TAX BOARD WILL MEET ON MONDAY

AUSTIN, July 17.—The state automatic tax board will meet here Monday to fix tax rates. The board meeting was originally scheduled for today, but the postponement was necessary when State Treasurer W. Gregory Hatcher wired from Dallas that he would be unable to reach the capitol in time for the meeting and asked the governor to set the hearing for Monday.

Ancient Indian Dynasties Fall Before Progress

CALCUTTA.—India's age-old dynasties, many of which have built mighty thrones, are rapidly tottering and falling before the steady, relentless pressure of western civilization. Nine great rulers have either vacated their thrones voluntarily, have been involved in internal difficulties or have had their names connected with scandal since 1924 and there are many rumors of others who are to the oblivion of private life through abdication or exile.

Practically all the land in Eastland county that is subject to production that is not cleared could be cleared by a flock of sheep and goats and enriched. Sheep and Angora goats furnish two sources of revenue. The fleece and the flesh. The fleece is marketed twice a year, the spring and fall clips.

A study of the market pages of the big dailies will reveal a good demand for sheep and goats on the Fort Worth market. The advent of good roads and the motor truck has placed the farmer a hundred miles distant from the market right at the market. He can make the round trip in a day.

Along with the sheep and goats the farmers of the county ought to carry a small flock of turkeys and geese. Both of these are good dividend bearers. Besides bringing in a good revenue, they also well take care of such pests as grasshoppers that play havoc with all crops. Geese and turkeys are worth more than a hand in a cotton field to keep down pests and grass.

Not only do geese bring in a good profit, but the town can be utilized by the farmer's wife in making pillows and other articles of comfort. Geese feathers sell at around 50 cents a pound or better. If fattened and marketed properly, they will bring good money.

French Fail In Treatment Of Tennis Stars

By HENRY L. FARRELL (United Press Staff Correspondent) After their experiences at the 1924 Olympic games and the recent French national hard court championships, several of the American tennis stars said they didn't care to return to France for championship competition.

The writer was a spectator at both tournaments, and he agrees with the players that the arrangements made for their comfort and convenience were less than second class compared to Wimbledon, Forest Hills, Germantown and Longwood.

French Fail In Treatment Of Tennis Stars. The committee in charge of the hard court championship, in which the greatest players in the world were entered, failed to secure enough officials.

No Water. No drinking water was provided on the courts. One of the Argentine players asked for water in one of the early batches and a bottle was brought to him from the club house.

Not Enough Balls. There was a marked inefficiency of balls. In one match the players started with four balls and had to play four sets.

A large audience greeted him and many of them, according to him, were sold on "Ma."

Wireless Control Of War Ship Is Tested at Malta

PALMERO, Italy.—Wireless control of a crewless warship was managed by the British naval authorities during the recent maneuvers off Malta, when an old cruiser, fitted with radio-motor apparatus, capable of being operated at a distance from another vessel, was employed as a target for the heavy guns of the Mediterranean fleet.

The cruiser altered its course, increased and decreased speed, and even threw out smoke screens, under wireless orders launched through the ether to the empty vessel at a distance of from one to six miles.

Country Club To Make Drive For Members

At a meeting of the board of directors of the Ranger Country Club, Friday noon, when they enjoyed a luncheon at the Gholson, J. L. Thompson, Jack Price, Cull Moorman, Hall Walker and Dr. Harry Logsdon were appointed as a committee to make a drive for new members for the club. The drive will start next week.

With the great improvement shown since the new caretaker and his wife have taken charge out at the club, more interest is being manifested. The fairway is almost as smooth as a lawn and the entire club grounds are said to be in better condition than they have shown for some time. The principal business brought before the board was the drive for new members, which in addition to the work of the committee, will include getting out letters to each member of the club, asking him to become a committee of one to bring in at least one new member. Other business was purely routine.

According to Mr. May there has been no difficulty in renting the different store rooms in the building, however, the names of the prospective tenants are not yet available for publication.

Syria Is Torn By Religious Strife Of Druses

BEIRUT.—High Commissioner Henry de Jouvenel, who was sent out to Syria to bring order out of the chaos resulting from the administration of General Sarrail, has accomplished one part of his task. He has divided Syria into five independent states and broken the resistance of the Druses. But Syria is far from being pacified. It will be a thorn in the side of France for years.

Driven into the remote fastness on the edge of the Arabian desert, the survivors of the Druse army refuse to submit and are carrying out daring raids on the French positions between Soueida and Damascus. Damascus itself is still openly hostile to the French. Dr. Chahbandar, organizer of the revolt of last year, is in the garden suburbs of the city. He has been condemned to death and there is a price on his head but the French cannot get him. Even in this coastal section of the country, known now officially as the Republic of the Greater Lebanon, Druses and Christians are carrying on reprisals against each other for the events of the campaign. Outlying villages are the scenes of murderous outbreaks due to religious fanaticism. Mutilated bodies of Druses and Christians are found daily in secluded spots.

In an effort to check this slaughter the Lebanon government decided to impose a fine of 500 gold pounds on the village nearest which such murders are committed and to hold three of the most prominent villagers as hostages until the fine is paid. Cavalry patrols and infantry detachments with armored cars have been scouring the disturbed areas since early in April. But on account of the rugged nature of the country—it has only slightly changed since the Crusaders fought every step of the way from the coast to Jerusalem—it is impossible for troops to penetrate effectively.

PIONEER PARSONS FAMILY AFTER YEARS OF TOIL NOW WILL ENJOY LIFE'S RICHES

By RENA B. CAMPBELL.
"Yes, it's true, that we have already decided one-half of our royalty to our children, so that they may have their part and enjoy it while we live," Mrs. J. D. Parsons said to a visitor at her home, in the heart of the Parsons field, the other day. And when one looked into the blue eyes of this pioneer woman to whom wealth is coming daily in her declining years and catches a glimpse of the spirit behind them, one knew that the statement was as true as the gospel.

The Parsons farm is almost hidden from the road. You must happen on it, and from thence a drilling or pumping well.

From Arkansas

J. D. Parsons came to Eastland county forty years ago from Arkansas and settled near his present home, not far from Staff, and his father and other loved ones were buried at Old Providence Cemetery. Mrs. Parsons family came to Eastland county years ago and settled at Grapevine, where she lived until she married Mr. Parsons. When they married they came to their present home and the original one large room and a lean-to form a part of their present unpretentious dwelling.

The Parsons have five children, three daughters, who are at home, as is a son and one son in Wichita Falls. The son at home has had his crop just about ruined by the incoming oil companies and instead of the golden grain of wheat and the cotton boll enriching the family this year, their riches will come from the liquid gold of oil.

Reminiscent

Sitting in her spotlessly clean sitting room, Mother Parsons, embroidering pillow cases, in sprays of lavender, with crocheted edges, talked of the past and its hardships. "They say we deserve our good luck," she said simply. "I guess we do, we have worked hard, awful hard. We have had sickness and our share of troubles, and I guess we can enjoy a little change."

When assured that the change was on the way and asked what she would buy first she stated they had bought them a new Ford Sedan, and it looked as though they would have to move, as the wells kept crowding in closer and closer.

May Move to Town

The daughters, who have quit work since the first well came in a few months ago agreed with her that a home in town would be mighty nice. When asked which town she would like to live in, Mrs. Parsons said Eastland, on account of the church and school privileges offered, especially her own church, the Church of God, being well represented there. "A house with trees and flowers" and modern, seemed to fill the bill with all of the women folks of the Parsons household.

