ANOTHER GOOD WELL IN PARSONS POOL

ROADSIDE TEST NEAR STRAWN IS ON BLACK LIME

Thomas Ranch Well Is Attracting Attention; Some New Locations.

It is reliably reported that the Eastland Oil & Gas Company got another good well yesterday on the P. Green Wright tract in the Parsons pool, which is said to be better than the first well that was brought in on the Wright.

The test by the side of the road, just out of the city limits of Strawn is very much in the limelight. This well, which is being drilled by Britton, Wickers et al, was started several months ago with a national machine, however, after going as far as they could with that the company decided to use a standard rig and today are drilling at 3,180 feet on top of the black lime, with a light showing of oil. They are running 6 5/8 inch casing.

Two new locations are to be made near Ranger in the near future, it is authentically stated, however, these locations cannot as yet be made public but both will be within five miles of the heart of the city.

The Bob Glasscock well near La-casa is a splendid gasser, with an output estimated at around five million cubic feet of gas per day.

The Fidelity Parks well, near Frankell, is expected to touch the Ranger pay sand today.

Spore, Cowan et al have started their No. 1 Holly, in the Lone Camp field, 17 miles northeast of Strawn. On this tract are four million feet gassers and one 11 barrel oil well at 550 feet.

The R. B. Thomas ranch well, which is being drilled by a number of Ranger men, is running the six-inch casing at 3,170 feet, and there is a slight showing of gas.

Tools are being moved on the Thomas ranch and other locations are to be made at once, according to information received today.

FIRE FATAL TO YOUTH ON GULF LEASE

The death took place this morning at the Payne-Brown hospital, Eastland, of Claude Leonard, a young man who was seriously burned yesterday at the Gulf lease, one mile and a half west of Eastland.

Leonard was burned when the drill struck a gas pocket, the flames shooting up through the hole and catching the rig on fire which collapsed and fell to the ground.

The young man was caught in the burning wreckage and before he could be extracted was fatally burned. He was unconscious when picked up and rushed to Eastland by J. D. Seale, and John Taylor, who were passing and attracted to the spot by shouts of the men on the lease.

The body of the deceased man was taken to Barrow undertaking parlors, where it was stated that up to the present no funeral arrangements had been made. Deceased is also said to have a brother in Eastland.

Army Bugler Wins $200,000 Estate of Father

EL DORADO, Ark., July 20.—R. W. Bradley, 20 year-old army bugler, today has a clear title to a $200,000 estate left him by his foster father, J. C. Bradley of Smackover.

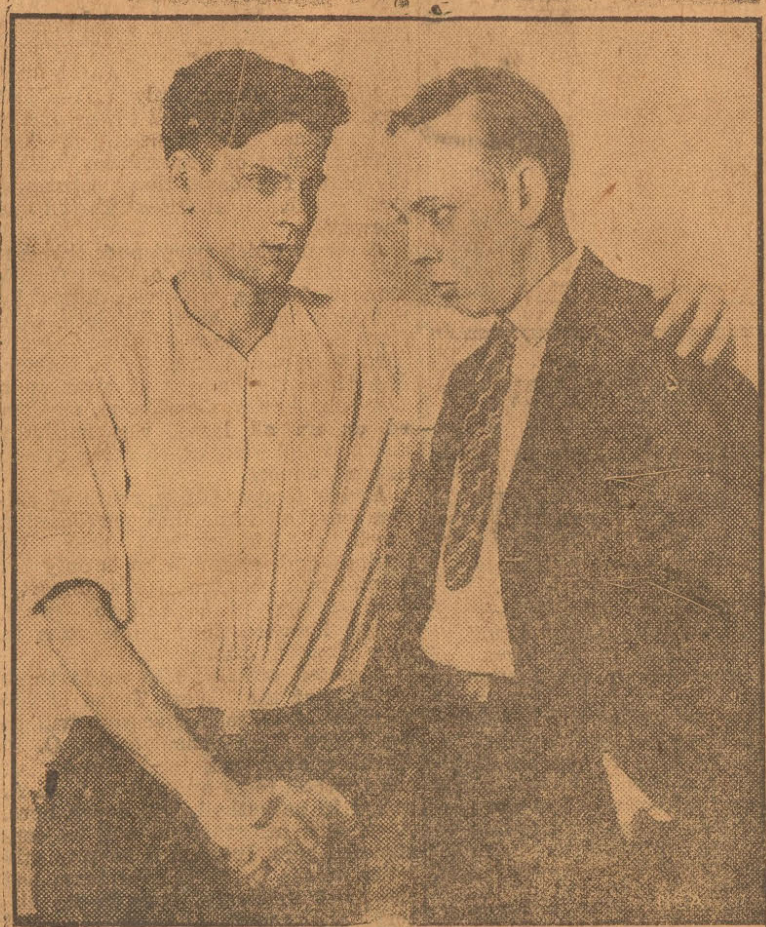

A circuit court decision here upheld a demurrer filed by Bradley to the suit of Mrs. Blanch Dunn, daughter of Bradley, out of the will with $5,000 cash settlement.

The estate consists of 200 acres of oil lands in the vicinity of Smackover.

TWO CANDIDATES COUNTY JUDGE IN WORDY BATTLE

Charges and counter-charges, ku kluxism, and personalities together with an attack on a paper for publishing a political advertisement all featured in the joint debate last night on the high school campus. Ranger, between County Judge Ed S. Pritchard and his opponent Judge Oscar Chestnut. Approximately 2,000 persons were on hand to hear the two wordy gladiators and candidates for judge ridicule each other. The other candidates for office announced their candidacy and in a few words told of their fitness for the position they sought. All were frank enough to wear after as much as to serve. Judge L. R. Pearson was presiding officer.

In his opening speech Judge Pritchard gave an account of his stewardship and defended his administration. (Continued on page six.)

Radio Operator Of McPherson Will Not Talk

LOS ANGELES, July 20.—Kenneth G. Ormiston, former Angelus temple radio operator, refused flatly to be a witness before the grand jury investigation of Mrs. Aimee Sample McPherson kidnaping mystery.

A letter from the radio man to District Attorney Asa Keyes, post-marked New York city, was read to the grand jury today. In it Ormiston announced the treatment that he had received from the newspapers and officials as "nasty publicity" and subsequent prosecution by self-styled investigators.

