MCADOO TO BE NOMINATED DESPITE HIS ANNOUNCEMENT

SEVEN TEAMS COVER RANGER IN BOND SALE

Possible Buyers Tabulated; Visited Wednesday and Thursday

The final drive of the Chamber of Commerce to sell Ranger's issue of street improvement bonds at home will be staged Wednesday and Thursday afternoons.

The plan of operation was adopted last night by the committee at a meeting in the Chamber of Commerce rooms.

The probability of putting the sale over was discussed in the meeting, the general belief being that the citizenship generally and those who have investments here could not let it fall.

As shown, aside from the civic view of the matter, the securities are really an attractive investment.

The problem of selling the bonds was put up to the Chamber of Commerce after the city commission had failed to find a market through the regular channels.

THIRTEEN CARLOADS HOGS ASSEMBLED AT FORT WORTH

FORT WORTH, June 22.—A shipment of thirteen carloads of hogs from the Panhandle was recently assembled at Fort Worth and dispatched through Galveston to Havana, Cuba.

THE STORY OF 16 NOMINATIONS

By A. H. Vandenberg

THE CONVENTION OF 1904

Three high spots stand out in the story of the Democratic National convention of 1904, which met at St. Louis on July 6—(1) The unsuccessful effort to galvanize ex-President Grover Cleveland into renewed leadership.

Clump Clark of Missouri was permanent chairman of the convention. The rules committee re-adopted the historic old "two-thirds rule" by a vote of 24 to 4.

CHARGING PLOT G. B. MEANS SUES FOR $1,000,000

NEW YORK.—Suit for $1,000,000 against District Attorney Swann and his assistant, John T. Dooling, both of New York, was filed in the United States district court here by Gaston B. Means, acquitted of the murder of Mrs. James C. King in North Carolina two years ago.

Mr. Means, whose home, it is said, is 1155 Park avenue, alleges that working in conjunction with the Northern Trust company of Chicago, Mr. Swann and Mr. Dooling "conspired and bribed witnesses to appear against him, with money furnished them by the trust company, to convict him of slaying Mrs. King."

In a raid on his apartments in this city, the plaintiff charges, made under orders of Mr. Dooling on Sept. 11, 1917, detectives without warrant of law entered his rooms and took away with them $30,000 in personal belongings, including bank deposits.

Just before her death Mrs. King, with Means as her business manager, was engaged in litigation to sustain her claim to the entire $4,500,000 estate of her husband.

The first will made public gave her only $100,000, but she said a second will, discovered by Means, gave her the entire estate.

LATE BULLETINS

WIMBLETON, June 22.—J. C. Parke, British international tennis player, defeated William M. Johnston in the British Championship contest.

WASHINGTON, June 22.—Since the beginning of the war in 1914 United States has rolled up a trade balance of approximately $17,000,000,000 against the world, his exceeds by several billion the total balance in favor of the United States from 1875 to 1914, according to the Department of Commerce figures made public today.

SAN ANTONIO, June 22.—Postmaster General Burleson today declared for the modification of the drastic and absurd provisions of the Volstead act, asserting it will be impossible to repeal the act itself, and expressed against the government ownership except in telephones and telegraph lines.

FORT WORTH, June 22.—A threatened shortage of harvest hands in the Texas Panhandle and West Texas has been averted, it was announced by C. W. Woodman, federal agent for recruiting and distributing harvesters in the South-west.

LOS ANGELES, June 22.—The earthquake damage is estimated at $100,000,000 with three-fourths of the damage at Inglewood.

At 5:40 o'clock in the morning of July 9—after an all-night session—the convention took its first and only presidential ballot. It stands on the official record as giving Judge Alton B. Parker of New York exactly a two-thirds majority with 667 votes.

Henry G. Davis of West Virginia was then nominated for vice-president on a single roll call, which was made unanimous after an original division showed Davis with 654 votes against a field of three, as follows: James R. Williams, Illinois, 165; George Turner, Washington, 100; Ex-Senator William A. Harris, Kansas, 85.

To be continued tomorrow with the story of the convention of 1905.

Sketched at San Francisco

JOHN W. DAVIS, American ambassador to Great Britain, is said by his supporters to be the strongest available candidate for the Democratic nomination for President.

SENATOR JAMES A. REED of Missouri hates the league of nations worse than poison and is in San Francisco to prevent if he can the incorporation of a league of nations plank in the Democratic platform.

