Germans Say Red Soldiers Fleeing Crimean Peninsula

By The Associated Press

Germany proclaimed triumphant by the Russian army of the Crimea, split by the scourge of lightning assault by land and air, was trying to flee the Peninsula through the Black sea ports of Sevastopol and Kerch in a double Dunkerque.

The Hitler command pictured the Russian retreat there as a near rout, declaring that German forces had captured 53,175 prisoners, 230 tanks, 218 cannons, several armored trains and vast quantities of other war material.

Far from the Crimean front, in the Donets basin to the north, the important industrial center of Kursk, on the railway running north from Khar'kov through Orel and Tula to Moscow, had been captured. Kursk is 125 miles north of Khar'kov.

Although the Russians readily admitted that the siege of Moscow was becoming most grave, red army dispatches reported recapture of the northern section of Kalinin, 65 miles from the capital on its northern flank. They said that thousands of Germans were buried under the flaming debris of houses blasted by the defenders.

The Crimean fighting was a test for all arms of Russia's forces—land, sea and air. German occupation of the Crimea would include the red fleet's great naval base at Sevastopol as well as strategic air fields and give the Germans new jumping off places for attacks on the red fleet if not actually a new approach to the oil-rich Caucasus.

With Russian dominance of the Black sea thus sorely threatened, an authoritative source in London said Russia had suggested to Britain that she might with advantage declare war on Hungary, Rumania and Finland.

The British said their government had not yet reached a decision on the suggestion and added that "naturally the United States is being kept informed on the subject."

Finland's role in the war against Russia was newly emphasized by the British press reports from Stockholm which said that German and Finnish troops were only 14 miles from Murmansk, Russian Arctic seaport. The Murmansk-Leningrad railway has been the object of Finnish-German land and air attack almost since the Finns joined hands with the Germans in the invasion of June 22.

How British action could bear on Finnish and Rumanian war efforts against Russia is not clear. However, to date Britain in her economic warfare has taken steps short of the actual attack which a state of war would call for. Hungary's action against Russia has not approached the scale of Germany's Finnish and Rumanian allies, although Hungarian troops actually are in the field against the Russians.

Pastors Vote Condemnation Of Liquor

Resolution Points To 'Orgies' Caused By Drunkenness

Members of the Big Spring Pastor's Alliance passed a resolution condemning the trade at the regular monthly meeting.

The resolution, drawn by the Rev. R. Elmer Dunham, East Fourth Baptist church, and the Rev. Robert E. Bowden, Main Street Church of God, was passed unanimously by pastors attending the session in the study of Rev. Homer W. Halsh, First Christian pastor. The Rev. Dunham and the Rev. Bowden comprise the alliance's committee on prohibition information.

"Inasmuch as the whole population of our city is deeply moved by the orgies of drunkenness and the tragedies to some of our choicest young people in the past week due to drunken driving," said the resolution, "we (alliance members) hereby publicly state that we believe attention should be called to the fact that it is with the legal sanction by ballot on the part of the majority of the citizens voting that this crime and tragedy has struck at the very heart of our Christian young people, and that this is just one more reason, added to the many, many others why the people themselves should rise up and attack this evil;

"That as long as the law protects the sellers of the death-dealing cause of such tragedies, the voters are responsible for the shedding of the blood and the misery of the innocent victims, the sorrow of their families and the life-long injuries that some of them sustained on Halloween night—and of many other such victims that will surely be sacrificed if the cause of the evil is not removed."

The resolution continued to say that the "state liquor control board has proved that 99 per cent of drug store liquor has been stopped since the new drug store law was passed," and that "we believe the people should no longer consent to the taking of tax money from this moral evil as the grounds formerly argued that drug stores would sell it and taxes would be lost, that taxes from liquor could be characterized as blood money."

Concluding, the resolution said the answer to the question lay with "every man and woman."

Attending and voting were Dr. J. O. Haymes, First Methodist pastor; the Rev. John English, Wesley Memorial Methodist; Iry Cox, first Baptist; the Rev. E. E. Mason, West Side Baptist; the Rev. O. L. Savage, First Presbyterian; the Rev. Ernest E. Orton, Church of Nazarenes; the Rev. Robert J. Small, St. Mary's Episcopal; the Rev. Roland King, Trinity Baptist; Byron Fullerton, Church of Christ; the Rev. Bowden and the Rev. Dunham. Mrs. R. E. Bowden and Mrs. C. S. Holmes attended the meeting and asked for support of the WCTU program.

United States Asks Finland To Stop Fighting Russia

EIGHT SAFE AFTER ARMY PLANE CRASH

GEORGETOWN, Calif., Nov. 3 (AP)—As fragments of an army bomber were found scattered over a fifty-acre area, it appeared today that all the nine men aboard the ship had cheated death while the plane fell to pieces in the air yesterday.

The discovery of a parachute draped over a fence led to the belief that the only man unaccounted for had reached earth safely. He was Lieut. M. H. Walker, the pilot. Ground parties were searching for him.

The other eight airmen parachuted safely as the big bomber disintegrated in the air in a raging snowstorm over the Sierra Nevada wilderness.

Two of the men, Corp. Sterling, Hurricane, Utah, and Pvt. Aldon H. Stookley, Corning, Calif., were found last night. They had landed on a ranch near Teles Peak, 20 miles east.

The six, rescued today, had landed about 15 miles further east. They were: Second Lieut. J. R. Mode, Fort Worth, Tex.; the copilot; Staff Sgt. Eugene M. Clemens, Chamberlain, S. D.; Corp. Walter B. Clans; Pvt. Harold Salisbury, Bangor, Maine; Pvt. Fred E. Fekuri, Portland, Ore., and Pvt. Robert V. Mosely, Columbus, Neb.

Mosely was reported injured seriously.

Leon said the crew of the plane was virtually catapulted into the air after the plane struck an air pocket.

"About noon we hit a terrific down draft," he said. "We were flying at 15,000 at the time. The tail fell off."

"I felt myself lifted, and a second later I was crashing through the mass of the gunner's turret and flying blindly into space. I pulled the rip cord."

Stookley was whipped through a hole in the fuselage.

At least three other fighting planes crashed in California Sunday, killed two fliers and injuring another.

At San Anselmo, north of San Francisco, Lieut. R. E. Speckman and Thomas Leroy Traux rode to death against Bald Hill in their first P-40 pursuit ship last night. The planes struck only 20 feet apart, caught fire and were demolished.

Lieut. Walter D. Radovich, flying another P-40 in the same squadron of 13, parachuted to earth near Santa Venita, six miles away, and broke a leg in landing. Army men hunted the wreckage of his plane.

