MANY THINK WOULD NOT DECLINE OFFICE

Gets Many Messages, Both Despairing And Congratulatory

By United Press.

RAPID CITY, S. D., Aug. 3.—The political thunderbolt which President Coolidge hurled against the world when he announced he did not choose to be a candidate for the presidency in 1928 stirred the telephones and telegraph from the far reaches of the country to the summer White House today. There were messages of congratulation that he does not intend to seek another term and telegrams of despair that he is giving up the job before it is finished.

With characteristic silence Mr. Coolidge let the telegraphic storm rage around him without a murmur and went about his business just as if he had not suddenly renounced the throne of the Republican party.

These telephone and telegraph dispatches seemed to indicate that opinion is divided as to whether his first announcement "I do not choose to run for president in 1928" was really a renunciation or merely a notice that he was not a candidate.

Those who interpret the president's opinion usually follow his words so closely that they lose the true meaning of them. Some of the newspaper men who have been with him for years have even called him the greatest showman on earth because of his ability to sense public sentiment.

They argue that the president merely put out the statement as a carefully worded document to quiet the talk about "a third term."

Stanley Baldwin Given Greetings On 60th Birthday

By United Press.

LONDON, Aug. 3.—Stanley Baldwin, prime minister of England and first of the treasury, was the recipient in Canada today of scores of messages, letters and telegrams sent him from England, the dominions and from many foreign countries, congratulating him upon his sixtieth birthday.

It concluded one of the busiest years of his political career during which the prolonged and financially disastrous coal stoppage of 1926 was brought to a conclusion, and the betting tax, the electricity bill for the consolidation of power stations and extension of the use of electricity in England, and the trade dispute and trades union bill making general strikes in England illegal in the future were passed.

Throughout the year he has been bitterly and persistently attacked in commons by the labor party, but Baldwin found solace from the attacks by smoking his pipe and week-end rests at his famous estate, "Chequers," where he specializes in raising pigs.

Although the labor and liberal press have several times hopefully anticipated that this retirement was near the suggestions have always been met by prompt denial from the conservative headquarters.

WOULD GROW BAMBOO IN FLORIDA EVERGLADES

By United Press.

MIAMI, Fla., Aug. 3.—The Everglades of Florida may be vast bamboo forests within a few years, if the suggestion of Thomas J. Harris, prominent English botanist is followed.

After a trip through the glades Harris returned here to suggest development of the bamboo plant in that area. He said that the soil if drained would be suitable to growth of the tree and that bamboo trees would be a factor in strengthening dykes, because of their tough roots.

LOU GERRIG KNOCKS HIS THIRTY-SIXTH HOME RUN YANKEE STADIUM, N. Y., Aug. 3.—Lou Gehrig batted out his 36th home run of the season in the second inning of the first game of a double header between the Yankees and the Detroit Tigers today.

CITY COMMISSION OUTLINES TENTATIVE PAVING PROGRAM

At least forty more blocks of paving will be added to Ranger's paving program, lights will be installed in Hodges Oak Park and a sewer line laid in the alley between properties bordering there on in blocks one and two Young Addition, if plans made at a meeting of the City Commission last night and which are to be further worked on tonight, are carried out.

C. E. May, representing the residents of Hodges Oak Park appeared before the commission and asked for lights in that section stating that the citizens in that neighborhood would install the lights if the city would furnish the electricity. This was agreed upon.

In connection with a proposed sewer line for the use of property holders in the first two blocks in Young Addition, just off the Strawn Highway, the commission agreed that they would cut the ditch and lay the pipe if the property owners would pay for the pipe. This was tentatively accepted.

It being brought to the notice of the commission that many persons within 100 feet of the sewer line had not connected with it, the body went on record as favoring the serving of notice on all persons whose property lies within 100 feet of the sewer line to connect with it, and to call their attention to the fact that they were violating the sanitary law of the city.

Will Enhance Values.
In regard to the paving program, Mayor John Thurman after briefly outlining the proposed paving turned to George Hemmingson, a representative of Brown-Cramer Company, holders of the city of Ranger's bonds, and asked if the city issued warrants could they sell the bonds. Hemmingson, explaining that further paving would enhance the value of all Ranger property, would make the town better and therefore its securities better and encourage the building of more houses, thought that his company would be able to finance it within a reasonable limit.

"If people are back of a paving program strong enough to pay three fourths of the costs, it shows the town wants to improve and go forward," Hemmingson said.

In regard to the paving the charter of Ranger says that the city shall pay one-fourth of all pavement, which includes the intersections and the property owners the other three-fourths.

Geo. Hemmingson, Bill Burke, George Davison and Blackmond, a representative of Elrod Engineering Company were out of town men present and all gave views of the proposed paving.

Streets Designated

Streets designated to be paved in the beginning of the program are Young Street from the Strawn Road intersection to Blundell; Elm Street from North Marston to South Hodges; South Hodges two blocks and up Mesquite past the Gholson home; South Marston from Pine to Mesquite; Pine to Sue; Sue to Main; Blackwell Road, Oldie and Desdemona Road to V. V. Cooper place.

Ed Maher represented Cooper Addition in a plea for paving in that section of town.
City Engineer Sewell reported on some trouble that the city has encountered with the sewer line and the representative from the Elrod engineering company, who were the engineers in charge of the construction of the work, reported that this was the first inking they had ever had that any trouble with the line existed, saying that they put in the line eight years ago and this was the first complaint that they had had.

That the employing of an engineer was one of the first requisites in the paving program seemed to be an accepted opinion and the Elrod man stated the qualifications of his company and offered their services on a five per cent of the contract basis if the program was really carried out.