"I have not forgotten the dirty deal I received from the papers when I did go to Los Angeles," he wrote. "As for your order for me to appear before the Los Angeles grand jury, I am afraid I can't oblige you."

SIGNAL SYSTEM AT CROSSINGS IS DISCUSSED

Ranger's Reunion On August 12-13 Receives Some Consideration.

Four boys and girls will go to the short course at A. & M. college this summer, through the generosity of the Ranger Chamber of Commerce, as it was agreed at a meeting of the board of directors last night, to defray the expenses of a boy and girl from the Colony rural club and of two from the Olden club.

A communication from a Texas & Pacific official regarding a visit of this official in the near future, was underpass and the installation of a read, at which time the proposed bell signal system at the Prairie crossing will be gone into.

W. W. Housewright, chairman of the trade extension committee reported that he was working on plans that might result in a fall style show and festival, if they were feasible.

The matter of entertaining the Texas E-Rangers association on Aug. 11-13 was gone into by W. C. Hickey, chairman of the convention and entertainment committee and plans will be worked out to make their stay in Ranger as pleasant, if not more so, as it was last year.

Mr. Mills recommended the contribution of the organization toward the purchase price of the cotton dusting machine, which was recently demonstrated.

The secretary gave reports of routine, industrial and other similar projects and in the general discussion it was decided that some time this fall a meeting of officials from counties in South Texas, who are interested in a highway from their part of the state to North Texas, would be called to meet in Ranger to confer on a highway project.

TONG WAR ON COAST BOBS UP; 1 DEAD

LOS ANGELES, July 20.—The Pacific Coast Tong War flared anew here today when several unknown slayers shot and killed Leon Zook, 26, apparently while he was sleeping in his hotel room.

Other rumors told the police they heard a shot and several strange Chinese were known to have visited the hotel during the night. Five Chinese have been killed in other California cities during the past month since the outbreak between the Hip Sing and the Bing tongs.

WANT SECOND PARTY WITH BASSHAM

Startling developments are expected when the case of Charles Bassham, charged with the death of Luther Browder, at Cisco, last week is brought before the grand jury in the Eighty-eighth district court.

Several new witnesses are being sought, and it is now known that another man was with Bassham at the time of the affair. This man, it was stated, is being sought by the county attorney, but it is believed that he fled the state the day of the tragedy.

Several new angles in the case also are being followed, it was stated, one being that a few days before the shooting Bassham was forced to pay money to keep a deal straight and that he blamed Browder for this.

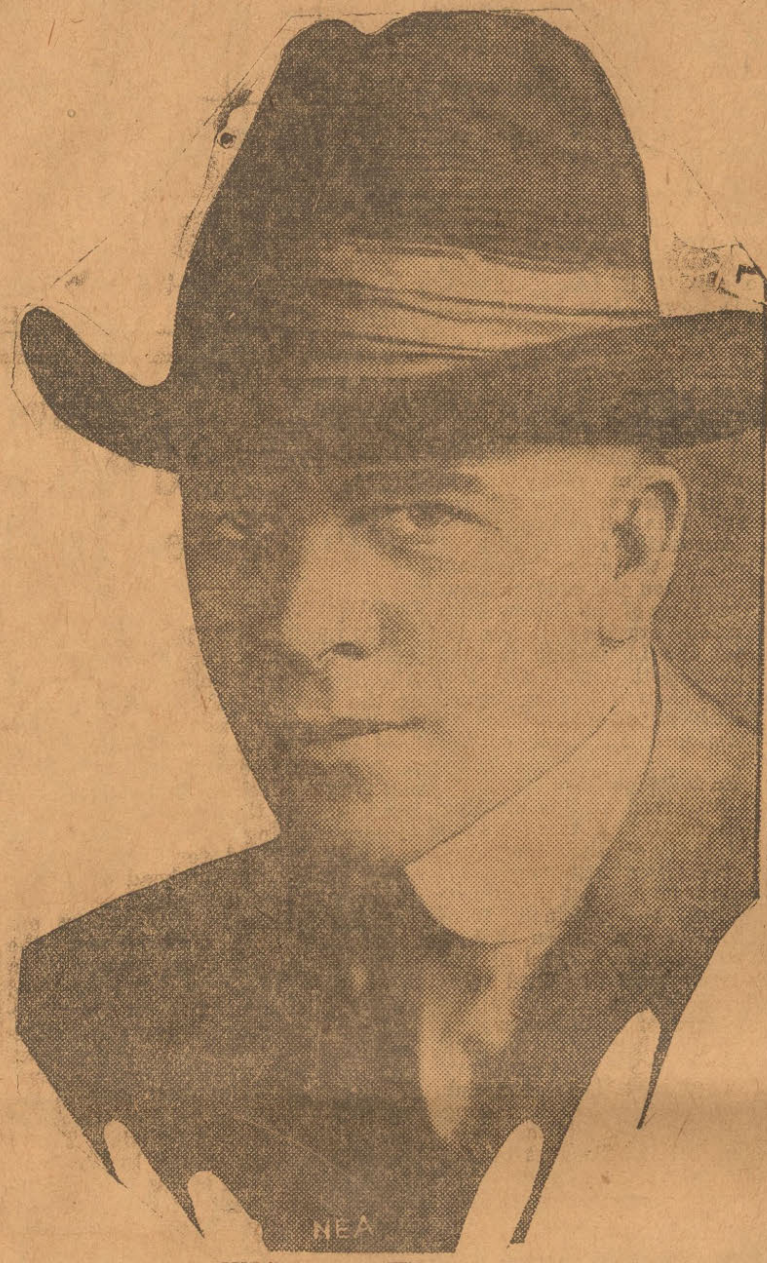

The man being sought is alleged to have been seen in the car with Bassham on the afternoon of the shooting, and that this man was also seen holding the shotgun with which the fatal shooting was committed.

SCOTLAND YARD MAKES RECORD WOMAN HUNT

LONDON, July 20.—Scotland Yard kennel of the world's greatest human "bloodhounds," recently held its biggest woman-hunt.

