

MEXICANS HURL U. S. MISSIONARY INTO DEEP DITCH

EL PASO, May 13.—Miss Elizabeth Streater, Methodist missionary worker of the Torreon district, tonight was recovering from injuries received recently when a member of a Mexican mob threw her into an irrigation ditch and drove her and her five co-workers (Mexicans) from the village of San Juan De Mezquital, reports from the interior say. The Rev. J. P. Lancaster of El Paso, presiding elder of the Torreon district, got the news of the mob's action in a telegram at Torreon City and hastened immediately to Durango, Mrs. Lancaster said here today. Miss Streater's thigh bone is broken, it is reported. One of the Mexican workers also was badly injured, Mrs. Lancaster said. The co-workers consisted of one woman and four men.

Miss Streater has been in Mexico several years and more than once has narrowly missed death during revolutionary outbreaks. She is a Methodist, but an independent missionary, and is about 47 years old. She obtained permission from the mayor of the town to hold a public meeting. During supper she decided that as the town never before had Protestants in its midst, it would not be best to hold the meeting, it is reported. Before they had finished their supper, however, the mob appeared and ordered them out of town. A continually increasing mob drove them from one ranch to another, refusing them rest or shelter, the letter to Mrs. Lancaster said. The party was pursued until 1 o'clock in the morning of May 5. At one point, the letter said, the missionary and workers were compelled to cross an irrigation ditch. Miss Streater jumped across safely, only to be knocked backward into the ditch by one of the ruffians, and falling on a big stone suffered a broken thigh bone. Miss Streater then was forced to drag herself on until she fainted, the letter said. Then one of the workers carried her on a burro.

SHERIFF SAYS HE'S EX-MEMBER BEAUMONT KLAN

BEAUMONT, May 13.—Sheriff Tom H. Garner of this county, against whom impeachment proceedings have been filed in the district court charging membership in the Ku Klux Klan today swore out a statement with a notary public admitting that he joined the Beaumont Klan about a year ago, but he says in the statement he is not now a member. The purpose of filing this statement, according to its wording, is to end a hearing now being conducted in this city to take the oral depositions of seventeen witnesses whose evidence may be used in the impeachment proceedings. Many of the witnesses are men who have admitted former membership in the Klan but who have denied ever seeing the sheriff at a Klan meeting or having knowledge that he was ever a Klansman. The sheriff's statement says that he wants to correct the impression that these men are trying to shield him.

S. Bronson Cooper, notary public, took no action and the hearing is being continued. The impeachment proceedings come up before the Sixteenth district court here next Monday.

ENGLAND WILL REMOVE STAIN OF ILLEGITIMACY

LONDON, May 13.—England is the latest country to hold a hand to aid the unmarried mother and her offspring. A bill to legitimize the offspring of unmarried parents has been introduced in parliament, has been adopted as a government measure and will become law.

Capt. Bowyer, M. P., told the National League for Health, Maternity and Child Welfare the plans of the government.

"Legislation which will legitimize the children of unmarried parents is vitally necessary," said Captain Bowyer. "Since feudal times the subject has always been dealt with under the heading of bastardy, and, in fact the term was used up to a year ago. "Men and women shrank from the subject, and a slur was cast on the birth of a child under such conditions. It was only when modern thoughts stepped in and realized that the unmarried mother and the illegitimate child needed as much care as the legitimate infant that the subject received attention from the public. "We are the only country in which there is no power to legitimize except by marriage. It is highly desirable from all points of view that we have a first installment of the necessary legislation on the statute book."

CHARGES CALIFORNIA WITH STEALING LAND

PHOENIX, Ariz., May 13.—Attorney General W. J. Galbraith of Arizona, on his return here from a tour of investigation to the Gilboa valley, Arizona, charged that an attempt is being made to annex thousands of acres of Arizona land to California by changing the course of the Colorado river near Gibola. He announced he would take legal action at once to frustrate the attempt.

Galbraith said he found that workers employed on a California irrigation project on the Colorado were blasting in an effort to divert the course of the river to cut off a large portion of the valley, leaving it on the California side of the Colorado. The Gilboa valley comprises 22,000 acres of fertile river delta land and is between Yuma, Ariz., and Blythe, Calif.