Nothing definite was done in this matter as the hour was late and the commission adjourned until tonight at 8 o'clock.

CONGRESSMAN TAKES FLING AT LAME DUCK LAW

Tom Connolly Would Favor Amendment to National Constitution Convening Congress in January

SLUPHUR SPRINGS, Aug. 3.—The law permitting "lame duck" congressmen was flayed in an address here today by congressman Tom Connolly at the old settlers reunion.

A "lame duck" congress is one that meets in December and is empowered to enact legislation until the fourth of March following through its members may have been defeated for reelection the preceding November.

Congressman Connolly expressed himself as favoring a proposed amendment to the constitution providing that new congress should convene in January, after its election in November.

Shows Just How Much Detective Knew About Golf

By United Press.

HOUSTON, Aug. 3.—When detectives Smith and Anderson found a man on the street with a bag of 25 golf balls they suspected him of being a wholesale burglar.

"What do you need with so many?" queried Detective Captain Shelly, whose hobby is raising chickens, when the man told him he had bought the balls to use.

"I'm a dub and need all of these," was the answer.

"That's right cap," chimed in another detective. "If he's a dub he needs all of them. I've lost that many on one hole."

Committees Are Expected to Work For Celebration

A list of the members of the various committees that will be necessary to make of Ranger's Home Coming and Oil Jubilee, the biggest thing since the McCleskey well came in ten years ago, was published in Friday's issue of the Ranger Times. Since it is of the utmost importance that every man on this list know that he is on and serves, the list is being published for the second time.

Members of the committees are expected to work and perform their part of the task that lies before Ranger between now and October 21. Plans for the two day celebration are of such magnitude that each committee will have to be fully manned and the loss of any man is as a monkey wrench thrown in the cog of its machinery.

John M. Gholson is general chairman, Ed Maher vice chairman and the committees follow:

BENEFITS TO FARMERS WILL BE GREAT

Survey Will Cover 20
West Texas Counties
Seven in Oklahoma

By United Press.

FORT WORTH, Aug. 3.—After a conference with West Texas Chamber of Commerce officials here last night, W. B. Lanham and L. E. Dowd, specialists of the United States department of agriculture left for Wichita Falls to begin a survey of cotton in 20 West Texas and seven southern Oklahoma counties.

While the primary purpose of the survey is to increase the working knowledge of the department and to post farmers as to the grade of their cotton, E. H. Whitehead, assistant manager of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce said after the conference last night that the survey would probably enable farmers in the area to secure better prices for their cotton.

The survey is part of a program being carried out by the department under the direction of Dr. D. Youngblood, director of the Texas A. & M. experiment station who is on leave of absence in Washington.

Tire Men Select San Antonio As Headquarters

By United Press.

SAN ANTONIO, Aug. 3.—San Antonio has been chosen as district headquarters of the National Tire Dealers association, according to C. A. Meyer, managing director of the national organization, who has spent several days here.

The district embraces Texas, Oklahoma, New Mexico and Arizona. This city also will be headquarters of the Texas Tire Dealers association.

The first tire dealers convention ever held in Texas will be held here August 10. Invitations for the convention have been sent to 4,000 tire dealers and nearly 1,000 are expected to attend.

The purpose of the state organization of tire dealers, according to Meyer, is to organize against "fly by night" and "sly" tire dealers.

Wet Field Delays Oklahoma Plane In Long Flight

By United Press.

BARTLESVILLE, Okla., Aug. 3.—A soggy field and runway made more hazardous by additional rains during the night, today kept the monoplane "Oklahoma" on the ground.

The pilot piloted by Bennett Grissin, entrant in the Dole prize Honolulu race was to have taken off at 6 a. m. in a non stop hop to San Francisco.

Shortly after 5 a. m. Grissin with his navigator Al Hanley and officials of the Phillips Petroleum company, backers of the flight went out to Phillips field in the hope of an early start. A further downpour precluded any possibility of a start until more favorable weather.

The postponement was the second within the past 24 hours.

"The 'Oklahoma' was to have taken off at 6 p. m. yesterday when it was decided the big ship could not safely rise from the wet field.

PRESIDENT'S ACTION IS HELD TO BLAME

General Motors And United States Steel
Tumble With Others

By United Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—Stock prices prices crashed at opening of the market today as a result of the announcement of President Coolidge at the close of yesterday's market that he would not run for another term.

General Motors opened off seven points at 222, and U. S. Steel off three-fourths at 134 1/2. Baldwin locomotive sold off four at 246 and Baltimore and Ohio dropped 6 to 118.

After the first rush of selling the drop was checked somewhat. Steel steadied in the first 15 minutes and rose to 135 3/4. General Motors was bid at 227. A similar reaction was noted in other markets. Cotton opened 36 to 49 lower.

Trading was exceptionally heavy. Sales 10 to 10:30 totaling 504,000 shares or at the rate of over 5,000,000 shares for a five hour day.

BRECKENRIDGE PEOPLE HURT IN AUTO SMASH UP

Two Are Probably Fatally Injured In Collision In Louisiana, Second Delay of Hurried Trip

By United Press.

MONROE, La., Aug. 3.—Apparently pursued by a Jinx, six members of a Breckenridge family ended a race with death here today with most of the party in the hospital.

Speeding across Texas in an automobile to the bedside of Mrs. Mary Murphy, reported in a dying condition, the party was beset by a series of accidents which culminated when the car figured in a head on collision with another car near here.

J. A. Ward and Mrs. Laura Parker were probably fatally injured in the crash. Howe Parker and Mrs. Ward were badly cut and bruised.

M. J. Cavanaugh, driver of the other machine received a crushed arm.

Previous to the accident the Breckenridge family was delayed when their car broke down at Simsboro. It was abandoned for another car at that place.

