EASTLAND COUNTY GETS GUSHER WELL, LARGEST IN MONTHS

Bombings Reported At Many Points In United States

THINK SACCO VANZETTI CASE IS CAUSE

Take Precautions To Protect President And Other Officials

By United Press.
RAPID CITY, S. D., Aug. 6.—The president of the United States today was surrounded by a guard as heavy as that which protected the chief executive during the war following reports of radical violence protesting the electrocution of Sacco and Vanzetti.

When the report was received from New York that subways had been bombed presumably by sympathizers of the condemned anarchists, squads of sentries were enlarged to completely surround the President's home. Vigilance of secret service men was increased.

Boston Police Are Mobilized, Guard Public Buildings

By United Press.
BOSTON, Mass., Aug. 6.—A Boston police force was mobilized tonight to prevent an outbreak of violence in this center for the Sacco Vanzetti case.

Patrolmen ordered on duty around slept in station houses ready to be hurried to threatened points. All vacations were cancelled.

New York Police Force Enlarged Vacations Stop

By United Press.
NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—Police Commissioner Warren today recalled all policemen on vacations cancelled vacation about to begin and kept all reserves on duty to guard against a recurrence of the bombings which last night partially wrecked two subway stations injuring a score or more people, two seriously.

The bombs exploded within ten minutes of each other in the Twenty-Eighth Street station of the Interborough Rapid Transit and the Brooklyn Manhattan Transit lines.

The explosions occurred during the after theatre hour rush.

Fourteen persons were taken to hospitals. All but two returned to their homes after treatment.

The largest central guard on duty since the World War protected public buildings and subway stations, New York and Federal investigators joined in an attempt to arrest those responsible for the bomb outrages which wrecked two subway stations Friday night.

Sacco Vanzetti demonstrations if held within the limits of New York city must be conducted in an orderly manner. Police Commissioner Warren said after hearing of numerous demonstrations within the next few days.

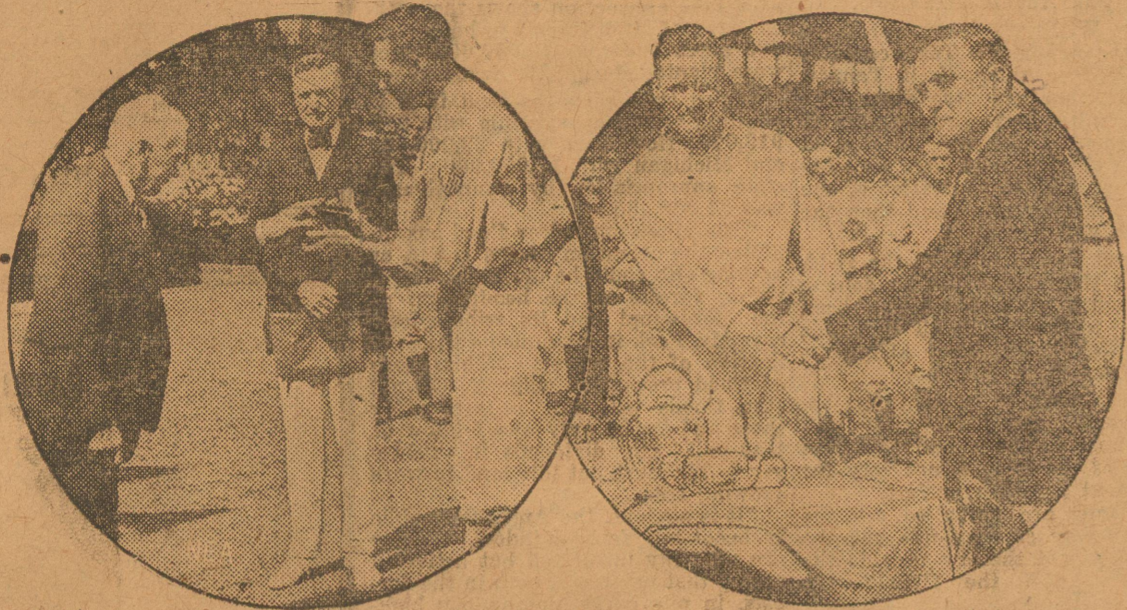

San Diego Orders Are to Shoot Then To Investigate

By United Press.
SAN DIEGO, Calif., Aug. 6.—Orders to "kill and investigate afterwards" were issued tonight by Chief of Police J. A. Doran, following a terrific explosion on the third floor of the federal building.

Mrs. Mabel Wilcox, employe of the government health service, was believed fatally burned in the blast.

Chief Doran ordered heavy guards placed around the federal building and federal officials assigned their agents to maintain constant vigilance.

Nation's Capital Honors Walter Johnson

Here are two interesting views of Walter Johnson Dey at Washington, when thousands of Washington fans honored their great hurler, the greatest in baseball, on the twentieth anniversary of his major league debut. At the left is shown Secretary of State Frank Kellogg, acting in the absence of President Coolidge, presenting Johnson with the American league distinguished service cross, studded with a diamond for each of his 20 years service, and, at the left, is Billy Evans, ace of American league umpires, who worked Johnson's initial game in 1907, congratulating Johnson on his remarkable career. Evans, assigned to work the Aug. 2 game, was able to work only one inning, and that on crutches, because of a recent injury.

Governor Moody Rated Good Flyer, Enjoys Trip to Fort Worth

FORT WORTH, Aug. 6.—Governor Dan Moody is a good flyer. He made his first airplane trip from an out-stubble field near Gatesville to Mesquite field at Fort Worth. The Governor is superstitious so no one told him it was Friday until he landed.

When he reached Meacham field he leaned over to Lieutenant Herbert W. Anderson of Fort Crockett, his pilot and suggested "they see Fort Worth". This was done from as low an altitude as safety permitted. Then the plane came down.

So thoroughly did the Governor enjoy traveling by air that he went to Dallas the same way at 10 a. m. today. There he will attend the christening of Lieutenant Erwin's round the world plane.

The Governor made no comment during the flight. He couldn't. He occupied the mechanics seat on top. You can't talk there and be heard.

Inside the cabin of the Douglas transport in which the Governor enjoyed his air initiation were adjutant General Robertson, Ross Cole of San Antonio, State Adjutant of the American Legion and Chief Hugh Bryan sergeant of the sixteenth service squadron third attack group at Fort Crockett.

Two state capital correspondents made up the rest of the passenger list. It was the first time their assignment called for such a trip.

On the way the plane reached 2,500 feet. That's the farthest Governor Moody has ever been from Texas soil without Lieutenant Governor Barry Miller taking his place.

AIR PASSENGER SERVICE TO BE STARTED SOON

Travelair Monoplanes Will Be Used Between Dallas and Chicago, Service By September

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 6.—General Henderson, vice president and general manager of the National Air Transport, Inc., announced here this morning that air passenger service between Dallas and Chicago by way of Kansas City will be started by his company September 1.

Tickets similar to railway tickets have been prepared and the service will be run on a regular time schedule. Travelair monoplanes will be used and each plane will accommodate three persons, besides carrying the mail which will be carried in a separate compartment in the plane.

The fare will be ten cents per mile. Cost of fare from Kansas City to Chicago will be $34.40. While a trip from Kansas City to Dallas will cost $55.20.

The trip from here to Chicago will take about five hours.

Chicago Federal Building Guarded Following Threat

CHICAGO, Aug. 6.—Following threats "to do what we did in 1917" twenty extra armed guards were posted in the Chicago federal building today.

The threat came in the form of a telephone call to the custodian of the building. It referred to a bomb exploded in the federal building, killing several persons following convictions of radicals on trial before former judge, K. M. Landis.

BALTIMORE MAYOR'S HOMES BOMBED

BALTIMORE, Aug. 6.—The home of Mayor William F. Browning here was bombed at 6 a. m. today. The rear porch was demolished and caught fire and all windows for a block around were broken. The mayor's wife and two children in the house were uninjured. The mayor was making a trip to Cincinnati.

Hearing Will Be Held to Decide Oil Injunction

With George Morse and Edwin Larson, officials of the West-Adams Petroleum corporation, enjoined from interfering with Col. Robert D. Gordon as general manager of the corporation, the stage is being set for a hearing next Friday to decide whether Judge Elzo Beem of the Eighty-eighth district court makes the injunction permanent or dissolves it.

The Ramsor lease is worth $2,000,000, according to John D. McRae and Earl Conner, attorneys for the defendants. When they declared that Colonel Gordon did not own an interest in the lease, Gordon declared: "If it's worth $2,000,000, I'm the daddy of it."

On the day of the hearing, Gordon brought in a well on the lease making 200 barrels and 19,000,000 cubic feet of wet gas. Last fall, he brought in the Ramsor No. 1 for 520 barrels by drilling deeper than the boom-day wells in that section had gone.

Until that well came in, the area was considered as exhausted and had witnessed no operations for years. Since then eight oil wells, the best making 1,500 barrels a day, and three big gasers, have been drilled in the pool.

Coleman County Wildcat Gets Oil Show at 1068 Feet

Drilling a deep test Ross & Faroh have encountered oil in paying quantities at a depth of 1068 feet in the Jerry Lewis No. 1 between Coleman and Santa Anna and about four miles out of Coleman, according to information received at the office of O. H. Burkett, deputy oil and gas supervisor at Cisco.

The Lewis is purely a wildcat being about five miles from production. The sand from which the well is producing is believed to be a continuation of the sand found at a similar depth in the Coleman county fields. The amount of production has not been determined. The driller was drilling in a 10-inch hole when the pay was struck.

FRENCH GOVERNMENT TO PROHIBIT DEMONSTRATION
PARIS, Aug. 6.—The French government decided today to prohibit all street demonstrations in connection with the death sentence soon to be executed against Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti.

ASK NEW TRIAL BE GIVEN SACCO AND VANZETTI

Eleventh Hour Effort To Save Condemned Radicals Takes Famous Case Back to Ded-
ham Court House

BOSTON, Aug. 6.—Intricate machinery was hurled into motion today as a last desperate hope of saving Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti, from death in the electric chair, five days hence.

Strangely enough this eleventh hour battle carried the world famous case back to the little court house in suburban Dedham, where on July 14, 1921, a jury decided that the two radicals had brutally slain a paymaster and his guard during a hold up.

At Dedham shortly before noon today Attorney Michael Angelo Musmanno, who has been working on the case with the defense committee filed a motion with clerk of the court asking that Sacco and Vanzetti be granted a new trial.

One Killed, Three Injured When Car Struck By Train

MARSHALL, Texas, Aug. 6.—One man was instantly killed and three others narrowly escaped death today when a south-bound Santa Fe passenger train struck an auto about one mile from Carthage, according to reports.

William Hinton was thrown 35 feet and killed when the train struck the car.

Hardy Williams, driver; Deberry Williams, and Dan McDay, escaped with minor injuries.

BALLINGER, Texas, Aug. 6.—Olie Lewis, 45, a local baker, shot and killed himself while at work here today.

MOOK TEXAS SIBLEY 4 HAS BIG FLOW

States Oil Sibley Two Also Gives Promise Of Big Production

A well that gives promise of being the largest producer drilled in Eastland county in many moons, is the No. 4 Sibley of the Mook-Texas Oil company, near Staff, which came in Saturday afternoon. If the well holds up to anything like its initial flow it will be a gusher, the like of which has not been seen in this section of the oil belt for many months.

The well got the top of the pay sand at 3,065 feet and began flowing oil at two feet in. The first hour it made 75 barrels. It has increased to 80 barrels an hour on the second hour's gauge, 95 barrels an hour on the third hour and 120 barrels the fourth, or an average of something more than 90 barrels an hour for the first four hours.