STYLISH SON SHIPS MOTHER IN STEERAGE

WASHINGTON, May 13.—The meanest man yet discovered in the opinion of the department of labor, is a Spanish alien domiciled in America, who returned from a visit to the old country recently, traveling as a first-class passenger on a sumptuous liner—in the steerage of which he had established his old mother, classifying her as a domestic servant. Secretary of Labor Davis, although concealing the man's name in honor of Mother's day, signed an order Saturday declaring that "although the facts astound one who has learned to honor and revere motherhood, the mother would be admitted to the United States for six months." Her son, however, was required to give a $500 bond to be held by the immigration authorities, to guarantee his mother will receive the treatment to which a mother is entitled. In addition the son will be required to report monthly to Secretary Davis as to her treatment.

HIGHWAY AID IN P. O. BILL IS CUT BY HOUSE

WASHINGTON, May 13.—The house today agreed to the senate amendment to the postoffice appropriation bill, providing $514,000 toward restoration and enlargement of pneumatic tube transmission of mail in New York city. The house voted to eliminate from the bill the senate amendment under which $190,000,000 of federal funds would be made available during the next three fiscal years for state highway improvement. In place of this provision, however, it attached as a rider to the measure the good roads bill passed recently by the house but as yet not acted on by the senate, which provided appropriations of $65,000,000 for the coming fiscal year and $75,000,000 for the twelve-month period beginning July 1, 1923. Less than 100 members were on the floor during consideration of the conference report on the bill. The pneumatic tubes amendment was approved, 41 to 39, on a motion by Chairman Steener of the postoffice committee, despite the opposition of Chairman Madden of the appropriations committee and Representative Slempt, Republican, of Virginia, in charge of the measure. There was no opposition to the senate provision for continuation of the transcontinental mail route, although the bill when it was sent to the senate several months ago carried no appropriation for government operation of the service.

Admits 'Spoofing,' 25 Years' Spooning Cost Him $19,452

FALLS CITY, Neb., May 13.—It cost Louis Henry Howe $19,452.52 to court Miss Jennie Fellers for twenty-five years. Howe's check for this amount was handed Miss Fellers in superior court here Saturday as the final act in a breach of promise suit that has been in the court since 1918. It is the largest heart balm ever paid in Richardson county. Howe is a wealthy banker and ranch owner. Miss Fellers said their love affair started when she was 14 years old. Howe, she said, had set the date for their wedding annually for a quarter of a century, then balked almost at the altar. In 1918, Miss Fellers charged, Howe admitted that he was "only spoofing." In addition to that made from wood and rags, paper is now manufactured from 50 kinds of bark, banana skins, bean stalks, pea vines, cocconut fiber, clover, hay, straw, weeds, seaweed and more than 150 kinds of grasses.

PENNSYLVANIA WILL RUN BROADCASTING SERVICE

HARRISBURG, Pa., May 13.—A daily radio broadcasting service for the farmers of Pennsylvania, which will include Pennsylvania market reports and other agricultural information, has been planned by the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture and the Pennsylvania state police. The service will be instituted sometime this month and will continue throughout the year. General plans for the service were arranged at a conference, between Secretary of Agriculture Fred Rasmussen and Mayor Lynn G. Adams, superintendent of the state police. The Pennsylvania State Police now have installed at Harrisburg a radio broadcasting station that is one of the most powerful in the United States. The station will, each evening at a specified time broadcast agricultural information throughout this and adjoining states which will be of value to the farmers. "This broadcasting service will prove of tremendous value," said Secretary Rasmussen. "It will prevent our farmers from rushing their products to markets that are glutted, will tell them each day where there is the greatest demand for their products, and will generally aid in solving marketing problems.

WHAT WOMEN WANT

Judging from the number of questions that have poured in this week to Madame Nye, appearing at a local theatre, many persons have faith in "fortune telling," "mind reading" and the like. They believe that one gifted with clairvoyance, whatever that is, can look into the future and picture events yet to come, as clearly as the normal person sees a play on a motion picture screen.

However, among all the questions of loss, desire for gain and the others asked, which run the gamut of human emotions—love, jealousy, fear—there is one question that stands out; stands out because of the number who have voiced it. That question—always from a woman—is "Will I ever own my own home?"

That is a longing that exists in nearly every woman's heart—to own a bit of ground and shelter, where she and those she loves may be safe from the buffets of the world.

It is a longing that has cleared forests and built cities. It is a longing that, if it can be satisfied by any town, will cause that town to become a populous center.

Ranger needs homes. The only way to get them is to build them. One of the best ways to build them is through building and loan associations, which are justly popular in older cities.