Father Parsons, slightly gray, thin with years of toil, came in and took a seat on the cool back porch, and looked like a tired farmer in from a day's labor, although his labor now consists of little more than making the rounds of the various wells on his place. It seems strange when you stumble on this hill enclosed farm, so private from the passing world, that it should become a beehive of activity and that down the lane from the main road to the house where their cattle formerly came home at night, is now a continuous stream of trucks and cars and that the hum of machinery has deadened all the sounds of the once busy farm yard.

Regular Beehive

On the four hundred and some odd acres, men, teams, autos and machinery move back and forth. Already there are some five or six producing wells, with another expected in Monday and a new location almost at the cow lot. It's a shallow pool, with oil at around 1200 feet. The Gulf Production Company, the discoverers of the pool are building a pumping plant sixty feet long on the farm and every time the drill goes down it brings these highly spiritual pioneer people potential streams of gold, but if it brings them a million, they will remain to the end of the chapter the high type of man and woman that the early days of hardships wrought and they will take their riches as a blessing from Him whose life they have so long followed.

FROM SHERIFF BOB EDWARDS TO VOTERS OF EASTLAND CO.

Friends, I am seeking re-election on the record that this office has made during the past two years. For clean, honest work, accomplished by the finest set of deputies that it has been my pleasure to work with. They have given their work unstintingly, to any hour of the day or night in an effort to clean up the lawless element in the county, until at this time Eastland county is one of the most law-abiding counties in the state. It is a record to be proud of, and the sheriff's office feels that this service should be maintained for the best interest of the county and state.

The sheriff's office has done its work without fear or favor, and law-breakers have been arrested and brought back to face justice from all parts of the country. There has been no shirking, as witness the journey last week of Deputy Sheriff Virgil Foster, who traveled 1,200 miles through some of the worst parts of Northwestern Texas for a man who had attempted to evade justice.

I came to Texas forty-five years ago, and might be called one of the pioneers of Eastland county, since I have watched it grow through all its troubles and trials. I made enough money and property through legitimate farming and stock raising, to keep my office free from the wiles of the petty politician and grafter.

Law and order has been attained with the cheapest sheriff's office in the history of the county, and all without losing the friendship of a man in the county. Prisoners that have been under my care have all, without exception, been treated as men, and the county has never had a complaint from a prisoner in my charge. My policy has been that a man is innocent until a jury of his fellow citizens find him guilty, and if found guilty still a man to be treated as a man.

The present sheriff's force has never looked for trouble, for I consider it not the duty of the sheriff's office to look for crime. Their duty is to prevent men from committing crime. There is a great difference. Never, also, has the present sheriff's force been accused of unnecessary gun-play and my deputy sheriff's have been warned that it is easier to take a man through reason, than with a display of weapons.

I am not seeking favors and have never asked a favor in this office, but what the sheriff's office do ask is that this spirit of county pride and sacrifice be recognized. The sheriff's force feel that having given the best in them for the past two years they are entitled to a second term, not as a favor but as a reward for work well done.

Therefore, when you go to the poll at the coming primary, cast your vote for the men that are worth while. You know and for we have proved it.

Sheriff of Eastland Co.

NEW DAVIES FILM FULL OF ROMANCE

Romantic castles in Europe; devils intrigue in a European court; the romance of royal loves and bartering for kingdoms; these all come to life in the filmization of George Barr Mutocheon's famous novel, "Beverly of Graustark," presented by Cosmopolitan as Marion Davies' latest starring vehicle, playing at the Lamb theatre Monday and Tuesday. The famous novel is hand-picked with characters that were hand-picked to follow the spirit of the author's famous tale, and thrills, romance, comedy, and the piquant tan of modern court intrigue run through it.

Helene Costello, 19-year-old daughter of Maurice Costello, famous star of a dozen years ago, plays opposite the comedy star, while the role of her brother is portrayed by Bryant Washburn, himself a popular favorite. Natalie Kingston, Henry Kolker, well known Broadway comedian and many others play important parts. Arthur Rosson directed Griffith in "Wet Paint."

Success Crowns Hall's Efforts at Grandview, Tex.

Rev. A. W. Hall has written a letter to J. T. Killinsworth from Grandview, where he is holding a meeting, in which he states that the meeting is starting off fine. A body of forty workers had met and by noon of the same day had taken a census of the city and out into the country about five miles. He said that they had looked up more unsaved people that claim they are Methodists, than most people believed were in the country.

TO THE VOTERS OF EASTLAND COUNTY, PRECINCT NO. ONE

By virtue of the fact that most of my time has been taken up by the affairs of my office of justice of the peace and the law will not allow me a deputy who might do my work when away, I find it impossible to devote the time for my race for re-election, sufficient to see all the voters of this precinct, without endangering or neglecting the affairs of my office. Therefore I am taking this method of soliciting the votes and influence of each voter in the precinct.

Georgia Banks Recently Closed Seek to Reopen

By United Press.
ATLANTA, Ga., July 17—Telegrams reached offices of the state banking superintendent here today from the heads of some of the 84 small Georgia banks, which suspended following the failure of the Bankers Trust Company, Monday, asking permission to reopen.
The new development in the financial muddle came after T. R. Bennett, state banking superintendent had announced that the peak of the failures had been reached and the situation was favorable.

SITUATION SHOWS SOME IMPROVEMENT
ATLANTA, Ga., July 17.—After a day marked by the lack of additional suspension, state banking officials tonight announced that the financial situation in Georgia and Florida, muddled by the closing of 84 small institutions during the week, was rapidly becoming normal again.

Rule Of Turkey's Dictator Drawing To Abrupt Close

By J. W. T. MASON
(Written for the United Press)
NEW YORK, July 10.—Overthrow of the dictatorship of Kemal Pasha in Turkey is being threatened by the more liberal elements in the Ottoman Republic who are complaining that the rule of Kemal is little better than the kind of government the "Un-speakable" Abdul Hamid gave to his country. Kemal has failed to bring about prosperity in Turkey and though he has absolute sway over the government reform measures no longer get beyond a paper outline.
Many of the leading Turkish figures in the promised renaissance which was expected to follow the removal of the capital from Constantinople to Angora have incurred Kemal's anger and are under arrest or have been forced out of their positions. Kemal has become a megalomaniac, believing himself to be the voice of God and superior to all argument or contradiction.
Divorce
People in Turkey are pointing to the divorce of his wife as marking the turning point in his career, which is now leading to plots against him. The Turkish populace does not side with the wife against the husband, but the same temperament which made domestic peace impossible is said to make impossible peace between Kemal and his former friends. Highly placed personages are being sent to trial by Kemal without legal reason and there is no evidence that the judges are adopting an independent attitude toward Kemal's whims. His power is still so great that the courts are ready to condemn whenever his wish is thus expressed.

Enemies
But, enemies are increasing daily and Kemal no longer dares go about unaccompanied. He has organized an enormous personal secret service of his own and his bodyguard of detectives is larger than any recent situation of Turkey ever thought necessary. Whispers of assassination are frequent in Angora and the discovery of plots is as constant as when the Young Turks, before the World War were conducting their reign of terror to exact reforms from the government at Constantinople. Kemal has recently received the congratulations of members of the diplomatic corps on his escape from an attempt to murder him. This formal acknowledgment by the diplomats of their belief in the danger threatening Kemal has caused added apprehension to the dictator while at the same time it permits him to order troublesome critics into exile or into the hands of subservient justice.

