INDICTMENTS BY MARSHALL GRAND JURY ARE NOT MADE PUBLIC

COURT ROOM FILLED AS REPORT MADE

Sixteen Indictments Returned by Body But All Are Kept Secret

By United Press.
MARSHALL, Texas, June 24.—Sixteen indictments were returned by the special grand jury investigating the flogging of members of two families here June 8 in district court today.
None of the indictments were made public. They probably will not be announced until tomorrow it was said.
A large crowd waited in the court room throughout the morning for the grand jury to make its report.
The jury filed into the court room shortly after noon and submitted its report to Judge B. O. Beard.
Four men have been at liberty under bond in connection with the flogging of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Richardson and Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Starrps. Their arrest culminated an investigation by County Attorney John Taylor and state rangers.

By United Press.
LOS ANGELES, Calif., June 24.—Announcement was made today by W. D. Pelley that Dick Grace, Los Angeles aviator who hop from Honolulu for Los Angeles late Saturday or Sunday.
Grace was aboard the Matson freighter Manukai, scheduled to dock in Honolulu late today.
Pelley is business manager for Major Grant Dodge, Los Angeles financier who is backing the proposed 2,300 mile flight.

Oklahoma Bank Robbed, Bandits Escaped on Foot

By United Press.
CHANDLER, Okla., June 24.—Five masked bandits entered the bank of Avery, about 15 miles northeast of here, in Lincoln county, at 7:55 p. m., and escaped with all cash within the bank, according to first reports.
The amount of loot was not stated. The men, dressed in overalls and without an automobile, escaped on foot scattering in all directions in nearby woods.
Late today two men were captured and approximately $700 in money was recovered. They are said to have confessed to the robbery of the bank and this amount constitutes practically all the money missing from the bank vaults.
The men gave their names as George and Charles Hughes, 21 and 19, respectively.

OVERTAXATION MAY PROVE DISASTROUS TO HIGHWAYS

General Manager Texas Highway Club Sounds Warnings that Heavy Taxing of Motor Vehicles Threatens Value of Highways

By United Press.
FORT WORTH, June 24.—Warning that there is a grave danger of overtaxation of motor vehicles in Texas seriously impairing the economic value of the whole highway system of the state is sounded in a statement issued here today by W. T. Wheeler, general manager of the Highway Club of Texas.
Highways are economically justifiable, Mr. Wheeler declared, because of the many forms of dividends they pay. The pleasure usage, he said, is incidental and would not warrant more than a fraction of the cost of a highway system. The fundamental incentive that prompts enormous investments in good roads, he declared, is the stimulation of commerce and agriculture, and the results which have been obtained along this line are far reaching and of a character not fully realized by the average taxpayer.

"Whoever good roads have been built," Mr. Wheeler stated, "there has been an immediate expansion of agricultural endeavor, lands have increased in value, distant farms have become accessible and the tendency of ambitious boys and girls to abandon agricultural pursuits has been partially checked. School districts have been consolidated, making possible a great improvement in educational facilities without increasing the cost proportionately. Diversification of farm crops has been the general result where highway conditions permitted marketing operations without regard to weather. Nearly every highway is now traversed by motor trucks operating 'milk routes,' resulting in rapid and profitable development of an enormous dairying industry in Texas. As the seasons come, the highways are lined with trucks laden with diversified products of the truck garden, orchard and berry patch, or with eggs, chickens, turkeys—things that are not generally raised in important quantities where low cost, everyday highway transport is not available. There is scarcely a small farm on any improved highway where the increased value of poultry products alone—increased due to better marketing opportunity because of that highway—will not pay the road tax. It is also interesting to note, "Mr. Wheeler continued, "that transportation statistics show the greatest percentage of increase in railroad tonnage has occurred in those areas where good roads have been built. Improved highways create new wealth at an astonishing rate."
Turning to the commercial side of good roads, Mr. Wheeler stated that the use of motor trucks has brought some interesting developments. "There is now keen jobber competition in every hamlet," he declared, "and merchandise is delivered by truck direct to the door of the buyer as it is needed. Under the spur of competition the actual merchandising cost is lowered and service quickened from manufacturer and jobber to the ultimate consumer."
Because of this fact, it was stated, the retail merchant can carry a better assortment of goods with a smaller stock than previously.

Take away this daily store door delivery, Mr. Wheeler said, and the merchants would have to carry larger stocks and buy in larger quantities. This would quickly absorb capital to a total that would represent a considerable percentage of the amount invested in the highways, and even the added cost of insuring the increased stocks would be an important burden for the consumer to ultimately bear. Fresh vegetables out of season and any kind of fresh meat can be obtained anywhere now, thanks to the motor transport. A few years ago these things were not obtainable in thousands of communities. The standard of living has advanced and the market extended for producers of many things.
"These are only a few of the changes brought on by motor transport," Mr. Wheeler said, "but they illustrate how completely this new service is woven into the social and economic fabric and affect every individual."
"But," Mr. Wheeler's statement cautioned, "the indiscriminate piling up of taxes can seriously cripple and curtail the use of the highways by vehicles serving commerce and agriculture, rendering the highway system less justifiable economically. Already we have gone past the danger point in Texas. For the year 1926 motor vehicles in Texas paid total taxes greater than the sum total paid for all taxes by railroads in the state. The last regular session of the legislature added two cents to the gasoline tax, and this increase alone amounted to more than the total annual taxes of all the rail carriers put together.
"Perhaps the railroads pay enough," Mr. Wheeler said, "but much as all other forms of transportation other than Texas. The most radical tax-grabber would shudder at the economic consequences of doubling the taxation on railroad transportation, but this is exactly what was done to motor transportation by the last legislature."