Search was also being made for four other missing army fliers.

Lieuts. A. B. Dannel and R. D. Leimbacher were unreported on a trip in an army training plane from March Field in southern California to Moffett Field, near San Jose. Lieut. Robert Agnew, likewise flying a trainer, disappeared on a scheduled 30-minute hop from Stockton to Moffett Field.

Lieut. Richard N. Long of Connelleville, Pa., missing ten days, was still being sought in the mountains east and north of Fresno. His pursuit plane and four others disappeared from the P-40 squadron, then numbering 19 and north-bound, from which Speckman, Traux and Radovich were lost yesterday on the return trip from Washington state.

Hull Tells Of Soviet Offer To End Fight

Finns Asked To Stop Offensive Military Operations

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3 (AP)—The United States has warned Finland that she must discontinue promptly her offensive military operations against Soviet Russia if she desires to maintain the friendship of the United States.

Secretary of State Hull disclosed this move by the United States in reply to press conference questions as to whether there was any basis for reports from London that Britain was hesitating to declare war against Finland mainly because of objections raised by the United States.

Hull said this government had frequently called the attention of the Finnish government to anxiety over the course Finland was pursuing.

Because of the friendly relations which we have always had with Finland, however, he added, this government has refrained until now from drawing any final conclusion from the present policy of the Finnish government in the hope that similar relations could be maintained in the future.

Recently, he continued, the United States minister in Helsinki was instructed to inform the Finnish government that if Finland desired to maintain our friendship now and later, satisfactory evidence must be forthcoming that Finland intends to discontinue promptly offensive military operations against Soviet Russia, and to that end Finnish troops will be promptly withdrawn.

At the same time the American minister reminded the Finnish government of the information previously given to Finland's minister here regarding the possibility of bringing about a peaceful settlement of outstanding Finnish-Soviet difficulties.

The United States now is awaiting the Finnish government's reply.

The secretary explained that on Aug. 18 the Finnish minister in Washington, Hjalmar Procopo, was informed that the state department had learned that the Soviet Union was prepared to discuss a Finnish-Soviet peace on the basis of territorial compensation to Finland.

But no Finnish spokesman, either here or in Helsinki, Hull continued, has subsequently indicated any desire to investigate this possibility.

Conference Seeks Permanent Settlement Of Coal Strike

By The Associated Press

Members of the defense mediation board called into conference again today the principals in a dispute affecting the coal mines of seven steel companies and their 55,000 miners.

Chairman William A. Davis, who hopes to have a board decision on its recommendations for settlement of the controversy before the end of the week, invited John L. Lewis, president of CIO's United Mine Workers, and 15 executives of the steel companies. Only issue is whether the mines shall have a union shop, under which all workers would be obliged to join the UMW after a probationary period.

After a three-day work stoppage last week Lewis sent the miners back to work under a truce expiring November 15.

The national labor relations board, seeking to avert another threat to steel operations, called a meeting today at Pittsburgh on a petition by 53 riverboat operators who ask that AFL's Masters, Mates and Pilot Association be designated their bargaining agent with Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corporation.

The boat men walked out last Friday night, tying up 12 towboats which tug 80,000 tons of coal daily in barges from mines in Fayette County, Pa., down the Monongahela river to the mills at Pittsburgh.

In addition to union recognition they ask changes in working hours and days off plus a 10 per cent increase in undisclosed wage rates.

At three big airport plants on the west coast 300 welders voted to strike at midnight tomorrow unless the labor board authorizes a bargaining election. These workers want to be represented by the United Aircraft Welders of America, which claims to have as members 90 per cent of 680 welders in the three plants. AFL's International Association of Machinists now represent the welders.

The plants are those of the Lockheed Aircraft Corporation and its subsidiary, Vega Airplane Company, both of Burbank, Calif., and the Consolidated Aircraft Corporation of San Diego. The companies hold contracts for the army, navy and British R.A.F.

Threat of a work stoppage at Bell Aircraft Corporation's two plants in Buffalo, N. Y., was at least deferred when CIO's United Automobile Workers Aviation Division voted to withhold strike action until the defense mediation board had a chance to consider employe grievances.

The union claims to represent 90 per cent of the 10,500 workers in the plant. It demands a general wage increase of 20 cents hourly; a 25 cent increase in the minimum wage, now 50 cents an hour; a union shop and dues checkoff. The union shop would require all production and maintenance employes to become union members after a certain period of employment.

Still on strike were welders in west coast shipyards and some in the south who are protesting the AFL's refusal to charter a welders union independent of the Metal Trades Council.

Price Control Bill To Raise Controversy

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3 (AP)—After almost three months of preparation in committee, a price control bill for commodities and defense area rents took a preferred place on the house calendar today and found the outlook stormy.

Administration sources especially took exception to the banking committee's decision in favor of permitting farm prices to go considerably higher before the imposition of any ceilings. It was reported that White House backing would be sought for a campaign to overturn the committee action when the legislation is considered.

Indications were that the controversy-laden measure would not reach the debate stage until next week. Chairman Steagall (D-Ala.) of the committee said he had hoped to call the bill up perhaps Thursday, but many house members were out of the city on unofficial vacations and Steagall said consideration might be deferred because of reports that administration leaders had promised no action on the measure before next Monday.

The committee, which began hearings August 4, completed its work Saturday night and Steagall said the vote to send the bill to the floor was 18 to 8.

The legislation would authorize a price administrator to fix ceilings on the price of any commodity he found to be disproportionately higher, using Oct. 1 as a base. He would likewise be empowered to control housing rents in defense areas, using April 1, 1940, as a base. Wages would be specifically exempt from control.

Thanksgiving Union Service Plans Made

The Rev. O. L. Savage, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, will deliver the annual Union Thanksgiving service here this morning (Nov. 27), the Big Spring Pastors' Alliance announced Monday.

The services will be at the First Baptist church and the Rev. R. E. Bowden, Main Street Church of God pastor, will read the Scripture. Benediction will be by the Rev. R. Elmer Dunham.

At the Monday meeting of the alliance, Iry Cox, First Baptist educational director, reported on plans for the Men and Missions city-wide laymen's program set for Thursday evening in the First Baptist basement.

Final Appeal In Salvation Army Campaign Issued

R. R. McEwen Monday issued a final appeal to workers to report at the Dora Roberts citadel at 7:30 a. m. Tuesday for the launching of the annual Salvation Army campaign for funds.

Goal of the drive is to raise $3,000 for the home service fund, half of the proposed $6,000 budget for carrying out the Army's program in Big Spring.