Kemal's early efforts to regenerate his country after the World War are thus coming to naught but not solely through his own fault. The success of the Turks in getting lenient terms from the allies, their triumphant war against the Greeks who sought to annex part of Asia Minor, the crushing of the Armenians and other lesser victories that have come to the Angora government during the past eight year, have quite turned the heads of the Turks. Instead of getting down to hard work and pressing forward for the economic reconstruction of their they have developed an arrogance and self-laudatory attitude which has worked ill. They are turning back to war and secret diplomacy, the weapons for centuries of the Turks against the west, in the belief that their genius lies in this direction instead of in scientific progress.

False Reasoning
Kemal has been carried away by such false reasoning as this, and so has developed the characteristics of Sultanism. But, the Young Turk movement developed under the same principle in the last century and it is being fed afresh by Kemal's efforts to restore the ancient regime. Kemal has not evolved a Fascist movement in Turkey but rather to stimulate Fascist but has withdrawn so within himself as to antagonize his lieutenants. He has himself overthrown incipient Fascism in Turkey so that now there is now absolutism instead. If Turkey continues to tolerate the new Kemal method of administration there can be no hope for the nation. It will be pushed further and further back into Asia Minor, eventually to be crushed by Russian pressure from the east and European pressure from the west.

Social Forecast For Week Fair For Good Dancing

Social forecast for the week: Generally fair.
The forecast for the week is generally fair, as on Tuesday the social activities will be ushered in when Mmes. J. T. Gullaborn and Howard Gholson entertain at the Gholson in honor of Mrs. L. A. Vandervoort of Tulsa and Mrs. Lindquist, daughter of Judge and Mrs. George L. Davenport, of Cleveland, Ohio.
The usual round of clubs, three baseball games, and the Elks dance on Thursday night, with Harrison's Texans furnishing the music, will keep things fairly gay.
Then there is in Ranger always a number of little parties, the kind that hostesses just won't report, for fear of hurting the feelings of some one who was not there, or of tooting their own social horn, that make life worth living and are vastly enjoyed. Most of these are foursome bridge games, parties, dinners or swimming parties. It is too bad to keep them sub rosa, as the shut-ins and others also like to know what the other folks are doing.
The great summer trek to various parts of the United States and Europe includes a number of Ranger people, as they are either going or just getting back every day. Vacations are great things. A certain man in Ranger who had just returned from a vacation, was asked if he took his wife along. "Why, no," he replied. "I was on my vacation." That wasn't bad reasoning for even families appreciate and love one another more if they take a vacation from one another once a year. The writer still believes that "absence makes the heart grow fonder."

OFF TO CALIFORNIA.
Mrs. Raymond Teal and Miss Jean Jennet left Saturday afternoon on the Sunshine for California, where they will spend the rest of the summer. Mrs. Teal will visit in Los Angeles, and Miss Jennet will visit her mother's people in Los Angeles and Santa Rosa.

A SURPRISE PARTY FOR DEPARTING FRIEND.
Miss Marjorie Maddocks, aided and abetted by a number of her friends, sprung a delightful surprise on Miss Jean Jennet, who left last night for a summer in California, when some two dozen of their crowd met at the Maddocks home Friday night and went in a body to the Jennet home, for a last evening with their friends and school-mates.
Miss Jean was taken absolutely by surprise but rallied to the spirit of the occasion and enjoyed the party as thoroughly as the surprisers did.
Games of various kinds were enjoyed and refreshments were served. In the party were Misses Mary Edlo Davenport, Mabel Waldrop, Minnie Hayden, Annie Lee Clark, Eva Dennis, Leatrice Echols, Elizabeth Valliant, Ruby Lee Dillard, Evelyn Long, Lillian Collup, Marjorie Maddocks; Messrs. Dick, Rex and Clyde Alworth, Joe McDonald, Bobbie Sanderford, Allan Baker, Moorman Wagner, Aubrey Harkrider, Wilber Jones and Hubert Franklin.

A NUMBER OF PARTIES AT ACORN ACRES DURING WEEK.
Practically all of the social affairs of the past week have centered around the Acorn Acres tea room, which is cool and attractive, regardless of the thermometer. On Monday afternoon Mrs. Dehan of Cisco, with a party of eight, entertained with a most elaborate dinner there, in honor of a California guest. Friday afternoon Mrs. Beall Smith of Eastland entertained a party of eight in honor of her niece from Wichita Falls. The school classes of Mrs. Catherine Potts and Mrs. Getts, with their parents, enjoyed a party at the tea room late in the evening of Wednesday, which was featured by outdoor games and servings of ice cream and cake. About 30 enjoyed this delightful event.
On Thursday evening Mrs. Howard Gholson entertained a party of six in honor of Mrs. L. A. Vandervoort and Mrs. George Bohning.
The Ad Libitum club, with Mrs. Shaw and Mrs. T. M. Coombs party were two other events of note there during the week.

CHILD WELFARE CLUB ANNOUNCEMENT.
The Child Welfare club will not hold its regular monthly luncheon this week, but will have a very important business meeting at 1:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, to which all members are urged to be present.

HOME FROM C. I. A.
Miss Gladys Maddocks returned home last night from C. I. A. where she has been doing special work. She was accompanied home by Miss Opal Crowe of Port Arthur, who will be her guest for a few days.

TUESDAY BRIDGE CLUB ANNOUNCEMENT.
Mrs. C. C. Patterson will entertain the members of the Tuesday Bridge club on Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, at her home at 719 Cypress street. Members please take notice.

RANGER WOMEN ATTEND GARDEN PARTY.
Mmes. C. C. Patterson and Wilford Cozze, attended a garden party at the home of Mrs. W. H. Baldrige in Thurber, on Friday afternoon. The party was said to be a most delightful and distinctive affair. Tables were laid in the wonderful garden that is one of the charms of this home, in a setting of growing plants, ferns and cut flowers, with birds singing everywhere. There were eight tables at bridge. Punch and sandwiches were served during the entertaining hours. The party began at 5 o'clock.

It was Bunny Moore's vanity case that was used to make up the face of the beautiful Myra Heath.

Myra had never used cosmetics in all her life, but when she was found murdered she was weirdly beautified with rouge and lip-stick.

Also, there was this circumstance—There was a scene in the Heath home the night of the murder because of Bunny's friendship with Myra's husband.

scale of many varied and delightful tints, and grown in the garden of Mrs. B. J. Norman, were artistically used in furthering the attractiveness of Acorn Acres tea room on Friday morning when Mrs. T. M. Coombs entertained at bridge in honor of her guest, Mrs. M. D. Smith of Fort Worth.
Tally cards of yellow roses were in harmony with the general color motif and the appointments of the bridge and luncheon tables.
Games scores were made by Mrs. Walter Cash, who received an old rose taffeta vanity set, Mrs. Ida Snodgrass, who received a pair of hand-painted pillow cases and the low score prize, an ivory shoe horn went to Mrs. J. ARENY-TURNER WEDDING.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Areny are of Ranger and will make their home here for the time being at any rate. Mr. Areny is an employe of the Southern Ice & Utilities company.

A SHOWER FOR BRIDE ELECT.
On Tuesday evening about twenty friends of Miss Edenia Terrell, who became the bride of Herman M. Earnest, later in the week, at the invitation of Miss Esther Yonker and Miss Vertie Shell, gathered at the Yonker home and prepared a delightful surprise for their friend.
Mrs. Terrell and her daughter, Mrs. Young, who were obviously spending the evening at the Yonker home, had asked Miss Edenia to call for them at a certain hour and when she entered the Yonker home the "game" was all there to surprise her. Delightful refreshments were served and games were enjoyed until midnight.