This well is located 500 feet east of the same company's No. 3 Sibley which has been producing for the past four months and has made an average of only 90 barrels a day during that time. This well it will be remembered started off making 80 barrels an hour. The second hour it had dropped to 60 barrels and the fourth hour to below 40 barrels. Finally it stopped flowing after a few hours, but was later put on the pump and has been a consistent commercial producer.

Officials of the Mook-Texas company Saturday night refused to become enthusiastic over the prospects for the new well. They said, "it looks like a mighty fine well."

The No. 2 Sibley of the States Oil corporation in the same vicinity, located 1,000 feet north of the No. 3 Sibley of the Mook-Texas company, is also showing for a producer. It is making 15,000,000 cubic feet of gas and spraying about 50 barrels of oil, while shut down waiting for a separator. This well got the pay sand at 3,057 feet and probably has not drilled into it more than a foot. Operators said Saturday night that indications were that all that was needed was for this well to be drilled in. It was increasing in both oil and gas late Saturday afternoon.

A few miles north of the Sibley pool the No. 1 Jones of the Gulf Production company in what is known as the Gholsen pool was drilling in late Saturday. At 4 o'clock it had drilled into the pay seven feet and was showing both oil and gas.

WIFE KILLED, TWO OTHERS ARE DROWNED

Terrific Explosion on Board Private Yacht Takes Toll of Three Lives.

STURGEON BAY, Wis., Aug. 6.—One woman was killed outright and two other persons drowned when the pleasure yacht "Henry 4th," owned by Carl W. Johnson, Chicago, exploded and sank 15 miles north of here late today.

The dead are:
Mrs. Helen Johnson, wife of the owner.

Walter G. Banks, Chicago, captain of the ship.

A Japanese steward, name unknown.

Mrs. Johnson was killed instantly by the terrific explosion of the yacht boilers.

Is the Air Safe?

"I want to demonstrate that aviation is safe," says Miss Ruby Thompson of Dallas, Texas, only woman pilot entered in the Dalles to Honk-kong race. Miss Thompson is backed by a group of Dallas capitalists in her effort to win the $25,000 posted by W. E. Easterwood, Jr.

TOLL IS ONE DEAD AND EIGHT HURT

Miss Billie West Dead Following Crash On Highway Near Strawn

Tragedy stalked in the wake of a succession of automobile accidents near Ranger during the last 24 hours, bringing death to one Ranger girl, injuries to her three companions, injuries to another Ranger man and woman, and injuries to two Eastland women and a Wichita Falls woman.

The accident that cost the life of Wilmer Lee (Billie) West, 18, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. O. West, of Lackland addition, Ranger, and may cost the life of Roma Myers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Myers of South Austin street, Ranger, who lies critically injured at a Strawn hospital, occurred Friday night, about one-half mile this side of the dangerous curve on Thurber hill.

The second accident, which resulted in the injury of a Ranger man and woman, occurred near the scene of the first accident, while the third accident, which injured three women, occurred west of Ranger at Fat's Filling station on the highway about 11 o'clock Saturday morning.

The dead:
WILMER LEE WEST, 18; killed instantly.

The injured:
Roma Myers, 20; critically injured.

Jewel Thorpe, 21, engineer at the Gulf pipe line plant, Ranger.

Wilber Basset, employe of the Prairie.

Mrs. Merlen Brown of Ranger.

Newt Cranshaw, 47, Ranger.

Mrs. Joe Stephen, of Eastland.

Miss Vinetta Buhl, of Eastland.

Miss Lillian Huskey of Wichita Falls.

According to one witness of the fatal accident, who was driving in a Ford car, a Chevrolet car had passed the Ford, when the Essex, in which was the ill-fated quartette, attempted to pass the Ford before the Chevrolet had swung back into the road and overturned four times, occupants being thrown out of it one at a time.

The occupants of the Ford and the Chevrolet car stopped to assist the injured people in the demolished Essex roadster, and one of the men picked "Billie" West up and carried her with others to a nearby car. One of the injured was taken in the Chevrolet and the party rushed into Strawn to a hospital.

Sister Near Crash.
Dean Myers, a sister of Roma Myers, with three companions was in a car behind the wreck. She and the other members of her party had seen the Essex pass them, when they had stopped at a filling station and when she saw the condition and realized she was in danger.

SUIT ATTACKS VALIDITY OF RICH OIL LAND

Matilda Robinson Survey In Moore County Object Of Suit Filed At Amarillo

By United Press.
AMARILLO, Aug. 6.—A suit attacking the validity of the Matilda Robinson survey in Moore county, Texas was filed in United States District Court here today.

The survey embraces 1280 acres of land comprising some of the richest oil producing areas in the Texas panhandle.

Suit was filed by William E. Allison, The Prairie Oil & Gas Company, the Barnsdall Company and J. T. Robinson, commissioner and general land office in Texas were named defendants.

The suit is based on the confederate donation act which the plaintiff contends was passed in violation of provisions of the Texas Constitution.

Committee Would Have Labor Head Call Big Strike

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—A committee of three from the Sacco Vanzetti defense committee visited the American federation of labor today to ask federation officials to call a one day national strike Tuesday as a "mighty protest of labor against the killing of two innocent fellow workers."

They also demanded that federation president, Wm. Green call on Governor Fuller of Massachusetts at once, in an effort to stop the execution.

The committee was told Green and Secretary Frank B. Morrison of the federation, were absent.

Austin Officers Charged With Lack of Initiative

AUSTIN, Aug. 6.—Local officers are charged with lack of initiative in enforcement of state labor laws in the annual report of the state labor department, issued today.

It says the record shows very few instances where local law enforcement officers have initiated investigations for their violations and not a single instance where a grand jury has indicted except upon evidence procured and presented by representatives of the labor department. Commissioner Charles McKeny announced it as the policy of the department to adjust minor infractions and irregularities.

Practically all order for improvement have been complied with.

The report covers the period from Feb. 1 to July 31, 1927.

Cisco Woman Is Dead as Result Of Auto Smash

DALLAS, Aug. 6.—Mrs. Carlos Breazeale, 18, Cisco, was fatally injured and four other occupants of the machine hurt when their car swerved to avoid an obstruction in the road near here today, while traveling at a high rate of speed.

Mrs. Breazeale was thrown out of the car and her head struck the pavement, she died in a hospital here. Ruth Geddie, 18, Shawnee, Oklahoma, suffered a deep gash on the head. She is in a hospital here.

Lowell Golden, and J. E. Nichols, driver of the car received minor cuts. Marie Oliver, 18, was slightly injured.

ENJOY VACATION.
After 11 months of work and worry comes the auto tour which is to put us back on our physical and mental hoofs as good as new. It should do it because there is nothing else
under the sun that gives a person such a complete change. The air, water, sky, scenery, people and food
—all are different. Any change so radical must have an immediate effect.

However, if the tourist continues to lug along his worries, a large part of the benefit of touring is nullified.
Worry is harder to stop than work.
Some people worry naturally. They worry if they find themselves not worrying up to their usual standard.
Such people should take extra precautions to eliminate causes of worry.

The most common worries that keep a tourist's face as long as a pump handle relate to his home property.
Will the house burn down?
Will burglars work it over? Will the water pipes break or the gas get loose? Did I leave the phonograph wound up too tight? Did I leave the garbage in the kitchen?

Of course, by leaving the wife at home such worries could be eliminated,
but the worry of wondering what she might be doing would counterbalance it.

There is only one line of action to take: Fully insure the house, garage and furniture and see that vacancy permits are attached to all fire policies.
Cut the water off at the house-
sill, shut the gas off at the meter, open the main switch of the electric circuit. Put all valuable papers in a lock box in a bank vault. Bulkier valuable objects should be boxed and left with a bank for general storage.
Pay up all current bills, stop the daily papers, mow the lawn and hide the lawnmower under the house.

Having done these things leap into the car and hie away. If anything happens you are not to blame. This is about all a man can do unless he hires a policeman to watch the premises and a detective to watch the policeman.

Leave unnecessary items at home.
You don't need a crowbar, an armchair, a radio, or a piano. All you need is a tent, cots, blankets, stove and dishes. A three-gallon preserving kettle is a fine thing to take. It can be used to carry water, to wash dishes in or to put up fruit.

Road worries can be avoided in a large part by proper anti-mortem house sense.

Watch the other fellow—remember it's all in a lifetime—and bye and bye you will forget to worry on your trips. What's the use anyway?

BOMB STORY

Church Damaged
By Bomb Explosion
In Philadelphia

By United Press.
PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 6.—A bomb exploded in the basement of Emanuel Presbyterian church shortly after midnight severely damaging the building.

The stained glass windows were shattered, doors torn from their hinges and the interior blackened.
The windows in a passing street car were broken by the blast and flying glass injured several passengers.

Neighbors said they heard several shots before the blast.
Detectives found a second unexploded bomb made of nitro glycerine.

TWO BOMB EXPLOSIONS ATTRIBUTED TO SYMPATHIZERS

By United Press.
BUENOS AYRES, Aug. 6.—A bomb explosion attributed to Sacco-Vanzetti sympathizers which slightly damaged the Ford Agency for the Pergimino, was reported today in a dispatch from the newspaper, the National.

Another bomb, the dispatch said exploded on the railway track, neither bomb did much damage.

BILLIE WEST IS INSTANTLY KILLED IN AUTO WRECK

It was a wreck, she said she hoped it was not her sister, only to find on arrival that her sister was seriously injured.

After the first party had been taken to the hospital, Newt Crenshaw, 47, of Ranger, coming toward Ranger in a Ford car, in some way got mixed up with a loaded ice truck belonging to the Southern Ice & Utilities company, which was headed toward Strawn and driven by Ray Dawn.
O. S. Roscher of the Postoffice
blacksmith shop, driving with Mrs.
Merlen Brown, both of Ranger, saw this wreck, so he stopped to see what had happened. Pulling up in the clear of the truck, he saw Crenshaw leaning over the wheel with his head apparently crushed and began pulling him out of the car to get him to a hospital. According to his statement, he had gotten Crenshaw out of the car on the ground when he heard a crash and a woman's scream and when he looked around Mrs. Brown was lying on the road and what looked to him like a seven-passenger car,
was speeding on up the hill.

Nurse Is Near.
Mrs. Brown, according to those who were near the accident, had gotten out of her car and was evidently going to help with Crenshaw when the flying car struck her.

Miss Grace Stewart, superintendent of the City-County hospital in Ranger happened to be riding on the highway at the time of the accidents and accompanied the young people into Strawn and stayed there until midnight, doing all that she could to help the hospital force of Strawn.
Doctors and a senior nurse were also sent from Ranger soon after the accident.

The accident that affected Mrs.
Joe Stephen, Miss Vinetta Buhl, Eastland, and Miss Lillian Huskey of Wichita Falls, happened just west of Ranger at Fat's filling station.

All were more or less seriously injured when the car in which they were riding collided with another car about 11 o'clock Saturday morning and turned turtle into a deep ditch.
Miss Buhl was perhaps the most seriously injured of the trio. Her back was hurt. She is now in the Eastland sanitarium. Mrs. Stephen, who was driving the car, was hurt internally and had a number of lacerations on her lower limbs. She was taken to her home in Eastland.

Miss Huskey had a severe cut on the head and was otherwise bruised. She was taken to the home of friends at Olden.

