PRESENT BATTLE OVER WATER RIGHTS IN WEST TEXAS ONE OF GREATEST IN YEARS

West Texas Chamber of Commerce Urges Farmers, Business and Professional Men to Attend Meeting at Abilene and Fight to Protect Their Rights Before It Is Too Late, Many Leaders of West Texas Will Be On Hand Next Thursday

(By E. H. WHITEHEAD)

Not since the stirring days of the battle for Texas Tech has West Texas been shaken by such emotion as is now rising over the battle for the water rights of the region. West Texas leaders are girding their loins and the towns of West Texas are mustering their resources to make a supreme fight to retain their rights to the rain which falls in West Texas and to regain the rights which have been taken from them.
Such war horses of West Texas as Senator Walter Woodward of Coleman, Congressman Tom Blanton of Abilene; Judge Joe Wheat of Seymour; ex-presidents Arthur P. Duggan and R. Q. Lee of the West Texas chamber of commerce; J. A. Kemp of Wichita Falls, and scores of the outstanding business and political leaders of the entire section have rallied to the call issued jointly by the West Texas chamber of commerce and the Texas Conservation association and are exhorting the people of West Texas to get busy and protest their rights before it is too late.
Congressman Tom Blanton, veteran of a dozen bitter campaigns, is now in Austin where he is searching the records of the state board of water engineers, securing a list of all permits granted on water on West Texas streams, and all pending applications. He will present this evidence at the conference scheduled in Abilene on Thursday. Blanton characterizes this fight as one of the gravest which have ever confronted the people of Texas and views the attempt of the Syndicate Power company tie up the entire Colorado river water shed as an assault on the rights of the people of Texas.

of engineering of Texas University, in a letter to R. W. Haynie, president of the West Texas chamber of commerce, warns Mr. Haynie that the lives, liberty and pursuit of happiness of all West Texas are in jeopardy. Dean Taylor's letter to Mr. Haynie in part follows:
"The liberties of West Texas farmers are at stake, and the struggle is a hand to hand struggle between the commercial use of water and domestic use. I have studied the supreme court decision bearing directly on the question and especially Motal vs. Boyd. I do not overestimate it when I say that the liberties and the life of West Texas farmers along streams is in jeopardy. If a power company whose bond holders living on Wall street can have a prior right to a farmer along the creeks in West Texas, then it seems to me that life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness in Texas is dead."
Dean Taylor will attend the Abilene conference and will be a principal speaker of the meeting.

Smoke Screen

The West Texas chamber of commerce has ignored efforts made to involve farmers living further down the stream in the fight, taking the position that such efforts are but a "smoke screen" raised to take the minds of the people off the real issue at stake. Most West Texas streams are but wet weather streams and contribute nothing to the flow of the rivers in the seasons the down river farmers use water for irrigation. Furthermore, large lakes in West Texas by storing flood waters will help the man living further down the river by preventing floods, and by supplying drainage and seep water in dry weather when the streams have no flow at all. In the far western states, the fight over the water rights has existed for years. In some of these states, water rights have been so completely taken up that land owners may not dig wells on their own land and farmers and stockmen are denied permanent dam washes on their land to impound stock water or water to irrigate a few acres of garden. In other sections the land owners must purchase from the power companies the right to use rain which falls upon his own land. It is said that if the present ruling is allowed to stand, that such will be the case in West Texas. It is this situation which the West Texas chamber of commerce is fighting to avoid.

New In Texas.

The water rights question is comparatively new to Texas and few people have given it thought. West Texas is comparatively a new country and only within the last few years have its people given thought to conservation of flood waters for irrigation. At present, many sections have irrigation projects in the formative stage and several have recently completed projects. No one thought of a power fight until Brownwood and San Saba met opposition in their efforts to impound waters from streams in their counties.
The real meaning of the fight is just becoming apparent to the people, and now Brownwood and San Saba are but incidents in what West Texans declare is a fight over a principle. The Abilene meeting promises to be a warm session and will no doubt decide the issues upon which the battle will be fought out.

RANGER JUNIOR COLLEGE NEEDS ATHLETES TO WIN

College Plans Football Team But Faces Problem Of Sufficient Enrollment To Provide Material.

By ERNEST SHELTON

Now comes a lot of discussion among Ranger Junior college enthusiasts as to the possibility of this institution backing a football eleven this fall. It may appear an impossibility from a financial standpoint, yet this is the least item to worry about. Lillard field and the gate receipts will take care of this. The most important thing at present is enrollment and R. F. Holloway and Rev. G. D. Robison are spending much time in getting boys for the college who are capable and also fine athletes.

It may be noted that last winter and early spring, the Texas Rangers, as the Junior college boys labeled themselves went into a caving contest with a number of neighboring high schools and junior colleges and emerged with only two defeats out of 15 games and these to a junior college that was making the grade when Ranger people were all pepped up over how many barrels the old gusher on the old homestead was making.

This year there will have to be something to make every junior college boy and girl want to fight for the honor of their school. There must be co-operation from every source if the program goes over in the right way. What arouses more school interest, more interest in academic work that a football team?

One thing is sure and that is many schools and colleges over Texas have enlarged their enrollment because they have had a splendid department in athletics.

The few boys of the local institution last year got behind the proposition and managed for their own coach and uniforms. This should not be left up to the boys again this term. The people of Ranger should back the college as much as the high school and should see to it that Ranger Junior college is represented with a competent eleven on the gridiron this fall.

The day will come when Ranger Junior college athletes will stand out as the Bulldogs did last year. But the Bulldogs did not do it single-handed. They had about 2,000 honest-to-goodness fans behind them that were determined to see them go over at any price. This was because some got a "kick" out of the sport and others wanted to see Ranger put on the map by an excellent athletic program.

It seems that the greatest problem facing the possibilities of a football team this year is an enrollment of enough boys who are husky enough to give the public a thrill.

There will have to be a squad of at least 15 men in order to put a team on the field. There are about six or seven Ranger boys going to the college this fall and with out-of-town prospects the required amount will be reached. A number of boys are waiting to see if the college is going to have a football team, before they announce their intention of attending.

Only a few days ago there was talk of several boys coming from Caddo, Rising Star and other neighboring towns to the Junior college. These, however, are expecting the institution to have a splendid athletic program. So far there has been none.

The college is facing its second year. If athletics are not pushed now, then when? If the college wants a large enrollment, then back an athletic program. Athletics may come second to academic work, but one thing is sure, it is athletics that keeps the kids in regular attendance and insures school spirit among the student body. Every department of an ideal junior college will be necessary before the local Junior college program goes over. Hasty work will be necessary such as choosing a coach and ordering uniforms if Ranger Junior college hopes to back a team this fall.

Gripings by Gus

"Sine die"—meaning without day. That's the way most conventions adjourn and will be a good enough way to adjourn this column.