The most wonderful part of the surprise was a large number of handsome gifts, including many pieces of silver, fine linens, and crystal, that were showered on the honoree by her friends.

PERSONALS.
Mrs. J. R. Smith and Mrs. Miller, both of Breckenridge, were Friday guests of Mrs. W. S. Brookes.

Steals An Auto, Kills a Woman And Goes Free

By United Press.
PARIS.—Some people can get away with anything in Montmartre. It all depends on who you are and what the judge thinks about you.
Leonie Joseph one of the "petites femmes," who play around the night haunts in the rue Fontaine, has just had the experience.
Leonie and her little pal, Madeline Lafarge, wandered from bar to bar until the dawn of May 6, getting gayer and gayer as the night wore along. Then they started for a well-known place where supper and breakfast are served at the same hour, according to whether the customer is just up or about to retire. In front of the place Leonie espied an automobile. It bore a familiar number.
"Oh, it's the bagnole of my Alphonse," she yelled to Madeline. "Suppose we drew profit from the occasion to make a turn of the quarter and then to the Bois."
That word "bagnole," by the way, is perfectly good French of the French Academy Dictionary for "box car," but the habitues of the Mid-night Sun quarter of Paris use it for anything on wheels that can convey a traveler where he desires to go. In "cinq sees," or five seconds, Leonie was at the wheel and the car was speeding up toward the Place Pigalle. It did not get far. First it crashed into taxi, hurling the chauffeur from his seat and breaking his leg. Then the "bagnole" mounted the sidewalk and killed a woman going to her daily toil.
Leon got scared and jumped from the car like an acrobat. As she fled "with all her legs," as witnesses of the incidents afterwards told the police, the auto whirled on its base a couple of time, overturned half a dozen fruit merchant's pushcarts—the owners were having a "vin blanc" at the moment—and finally came to a stop after having demolished the plate glass window of a jewelry store. When Leonie was seized and taken to the police station she told the commissary she knew nothing about what had happened. However, after reflection, she deemed it wiser to admit the facts and merely blamed the bad quality of the liquor she and madeline had absorbed. "Worse than ze bootler of the Americans," she insisted.
The excuse seemed rather thin but it was filled out so well by Maitre Maurice Blum at the Fourth Police Court, Judge Gorse presiding, that Leonie got out of it with four months—suspended sentence.
"Now go home and be a good girl," admonished the judge. "And before you drive another 'bagnole' see that you have a driver's license."

Souviet Courts Still Punish Friends of Czar

MOSCOW.—The Soviet courts recognize no statute of limitations for people who participated in the Czarist persecution of revolutionary parties and it is no uncommon event for a former stoolpigeon in the service of the Czar's police to be discovered, tried and shot.
Recently there have been several cases in which the Soviet courts decreed summary punishment for individuals who were implicated in the police measures against the revolutionists before the Revolution.
The "Grandmother of the Czarist Secret Police," Mrs. Anna Serebrakova, convicted on the basis of secret archive material of having betrayed many prominent revolutionists, including the Soviet Commissar for Education, Lunacharsky, and one of Lenin's sisters, into the hands of the police, was sentenced to death; but this was commuted to seven years imprisonment, in view of her advanced age. A court in Ekaterinopol imposed the death sentence upon the murderers of Dr. Karavaev, a radical member of the Duma or Czarist parliament, who was assassinated in 1908 at the instigation of the notorious reactionary anti-Semitic organization, generally known as the Black Hundreds.

Betrayed by Daughter.
The Social Revolutionist Funtikov was recently sentenced to death and shot in Baku for having raised a revolt against the Soviet Government and taken part in the shooting of twenty-six officials of the Baku Soviet Government in 1918. Funtikov was betrayed to the Soviet police by his own daughter, who was a member of the League of Communist Youth.
More recently it was the turn of three Czarist hangmen, Grudzin, Jab-in and Frolov, who were tried along with Dr. Veselitzky, who as prison doctor witnessed the executions. The hangmen, brutal and ignorant looking peasants, gave a gruesome account of the circumstances attending to the hanging of political prisoners in which they took part under the Czarist regime.
At first these executions took place in the prison itself, but as the other prisoners learned to know about it and demonstrated noisily by breaking windows and singing revolutionary songs, the executions were transferred to a more scheduled place, the coach-house of one of the Moscow district police stations. Here, in a room lighted by a dim kerosene-lamp, the prisoners were obliged to mount a table over which was a large hook with a rope. After the noose was thrown over their necks, the table was hit from under them and the hangmen pulled their victim's legs to hasten their end.
The hangmen were well paid for their work, both with money and with vodka. Pay for an execution varied from $12.50 to 50. Moreover the hangmen profited by the Russian superstition that a piece of rope on which anyone has been hanged brings good luck. They speculated with the ropes which were used in the executions.

Safety Board Is Suggested For Accidents

A national board of safety control to advance motor car construction along safety lines was advocated at the second national conference on street and highway safety by Fred W. Johnson.

Johnson, who is known as the father of safety first, presented a plan to Secretary Hoover, chairman of the conference, calling for the formation of such a board to be composed of automotive manufacturers or their representatives.

He advocated manufacturers adoption of the all-steel body, elimination of "blind spots" better brakes, less emphasis on speed, regulation of headlight intensity and standardization of bumpers.

In the conference, which had been called by President Coolidge and was attended by representatives from every state, Johnson's was the only voice that championed the driver.

While admitting the deficiencies of many drivers, Johnson also pointed to the manufacturer of the automobile, whom he also declared was also partially responsible for the present hazard of the highways. In urging the establishment of a safety "board of control" to encourage the manufacture of "fool-proof" cars Johnson suggested that it be composed of manufacturers or their representatives.

In proposing his new approach to the solution of the highway problem, Johnson declared that automobile manufacturers have a direct responsibility to their patrons and that every motor car owner and driver has a right to expect the machine he buys to be mechanically safe in construction, design and equipment.

"It is a serious question whether manufacturers in the past have given adequate thought to the element of safety in the cars they have sold to the general public," he said.

Movie Star May Help To Adorn Your Motor Car

Old Film Is Made Into Varnish After Its Picture Life Ends.

When you are polishing the varnish on your motor car or motor boat, or on your typewriter or any other possession which has a fine finish, you may be, unconsciously, rubbing the dust-rag over a material which once gave you a very definite thrill—a movie film. For that's what becomes of most of the celluloid ribbon after it has out-lived its usefulness in the job of portraying romance and adventure and comedy and tragedy—it is made in lacquer which forms the basis of the finest of varnishes.

Where Stars Go The very film from which are cast upon the screen the photoplays you will witness during Greater Movie Season, which begins in August, may eventually come back to you in the shape of some sort of varnish job.

"What becomes of old movies?" is a question frequently asked by the fans. Here is the answer:

The life of the average movie film is not more than two years. Most pictures are never shown again after that lapse of time, because they have by then traversed the country and been shown in most of the 20,233 theatres. They are junked. Some go back to the original manufacturers of the raw film, and others to specialists in this unusual business, for treatment.

Tons of Silver First, the film is given an acid bath, which removes the solid silver which forms part of the emulsion upon which the photographs are registered. It is not generally known, but the film manufacturers use more silver than any other industry in the United States, and, indeed, rank second to the United States mints in the use of this precious metal. Hundreds of tons of it are recovered from the junked movie ribbons.