SENATOR GILBERT M. HITCHCOCK of Nebraska is fighting bravely at Frisco for the league of nations covenant as Wilson brought it home.

BRECKENRIDGE TO CELEBRATE COMING OF RY.

BRECKENRIDGE, June 22.—Breckenridge will celebrate the inauguration of train service in befitting style.

The celebration, scheduled to commence July 3, is postponed until the 5th, as relates to the running of excursion trains over the Ranger line.

The Chamber of Commerce has formulated an ambitious program for benefit of visitors. One of the unique features is to be a derick building contest in the middle of the street or on the public square.

Other Stephens county oil towns are planning to celebrate the 4th of July in befitting manner. Breckenridge starts off her ten days celebration on the 5th, in welcome to the railroad from Ranger and in general jubilation of good cheer over things in general.

INGLEWOOD QUAKE KNOCKED SEVERAL BUILDINGS DOWN

LOS ANGELES, June 22.—Survey today of damage done by the earthquake last night indicated that Inglewood, ten miles from here, had twenty-one business buildings destroyed.

The town was deprived of lights and gas and scores of dwellings were seriously damaged. Injured persons were struck by falling brick in Los Angeles. One death is attributed to the earthquake, which was confined to Los Angeles county.

Another slight earth shock was felt at Inglewood today. No damage was done.

DALLAS, June 22.—An honorary degree of Doctor of Divinity was conferred upon Rev. A. J. Meeks of Dallas, editor of the Texas Christian Advocate, at a recent meeting of the trustees of the Southwestern University at Georgetown.

The trustees reported the institution to be in the best financial condition in its history and voted to carry on a two-year educational campaign authorized by the general conference. Several gifts, including one of $10,000, were received by the trustees in behalf of the university.

West Texas Has State's Largest Sheep-Goat Show

SAN ANGELO, Tex., June 22.—The largest sheep and goat show and auction sale ever conducted in Texas is being held in connection with the fifth annual convention of the Sheep and Goat Raisers' Association of Texas, which began here yesterday.

The membership of the Sheep and Goat Raisers' Association has increased within the last twelve months from 548 members owning 81,000 sheep and goats to more than 1,000 members possessing in excess of a million animals.

The pending applications of more than 1,000 Texas sheepmen for the return by the United States government of approximately a million dollars in excess profits on 1918 long wool commanded by the government during the war at prices on valuations which the growers contend were too low, is one of the more important topics being considered at the convention.

Stringency in the money market, forcing eastern commission houses to pay higher interest rates for their capital, the price cutting wave on clothing, which has caused woolen mills to cancel and curtail orders, labor strikes, freight congestion and the dumping of Austrian wool on the American market, are reasons given for the condition, which the convention will seek to relieve.

IRISH CITY IS STILL CENTER OF CIVIL WAR

LONDONDERRY, June 22.—The civil war continued throughout the day, with one more death, bringing the total to eight. Troops are protecting some of the principal streets, but enough firing is going on to terrify the citizens.

NEGRESS FEARS FIRE. LEAPS FROM AUTOMOBILE

BREHMAN, June 22.—A negro woman who works on a farm near here explained after she had risen from the road-side where she had landed on her face, that while she still favors automobile she is a little nervous about them, and that when a lightning bug glowed along the head of the car in which she was riding at a fair rate of speed she thought the driver set the car afire, and fearing an explosion, was obsessed with a sudden desire to leave the automobile.

SEES WATERWAY AS SEA SERPENT TO END NEW YORK

BUFFALO, N. Y.—Canadians and westerners are combined to put through the St. Lawrence deep waterway from the Great Lakes to the sea, to the ruin of the city and state of New York, Nesbit Grammer of Buffalo declared before the international joint commission here.

Canadians, he said, never have done their share on projects begun with the United States, and the West never has produced a practical idea. "It would take all the traffic away from us and send it up a Canadian river," Grammer said. "It means a cloud over the entire development of New York state. Aside from purely sentimental reasons, that is the practical reason for our opposition."

New York was represented at the hearing by members of a special commission created by the last assembly to fight the St. Lawrence project. The members of this commission said their official line of action had not been decided upon.

It was rumored that certain sections of the state want the St. Lawrence hydro-electric power development and so the state commission was unable to frame a policy.

Murray Hulbert, dock commissioner of the city of New York, said the western movement to open the St. Lawrence is endangering the contemplated appropriation of $100,000,000 by the federal government for improvements on the New York harbor.