Stage Hog Calling Contest At State Fair This Year

By United Press.

DALLAS, Aug. 3.—Hog calling, which was popularized in Nebraska a year ago, promises to be one of the leading attractions at the Texas state fair this fall.

In fact, so popular is the contest to be held that six directors of the fair want to have charge of the affair. After considerable discussion, it was decided to place Dr. A. E. Flowers, superintendent of the livestock department, in charge of the hog calling contest this year inasmuch as he has attended a hog calling contest at the Iowa state fair.

LARGEST PLANE EVER BUILT IS PUT ON EXHIBIT

Equipped To Land Cargo From Midair While Traveling Hundred Miles An Hour

By United Press.
 DETROIT, Aug. 3.—A huge monoplane equipped to land its cargo from midair while traveling 100 miles an hour was exhibited today for the first time at Ford Airport.
 The craft resembled an enormous motor truck with wings attached. It was towed onto the airfield from a giant hangar and when its three great motors were started the noise was deafening.
 Described as the largest airplane ever built the craft measured 174 feet between the tips of the wings.

Ranger Rotarians Hear Dr. Roberts On Tour Abroad

The Ranger Rotary Club today heard its delegate, Dr. T. T. Roberts of Cisco, tell of his trip to Ostend and of the International Rotary Convention there, which he attended as a delegate from the Ranger and Eastland Rotary Clubs.
 Dr. Roberts, briefly, as time was limited, told of his trip from the time of the first luncheon in New York at the Waldorf-Astoria, where one speaker told the American delegates that they were going to the convention as "Ambassadors of America," to his final home coming.
 His party sailed on board the S. S. Corinthian and just as they crossed the imaginary half way line that divided the two continents they were given a welcome address by a Swede, which was responded to by Harry Rogers, at that time International Rotary president.
 The party observed Decoration Day aboard ship and scattered flowers in memory of the honored dead in the wake of the ship.
 Dr. Roberts and Rev. Bruce Boney of Cisco were cabin mates and visited the old city of Antwerp, where they still wear wooden shoes and scrub the sidewalks, before they went to Ostend. In Antwerp they visited a very old cathedral, that was 98 years in making and while looking down saw a great crowd around the city hall. When asked for an explanation of the crowd they were told that it was free wedding day and crowds had gathered to get married free or to see others marry.
 In Ostend they were first taken to the House of Friendship. In this city they found the weather quite cold and wore overcoats on July 8. Most of the speeches, Dr. Roberts said were in English, but several were in French, which were interpreted. The main theme of the meeting seemed to be fellowship among the nations, he said.
 Other visitors at today's luncheon were O. D. Dillingham, a former member of the Ranger Rotary Club, now of Abilene, O. D. Caldwell and Horace Butler of Eastland and Billy Burke of Sweetwater, a charter member of the Ranger Rotary Club.
 British newspapers urged assignment of Lord Balfour to the Geneva disarmament conference. Maybe somebody over there was trying to Bok peace.

Governor Moody Taxes His Eyes To Great Extent

By United Press.
 AUSTIN, Aug. 3.—Those laughing eyes of Governor Moody are his chief dependence.
 Time and gain the youthful governor interrupts the reading of a document or petition. "Hand it to me. Let me get it through my eyes," he directs. "I can grasp things I read quicker than those I hear."
 Friends attribute his chief reliance on this form of perception to his legal training. Reading law cases has made it second nature to him to turn to the visualized words for information.
 It's a handicap, though, to his stenographers. After he has dictated a message or a letter, he invariably makes numerous changes when he reads his own words and gets them through his eyes. The message or letter goes back with numerous changes.
 Despite the hard usage he has given his eyes, he retains unimpaired vision. He never wears glasses and, so far, there is no indication that he will ever need them.

Texas Has Four Very Promising Tennis Players

By United Press.
 DALLAS.—Brilliant victories on eastern courts by Texas tennis players this summer brings promise that the southwest will be represented in the national meets next year.
 Eastern sport critics have been deeply impressed with the work of Wilmer Allison, Lewis White, Louis Thalheimer and Berkeley Bell, all Texas players, in eastern tournaments this season. Several writers have referred to this quartet as possible successors to Bill Tilden and Bill Johnston.

The four referred to are youthful, ranging from 21 to 24, and should they develop in another year to withstand the strain of national tournaments they are expected to do much toward regaining America's slipping hold on international tennis honors.

Allison, who is 22, has played a dashing and consistent game this season, winning the Western at Dayton and the intercollegiate tournament at the Merion Cricket club.
 Bell went to the finals in the Indiana state tournament. The others will be ranking players this year. Allison and Thalheimer were No. 3 in the national ranking and Bell was No. 6 in the national singles ranking.

Ranger Will Have Home Beautiful Under Way Soon

A Home Beautiful may get under way in Ranger by September 1, according to J. H. P. Jones, secretary-treasurer of the Ranger Building and Loan Association. The association has been working some time toward that end and now it looks as though financial arrangements will be worked out sufficiently for such a home to be started early in the fall.
The Association met yesterday afternoon and reports show that it is now financing the building of three fine homes and applications for two homes to be built in the Young Addition were acted on favorably at this meeting.
The total loans of the Association have now reached $80,000.00 and sales of stock have kept pace with this growth. The association further reports that it has no money borrowed at this time.
Mr. Jones stated today that the Building and Loan Association knows no "dog days," but just keeps saving wood and driving nails all summer and manages to keep a large crew of carpenters busy.

