WIRELESS TELEPHONE FOR DALLAS

CHICAGO, Feb. 12.—Wireless telephone service for commercial purposes will be established between Chicago and New York, it was announced today following a successful conversation held last night.

Robert F. Gowen, in New York, inventor of the radio telephone, talked for thirty minutes with R. H. Mathews of Chicago.

A wireless telephone station also will be established at Dallas, Texas, it was announced.

SUFFRAGISTS IN FINAL AND VICTORY MEET

CHICAGO, Feb. 12.—Two thousand suffragists from every part of the United States today arrived here as delegates and visitors to the final and victory convention of the National American Woman Suffrage association, which will continue through next Wednesday.

This is the fifty-first annual meet of the suffragists of the country, and many were the comments at the opening session this morning of the difference between the present day, with scores of women of fashion registered as accredited delegates, and the long ago days of the first convention, when delegates reported their struggles in encountering greetings of cabbage and had eggs dashed at the platform from which they spoke.

Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, president of the national suffrage body, presided at closed executive sessions of the national board of directors, held all day, and tomorrow will formally call the convention to order. Today's sessions were devoted to the discussion of questions of vital importance to women as citizens and voters. The subjects of these all-day conferences were child welfare, the protection of women in industry, the legal status of women, American citizenship, social hygiene and food supply and demand. Those presiding over the conferences were respectively Mrs. Percy V. Pennybacker of Austin, Texas; Mrs. Raymond Roming of Chicago; Mrs. Catharine Waugh McCulloch of Chicago; Mrs. Frances P. Bagley of Boston, Mass.; Dr. Valeria H. Parker of Hartford, Conn.; and Mrs. Edward P. Costigan of Washington, D. C.

Among the authorities of national note who are in Chicago to address these conferences and the dinners this evening that will follow the conferences are Miss Julia Lathrop, chief of the federal children's bureau; Judge Ben Lindsey of Denver, Colo.; Mrs. Florence Kelly of New York; Mrs. Phyllis Cole of New York; Miss Sphonisa Breckenridge of the University of Chicago; the Rev. Caroline Bartlett Crane of Kalamazoo, Mich.; Governor Henry J. Allen of Kansas; Miss Mary Bartleson of Chicago; Miss Mary Anderson of Washington, D. C., chief of the United States Women in industry bureau; Mrs. Charles H. Brooks, president of the Kansas Equal Suffrage association, and many others.

WILD DUCK DISGORGES TWENTY-KARAT NUGGET; STARTING GOLD RUSH

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 12.—A wild duck was being prepared for a dinner here the other day when from its gizzard dropped a twenty-karat gold nugget.

The duck was shot in the vicinity of Woodside and immediately a gold rush ensued, the creeks adjacent to Woodside were panned for the precious metal.

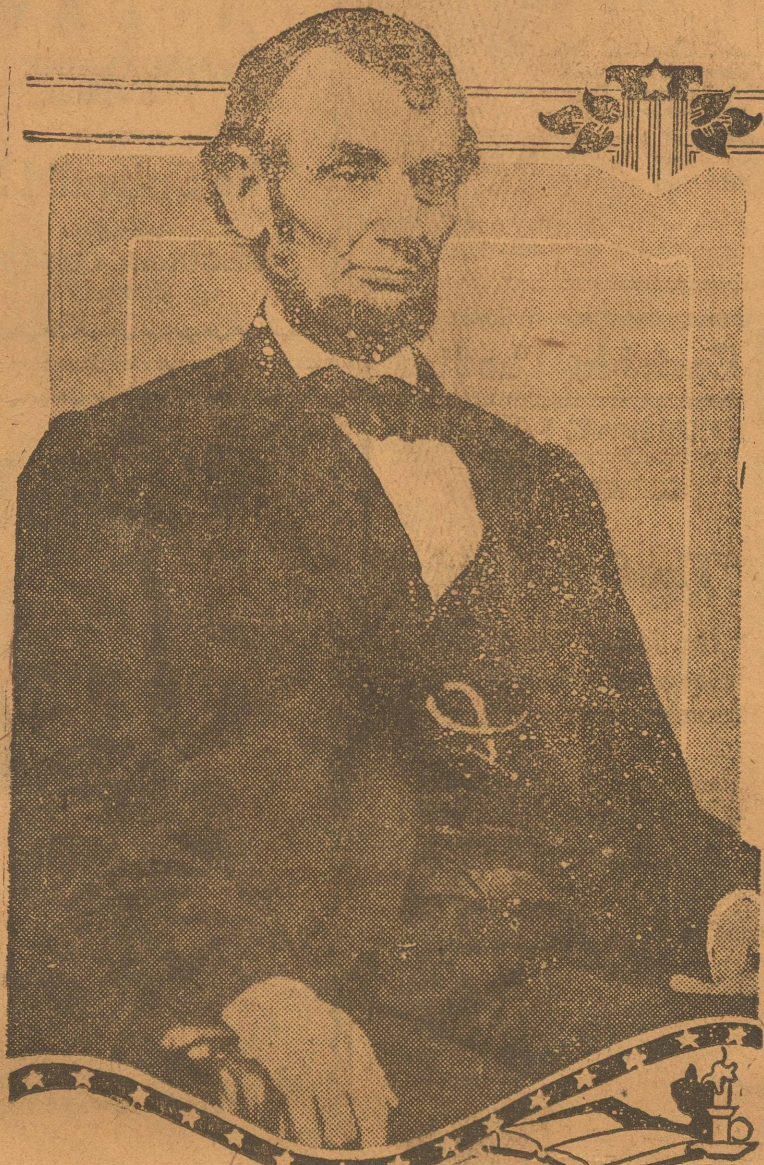

U. S. R. R. ADMINISTRATION TO HONOR SPECIAL CLAIMS

AUSTIN, Feb. 12.—The United States railroad administration will honor claims for reparation on commodities moving on short lines involved in the Shreveport rate case down to the basis provided by the railroad commission's tariffs, where higher charges applied prior to Dec. 23, according to information received by the railroad commission today.

SWALLOWS FALSE TEETH

CENTRALIA, Kan.—Mrs. Silas Blakely of this place swallowed a bridge containing four teeth while eating supper a few nights ago, but didn't discover the loss of the teeth until she had finished the meal. She was immediately rushed to a physician's office for an X-ray examination and operation.

Lincoln's Gettysburg Address

(Delivered at the Dedication of the Cemetery in Gettysburg, November 19, 1863.)

Four score and seven years ago our fathers brought forth upon this continent a new nation, conceived of liberty, and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal.

Now we are engaged in a great civil war, testing whether that nation, or any nation so conceived and so dedicated, can long endure. We are met on a great battlefield of that war. We have come to dedicate a portion of that field as a final resting place for those who here gave their lives that that nation might live. It is altogether fitting and proper that we should do this.

But in a larger sense, we cannot dedicate—we cannot consecrate—we cannot hallow this ground. The brave men, living and dead, who struggled here, have consecrated it far above our poor power to add or detract. The world will little note, nor long remember, what we say here, but it can never forget what they did here. It is for us, the living, rather, to be dedicated here to the unfinished work which they who fought here have thus far so nobly advanced. It is rather for us to be here dedicated to the great task remaining before us—that from these honored dead we take increased devotion to that cause for which they gave the last full measure of devotion—that we here highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain—that this nation, under God, shall have a new birth of freedom and that government of the people, by the people, and for the people, shall not perish from the earth.

Society to Blame for Increase in Divorces Yearly

GALVESTON, Feb. 12.—Society itself is largely responsible for the ever-increasing number of divorce cases which clog the courts, according to Judge Robert G. Sweet, of the fifty-sixth district court.

A Devine, Texas, lady complained bitterly of the "laxity" of the state's laws governing divorce proceedings. In answer to her letter, which was brought forth through published accounts of the great number of divorce cases pending in his court, Judge Sweet said:

"Divorces in this state are granted only for the causes for which you say they ought to be granted, that is, adultery, cruelty and desertion. Our laws in this respect have undergone no change in fifty years. They are not lax. Nor do I think laxity in administration is responsible for the increased number of divorces. The trouble lies deeper. In my judgment, it is due to the laxity with which society views divorces as evidenced by the continued social recognition accorded to the guilty party."

Collusion on the part of seekers after legal separations, Judge Sweet pointed out, was almost impossible of detection by the court.

EXTREME DECOLETTE GOWN HISSSED IN PARIS THEATER

PARIS.—The same sort of costumes that go on the Paris stage don't go in the audience at all. A beautiful woman entered a box a few nights ago at one of the Paris theaters whose chorus girls and dancers are noted for lack of raiment. When she removed her fur coat and displayed a gown extremely decolette the audience hissed her. She was escorted from the theater by the manager and two ushers.

MEAT MARKET PLAN OF CATTLE RAISERS MAY SOLVE R. C. OF L.

FORT WORTH, Feb. 12.—When the Texas Cattle Raisers' association which is often termed "the richest organization per capita in the world," meets in Houston next March 16 in an annual session, a solution of the meat price question will be offered by a committee headed by President W. W. Turney of El Paso.

This committee now is at work on a meat market plan, modeled on a market conducted at Amarillo last fall by cattlemen and which was declared a success insofar as it reduced the price to the consumer and helped the cattlemen, too. It was this Panhandle experiment that led Marion Sanson of Fort Worth, formerly president of the Texas association, to suggest the experiment for the entire state.

Sanson also laid his plan before the American National Livestock association, which met in yearly conference at Spokane, recently.

It is the intention of the cattlemen's committee to recommend that a chain of retail meat markets be distributed through Texas and that the cowmen sell direct to them from the range, the butcher shops doing their own slaughtering.

Should the plan be adopted at the Houston convention, a committee then must be appointed to carry out the suggestion.

PRINCE HENRY DUBBED "RANJI, THE JAM"

International News Service.

LONDON.—Prince Henry, third son of the king, was dubbed plain "Smith" by his fellow soccer players when he attended a prep school near Broadstairs. They would yell: "Get on with it, Smith," and the prince would proceed as proscribed.

At Cambridge his fellow classmates have come to call him "Ranji, the Jam of Nawangan."

Few call him Prince Henry.

INFLUENZA DECREASES IN RANGER

Red Cross workers stated on Thursday that the influenza and pneumonia was decreasing in Ranger. Health Officer C. O. Terrell and other doctors said that although there were still numerous cases of sickness, they were being well taken care of and there was no chance of an epidemic at the present time.

Extra nurses have recently arrived in Ranger. Two new nurses came in Thursday from Fort Worth and several volunteered in the city. The Red Cross has a list of available nurses at their headquarters in the Marston building and information along this and kindred lines will be gladly given.

Arrangements have also been made by this organization with several of the local physicians to give their services free of charge to persons who are sick and in financial straits.

Doctors who have cases of sickness and distress to report should call 78, the mayor's office, instead of the Chamber of Commerce. They should state whether these cases require nurses or help in any way.

UNIVERSAL SUFFRAGE WILL HAVE FLOOR IN JAPAN'S IMPERIAL DIET

TOKIO, Feb. 12.—The universal suffrage bill is likely to be the subject of an intense discussion in the coming session of the imperial diet late in February.

The Kenseikai, or opposition party, will introduce the bill based on the principle of giving franchise to all self-supporting Japanese subjects of or about the age of 25 years. The party is determined to push the bill as one of the most important weapons in its campaign against the ministry.

DANES WIN SCHLEWIG PLEBISCITE

COPENHAGEN, Feb. 12.—Denmark won an overwhelming victory in the plebiscite held in the province of Schleswig, by which the future status of that district was determined, according to official figures which show that the Danish adherents cast 75,023 votes while the Germans polled but 25,087.

BRITON FAVORS PROHI LAW IN UNITED STATES

International News Service.

LONDON.—Not all Englishmen who return from America are infuriated at what most of them believe to be the "idiot" prohibition. But Dr. C. W. Saleeby, one of Britain's foremost eugenicists and sociologists, is the first one to get a column in any British newspaper purporting to show that prohibition has not been rammed down the throats of America by a trifling minority, and that vast good already has been accomplished by the latest constitutional amendment.

Dr. Saleeby predicts that Canada soon will follow in the United States' footsteps and that it is high time for England to quit looking at the prohibition movement through colored glasses.

"The prohibition law is being broken in America," Dr. Saleeby admits, "and it will continue to be broken by the freeth and druggs, by the criminal rich and the criminal poor—like other laws in all countries.