After the silver has been removed the celluloid itself is melted down into a "dope" called "pyroxylin." This is replacing to a large extent the

Foreign Markets Are Big Factor In Auto Game

(By J. C. ROYLE)

NEW YORK, July 17.—Foreign markets are the factors counted on now to maintain the development of the automobile industry. They are a prime factor in making the last six months the wonderfully prosperous period it was for General Motors, Hudson, Packard, Chrysler and other manufacturers.

To some extent they are responsible for the activity in Wall street which has sent General Motors stock to a new high record for all time above $150 a share, since General Motors foreign business is now running at better than a hundred million dollars a year.

Hopes of "melon cutting" a distribution of either cash or stock to shareholders of the big company, which is second in size only to Ford was the big impulse back of the buying movement on the stock exchange. Whether these hopes was well grounded is a question, but the fact that the concern is in such position that the hopes are not impossible is not debatable.

New sales of General Motors in 1925 totaled $764,592,592 as compared with $568,007,459 in 1924 and the proportion of net income accruing to General Motors amounted to $106,484,76 as compared with $45,330,888. This was equal to $19.15 a share on the common stock, including $9,531,521 undistributed earnings of subsidiaries in 1925; net income that year amounted to $21 per share.

Mississippians In Eastland Plan Entertainment

A meeting of the Executive committee of the Ex-Mississippian Association was held at Cisco Friday afternoon. A year ago the association under the direction of Dr. J. W. Gregory was organized. At that meeting Dr. Gregory was elected President, M. McCollough, vice president and Miss Lillian Woods secretary. Since that time Dr. Gregory died and the other officers have taken up the work.

The day set for the next reunion is July 28, Williamson Dam at Cisco. A basket picnic will be had and all old Mississippians now residing in Eastland and adjoining counties are earnestly invited to be present and bring their baskets of good things to eat. Cisco residents promised to make all local arrangements needed for the day's entertainment it was stated. The officers of the association are also preparing a program of entertainment. A number of snappy speeches will be made at both morning and afternoon. Last year some 200 Mississippians gathered at the picnic and this year a much larger number is expected.

The local arrangements committee consists of Geo. D. Fee, chairman; J. I. Long, Judge J. H. McDonald, Dr. J. W. Little, P. W. Campbell, G. W. Barr and R. Q. Lee and others. The days program will be published in the next few days, officers said.

TAKE 'EM DOWN!
By OSCAR H. FERNBACH
My joy is cloyed, whe'er I drive;
My outing I must link
With scraps, and shoes, and cigars,
And furniture, and ink;
My view is blocked by blatant board
That every roadway lines;
And rural beauty's every sign
Is hidden by the signs!

The "ads" of weeds that folk should smoke
My sight of meadows blind;
I'd have to walk a mile to see
The fields that lie behind.
The hope to taste the country's lure
The ugly billboards foil—
How long, O Lord, must we endure
That they our outing spoil?

Methinks the motor industry
A willing hand could lend
And work to make the highways free
Of eyesores that offend;
They might use space with words to grace
That dwell on safety's lines
And show the open road's the place
For signals—not for signs!

Coolidge Hopes To See Accident Toll Decreased

WASHINGTON, July 15.—Hope that the annual toll of industrial accidents in the United States can be lowered from the present 23,000 lives and 2,500,000 injuries, was expressed by President Coolidge in a message to the opening session of the industrial accident prevention conference here today.

The President's letter read by Chairman Stewart, asserted that there was great room for improvement along safety lines "if those who hold that 85 per cent of those accidents are preventable are even approximately right."

Twenty-one states as several score industrial organizations were represented at the conference.

NEIGHBORS' WIVES

by ERNEST LYNN, author of THE YELLOW STUB

BEGIN HERE TODAY

John and Fay Milburn buy a home when their baby girl is born and the advertising agency in which John is partner and copy writer lands a new contract. Among their acquaintances are—

Noel ad Vera Boyd, whose marriage is strictly "modern."
Pat and Marian Forbes, who have three children and whose domestic life is unhappy because of Pat's roving tendencies. Previous chapters told how:

John becomes fascinated with Nell Orme. Forbes hints she is having trouble with her husband.

Fay took Judith, the baby, to visit her parents, and during her absence John "ran around" a good deal. When Fay returned gossip had retailed his doings and sharp quarrels followed, one of which drove him out "on a tear" and caused Fay to threaten to leave him if it was repeated.

John later encounters Nell Orme at the Boyd's—a plot of Vera's, who takes delight in promoting "affairs." He resolves not to see her again, a he realizes Nell is carrying him off his feet. But he does and the day comes when he takes her madly in his arms.

Fay learns of it and leaves him. John closes the house and takes an apartment, and here one night comes Nell Orme to tell of a quarrel with her husband, Howard, who suspects John of having come between them. While John is talking with her the door opens and Howard Orme enters. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY. (The names and situations in this story are fictitious.)

CHAPTER LVI

John could do nothing but stare. And within him was the knowledge of the facility of words. Terror had leaped to Nell Orme's eyes.

As for Howard Orme, the man's face was quite terrible to behold.

The thin, straight line of the straighter because of the set teeth. The muscles of his jaw stood out mouth was even thinner and like great knots and his eyes, narrowed in anger, blazed like a cat's. Of the two, John, despite the false position he was in, was by far the calmer. As for Nell, she had backed against the wall and stood there, a breathless spectator.

John was thinking. "He'll have to say the first word. I won't make any apologies."

Howard, closing the door behind him and bracing his back against it, looked slowly from John to his wife and then back again to John.

"Well," he said finally, his voice little louder than a whisper, "I'm not surprised. I would have bet money this was where I'd find you two."

And then silence again. John, although the unfairness of the accusation angered him, still stubbornly refused to speak.

Once more Howard stared at his wife and shifted his gaze back again to the man he thought had destroyed his home. And the muscles of his jaw began to work and his mouth to tremble; the narrowed eye to blink. "You see," he cried at Nell. "I told you you were lying when you denied your love affair with this man. You lied—didn't you?" He was trembling now, all over, a pitiful figure. And quite suddenly he collapsed and sank sprawling into the nearest chair. Nell spoke his name—"Howard"—and at the sound of her voice a great sob escaped him and he buried his face in his hands.

Nell at once started toward him, her hands outstretched to comfort him, but John whispered, "Wait. Let him have it out," and she remained where she was.

But Orme was not long in recovering and John, as the other slowly raised his head, said, "Howard, do

But suddenly John stopped to stare at the paper's ominous headlines, which were proclaiming a thing almost unbelievable.

"You want to listen to me?"

The words were as friendly, as kindly as he knew how to make them, but why, asked Orme, his lips tightening again, should he listen to any more lies?

Wasn't this evidence enough for him—to come in on his wife in another man's apartment, in another man's arms? What did he have to listen to?

"Hell! John didn't think he was an ignorant kid, did he?"

John's own calm surprised even himself.

"Well now, Howard," he began placatingly. "I can't resent your thinking those things, even though they're not true."

"Oh, don't lie," put in Orme warily.

He wouldn't take the trouble to lie, John told him.

"Howard, sometimes things can look mighty different from what they really are. I won't deny that your wife and I have no business to be here, that on the surface things look pretty rotten—but you're dead wrong, just the same."

"Liar!" hissed Orme contemptuously. "Why don't you two admit your rottenness and be done with it? Why make it worse?"

Nell gasped. "Howard!" she exclaimed, her eyes wide and staring.

And John, despite his resolution to try to reason with Orme, was forced to resent the man's words.