According to Mrs. Stephen, she and her companions were going to Eastland from Ranger and had just passed the filling station west of Ranger where the Staff road intersects the Bankhead highway. A car being driven by M. E. Massey of near Ranger was just ahead of the Stephen car and Mrs. Stephen sounded her horn to give warning that she intended to pass, but just as she was in the act of passing the driver of the car just ahead of her attempted to turn his car and head back toward Ranger. In doing so the two cars collided and the Stephen car, a Maxwell coupe, was crowded off into the ditch. The Massey car was not badly damaged, it was stated, but the Stephen car was almost demolished. Mr.
Massey, it is stated, claimed that he gave a signal that he intended to turn.

Investigation Held.
"Billie" West was one of nine children of Mr. and Mrs. J. O. West.
She was born in Commerce, Texas, on Sept. 11, 1909.

Funeral services will be held this afternoon at 4 o'clock at the family home at 434 Byrnes avenue, Lack-land addition, Rev. H. B. Johnson officiating.

Surviving the little girl, whose life was so tragically snuffed out, are her mother and father, and the following sisters and brothers: Charles, Pleas, Hal, J. O. Jr., Harry and Louis Earl
West, Helen West, and Mrs. N. F.
Yancy, Plainview.

Young Thorpe is the son of Mrs.
H. R. Thorpe of Ranger.

Late Saturday night, all the injured were reported as resting more comfortably and hopes were entertained for their ultimate recovery.

Assistant County Attorney Sterling
Holloway held an investigation of the Thurber hill accident, Saturday afternoon.

SEASON TICKET CAMPAIGN WILL START MONDAY

Eastland Business Men Will Rush Sale of Tickets, Want Money to Complete Athletic Field

In a one-day campaign, season tickets to all the official games on the schedule of the Eastland Mavericks will be sold by teams of business and professional men Monday in order to raise the fund now with which to complete the new E. H. S. athletic field. The campaign will be held tomorrow and a goal of 500 season tickets has been set. The tickets are $5.00 each and entitle the purchaser to admission to the games when Eastland plays Breckenridge, Ranger, Abilene, San Angelo and Cisco.

George W. Briggs is general chairman of the campaign. Team captains are, E. E. Freyschlag, K. B. Tanner, W. H. Madden and Jess Day. The captains will select the members of their teams. There will be a short meeting of the captains Monday morning at 9:30 in the office of the Chamber of Commerce and then the campaign will begin.

Contract for completing the field,
on which there must yet be done a vast amount of grading has been awarded to Jack Tindall and Joe Hillyer. Work will begin at once—either Monday or Tuesday.

There is much to be done for, besides leveling the field, fences and stands must be built and the first workout of the team is not very far away, about a month in fact.

"The fans are going to see the games anyway so why not but the tickets now and thereby provide the money to finish the field?" Mr.
Briggs asked.

The prospects of the Mavericks in football this fall are regarded as the brightest the school has ever known.
There will be at least eight candidates for the backfield, five of them letter men.

Survey Shows
U. S. Interest In Trees Growing

By United Press.
WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—Marked advance in forestry legislation was made during 1927 says the forestry legislation survey published today to mark the close of the legislative year
by the American Tree association.

The legislative year was made notable because by the passage of legislation Delaware, Florida, and South Carolina took their places with forestry minded states. There are now 42 states that provide for some forestry organization. Utah, Wyo-ning, Arkansas and Nevada have not provided for any organization, and the state forests of Arizona and New Mexico are cared for by a joint agreement with the United States forest service. Forestry legislation was passed for the first time in Nevada and Utah but no organization was provided.

The survey which is being sent to editors and foresters by Charles Lathrop Pack, president of the American Tree association shows the present area of state forests to be 6,838-936 acres and that 73,000,000 trees were planted during the year.

States that keep the lead in tree planting were Pennsylvania with 27-916,029; New York with 22,000,000 and Michigan with 10,000,000. The state appropriation by Pennsylvania was $1,303,485.

"The Mississippi river flood has directed the attention of the nation as nothing else could be the need of providing forests at the headwaters of the Mississippi and its tributaries," says Mr. Pack in announcing the publication of the survey. "This phase of flood prevention while it will not stop floods will aid in preventing them and is the only one I know of that will pay dividends in future years. We must put idle land to work growing trees.

"It is obvious, the American public is becoming forest-minded. People are not only interested but active in seeing that our trees, both in the forests, in our parks and on our high-

Arrangements Are Made To Welcome
Girls' Glee Club

H. A. Collins of Flatwoods, press committeeman, advises that the Eastland and Ranger I. O. O. F. and Rebekah lodges are arranging for the routing of the girls' glee club from the Corsicana I. O. O. F. home, so as to reach Ranger at 1:30 p. m., Aug.
23. Lunch will be served at Ranger and a program rendered by the girls
for Ranger people.

Then they will go to Eastland for an evening program and on the morning of the 24th will be taken to Rising Star where they will render a number of programs during the meeting of the Eastland County association.

Mr. Collins stresses the fact that these programs are open to the public, and wishes that Ranger and Eastland people attend the programs whether they be members of the lodges or not.

In this way they may see what the organization is doing for children of deceased members. These programs are entirely free. It is probable that the club will visit Cisco on Aug. 25.

SLAVERY STILL TO BE FOUND IN 20 COUNTRIES

Institution Considered Abolished Found By League In Many Parts Of World

By J. W. T. MASON
(Written for the United Press)
Slavery which most people had thought was abolished among civilized nations, has been found by the League of Nations Slavery Commission to exist in 20 countries. While an exact census is not possible, it is probable that there are at least 5,000,000 slaves in the world today working under revolting conditions and as much the property of their owners as the tools they use. Emancipations of slaves are occurring at intervals under widely different conditions.

When Great Britain took over the former German area of Tanganyika, in Africa, after the World War, as the mandate power, it was found that about 200,000 slaves were owned in the territory. Germany had not freed the slaves on the ground that it would be too costly, compensation to their owners being estimated at about $2,000,000 for the purchase of freedom. Great Britain, exercising her mandate authority, set the slaves free with a penstroke declining all compensation to the owners.

In the Burma "Triangle" 5,000 slaves have recently been freed by order of the British authorities. In this case compensation aggregating $75,000 was granted, but the owners are dissatisfied, charging they have been robbed, and have attacked British and native officers. Nevertheless, the slaves have their freedom.

In Nepal, the sturdy Gurkha kingdom between Tibet and British India, all slavery was lately abolished and 53,000 slaves, one per cent of the population, were granted freedom. This act was done by the Nepalese reigning Maharaja, as an act of autocratic authority, under British influences.

Abyssinia has a large number of slaves, estimated at probably 2,000,000. Periodic efforts to influence the government to free them always meet with failure but there is recent evidence that the authorities are more inclined than formerly to listen to advice in this matter. The question of compensation is important in Abyssinia for if all the slaves were freed without any payments to the owners, the governing and wealthy classes would find themselves in a serious financial situation. The government is considering hiring out slaves to concessionaires from Europe and the United States who have contracts for developing the country. The concessionaires would pay for the slave labor and at the end of five years it is estimated sufficient payment would have been received to compensate for the slave's freedom. By this means a slave would be given the chance to work his way to liberty.

China has more slaves, with the possible exception of Abyssinia, than any other modern nation. The number has been variously estimated up to 2,000,000. The custom is sustained by the practice of poor people in all parts of China selling their children when they cannot support them. The children become the property of the purchasers. The South China Republic recently ordered an inquiry into slave conditions. In Fatsan, the Pittsburgh of China, near Canton, the municipal authorities have ordered an end to the purchase and sale of slaves. Those children in Fatsan who had a slave status when the new regulation became effective, were not freed but became the "adopted" children of their owners.

The growth of public sentiment in China against the practice of child slavery is uncertain. Customs change slowly among the Chinese and it is impossible to say whether the Fatsan action and the investigation will result in quick permanent improvement.

The most active agency for the eventual freedom of all slaves is the League of Nations. Every year it is obligatory for the Assembly of the League to take up the question of slavery and to have prepared an annual report on the subject. The League inquirers are conscientious and there is much power in the persistent appearance annually in print of the existing status of slavery, with the names of the nations still tolerating the practice. Nations with colonies in Africa and elsewhere having native customs which do not regard slavery as an evil are reluctant to agree to a proposal advanced at Geneva that slave-trading is a crime and all slaves discovered on the high seas or elsewhere in transit should be liberated automatically. But, acceptance of this resolution by every western nation is certain to be forced by the League of Nations publicity campaign before long.

Copeland Dealer Tells Of Electric Refrigeration

The Electric Sales Company, distributors for Copeland Dependable Electric Refrigeration in Ranger and vicinity have received word from the Copeland factory that they were winners in the Company's National Distributors Contest which closed on July 15.

"The Electric Refrigeration Industry," says Mr. Remote, "has shown a rapidity of growth surpassing even the remarkable strides made by the automobile business in its earlier years."

"The present day tendency of the American public is to provide the home with everything that will promote convenience, comfort and well being. None of the many devices for the home introduced in the last few years benefits the entire family as does the Electric Refrigerator, which not only eliminates work and worry and places a safeguard over the family food supply, but makes possible the addition to the family menu of many delectable dishes hitherto unknown."

"Modern manufacturing skill has perfected Electric Refrigeration and brought the price within reach of practically every family. It is looked upon as a necessity in every modern home. Every new apartment building includes it. And progressive merchandisers of food stuffs are installing it, not only in the interests of efficiency and economy, but as an evidence of superior service to their trade."

Phoenix Company May Put Amesite Plant In Ranger

On a rumor that the Phoenix Construction Company of Dallas had made contracts to come into Ranger for the purpose of manufacturing Amesite, Wayne C. Hickey, secretary of the Ranger Chamber of Commerce, telephoned to the Dallas office of that company to have the report verified, and to welcome them to Ranger.

The manager of the office was out but Mr. Hickey talked to a young lady there, who while she did not put out any information as to their plans, thanked him for the courtesy extended.

It is rumored that this company is to make Amesite at the Thurber Earther Products Plant, or near there, but at any rate using their crushed stone as a base.

The manager of that company would, when questioned on the subject, make no statement.

RANGER BULLDOGS NOT CHAMPIONSHIP TEAM BY LONG SHOT

COACH CHERRY HAS BIG JOB IN FRONT OF HIM

Team Is Heavy As Compared With Light Fast Crew Last Year, Power of Team Must Be Well Directed

(By GUS COLEMAN)
Practically every town in the district has already had its football team as winning the district championship this fall and going on into the state race.

Some have been quite optimistic and have the Ranger Bulldogs high up in the running and others have the championship flag practically placed here without a game having been played as yet.

We have been watching football teams, football games, and football players for a good many years, but yet don't feel like placing any too much confidence in any pre-season forecasts because we don't make any great claim to being smart.

Coach Blair Cherry left Friday for South Bend to attend the coaching school held there by Knute Rockne. Before he left we had quite a little talk with him as to football prospects for this fall and have decided that in our opinion we just have a chance, very little if any better than a lot of other high school teams.

Letter Men Back
Ranger will have eight letter men back in the line-up who will probably consist of Taylor, Hinman, Grubbs, Glenn, Whitehall, Reeves, Short, Hubbard. Football fans can look over this list and see a mighty fine bunch of boys and a hard bunch of fighters. Then comes the reserves from last year who have shown promise, some of them played in scheduled games but not enough to earn a letter. We can call to mind at present the names of Bohannon, Tackett, Mitchell, Blackmon, McLaughlin, Hamilton, Trammell, Nourse and there are probably a couple more that have slipped our mind.