The Rotary, Lions, Kiwanis and American Business clubs have each lined-up for group captains with three other workers—a total of 15—to participate in the campaign. McEwen, who is chairman of the finance effort, said that other special workers possibly would run the number cooperating to 75.

He and others participating hoped that the work could be cleaned up quickly and the home service fund subscribed.

Before the drive starts, there will be a "Salvation Army breakfast of coffee and doughnuts" and the issuance of supplies.

Food Stamp Volume Up

Volume of business at the Howard county food stamp office has increased each month since the plan was put in operation last May, but Claud Wolf, stamp issuing officer, believes the peak is at hand.

In September the office sold $7,908 worth of orange stamps and issued $8,093 in blue stamps to 2,188 persons in 508 families.

In October the figures increased to $8,101 orange stamps, but blue stamps decreased to $5,614. Stamps went to 2,270 persons in 517 families.

Increase in use of blue stamps is attributed to new, more stringent regulations regarding their issuance.

Life Loss May Be Greatest Since 1898—Hope Ebbs For 70-Odd Navy Crewmen

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3 (AP)—Hope ebbed slowly for the unreported crew members of the U.S.S. Reuben James, some 70 or more men—potentially the greatest number lost by a regular navy ship through belligerent action since the battleship Maine was blown up in 1898.

Throughout the long weekend the word from the naval communications nerve center here was: "No news... no news," and officers patiently explained that any further tidings would be released immediately to relieve the anxiety of navy wives and families throughout the country.

Pending receipt of a report listing the 44 crew members known to have been saved when the destroyer was sunk Thursday night, the navy stood on its refusal to make public the names of the enlisted men on board or the total crew strength.

However, inasmuch as the ship's normal complement would be 123, unofficial estimates placed the

Man Charged With Plane Sabotage

BALTIMORE, Nov. 3 (AP)—Michael William Eitel, 22-year-old employe of the Glenn L. Martin Airplane plant, was ordered held for the federal grand jury today under $25,000 bond on charges that he "willfully did injury and commit depredations against property being manufactured for the war department."

Federal agents arrested Eitel last Wednesday following an investigation begun by E. A. Schurman, chief of the Martin plant protective force, in July when wiring was found out in Martin bombers.

FD Puts Coast Guard In Navy

Merger Of Forces First Since That Of World War

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3 (AP)—The coast guard joined the navy today, making the world's largest fleet still larger.

In a surprise move, accompanied by no explanation, President Roosevelt issued an executive order last night taking the coast guard from the jurisdiction of the treasury department and placing it under the command of the secretary of navy.

It was the first time since the World War that the coast guard has been incorporated in the fleet, and Mr. Roosevelt acted under a 1915 statute which states that "in time of war or when the president shall so direct" the coast guard is to become a part of the navy.

The presidential order, released at Mr. Roosevelt's Hyde Park, N. Y., estate, transfers to the navy's command 290 ships exclusive of picket boats and other small auxiliaries, 60 airplanes, 1700 officers and 20,000 enlisted men.

This was the second executive action affecting the coast guard in the existing emergency. On May 7 Mr. Roosevelt placed 14 sea-going vessels and the coast guard's Hawaiian department, under navy orders. The Hawaiian department had less than 1,000 men.

One of the first jobs to be tackled, Gaylor said Monday, is a complete inventory of fire fighting equipment, man-power, etc., in Seagraves, Seminole, Lamesa, Snyder, Colorado City, Loring, Coahoma, Big Spring, Stanton and Midland.

"When the survey is complete, information will be at hand to guide in the placement of materials in this area to combat fires as a part of the defense program if and when needed. Gaylor was named head of the district unit to succeed Olie Cordill, fire chief, who is seriously ill.

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Nov. 3 (AP)—President Roosevelt agreed with Canadian Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King that the two had spent a profitable two days together, that they had talked, as King had put it, about "anything and everything," but that no decisions had been reached.

He even went so far as to say there actually had been no conference.

AAA Official To Report On English Trip

COLLEGE STATION, Nov. 3 - How does it feel to have bombs dropping right in front of you? Are the English people getting enough to eat?

Do they really need American food? These are a few of the questions R. M. (Sp)ke Evans, national AAA administrator who recently returned from a six-week trip to England, will answer at the state-wide Food-For-Freedom mass meeting in Waco Tuesday, Nov. 4.

Evans, accompanied by Paul Appleby, undersecretary of agriculture, flew to England in a Lend-Lease bomber to study agricultural conditions and British food needs. Along with his agricultural studies, he learned a lot about what is happening in England in war-time.

KNOTT, Nov. 3 (Sp) - The Hallowe'en carnival went over with a bang Friday evening at the Garner gym. Every booth and game except the Bingo table was sold out before the fun was half started.

The Newspaper Is An Active Social Economic and Political Force In The Community It Serves
When civic leaders Ray Gibson and Tom Brookman were discussing an idea about a Garden Show for a worthy local charity, their first thought was for the support of the newspaper. They had looked to the newspaper before as the natural leader in community affairs and they had found that its support was powerful and effective. So they contacted the paper and were told that it was more than willing to lend its aid to any cause for the improvement of the community. The following year the newspaper sponsored the Garden Show itself, and made it an annual affair.
The newspaper is an active force for good in the average American Community. It is content only with a constant striving for improvement—improvement in government, in business, in living. Its influence is profoundly felt in social, economic and political matters. It is a contributor to American culture and to the American way of life.

Nation's Top Grid Teams Have Lull Before Opening Final Drive

NEW YORK, Nov. 3 (AP)—The country's football teams, worn out by fighting potent opposition and adverse weather conditions last week, relax a bit this Friday and Saturday before starting the final drive to the season's end.

Although almost all of the 19 teams which remain unbeaten and untied snap into action, a pair of eleven with a tie to their discredit in the coming program's foremost game—Notre Dame vs. Navy at Baltimore.

The Midshipmen sloshed to a 13 to 6 triumph over previously-unbeaten Pennsylvania, while the mud and a hard-hitting Army eleven held Notre Dame to a scoreless draw in their twenty-eighth meeting last Saturday.

Sterling, Forsan Engage In Crucial Test Friday

Sterling City's six-man gridsters will engage Forsan's sextet in a struggle at Sterling City Friday that will give the winner a cinch for district 8. Both clubs are currently untied and unbeaten and have one game remaining on their schedules after the Friday affair.

There is little to choose between Sterling City and Forsan, although the Forsaners are due to be somewhat at a disadvantage because of the loss of Ray Dunlap, one of Coach Cagle Hunt's starters.