Edward S. Walsh said the government-owned barges have driven away private competition on the state barge canal not because of the rates they had established but through fear of the power of the government.

F. F. Williams, deputy state engineer, said the St. Lawrence river was a "confined channel" and would not be useful anyway.

Adam E. Cornieus said lake vessels could not navigate the ocean nor could ocean vessels navigate the lakes. He had been engaged in the operation of lake and ocean vessels for thirty years, he said, and he knew. On cross-examination it developed that his "ocean fleet" is composed entirely of lake vessels sent to sea during the war.

SPEEDS ON WAY TO CHURCH; FINED $15

AUSTIN, June 22.—When a young man of this city was brought into police court on Sunday morning under a charge of speeding, he explained to the judge that he had discovered that he was about to be late for church and stepped on his accelerator to make up lost time, and for that reason he pleaded not guilty.

"Five dollars and costs," was the judge's answer. The defendant gave notice of appeal.

LABOR SECTION OF LAW IS SUSPENDED

AUSTIN, June 22.—The Industrial Welfare commission decided today not to enforce the section of the minimum wage law which requires the fixing of a minimum wage for women and miners until the law can be amended. Action was taken in compliance with the request in a resolution adopted by the legislature.

KANSAS CITY PUBLISHER FIRM IN RESOLVE TO PRESENT NAME BEFORE DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION

THEY CAME, HEARD, LEFT.

ALEXANDRIA, Ind., June 22.—Three blind men came to Alexandria recently and, unknown to each other, set up their organs on different street corners. Each was unaware of the presence of the others until the organs started playing.

As the tunes carried to the ears of the blind men, the three silently folded their chairs, packed away their music and departed for the interurban depot. They got on the same car, each unaware of the presence of the others, and left the city.

PALMER QUILTS PROFITEER TO HUNT THE RED

WASHINGTON, June 22.—Armed with broadened powers provided in the recently enacted alien exclusion act, department of justice officials today announced a new drive against radicalism. Orders have been issued to officials for a strict watch on the activities of those preaching radicalism and assisting in spreading theories while they refrain from actual anarchist activities themselves.

Sabotage in this connection is construed by the department to mean "opposition to the administration of the government." Aliens who publish writings against organized government, even though the United States is excepted, are liable to deportation.

The financial resources of radical associations are being carefully scrutinized. Officials declare it is thought the income of many will be cut off by the new law, which prohibits giving or lending money to anarchistic organizations, and it is believed that the purchase of Red bonds comes within this category.

LABOR PARTY GIVES OUT PROGRAM FOR JULY CONVENTION

CHICAGO, June 22.—The program of the convention of the Labor party of the United States, to be held in Chicago July 13, announced by Secretary Frank J. Esper.

The first day, Sunday, will be given over to hearing addresses from various organizations. These include the Friends of Freedom for India, the Proportional Representation League, and the American Friends of Irish Freedom.

The opening session Sunday will be called to order at 10 a. m. Max S. Hayes, of Cleveland, chairman of the national Labor party, will preside. The convention will be held at the Street Car Men's auditorium.

The convention will get into business on Monday morning. Seating of delegates will be compelled and reports from chairman, secretary and treasurer heard.

Nominations for president and vice-president are scheduled for Tuesday if the convention is then ready to act. Platform is also to be adopted then.

E. J. RICHEY WAS WELL LOVED TEXAS EDUCATOR

AUSTIN, June 22.—"Perhaps there was no better known educator in Texas nor none better loved," said Miss Annie Webb Blanton, state superintendent of public instruction, commenting upon the recent death of E. J. Richey, a member of the state board of legal examiners.

Born in Virginia nearly seventy years ago, he came to Texas in his youth and was for many years superintendent of the schools of Burnet. Upon Miss Blanton's election he was appointed to his position with the state department of education and held this place until his death.

ORIENT LOAN PETITION GOES TO FINANCE OFFICER

FORT WORTH, June 22.—According to word received here today, the Orient railroad application for a rehabilitating loan has been referred to Colonel W. A. Colston, director of the bureau of finance of the Interstate Commerce Commission. The original petition was presented to the commission as a whole.

KANSAS CITY, June 22.—Burriss A. Jenkins, clergyman, and publisher of the Kansas City Post, issued a positive statement today that the name of W. G. McAdoo will be placed in nomination before the Democratic convention whether McAdoo consents or not.

"Whether I nominate Mr. McAdoo or whether someone else does," said Jenkins, "this much is certain: His name will be placed in nomination at San Francisco."

