CATHOLICS SEND LETTERS TO TEACHERS

EPISCOPATE TO OPEN CAMPAIGN AGAINST CALLES

Government Comes Back With Number Of Questions To Them

By United Press.
MEXICO CITY, Aug. 26.—In a circular letter to teachers seeking their attitude on the new religious laws, the Mexican episcopate charges that the Calles government with oppression of the most element of human liberty.

The circular is the strongest statement yet issued by the episcopate, admittedly designed to discover from the teachers how far the government's modern inquisitorial efforts have gone.

It is said the government asked whether its employees in educational work were members of the Knights of Columbus or League of Defense of Religious Liberty. The statement also wants to know whether they were loyal to the government or criticized the Calles regime.

The episcopate is bending every effort and using every means possible and known by the Catholic church to break the hold of the Calles administration. Just what the next step will be is not known, but something more is forthcoming.

In the meantime, the Calles administration is sitting tight and holding its own. The administration, so far, has the best of the fight.

2 GUNBOATS ARE SENT TO NICARAGUA

By United Press.
WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—With conflicting reports here as to the state of the revolutionary movement in Nicaragua, two United States gunboats, the Tulsa and the Galveston, today were enroute to Bluefields and Corinto to protect American lives and property.

Dispatches early this week indicated the revolution had practically been put down. Action of the State Department yesterday in asking the navy for aid, which followed the receipt of reports from the consulate agent in Nicaragua was taken to indicate the situation has grown more serious.

FIND BODY OF MISSING PHYSICIAN

By United Press.
HOUSTON, Aug. 26.—The body of Dr. J. A. Ramsey, 65 years old, a Mathis physician, missing since May, was found today in a shallow grave in the brush, six miles northwest of Mathis.

Officers were led to the grave by a Mexican arrested late yesterday at Laredo who confessed as being one of two men who lured the doctor away from his home.

Officers said they saw an arm sticking out of a shallow pit. The arrest of the prisoner was perfected through a bit of strategy on the part of Constable Ed Villarreal and Night Marshal Candelario Mendiolola of Laredo, who disguised themselves as peons and sauntered along the brush on the water front where the prisoner was to cross into the United States. They had been informed before hand to look out for him, and that he knew something about the death and kidnaping of Dr. Ramsey.

After his arrest Wednesday night, the Mexican made a confession and in pursuance of that confession led the officers to the grave this morning.

Other arrests are expected to be made now within a short time.

PREACHER GIVES MANY OF GOD'S WORD TO THROG

In speaking last night from Mark 11, from the phrase "It was noised that He was in the house," Rev. Hogg became more enthused and seemed to completely captivate his audience. A business man after listening to him said, "He is the readiest ready man, that I have ever heard."

Many Bibles were given away last night, the proposition was, everybody that is not a member of a church in Ranger or the community in which you live come and get a Bible. The response was so great that the supply was exhausted. Mr. Hogg, promised to have more Bibles there Thursday night. A beautiful Bible was presented last night to anyone over 21 who would walk up and get it, after a hesitation of several seconds, a lady came and accepted it.

Thursday night Mr. Hogg will give a Bible to the oldest person there, and the business man in Ranger that has been in the same business the longest. The Evangelist presented the four co-operating preachers with Bibles at the 10 a. m. service Wednesday. The down town distribution of Bibles met with a hearty response, many of the merchants and clerks went immediately to reading the word.

Healing Palsied

Mr. Hogg said last night, "This is a Bible meeting." The graphic picture drawn from the Scripture read from the second chapter of Mark about the healing of the palsied man, was of unusual interest, the faith of the men that went and brought him to Jesus was stressed in no uncertain terms.

MARSHALL, Texas, Aug. 26.—After being held captive for six days and crossing six states in an automobile, Ralph Catoof, 16, son of the circulating manager of a Miami, Fla., newspaper, was en route home today.

Young Catoof escaped his captors by leaping from the car as it neared Marshall late yesterday, according to his story told officers here.

The youth said he was kidnaped in a Miami suburb as he was returning from a theatre late last Thursday night. Four men stopped a car alongside the curb, jumped out and grabbed him. He was pushed into a rear seat and Catoof said he was warned to keep quiet or suffer the consequences.

Not until he neared this city did the youth have an opportunity to escape, he said. He came into town and wired his parents for money to return home.

By United Press.

Edward W. Hall and his choir singer sweetheart, Mrs. Eleanor Mills. Judge Cleary today sat on the bench with Justice Parker and concurred in his decision.

MORGAN CITY IS HARDEST HIT IN STRICKEN AREA

Passenger Train Is Marooned in Middle Of Mississippi River

By United Press.
NEW ORLEANS, La., Aug. 26.—The Gulf coast from Morgan City, La., to the mouth of the Mississippi south of here was being swept by a hurricane this morning, according to fragmentary dispatches that reached here over the crippled telephone and telegraph wires.

A 40-mile wind swept over New Orleans most of the night, but little damage was done.

Houses along the coast were severely damaged and some small structures were destroyed, it was reported.

Heavy losses to crops and cattle are feared.

No reports of ships in distress have been received.

As the tropical hurricane, which struck the gulf coast, blew itself out in the sparsely settled sections today, a check-up of the gale-swept area showed property damage estimated at $350,000 and a known death toll of two.

A serious accident was narrowly averted when a ferryboat bearing the Southern Pacific passenger train across the Mississippi went aground on a mud flat during the night. Seventy persons were marooned all night in the middle of the river.

One lineman was electrocuted and one man was drowned when his skiff was overturned by the wind.

Morgan City was the center of the storm struck area still was isolated shortly before noon. It is really not known just how much damage was done at Morgan City.

Property damage in New Orleans was placed at approximately $270,000.

With the repairing of telephone and telegraph communications it is expected that more information will be forthcoming on damage to property. The warning sent out ahead by the weather bureau was a factor in keeping down the death toll.

The first communications since last night's storm were re-established this afternoon with Morgan City. Messages were received saying that unofficial records reported the wind reached a velocity of 100 miles an hour with torrential rains which totalled 12 inches.

One ferryboat was reported sunk, and many smoke stacks were blown down, a planing mill was badly damaged and the town waterworks handicapped by the storm.

By United Press.
FORT WORTH, Aug. 26.—State Superintendent of Public Instruction S. M. N. Marrs has written a bill which will be presented to the next legislature that proposes a tax on tobacco to raise additional income for the free public schools of Texas.

Should the tobacco tax be levied in accordance with his plan, the gasoline tax could be devoted entirely to the state highway fund, Marrs pointed out.

FROM THE BIBLE.
 For all have sinned, and come short of the glory of God. And the way of peace have they not known.—Romans 3:17-23.

Prayer: O Lord teach us to know Thy way so that we may not depart therefrom. Instruct us how to aid our neighbors in distress without show. Amen.

JUDGES NEEDED.
 Never in the history of Texas has legal talent been needed more than now on the appellate and other court benches. Men of trained legal minds are needed to try and hear cases on appeal. In this eleventh district many intricate problems of law concerning mineral rights come up for adjudication. It takes a man of special training and one who has had personal contact in deciding intricate questions connected with the oil and other mineral industries to decide them. Men are needed who are not bound by oaths of secret societies that disregard justice and law if necessary to deal out justice. Men of the highest type of legal minds only should be selected for the position of appellate judge.

For instance the question of whether or not the owner of land on which there are several gas wells and from their output is made casing-head gasoline has a right to royalty. It must be remembered that the oil and its allied businesses is practically new in Texas. Texas has not been producing oil on a large scale for more than 15 years. All kinds of cases, big ones and little ones, have been tried before Judge George L. Davenport. It was in his court that the big road case was tried and the county obtained a verdict that put back approximately $500,000 in its treasury. Judge Davenport is equipped as a lawyer and as a judge who has handled oil cases to be fully qualified for the position he seeks, justice of the appellate court. He deserves the promotion. He is a man who has not failed to hew to the line in his decisions in the oil litigation, and according to members of the Eastland county bar is fully equipped mentally to sit in judgment on appeal cases. Promote Judge Davenport, he deserves it.

 tone. He said, "It is impossible to have a meeting without real faith, men cannot be brought to Christ unless there is personal faith. Rev. Williams was worked in many of the cities in Rescue Mission work and has been instrumental in bringing many men to Christ, in his own words, 'Every man of the over seven thousand that I have seen fall down on their knees on the Bowery in New York and cry out to God for mercy has had some one where that had faith for him.' At this the preacher shouted to his hearers, 'Men, have faith for the faithless, have hope for the hopeless.'"