Ranger Boy Meets Tragic Death

COMPANIONS GO FOR AID BUT GET LOST

Fall From Tree Kills Will Phillips When Skull is Fractured

Will Phillips, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. R. Phillips, of Tiffin highway, Ranger, met a tragic death last night when he fell from a tree which he had climbed in an effort to catch a civet cat, and some younger boys had tried.

Young Phillips, who was a graduate of the Ranger high school and four small boys, his own brother, Louie Phillips, aged twelve, Joe Matlock and two Faircloth boys were hunting on the south fork of Palo Pinto creek, some fifteen miles or more from Ranger.

The boys had chased a "ring tail" as the little boys called the civet cat, up a tree and Phillips climbed up after it. The limb on which the cat was perched about three hours after Phillips fell a distance of some twenty feet down a bluff over which the limb protruded. He called for help and water, and when asked if he wanted anything he replied "two bottles of coke and help." As near as the little boys can remember the time of the accident was about 10:30 and two of them, one being the little brother of the injured youth, started out into the night alone.

They got lost and after wandering around until five o'clock this morning they found a farm house, told the farmer what had happened and he rushed with them to the assistance of Phillips. When they arrived at the scene of the accident, it was too late as the youth had passed away, apparently about three hours after the accident had happened. He was all alone, as the other two little boys becoming alarmed about the safety of the two who had gone for help and terrified with their first experience with death, had gone to hunt the others.

The farmer came into Ranger after the father, and Killingsworth-Cox ambulance left Ranger about 7 o'clock to bring back all that is mortal of Will Phillips.

The body will rest at the family home tonight and tomorrow until 4:00 o'clock when funeral services will be conducted, which will be followed by interment in Evergreen cemetery.

Will Phillips was born at Denison, on October 21, 1903 and for the last eight years has lived with his parents and four brothers, Harry, R. L., Ewold and Louie Phillips in Ranger. He graduated from the Ranger high school in 1921 and was a member of the debating team that year that went through the semi-finals.
Possibly not as well known as his brother R. L. (Freshman) Phillips, Will Phillips never made a friend but to keep that friendship. He was a young man whose life was devoted to looking after the comfort and pleasure of his mother, father and brothers, and to the study of chemistry. In this he was an ardent student and was preparing himself for great things by taking extension and correspondence courses, and by devoting a great portion of his time to experiments and inventions. Last year he invented a belt dressing, which was favorably commented upon. He was in every way a likeable, lovable boy and almost worshipped by those who knew him best.
When the news came to his home this morning of his terrible death, his mother was prostrated and though reported to be bearing up very well this afternoon, the shock was almost more than she could bear.
A physician's examination of the body showed that death was caused by a fracture of the base of the skull. B. R. Phillips the lad's father is foreman of the Oil Well Machine company's shop.

Bernt Balchen, expert mechanic and pilot as well, was chosen as the fourth member of the crew of the monoplane "America" for its trans-Atlantic flight.

LONNIE DIXON EXECUTED FOR GIRL'S MURDER

By United Press.
LITTLE ROCK, Ark., June 24.—Going to his death on his eighteenth birthday, Lonnie Dixon, negro, today paid with his life for the confessed assault and murder of 11-year-old Floelle McDonald, a white girl here last April 12. Dixon was executed by the state of Arkansas shortly after 5 a. m. today.

The McDonald girl's body was found in the belfry of a local church where the negro had dragged it after beating the child to death in the basement of the church.
In a confession in the death cell at 3 o'clock this morning Dixon cleared his cousin, Eugene Hudson, of any participation in the murder. He said the idea of implicating another was given him by an inmate of the jail with a view to lessening his own punishment.

Report Capture Of More Escaped Convicts Today

By United Press.
HUNTSVILLE, Texas, June 24.—Ed Crowder, Alvin Ireland, and Price Washer, "brains" of the escape of 35 convicts from a prison farm, were back in custody today.

Washer was shot and captured last night by a negro farmer near Madisonville. The negro ordered Washer to halt in a cane patch and fired when the fugitive ignored the order. The wound is not serious.

Crowder, bank robber and known to South Texas officers as a desperado, was captured by two citizens at Midway.
Lewis A. Starnes, patrolling a highway, saw a man in prison garb saddling a horse in a nearby field.
The men hid in bushes by the road and covered Washer with a shotgun and pistol as the horse approached at any easy gait and forced Crowder to reach for the sky.
Ireland, with a long criminal record, was caught last at Leona. Only 11 of the 35 who escaped are still at large.

Negro Listed As Dead, But Will Prove Mistake

EL PASO, June 24.—Blissfully unaware that he is listed in the vital statistics of Fort Worth as dead, George Smith, 37, negro, expects to go to Fort Worth this week to prove to officials that he is still alive.
"Na, sah, I'm not dead," Smith declared when told that he was supposed to be dead.
Charges have been filed against an undertaker and insurance agent at Fort Worth for forging Smith's name to a death certificate in order to collect a $250 insurance policy on Smith's life.

FRANK CARTER OMAHA SNIPER DIES IN CHAIR

By United Press.
LINCOLN, Neb., June 24.—Frank Carter, the Omaha sniper, died in the electric chair today.

The man who was accused of two murders and who terrorized Omaha for several weeks as he "sniped" at passersby was led to the electric chair in the state prison at 6:13 a. m. Six minutes later he was pronounced dead.

Carter walked smilingly to his death, telling Executioner Gilbert to "turn on the juice" as he settled himself in the chair. Those were Carter's last words.

Then the man who terrorized Omaha for many weeks smiled and the warden, somewhat wistful, smile was on his lips after his stiffened form had been pronounced dead.

The condemned man reiterated to reporters shortly before his death his name was Pat Murphy. He said he was born in Ireland in 1880 and was reared in Ackley, Iowa.