Names Suggested For Ranger's New Swimming Pool

Interest in naming Ranger's new park, and swimming pool which is being rapidly constructed at the head of West Main Street, is luke warm. Only a few names have been received.
In addition to the first suggestion Sylvan Park the following names have been received:
Oak Island Park, Edgewood Park, Playtime Park, Oak Grove Park, Blue Ridge Oil Park, Lindbergh Park or Lucky Lindy Park, Shadow Land Park, Paradise Park, Elkhorn Park, Grande Park and Willowmere.
POLICE ARE CALLED TO MESQUITE STREET HOME
Ranger's Peeping Tom became twins last night as a lady living on Mesquite Street, turned in a report to the police department that two men got out of a Ford Roadster and peeped in at her daughter's window.
The men are said to have run away when the lady of the house turned on the lights. Although the police investigated, no one was found loitering on the premises.
This is the fourth case of this kind that has been reported in Ranger this summer.

OIL BELT AUTOMOBILE DEALERS MEET IN CISCO

Gripings

by Gus

Us special correspondents are posed to get around and find out the sentiment of the populace on various and sundry questions of importance.

In conversation with a visiting lady in Ranger a few days ago she passed the remark that she had seen several good looking men but hadn't seen one yet that looked as though he had had his shoes shined in a week.

Well, we didn't claim to be good looking or anything like that but we'll admit we did need a shine. So we went on a little tour of investigation to find out why the other fellows permitted their footwear to look so shabby like.

We knew the reason we didn't buy more shines was because we couldn't spare the fifteen cents often enough.

We asked exactly one dozen representative men why the heck they didn't have a shine on their shoes and their unanimous reply was that they were too lazy to shine their own shoes and thought fifteen cents was too high to pay for a shine except when one was going out to see one's best girl or something.

Why the price of shines should be fifteen cents in this neck of the woods is beyond us and has been for some little bit.

We believe we could make more shining shoes for a dime than we do griping and have a half a notion to try it out.

Shoe polish and elbow grease should not be any higher here than it is in the average town. Judging from the amount of gooey they use on a guy's shoes they ought to get a million shines from a quarter's worth of polish. And to look at a shine boy's shoes you can tell he don't waste any polish on them.

We don't suppose they are getting rich at fifteen cents a shine, but why should they? If they'd get the price down to where a fellow wouldn't think he was beating his children out of a meal every time he bought a shine they'd make more money but, of course, they'd have to put out a little more work.

You talk about organized labor. Them guys is organized to the limit. If you're not satisfied with the price they begin to talk about boosting it a nickle.

If a stranger comes in and gets a shine and hands them a dime like he would at home it makes him sore as heck when he has to die up the other nickle. Then they tell him all about how prosperous we are and everything and he gets sore as heck because he can't make a million here in a week.

A lot of the home boys here are maybe a little timid and won't holler on the price for fear somebody will think they are a cheap skate. As far as we are concerned we are a cheap skate and have made up our minds to holler to that effect and anybody that don't like our sentiments along these lines don't have to shine our shoes for any price. We thank you.

SPORTS, ODDS AND ENDS

TILDEN AS AN ACTOR

By N. R. PACKARD
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

LONDON—English friends of William T. Tilden, prominent American tennis player, are wondering what he has decided to do about a reported offer to put him on the English stage. Prior to his departure for the United States, following the Wimbledon matches, Tilden gave an interview which has not been referred to since his return but nevertheless some of the prominent persons in the theatrical world are recalling "Big Bill's" words and wondering if he really will try his luck on the stage as he did in the United States.

"Of course," said Tilden, who had been talking during his stay here to theatrical managers and producers about making his debut on the London stage, "with a face like this, I play comedy, I have to, for I could not play either Romeo or Hamlet; I don't look that way."

"No, I'm no Valentino, and I have enough sense of humor to look myself straight in the face and make the best of it."

"Please don't be too definite about my plans because I have not settled anything yet. But it is possible that I may make my first appearance on the London stage in the fall and as the public have all been so nice to me as a tennis player I am hoping that they will feel the same about Tilden, the comedian."

"My attempts on the tennis courts and my attempts on the stage are quite separate, but I have done some film work. From my earliest youth I have been a keen amateur actor. Let me tell you how it came about."

"In the states young Billy Quinn, a Scotch-American actor of 15 and a bit, has played with me in a play by Courtney Savage 'They All Want Something,' taken from E. J. Ralph's book 'The Dark Chapter.'

"When I said good-bye to Billy he told me that if I should meet Dennis Neilson-Terry and Miss Mary Glyne over here I must be sure to give them his love. Billy, you see, was with them when they played in the States. So one evening I went to see 'The Terror'—wonderful stuff—and sent my card around to Neilson-Terry."

"He gave me a very warm welcome and incidentally I discovered that he is a keen tennis fan who plays a good game himself."

"Several days later, after we had met frequently, Terry realized I had done some work on the stage and began to talk to me about appearing in London. Later we discussed the proposition with his partner. Other theatrical men have approached me but no decisions have been made as yet."

"If we bring the play over, Billy Quinn will play in it, and I shall play my own part of a comedy character who begins in the first act as a tramp. In the second act, one of the gushing, clinging, sweetly vamping types of females asks me the question: 'Do you play tennis?' and you can imagine how well that goes with the audience. The funny part of it is that particular sentence is culled from the original book and is not put in for effect."

"I should very much like to play with an English company, but if it worked out better the American company would come here—all those things, however, are yet to be considered."

A New York man, 98, gives as one of his rules of longevity. "Do all business on a cash basis." In other words, don't worry.