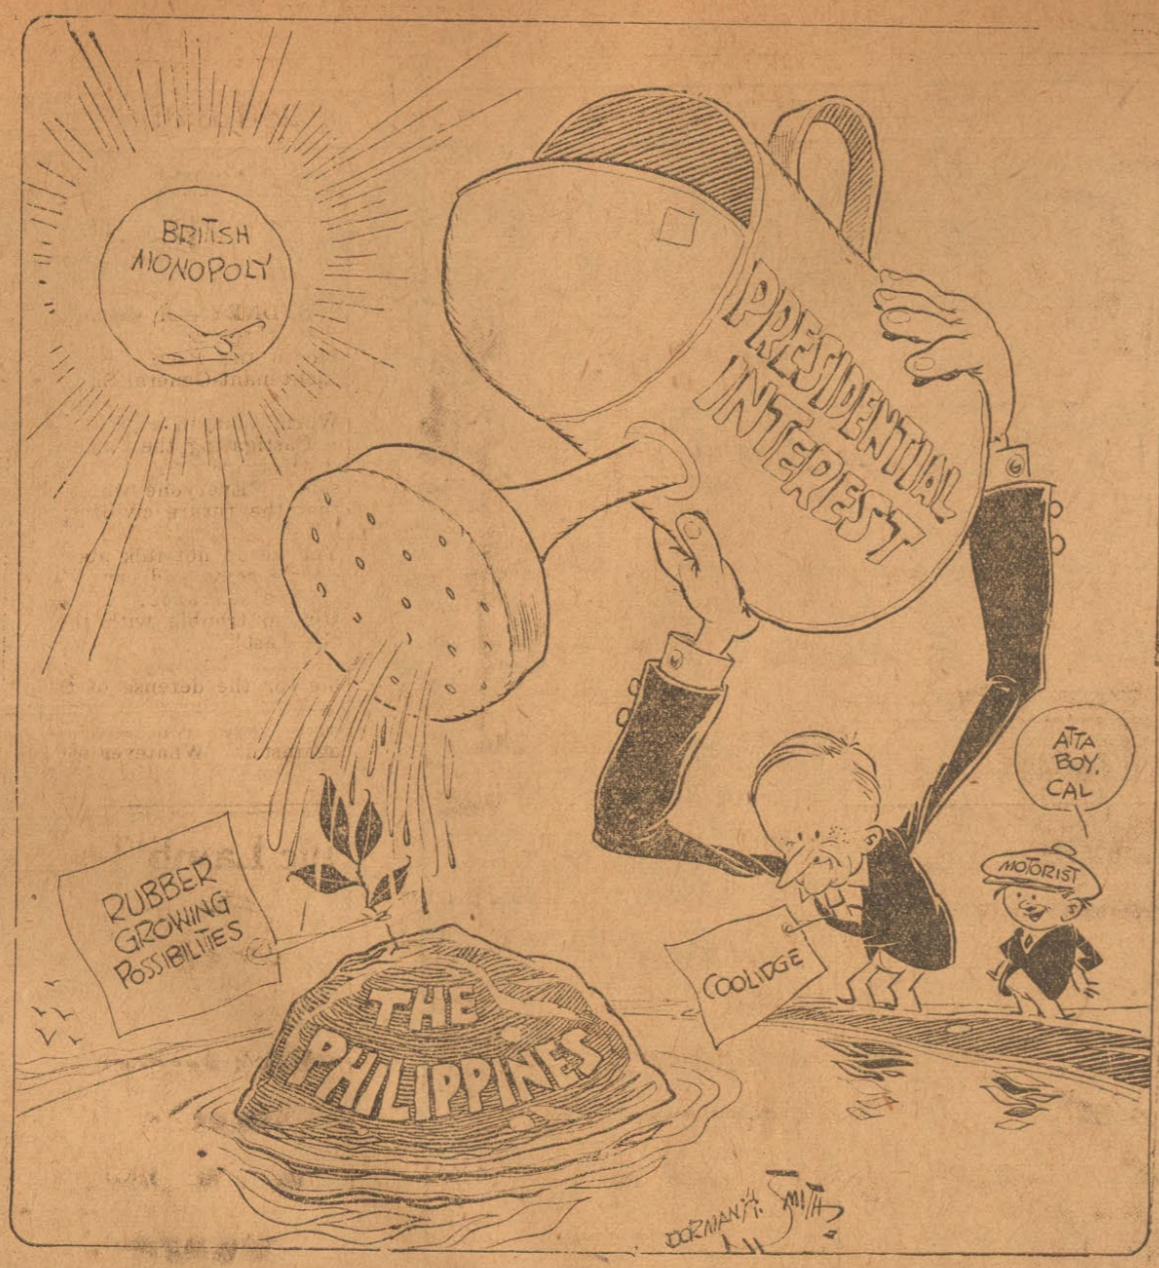

Loaded Up
 An interesting thing about the message was not only the healing of the man; but that the Master loaded him down with the bed on which he had been lying. The preacher said, "We make a big mistake in not giving converts something to do, the Lord loaded them up."

Mr. Hogg entertained the Rotary Club at the weekly luncheon Wednesday, the whole party was guests of the club. There were 119 children present at the meeting for children Thursday afternoon.

Ladies and Girls
 A new meeting was started last night, ladies and girls prayer meeting. Mrs. O. Hamblen led and there were 16 present. Mrs. G. D. Robinson will lead the meeting this evening in the Young Matrons' room of the Methodist church at 7:45. Great preparations are being made for the women and girls meeting Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. It is predicted and believed that hundreds will attend. The Eastland and Cisco people are coming to the Ranger meeting.

The subject of the Thursday morning sermon, was, "A Bible Hold Up." The Scripture lesson was taken from Acts, 6, 7 and 8th Chapters. The subject for Thursday night is "Jesus in Jericho." Service every day at 10 a. m. and 8 p. m.

Public Viewing Of Valentino Brought to End

By United Press.
 NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—The public lying in state of Rudolph Valentino has ended in a last frantic outburst of clamor, and henceforth, until the funeral, only intimates of the actor, coming with signed passes from his manager, may view the body which today lies in the mob tattered glories of an undertaker's gold room.

A final charge of mounted police was needed shortly before midnight to clear the streets of 5,000 persons who still sought permission to view the body, although George Ullman, Valentino's manager, had announced that the doors would then be closed, due to a lack of reverence of the crowd, and the disorder and rioting since the body was first placed in the undertaking parlors.

CROWD CONTINUES TO HANG AROUND

While Rudolph Valentino rested in the gold room of the Campbell funeral parlor-church, today, a crowd which ran from one to three thousand people moved restlessly out side the building, kept moving by the police and trying by trick or device to gain admittance to the room where lay the dead motion picture idol. All day long the crowd paced the sidewalk, not allowed to stop but always walking up and down the street.

Valentino remained alone in a dimly lighted room the door locked, to be opened only when a car from George Ullman who has been manager for the actor was presented.

EASTLAND VOTERS OFF ON VACATION

If the number of absentee votes cast signifies anything there were a larger number of Eastland county voters on a vacation at the time of the recent primary than now or else there is not so much interest in the run-off which takes place next Saturday, as the number of absentee votes cast for the run-off equal hardly half the number cast in the primaries, according to County Clerk Ernest H. Jones.

Ballots and other supplies for the election Saturday were being distributed to the officers of the various voting precincts in Eastland county today.

FASHIONS
 By HEDDA HOYT (Written for the United Press)
 NEW YORK. — Among the hats which will be prominent this fall are wide-brimmed models of black velvet, simply trimmed. While small hats with highly draped crowns are among the new imports from Paris, American women, especially those in the Misses' class, will undoubtedly cling to large hats for dress wear for early fall. Boyish felt slanes continue to rule for sports wear.

Blouse and bolero treatments are found on most of the early fall dresses designed for day and formal wear. Where the blouse adds width to the upper portion of the dress the skirt is almost invariably slender. Full, flaring skirts on the contrary often accompany the bolero. The sleeveless bolero designed for formal occasions is posed over a form-fitting bodice. The bolero extends above the normal waist line. A sash is worn about the normal waist lying at one side and the full skirt flares at the hem line.

Beaded taffeta evening gowns are found on most of the period frocks. One particularly beautiful model is fashioned of gold and bronze champagne taffeta beaded in gold and bronze beads. The bodice is slender following the lines of the bust and narrowing at the waist line with horizontal rows of beadwork forming a girde effect just below the normal waist line. The skirt which gathers on at the waist is widened at the hem, where horizontal and alternate rows of gold and bronze beadwork extend to the knees. Black taffeta frocks beaded in white crystals are also shown for dinner occasions.

Transatlantic Airship Ticket To Cost $600

(United Press Staff Correspondent)
 BERLIN.—Six hundred dollars will be approximately the cost of an airship trip over the Atlantic in the future. Dr. Hugo Eckener, famous German airship expert and director of the Zeppelin Works, declared in an article written for the "Deutsche Zeitung."

According to his statement, which may be considered as a revelation of the far-reaching schemes of the German dirigible industry, it is planned to construct three Zeppelins of a new type—one and a half times the size of the "Los Angeles"—which are to ply once a week across the Atlantic.

In contradistinction to airplane routes, which in the opinion of Dr. Eckener are not paying propositions for distances exceeding 1,500 miles, the intended airship service will need no governmental support but will bear a thoroughly commercial character.

"Its profitability is beyond a doubt," Dr. Eckener emphatically asserted. "After close study, I found that the annual profit may be estimated at nearly three million dollars."

This Atlantic line, however, is only supposed to be the first thread of a net of interoceanic airlines to be woven which shall embrace all parts of the world.

German press reports state that this first route is to be closely followed by a Spanish-South American line. There is no doubt among German airship industrialists that such a development may count on the wholehearted support of the Spanish nation, as Spain is most eager to get into closer touch with her sister nations on that continent.

A Pacific line is also being taken into consideration. Japan is said to have shown great interest in these plans and is expected to favor energetically not only the creation of an air route to the United States but also a regular connection with the Latin-American countries.

cal frock of this sort, made of blond or grundy, has a semi-fitted bodice of normal waist length with a full gathered skirt finished with an eight-inch hemstitched hem. Under this is worn a slender black satin slip. The sleeves may be either short or long and the neckline is made in fish effect. A black satin bow is posed on the left hip with streamer ends extending the length of the dress.

United States May Relinquish Rights in China

By United Press.
 WASHINGTON.—The United States government is expected to agree to conditional relinquishment of its extraterritorial rights in China, as a result of a study of Chinese conditions by American Ambassador MacMurray and Silas Strawn of Chicago now virtually completed.