We might gripe some more some day. We still have plenty of pains. We are not quitting—merely resting.

Nobody but us knows exactly why and we are not putting out.

If we have made you sore we are sorry. If you have gotten any kick out of any gripe we are glad. If we've made you even smile once we are more glad than ever. If you want us to take anything back we will gladly do so and wish we had said more so we'd have more to take back.

So with those few well chosen words of farewell we will sign off.

FIFTEEN DAYS MORE AND THEN BULLDOG SIGNALS

Many Old Men Will Be Back But Coach Cherry Must Forge Some New Material For Winning Team

By ERNEST SHELTON

With only about fifteen days remaining before the gridiron season opens, boys are beginning to gather and talk football. Here is a sport that is gaining popularity day by day. It represents the red blood of the American youth and the fight and pluck that is in him. Every boy looks forward to the day when he may "make the team."

The Ranger boys will start work-out on about September 1. They will have one of the best fields in West Texas. The grass has covered almost the entire field. When the bleachers are painted it will be the best athletic field in this section of the state.

Ranger will play Eastland here on October 21. The schedule also calls for a game with Cisco at Ranger. Ranger will play the Breckenridge Bucheroos, and the Abilene Eagles away from home. The first game will probably be with Colorado City there on September 14. This initial game will show what kind of mettle the boys are capable of displaying and will help Cherry to forge a team that will be smart enough for the Lobos again this year.

In the line will be missing a star center and Cherry will have to find a good man that can fill the bill half as well as captain Cooper. There is only one veteran end in the "left over," Ray Grubbs. Grubbs saw service last season as a utility man and lettered. He is expected to keep one end of the line from spreading this fall. As for the other end, there are a number of boys who are eager to show their stuff.

The line will be bulky with Whitehall, the two Hinman boys and several other huskies vying for honors. Victor Short will probably be at one of the guard positions with Orville Tackitt and Elton Mitchell fighting for the other sentinel post. Both of these boys are fine trainers and will touch the scales at around 165 to 170 pounds.

One of Cherry's most serious problems is a smooth-running and threatening backfield. Buster Mills and his "educated toe" will be at Oklahoma University this season making the Freshman team, and can do nothing to help the Bulldogs except wish them good luck. He will be greatly missed when the gong sounds for the first day's workout.

Yet, there will be Taylor who will know a few things after Knute gets through with him, and there is Glenn, claimed to be the best interference man in the Oil Belt. Also Reeves and Hubbard will threaten one of the other positions but Cherry will have to get a running mate for Taylor.

So far there are only a few positions that are as good as filled. Cherry will have to mould a new model machine and demonstrate it with his competitors before he can find out just what suits the thrilling football public.

Members Ranger Legion Post Will Go To Abilene

About twenty members of Carl Barnes Post No. 69 of Ranger, will go to Abilene on Thursday evening, August 18, to eat a menu of gold fish, with members of the Stamford Post, while the Ballinger Post sits by and devours a banquet that will have for its piece de resistance fried chicken.

The story of the two widely varying menus dates back to a membership drive that closed on May 31, between the three posts. It was agreed that the two losing teams would feed the winning team and then eat gold fish themselves. Ballinger was the winner and on account of Abilene being more convenient to all posts, the three teams will meet at Lytle amusement park at 8:30 Thursday night and carry out the wager.

Members of the Ranger post will leave the American Legion hall in a body at 4:30 Thursday afternoon.

The Cost of Low Checking Balances

Nearly everybody appreciates the conveniences of paying by check. But very few people appreciate how much service this demands of the bank.

The bank serves its depositors as secretary, treasurer, expert bookkeeper, messenger, bill-collector and financial adviser.

All of this costs the bank a great deal. This expense varies of course, but generally speaking, it has been found that for the average bank the country over any account with an average balance of less than $100 which has five or more checks drawn in one month, is carried by the bank at a loss.

While this bank thinks of service first and always it must be careful also NOT TO LOSE WHILE IT SERVES.

THEATRE GOSSIP

Ex-Kaiser Wilhelm in all his glory or General Pershing exhibiting his best detachments to a visiting French marshal could have no reason for greater pride than the management of several Broadway movie houses over the smart salutes, the military precision of their ushers, rigged up in carefully tailored uniforms liberally splashed with braid. You may encounter a squad of them, or what looks more like a small company if you go into one of Broadway's bigger houses. Their grammar must be perfect as they direct you to a seat and their swagger must be the nth degree of that commodity. Every week they go through regular military drill, it is said, and the one who doesn't "snap it up" for his commanding officer may find himself out of a job. Recently the hardened youths of the "Hell's Kitchen" area, not far from the new Paramount theatre building, decided to wait for the departure of the handsomely dressed ushers at the Paramount. They were prepared to maul the movie militarists as they left the theatre. Overwhelmed by more force of numbers the tougher element was put to rout after the otherwise perfectly behaved masters of the seat stubs had succeeded in bruising several noses. Coney Island, most famous pleasure ground of the United States, is being shot for the movies by Ralph Ince, well-known F. B. O. director. While in New York, Ince and his attractive wife, Lucile Mendez, are occupying a suite at the Ambassador on the same floor and near the rooms occupied by Dowager Queen Marie of Rumania when she visited New York. Every morning at 8, Ince's car, trailed by those from the F. B. O. headquarters and the press, start out for Coney to begin the day's filming. Ince is playing the leading role, that of a Barker, while his wife has the leading feminine role. The story revolves around the love of a wealthy New Yorker for a pretty cashier at one of the park resorts. Lucile Mendez was known to Broadway before she married Ince and went into the pictures. Only a short time before her marriage she starred in "Merry Merry" and "My Girl." Another picture of New York will be "East Side, West Side," romantic of Governor Al Smith's famous campaign song which has to do with "the sidewalks of New York." This story, by Felix Reisenberg, is being filmed by the Fox company, with George O'Brien and Virginia Valli as the stars. Prizefighters, politics, old-time bars which figured openly in the political life of the city a few years ago, all are shown in the picture and the story should guarantee that it would be a worth-while production. Meantime New York claims a share of attention from Hollywood, due to the fact that Mary Pickford patterned one of the sets of her new picture "My Best Girl," a United Artists production, after a room in the home of Mrs. Willard Straight, 1130 Fifth avenue, New York city. Its Georgian architecture featured by a circular hallway, old Colonial paneling and tessellated flooring is said to have appealed to the makers of "My Best Girl" sets. Twin sisters, each 5 feet 3-4 inches tall and weighing 117 pounds, will play the leading feminine roles in the next Educational-Lupino Lane comedy. Both have brown hair and blue eyes and the tone of their voices is so similar it is difficult for those in the company to tell which one is speaking when they are together. Their twin sister musical act was given on the Orpheum Circuit for some time.