After Prison Chaplain Maxwell had completed his prayer for Carter's soul, the condemned man said, "Chaplain, I think you had better commend my soul to the Lord under the name of Pat Murphy instead of Carter because he will know me better under that name."

KIMES HELD BY OFFICERS IN ARIZONA

By United Press.
FLAGSTAFF, Ariz., June 24.—Awaiting investigation and return by Oklahoma officers, Matthew Kimes, notorious outlaw of the Southwest today was being held under guard in county jail here. With him are also held a man and a woman say they are Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Keady, who Oklahoma advisers say are Jack Whitehead, Oklahoma bandit suspect and his wife.

Kimes was captured yesterday near Grand Canyon, 85 miles distant by Sheriff J. O. Parsons of Grand Canyon, acting on tip from officers here and in Okla.

Kimes was arrested in front of a hotel in automobile bearing arms and ammunition. He offered resistance when Sheriff Parson was taking him into town of Grand Canyon exchanging several shots with the sheriff and fled. He was quickly recaptured by citizens.

The Keadys denied knowing Kimes when later taken into custody in Grand Canyon following a tip from Oklahoma tourists. Their car however, bore an Oklahoma license and investigation showed it was purchased in Tulsa, Oklahoma, giving name as Keady.

D'Autremonts Are Jubilant Over Escaping Gallows

By United Press.
SALEM, Ore., June 24.—Apparently jubilant because a barber had defeated the gallows, Ray, Roy and Hugh D'Autremont confessed murderers and train dynamiters, were delivered into the state penitentiary at 5:35 o'clock this morning.
Despite the early hour more than 100 persons were at the station to witness the arrival of the three brothers who on Oct. 11, 1923, dynamited a Southern Pacific train and murdered four trainmen. Hugh, the 23-year-old youngster, was handcuffed separately as he stepped off the train. The twins were handcuffed together.

Dempsey-Sharkey Fight to be Held At Yankee Stadium

By United Press.
NEW YORK, June 24.—Tex Rickard's application for permission to hold a heavyweight fight between Jack Dempsey and Jack Sharkey at the Yankee stadium July 21, was approved today by the boxing commission.
Top prices will be $27.50, the commission agreeing to Rickard's request to charge that much for the best seats.

HOLLYWOOD ALL ASTIR OVER THE REPORT

Departmental Heads Executives Agree To Drastic Salary Cuts

By United Press.
HOLLYWOOD, Calif., June 24.—Motion picture people faced an economic crisis today that cast woe of the film capital into relative oblivion.

The traditional light-heartedness of Hollywood turned to gravity with the announcement that representatives of the Motion Picture Producers' association unanimously decided to cut salaries.

This far reaching move was taken, it was said, to establish motion pictures on a more economic basis.

None will be spared if the producers have their way.
Executives, departmental heads and producers will accept a reduction in salary of 10 to 25 per cent. Compensation of all non-contract employees and players receiving more than $50 a week will be reduced by at least 10 per cent.

SAPIRO GETS OUSTED FROM HIGH POSITION

MEMPHIS, Tenn., June 24.—Aaron Sapiro has been ousted from his powerful position as general counsel for the American Cotton Growers Exchange, it was learned here today from executives of the organ. The executive committee, which met here in May failed to re-elect the famous attorney and named Abe Waldauer, youthful Memphis lawyer to succeed him. Announcement of the change was withheld lest it should influence Sapiro's suit against Henry Ford.

Waldauer who was formerly associated with Sapiro will be entrusted with all important duties of drawing up the exchanges five year contract which must be signed by all member state organizations.

Mine Prisoners Are in No Hurry To be Released

By United Press.
LANSING, Kan., June 24.—Officials of the Kansas state penitentiary are in no hurry to complete negotiations with the prisoners, who Tuesday mutinied and barricaded themselves in the mine of the institution, it was indicated today. Negotiations with prisoners via telephone proceeded leisurely as 71 hours of self-incarceration passed.

The prisoners have presented 10 demands to officials for consideration. The spokesman for the men advised Warden Mackey "to take plenty of time in considering the demands" so nothing was said as to what would happen if the demands were refused outright.

It is believed the men are prepared for a protracted stay in their underground stronghold from the assured manner of the spokesman. However, it was indicated little consideration is to be given the request until the men come to the surface.
The 10 demands cover alleged grievances of the prisoners.

God.—Psalm 42:1, 2.
Prayer: Blessed are they which do

MODERN CHURCHES.
In New York a church 23 stories high and costing $2,000,000 is to be erected, the structure to contain in addition to the church, offices, apartments and some other things. But it is said that the pastor of the church is to live on the ground floor.

Again they have put everything on top of the preacher. If we will just stop to consider we will discover that we are prone to unload a lot of unnecessary burdens on our preachers.
In addition to carrying the regular load of a pastorate we expect them to do all sorts of things.

First of all we expect our preachers to live exemplary lives, which is all very well. But if a preacher's son goes wrong which he sometimes does through no fault of the preacher this fact immediately becomes the favorite topic of the town gossips.
And probably the newspapers have in the past been guilty of spreading a little extra ink when there is an opportunity to get the wayward son of a minister on the front page.

Ministers of the gospel are ordinary human beings. They are not divine personages and should not be expected to conduct themselves as such. As a matter of fact it should be no more obligatory on the part of a minister to live an upright life than it is for a banker, merchant or farmer to live such a life.

But we human beings are prone to forget this and we go right on expecting the impossible of our preachers.
We sometimes think there is no limit to the load they can carry, whether that load be spiritual, mental or physical.

We should be a little more liberal in the demands we make on our ministers.

LINDBERGH.
Col. Charles Lindbergh has been to Washington to confer with government officials about something, presumably the future of aviation.