"See here now," he said angrily. "I refuse to get melodramatic about this thing. I don't care for all the penny fireworks. You simply don't know what you're talking about."

you!" Howard cried, and again he seemed on the point of tears. His hands twitched; his face was working; with the back of his hand he brushed impatiently at his eyes.

"Well," and Milburn's voice was hard, "there's no excuse for dragging your wife's name through the mud—or mine either."

"You know I don't believe in divorce, Howard," Nell broke in. "If you want to split with me, why not just leave me? I won't ask anything of you."

And Howard, half sobbing again, saying, "Oh, of course, you'd both like to get out of the mess you're in without being punished. But I'm going to punish you both. I'll tell every damned thing I know to a lawyer."

"You'd better not, Orme," John warned him.

"Well, try to stop me."

And now John had surrendered completely to his anger.

"If you insist on doing that, Orme—do you hear me?—if you insist on that I believe I'd be tempted to kill you. I think I would kill you. God! I've stood a lot, but I won't stand for this."

Nell had gone over to her husband's side and was plucking at his sleeve.

"Please, Howard, he's telling the truth, the honest truth. Come let's go home. Let's get out of here."

She shot an agonized glance at John over her shoulder.

"Come, Howard," she went on, as Orme began to push her away, "please let's go home, and you sleep on it tonight and maybe in the morning you'll be able to think clearer."

"Think clearer! I'm thinking as clearly now as I'll ever think. Damn you, Milburn," he cried, his voice breaking. "And you, too, Nell! Damn you both! I'll have you both in court—you see if I don't."

"You do," John told him, "and you'll regret it to your dying day."

"You mean to say I haven't got the right to get a divorce? You'd

Future of Auto Industry Bright Says Big Man

The record-breaking automobile production of two and a quarter million automobiles which was attained in the first six months of 1926 was made possible only through a prosperous national condition during that period and the well-founded faith of the American public that "everything is all right" and will continue so.

This is the view of the general business situation made in Denver last week by C. A. Vane, general manager of the National Automobile Dealers Association, who in the last month has covered the country from New York to the Rocky Mountain region.

"The thousand miles between Denver and St. Louis were covered by automobiles. There has been a vast improvement in the highway situation between Denver and east since I made the trip overland," Vane declared, speaking at the luncheon given by the Denver Auto Dealers Association at the Brown Palace Thursday.

"While on the subject of the farm situation, it is interesting to note that there is very little feeling among the producing farmers of the middle west, as in the past few years, that legislation has a great deal to offer to the agriculturalist. Most of the growers of this class feel that the most substantial farm relief they have got was the adjustment of congress, not the enactment of laws. The intelligent farmer knows that his problem is one of marketing and warehousing, and he is depending upon the improved road situation to help him attain both.

"On my numerous trips into the west, I have never seen the Colorado country in better shape, agriculturally, than in the last five years. An improvement over conditions of last year and the year before. Corn, wheat and beets appear to be in the finest condition they have shown in years, and there is a marked optimism among the farmers that has been absent in my previous visits to this country in the last five years.

Davenport Optimistic Over Outlook

Judge George L. Davenport, candidate for associate justice of the court of civil appeals at Eastland, Texas, place No. 2, was recently in our city in the interests of his candidacy.

Judge Davenport has been over the entire district meeting his many old friends and making numbers of new ones. He is very much gratified at the favorable reports reaching him from every part of the district.

Judge Davenport is now serving as district judge of the ninety-first judicial district. He was appointed to the office by Governor W. B. Hobby in June, 1920, and was nominated to succeed himself in August and elected for a four-year term in November, 1920, without opposition. In 1922, he was renominated for a second term with a handsome majority over his opponent, and elected in November election of 1924, for another term of four years, which he is now serving.

Judge Davenport was born, reared and educated in Texas, and admitted to the bar in 1898. His ability was soon recognized and in a short time after being admitted to the bar he was elected county attorney of Eastland county, and served in that office two years. At the end of that time he entered private practice in Eastland county, and in 1906 moved to Stamford, where he continued in practice and shortly thereafter was joined by his brother, Judge B. P. Davenport, and this partnership continued until 1918, when he returned to Eastland county to enjoy a splendid practice during the oil boom in that section. The immense amount of litigation soon made it necessary to create a new district court at Eastland and the ninety-first district court was created. The bar demanded a seasoned lawyer to preside over this new court, and it was at their earnest solicitation that Judge Davenport was appointed by Governor Hobby.

During Judge Davenport's tenure in office he has tried cases involving millions of dollars of property values and has handled and disposed of one of the largest dockets of any court in the state. Lawyers from all over Texas and from many other states have practiced before him, and it is the general consensus of opinion among them that Judge Davenport is one of the most able trial judges in the state. He is fair in his rulings, courteous to lawyers and litigants, and is patient and careful in the trial of cases and endeavors to adjudicate all questions before him impartially and in accordance with law. He is an experienced and seasoned lawyer, a judge with a record second to none, is of judicial poise and temperament and enjoys the confidence and good will of more lawyers in Texas than perhaps any other trial judge in the state.

Judge Davenport is peculiarly well fitted by nature, training and experience to acceptably and ably fill a place on the new court of civil appeals at Eastland, in the heart of the Oil Belt, and it is believed by his friends of the laity, as well as of the bar, that he will be overwhelmingly nominated in the July primaries.

betetr, not butt in on my affairs, I do more." And John, not knowing what else to say, turned wearily away, thinking, though, that if Orme did go through with this and drag his name into it, he'd be tempted to kill him. Orme was snatching at his hat. "I ought to kill you," he was crying, and started toward the door. Nell, after him. "I ought to kill you!"

And John — "Yes, I suppose so," he said.

There was no sleep for him that night. Going to bed was not even to be thought of. But before settling down to his chair he went first to a closet and brought out a bottle.

Over his glass he was reflecting

Unfilled orders for many millions more are being rapidly met by vastly expanded production facilities.

This overwhelming success was inevitable.

that if Howard should do what he had threatened to do and Fay should learn of it, he'd sooner die than live with the knowledge that she could think of him as the kind of man Howard would paint him.

"God!" he cried, "What have I done that I should deserve all this? It isn't fair—it isn't right. Fay, I'm innocent—I swear it!"

And so the night wore on. What, he wondered, was Howard Orme doing now. Had Nell gone home with him, and were they quarreling again? What a pity that Nell should have this trouble on her hands.

And yet Howard—how could he really blame the man? What would he—John—have done had he come upon his own wife in another man's apartment?

What a nasty, muddled thing life was anyway. What trouble could he be born of misunderstanding. And what was to become of him?

He rose to pour himself another drink. Wouldn't Nat Graham gloat, he was thinking as he topped the bottle, if he only knew of this.

He could hear a horse-drawn vehicle go clattering past his window—the milk man, most likely. Funny that routine things should go on uninterrupted like this while his own life was going to smash. But that was the way of the world—harsh, unfeeling, no one caring a rap for anyone else.

Some time during the long hours before dawn he went to his bedroom and opened the bureau drawer where lay the little rubber doll that had belonged to Judith. He squeezed it hard, and the top emitted a faint squeak. It was unbearable—it tore so at his heart.

He was glad when he saw the sun shining at the window, glad for the excuse of disrobing and jumping into the tub. And now, he thought, as he emerged from his bath, another day, with more trouble in store.

On his way to breakfast he bought a newspaper, glancing at the thing mechanically and with no idea whatever of reading. But suddenly he stopped to stare at the paper's ominous headlines, which were proclaiming a thing almost unbelievable.

The flame of scandal, he saw, was about to sear him again.