THIS HAS HAPPENED

Attempts have been made on the life of Elise Marberry, an American girl owning considerable property near the little town of Porto Verde, in west central Brazil. She has escaped harm due to the shrewdness of her cousin and protector, Vilak, who with his friend Lincoln Nunnally, an elderly American chemist, is trying to learn the reason for the strange enemy for Elise.

Living near Porto Verde is one Gaylord Prentiss, a strange and forbidding character, who has evinced a hatred for Elise.

Linky, Elise's two year old orphaned nephew, is kidnapped. A native reports Prentiss has been seen with the baby. The trail leads into the jungle.

Calamity overtakes the expedition Vilak organizes in pursuit. Native trackers are injured or desert. Treachery breaks out.

Elise, Vilak and Nunnally finally emerge from the jungle. Presently they come to the outskirts of a strange city, resembling the old Inca civilization. Here they are prisoners. They discover they are in the power of Carlos D'Albentara, whom they had known as an engineer back in Porto Verde.

NOW BEGIN THE STORY

Vilak tossed bits of wood and leaves upon the fiery rectangle. Then clasp a clay vessel containing the blood of a sacrificed deer in one hand and a spear in the other, he moved up and down the fire's entire length, with the end of his spear sprinkling a few drops of the contents over the flames or prodding the red embers with the point, constantly drumming an incantation. At last he ceased. He removed his boots, his woolen socks rolled his breeches far above his knees and took a post at the end of the fire nearest the temple.

"Behold, O people. Behold, O priests. Behold, O Batalagos," he thundered. "And when you have beheld, kneel and worship. For the gods of the fire are angry. The son of the fire walks through the fire. Behold, O people. Behold, O priests. Behold, O Batalagos."

As he spoke the last words, he moved a bare foot forward. Another step followed, then another. An awed silence gripped the watchers; he was in the flame. Breathless, they saw him stride, slowly, solemnly, over the fiery path as marches a mourner at a funeral procession. Dumbly, like frightened beasts, they saw him reach the other end and walk gravely onto the stones under the scowling idol. With a single impulse, people, priests, chief, dropped to the ground and hid their faces.

Quietly Vilak made his way to the altar and lifted the child from the stone. It recognized him; began gurgling in delight. He strode over with it to Elise. She darted forward, clasped the child to her breast ecstatically and overwhelmed it with kisses, stopping for an instant tearfully to kiss Vilak. He smiled gently, then returned to the altar. With a few blows of a knife taken from a soldier, he cut the thongs binding Prentiss.

Slowly the savages began to rise; with the help of two of his aides Batalagos stood erect, and waddling forward, prostrated himself once more and touched his head to Vilak's foot. Vilak murmured a few friendly words.

He wheeled quickly as he saw D'Albentara, who had darted into the chief's apartment when Vilak emerged from the fire, leap from behind one of the altar stones twenty feet away. In his hand was a revolver. There was a shot. Vilak dodged behind a stone, at the same time snatching a spear from one of the soldiers.

The shot missed; the bullet only chipped out a tiny fragment of rock. Vilak raised the spear high over his head, hurled it. It struck the other's arm, just as he was about to fire a second time. The pistol flamed, but the bullet went wildly into the sky, the weapon dropping to the ground an instant later.

The Portuguese clutched at his bleeding, broken arm, then stooped to seize the pistol again. Before he could recover it, Vilak had made him a prisoner. Swiftly, securely, the chief's soldiers bound him with thongs; expertly Vilak bandaged his arm so that he would not bleed to death.

Elise, the old man, and Prentiss had all come running to aid at the sound of the shot; the three friends entered the chief's ruined palace to search D'Albentara's quarters for the pistols he had taken from them on their capture. Prentiss, after some hesitation as though his presence were not wanted, joined them.

"I won't be happy until we've got those pistols back," Vilak muttered. "They're not good things to leave around here. Mean too much. After they're in our holsters again, I think we can feel safe."

After some searching, the weapons were found. The four were on the way out gain, when a low wolfish roar arose from the court. Vilak broke into a run. He reached the open. On the altar lay the outstretched form of D'Albentara. Beside him was a white-painted priest holding a knife.

On the ground below, the priest whose needles and paint-jars proclaimed him the sacred tattooer, was slowly moving away. Vilak shouted. But even as he did so the arm of the idol descended and the three thorns which formed the fingers of its hand met the tree triangles on the victims forehead.

By a word to Batalagos, Vilak spared the stricken Portuguese the fearful tortures which had marked the death of the condemned murderer. A blow of the knife speedily ended his agony. But though Vilak wished it, he did not deem it wise to prevent the other grim finalities.

The thronged court soon cleared once more. Batalagos waddled to Vilak and set a bowl of starchy food before him. Blacks brought other bowls. The American ate. After the meal, Vilak spoke quietly to Prentiss who was sitting off to himself, still with the hesitant, apologetic air of one who feels that his presence is obnoxious. Prentiss rose. The two walked off to the town. They returned. An hour or two later, Vilak was joined by Batalagos and with him entered the chief's palace. When they emerged it was almost sunset.

A second meal was brought to the travelers; the ceremonial dances recommenced in the court.

They sat near the fire in its circle of stones and watched. Prentiss became drowsy. He moved off a short distance, stretched out, and was quickly deep in an exhausted sleep.

There was an interval of quiet in the ceremonies and the three friends lit cigarettes. They smoked lazily, luxuriously. The old man patted the foot of the baby, who with the elasticity of childhood had already completely forgotten his recent woes and was cooing happily at Elise's side, then glanced at the long trench near them, now black and covered with light ashes which occasionally drifted to them in the evening wind.

He shook his head in bewilderment. "You did it—er—Vilak. It's impossible. But you—er—yes, did it. How?"

With his cigaret Vilak indicated the trench. "You mean that?" "Er—yes."

Vilak took a long puff. "Told you it was a trick. And an extraordinarily simple one. Just requires a little recognition of the laws of heat conductivity which you as a veteran scientist, mon cher, knew long before I was born and which the not so stupid shamans of the Asiatic islands have known for centuries."

He picked up a piece of the red lava rock near him. "Look at that. See how light and porous it is. You can easily perceive from its structure how the tiny air-spaces in it tend to make it immediately let go any heat it has and make it a wretched conductor so that it might be red hot on the bottom and at the same time be quite cool on top. Same principle as that physics experiment every high school youngster knows where the same water in a six-inch test tube is so cold at one end that it's frozen, and so hot at the other that it's turning into steam. Simply because water, like this lava, is a miserable heat conductor."

He paused to take a slow puff and let the smoke drift from his nostrils. "You'll notice that where-ever fire-walking is practiced it's in regions where porous rock is either abundant or can be brought in from some neighboring section. It can't be done with the solid rocks like granite."

