ELIMINATES PAY FOR HIS OFFICE HELP

Appropriations That Have Been Vetoed Now
Totals Over $686,000

By United Press.
AUSTIN, June 18.—Governor Dan Moody whittled $239,600 out of the departmental appropriation bill in vetoes filed today, bringing the grand total of appropriations vetoed up to date $686,860. These include the educational, eleemosynary emergency and judiciary bills. The governor is yet to act on the miscellaneous claims and accounts bill.

Practically every department received the veto ax for some amount. The governor vetoed the provision in the bill for the comptroller to use the liquor permit fees in the enforcement of liquor laws. This appropriation was advocated by the W. C. T. U.

An item of $1,500 annually for a stenographer in the governor's office was eliminated. In vetoing the various items the governor said that "efficiency of the several departments will not be impaired by the elimination."

JIM REED TURNS GUN ON FEDERAL GOVERNMENT

By United Press.
JOHNSON CITY, Tenn., June 18.—If the march toward centralization is arrested soon, state governments might as well cease to exist, Senator James A. Reed, democrat, Missouri, told the Tennessee bar association today.

Reed warned against "ultimate despotism" which would result, he said, from continued usurpation of state powers.

He denounced corruption in high office.

He named two federal laws including prohibition and protective tariff as violating state rights.

"The present tariff stands like a robber by the highway, leaving tribute," he said.

Reed assailed the United States supreme court decision upholding federal regulation for medical liquor prescription.

He attacked the proposed child labor amendment to the constitution as an invasion of parental rights.

Colorado Negro Moved From Town For Safe Keeping

By United Press.
COLORADO, Texas, June 18.—Zach Chappell, negro held in connection with the death of J. W. Curran, 20, white youth, killed during an altercation between three white and three negro youths yesterday was removed to a neighboring town for safe keeping today.

Bitter feeling against negroes was rife here today and authorities declined to state what jail the negro was taken to.

Stray Bullet Hits Ft. Worth Youth; He Will Recover

FORT WORTH, June 18.—J. B. Standifer, 20, is in a hospital with a bullet wound over his left breast as a result of a wild shot fired last night by a motorcycle officer at a speeding motorist, in a chase that covered a dozen blocks culminating with the arrest of a speeder when his car plunged over an embankment. Standifer will recover.

VISIBILITY IS POOR, NAVY OFFERS BIRDS

Will Be Released 300
Miles From Islands
And Lead Flyers In

By United Press.
HONOLULU, June 18.—Hawaiian red homing pigeons are ready to guide Lieutenant Lester J. Maitland and other aviators competing for the goal prize straight to the outskirts of Honolulu. The 100 per cent efficient pilots were prepared for shipment today, the gift of the navy to all air-men desiring to use them.

Because of the poor visibility of the Hawaiian islands and the danger of swerving from the course and meeting disaster as Commander John Rodgers did in 1925, the navy has advised the use of birds. They would be released 300 miles from the islands and the aviators would follow them straight to Pearl harbor.

AUTOMOBILE DEALERS TO MEET JUNE 21

Automobile dealers from all over the Oil Belt will gather in Ranger on Tuesday evening at the Ghelson hotel for the purpose of organizing an Oil Belt Automobile Dealers association as a sequel to a meeting held in Ranger two weeks ago when dealers from Eastland, Rising Star, Cisco, De Leon, Breckenridge, Putnam, and Gorman were guests of the Ranger Automobile Dealers association at a banquet.

While the first meeting was called for the purpose of eventually forming an Oil Belt association, the Ranger dealers did not dream that the project would go over as quickly as it did and that their hope of an association that would cover the entire Oil Belt would so soon be realized.

The organization of an Oil Belt Association is conceded to be the biggest step that dealers in this part of the state have ever taken and its completion will work far towards the benefit of the dealer as well as the buyer.

Man Mistaken For Kimes Killed By Station Owner

OKEMAH, Okla., June 18.—The phantom-like appearance of Matthew Kimes, Oklahoma's masquerading outlaw, today were blamed for another life, but at his own hands.

Claiming that he believed the man to be Kimes, and that he was the intended victim of a holdup, M. L. Lindsey, filling station owner nine miles east of here last night opened fire on a group of five young men who asked to buy tobacco, killing Paul Eddington, 25, of Bryant, Okla., instantly.

County authorities today held Lindsey for investigation and detained Eddington's four companions for questioning.

Price Is Set On The Heads of Two Oklahoma Bad Men

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., June 18.—A price of 3,000 each was set on the heads of Matthew Kimes and Ray Terrell, Oklahoma outlaws, in rewards posted by the Oklahoma State Bankers association tonight. Hoping to "stimulate peace officers and citizens" in apprehension of the notorious pair accredited with least 100 robberies in the Oklahoma territory, the Oklahoma bankers raked the reward shall be in effect for 30 days following its posting.

"Aye, Aye, Sir!"

Vice Admiral Henry Wiley (above), a native of Alabama, has been designated next commander in chief of the al Charles F. Hughes. Admiral Hughes has held the command for two years, and has been promoted to chief of naval operations at Washington.

BROTHERS ARE ACQUITTED ON MURDER COUNT

TEXARKANA, June 18.—Charles and Reggie Prices, brothers, were acquitted of the murder of Henry Hooper, by a jury in the Arkansas circuit court here today.

Charles pleaded the unwritten law, claiming Hooper had alienated the affections of Mrs. Price and broken up his home.

Hooper was slain while he was returning Mrs. Price to the home of her father after they had attended a dance.

Two Will Bid On Extensions Of Air Mail Routes

By United Press.
FORT WORTH, June 18.—At least two bidders will seek air mail extension from Fort Worth and Dallas to San Antonio and Houston it became known today with the announcement that Wm. H. Dunning Jr., Fort Worth oil man will place his bid for the extension with Postmaster General New before July 5.

National Air Transport, Inc., which operates the service from here to Chicago and from Chicago to New York has previously announced its intention of bidding on the project.

Both bidders will ask for five months time to inaugurate the service after the contract is let.

Juan Cardenas Fourth Brother Is Slain In Feud

By United Press.
McALLEN, June 18.—Juan N. Cardenas, the fourth of the Cardenas brothers to fall victim of a family feud that has been going on nearly 10 years was shot to death on the platform of the railroad station at Monterrey, Mexico, received here today.

The feud which originated at Matamoros, Mexico, over a "love triangle" had taken lives of 10 persons. Of the six Cardenas brothers, only two are now living.

GERMAN PLANS FLIGHT FROM BERLIN TO SAN FRANCISCO

By United Press.
BERLIN, June 18.—Pilot Oscar Koennecke, announced plans today for a non-stop flight from Berlin to San Francisco via New York. Koennecke, said he would require 53 hours for the flight.

Will Rogers Is Worrying Only Of Size of Scar

By United Press.
LOS ANGELES, June 18.—A mere operation for gall stones is nothing much to Will Rogers, former cowboy who rose to become mayor of Beverly Hills, movie colony, by dint of his nationally humorous writing.

Rogers was rushed to the hospital and operated on Wednesday. He soon regained consciousness and today was worrying over the size of the scar.

The "wondering mayor," as he likes to term himself, is coming along "splendidly" physicians said, probably because of his excellent physical condition.

EDITORS VISIT COOLIDGE'S IN SUMMER HOME

By United Press.
RAPID CITY, S. D., June 18.—Two hundred members of the National Editorial Association rolled into Rapid City early today aboard a special train and in automobiles to stage a buffalo state barbecue near the state game lodge and to meet President Coolidge.

The party came direct from Omaha where the editors have been in convention. The townspeople were out to meet them and the American flags which had lined Main street when Mr. Coolidge arrived Wednesday were still aloft. Automobiles took the editors up into the hills to Galena near the state lodge. Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge are to hold a reception for them this afternoon at the Summer White House.

Both the President and the First Lady now are comfortably settled in their new surroundings. Mrs. Coolidge has already had an opportunity to catch up with her knitting.

FLYERS DELAY SAN DIEGO HOP UNTIL SUNDAY

By United Press.
SAN ANTONIO, June 18.—Lieutenant Lester J. Maitland and Albert Hegenberger, army aviators, who hope to be the first in spanning the Pacific from San Francisco to Hawaii, delayed their hop for San Diego today until 1 p. m. tomorrow when they will take off for El Paso, Texas.

SAYS DAWES WILL BE HIS RUNNING MATE

Senator Declares He Knows and Can Speak
With Some Authority

By United Press.
YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio, June 18.—Senator Simon D. Fess, a confidant of President Coolidge, declared definitely in a speech here that Calvin Coolidge would be a candidate for a third term. "I am in a position to state authoritatively without breaking confidence that President Coolidge will be a candidate," Fess declared at a banquet given in his honor last night.

The ticket will be Coolidge and Dawes unless some great industrial change occurs before time for the nomination.

CHANG MADE DICTATOR IN NORTH CHINA

By United Press.
PEKIN, June 18.—Marshal Chang Tso-lin, most powerful military ruler in China was inaugurated today as civil and military dictator of the North, with headquarters at Peking. The inauguration took place at the Presidential palace.