Such an organization here would be in a position to direct the growth of Ranger in a way that would overcome the handicap of previous haphazard building, under which the city is now laboring.

SENTIMENT MAY SAVE BETRAYER OF HEROIC NURSE

By R. H. SHEFFIELD, United Press Special Correspondent.

BRUSSELS, May 13.—A dying queen's last wish, breathed sixty years ago as she lay on her deathbed in her Brussels palace, is expected to save the life of Armand Jeannes, convicted spy and alleged betrayer of Nurse Cavell.

Jeannes sits in a cell at Mons following his conviction, awaiting the result of his appeal against the sentence of death.

He knows almost certainly, that he will not die because of his betrayal of his country, but that his sentence will be made one of life imprisonment.

There has been but one execution in Belgium since 1862. Then four members of the notorious "Black Gang" of robbers were executed on circumstantial evidence. Two of them, up to the moment they were guillotined, swore their innocence.

The queen was so deeply affected that when she was dying she exacted a promise from the king that he would do all he could to prevent capital punishment.

"Life imprisonment can be repaired," she said, "while an innocent man is undergoing it; but there is no reparation for a man wrongly executed."

Since that day there has been but one execution—that of a soldier who during the war brutally murdered his sweetheart. Because of the dangerous example at a time when public morality was threatened, the soldier was executed.

In Belgium now, a person condemned to death appeals from the sentence. If he refuses, his counsel or even the public prosecutor appeals. The petition goes before the minister of justice, who makes a report—so far always for leniency. That goes to the king. The king always acts on the minister's report. King Albert, bound by his grandmother's wish, probably would refuse in any event to be a party to execution of the death penalty.

The case of the spy Douhard was almost parallel with that of Jeannes. Dozens of petitions were laid before parliament calling for his execution. Public and press almost unanimously demanded that Douhard, who had denounced scores of persons to the Germans, be killed.

The minister of justice declined to recommend execution, and the king followed his lead. Douhard was sentenced to life imprisonment.

Unless the present minister of justice gives way to popular demand, which is identical with that regarding Douhard, Jeannes will become a life-term prisoner. He is treated as a political prisoner now and in the prison at Mons works when he likes and eats whatever he wants. He can have newspapers and books taken to him.

In every thousand people the world over there are 595 with dark brown hair, 250 with light brown, 81 with flaxen, 52 with black and 22 with red hair.

JURY ACQUITS HIM, THEN HE'S JAILED FOR PASSING OUT CIGARS

AKRON, Ohio, May 13.—Because he passed out cigars to jurors who were trying him, O. J. Hallie, 35 years old, railroad engineer, of Warwick, Ohio, must serve 10 days in the county jail and pay a $100 fine. Hallie was found to be guilty of contempt of court.

Information on Hallie's activities was given to the county prosecutor by a jurymen after Hallie was acquitted on a charge of grand larceny and having received stolen property, filed by railroad detectives in July, 1920.

AT THE LAMB TODAY

Gloria Swanson and Stuart Holmes in a scene from the Paramount Picture, "Her Husband's Trademark."

Jack Adair, a Dallas product and, incidentally, a black-face comedian, vies with Babe Smith, petite and winsome little soubrette, for first honors in "Martin's Footlight Follies," which opened for a week at the Majestic Sunday. W. F. (Bill) Martin, owner of the show, and the original Mutt in the New York "Mutt and Jeff" production, does not play a lead role in the Sunday show, but contents himself to smiling broadly as the house demonstrates beyond question that the first night is a success.

Leo Adde, well known composer, has written many of the numbers and arranged music for several of the choruses and, in addition to this, takes the lead in the main skit, "Skirts and Flirts." As a flirt he surrounds himself with many obstacles and has trouble in disposing of Miss Lucile Dye, who stands out as a Broadway chorus girl.

Jack Adair, as the timely butler, precipitates the final battle between "the skirt" and the wife, Miss Cecil Fahl. The battle subsides when Walter Graeza, as the friend of the male flirt, steps into the breach and admits that "the skirt" is his little Hungarian sister. Jack Adair closes the performance by admitting that he was in error and knew all the time the little actress was hungry and meant no harm to friend husband.

Fresh, attractive and breezy in appearance, the chorus makes the audience forget that summer reigns without and, in their catchy costumes, add materially to the numbers offered by Babe Smith, Lucile Dye, Cecil Fahl and the Dallas star.