Well, Col. Lindbergh can do as he pleases but we would suggest that he stay out of the army or navy until he is really needed there. We believe that he can do his country vastly more good as a private citizen than he can if he allows himself to be tied hand and foot with the red tape of the army or navy or any other department of government.

Col. Lindbergh didn't have to report to any superior officer when he got ready to start his history-making flight to Paris. He just stuck a ham sandwich in one pocket and some letters of introduction in the other and took to the air.

IN OKLAHOMA.
Somebody has certainly made it tough on the officers of the law in Oklahoma, the state where bank roberies are almost a daily occurrence.

A bank was robbed in that state early Friday and the officers of the state are in the embarrassing position of having no one on whom to blame the crime since Matthew Kimes was captured the night before away out west in Arizona.

ELKS DANCE LAST NIGHT A "LULU."
The younger set declared that the Elks dance last night at the Elks club was a "Lulu" which is equivalent to saying that it was some dance, a howling success or any other way that a good time can be expressed by means of descriptive words.

The Cotton Pickers, five in number, made a joyful noise with their instruments which included a stinging trumpet and furnished music that would tickle the toes of an avowed wallflower.

They left nothing to be desired in the way of syncopation. They not only filled the ballroom with harmony for the dances but did some special numbers that proved their ability as entertainers.

Those present included guests from Strawn, Eastland, Cisco, Breckenridge and Ranger and a number of visitors from parts of the state other than the oil belt.

The Elks as usual were long on hospitality and saw that everyone present had a good time with the result that this dance was voted to be one of the best in a coon's age.

AUXILIARY OF CARL BARNES
POST ENDORSES MRS. HAGAMAN
The auxiliary of Carl Barnes Post
No. 69 American Legion at their meeting on Thursday night by a unanimous vote heartily endorsed Mrs.
M. H. Hagaman for state president of the Texas Federation of Women's clubs.

In endorsing Mrs. Hagaman the state federation presidency the club stated "We feel that we are making no mistake and if she is elected we know that the clubs of Texas will have made a good selection for we know that she is capable and qualified to fill the position of state president with credit to herself and honor to the organization."

Mrs. Hagaman's own townspeople are endorsing her one hundred percent and are behind her to the limit in her candidacy.

Ranger De Molays
Will Go on Picnic
To Thurber Lake
Ranger De Molays, in compliance with a report several weeks ago, are to have their initial summer outing
Sunday evening at Thurber lake.
This lake, which is an ideal place for swimming parties and picnics was chosen by the boys of the local chapter and a large number of De Molays and their best girls are expected to be present in order to make the outing a success.

Besides mapping out a number of summer social events last Wednesday evening, the regular three-months election of the Master Councilor, Senior and Junior Councilors was held, with John Stacks, Max Ratliff and Mooman Wagner favored with these offices respectively. Other officers are appointive by these three councilors.

T. J. Melton passed from the Master Councilor's chair as the tenth boy honored with that office.

Every member who expects to go to the picnic Sunday evening will meet at the Masonic Hall not later than six-thirty p. m., Sunday.

Texas has the largest state capitol building in the United States and the land that was traded to the contractors for building it is now of value enough to build several such structures.

District Judge May Move Office From Court House

Judge Elzo Been of the 88th district court stated this morning that he was considering removing his office from the county court house to quarters in one of the office buildings in the city because he felt that it was unsafe for himself and those who might have business in his office to remain in it under the present conditions of the building.

Only a few days ago parts of the plastering on the ceiling in Judge Been's office fell, barely missing his head.

Texas has more miles of railroad than any other state and is this year building more new miles than any other state.

Hundreds of big Texas ranches have been broken up into farms in many ranches of more than 100,000 acres.

- REMEMBER that a fool and his money are soon parted.
- REMEMBER that the wise used car buyer parts with his money here. The value received proves his wisdom.

Fine Feathers Is Feature Tonight At Chautauqua

"Fine Feathers" will hold the boards at the Chautauqua tonight, at its big tent in Ranger. This emotional drama will be presented on this circuit for the first time and it is all that the name implies—a story of modern money-made world. That "fine feathers do not make fine birds" is dramatically evidenced in this wonderful play.

The super-character in the play is the wife of an honest contractor, who is carried away with her desire for fine clothes. She emulates the peacock in his colorful glory and forces her husband to compromise his engineering professional integrity for the sake of money.

Events move swiftly to the startling climax—but that would be telling.

This afternoon a prelude by Joy Johannes and an address, "Your Health," by Irene Tihen, was the Chautauqua's splendid offering.

Last night and yesterday A. B. McDonald, investigator of the eighteenth amendment for a number of nationally known magazines, divided honors with the Giles Artists' trio.

The speaker's subject in the afternoon was "Is Prohibition a Failure?" and in the evening "Name Your Poison." It was attended by pro and anti-prohibitionists and was well received. Ministers present were unanimous in pronouncing it one of the best arguments in favor of prohibition that they had ever heard.

The speaker was forcible and had his subject well in hand, taking up its many phases and ramifications as only one can who knows the inside workings of this great political question.

Gayle Giles, soprano, and Ernest

A Scene from the tense drama "FINE FEATHERS," at Chautauqua, Fourth Day.

Rhoades Sharp, baritone, accompanied by a violinist of rare ability, were very pleasing. Sharp, who won the Marion Talley prize in a voice contest, has a wonderful voice which holds a prophecy of a great future, while Miss Giles also has a charming voice and fine stage presence.

Saturday will be a great day with Vierra's Hawaiians, appearing on both programs and Chester M. Sanford making an address in the afternoon on "You and Your Job."

The Chautauqua is receiving a great deal of favorable mention this year and Ranger people seem to be enjoying it as never before.