SAN FRANCISCO, June 22.—while hotel lobbies today began to take on the appearance incident to a national political convention, there are only a few Democratic chiefs here. Much discussion is in progress as to the elements to be involved in shaping the party platform and there is strikingly little talk about candidates.

Out of the talk today came the increasing rumble of wet and dry movements. It is clearly indicated that leaders look for a fight on the convention floor over the efforts to make the Democratic platform advocate a modification of the prohibition law through a beer plank.

Committee Asks Popular Support Of Legion's Band

To the Citizens of Ranger: We are now possessed of a really musical organization in the American Legion band. Such a band is a serious necessity to the city. It has so far received no practical support from the city, but has depended solely upon its membership for its existence.

Subscriptions may be sent to the Editor of the Ranger Times, who has kindly accepted this trust. This is no charity, but the filling of a public need by popular action.

BUTLER IS SORRY FOR BAWLING OUT WOOD AT CHICAGO

CINCINNATI, June 22.—William Cooper Proctor made public a telegram of apology received from Nicholas Murray Butler, sent in answer to Proctor's demand that Butler's activities be accurately quoted in a published statement in which he was purported to have declared that gamblers and the stock market backers for the Republican presidential nomination, Butler's telegram said: "I am convinced that my words were spoken under the strain, turmoil and fatigue of the Chicago convention and in the sharp revolt against the power of money in politics and were both unbecoming and unwarranted and that I should and do apologize to each and every one hurt by what I said."

FEW TEXAS BRAKES JOIN IN WALKOUT

HOUSTON, June 22.—Less than a hundred switchmen, mostly from the Southern Pacific, are "on vacation" today as the best of the activities of the Switchmen Yard association. All regular freight and passenger trains are moving with full crew, railroad officials declared.

At the Leading Amusement Houses TODAY

LIBERTY—Riders of the Dawn.
LONE STAR—"When Men Betray"
LAMB—Alice Lake in "Shore Acres"
TEMPLE—"Don't Change Your Husband."
OPERA HOUSE—Five acts of Big Time Vaudeville; also Bessie Barriscale in "The Lack of Geraldine Laird."
HIPPODROME—Pantages Vaudeville, five big acts; also "Hands Up!"

HIPPODROME

Two acts deserve special mention in an exceptionally good vaudeville program at the Hippodrome theatre. The offerings are on the Pantages circuit and will be shown today and tomorrow.
 "A Day at Ellis Island," featuring Maurice Samuels as an Italian, is very appealing. The humor is of the elusive type which sticks longest in the memory. Dialogue, fine violin music, and good character delineation abound in the sketch.
 "Julnar of the Sea," a dance extravaganza taken from the Arabian Nights, is cast in an oriental setting. The scenic effects are costly and beautiful and the dances very interesting.
 The other three acts of vaudeville are well worth seeing. A five reel picture completes the bill.

Life Guard For Shamrock Plunge Starts Classes

Sam Mann, life guard at Shamrock Plunge, whose ability along that line was fully demonstrated last Friday, when he brought out and resuscitated a young woman who incautiously had ventured into deep water, has started swimming and diving classes for the patrons of the Shamrock Plunge.
 The classes will be held daily, from 2 to 4 p. m. Rates are reasonable.

Mr. Mann has a record of having served as life guard and instructor at Euclid beach and Luna Park, both in Cleveland, at Halifax, Nova Scotia, and at Chicago beach. Besides holding high dive records, he is skilled in the practice and instruction of the crawl, freestyle and improved swimming strokes, as well as in straight and fancy diving.

Recently, he inquired if the high dive was still an event in the Olympic, as part of the swimming and diving program. If so, he wished to qualify in the try-outs at New Orleans. Mr. Mann has made a mark of 107 feet. The world's record is 114. He expressed a willingness to go any height to 150 feet, if necessary to qualify.

When swimmers of Shamrock Plunge perfect an organization, a Shamrock team will exchange dates with the skilled team from the Cascade Plunge at Dallas. The Dallas swimmers and divers, several of whom hold records, will come to Ranger for a competition and the Shamrock team will play a return engagement, at Dallas.

MOTOR TRUCK CONFERENCE.

CHICAGO, June 22.—A conference to consider problems of motor truck transport between cities and other phases of commercial hauling has been called here June 26 and 27. Cartage companies are invited. The call is sent out from the Detroit Transportation association, which says that the development of local and inter-city transport has reached a stage where a national organization in the commercial hauling field has become necessary.