In addition to this we find that there are at least three big fellows who were ineligible last year on account of various reasons but who are still under the age limit and have announced their intention of coming out for football this year. This list includes "Hunky" Phillips, 200 pound fullback, T. Hinman, 190 pound tackle, who will make a fine running mate for Garland Hinman, and E. Whitehall, half back.

Heavier Team
It will be seen that this year's team will be by far the heaviest team that has represented Ranger in the last three years and the same playing tactics are not possible with a team of their weight that are possible with a lighter team. Then, it follows that the letter men and reserves will have to learn to do a lot of things in a different way from what they have been doing. It will be to some extent like teaching old dogs new tricks.

Then you can take the backfield up for consideration and see that Coach Cherry faces the problem of develop-

Beauty's Best In Baltimore

Queen of the heart of Maryland is Beulah Goldsborough, Baltimore's prettiest of face and form. By her victory in the recent city contest there she won the high title of Miss Baltimore 1927 and the high honor of representing her home town in the Atlantic City beauty pageant.

ing something that a Ranger team has never had; that is, a backfield that acts and functions with such balance and harmony and teamwork that they can overcome the fact that they do not have a single triple threat man back there.

Needs Triple Man
There is a nutshell is the problem that the coach is facing. He must develop men specializing in one thing, be it running, passing or kicking, unless some sort of a miracle comes over one of the boys and he develops into a triple threat man by the time training is under way.

However, miracles do happen. But they can't be depended upon and when you get a good break one time you are pretty sure to get a bad break the next. Last year when all the big fellows were thrown off the team it looked like the team was ruined. But along came a fellow by the name of Taylor who was as unknown in football as Lindbergh was in aviation, and Coach Cherry put it up to him to go in there and put out his best. He did just that and it gave the other boys the pep and courage they needed and, though they were the underdogs all year they managed to go into the semi-finals and were pronounced by many authorities as the "Miracle Team" because they fought it out to a finish with all comers although often outweighed 25 to 30 pounds.

Men Must Change
But that was last year and you can't figure on another miracle this year. The boys have their chance. They have as brainy a coach as any football team in the country. There are bigger and better football teams being produced by their rivals every year, and the Bulldogs will have to be a little bigger or a whole lot better to win out.

Training will start the first of September and, for fear of successful contradiction we are not risking any prophecies until we see the boys work out and see how they are taking to the new tricks that they must necessarily learn by reason of the changed characteristics of the team from previous years.

CHILD PRONOUNCED DEAD AWAKENS AT HER FUNERAL

By United Press.
SAN VICENTE, Argentina.—After being pronounced dead by a local physician, Vicenta Corozot, 5, came to life three days later, the death certificate having already been issued. Her eyes opened and she began to cry from the coffin around which a crowd of sympathetic friends and relations had assembled to assist at the funeral.

At the time she was pronounced dead, her distraught parents were not convinced but gave in after being sternly lectured by the officiating physician for doubting his professional word.

NECKROMANCE.
"Necks have withstood improvement for a long time but they are slowly but surely being taken into hand," says a writer in the Woman's Home Companion. "All of which reminds me that there will soon be very few neglected areas to write about."

WINDSHIELD ETIQUETTE
It seems to be the ambition of most automobile drivers to see how close they can come to the other fellow's car without actually taking off a fender. Their slogan is, "Flew to the line, let the parts fall where they may!"—American Magazine.

The dispatches from Grand Anse, Quebec, fail to state whether any of the newspaper men were injured by the tableware thrown by Mrs. Stillman, Sr. There wasn't a line either about whether or not the newspaper men were married men.

Gripings by Gus

These house movers beat all things we've ever seen. They stretch the wire that overhangs the street to where they sag down further than they should ought to.

They move the turning block out of the street and if they do put it back where it belongs they get the arrows all mixed up and they point in crazy directions.

For instance, not so long ago a fellow made the turn all right and went over to Eastland but there the sign was pointing in the wrong direction and headed him down by the depot and out and he kept right on the road until he got back into Ranger. You could easily imagine his surprise and chagrin, not to mention his peevishness upon learning that he had driven around a circle and was back at the starting point.

We never in a long time saw such a crowd of people downtown with one single purpose as last night when people were trying to learn the details of the accidents that happened out on the highway.

It was not the usual curiosity seekers that one might expect to find but was made up of people whose hearts were touched at the sudden and tragic ending of an excursion that had such a happy and carefree beginning. There were great numbers of young people who know all the parties and had gone to school with some of them. Their interest and sympathy was so great that many stayed until a very late hour getting reports on the condition of the injured.

Dear customer, you might profit from the experience if you will. It might be your turn next. You won't know until it's too late. God will warn you once, but it won't be his fault if you get killed after that.

Walter Johnson Gives Opinions On Modern Game

By BILLY EVANS.
Twenty years ago I umpired the first ball game Walter Johnson pitched in the major leagues. Detroit, the New York Yankees of that period for batting power, had a tough time winning, 3-2.

On Aug. 2, 1927, it was my very good fortune to have President Johnson of the American league assign me to Washington to work the game that commemorated his twentieth anniversary with that club.

As I recall it, no other pitcher in the big show has ever been connected with the same club for that many years.

Sitting in the bench with Johnson before game time, we discussed a lot of unusual things that have happened in baseball since 1907.

Since there is no more competent authority on pitching than Walter Johnson, I asked him if he wasn't of the opinion that the pitching of today was much inferior to the brand of 15 or more years back.

Star for Twenty Years.
Walter Johnson is one of the few ball players, pitchers in particular, who after 20 years of continuous service, still remain in the outstanding star class.

Breaking into the majors two years prior to Johnson, I have long been of the belief that the pitching of today was much inferior to that offered by the old-timers. Naturally I expected Johnson's opinion to bear out that belief. It didn't.

"While we had lots more pitching battles in the old days," remarked Johnson, "I don't know that the natural ability of the old-timers was any greater than the present day stars."

"There are many more handicaps today for a pitcher to overcome than 15 or 20 years ago. Lively baseballs and plenty of them, short fences, making even a four-run lead far from safe, and a desire on the part of every player to take a healthy swing, has added much to the woes of the modern pitcher," he said.

Johnson's one admission in favor of the old-timers was that there seemed to be a greater quantity of good pitchers in those days than at present.

Best of All Games.
Walter was diplomatic as he usually is, when I asked him if he believed the standard of play was better or worse.

"Baseball has progressed in certain features of play and slipped in others," he replied.

"Base-running has decreased, as have most other systems of one-run play, since one run isn't much of a working margin. On the other hand, the hit-and-run is more popular and better executed and there are many more home runs."

"Brown has to a certain extent surpassed brains but there will always be a decided premium on the smart ball player, regardless of what style of play is most popular."

"I have regretted the passing of certain features, yet after a time have become reconciled to the new styles that are being constantly inaugurated and still feel that baseball is the greatest of all games."

"It was a fine game when I made my debut and it remains so."

I might add my bit in saying that it is characters like Walter Johnson, more than any one other thing who have made baseball, the national pastime, a great game.

Business Eye of Country Is Turning Toward Texas

NEWSPAPERS MAKE FAVORABLE COMMENT ON STATE'S INDUSTRY

FORT WORTH, Aug. 6.—That the eyes of the country are turning toward Texas as a result of the All-Texas Special Good Will Tour, which visited fourteen of the larger cities of the North and East during the month of June, is being abundantly shown by recent comment by newspapers and other publications and by letters received by the All-Texas Ways and Means Committee from those sections.

"New England has been given a better idea of Texas and Texans," writes George H. Clifford, native Texan who is now a citizen of Boston, and adds that he has received many inquiries from investment houses about this State since the visit of the All-Texas party.

The tour, according to the New York Sun, has served to bring the metropolis and Texas closer together, and the New York Graphic declares that such enterprises serve to "make a more united nation of the United States." The Graphic suggests that a party of New Yorkers should tour Texas.

"Such visits are productive of great good," says the Graphic. "They establish friendly relationships in business as well as in a purely social way. They help one part of the country to recognize the problems and the ambitions of other parts."

"Perhaps," says the New York Sun, "the chief bond of affinity between New York and Texas is a common restlessness—a common disinclination to be content with things as they are. New York can understand a State which makes a seaport out of an inland city like Houston, causes Uncle Sam to create Corpus Christi, turns the desert of the lower Rio Grande Valley into a fertile and fecund garden, replaces longhorn of the plains with fine beef cattle which can hold their own in the Kansas City and Chicago markets, pumps oceans of oil from its lands, endows its State university with one of the nation's finest libraries, fosters county farm agents and practices crop diversification while maintaining the hegemony of King Cotton."

The Boston Herald points out that Texas is on the way to become the most populous State in the Union. "Do we New Englanders realize," it asks, "that Texas—whose governor has recently been visiting us—while universally known as the largest state in the Union, stands a good chance of becoming the most populous, too? Watch the trend. In the assignment of seats that followed the admission of Texas into the Union, and for the whole decade that followed, Texas had just two congressional districts, based upon population, as against thirty-four in New York. Roughly speaking, Texas was one-seventeenth as populous. By the civil war census of 1860, Texas came to the front with four congressional districts, against thirty-one in New York. A little more than one-eighth as populous. The next census stood five Texans to thirty-three New Yorkers, a little better than one-sixth. The decade of the eighties gave Texas 11 to New York's 34, close to one-third; the next census stood 13 Texans to 34 New Yorkers. Then came 16 Texans to 37 New Yorkers. Now it is 18 Texas seats to 43 for New York. The disparity in area is so great as to give Texas a wonderful opportunity. It has 265,000 square miles against New York's 49,000. If Texas were one-fifth as thickly settled as New York per square mile, it would have the largest population. Is that ratio impossible of achievement? The Texans say no."

Times Remarks.
The New York Times remarks that the object of the All-Texas Special Good Will Tour was "to acquaint financial and manufacturing centers of the East with the imperial resources of Texas and to stress the interdependence which is so obvious that it is often forgotten." Commenting it continues: "The trade balance of the Union is so finely adjusted that New York could not be so great as it is without Texas, nor could Texas realize its commercial importance without New York. . . . The more that is done to emphasize and clarify this relationship the better for the two American empires."

"Northern capital," explains the New York American, in an editorial which appeared in all Hearst newspapers throughout the country, "is just learning the opportunities to manufacture raw materials where they are grown." "It would be a good thing for the country," it continues, "if the investment bankers could be induced to visualize the wonderful resources of Texas. There they would find in a single State an empire greater in area than Germany before the war sheared her, and infinitely richer in natural resources. There they would find five million all-American people, a blend of the South, the stock that wrested the republic of Texas from Mexico, and immigration from the mid-West. It is a race and an environment to produce independence, industry, vision. Perhaps no State in the Union has so many strings to its bow as Texas. She leads all States in cotton, wool, livestock and oil. Her known oil deposits are so huge that they exceed all calculations, and if controlled will draw our eleven billion dollar oil industry. The state raises every known agricultural product of the country, from winter wheat on the wind-swept plains to semi-tropical fruits and grains in the irrigated delta of the Rio Grande, lying in the latitude of Miami. Northern capital is just learning the opportunities to manufacture these raw materials where they are grown. Flour mills, meat products, refineries, leather goods, and above all, cotton and wool goods beckon to it with abounding opportunities."

