Social Security Tax Raises Are Planned

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6 (AP)—It appeared likely today that the administration's program for overhauling the social security system would include a sharp increase in payroll taxes as a yoke on inflation.

Chairman George (D-Ga) of the senate finance committee said he had heard that congress might be asked to double the present levy of 1 per cent each on employers and employees, both as a means of holding down inflationary spending and to provide a "cushion for a post-war slump in business and employment.

President Roosevelt has said he plans to ask congress for sweeping revisions in the social security structure, calculated to bring within the benefits of the act 40,000,000 persons not now covered.

The War Today— Hitler's Bold Claims Likely Are Only Gambling Prediction

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Herald Special News Service)

There is food for reflection in the fact that Herr Hitler has even the most cynical observers guessing as to the significance of his tall claim last week that he already had Russia broken and that fresh operations of gigantic dimensions (presumably the pay-off) were in progress.

Apparently a suspicious world hasn't been sure whether the Nazi chief is just trying out a piece of psychological propaganda or whether he really believes he has the Reds beaten.

Having studied his works for a long time, and having seen him in action at close range on many occasions, it strikes me that it is unwise to push-pool his statements without examination, even though they appear flamboyant to his critics. He would seem to have support for this view in the report from London today that the Germans have indeed launched a big scale offensive along the Russian front.

The information in England indicates that the Nazis are attacking heavily along much of the 1,100 mile front between the Baltic and the Black Sea. The pressure is said to be particularly intense in the central sector opposite Moscow, and on the southern flank in the Ukraine, but Moscow reports that the invaders also are flinging themselves with unabating fierceness against the defenses of Leningrad.

From the meager information available in London it appears that the Nazis are making some progress in their assault. However, the Bolsheviks are said to be resisting stubbornly.

So Hitler was right, though a bit ahead of events, when he said big operations were commencing. He wasn't right when he said the Muscovites were crushed, because they continue to put up the epic resistance which they admit has cost them 1,128,000 men in killed, wounded and missing since the start of this bloody conflict.

What has the Nazi leader in mind when he proclaims the Russian collapse? Hitler is a colossal gambler and it's quite likely he is gambling now that this new offensive of his may deliver the knockout blow to an admittedly hard-pressed foe. He figures the Reds have been weakened enough so that they may crack.

That's always possible, and the same thing might happen to the Germans. One lucky break may change the course of a war. The New York Yankees beat the Brooklyn Dodgers yesterday when a catcher dropped the ball on the "final out" which would have given the game to the Dodgers. War is like that, too.

This new German drive has as its supreme objective the quick and utter defeat of the Bolsheviks, and is an effort to capitalize on Russia's serious lack of equipment, especially tanks and airplanes. Undoubtedly the invaders hope to capture Leningrad and Moscow, and complete their conquest of the Ukraine so that they can swing south into the Caucasus where the oil is.

Former Justice Louis Brandeis Taken By Death

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—Death has ended the career of Louis Dembitz Brandeis, noted liberal jurist and first Jew ever named to the supreme court.

The former associate justice, long a sufferer from a heart ailment, died shortly after 7 o'clock last night. It was heart trouble which prompted his retirement from the supreme court on February 13, 1938, and a severe attack at his home here Wednesday led to his death. He was 84.

LOUIS D. BRANDEIS

The family announced that the funeral, for which arrangements were incomplete, would be strictly private and requested that no flowers be sent. Memorial services would be held later, the announcement said.

Brandeis, who summed up his own philosophy of life as "high thinking and simple living," had no experience as a judge when President Wilson nominated him for associate justice in 1916. But he was nationally known for his activity in and out of court on behalf of labor unions and against "high finance."

Child Killed By Stray Shot By Policeman

ORANGE, Oct. 6 (AP)—Two-year-old Arthur Lee Guidry of Fort Arthur was killed yesterday by a pistol bullet that went astray when Ean Corlimer, Orange police officer, fired at a speeding motorist.

The Calcasieu parish, La., coroner returned a verdict that the death "was caused by the inaccurate shooting by the officer and with no criminal intent."

Mrs. M. P. Guidry was driving an automobile and the child was with her. The father was following in a truck. They were returning home after a visit in Louisiana. Guidry said the car the officer was after almost hit the automobile his wife was driving and that she pulled over to the side of the road and stopped. He said the officer got out of his car and fired twice.

"After the second shot," said Guidry, "my wife got out of the car, crying, 'My baby is killed!' I ran to the car and picked the baby up."