These 100,000 Mile Studebakers are proof of One-Profit Value

In March we published a roster of 274 Studebaker owners who had driven their cars from 100,000 to more than 300,000 miles—a few of the veteran Studebakers throughout the world. Since then, hundreds of new names, voluntarily submitted, have been added to this record of Studebaker dependability and stamina. The list below contains 817 hundred-thousand-mile Studebakers. And almost every day new names are added to this honor roll of service. Here is conclusive proof of the thousands of miles of excess transportation built into every Studebaker.

Studebaker proves stamina by smashing transcontinental record

On June 17th, a stock model Studebaker Big Six driven by Ab Jenkins and Ray Peck of Salt Lake City, established a new transcontinental record, bridging the 3471-mile gap between New York and San Francisco in 86 hours, 20 minutes. It lowered the previous automobile record by 16 hours and 25 minutes—beat the fastest time by train, 6 hours and 25 minutes. An average speed of 40.2 miles per hour was maintained in spite of terrific rainstorms, fog and deep mud.

Even under the extremely unfavorable conditions encountered throughout the grueling trip, gasoline consumption averaged 13.4 miles per gallon and oil, 315.5 miles per quart.

It is doubtful if you will ever demand such severe service from your car as this transcontinental run required. Yet it proves why Studebaker performs so unflinchingly in every-day use—why hundreds of owners have testified mileage records ranging from 100,000 to 300,000 miles.

KEEP THE CHILDREN OFF HIGHWAYS

Half of all traffic fatalities in Cleveland during May happened to children under 8, according to an announcement recently by the traffic bureau of the Cleveland Automobile Club.

This figure is somewhat higher than previous months and indicates that the advent of warmer weather has attracted many of these children to play in the streets, the report says.

In every one of these cases, according to police records, the driver could not have avoided the accident, which was attributed to carelessness of children in running in front of moving vehicles.

How To Drive Down Steep Hills To Save the Car

By ERWIN GREER.)
Some afternoon when you want to be enlightened as to the dumbness of your fellowman (and perhaps yourself) why drive out to where there is a steep grade, park your car at the bottom, then walk half-way up to stop and ponder the efforts of motorists ascending and descending that hill. You'll get enough grade information to last you a life time.

After you have laughed yourself sick at other fellow, why try driving up and down that hill yourself—to see just how good you are.

The chap who makes a bull in going down a steep hill seldom has a second chance to do it over—there is not any more. Brake linings are affected by the weather—did you know that? Linings will swell and take hold better on a damp day than on a dry day. This means that you could descend a hill nicely one day and not so nicely the next day. The motor tourist is the boy who can judge grades accurately. Watch him and you will note that he casts an appraising eye down the hill, then shifts into second or low gear as the case demands. He takes no chances on burning out a set of brakes because he knows he will need them for emergencies later.

But the man who slides down a steep hill without shifting into a lower gear, depending solely on his brakes—is crazy. Sooner or later he will be riding a runaway that will throw him.

The condition of an engine plays an important part in descending hills. Just as compression aids a car in climbing a hill it also holds a car back in descending a hill. New cars do not "run a way" so easily as the valves have perfect seats and the pistons are tight. And tight bearings also combine with maximum compression to hold the car back.

Pontiac Coach Sets New Record For Long Drive

A new record of 10 hours and 56 minutes for the 525 miles between San Antonio and Oklahoma City was set by Leo Rice yesterday when he drove a Pontiac Coach back north on a second endurance test, after coming through here on his way to San Antonio Wednesday forenoon. Rice passed through Waco stopping only a few minutes, shortly after 8 o'clock Thursday morning.

The information concerning the new record was received late yesterday afternoon by Boyd Motor Co. local Oakland and Pontiac dealers in a telegram from Rice, who said the Pontiac Coach was in good shape and running fine after its 1,070 mile road run. The race against time going north beat the Wednesday's run by 29 minutes, the dealers say.

Chevrolets Hit New High Mark In Production

The gigantic manufacturing organization of the Chevrolet Motor Company rose to new production heights during June when it built 77,241 passenger cars and trucks, a greater number of units than the company ever had produced in a single month.

No other manufacturer of modern three speed transmission automobiles has approached this production which culminates a series of monthly production records established by Chevrolet.

Manufacturers Are Cutting The Price Of Tires

Announcement is made of a substantial reduction in prices on all types of automobile tires, effective on July 6.

The average reduction is approximately 15 per cent, running as low as 2 per cent to 25 high.

Some of the more popular balloon sizes show the biggest reductions. The average cut in tube prices is 20 per cent.

The price reduction is general and no great variation in per centage is apparent among the leading manufacturers.

While a decrease in tire price has been expected and hoped for by the buying public throughout the entire year, the present announcement comes in the nature of a surprise to the great majority of car owners, and will undoubtedly cause an increased volume of business in all the makes and sizes of standard tires.

The new prices are said to be as low, in many instances, as tires were ever before sold for.

Chevrolets Hit New High Mark In Production

The aggregate production for the first half of 1926 was 384,573 cars and trucks. During the first half of 1925, Chevrolet's greatest year, the company produced 249,234 units, a total which was passed early in May of this year, which is 134,739 units less than the first six months of 1926 production.

The surprising growth of the Chevrolet Motor Company is indicated by the fact that the production during the first half of 1926 equals the entire production during the seven and one-half years of the company's history.

Details of the company's recently announced $10,000,000 expansion program are going forward and completion of this project will give the company a production during 1927 of one million Chevrolets.

Overloading Makes Motor Touring Hard

Motorists generally "wise up" to proper methods of camping out of doors only after profiting by their own experiences on many outing trips. The average novice at camping and touring in the great open spaces starts off with a great load of unnecessary articles only to find that the weight prohibits travel over a moderate speed, according to outing experts.

The plan of forming a new kind of S. P. C. A. or Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Automobiles, is heartily endorsed by auto club outing authorities, who quote examples of "would-be" tourists who load everything on their machine except the kitchen stove.

The case of one autoist is reported in which he stopped at a garage of a small mountain town with a bitter complaint of engine trouble. Investigation revealed that he was not only carrying a party of five persons besides himself, but he was dragging a trailer weighing 860 pounds and carrying a 40-foot tent, two iron beds with springs and mattresses and an iron stove, and yet he wondered why the old motor laid down on the job.

Recommended equipment on any extensive trip generally includes a bedding roll filled with light woolen blankets, or sleeping bags which obviate blankets, or waterproof pneumatic mattresses with army blankets, say outing experts of the motoring organization. Woolen blankets, it is pointed out, have more warmth than three times their number of cotton covers, and none of this sleeping material takes up much room in the car.

Many recreation seekers find their tent the stumbling block in gathering equipment for their trip. The tent must be secure, serviceable, staunch, but not heavy. Many professional campers make their own tent of canvas carried in the car and poles and stakes hewn from the nearest trees, it is pointed out.

"Travel light," is the most important advice of the outing bureau. It is the wrong idea to take discarded material found around the house, for careful thought should be given to camping equipment, say the authorities. They point out that it is possible to carry everything from a stove to a dish pan, broiler for steaks, six of everything for eating, frying pan, stew pan, coffee pot and what-not, that would, nevertheless, weigh no more than twelve pounds.

It is a common mistake of inexperienced campers to take along too much wearing apparel, according to the outing bureau. A plan considered advisable is that of purchasing one or a pair of what is known in the army as "officer's clothing rolls." Several persons can pack everything needed on a camping trip into one of these bags, it is stated.