How Do You Stand?

The Ranger Daily Times has decided to give its readers an opportunity to express their wishes regarding a very important movement—the movement for the erection of a new courthouse in Eastland county.

The time is drawing near when every voter in the county will be called on to vote either for or against a $300,000 bond issue for the purpose of building and furnishing a new courthouse.

In the first paragraph below write either the word (favor) or (oppose) in the blank space.

The extended blank space is for you to state briefly your reasons for favoring or opposing the movement for a new courthouse. Let the people of the county have your views on the proposition.

From time to time the results of this straw vote will be made public.

Cruiser Sydney To Be Destroyed Under Arms Pact

By A. W. V. KING,
United Press Staff Correspondent.
SYDNEY.—Doomed to the scrap heap because she has become obsolete and will shortly be superseded by two new 10,000-ton cruisers, is the Australian cruiser Sydney, heroine of a tremendous battle with the renowned German raider Emden near Cocos Island (Indian ocean) in November, 1914.

The Sydney, with other warships, including Japanese, was escorting nearly 30 transports of Australia's first contingent of soldiers to Egypt when the radio buzzed with the news that the Emden was landing men to wreck the cable station at Cocos. Sold off to put paid to the Emden's account—a job allied warships had been trying to do for three months—the Sydney raced at full speed for Cocos. Off the island the Emden was sighted and a two-hour battle was fought before the Emden was driven a battered wreck on the rocks at Cocos.

The Sydney was damaged, too, but patched up at Colombo, she saw service throughout the great war, and much peace-time service since. But now her day is done. She will go to a grave at the bottom of the sea, as did the flagship of the Australian navy, the Austria, after the Washington disarmament treaty decreed that battleships' end.

Attempts were made to work up a sentiment against the scrapping of the Sydney, but these have failed. The feeling is held that the expense of maintaining the ship in full or partial commission or as a mere floating hulk would not be offset by any sentimental gain. Nor do naval authorities favor a suggestion that the Sydney should be retained as a training ship for young recruits. The proposal that she could lie at anchor under a "care and maintenance" party would cost $50,000 a year. Finally, it is urged that for the Sydney to be kept as a commemoration of Australia's first naval battle until she rusted to an inglorious old age would make her an unkempt, unsightly mockery of all the splendid traditions which she was intended to perpetuate.

So unless plans are changed, the Sydney will nose-dive into the deep blue off Sydney Heads with all her memories of the battle of Cocos Island.

Ranger Men Will Leave Today For Trip on Special

L. R. Pearson, Ranger attorney and member of the city commission and Walter Murray, president of the Times Publishing company, leave this morning for Dallas to join other Texans on the All-Texas Special that will leave there for eastern cities today.

Most towns the size of Ranger have only one representative and some none. Ranger feels very proud to have two representatives who will go with other Texas missionaries into the east to tell people each place they stop of Texas and especially its empire that starts at that mooted point, "out where the West begins."

The highest recorded waterfall in the world is the Stirling Falls in New Zealand, 1,904 feet high.

Export Trade of United States Shows Increase

The export trade of the United States during the first four months of the year was more than $100,000,000, in excess of the volume of exports for the corresponding period of 1926, according to information just received from the United States department of commerce by Ernest L. Tutt, manager of the department's southwest district office at Houston.

Every grand trade division of the whole world took more American goods in the first four months of this year than during the same period last year, Tutt says. Europe this year bought $760,431,543 as compared with $712,031,541 in 1926. North America took $386,904,167 and $367,123,474 for the two years respectively, while takings for the respective years from other grand divisions were: South America $154,442,665, against $145,935,429; Asia $209,308,710 and $187,945,428; Oceania $69,120,565 compared with $66,533,406, and Africa $36,008,092 in 1927 against $32,852,082 in 1926.

Figures showing the exports from the United States covering the first four months of the year for each of the 37 leading foreign markets for American products are shown in a statement just issued by the department. Tutt calls attention to the fact that these trade figures indicate that the United States is growing in world trade from year to year and capable of successfully competing in the world markets.

This is Banana Week in Eastland County, Get Yours

Yes, we have plenty of bananas. In fact this will be banana week in Eastland county and merchants in Ranger and Eastland are putting their banana "foot" foremost. Stores of these two cities through the West Texas Produce company, who is in turn co-operating with the Fruit Dispatch Company of New York is telling customers and others that they have plenty of the yellow fruit, through the medium of newspaper advertising, window displays and by word of mouth.

A big stalk of big bananas, well displayed is a most irresistible sight and during this week many a customer will fall victim to its charm, and buy anywhere from one to a dozen at a time.

Bananas are really a most important article of food and banana week in Eastland county will educate the general public to just what a prominent part this popular fruit holds in the realm of foods.

Bananas can be eaten the whole year round and are always available. They are good eaten raw or cooked and form the basis of many delightful desserts.

Housewives in Ranger and Eastland are asked to observe banana week by letting banana head their morning order to their grocer and serving them in some way during each day.

Good cook books abound in recipes for preparing bananas in wholesome and dainty ways. For instance what could be more appetizing and pleasing to the jaded palate than a salad made by cutting a banana in half, scooping out the center, filling the empty shell with cocoanut, chopped cherries and nuts and topping it off with whipped cream dressing made by combining mayonnaise with whipped cream, and dotting it over with marshmallows?

June 'Teenth Is Quiet Affair In Ranger Saturday

June 'teenth celebration which was observed Saturday, passed away very quietly in Ranger. It was true that most housekeepers were mailless and workers in the various business houses were up bright and early to get their chores done up so they could go to the 'mancipation that was held at Shamrock Park Saturday.

A barbecue, and a dance were the main features of the day and both were participated in by a large number of Ranger and other Eastland county colored folks.

Chamberlin's Winning Smile

Here is Pilot Clarence D. Chamberlin, first man to fly an airplane from New York to Germany. He inherited his pioneering bent from his father, E. C. Chamberlin of Des Moines, Iowa, who was the first man in that town to own an automobile. Clarence, as a freckled youngster, got his first mechanical experience tinkering with the car.

ROGERS HORNSBY AND FRANKIE FRISCH IN DUEL FOR BIG HONORS

By BILLY EVANS.
The duel between Rogers Hornsby and Frankie Frisch as to which is the more valuable player goes merrily on. Hornsby continues to show the way at the bat, while Frisch enjoys a commanding lead as a base-runner. In the field there has been but little to choose between the two, both playing brilliantly.

The last time I glanced at the averages each star had played 40 games. During that time Frisch had stolen 13 bases to one for Hornsby. Such figures would make it appear as if Frisch was much the faster man, yet in reality such is far from being the case. As a matter of fact, Hornsby recently challenged Frisch to meet him in a 100-yard dash to determine the dispute definitely. If the two ever meet in such a race it wouldn't surprise me at all if Hornsby was returned the victor. He has great speed and a long stride, best fitted for the straight-away running.

Need More Than Speed.
Sheer speed alone doesn't make a great base-runner. Speed is merely one of the factors. I could name perhaps a dozen ball players, who I am sure could step 100 yards in close to 10 seconds, yet who are far from being good base-runners. Speed is a great help in getting to first. Likewise, it is a decided advantage in trying to go the limit on an extra base hit. Still, speed doesn't necessarily mean that the player possessing it is above the ordinary as a baserunner.

The ability to take a commanding lead, then get the break with the pitcher, ending the attempt with a deceptive slide, are three other things aside from speed that a clever base-runner must have. In truth, some of the best base-runners in the history of baseball have been players with only average speed but highly developed in the other attributes.

Views of Moriarty.
There is George Moriarty, now manager of the Detroit Tigers, who has also served as a big league player and umpire. While far from a speed merchant, Moriarty in his day as a player was one of the most skilful base-runners I have ever followed around the paths. A good lead at the right spot makes a good base-runner more than all the speed in the world, Moriarty says. In stealing home, those two elements enter more strongly than in the theft of second or third. When I was telling you that Moriarty stole home successfully in 15 out of 17 consecutive attempts over a period of two years, you will realize what I am driving at in deprecating the extraordinary value speed is supposed to have in the makeup of a good base-runner.

17,000 DOGS KILLED BY MOSCOW AUTHORITIES

By United Press.
MOSCOW.—More than 17,000 dogs were killed on the Moscow streets in one night, in the municipal government's strenuous fight to reduce the danger of mad dog bites. The city has 200,000 dogs among its 2,000,000 inhabitants, according to official estimates, and more than half of them are homeless animals. The spread of rabies among the packs of stray and wandering curs is a great danger, the health and police authorities believe, and stringent regulations for safeguarding the people are being enforced. A fine of $50 is compulsory upon every dog-owner whose animal is not kept muzzled and on a leash when in the streets or parks. The police are enforcing the rule strictly.