Wade Will Fight For Irrigation Rights In West

AUSTIN, June 24.—Homer D. Wade, manager of the West Texas chamber of commerce, appeared before the state board of water engineers this week in the interests of the irrigation districts of Brownwood and San Saba. He is making a fight to have the board vacate its recent decision denying San Saba the right to impound waters of the San Saba river on the grounds that a power syndicate has already filed on the entire run of the watershed of the Colorado river, Pecan Bayou and Jim Ned Creek being also on the Colorado water shed. Brownwood will be denied the right to use waters from these streams for irrigation purposes if the San Saba decision stands.

At the recent session of the West Texas chamber of commerce executive board held in Cisco, the directorate condemned the policy of allowing power companies to file on water routes and rights to the detriment of West Texas agricultural and municipal needs, and memorialized the state board to re-open the San Saba case and grant the Brownwood petition. The body declared itself in favor of industrial development, but opposed to power concerns taking long time filings on water courses needed for irrigation, and denying West Texas the right to use flood waters for agricultural and municipal development. It developed at the hearing that the Colorado watershed was filed on many years ago, and nothing had been done to develop power possibilities of the stream.

Wade, representing three hundred towns of West Texas, many of which will be directly affected through their interest in projects of other streams, urged that the state board follow the policy established by the U. S. government and permit the use of flood waters for agricultural and municipal needs first. West Texas is entitled to use its own rain fall in any manner it sees fit, according to the arguments of Wade, and he declared his organization opposed to any rulings which take from West Texas the right to use its water. He declared that the chamber would fight this matter out to the last as a matter of principle for all towns of West Texas, and would not stop with one defeat. Should this Colorado decision stand, similar proceedings might follow with the Brazos, the Pease, the Canadian, the Trinity, and the Pecos water sheds, he declared. This is an all important matter to West Texas and the Brownwood case assumes a regional importance because of this fact.

INDIGESTION GONE

Tennessean Was Worried Considerably Until, on Advice of An Acquaintance, He Began To Use Black-Draught.

Sewanee, Tenn.—"For several years," says Mr. J. L. Russell, of this place, "I suffered continuously with spells of indigestion. Everything I ate disagreed with me, and I was in a bad way."

"Nothing did me any good until I found Black-Draught. One day a man in a store where we traded told me to try Black-Draught. He said he knew of its relieving indigestion, so I decided to give it a trial."

"In my case it seemed to go right to the very root of my trouble. It straightened me out, and ever since that time, over thirty years ago, I have used Black-Draught."

"When I have a spell of indigestion coming on, I begin on Black-Draught. I take several small doses, in a regular course, and I find it will usually have me well in less than no time. Now I never suffer—I take Black-Draught."

"I also found it fine to break up a bad cold. In the winter time, I always keep a box handy, so when I sneeze, or feel chilly down my spine, I take a few doses of Black-Draught, and that wards off the cold."

Out Our Way

Burglar Works In Ranger Apartment As Victim Sleeps

A valuable gold watch, chain and some change were taken from the apartment of L. Davis, at the Texas Flats on North Commerce street, Ranger, some time during the night.

Mr. Davis on arising early this morning discovered his trousers lying over by the door and on investigation found that his watch, chain and money were missing. He laughingly asked his wife if she had robbed him, but soon discovered that a marauder had visited their flat during the night and made away with the articles named.

Mrs. Davis was up during the night several times with the children who were restless and it is thought that prowler possibly beat a retreat when she turned on the night light, without completing his haul.

The Davis family are at a loss to know how the thief got into the flat, as they were locked out themselves when they went home last night and had to break in through the back.

Mr. Davis remembered locking the back screen and back door and they did not even unlock the front door, which was found unlocked this morning.

"Girl Sues Motorist," says a headline. Ofttimes a miss in the motor is better than two in the tonneau.

Gripings of Gus

So I am the sport writer, huh?

Long have I sought this opportunity, for the boss editor says I don't have to confine my writing to academic dissertations on the outcome nor advance prognostications of the same regarding athletic events.

So I may branch off into politics or religion, even as does one Pop Boone, who, when the spirit moveth him not, does discourse upon things which are of grave importance to him, for instance, his weed patch or his flivver.

But having neither, I shall be forced to depend upon my friends—and customers to furnish me with material for my column, because it would be a sad day in Ranger if I missed an issue.

One difference between me and Pop is that he will usually tell you where he went and who with, but I won't—the towns' too small.

However, this all came up about a ball game that is going to be played next Sunday between the Legion and Chestnut-Smith teams for the championship of the city.

I don't know how I'll make it as a sport writer, but I can quit any time I want to for there's no additional salary involved. (This last piece of information for the benefit of my creditors.)

If I get boreome I'll know it myself and you won't have to read it and upon the proper number of petitioners this feature will be discontinued "with malice toward none" as some poet has said.

Harry Cooper Is Visiting Parents At Dallas Home

By United Press.

DALLAS, June 24.—Surprised that he was even a finalist, Harry Cooper, runner up in the national open golf tournament at Oakmount, Pa., last week, hopes to hold the national open title "eventually."

The 22 year old professional is visiting his parents here this week before returning to his club, El Sareno, at Los Angeles, Calif.

"I have no regrets," the habitually confident youth said, "I beat myself. My putting was terrible. Had I been on my putting game I might have won the tournament."

"When I finished my round in 301 I considered myself out of the running. Upon learning that my mark was good for a tie—well, imagine my surprise. It seemed like a gift."

Johnny, Harry's 32 year old caddy is here with him.

"Harry should have won it," confided Johnny. "Boy, this Tommy Armour had the lord with him on that last putt he made on the eighteenth hole. He just closed his eyes and let go and luck made it for him."