Common Illusion.
"When will the East get over its fond illusion that Texas is still a State of cowboys, stud poker and bandits?" asks the New York Telegram. "As Governor Moody told Boston newspapermen, if they were to fall asleep in their own town and wake up tomorrow in Dallas, Houston or any other large Texas city, they would find themselves surrounded by taller buildings than they were accustomed to see. He might have added that the buildings would have a less dingy appearance, that the street cars would be cleaner, that ordinary people would be living mostly in bungalows on fifty-foot lots instead of dark tenements, that Houston is passing Boston as a port, though she had to dig her harbor, and that more money is being spent for electrical development in Texas right now than in all the New England States put together."

Remarking on the transition of Texas from a purely livestock and agricultural state to a place where it is turning toward industrial pursuits as well, the St. Louis Globe-Democrat points out that capital is now well-earned into the State. "For a long time," says the Globe-Democrat, "Texas' 'unfriendly' attitude toward foreign capital has been a myth. And it was to dispel this myth that the forward-looking young Governor and his business associates set forth into other states to court useful capital and the business good-will of the nation. That the delegation has done what it set forth to do is evidenced by the reception and encouragement by the members were given in St. Louis and other cities of the tour. Agriculture is doing well in Texas. Range lands, especially in the more remote regions, have been and are being cut up into smaller tracts for the plow, and diversified farming is laying a $1,000,000,000 tribute at the feet of the citizens of the state annually. Now to balance this the business men of the commonwealth want increased industrial interests. There seems no reason why the desire should be denied; especially in the face of the presentation laid before the outside interests by Governor Moody and his equally progressive and business-like associates."

Brisbane Speaks.
"Texas alone, intensively cultivated," exclaims Arthur Brisbane, in his column which is printed in hundreds of newspapers, "could feed every one of the 1,900,000,000 human beings on earth and have room left to raise cotton." And the Syracuse, N. Y., Herald, points out that there are many reasons why Texas and New York should get closer together. "One of them," it says, "the richest and most populous of the Union—the leader in finance and industry. The other is the biggest in territory and agricultural output. Every school boy is familiar with the primacy of Texas in the matter of size, but few of us realize her precedence in the production of the necessities of life. From the latest official statistics at hand, those for the year 1925, it is seen that Texas leads all other States in the total value of her agricultural yield and her animal products. The figure for the former was $637,000,000, and for the latter $308,000,000, or within striking distance of a round billion dollars. . . . The State Fair at Dallas is, by the way, a two-week enterprise, though its duration comes far from denoting the wonderful industry it represents. If New York is the greatest workshop and financial and commercial mart, Texas can claim similar primacy as the American garden and ranch. Nay more, if Texas is the unequalled producer of food and cotton, New York is the unrivaled consumer of both."

"Texas," remarks the Springfield, Mass., Union, "is too big to be misunderstood very long. Most Easterners know by this time that it is achieving one record after another. We have read claims about its primacy in mules, peanuts, cotton, petroleum, sweet potatoes, and heaven knows what else. We know that it is not only our biggest State in area, but first in value of farm products, second in export trade, and climbing up the population ladder in a way to frighten Ohio and Illinois. We know that it has one of the richest and sturdiest of state universities. Many of us learned the proper pronunciation of 'Houston.'"

The Evening Bulletin of Philadelphia takes occasion to call attention to the fact that Pennsylvania and Texas are directly connected by water transportation. "Galveston and the Delaware Breakwater," points out the Bulletin, "are only a short voyage apart. . . . No two States are more complementary than Pennsylvania and Texas. Vast quantities of oil products, cotton, vegetables, fruits and packing house products originating in Texas reach refineries, textile mills and the tables of Philadelphians. Philadelphia's famous locomotives, steel iron, machinery, silks, linens, hosiery, worsted and other products find a market in turn, down by the Rio Grande. . . . Pretty nearly everything the people of Texas need to buy outside their own State is to be had right here. The Texas executive is making friends in the East."

Taller Buildings

The Boston Evening Transcript, one of the oldest newspapers in New England, remarks on the fact that the visit of the Texans did much to disabuse the popular idea that the people of Texas were cowboys and frontiersmen. "President Coolidge told some people in South Dakota the other day that they were very much like Vermonters," says the Transcript. "These visitors from Texas gave evidence that the people of their state are very much like the people of New England. There is marked family resemblance in dress, manners and taste. They come from the same kind of homes. They do business in the same sort of buildings, save that in Texas the law permits taller structures than are permissible in Boston. If the Texas of the days of the covered wagon has not been as completely relegated as the Massachusetts of the era of Indian wars, it is fast approaching that condition." Similar expressions have appeared and are still appearing in many other newspapers in the Eastern centers, and in addition to this special article on the tour are appearing in weekly and monthly publications. Two illustrated articles, with views of the sky lines of Dallas and Fort Worth and of the sea wall at Galveston, were printed in the Chicago Commerce, publication of the Chicago Association of Commerce, and similar articles appeared in The Kansas Citizen, the publication of the Kansas City Chamber of Commerce. The National Business Review of New York has issued a special edition, giving twenty four pages to the Texas tour, and the American Banker of New York, the American Business Magazine of New York, the Manufacturers Record of Baltimore and many others. All of this is in addition to the daily reports carried by newspapers throughout the United States during the tour and the full reports of speeches by Governor Moody and other Texan speakers by local newspapers in the cities visited. The All-Texas Committee on Ways and Means estimates that at least two thousand columns have been printed about the trip and its object of presenting Texas to the country. The circulation of the publications in which this publicity has appeared is difficult to estimate, but it is certainly more than twenty millions in the opinion of the committee.

From Canada

Canada is to have a representative in the San Francisco-Honolulu air race August 12—Major Curzon O. Osborne of Vancouver, B. C., a member of the British Columbia air force. Major Curzon will fly alone in a Fokker monoplane.

Heflin's early career in his own words:

"We had a good cook, old Aunt Rose Dannelly, but she had a bad temper and her bad temper brought me into a serious and difficult situation in a little while. One afternoon about sundown I heard my little sister screaming. I ran as rapidly as I could. I found her lying on the floor crying. I lifted her in my arms and asked what the trouble was and she told me Aunt Rose had slapped her. "In less time than I can tell it, I seized a piece of wood about five feet long and struck Aunt Rose across the head and she danced a bee line across the room and fell to the floor. For a moment there was a grim silence and nothing more. Then I commenced to shake Aunt Rose and tell her to get up, that I didn't intend to kill her. In a minute or two she opened her eyes and got and left with the supper still on the stove. I was worried for a minute."

But not for long. Fourteen-year-old Thomas realized it was up to him to complete the supper, and sure enough he did. It was a "success" and his father approved his wallop at Aunt Rose. But Aunt Rose didn't return that evening and Thomas had to cook breakfast.

"Well, Aunt Rose never came back," concludes the senator, "and the news spread all over the community that the 'Heflins boy had killed a cook.' So for some time we couldn't get a cook for love nor money. By that time I had become such a success as a cook, according to the expressed judgment of my older brothers."

Senator Heflin Was Family Cook For Three Months

By RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer
WASHINGTON.—If you must have inspiration with your reading, you might do worse than to study the autobiography of the Honorable J. Thomas Heflin, senator from Alabama.

For some reason or other, this remarkable tract has failed to be included in the list of books which every boy should read. But every boy who ever liked Horatio Alger would be enthusiastic over it.

The account is published by the New Menace and is entitled "Boydhood Days of J. Thomas Heflin, United States Senator from Alabama [In His Own Words]." Book reviewers have paid little attention to it, so the job seems to be up to your correspondent.

Responsibility for the Heflin oratory apparently may be laid to the schools which served his birthplace of Louisa, Ala., where, at the age of 10, the future statesman was forced to declaim every Friday afternoon. He got to like it.

But let us quote an incident of

Officials of Fuel Company Seek Intervention

DENVER, Aug. 6.—Officials of the Colorado Fuel & Iron company today appealed to Governor W. H. Adams to intervene to prevent a strike in southern Colorado coal fields called for Monday as a protest against the Sacco-Vanzetti decision of Governor Alvin T. Fuller of Massachusetts.

Fred Farrar, general counsel for the fuel company, advised the governor that the date of a general strike set for Sept. 16 had been advanced to Monday and threatened serious curtailment of production in the coal fields.

George M. Taylor, special investigator for the state industrial commission, was sent to Walsenburg, Colo., western headquarters of the Industrial Workers of the World, to attempt to avert the walkout.

Sunday School Picnic Held By First Baptists

Since the beginning of the summer vacation a contest has been waging warm in the First Baptist Sunday school, Ranger. The winning class had been promised a fishing trip by the pastor. Mrs. Sanderford's class of girls proved winners and true to his promise, Rev. W. H. Johnson arranged for the outing to take place on Thursday. The school truck was loaded with girls and there were two carloads besides. A delightful place near Strawn had been selected and the eager party left town at 8:30 accompanied by Rev. and Mrs. Johnson.

On reaching their destination, the girls soon located "the ole swimmin' hole" and a plunge was the first order of procedure.

An old-fashioned picnic lunch with chicken, trimmings, and all, was spread at noon and a melon feast followed a few hours later.

Fishing was fine and the fish were hungry, so the official chaperone felt well paid for his day in the woods.

The tired but happy girls reached their respective homes late in the afternoon, determined to win the next and last contest of the summer.

Love Will Handle Studebakers In Ranger District

Love Motor company will open up for business in Ranger on Tuesday in the new brick building on South Austin street. Clarence A. Love, proprietor of Central Service station, will be proprietor of the new company.

Mr. Love has signed a contract to handle Studebaker cars in Ranger and on Tuesday he will display a new and on Tuesday he will display a new Commander Royal sedan, one of the very latest models. All other model Studebakers including the Erskine, will be on display in a few days.

The rear of the building, which is accessible from the alley on the north as well as from the front, will be used as an auto storage.

Mr. Love chose the Jones building because of its nearness to the Gholson and other Ranger hotels, to his own business and for its spaciousness and general arrangement.

The floor space of the new building is 65 by 100 feet. There are large plate glass fronts, which make it an ideal automobile salesroom, a concrete floor and many other modern conveniences.

An armist washing machine is being installed which is the latest Curtis improved.

Mr. Love will continue to handle gas, oils and accessories at the Central Service station and give his old and new customers the same courteous treatment as has always characterized his dealings with his trade.

NEW ARRIVAL AT HOME OF MRS. AND MRS. HARRELL

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Harrell of Eastland are the proud parents of a baby boy, who arrived Saturday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock to make his home with them. The young fellow, who has been christened Thomas Coleman, weighs 10 pounds. Both mother and baby are doing nicely.

COMMITTEES START PLANS FOR HOME COMING CELEBRATION

Meetings of various committees behind the Ranger Home Coming and Oil Jubilee, will begin functioning early this week so that by the end of the week all plans will be on a workable basis.

On Friday afternoon chairmen of the various committees met with general chairman, John M. Gholson, at his office in the Ranger State Bank Building and made tentative reports to him.

A special program committee, consisting of W. D. Conway, Ed R. Maher, Howard Gholson, J. L. Thompson, W. W. Housewright, Raymond Teal, Gus Coleman and John Thurman was appointed.

As a sequel to this meeting the entertainment and program committee will meet on Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock with Mr. Gholson and map out a program.

Tuesday afternoon at the same hour these committees will present the results of their efforts to the executive committee, who will meet with them. It is expected that the entertainment and program committee will be on such a workable and definite basis at that time, that there will be no hitch in going right ahead with various plans.