Fourteen Likely State District Titlists Named

It will be a full month before the 16 teams to battle for the state schoolboy football championship will be certified but it's a fairly safe bet that at least 14 of them can be named at this time.

Although only seven districts have undisputed leaders the season's play indicates these will be in the scrap for the title the week after Thanksgiving:

District 1, Amarillo; district 2, Wichita Falls; district 3, Sweetwater; district 4, Yoleta; district 5, Paris; district 6, Highland Park (Dallas); district 7, Masonic Home (Fort Worth); district 8, Sunset (Dallas); district 9, Breckenridge; district 11, Tyler; district 12, Lufkin; district 14, Goose Creek; district 15, Austin; district 16, Corpus Christi.

Crain Complains—Too Much Sideline Work For Him

DALLAS, Nov. 3 (AP)—Jack Crain, the well-known foot slogger, has a legitimate complaint.

As long as he gives each Saturday from his business to the University of Texas football cause, it does look like somebody would furnish enough opposition to keep him from sitting on the bench half the time.

Here Texas has played six games and the Nocona Nugget gathers splinters more than 20 minutes each time out.

Records of Texas schoolboy football's undefeated, untied teams:

Arizona Holds Inside Lane In Border Circuit

Wildcats, Cowboys Are Leading Contenders For Sun Bowl Bid

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Nov. 3. Arizona university had an inside lane and a downhill run to paydirt in the Border conference gridiron scramble today.

The Wildcats have only to hurdle an underdog eleven from Arizona State of Flagstaff in Tucson Saturday for an unsullied conference season, at least a co-championship and a possible bid to the Sun Bowl.

Not since Coach Tex Oliver left Arizona for Oregon university in 1938 have the Wildcats displayed such power—power that whipped the Texas College of Mines 33 to 14 Saturday and three other conference foes.

Hardin-Simmons knocked West Texas out of the ranks of nation's unbeaten and untied eleven Saturday, 20 to 12, and replaced the Buffaloes at the top of the conference standings.

Barring an upset, Sun Bowl officials have to decide between the Wildcats and Cowboys as to which will represent the conference in El Paso, Texas, January 1.

Arizona's tussle with Flagstaff highlights this week's conference play.

The Texas Miners take on Arizona State at Tempe Saturday while Texas Tech entertains Wright in a non-conference game at Lubbock. Hardin-Simmons will be idle.

Collins Retains Nat'l Collegiate Tallying Lead

NEW YORK, Nov. 3 (AP)—Although held to a single point in his football club's first defeat of the year, Ben Collins of West Texas State retained his lead as the nation's best collegiate point-mover.

The Lone Star State halfback now has 83 points—12 touchdowns and 16 conversions—in seven games and is closely pressed by Milt Jannone of Hamilton College, the Eastern leader, with 84 in five contests.

Odessa Nominated As Club That May Have Chance To Stop Sweetwater 11

Loop Takes Rest Friday; Action Resumed Nov. 11

For better or for worse, Odessa's Bronchos have a job cut out for them—namely, the Odessians have been nominated to stop the Sweetwater Juggernaut. That is an assignment that the once-beaten Odessa club received after it shattered district 2-A.A.'s darkhorse, San Angelo, 48 to 7, last week.

Friday, all members of the district family rest from their labors but the battle is resumed November 11, Armistice Day. On that date the Odessians reach the point to which they have been building all season—they entertain the Sweetwater Mustangs.

On the face of it, there is a feeling that the Bronchos are being led to the slaughter. Such may be the case in the remainder of Sweetwater's engagements. Odessa's drum-pounding fans figure their lads are the ones to use the axe on the regular axe-wielder.

As for the rest of the Armistice card, San Angelo hosts Big Spring, Abilene visits Colorado City, Lamesa journeys to Midland.

In the event Odessa kicks the dope bucket sky-ward in the title with the Mustangs, there is scheduled the rest of its record unsullied, the Wild Hoses from West Texas will get a tie with Sweetwater—provided Sweetwater doesn't get bowled over by Big Spring or San Angelo. The latter prospect is highly unlikely, to say the least.

Lookin' 'em Over

Duck hunting is due to be along on the lines of the spectacular heavy doves '41 season. With most hunters getting into full stride the first of this week, there is scheduled to be one of the greatest watertowl sessions for local amateurs since the Indians left these roaring acres to the good white brothers.

In years past, the Howard county area has not been particularly noted as a duck area. Seems as though the winged ones like just a wee bit more water in their and than has at times been available.

Much to the dissatisfaction of rain-weary cotton growers there is an abundance of water scattered through this section—ducks are reported to be looking with a maximum degree of pleasure to stopping in a new winter playground.

Knowing full well that another freak year such as this may long be coming, hunters are not slow about getting their old trusties in shape for Brother Duck.

Big Spring had representation at the downfall of the lamented Southern Methodist Mustangs at Dallas last Saturday. Among local people getting a view of the kind of football that may land Jack Crain and the Texas University Steers in the Rose Bowl this year were Obie Bristow, the R. R. McEwens, Dr. and Mrs. Lee Rogers, Mr. and Mrs. J. Y. Robb and Mr. and Mrs. Bob Whippley.

Seems as though Bristow's political connections love him in November as well as in June—Obie was guest of State's Attorney General Gerald Mann. Mann, once known as Jerry, was a Mustang star several years back—now he rules on the rightness and wrongness of the little doings of little and big guys. Judging from reports, about all that could have stopped Cowboy Jack last Saturday would have been an attorney general's ruling.

Big Springers will have a sideline box by proxy here Tuesday and Wednesday when the Ritz shows the Texas-SMU grid film.

Path Being Cleared For SW's Turkey Day Tilt

Folks couldn't help talking turkey in Southwest Conference football today.

Gradually the path is being cleared for that Thanksgiving battle between the unbeaten Texas Longhorns and Texas Aggies—a battle which may be for conference and national honors.

Texas must face a stubborn Baylor squad Saturday in Waco and pass-dangerous Texas Christian the following week in Austin. And Texas should win both.

The same goes for the Aggies, although they have a much tougher assignment—Southern Methodist's Mustangs this week in College Station and Rice's Owls the following Saturday in Houston.

The Longhorns—who coaches say are the best team in the conference history—crushed S. M. U. Saturday 34-0—the first Texas win over the Ponies since 1933.

Down deep Texas coaches knew the Methodist game would make or break the great Longhorn machine. Since last summer they have primed the Steers to disregard the Mustang jinx that has hovered over Texas for years.

Saturday that jinx faded into the air when Pete Layden and Jack Crain moved methodically through the ponderous Pony line to score twice in the first half.