UNREQUITED LOVE SENDS SIX TO MORGUE, SEVEN TO HOSPITALS IN ONE NEW YORK CITY DAY

NEW YORK, May 13.—Romance and tragedy, walking hand in hand through the metropolitan area have left in their wake the longest list of violence and suicide the city has known in many months.

Seven persons in hospitals—six bodies in morgues—and the story in nearly ever case one of unrequited love.

Dr. Alfred H. Riedel, eye specialist, separated from his wife, had long been infatuated with a Broadway chorus girl. He poisoned himself for love, dying with an improvised spot light glaring on face. His body was covered with a black bath robe as a pall and an electric reading lamp was turned full on the pallid countenance.

Actress Not Serious.

Police were told Dr. Riedel had been despondent because the actress would not take his advances seriously.

John C. Kane Jr., 34, postoffice clerk, led his school teacher sweetheart, Elizabeth Dunn, 32, into Altonwood park at Mammorenc, to press his suit for her hand. The bodies were found side by side. Her's had a bullet through the heart and his a bullet through the brain. She still clutched a bouquet of spring flowers they had gathered. Relatives and acquaintances said Miss Dunn had refused Kane's pleas for marriage time and time again, because he drank—although she admitted she loved him.

Shoots His Sweetheart.

Vincent Laelardi, 18, called Margaret Violenti, 17, into a hallway of the factory and begged her to elope with him to Pittsburgh. When she told him she did not love him, he whipped out a pistol and fired five shots. One pierced her chin. He then turned the weapon on himself, but again his aim was bad and he suffered only a flesh wound in the cheek.

Michael Stanshewsky, 20, was haled into court on a charge of annoying Margaret Smith by persistently asking her to marry him.

Bit Her Cheek!

Just before the case was called he flew at the young woman, seized her by the throat and bit her cheek. He was sent to Bellevue hospital for observance as to his sanity.

Two other attempts at suicide—one successful—in which the love motive was not apparent, were reported.

Mystery surrounds the death of Vincent Morrell, 25, who died in a policeman's hands after he had been wounded in a pistol duel with two or three men. He is said to have been involved in several recent bootlegger fights.

Theodore Budnick, held at Bridge-ton, N. J., on a charge of killing Ellegan Hankins Saturday with a pistol he claimed to have taken from a dead German on the western front, today declared he expected to be executed.

"But I feel justified," he added. "He ain't going to bother my wife or anybody else's wife now. I didn't want to kill him. I wanted to mark him, but he ducked."

BELIEVE FUMIGATION GAS KILLED N. Y. COUPLE

NEW YORK, May 13.—An experiment which is expected to solve one of the strangest death puzzles of local record will be made in the Brooklyn apartment hotel in which the bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Fremond Jackson, aged honeymooners, were found a week ago.

Theories that the Jacksons were companions in a suicide pact or murder victims have been abandoned since the police learned that a fumigator was at work directly below the couple's room, the day they died. The Jacksons, it is now believed, succumbed to fumes of cyanogen gas which penetrated their apartment.

Either canaries or pigeons will be used in the experiment. They will be placed in the Jackson apartment and the fumigator will seal the rooms below and release his deadly cyanogen. If the birds die the district attorney will consider his investigation into the death of the Jacksons closed.

An ounce of gold could be drawn into a wire 50 miles long.

Cullud Brothah Comes to Life After Six Weeks in Coffin

CORSICANA, Texas, May 13.—The little courtroom of Justice of the Peace Christian was the scene of wild disorder and frantic excitement when the body of a negro supposed to have been dead for six weeks, suddenly from its supine position sat up on the undertaker's stretcher and in a rather humming voice demanded to know what it was all about.

Possession of the body of the "deceased" was the subject of litigation. A negro died in the Physicians and Surgeons' hospital here March 26 and the body was immediately taken in charge by a negro undertaker. When relatives came from a neighboring city to claim the body of their dead relative, the undertaker refused to relinquish possession of it until the undertaker's fees were settled, including a fee for embalming which was made the matter of contention. Relatives of the dead negro appealed to the court for possession and through their attorneys took the body into custody under a writ of sequestration. Under the terms of the resplevin bond, it was necessary that the corpse be produced in court.

The trial of the case consumed almost two hours. When one of the attorneys was in the midst of an eloquent plea the supposed corpse suddenly arose to a sitting posture. Immediately there began the wildest scramble among the crowd of spectators, who hurried through doors and windows of the court-room in their eagerness to escape. Court was summarily adjourned for the time being, but later Judge Christian rendered a verdict for the plaintiff.