During one day, seven girls, ranging in age from 12 to 25 were reported "lost, strayed or stolen" within the London district.

Fought for Law and Order

Donald R. Bellett, 36, publisher of the Canton (O.) Daily News, who was shot to death in front of his garage early Friday morning. His brother, Lloyd Mellatt, city editor of the News, declared the slain man was the victim of a conspiracy growing out of a campaign by the News against illicit liquor traffic and vice in Canton and his activities in demanding a cleanup of the police department.

Campaign Begun To Prevent The Selling of Wart

WASHINGTON, July 20.—A campaign to prevent the sale of "wart," a malt preparation easily convertible into real beer, was started by federal prohibition unit today.

It is non-alcoholic when first made, but develops into high powered beer by the addition of yeast. Some courts have ruled that the manufacture of "wart" is legal, but the government is testing the case in the courts as it contends it should be used only in the manufacture of real beer.

Speech By Blanton In Eastland City Hall This Evening

Mr. Blanton will talk in Ranger in the afternoon and will drive to Eastland immediately after this speech to make arrangements. Many visitors are expected from Gorman, Carbon and Rising Star, it was stated.

Illinois Central Crashes Into Switch; Hundreds Are Hurt

CHICAGO, July 20.—A speeding Illinois Central train from Chicago's south in suburbs, bringing hundreds of workers to the downtown district, plunged into a switch engine and left the rails early today.

A score of passengers and the firemen of the switch engine were injured and taken to the hospital. None of the injuries are believed to be of a fatal nature.

3 HOTELS SHOT UP BY MEN WHO ARE ARRESTED

One Is Fatally Hit; Bullet Pierces the Abdomen; Booze Is Found.

MUSKOGEE, Okla., July 20.—Waving their guns and shooting at three hotels here today, wounding two persons seriously and several others slightly.

One of the officers, Paul Davis, was shot in the abdomen before he was captured. Yes Cramack, the other officer surrendered.

The pair of officers in their wild rampage shot their way through three hotels, the Antlers, the Maple and the Tulsa.

Witnesses said they made no reference to a "raid" at the first two hotels, but declared they were going to "kill someone."

Upon entering the Tulsa, the men found a card game in session and proclaimed they had come to raid it.

Shooting wildly with their guns, the two men rushed to the third floor.

It was in the Tulsa that Homer Pittman, and Ed Conway, cornered the two officers and forced them to enter their car. When informed they were being taken to police headquarters the two men began a fight in which two were struck with bullets and a third bruised.

Davis was shot through the abdomen and not expected to live and will undergo an operation today at a hospital.

Chief of Police Clark Thompson said a quart of moonshine liquor was found in Davis' automobile and Cramack admitted he and Davis had been drinking. They were not on duty at the time of the shooting.

Walls of the three hotels bore evidence of half a hundred shots or more having been fired. Officials said they would await the outcome of Davis' operation before filing charges.

AMERICA DESCRIBED, SHYLOCK

LONDON, July 20.—America's position of war debts, came under fire in the house of commons, last night, when out-spoken resentment against the United States, featured the debate.

By inference America was described as the Shylock nation by the speakers.

Winston Churchill, chancellor of the exchequer, commented strongly on the recent statement ascribed to Secretary of the Treasury Andrew Mellon, that England borrowed a large portion of its present debt from America for purely commercial purposes.

"The complete misapprehension of the facts is so serious," he said, referring to the statement, "that it makes me almost doubt the authenticity of the statement."

Moody To Deliver Eastland Speech At Connellee Park

Dan Moody, candidate for governor, will speak Wednesday afternoon at 1 o'clock at Eastland Connellee park, according to present arrangements made by Moody campaign managers in Eastland this afternoon.

This change of venue follows the statement rife in Eastland that the Eastland city hall would not be large enough to hold all those that have intimated they would be present at the meeting. A large delegation of visitors are also expected from Breckenridge. A large platform and seats will be elected to take care of ladies.

The candidate will also speak over the radio at Fort Worth, the speech being broadcasted at the same time as it is being delivered at a huge rally in that city.

ALL CANDIDATES ARE OPTIMISTIC OVER PROSPECTS

AUSTIN, July 20.—The bogus ranger, who last week succeeded in having Lynch Davison, candidate for governor, endorse a $350 check at San Antonio, is in the opinion of the officials of the adjutant general's department, the same person who has conducted a check swindling game throughout the country for more than a year.

Authorities in Texas as well as those in other states have for a number of months been on the trail of the impostor, but have failed to run him down.

This is the most exciting news at the capitol, which looks a bit deserted. All the candidates and officers seeking re-election are out shelling the woods.

Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson says "I am feeling splendid and confident of being re-elected. This statement was made just before her departure for Fort Worth on the last lap of the campaign."

At Fort Worth, the governor will be joined by her husband, former governor James E. Ferguson and both will make speeches there tonight.

Wednesday night they will make speeches in Dallas. The closing Ferguson rally will be held Friday night at Austin.

The other candidates are busy and all express themselves as confident of being elected.

60 Army Men Are Poisoned At Picnic Near Post

SAN ANTONIO, July 20.—Sixty officers and enlisted men of Headquarters Service company, Second engineers, have been poisoned and are now in the base hospital at Fort Sam Houston. The soldiers became ill following a picnic at Landa park, in which the food was thought to have caused ptomaine poisoning.

WHY SINGLE OUT THE JEW?
 During the political speaking Monday night one candidate for office took occasion to take a swipe at the Jew. In asking for the office he said, he wanted it for the same reason a Jewish banker wanted his interest.

From time immemorial, men and nations have persecuted the Jew. In all the centuries the Jew has lived between the upper and nether millstone, and yet he has prospered, and those nations that have persecuted him are either dead, or practically so. Jesus, the meek and low Nazarene was a Jew. And yet those who persecute and throy jibes at the Jew on all and every occasion are either ignorant of the fact that Jesus was a Jew or that persecution has never known to get anywhere.

The young man who made the jibe, does not know that it was the money of a Jewish banker Solomon Hymans who furnished the money that saved Washington's army when it looked dark for the freedom of American colonies, and that neither did he nor any of his descendants ever receive a penny back.