In co-operation with representatives of other foreign powers, MacMurray and Strawn are now preparing in Peking a confidential report on abolition of extraterritoriality, as provided by the Washington treaty.

Though the substance of the report is carefully guarded, it is believed here the United States is ready to grant abolition of extraterritorial rights in progressive stages, conditional upon China's achievement in codifying and establishing "fair courts."

The report now being drawn up in Peking will be submitted to the respective governments, and is not binding until accepted by those governments.

Extraterritoriality of the United States consists chiefly of the right of Americans to trial before an American court sitting in Shanghai, and at stated periods in Canton, Tientsin and Hangkow, with right of appeal to the U. S. supreme court.

using half as much pineapple and banana as grapefruit, and allowing four strawberries to each serve. There should be two cups fruit, 7/8 mill thoroughly, serve in cocktail glasses, and garnish with candied cherries and leaves.

Parker House Rolls
 2 cup scalded milk.
 1 yeast cake dissolved.
 3 tablespoon butter.
 2 teaspoon salt.
 2 tablespoon sugar in flour (about 5 1-2 cups).
 1-4 cup luke-warm water.

Add butter, sugar and salt to the milk; when luke-warm, add dissolved yeast cake and three cups of flour. Beat thoroughly cover, and let rise until light; cut down, and add enough flour to knead (it will take about 2 1-2 cups). Let rise again, 1 1/2 hours on slightly floured board, knead flat, and roll out to 1/2 inch thickness. Shape with biscuit cutter, and dip in flour. Dip the end of a case knife in flour, and with it crease the middle of each piece, brush over half of each piece with melted butter, and press edges together. Place in greased pan, one inch apart, cover, let rise, and bake in hot oven 12 to 15 minutes. As rolls rise they will pull slightly, and if fastened rising are apt to lose their shape.

America's Only Active Volcano Will Be Studied

By HOMER L. ROBERTS (United Press Staff Correspondent)

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Aug. 26.—Delicate instruments, capable of taking the temperature, recording the heartbeats and feeling the pulse of America's only active volcano, Mt. Lassen, are soon to be provided in Lassen National Park as a result of an act of congress.

Like the famous Hawaiian volcano, Kilauea, Mt. Lassen is to be equipped with an underground laboratory, containing sensitive instruments to record each new tremor or outbreak while overhead the volcano will be harnessed with precise levelings, temporary seismograph stations, gravity stations, chemistry laboratories and other equipment necessary to record the daily changes in the great volcano.

This announcement was made by Dr. T. A. Jaggar, chief of the section of volcanology, United States Geological survey, who recently made a thorough inspection trip through Lassen National Park, where he conferred with A. L. Conard, president of the park association.

California has other volcanic phenomena, Dr. Jaggar declares. In Northern Sonoma county is situated an entire valley filled with "fumaroles" or steam geysers, some of which are being harnessed to generate electric power. All these are due to receive government investigation when proper state co-operation and funds are made available.

Kids, a circus is coming. It will be in Ranger on September 11, also in Eastland, and is going to be a three ring one at that, with a parade and everything. Lee Brothers circus, featuring trained wild animals, have their advance man in Ranger today and the alluring pictures that are almost as thrilling as the circus itself, will in a few days be adorning show windows and sign boards.

Officers Want "Beany" Wise Driving Charge

Eastland county officers are looking for "Beany" Wise, a Cisco negro, who, while driving on the Bankhead highway between Eastland and Cisco yesterday is alleged to have hit two cars and badly damaged them. Wise, it is stated by Traffic Officer Frank Robason, was driving west on the highway in a big Buick car and accompanied by a negro woman. In attempting to pass a truck traveling in the same direction, Wise struck a Ford touring car meeting him and damaged it. Not checking his speed after hitting the Ford, Wise ran only a few yards when he hit a Ford coupe. The collision with the coupe threw Wise's car into the ditch, where it caught fire and was considerably damaged before the fire was extinguished.

In the collision with the Ford coupe, the negro woman companion of Wise was cut on the arms by glass. She and Wise then boarded a passing truck to take the woman to a nearby filling station to telephone for a doctor. At the filling station Wise got off the truck to go to the telephone. He did not telephone nor has he been seen since.

STATE BANKING INSTITUTIONS IN NATION LEADER

Statistics compiled by R. N. Sims, secretary-treasurer of the national association of supervisors of state banks show that the capital invested, the surplus and undivided profits carried by state banks throughout the union were larger than carried in national banks. This statement may seem startling, but it is true. In addition deposits in state banks were greater than in national banks, giving the state governed institutions much larger resources than national establishments.

According to the figures compiled by Sims in his annual report, on April 12, there were 20,289 state banks and 8000 national banks doing business. The capital, surplus and undivided profits of the state banks aggregated $4,288,361,903 as against $3,109,657,000. The balance in favor of the state banks approximating more than a billion dollars. The deposits of the state banks were $34,116,036,973 and of the national banks were $20,175,798,000. Total resources of state banks were $39,105,737,890 and of the national banks were $24,893,665,000.

The capital resources of the state banks were 37 per cent in excess of the national banks. The deposits of the State banks were 69 per cent in excess of the national banks. The total resources of the state banks were 57 per cent in excess of the national banks.

Between April 6, 1925 and April 12, 1926 deposits of state banks increased $3,001,674,031, and deposits of national banks increased $792,851,000. Total resources of state banks increased $2,426,405,427 and national banks $1,061,202,000.

From June 30, 1919 to April 12, 1926 capital, surplus and profits of state banks increased $1,388,699,225 and of national banks increased $746,179,000. During the same period deposits of state banks increased $12,483,213,961 and of national banks $4,250,933,000. Total resources of state banks increased $13,140,112,054 and national banks increased $4,094,115,000. During

WH FLETCHER the HUSBAND

MRS. W. H. FLETCHER the WIFE

William H. Fletcher, St. Paul, Minn., manufacturer, tied Edward Horrigan, his life-long friend, in a chair and tortured him for five hours because he said, Horrigan had kissed Mrs. Fletcher. He threatened Horrigan with a gun, burned him with matches struck him with a whip, and beat him with his fists after binding him. One of Horrigan's eyes is closed as a result of the beating. Horrigan and Mrs. Fletcher deny Fletcher's charges. How Fletcher tied Horrigan and tortured him is shown in the large photo, which was posed by reporters.

Australians Scent War In Pacific Ocean

SYDNEY.—A warning to Australians that war was more than possible in the Pacific was uttered by Lieutenant-General Sir John Monash, who led the Australian troops in the World War, in a public speech here.

Castigating the apathetic public spirit in regard to defence, Monash said: "Everyone who thinks knows that the future civilization is bound up with the problem of the Pacific. Yet we do not talk about it because people come and cry, 'What a provocative utterance! You are trying to stir up trouble with the nations in the East!'"

"It is the duty of those responsible for the defense of the nation to postulate where a possible attack may come from and to prepare against it. Whatever we may say of the present situation in the east, the Washington conference and the League of Nations, we must not forget that there has seldom been a war which has not come suddenly and unexpectedly.

"If there is ever to be war in the Pacific, it will come just as suddenly and unexpectedly, in spite of the ameliorative efforts which civilization has been making to mitigate war."

Monash warned Australians that the only way they could prepare was to provide the necessary modern defense equipment—aircraft, tanks, gawns, and the like.

Just rolling along with PRINCE ALBERT

AND having a wonderful time! Yes, Sir. P. A. makes the finest cigarette that ever took form in your fingers. Easier to roll. This tobacco is crimp-cut, which means that you don't need a scoop or a broom to take up the spillage. P. A. stays put in the papers. This is just an item, of course. The taste's the thing. Just get yourself a tidy red tin of Prince Albert today and get going with some of these masterful cigarettes. You'll find them cool. You'll find them sweet. You'll find them fragrant, as you roll them, and as you smoke them. Delightfully fragrant.

You never weary of rolling and smoking them. The reason for all of this is the wonderful quality of the tobacco. Prince Albert has no near-relatives. Not even a second-cousin. To get the most out of a home-rolled cigarette, you must get Prince Albert. That's a prescription—and a promise!

Pipe-smokers, too, know the joys of a jimmy-pipe packed with P. A. They'll tell you that P. A. does things to a pipe—makes it perform in a way a good pipe should. No matter how settled you think you are, if you don't know Prince Albert, you don't know complete pipe-joy.

P. A. is sold everywhere. And always with every bit of bite and punch removed by the Prince Albert process.

VANITY CASE

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Mrs. Prentiss sees mysterious lights in the Heath household next door one night, and the next day Harcourt Gardens, Long Island, is agog with the murder of Myra Heath and the disappearance of her husband, Perry.

House guests of the Heaths are Lawrence Inman, heir to Myra's fortune, and Bunny Moore, beautiful, vivacious, to whom suspicion points because of her strange actions.

Myra Heath never used rouge, never wore colors, yet when her body was found she was heavily rouged. She had a mania for collecting glass, and it was a rare old bottle from her collection that the murderer used to kill her. Candles were burning at her head and feet; nearby was a card marked, "The Work of Perry Heath."

The strange thing about Heath's disappearance is that the windows and doors were locked on the inside the night before and were found that way in the morning. Fingerprints of Bunny Moore and Inman were found on the bottle.

At the Country Club the murder is discussed by Sam Anderson, Heaths' rival for the club presidency; Al Cunningham, who is trying to solve the crime, and others. Todhunter Buck, nephew of Mrs. Prentiss and in love with Bunny, believes Heath also may have been murdered.