The secretary of the Ranger Chamber of Commerce was instructed to write the secretaries of all Chambers of Commerce in the neighboring towns and invite them to co-operate with Ranger in her plans for celebrating the tenth anniversary of the discovery of oil in Eastland county. A number of towns have already written chairman Gholson and extend-

New Heads State Institutions Are Announced

AUSTIN, Aug. 6.—The state board of control today elected heads of state eleemosynary institutions for two years beginning Sept. 1, and made several important changes.

Dr. C. H. Standifer, present superintendent Dallas county city hospital, was elected superintendent of the state hospital in place of Dr. J. E. Springer.

Dr. William Thomas, San Antonio, was elected superintendent of the Rusk state hospital in place of Dr. W. M. Shytle.

A. C. Ellis of El Campo was named superintendent of the school for the blind in place of M. B. Brown.

Miss Gennis Burleson, superintendent of the Confederate women's home, Austin, was transferred to the superintendency of the state home for dependents and neglected children at Waco. H. B. McMordis was not an applicant for re-election.

Mrs. Sidney J. Thomas, Austin, formerly assistant superintendent, was elected superintendent of the Confederate women's home.

J. S. Halley of Waco, was elected as superintendent of the state orphan's home of Corsicana in place of Donald McDonald.

Col. A. J. Houston, son of Gen. Sam Houston, was re-elected superintendent of the San Jacinto battlefield park and O. P. Floyd of Garrison, was named assistant superintendent. Naming of an assistant superintendent will afford Oil Houston to write the memoirs of his father.

Superintendents of other state institutions were re-elected.

Our advice to the men of the American Legion going to Paris is to take along a couple of buckets of water. They may want to take a bath.

The Antique Craze Hits Men as Well as Women and the Air is Full of Germs

Antiques Link One With The Fast Disappearing Past

By RENA B. CAMPBELL. The antique craze has struck Ranger. The epidemic is far from mild and is spreading. People who do not wish to catch this disease are warned by specialists to cease coming in contact with persons afflicted with it, or else they will get a germ.

The craze is peculiar to women but men catch it. A well known man about town having been knocked blind almost by some of the atrocities a woman friend had gathered about her in the name of antiques, caught himself almost overturning his car on a Fort Worth street recently trying to see an old chair in a lower Houston street window.

Many women are suffering from stiff necks, due to driving with a head constantly turned toward porches and yards for a possible relic of bygone days. But all this is not antique and many crimes in furniture are perpetrated on antique hunters who do not know their stuff. Its mighty hand to tell pewter from tin. Early pewter is spoken of by Shakespeare in "The Taming of the Shrew," when he refers to a house and its contents thus: "Pewter and brass and all things that belong to house or house-keeping."

There is a heap of difference between old furniture and antiques. A Bible in a Ranger house bears on its flyleaf: "For industry in Sabbath school, 1853," and yet that Bible could hardly be called an antique, but a set of Rousseau owned by a Ranger attorney, dated 1767 would be classed as an antique by a Bibliophile.

But since modern folks seek constantly for the Fountain of Youth—renounce old age, and old wives are supplanted by new and new husbands for old, and granddamma smokes, dances and rivals her granddaughter or daughters in "bold" in an attempt to prove age is only a man thought and youth is eternal, it's a good thing to have a touch of antiquities so as to keep one in touch with even a remnant of the past.

BOOM IN SHIP BUILDING IS SHOWN IN U. S. REPORT By United Press. WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—The world is getting back on the seas again. The Department of Commerce reports a sharp increase in recent months in ship-building, indicating a return to the volume of production before the war. At the end of June, there were nearly 300,000 gross tons of merchant vessels under construction throughout the world than at the end of March, and over 900,000 tons more than at the beginning of the year.

The rapid rise in ship construction during the war was followed by a sharp decline in output for several years thereafter. This decline continued almost without a break until September, last year, when the returns showed only 1,850,000 gross tons building. From that point there has been a gradual gain.

The boy's screams brought a passing farmhand to the rescue and saved him from the horrible death the infuriated girl insisted she meant to deal out to her brother. Jacinta told the police that she was sorry the farmhand interrupted her. She is to undergo a mental examination, although her previous conduct showed nothing abnormal.

Old Paintings Will Reappear After 300 Years

By NELSON J. RILEY (United Press Staff Correspondent) LIMA, Peru.—Two paintings by the Flemish master Van Dyck, and another long forgotten treasure from the brush of Murillo are about to make their re-appearance in the world of art after more than three centuries of seclusion in the ancestral mansion of Senor J. I. Iriarrend de la Puente, descendant of one of the most celebrated members of the old Spanish nobility in Peru, the Marquis de Villafuerte y de la Puente. The three works, valued by the owner at approximately $1,250,000, have been pronounced genuine by the late Theophilus Castillo, Peruvian artist and critic who enjoyed a high reputation in European art circles. They have been vouched for by other critics who have, in some cases, made special visits to Peru to view them.

"It is vouched for by the age of the canvas; by its robust, yet precise and unmistakable treatment, the brush scrupulously following the construction of the human frame; by its freshness. It is undoubtedly a Murillo, genuine and well authenticated, though in a slight state of deterioration—by a miraculously rare circumstance this picture belongs to the last and most brilliant epoch in the master's career, when, a veritable magician in color and effect, everything his brush touched was converted into light, music, melody."

NOW BEGIN THE STORY
 They pitched camp on a wide red rock which formed part of a low bluff rising from the plain, delighted to be in the open once more. Two days later the mountains were much nearer. With a little straining of their eyes they could now distinguish the different peaks and ranges, all of the same brilliant red which had characterized the rock about Porto Verde.

Some were short and jagged, resembling great red icicles; others were long and rolling like huge dunes of vermilion sand. Over the highest, cone-shaped and looking rather like the upper half of an enormous pear, drifted a thin black cloud.

"Looks like an extinct volcano," said Vilak, pointing to it. "This whole western part of the continent is volcanic. Undoubtedly why they have so many earthquakes. This one doesn't look as if it compared in size with Chimborazo, but it must have been a good one in its day."

Another day and a half brought them to the foothills. The trail dropped sharply into a long mountain-girded valley which led like a highway built by giants to the great red heap in the distance. It was practically treeless, except for a few bare outcroppings of rock, being almost entirely covered by continuous matted stretches of cactus and the other thorny plants which occurred on the plateau. Swarms of purple butterflies drifted lazily over the tops of the green vegetation. Here, too, caranchos wheeled lazily in the sky.

"This is obviously the devil valley Bagarundi warned us of," Vilak grunted as he stood on a high rock and looked down on the wide vista spread before him. "And that extinct volcano is undoubtedly the red mountain." He took some betel.

"We'll know in a little while whether he had any real reason to be afraid. Keep to the center of the path. Remember that. Keep to the center of the path. Our lives may depend upon it."

They descended. They had tramped cautiously down the valley for only same time as Cicero. Vilak muttered, "only Detto had more resistance and lasted longer. The birds and ants have made quick work of him, poor wretch."

Shortly before sunset they passed the ruins of a small temple resting on a ledge of volcanic rock above them. The roof had long since disappeared. Half of the red walls had collapsed and many of the stones tumbled to the road below, but enough of the building remained to show that it had been patterned after those magnificent Inca temples ruthlessly destroyed by the Spaniards under Pizarro, and whose ruins of great stones fitted together so expertly that no mortar was needed, still amaze the visitor to Bolivia or Peru. Three narrow doorways shaped, Inca fashion, like the head of an ax, were all that remained of the red facade; a few hundred feet away, facing these, was a crescent of tall, white stones.

A mile farther on they pitched their camp. A hot spring steamed noisily nearby. Vilak shot a small brownish animal much resembling an opossum. They ate, then he took out a small notebook and began studying a small calendar at the back.

"If my theory's correct, we ought to reach our journey's end quickly. Very quickly. And have news of 'Tinky.' He gazed at his cousin, who was listlessly laying down rows of cards on the sand before a crackling fire. He took her delicate hand and pressed it in his steely fingers. "I hate like the devil to say this to you. But I think I ought to. It's taken us much longer to get here than I expected. I'm hoping that everything will still work out all right. But there's a chance it won't. Our news may be—bad news."

Her red lips grew taut; then she put her arms around his gaunt neck, and with her head against his breast, began to weep silently, bitterly. He spoke to her soothingly. After some moments she mastered her grief. Mechanically, dully, she played a few hands of Canfield, which Vilak permitted her to win, then lay down on a heap of grass to sleep.

When they stopped for a hasty lunch next day, they were only three or four miles from the mountain. Half a mile farther on, a high crumbling cylinder of stone, capped at the top like a mushroom, probably an ancient watch tower, overlooked the road. As they neared it, they saw on the ground beneath a solitary carancho watching a white-clad form crawling slowly toward the mountain. Vilak broke into a run. He caught up with the creeping figure. It staggered slowly to its feet.

It was Limey Potts. His hand, brutal face and the front of his grimy linens were covered with dirt of the road; his hair hung tangled and unkempt over his forehead. The movements of his hulking body came in quick wooden jerks, like the movements of an automaton; his eyes were gleaming with the same feverish intensity which had marked the eyes of Tony Barbeta and Detto Cicero. He stared stupidly at Vilak. "Ulo!" he muttered drunkenly. "Ulo—Mister Davis—What yer doin' here?—What per—doin'—Dam fool—you are—come here—like me—Dam fool—They'll get yer—Get—" He toppled and fell to the road, dead.

Once more the travelers heaped up a few stones, then hastened on. They passed another hot spring, then reached the foot of the mountain. The path became a road which led gradually up its steep red side.

They passed another mushroom-like watch-tower. The road turned sharply; they had reached the western slope. They climbed a low rock and looked beyond. Stretching along the horizon as far as the eye could see was desert, white, bleak, bare of tree or brush, except a few green cactus plants sparkling like emeralds. Directly below them, the mountain on which they stood became a wide plateau which dropped sharply to the desert. On this plateau was a city.

It was not a large city, occupying no more ground perhaps than the average American town of six or seven thousand inhabitants; but to the travelers who saw it in its entirety and in the course of weeks had seen only the rush huts of one hunting village, it seemed a metropolis.

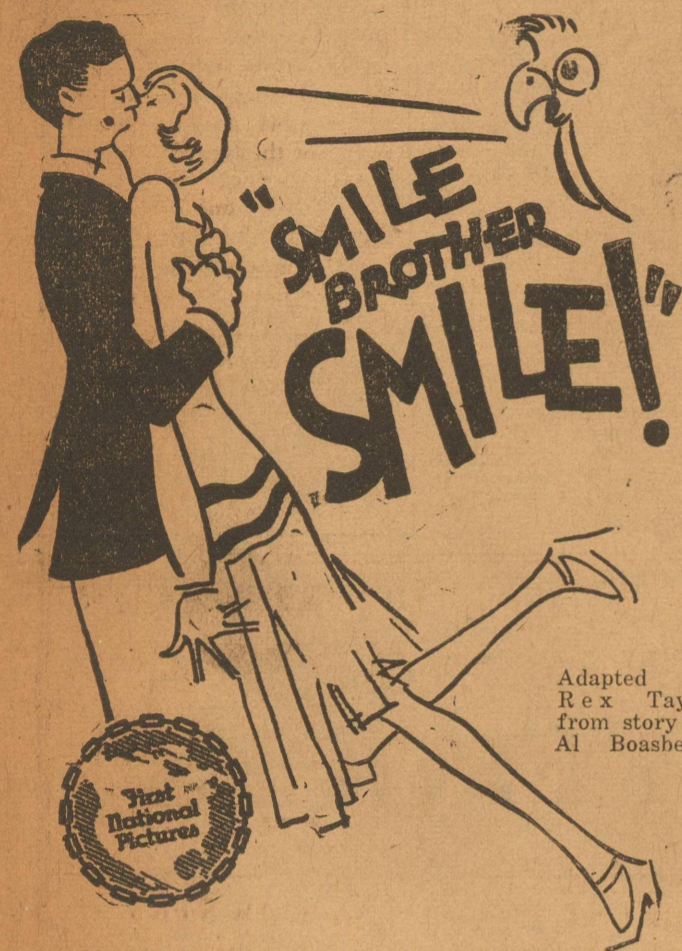

Three sets of ruined stone walls completely encircled it, the inner wall, which was the highest and in the best state of preservation, rising 30 or 40 feet above the plateau. Within this, at the end nearest the travelers, was a long stone structure pierced with many ax-like doorways; this too, like the walls, was partly in ruins.