De Autremont Twins Caught

Postal inspectors, after a four-year hunt, have captured the famous De Autremont twins, Roy (above) and Ray, at Steubenville, O. A third brother, Hugh, was caught several months ago in the Philippines where he was serving in the army. The brothers are charged with holding up a train near Siskiyou, Ore., and killing a mail clerk and three trainmen. Hugh is now on trial.

Work on Tiffin Highway Shows Good Progress

The road to Tiffin via the Tee Pee and Sinclair Oil camps is being rapidly improved, following an offer made the city commission of Ranger recently by the manager of the Thurber Earthware products company to furnish chat for the road provided the city would put the road in shape and spread the chat. The proposition which also carried an offer of chat for the road that leads from Leville-Maher company's plant on Main street to the top of Eastland Hill where it joins the county road, was snapped up in double quick time. Commissioner V. V. Cooper got busy with his grader and leveled the road up and late Saturday afternoon the grading extended to the bridge on the other side of the Tee Pee camp and chat was piled on the sides of the road ready to be spread up to the Hamon-Kell crossing near the Lincoln Tank company. Street Commissioner Hall Walker has spent the better part of the last two days looking after the chatting of the road which is being rapidly completed at the other end of the road and working towards Ranger.

Thar's Gold for Tex in Fights

Tex Rickard used to be a gold miner, but he never had any claims that paid as much as these fights he's putting on this summer will pay. He has several of the leading fighters in the country billed to appear under his management, including Honorable Mr. Gene Tunney, the champion, and he expects to take in two or three million dollars from his bouts this summer.

Clementine Corson, of New York, who last year was the second woman to succeed in crossing from Griz Nez to Dover, has already established her training camp at Deal. Miss Mercedes Gleitze, London typist, heroine of many unsuccessful attempts, has signified her intention of making yet another attempt from Kolkestone during her annual vacation in July. Mrs. Rose Weidman, widow of Jack Weidman, trainer of Lillian Cannon, of Baltimore, who made two unsuccessful attempts last year, is training meticulously in the open sea at Dover in readiness for her attempts next month.

Male contestants are conspicuous by their absence. No mention has yet been made of any member of the "hardier" sex attempting, even from the French side. Perhaps, woman's success last year have disheartened them and they are content to accept the theory that a woman's constitution is better able to withstand the cold and difficult waters of the English Channel.

Warm weather broke early over England this year, and as a consequence the Channel is warmer now than it has been for many seasons during this period of the year. If the fine weather continues it will be ideal for Channel attempts during July and August.

Mrs. Corson is favored by experts here to be the first woman to conquer the Channel from the English side. Whether she will succeed this year, is the one topic along the coast.

DO STRIKEOUTS LOSE PENNANTS AMONG MAJORS

By BILLIE EVANS
Do strikeouts make major league pennants?

On the surface that is a rather ambiguous statement. Sounds very much like one of those foolish questions at which you merely laugh.

However, if you believe in figures and someone has said that figures never lie, you would be forced to reach the conclusion that the surest way to win a pennant is over the strikeout route.

Last season the New York Yankees won the pennant in the American league. While compiling the base hits that meant a championship, the Yanks struck out 580 times.

The 580 strikeouts gave the Yankees the questionable distinction of leading in that department of play by a wide margin. As a matter of fact, Huggins & Co. was the only club to go over the 500 mark. It is a rather striking coincidence that Cleveland, the club that finished second, struck out least of any of the eight teams. The Indians whiffed only 331 times, practically 250 less than the New York club.

In Same Boat as Yanks.
In the National League the St. Louis Cardinals struck out 518 times. It is a matter of record that while so doing they went out and won the pennant and climaxed the performance by taking the world series.

In like manner to Cleveland, the Cincinnati Reds, who finished second in the national, struck out the fewest number of times, 333. The Cardinals were also the only team to go over the 500 mark in strikeouts in their league.

Last season Tony Lazzeri struck out 96 times, Ruth was close up with 76 and Gehrig a good third with 72. These three great sluggers in round numbers whiffed 250 times.

In between strikeouts, the Yankees sprayed the various big league parks with enough singles, doubles, triples and home runs to capture a championship. The Cardinals did likewise in the National.

This year the Yankees are again setting a dizzy pace for the rest of the American League, while the Cardinals are holding their own in the National.

Free Swingers Whiff Often.
While getting a flying start in the American, the Yankees have shown an even stronger tendency to strike out than last year. Their record for fanning during the first two months of play exceeded that of last season by a considerable margin.

The reason for the seemingly excessive number of strikeouts by the Yankees and Cardinals is explained in one sentence, both are free swinging clubs.

Free swingers like speed, pitchers who can slow up make plenty of trouble for them. Undoubtedly the Yankees and the Cardinals get a greater variety of carefully selected pitching than any two other clubs in the majors. A change of pace is an awful upset to a fast ball stance.

"They can strike out 100 times this year as far as I'm concerned," says

Manager Miller Huggins, "just so long as in between they produce enough hits and runs to win a pennant."

JURORS IN 88TH DISTRICT COURT EXCUSED FOR WEEK

Channel Swimming

By SIDNEY J. WILLIAMS

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

DOVER.—To swim the English Channel from England to France will be the one aim of long distance swimmers from all over the world during the coming "Channel swimming season."

Only three times has this feat been accomplished, and never by a woman. Captain Webb, pioneer among Channel swimmers, swam from Dover to Calais in 21 hours 45 minutes on August 24-25, 1875. Thirty-six years elapsed before another successful attempt was recorded. On September 5-6, 1911, Thomas William Burgess, burly Yorkshireman, now famous as the trainer of the first woman to swim the Channel—Gertrude Ederle—made the crossing from Dover to Calais in 22 hours 35 minutes.

An American success followed four years later. Henry Sullivan succeeded on August 5-6, 1923, after battling the tides between Dover and Calais for 27 hours 25 minutes. Dover boatmen still talk of this memorable feat and declare it to be the finest swim known in the history of Channel attempts despite last year's record-breaking successes.

It is safe to say that the first woman to succeed in crossing from England to France will achieve as much fame and notoriety as Gertrude Ederle did when the world hailed her as the Channel's first woman conqueror.

Old-time Channel swimmers, as well as Channel pilots, declare it to be a much more difficult feat than swimming from France to England. They aver that the tides are much trickier, while the coterie of trainers have never studied the Dover-Calais crossing as they have the reverse course. The latter has now become a more matter of swimming to schedule, so well have the tides and currents been charted.

The Channel, therefore, if attempted from the English side, will still present its terrors and vagaries until the tides and currents on this stretch of water have been mastered by methodical study. It took over fifty years to map a course assuring maximum possibilities of success from the French side. Channel enthusiasts are now wondering how long it will take old-timers to chart a similar route from Dover.

Three women have decided to attempt to swim the Channel from England to France this season. Mrs.

GERMAN REPUBLIC RESTIVE UNDER PRUSSIAN DOMINATION

By J. W. T. MASON
(Written for the United Press)

Reconstruction of the German republic's federal system of government is being agitated by an increasing number of citizens to bring to an end the continuous effort of Prussia to run the entire nation.

Before the world war Prussian militarism dominated the Berlin government and the semi-absolutist rule which the Hohenzollerns sought to maintain.

Since the war, Prussian socialism has replaced the former militarist regime but the egoistic spirit still prevails. Prussian socialists see constantly to dominate the federal government at Berlin just as in the previous era Prussian militarists tried to make the rest of Germany subservient to them.

The federal government of Germany is controlled by the Catholic center party and the land owning Junkers both strongly opposed to socialism. There have been many clashes between the federal authorities and the Prussian government for this reason and the strife is growing more bitter. Socialistic Prussia considers all Germany should follow the socialist banner to keep in step with Prussian music precisely as the historic Prussia forced her way upon the rest of the nation. Only those who are now a more general criterion of Prussia than before. Formerly the Prussian war lords were able to overwhelm opposition but Germany is now more independent for the present, realizing how distant the Prussian lead turned out to be.

The federal system of Germany differs from the American principle in that the differences between national and state government are not as closely defined in Germany as in the United States. There is no final authority in Germany acting as a permanent arbitrator between the national and state governments such as the Supreme court gives to the United States. Consequently no room exists for wrangling between conflicting officials, representing in effect different governments.

There are eighteen different states in the German union. Prussia is change might result, in Moscow as well as in the other capitals. The Russians, co-operating as far as they could for peace and economic stability, would give a new idea of themselves in Europe would gain a new idea of their associates at the league and this seems to be the goal toward which the Germans are working. They are trying to bring Russia and Europe together at Geneva. If Russia were to join the League of Nations without reservations, it would be a major diplomatic victory for Germany which might well react to Germany's large gain in the future.

Poor Attendance At Church Due To Bad Decoration

DERBY, England.—An appeal to brighten the interior decorations of English churches in order to increase the attendances, was made by the bishop of the Southwell diocese at the diocesan conference.

One of the causes of the alienation of many people from the fellowship of Christ's religion, he said, is the shock they receive when they enter a church that is full of poor and inadequate, and even shabby furniture.