Of course that young man does not want any Jewish vote.
 Of course that young man is a Christian and a member of the church and a follower of the Nazarene who preached love, and the brotherhood of man and the fatherhood of God.

All bankers are not Jewish. There are some bankers that are Methodists, some that are Baptists, some Christians, some Catholic.

Of course that young man could not just mention banker.
 The young man may be a Bible student, and if he is, we want to call his attention to Paul's epistles to the Romans, chapter 3, first verse, "What advantage then hath the Jew? Of what profit is there of circumcision? Much in every way; chiefly because that unto them were committed the oracles of God."

The young man in his jibe thought he was getting off a good thing. Probably he was. Despite such jibes, the tolerant and broad-minded man is rapidly learning the lesson of the fatherhood of God and brotherhood of man.

From the inception of this country until today, the Jew has been in the forefront fighting its battles. It was a Jewish soldier, the first to be killed on the Mexican border just before the world war.

It was a Jewish soldier, member of the lost battalion who crowded through the ranks and told the rescuing army where the battalion could be found.

We just want to throw out these few remarks to all who feel and think like the young man does who is seeking the franchise of the people for a public office.

Both the northern and southern army was filled with Jews. The brain of the Confederacy was Judas P. Benjamin. The greatest advisers Wilson had in the world war, were Kohn, Barruch and others, Jewish financiers.

One of the largest subscriptions given to the cause of the Young Men's Christian association was from a Jew, the head of Sears-Rothbuck & Co. Then why take it out on the Jew.

Read the Good Book and heed, "touch not mine anointed."

BRELSFORD PUTS PROPOSITION UP TO LIONS CLUB

Negotiations Opened For Its Construction To Begin in a Short Time.

Plans for the building of a hotel to cost $200,000 in Eastland were discussed at the noon luncheon of the Eastland Lions Club Tuesday in the Elks hall, where a deputation of the Eastland Rotarians under Senator H. P. Brelsford gave an outline of the discussion that took place yesterday at the meeting of that club.

It was agreed to commence negotiations for the building of a hotel that would have at least 100 rooms with spacious lounge room and other requirements that go with the modern hotel building.

The Lions Club which was presided over by Floyd Owens in the absence of Virgil Seaberry, president and a standing vote of members present showed every man in favor of the project.

Committee were then struck off to investigate the matter and determine just how much stock members of the clubs would have to take and other details.

Rotarians
 The Rotary committee to deal with the matter was appointed by Senator H. P. Brelsford in his office and are as follows: J. E. Lewis, J. A. Beard, L. D. Bowen, John Mouser and Harry DeLane.

The Lions committee appointed by Floyd Owens consisted of Ed Freyschlag, C. D. Knight, George Harper W. Madden and Jack Gillespie. These committees will meet together and make plans and investigate the affair from every angle while they will also select a site for the building. This will be kept secret until the committee report back at a joint meeting of the clubs. Senator Brelsford broached the subject Monday at the meeting of the Rotary Club and after a long argument it was decided to ask the Lions club to take part in the negotiations. The Rotary club also showed their appreciation of the effort to build a hotel by voting unanimously in favor of the movement.

Senator Brelsford at this meeting said he did not think there was a member of the club that could not back the proposition with at least $1,000 which if he had not the money himself could be obtained from friends. It was also shown that if Eastland was to have a hotel of this kind the money must be raised within the city of Eastland, if not all at least that part of it necessary to start the ball rolling. The meeting with the Lions club today was very enthusiastic and met the senior club in the spirit of advancement showing it once it was stated that they, too, are working for the interest of the city and county.

Facts Concerning Moving Pictures

Here are some interesting statistics to remember while viewing moving pictures:
 Reel, 1,000 feet of film.
 Frame, single picture, 34 inch high, one inch wide.
 Frames to each foot, 16.
 Feet to feature picture, 0,000.
 Separate pictures in a feature, 96,000.
 There are about forty studios for motion picture production on the West Coast and about half that number in and about New York City.

The greatest single assemblage of human beings gathered to witness any form of entertainment is said to have been 400,000 in and around the Circus Maximus in ancient Rome. They saw gladiatorial combats and fights between man and beast. Every day, right now, 20,000,000 people see the movies.

In some parts of Egypt, a recent dispatch says, the audiences bombard the screen villains with stones. The screens are made of wood, and the dents have to be filled out after each performance. American cowboys in old days used to shoot up the shadowy bad men.

When Commander Byrd flew his airplane over the North Pole and back to King's Bay last spring there was only one way in which the event could be celebrated in that tiny remote town. By a movie show! His sea vessel, the Chantier, had taken films up from the States. The night of Byrd's return these were shown to visitors and natives.

Once only did the citizens of a state have a chance to vote directly upon censorship of the movies. That was in Massachusetts in 1922. They said "No," by a majority of 34,492.

Motion pictures have been taken of microbes in which the tiny actors have been magnified 110,000 times. Combined with slow motion photography, these have been of great value in studying diseases.

The smart frocks, evening dresses and like such as you will see worn by film actresses in pictures as a rule are not retained by the player who wear them before the camera. If they can be altered to fit a changing style, frequently they are added to the producing company's wardrobe collection. Otherwise they are auctioned off, the lesser players, extras or girl employees of the studio having first chance at them. There are some rare bargains.

These facts were furnished us by the manager of the local theaters.

Discovery Of New Pools Noted In Olney Sector
Special Correspondence.
OLNEY, Texas, July 17.—The discovery of a new pool and the completion of several important wells in old pools marked the week in the Olney district. Five miles from the nearest production, J. J. Moran on the Graham Stewart place, near the village of Farmer, has just completed a well which pumped 30 barrels in five hours from a depth of 810 feet. Another well a quarter of a mile away is on the sand and, if a producer results, a rush of operations is forecast for the new area.

Toxic Smoke New Terror of Death In Next Great War

By United Press.
BIRMINGHAM, N. H., July 20.—Toxic smoke will be the prime weapon of human destruction in the event of another great war, in the opinion of Lieut. Col. George A. Richter, member of the consulting board of the American Chemical Society. Gas masks used to protect fighters during gas attacks in the World War proved ineffective when the new deadly smoke is used, according to Richter, who believes the smoke would supplant gas as a weapon in another war.