"The American prohibition measure is an exceedingly strong and thorough one; the brains and devotion at the command of the Anti-Saloon league having been applied to it, and supported by the mass of the nation everywhere.

That, of course, is what no one understands here, where the obvious lie is sedulously spread that, by some means undefined and inconceivable, the most democratic, self-determining and highly educated people in the world have imposed on them a policy that they abominate by a chimera called "Pussyfoot." The joke would be admirable if our own national destiny and our place in the world were not gravely prejudiced by its success. It cannot, however, succeed much longer.

"Throughout the United States, as in Ontario, the effects of war-time prohibition have exceeded the expectations of its advocates, and have strengthened public opinion, already determined, for the final measure. That is why the enforcement act has been made so extraordinarily strong, and by such immense majorities in congress.

"The improvement in social records and vital statistics, the unexpected prosperity of erstwhile breweries, now making innocent and useful things, and sharing in the general prosperity which follows from their own conversion, the increase in private bank accounts, the unprecedented order and freedom from crime that attended the miners' strike—the big in the history of the United States—such things have made assurance trebly sure."

Dr. Saleeby was in the United States during the saloons' last debauch in their "unrepentant last hours."

FRENCH GENERALS ORGANIZE ARMIES OF CZECHO-SLOVAKIA

International News Service.

WARSAW.—France is taking no chances in the organization of Germany's enemies, and French generals are organizing the armies of Czecho-Slovakia and of Poland on Germany's borders. Five French generals have found posts in the Czecho-Slovakian army.

But it is in Poland that France is especially endeavoring to build up a military machine to insure "a double front" against Germany in any possible future wars. French generals come and go so frequently between Paris and Warsaw that it is difficult to keep track of how many are stationed there. But recently there have been from eight to twelve French generals in Warsaw.

50 CENTS A DAY TOO LITTLE FOR HOOBY, SAYS JUDGE

CHICAGO, Ill.—Husbands are entitled to more than 50 cents a day from their pay envelopes in these H.C. times, according to a judge's decision granting a divorce to William E. Taylor. He said that was all his wife permitted him to have and that she "beamed" him with the family bribe-allowance when he got real extravagant one day and spent 35 cents over his allowance for a cake.

Vulcan Nannie Walker No. 1 In True Sand

Vulcan Oil company's Nannie Walker No. 1, in the Stephens pool, is furnishing food for talk in that territory in the discovery of a true sand, which jumped the production of the well from 600 to 1,500 barrels last week and is the first true pay, not broken lime, to be found in that territory.

The sand was found at 3,574 feet and drilled four feet. The well is halted there and production is holding up to the increased figure.

GROCCERS MEET TO AGREE ON BUTTER PACK

AUSTIN, Feb. 12.—Dairy men and grocers of Texas met here today under call of F. C. Weinert, commissioner of weights and measures, to consider the fixing of a standard package of butter for sale in this state.

The new weights and measures law provide for the establishment of standard units in which various foods may be offered for sale. As proof of the need of establishing a lawful standard unit for butter in order to prevent short weights being given the public, the commissioner offered two packages of a well known brand of butter. Both of these packages were bought by his inspector in the open market. They are identical in size and shape, and the bricks of butter therein are the same size. One package is marked "15 ounces" and the other "one pound."

The weights correspond with the contents of the packages. The sixteen-ounce brick merely is pressed tighter, and according to the commissioner, it is prepared for sale to careful customers who take pains to secure full weight. The lighter package, however, the commissioner said, is one that generally is handed over the counter when the average customer merely calls for a pound of butter.

Prosperity May Deceive, Warning by Comptroller

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—Warning that the prosperity and activity indicated by the banking figures may become artificial and deceptive was given today by John Skelton Williams, in his annual report as comptroller of the currency.

He said that in 1919 there were two national bank failures, and that the banking power of the country had increased 900 percent in the last thirty years.

Texas Waterworks Association Bands Operators of State

AUSTIN, Feb. 12.—An organization to be known as the Texas Waterworks association will be formed here tonight, according to plans laid at a meeting of waterworks operators who were in Austin attending the short course for water and filter plant operators conducted co-operatively by the University of Texas and the state board of health.

A committee to draft a constitution and by-laws to be presented at the meeting tonight was appointed and it was instructed to include in these instruments the provision that the present short course for operators be made an annual feature of the association, in order that superintendents of the different plants of the state might keep informed as to the most modern and best methods of treating water before supplying it to the customer.

This organization will affiliate with the Southwestern Waterworks association and will hold an annual meeting of its own in order to discuss Texas problems.

On Feb. 14, all those who attended the short course here will go to Waco to inspect the water system of that city, which has been pronounced by the state health department to be one of the best in the state.

U. S. DESTROYER TALBOT MAY BE IN DISTRESS

CONSTANTINOPLE, Feb. 12.—The American destroyer Talbot is reported in distress near Serpent's Island, in the Black sea. It is believed that the report may refer to the Talbot standing by the British tug which is towing a tanker and tugs with refugees from Odesa under bad weather conditions.

R. R. WAGE PROBLEMS TO WILSON

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—President Wilson will have a personal conference tomorrow with three representatives of the railroad brotherhoods to discuss the wage demands of the 2,000,000 railroad employees, which have been referred to him by Director General Hines.

Secretary Tumulty, in making this announcement today, said that it had not been decided which of the brotherhood representatives would be invited to the White House. This would be left to Hines, he said.

The union leaders will see the President on the south lawn of the White House, where Mr. Wilson spends a portion of each morning.

Director General Hines conferred with Secretary Tumulty this morning and then returned to his office, with complete memorandum for the President, who will be asked to make the final decision on the demands presented by the railroad workers nearly a year ago.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—disposition of the wage demands of more than 2,000,000 railroad employees today was in President Wilson's hands.

The decision to lay the matter before the President was made late yesterday, after Director General Hines and representatives of the employes had failed to reach an agreement.

Just how much time the President would require in considering the statements from both sides is problematical, but it is believed his consideration will be short.

EX-KAISER HAD BUNK IN SAFE IN AIR RAIDS

BERLIN, Feb. 12.—The former German Emperor William, while at the German great headquarters in Charleville, France, in the world war, surrounded himself with an army of lackeys, changed his uniform several times a day and had a strong objection to any but silk socks, according to a description of his conduct there by the editor of the Charleville Journal. The editor, M. Domelier, has just published an account of the former emperor's conduct at Charleville. He says:

"Everything he wore was intended to attain the greatest effect. According to the example of Napoleon he slept in a simple field bed, which, however, did not stand under a tent but in a wonderful villa which had every imaginable protection against airplanes."

"His fear of fliers was so great that he constantly changed his sleeping place and created a regular steel safe in which to sleep. In April, 1915, five bombs fell in the neighborhood of the imperial villa, and at another time the court train was attacked, the 'kaiser's' chief engineer, a cook and several court officials were killed. In the garden of the kaiser's villa there was an electrically lighted dugout with a capacity of thirty men.

"Unlike his sons, the kaiser's meals were simple. His lunch consisted of some roast or cold meat and a dessert. Only on his birthday was there a better meal, such as caviar and pae de foie gras, roast, rice, fruits, omelette, and choice wine. He usually drank beer, or a light Moselle wine.

"By tearing down some of the walls in the villa, the Kaiser had a wonderful bathroom constructed. Three of the big trees in the neighborhood he chopped down himself and distributed the wood to the poor families of Charleville. The inhabitants showed no appreciation for his kindness. They asserted that he was trying to gain their sympathies without paying a penny. The women expelled from Lille for compulsory work he permitted to do agricultural work."

"The Vengeance of Durand," by Rex Beach, Coming Tomorrow.

Here is one of a great author's greatest stories made into a photograph. It is vibrant with emotion and drama.

The insane jealousy of Henri Durand tortures his beautiful and faithful wife. At a costume fete she meets an old friend, Tom Franklin. Blind with jealous rage, Durand wrongly accuses her. In despair she kills herself. Durand uses his young daughter to wreak his vengeful revenge on Franklin.

She makes Franklin love her and then repudiates him on their wedding day. When he seeks death the real love for him asserts itself and she becomes his wife.

LAMB.

Will Rogers an Unsentimental Screen Hero.

Will Rogers, the Goldwyn star, of previous cowboy roping, lariat and Ziegfeld fame, says he had to ride around his sweetheart's house nine times before he had the courage to go in and propose. Rogers has been a benedict now for some fourteen years but his wife says that he never would have been brought to the point of proposing if the horse had not stumbled on the front steps at the ninth round and unceremoniously landed Will Rogers in a porch rocking chair. And in all his years before the vaudeville world he has never overcome his bashfulness with women. Out of the usual picture cliché and afraid with the director to "fade out" just before any possible love scenes. On one occasion a scenario writer had actually to insert a cloud of steamboat smoke and have it float across Will Rogers' romantic path, for the star stoutly objected to having a cliché finish. Now, he has half way relented to a public desperately fond of his love interest, and he says he will be part and party to embraces if the lady will make all the advances.

Ranch Built in Desert for Zane Grey

Among the first locations used by the Zane Grey Pictures, Inc., for filming the author's widely known novel, "Desert Gold," was a ranch, built in a desert oasis. In order to use the actual locale as it is described in the book, Mr. Grey himself led the company to probably the most "out of the way" place in which a camera was ever turned, with the exception, perhaps, of the travelogue machines.

It is in the Colorado desert, twenty-four miles from the nearest railroad stop. North, stretches the famous Death valley; south, the great Sonora desert of Mexico; west, the weird Black mountains, and east, the Grand canyon of Arizona. In the desert mountain canyon, where many taken, a stream, which, in one stretch, disappears into the sand, comes up again and forms a little verdant spot in the parched cactus-covered waste.

The carpenters and technical experts, who went in advance of the actual production, constructed amid the giant cactus abounding about the locations, a typical western ranch, consisting of a live stock, and of the members of the cast declared that of all the locations they had ever seen or read of, Mr. Grey had selected the loveliest.

THIS PROGNOSTICATOR TELLS WHAT 1975 WILL PRODUCE

International News Service. LONDON.—Keep your fingers crossed in 1975. As far as that goes, most any other year, or any month of the present year is likely to keep you "knocking wood" and praying to your gods for luck.

David Christine, a signalman, of Glasgow, has discovered a new method of communicating with the next world. By this channel he was forewarned of the great war, the Russian revolution and many other things.

Taken at random, here are some of his future predictions:

February, 1920, German plot in Ceylon.

June, 1920, great industrial unrest. Military called out.

December, 1920, appearance of mysterious woman who will sow the seeds of discontent among the people.

1921.—Threat of another great war, but England will not be directly involved.

1930.—Wonderful revelations from Supreme Power.

1950.—Another revelation from the Supreme Power and a warning of very great import to humanity.

1975.—The earth, Mars, and two other planets threatened with destruction.

South Americans Get Mexican Side of Jenkins Case

By Associated Press

SANTIAGO, Chile, Jan. 19.—Public opinion in Chile as far as it is expressed by leading newspapers of Santiago was inclined to favor Mexico in the incident resulting from the demand of the United States for the release of the American consul, William O. Jenkins, who was arrested at Tulehu after having met METAIONU Mexican bandits.

The two principal papers here, El Mercurio and El Diario Ilustrado, treated the question from the point of view of international law based upon facts as reported by cable and sent by the Mexican government to Mexican legations all over South America. Both papers expressed the opinion that Mexico had a right to judge Mr. Jenkins, unless a miscarriage of justice were approved and that the United States had no right to interfere.

The Mexican question was widely discussed in Chile. It had a special interest for South America because of its bearing upon the attitude of the United States toward one of the Spanish American republics.

Americans here feel that Washington should keep South American opinion officially informed concerning the relations of the United States with Mexico. They say that the development of trade between North and South America depends more upon friendly sentiments than is generally known, and that other manufacturing countries realize this and are ready to take advantage of every opening the United States may give them.

"Desert Gold" is courage in the saddle, and romance in the heart of Youth.

It is the story of fighting Dick Gale who rode into the jaws of Hell for a girl; a story of loyalty and riches; of revenge and retribution; of gigantic action!

It is the most compelling picture of this year and all the other years you can remember. It is breath-taking. It thrills you like an electric battery.

It is built according to a new pattern; by a new imagination; under a new system of production. It is "not in the same street with any other picture."

"Desert Gold" is more than the greatest Zane Grey picture ever produced.