"I admit," the bishop went on, "that in regard to furniture and fittings there is a difficulty, because it is so much easier to secure the products of commercialism than the personal work of a craftsman."

"To enter a thirteenth or fourteenth century church dating from a time when it seemed to have been impossible to put up ugly buildings, and to find pitchpine seats the color of orange-peel and supplied with magnetite hassocks is to be tortured almost beyond endurance."

Alternately, to enter a Norman church and discover a flimsy altar with a frontal like an antimacassar and ornaments which recall the mantel-piece of lodgings at the seaside is to be moved almost to tears of indignation.

SIR DOUGLAS HAIG, 66, CELEBRATES BIRTHDAY

LONDON, June 18.—Ten years ago tomorrow Sir Douglas Haig left his headquarters at Montreuil and motored to the front lines of that sector. He spent from 11 o'clock in the morning until 3 o'clock in the afternoon conferring with his officers in the line. By 4 o'clock he was back in his headquarters studying the plans for the impending third battle of Ypres. Thus did the field marshal commanding the British forces in France and Flanders spend his fifty-sixth birthday.

Tomorrow, Earl Haig, Viscount of Davick, Baron of Haig, to the British people the hero of the world war and the idol of every man who served under him, will celebrate his sixty-sixth birthday with his family at his estate in Roxburghshire.

Lord Haig was born on June 19, 1861, at Cameronbridge, Scotland. He started his actual military career in 1885 when he joined the Seventh Hussars and served in the Sudan campaign of 1898 and later in Arabia and Khartoum. Haig was first mentioned in despatches during the latter campaign. He was appointed a staff officer to General French, the man whom many years later he was to succeed as commanding officer of all British forces—in the Colesberg operations.

At the outbreak of the world war, Haig was commanding the First army and became commander-in-chief of the British forces in 1918.

BERLIN, June 18.—The American flyers Clarence D. Chamberlin and Charles A. Levine and their wives arrived last night in airplanes from Hamburg to be greeted by a huge crowd. Husbands and wives had been reunited at Bremen earlier in the day.

Another Waiver Man Turns Out To Be Star Player

By BILLIE EVANS

How did all the American League teams waive on First Baseman Joe Harris?

That thought occurred to me very strongly last winter when the wire reports carried the information that Pittsburgh had taken Joe Harris over the waiver route from Washington.

During the past month I have given more consideration to the matter, and since Harris has been starring for Pittsburgh, the answer is still a mystery to me.

Joe Harris is slow of foot, I know, but he never was a speed merchant.

He isn't a brilliant fielder but he always could and still can hit the old apple.

In these days of hit-and-run baseball any player who can hit .300 is worthy of considerable attention, despite any other weaknesses he may have.

That's the kind of a guy Joe Harris is. During his major league career he has been a consistent .300 batsman, having an average of .318 over a seven year period.

Pirate Took Chance

Despite his great ability as a batsman seven American League clubs passed up the chance to get Harris when Washington asked for waivers and Pittsburgh was the only National League club that was willing to take a gamble with Harris at the waiver price.

Manager Donie Bush, who starred as an American League player for years, was familiar with the true worth of Harris as a batsman, otherwise he might have skidded on to the minors.

In all probability, the great batting of Joe Harris against Pittsburgh in the 1924 world series with Washington influenced the Pittsburgh club in taking him over.

Harris, it will be recalled, was the batting hero of the series. His timely hitting kept Washington in the running. His average was .440 and he got 11 hits in 25 times at bat.

Passed up by 15 major league ball clubs, we now find Joe Harris leading a pennant punch to the Pittsburgh offense and also performing most capably in the field.

Began Win Streak

For a month this spring Joe Harris sat on the Pittsburgh bench, little more than a spectator. The Pirates started with a splurge, winning seven out of the first eight games.

Then came a severe slump, Bush's team dropping from first to fifth place with a thud, with a percentage around the 500 mark.

Donie Bush was desperate at the sudden unexpected turn of affairs. He realized he needed more punch at the bat. Hal Rhyme at second was fielding well enough but couldn't hit 'em safe.

Bush made a drastic change in an effort to get more batting strength into his lineup. He shifted Grant-lam from first to second, a position he played with varying success while with the Chicago Cubs, and sent Joe Harris to first.

The day that Bush shifted Harris to first base the Pirates started a winning streak of 11 straight games.

that eventually carried them to the top of the National League race.

Harris Could be Used

During a recent winning streak of the Pirates Harris made 23 hits in 32 times at bat, a truly remarkable performance. During that stretch he at one time reached first base 12 times in succession, either through the medium of hits or bases on balls.

At this stage of the race in the American League there are several managers who could use Joe Harris at first base to advantage.

No doubt he would be much welcomed by Tom's Mark. Jim Poole, who played first base most of the time last year, and the recruit Iron-nore have failed at the bat. The latter, a star in the American Association, was touted as certain to deliver.

SECOND WELL ON EASTLAND CITY PROPERTY IS IN

The second producing well to be brought in on lands owned by the city of Eastland is the Lew Teatsorth No. 2, one and one-half miles east of the city, which came in Saturday morning for 60 barrels per day at 1,400 feet. The first well on this tract is producing only about half this amount of oil.

J. E. Lewis and Dorothy Oil company's Hargus No. 2, adjoining the city's holdings, is showing for fully as good a well as the Teatsorth No. 2. The Hargus came in a few days ago following a shot. It is also in the Teatsorth pool.

C. M. Root's Thorpe No. 1, which came in for a 6,000,000-cubic foot gasser, and which is a one-half mile extension north of the Gordon pool, is spraying oil and gives promise of being a good producer. Mr. Root, who is in California, is hurrying home and the well will be drilled in upon his arrival here. The Thorpe well is producing from the Bond sand, which is higher than the Ranger pay from which the first wells drilled in this pool are producing.

Cranfill & Reynolds' Spencer No. 2, in the McAllister pool, is flowing by heads following a shot. The amount of production is yet undetermined. The Prairie Oil & Gas

TULSA MAKING PREPARATIONS FOR OIL SHOW

Special Correspondence.

TULSA, Okla., June 18.—Coincident with the formal announcement of plans for the fourth international petroleum exposition and congress here Sept. 24 to Oct. 1, work was started on the shaping up of a 20-acre tract and the removal of desired buildings and equipment from the old and crowded quarters downtown to the large and easily reached site in the eastern part of the city. The first week of decisive preparation was also marked by the opening of general offices and the starting of correspondence to all parts of the world.

The vigorous start on shaping up the exposition came with an announcement from the directors that they considered the exposition necessary to be held this year for the reason that discoveries, developments and improvements have multiplied in two years and that the developers of processes and machines and appliances and the men who need them right away have no common meeting ground outside the exposition. It was emphatically declared by the directors that the oil industry, in its present dullness and uncertainty, will readily avail itself of the opportunity to find ways of reducing overhead costs and enforcing economies of operation generally. In the exposition period will be held the international congress.

To make the success of the exposition a matter of real benefit to the oil industry, all distractions are eliminated from the program. There are to be no pageants or royalty appearances; no queens or central social events; no carnival or midway. Whatever general public amusements may be provided will be somewhere else.

The general size of the exposition will be greatly increased in the new location. The two main buildings will be connected at one end by a large structure and this U-shaped arrangement will constitute a court. The central feature will be an enormous derrick and machinery exhibits in operation.

Liquor Charges Filed After Two Raids Are Made

Complaints charging Clarence (Tuffy) Thompson of Cisco with possession of liquor for the purpose of sale and with transporting liquor, and L. G. Williamson of north Eastland with manufacturing liquor and having it in his possession, were filed in Justice of the Peace Jim Steele's court in Eastland Saturday afternoon following raids made on the two men's homes by Eastland county officers.

Williamson gave bond in the sum of $750 in each case and was released. About sixteen gallons of beer, some of which was in a keg, was found at Williamson's place, officers stated.

At the home of Thompson a Packard touring car, in which officers stated they found a quantity of liquor packed and ready to be transported, was confiscated. A large quantity of whiskey and beer was found about the premises. Manufacturing and bottling equipment was also found the officers said.

In the raiding party that visited Thompson's home were Sheriff John Hart and deputies, Paine, Bradford and Boland. Making the raid on the Williamson place were Sheriff Hart and deputies Paine, Hammett, Bradford and Assistant District Attorney Sterling Holloway.

CRIMINAL CASES SCHEDULED FOR TRIAL DURING WEEK

The following criminal cases are among those scheduled for trial this week in the Ninety-first district court, according to an announcement made Saturday by Assistant District Attorney Sterling Holloway:

Bruno Lopez, assault with intent to murder.

E. D. Dillon, sale of mortgaged property.

McKinley Bramble, burglary.

W. T. Howard, liquor.

E. G. Hafle, liquor.

Her husband (below) threatened to kill her unless she poisoned Clifford Cox, her first cousin, Mrs. Dorothea Walser, 16 (above), related in a signed statement to police at Fairmount, Ind. Mrs. Walser had taken out a $440 insurance policy on the 12-year-old boy's life a few weeks ago and the boy died of poison at the Walser home.