Bunny is amazed to get a phone call from Heath. He calls her again, saying Inman is guilty. Bunny faints under a grilling by Detective Mott. Inman confides to Buck that he saw Bunny ascending the stairs after the murder, and Mott questions all the servants. Katie, a maid, tells of seeing a man leaving the grounds the night of the murder.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXXI

"Now, look here, Mr. Detective," said Herrick, who had been stringing still, gloomily listening, "I've got a word to say about that. I locked up everything when I went upstairs at shortly after eleven-thirty. The whole family was up in their rooms then. Now, my room is in the third story front, which is not a regular story in this house being a bungalow. But it's a loft, like, and comfortable enough. Any way, that's where I sleep and it's right over the front door. My window was open, and if anybody had gone in or out of that front door, I'd have heard them. That door wasn't opened after I locked it that night, so I opened it the next morning. I know, because the door bolt is in order, and I put a little stick in it. Nobody could get it exactly like I did, and anyway, I

Child-birth

Here is a wonderful message to all expectant mothers!

When the Little One arrives, you can have that moment more free from suffering than you have perhaps imagined. An eminent physician, expert in this science, has shown the way. It was he who first produced the great remedy, "Mother's Friend," Mrs. C. J. Hartman, Scranton, Pa., says:

"With my first two children I had a doctor and a nurse and then they had to use instruments, but with my last two children I used 'Mother's Friend' and had only a nurse. I had no time to get a doctor because I wasn't very sick—only about ten or fifteen minutes." Use "Mother's Friend" as our mothers and grandmothers did. Don't wait until today, and meanwhile, write to Bradford Regulator Co., Bk. 46, Atlanta, Ga., for a free illustrated book containing information every expectant mother should have. "Mother's Friend" is sold by all drug stores—everywhere.

No. 8409-M.
THE STATE OF TEXAS.
 County of Eastland.
 By virtue of a certain order of sale issued out of the honorable 88th District court of Eastland county, on the 8th day of July, 1926, by W. B. Collic, clerk of said court, against Victory Service Station, Inc., W. W. Edrington and C. A. Bobo, for the sum of Fourteen Hundred Twenty-three & 70/100 ($1,423.70) Dollars and costs of suit, in case No. 8409-M in said court, styled The City of Ranger versus Victory Service Station, Inc., W. W. Edrington and C. A. Bobo, and placed in my hands for service, I, C. C. Hamilton, constable of precinct No. 2, Eastland county, Texas, did on the 9th day of July, 1926, levy on certain real estate situated in Eastland county, described as follows to-wit: 60x100 feet off north end of lots 11 and 12, block 12, original town of Ranger, and levied upon as the property of said W. W. Edrington and on Tuesday, the 7th day of September, 1926, at the courthouse door of Eastland county, in the city of Eastland, Texas, between the hours of 10 a. m. and 4 p. m., I will sell said real estate at public vendue, for cash, to the highest bidder as follows to-wit: the property of said W. W. Edrington, by virtue of said levy and said order of sale.

And in compliance with law, I give this notice by publication, in the English language, once a week for three consecutive weeks immediately preceding said day of sale, in the Ranger Daily Times, a newspaper published in Eastland county.

Witness my hand, this 9th day of July, A. D. 1926.

 Constable, Prec. No. 2, Eastland County, Texas.

just knew that door wasn't opened after I locked it up!"

"Very well, Herrick, but maybe Miss Moore let Mr. Heath out by a window."

"I'd heard it if she had. I tell you, sir, I'm a light sleeper, and I've always got my ears open for burglars, and I tell you there couldn't have been a door or window open in this house that night, 'thout I heard it."

"Did you hear Emma open the door for Katie?"

"Course I did!" Herrick looked contemptuous. "That Emma, she thinks she's so quiet! She goes downstairs like a hod carrier, and she opens that back door so careful, that she takes about ten minutes to do it! Last night, it stuck a little, and she had to jerk it open—ain't that so, Em?"

"Yes, Em," and the girl looked her astonishment.

"Yes, it's so. And I was thinkin' I'd oil it next day, and then what happened put it clear out of my mind."

"How about the studio French windows? Couldn't a man leave the house that way?"

"They all squeak, every one of them," Herrick averred. "I've been meaning to get 'em fixed, but I just haven't. But they squeak somethin' awful! If you don't believe that, Mr. Detective, you just try them."

"Then, Herrick," Mott turned on him, "how did Mr. Heath get out? Emma heard him talking after twelve, that was after you locked up, and yet he was gone in the morning. How did he get out?"

"That's what's botherin' me, sir," and Herrick looked awestruck. "The cellarway was locked inside. Every door and window was fastened in the morning when I came downstairs. I'd a' heard any of 'em if they was opened in the night. I don't know sir, how he did get out!"

"Do you think the man Jimmy Lomax saw was Mr. Heath?"

"I don't think so, no, sir. 'Cause why, how could it be? Mr. Heath he couldn't get out, sir."

"Then is he in the house yet?"

"I think so, sir."

"Why, Herrick, what do you mean?"

"I mean, sir, that the brute or done for Mrs. Heath done for him, too, sir, and hid his dead body some where."

"Absurd, my man! That couldn't be."

"All right, sir, but you asked me what I thought."

Having gained all he could from the servants, and giving no heed at all to Herrick's wild surmise, Mott after further injunctions not to babble, went away.

As he walked round the house, he saw Inman on the front terrace, and stopped to speak to him.

"I say," Mott began, "do you think Perry Heath could have been murdered by the assassin of his wife, and his body concealed in the house?"

"Good Lord! What an idea!" Larry stared at him.

"Yes, it sounds absurd, I know. But many details of this mysterious case are absurd. I say, do you think it could be possible?"

"I certainly do not. But it is surely a question easily answered. Why not search the house? There are not many hiding places in it that would serve such a purpose."

"Look here, Mr. Inman," Mott stalked along by the other's side, as they patrolled the long terrace, "who killed your cousin?"

"That's the question that's tormenting me to death!" Larry exclaimed, so emphatically, that Mott more than half believed him.

"I'm tormenting you because you don't know the answer or because you do," said shrewdly.

"Just what do you mean by that?" Inman stopped and stared at him.

"I mean, do you suspect somebody whom you do not want to suspect? Are your convictions forced to a conclusion that you cannot bear to accept? In a word, do you feel you must suspect Miss Moore, though you hate to do so?"

The other glared at him.

"No," he said, "I do not suspect Miss Moore, and any one who does must be out of his mind! It's too absurd!"

"Now don't go on to say that that sweet young thing couldn't commit a crime! Crimes have been committed by young women, by girls, even before this day of the wicked and degenerate flapper."

"I suppose, Mr. Mott, your position and your calling give you a right to voice such monstrous beliefs, but I can't believe you really mean them. I think you are putting it to me, to see what I will say to it. Well, sir, I say this. Miss Moore could no more have killed Mrs. Heath than I could myself. And I think your accusation of her is to get me to deny it, and stand up for her, and then you will accuse me, as the only other possibility. Why do you leave Perry Heath out of your reckoning?"

"First, because I cannot believe he could be the criminal and place that card in evidence as a clue to his guilt. Another could do it, but not the criminal, himself. Had Heath committed that crime, he would have pointed to yourself or to some other person, but not to his own name."

"This doesn't seem to be one of those cases that have the regulation clues—initialled handkerchiefs, broken cuff-links, special sort of tobacco ask—"

Footprints, one of a pair of pistols, library table paper cutter, button torn from assailant's coat,—no Mr. Inman, none of the hackneyed clues are present, except—fingerprints. You know of those important ones on the bottle,—the weapon. How do you explain those?"

"I daresay they are easy of explanation. Both Miss Moore and myself fingered that bottle when Mrs. Heath was showing it to us."

"Yes, and after that, Mrs. Heath polished it clean with her delicate handkerchief, leaving no marks on it of any sort."

"Oh, I don't know. We must have picked it up again, Miss Moore and I, after that. You know how idly, even unconsciously one picks up objects that are lying about."

"Yes, but there are only the prints of you two people, and Miss Moore's are beneath yours. She grasped it first."

"Indeed," said Larry Inman, and turned away with a yawn.

Chinese General Proclaims Ten Commandments

By United Press.

PEKING.—Playing the role of a modern Moses, General Chang Tsung-chang, Tapan of Shantung, has proclaimed ten commandments for the brawny coolies who comprise his army.

"Thou shalt not," the general has decreed to his troops, "insult people, take revenues by force, commandeer vehicles or impress coolies, enter private residences, raid houses or search passersby for contraband without permission, interfere with the majesty of the law, occupy Confucian temples or schools, inflict harm on the people or conduct thyself otherwise than as a good soldier."

The general also warns his men not to "inflict harm on the people in the course of military operations."

GEORGE SIDNEY IN "SWEET DADDIES"

George Sidney, for many seasons a featured player in motion pictures, will be seen in one of the leading roles in M. C. Levee's First National production, "Sweet Daddies," which comes to the Lamb Theatre today. Sidney is famous for his Hebrew characterizations.

A "Broken Out" Face Holds You Back

Many men and women of middle age feel that they have never had a chance to make anything out of themselves. But the main reason for it usually is that they let such things as pimples, rash, "breaking out," eczema, tetter, etc., on their face, neck, hands or arms, make them feel that they are not wanted around and they keep to themselves too much.

You can get just as much out of life as anyone. All you need is confidence in yourself, which you get naturally when you rid yourself of those skin troubles, if you just use Black and White Ointment and Skin Soap. They are economically priced in generous packages. All dealers have both. The 50c size of the Ointment contains three times as much as the 25c size.—Adv.