Everybody invited to the Come "C" supper party to be given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. Mills Davernport on Thursday evening, from 7 to 11 o'clock. Benefit Methodist church fund.
 There will be music and games and a good time for all.—Adv.

Lubrication World Edition Gives City Special Publicity

By GEORGE D. WILCOX, Commander Fighting Journalists.
 Exploiting Ranger and the vast oil fields contributing to her rapid growth is being accomplished by members of the Fighting Journalists, A. E. F., who visited this city last month and took to their respective journals throughout the country, the story of Ranger's rise to fame.

According to latest reports, member of the war writers' organization were so impressed by their visit to the Ranger district they are contemplating reams of paper to tell millions about this section of resourceful Texas.
 A number of the scribes have signified a strong desire to settle here. Among those who have already returned are Mr. and Mrs. Eugene O'Brien of the Fox Film News, New York, now publicity manager of the Breckenridge district. C. V. Barrow of the San Antonio Express, now with the Fort Worth Record; Jack Coons of the Cincinnati Enquirer, now in Cisco.

P. V. Doyle of the Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph, and Dustin Lacey of the Boston Herald, are making arrangements to return.
 Aside from numerous stories of Ranger being published in the daily and Sunday metropolitan papers, from Massachusetts to Seattle, Colonel Frank G. Bolles, of The Lubrication World, and vice-commander of the Fighting Journalists, is preparing a special issue of his magazine with some 200,000 circulation, devoted entirely to the Texas oil fields, in which the Ranger fields figure most prominently. The colonel was a busy "scout" on his last visit here, talking with "everybody in town."
 A prospectus covering the special issue of Lubrication World has been received here, in which a large cut of the Ranger Chamber of Commerce is the only picture.

ADD UNUSUAL VARIETIES "THEOCRATIC ZIONISTS"

By Associated Press.
 ZION CITY, Ill., June 22.—Among the many parties of presidential year one of the most unusual is the Theocratic party of Zion City. It has the political platform adopted by this city.

The Theocratic party's platform was recently read by City Clerk Alvin Marshall at a meeting of the city council. The mayor and aldermen for the five wards were present, and the ceremony was regarded by those present as very impressive. The platform was adopted unanimously.

The party motto is set forth in the third of the five planks:
 "We declare the motto of our party to be the unalterable and unassailable truth that 'Where God rules, man prospers.'"

RANGER ARCHITECT RELEASES PLANS OF STRAWN BUILDING

W. T. Clements, manager of the local branch of the David S. Castle architectural firm, has released plans for a two-story office building to be built for J. N. Stewart & Sons at Strawn. The building has a floor space of 28,900 feet and is to cost $300,000.

Mr. Clements returned last night from Strawn where he arranged final details of the acceptance of the plans. From the Ranger office this firm has plans for buildings in the course of erection in nearly every town of importance in the Ranger oil fields.

COTTON CHOPPERS MUST HAVE BRIGHT LIGHT LIFE

DALLAS, June 22.—Farmers of Texas are going back to the one-man method of cultivating their land because of the scarcity of labor, according to Schuyler Marshall, who has 1,252 acres in cotton this year near Mesquite.

Mr. Marshall said that he and many other farmers in the vicinity of Dallas are motoring into the city every morning to gather hands to chop their cotton. He said he is paying $3 a day for any kind of help he can find, white, black, crippled or robust. He gets the workmen, and women, to the field about 8 o'clock in the morning, allows them an hour for lunch, and has to leave the field at 6 p. m. to get his hands back to the city by the time the bright lights begin to shine.

"Henry, hadn't you ought to have something around you to go motoring at night?"
 Lizzie: Haven't you anything with you?—Stanford Chaparral.

SCRAMBLED MEXICO CONSIDERS PROGRAM TO RESTORE ORDER

By Associated Press.
 MEXICO CITY, June 22.—Restoration of the constitutional government in states where there has been interrupted reform of electoral laws and the common law judicial system, modification of the labor laws to protect capitalists and labor, and rehabilitation of the education system were recommended to the Mexican legislature in a message read by Provisional President Huerta at the opening of the extraordinary session today.

Train service between Mexico City and Vera Cruz was resumed today after a suspension of three weeks. The foreign relations secretary was informed that steamship service between Spanish and Mexican ports is suspended on account of the bubonic plague.

JOHN-A-DREAMS

YOUR SLEEP.