MANY OPPOSED TO THIRD TERM FOR PRESIDENT

WASHINGTON.—Eighteen men, "big enough and experienced enough to make good, honest Presidents of the United States," are listed in a recent communication sent here from New York by the "Anti-Third Term League," an organization devoted to opposing the anticipated candidacy of President Coolidge.

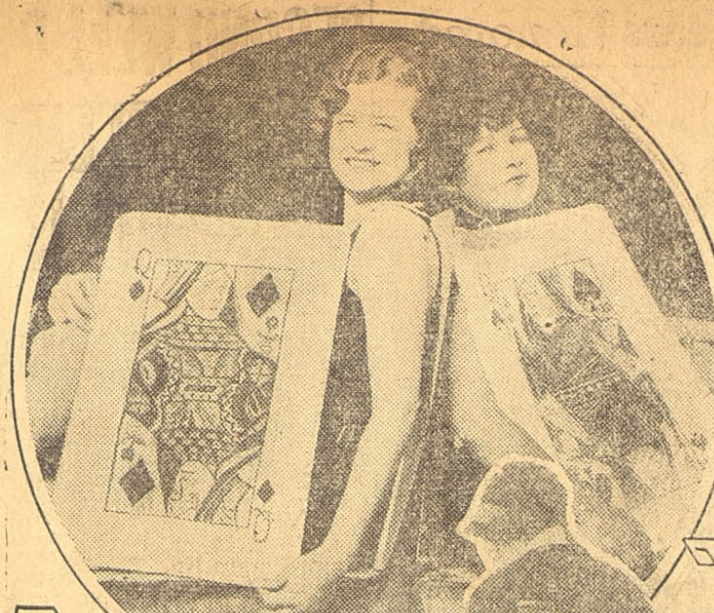

One Senatorial wag on seeing the list proposed that Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh should be added to the list, in view of his suddenly-acquired popularity following his New York-to-Paris airplane flight.

The list, proposed by Henry Salant, New York lawyer and president of the organization, in a letter addressed to "Fellow Republicans," and stressing the point that there is plenty of material for Presidential candidates, follows:

- William Edgar Borah, Senator, Ohio.
- Nicholas Murray Butler, President Columbia University, New York.
- Charles G. Dawes, vice president, Chicago.
- Dwight F. Davis, secretary of war, Missouri.
- Alvin T. Fuller, governor, Massachusetts.
- Herbert Hoover, secretary of Commerce, California.
- Charles Evans Hughes, former secretary of state, New York.
- Hiram W. Johnson, senator, California.
- Nicholas Longworth, speaker of the house, Ohio.
- Frank O. Lowden, former governor, Illinois.
- Andrew J. Mellon, secretary of the treasury, Pennsylvania.
- Nathan Miller, former governor, New York.
- George H. Moses, senator, New Hampshire.
- George W. Norris, senator, Nebraska.
- Reed Smoot, senator Utah.
- James E. Watson, senator, Indiana.
- James W. Wadsworth Jr., former senator, New York.
- Charles L. Whitman, former governor, New York.

Salant's letter mentioned the list as "all-inclusive," and admitted that some of these would be considered too progressive, others too conservative, and some might have geographical disqualifications. The letter, sent to 10,000 republicans over the country, asked each of the recipients to reply, indicating which of these candidates was favored, and for the names of other Republicans favored.

Man's Mental Attitude Toward Breakfast Has Changed That Time Honored Meal

Stay A-Bed Wives Should Not Be Called Lazy

By RENA B. CAMPBELL

In days gone by when husbands were considered the "stronger vessels" and women were termed help-meets, a woman who did not get up and prepare her husband's breakfast before he went to work in the morning was subject for all kind of gossip. She was called lazy, shiftless and could come to no good end according to the social standards of those days.

Times have changed a lot on the breakfast question. In the first place it no longer takes oatmeal, fried eggs and bacon, hot biscuits, steved fruit, coffee and grits to get a man off to work. He is satisfied with a grapefruit and a cup of coffee with possibly a bit of toast for good measure. His time is valuable so he tells friend wife that there is no use in her getting up to fix his breakfast, it amounts to so little, and he toddles on down town for a bite of breakfast at a lunch counter, reads his paper in peace or else chats with a friend, hears the over night happenings, helps the restaurant man's business, goes to work perfectly satisfied and wife catches up on her beauty sleep.

He is sensible and she is sensible. It does not mean that she is lazy, but that from an economical standpoint the breakfast is better eaten down town.

Of course friend wife always has to take a chance on the friend husband eating toast and coffee with some clever woman that is not out for an early worm but for a bite of breakfast for the same reason that a man is, but if she is sensible she does not mind that.

The husband is out early so that he may provide such luxuries as staying in bed late for his wife. He had rather eat a bite or two than have her get up so early and lose that luxurious sleep and if he does sometimes chat with some business woman once in a while, the wife should not object as variety is the spice of life, just as husbands are props for clinging femininity.

Beautiful—And Very Smart

Miss Virginia Wallar, of Caney, Kas., has been chosen queen of the annual Tulsa, Okla., Rose Carnival May 20 and 21, and this picture seems to prove the judges were men of wisdom. But Miss Wallar is very smart as well as beautiful. As a student in Kansas State Agricultural College she has been presented with a sorority ring awarded each year to the co-ed making the best scholastic record among the 2500 girls of the institution.

Program Given For Chautauqua Week in Ranger

This week will usher in the Chautauqua, which means a bit more to Ranger this year than it has before as its closing program, "The Firefly," has for its star Laura Townsley McCoy, one of Ranger's own song birds.

Women of the Methodist and Presbyterian churches have been busy the last few days selling season tickets for the Premier Chautauqua, and while the sale is going over very nicely there yet remains a number of tickets to be disposed of before the ticket sale goes over the top. The women supplemented by some men will tackle the sale again Monday morning with the hope of making a whirlwind finish by Monday night.

Miss Juanita Counsell, advance agent for the Chautauqua, who has been in Ranger helping with the ticket sale, announces the following for the week:

First Day—2:45 p. m., concert, Premier Male quartet. Night, 7:45 p. m., concert, Premier Male quartet; address, "A Modern Tale of Two Cities," Charles H. Wattenburg.

Second Day—2:45 p. m., dramatic reading, "My Lady's Dress," Evelyn Gaston. Night, 7:45 p. m., comedy-drama, "The Patsy."

Third Day—2:45 p. m., concert, Giles Artists trio; address, "Is Prohibition a Failure," A. B. MacDonald. Night, 7:45 p. m., concert, Giles Artists trio; address, "Name Your Poison," A. B. MacDonald.

Fourth Day—2:45 p. m., a prelude by Joy Johannes; address, "Your Health," Irene Thien. Night, 7:45 p. m., the drama, "Fine Feathers."

Fifth Day—2:45 p. m., entertainment, Vierra's Hawaiians; address, "You and Your Job," Chester M. Sanford. Night, 7:45 p. m., Vierra's Musical Spectacle, "An Evening in Hawaii."

Sixth Day—2:45 p. m., concert, Gilbert's Operatic Ensemble. Night, 7:45 p. m., tenebrous comic-opera, with Laura Townsley McCoy, "The Firefly."

Hollywood Sponsors New Summer Wraps and Bridesmaids Frocks

There is nothing more enchanting for the modern girl than shopping for a summer evening wrap! What an array of materials to select from! There is taffeta, satin, and the soft, shimmering chiffons that look so bewitching over a thin evening frock.

Jeanne Morgan, recently signed to a long term contract by Film Booking Offices, solved the problem by purchasing three yards of pearl grey lustrous satin, bordering it with silver lace half a yard wide, and collaring it with pearl grey fox. Miss Morgan wears a pale green chiffon dress under the wrap, while pearl grey satin slippers complete the charming ensemble. This wrap is inexpensive, smart and gorgeous.

Spring and summer make one think of romance, orange blossoms and bridal gowns. Here is Sharon Lynn, another charmer on the F. B. O. lot, as she appeared as a bridesmaid recently at a friend's wedding. The gown, made on period lines, is of fine Valenciennes lace, flowered in white rose buds down the front. An unusual and charming headpiece of the same lace and white satin slippers add grace and charm to the outfit.

U. S. SEARCHING JAPAN FOR BEETLE PARASITES

WASHINGTON, June 18.—The agriculture department has experts in Japan searching for parasites to war on the Japanese beetle which now infests more than 6,000 square miles in the United States.

Five types of parasites have been discovered which are parasitic to the beetle and the investigation is progressing in hope of finding other insects to combat the pest, the department said.

The most illiterate country in the world is Natal, South Africa, where 94.8 per cent of the natives can neither read nor write. Egypt and Guatemala are neck and neck for second place, with 92.7 percent each.

ACORN ACRES TEA ROOM SCENE OF SEVERAL DINNERS.

Acorn Acres tea room, was the scene of four dinner parties on Saturday evening. One was given by Mr. and Mrs. Gifford Clegg in honor of Bishop Harry Moore of Dallas, another was a party of four from Cisco and the other two were given by Ranger people in honor of out of town guests.