How to Protect the Throat When Smoking

What 9651* Doctors say on this subject

The signed statements of intelligent men and women whose voices are to them what the hands of the day laborer are to him—the means indispensable to livelihood or success in life—are convincing. Actors and actresses, great singers, men conspicuous in public life, radio announcers, testify that they like LUCKY STRIKE cigarettes because of their finer flavor and because they do not irritate the throat.

Before such statements by laymen were published, questions had been addressed to a number of physicians in various sections of the United States—many of them leading physicians—and some replies had been received. The following is the result of the questionnaire:

Q1—In your judgment is the heat treatment or toasting process applied to tobaccos previously aged and cured, likely to free the cigarette from irritation to the throat?

9651 doctors answered this question "YES".

Q2—Do you think from your experience with LUCKY STRIKE cigarettes that they are less irritating to sensitive or tender throats than other cigarettes, whatever the reason?

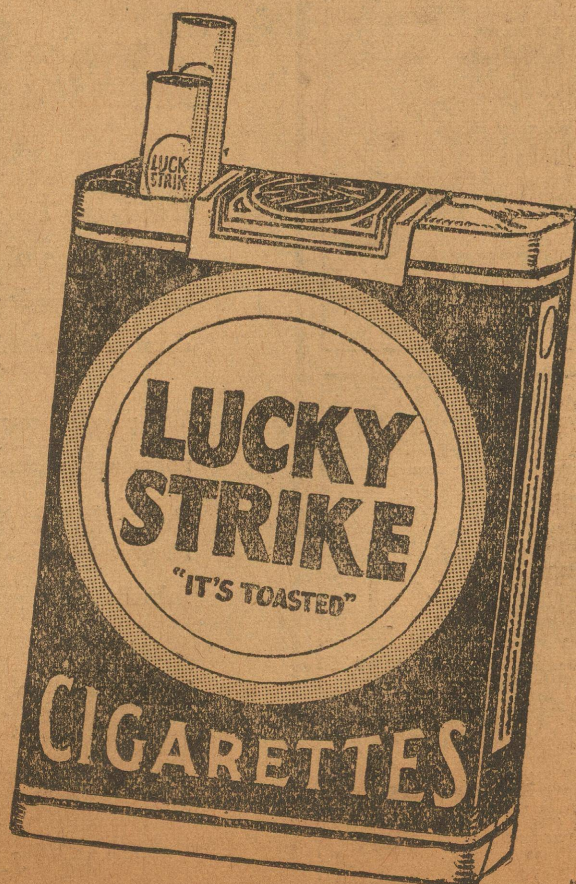

11,105 doctors answered this question "YES".

Titta Ruffo,
Noted
Metropolitan Star, writes:

"Like scores of others whose everything is their voice and a clear throat, I, when I smoke, prefer the toasted cigarette—Lucky Strike."

THIS HAS HAPPENED
Attempts have been made on the life of Elise Marberry, an American girl owning considerable property near the little town of Porto Verde, in west central Brazil.
Several mysterious deaths have occurred, but so far she has escaped harm, due to the shrewdness of her cousin and protector, Vilak, who masquerades as her attorney under the name of Davis, Vilak, a curious mixture of American and Oriental blood, is a student of criminology. He tries to persuade Elise to leave the country, letting him stay with his friend, Lincoln Nunnally, an elderly American chemist, to solve the mystery.
After her two-year-old orphaned nephew is kidnapped, to be found again by the alert Vilak, and another attempt is made on their lives, Elise agrees.
Her departure is prevented by threat of floods. Messengers ride throughout the countryside, warning the natives. Vilak decides to go to the house of Gaylord Prentiss, a recluse and a forbidding man and an enemy of Elise's, whom she suspects of a knowledge of the conspiracy against her. Nevertheless she agrees it is their duty to warn him.
Vilak learns that the flood warning was a ruse to get Prentiss out of his house and so informs him. The party is besieged in a small stone tower next to Prentiss' house by armed attackers. Vilak finally disperses them by dynamiting a dam and causing a real flood. When the water recedes they discover Prentiss has gone.
The next day, Tinky, Elise's little nephew, is stolen again. The trail leads into the jungle. A native reports Prentiss has been seen with a baby. Vilak makes preparations for a long journey in pursuit. With natives trackers, they take up the trail.
NOW BEGIN THE STORY
CHAPTER XXXV

For two more days they traveled without seeing a sign of either humanity or human habitation except the sharp machete cuts in the branches and the crushed vegetation underfoot which showed them their course.
Then on the morning of the fifth day out from Porto Verde, on a low mound rising slightly above the level of the forest, they came to what appeared to be a secondary trail coming from a slightly different direction and joining their own.
Here Vilak examined the ground carefully. Between clumps of tall grass he found a number of cigar stubs. They were filled with a cheap, coarse tobacco, rolled by hand. Evidently the smoker had exhausted his supply of papers, for most of the cigars were rolled in bits of newspaper, torn envelopes, and other odds and ends a man ordinarily carries in his pockets.
Quickly Vilak picked these up and deftly unrolling them, spread them out upon a log. He concentrated his attention upon the bits of envelope. A moment later he grunted, then extended two of the scraps to Elise. "Look at that," he flashed.
The fragments bore part of an English postmark and the full name of Elise's English foreman who had escaped from the Porto Verde jail after the murder of Tony Barbetta.
When they halted at noon for the midday meal, Vilak distributed rifles to half of the natives who had hitherto been permitted to carry only spears. "We're being watched all the time now," he said to Elise and Nunnally, who had glanced at him inquisitively. "No use worrying about it, but I'm certain it's so. I've heard rustles in the trees three or four times this morning. They weren't caused by monkeys or we'd have known it by being screamed at, or having sticks and fruit rained down upon us."
That night the guard was doubled. The hidden watchers, however, gave no sign of their presence.
It was almost a week later when the sun was high in the sky that they came within sight of their first Indian village, twenty or thirty reed huts built in the shape of low cones so that in the distance they appeared like great gray anthills. As they approached, the Tarter-like guide suddenly gave three loud cries and began a long noisy rhapsody in a high-pitched, wailing dialect.