The chemist nodded eagerly. "Quite—likely to be—er—sul—"

CHAPTER XXXVIII
 With the aid of his two companions, who had come running up, Vilak, as he had done on the occasion of Barbeta's death, began to raise and lower the stricken man's arms in an attempt to bring air and thus oxygen to his paralyzed body. He had scarcely begun when a sudden dullness in the other's eyes told him that a further effort would be useless. Cicero was dead.

"Must have been lying there a day at least, poor devil," Vilak murmured. "Can't tell that by the amount of dust that's collected on the under part of his clothing. Good things these birds are only carrion-eaters, or he would have suffered worse than he did." He carried the body to the side of the road and began heaping stones on it to protect it from the caranchos, which at first seemed to look at him reproachfully as children might when some coveted prize was snatched from them, then began to flap about his head, screaming angrily. He beat them off and proceeded down the road.

A few hundred yards away, behind a low rock which had prevented his beholding it before, he came upon what at first appeared to be another body but on closer inspection proved to be a skeleton clad in fragments of blue trousers and orange peasant blouse. A great straw sombrero, gaily decorated, lay near the shining skull. A glance at a few grimy papers in the trousers' pockets confirmed what Vilak already knew; this was the skeleton of Detto's friend and constant companion, Pasquale Bonza of the pached cheek and enormous Adam's apple.

Dorothy MacKail Plays Hello Girl At Lamb Theatre

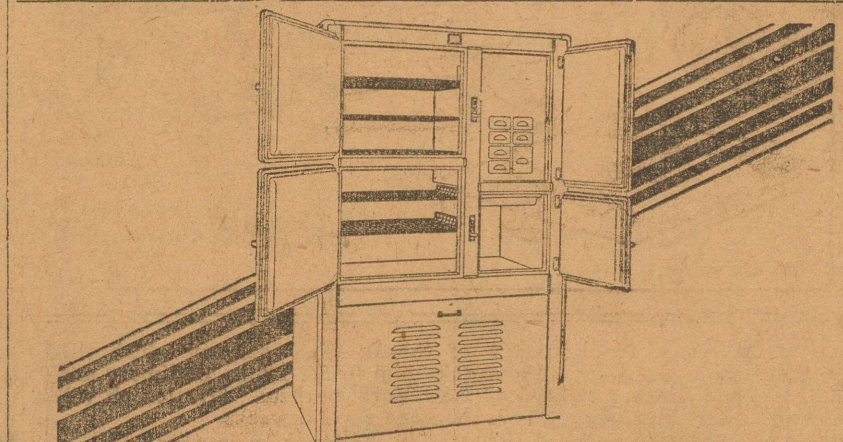

Dorothy MacKail has become a telephone girl for her latest screen appearance. She dispenses wrong numbers and "busy" signals as though she had had years of experience in "Smile, Brother, Smile," a First National picture, now showing at the Lamb theatre, in which she is featured with Jack Mulhall.

"Smile, Brother, Smile," a comedy-drama of modern business life, gives every promise of unusual entertainment. Mulhall plays the role of an ambitious young traveling salesman who refuses to take "no" for an answer.

"Smile, Brother, Smile," was produced for First National pictures by Charles R. Rogers and directed by John Francis Dillon. The picture is based on an original photoplay by Al Boasberg.

Bell System Property Has Tripled In Last Ten Years

Represents Investment of $218.00 for Each Bell System Telephone

The physical property of the Bell System, including land, buildings, and equipment, represents an investment of about three billion dollars, almost three times that of ten years ago. This figure means an investment of approximately $218.00 for each Bell System telephone.

During the first three months of this year, more than 30,000 receivers were left off hooks in the larger cities of our territory. In 4,000 of these cases it was necessary to send out trouble men to notify the subscribers to replace the receivers on the hooks.

PLANS FOR WELCOME OF LEGION IN PARIS NEARING COMPLETION

Outstanding Feature of Official Welcome to Europe Will Be Huge, Colorful Parade Five Miles Long

By THOMAS STOKES
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)
WASHINGTON. — Paris streets, alive with flying flags and eager thousands of French men and women, will resound with the tramp of marching feet in another big parade—a peaceful big parade—when thousands of American Legionnaires swing down its avenues on September 19, signaling the opening of the organization's convention in the French capital, ten years after the war.

From that grand march until five days later, the Legionnaires and members of affiliated organizations will move through a round of entertainment such as Paris can furnish, and the spirit of fellowship is expected to re-seal the bonds of friendship between the two countries, whose young men fought side by side in the World War.

From 12,000 to 15,000 members of the American Legion, the American Legion Auxiliary, the associated women's organization, and the "play-ground" orders of each, "Forty Men and Eight Horses" of the men and "Eight Women and Forty Hats" of the women, will attend the Paris convention. Reservations for ships were closed on July 15.

Paris is ready to give the Americans a great time, according to reports here from the French capital.

The big parade on September 19 is expected to be most impressive. For the first time since 1919, and for the first time in French history so far as a peace-time organization is concerned, the French Government will permit a foreign people to march under the Arc de Triomphe when the American Legionnaires file through it.

The Americans will pass under the left arch. In 1919, when the Victory Parade marched under the famous Arc, it was in fact the allied armies under the command of Marshal Foch.

The parade will form on the historic parade ground of the Invalides, whose dome shelters the remains of Napoleon Bonaparte and many of his relatives and generals. It will be led by General Henri Gouraud, Military Governor of Paris, as honorary grand marshal, and past commander John R. McQuigg of the American Legion as grand marshal.

Marshal Ferdinand Foch, supreme commander of the allied armies, and General John J. Pershing, commander of the A. E. F., will be among the distinguished officials in the reviewing stand. Both military chiefs were elected honorary vice-commanders for life at the Philadelphia convention last year.

Leaving the Invalides, the mammoth parade—five miles long—will swing into the Avenue Gallieni, led by the two grand marshals on horseback and the national colors and national standard of the American Legion, guarded by the color guard of Paris Post No. 1. A dozen bands, will enliven the march.

The Avenue Gallieni is named after the valiant commander of the garrison at Paris at the beginning of the war, who is chiefly known to posterity by his feat of throwing his garrison into the battle of the Marne at a critical period, commanding taxicabs to transport them to the front.

The Legionnaires will pass the tomb of the Unknown French Soldier and pay tribute there to France's one million war dead. A zone of silence will be created. A few hundred feet short of the Arc de Triomphe all bands will stop their music and Legionnaires will place their caps over their left breast. Then, with only the shuffling of marching feet to break the silence, the thousands will enter the arch which France chained up in 1870 and whose chains were not broken until the Armistice in 1918.

The colorful parade will pass through the center of the French capital. A holiday has been declared and thousands will line the streets as the veterans swing past. After the march past the reviewing stand, the parade will turn into the immense garden of the Tuileries, where there will be ample room to execute the "Call out" order. At night, the Legionnaires will be guests of the city at a magnificent public reception.

The convention will not be all play. The usual business will be transacted. For one thing, the convention will vote upon a recommendation already approved by the legion's national defense committee for the creation "as soon as warranted" of a separate department of the air to be headed by a cabinet officer.

During the convention, a wreath will be placed upon the grave of Lieut. Quentin Roosevelt, son of the late President, Young Roosevelt was killed during the war. On September 21, the Legionnaires will be present at exercises at Verdun, when special medals will be awarded by the French Government to those Americans present who served in the Verdun sector, where some of the bloodiest fighting of the war took place. General Pershing will receive the first of these medals.

The days of the war will be recalled for the former soldiers by "The Stars and Stripes," which will be published again during the convention and distributed free to Legionnaires.

Legionnaires who are golf enthusiasts have been invited to participate in the French open golf championship on the St. Germain course, which will take place during the convention. This championship has been held in the past by American golfers.

Tours will be conducted to the battlefields as well as airplane rides over the city for the visitors.

The women of the legion auxiliary will march in the parade and will attend all of the social functions. To satisfy the female curiosity about French hats and clothes, wives of members of Paris Post No. 1 have formed an organization called "The Guardian Angles," who will conduct the American women about the shops of the city, advising them where to shop and how much to pay.

D. Joseph of Joseph Dry Goods company, Ranger, left Saturday for a buying trip for this and other stores of the Joseph company which will take him to St. Louis, Baltimore and New York markets. Mr. Joseph will be gone several weeks.

Assuming that the postoffice department will award the contract to the low bidder, Pan-American officers said that the service would start Oct. 1.

Dry Law Return In One District Totals $432,000

By United Press.
PITTSBURGH, Aug. 6.—Out here in this region where in George Washington's administration farmers took arms during the "Whiskey Rebellion" to avoid paying taxes on liquor, prohibition enforcement is a money-making activity for the United States Government.

During the first year of the administration of John D. Pennington the prohibition district which includes Western Pennsylvania and West Virginia did a business roughly estimated at $978,000, and turned in a profit to Uncle Sam unofficially estimated at $432,000.

Pennington, a retired lieutenant-commander in the navy, is the third prohibition administrator to hold office since the country was divided into districts under the "Andrews plan." His predecessor had quit the job in disgust, but Pennington took it up, promising nothing except to do "the best I can."

Revenues from unusual sources have poured into the government's coffers as a result of Pennington's activities. Confiscated property is sold; copper from stills produces a good revenue and even the sugar used by the illicit liquor makers nets several thousand dollars a year. While all of the fines and back taxes levied against convicted bootleggers have not yet been collected, here is an approximate balance sheet of operations in this district from July 15, 1926 to July 15, 1927:

Taxes on alcoholic spirits	$550,000
Fines	200,000
Property confiscated	75,000
Copper confiscated	100,000
Automobiles	40,000
Sugar	7,000
Total	$972,000

Cost of operating prohibition unit, average of $45,000 monthly . . . $540,000

Profit . . . $432,000

Another angle of the situation is presented when the losses inflicted on the bootleggers are considered. During one month alone, for example, the loss to the lawbreaking element was estimated at $1,401,061 through seizures of contraband liquors, manufacturing equipment, automobiles and other contraband. This is based on the prevailing retail prices for liquor in this section. This damage, which was contained in Pennington's report to the Treasury Department for the activities in June, 1927, represents damage of $31.14 to bootleggers for each dollar spent by the prohibition unit.

Sunshine Choir On Program At Union Revival

"Changing Masters," was the subject of Col. Guy W. Green's sermon at the revival meeting Saturday night. On Monday night the "Sunshine Choir," of some 150 boys and girls will give a part of the program of songs.

Next Thursday night the Eastland band and orchestra will give a concert at 7:00 o'clock proceeding the regular evening services. On this occasion the B. P. O. E. Elks will attend in a body and the address will be appropriate for the occasion.