On next Monday a party from Eastland will be held at the popular tea room. On Wednesday morning the Ad Libitum club will meet there at 9:30 a. m., with Mrs. C. G. Ward and on Wednesday afternoon a party from Strawn has reserved tables for bridge.

Thursday Mrs. James Kerr of Thurber is entertaining there with a bridge-luncheon.

FRIENDS OF MISS LAURA MCCOY PLAN SURPRISE.

Friends of Miss Laura McCoy, former Ranger girl, who will appear here in "The Firefly" on the last night of the chautauqua, and who will arrive in Ranger next Sunday afternoon, have planned a reception which will end with a surprise for the whimsical little singer. The event will be held at the Gholson hotel and will be but a feeble expression of the love and admiration they have for this young woman whose foot is already securely set on the ladder of fame.

The reception is planned to begin at 8 o'clock on Sunday evening, and during the hour from 8 to 9 a musical program will be given. At the close of this a surprise will be given the honor guest. By arranging the surprise after the program friends who attend church services will have ample time to drop in and share an hour with Mrs. McCoy and see the big eyes open like a child's and fill with tears like a woman's as she unfolds the gifts her people have brought to her.

This reception is not an invitation affair. Every man, woman and child in Ranger who wishes to come and meet the little prima donna, and to share in the surprise, as well as to wish her well in her life's ambition are cordially invited.

Malame Scamann-Heink with whom Laura McCoy was in Ranger in May predicts a wonderful future for her. Mr. Witte, her manager, says that Laura McCoy has a God-given voice and to him is the greatest artist that has ever sung in "The Firefly."

Messrs. and Misses Gifford Clegg, A. N. Harkrider, M. H. Hagaman, John M. Gholson, W. D. Conway, Gus Coleman, O. E. Phillips, John Thurman and Mrs. R. B. Campbell, have charge of the affair and will appreciate the cooperation of any and all friends or well wishers of Miss McCoy.

Gifts for the surprise can take any form that the giver desires. Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Conway, have been sufficiently interested in seeing Miss McCoy get into grand opera to back her to the extent of $1,000. Another friend has done likewise, so gifts may express themselves in checks, shoe buckles, strings of pearls, undies, bed room slippers, dressing robes, hose and toilet articles.

"Mum" is the word as far as Miss McCoy is concerned.

MATINEE BRIDGE CLUB WITH MRS. SLOAN

Oakland Pontiac Smashed Records During Month May

PONTIAC, Mich., June 18.—"May production of Oakland-Pontiac Sixes smashed all previous monthly records for the company and enabled us to deliver 24,006 cars to dealers thereby setting up a new record 20 percent higher than last month, which was the biggest month in the company's history," is the statement issued by W. R. Tracy, vice-president in charge of sales.

"Twice so far this year new records have been set for monthly production, the other being for April when 19,926 Oakland and Pontiacs were produced. Yet May's figures topped this by more than 4000 cars, the third highest production month being August of 19-1977 when cars were manufactured.

"During May a production schedule of more than 1000 cars per working day was maintained—a goal, which the Oakland Motor Car company has been striving to reach since the first of the year through its greater plant facilities. With actual production starting in the new $15,000,000 factory of the Pontiac division in April this production schedule became a reality. Large as it was, however, it failed to quiet the insistent demand of dealers for shipment of more cars. The increasing popularity of the Oakland and Pontiac Sixes appears to be the outstanding reason for the almost universal demand for more and more of these cars.

"Incidentally, the company has likewise reached its highest employment peak with more than 8300 on the payroll. This number is in addition to more than 4000 employed in the Fisher Body corporation plant devoted exclusively to the manufacture of Pontiac bodies, besides a large force employed in other Fisher Body plants making Oakland and Pontiac bodies.

"The production of 1000 cars per working day places the Oakland Motor Car company as one of the leaders in volume production in the industry."

More Than Hundred Enroll for Texas U. Cotton School

AUSTIN, June 18.—A total of 109 students has enrolled for courses in the cotton school at the University of Texas, according to Dr. A. B. Cox, professor of business administration and director of the bureau of business research at the university. Dr. Cox is director of the school which is carried on under the general supervision of the school of business administration.

Besides those students who are taking one or more of the five courses offered in the cotton school, Dr. Cox estimated that there will be a number of others who will attend the laboratory practice in cotton classing to be given at an Austin seed house. This laboratory work will begin June 28.

Besides Dr. Cox, teachers of classes in the cotton school at Dr. John A. Todd, dean of the school of commerce, Liverpool, England, and A. H. Ribbink, adjunct professor of business administration at the University of Texas.

Dr. Todd is an international authority on the subject of cotton marketing and teaches particularly courses dealing with that phase of the industry. Mr. Ribbink instructs in a course on the internal organization and management of a cotton business.

BOARD MEETING HELD OF RANGER RETAIL MERCHANTS

Irving L. Camp Of Johnstown, Pa., Lions' President

Special Correspondence.
MIAMI, Fla., June 18.—Irving L. Camp of Johnstown, Pa., was today unanimously elected president of the International Association of Lions Clubs in the convention assembled at Miami, Fla.

Mr. Camp was born in Waterbury, Conn., and has since that time lived in New York city, Long Island, N. Y., and Johnstown, Pa., where he now resides.

He began his business career as a clerk in his father's retail coal yard, and since then has devoted his entire time to either the production or distribution of coal.

Mr. Camp is president of the Producers Coal & Coke company of Johnstown, Pa., and is an officer or director of other coal mining and distributing companies. He has also served as director of important political, charitable, social, and civic bodies in both his city and state.

The newly elected president of Lions International is a member of the Methodist church, Masons, Odd Fellows, and Elks.

President Camp believes that every man owes society an obligation, which can be paid only by service to others and he himself is an example of the busy business man leading in civic affairs.

Children to Take Part in Ranger's Chautauqua Week

Ranger kiddies will have their usual part in the Chautauqua this year, according to Mrs. Marion F. Peters, who is in charge of that branch of Chautauqua organization.

All the children of the city are asked to be at the big Chautauqua tent on Pine and South Austin streets, across from the city hall, at 4:30 Monday afternoon and are asked to come in costume if possible.

A surprise has been planned. The parade will start at 5 p. m. and each child is asked to bring some kind of a noise maker so as to "toot" things up a bit.

The Junior Chautauqua will begin Wednesday morning and be held each morning thereafter during the Chautauqua.

Crowd Overwhelms Sales Force When Crest Store Opens

Five hundred good natured people were on hand when the doors of the Crestover store, Ranger, recently purchased by J. C. Smith, opened on Saturday morning at 9 o'clock. They flowed in like a mighty stream gathering up bargains as they went from counter to counter. A large force of clerks was on hand but not a sufficient number to stem the incoming tide, however, it was a patient crowd and Mr. Smith and his force after the first onslaught were easily able to take care of the eager shoppers.

The soap counter was one of the favorite ones, and judging by the way the piled up soap disappeared, one was inclined to think that Ranger and Eastland county people were pretty close to the supreme being, as cleanliness is next to godliness.

J. C. Smith presided over the cash register which clicked like a gas meter does when the thermometer is hovering around 16 degrees.

The ed has two hearts. Besides its regular heart, it has one in its tail which functions regularly.

Dyott Expedition Explores River Roosevelt Discovered

MEMBER OF EXPLORERS CLUB DESCRIBES EXCITING TIMES

By ULYSSES G. KEENER (United Press Staff Correspondent) RIO DE JANEIRO.—How the wild west of Brazil. Indians the Arayas, gave corn and corn whiskey to white men in return for knives and axes which the white men gave the Indians to win their friendship, was told by Robert Pitt Young of Cheyenne, Wyoming, and member of the Explorers club of New York, upon his arrival in Rio De Janeiro after participating in the Dyott-Roosevelt expedition which traversed the Roosevelt river, in the Brazilian unexplored wilderness, from its headwaters to its mouth on the River Madeiros.

Young described one of the most remarkable expeditions ever made across the Brazilian wilderness; an expedition which lasted seven months during which the members of the expedition were attacked by bands who posed as Brazilian rebels and who took from the Dyott-Roosevelt party all their mules and a large part of their food supply, not to mention encounters with the wildest of Brazilian Indians, the Arayas.

George Miller Dyott, English explorer, Robert Pitt Young, Dr. Ramon Posnosky of Poland and Eugene Bussey of the Radio Corporation of America left New York on July 24th, 1926, for Rio de Janeiro to make an expedition up the River Roosevelt from its headwaters to its mouth on the River Madeira, which empties into the great Amazonas a short distance east of the city of Manaus, State of Amazonas, Brazil. The River Roosevelt was first explored by the American president after whom the river was named, in 1914. This river runs its course through one of the least known regions of the vast Brazilian hinterland and had never been traversed since the expedition made by President Roosevelt and his party in 1914.

