County hospital, Ranger, paralyzed from the waist down, following injuries received last night in an automobile accident on the Strawn highway. J. R. Roberts, son of Mrs. Roney Roberts, had his hands cut in the accident and spent last night at the hospital but was dismissed from there today. Two other boys who were riding with them, whose names have not been learned, are said to have escaped unhurt.

The car in which the boys, all high school students, were riding, turned over about twelve o'clock last night, just beyond Russell Creek, when the driver of the car became blinded by the lights of an approaching car and went off the road, according to reports of the accident.

Passing autoists brought the injured boys to the hospital and a wrecker went out for the badly wrecked car. Young Stevens sustained an injury to his back, the nature of which has not been definitely determined, as it awaits the verdict of the x-ray pictures that will be made as soon as possible.

According to Mrs. Roberts, mother of J. R. Roberts, the two boys who figured in the wreck, were very intimate friends. Bernice had spent the night with her son the night before and asked her to let J. R. spend last night with him, which request she refused. She thought she heard J. R. come in during the night but when she awoke this morning she found he had not slept in his bed and decided that he had spent the night with Bernice and did not learn until later that there had been an accident. When she heard of it she went at once to the hospital to see her boy but he had left there and gone to school.

Davis Preparing Surprise For His Wife on Return

L. Davis was not at his place of business today at the E. H. & A. Davis company store, Ranger. He was moving.

The fact that Mr. Davis was moving was not so interesting, although he is moving into a new house, but the fact that he was moving while his wife, who has been in New York for several weeks, was away from home, so that he might have everything ready for her when she arrives here Thursday, was the interesting factor in the story.

The Davis family have been living in an apartment, but today are moving into a lovely new house, recently completed on Blackwell road near the Chestnut-Smith corporation plant by Fren Yonker. This new house is two-story and modern in ever respect. And that isn't all—when Mrs. Davis comes home, she'll find not only a new house, all ready and waiting for her, but a new car as well.

WHITEHALL AND
TWO SHORT BOYS
TO PLAY FRIDAY

Age Question Has Been Settled to Satisfaction of Authorities, Hubbard Doubtful.

By GUS COLEMAN
It seems certain now that David Whitehall and Victor and Homer Short will be eligible to play conference football this fall, notwithstanding the efforts of parties in other towns to discredit them.

An examination of the Oklahoma records of vital statistics showed that each of the above boys was enrolled thereon and that according to that information they are all three within the required age limit to permit them to play high school football in the Interscholastic League. The status of Seth Hubbard is still in the balance and relatives and friends are searching various records in an effort to locate documentary evidence as to the date of his birth. Therefore, Hubbard will in all probability watch the Bulldog-Maverick game from the sidelines unless the necessary evidence be forthcoming before Friday.

The unsettled conditions regarding the eligibility of these players has made it very difficult for the coaches to lay a plan of attack for Friday's game, for different methods are necessary with different players. However, the squad has been working out daily and is in fair condition for the game.

From that standpoint the Mavericks have the advantage since they have known all along who they were going to use and who not and have had a weeks practice along whatever line of attack they plan to use.

On the other hand, the Bulldogs realize this and, as a whole, they are going to look upon the future of the last week as more or less of an attempt to demoralize their training activities. They will go on the field with the idea of displaying their supremacy out there on the gridiron rather than in digging up the dust covered scholastic records of by-gone years and poring over them for some technical flaw.

Coaches Cherry and Davis are rather reluctant in talking about their starting line-up, but it is practically certain that the three boys whose age has been in question will be in the starting line-up.

Estimate 12,500
Will Attend Big
Football Game

C. E. Shields, secretary-treasurer of the Ranger High School Athletic committee, was caught intently scribbling the layout of the grandstand of Lillard Field, and predicting from the number of seats that have been sold, that there would be at least 12,500 people at the Maverick-Bulldog game Friday.

Mr. Shields stated that all tickets that had been laid aside would be placed on sale Friday morning unless called for in the meantime and that on the sale day general admission tickets to the game will be placed on sale.

"The gates will open at one o'clock," Mr. Shields said, "so it will be a case of 'first come first served'."

with those who do not have reserved seats for the game. We are placing general admission tickets on sale early so as to avoid a rush at the last minute."

Ranger Will Have
Decorating Done
Wednesday Night

The First National Bank building, Ranger, will again echo to the footsteps of oil men—but these men won't come as depositors this time—they will come to visit the booths installed by various oil well supply companies for the visiting oil fraternity at the jubilee.

Today decorators were busy arranging booths and decorating them, and the beautiful bank building gave all signs of being ready to welcome the boys back to Ranger. Downtown decorations were well under way today and representatives of the American Flag and Decoration company of Abilene, stated that the entire town would be decorated by midnight Wednesday. Main street signed up one hundred percent and most all of the merchants on the side streets joined in the decoration movement.