Brighter Colors To Predominate Men's Clothing

LONDON.—Brighter colors will predominate in the clothing of the well dressed man this summer. Although the older, more conservative black coat and striped trousers are still good form for morning and business wear generally, fawns and light solid grays are seen more and more along the Strand, and in the business districts.

Take Pictures Of Postoffice New Building

With a view to getting a new federal building for Ranger, photographs of Ranger postoffice have been made and forwarded to Secretary of the Treasury Mellon and T. L. Blanton. This was done under the direction of the Chamber of Commerce of Ranger and the secretary, looking at a front and side view of the postoffice, which shows to advantage the prolific crop of weeds to the west of it, remarked, "It ain't what it ought to be," and it ain't.

How New York Got Name Of Manhattan

LONDON.—New Yorkers will be surprised at the derivation which has been suggested by the "Evening Star" here. The "Star" declares that the Delaware and Mohican Indians were first induced to taste spirituous liquors on the island upon which New York now stands. The effect of the liquor was so potent that the Indians named the place "Manahattanienk," meaning in the Delaware language, "the island where we all became intoxicated." "And all the evidence," the "Star" declared, "goes to suggest that to this day Manhattan is not thoroughly sober."

MOVIE UNLOCK ALL TREASURES OF WORLD

The pictures have not only approached the temple of art, but they have entered it and their step is no profanation. Here is a force that, by the device of employing an idle hour, has unlocked for many the beauty and grandeur of history, the profound philosophy of good literature, and the store of dreams that is the true treasure of the world. "The movie chooses the very best from literature and the drama, both the classics and the material of the moment, for its screen presentations and so the movie-goer is not only being educated, but greatly entertained." by literature and the drama as he sits in his cheap, easy seat at his favorite picture house. There he also enjoys with each performance one of mankind's greatest pleasures—good music.

EXPLOSIVES OF NATION TO BE ISOLATED

PAUL SMITH, N. Y., July 20.—A most careful survey of the ammunition stores looking to their concentration in an isolated section, will be made by the government, President Coolidge and Secretary of War Davis, promised today.

Births, Deaths And Storm Big Olney Features

OLNEY, Texas, July 17.—Most serene of the major oil towns of the state, Olney has witnessed an unusual number of occurrences, within the past few days, that constituted that elusive element known as "news."

A storm which swept over this section claimed the life of Tom Grant, pioneer farmer, who was killed by lightning near here. Triplets—the first in the history of Olney—were born to Mr. and Mrs. G. S. Mahler. The first day he was at work on a new job, August Dearbonne, employed on an oil lease, was suddenly stricken and died, death being due to natural causes.

Kirbie Gragg, Olney youth of college baseball fame, has purchased a ranch of 13 sections near Big Springs and, although he is only 18, he will be in charge of the property. Last spring in a college game, Gragg knocked four home runs in four times at bat.

A noted athlete, who made three letters at the West Texas State Teachers College last season, will be the Olney High School coach. O. F. Herm, quarterback and captain of the football team and All-T. I. A. A. guard in basketball, will coach here. A modern athlete field will be constructed here. Interest is keen in athletics as the O. H. S. grid team had the most successful year in its history last season and the baseball team went through the season without a defeat.

Fifty drilling permits were issued for the Olney district and there were five completions for the week, one opening up a new pool. Traffic officers have been stationed in the business district so heavy has traffic become.

CHARACTER, NOT BEAUTY, IS SCREEN'S REQUIREMENTS

Anita Loos, who has been writing for the screen for ten years, and who is the author of the recent successful novel "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes," describes the requisites for players in the movies as follows:
 Women—must have large eyes, perfect teeth, a small mouth, a straight nose and fine, unblemished skin. The hair is not very important.
 Men—should have a large head, rugged features, deep-set eyes, strong chin, a jutting forehead and a prominent nose and high cheekbones.

Neighbors Wives

BEGIN HERE TODAY:

John and Fay Milburn buy a home when their baby girl is born and the advertising agency in which John is partner and copy writer lands a new contract. Among their acquaintances are:

Noel and Vera Boyd, whose marriage is strictly "modern."

Nell and Howard Orme, who seem to be unhappy together.

Dr. Dick Menefee, John's best friend, and his wife, Margaret.

Previous chapters told how: Fay took Judith, the baby, to visit her parents, and during her absence John "ran around" — good deal. When Fay returned, gossip had retailed and magnified some of his actions and sharp quarrels followed, one of which drove him out "on a tear," and caused Fay to threaten to leave him.

A growing, but timid, interest in Nell Orme is brought to a head by Vera Boyd, who takes delight in promoting "affairs." She has Nell out to tea and invites John. He goes again and again, and the day comes when he takes Nell madly in his arms. Fay hears about it and leaves him. John closes up the house and takes an apartment, where Nell comes to see him one night after a quarrel with her husband. Howard comes in on them, and threatens divorce. That night he commits suicide, and John for a short time is suspected of murder.

Dick Menefee begins to worry about John, who, he sees, is going to pieces under the strain of being talked about and linked up with the Orme tragedy. So he writes Fay a letter. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY: (The names and situations in this story are fictitious.)

CHAPTER XVI

Nat Graham had reached the point now where he was not even speaking to John, and the latter, sitting silently at his desk and working grimly, thought of a breaking up of the partnership was inevitable.

How long, he asked himself, how long before Nat comes out with it. And all the time a growing feeling that Graham was providing against this emergency, while the "best he could do was to sit and mull it over. Right now, he felt sure, Graham was able to buy him out—so why did the man wait? What did he have up his sleeve?

Day by day he grew more morose, and he was drinking heavily. Menefee kept in daily touch with him and was so solicitous that John grew impatient with him. Why didn't Dick let him alone?

He realized that Dick was all he had to lean on—Pat Forbes, staunch friend though he was, provided little comfort—and yet he refused to lean on him, and was almost curt in refusing his many invitations to go out to the house for dinner.

He encountered the Blodgetts downtown one evening, and they both went sailing past with their chins elevated.

"I'm being out now," John laughed to himself. "Well—" and he shrugged indifferently.

But later on he passed Eleanor Mason on the street. He was sure she had seen him and was rather surprised that she should deliberately avoid speaking to him.

