FINING ROAD RUINERS.

Today, work starts on the Caddo road, pushing the rock work and—let us hope—the topping, on out to the county line, where it will connect with the well graded road on Caddo, which the Merchants' association has provided.

Ranger needs this road; will need it badly if the rains descend and turn Bull hollow into a combination of rushing stream and impassable morass. But badly as it is needed, its completion will be delayed if drivers persist in using the road whether or not it is ready. Why, last summer when a portion of this road was being topped, blocking devices were summarily dragged aside, guards were ignored except by kidders, and it is said that workmen would have been run down if they hadn't jumped out of the way. Some even disputed passage with the asphalt roller.

Now that is no way to hamper an expensive road building program. But the road builders are in despair about preventing it. They say a whole company of guards can't keep people off the road beds.

In that case, why not a little drastic action? There must be some law to protect this work from interference by traffic. Why not apply it. What a whole company of guards cannot accomplish, a small squad of fines would.

Suppose Jim Jones and Sam Brown and Bill Smith and the first ten or a dozen who came after them were haled into court and nicked $10 or $20 for ignoring the "Keep Off" signs. They wouldn't do it any more, would they? And the news would quickly spread and other drivers would likewise keep off, wouldn't they? And thus the road work could be completed unhampered and undamaged. Well, then?

Impersonator Who Deceived Harding Now Under Arrest

NEW YORK, March 6.—Stephen Weinberg, whose career as an elegant impostor includes an appearance before President Harding in the role of a commander, United States navy, pretending to be an honorary aide to the Princess Fatima, will be returned to Washington, probably today, to stand trial for this audacious but apparently harmless adventure.

"Commander" Weinberg, to give him one of the many titles which he has assumed in a career of ten years or more, was yanked out from behind a piano in his quarters in a Brooklyn lodging house at an early hour Sunday morning by Special Agent Peter W. Lamb, of the department of justice.

Protesting that this was no time to arrest a gentleman accustomed to sleeping late, Weinberg was urged into his clothes and escorted to a Brooklyn jail where he languished Sunday. He is under indictment in Washington on a charge of impersonating a naval officer.

Trailed for Many Weeks.

It is understood the department of justice exerted unusual zeal to pick him up because he had the audacity to impose upon the President himself last summer. Lamb had been assigned to trail Weinberg for several weeks.

Weinberg, who has used many an alias in his adventuring, including the beautiful one of Royal St. Cyr, is wanted in New York on a much more feeling charge than the one made by the United States government. He is accused of foisting himself upon Dr. Adolph Lorenz, the Viennese surgeon, when the latter arrived here a few months ago.

Posing as a physician, one of his favorite roles, and attaching himself to the Lorenz expedition as the especially appointed secretary assigned by the New York health department, Weinberg, it is charged, swindled many poor parents of crippled children of $5 to $10 each by pretending to give them preference on the consultation list.

CONGRESSMEN CAN'T SERVE ON DEBT BOARD

By United Press.

WASHINGTON, March 6.—Serious obstacles to the appointment of two members of the foreign debt commission appeared today when the senate judiciary sub-committee by a vote of 3 to 2 decided that Senator Smoot of Utah and Representative Burton of Ohio were ineligible to serve. Present federal laws prohibit members of congress from accepting another federal office, even without pay, the majority held. Senator Brandegee of Connecticut joined the Democratic members of the sub-committee and voted down the claims that the two men are eligible.

This may delay the refunding of the allied debts.

BOY ROUNDERS' 'DUTCH COURAGE' LASTS TILL MOTHERS FIND IT OUT

Inspired by the quest of adventure, two small boys of the city yesterday afternoon uncovered a modern Treasure Island on the premises of R. K. Robertson, under a year's sentence for moonshining, and proceeded to get hilariously drunk on their find. It was first run whisky that the boys uncovered, as near as the officers can tell, and a few swigs put them past all caring.

They staggered downtown with their shirts filled with small bottles of the liquid and were parading South Rusk street when they encountered Chief of Police Davenport and Patrolman Ingram, who took them under their wings and marched them to Justice McFatter's court to learn the source of the liquor. The youthful proprietors of the jags freely told of their find to the justice and explained that the young son of the convicted moonshiner had "wised them up" to the whereabouts of the cache, which the officers had overlooked in raiding the premises. Fortified by the near-booze they maintained a nonchalant attitude until their mothers were sent for and acquainted with the situation.

JOHN J. GRAY.

"The best investment I ever made in my life was when I bought Tanlac. I have not only recovered my health but I have also gained twenty-five pounds in weight and feel just brimful of life and energy," said John J. Gray, 1330 Hollywood st., Philadelphia, Pa., a popular salesman at George's Clothing store.

"When I began taking Tanlac I had been in failing health for some time as a result of stomach trouble and indigestion. I missed my meals rather than to suffer the discomfort I knew was to follow if I ate anything at all. I suffered especially from shortness of breath and palpitation of the heart. Frequent dizzy spells and headaches added to my discomfort, and I was so nervous I got little rest either day or night.

"Since Tanlac toned up my stomach I am like a new man in every way and eat, sleep, work and feel better than in years."

Tanlac is sold in Ranger by Phillips Bros., and in Eastland by the Palace Drug store.—Advertisement.

SUPER-WALLINGFORD'S 'WAY WITH WOMEN' NETS HIM MILLION BONES

Tobacco King's Ex-Wife Loses Entire Fortune; Prominent Actress and Aged Women Are Other Victims; He Held 'Nightly Sessions With Biggest Financiers.'