Four warriors of the village came hurrying out from the brush shelters, holding drawn bows. They planted themselves squarely in the path of the newcomers. Completely naked except for a little striped tattooing around the elbows and knees, they stood rigid, shining bronze statues barring the way.
"Marvelous bodies," Vilak murmured to Nunnally, as the guide continued his shrill oration. "Pronounced Oriental strain in them, too, undoubtedly. Look at the shape of their heads and the slant of their eyes. That tattooing also is absolutely the same as I could show you in a hundred places in the islands off East Asia. Judging by the way they're looking at us, we're the first white men they've seen."
The guide's declamation at length ceased. The headman of the village, a grizzled, withered shell, who appeared as though three centuries had passed over his long gray head, stalked gravely out from the largest hut. Behind him totted two enormously fat old women.
He grunted to the rigid warriors. Their bows relaxed, they moved off to the wall of the structure from which the headman had come. The chief engaged the guide in a short parley, then convinced that the newcomers' intentions were not hostile, greeted them cordially. Food was brought, swamp-deer, roasted tapir, berries, and set on grass mats, Vilak responded to the courtesy by presenting his host with a necklace of atrociously colored beads, of which he had been careful to bring a liberal supply.
The headman barked an order; all the women in the village, who had been curiously peeping at the newcomers through the cracks in their houses, ran forward. They began a dance.
They were in a long, compact semicircle, violently hopping up and down, darting forward and leaping back, all to the accompaniment of a skin drum which a purple-feathered Indian was beating frantically, when Vilak happened to strike a match to light a cigar.
The flare of the tiny flame was as though lightning had struck the assembly. The women ran screaming back to their houses; the soldiers threw themselves flat on the ground, beating their heads at Vilak's feet; the withered chief darted behind a tree.
Seeing the panic, and instantly comprehending its cause, Vilak blew out the flaming match. The chief saw and slowly began coming from behind the tree; the women scrambled to their feet; the women one by one drifted back.
"Lord, what an effect!" chuckled Vilak to Nunnally, as the chief advanced with some hesitancy to them. "Silly of me, though. Should have known that practically all the tribes we'll meet are fire worshippers. Comonest thing in all savage life. Undoubtedly never saw a match before. They'll be turning us into gods, and making us eat rancid butter the way they do in Tibet if we're not careful."

The chief warily sat down beside him. Vilak let him feel the box, examine the match itself, then painstakingly demonstrated how the fire was created by striking the one against the other.
The old man grinned, then eagerly followed his example. His delight was unbounded when Vilak presented him with the marvel. The broken line of dancers reformed; the dance proceeded to a furious climax and ended. More tapir and berries were brought.
Vilak now tried talking to his host in the Guarany dialect, which extends like a mother-tongue through most of the savage tribes of South America. Finding himself understood, he inquired whether the Indians had seen any other travelers lately pass that way with a child.
The chief shook his head. His village was a hunting village; regularly all the men went off to the jungle, leaving none but the women and children behind. At these times the women dared not venture far from their houses, and consequently knew nothing of what passed in the nearby forests. The men had just returned from a week's hunt the day before! therefore he could tell them nothing.
The chief asked Vilak his destination. Vilak pointed vaguely off into the direction the trail had been constantly leading. The chief shook his withered head again and grunted. "No go there. No go. Devils there. In valley. Green valley. On mountain. Red mountain. Devil mountain. Kill you. Kill girl. Quick. Too quick. Listen Bagarundi. Bagarundi wis!"
At the chief's urgent invitation, they pitched their camp in the village for the night. Then a smudge fire was kindled to drive away the swarming mosquitoes; the old man began droning out the ancient legends of his people to all his visitors who could understand.

Shortly before midnight, the Americans entered the hut which had been reserved for their reception. Vilak poked a suspicious-looking corner with a stick to rout out any tarantulas that might be hiding within, then hung his hammock.
"I'd be convinced now that these South American Indians were Asiatic in their origin even if I hadn't been before," he said to Nunnally as he disentangled a hook which had caught in the mesh.
"Those legends the old man related tonight can be reproduced in half a dozen places in Eastern Asia and the Asiatic islands. That story about the man who walked through the fire and thereby became a god, particularly. It's almost like being in the Malay archipelago to hear it again. They still walk through fire, for that matter, in some of the outlying Japanese islands and Fiji and Guinea. A trick, of course. Know exactly how it's done. It's the way the shamans and priests keep their power."
"World's a pretty small place. Interesting chap, this old man. Doesn't seem very encouraging about our prospects ahead."

What Can Pimple Faced Boys And Girls Expect
Nobody knows better than the boy or girl who has been slighted time and again by their supposed "best friend," how humiliating it is to have to stand for such "cutting" things when they know they can expect nothing more as long as they don't look attractive on account of a pimply, blotchy or rough skin.
But such heartaches don't have to be put up with. Any boy or girl who is troubled with these skin blemishes can get rid of them if they will just use Black and White Ointment and the Skin Soap. The fact that they sell at the tremendous rate of more than two million packages a year shows how popular they are. They are economically priced, in liberal packages. Any dealer can supply you with both the Ointment and the Soap. The 50c size Ointment contains three times as much as the 25c size.—(Adv.)

Supervisors May Assist In Search For Potash Beds

By United Press.
AUSTIN, Texas, Aug. 3.—Plans to have state supervisors in the oil and gas fields aid in the search for potash beds in Texas are being worked out by the oil and gas division of the railroad commission.