The speeder was not captured.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo.—All the world series confusion isn't concentrated in Brooklyn.

A fan called the News-Press sports desk to enquire if Brooklyn is in the Eastern Time zone.

PORTLAND, Ore.—Opponents of the police department team in the opening game of the city football league threatened to utilize the opportunity to punch several police players.

UTICA, Mo.—Through the years this village has plodded through with only one telephone—that in the grocery store.

Now its homes have been connected to the Chilloothe exchange, and everybody's happy. Too happy, in fact to suit the telephone workers. Every time they try to check the long and short ring numbers assigned to each subscriber almost every receiver on the line is picked up at the first tingle.

"The Corsican Brothers"

A one-minute-movie of the new Edward Small melodrama starring Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., with Ruth Warrick, Akim Tamiroff, H. B. Warner and J. Carrol Nash.

Brought up apart from his twin brother, Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., as Mario Franchi, meets Ruth Warrick in Paris.

When she returns to Corsica, he follows her to the house of his old enemy, Akim Tamiroff, posing as a jewelry salesman.

But the other twin, Lucien Franchi, falls in love with the same girl.

At the betrothal hall of Tamiroff and Miss Warrick, the Paris twin is recognized and captured.

He escapes from his captors and returns in time to avenge the subsequent murder of his Corsican brother—and incidentally to win the girl.

MEET THE STARS

With VIC BOEKEN

Joan Blair decided early in life that getting up in the morning under compulsion was a degradation of human dignity, not to mention a strain on the will-power, that could be overcome by entering a stage career.

She had no other motives in becoming an actress, not fame, not wealth, none of those things that impel all other young girls to become either an actress or a nurse. Joan simply didn't like the idea of starting each day to the hysterical clatter of an alarm clock.

Now in Hollywood, she has recently made "Mr. District Attorney" and "Rags to Riches" both for Republic. She also had a good part in "Citizen Kane," but most of this was eliminated, for it involved the two Everleigh sisters of old Chicago and Joan was playing a composite of both.

Joan wasn't thinking of a terrace house when she took to the stage, though she owns just that now, along with a swimming pool, high up in Hollywood's Laurel Canyon; she was thinking of getting away from early rising.

She now gets up at seven, father of success. Joan is able to say from experience that it helps.

VIC BOEKEN

Erskine Johnson's HOLLYWOOD

EXCLUSIVELY YOURS: Before Stirling Hayden quit Hollywood and the movies for good, Paramount quietly gifted him with a $17,000 bonus, hoping he'd change his mind. But he didn't. . . Ann Sheridan will have horses, chickens, ducks, turkeys—everything except cows on her new valley ranch. "I saw enough cows in Texas," says Ann, "and besides their moos remind me of critics' boos" . . . Ginger Rogers and millionaire Howard Hughes have rediscovered each other. He courted her before she married Lew Ayres . . . During filming of "The Little Foxes" . . . Producer Samuel Goldwyn commented to a friend that he wanted someone like Herbert Marshall in the role of the father. "But Herbert Marshall IS playing the role," said the friend, surprised. "I know," replied Goldwyn, "but he still isn't the type" . . . Nick Stuart's former wife, singer Ruth Skinner, and Charles Link, a Dallas oil biggie, are an item.

An animal trainer, so the story goes, put a trained dog through a routine of tricks before a Hollywood casting director. The dog was sensational—got down on his knees and impersonated Al Jolson singing "Mammy," danced like Eleanor Powell, played a hand of gin rummy with the trainer, impersonated Bob Hope and John Barrymore and topped off the act by humming "God Bless America." "The dog's great but there's something wrong," said the casting director. "Let me think it over and call me up tomorrow morning. Next morning the dog trainer called and said, "Well, how about my dog?" "He's great, really great," said the casting director, "but I don't like his personality."

Henry Wilcoxon, who was accidentally shot and stabbed during filming of "The Corsican Brothers," heaved sighs of relief when he completed the picture and reported to Universal for "White Savage." In the first scene he was knocked unconscious in a fight with Brian Donlevy, Andy Devine and Brod Crawford.

Joan Parker and her husband, Doug Dawson, who got the flying bug while she worked in "Flying Blind," have started a flying service at Metropolitan airport and will operate a Palm Springs-L. A. service this winter.