It has the vitality and remarkable force and imagination of Benjamin B. Hampton, a new producing genius, plus the personal supervision of Zane Grey himself.

GOVERNMENT PROBES W. TEXAS CAR SHORTAGE

Special to The Times.
STAMFORD, Feb. 12.—The appalling rail congestion of West Texas will be probed by U. S. Railway Administration's Special Representative Felix M. Williams in an exhaustive trip of inspection in connection with the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, in an effort to solve the present grievous situation. The representative, who reached Stamford today, will be accompanied on the trip by an official of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce. He was detailed to the inspection by the U. S. railway administration upon the insistent solicitation of Congressmen Hudspeth, Lanham and Parrish, following endless complaints filed through the West Texas Chamber of Commerce.

The cotton situation will be given particular study to the end that recommendations for its clarification may be made. It is reported that many towns in the Panhandle and Central West Texas are filled with cotton which has been seeking movement for many weeks. The special representative and the West Texas Chamber of Commerce officials will leave tomorrow for Spur, the first town to be visited, to make a thorough inspection. Five thousand bales of cotton lie exposed to the elements there because the railroads have declined to handle it. The situation at other places is represented as equally as bad.

Repetition of complaints lodged with the organization and subsequent appeals to the railroad administration to eliminate the situation have at last gained the ears of Washington authorities. The organization and the complaints now have the opportunity to prove their assertions about the bad rail situation. It is a foregone conclusion that the places visited will reveal an urgency of action which could not be adequately described or expressed in correspondence. Following the special representative's examination it is believed that extraordinary procedure will be taken by the government to ameliorate the untenable conditions stifling the progress of the west.

CHINAMAN MOST POWERFUL MAN IN SOVIET RUSSIA

International News Service.
LONDON.—Bolshevik newspapers declare that the most powerful man in Soviet Russia today is a Chinese or Confucian Buriat named Ipak Yen, who was formerly a barber's assistant in Blagomeyschensk (Siberia), and was nearly hanged as a spy during the Russo-Japanese war.

For two months past, Ipak has had working quarters in the grand palace of the Kremlin, and also has a private palace in Moscow, where he keeps up great state, and parades on Sunday in gilded carriages with his four Christian wives.

The orthodox Communists bitterly criticize Ipak and his ways and accuse him of having accumulated 3,500,000 roubles (normally $1,750,000) in six months. Ipak owes his power, it is stated, to his industry, insinuating ways, moderation, cunning and ability to keep on good terms with different parties. He is on first rate relations with Lenin, who calls him "My Celestial," and who takes no important step without consulting him.

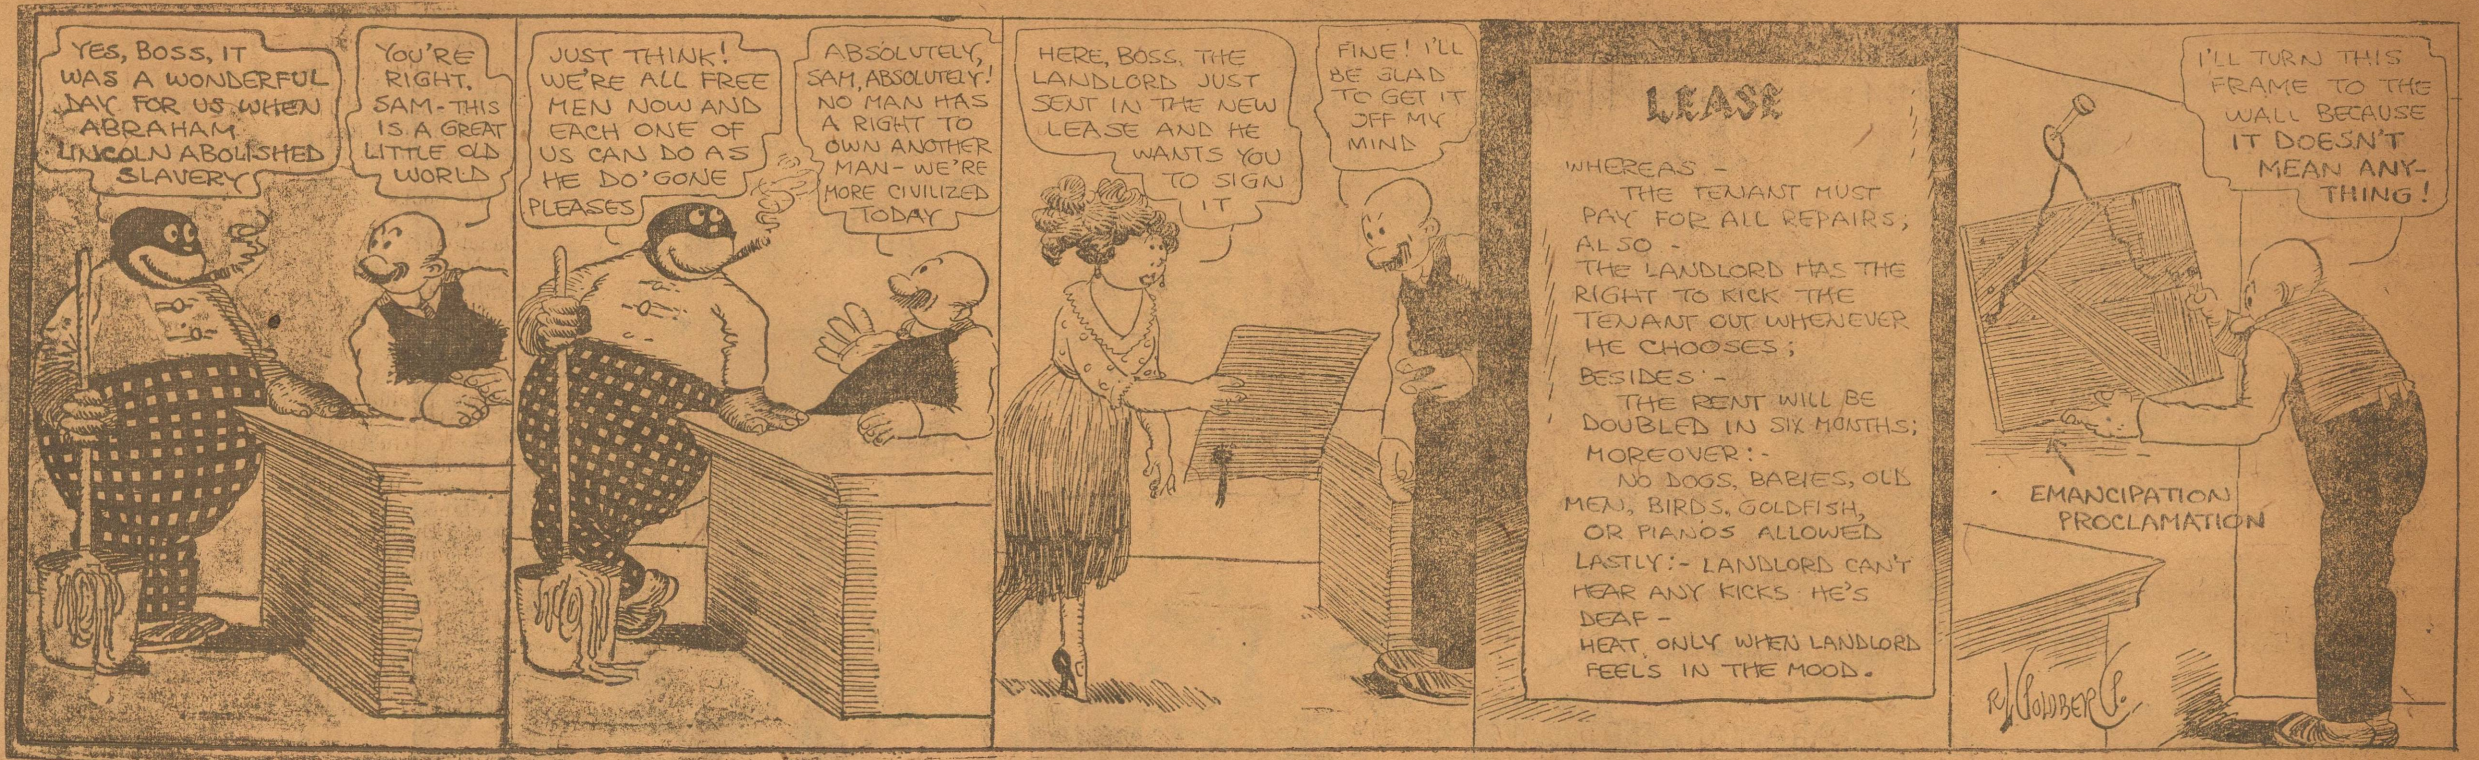

The Communist leader, Jakovlev, lately declared: "We have a new Rasputin, who hypnotizes our new Czar (Lenin)."

TEXAS PECAN GROWERS ASSOCIATION TO BE FORMED

SAN SABA, Feb. 12.—An invitation was extended by R. A. Britte, president of the San Saba chamber of commerce, today by telegraph to all members of the W. T. C. C. to attend a meeting of pecan growers and horticulturists at this place on February 27-28 when the Texas Pecan Growers' association will be organized. The Texas Pecan Growers' association will sustain to all Texas pecan growers the same relation as the California Fruit Growers' association extends to that state's fruit growers.

ALICE JOYCE

VITAGRAPH STAR

Before the names of players were featured on the screen, Alice Joyce was known as "the Kalem Girl." Each company had its "girl." There was "the Vitagraph Girl," "the Biograph Girl," "the Selig Girl" and "the Edison Girl." Of all these reigning favorites of the early days, Alice Joyce alone shines as a star today, but now as the daughter of Vitagraph instead of Kalem.

With such notable plays as Charles Klein's "The Lion and the Mouse" and "The Third Degree" as her mediums, Miss Joyce this year has entered an era of steadily increasing popularity. Her histrionic achievements in these plays and in "The Spark Divine," recently released, have placed her among the rulers of the screen. "The Winchester Woman," by Charles Stokes Wayne, has been completed and will present her in a type of part with which she has not been associated since "The Master Box," one of her most successful pictures. In November, Vitagraph will issue one of the most pretentious productions it has ever made in some time, "The Vengeance of Durand," from a powerful play by Rex Beach, adapted by Mr. and Mrs. George Randolph. Other plays by distinguished authors have been purchased for insurance still greater promise for the original "Kalem Girl."

Lincoln

There is a gulp in my throat when I dream of that weary, misunderstood but patient and humble peacemaker who held the scales between the millions of my own countrymen shooting and stabbing one another to death fifty years ago.

No other man can be quite like him to me. He remains my master of men, as Lee is my ideal of the Happy Warrior. I understand the grim humor in his sad eyes. I love that lined face, cut from the granite of self-control; that tamed volcano face, seamed and scarred by the lava of his trials and his fears. I can see how the illuminating anecdotes were his relief from the pain of an aching heart. My muscles harden and my nerves tingle as I recall the puppet and politicians and fancy self-advertising warriors who crucified him slowly. The country and the people that Lincoln believed in I must believe in and fight for too. Washington was an Englishman and baptized us, but Lincoln was an American who officiated at our first communion as a united people.—Price Collier.

Red Cross Cares for Four Needy Ex-Service Men

The American Red Cross handled four cases Wednesday. One man who left Joplin, Mo., with only enough money to reach Ranger and who is on his way to New Mexico, was taken off the train yesterday without funds and in a state of collapse from tuberculosis.

He was consigned to the local hospital for a few days' rest and will then be helped on his way. The other three cases were influenza victims without means of support or attention. All were ex-service men and are now receiving the proper care.

Cemetery Clean-up Gets Quick Action at C. of C. Meeting

John E. Milford's suggestion that the Ranger cemetery on Oak street is a disgrace to the city in its present shape and should be put in order, pending the completion of the new Park cemetery north of town, saw speedy action at the Chamber of Commerce meeting Wednesday.

Howard R. Gholson approved the suggestion, moved that a committee be appointed to do the work and headed the list of contributions with $100, for which he wrote a check as soon as he was seated. The second to the motion cost Ralph G. Stockton $50. Dr. R. H. Hodges, president, contributed $25 in work of a man and team before putting the motion. Justice J. E. T. Peters' check for $10 came in before the vote was carried.

Mr. Milford heads the committee, which will see to the work. He was authorized to select other members of the Chamber of Commerce to assist him in the work.