It was an instance in which the practical joker scored a victory.

OKLAHOMA OFFICIALS SWAPPED GOOD BONDS FOR BAD, IS CHARGE

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 13.—Warrants charging embezzlement of Adair county funds were issued Friday for Tom Green, Charles Ripley, W. G. Jenkins and W. W. Wright, according to information here.

Wright is treasurer of Adair county. Ripley and Jenkins were placed in the county jail here when Adair county officers arrived with the warrants.

It is alleged that the men "engineered" a trade of Liberty bonds owned by Adair county for a number of Pershing, Okla., city bonds worth far less.

Green is an officer of the construction company which installed the machinery for which the town of Pershing was bonded. Ripley was connected with a firm of bond dealers at the time of the transaction. Oklahoma county, which also purchased $80,000 worth of the Pershing bonds, has just been offered $8,000 for the lot.

Conscience Forces Arson Confession After 15 Years

COLUMBUS, Ohio, May 13.—His conscience "that wouldn't let him eat nor sleep" has led to the alleged confession here by E. H. Fiedler, 62 years old, that he set fire to his bakery at Plain City fifteen years ago. "My conscience wouldn't let me hold it any longer," he told Police Lieutenant O'Connor, the latter said.

"I was a little in debt at the time," his confession ran, police said, "but not any more so than the average business man. But I wanted cash. What possessed me to set fire to the building I cannot say.

"I was paid $700 in insurance and started in business again at the same location.

"Then I came here. I joined a church. It was last Easter that the awfulness of the thing possessed me, and I began to pray about it. Don't think I am crazy, for I prayed the right way. From then on my conscience would not let me sleep. I would sit at the table with my wife, gulp my food down and leave as soon as I could."

MOB THREATENS WOMAN WHO MISTREATS CHILD

NEW YORK, May 13.—It required an irate mob, the West New York (N. J.) police reserves and a spectacular court scene to take the happiness out of the life of seven-year-old Harold Schwenck.

Harold lived with his father, Henry, and his stepmother, Mrs. Caroline Schwenck, forty-eight, at No. 642 Fillmore Place West New York. Neighbors informed the police that the woman frequently beat the boy. She was brought before Recorder Chevalier yesterday.