It is official stated that every car or vehicle that enters the parade, must be decorated. There are two decoration companies in Ranger and any one feeling that they are not able to have their cars decorated by an expert can either rent or buy materials from one of these companies for that purpose. One company has headquarters at the chamber of commerce office and the other one on south Rusk street in the former Classic Tailor shop.

May be relieved by rational treatment—it can not be rubbed away.

Are you one of those unfortunates who suffer with pains in your muscles and joints, commonly called rheumatism, making you miserable, less efficient, interfering with your working hours, ruining your sleep? You may have tried many things without relief. Why not try S.S.S.? For more than 100 years it has been giving relief in thousands of cases, as testified to in unsolicited letters of gratitude. "I suffered from rheumatism for a good many years. At times my joints would swell so, I couldn't walk. I tried almost everything. Went to Hot Springs . . . then finally decided to try S.S.S. I took a course. In a short time the rheumatic pains entirely left me. I am now in perfect health, and want to add that I have tried all kinds of medicines but I think S.S.S. is the best." Earl C. Campbell, 115 West Main Street, Johnson City, Tenn. S.S.S. is purely vegetable. It is extracted from the fresh roots of medicinal plants and herbs and gives to Nature what she needs in building you up so that your system throws off the cause. S.S.S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

A motion for a change of venue in the case of Eastland county vs. Smith Bros., road contractors, is being heard before a jury in Judge Elzo Been's court. The motion, offered by the attorneys for Smith Bros., seeks a change of venue to Stephens county on the ground that there is so much prejudice existing in Eastland county against the road contractors that Smith Bros. cannot get a fair and impartial trial in Eastland county.

To Employ Modern Architecture At Corpus Christi

AUSTIN, Oct. 18.—Beautification of the water front of Corpus Christi will be undertaken along modern architectural, sculptural and landscaping lines, according to S. C. P. Vosper, professor of architecture of the University of Texas, who has accepted an invitation to serve as a member of an advisory committee to devise and prepare plans for the proposed improvements. Associated with Professor Vosper on this committee are Gutzon Borglum, the famous sculptor and a number of leading citizens of Corpus Christi. The tentative plans call for the development of a boulevard along the water front, parks, recreational centers, bathhouses and beautification of the sea-wall, among other things. Professor Vosper is greatly interested in the project and will devote as much time to the work as possible. The statement was recently published that he had become a member of the agricultural faculty of the State Agricultural and Mechanical college. This was an error, although he did have an offer of a position there which he declined in order that he might continue his services with the department of architecture of the University. In discussing the plans for the improvement work at Corpus Christi, Professor Vosper said that as a preliminary step, airplane photographs would be taken of the entire water front as it exists now and that these would be used as a guide in preparing plans.

NORFLEET
The Manhunter's Own True Story
As told to Gordon Hines

WHAT HAS BEEN TOLD
Frank Norfleet a Texas rancher, windled out of $45,000 by members of a confidence ring, headed by Joe Gurey, resolves to break up this gang if it takes his last penny. After considerable effort he finds two of his men in California. They are brought to Fort Worth for trial. Acting on the tip of a stranger, Norfleet hurries to Florida to search for his men. After several disappointing experiences with the police force who seem, in certain cities, to be working with the swindlers, Norfleet learns that a link in the con-chain is operating at Sanford. He adopts the name of Parkinson and goes there posing as a prospective purchaser of a celery farm and talks rather freely of the large sum he expects to invest and attracts the attention of a man named Johnson, probably an out-cast of the confidence ring, who discourages the purchase of a celery farm and induces Norfleet to accompany him to Daytona where the investment opportunities are supposed to be better. En route Johnson suddenly drags Norfleet to the car window and points to a man proceeding in an automobile saying that he would give a great deal to meet the man, who is a "financial wizard." They arrive at Daytona and Norfleet, by a ruse, engages a room for the night in a private home, appointing to meet Johnson in the morning. Awakening early he peeps out his window and sees Johnson outside on guard as if he were afraid his sucker would get away. After breakfast together they go for a walk on the beach. While strolling they encounter the financial wizard Johnson and pointed out from the train and Johnson reminds him they have met before. The stranger is introduced to Norfleet as Mr. Steel. After a brief chat Johnson gives Steel a $20 bill to place on a horse race and the man leaves with $80. Johnson insists on Norfleet accepting half of the amount. Steel induces Norfleet and Johnson to accompany him to the "Club House" where he assures them that the facilities were much better for making a big winning.