Jane Withers' father is sinking some of his dough into a local electric sign business . . . Dorothy Lamour will sing three numbers with Jimmy Dorsey's band in "The Fleet's In." Probably will remind her of the days when she sang with Herbie Kaye—and married him . . . Buddy Westmore flew up from San Diego yesterday to be near his new heart beat, Lorraine Elliott, at the opening of Charles Fox's new patio . . . Morny Amsterdam takes over the m.c. chores at Snyder's Bandbox Wednesday night . . . Add ironic notes: When Louise Beavers played the Negro mammy in "Virginia," Leigh Whipper portrayed her uncle. Now she's playing the same kind of a role in "The Vanishing Virginian" and Whipper is playing her husband.

Remember when you were a kid and someone shouted: "Last one in the water is a sissy!" Variations were "rotten eggs" and "chicken." Other day scenarios Fred Rinaldo and Bob Lees overheard an extra say: "Last one off the set is a producer."

Another new Hollywood late spot, Cafe Society, opened October 1. . . Youthful Mary Anderson is negotiating to "adopt" for the war duration a 12-year-old English girl named Mary Anderson . . . Those talking horse gags are going to have a screen counterpart. Producer Ed Finney is dubbing in the voice of a man for the film version of "Black Beauty," in which the horse tells the story . . . And Milton Berle says that when a Hollywood invitation reads "formal," the men wear studs in their sweaters and the ladies come in strapless slacks.

KEN MORGAN'S HOLLYWOOD KEYHOLE

Up around Fresno, California, way, Vic McLaglen is a man of prominence for he owns and works a ranch of approximately 1500 acres—a right sizable investment and a sage one, too. Vic is also active in a most thriving enterprise which probably does not remunerate but nevertheless is an important cog in his life and in many lives throughout the country. He is director of a show drill team called Victor McLaglen's Light Horse Cavalry and next month they are due at the Missouri State Fair. It remains now for one more activity to be planted to complete a consistent cycle. This will be taken care of shortly. Vic plans a racing stable of 22 horses with which he will compete at tracks throughout the country. And, incidentally, the source of the above story requested me to write that Vic is at present reunited with Edmund Love in RKO's "Call Out the Marines."

Mickey Rooney was 21 years old last week and the studio rolled out the red carpet for the "new man" with a party at the Cocomoos Grove which was attended by his friends and studio executives. Highlight of the evening was the reading of a poem composed by Mickey's pal and song-writing collaborator, Sidney Miller, who rhymed three pages with the titles of pictures Mickey has made—ending with a note referring to "Buckberry Finn" which said "but we don't talk about that!"

Anyone who has been wondering what has become of Isabel Jewell, one of Hollywood's most capable dramatic actresses, can tune in this week to a New York radio station and hear her dulcet tones emanating from the speaker. She starts a series of programs based on Hollywood gossip—her collaborator will be Malcolm Child, well known eastern commentator.

From a letter recently received from his son Rodion, now in the RAF, Basil Rathbone passes on the story about the three captured Nazi aviators who were placed in the same hospital room, until attendants asked that one of them be in a room by himself. It seems he kept having nightmares and calling out, "Attention! Spitfires"—at which the other two kept diving under the bed.

THE GOOD RUMOR MAN: Filmland's cafe society got a thrill last week when Paulette Goddard and Charlie Chaplin (rumored forever apart) bagged into smart Mocoambo and set for hours while photographers had a field day and set somewhat of a record for used bulbs—150 shots were taken of the pair . . . The gang of camera boys is understood to have clasped hands on a ban on shooting Phyllis Brooks—they don't like her attitude . . . Wayne Morris has been ordered to peel off 12 additional pounds before he can be eligible to enroll at the Navy's Pensacola air training station . . . What's this about Bette Davis entering Johns Hopkins Hospital soon to have her nose "bobbled"? . . . The John Howard-Hedy Lamarr trial separation and subsequent reunion is over and both are again strangers to each other . . . George Montgomery is back to Ann Rutherford—but Publicist Alan Gordon has the inside in that league . . . Brenda Joyce shed tears for an entire day over the loss of her wedding ring . . . Cesar Romero, the village's favorite escort, is squiring Ann Sothern around since her separation from Roger Pryor—latter was spotted with Lana Turner last week while Tony Martin was in New York . . . Blake Garner says that the glamour girl's greatest problem is keeping the wolves AT her door . . . Margot Grahame goes into a New York show this fall in the hopes that pictures will be forthcoming . . . Arthur Murray says the wife of a writer friend of his in her divorce complaint asked for custody of his gag man! . . . Bill Marshall finally got around to Inez Cooper—spotted at the Bar of Music . . . Edgar Bergen and fashion expert Frances Scully very attentive at Grace Hayes Lodge . . . Paul Hesse and Elvise Knox are back together again following her publicity romance with footballer Tommy Harmon . . . Songstress Nan Wynn is being rushed by Director Dave Miller . . . Writer Rowland Brown is talking to Victor Records about dramatizing American History on wax.