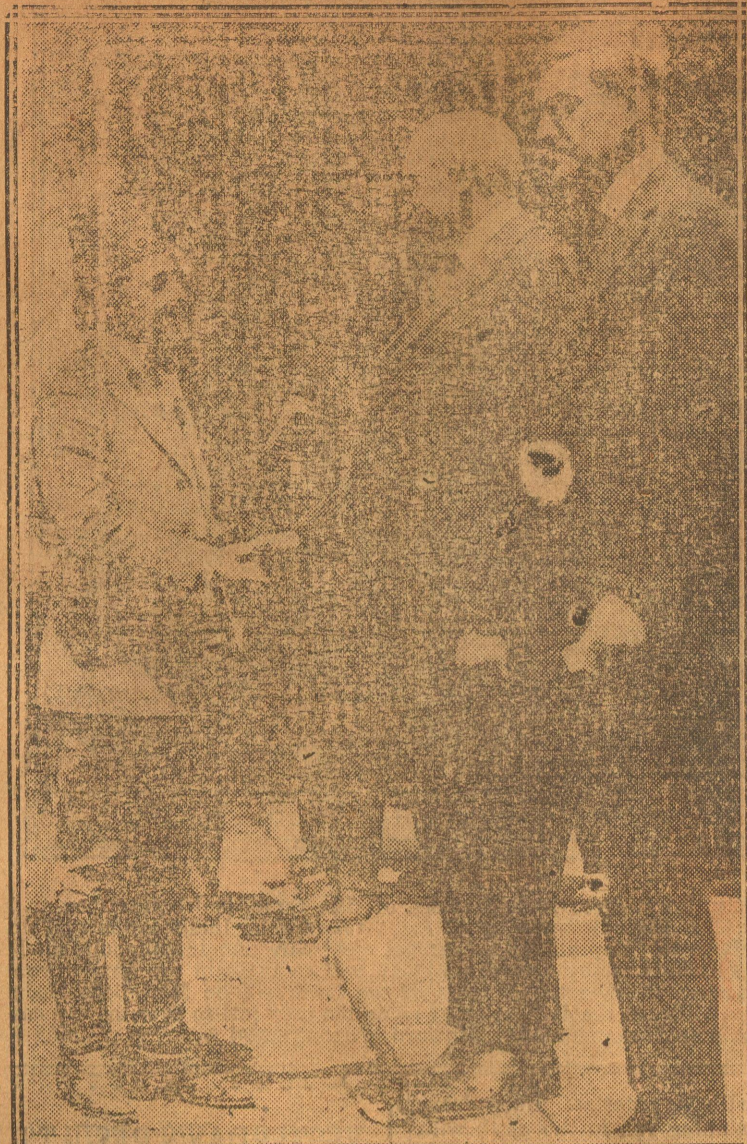

Fifty men and women were in court to support the charges, corroborating the boy's assertions that he had been beaten black and blue and locked in a dark closet for hours.

While the Recorder was denouncing the stepmother, Mrs. Wilhelmina Hoens, who said she lived in Manhattan, rose and announced she would adopt the child. The defendant agreed to this way out of her predicament. All concerned started for a lawyer's office to draw up adoption papers.

A hoisting mob followed and surged so menacingly toward Mrs. Schwenck that the reserves were called out.

Two of the mob were arrested for disorderly conduct because of their persistent threats.

READS RUBAIYAT TO POLICE WHEN CAUGHT WITH TWO JUGS OF WINE, BUT THE SERGEANT ADDS A VERSE

SAN FRANCISCO, May 13.—Police-man Frank S. Fava, according to his report at headquarters Monday, encountered on the street Joseph Ramos, accompanied by two five-gallon jugs of wine and the Rubaiyat of Omar Khayam.

"Why the parade?" queried the cop. Ramos was reported to have set down the demijohns gravely, opening the book.

"Come, my beloved," quoted Ramos, "fill up the cup that clears today of past regrets and future fears."

"You can try that line on the sergeant," responded the patrolman. And the moving finger of the sergeant, having writ Ramos' name, moved on.

FIBBING WOMAN SHOULDN'T BARE HER NECK, FOR IT CAN SHOW WHEN SHE IS LYING

(Detroit News.) A woman who exposes her neck exposes her mind. If a woman is lying her face may not register untruthfulness, but her neck will give her away.

These assertions were made by the credit manager of one of Detroit's largest department stores. He was telling how he could spot liars among persons applying for a charge account. He has passed on the credit of 100,000 applicants in his career, and says that his statement has been verified in so many cases that he is willing to vouch for its practical accuracy.

Faces Give Men Away. "Men liars are often easy to detect by the expression of their faces and eyes. But you can't tell whether a woman is lying by watching her face. She may perpetuate a whopper with a baby stare and a look of disarming innocence. Women who have never played anything beyond fiddle-de-winks may have poker faces that completely conceal the plays they intend to make. Many of them are consummate actresses.

"But their upper chest will tell the observer whether their statements are true or not. Their deceit will be revealed by a throbbing of the veins, a tremor in the region about three inches below the neck, and often a reddening in the area exposed by the waists worn today. I have had scores of experiences to verify this.

An Expensive Coat Episode.

"One happened recently. A young woman came in and selected an expensive coat. She said she was the daughter of Mr. Blank, wealthy contractor. She was referred to me and I found that our records showed the contractor had a daughter her age. But I noticed the tell-tale pulsation in the veins below the neck.

"I called up the contractor and told him his daughter wanted to charge a coat. He said his daughter was at home, that my customer must be an impostor. I told the girl to go to the telephone and talk to 'your father.' She never batted an eyelash or showed any agitation, but went, and talked very collectedly. Her monologue under the circumstances was a miracle of self-control. She hung up the receiver and smiled at me, assuming that I had been fooled. "Her face was still innocent, but her neck was red by this time. I boldly called her bluff, and when I promised to shield her she confessed. "She said she was a stenographer, had been in a convent which the contractor's daughter had attended, was like the latter in age and build, and therefore thought she might get away with her fraud in a large store."

More than 600 warships have been scrapped by the various nations since the close of the world war.

GIVES THE FARMER CREDIT FOR FLAPPING GALOSHES
BOSTON, May 13.—Theodore Beckwith, a farmer, was in town the other day and told a friend that he could not help laughing at the girls wearing their overshoes flapping. "They seem to think they're it with their tinkling buckles," he said, "but ever since the day overshoes were invented we farmers have been wearing them that way."

More than 7,000,000 British War and Victory medals have been issued.