The club house loomed up before us. Tall chimneys—feudal towers. Precipitate cliffs, dropping straight into a churning sea—a sea that was never calm. Even the road ahead was a tangled skein. It was a beautiful spot for a nice murder! I wondered how many had been driven out this pleasant road who had found rest with the fishes at the foot of that stern cliff. Well, if I came through this, it would be one more experience. I wondered if my companions were armed to watch for a rut in the road. There were not many. Ah, here was one—the car hit it hard and swerved drunkenly in recovering. I bounced like a rubber ball from one side of the seat to the other. I threw out my hands and felt awfully to see if my neighbors had weapons concealed. It seemed that they had no hardware about them. We all laughed at the bump, and some one referred to that old brood about every bump being a boost. We were nearing the clubhouse. I looked behind at the little speck of a town in the distance. That was Daytona. I wondered how soon I'd get back there. I was that pessimistic that I could imagine every move I made being the last of its sort for me. An atmosphere of impending trouble was in the air—it would not be long now. "We're here!" exclaimed Steel. He and Johnson opened the car's doors and we stepped into the road. They banged the doors shut and I tumbled as if a cannon had gone off. I was that nervous. The club was on the summit of a hill and the narrow top jutted off sharply, on the ocean's side, a dizzy precipice. Under other circumstanceilings were high and massively beamed, harmonizing with the rustic effect of the room. On the side which faced the ocean, great plate glass windows formed almost the entire wall and the view was enchanting. Against the back wall, opposite the entrance, was a table and two men, with heavy carbines, were seated near it. I looked and, unable to believe my eyes, I steadied myself. I must have stared oddly, for one of the men rose, shouldering his gun and standing quietly, like a military sentry. I went nearer the table. No one moved to stop me. There, stacked in a great heap, was a mountain of money! Twenties, fifties—hundreds!—even thousands!—stacked carelessly, as if some one had dumped them nonchalantly from a clothesbasket and tossed a few packages on top for good measure. It staggered me. The greenbacks were bound in packages, according to denominations, and banded by regular bank labels. A package toppled and rolled off the pile, landing at my feet. I picked it up, thumbed it and tossed it back on the

COMING FRIDAY
Dempsey-Tunney Fight Pictures

With special midnight show Thursday night showing the same program as will be shown Friday.

The hands that gripped the carbines grew tense for a second, then relaxed. I watched them carefully, from the corner of my eye. I noted, also, that the guards wore six-shooters at their belts. The money was evidently quite safe. Unless, of course, one of the crooks should develop such a dishonest urge as had caused Reno Hamlin to double-cross his brethren in San Antonio. Steel took my arm and showed me about the room. To the left of the money table, against the wall opposite the great windows was a large blackboard, checked off in small squares. A perspiring youth ducked back and forth before the board, hair rumpled and tie awry, frantically chalking up figures. He did not turn or give us as much as a glance. He knew his role quite well. In the center of the room was a long table, upon which telegraph instruments clicked busily. The telegrapher was the usual type—quiet and rather dark and pallid. I sometimes wondered if these boys willingly lent themselves to the crooked phase of the game they played or if they were just salaried men who needed jobs badly. They seemed so aloof, so unattached from the rest. This one wore the indigenous green eye shade. His instruments clicked a lively staccato and he wrote industriously. Two prosperous looking men sat on a long bench which faced the bulletin board from beneath the big windows. They wore light grey overcoats over their business suits and I wondered if the bulges in their pockets were as much like the outlines of automatic pistols as they seemed to me, in my excited state. I noted their faces, drawn and strained as if the figures on the board meant life or death to them. They were also doing their roles realistically. I wondered if they were principals or just "atmosphere" to resort to Hollywood vernacular. All of these things and thoughts were almost instantaneous flashes. It takes much longer to tell of them. My gaze was drawn magnetically back to the mountain of money. I went near the table and fingered a few of the packages. I felt the strange, mesmeric effect of seeing so much cold cash and realized how fine a bit of selling psychology it was for the crooks to make such a display of it. It would make a reasonable conservative man lose his sense and become a wild-eyed gambler. (To be continued)

When Margaret Graham, one of the stars in the Al G. Barnes circus, wishes to cross a puddle on the circus lot, she enlisted the aid of "Ruth" to assist her.

The management of the Al G. Barnes circus, which exhibits Tuesday, Oct. 25, in Ranger, claims the best herd of elephants in America. They all help with the work around the circus—moving wagons, contributing their strength to pulling up the tents, pulling on the ropes and in other ways making themselves useful.

The new spectacular feature of the circus this year is called "Aladdin and the Parade of Gold," in which nearly 1,000 characters are portrayed, and the mighty cast is headed by the Chinese beauty, Lola Lee Chong.

AUTOMOBILE CATCHES FIRE ON MAIN STREET

A car caught fire last night on Main street, Ranger, near Swany's Drug store. Someone telephoned the fire department that there was a fire at Swany's Drug store. Chief George Murphy gave the order for both trucks to roll, thinking it was a serious fire. Now, the fire did not amount to much, but Chief Murphy explained that it cost $10 extra to take the other truck along and that he wished when people report a fire, they would state the nature of it, so the department would not have to take any more trucks than are necessary, as every time a truck goes out it averages at least $10 a trip.