"This morning when I was going through that locus-pocus of sprinkling blood over the fire and prodding the stones with the bloody spear —which was merely a sort of camouflage used by every shaman and every American sleight-of-hand performer for that matter—I was really picking out rocks which because of shape or position were cooling quicker than the others and moving them about a bit so that they'd cool still more quickly. I kept up my hocus-pocus until there were enough so that I had a path all the way, and then simply walked across.

"Even had anyone suspected, which I was quite sure they wouldn't, the bits of branches and leaves I threw along the sides where the flames wouldn't touch me gave an appearance of terrific heat throughout which would have deceived the most expert. I scorched my feet a trifle in one or two places which I hadn't calculated perfectly, but that's the extent of my injuries."

They sat in silence again. The child began tugging at the strap of one of Elise's puttees. She caressed it, then glanced toward Prentiss, sleeping gauntly a few yards away. "What about—him?" she said, quietly.

Vilak flicked the ash from his cigaret. "Be all right in a few days. Had a long talk with him this afternoon, and got his whole story. Not nearly such a bad fellow as you thought him."

Her delicately molded face grew puzzled. "How did he happen to be here? Why was Tinky here with him? Why did all these dreadful things happen?" Vilak touched his watch-pocket. "That, my cherished cousin, Gold Money. The famous or infamous root of all evil. In this case there were two quite separate and distinct efforts to get wealth which in the end came to one. One didn't concern you in the end, but it did in the beginning. The other didn't concern you in the beginning, but did most emphatically before it was concluded."

"You're talking riddles. I don't know what you mean."

In the next chapter Vilak unfolds the amazing story of Prentiss.

Nick Murcheson, Eastland County Pioneer, Is Dead

Another Eastland county pioneer has passed on.

"Uncle" Nick Murcheson, 72, for forty-five years a resident of the county died early this morning in a sanitarium at Dallas where he had gone only a day or so ago for what was thought would be a minor operation.

Coming to Eastland county from near San Antonio when this country was a pioneer cattle country, Mr. Murcheson engaged in the cattle business, one of the leading industries of this section in those days.

Mr. Murcheson, while yet a young man, married Miss Florence Latham. Their son, Fred Murcheson, lives in Eastland but at present is working in the oil fields further west. Mr. Murcheson's wife died many years ago.

The thinning crowd of "oldtimers" who gather daily in the shade of the trees on the courthouse lawn in Eastland to talk over "the old days," were among the first in Eastland to hear of the death of "Uncle" Nick, a frequent visitor among them. The news of his death spread gloom over the crowd, which remained silent until one of the number said, "He was a mighty good man," in which the entire number acquiesced.

Rutledge Leaves For Conference At Milton, Oregon

Prof. P. J. Rutledge left Ranger Saturday for Milton, Oregon, to teach during this week in the North West Assembly of the Methodist Episcopal church. South represent the General Sunday school at the Northwest annual conference, which convenes at the same place on August 25.

Prof. Rutledge, who completed in June, a higher degree in the University of Chicago, has been with his family at 60 Walnut street since that time. This fall he will travel for the Sunday school board and make Ranger his headquarters. Mrs. Rutledge will continue to teach in Hodges Oak Park school, where she has been teaching for the past two school sessions.

RANGER DENTISTS GO TO CISCO MEETING

The Oil Belt Dental association met in Cisco on Saturday night. This meeting varied from previous meetings in that the families of the various members were included in the invitation.

A dinner, swim and dance at Lake Cisco were some of the outstanding features of the event.

Several Ranger dentists and their families were present.

Rudolph Brown Visiting Ranger After 18 Years

After an absence of eighteen years, Rudolph Brown, old time settler of Ranger, returned here to look his old stamping grounds over again, but according to one of his old friends Mr. Brown said when he began looking around for familiar landmarks and the faces of old friends he felt like he was lost. He was not able to find any place that he knew, but did get in touch with many old friends and found them unchanged in spirit, but lightly touched by the hand of time.

Mr. Brown now lives in Texarkana. He at one time kept books for the Ranger Mercantile company.

"The Willows" Is Name Chosen For Swimming Pool

Mrs. A. N. Harkrider of Ranger had the honor of naming Ranger's new park and swimming pool. Her suggestion was "The Willows." The judges examined with great interest the large number of pretty names that were turned in and a decision was far from easy. The Willows was finally decided upon as it was short, easy to say, easy to remember and descriptive of the willow fringed pool and park.

Mrs. Harkrider will receive a season pass to the park and its privileges.

RANGER WOMAN TO BUILD HOME ON STRAWN ROAD

Miss Mabel Knight, business woman and stenographer at the Peoples State bank liquidating agency, Ranger, is one of the very latest to enlist in the home building movement in Ranger. Miss Knight is going to build a fully modern six room house on the Knight block, west of Strawn road on Barber street. C. R. Knight, her father, who is a contractor has the contract and work began on the new house last Thursday. It will be located about thirty feet off of Strawn road.

Commander Richard E. Byrd, who flew across the Atlantic and over the North Pole, is widely known as an inventor of airplane appliances, according to an answered question in this week's Liberty. He invented the bubble sextant and perfected the sun compass and the drift-indicator.

Ranger's Police Force Steps Out In New Uniforms

Say, Boy, didn't the Ranger police step out in their new uniforms Saturday morning? They were just as proud of their blue uniforms, brass buttons and natty caps, as a band master with a full regalia.

They could be seen for blocks. Some of 'em looked as big and tall as English Bobbies. Strolling up Main Street they made the old town look real up townish but they weren't all dolled up just for dress parade, for the first thing Whitey Davis did was to nab a youth for reckless driving.

Chief Ingram's uniform differs from the rest of the department's in that his cap is snow white, with gold bands, and three gold stars. Quite spooey.

All the caps or visors have regular policeman badges and have taken the place of the big high hats the police formerly wore. These have been put down in moth balls for the time being.

W. N. BEACH MOVES FROM FORT WORTH TO RANGER

W. N. Beach of Fort Worth, roadmaster for the Texas and Pacific railroad company, who will make Ranger his headquarters, has rented through A. F. Hartman, the two-story Harkrider house on Pine street and Mr. Beach will move his family here right away.

Dr. Harkrider is having the house repapered most attractively, and remodeling and refinishing it in a most pleasing manner.

COX FAMILY RETURNS FROM SUMMER VACATION

Pearl Cox and wife of Ranger have returned from a vacation trip to Falls County. They were accompanied home by Mr. Cox' mother, who will make a visit of three weeks here.

As soon as Mr. Cox arrived home Claude White, also of the City Water works, and his family left for an automobile trip to their old home in Arkansas.