"That girl, of all people," was his thought.

Dick Menefee came to see him at his office the next day, complaining loudly that John had no business isolating himself from Margaret and him.

And John, with a cynical laugh, told him, "I'm damned if I'll contaminate you, Dick. People, I suspect, are finding it unprofitable to be seen talking to me. I'm not going to have you be my sponsor."

"Don't be a fool," Menefee growled; nevertheless John was firm.

A letter from Fay was so different from the rest of her notes to him that he read it and re-read it for nearly an hour. In it was an indication that Fay was feeling some concern for him, and he knew that somehow word of his latest predicament had reached her.

And there was something about the letter that raised a little spark of hope in him; the wording of certain phrases; a tender note.

And the way she signed it—"as ever"—when she had been using "sincerely" for so long.

But he was clutching at straws, he told himself, to think that the note had any real significance. Maybe she felt sorry for him—yes, that was it. No use deluding himself with any optimistic thoughts.

And so that dreary day passed—with Nat Graham wordless and grim, and the new stenographer not daring to notice him with Nat around.

Occasionally he looked up to catch Briggs, the artist, looking at him, an expression of pity in his eyes, and once Briggs found an excuse to clasp his hand and wring it hard and murmur something about "sticking with you, old fellow."

A telephone call from Pat Forbes caught him just as he was leaving the office.

"I'm staying downtown to dinner," Pat told him. "Want to see you?"

"By golly, you won't be so indifferent when I tell you the latest bit of news."

"Something more about myself, I suppose?"

"Don't be sarcastic. I'll tell you when I see you."

And when he met Forbes on the street and heard from him the promised news, he was unable to resist throwing his head back and laughing

—a hard, mirthless laugh that caused passers-by to stare.

Vera Boyd, Forbes told him, had left Noel.

"And, John, you'll die when I tell you the reason. It seems he beat her up. Got jealous of a young fellow who writes poetry. Can you tie that— from Noel Boyd?"

"I refuse to believe it," John said. "I don't blame you. So did I when I first heard it. But Marian got it straight from Vera herself. You know Vera—she'd come right out and tell everything. Well, it seems 'Vera didn't mind with him and she kinda drew the line at being used for a sparring partner. The modern marriage, John. The super-marriage."

And then John laughed; and when finally he was able to stop and to resume questioning Forbes, he felt somehow that he had been avenged—why, he could not tell.

Forbes went into details.

"Vera, you know, had taken up lately with this young poet fellow, Gray—Felton Gray—you know about him. Well, for a time Noel didn't mind, and he used to kid Vera about it. But finally he must have got sick of seeing the fellow around, for he had some words with Vera and she absolutely refused to give him up. Told Noel it wasn't any of his business."

"And it wasn't, either," put in John. "If Noel was intending to live up to his bargain."

"That? Oh, absolutely. That's why the thing's so rich. Well, anyway, Vera says Noel didn't like this and he served notice that the next time he saw the fellow around he'd throw him out. And then Vera reminded him that she'd never interfered with him; never even asked him any questions. But Noel was bull-headed, and the next time he saw Gray he told him a few things. And when Vera heard of it she resented it and called Noel a cheap welsker. Now, can you beat that?"

"And then he hit her?"

"Hit her? Say, he sailed into her something scandalous, Vera told Marian. Funny thing, you know, Vera and Marian haven't been any too friendly lately, but Vera came to her first with the whole story. Noel gave her a black eye and cut her mouth. I'm afraid he beat her up pretty badly."

John was thinking that never in his life had he heard of so many husbands and wives coming to blows. Revolting. . . . And the memory of Fay's stinging slap burning his own cheek.

"So that," he said slowly, "is what came of Noel's great arrangement. The marriage that was to be so different and so free from all the quarrels and bickerings of the rest of them."

"Well," and he paused, "it came out just as Paul Davidson predicted. It was all right for Noel as long as Vera didn't demand her own rights."

"Yeah," said Forbes. "Paul, poor fellow—wonder what became of him?"

"You know, Pat, it gives me a sort of unholy joy to hear that about Noel Boyd. Not that I enjoyed hearing that he had given Vera a licking, but to know that he squealed—after all his fine theories. And so Vera left him?"

Forbes shot John a quizzical look. "You're not looking right. Did they make it unpleasant for you about this Orme affair?"

"Oh, that," John said wearily, and was silent.

Forbes touched his arm. "I'm sorry as the devil, if there's anything more malicious or evil than gossip—"

"But Pat"—and John smiled as he interrupted—"what have we been doing ourselves this very minute?"

Forbes colored. "But you don't understand. I'm not spreading this. Vera came to Marian with it, and I thought I'd tell you and you could tell Menefee. But no farther, John—just the bunch that were at that poker game. I'd tell Paul Davidson if I knew where he was."

John laughed again. "I'm sorry,

Pat, for kidding you. I didn't mean it. Truth is, I haven't had a chance to laugh in a long time."

"All right," and Pat waved his hand, dismissing it. "And now I'm going to ask you a blunt question. How about you and Fay? Aren't you two going to patch it up?"

And John, staring vacantly down the street, told him that he was afraid Fay had decided he was a bad bargain.

"Oh, come now, John."

Miltorn shook his head. "Don't Pat."

John walked in his office the next morning to find Nat Graham waiting for him, wearing a look of firm resolution.

"John, I wanted to see you, if you don't mind."

"Certainly, Nat," and he followed Graham as the other led the way to the little conference room.

He was thinking, "So it's come at last. He's going to get it off his chest." And he was unutterably weary.

Graham folded his arms and rested against the end of the table, and John, remaining on his feet, faced him.

"All right, Nat, what is it?"

"Well," and Graham seemed to be bracing himself for what he was about to say. "I want to tell you, John, that I'm mighty sorry for you."

"He paused to let the words sink in. "Yes?"

"I am. Now, I want to ask you a question. Could you raise enough money to buy me out in case I wanted to leave town?"

"Are you thinking of leaving town, Nat?"

Graham's eyes narrowed; the heavy lids fluttered. "I'm serious. Could you?"

"Why don't you tell me what you're driving at?"

"I will in a minute. Anyway, you know what I'm driving at—and you're not being as pleasant as I have every right to expect you to be."