SUPER WALLINGFORDS—30 PT NEW YORK, March 6.—An amazing story of how Alfred E. Lindsay "out-Wallingforded Wallingford" was disclosed when a full list of his society women victims in a $700,000 swindle was made known by the district attorney's office.

This followed the filing by Mrs. Lillian N. Duke, divorced wife of James B. Duke, the "Tobacco King," of a suit against Lindsay and his wife, Elsie Behr Lindsay. The action was to restrain them from selling or mortgaging their estate at South Nyack, New York.

The police sent out a general alarm for the arrest of Lindsay yesterday. His photograph and fingerprints have been mailed to the police of principal cities.

The settings and the deceit practiced by Lindsay, according to Assistant District Attorney Richard E. Murphy, and the cleverness he displayed in holding the confidence of his victims and in having them remain silent even to their most intimate friends, has seldom been equalled.

Story Told His Dupes

Lindsay, big and handsome, with a glib tongue, manufactured tales for his dupes of how he was in the innermost confidences of the "financially great and socially elect" and of how he was a member of a mysterious club. This club, he said, met nightly in the Ritz-Carlton hotel, where none but those sworn to "Masonic secrecy" were admitted and then only by key and where the big operations in Wall street were outlined to make those admitted wealthy.

Although he has been operating for years, each of the victims, Mr. Murphy said, thought she was especially favored and the only one to whom he was confiding his inside knowledge of the financial world. He used the names of Rockefeller, Vanderbilt, Baker and Stillman as ordinary by-words, which meant for him the unfolding of the great financial secrets of the country.

Mrs. Duke Out $375,000

In fact, he was so successful in impressing upon his victims his closeness to the great financiers of the country, Mr. Murphy said, that it was not until Mrs. Duke went to her attorneys, Halliman & Groh, of No. 35 Nassau street, to begin an action to stop the sale or mortgaging of the South Nyack home of Lindsay that the first intimations of Lindsay's extensive operations became known.

Mrs. Duke seeks to recover her entire personal fortune of $325,000 in cash and $50,000 in jewelry which she turned over largely in cash to Lindsay to invest for her in securities.

Mrs. Duke reported her losses on Jan. 22. Norman J. Fitzsimmons, a private detective, was called in and it was soon ascertained that Lindsay was last seen around the Murray Hill hotel on Dec. 23.

Mrs. Duke told of being introduced to Lindsay by Dr. K. Arvid Enlund of No. 2126 Broadway. From Dr. Enlund the names of others of Lindsay's dupes were learned.

List of Victims.

The victims and their losses are: Carlotta Nilsson, well-known actress, living at the Hotel Buckingham, $25,000.

Mrs. W. H. Arnold, $30,000. Mrs. Margaret Bogart, $18,000. Mrs. Dorothy Atwood, $97,000. Mrs. Helen Burnett, $31,000. Mrs. Adelaide V. Rice, seventy-five years old, of Riverdale, N. Y., $25,000.

Mrs. Joseph I. Cornell, Bayside, L. I., $20,000. Miss Helen Smith, Stamford, Conn., amount not given.

Mrs. Florence James, member of the Harriman family, $2,450 in cash and $2,500 in jewelry.

Miss Catherine Adams, $40,000. Major Redondo Sutton, graduate of West Point, former head of one of the big gun companies, $5,000, which he subsequently got back.

All of these women have been subpoenaed to appear before the grand jury and testify against Lindsay.

Actress "Invested" $20,000.

Assistant District Attorney Murphy said yesterday the case of Miss Nilsson, the actress, is a typical one. Miss Nilsson told Mr. Murphy she was introduced to Lindsay at the Murray Hill hotel by Dr. Enlund.

At that time Miss Nilsson let Lindsay know she was interested in buying and selling stocks and Lindsay is alleged to have told her that if she would sell her stocks and bonds and turn over to him the cash for them—he was very careful that way and never took checks—he would be able to double her money in a short time.

She followed his advice, she said, and turned over to him $20,000 in cash, which he said he would put in a stock pool in which Percy A. Rockefeller, Cornelius Vanderbilt, Thomas A. Lamont, George F. Baker, James A. Stillman and others of the "financially great and socially elect" were participating. He also told her of the existence of the "Domino Club," which met nightly at the Ritz.

Tells of "Domino Club."

This club, Lindsay said, according to Miss Nilsson, met in secret, had no servants, and admittance within its portals was only by key. He said he possessed one of these keys. The secrecy of the activities of this club were guarded with "Masonic secrecy."

Mr. Fitzsimmons said yesterday that one of the regular stunts of Lindsay was to begin every evening at 7:30 to call each of his victims on the telephone, report on how he was making money for them and tell them that he just stepped from the mystic session of the "Domino Club" and could spare but a moment as he was anxious to get back because of "big doings" being planned.

In a number of cases the women victims of Lindsay, according to Mr. Murphy, were absolutely impoverished by him.

Loses Entire Fortune.

Mrs. Dorothy Atwood, who reports the loss of $97,000, said it represented her entire fortune and that she was forced to go into business to make a livelihood. She has become a breeder of pedigreed dogs and was one of the exhibitors at the recent dog show. She turned over to Lindsay, she reported, $50,000 in cash and $47,000 in jewelry.

Mrs. Adelaide V. Rice, of Riverdale, N. Y., who lost $25,000, is seventy-five years old, and the sum represents practically all of her worldly possessions. Mrs. Joseph I. Cornell, who has a crippled son, turned over the proceeds of a $20,000 life insurance policy which she collected several years ago when her husband died.