Ranger Girl Will Play Opposite Doug Fairbanks

Douglas Fairbanks has chosen as his leading lady for his next picture "The Gaucho," a former Ranger girl, Miss Elva McDowell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. McDowell of Los Angeles, California, but formerly of Ranger and a cousin of Misses Rita and Bertha Alice Davenport. Miss McDowell's stage name is "Eve Southern." She was born in Fort Worth but spent a large part of her childhood and girlhood in Ranger and visited here three summers ago.

This month's Motion Picture Magazine carries a picture of Eve Southern and a note under the picture refers to her as a "dreamy-eyed beauty." She is said to have auburn hair, grey eyes, fringed in black and a regular Cupid's bow mouth. In her picture she looks a real soulful eyed beauty.

Real estate in the business section of Lenolui is valued at from $25 to $30 a square foot, according to recent sales.

MR. AND MRS. OSCAR GLOVER ARE SURPRISED WITH PARTY.
Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Glover were surprised at their beautiful home in Terry camp, Friday evening, when a party of friends complimented them with a surprise party in honor of their twenty-second wedding anniversary. Croquet and "42" were enjoyed, and refreshments of ice cream, cake and soda water were enjoyed by the honorees and the following friends, who made up the party: Messrs. and Meses. J. E. Meroney, O. E. Higgs and mother, E. L. Nelson, and Miss Ethel Glover.

GARDEN PARTY INTRODUCES NEW RANGER CITIZENS.
A garden party of large dimensions at the home of Dr. and Mrs. T. L. Lauderdale, on Friday night, introduced to some 150 Ranger and Eastland people, Dr. and Mrs. Van C. Tipton and Mrs. J. L. Barnett and O. C. Miller, new members of the West Texas clinic. The party, which was one of the prettiest ever seen in Ranger, was given by Meses. Lauderdale and D. H. Barnett, who stood just inside the garden gate and welcomed incoming guests. Standing near them and assisting during the evening with various details of the party were a bevy of young girls, who looked as though they might have been picked from a rosebud garden of girls and who were Meses Marguerite Adanson, Maurine Tipton, Lillian Dunaway, Margaret Lee McDonald and Alayne Stroud. Others assisting the hostesses in serving and taking up tallies were Meses. Walter Burden, R. J. Norman and E. K. Crosbie.

Unless one has stepped into the Lauderdale garden which "shuts out a world of strife and shuts in a world of love," a vision of the garden under a full southern moon, cannot be conveyed by mere words. The Lauderdale home, long, low, and interesting, hung as some one expressed it last night, like a big white ship, in an ocean of green grass, shrubs and trees. Beautiful Chinese lanterns were strung the full length of the long garden and together with the moon furnished ample light for bridge at tables arranged at pleasing intervals along the flower and shrub bordered outlines of the garden. A fountain over a lily pond scattered cool water and a pergola, gray in colored balloons, placed in a shady nook at one end of the lawn, was a happy hunting ground for those who would choose punch. And over the whole animated scene sailed a perfect moon whose magic was increased a hundred fold by the strains of music that emanated from the Rainbow Serenaders orchestra, playing in the parlors, for those who would dance—and by the nocturnes of katydids and other insects, whose garden was rife with so many noises other than their own.

And just as one expected the magic cannot to appear, and airy fairies of the moonbeams, to flutter out in a woodland dance, Miss Florence Alice Palmer, a real woodland nymph, came in as on the wings of the night, and did a magic dance.
In bridge, Mrs. R. L. Hanriek carried home as high score prize a dainty boudoir pillow and Mrs. Jack Price, a beautiful waste-basket, as low score prize.
W. H. Cash made men's top score and was awarded a fountain pen set, and Dr. Walter Jackson was awarded the men's consolation, a carton of cigarettes.
Dancing was enjoyed throughout the evening and for those who did not care to dance after bridge, the garden offered much entertainment—many possibilities for tete-a-tetes—and moon worship.
Punch and a refreshment plate of sandwiches, olives and potato chips followed the game. An account of the large number present the list was not available.

Wedding Rings Are Often Taken On and Off Equally Easy

By RENA B. CAMPBELL.
Times have indeed changed since the superstition prevailed among women that it was bad luck to remove the wedding ring from their fingers—they are now taken off whenever milady chooses and often not put back on again. Sometimes, real perfectly respectable, law abiding wives, off on a summer vacation, leave the little telltale emblems in their purses—for various reasons. Often the slim band of gold or platinum is returned to the one who before a black clad minister of the gospel and to the strains of the wedding march slipped it on her finger "for better or for worse, for rich or poorer, in sickness and health, till death do us part."

The exact time when the wedding ring came in use is not known. They are said to date from pagan times and was a symbol of enduring affection. It was worn on the third finger of the left hand because among the ancients it was thought that there was a vein in that finger that came directly from the heart. That vein may have become extant like some of the other attributes of the early men and women and like tonsils and appendices will be in a thousand years from now and that perhaps is why the ring slips off and on so easily these modern days.

Wedding rings are not necessary to happiness. There is not always money enough to buy one. Sometimes a family heirloom is used. Sometimes widow buys herself a newer and more up and coming one than her boy husband placed on her finger years ago—but they should be the sign of a covenant between man and woman—a pledge of faith, and love, and understanding "until death do us part" and not a plaything to be put on and off at pleasure.

NEW FORD CARS BE ON MARKET IN FEW WEEKS

Machine Has Been Thoroughly Tested for Faulty Construction, Will Attain Speed of 65 Miles An Hour

Special Correspondence.

DETROIT, Aug. 13.—The following statement was issued here today by Edsel B. Ford, president of the Ford Motor company:

"The new Ford automobile is now an accomplished fact. The engineering problems affecting its design and equipment and affecting also its manufacture have all been solved.

"But before a single car of the new type is offered for sale to the public each part will have been tested under every condition which we have been able to discover in the past 20 years of building automobiles for use all over the world.

"We know now exactly what this new car is. We have built a number of these cars and they have been performing even better than we had hoped for under a variety of conditions.

"We know also what is needed as to personnel and factory equipment in order to produce these new Ford cars in greater numbers than any manufacturer has ever attempted before. The work of retooling our plants throughout the country to prepare for the heaviest production schedule we have ever undertaken, is now nearly complete.

Thoroughly Tested.

"But we realize that any new automobile that is to gain and hold public esteem today, whether it shall sell for $500 or $10,000, must perform exactly as it is designed to perform. No automobile manufacturer, in this day and time, should allow the public to do his testing and proving for him. The Ford Motor company cannot afford to permit the automobile user to discover imperfections in these new models.

"We haven't discovered any faults in the finished new Ford car, but we are taking nothing for granted. If there are any faults they shall be found and remedied before any of the cars are offered for sale.