Cooper said the break in the match came on the sixteenth hole when he took three putts to hole out in five, allowing Armour to gain two strokes on him.

Second place brought Cooper $1,000 prize money, he said.

"Some day I'm going to win the national open," the youthful star said. "It may take me a long time or I may do it next year—you can't tell about golf."

MRS. SEARCY TO TALK ON GOD'S GREAT INSURANCE.

Mrs. Nina Searcy will talk at the Salvation Army hall in Ranger on Saturday night on "God's Great Insurance."

The public is cordially invited to be present and hear this sermon, which is said to be very interesting and inspirational.

Speaking about the weather, are you going south for the summer?

Golfer Makes Hole In One, Hunts For Ball 30 Minutes

SWEETWATER, June 24.—A hole in one had never before been made on the local country club course. So, when Palmer Leeper drove off the 175-yard sixth hole he spent 30 minutes searching for his "lost" ball before it occurred to him to look in the cup. The ball was in the cup, and Leeper holds the honor of making the first "ace" on the Sweetwater course.

time for enjoyment.

Busy smokers of today select Camel as their favorite smoke

PRESENT-DAY people, the fastest workers of all time, claim their right to enjoyment. And they choose Camels for the utmost in smoking pleasure.

Camel is made to please and delight the modern, experienced smoker. It is rolled of the choicest tobaccos grown. It is matchlessly blended for mildness and fragrance in the smoking.

Let Camels demonstrate their goodness and you'll know why the smokers of today choose them over all other cigarettes. For that exalted sense of taste-satisfaction, no other smoke can compare with this one.

Pauline Stark Explains New Reducing System

For the past few years Pauline Stark, who comes to the Lamb Theatre Saturday in the Cosmopolitan production, "Captain Salvation" made by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, has not varied in weight three pounds. In fact, she has been one of the mysteries of Hollywood because she has never needed to reduce.

But when she went on a location trip during the filming of "Captain Salvation," she discovered that she had added five superfluous pounds. Now she is engaged in removing the extra weight and is taking it off in spots.

MARCELINE DAY AND LARS HANSON IN "CAPTAIN SALVATION"

IDIOCY CAN BE CURED BY THYROID GLAND GRAFT, SAYS VORONOFF

By DR. SERGE VORONOFF (As told to HENRY T. RUSSELL) (United Press Staff Correspondent) PARIS.—Sometimes far worse, to my mind, than the shortening of human life or even than the eventual death which ensues by reason of the abuse and consequent atrophy of the endocrinal glands, is the possibility of being subjected to a "living death," which often faces those whose bodies fail to function normally due to unhealthy glands.

Indeed, if, as a result of the atrophy of the endocrinal glands, a man's thyroid gland should become affected, as this gland is essential to the normal functioning of the brain, the victim is automatically threatened with idiocy. Of course, this must not be taken to mean that as soon as his endocrinal glands begin to fail him, the average middle-aged man, (besides entering the first stages of old age,) must prepare to become an idiot, in the true sense of the word. This would depend largely upon circumstances, especially upon the extent to which the thyroid gland was being damaged by the lack of fluid formerly generated by the endocrinal glands.

As a matter of fact, the cases are relatively rare, of men who actually become idiots because of their old age. It is a well known fact, though, that, as men grow old, their brain is affected to a degree which may vary with the gravity of the condition of their glands, and which results in loss of memory, childishness or other mental signs of senility.

Now then, while it is quite true that my operation, by rejuvenating the endocrinal glands, stimulates the other glands in the body and causes, to say the least, a very profound improvement of the patient's mental condition, it must not be construed that endocrinal gland graft is the cure for the much dreaded condition of idiocy. To be sure, when the cause of a case of that kind can be traced to atrophy of the thyroid gland which is due to atrophy of the endocrinal glands, a cure of the patient's mental condition can most certainly be expected if, by restoring vigor to the endocrinal glands, the diseased condition of the thyroid is remedied. But, atrophy of the endocrinal glands is not the only thing which can produce atrophy of the thyroid, although in all cases where the thyroid is destroyed, the brain is affected.

When a case of idiocy is due solely to the atrophy of the thyroid, regardless of the cause, the atrophy—or when the mental condition of a patient is due to the fact that he was born without a thyroid gland, there is a remedy which I have repeatedly used with considerable success. It is an operation based on exactly the same principle as endocrinal gland graft, and by means of which I have cured children afflicted with idiocy caused solely by the absence or by the atrophy of the thyroid gland. This remedy consists of supplying the patient with the missing gland or of restoring an existing organ to health if it is diseased, by thyroid gland graft.

I performed my first thyroid gland graft on December 5, 1913, in a successful attempt to restore health to the diseased thyroid gland which caused a fourteen year old child to be a total idiot until after the operation. "Jean G.," as he was listed, was photographed before and after the rejuvenation of his thyroid gland took place. Those pictures show how the operation changed his looks. The fact that after examination by an army medical board, he was sent to the front during the war, will give an idea of the improvement which took place in his mental condition.

I and many other doctors have achieved similar results in a number of other cases which it would take too long to enumerate. I will, however, give one more instance in which I cured an idiot by thyroid gland graft.

Upon examining Georges Poignay, a twelve year old boy of Montresau, (Yonne) I found that he had no thyroid gland. When I informed the mother of the fact and explained to her that the child might be cured by gland graft, she immediately offered to let me remove a part of her own thyroid gland, in an attempt to restore intelligence to her child. I accepted this opportunity to test my theory once more and, shortly after, mother and child went under the knife together.