Reed Johnston, posing the wrong way around on that diving-board, and looking pretty pleased about it, is Janet Blair, former singer with Hal Kemp's orchestra soon to appear in "Three Girls About Town."

JOE FISHER'S Reviews of Previews

John Shepperd, Gene Tierney, Louise Beavers, Randolph Scott and Dana Andrews, principal characters in "Belle Starr."

The first picture previewed was 20th Century-Fox's "BELLE STARR," starring Gene Tierney and Randolph Scott. The story is of a proud Southern girl who refused to accept the edict of history and the defeat of the Confederacy, and who carried on her own private war in her home state of Missouri. The film takes care to assure the public that there is more beyond than fact in the story background, but as presented under the skilled direction of Irving Cummings it emerges as a fast moving melodrama that is well entertainment, pleasing to both eye and ear.

Gene Tierney in her fourth appearance before the cameras more than justifies the predictions made by critics everywhere, and she can now take her place in the stellar world that is Hollywood. Randolph Scott, always dependable, turns in a well-rounded interpretation as the bandit whom Gene marries and for whom she loses her life.

Exceptional too are the performances of John Shepperd as her brother and Dana Andrews, the Union Army leader who carries on the fight against her machinations. Louise Beavers, as Gene's mammy, scores heavily in a sympathetic, finely performed role. Mention must also be made of the work of Elizabeth Patterson, Chill Wills, Olin Howland, Joseph Sawyers and Joseph Downing, all of whom contribute their share to make the film the hit it most certainly will be. Unhesitatingly recommended to all lovers of action films.

HARRY SHERMAN's latest Hopalong Cassidy film, "OUTLAWS OF THE DESERT," with Bill Boyd in his accustomed role, also scores heavily as an outdoor action picture. While the film uses the normal western formula in story construction, the idea of sending Hopalong to Arabia to secure Arabian horses for breeding in America provides a new type of background, of which Mr. Sherman and Director Howard Bretherton take full advantage. The finale, a hand-to-hand fight between mounted natives, makes for a bang-up finish and is the most mounted sequence that the Hopalong series has ever enjoyed. William Boyd takes to native Arabian ways like a native himself and is thoroughly convincing. His comic relief, Andy Clyde, is provided with a running gag that allows him to readily spread himself, and he surely does. Newcomer Brad King starts his upward climb and Duncan Renaldo is a dashing knight, while Jean Phillips adds her youthful beauty to it all.

ON THE SETS

WID REED JOHNSTON

In the ordinary course of events a fog is something you might reasonably expect to avoid by taking shelter in a good stout building—especially when that building is sound-proof and therefore presumably airtight as well. But in the making of movies, as I have reported before, the established order of Nature is regularly treated with that rude indifference that more often reserved for poor relations or unattractive stepchildren.

Yet even a certain familiarity with this bland reversal of Natural Law was hardly enough to prepare a visitor for the goings-on in a Paramount stage where a sequence was being photographed for "The Morning After." For with the slides all blue and sunny above the studio streets outside, this interior was thick with that noisome and pestilential smoke which passes on the screen for fog—an all-permeating vapor presumably obtained by burning a compound of sulphur and rubber-eraser in portable smoke-pots. And these were supplemented by several large flexible tubes which poured additional gasses across the lawn of what was supposed to be a country estate, though the white-columned portico could be seen only dimly through the mists.

To these complaints a sensible person might well retort that if anyone visiting the premises didn't like what he found there, he could always get out; and indeed this reporter would have fled promptly if he had been given the opportunity. But no sooner had the vault-like entrance door closed behind me than the bell rang for Quiet, and when that gong signals that the director is ready for a take only a major producer or the excessively brash would dare to leave an inside stage and risk the ire of the sound crew.

So there was nothing for it but to stand there choking while the camera ground out a sequence which must hold the all-time record for length. And just in case somebody might try to leave between takes, a stern voice called out: "Don't anybody open that door till we're through—you'll blow off the fog!"