Mr. Milford estimates that it will take $1,000 to put the cemetery in first class condition. Citizens of the town will be asked to contribute toward this worthy cause, but since it will be difficult for the committee to see everyone who would like to contribute, Mr. Milford suggests that donations be mailed to him as chairman of the committee. The funds will be expended in the most economical and effective manner possible.

In a recent article in the Times, attention was called to the deplorable condition of the cemetery. As a mark of respect to the dead, the public should contribute to the fund for remedying this condition.

Real Estate Firms With Little Trade Because of Rains

Activity in suburban real estate has suffered a decline, following recent rains. "The market remains firm with little trading," as one realty man expressed the situation.

A number of new residences are being built in various parts of the city. Numerous inquiries for residence lots have reached real estate agents, and most of the realty men are optimistic over the prospect for development in the spring.

ABRAHAM LINCOLN.

No figure in the past dear to Americans has such a tender place in our memories as that of the man who stood at the head of American destinies in the most troubled years of our history. No name of those great in our annals stands out with the vividness of his.

He has been characterized in many words, in many well chosen phrases. We love him and regard his memory with a wave of warm tenderness because he was so human.

In his position at the country's helm when those whom he would lead were warring against each other, there is the softening of pathos when we consider how he was misunderstood, and unappreciated, even by those near to him.

In his great forgiveness he was criticized; in his fair-mindedness he was accused of over-weak leniency; in his forbearance he was reviled for inaction.

But he was so real, so human, so big of heart, that the rewards of friendship blessed him long before the laurels of a worshipful nation were laid on the tomb of his mortal remains.

Stories innumerable of him, and by him—for a penchant for stories was one of his ever-human traits—point to the humanness of the man.

As such he will live.
As such, mayhap, he earned the title, "The Greatest American."

AN UNIQUE SERVICE.

(Birmingham News.)
A rare bit of news appeared Friday in the columns of this paper. It was to the effect that the Chicago chamber of commerce had been permitted by the city judges to arbitrate commercial lawsuits out of court. The suggestion was purely voluntary on the part of the chamber of commerce, whose purpose is merely to devise a plan that would be cheaper and quicker than the long delays of the courts. A committee of thirteen, appointed by the executive committee of the chamber for their fair-mindedness and sense of justice, in addition to their understanding of commercial and legal matters, would be infinitely better qualified to smooth out twists and tangles than twelve laymen.

Here, in the opinion of the News, is a man-sized municipal service that deserves investigation by the local chamber of commerce. At first blush, it seems to be an admirable plan, and the more so when one turns to the enormous amount of litigation in the courts which the existence here of such a volunteer court might obviate. Might not this plan be practicable here?

Many of the commercial lawsuits are so-called friendly suits, but the mills of the law grind slowly and expensively. The lawyers have to earn a living. They deserve a living. Oftentimes their services are indispensable. But where the courts may be dispensed with altogether, and the whole train of attaches, judges, lawyers, juries, and all, is it not worth attempting?

The news from Chicago sounds strikingly like a far step toward friendliness and fairness, and toward elimination of long delays and bitterness between litigants. It seems to be worth studying by the chamber of commerce, the judges, the lawyers, the citizens, as a means not only toward peaceful settlements of disputes but as a tremendous saving in dollars and cents in lawyers' fees.

Liverpool Plans to Make That Port Oil Storage Center

LIVERPOOL, Feb. 12.—Development of the use of oil for ship's fuel purposes has led to the setting aside of more than twenty acres of land adjacent to the southern docks at Liverpool for the storage of oil. It is planned to establish in this area a fueling station that will make Liverpool a great oil-distributing center.

Five of the leading shipping companies have been allotted portions of the reserve land. Each soon will begin the erection of huge tanks which will give a total storage capacity of several million gallons.

SAYINGS OF LINCOLN

Prosperity is the fruit of labor.
Let none falter who thinks he is right.
Come what will, I will keep faith with friend and foe.
That some should be rich shows that others may become rich.
All that I am, all that I hope to be, I owe to my angel mother.
I believe in the providence of men—the largest purse and the longest cannon.
Nowhere in the world is presented a government of so much liberty and equality.
To add brightness to the sun or glory to the name of Washington is alike impossible.
Few can be induced to labor excessively for posterity, and none will do it enthusiastically.
I have always plucked a thistle and planted a flower when I thought a flower would grow.
If you aim too high your idea will go over the heads of the masses and only hit those who need no hitting.
If we could first know where we are, and whither we are tending, we could better judge what to do and how to do it.
Let us have faith that Right makes Might, and in that faith let us to the end dare to do our duty as we understand it.
The mystic cords of memory, stretching from every battlefield and patriot grave of every living heart and hearthstone all over this broad land, will yet swell the chorus of the Union when again touched, as surely they will be, by the better angels of our nature.

Does it Catch You in the Back?

It may be that you are mysteriously attacked by pain in back (lumbago), or limbs, "neuritic" pains—shooting anywhere. Backache of any kind is often caused by kidney disorder, which means that the kidneys are not working properly. Poisonous matter and uric acid accumulate within the body in great abundance, over-working the sick kidneys. Perhaps you have become nervous, despondent, sick, feverish, irritable, have spots appearing before the eyes, bags under the lids, and lack ambition to do things. The latest and most effective means of averting such trouble, is to drink plenty of water between meals and take a single Anuric (anti-uric) Tablet before each meal for a while, or until recovered.

Simply ask your favorite druggist for Doctor Pierce's Anuric Tablets (double strength). Send 10 cents to Dr. Pierce's Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y., for trial package.

PROSPECTORS TELL OF GOLD BENEATH LAVA

By Associated Press
NOME, Alaska, Dec. 10.—(Correspondence of the Associated Press, by Dog Team Mail.)—Prospectors arriving here recently told of a great valley of placer gold ore believed buried beneath a huge age-old blanket of lava which stretches for miles along the right shore of the Imnachuk river in the Kotzebue country north of Nome.

Gold bearing gravel has been found by miners who have attempted to tunnel under the rim of the lava sheet. Nearly every pan of dirt they took from under the edges contained gold prospects in some quantity, they said.

Belief that the lava covered valley contains great wealth is strengthened by the fact that several hold deposits found on the Imnachuk river were located near the mouths of streams which have cut their way through the lava during hundreds of years believed intervening since the volcanic outbursts.

Drills will not penetrate the lava, the prospectors said. One "sourdough" miner, H. L. Stull, said he tried to break the lava with power drills last summer but failed when he found his drill striking seams and cracks which prevented it from boring straight. Another prospector lost his equipment at a depth of 102 feet.

Blasting will be tried next summer to get through the lava to the floor of the valley. Stull believes there are millions of dollars worth of gold on the floor and will ship a blasting outfit to the Kotzebue early in the spring.

Women No Older Than They Look Over in Albania

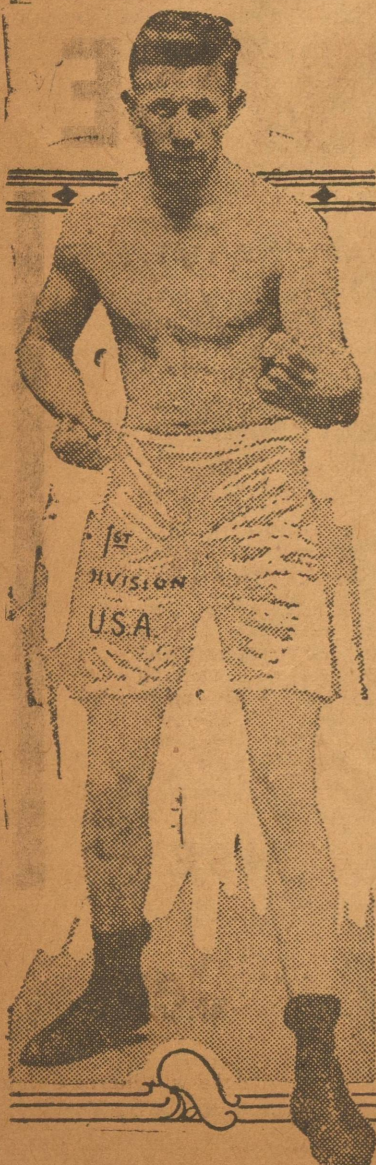

International News Service.
SCUTARI, Albania.—Calendars and clocks are luxuries that the peasants of Albania still manage to do without, and if they did have clocks, as an American remarked, "they could not read them."

The untutored folk of Albania know only three periods of time—morning, noon and night—and two seasons of the year—winter and summer. Days and dates are Greek to them. Nor have they any conception of distances. When a traveler asks an Albanian the distance from one point to another, he never answers in miles or kilometers but "It is half a day" or "It is two days." When an Albanian makes an appointment he is considered to have kept it if he comes within one or two hours of the time set.

When the American Red Cross doctors or nurses have a patient on a careful diet, and they wish him to eat at regular hours, they are almost in despair. About the best they can do is to tell him to eat at sunrise or sunset. If he is a Mohammedan he knows the evening call to prayer.

Even if the Albanians did have clocks, they would hardly know which time to keep. Most of the Europeans and Americans in Scutari keep Greenwich time. The French military forces have a time of their own, which is an hour earlier. The Mohammedan time is six hours earlier, and so when the Europeans are taking to their beds the Mohammedans have just started their afternoon coffee and cigarettes.

COTTON BAN PARTIALLY LIFTED ON WICHITA VALLEY R. R.

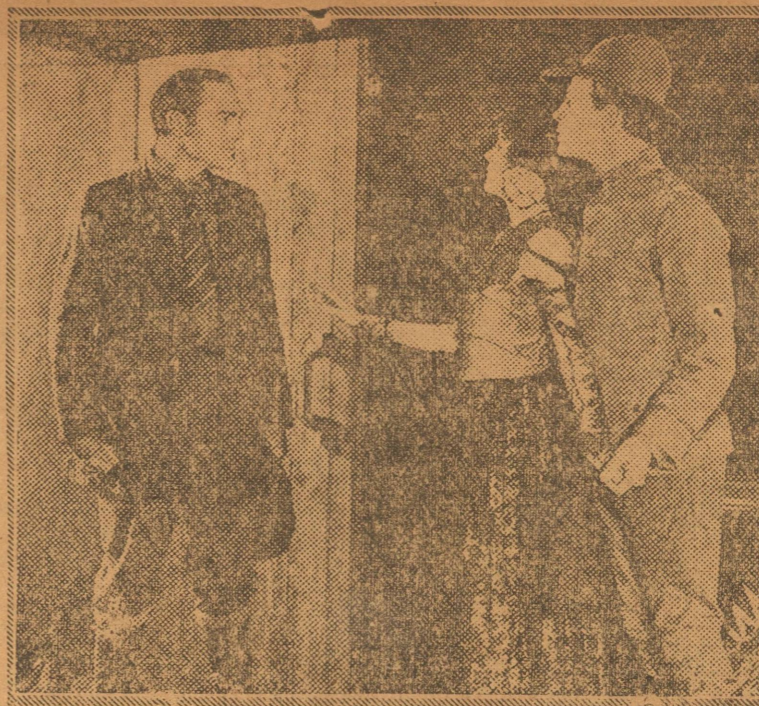

SPUR, Feb. 12.—Announcement was made yesterday that a partial lifting of the cotton embargo had occurred on the Wichita Valley lines to the extent that station agents are instructed to sign bills of lading for cotton sufficient only to make up the capacity of cotton "wharves." The West Texas Chamber of Commerce officials declare that this is practically no relief whatever, since it does not ameliorate conditions at stations where thousands of bales of cotton are ready for shipment. The partial lifting went into effect February 10 at all Wichita Valley stations.

If You Need a Medicine You Should Have the Best

Have you ever stopped to reason why it is that so many products that are extensively advertised, all at once drop out of sight and are soon forgotten? The reason is plain—the article did not fulfill the promises of the manufacturer. This applies more particularly to a medicine. A medicinal preparation that has real curative value almost sells itself, as like an endless chain system the remedy is recommended by those who have been benefited, to those who are in need of it.

A prominent druggist says "Take for example Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, a preparation I have sold for many years and never hesitate to recommend, for in almost every case it shows excellent results, as many of my customers testify. No other kidney remedy has so large a sale." According to sworn statements and verified testimony of thousands who have used the preparation, the success of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is due to the fact, so many people claim, that it fulfills almost every wish in overcoming kidney, liver and bladder ailments, corrects urinary troubles and neutralizes the uric acid which causes rheumatism.