The Dyott-Roosevelt expedition left Rio de Janeiro for Sao Paulo on September 15th, 1926, and left Sao Paulo for the unknown interior on September 22nd last. After a trip of several weeks by train and horseback, the party reached the small village of Utiariti on the Papagaio river one of the headwaters of the greater river Tapajós, where they spent Christmas day last year and encountered Francis Gow Smith, who departed on an expedition into the interior of Brazil last year under the auspices of the Museum of the American Indian. Francis Gow Smith was scheduled to arrive back in Sao Paulo three months ago.

Robert Young told the United Press that Smith and his party had had a most unsuccessful trip into the vast unexplored regions between the rivers Araguaya and Tapajós before their encounter at the small village on the river Papagaio. Smith had crossed the Death river and entered the region between the rivers Araguaya and Tapajós, had explored a considerable part of the lower half of the region, when he was attacked by wild Indians who forced Smith and his party to leave the region.

Young said that Colonel George Fawcett, English explorer who left for the interior of Brazil over two years ago and has never been heard of since, also entered the region between the rivers Araguaya and Tapajós. It is reported that an ancient gold mine, the richest in all Brazil, the mines of the Martillos, is located in the mountain range dividing these two rivers. Young said that so far as many as 22 expeditions have been made in search of this wealthy mine, none of which has been crowned with success and most of which have been annihilated by wild Indian tribes.

After leaving the small village on the River Papagaio where Smith was last seen, the Dyott-Roosevelt party proceeded on horseback to a bridge on the headwaters of the River Roosevelt which marks the southern most limit of that mysterious stream reached by President Roosevelt in his 1914 expedition. From this point the expedition's hardships began in earnest. Only a few days after leaving the bridgehead the expedition was accosted by bandits posing as Brazilian revolutionists who took the expedition's mules and most of their supply of food. The rebels then revolted against their own commander, one Captain Miranda, who joined the Dyott-Roosevelt party. Before leaving the bridgehead the expedition hired eight black porters, natives of the state of Mato Grosso, who accompanied them for the remainder of the journey. The rebel captain stayed with the party for fifteen days and was then captured by a Federal government detachment of troops who took him back to the capital of Mato Grosso.

From the headquarters of the Roosevelt river to its mouth, the expedition encountered more than 65 rapids and water falls, some of which the party was unable to pass over. Once when cutting their way through the wilderness on the margin of the river, made necessary by unsurmountable rapids, the party was met by a tribe of Arayas, the wildest Brazilian Indians. Young signalled to the Indians and convinced them that the party meant them no harm. The expedition gave these wild Indians large knives and axes to win their friendship, which they were successful in doing. The following day these same Indians brought the members of the expedition corn and corn whiskey as a proof of their friendship.

Further on their voyage, when cutting their way around other rapids on the river, the most severe of all rapids encountered on the river by the expedition, the party found a path already cut through the wilderness but decided not to follow this path any further after finding an Indian's arrow in the middle of it. The explorers knew that this was a warning to them from hostile Indians not to traverse that particular path any further. Their only alternative was to ride the rapids, which they chose to do as the least of two serious evils.

These rapids are the only ones on the entire course of the river Roosevelt that have a name. They are known as the Pachao rapids, because it was there that Sargeant Pachao of the Brazilian army who accompanied President Roosevelt in the 1914 expedition was killed by Brazilian soldiers who also accompanied the expedition. The soldiers feared to accompany the party any further and killed Sargeant Pachao when he ordered them to continue with the Roosevelt party. Young said that although they rode these rapids successfully, it was their nearest escape from death during the entire trip. Three collapsible boats were used by the party and one of these, that of Young, struck a rock and sunk to the bottom of the river and Young and his native companion almost lost their lives in the torrent when the Pachao Rapids were crossed. With the boat the expedition's entire supply of coffee and sugar went to the bottom of the river Roosevelt, leaving the party without these essential foods for more than three weeks.

Although the entire journey was full of hardships and difficulties, Young declared that not a single man of the entire party suffered with even so much as a headache from the time the expedition left Sao Paulo until they arrived at the city of Manaus on the Amazonas river, seven months later.

The Dyott-Roosevelt party were surprised on reaching the point where the river Roosevelt pours into the river Madeira, one of the principal branches of the mighty Amazonas, to learn from natives there of the passing only two days before of the Italian aviator Maronez De Pinedo, who had passed over the point in his historic flight across the interior of Brazil from Paraguay to the Amazonas river.

On arriving at Manaus, Amazonas, the party was greeted by the authorities and people with a great demonstration, the party having been given up for lost some weeks before their arrival.

They returned by steamer to the United States in April and Young came down to Rio to prepare another and greater expedition up the river Kingu, which borders the region in which Colonel George Fawcett, British explorer who has not been heard of for more than two years, is believed to be lost.

Chevrolet May Reach Million Mark This Year

DETROIT, June 18.—Indications that Chevrolet production will reach, if not pass, the million mark this year were seen here today, following the announcement by the Chevrolet Motor company that production for the first five months totalled 494,953 units. This is a 60 percent increase over the corresponding period of last year and testifies to the phenomenal demand that has kept Chevrolet factories constantly at capacity, since early in the year.

Since January Chevrolet has bowled over production records each month, reaching a new all-time monthly mark in May with an output of 115,623 units as compared with the record 74,617 units set in May last year.

In an effort to keep pace with the demand Chevrolet factories are now averaging more than 5,000 units a day, working on the heaviest schedule ever undertaken by a manufacturer of gear shift cars.

Chevrolet's production achievements so far this year make certain that a new mark for the production of gear-shift cars will be set this year. The present record now held by Chevrolet, stands at 728,697 units. This was established in 1926 and was a 40 per cent increase over the previous high mark, also set by Chevrolet.

Production of one million Chevrolts this year would shatter the present record again by 40 percent. The June schedule calls for the building of 112,965 units, which should bring the total for the first six months to 607,918.

of misery upon it, laying her head on his knees. "You've been—splendid, clay. And I tried to ruin you. I'll never forget that I tried to make you give it all up, come back—for my sake—"

"Don't cry like that, kidlet," he begged huskily. "I guess I've been too hard on you. I might have helped you enjoy your year and to keep it from hurting you, but this hellish temper of mine got the best of me—"

"I'm trapped, Clay!" She sobbed more vehemently because of his sympathy. "I'm spoiled for the other life and now my year here is nearly up. I haven't been happy here but it's ruined me for the old life of penny-pinching poverty. What shall I do, Clay?"

"I'm afraid I don't know," Clay said slowly, his hand settling heavily on her head. "Unless—"

"Unless what?" She raised her head and stared at him. "I'm going to be disgustingly prosperous," he told her, his mouth twitching with a smile of wry humor. "Next year my royalties on a few silly songs will be sufficient to let me retire for a year, just to write good music. 'The Song of Toll' is almost finished. In fact, I'm taking it to New York next week for a tryout with the Philharmonic orchestra. The conductor has agreed to play it—"

"I'm awfully glad, Clay." She spoke in a small voice, hope dying within her. "Really awfully glad. You've earned success, if anyone ever did."

"I shall probably live in New York," she went on, his voice casual and careful again. "Great place, New York—great place to study—the violin—"

"Oh!" She dropped her head upon his knees again, and began to tremble.

"I was—just wondering," Clay carefully controlled voice went on, breaking just a little. "If you're rested up enough after a year of angel feathers to get down to real hard work—in New York—"

"Oh!" she cried again, tears gushing out of her eyes and soaking through the thick tweed cloth that covered his knees.

"Oh!" can mean so much—or so little," Clay laughed shakily. "Just what does it mean, dear? Does it—" by any chance—mean that—you want me to put it into plainer words?" She waited a breathless moment, then nodded, her forehead bumping slowly up and down upon his knees.

"Then—I love you, Billy. God knows I've tried to get over it, but there it is! I love you, and I adore the genius that you've buried, and I want to give both their chance. What do you say? Do—you—love—me?"

"A telegram for you, Miss Billy!" She sprang to her feet, dashing at the tears in her eyes with trembling hand. Sawyers advanced solemnly into the room.

Before Sawyers had reached the door she was tearing open the yellow envelope. Her eyes took in the words at a glance:

"Arriving Monday five-thirty. Meet me Marquette Hotel for dinner. Important. All my love. Dal." (To be continued)

Suburban Office Building Plans Of Tree Company

AKRON, O., June 18.—Suburban office development will be carried to a new degree by the Davey Tree Expert Co., of Kent, O., which is soon to build a half million dollar home at Twin Lakes, a lake property two miles north of Kent.

Set at the summit of a wooded heights overlooking the lake, the office building will be the center of elaborate gardens and terraces covering 50 acres. An arboretum will be planted in connection to contain every kind of tree and shrub that can be grown in this climate.

Congressman Martin L. Davey, president of the company, conceived the project as a memorial to his father, John Davey, originator of tree surgery, and as a shrine for nature lovers of all the world.

The hold up men who robbed an editor the other day must have done it just for the practice.