"When the model T Ford car was designed more than 20 years ago, no one could foresee the wide variety of conditions under which it would operate. It did not occur to us that that automobile would be expected to perform as satisfactorily in Alaska as in South Africa. We knew little about the varying effects of climatic conditions in Boston and in Colon, upon automobile motors and other equipment. We had yet to discover that carburetion at sea level presented one definite problem, while carburetion at very high altitudes presented an entirely different problem.

Public Knows Car.

"Many of these difficulties were first brought to light by people who had bought our cars and used them under these diverse conditions. These people put their cars to tests which we could not have foreseen and could not have duplicated in that day. We had to remedy faults as they were discovered by the car owners in actual use.

"But 20 years of manufacture have taught us that the only good automobile is the automobile which will do what it is designed to do wherever it is put to work. The experience of those 20 years has taught us also that the public of today knows more about automobiles than ever before and expects more of them.

"The building and testing of these first new cars is costing millions of dollars. But it will give us the complete assurance that we are offering the public a car tested and proven as a new car should be.

"Some of the things we have discovered already in the tests of these new cars are interesting.

"We have accomplished with them a speed of 65 miles per hour—which is slightly higher than we had expected.

Unusual Speed.

"We have found that they can be driven for hours at an average speed of more than 50 miles per hour, without discomfort to driver and passengers and without harm to motor and other equipment.

"In a recent test one of these new cars was driven 110 miles in two hours. During the first half-hour the car traveled 27 miles. The car covered exactly 56.1 miles the first hour of the trip.

"This test was made over average road conditions. Part of the route lay through level country and part through hill country where the roads were steep and winding. The day on which the test was made was somewhat warmer than the average summer day in this part of the country, but the motor was not overheated during the run and examination of the motor at the conclusion of the run disclosed no ill effects. The car consumed less gasoline and oil during the test than any of our previous models we have put to similar tests. The ignition, cooling and carburetion systems performed perfectly throughout the trip.

"We have tested this new car for getaway and pickup with many other types of automobiles and have found that it surpasses all of them with one exception in quick starting and acceleration. The tests already made show that it is faster, smoother, more rugged and more flexible than we had hoped for in the early stages of designing.

"We have known from the beginning that this new Ford would be a handsome car. Experiments have been made with a wide variety of color schemes and body designs and all these have been decided upon car.

"When this car is formally introduced within the next few weeks, we shall be able to say that it is the best and most moderate priced automobile we know how to build.

"(Signed) EDSSEL B. FORD,
"President, Ford Motor Co."

Eastland-Nash Formal Opening Be Held Monday

Formal opening of the Eastland-Nash company, newly appointed distributors for Nash automobiles in Eastland county, will be held Monday morning in the Sikes building at the corner of West Main and South Walnut streets, Eastland. The public generally, men and women, is extended a cordial invitation to attend the opening and see the new Nash cars, a complete line of which will be on display at that time.

R. E. Sikes, who will be the general manager of the Eastland-Nash company, states that each of the several departments will be in charge of an experienced and competent man. The sales department will include salesmen at Eastland, Ranger, Cisco and possibly other places in the county.

A. W. Wright, an experienced mechanic who has had many years experience with Nash cars, will be in charge of the service department. He will have a number of competent assistants as well as a large, commodious workshop with an abundance of the very best equipment. Next week Mr. Wright will be assisted by an experienced factory mechanic sent to Eastland by the Nash distributor of Dallas. Nash owners and others of Eastland county needing the services of a good mechanic are especially urged to bring their cars in.

The filling station and necessary department will be in charge of Lawrence Collins, who has been engaged in a similar business in Eastland for some time. This department is especially equipped for washing, greasing and otherwise cleaning cars of any and all makes.

In addition to the show rooms a storage department will be operated, which will be in charge of men who know this part of the business.

Mr. Sikes, who owns the building that will house the Eastland-Nash company, recently had it re-modeled and repaired and it is now one of the best equipped buildings for a business of this nature in the city. It is equipped with all modern conveniences, including ladies' and gentlemen's rest rooms, etc.

The home of the Eastland-Nash company is located on the northern loop through the city of the Bankhead highway. The city has just completed paving that part of south Walnut street therefore all streets on which the building fronts are paved.

Real Economy In New Dodge Cars Says Dealer

One of the most important problems of the automotive engineer today is to design motors which will permit greater gasoline economy. Experiments along this line are constantly being made and remarkable successes are being attained.

The latest claim of unusual economy is made by Dodge Brothers for their new four-cylinder cars which are being advertised as capable of going approximately 25 miles on a gallon of gasoline at a speed of 25 miles per hour. J. R. Rutherford of Ranger, Dodge Brothers dealer, states that since the new cars were introduced practically everyone who has examined them has commented upon this feature.

"Several features in the cars' design and construction are responsible for this exceptional fuel economy," Mr. Rutherford states. "One of the most important is the lighter weight of the cars. Naturally with less weight for the engine to move a considerable saving in gasoline is accomplished."

"Another contribution to economy is made by the gear ratio which is lower than on former Dodge Brothers cars. This means that the engine makes fewer revolutions in driving the car a mile than were formerly required, thereby bringing about another saving.

"Improvements in carburetion, better manifolding, a redesigned cylinder head and faster entry of the gas into the combustion chamber, announced earlier in the summer as important characteristics of this Dodge Brothers motor, also result in the achievement of operating economy."

"The design of the carburetor was improved when the new motor was introduced and its location changed so that the gas has a shorter distance to travel from the carburetor to the combustion chamber. The gas goes from the carburetor through the intake manifold which is heated by the exhaust and all liquid fuel which passes over this 'hot-spot' is completely vaporized.

"The cylinder head for the new motor was redesigned and is now of such shape that more power is obtained from each explosion than was possible with the old head.

"These factors, in addition to contributing to greater gasoline economy are responsible for a very large increase in power and acceleration."

PRaise SENATOR BINGHAM

By United Press.

HANKOW.—Senator Hiram Bingham of Connecticut is highly praised by the National organ People's Tribune here because "weeks of condemnation of nationalist China have not been sufficient to deter this American senator from coming to Hankow to see for himself what is happening in this heart of Nationalist China."

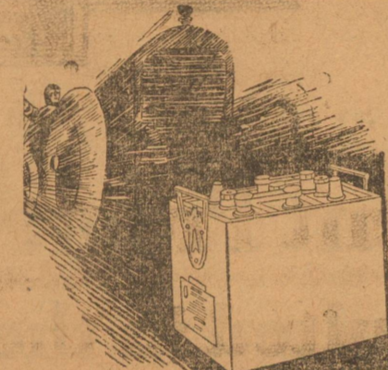

Applauding the "fairness of mind" it says he manifested, the Tribune believes that "apparently Senator Bingham has been trying to come to a fair judgment of what is going on in China."