Three more touchdowns were added to give S. M. U. one of its worst defeats in conference history.

The Aggies, who had run roughshod over five opponents, met a corker in Arkansas Saturday and when the sun had descended behind the beautiful Ozarks A. and M. had only a meager 7-0 win—a 58-yard return of an intercepted Arkansas pass for a touchdown by Felix Bueck, a guard.

This week Arkansas meets Rice in Houston.

Bears' Power Myth KO'd By Packers

CHICAGO, Nov. 3 (AP)—The myth of the Chicago Bear's invincibility has been blasted to bits, so now National Football league teams can settle down to the business of deciding the professional championship.

Until Green Bay smacked the Bears over yesterday, 16 to 14, they were the talk of the country.

Now that's all over and the Bears face a terrific fight for the championship they won a year ago. The pretenders to the throne included not only those pesky Packers, but also Washington and the New York Giants.

Washington trampled Pittsburgh, 23 to 3, yesterday and assumed the eastern division lead while the Giants bowed to the surging Chicago Cardinals, 10 to 7.

The Aggies, who moved back into the spot behind league-leading Tulsa with a 13 to 6 victory over Creighton, will play St. Louis University, tied with Drake for last place, at St. Louis Saturday. St. Louis defeated Loyola of Los Angeles 21 to 13 Saturday.

There are four non-conference games Saturday. Tulsa, 13 to 7 victor over Wichita University, will play North Dakota State at Tulsa. Drake has the Iowa Teachers, North Central conference champion, for its foe at Des Moines and can look for a hard battle. Creighton moves into the southwest for a game with Texas Tech and Washington will entertain Illinois college.

The department of commerce says that between 6,000 and 7,000 American-made trucks will be operating over the Burma road by the end of 1941.

Delivering a ding-dong battle throughout, the Lamesans managed to hold the upper end at the moment of closing. Sol Cleveland led the scoring for Big Spring, chalking up four tallies. Dr. M. H. Bennett added for the fifth count.

The Lamesans shared scoring honors. Jay Floyd of Midland and Eric Barron marking up a brace of points each and Ace Woodward and Span Barron each getting a single goal.

Next Sunday, Big Spring tracks Lamesaway.

Unbeaten Eleven List Is Pared

NEW YORK, Nov. 3 (AP)—Opponents combined with last weekend's rain and mud to cut 16 names off the list of the nation's unbeaten and untied football teams.

The weather was the victor in the meeting of Notre Dame and Army, both members of the honor roll last week, with the result that their game was a scoreless draw.

Thiel, one of the eastern representatives, yielded its first touchdown of the season. Arkansas Tech, also unscored upon until last week, went completely awry and lost.

Miami of Florida, stayed in the list by blanking Texas Tech, 6 to 0. The Texans previously were undefeated.

Editorial - - Farmer Doesn't Get All Of Price Increases

Now that prices are going up, the first fellow to get the blame is the farmer.

Although he has been practically giving away the products of his fields and stock pens during the past decade, there are some persons who now begrudge him a good price for his goods.

A second look at the situation, however, will relieve the farmer of much of the credit for higher consumer costs. Suppose a consumer finds that a certain item in the grocery store has gone up 30 cents in price. A check likely will show that the farmer is receiving only 15 cents of this increase, while the remainder goes to processors, wholesalers, retailers, et al. In other words, everyone is getting more, not the farmer alone.

Exception must be made in the case of farm produce—eggs, milk, country butter and the like—that is sold by the farmer directly to the retailer. But on all processed goods that are handled by several parties before reaching the consumer, it is easy to see that everyone involved is taking his slice out of Mr. John Public's paycheck.

Another thing to remember is that the farmer always sells at auction, while most other businesses fix their own prices, within the limits of competition. The farmer brings his goods to town and takes what he can get. This money he takes to retail stores to spend and there he doesn't offer a price for the goods he buys, but pays the amount indicated on the tag.

Let us end this talk of price control on farm products until it is proven that our country cousins are getting too much. And that has yet to be proven.

Is it Love? by MARGARETTA BRUCKER

Chapter 24
Wedding Gift

Johnny laughed then and they returned to the plans about Belle Acres. He had simplified his figures so that she could understand them. He said that he would be over Sunday and they would drive out together to look over the plantation.

He never looked back once. Why had she reminded him that this was a bargain? Why be ashamed of the impulse which made her kiss him goodbye?

She knew. The old Fairhope pride again influencing her to hide behind it, to deny her love.

Odd Homecoming

In the taxi Tyler Springs boasted, Uncle Freeman sat in front with the driver, his black face puzzled and disturbed. Uncle Freeman thought this an odd homecoming for a bride and groom.

"It's my wedding gift to you," he told her. "We'll have the papers drawn up and everything in order, so that if I have to leave suddenly there'll be no question about your possession." He drew out his wallet and handed her a folded bit of paper. "There's a check to deposit. Take it."

She opened the check and spread it out in front of her. It was for a thousand dollars. She read the name through a mist of tears. "Susan Eleanor Fairhope Harris," written in a strong, vigorous hand.

"I shouldn't take it," she murmured.

"Johnny's a soldier," she explained easily. "He had to report at Camp Shelby at once."

She found herself saying quite matter-of-factly: "He'll be over Sunday—that was his plan when he left me."

"The Colonel and Riv are in Tyler Springs," said Aunt Car breathlessly. "They flew to Memphis and I saw the Colonel yesterday and he told me that Belle Acres was out of his hands entirely."

"That's right." Together they walked into the house and the street door closed behind them. From the kitchen beyond, they could hear Aunt Jennie talking excitedly and Uncle Freeman's important tones as he answered.

"Belle Acres belongs to us again," announced Sue Ellen, and smiled at the two astonished faces. "At least, it will belong to me as soon as the proper papers can be signed. Johnny gave it to me as a wedding present."

"Belle Acres belongs to you!" Aunt Car sank down on a chair in the hall, while Aunt Pleas bustled off toward the kitchen.

"Did Aunt Pleas know?" asked Sue Ellen. "She didn't seem surprised."

"Pleas is never surprised at anything. You're tired. We'll talk over everything in the morning."

A few minutes later Sue Ellen sat alone by the library fire, while Aunt Car went off to join Aunt Pleas. Together they would talk things over, thought Sue Ellen. They would compare ideas about her surprising marriage. She wondered why the Colonel had come, and wished that Riv had remained in Washington until the news of her marriage had spread through the gossip circles of Tyler Springs. There would be much talk about her.