Fireworks Industry Does Not Suffer From Safe Fourth of July

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—Reducing the deaths caused by Fourth of July accidents by safe and sane campaigns has not hurt the fireworks industry, apparently. Total value of display fireworks produced in the United States last year was $6,031,435, an increase of more than 21 per cent over the 1923 figure of $4,977,008.

The number of employes has increased from 1,224 to 1,567, and the fireworks producing factories from 38 to 41. These statistics were given

Long Winded Orators Cause Children to Drop

By United Press.
SAPPORO, Japan.—Great excitement has been aroused here by alleged cruelty on the part of orators who, insisting that 9,000 pupils stand in a blazing sun for several hours while they spoke at inauguration ceremonies of the Sapporo branch of the Japan Red Cross society, caused the collapse of more than 200 of the children who subsequently required medical aid.
Children of 12 primary schools were forced to line up and stand at attention throughout the speeches, and although they soon began to faint one by one, no abridgement of the program was allowed, it was charged.

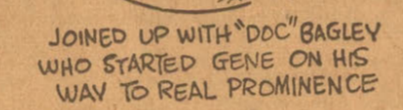

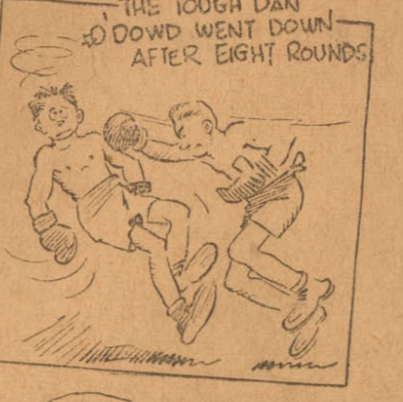

Modern Woodmen And Lions Game Ends in Fight

Fists played a prominent part in the game between the Lions and the Modern Woodmen, yesterday afternoon when they met for a social game of baseball at Nitro park.
More or less "bad blood" has existed between members of these two teams, two of the strongest of the Business Men's league, so it got to the point yesterday where some of the members had to say it with fists. Nobody was hurt, but the game was protested on both sides and called at the end of the fourth inning on account of darkness and the protesting.
This afternoon the American Legion and the Salesmen will play their last game together for this season.

Victory Service Station No. 4 Is Burglarized

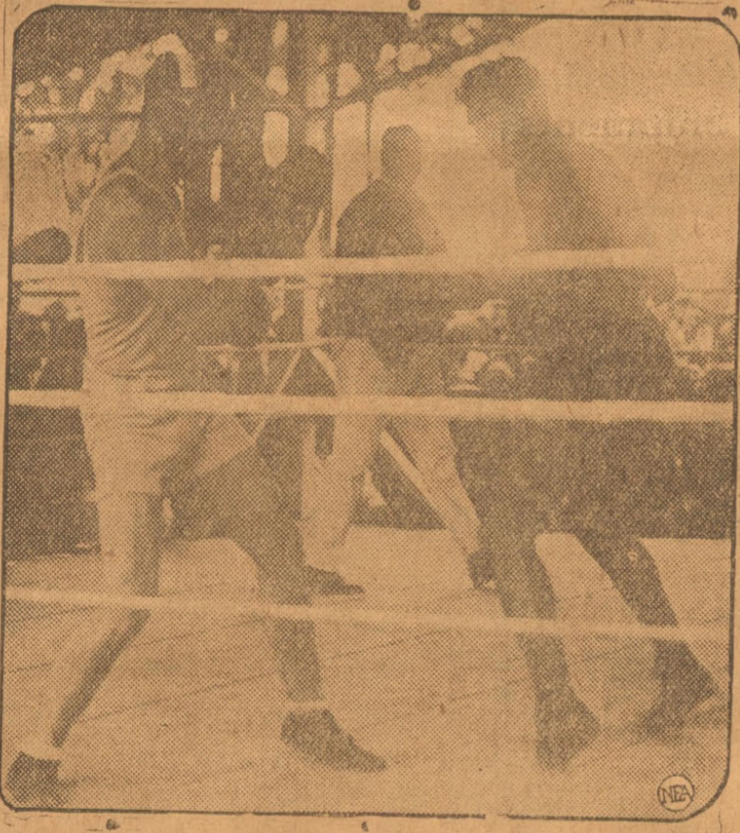

Victory Service Station No. 4, on the Blackwell road and South Commerce street, Ranger, was broken into last night, but only a few pennies, which were left in the cash drawer by the owner last night, are missing.
The front door was found wide open this morning when he came down to open up, and one window was broken. A careful check up showed nothing missing except the pennies, so the police to whom the matter was reported are of the opinion that money was the only thing the thieves were hunting, or else it was an amateur's job and they became frightened and fled before they got away with any loot.

Challenger for Dempsey's Title

Gene Tunney, 28-year-old challenger for Jack Dempsey's heavyweight crown, has been boxing professionally since 1919. One of his first battles was with the tough Dan O'Dowd. Tunney whipped him in eight rounds. He got 100 berries for that fight.
Since then Tunney has progressed steadily, losing but one bout, that in 1922 to Harry Greb for the American light-heavyweight championship. A year later he defeated Greb.
The well-known "Doc" Bagley started Tunney on his way to real pugilistic prominence—on the trail that has led him to a crack at pugilism's highest honors—the heavyweight championship of the world.

Japanese Air Program Meets With A Delay

By United Press.
TOKYO.—Japan's proposed naval air force must give way in order to allow the auxiliary warship construction program to proceed, according to decision of Admiral Takeshi Takarabe, minister of the navy. It had been expected that the air force would be increased to two corps and a half, instead of which it is to be left at one corps and a half, thus affording a saving of about $900,000.
Naval authorities are annoyed at the retrenchment policy of the Wakatsuki cabinet, which caused postponement of their program at the last diet session, and intend to put up a strong fight for money at the approaching session.

Forces of Marshal Wu Estimated At About 20,000

PEKING.—The total strength of Marshal Wu Pei Fu's armies, the size of which long has been subject to speculation, has been fixed at about 200,000 by competent foreign military observers.
A majority of the troops now are incorporated in the allied army attempting to drive the Kuomintang forces back on Kalgan.
Wu's troops are divided into four army corps with himself as commander in chief, and General Chi Hsieh-yuan, vice commander.

Desdemona Couple Steal a March On Friends; Married

Odell Cobb of Eastland and Miss Bettie Pearce of Desdemona stole a march on their friends yesterday by motoring to Breckenridge where they were married by Justice of the Peace Williams. Immediately after the ceremony they returned to Eastland and will go to Galveston and other points on a few days honeymoon trip, after which they will be at home in Eastland.
Mr. Cobb, who is connected with the oil business, has been in Eastland some two or three years and has many friends with whom he is very popular. Mrs. Cobb is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Pearce of Desdemona, where she enjoys a large circle of friends. The bride's father is connected with the Prairie Oil & Gas company at Desdemona.

Petroleum Safety Council to Show Safety First Movie

Arrangements are being made in Eastland by the Mid-Continent Oil & Gas association to show its safety first pictures, in the campaign that is being waged to keep down accidents and eliminate trouble. The picture will be shown the evening of Sept. 4.
The picture is of special interest to the oil field worker and is entitled "Unloaded Gun." It pictures the hazards usually encountered in the oil fields and around the refineries in a day and how some of the accidents can be avoided.
The shows are handled through the Petroleum Safety council, and the local committee, which will make arrangements for the show is John M. Mouser, of the Prairie Oil & Gas company; J. J. Pettis, of the Associated Oil company; W. C. Gunkle, of the Parhandle Refining company; D. P. Leary, of the Prairie Pipe Line company, who held an important meeting last night to discuss the showing, on Saturday, Sept. 4, at 8:15 p. m.

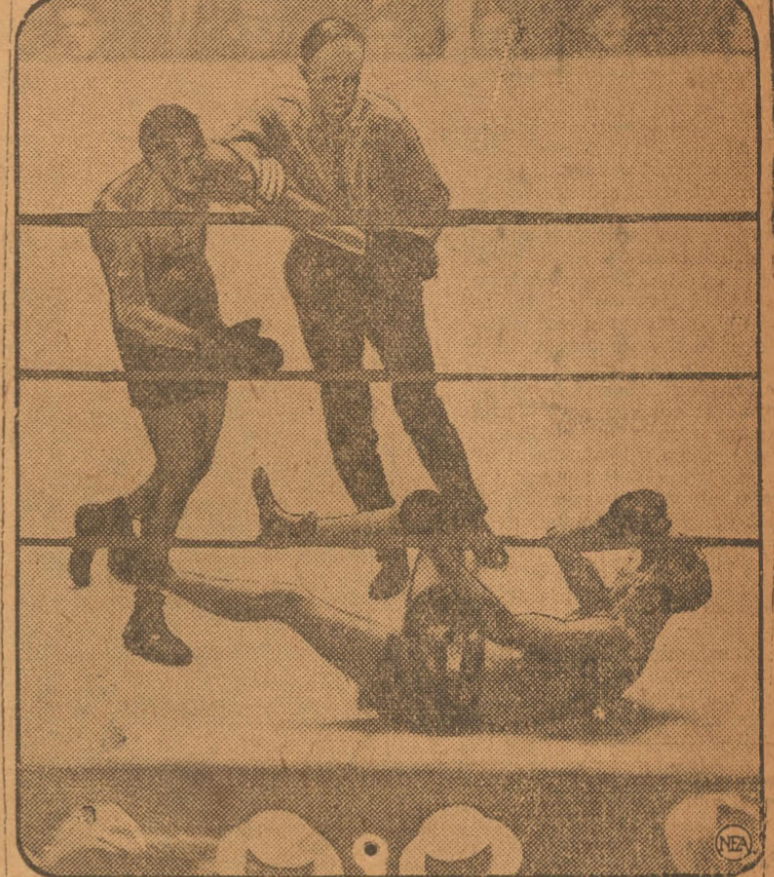

There's No Rush For Barber Chair In This Parlor

DALLAS, Aug. 26.—There's one man in the Dallas county jail that isn't in a hurry—not even in the barber shop.
Saturday was a rush day in the jail barber shop. A number of the convicts were waiting to get "fixed up" for Sunday. Among others was Eddie Conaster, convicted bootlegger; J. Baynard Reid, accused bank robber, and Yancey Storey, one of the leaders of the North Texas bandit ring who is under a 99-year sentence for bank robbery.
The barber had finished with one of his "customers" and Reid started towards the chair. Then he decided that he was out of his turn, and that Storey was entitled to be shaved next.
But when he started to sit down again Storey waved him back good-naturedly.
"Go ahead," he said, "I've got 99 years to wait in."