Dr. E. H. Sellards of the bureau of economic geology of the University of Texas, met with the oil and gas supervisors recently and outlined to them the conditions under which potash likely will be found in Texas. He warned them that a soluble potash will probably be encountered with salt beds and discussed how to prevent loss through water being introduced into such deposits.

Importance commercially of the potash discoveries was illustrated by the figures showing that $13,000,000 worth of potash is imported annually for fertilizers and about $1,000,000 is produced annually in the United States.

Inspectors present from several sections expressed the belief that potash deposits have been passed through without discovery. One reported evidence of a potash deposit 22 miles west of Beaumont where the Gulf company was drilling for oil.

Dr. Sellards said that there is every reason to expect potash beds will be found in connection with the salt dome in the coast country. Texas potash, he said, is apparently a deposit left by the drying up of the large inland sea that once covered parts of Texas and extended as far north as Kansas. Normally, he said, the potash would be in beds of a few feet, on top of salt.

He warned, however, that subsequent inundations, and other changes might result in the potash being found other than on top of salt.

Dr. Sellard expressed belief that the first test made in Midland county under the federal appropriation of $100,000 a year for five years, passed through potash without discovering it.

The next test contemplated under the federal appropriation will be made at Metz, Ector county. Dr. Sellards indicated, a test is expected also in the northwest part of Crockett county.

Leatrice Joy And Charles Ray Come To Lamb Theatre

Appearing in one of the strongest roles of her screen career, Leatrice Joy will be seen at the Lamb Theatre Thursday in her latest star picture, "Vanity." Charles Ray is featured as leading man and Alan Hale has the featured villain's role.

The story deals with a young society woman who is to wed a rich young man. She accidentally meets a sailor whom she had encountered in France during the war and on the night before the date set for her wedding, he contrives to get her aboard the vessel of which he is the skipper. When it is too late she realizes that she has been trapped and the subsequent scenes are said to be intensely dramatic. The skipper is killed by a vicious ship's cook and he in turn, it would be unfair to the reader to reveal the climax of this wonderful, thrilling photoplay.

Unlike her recent pictures, "Vanity" affords Miss Joy the type of role in which she made her first big success in "Manslaughter." The two Commandments, "Saturday Night" and "Triumph" the Cecil B. DeMille productions that paved the way for her elevation to stardom.

Ranger Will Get Infantry Unit Of National Guard

Wayne C. Hickey was in his office at the Ranger Chamber of Commerce today and although he did not bring back a cavalry unit of the national guard as a result of his visit to San Antonio, he did bring back the promise of an infantry troop and reported that while in conference with Major General John A. Hulen, in Houston, he extended the major an invitation to visit Ranger on Oct. 21-22 for the home-coming and oil jubilee and the major said he would enjoy coming very much.

The first stop was at San Antonio where Hickey was informed there was no chance at all to get a cavalry unit. There he conferred with Brigadier General Wolters who in turn advised him to see Major Hulen at Houston.

Armed with letters from the Rotary and Lions clubs, Chamber of Commerce and the city of Ranger, the case was stated and Major Hulen speaking unofficially said Ranger could have an infantry unit if she wanted it and to go ahead and start their roster. In the course of a few weeks he will send a field officer to select an armory and help work out the details.

Mr. Hickey figures that such a unit will mean a payroll of twelve or fifteen thousand dollars a year. Officers will be elected and young men who want to join the national guard unit to be established here are asked to send in their names, or make application to the Chamber of Commerce so that the roster will begin getting filled at once.

George Myers, 63 Dead, Funeral Be Held Thursday

Death at 3:30 Wednesday morning wrote the final chapter in the life of George Myers, 63, a fruit merchant of Ranger, and at one time a merchant and landowner in Olden. At that place he was known as the "mayor of old Olden."

At 10 o'clock Thursday morning from Killingsworth-Cox Funeral Parlors funeral services will be conducted by the Ranger Elks Lodge, of which the deceased was a member, 5 being said by a fellow Elk that "the Elks Lodge was Myers' life and religion."

The history, as far as Ranger people know, of this man's life, is shrouded in mystery. He came to Ranger in 1919, according to Wade Swift, with a carnival and after staying here he went into business and bought considerable property which he subsequently sold. A few years ago he returned to Ranger and opened up a fruit store here, which he has run in several different locations since that time.

He was said to be a strong booster or a strong opposer. Last week at a mass meeting of Ranger citizens called to plan for the Oil Jubilee and Home Coming, although sick then and scarcely able to talk he got up and made a talk which was full of enthusiasm and begged that the celebration be put on right.

It is said that Myers never talked to any one of his past. He claimed to have lived in Milwaukee but among his effects was only one name, and no address. Wade Swift, wired to this person in Milwaukee but on account of having no street address has little hopes of having a reply.

An administrator for his affairs will be appointed this afternoon. The deceased is said to have been comfortably well fixed.

Myers had not been in good health for sometime.

Prince of Wales Will Dedicate War Memorial

By United Press.
OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 3.—The Prince of Wales will officially dedicate the new war memorial chamber in the peace tower of the Canadian house of parliament in Ottawa, Ont., on his visit to the federal capital tomorrow, according to a government announcement issued here.

The memorial chamber will be a shrine in honor of Canadian soldiers who died in the world war. Stones for the interior walls of the chamber have been brought from the battlefields of France and Flanders, including Ypres, Vimy Ridge, St. Julien, Givenchy, St. Eloi, Loos, and Somme, and Amiens, where Canadians fought in the memorable years of 1914-1918. Upon an altar of black marble presented by the British government will rest a Domes-day book, in which the names of every member of the Canadian expeditionary force will be inscribed.