"Lieutenant Harris has to be in Camp Shelby before six in the morning," explained Sue Ellen, aware of Johnny's dancing eyes and more than proud of the way she maneuvered Uncle Freeman out of hearing by telling him to collect her bags. "Goodbye. Thanks for everything."

"Good night. This is Tuesday—I'll see you Sunday morning."

"Aunt Jennie will have a wonderful dinner for you. Aunt Car will be delighted to see you."

"And you—?"

"I'll be glad."

She thought of Johnny back in camp and wondered if he was thinking about her. She remembered his kiss as he left and she looked deep into the heart of the fire and saw Johnny's face smiling back at her. The sun returned with tea and a hunch and she sat and told them about her wedding and the trip back to Memphis.

Aunt Pleas sighed. "I never expected to see the day when a Fairhope would marry a Yankee."

"But, Aunt Pleas, you do like Johnny?"

"He isn't one bit like a northerner," was Aunt Pleas' response. "And if he makes you happy, that's all I could wish for you. You're happy, Sue Ellen?"

"Why do you ask?"

"Because you don't act like a bride," declared Aunt Pleas. "Sue Ellen blushed. "Why?"

"You might have been off to Memphis on a shopping trip instead of a honeymoon." Aunt Pleas eyed her sharply. "Are you sure you've picked the right one, Susan Eleanor?"

"Quite sure," Sue Ellen arose and kissed her aunt. "And I'm tired and tomorrow we'll have time to talk over everything. Right now I'm going to bed. Good night."

The murmur of their soft voices followed her as she mounted the stairs to her room. They had known her so long and so well, they could sense her every feeling, read every passing emotion in her face. It would be difficult to deceive them if this marriage proved a rash mistake.

The following morning Ginny called. "Congratulations," she bubbled over the telephone. "I didn't think you had the nerve to throw Riv Moore over. There's a lot of gossip about it. Plenty of folks say that you gave him the toss and went right out and married that swell Yankee soldier just to show you didn't care. Right?"

"I married Johnny Harris."

"Of course," said Ginny, "the Colonel's friends say he broke up your marriage to Riv."

"I think Riv will tell you that he was already married."

After she hung up the receiver, Sue Ellen was ashamed of her outburst. Time enough for Ginny to find out for herself the details of her break with Riv. Before she had finished her breakfast, a dozen people called to offer congratulations and satisfy their curiosity that the rumor which had swept Tyler Springs about her marriage to a northerner was correct.

"But, Sue Ellen, honey, you've always hated northerners!"

"I didn't know them. Besides aren't there exceptions?"

"I understand he's mighty well-to-do."

"I don't know anything about that," said Sue Ellen briefly. "Aunt Car—" She forced her aunt to drop the tapestry on which she was working and listen as she protested about the part gossip played in one's private affairs. "It might easily destroy one's faith in anyone," she said slowly. "Make you doubt your own judgment. There's something so destructive and subtle about small-town gossip."

Aunt Car put down the skein of green wool she was carefully considering. "Gossip helped ruin my life," she said, "and gossip will try to ruin yours. But my dear, it can't if you're sure of Johnny."

Washington Daybook— French, British First Didn't Like U. S. A.'s Flying Fortress

WASHINGTON—Answering the mail orders: Mrs. A. N., Bridgeport, Conn.—The designer of the "Flying Fortress" was C. L. Egdvedt, one of the United States' greatest plane designers. He finished the 31-ft. blueprints in 1934. It's an interesting sidelight that the British purchasing agencies first turned down the "Flying Fortress"—called the gigantic ship a "flying target" and intimated that they felt they were being dealt a little American high-pressure salesmanship. The ship was developed for the Army, although it was an admiral who first planted the idea with Egdvedt.

C. F. D., Minden, Neb.—It is impossible to say to what extent the southern Pacific waters in the Far East are planted with mines. It certainly is a safe guess that such ports as Singapore and those of the Dutch East Indies and Australia are mined. Another recently announced that the Great Barrier reef, coral graveyard of ships off the northeast coast, had been mined. However, in any of the British or Allied areas there is no great danger to American ships. The skippers of these would be informed of the open channels or pilots provided to take them through.

N. H., Columbia, Mo.—The Panama Canal is NOT open to all shipping now and even those ships that are given passage have to turn over complete controls to officers of the United States armed forces. Minute inspections of all ships and cargo are made while the boats still are far from the entrances to the canal.

R. M. B., Brownsville, Texas—The defense glider training program still is being held up in Congressional committee. Without arguing the merits of this proposal to train glider pilots all over the country, it might be pointed out that this measure is suffering the fate of a number of others in the national defense set-up—delay while various government agencies scrap over which should handle it. The Civil Aeronautics Authority, the WPA and the National Youth Administration, all have been suggested for handling the program. This, of course, is a civilian program and not to be confused with the Army and Navy glider training work. The latter, I believe, has just inaugurated a new experimental program to test "plastic" glider boats, carrying as many as 12 passengers. These would be manned by naval aviators.

T. P., Atlanta, Ga.—There is nothing the federal government can do about "charity checks"—even when they involve national defense or aid to countries at war—unless the United States mails are used in connection with solicitation of funds. In the latter case, the matter should be referred to the U. S. postoffice inspectors. If the mails are not used any suspensions should be discussed with the local Better Business Bureau, Chamber of Commerce, Red Cross, social agencies, or prolis.

M. L. D., Monrovia, Calif.—The Civilian Pilot Training Program (and other stimuli to private flying) has more than doubled the number of pilots, other than those in the armed forces, in the last year. There are 81,442 registered pilots in the United States, of which 75,411 are private. There are 23,496 private or commercial planes—about 50 per cent more than last year. The fatality rate in the CPTP, according to the Civil Aeronautics Authority, has been reduced to one person per 16,000, 000 flying miles.

Mrs. F. M., Canton, Ohio—The first meeting of the Red Cross in this country was held in Washington, Saturday, May 21, 1915. It was called the Red Cross of Geneva and according to Clara Barton, who was present, already had been recognized in 27 other countries.

15,000 Bales Ginned In Martin County

STANTON, Nov. 3 (Sp)—More than 15,000 bales of cotton have been ginned in Martin county this season, it is estimated.

Five of the eight gins of the county had turned out 10,000 bales up to Saturday night, and the other three are estimated to have ginned an additional 5,000. A crop is expected to reach the 25,000 bale mark.

New Teacher Named For Stanton High

STANTON, Nov. 3 (Sp)—E. A. Jordan of Fairlurris is the new mathematics and band instructor in the high school, replacing Jack Reynolds, who resigned to accept a position with the Coahoma schools.