The operation was completely successful and today, at the age of twenty-four, Georges, who until he was twelve years old, never uttered any but meaningless sounds and showed physical signs of idiocy, is a normal man in every respect. His was an extremely interesting case, not only because like others it demonstrated the soundness of the theory of gland graft as a remedy for certain human ailments but also because it proved conclusively that the absence of the thyroid gland causes idiocy. Such successes which attend the performance of thyroid gland grafts proved to be a tremendous encouragement to me and convinced me still further that the same method used to "rejuvenate" men by endocrinal gland graft would be productive of favorable results. Yet, before I tested by "rejuvenation" operation upon a human being, I proceeded to conduct numerous experiments upon animals.

Perhaps the most striking illustration of the severity of the tests made before any human beings were actually grafted, and which demonstrates at the same time, to what extent life itself and life longevity depend upon the proper functioning of the endocrinal glands, is the case of an old ram which I grafted for the first time in 1918. At the time, the animal was about twelve years of age which, according to statistics, was not very far from the average span of life reached by sheep. It displayed the very obvious signs of great age and, for purposes of comparison, I had it photographed on the day of the operation.

Six months later, the beast had so changed that difficulty was experienced in distinguishing it at short range, from the other and much younger members of the herd. Later on, in order to see the effect it would have, the grafts were removed from the animal's endocrinal glands, with the result that soon after, the ram aged, and neared the point of death. As soon as old age was thus made to return, the animal was re-grafted; this third operation brought one of my most exhaustive tests to a successful end for, once more age was made to give way to youth and the subject was still healthy and "young," when photographed for the second time, in 1926, eight years after it was due to die. To prove that sheep were not the only animals which could be "rejuvenated," I performed my operation on "Jacky," a shamefully and pathetically old member of a fine herd of cattle. Two photographs, one taken before the beast was grafted and the other taken two years afterward, tell the story of the animal's recovery.

Meantime, however, there remained to be accomplished, the proof that the same results could be obtained by endocrinal graft upon human beings, thus once more confirming the fact that "truth is stranger than fiction."

But, before I could perform my first experiment upon the human machine, I had to secure the "spare parts" which I needed in order to effect the contemplated "repairs." My task, however, was very much more difficult than that of the mechanic who can make, or buy, any number of the pieces needed to readjust a man-made mechanically contrivance. Indeed, I could not manufacture human glands and the law prevented me from buying them. So I had to turn to animal life, in my effort to secure fresh glands with which to prolong the lives of human beings. ("All dates, as well as the names of patients which appear in this series of articles, were, at the suggestion of Doctor Voronoff himself, reproduced from Doctor Gieber-Rainbraud's translation of "Le Secret du Docteur Voronoff," by kind permission of its author, the well-known French novelist and journalist, Hector Ghilini.")

The question persists: Are the echoes very Lowden the Black Hills?

Col. Lindbergh wrote his name in a telephone booth at Streator, Ill., January 3, 1926. We just knew some sin would find him out!

Have you ever made good on one job... for 39 years?

THE extra mileage you get from Dunlop tires starts with the fact that Dunlop has had thirty-nine years of tire-building experience—more than any other tire-maker.

Each part of each Dunlop is built right. Dunlop owns its own cotton mills to spin selected long-fibre cotton into the special Dunlop cable-twist cords.

These cords mean extra strength—an added factor of safety against constant load and pounding of roads—longer life and greater mileage.

They mean extra "stretch"—so the tire carcass will give under blows, and come back to its original shape without the slightest injury.

Every Dunlop you buy has extra miles built into it because Dunlop knows each part of its job. That is why we recommend you put Dunlops on your car.

THIS HAS HAPPENED
 Billy Wells, Nyda Lomax and Winnie Shelton are chosen by T. Q. Curtis from his big department store to come into his home as his wards for one year because he wants to help them further ambitions each has expressed.

Billy, ambitious to be a concert violinist, is the only one that is in earnest. The others lie to enjoy his generosity for the year. Billy becomes infatuated with and secretly engaged to Dal Romaine, nephew of Mrs. Meadows, the hostess. Dal is also "playing" Winnie Shelton.

Billy loses interest in her music. T. Q. notices this, and also that Nyda, who professed an ambition to become a kindergarten teacher, is not at all interested in her work. Winnie, who wants to be a private secretary, seeks to win his favor by offering to do his stenographic work in the evenings.

T. Q. discovers his safe has been robbed by someone on the "inside." Suspicion is cast on Billy. She asks Clay Curtis, son of her benefactor, to help her. Clay has disinherited himself and is living with the Wells family, working in a factory by day and writing music at night. Clay forces a confession from Eddie Banning, Nyda's old sweetheart, and Nyda, who also admits being married. T. Q. does not prosecute them.

Winnie finds a document in T. Q.'s desk showing that Billy is to be adopted, and tricks T. Q. into proposal of marriage. Viola, the maid, whom Winnie paid to witness the scene gives the ruse away. T. Q. calls Billy and Mrs. Meadows into the library and tells them the whole thing. When Billy is left alone with T. Q. she confesses that the three girls knew of his plan to adopt one of them all along and they had not played the game fairly. When he tells her he wants her to be his daughter, she refuses, saying she has other plans for her life. She plans to go at once to Romaine and she telephones him at his apartment.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
 CHAPTER LVIII
 Billy set her suitcase down in the hall of the apartment house a few paces from Dal's door before she pressed the bell below a chastely engraved card—"Dalhart Romaine." Over the telephone she had told him only that she must see him immediately at his apartment, had volunteered no explanation whatever of her unusual demand.

"Hello, darling!" He stood before her, immaculate, distinguished, a white gardenia in the lapel of his perfectly fitting coat.

"May I come in, Dal?" she laughed shakily, as he still held the door almost closed behind him.

"I'm taking you to dinner, are you not?" he countered. "I had another engagement, but I called it off, of course. My car is waiting at the curb."

"I've got to talk with you, Dal—privately. Don't be afraid of scandal," she reassured him.