You may receive a sample bottle of Swamp-Root by Parcel Post. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., and enclose ten cents; also mention the Ranger Times. Large and medium size bottles for sale at all drug stores.—Advertisement.

Relatives Sue for $35,000 Found After Farmer's Death

BLOOMINGTON, Ill.—The immortal bard when he wrote of "the cankered heaps of strange achieved gold" could hardly have conceived of a more curious story than was unfolded in a suit filed in the Livingston county circuit court this week. Eight years ago occurred the death of Bernard O'Reilly, a farmer of Round Oak township. In his will he left personal property and household effects to his wife and daughter, Anna. The estate was a modest one and there was no mention of money.

The daughter continued to reside at the homestead with her mother until the death of the latter one year after that of her husband. Mrs. O'Reilly left all of her property to the daughter, who was made executrix of both wills. It became necessary to sell the homestead to pay off the debts, aggregating $2,458. Persons who had a "hunch" that the old couple had buried money about the premises made a careful search and dug up considerable ground in an unavailing investigation.

Before the property was turned over to the buyers, Anna asked a nephew, Thomas O'Reilly, to assist in making up her effects. This nephew complied, and upon receiving his pledge of secrecy, was asked to assist her in removing a hoard of her parents'. Entering the cellar, the two opened a drain tile and removed the contents. There were three tin cans each filled with $10 and $20 gold pieces. Carrying the cans to an upper room, the boy assisted his aunt in counting the treasure. He stated, when questioned by Judge Sesler that there was approximately $35,000. The two spent three hours in counting and repacking the money. They then went to Pontiac, carrying the gold in a suit case. That was the last the youth knew of the find or its disposition. The transfer of the money was made Oct. 15, 1914, and was kept a secret until a few weeks ago.

Relatives of O'Reilly, who think that they should share in his estate, have filed suit asking that the probating of the will be set aside. Before granting this petition, Judge Sesler called in the youth who assisted the daughter in removing the buried hoard and ordered him to relate the story. The daughter has engaged a lawyer to take care of her rights. She points to the will, which specifically leaves her all of the estate, and is confident that the efforts of the disappointed heirs to share in the property of her parents will amount to nothing. The case is set for the February term of the Livingston county court.

The story of the gold, which has become public after five years of secrecy, has created a tremendous sensation.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

PRAYER SOCIETY FORMS TO HELP "KAISER" PAIR

NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC

It has come to the attention of the management of the Daily Times that there have been parties soliciting advertising for Business Directories, Telephone Directories, and other such mediums, and stating, or leaving the impression, that they were connected with the paper.

The Ranger Daily Times has never, nor does it intend to solicit advertising in any form other than that for the newspaper. We do Job Printing and have printed matter of the above nature, but have nothing to do with the advertising.

When paying, or contracting for such advertising, please bear in mind that the Ranger Daily Times has no liability or responsibility.

SUFFOCATED WHEN HE FALLS INTO VAT OF LIME

International News Service.
NEW YORK.—Bernard Broonbach, sixty-one years of age, of No. 822 Irving avenue, Brooklyn, employed as engineer in the dye works of A. B. Ansbacher & Co., was suffocated when he slipped into a vat of lime while attempting to adjust some pulleys on top of it. Workmen at the place, alarmed at his cries when he fell into the vat, were unable to get him out and they summoned the members of a nearby hook and ladder company.

LET US Take The RISK!

There isn't a week goes by in this town that some car owner doesn't have his car or his tires stolen, his car burnt up, a smash-up or a collision, or cause an accident to some pedestrian or fellow driver. If he is insured we settle the damages without trouble or expense to the owner. If he isn't insured, he has to dig deep down into his bank roll to "pay the piper." Why take such chances when a few dollars will shift the burden and the expense over to us? You may be out of luck tomorrow. Today is the time to shelter yourself with Auto Fire Insurance, Auto Theft Insurance, Collision or Liability Insurance.

CORTES' ASHES AWAIT COMING OF GOLDEN KEY

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 12.-After almost one hundred years of consistent search it now appears that the remains of Hernando Cortes, Spanish conqueror of Mexico, have been definitely located in the temple of Jesus, one of the many Catholic churches in Mexico City.

The remains were moved again in 1629, this time to the church of St. Francis in Mexico City. The transfer was accompanied by the lavish religious pomp and ceremony.

SCULPTOR COMPLETES BUST OF EDISON AS WIZARD NEARS SEVENTY-THIRD BIRTHDAY

Sculptor Ruotolo and the bust.

Onorio Ruotolo, famous Italian-American sculptor, noted for his "Red Cross Group," "Prince of Sorrows," his bust of Cardinal Mercier and other works, has completed a bust of Thomas Edison, electrical wizard. The bust is very timely in view of the fact that the great inventor celebrates his seventy-third birthday on Feb. 11 at his home at East Orange, N. J.

WHAT'S A CHAMP WITHOUT A DOG?

Jack Dempsey and his favorite puppy.

Nowadays a ring champion must have a ferocious looking dog lurking about his training quarters or home to be right up to snuff. The puppy that Jack Dempsey is holding can't be called exactly ferocious looking as yet, but Jack has hopes. Dempsey's raising him from a baby into the ways of a champion mascot.

Frank Moran on Dempsey. After the fight at Toledo Frank Moran approached the writer and said: "I don't think that Dempsey can hit as hard as most people give him credit for. My word, that fellow Willard was up seven times. When Francis Moran hits those boys they STAY PLANTED."

How Mr. Moran's views must have changed. He hit Fulton a few hundred times the other night and didn't drop him once. He hit Willard a couple of dozen times in their garden fight, but Willard didn't flop. Dempsey hit Fulton on the jaw ONCE in New Jersey and Fulton couldn't tell pepper from salt for three weeks.

Dempsey hit Willard on the chin at Toledo and Jess Kissel the calves. How come, Mr. Moran, how come?

J. O. K. says: "Don't drink wood alcohol. It's full of splinters."

TAD'S TID-BITS

International News Service.
NEW YORK.—The manager of almost any heavyweight possibility will tell you that there's something the matter with Jack Dempsey, the present king. There IS something the matter with him. It ought to be catching. Here's the dope: Dempsey is a fighter. His business is to make the other fellow kiss the canvas as soon as possible. He has two good hands and was taught to use them. He is big enough to lick any man alive. If he is trained properly, he has nothing to fear, because he is a goodboxer, a terrific hitter and as game as a bull dog.

But—the trouble with Dempsey is that he fights hard too soon. He tum-bled both Fulton and Willard over before they could say Jack Robinson.
That's his fault. You see, he doesn't stand around and look at the other guy. He doesn't wave his arms, dance and sort of "fill in," as Joe Beckett did with Carpenter.

Dempsey hears that old gong ring, lowers his head like a bull and sets his teeth to kill or be killed.
That was the trouble with Terry
McGovern.

How about Fulton and Willard?
Reports from the West tell us that Jess Willard, of Kansas, is anxious to get another crack at the title. Here in the East we have Fulton, who seems to be unbeatable. How about a match between this pair? Could any promoter want a sweeter one? Both men weigh over 200 pounds and stand about half a foot over six feet.

It would be a great betting fight, and where there's betting you can depend on it there's interest.
Willard isn't through by a long shot. Given a month or so in a training camp, he'd be as good as ever.
They say, however, that he's in rare shape right now.
All those in favor say "Aye."

BARNES POST GETS BEHIND RANGER C-C

Memberships in the 1920 Chamber of Commerce hardly had been mentioned at the Wednesday meeting of the board of directors before R. H. Hansford, finance officer of John Barnes post of the American Legion, was on his feet with this organization's application for a place in the chamber.

"We're not very old as a legion post, and we haven't very much jack," said Bob, "but we want to buy some of the Chamber of Commerce." He accompanied the application with a check. The directors applauded the announcement.

Dr. R. H. Hodges briefly thanked the legion and stated the directors' appreciation of the former service man's co-operation.

Mr. Hansford asked the members of the Chamber of Commerce to be considering the site for a memorial to fallen American soldiers, which the Barnes post plans to erect soon.

Directors present at the meeting were: Dr. R. H. Hodges, president; F. D. Bostaph, George T. Hemmingson, William E. Burke, R. J. Richardson, P. Learned, C. S. Heffern, Leslie H. Hagaman, M. H. Hagaman, Ralph Stockman, Larry Smits, E. R. Maher, Justice J. E. T. Peters, Dr. W. C. Palmer, E. J. Barnes, L. A. Marck, H. A. Cole, John E. Milford, Postmaster F. O. Kelly, M. H. Smith, E. M. Moore, H. J. Boshgeton, H. R. Gholson and C. C. Chenoweth.

Chamber Seeks Secretary to Fill Present Vacancy

To take immediate steps to fill the place as secretary of the Chamber of Commerce left vacant by the resignation of George Hemmingson, an investigation committee, to consider the qualifications of all applicants, to receive all suggestions and to report to the directors with recommendations, was named at the Wednesday meeting.

H. R. Gholson, M. H. Smith, F. D. Bostaph, William E. Burke and C. S. Heffern compose the committee.

ABRAHAM LINCOLN, HIS WIFE, FAVORITE SON "TAD," BIRTHPLACE AND BOOTH, HIS SLAYER

Lincoln The Tender-Hearted

One day a woman, accompanied by a senator, called on President Lincoln. The woman was the wife of one of Mosby's men. Her husband had been captured, tried and condemned to be shot. She came to ask for the pardon of her husband. Lincoln heard her story and then asked what kind of a husband her husband was.

"Is he intemperate, does he abuse the children and beat you?" asked the President.

"No, no," said the woman. "He is a good man, a good husband; he loves me and he loves the children and we cannot live without him. The only trouble is that he is a fool about politics. I live in the North and was born there, and if I get him home, he will do no more fighting for the South."

"Well," said Lincoln, after examining the papers, "I will pardon him and turn him over to you for safe keeping."

The woman, overcome with joy, began to sob as though her heart would break.

"My dear woman," said Lincoln, "If I had known how badly I was going to make you feel, I never would have pardoned him."

"You do not understand me," she cried, between sobs.

"Yes, yes, I do," answered Lincoln, "and if you don't go away at once, I shall be crying with you."

Wayland Road Workers Confer

Four men of the Wayland road neighborhood, who have been working to make the road passable between Ranger and the New Hope school, asked the advice of the Chamber of Commerce on how to go ahead on needed work. The amount necessary to put the remaining mile and a half of impassable road in fair shape was $500, they reported.

The men present were T. J. Sawyer, Ellis Cooper, J. A. Riding and Alvin Mayhall. Howard R. Gholson, chairman of the road committee, conferred with the men and promised his help in getting county aid for the work.

Hostesses Named for Lucky Dance

The rest room which it is hoped to build from the proceeds of the "Lucky (?) dance" to be given Friday evening at the Summer Garden seems assured by subscriptions already received. Several innovations in the manner of programs, favors and music are promised. The hostesses for the affair include: Mesdames J. M. Gholson, M. H. Hagaman, M. C. Goodman, L. D. Lovett, J. C. Maney, G. T. Hemmingson, J. F. Dreinhofner, and J. L. Hanscomb.

MORTUARY

E. L. GREEN.
E. L. Green, of the Green-Hook Grocery company, died at 11 o'clock Wednesday night from appendicitis. He is survived by his wife and seven children, three of whom live here. The body will be sent to Fort Worth by the Jones-Cox Undertaking company for burial.

R. S. NEAL.

EASTBOUND FREIGHT DELAYS TRAFFIC WHEN WRECKED NEAR CISCO

Eastbound freight No. 56, which was wrecked a half mile east of Cisco at 11:30 a. m. Wednesday, tied up traffic until about midnight last night. Five cars went in the ditch. The Sunshine Special was marked up four hours Thursday, and other trains were late in varying degrees.

C-C to Consider Plan for Proposed P. and S. Hospital

A proposed physicians' and surgeons' hospital for Ranger, to be located at the west end of Main street, was suggested to the Chamber of Commerce by H. A. Spears at Wednesday's meeting.

The directors agreed that there was a need for a centrally located, well appointed hospital and the project suggested by Mr. Spears was referred to Dr. W. C. Palmer, C. C. Chenoweth and M. H. Smith for consideration.