Professional Tennis Is Favored By The Talent

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Sports Editor)
NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—Predictions made by C. C. Pyle that professional tennis can be put over in this country are not as idle as the United States Lawn Tennis Association wishes to believe.
Because it never has been done before it does not follow that "open tennis" could not become as popular and as respected as "open golf."
Tex Rickard has been considering the possibilities of professional tennis for several years and when he had the plans drawn for his new garden he arranged lighting features with the game in mind.
Rickard Favors
"If I could get a couple of good players to turn professional I could put it over," Rickard said more than a year ago. "There might not be a lot of money in it at first but it looks like a game that could be sold to the public in time."
Pyle made a smart move when he succeeded in getting Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen to turn professional. When he announced that he was going to France with a contract for the French star, he was laughed at, but he came back with the contract.
When he announced that he had secured a number of other prominent players to join his troupe he was also given the merry ha ha, but he may fool the officials again.
It is highly improbable that Helen Wills, who forfeited her championship this year, ever will turn professional but there are a number of other high ranking American players who are considering offers.
Worked For Game
The plea made by Mlle. Lenglen that she had worked long enough for tennis and that she was going to let tennis work for her in the future will find sympathy with several American players who have given plenty of their time to the development of the game at a personal sacrifice of time and money.
It is understood that Pyle has made an offer to William T. Tilden and it would not be a shock if he announced after the national championship tournament that he had decided to turn professional. He has had enough of glory out of the game and he is also in a position where tennis might be called upon to work for him.
Vinnie Richards
It is hardly likely that Billy Johnston would give up his amateur standing and Vinnie Richards isn't a very good prospect for promoters. Richards has his heart set on winning the national championship and it is not likely that he would turn professional and surrender his chances for the title when he seems to be advancing to the goal.
No official statements have been made but it is almost certain that the association will oppose any efforts made to break down the restrictions against strict amateur standards.
The association has been opposed to exhibition tournaments for the very reason that commercial tennis might be encouraged and any appeal that Pyle might make to get sanction for the exhibitions in which he plans for Mlle. Lenglen hardly will receive any friendly action.
The association will be on fairly safe ground as long as there are only one or two professional, but some concessions looking toward open tennis will have to be made if there is any organized departure of big players from the amateur ranks.

Ranger Invited To Fort Worth Swimming Meet

Gold, silver and bronze medals will be presented for each event at the beach at the close of the meet.
Events and any other information regarding the aquatic meet of the Texas Amateur Athletic association may be had from the Ranger Chamber of Commerce.

Lose 7 Seconds and Gain 50 Years Crossing Slogan

By United Press.
WASHINGTON.—"Lose seven seconds and you may gain 50 years," is a new byword of the safety first campaigners who are battling to lower the annual toll of motorists killed on grade crossings. Automobiles killed at crossings in 1925 totaled 1784.
A fast railroad train usually takes seven seconds to pass a crossing. R. J. Clancy, assistant to the general manager of the Southern Pacific Company, has computed. Yet 1784 persons were killed last year in attempts to save these seven-second periods, he pointed out.

Dillingham Opens Abilene Plant And Serves 10,000 Visitors

O. D. Dillingham, owner of the Banner Ice Cream company, Ranger, and many other interests in this city, has added another plant to his several other plants. This one was opened up at Abilene Tuesday night and refreshments of ice cream and punch were served to some 10,000 visitors. The Abilene Morning Reporter carried a very interesting account of the opening of the new plant.
The two of them live in a pleasant old house on Rosslyn Hill in what has been described as the highbrow section of Hampstead. Real estate agents described it as a quiet neighborhood until the spinster-preacher arrived with her exciting and affectionate young charge. Now the whole vicinity is absorbed in the lively struggle between the very advanced young foster-mother and her even more advanced, it is said, young charge.

SWEETWATER DAIRY FARMERS PLAN CREAMERY

By United Press.
SWEETWATER, Aug. 24.—Agitation is being started here for the establishment of a local creamery owned and operated by Sweetwater dairymen. Movement was started toward this object shortly after the organization of the Nolan County Dairymen's association several weeks ago and local business and professional men have given the movement their support.

With such a plant, those interested in the plan, point out, farmers would have a certain means of livelihood even during years when the leaf worm, the boll weevil and other insects ravage their cotton crops. With such a plant it would be possible to increase the consumption of dairy products 100 per cent, it is said within two years. At present the local supply of butter is nearly all shipped as creamery butter.

It was also stated that the sale of buttermilk alone would bring more money than many of the dairymen get for whole milk now.

Women Farm Colony Allows Men For Plows

By United Press.
LINGFIELD, England.—Women may be free but they cannot yet make hay without the aid of men.

A grim effort to run a farm solely by the work of women has failed, after six years of struggle, and husbands have at last been called in to assist. The Were Mill colony near here is no longer an Adamless Eden.

The colony includes a hundred acres of farm land. It was started in 1920 by a group of young women under the auspices of the Women's Farm and Garden association to show an incredulous world that the hand designed to rock a cradle can also turn a straight furrow.

The women became tenants of small holdings of three and five acres each, and they helped each other in their work. Some specialized in dairy herds, some raised Angora rabbits, some grew vegetables, others became orchardists, and several developed into pastrycooks and cooks. They set up a roadside stand on the East Grinstead road, which motorists learned to know well as a stopping place for tea. The colony prospered, but in the course of six years it was seen that only a part of the farm land was being used.

The strong backs of men were needed in the fields. But the rules of the colony forbade the admittance of men. So the regulations at last have been changed and those women of the colony who have husbands now are allowed to bring their husbands in.

Mosquito Quartet Furnish Feature Over The Radio

By United Press.
LONDON.—A "mosquito quartet" has been heard all over England by radio.

The British Broadcasting Company, with specially sensitive equipment, filled the air with the buzz of the insects. The concert opened with a chorus of female mosquitoes for soprano effects and continued with a mixed ensemble of buzzes male and female.

About a year ago the British Broadcasting Company broadcast the song of a nightingale, but the mosquito chorus offered even greater difficulties than the earlier performance. A highly sensitive microphone was developed by Captain West, radio expert of the company, which was so delicate that the rustle of a piece of paper sounded like an extract from a thunderstorm.

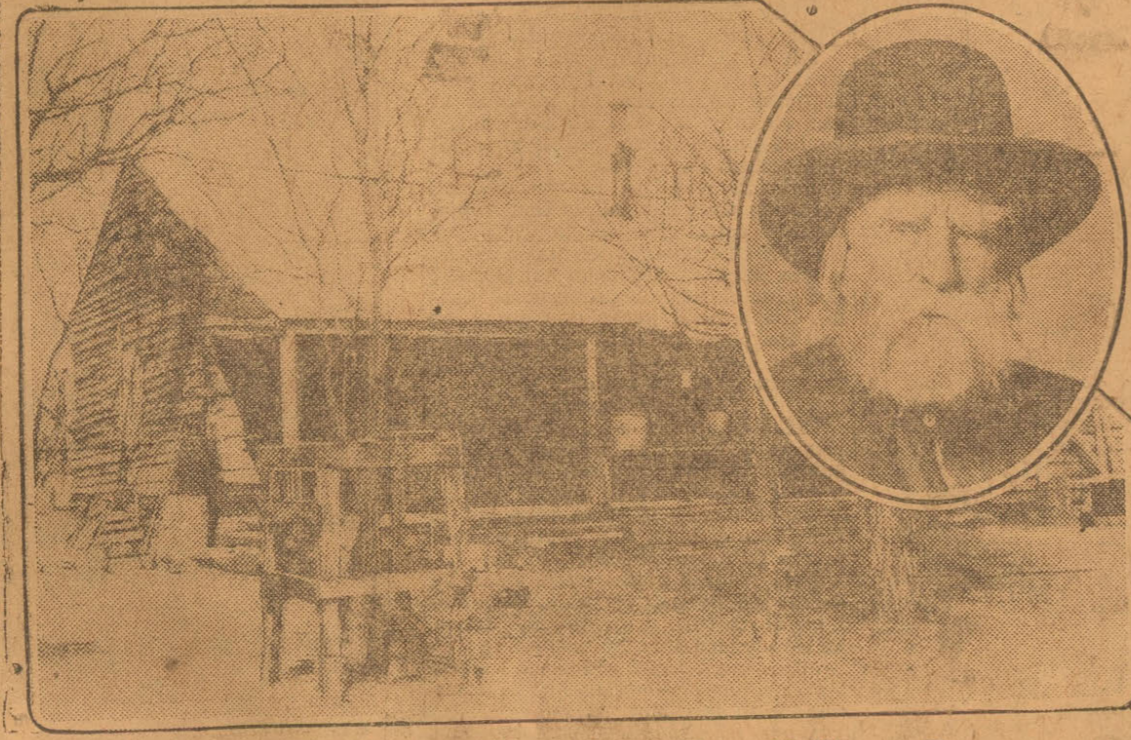

The special "mike" was so delicate that it broke down under the impact of the mosquito buzzes. This was not the only casualty, however, because two of the mosquitoes succumbed to stage fright and died. Three others escaped during the performance.