Ravages of Flea In Cotton Plant Causes Alarm

By United Press.
 WASHINGTON.—The cotton crop in several southern states has suffered considerable damage from a flea insect that ravages the plants, according to the Agriculture Department.

The insects, which feed on buds and growing tips of cotton plants, have invaded all the southern cotton states from Texas to Georgia. They insert sharp beaks into the growing plants and extract sap, killing the branches and buds.

The cotton flea or cotton hopper, as it is sometimes called, breeds in wild host plants and then migrates to cotton. The devastating insect is small but can be seen with the naked eye.

Secretary of Agriculture Jardine has ordered his entomologists to make an extensive study of the flea to determine the most effective methods of control. Until some control measure is found cotton growers should dust their crops with super-fine sulphur or flowers of sulphur, the department advises.

50 COUPLES DOING CHARLESTON EQUALS 42 HORSEPOWER

By United Press.
 STOCKHOLM.—Fifty couples doing the Charleston on a dance floor create 42 horsepower a second, or energy equal to that contained in a large automobile, according to statistics published in a local newspaper.

Estimating the weight of the man at 165 pounds and that of his partner at 132 pounds, as an average weight, it is declared that the couple while dancing would create 506.21 foot pounds of work a second. Each couple dancing would require 10 to 12 minutes to create one horsepower, according to variations in the intensity of gravity at different points.

Another Round World Flight Is Planned For 1927

MADRID.—Spain and Portugal are planning another round the world air flight early in 1927.

Spanish and Portuguese aviators intend to start together from Lisbon and cross the Atlantic by way of Las Palmas, Bissao, Fernando de Noronha and Pernambuco. They then will fly to Buenos Aires, the Falkland Islands, cross Oceania, stopping successively in Mary Tierra Island of Chile, Easter Island, Pitcairn Island, Tahiti, Apia, Neumea, Townsville, Australia, Dili and Surabaya in Java; to reach the Asian continent at Singapore. Continue they will follow the strait of Malacca to Kota Radja in the northern part of Sumatra, thence across the Bay of Bengal to Colombo along the Malabar coast to Vilanova de Goa, Karachi, Basmire, Alexandria, Syracuse and back to the Iberian Peninsula where the flight was initiated.

It is likely that the Spanish aviators will be the new famous Commandant Franco who flew from Paris to Manager to Buenos Aires, his mechanic Pablo Rada, and Captains Loriga and Gallarza who completed the Madrid-Manila flight. The Portuguese aviators who are preparing for the world flight are Commandant Sarmiento de Beires who flew from Lisbon to Macao, Lieutenant Jose Cabral, commandant in the maritime aviation, and Captain Jorge de Castilho, another Portuguese ace.

It is not known yet what plane the Spanish aviators will use, but the Portuguese have decided to try to make the flight on a metallic water-plane which will be equipped with two motors and space to carry four men, wireless instruments, and sufficient gasoline and oil to make hops of over 1,800 miles at a speed of a 100 miles an hour.

The total approximate distance of this flight is over 26,000 miles. The longest of the twenty five scheduled jumps is a little less than 1,800 miles; it will have to be made over the Pacific Ocean.

Dallas Bonehead Club Members Wear Ancient Hats

DALLAS, Texas, July 17.—Members of the Dallas Bonehead Club appeared at the picnic tendered them by R. B. Ellifritz at a local resort Friday in various and sundry plug and silk top hat gathered together for the occasion.

Ellifritz, manager of the Adolphus hotel here gave the picnic to all the tuncchon clubs who meet weekly in his hotel.

The Bonehead who always have striven for the novel and unique decided that the occasion was one in which they should excel themselves and therefore started the search for the hats of ancient vintage.

A call was issued and voluntary contributions were asked. The hats came from many places and showed varying degrees of wear but nevertheless the wearers assumed the proper air of dignity in keeping with the headpieces.

Blanton's Probe Of Washington Now Underway

By CHARLES P. STEWART, NEA Service Writer.
 WASHINGTON.—The District of Columbia government is to be investigated while congress is in recess.

The house of representatives left a special committee, before it adjourned, to attend to it—Congressmen McLeod of Michigan, Gibson of Vermont, Reid of Illinois, Houston of Delaware, Gilbert of Kentucky, Hammer of North Carolina, and Whitehead of Virginia.

Indications are that an investigation is badly needed. Perhaps there won't prove to be any fire but there's an awful lot of smoke.

Washington's city government is of more than local importance, for the whole country governs the capital and is responsible for doing a good job.

What kind of a job is being done? "The government of the District of Columbia," says Congressman Gilbert of the investigating committee, who already has spent five years looking into its affairs, "is approaching a scandal, and I warn all concerned that the situation can't be remedied by the passage of laws."

"It can only be done by a change in personnel."

"We need not pass laws and expect relief by having them administered by those now administering them. They are indifferent to all laws except appropriation bills."

The district government has been under heavy fire throughout most of the last session of congress.

Representative Blanton fought it until he snapped under the stress of his campaign and, under his doctor's orders, had to go home.

A point of bitterness was reached where ink bottles and pitchers of water were hurled in committee rooms and bumps were raised on congressional brows.

dress to carry a straight silver-headed cane with full dress, has been amended and many of London's best dressed men now carry the "stick" best suited to their tastes.

Dinner jacket suits are still accepted at formal affairs in lieu of full dress, but to wear such dress brands the wearer with not having the required evening dress. The black vest of the tuxedo, however, is frequently seen worn with full dress and is now considered "good form."

Never throw away a day until you get a new one.

Plan World-Wide Appeal To Erect New Memorial England Back To Pre-War Rule For the Evening

By United Press.
 LONDON.—The council of governors of the Shakespeare Memorial theatre are planning a world-wide appeal to all lovers of dramatic art to contribute to the rebuilding and endowment of the national memorial at Stratford-on-Avon.

The governor, recently selected, are five distinguished men representing art, architecture, finance, literature and the stage. They are Sir Charles Holmes, director of the National gallery; Guy Dawber, president of the Royal Institute of British Architects; Reginald McKenna, the famous banker; Sir James Barrie, the playwright, and Harley Granville-Barker, playwright and producer.

Several meetings have been held by the governors and the available ground at Stratford has been carefully examined. It is generally agreed that it will be impossible to build an adequate modern theatre on the old site, which is on the river bank, restricted in area and generally below water level. Other adjacent sites already in the possession of the governors, are considered more suitable.

The money available at the moment for rebuilding the theatre consists of $125,000 paid by the insurance company and about $100,000 subscribed since the fire of the old theatre. This is totally inadequate to do the work ambitiously contemplated. It is probable that the ruins of the old theatre will be adapted for a concert hall.

England Back To Pre-War Rule For the Evening

By United Press.
 LONDON.—England is returning to pre-war rules for evening dress.

The International Opera Program at Covent Garden has revived the stipulation that "evening dress must be worn in the boxes, orchestra and first balcony." Those who find it impossible to attend in evening dress are permitted to sit in the second balcony.

The famous old opera house has not been the only leader in the movement for revival of the old dress-for-the-theatre custom which gradually passed out during the war, for there is a strong tendency to follow the strict dress rules at other theatres, including the Haymarket and Criterion, usually patronized by the social set.

Morning silk hats really never passed out as the result of the war, probably due to the fact that many commercial houses, particularly in the banking district, required that their messengers wear them. The opera hat, is now seen frequently as early as five p. m., when the well dressed man is on his way to the club for dinner, or going to an early theatre engagement.

Practically all of the royal societies now stipulate evening full dress on their programs, even in the cases of lectures or open forums.