"It is not hard to envisage the American senator's stay in Peking," continues the paper. "There must have been hours and hours spent talking to his co-nationals and the nationals of other powers. Many an old China hand has doubtless put the senator right on events in the Far East, told him what's wrong with this country and how it could be made right. There have been dinners given by the legation aristocracy and talks with diplomats about things international and financial, and about prestige. Senator Bingham has probably been exposed to a strong dose of anti-Nationalism."

SORORITIES COMPETE ON HOUSE FURNISHINGS

By United Press.

EVANSTON, Ill., Aug. 13.—Competition between Northwestern University sororities to outdo each other in the interior decorations of new dormitories to be opened in September is arousing apprehension on the part of parents and university authorities.

The report that no sorority is spending less than $10,000 to decorate its house and that at least one already has spent in excess of $35,000 on house furnishings has led the quadrance association to investigate, it is reported. Each sorority is represented by two graduates on the association.

The funds with which sororities are vying with each other are coming chiefly from individual pledges by members and alumnae. Most sororities, it is said, have taxed each member a minimum of $100.

In the attempt to be original several of the sororities have gone outside of Chicago in the search for novelties. One sorority is alleged to have purchased heavily in Milwaukee while another sent representatives to

"It is only natural that the sororities should want to get the better of each other," states Mary Ross Potter, counselor of co-eds and acting dean of women. "They want to attract the better pledges next fall when school opens and this is just their way of seeking superiority."

Fathers who pay the bills, however, protest that these "ways" are altogether too expensive and are encouraging the investigation.

INNER CABINET IS CONSIDERED BY ENGLAND WITH FIVE MEMBERS

By C. P. WILLIAMSON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

LONDON—The British Empire may shortly pass under the rule of the "Big Five" if a proposal now being seriously considered in the higher circles of all three of the principal parties is adopted by Parliament.

Numerous plans are being put forward in responsible quarters of one or more of these plans which may mean that the British Empire will fall under the control of the same type of oligarchical cabinet of a few men which it had during the great war may take place shortly. The proposals, if adopted, will mean that the British Cabinet will be shorn of no less than 16 members.

One motion will be made by the Conservative Member of Parliament, F. A. Macquisten of Argyll, who will propose that "in the opinion of this House the Government of the country and the business of Parliament would be more efficiently and thriftily conducted by the Cabinet being reduced in number to five, consisting of the Prime Minister, the Home Secretary, a minister of Defense, the Chancellor of the Exchequer and the Foreign Secretary."

This proposal would virtually mean a reversion to the wartime "Inner Cabinet," with the addition that the Cabinet Secretariat would be abolished. If Macquisten introduced his motion in the Commons, it is expected that Lord Sandon, Conservative, of Shropshire, will propose an amendment to eliminate all after the Prime Minister and add to this only the Chancellor of the Exchequer and three non-departmental ministers, the Lord Privy Seal, the Lord President of the Council and the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster.

Among the notable members of the Cabinet who would lose their seats should either of these proposals be adopted, would be Sir Douglas Hogg, the Attorney General, Lord Birkenhead, the Secretary of State for India, Sir Neville Chamberlain, Minister of Health, L. C. M. S. Amery, Colonel Minister and Sir Philip Cuniffe-Lister, President of the Board of Trade.

It has been felt for some time that the present Cabinet of 21 members, each the head of an administrative department and absorbed in separate departmental work, is finding it more and more difficult to find time for the discussion of general problems of policy and that a smaller Cabinet could formulate the general policy of the Government, while individual members or department heads could be called in in the event their department were under discussion by the "Big Five."

Commander Carlyn Bellairs, Member of Parliament from Kent, has announced that he favors a cabinet made up of the Prime Minister, the Chancellor of the Exchequer, the Leader of the House of Lords, the Foreign Secretary, and the Dominions Secretary.

"If" Commander Bellairs declared, "home affairs should be giving anxiety, as they were during the general strike, the Home Secretary would be included also. Otherwise all of the members of the present Cabinet can be eliminated. The fighting services are represented on the Defense Committee and they do not want anything else. The Secretary of State for India was only created after the Indian mutiny when everything was centered in London. Since then things have been taken out of his hands. He could work with the Secretary for War, who has troops in India."

"The Lord Chancellorship should not be a political post at all. The Attorney General has no business to be on the Cabinet. How can he advise when he is responsible for decisions as a member of the Cabinet?"

Referring to his desire to see a smaller Cabinet for the British Empire, Bellairs declared, "The present system suits the convenience of politicians who look upon politics as a game. Everybody wishes to be a cabinet member. There is a fear that if you exclude 15 men they will be disgruntled, but they could not afford to be disgruntled for the rest of the party would sit on them."

Several members of the House of Commons have voiced support of a larger cabinet than the one of five, an "Inner Cabinet."

members which has been urged by those members who have definite plans to put forward for some revision.

Sir William Bull, Conservative of Hammersmith, is one of the members favoring a cabinet of a size similar to that in the United States. "Personally," Sir William said, "I think the Cabinet is too large, but of course there is a great deal more work done now than when cabinets were smaller. A large cabinet always means an 'Inner Cabinet' and I believe there is an 'Inner Cabinet' now. I believe that ten would be about the proper number, for five would mean a larger cabinet than the one of five, an 'Inner Cabinet.'"

Masonic Lodges Formerly Met On Light Of Moon

"Uncle" Jim Clarke, charter member of the Rising Star Masonic Lodge in discussing a change in the meeting night of that lodge said, according to the Rising Star Record, that in the early days all Masonic lodges met on the "Light Moon," as a great number of the members lived at quite a distance from the meeting place and needed the moonlight to get through the country, most of the roads being not much better than trails. Meeting nights of one lodge would be "on or after" the full moon, while that of another in the same section of the country would be "on or before." This was so that members from the different lodges might visit the other lodge.

Meetings in the early days were always held on Saturday nights and as there were no called meetings, the session often continued until very late.

FIND NEW RUBBER PLANT

By United Press

MANILA—The Philippine Bureau of Agriculture is investigating a new species of rubber bearing plant accidentally discovered in Mindanao.

Samples have been received from Zamboanga and a preliminary examination indicates that the latex or rubber sap obtained from the plant is of much higher quality than from the ordinary species of rubber trees.

Lieutenant Federico Padayang of the Philippine constabulary is credited with having found the first specimens growing in the hills north of Mindanao, a locality inhabited by the pagan tribe of Subanos.

J. W. Blackwell Is Good Example Of Success On Farm

One of the most successful men living on a farm in Eastland county is J. W. Blackwell, who lives 13 miles southwest of Eastland near Staff.

But he says that it is very doubtful if he would have made a success on the farm had he confined his efforts solely to farming. While he has lived all of the time on the farm and has always done more or less farming, he, at the same time, made investments that have paid him handsomely.