Jordan formerly taught at Rankin and Strawn.

Army Bomber Puts Air Mail In Reverse

SHELBY, N. C., Nov. 3 (Sp)—Speaking of air-mail service in reverse:

A big army plane swooped over the courthouse and dropped a letter with a request that it be mailed.

It was.

Man About Manhattan— New York's Real Skyline Is Found Along Central Park

By GEORGE TUCKER
NEW YORK—"After Honolulu," Carl Van Doren said, "I thought I would never be able to live in New York again. But then I found this. Come over here and I'll show you what I mean."

He led the way to a small balcony that looked out over the upper curve of Central Park. A quarter of a mile away its lakes and trees were flashing themselves against the skyscrapers of Manhattan, as waves break against a rocky shore.

"Yonder is the real skyline of New York," he went on, "not the one down town by the Battery, not the one you see from the river."

He was right. The sprawling green and the turreted rocks against the climbing spires were a poet's conception of nature's eternal conflict with man.

We stood there for awhile in the late afternoon light, admiring the view, then turned into the high, book-lined study, where, by the hundreds, reposed the volumes of source material from which had come much of his Pulitzer prize-winning biography, "Benjamin Franklin," the reservoir of fact from which Carl Van Doren compounds his histories. All the letters written by the members of the Continental Congress were there, all the threats, the excuses, the reports of the generals—in sum, the whole sprawling diary of those fumbling, uncertain days when America was in knee-briches.

But I wanted him to talk about "secret history" which he has been concerned with for more than two years and which resulted recently in his latest book, "Secret History of the American Revolution."

This is the true story of Benedict Arnold, the traitor, told for the first time. It is the intrigue of Arnold and Major Andre and Sir Henry Clinton, the British general, whose scarlet-coated troops so frequently paraded among the very trees which now make up a part of Central Park.

After the war Clinton went back to England. He wrote his personal history of the American campaign. He wrote thousands of letters. He carried with him his secret, personal files, his communications with Arnold and the lesser fry who sold themselves for money.

Most of these records, and certainly all of Clinton's correspondence with Arnold remained untouched for more than 150 years. Finally it was purchased by Wm. L. Clements, Michigan's great collector of Americana. Carl Van

Hollywood Sights and Sounds— Best Thrillers Come From English Directors Now

By ROBBIN COONS
HOLLYWOOD—By all odds the best of the new movie thrillers comes from England, where directors like Alfred Hitchcock and Carol Reed some time ago set a pattern.

This one is no contrived mystery play with a cast of suspicious characters and an intricately baffling plot. Its plot is simplicity itself—an obstacle for its hero, the dangers obstructing victory, accomplishment surmounting the obstacle. Yet it is fraught with suspense, sublime courage, thrills.

"Target for Tonight" is the short feature detailing what goes on in preparation for a British air raid on vital German objectives. It follows a Wellington bomber, designated as "F for Freddie," and its six-man crew on its perilous mission over the continent, takes you inside the plane as enemy anti-aircraft fire draws flaming pencil lines of lead all around and scores a hit, shows you the target directly hit, and takes you back to England in a plane which, what with fog and crippled wireless, has a bad time of it.

The actors, from commanding officers and ground workers to the flitters themselves, play their real-life roles. The plot is too "big" to let these seem other than perfect in their parts, even from the point of view of conventional acting, and even though amateurs playing themselves are seldom convincing. Strikingly absent are all heroes, all noble chatter about victory through faith, the saving of civilization, and so on.

This restraint, unfortunately, is a lesson the British that Hollywood needs to learn. Hollywood's latest example of British eloquence, as Hollywood loves it, can be found strangely enough in a movie called "Sun-down."

This is a yarn of generally fast-moving action and excitement around a British African desert outpost, with a Nazi agent running guns to natives and a supposedly half-caste beauty (Gene Tierney) ostentatiously siding with the Britishers. Britishers Cabot George Sanders and Reginald Gardner. For those who like the sort of action and fireworks adventure melodramas provide, together with some fine desert atmosphere, "Sun-down" is good enough.

Miss Tierney, petal-velvet to look at, acts pretty and scales a couple of emotional mole-hills. But has triumphed, Sanders has a bullet in his hip, and he dies. He has, of course, a death scene and a dying speech, both of which hurt me more than the bullet did him.

It takes a pretty sour scene to make a ham out of Sanders, but this one does. The scene serves to let us know that the dying man has a father back in England who's a bishop. Provided with this irrelevant information, we proceed to a bombed cathedral in London for a brief sermon by said bishop. It's a good speech and beautifully delivered by Sir Cedric Hardwicke, but what in the name of dramatic construction led Producer Walter Wanger to tack a sermon on to a routine-tootin meller? If it's "propaganda," it's as subtle as a sledgehammer.

One hopes Mr. Wanger will see "Target for Tonight," blush, and call for the shears.

Practically all important industrial establishments in Free China provide food and housing for their employees, the department of commerce says.

When in Philly' See Goldfoms' Reigning Queens

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 8 (AP)—Deride the floundering Phils, Josh about the last-place antics of the elegant A's, but brother, you'd best smile when saying anything derogatory about the women golfers hereabouts.

For one and all Philadelphia sports fans acclaim the ladies second to none in national golfing ranks.

This is the supporting case the fans put forward:

Helen Sigel dropped the national amateur woman's title in the finals five and three to Mrs. Betty Hicks Newell, Long Beach, Calif. She was one of three Philadelphians remaining in the play when the field of hundreds at Brookline, Mass., was whittled down to the nation's 18 best shot-makers. The others were Mrs. Glenna Collett Vere, six-times winner, and Dorothy Germain, a high school kid who carried Miss Sigel to the 21st hole in the quarter-finals.

"Miss Sigel has a remarkable record," says Mrs. Vere a six-time winner and one of the all-time greats of the links.

"But her game will improve with another year or two of tournament play. If she was runner-up this year, figure out for yourself the position she'll hold within the next couple of years.

"Then, too, there is one of the finest bunch of young players ever to rise from a single area—Dotty Germain, who already has proven herself a near champion at 17; Faisy Coling, another 17-year-old youngster who is improving with each season, and Nancy Wilson—oh, you could go on and on."

S'west Cagers Open Grind

DALLAS, Nov. 8 (AP)—Basketball gathers steam throughout the Southwest conference today although most of the squads will not be complete until the football campaign ends and the boys who double on gridiron and maples start shooting at the hoop.

And as the seven members move into the cage game, it looks like Arkansas again will be the team to beat.