Services commemorating the thirtieth anniversary of the declaration of war will be held in connection with the dedication ceremonies in which Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin of England and Premier, William Lyon Mackenzie King of Canada will participate.

Estelle Taylor Recovering From Nerve Collapse

By United Press.
LOS ANGELES, Calif., Aug. 3.—Estelle Taylor, film actress and wife of Jack Dempsey was reported to be recovering today from a nervous breakdown that for a time threatened postponement of the Dempsey-Turney bout.

Mrs. Dempsey is much improved today and is on the road to recovery, attendants at the Dempsey home said.

Dempsey was reported "out on the road" early today, and this was taken as indications there would be no change in his training plans for the match with Turney.

England And The United States May Yet Agree

By RODNEY DUTCHER, NEA Service Writer.
WASHINGTON. — Regardless of any temporary bitterness engendered by disagreements at the Geneva arms limitation conference, it is more than possible that the ultimate outcome will be an understanding between the English-speaking peoples which will head off a new and unprecedented race for naval supremacy.

At any rate, there are many persons in the United States and Great Britain who are bright enough to suspect that such a solution would be more desirable than a building contest involving frightful expense and perhaps eventually terminating in war.

If the Geneva meeting fails and causes an Anglo-American rift, the need for agreement will be all the greater.

There is good reason to suppose that a program which would establish the two nations on a basis of friendship and co-operation would not be frowned upon by this government. Leaving other considerations aside, it might appeal to Britain solely because she knows the United States could outbuild her if the issue should come to that kind of a showdown.

It is rather to be assumed that the people of this country and of the British empire would welcome an agreement designed to eliminate the possibility of war between the world's two greatest powers. Such a war is often declared "unthinkable," but history reveals that power moves westward along with civilization and that up to the present time war has accompanied the process. Now that the world is for the first time pretty well in the hands of peoples who speak the same language, the time may have come to call the turn on history's repetitive trend.

Farsighted men have long since suggested the wisdom of an Anglo-American understanding as a potent factor for world peace and international happiness. The idea has not been confined to mere theorists and comparative nobodies. The Scripps-Howard newspapers made such a proposal years ago and more recently it has been endorsed by William Randolph Hearst.

Now, with the demonstration at Geneva that from a purely strategic standpoint based on geographical limitations and dissimilarities of interest the United States and Britain find it hard to agree on standardized shapes and sizes for their respective navies, the world echoes more than ever before with pleas for measures of safety such as some one felt would be achieved through the League of Nations.

Ambassador Houghton apparently had an Anglo-American agreement in mind recently when he proposed, without mentioning names, reciprocal pledges in which contracting nations should agree not to attack each other for 100 years. He tied up this suggestion with a plan to limit wars to those declared by popular vote.

More Need Than Ever For Vacations

ORVILLE HARRY BROWN M. D.
Why should we take vacations? The old adage, "All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy" is sufficient answer, though by no means the only one.

Modern American business life is rapid and strenuous. Most of us work at a tension through the greater part of the year. Our hearts, blood vessels, brains, etc., get very little rest. Or it may be that it is the muscles, which are kept constantly busy. Hence the vacation should afford relaxation from the accustomed type of activity.

This does not mean that one should go to the extremes. The man with the white collar job does relatively little muscular work. He should spend his vacation with complete freedom from the strains and stresses of his routine job, but he may occupy the recreation period in an activity, largely physical, provided it is not extended much beyond the usual vacation period. Many persons make the mistake of spending most of their time in a sedentary occupation and overdoing in vacation periods. One of the greatest surgeons of all time made this serious mistake. The reference is to Dr. Nicholas Senn, who died in 1905 after a vacation in South America climbing mountains. He was brought back to Chicago on a stretcher, with an acutely dilated heart, and never recovered. His heart was untrained to the severe strain which he put upon it in what he planned to be a rest period.

A vacation should be a recreation. This word comes from the latin word meaning to create anew or again. Our vacations should create new vigor and improved health.

The great open spaces in the west, among others, afford ideal vacation spots, and many will soon be going to the back-to-nature places. A word of warning needs be sounded regarding sanitation and the results of improper sanitation.

Protect yourself and those who come after you by digging holes and carefully covering all excretions and debris. This should be done immediately.

Dysentery and typhoid are two serious diseases which are directly due to improper sanitation. Typhoid may be a water-borne disease; this occurs if sewage waste from a typhoid patient or a typhoid carrier contaminates the water supply. As this may occur where sanitary disposal of sewage is absent the back country is where typhoid may be lurking. Typhoid vaccination is safe, simple, and efficient. Go to your physician and ask him to give you the protective treatment.

A vacation is a splendid opportunity to do a lot of reading for which time seems lacking in the regular

Weevil And Worm Do Much Damage To Late Cotton

The boll worm and boll weevil are at work in the cotton fields of Eastland county and are doing much damage at this time, according to J. R. Layfield, farmer living three and one-half miles northeast of Eastland.

"The flea got the early cotton crop and now the weevil and the worm, it seems, are going to get the late crop," Mr. Layfield said.

Mr. Layfield has arranged a cultivator on which he has fastened sidebars made of one-inch pipe with this he is dragging his cotton and at the same time plowing it. With this drag many of the punctured bolls and squares, which harbor insects, are knocked off on to the ground where Mr. Layfield believes the hot sun and sand may kill them.

The weevil and worm, Mr. Layfield says, has increased in numbers greatly since the recent rain and that hot, dry weather for the next few weeks will save the cotton.

"My feed crop this year is better than last year," Mr. Layfield said.