PEKIN UNDER MARTIAL LAW FOREIGN PRESTIGE WANES

By RANDALL GOULD
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
PEKIN.—For better or for worse, North China has given itself completely into the hands of the Mukden Warlord Chang Tso-lin and hardly a pretense of Government other than this one man's will now exist.

It is a situation making for momentary stability but, in the view of many observers, fraught with peril for the future.

Higher authority than Marshal Chang there is none. When the shadowy cabinet of Dr. Wellington Koo passes through one of its regular throats of attempted resignation, it is to the Ankuochun Headquarters—official center for the Northern Allied armies—that it sends its resignation. From this point is the law of the land administered; for the law of the land is now martial law. It is Ankuochun Headquarters toward which the foreign Ministers now look, rather than the Waichiao Pu or Foreign Office.

While America prates of book and play censorships and the activities of anti-evolution state legislatures, Pekin undergoes censorships and repressions that are the real thing.

Outgoing news cablegrams are mutilated to the heart's content of a military official with a black-ink brush. On occasion they are carted away from the Telegraph Administration bodily and held for a day or so, as in the case of the student massacre at Tuan Chijui's yamen some months ago. Secret arrests are the order of the day. Spies and black-jackers plain clothes men are everywhere. The latest thought is a decision by the Pekin police to censor lecture notes of the various schools and universities.

Legal trial for political offenders is unknown. It is a case of "after a fair trial the defendant will be found guilty and shot," except that the pretense of any sort of trial usually is discarded.

Fourteen Chinese believed to sympathize with the Nationalists were surrendered from the British Consession in Tientsin some months ago. There was some little hullabaloo in connection with this surrender, but the British pointed out that everything was very legal and the assumption was that this happy condition would continue. The other morning someone among the Chinese authorities remembered that these fourteen were still being held, so they were marched out and executed.

Executions of editors has become common and the press is being subjected to unparalleled censorship from which, Mussolini himself might pick up a few tricks, according to those who are close to the scene of operations.

Even foreigners come in for some attention. A short time ago the Chang Tso-lin police convinced the American Legation that there was a vast amount of evidence against an American newspaper woman and an American newspaper man who had admittedly been working for the Nationalists but who had not apparently been engaged in any dark plotting contrary to the laws of the United States which alone control such cases. With consent of the Legation, the Chinese held these two for a period extending over five days, at the end of which time they were released—considerably damaged in nerves and pocket-book—because no evidence had been brought against them.

Property of these two has never been returned by the Chinese, nor was other property seized without warrant at the same time. Chinese respect for the sanctity of the Pekin Legation Quarter and for the inviolability of foreign diplomatic establishments has been shattered by Marshal Chang Tso-lin's raid upon the premises of the Soviet Embassy, according to foreigners versed in things diplomatic and close to Chinese officialdom.

As a result of this, the raid upon the Soviet Embassy will not be the last such affair, from all indications.

It is specifically pointed out that when the rhythmical changing of control next takes place in Pekin, adherents of the present regime will be ill advised to seek refuge as hitherto in the Diplomatic Quarter or even in a Legation or Embassy.

The Soviet raid is classed by old-time residents here with China's participation in the World War, and with the post war removal of the famed Kettler Memorial, as among the major events tending to disintegrate Chinese respect for foreign prestige. Here are the underlying factors in each case:

1. The World War brought home to China the fact that the "united front" of the foreign Powers was a myth in time of stress. Moreover, China herself was given a position of equality with certain major Powers against certain other major Powers, whom she helped to humble.

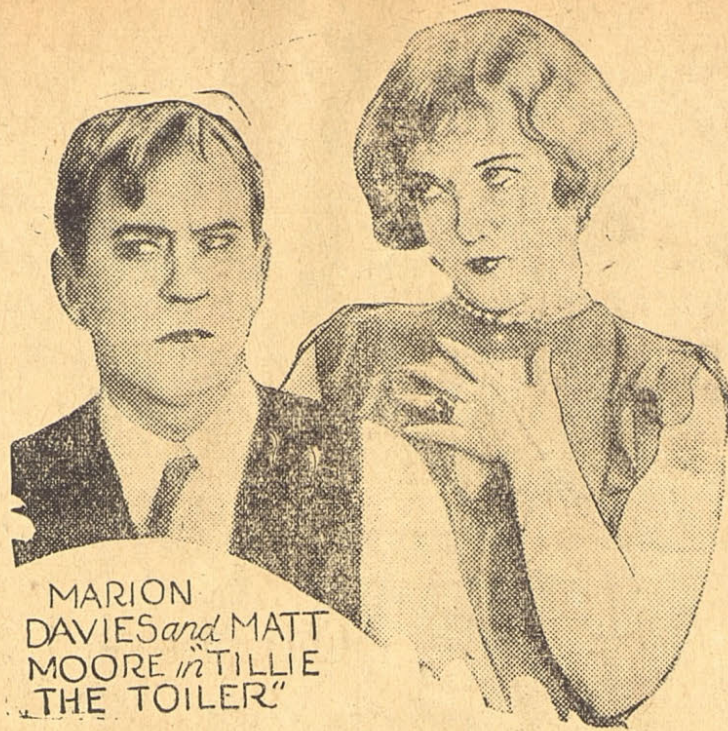

2. Removal of the Kettler Memorial—erected by China in memory of the German Minister slain by fanatics during Boxer days—was done at the instigation of anti-German Europeans and Americans after signature of the Armistice. It further and even more concretely showed China the division of foreign friendship and unity.

3. The recent Embassy raid was morally, though not technically in its entirety, sanctioned by the Protocol Powers, including the United States, Britain, France, Japan and others. These Powers gave Chang's men a permit to enter the Legation Quarter with armed force and to search certain specific places (the Dalhousie, the Chinese Eastern Railway and the Boxer Indemnity house) within the premises of the Soviet Embassy. Chief attention actually seems to have been given to the Soviet Military Attache's office and the residence quarters, an exceeding a perfunctory formal note from the Senior Minister the day after the raid—at a time when no foreigners had knowledge, presumably, of what the raiders had done. A fortnight after the raid the Chinese police and military were still in charge of the Soviet premises, though it was stated in diplomatic circles that they would not be allowed to remain forever.

Game Propagation Farm to Be Built Near Lake Cisco

The state game, fish and oyster commission is ready to go ahead with its plans for a game propagation farm at Lake Cisco, it is stated on good authority. S. G. Garrett, engineer, who supervised the construction of the state fish hatchery there, is expected within the next few days to begin the work of surveying the 600-acre tract donated to the state by the city for this purpose.

The lands given the state for the farm are rugged and afford an ideal place for the breeding of various kinds of wild animals and birds, which are to be distributed to game preserves throughout the state.

NEW BRIDGE TO CONNECT PUEBLO WITH HIGHWAY

Construction of a new steel and concrete bridge over Battle creek to serve that section of the country known as the Pueblo community, connecting it with state highway No. 23, is under way and is being supervised by County Commissioner Birt Brittain, of the Cisco precinct in Eastland county. A graded road across the bridge and leading to the Pueblo community is to be built.

TAG AND VACCINATE DOGS IS ORDER AT EASTLAND

Get a license for your dog and have him vaccinated for rabies. This is the order that has gone out from the Eastland city hall. These licenses must be issued not later than the month of June and the license fee is $1.50.

RECRUITING FOR ARMY IN RANGER IS SLOW PROCESS

Sergeant Farley, who arrived in Ranger several days ago and opened recruiting headquarters for the United States army, reported Saturday that he was not having much luck.

Two rejections so far has been the sum total of his work—but he was still hopeful Saturday as he stood at his post in front of the Hodges-Neal building looking for possible recruits.

CHURCH ANNOUNCEMENT

St. Mary's Episcopal Church, Ranger Bishop Harry Moore of Dallas will preach at Saint Mary's Episcopal church, Ranger, this morning at 11 o'clock. Members of the Episcopal churches of Eastland, Cisco, Breckenridge, Thurber and Ranger will participate in this service, which will include Holy Communion. After services the entire assembly will motor to the Ranger County club for a basket picnic dinner. A large number are expected to share with the Ranger church the program of today.

Find Six Keys to the Popularity of Coca-Cola

PURE AS SUNLIGHT

The proof of its purity is in the testing. Twenty-two scientific tests for purity, covering every step in its preparation, safeguard this drink of natural flavors.

Have you entered this great contest? Two of the "six keys"—six reasons why everybody likes Coca-Cola—have already appeared. The third you'll find in the Coca-Cola story above. All "six keys" are being illustrated and presented in Coca-Cola advertising between the first week in May and the middle of August. You'll find them at intervals in The Saturday Evening Post, Literary Digest, Liberty, Collier's Weekly, and Life. If you have not already entered, check back through old magazines and find the "keys" you have missed.

For the correct naming of the "six keys" and the best answers to two simple questions, 635 cash prizes totaling $30,000 will be awarded by The Coca-Cola Company, Atlanta, Ga. The first prize will be $10,000. Contest closes August 25, 1927. Visit our plant and we'll be glad to give you further information about the contest.