C. B. JONZ CALLED BY ILLNESS OF FATHER

C. B. Jonz, local freight and passenger agent for the Texas & Pacific railroad, left last night for Fort Worth, in response to a message stating that his father was very ill.

E. J. Barnes Reads Phone Committee

E. J. Barnes, of the Barnes Lumber company, Wednesday was elected to the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce to succeed John Korp of the Eureka Tool company, whose resignation because of press of other duties, was received with regret by the directors.

Mr. Barnes has been an active worker and immediately that his name was accepted, by unanimous vote, Dr. R. H. Hodges placed him at the head of the telephone committee, to take steps toward getting the first class exchange which was promised Ranger several months ago.

STAR IN "EVERYWOMAN"

Beautiful Leading Woman In Feature Movie Is English

By ADAM HULL SHIRK.
Think of an English countryside, long before the rack of war wrought upon the smiling face of the land the ineradicable furrows of sorrow and bitter memory, figuratively at least; think of hedgerows, surrounding little fields of corn, woods of a delicate green; tiny inns with creaking signs, half hidden in mossy verdure; and thatched cottages—over all the smiling skies and the sunshine of June.

Think, I say, of these things; think of the England of Washington Irving—of Bracebridge Hall, for example—then imagine a young girl, flower-like in her beauty; ethereal in her simple dress of lawn; her arms laden with dogroses—coming down a winding pathway from some old manor, jassing anon to add some other blossoms to her armful of fragrant booty.

Envision her face, fair as a flower, indeed, the smile that dazzles because of the pearly whiteness of her teeth between lips red as the heart of a crimson rose; glimpse the sheen upon her brown-gold hair as the sunlight dwells lovingly upon the curling tresses; catch the light that dances in her eyes, sea-blue eyes that smile a welcome—note the patrician contour and delicate moulding of her face and feature.

And you have a mental picture of Violet Heming.

When not so long ago the producers of "Everywoman" for the screen, a Paramount-Arteraft picture of special interest and charm, directed by George Melford, sought for someone to interpret the title role, they realized that whosoever they selected must have that appeal of womanliness which Robert Louis Stevenson said was the chiefest charm in woman.

They realized also that she must possess the ability to act beyond the average; that she must possess a universality of characteristics, must be, in brief—"Everywoman."

And they found all that was required in Violet Heming.

It is a pity that the soft dulcet, infinitely sweet tones of her voice must be lost in the limitation of the silver sheet. That cannot be avoided. But everything else that the most exacting could demand she supplied.

Experience in both stage and screen work is, of course, an essential to the portrayal of a role of such high importance as this. This experience Miss Heming possessed, for she began her stage career at an early age, so that now, a mere girl, retaining all the freshness, charm and bloom of her early youth, she couples therewith a rare knowledge of dramatics and a poise that can be gained only by familiarity with the art to which she has dedicated her efforts.

"I loved the role from the very first," she declared, "except for one brief time before I began work, when the thought came to me that 'Everywoman' after a time becomes coarse and betrays the bitter fruits of unwisdom in her contact with life. But when I read the script I noted the modifications which avoided the most unlovely of these features and gave me a wonderful opportunity to plant—one might say—the real and idyllic qualities of the character indelibly in the hearts and minds of the spectators. Then I was satisfied.

"It is a beautiful thought—symbolism in the nth degree—this play; it is far better adapted to the screen, I believe than to the stage, for it needs room—life can scarcely be limited to the three walls of the stage—and this is a picture of life—its emotions, pitfalls, joys, sorrows and triumphs. But the screen is unlimited, though some may consider this statement paradoxical. True, the lens covers only a given breadth of space, but it is never fixed—and there is a dimension, a depth, which is unlimited.

"With a wonderful cast, beautiful scenic backgrounds, splendid direction, very facility which the vast resources of the Famous Players-Lasky corporation affords, is it any wonder that 'Everywoman' is, as I fairly believe, a classic production?"

And "Everywoman" with its wealth of characterization, centers about the figure of the one who plays the titular role. We follow her rise to fame and wealth, her temptations, the subtle influences for good or evil, the degradation and in the end the triumph of purely spiritual qualities which restores all that was lost of good and eradicates forever those dark powers of destructive character, which prove to be not powers at all, but mere usurpers of powers, potent only while given strength by submission to their domination.

A great lesson for good is conveyed by this modern morality play; it is a sermon of life; a visualization of the forces for good and evil which seem to contend ever in our hearts and minds. It cannot fail in its effect. It leaves upon the mind of the specta-

"EVERYWOMAN"

Prologue

BY LAWRENCE GRANT

Who shall know the workings of a woman's heart?
Who shall fathom the dreams of a young girl as she first looks out on Life.

"Standing with reluctant feet
Where the brook and river meet,
Womanhood and Childhood fleet."

She starts fortified by all the beneficent attributes—Youth, Beauty Modesty, Truth and Good Conscience; but near her are Ambition and Pride beckoning her on; Passion with pleasant exterior; Vice in attractive form; Wealth ready to smooth all paths; while Love, Compassion and Devotion seem but dull company.

Everywoman must choose which of these shall be her companions.

Beauty cannot flirt with Dissipation, nor abide with Passion; Youth cannot sport with Vice; Truth will be estranged by Ambition, and Conscience be stilled by Pride.

Only Infinite Love, Perfect Devotion, Divine Compassion will cleave through all vicissitudes, ready in the hour of direst need to rally round her, when nobody cares.

Everywoman meets these characters daily.

They bear ordinary normal names, but she knows to which group each belongs, whether they are a force for Good or for Evil, whether they should enter the inner circle of her friends, or be passed by and forgotten.

Will she pursue Ambition? Consort with Vanity and Pride? Indulge in Dissipation and Vice?

Or, in the path of simple standards and quiet, modest ways, be content to live her life in companionship with womanly virtues, believing that if she pursue Truth alone, then Love, which she so earnestly desires, will be her sure reward?

Violet Heming Shocked.

Violet Heming, the beautiful actress playing the leading role in the great screen spectacle "Everywoman," described her arrival in the wild and movie west thus:

"Though I have always enjoyed driving my own car, I let someone else take the wheel in Los Angeles. The folks there drive like mad. It's a wonder they aren't all killed off."

In "Everywoman," Miss Heming plays the leading role in a charming manner. The costumes of the various players are gorgeous and every woman in the country will be delighted to see them. The keynote of the production is beauty and the note is capably sustained.

Criticism.

Georgeously staged and acted by a cast of stars, "Everywoman," showing this week at the Lone Star theatre will take its place at the top of the list of the many stage plays and novels that have been placed in motion pictures. Not the smallest detail is missing and there are many scenes that set new marks in movie production. A banquet scene is no doubt the most expensive scene of its kind ever filmed. Violet Heming in the title role is an ardent worker and portrays her character in a clever manner. She is supported by a cast that possibly could not be improved upon. Those who have seen the stage play can more easily appreciate the strides motion pictures have made in presenting a story in picture form.

Los Angeles.—Among the greatest pictures of 1919 selected by the editor of a leading movie magazine are "The Miracle Man," directed by Geo. Loan Tucker; "Broken Blossoms," by D. W. Griffith; "Male and Female," by Cecil B. DeMille; "Everywoman," by George Melford, and "Evangeline," by Raoul Walsh. The best comedy dramas of the year, according to this critic, are "23 1/2 Hours' Leave," made by Henty King, and "Mickey," a Mack Sennett production.

There is a strong tendency among film comedy makers to extend the length of their output from two to five reels. Mack Sennett has completed a five-reeler, and now Chester Conklin is to be featured in one of the same length by the Fox company.

Gifted Author of "Everywoman Met A Tragic Death

George H. Melford Was the Director of "Everywoman"

Transferring symbolism to the stage is a hard task; embodying it in a screen play, without the aid of spoken words, is an assignment for a genius. George Melford has justified the confidence of the producers who selected him as the man to direct the picture—extraordinary, "Everywoman." Mr. Melford has made of it more than a gorgeous spectacle and a riotous array of pretty girls, elaborate scenery and striking photographic effects. "Everywoman" is all of this—and more. The eye of the director has throughout been upon the story, and the picture is not alone a feast for the eye, but it unfolds an interest-compelling plot leading through thrilling climaxes to a happy finale, and it is all the more inspiring because it is the allegorical story of life itself.

"Everywoman" Cast.

In these days of widely-heralded all-star motion picture casts that so often fail to materialize on the screen, it is a relief to find a picture like "Everywoman" showing at the Lone Star theatre and presenting an array of film favorites that has seldom been duplicated in one picture before. Violet Heming, the charming stage and screen player, has the leading role in this sumptuously produced version of Walter Browne's famous morality play. Theodore Roberts is Wealth, Wanda Wayley is Beauty and Monte Blue is Love. Bebe Daniels was recruited from the ranks of comedy to play the role of Vice. Others in the company are Margaret Loomis, Mildred Reardon, Raymond Hatton, Noah Beery, Irving Cummings, Charlie Ogle and Tully Marshall. The picture was directed by George H. Melford and is a Paramount-Arteraft picture.

Cecil B. DeMille took Milton E. Hoffman, studio general manager at the Lasky plant, for a ride in his aeroplane the other day. Mr. Hoffman enjoyed it tremendously. "I like to get away from things once in a while," he explained, "even if I have to come down to earth finally. And I don't mind even that if I don't come down too suddenly."

The showing of the lavish picturization of Walter Browne's famous morality play, "Everywoman," at the Lone Star this week recalls the tragic circumstances of the death of its gifted author. Mr. Browne was a newspaper reporter on a prominent New York daily. His burning ambition was to write a great play for the stage that would be something wonderfully different and would live forever. He conceived the brilliant idea of transforming the old morality play of the sixteenth century into an elaborate modern counterpart. The conception of "Everywoman" grew in his brain and became a vital, living thing. He worked upon it feverishly for years—every moment that he could spare from his newspaper duties—writing, revising and polishing, it became an obsession with him and his life was bound up with the success or failure of his great venture.

Paul Perry Cameraman for "Everywoman"

The photograph in "Everywoman" is unusually fine. Paul Perry, who was also one of the cameramen in "Told in the Hills," exhausted all known means of achieving remarkable lighting, grouping and spectacular effects and invented some new ones especially for this picture.

In the magnificent scenes in the banquet hall of Wealth, in the gambling palace, and at the society bazaar he is at his best.

for an impression that will remain throughout the years—and yet it is an entertainment of the most wonderful character—a maze of beauty, a glorious spectacle of the procession of life. And again, the picture of the smiling countryside comes to my mind's eye as I envision Violet Heming when she is her true self—a woman of infinite charm, rare gifts and a beauty that seems to include all that the world finds most wonderful in a woman and that the heart demands of its fondest concept.

I seem to see a little wood, feathery trees of tenderest green, a tiny mirror pool; above a few fleecy clouds in a sky of turquoise—a soft breeze that scurries ruffles the leaves, bringing delicate odors of myriad blossoms, beset by those roving buccaners of the air—the bees. I hear a clear-throated thrush who sings his heart out to the summer; far away the happy laughter of children at play upon a wide greensward—in the distance the sound of chimes—

"Is she not more than painting can express, Or youth poets fancy, when they love?"

Violet—Voilà!

EARLE WILLIAMS
VITAGRAPH STAR

Earle Williams has a peculiar distinction for a motion-picture star of his magnitude—of always having been associated with the same producer. He began his screen career with Vitagraph twelve years ago, and with Vitagraph he still remains. His advice to beginners is to follow his example in this respect, provided they find the right company. Mr. Williams has seen many stars made at the Vitagraph studios—the Talmadges, Constance, Norma and Natalie; Clara Kimball Young, Anita Stewart, Edith Storey and others, who have strayed from the fold, and Alice Joyce, Corinne Griffith, Gladys Leslie and others, who are still loyal Vitagraph stars. Mr. Williams has devoted most of his time to Vitagraph's West Coast studio in recent years, but soon will go to the Brooklyn studio, where he will play the leading character in "The Fortune Hunter," the famous comedy drama by Winchell Smith, in which John Barrymore created the same role. Mr. Williams recently completed "The Wolf," made from Eugene Walter's drama of the same name.

TAKES UP SCULPTURE TO ESCAPE HOUSEHOLD WORK

IOWA CITY.—"I began my work as a sculptor to escape the drudgery of housekeeping," confessed Miss Nellie V. Walker, noted Iowa sculptor, now working in the Midway studios, Chicago, in association with Lorado Taft, in addressing a class in history art at the University of Iowa here.