Mr. Blackwell likes farm life, and although much of his business interests were of such nature that he could have as well, if not more profitably, lived in town, he prefers to live on the farm.

Born at Hillsboro, Illinois 67 years ago, Mr. Blackwell came to Eastland county soon after reaching his majority. He had one brother, who came to Texas just before him, and a sister, who remained in Illinois.

Soon after coming to Texas Mr. Blackwell married Miss Julia Jones, a native of Georgia, but whose father was one of the pioneer settlers of Eastland county. Since their marriage Mr. and Mrs. Blackwell have lived in the vicinity of their present home, near Mansker's Lake, where they have large land holdings and where they have a splendid country home surrounded by all of the modern convenience that it is practical to have on the farm that distance from a town. Some years ago a gas well was drilled on property owned by Mr. Blackwell and since that time natural gas has been used for fuel and lighting purposes on the farm.

"If the cost was not prohibitive I would have electric power installed and have electric fans and other such conveniences in my home," Mr. Blackwell said recently.

While he has always kept plenty of good stock on his farm, Mr. Blackwell has never gone very strong for pure-bred stock, in fact he is rather skeptical about whether it pays the average farmer and stockman to invest in pure-bred stock.

A strong believer in churches and schools, Mr. Blackwell has always given his moral and financial support to these institutions in his community.

Maintains cold storage temperatures without ice—without attention

MEAT merchants, grocers, restaurant owners—those whose business depends on good refrigeration—say they never realized how much time and labor it took to keep their refrigerator cold before they installed Frigidaire. They say that Frigidaire is actually equal to an extra man. Frigidaire not only keeps perishable foods in perfect condition until they are sold, but its operating cost is actually less than the cost of ice.

Find out what Frigidaire will do for you. Phone, write or call at our sales room. Let us show you how others have increased their profits with Frigidaire and how easy the General Motors plan of deferred payments makes it for you to have the many advantages that only Frigidaire can give.

CANNING SEASON REACHES HEIGHT IN MIDDLE WEST
 By United Press.
KANSAS CITY.—The canning season is here. Housewives are preparing for the winter months by putting in jars and tin cans foodstuffs from the gardens and orchards that will be delicacies by the time the snow flies.
 True, the summer canning season is losing some of its prestige in the eyes of the younger set, for it is now possible to buy at the store nearly everything in the fruit and vegetable line already canned. Things are not like they were when mother was a girl.

 But even with all the modern ways of doing things—making a meal off store-bought canned goods—local women all up and down the Missouri and Arkansas valleys are preparing for a well-stocked winter larder. The berries—which includes cherries, raspberries, blackberries and strawberries—have been cooked, set out in the sun to gain a scintillating luster, and put in glass jars and stored away in the cellars until winter. Early apples have gone into the kettles and come out in the form of sauce and butters.
 Plum jelly and plum butter is now being stored away until the time to begin making the hot biscuits that always seem better on a snowy morning.

COCKTAIL ADVICE GIVEN AMERICANS IN LONDON
 By United Press.
LONDON.—Americans desirous of imbibing a "quick one" before dinner or any other man, will now be able to plead "doctor's advice," but woe-betide them if they take more than one.
 At least that is what Dr. J. Brown- ing Alexander, a Harley street specialist, says.
 "Bitters," he says, "by stimulating the taste nerves of the mouth, are useful in moderation in promoting appetite. Large amounts will defeat their object."
 "One cocktail by inducing a certain amount of narcosis, produces a feeling of well-being and dispels the worries of the day. An excessive amount of cocktails will cause depression, bringing back all the worries and disappointments of the day, and chasing away all appetit which might have been felt."

 Dr. Alexander also attacks the theory of curing dyspepsia by starvation.
 "There is such a thing as the dyspepsia of starvation," he says, "due to the fact that the sufferer eliminates article after article of food from his diet. A vicious circle is thus produced by which the patient becomes dyspeptic because he is starved, and starves because he is dyspeptic."
 Almost every day the cables bring word that Charles A. Levine has started another fight across the Atlantic.

Through ESSEX thousands know
The Ride that is like flying with the exclusive high-compression anti-knock motor that turns waste heat to power

All eyes turn to the new Essex Super-Six whose vivid brilliance of performance reveals in a single ride a smoothness and quiet, a road-skimming ease and soaring exhilaration that is actually like flying.
 Greater in power, more versatile in all performance, larger, roomier and more beautifully appointed, it gloriously earns its richer reward in even greater popularity than its predecessor.

Whether idling at a crawl, flashing through traffic, spurring at top speed or doing a comfortable 50 miles an hour all day long, its outstanding characteristic is ease, smoothness and complete absence of effort in every requirement.
 In Essex, as in Hudson, the new, exclusive, high-compression motor that turns waste heat to power, develops the greatest power per cubic inch of piston displacement of any stock motor we know in the world.
 And it develops it economically, because it not only converts heat wasted in other types to useful power, but does it on ordinary gasoline with no need for special, higher-priced fuels.

Announcing The
OAKLAND ALL-AMERICAN SIX
 At New Low Prices!

Built to meet every American demand for Reliability, Style and Performance

All-American—that's the word! No other word describes it!
 American design. American lines. American endurance for the roughest American roads—proved on General Motors' great American proving ground and built by American workmen using American precision-production methods!
 Bigger, better, brilliantly beautiful car. New bodies—new chassis—new engine. New standards of performance, endurance, and value—and
NEW LOW PRICES!
 There's mastery in every detail of the new Fisher bodies—the mastery of America's master body builders. Low, graceful, fashionable lines emphasized by sweeping full-crown fenders. Arresting new Duco colors. Rich new upholstery.
 In the chassis—a longer, deeper, heavier frame. A new and softer clutch. A new and smoother transmission. 4-wheel brakes. Smaller wheels (19"), larger tires (29x5.50), a longer wheelbase (117"), and an exceptionally low center of gravity. And a new engine of 212 cubic inches displacement—the largest used in a car of Oakland's price. Power—smoothness—snap and silence that will be the talk of all America from this day hence. A combination of features never before employed in any automobile engine:
 —a 78½-lb. crankshaft, counter-balanced and incorporating the Harmonic Balancer—a crankcase of bridge truss construction—Oakland's famous rubber silencing principle—and a new combustion chamber design from General Motors' Research Laboratories.
 A gasoline pump that supersedes the long familiar vacuum tank—a new and efficient system of crankcase ventilation—triple engine protection by gasoline, oil and air filters——and such factors of luxury and convenience as tri-clustered instrument panel, silver platinum engraving—a large new corrugated steering wheel—colored garnish rails and enough others in addition to make this advertisement read like a catalog!

Value? None like it in all America today! Come in—and see this latest triumph of America's automotive supremacy—the new Oakland All-American Six!