She wondered why he looked so embarrassed as he threw the door wide and stepped aside for her to enter, but when he was in the room she understood. It was a mean little place, so utterly different from the setting in which she had imagined Dal Romaine that she was bewildered. It was a one-room apartment, an open door giving a dismaying glimpse of a tiny bath the tile floor cluttered with soapy towels. The room itself was small, poorly furnished, its crudeness relieved only by a few pieces of carved and painted brass ware from India. There was nothing exotic about it; it was not even very clean—

"Rather poor digs for a gentleman," Dal confessed. "I am in my apartment so little that it never seemed worth while to move. But what is the matter, darling? You frightened me almost out of my senses when you telephoned. I have never heard your voice so agitated."

With an invitation from him, Billy removed her moleskin coat, flung it, with her little jungle green veil, at, across the back of a chair, then, aware that his eyes had been watching her uneasily, she went to him and held out her arms.

"Aren't you glad to see me, Dal? Please say you are, anyway," she begged with a laugh that was not mirthful.

He kissed her briefly, then led her to the disreputable sofa and drew her down to his side. "Something rather sensational has happened. I can tell by the heat light in your eyes and the red danger flag in your cheeks. Tell me, dear. I'm pardonably curious."

She lifted his hand and held it against her cheek as she told him what Winnie Shelton had done. His low, angry exclamation, "My God! the little fool!" did not interrupt the steady flow of her recital.

"So you see, dear, I—I ran away. I couldn't stay there after that. You see that, don't you? It would be too horrible to be left alone there with a stricken old man who has had every reason to lose his faith in human nature." She could not bring herself to tell him of that interview between herself and T. Q. Curtis. That should be their secret. No one should know from her that she had planned a scheme so folly—that of adopting a daughter from among the three selfish schemers to whom he had played benefactor.

"So you are breaking your word to him—leaving before the year is out," Dal said thoughtfully, frowningly.

"But dear, only a week remains of the year," Billy protested, wide-eyed. "He agreed to let me go. Naturally I did not run away without telling him my reasons for leaving. He has been wonderfully kind. I would not hurt him for the world."

"Your desertion at the time of his greatest need must hurt him," Dal insisted, drawing his hand from hers and clenching his fist.

"Your consideration for Mr. Curtis' feelings rather surprise me," Billy retorted almost angrily. "Especially since you two have never liked each other. Oh, Dal, we mustn't quarrel—now!" she cried brokenly. What had happened between them? she asked herself in a panic.

"Of course we mustn't, darling!" he laughed tenderly. "I'm just bewildered, Billy. Your news is so startling. Come, darling, look at me! Can't you read in my eyes that I love you—utterly?"

He lifted the veiling lids slowly, gazed into her eyes deeply, so that gradually she grew limp in his arms, the old powerful spell drugging her body and her mind. Then suddenly, fiercely, he bent his head so that his lips met hers.

"Now," he exulted, "you're going to be a sensible little darling and get back to Mr. Curtis until the year is up, when you can leave in honor."

His words shocked her into silence. "When the year is up—why was he so insistent? Did he guess—did he know?"

She drew herself entirely out of the circle of his arms. "I'm not going back, Dal. If—if you don't want me, I'll go home—my real home, I mean—my mother's. She will take me in." She began to sob, in fright and self-pity.

"Darling, darling," he remonstrated gently. "Don't be a baby. Of course I want you—"

"Then we can be married—tonight!" She melted toward him again.

"Tonight? That's rather short notice, isn't it, darling?" he teased her. "What about a license?"

"Is that all?" Billy grinned at him. "Nyda and Eddie Banning were married in the middle of the night at Chatham, and I'm sure Eddie didn't already have the marriage license. Why couldn't we follow the same program?"

"Billy, dear, please don't be angry, but I think it would be much more sensible—and beautiful—if we waited until April as we had planned. No, don't fly out at me," he begged, as she sprang to her feet with an angry exclamation. "What I want you to do is to go back to Mr. Curtis until the year is up—"

"Dal Romaine, if you say those words one more time I'll never speak to you again!" Billy surprised herself and stumped Dal Romaine by stamping her foot at him. "I've humiliated myself enough already by asking you to marry me tonight instead of waiting, but I won't repeat the request! Don't fear."

"My dear Mignon!" Dal recovered himself with remarkable swiftness and took her clenched hands into his. "I'm sorry! Forgive me, darling! I was just trying to protect you, and to make it beautiful, not a hurried elopement. My own affairs are not in the best of shape—"

"Please, we won't discuss it any more!" Billy tried to wrench her hands from his. "I have my bag outside the door. I'm going to mother. I'll get a job at something and—"

"She tried to keep her voice from breaking on a sob, but failed. "You blessed, darling little infant!" Dal's caressing voice crooned over her as he took her in his arms. "Nothing matters to me but your happiness. Come now, smile pretty for the gentleman! That's better! Excuse me now, dear, while I throw

Healthy Women Get Most Pleasure

It is perfectly obvious that the women and girls who have a sufficient supply of energy and vitality to go and do like they want to do, get the most out of life.

This is one of the reasons so many thousands of women and girls everywhere are now using St. Joseph's G. F. P. to build them up and strengthen them.

Mrs. Viola Fulco, who lives in Shreveport, La., at 1453 Laurel St., says, "I really owe half the pleasure I get out of life to St. Joseph's G. F. P. Before I started using this medicine, my work tired me so. I never felt like going out and enjoying myself. But now I have so much strength and energy. I get my work done in hardly any time, and am never too tired to go and have a good time."

In many instances St. Joseph's Antiseptic Powder used externally in connection with St. Joseph's G. F. P. will be found very soothing.

Women have used St. Joseph's G.F.P. for over 50 years!