"To be sure," she said, "my father was a worker in granite and marble. He cut tombstones. That gave me a laboratory and an opportunity, but I began the work because I disliked the dusting, sweeping, and, above all, wiping the dishes.

Miss Walker is one of Iowa's best known sculptors. She executed the statue of Chief Kookuk, which stands above Kookuk's grave at Keokuk, Iowa.

Miss Walker never received any help financially from her parents, but they never opposed her work as an art student.

BACK TO FRONT DRESSES A PUZZLE TO LONDONERS

International News Service.
LONDON.—"Mayfair 0000! Is that Madame Chiffon? Can you tell me which is the front of my new dress, please?"

Questions like this may become common at the dressmaker's when the new "front-to-back" fashions introduced for the Riviera come into vogue in the early spring.

The evening frock made high almost to the back of the neck in front, with a deep open "V" carried down to the waist at the back, was the first indication of the new tendency in dress," said a Dover street dressmaker to a representative of the Sunday Express recently. "These bare-back fashions are waiving fast, but many of the latest models for the fashionable Riviera resorts have all the trimmings usually associated with the front of a gown at the back, while the front itself is perfectly plain.

"Dance frocks, dinner gowns, afternoon and visiting dresses have all come under the new influence."

EFFORT TO REVIVE THE HOME SUGAR INDUSTRY IN ENGLAND
International News Service.
LONDON, Feb. 12.—An extensive scheme, with $2,000,000 paid up capital, is being pushed so that England can turn out beet sugar for one million persons. It is an effort to revive the home sugar industry which was crowded out a generation ago by English country gentlemen's estates and game reserves.

The government has subscribed half the capital which may be doubled, and 6,000 acres have been purchased near Newark, where a sugar factory will be erected.

Production today depends upon Cuba and Java for her sugar supply, although she has enough lands in her empire fit for sugar production to supply the whole world.

High sugar prices today are attributed here to the Cuban sugar corner.

HAITIANS STILL SAVAGES, SAYS RETURNED MARINE

International News Service.
SAO CITY, Iowa.—John Page, a Jackson township farm boy, declares that savagery and cannibalism are common in the republic of Haiti.

Page served there with the marines and has told relatives and friends here of some hair-raising episodes that marked service for Uncle Sam in the West Indian isle, indicating that as much excitement was experienced there as anywhere in the world war zone.

Page claims that he discovered that the citizens of the republic are really savages, believing in voodooism, involving witchcraft, snake worship and human sacrifice. Cannibalism and other South Sea island practices are indulged in the interior, according to his statements.

Bandits thrive in Haiti, he avers. "Cacees capture law-abiding citizens or persons belonging to another band and torture them to death, he declares.

Page was on police duty at Haiti with other Yankee Marines.

Synopsis.

A girl donates one kiss to be sold at auction at a charity bazaar. Among the bidders are three rivals for her hand—a struggling young physician, a professional actor, and a millionaire. Naturally the latter wins, but the kiss does not come up to expectations. Two stage managers who are present offer the girl an opportunity to become an actress. She asks time to consider and that night three girl chums who are visiting her offer varied advice. With the advent of a new day the story merges into symbolism. The girl is now called Everywoman; her maid, Conscience, and her three best friends are Youth, Beauty and Modesty. To Everywoman, in her mirror, appears Flattery and the character of Nobody, the ever present, is introduced. Flattery begs Everywoman to go upon the Stage of Life and seek his master, King Love the First. Everywoman determines to accept the manager's offer to go upon the stage. The young physician proposes and is rejected. In spite of the objections of Modesty, Everywoman decides to take up the stage and is dominated by the actor, now known as Passion, and the millionaire, now called Wealth. The stage managers are Bluff and Stuff. Everywoman is proclaimed as a great star. At first she resists the temptations that beset her, but she soon accepts the attentions of Wealth and a new suitor called Lord Witless. But still faithful in her quest for King Love, Everywoman mistakes Passion for him, allows herself to kiss him and discovers her error through Passion's description of the Gates of Pleasure. She rejects Passion, but Modesty has left her—to become a wandering exile. In the course of a banquet given by Wealth, he begs Everywoman to be his, declaring he is King Love. However, Everywoman soon learns that he does not want her unless Youth and beauty are ever present and she refuses him. Passion, longing for revenge, has Dissipation steal away Beauty to hold for a ransom. Everywoman flees from the house of Wealth in panic, taking Youth and Conscience with her. With Beauty lost, Bluff and Stuff dispense with the services of Everywoman as a theatrical star. Still seeking Love and heeding a suggestion of Youth about the love of gambling, Everywoman stakes her all in a gambling hall in hope of winning a clue to Love. She loses, and in the same game Lord Witless is ruined and kills himself. New Year's eve finds Everywoman and Youth, poverty stricken, wandering in the streets. Father Time beckons and Youth leaves Everywoman forever. In desperation Everywoman tries to sell herself to Wealth, who spurns her. Everywoman then finds that Nobody is her friend. As the chimes ring out the New Year, Truth and Conscience leave the church, and calling at the feet of Truth Everywoman declares she is ready now to follow her. To the cottage of Truth now journeys Everywoman and there discovers that the young physician, the son of Truth, is the Love for whom she seeks her pilgrimage. Modesty taken in and cared for by Truth and Love, recovers from her wanderings and Love declares that Beauty will soon be ransomed by Right Living. Even in his first visionings of "Everywoman" and her quest for love, the late Walter Browne could hardly have conceived pictorially a richer and more beautiful realization of his dreams than Paramount-Artercraft has set forth in the screen version of his famous play. "Everywoman," which Manager Will D. Harris presented at the Grand theater this week for the first time in America, is a production entirely worthy of the great company which produced it and gives its director, George Melford, rank among the best of his profession. A morality play is difficult to stage even with the help of hands, and it must have been a delicate task to prepare this on the screen. But the adapters and Mr. Melford have been so successful that it is no exaggeration to say that the picture has an appeal, considering the difference in the medium, quite equal to that on the stage. "Everywoman" as it embellishes the screen, takes on more nearly the nature of a great spectacle than any picture revealed in the silent drama, if we except Mr. Griffiths' "Innocence." It is a series of beautiful screen pictures with about as much of a connecting plot as Mr. Browne gave his memorable play, and that is slight.

But in the much-sought "story interest" it is not lacking. Though it is a little longer than the average program picture it fits nicely in a two-hour program and the local exhibitor found plenty of room for it, even with an elaborate dancing prelude. Furthermore, his business has been so phenomenal that he is holding it over for a second week. It is the only picture that has played two successive weeks here this season, except "The Muscle Man." The story follows the play faithfully, describing the journeys of Everywoman in quest of King Love. She thinks she may find him on the stage and tries that route, relying largely on the influential friendship of Wealth. But Dissipation steals away Beauty, after Modesty has been made very, very ill, and only Youth stays with her. Before she leaves Wealth she entertains Passion, but learns his true nature and finally finds real happiness in Love. The big ensemble scene of the picture is that in which Wealth entertains many, many friends in honor of Everywoman. Vice, who later wins Everywoman away from Wealth, is there in the company of Passion and Youth is frightfully bored by Age. It is a gorgeous scene with a huge table in dollar sign shops and with a song chorus that suggests the best of Ziegfeld and Sennett. During the scene they take a dip in the pool which forms the center of the table and dive for money. But the smaller, more intimate scenes, the ones that really tell the story, are well handled, too, including the wooing of Everywoman successively by Wealth, Passion and Love. Many of the scenes are introduced by beautifully fashioned groups of symbolic statuary, something new in film and decidedly distinctive. Violet Heming, taken from a successful stage career, to play the little role, does it admirably. She has an expressive, sensitive face; beauty of face and costume, and a clever command of makeup, as she depicts the temporary flight of Beauty. Bebe Daniels is a voluptuous, alluringly charming Vice and dresses her role to perfection. Wanda Hawley as Beauty, Clara Horton as Youth and Edythe Chapman as Truth are among the other successful feminine players. Theodore Roberts plays cleverly, but without aristocratic effect, the role of Wealth. Irving Cummings makes an ardent Passion; Monte Blue, a winning Love and James Neill is impressive in the cowed figure of visionary effect, Nobody. of

Second only to the maternal instinct in "Everywoman's" heart, is the desire for a Home of Her Own.

Someone has said that a man's home is his castle, but it comes nearer being "Everywoman's."

No man knows a home as a woman knows it—she is familiar with every nook and corner.

Everywoman's pride in her home is second only to her interest in her husband and children.

For the sake of her loved ones she may assume the semblance of happiness while living in a shack or rented house or apartment, but though her lips smile, her heart aches for

NEWS NOTES FROM MOVIELAND
BY D. M. BANGS.

Dorothy Dalton, the Ince star, is in New York, where she plans to rest a bit and then make a picture for Paramount.

Did you know that Charles Ray, the Ince star in Paramount pictures, was once in vaudeville? And that he once traveled with a musical comedy show?

Gloria Swanson, star of Cecil B. de Mille pictures, has become the bride of Herbert Somborn, the California millionaire. Miss Swanson will continue her work in the films.

The latest thing in autos is the Ar-buckle 1919. This car, which combines the eccentricities of the flivver with the ingenuity of a combination corkscrew and safety razor was first revealed to a waiting public in the Paramount-Arbuckle comedy "Love."

Marguerite De La Motte, the young Metro film star, was seriously injured in a crash between her motor car and a trolley in Los Angeles recently. Her mother received fatal injuries, and her father, a Los Angeles attorney, who was driving, was badly injured but will recover.

While in Chicago, Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Drew were the guests of Judge Hugo Pam, of the superior court. In "Squared," a Paramount-Drew comedy, there is a court scene, and with her insistence on correct details, Mrs. Drew had Judge Pam describe the technical routine of the court room and just how a judge should act, what were the duties of a bailiff, how the prisoners were examined, the duties of a jury, and so forth. So if the details in "Squared" aren't absolutely correct, you can make your kicks to Judge Pam.

Thrills are a component part of the Paramount-Sennett two-reel comedies. In every production turned out at the big plant there are several performances which make even the sophisticated Sennett audience grip the sides of the seats and hold their breath. Mr. Sennett has on his payroll men who have only one task to perform—to figure out new ways of breaking one's neck. Then Sennett sees to it that the necks are not broken. Which doesn't prevent every man and woman in his company from carrying accident insurance.

Doug Fairbanks' recent one-man parade in New York City during the Fourth Liberty Loan drive takes second place when compared to his riding an elephant through the main streets of Los Angeles escorted by a military band. It was in behalf of War Savings stamps. Doug's motto has been adopted by the Los Angeles salesmen whom he is heading in the new W. S. S. drive: "You sent them over; now bring them back."

The Chinese have a reputation for being a somewhat backward nation but they invented gun powder, without which the war would not have made so loud a noise; and they invented the cabaret and jazz, without which the Tired Business Man would not be so tired, during his introduction to China's cops, cabarets and chorus girls in his latest Paramount-Reliance Travelogue, "Celestial Concerts."

The other day Elsie Ferguson, who portrays the role of a cabaret girl in her latest Arterat picture, was wandering about the studio waiting for the scene to be set. A little extra girl standing in the wings watching her curiously finally went up to her, "Listen, girlie, you'll never land in pictures if you don't learn how to dress," she told the star, "you are a very pretty girl, but the clothes you wear are all to the raspberry." Miss Ferguson looked down at her gayly colored dress and pretended to be chastened. Then unable to control her sense of humor, began to laugh. Someone whispered the information to the extra girl that Elsie Ferguson was laughing at her. The girl wanted to leave the studio at once, but Miss Ferguson would not hear of it and the girl was forgiven for her advice to one of the greatest screen actresses of the day.

Robert Warwick is becoming one of the most popular of the Paramount stars. He has Lois Wilson as his leading lady in a film he is now making. Miss Wilson is one of the prize beauties of the screen, having entered pictures as the winner of a beauty contest. She was selected as Alabama's most charming candidate. She made good from the start and is one of the very few picked at the time who have remained in the game and attained national popularity.