"We fed them on strawberries and tomato juice mixed with sugar," said Captain West, who had charge of the mosquitoes during the stunt. "Then we shook them in their boxes and breathed on them to make them sing. I don't know whether they were angry or just amused, but they buzzed very well and most of England heard them."

GENEROSITY - IN RAGS

Rich Texas Farm Lives in Old Log Cabin but Has Given Away Many Fortunes, Unasked.

August M. Wilson and his ancient cabin at McKinney, Texas

By NEA Service.
MCKINNEY, Texas.—He has given away several hundred thousand dollars to make the world a little happier, while he himself wears tattered clothing and lives in an ancient, ramshackle cabin.

He will help no man who asks for help, but anyone who keeps quiet and says nothing in the face of financial difficulties may be aided.

He will not talk about his generosity, and he pretends to be very cold-blooded and hard-hearted; but all the time he is merely concealing an intense, overflowing love for his fellow man.

Those paragraphs describe one of the most unusual philanthropists in the world—Augustus M. Wilson, 84-year-old Confederate veteran, who lives alone on a small farm, five miles from this town.

His cabin was built in 1844, of rough-hewn logs. The farm he inherited as a youth has dwindled from 1,000 acres to 100 acres because of his donations. During the past few years he has given away, outright and unasked, the following things:

One dozen houses, 20 automobiles, 150 acres for maintenance of a school, two district schoolhouses, at $2,000 each, an $800 bungalow for a teacher in one of them, a dozen cancelled promissory notes and many thousands of dollars in cash.

And that is far from being a complete list. Only Wilson himself knows just how large the list really is.

One day recently Wilson started from his home to McKinney. He passed a small farm where father, mother and children were working in the field. All were barefooted and poorly clad.

Wilson recalled that he held a mortgage on the place. He turned around and went home, got the mortgage, marked it "paid" and went back to the farm. He wanted to avoid the embarrassment of having the farmer thank him, so he tiptoed into the house, put the cancelled mortgage under a plate on the table and made his escape unseen.

Another time he passed the home of a crippled farmer. He noticed that the farmer had a hard time getting around but that he was hard-working and industrious. Wilson hurried to town, bought a new auto and had it sent to the cripple's farm, with a chauffeur to teach him how to drive.

Not long ago Wilson went to Dallas and spent an hour or so looking at autos in a salesroom. He was dressed in shabby farm clothes, and the salesman assumed that he could not buy anything better than a second-rate used car. But Wilson insisted on looking at the high priced ones and said he wanted several. The salesman, perplexed, called up a McKinney bank.

"Old fellow here, name of Wilson, wants to buy three new cars," he told the cashier. "Know anything about him?"

"Describe him," said the cashier.

"Oh, gosh, I couldn't," said the salesman.

"Well, then, that's Gus Wilson and he could buy every car you have and pay cash," said the cashier. "Let him have anything he wants."

Wilson rarely gives to churches. Once he broke his rule and gave an elaborate chandelier to a nearby church. A couple of months later he entered the church when no one was around and noticed that the chandelier was neglected, covered with dirt and dust. He took it down and hauled it home.

He likes to attend Confederate veterans' reunions. Recently he paid the expenses of six comrades to go with him to one.

On another occasion he learned that six McKinney girls wanted to go on a short holiday trip but didn't have enough money. He paid their expenses on a pleasure trip to Galveston and gave them $50 apiece to spend. When they got back one girl wanted to return to him $17 she hadn't spent.

"Oh, keep it," said Wilson. "You're the only girl in the bunch that showed any sense."

Wilson refuses to give to anyone who drinks, and confines his donations to those who are truly industrious and frugal. He amassed his own riches by working long hours on his farm as a young man, and he thinks others ought to do the same.

Only once did Wilson break his rule about not helping anyone who asked for help. A neighbor came to his house to borrow $15,000.

"There's the road," said Wilson gruffly. "Nothing is keeping you from going back. I won't invite you in."

"I'm coming in and before I leave you're going to lend me $15,000," said the neighbor. "Why, you blankety-blank old sinner, what do you suppose I walked all the way out here for—nothing?"

Wilson chuckled. When the man left he had Wilson's check for $15,000.

Hindu Castle Turns Out To Be A Dark Prison

By BETTY HURLOW, Written for the United Press.
CHICAGO.—The castle I had heard about in America turned out to be nothing but a big, old shack when I saw it in India. It was located in an almost unbelievably dreary expanse of rice fields. The house was large, dirty, and entirely devoid of any conveniences. Its dark corners were used for nests by large droves of bats; mosquitoes came in swarms through the iron barred windows; poisonous snakes coiled about the damp foundations, vultures flew in circles about the yard waiting for refuse to be thrown from the kitchens, and—worst of all to me—tigers and jackals roared and whined outside the windows all night long.

Such was my husband's feudal castle, the seat of government for the Indian province of Barodi.

No Whites Near.

No white persons were in hundreds of miles. I had no one I could talk to, no books to read—nothing. And the natives stared. It was awful.

I was put into the Zenana—the harem—where I was forced to spend three months, while my husband tried to get another priest to hold services for the Boses.

And Abani, instead of writing to me as he should have done, wrote to his brother—my jailers—telling him to be sure to hold me until a new priest was obtained at Calcutta.

During my stay in Barodi, I was taken ill from the dirty food and the vile living conditions. I wrote to my mother, finally begging her to send me money so that I could come back home. I thought I would die—I even contemplated suicide.

Finally, however, Abani obtained a priest who would overlook my being one of "the devil's own," and I was allowed to return to Calcutta.

My illness became worse and I contracted the dreadful dinges fever—a native disease carried by the huge mosquitoes of the rice swamps. After hovering between life and death for weeks in pestilent Calcutta, I began to recover. But my nerves were shattered and I looked "wrecked."

My skin had turned yellow, my eyes were sunken, my hair straggly and I remained for some time so weak I could hardly walk.

My husband by this time was not the same man. He was exactly like any other well-born Hindu in the city. His wife was merely a plaything, something to be fondled when he was in a good humor and something to be ignored when it suited him.

Domineering.

But Abani was certainly proud of having married a white woman. He took every chance he had to show his fellow countrymen how he could dominate me—how he could rule his American wife. I was made to wear native clothes, to live entirely with Indians and was not even allowed to speak to the few white people in the city.

Even had my husband allowed me to mingle in the English colony, I couldn't have done it because the other white people looked at me in scorn for having married a Hindu. And being snubbed by the only people in the city I could talk to, outside of my husband, hurt me worse perhaps than anything else.

Swedish Musicians Win Contentions With Radio Bureau

By United Press.
STOCKHOLM.—The anti-radio strike of the unionized Swedish musicians has been settled through a compromise between the musical union and the Radio Service Bureau which has charge of all programs.

According to the agreement members of bands and orchestras whose programs are also broadcasted will receive an extra 50 per cent of their regular pay for the radio. Of this 75 per cent goes to the player himself and the rest to the pension funds of the union.

Smoke—the kind that comes from coal, not cabbages—cost America $1,870,000,000 annually.

So declares Gordon D. Rowe, chief smoke inspector of Cincinnati, Ohio, who points out that such a sum would pay for a 12-inch reinforced concrete road 50 feet wide from New York to Los Angeles and another from Chicago to New Orleans.

Burning bituminous coal in the raw state is a crime against coming generations, Rowe asserts. There are only two ways to burn coal economi-

LEADERS OF ALL WOMEN'S ORGANIZATIONS CELEBRATE SIXTH ANNIVERSARY, VOTE

By JULIAN M. SNYDER (United Press Staff Correspondent) WASHINGTON.—Leaders of women's organizations celebrating the sixth anniversary of the enfranchisement of women in this country today pointed with pride to the political achievements during the last six years, appealed to women throughout the nation to join in the movement for greater equality with men and warned the nation that women now have the power to institute a "political house cleaning."

Although the end of six years of enfranchisement finds the women divided into at least two major camps—the League of Women Voters and the Women's Party—both sides view with pride the achievements of women in the political arena.

Summed Up

Summed up, these achievements are:

Women in legislatures in 36 states, total—133.

Two women governors—Nellie Ross, Wyoming, "Ma" Ferguson, of Texas.

Half a dozen women in congress.

A woman on the supreme court bench in Ohio.

Numerous women mayors.

Miss Belle Sherwin, president of the National League of Women Voters, in a statement written for the United Press today, said:

"The most significant result of six years of woman suffrage is the woman voter's contribution to the open mind in politics. Woman's entrance into the political field also has created a new conception of what to vote for. It has become a political habit for them to study candidates of all parties, the merits of all campaign issues and the election laws themselves.

"The first six years of woman suffrage mark no new era in definite results at the polls, because of the woman vote. But here and there where women have taken the leading part in local elections, the result has been a political house cleaning."

The League of Women Voters has no national membership list but the total membership is estimated at about one million. The League claims among its achievements an increased woman vote and the adoption of the world court resolution.