"I'm being as pleasant as I know how, Nat, but I don't like mysteries."

"All right, then. Let it go. Now, I don't know anything about your finances, but I don't think you're in a position to buy me out."

"I guess I'm not, Nat," John had decided to make the other show his hand. And he was not sure, but he thought that Nat, who was watching him keenly, seemed to take some satisfaction in the admission.

"I'm sorry as the devil, John," Graham was saying. "I know that talk is just talk and all that; but you've had a good deal of trouble. I warned you some time ago that you would have—"

"Never mind that, Nat."

"Oh, all right then. But it's hopeless, you and I trying to stick it out together. We weren't meant to get along. I guess—our temperaments clash, I suppose."

"Something like that," admitted John with a smile.

"Yes. Now then," and Graham's eyelids fluttered again, "do you want to sell out to me? I'll give you fifteen thousand dollars the minute you say the word."

Right Living More Necessary Than Medicine to Women

Remarkably Frank Statement Made by Renowned Authority on Condition Pertaining to Women.

"We labored for years, studying, experimenting and analyzing in order to perfect St. Joseph's G. F. P.," says the representative of the G. F. P. laboratories who is in this country,

"so that women who have lost that inherent vitality and robust health can once more enjoy the pleasures and happiness of younger days. We don't want G. F. P. to fail, and we don't believe it will, where suffering results from out-of-order generative organs brought about by catarrhal inflammation of the mucous linings of those delicate and vital parts of the female system."

"The stomach regulates the condition of the blood. That is the reason the minute G. F. P. reaches your stomach it is quickly taken up by the blood and carried to every organ to overcome the catarrhal condition by nourishing the wasted tissue, weakened muscles and over-strained nerves. From then on their functions will be normal as they should be, and you will be free from irregularity, pain, nervousness, irritability, restlessness, headaches, dizziness and that continually worn-out, tired-out feeling."

"Right living, moderation in eating and recreation, as well as right thinking, are very necessary to good health. Medicine gives nature a chance to restore wasted tissue, weakened muscles and worn-out nerves. But don't try to live on medicine. It can't be done. Wholesome food, exercise, recreation, fresh air and sunshine every day are the things for you to give your spare time to. Not alcohol, tobacco, night air, rich food and idleness. Stimulants and narcotics are seldom necessary for real pleasure and excitement, if the mind is kept clean and the system strong and healthy."

Pacific Coast Fans Want Faster Games Played

By F. D. CRISSEY, United Press Staff Correspondent.

PORTLAND, Ore., July 20.—A strong feeling against long drawn-out baseball contests has developed in Portland this season, and it appears likely that Pacific Coast league club owners will take some action, by next year at least, to appease the cash customers.

Double-headers always have been popular in Portland, and many of them were arranged because they had "pulling power" and brought out extra hundreds of fans. Of late, however, they have been losing favor. The fans have formed a habit of leaving the stands long before the second game is over unless the game ends early, which is rare.

In Portland a majority of the double-headers are played in the afternoon, starting at 1:45 o'clock. Several times this season these twin games have lasted until well past 6:30.

The complaint of the fans is that a couple of hours of baseball is splendid entertainment but after that it becomes a bore. Naturally, the public will not shell out coin to be bored, and this accounts for the waning interest in double-headers.

This attitude on the part of fans has attracted the attention of baseball business men, and they are considering ways and means of drawing out the crowds with double-headers and at the same time to end the games at a reasonable hour.

Among unofficial suggestions made locally is a proposal that the second game of a double-header be limited to seven innings. Many fans are boasting a plan which would arbitrarily end the second game at 5 o'clock.

Take too much exercise and you get muscle bound. Think too much and you burst a brain cell. Ho hum.

Cleburne Folks Enjoy Contest Catching Bees

CLEBURNE, Texas, July 20.—Several residents in and around Cleburne have taken up the remunerative pastime of catching bees and the vocation has reached such a degree that many rivalries have arisen as to who is the champion bee catcher.

J. M. Brewer at present is claiming championship honors due to the fact that he has located twenty-seven bee trees on his property.

G. A. Free is running second with seven trees and predicts that he will soon arise to first place.

When Bob Moses Grove, sensation Mackian flinger, cost the lean and lanky Mr. Connie Mack $100,625 it was thought the high price for baseball players had been reached. But along comes Otto Borchert, owner of the Milwaukee Brewers, asking even more for his youthful centerfield phenom, Fred Schulte (pictured above). Borchert has placed a figure of $100,625 on the youngster's services—and only a year ago Schulte was just a semi-pro pastime on the sandlots of Iowa.

Modern Woodmen Defeat Oil Belt Team, Score 10 - 2

The green capped team of the Modern Woodmen took the team representing the Oilbelt Motor company to an old-time plow-cleaning in Monday afternoon's game in Nitro park, score 10 to 2.

The Woodmen were just too much for the Chevrolet boys.

The game went five and a half innings with Major George Nourse umpiring in his usual able manner.

Watson was on the mound for the Woodmen and Hood did the twirling for the Chevrolet team.

The attendance was fair. The Woodmen are determined to win the second half and go into the play-off with the victors of the first half of the season for the silver trophy.

STAR IN REMARKABLE ROLE.

A "hand-picked" cast, in which every player was chosen after minute consideration as the ideal for the particular role, both as to "type" and acting ability, surrounds Marion Davies in her latest Cosmopolitan production for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, "Beverly of Graustark," now playing at the Lamb.

This extreme care in choosing the cast was adopted in order to present the picture in as nearly an accord with the spirit of George Barr McCutcheon's famous novel as possible.

TO EASTLAND COUNTY VOTERS.

Something more than a year ago, there was created by an act of the legislature, a new court of civil appeals, located at Eastland. The new district embraces nineteen counties, extending from Palo Pinto county on the east to Howard county on the west; these counties with but few exceptions are densely populated, making it impossible for any candidate for a place on the new court to see any large per cent of the voters in person. That being true, I have not felt justified, since I became a candidate for a place on this court to undertake a campaign in my own county, having worked with the people of my county the past six years as judge of the ninety-first district court. I have met a large percent of the voting population of the county and the voters know something of the work which I have been able to accomplish in this capacity, and whether or not the many years in the practice of law supplemented by more than six years on the district bench have qualified me for the responsible position to which I aspire.