Up ahead in the mists a car pulled up before the house and a dim figure who, we were told, was Albert Dekker got out and started for the porch, followed in a moment by a taxi containing Charles Butterworth, who also got out and walked along behind. A few words were exchanged between them as they walked, but what the words were only the sound track will reveal, for the fog muffled them, as well as you'd expect one of Nature's own jobs to do.

Indeed the only fact that can be reported definitely in these lines is that Mr. Dekker looked rather large, while Mr. Butterworth looked rather smaller. Beyond that I can only tell you that "The Morning After" involves some of the choicer brands of homicide—and for homicide what better setting could you ask than a good thick fog?

Catherine Craig gets set for a plunge here, while she waits for those press notices on Paramount's new Bob Hope comedy, "Nothing But the Truth."

HOLLYWOOD FASHION SCENE

By MARGARET MCKAY

The evening scene is full of glitter this season and as fall moves in, so do the formal clothes. One formal dinner party given in Hollywood this week brought out the town's most fascinating women in the latest nocturnal fashions. The party was given by Joan Bennett and her feminine guest list included Ginger Rogers, Norma Shearer, Olivia de Havilland and Rosalind Russell.

Synopsizing the after-dark fashions sponsored by this all-star group, it seems we will wear white fringe on dinner gowns, big combs in the Spanish style in pompadours, plaid dinner-gowns and Juliet skull-caps.

Norma Shearer, who once played Juliet in pictures, adapted the Juliet cap idea in black crepe to top off her black crepe peplum dress. Ginger Rogers wore a beige and gray soufflé plaid. Combine plaid materials with velvet bodices and you'll be the belle at any college. Braid your pigtails and tie on bows of matching plaid to the ends, and the stag line will surround you!

Olivia de Havilland wore white with white fringe dripping to the ground, while Rosalind Russell also sparkled in white and added a large diamond-studded comb to her pompadour. Joan Bennett, the charming hostess, was the third member in white-crepe with red strawberries applied to the peplum. Ruby and diamond strawberry ear clips and necklace completed the ensemble.

BEST DRESSED GIEL OF THE WEEK: Pert Gail Storm, who has a fresh Texas charm, just finished a picture entitled "Let's Go Collegiate" at Monogram studios and gathered herself some clever college wear ideas. A gold colored Jersey dirndl skirt is the key to a mixture costume. First, she combines the skirt with a forest-green crepe, long-sleeved, peasant blouse embroidered in gold thread. She wears the new flat evening sandals studded with gold, and so has a dance and date ensemble. For daytime wear, she combines the skirt with a wool jersey tailored blouse of electric blue. For still another outfit, she wears a long-sleeved poinsettia red velvet vest over the dirndl skirt.

THINGS TO COME: The fifteen inch from the ground length in skirts is creeping back and is already being worn by some of the stars who are mind taking fashion finders. Lynn Bari is the first to get under the wire with the fashion and can be seen in the new length in one sequence of "Sun Valley Serenade."

Record Review

By WAX MAN

Last week we did a little snooping in the fond hopes that readers of this "attic" would relish a mite of gossip along "record row." Most interesting to your reporter was the hot tip that Decca is negotiating with Radio's First Lady of Television, Betty Jane Rhodes, and hopes to have the songstress' signature on a contract which will wax one of radio's most popular vocalists. Surprising, indeed, that someone didn't think of it long ago. Also heard whisper that the company is talking to Stanley Kenton, young Balboa band leader, about an exclusive deal.

Death Claims Guy Wallace

Forrest Guy Wallace, native and life-long resident of Howard county, died at 5:30 o'clock Monday morning in a Big Spring hospital.

Funeral was scheduled at 5 o'clock Monday afternoon at the graveside in the new city cemetery, the Rev. Howard Hollowell, Ackerly Methodist minister, officiating.

Born April 29, 1907 in Howard county, Mr. Wallace was a farmer 12 miles northwest of Big Spring.

Survivors include his wife; a son, Elton; a daughter, Marie; the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Doc Wallace of Big Spring; a brother, Leand, Big Spring; two sisters, Mrs. Lois Barbee and Mrs. Edith Hovey of Big Spring.

Ernest Parish, Howard Massey, D. W. Christian Jr., Thilbert Williamson, Roscoe Buchanan and Joe Barbee were named casket bearers.

When one thinks of Russia's Crimea, his mind dwells automatically on Czar Nicholas I. Florence Nightingale, and Alfred Lord Tennyson. Comes now Adolf Hitler to emblazon his name in the peninsula's history books.