Everywoman

A Rhymed Review.
By RUSSELL HOLMAN.
Youth and fair Beauty her comrades;
Truth and vile Passion at strife;
Seeking King Love, Everywoman
Set forth on the journey of Life.
Wealth in his banquet hall wooed her;
Gaming halls lured her to shame;
Still on her mission she wandered,
Shorn of her Beauty and fame.
Truth found her, poverty-stricken,
Calling Nobody her friend,
Guided her safe to a cottage
To Love and her long journey's end.
Pateant of radiant splendor;
Drama of mighty appeal
Pictured in scenes of rare beauty
That Life in its fullness reveal.
Violet Heming and other
Favorites feature the cast;
"Everywoman" the peer of
The greatest film hits of the past.

By skillful arrangement of her affairs and hard, driving work, Bessie Barriscale was enabled to get her first vacation in a long time through the holiday season. Her husband, Howard Hickman, by the same method, completed his direction of an all-star production for another company, and together the talented pair enjoyed a motor trip to San Francisco and northern California scenic points without a thought of business to cloud their rest and recreation.

Corinne Griffith has completed more than half the scenes for "Deadline at Eleven," the newspaper play which will be her next Vitaphone feature. Both she and George Fawcett, her director, have been haunting the newspaper offices for "atmosphere," and both promise the members of the Fourth Estate a surprise in accuracy in detail in the picture. The story was written by a newspaper woman and adapted to the screen by a newspaperman.

Charles Ray's new picture, "Homer Comes Home," is completed. The type of picture is one of that kind that has brought Ray up to his vast popularity all over the world, because of his ability to portray the rural youth with such marvelous fidelity and humor. The story was adapted from the original novel published in a leading magazine from the pen of Alexander Hull. The supporting cast includes Priscilla Langer, Otto Hoffman, Walter Higby, Lew Morrison, Mollie McComme and Arthur Hoyt.

Andrew J. Callahan, who represents the group of Chicago capitalists back of the new Bessie Love company, is on his way to the coast to complete the arrangements for taking the little star under their management. Miss Love is to be a member of the company as well as its only feature player.

A. L. SCHEDULE BACK TO 154 GAMES AGAIN

CHICAGO, Feb. 12.—The American league baseball season will open April 14 and close Oct. 3, according to the official 1920 schedule released by B. B. Johnson, president of the league. The schedule shows a restoration of the 154 games chart, which was curtailed last season because of the world war. An innovation in this year's schedule is the listing of Sunday games at Washington and New York. This is the first time in the history of the league that this has been done at the time the schedule was drafted. The world war was responsible for this. Last season, games were permitted in Washington and New York, but the schedule made no provision for these contests. As a result the schedule was revised and a number of games were advanced in order to play on the Sabbath.

Opening games are listed as follows:
Detroit at Chicago.
St. Louis at Cleveland.
New York at Philadelphia.
Washington at Boston.

Boston is scheduled to close the season before the other clubs. The final curtain for the Red Sox will be rung down on Sept. 28. A double header, with Washington billed as the opponent, is on the program for that day. The following day, Sept. 29, New York will close its season at Philadelphia. The last of the eastern clubs to quit for the season are the Senators and the Athletics, who meet at Philadelphia on Oct. 2.

The four western clubs are scheduled to close the season on Sunday, Oct. 3. The White Sox will finish at St. Louis and Cleveland is slated to close at Detroit.

The schedule, as in former years, calls for three swings around the circuit.

Detroit after opening at Chicago will go to Cleveland, and then return home on April 22 for its first game at home with the league champions as an opponent. St. Louis opens at home with Cleveland as an opponent on the same day, following its series at Cleveland and Chicago. New York, after prying the lid off at Philadelphia, will go to Boston for a series and then to the Polo grounds, to play its first home games with the Athletics as the attraction on April 22. The Washington fans will get their first glimpse of the Senators on April 22, when, after a series in Philadelphia and Boston, they come home to meet the Red Sox.

Washington has drawn the plum in regard to the greatest number of Sunday games. The Senators have been given sixteen Sunday dates. Chicago and Detroit each have thirteen, while St. Louis, Cleveland and New York have been awarded twelve apiece. Philadelphia and Boston have no Sunday games at home, because baseball is forbidden there on the Sabbath.

Boston, Detroit and Washington share alike in the distribution of Saturday games, each being scheduled to play thirteen week-end games at home. The other five clubs have been given twelve Saturdays at home.

Independence Day—July 4—falling on Sunday, the schedule makers have arranged holiday bills for Monday, July 5. Games on that day will be played at Chicago, Detroit, Washington and Philadelphia.

Decoration day—May 30—also falling on a Sunday, enabled the framers of the playing chart to book holiday bills for the following day. These games will be played at St. Louis, Cleveland, New York and Boston.

The Red Sox have been awarded a holiday bill for April 19—Bunker Hill day.

Chicago, Cleveland, Washington and New York are scheduled to play Labor day games at home on Sept. 6.

There are four conflicting dates with the National league, and these are in Chicago, on May 9, June 27, Sept. 5 and Sept. 26, when the Chicago Cubs are scheduled to play at home.

The western clubs start their invasion of the east on May 11. Chicago will be at New York, St. Louis at Philadelphia, Cleveland at Boston and Detroit at Washington.

The eastern clubs will make their first western trip on June 8, with Boston appearing at Chicago, Washington at St. Louis, New York at Detroit and Philadelphia at Cleveland.

Thompson Plans Modern Building

N. T. Thompson, owner of Thompson's variety store, located near Walnut and Austin streets, will begin the erection of a new building just south of Jameson's market, within the next few days.

The store in which his business is now located was sold by Mr. Thompson to S. J. Cowart, owner of the Page hotel, about six weeks ago.

Plans call for a two-story, fire-proof building.

Enter Mr. Mulford.
More and more the prominent motion picture directors are becoming identified with definite types of pictures. Cecil B. DeMille is noted for his wonderful blending of artistic beauty and realism; Maurice Tourneur is the master of spectacular screen melodrama; Thomas H. Ince places the life of today in celluloid with extremely realistic backgrounds. "Told in the Hills," Robert Warwick's picture, established George H. Melford's status as a master director in the field of large-scale panoramic pictures requiring the handling of large bodies of principals and extras and lavish scenic effects. Mr. Melford has proven his efficiency in the line of cinema work even more strikingly in "Everywoman," the magnificent Paramount-Artcraft screen version of Walter Browne's famous morality play, which is holding the screen at the Lone Star theatre this week.

JACK HALL DIES OF PNEUMONIA TODAY

By Associated Press
McKINNEY, Feb. 12.—Jack Hall, district manager of the Texas Power & Light company, died of pneumonia today. For several years he was clerk in the Texas senate.

With only a brief intermission for rest, Director Frank Lloyd has begun work on a new production for the Goldwyn company, with Pauline Frederick as his star. It is to be a screen translation of the successful stage play, "Roads of Destiny." Miss Frederick, by the way, is not to leave the screen, as erroneously reported, but will remain under the direction of Mr. Lloyd for another year.

THE POPULAR

EVERYWOMAN'S GOWNS SHOWN AT S. & H. STORE

Among the leading business houses of Ranger that are featuring "Everywoman" this week is the S. & H. Store on Main street. They have a very attractive window display of spring styles, all of which are of the very latest creations worn in the photoplay of "Everywoman." Under each gown and hat and pair of slippers in the window is displayed a picture reproduced from "Everywoman" showing the exact duplicate as the article is worn itself.

New spring styles that are now being worn throughout the East and which have caused so much talk in the fashion centers have just arrived at this store and the management is now preparing for an informal showing of these beautiful spring gowns for everywoman Friday and Saturday of this week. This announcement comes to the women of Ranger with added interest since they have an opportunity first to see the gowns and frocks worn in "Everywoman" before looking at the smart patterns the S. & H. have just received.

All Star Cast for "Everywoman"

The first print of "Everywoman" at the Broadway Strand theatre, Famous Players-Lasky's Paramount. Artercraft version of Walter Brown's morality play which was the reigning theatrical success simultaneously in America, Europe and Australia a few seasons ago, arrived in New York recently and was shown to the executives of the company and the members of the publicity and advertising department. The picture is said to have been received with the utmost enthusiasm by all present and they are already claiming over at 435 Fifth avenue that with the season of 1919-20 only two months old, they have the three greatest productions of the year. These are George Loane Tucker's "The Miracle Man," which was released in September; Cecil B. De Mille's "Male and Female," released November 16; and "Everywoman," which will be given to the public very shortly.

George H. Melford was assigned the task of making the play into a photo-dramatic spectacle, and so well has he succeeded that it is declared that in the future his name must inevitably be mentioned when anybody assumes to name five foremost directors of motion pictures. He was given a free hand in the matter of expense and the result is a production which, it is asserted by Famous Players-Lasky, has seldom been approached in lavishness. The continuity by Will M. Ritchey and the titles, embellished by the sculptural art of Willie Hopkins are declared to be well nigh faultless.

The dominating element is beauty—a beautiful theme, beautiful settings, beautiful costumes and beautiful women. Violet Hening, radiantly beautiful star of the stage, was especially engaged and sent to California to play the title role and to be featured along with Theodore Roberts and Wanda Hawley. Miss Hawley incidentally has the role of Beauty in the allegory. Then there is Clara Horton, as Youth; Margaret Loomis as Modesty; Mildred Reardon as Conscience and Bebe Daniels as Vice, all quite fair to look upon.

The various big scenes, all ultra modern, demand gorgeous settings and gowns. One of these is the theatre scene where Everywoman makes her debut and becomes a star overnight. Of course it is a musical comedy and few who see the picture, it is said, will soon forget the galaxy of beauty it displays. A complete stage was erected at the studio and a hundred girls were engaged. The costume department set to work to make the efforts of Flo Ziegfeld fade into insignificance by comparison, and the results—well, the Famous Players-Lasky executives feel that they justify the expense.

Not is this all. Throughout the picture there are presented examples of the modiste's achievements in the way of evening gowns, street frocks, etc., that are declared to set a new standard in costuming for motion picture productions.

Behind all this is a story of great dramatic appeal; a human narrative of life itself and the age-old quest for Love. In an intensely modern setting has been painted a picture that inculcates a moral and entertains, so it is said, with all the faculty of a great spectacle. To avoid plunging the spectator immediately into allegory, the drama is preceded by a prologue in which all the characters are introduced exactly as they appear, under other names, in the main play. The transition is smoothly and easily accomplished so that if it were not for the allegorical names one might very easily imagine he were witnessing a highly interesting drama of real life. Some remarkable effects in photography are said to have been introduced by Paul Perry. Notable among these is the treatment of the character Nobody. This is accomplished by double exposure, making the figure entirely visible, yet transparent. This makes the character far more impressive than it was in the stage version for in the latter the spectator was always aware of a living figure before his eyes despite the phosphorescent make-up accentuated by colored spotlights. Double exposure is also cleverly employed in bringing out the figure of Flattery, who appears in reflection whenever Everywoman looks into her mirror.

In addition to the characters mentioned above, Theodore Roberts portrays Wealth, Monte Blue is Love, Edythe Chapman is Truth, Irving Cummings is Passion, James Neil is Nobod, Raymond Hatton is Flattery, Lucien Littlefield is Lord Witless, Nash Beery is Bluff, Jay Dwiggins is Stuff, Tully Marshall is Puff, Robert Brower is Age, Charles Ogle is Time, Fred Huntley is Dissipation and Clarence Geldart appears as the Auctioneer in the prologue.

In answering advertisements mention that you saw it in the Daily Times. It helps prove to those who hesitate that advertising is their salvation.

GROOM'S FAILURE TO "SET 'EM UP" LEADS TO RAIL RIDE

International News Service. PARKER, Kan.—J.B. Stafford, a wealthy farmer near here, was reunited in marriage a few days ago with his wife, from whom he had been separated for several years. Neighbors came in to celebrate the remarriage, and when, it is claimed, Stafford did not "set 'em up" some of the "boys" proceeded to ride the groom on a rail.

During the ride, Stafford fell to the ground, fracturing a rib.

Beatrice Joy has been engaged by the Selznick corporation for one of the leading roles of a new all-star production. Miss Joy was one of an all-star cast with Rev. Stewart, Kathryn Williams and others that has just completed "Just A Wife," under the same management. It was directed by Howard Hickman, who was temporarily "borrowed" from Bessie Barriscale, his wife and star.

Marie Prevost, Charlie Lynn and Tom Kenedy appear in the latest Paramount-Sennett comedy, "East Lynne with Variations," a burlesque of the famous play. As we dope it out, Miss Prevost and Messrs. Lynn and Kenedy furnish the East Lynne portion while Ben Turpin's eyes account for the variations.