The position which I seek is a very responsible one, and the voters of the district should be extremely careful in the selection of the members of this court. No candidate for this place has a right to expect the support of any voter in the district until such voter is convinced from a careful investigation that such candidate is thoroughly qualified, honest and honorable and otherwise fitted for the position, and I am not entitled to the support of the voters of my home county unless they are convinced of my fitness and qualification. On the other hand, if my work among you in the various capacities in which I have worked, first as county attorney of Eastland county from 1900 to 1904, inclusive; and the many years of active practice of law; and the unusual experience which I have had as trial judge has qualified me for this place; and you believe that I am worthy; I feel that I may consistently solicit at your hands an active and enthusiastic support. May I, therefore, ask that each of the voters of Eastland county accept this as a personal appeal for your support.

You would ordinarily be proud of an opportunity of lending your unanimous and enthusiastic support to a citizen of your county in whom you have confidence and who was seeking promotion after rendering faithful and efficient service as a public servant; and if I am able to meet such requirements I most earnestly solicit at the hands of the voters of my county such a support as will be convincing to those residing outside of Eastland county of your confidence in my ability and your interest in my promotion.

Two Candidates For County Judge Play Each Other

 He laid stress on the collection of $165,000 delinquent taxes and the fact that there was a balance of $400,000 in the treasury, that has been collected through the suits brought against the defunct banks.
 The Cisco dam also came in for considerable discussion. He denied knowing anything about the Barnes circular, and called attention to the article paid for as a political advertisement that appeared in this paper. He denied injecting the Klan as an issue in the campaign and accused Chastain of having been a Klansman, and paying more into the Klan treasury than he, Ed Pritchard ever did.
 Just as Chastain arose, a voice in the audience said, "Pour it on him."
 Chastain.
 Chastain replied, "I'm going to pour it in him." He immediately injected the Klan issue in the campaign and turning to Pritchard, said, "You are a Ku Klux and you know it."
 He frequently referred to Judge Pritchard's oft-repeated expression, "my commission." He then launched his attack on the administration and proceeded to tell how much the county owed and how long it would take to pay the indebtedness and quoted from a report of the county auditor,

Civil Appeals Court Safe In Eastland, Gilbert

Judge Victor B. Gilbert of Baird, candidate for representative, was in Eastland Monday in the interest of his candidacy. "It has been reported that I originally opposed the locating of the eleventh court of civil appeals at Eastland and advocated locating it at Abilene instead, but this is untrue," Judge Gilbert stated. "I not only favored the court being located at Eastland but did what I could to get the bar of my county to endorse Eastland for the court," he added.

 He came out strong in opposition to the issuance of bonds and warrants, and said that within the last five months, the county had borrowed $31,000 at 6 per cent and other amounts.
 He accused Pritchard of feeding Ku Klux lawyers, and hiring a needless stenographer.
 Chastain also referred to the Cisco dam, and said he favored a just distribution of county improvements. He defended his signing the Atwood pe-tion by saying he believed in forgiving and forgetting.

Pritchard Replies.
 Pritchard was given 10 minutes to reply and opened up his fireworks in grand style. He said if certain charges made by Chastain were true he would resign.
 The other candidates to speak were V. V. Cooper, T. E. Castleberry, T. L. Cooper, Ed Hatton, Ott Hearn, Clarence Love; the "crippled brigade," H. H. Collins, W. J. Herrington, and George Bryant; E. Community Meetings Draw Large Crowds

Three hundred and fifty people attended the community service, Sunday night, that is being conducted on a lot near Young school, by the First Baptist church of Ranger.
 The Pastor, Rev. W. H. Johnson, spoke of the crucifixion of Jesus Christ and the choir under the leadership of Rev. Vaughn, sang some fitting hymns.
 On Monday night, the crowd was fairly good, considering it was the first night of the week and the minister told the story of the "Companion on the Cross," the thief, and of salvation for all.

UNITED STATES TIRES ARE GOOD TIRES

Latex-treated Web Cord

An invention of the United States Rubber Company technicians. The cords are laid parallel without tie-threads, and soaked in virgin rubber latex, which forms an elastic web through and through and between the cords. Important because it gives the cord structure maximum strength and maximum flexibility.

Answering Some Further Questions about Latex-treated Web Cord

NOTE—So great an interest has been shown in this new construction because of the service given by United States Royal Cord Tires on passenger cars and buses that a further explanation of this patented process has been suggested.

Q—Is treating cords with Latex entirely new in tire building?
A—Yes. Until this process was developed by the United States Rubber Company, the use of Latex before it had been coagulated into crude rubber had never been used in tire building.

Q—Is the process patented?
A—Yes. The process is patented and owned by this Company.

Q—What are its advantages?
A—The tire engineer's ideal is a tire thin and flexible as a soap bubble and strong as steel. The more you can add to a tire's strength without increasing its weight, the better.

Latex-treated Web Cord provides the strength and flexibility without adding unnecessary weight.

Q—Is it possible to make the cord structure of a tire too heavy?

A—Yes. Just as a cable made of many strands of fine and highly tempered wire can be stronger than a heavier iron bar, so the cord structure of a tire can be made strong, yet light and flexible, through this process.

Q—How does treating cords in Latex give additional strength?

A—Latex is virgin rubber just as it comes from the tree.

There are no chemicals in Latex to destroy the natural oils in the cotton or to weaken the cord fibre.

Each cord in a United States Tire is run through a tank of Latex by means of the machine shown in the illustration above.

The cords are then laid side by side and drawn up over heated rollers which evaporate the water in the Latex, producing a rubberized fabric of cotton cords and pure rubber.

Each cord is impregnated and surrounded by rubber, and attached to its neighboring cord with an elastic rubber web.

Q—Are there any other advantages?

A—Yes. In the old cord fabric, the main strands in the cord structure were tied to each other with fine threads.

Latex-treated Web Cord has none of these cross-tie threads and this source of internal friction is therefore eliminated.

By looking inside of a Royal Cord Tire and comparing it with tires made of the old cord fabric you will see that the Royal Cord has a much smoother and even appearance.