FRECKLES AND HIS FRIENDS

Mom'n Pop

RIGHT AND EARLY THIS MORNING, TAGALONG AND FRECKLES PICKED UP WHERE THEY LEFT OFF YESTERDAY, IN THE CHECKING OF PONY NAMES THAT HAVE BEEN SENT IN BY THEIR HELPFUL LITTLE BOY AND GIRL FRIENDS—WHEN ALL OF THE LETTERS HAVE BEEN OPENED, THE NAME THAT THE MOST YOUNGSTERS HAVE SUGGESTED WILL BE THE NAME GIVEN TAG'S PONY.

I TELL YOU, MRS. TYTE, THIS SILLY IDEA OF OUR TRYING TO INSPIRE OUR HUSBANDS TO GREAT DEEDS BY MAKING THEM JEALOUS IS ALL BOSH—POOR POP HAS BEEN DOING NOTHING BUT WORRYING AND LOSING SLEEP OVER MY SILLY CONDUCT—I FOR ONE AM THROUGH.

WELL, I'M GOING TO KEEP ON WITH HENRY—IT HASN'T HAD MUCH EFFECT ON HIM YET.

SAY, GUNN—HERE'S YOUR CHANCE TO DO SOMETHING BIG—IF YOU WANT TO BE A HERO IN THE EYES OF YOUR WIFE YOU MIGHT ANSWER THIS AD IN THE PAPER.

PLANS POLAR EXPEDITION
CAPT. OLAF ERICSON SEEKS COMPANION TO ACCOMPANY HIM IN QUEST OF SOUTH POLE

YEAH—THAT'S THE NUMBER I WANT—EDGEMORTH 7800!

—NOW LISTEN CAPT. ERICSON—DON'T MAKE ANY ARRANGEMENTS WITH ANYONE ELSE UNTIL YOU HEAR FROM ME—WHEN? MONDAY AT 9:30? SURE, I'LL BE ON DECK!

I will be glad to consider the application of any "he-man," he said when visited by reporters at Hotel DeLuxe today. Ericson admits he is a descendant of famous Norwegian explorer Leif Ericson.

I'M JUST GOING TO SHOW MOM HOW MUCH NERVE I REALLY HAVE—

—DON'T DISTURB US" IS SUBJECT OF SERMON

"Don't Disturb Us, We Are Satisfied," was the subject discussed Friday night at the union revival in Eastland by Guy W. Green.

Rev. F. E. Singleton, pastor of the Methodist Church, who has just returned from a vacation, lead the opening prayer. Rev. W. J. Nelson was the moderator and read the scripture, Rev. L. R. Hogan pronounced the benediction.

CHINA DIVIDED BY OLD AND NEW SCHOOLS OF THOUGHT

Casual Observer Cannot Pass Through Country Without Experiencing Change in Atmosphere Due to Thought

By RANDALL GOULD
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

"BEKING.—Two bands of "atmosphere" lie across China today and no one can travel through the country without becoming as keenly aware of them as though they were marked in crayon on a school-boy's map.

One band centers in the Yangtze region. The other band lies across North China and Manchuria. They indicate the areas of Nationalist and of Northern Militarist domination respectively.

The Yangtze atmosphere is physically hot, heavy and sticky; mentally clear and confident in spite of superficial surface disturbances. The Northern atmosphere is physically cooler but mentally hotter.

Leaving out of account the foreign "club her chit-chat" which is uniformly sensational inaccurate wherever one goes in China, it may be said in general that information along the Yangtze is easier to get and easier to understand than it is in North China; that however much the various Nationalist factions strongly contrast with the haphazardness of things in the North.

In Hankow and Shanghai there have been bad times but the future shows some signs of brightening; in Tientsin and Peking there has been little real trouble so far but everyone lives in daily anticipation of a debacle.

There, in the proverbial nutshell, one has the present situation. It can be interpreted in only one way, impartial observers agree—that the Nationalist idea has come to stay, and that the Northerners uneasily watch the handwriting trace its way along the wall.

Old ways in China are doomed; that is the verdict which even the Northern militarists have tacitly accepted. Everywhere in the North there is confused discussion, not of any conquest of the South, but rather of such novel ideas as the acceptance of Dr. Sun Yat-sen's "San Min" principles. The talk today is all of compromise, of some form of get-together which may perhaps admit of outward acceptance of Nationalist catch-words while in reality preserving the old Northern personnel and the old Northern feudalistic domination.

In the Yangtze there is silence, and continued military movement. The compromise idea does not seem to appeal even to the conservative adherents of Chiang Kai-shek, while in Hankow such spokesmen as Eugene Chen declare that such compromise would mean loss of the whole idea behind the revolution.

To the North, compromise is the natural and inevitable thing. It always has been done in the past, and the Northerners appear to see no reason why the present situation does not admit of similar solution.

If 1927 conditions were the same as conditions during all the former weary military campaigns, the Northern view would be quite correct. Where personal domination is the sole issue, a fight to the bitter end is unwise; it is much better to make terms with one's enemy on a mutually ad-

Movies, Waves and Milk Shakes Big Items For Co-Ed.

It costs more to keep a co-ed in milk shakes, movies, and finger waves than in silk stockings and knitted sports clothes.

"It's the upkeep of the modern college girl rather than the original cost of her education that keeps Dad broke the four years she is away at school," H. Bellas Hess, president of the National Bellas Hess Company, told a group of clubwomen here.

"Clothes and tuition are the smallest items on her expense account. Although the average co-ed indulges herself in at least one ice cream soda and a bag of candy every day, movies twice a week and a minimum of two shampoos and finger waves a month—a total of approximately $5.25 a week, a recent survey of American colleges revealed her tuition seldom exceeds $65 a quarter while her clothes bill averages only $240 a year.

"Big scale production and direct selling methods have broken down the Barriers That Formerly Separated the Rich Man's Daughter from the Poor One's Pride and Joy. Today Grown Women as well as college girls are known, not by the cost of their clothes, but rather by the cut and perfect harmony of their costumes. The fair co-ed whose one hat harmonizes with her entire wardrobe is infinitely more stylish than the wealthy classmate whose dozen bonnets are at swords point with everything in her closet."

Convention Of Bartenders In Portland Meet

By GEORGE D. CRISSEY, United Press Staff Correspondent. PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 6.—Memories of the days when saloon "wise crackers" told the dispenser of cheer to "put the suds on the bottom" will be revived here Aug. 8 when Portland plays host to a group of bartenders.

The occasion will be the convention of the Hotel and Restaurant Workers and Bartenders International League of America, a union affiliated with the American Federation of Labor. The convention opens in the auditorium of the local labor temple and will continue all week.

It will be the first time that bartenders of the legal variety have been in Portland since enactment of the state bone dry law, some years previous to the birth of the eighteenth amendment.

Although most of the 500 delegates will be cooks and waiters, a few authentic bartenders will be present. The union is international to the extent that it includes Canada and there are a few places in that land where a man may sell a wee drop without being forced to plain—"well, you see, Judge, it was this way—"

Portland has been legally dry for a long time but the coming convention has created no excitement except in the ranks of those who operate in telephone booths, having phone numbers instead of names and who specialize in mysterious pockets and other peculiarities.

In an interview with the United Press a prominent social bootlegger, known to the trade as "Franklin 1029," said he objected to invasion of the northerners and thought that dry organizations should do something about it.

"It's a terrible influence," Franklin 1029 said, "and it's a threat against the constitutional rights of us young fellows who are tryin' to get along and who, under present demoralized business conditions can't buy the little wife no more than three fur coats a year. Last year I had to worry along with one eight-cylinder car and all because these Canadians grabbed off so much of the good tourist business."

"They are apt to start yelling for some law which would let birds like them work legal like and then where would we be?"

"It's a communistic plot," was the view of "Ekwald 9022."

LARGEST NAVAL VESSEL TO CARRY 106 AIRPLANES

U. S. S. Lexington Will Have Flying Surface 900 Feet Long, Ready in Six Months

By United Press. BOSTON, Aug. 6.—The U. S. S. Lexington, largest and highest powered naval vessel in the world, will be ready for her trials at sea within the next six months.

Final touches are being put on the ship at the Fore River Shipbuilding Yards in Quincy, Mass., where she was launched two years ago. The vessel, one of the queen ships of the United States Navy, belongs to the electrically driven group that includes the U. S. S. Maryland, West Virginia, and Saratoga.

The Lexington, like the Saratoga which was launched in the spring of 1925 at Camden, N. J., is an airplane carrier. Originally these two vessels were to have been battle cruisers and as such would have been among the navy's largest fighting vessels. Due to the modification of the American naval program decided on at the Conference on the Limitation of Armaments the ships were converted to airplane carriers.

The interiors of the Lexington will be quite different from the space plans below decks on most naval vessels. There will be ample space to store flying machines as well as elevators and cranes with which to hoist them up from below preparatory to hopping off from the flying deck.

Because of the minimum deck apparatus the Lexington seems unusually well suited to win the water. The long sweep of flying deck, broken only by a massive combined funnel enclosure set at one side of the hull, resembles a marine drill ground. The elevators are so constructed as to come flush with the flying deck making an unbroken flying surface about 900 feet long. The elevators are capable of hoisting the largest type naval planes. A secret contrivance is set on the deck floor to stop landing airplanes within a distance of several hundred feet. This equipment is said to be fool proof and to prevent possibility of any mishap in landing during a rough sea.

The ship's armament in addition to the 106 airplanes which she carries, consists of eight 8-inch 50 calibre long range rifles and twelve 5-inch 50 calibre anti-aircraft guns, capable of warding off destroyers as well as enemy aircraft attacks. These latter guns are placed in groups of three at strategic points about the ship which facilitates concentrated and accurately directed fire as well as rapid supply of ammunition.

The flying deck will accommodate at one time the entire ship's complement of set-up air planes and still leave sufficient room for a take off. Near the bow is a newly adopted device for launching sea planes.

Interest in Ranger's new swimming pool seems to be growing, if the number of names that have been submitted can be taken as a gauge. Saturday the following names were received:

Sunset Lake, Mesquite Grove Lake, Lindbergh Swimming Pool, Tourist Park Lake, Ranger Swimming Pool, Lillard Lake, Lake Lillard, West Side Lake, Blue Bonnet Lake, Bull Dog Lake. These names were sent in by one person evidently but no names was attached to the list.

Garvin Chastain, Jr., submits the name of Oak Park Swim Pool, while his neighbor, Lester Bendix sends in Ranger Swimming Pool Park.

Complete Small Well On Simmons South of Ranger

Chesnut & Smith Corporation's Dr. J. W. Simmons No. 1, which is a one-half mile extension to the Gholson pool in Eastland county, has been completed as a 25 barrel producer at a depth of 3,200 feet.

The pay in this well was struck some weeks ago, but drilling troubles prevented an earlier completion.

Dr. Simmons, who lives in Eastland, owns a number of acres of land in the tract on which the well is located.

Arab Gasoline Company Will Enlarge Plant

The Arab Gasoline Corporation will enlarge its booster plant on the Ram-sower lease in order to take care of the increased gas production, it is stated. With the West-Adams Petroleum company's No. 4 Ramsower making 10,000,000 cubic feet of gas and a number of other wells making good gas flows, the Arab has found it necessary to increase the capacity of the booster plant, which carries the gas to the main plant seven miles north of Eastland.

53 subjects from which to select courses desired. A big college holding four world's records. With our Famous Byrne Copyrighted Systems, we place you on the pay roll three months earlier and at half the cost of others. Positions secured.