The Woman's Party, smaller, more militant and radical, is at odds with the League over the question of "equal rights in industry." The Woman's party, which has a membership of 25,000, wants no legal discriminations in industry favorable to women because it argues such laws "legislate women out of jobs." An employer will hire a man rather than comply with such legislation, it claims.

"We want equal rights with men in every field," Miss Edith Ainge, treasurer of the Woman's Party told the United Press. "We favor a woman for president. At least half the cabinet should be women. We should like to save an equal number of men and women in congress."

The Woman's Party, through Senator Curtis, representative of Kansas, has introduced an amendment to the constitution reading:

"Men and women shall have equal rights throughout the United States and every place subject to its jurisdiction."

Legislative War

In their war against discriminatory legislation members of the Woman's Party have investigated all the laws of every state in the union and claim to have drafted 506 bills, subsequently passed by the various states.

"By the passage of these bills, 60 points in the equal rights campaign, effecting the lives of 26,000,000 women, have been won," the party now claims.

The treasurer's report shows the Woman's Party has spent $1,263,534.19 to further the cause of woman's rights since 1912. For the suffrage campaign during which more than 100 of their members were imprisoned for picketing and militant tactics, $796,053.10 was expended up to May 1, 1926, the party spent $443,408.94.

Both the League of Women Voters and the Woman's Party already have begun their campaigns for the fall elections. The League in addition to its "get-out-the-vote" campaign will support a program of "law enforcement"—generally taken to mean enforcement of prohibition—and the direct primary system.

The Woman's Party has launched an "elect-women-to-congress" campaign and will seek the support of its proposed equal rights amendments.

From a purely business viewpoint a long head is worth much more than a long face.

Japanese Menace In Philippines Will Be Probed

By United Press.
MANILA.—Director Jorge Vargas of the bureau of public lands has decided to conduct an official examination of the "Japanese menace" in Mindanao for the purpose of substantiating or putting at rest the suspicions of many Filipinos that the Japanese are violating the land laws of the Philippines.

Newspapers call attention more and more frequently to the rapid increase of Japanese planters and Japanese plantation companies around the port of Davao, Mindanao. Most of the comment deals with the anxiety of American and Filipino residents in that part of the archipelago lest the Japanese might be getting control of this valuable territory.

Director Vargas expressed a private opinion that the Japanese were not violating the Philippine land laws but admitted that they might be following methods which constituted a violation of the corporation laws.

The Japanese appear to have found the hone opening in the public land act. The law limits individuals and corporations to the ownership of 1,024 hectares but is silent as to whether, once a person has acquired a maximum under the law, he may interest himself in other companies or projects. In this way, the Japanese in Mindanao have frequently obtained control of large areas by interlocking directorates and co-operative arrangements.

According to the Report of the Special Investigation Committee of the National Editorial Association

"Ninety Per Cent of Country Newspapers are Selling Advertising at or Below Cost"

HIGH LIGHTS OF THE COMMITTEE'S REPORT

"Fully 90 per cent of country newspapers are selling their advertising service at or below cost.

"The cost of advertising composition alone is 20c per inch for weekly newspapers and 24.75c per inch for small daily publications.

"In the mechanical departments labor costs have increased from 50 to 150 per cent. Machinery and materials have advanced in keeping with the rising costs and the newspaper publishers have not followed in the procession.

"Only a small percentage of country newspaper publishers realize the perils which confront their future existence.

"Economic pressure will aid the elimination process and it will be a case of survival of the medium that renders the greatest service to the community.

"Disaster and ruin faces thousands of publications unless they immediately adjust themselves to the new conditions and rigidly adhere to the rates which the committee of investigation recommends."

The Special Advertising Committee of the National Editorial Association appointed to study the selling price for advertising space in weekly newspapers, based on known costs of production, recommends the following rates, which the committee considers "very conservative:"

For 500 or less circulation	25c per inch
For 1000 or less circulation	30c per inch
For 1500 or less circulation	35c per inch
For 2000 or less circulation	40c per inch
For 2500 or less circulation	45c per inch
For 3000 or less circulation	48c per inch
For 3500 or less circulation	51c per inch

STONE AGE DAYS REVIVED IN U. S.

Hopi Snake Dance This Year Ritual of More Than 2000 Years

Here is a group of pictures taken at the last Hopi snake dance. Above is a group of priests lined up outside the "kisa" waiting to receive the live rattlesnakes in their hands. The lower group shows how the priest look in the ceremonial makeup. At the left is a typical Hopi "flapper," such as formerly was selected by the priests to marry the winner of the young men's race. Note how her hair is arranged—"squash blossoms," the Hopis call it. And she doesn't wear chignon.

By NEA Service FLAGSTAFF, Ariz.—Preparations are almost complete for the annual observance of the oldest, most colorful religious ceremonial on the North American continent—the world-famous Hopi Indian snake dance. In all the world there is no ceremony like this. It is a religious rite performed exactly as it was ten, twenty centuries ago—a strange relic of the old stone age, when the dividing line between magic and religion was not clearly defined. It will be witnessed by travelers from distant places. Men will come in automobiles, complicated products of the up-to-date Twentieth Century, to watch the desert Indians perform rites that were time-worn when Europe was an unpeopled wilderness. A Prayer for Rain. The snake dance is an annual prayer for rain—an invocation to the gods that live in the sky and control the clouds and to the gods that live under ground and control the springs and rivers, joined in by the residents of six Hopi villages on a long mesa north of here. First the Snake and Antelope clans meet to study various meteorological signs and determine the date for the dance. This year's ceremony has been set for Aug. 21. Then come many days of preparation. In no Christian church are preparations for a sacrament more carefully. A town crier announces the date from the housetops. The priests of the Antelope clan meet to set up the altar. They make a mosaic of different colored sands, which are sprinkled on the floor, with clouds and lightning represented symbolically. Then the prayer sticks are made, with prayers and invocations at each step of the procedure. Each participant smokes the sacred pipe, and the altar is consecrated and blessed morning and night. Sixteen songs are chanted each day, to the accompaniment of rattles shaken by the priests. In the snake "kiva," a sort of underground council chamber, the snake charm liquid is made. An Indian basket is placed on a special altar. In it are placed shells, charms, crushed nuts and sticks. A priest, with much chanting and ceremony, pours water into it from the north, east, south and west. Other priests circle about it, chewing some desert herb and putting the liquid in the basket. Priests Are Appointed. At last the charm nears completion. Each priest waves a "snake stick," with eagle feathers attached, and the sacred pipe is lit, the smoke being blown into the liquid. Four songs are chanted. Then the Hopi chamber rings with the fierce Hopi war cry; the head priest mixes the liquid with corn meal, sprinkles it to the four points of the compass, kneads it with white clay, and rubs the resultant paste on the bodies of all the priests. This ceremony is supposed to protect them from snake bites in the dance that is to follow. All of these ceremonies are performed by priests of the Antelope clan. While they are thus engaged, the men of the Snake clan go north, east, west and south to catch the deadly rattle snakes for the snake dance. When a rattlesnake is found a prayer is offered, meal is scattered on it and it is seized alive and brought back to the village. The Indians catch the snakes with uncanny skill. Four days are consumed in this snake hunt. On the evening of the last day of the hunt the Antelope priests dance in the plain. On the morrow the snake dance begins. It starts with the race of the young men. Long before sunrise the young Indians start from a place far out on the plain, beside a sacred spring. They cover the intervening miles with remarkable speed, loping up the sloping mesa to the cheers of the crowd. The priests receive them, and each runner deposits prayer offerings at the altar. Then the captive snakes—sometimes there are as many as a hundred of them—are washed in the underground kiva. The priests squat and sing. Two priests take a handful of writhing, twisting snakes out of a jar of consecrated water. The snakes are dipped in this and tossed on the sand of the sacred altar, to the tune of blood-curdling yells. At sunset comes the snake dance proper, on the open plaza. Visitors, both Indian and white, line the mesa above. First the Antelope priests appear, marching to a little cottonwood structure called the "kisa," in which are jars containing the snakes. In front of it is a hole covered by planks. It is supposed to be the entrance to the underworld, and the priests sprinkle sacred meal on it to notify the gods of the underworld that the dance is about to begin. Then they form a line and chant a monotonous sort of song. The Snake priests appear next. They too sprinkle meal on the planks. Then they divide into groups of three and each group approaches the kisa in turn. One member takes a rattlesnake from a jar, puts it in his mouth, and prances away. One of his comrades dances beside him and the third follows in the rear. Throws Snake Away Presently the man with the snake tosses it away; the third man sprinkles meal on it and picks it up, after which the two men in front of him return to the kisa for another snake. When all the snakes have been taken from the jars the chief priest draws a sacred circle in the ground, and all the priests rush up and drop the snakes into it. Then, at another signal, they seize the snakes up again, dash off to the four points of the compass and release them. After that come two days of feasting—although each priest is obliged to take a powerful emetic before he may join in. That is the famous Hopi snake dance—an attraction for tourists from all over the world. How the priests avoid being fatally bitten by the live rattlers they handle so carelessly is a mystery. But they always do.

"Gasoline Spells Death To Blister Bugs," Wade Swift

Wade Swift, city sanitary officer for Ranger, has found an exterminator for blister bugs. He says "spray them with gasoline. Its sure death and a gallon of gasoline will kill a lot of them." Unless the price of gasoline advances in account of the demand, created by the supply of blister bugs camping in Ranger's social and religious circles, there are going to be some dead blister bugs by night, provided the remedy works. The bugs have had their own way at the outdoor platform behind the high school building, where the revival services were scheduled to be held, as the preachers took their blister bug infested flocks and fled to the Methodist church for the services which the bugs tried to route.