The tall Forkers won the championship easily last season and there are seven lettermen back although such performers as John Adams, John Frieberger and Junior Mitchell will not return.

Seniors O'Neal Adams, R. C. Pitts and Robert Hones and juniors Gordon Carpenter, Nobis Robison, Clayton Wynne and Ken McCormick make the Razorbacks formidable indeed.

Rice and Texas A. and M. also have seven lettermen each.

Rice is headed by tall Bob Kinney. Others returning are Harold Lambert, Bill Tom Glass, Chet Palmer, Whitlock Zander, Stencil Norton and Placido Gomez. The latter was held out last season due to an injury received in practice.

A. and M. has Roy Jarrett, Bill Henderson, Charlie Stevenson, Fred Nabors, Ray Klutz, R. R. Bayer and Pete Watkins, star high-jumper of the track team who lettered in basketball two years ago and is returning this season.

Taylor has five lettermen although Jack Wilson and Dwight Parks will not be ready for work until the football season ends. Other numeral-wearers are Mark Bell, L. V. Arnett and Joe Fritvoldsky.

Southern Methodist has four lettermen, Bryan Lloyd, Johnnie Sebeck, Roy Bacous and Hugh Welch.

Texas Christian universities also has four. They are Buddy Barron, L. A. Monroe, Al Wagner and Floppy Blackmon.

Texas lists only three returning lettermen, Malcolm Kuttner, Leslie Croucher and Las Sander.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

NEW YORK, Nov. 8 (Herald Special News Service)—The week's gridiron hero, if you ask us, wasn't Minnesota's Bud Higgins, nor even those Ivy League punters who averaged 40 yards or so a click with a soggy ball to keep the upsets from being more upsetting, but the groundskeeper at the Polo Grounds... While Larry MacPhail had been making the pro Dodgers practice in tennis show to keep his turf from being ruined, the Polo Grounds stood for cleats all week and then three games during the week-end, two of them in pouring rain... Latest addition to the baseball rumor list is that the Yanks will bid for Ken Kellner because Red Rolfe is due to quit because of illness... Only trouble with that one is Rolfe would like to cut in on the world series dough for a year or two more... Jimmy Johnston, who wouldn't leave town until he was assured that Abe Simon is out of danger from his recent operation, is due in Chicago today to get Bob Pastor ready for Booker Beckwith.

Grain

CHICAGO, Nov. 8 (AP)—House committee approval of legislation which would permit cereal prices to rise considerably generated enough buying to give the grain market an upward slant today.

Market experts estimated ceilings under approximately $1.50 a bushel for wheat and $1.10 for corn could not be invoked on the basis of the price control bill approved by the house banking committee.

Although wheat showed early gains of more than a cent, with rye up as much, prices reacted later due to profit taking and hedging sales. Brisk shipping business in corn strengthened that center.

Wheat closed 1-4 lower to 1-4 higher compared with Saturday. December $1.14 1-8-1.14, May $1.15 1-2-3-8; corn 3-8-5-8 up, December 77 5-8-1-2, May 83 1-2-3-8; oats 1-8-1-4 up; rye unchanged to 1-8 lower and soybeans 1 5-8-2 5-8 lower.

AUSTIN, Nov. 8 (AP)—The public safety department today announced creation of a new Teras Ranger district with headquarters at San Angelo.

The administrative area, carved from the southern portion of the Lubbock district and the western portion of the Austin district, will afford a closer watch along the international boundary and a better opportunity to control cattle thefts, officials opined.

THE WAR TODAY: Hitler Omits Location Of Sea Event

(This daily feature, conducted by Dewitt Mackenzie, is written today by Fred Vanderschmidt).

Adolf Hitler, in contributing to the historical record of the battle of the Atlantic with his "we were attacked" document on the Greer-Kearny cases, becomes guilty of a historical omission.

A student years hence, reading only this German pronouncement, would wonder immediately where the engagements occurred. The only clue would be the statements that the Greer pursued a German U-boat "in close military cooperation with American naval forces" and that the Kearny, "sailing as protector to one convoy," went to the help of another which was fighting German naval forces "in another part of the Atlantic ocean."

This vagueness is not accidental. It is done deliberately to ignore the fact that both incidents took place while the destroyers were on duty between the United States and Iceland, which the United States government has occupied with military forces because it considers that Iceland is an Atlantic outpost vital to the defense of the continental United States.

Germany long has been on plain notice that these waters lying between the United States and Iceland are considered by the American administration as vital to the defense of the United States itself, and President Roosevelt said on September 11: "Let this warning be clear. From now on, if German or Italian vessels of war enter the waters, the protection of which is necessary for American defense, they do so at their own risk."

Germany sought to lay a legal basis for the use of U-boats west and south of Iceland last March 25, by a decree in which it included Iceland and the waters westward to Greenland territorial limits as part of the German "operations zone about England." The reason given was that "blockade runners have been attempting to use this island (Iceland) as a base."

Subsequently, German communiques have told of U-boat attacks on convoys and destroyers "entering the blockade zone." It is curious that the Hitler headquarters announcement does not even go that far.

One implication of the omission is that Hitler now does not recognize his own limits on the "German operations zone." The location also was left out because the principal purpose of the Hitler headquarters proclamation, as underlined by the official German comment which accompanied its release, is to try to show that "Roosevelt lied" and to make Americans believe the U.S. navy is being misused.

Around the curve of the world the Japanese also were provided with an official German document which says that Germany has been "attacked," and thus the basis is laid for implementing—sometimes in the future—the tri-power pact by which Japan is pledged to go to the aid of Germany if Germany is "attacked."

Kids Use Dynamite To Make Spitballs

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 8 (AP)—Six Kensington kids are telling how they chucked up dynamite and used it for spitballs.

They went on an exploring trip in Pennypack park yesterday and said one:

"We saw a quarry and there was a little house with the window open. We saw a long box filled with sticks and we unwrapped some of them. They looked like putty, x x x On the way home, we hit each other with it, chewed it and made spitballs. We dropped a lot of it on the way home."

And that's what's worrying city police. They figure the boys took 50 sticks. Only 19 have been found.

Arkansas Floods Threaten Levies

FORT SMITH, Ark., Nov. 8 (AP)—With the swollen Arkansas river on a stand at a crest of 27.3 feet here over night, flood fighters shifted their attention to strained levees in North Central Arkansas today where a hard battle against collapse of two dikes in the Fort Smith and Paris areas of Western Arkansas relieved downstream pressure somewhat but Maj. J. E. Crum of the Little Rock district, U. S. engineers, said the fight to hold a string of district levees between Russellville and Little Rock would be "nip and tuck."