The armed forces of Germany want the Crimea because it menaces the flank of the great Nazi army striking eastward toward the Russian Caucasus. They want it, too, so that Russia may be deprived of its big naval base at Sebastopol, city of 80,000.

The Crimean peninsula, size of Vermont, is good ground for winter fighting—its mild climate has given it the name Russia Riviera. These mountain ranges form a windbreak on its southeastern coast; flat steppes sown largely in wheat, take up three-fourths of its area. Inland Simferopol is the capital.

Russian armies, seeking to extend Czar Nicholas' influence into Turkey, battled British, French and Ottoman forces in the Crimea for three years, 1854 to 1856. Fall of Sebastopol to the allied army ended the conflict, remembered today because of nurse Nightingale's heroism, Tennyson's immortal "Charge Of The Light Brigade."

L. C. Matthes was in from his farm south of Knott looking for pickers Monday. His cotton field is opening fast, he said, and the tighter lands in the flats is looking good. Some will make a bale to the acre and that on the sandy spots has come out so wonderfully well in the past month and a half that it may beat a quarter of a bale to the acre. Matthes has his feed bundled and shocked, but inability to get hands has kept him from heading his maize crop.

O'Daniel Opposes Farm Price Limits

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6 (AP)—Sen. W. Lee O'Daniel says some politicians are worrying that farmers will get too high a price for their products but that he thinks they are entitled to every dollar they can get.

"It's hard work to run a farm or a ranch," he said in his weekly transcribed address broadcast yesterday by a number of Texas stations.

He pointed out that higher prices paid by the consumer did not represent a correspondingly increased income to farmers, saying part of the raise necessarily went to such costs as manufacturing, labor and transportation.

Solemn Note Opens AFL Convention

SEATTLE, Oct. 6 (AP)—The 61st national convention of the American Federation of Labor opened on a solemn note today when the executive council warned that "the mighty surge of upheavals convulsing our social, economic and political institutions, requires service and sacrifice of all."

The council—comprising the president, secretary-treasurer and 14 vice presidents—submitted their firm conviction that:

"The organized labor movement has the special responsibility of preserving and extending the application of principles of democracy and justice x x x and is willing to give in defense of our free institutions and to abolish slavery, that all persons may have the right to control their own lives."

THE WOMAN HE LOVES—The patient wait of the Duchess of Windsor for her royal husband during one stop on their U.S. and Canada visit afforded this chance for a camera study of American-born Wallis Warfield to whom the former King Edward referred as "the woman I love," when he abdicated England's throne in order to marry her on June 3, 1937, in France.

Supreme Court Hears Wage And Hour Case

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6 (AP)—The Dallas News contended today that the method of computing overtime payment urged by the wage-hour administration is designed to limit overtime work and "is square in the face of the needs of national defense upon which our very existence as a free people depends."

In a brief, the News urged the tribunal to review a circuit court decision holding that the newspaper was within its right in computing overtime paid its employees on the basis of an agreed hourly wage which was above the required minimum pay.

GEN. HULEN RE-ELECTED

FORT WORTH, Oct. 6 (AP)—Brevet Lieut. Gen. John A. Hulen, World war officer and commander of the 36th division for 18 years after it was recognized in 1920 as a national guard unit, was re-elected president of the division's reunion association yesterday. He has served as president ever since the association was formed.

Grain

CHICAGO, Oct. 6 (AP)—After an early spurt that carried soybeans prices up about 3 cents, wheat 1-2 cent and other grains fractionally buying subsided today. All gains were reduced and wheat at times fell slightly below Saturday's close while corn declined fractionally.

Continued showery weather over the heart of the soybean belt, delaying harvest, was the principal bullish factor.

Wheat closed unchanged to 1-4 higher compared with Saturday, December $1.21 1-8, May $1.25 7-8 to 1.26; corn 1-8 to 1-2 lower, December $0 1-8, May $0 1-2; oats unchanged to 3-8 off; soybeans 2 1-2 to 3 1-2 higher; rye 1-8 off. Late short covering lifted beans prices again just before the close, with final quotations at the day's best level.

NOTICE To The Public

Inasmuch as there appears to have been an impression created that the Churches and the Church Alliance of Big Spring are in co-operation with the Street Dance Program for the soldiers, we, the deacons of East Fourth Baptist Church, hereby announce that we are in no way cooperating with this or any other dance program, but instead our Church seeks to offer a Christian program of entertainment along with the other Churches of the city.