The old, the Biblical belief, that snakes are creatures of evil and treachery applies, with a few exceptions, to dreams of serpents. It is a peculiar fact that such visions are usually connected with episodes that transpire on water; the most frequent of them being the sight of a snake wriggling after a boat.

Parting waves and swimming, lashing with furious tail the placid lake, there followed the youthful creature. In the boat's moonlight-softened wake.

Dreams of this sort, unless distinguished by other and more dominant characteristics, usually mean that the sleeper will have a narrow escape from serious trouble, and may even have to resort to stringent measures in order to avoid being caught in the meshes of adverse fate. If the snake reaches the boat and manages to get over its side, the danger is doubly great, for, on the other hand, it is finally lost sight of, the cloud will pass over without harm to any one.

To be bitten by a snake means treachery on the part of one of the opposite sex. If the wound bleeds, there will be no scandal. If no sign of gore shows, the disagreement will transpire under cover, with the resentment of worrying the dreamer that others may hear of it. If a snake winds itself around arm or leg, you will come under the domination of an influence neither pleasant nor pure.

The dreamer who tries to disengage himself or herself from the grip of a serpent, may count upon the good fortune of being able to throw off dangers, to avoid such peril attacks, and to come victoriously out of any struggle. This holds good whether the dreamer succeeds or not. The very act of struggle against the deadly grip, spells success.

A nest of snakes means a group of evil counselors. A snake cut in half is a sign of poverty's end and the beginning of riches. To catch and hold a snake is considered a good omen, because it shows that evil can be controlled and made harmless. Likewise does a dead snake signify happy, carefree days, with all annoyances out of the way.

A snake in bed signifies the falsest of all false lovers. On your table, it is a sign of supposed friends in the house that are your enemies. If a snake p urines you, your virtue, your honor, your morals are in danger and if, as occurred in a recent dream of one of my readers, you fire into a tree, (to climb a hill), you will be able to show up the traitor in his or her true colors.

If you walk along peacefully, and a snake, or several, suddenly appear before you, you will be asked to do a humiliating wrong, degrading thing. The rest of your dreams will in all likelihood interpret itself, if you start from this point. You will meet the undignified proposal in exactly the same manner in which you acted when the dream-reptile hove into sight.

The worst dream in this class is one in which you find yourself petting, or carrying a snake. I hope none of my readers will have this dream—for it signifies familiarity with vice, complaisance in its presence, willingness to let it enter your life.

HOMEBUILDERS, NEBRASKA STATE WORK IN SUMMER

Fargo, N. D., June 22.—The Home Builders association, a part of the Non-partisan League industrial program, put into effect by enactment of the January legislature, expects to begin erecting homes this summer.

The home builders law permits the to erect a home for any man upon payment of 20 percent of the cost, the balance to be paid in monthly installments fixed to suit the purchaser.

E. R. Lillard, special representative of the state industrial commission, says that 52 dwellings will be built and ready for occupancy no later than the first of next September, building materials, he says, are now in transit.

Twenty of the houses to be erected by the state will be put up in Fargo and eight each in Grand Forks, Mandan, New Rockford and Bismark.

The houses are to be of five to eight rooms each and to cost from $4,000 to $7,000.

Millions for a New Stomach

One of the greatest American millionaires said to his physician, "A million dollars, Doctor, spot cash and no grumbling, for a new stomach," and then the sick man groaned and turned away. All his wealth could not make him happy or contented, for happiness largely depends upon digestion. Without health where does happiness come in? After all the stomach plays a great part in everyday life. Without a healthy stomach and good digestion our blood is thin, watery and poor, our heart action is weak, our liver does not do its duty, and man is miserable and unhappy. Prevent disease by putting the house in order and strengthening the system against the germs of disease.

Dr. Pierce, of the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, at Buffalo, N. Y., years ago understood diseases and their prevention, and he discovered certain roots and herbs which were nature's remedies, and succeeded in putting them up in a form that could be easily procured at the drug store (liquid or tablets). This he called Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. This Discovery gives no false stimulation because it contains no alcohol or any narcotic. It helps digestion and the assimilation of such elements in the food as are required for the blood. It gives to the blood the food elements the tissues require. For over fifty years it has enjoyed the confidence of the American public. Try it now!

NINETEEN YEAR OLD WIFE CHARGED WITH KILLING HER HUSBAND

LOUISVILLE, Ky.—Arrest of Mrs. Rosa Adeock, charged with murder of her husband, James Adeock, opens circumstances surrounding the shooting of Adeock here on May 31 last, after which the coroner's jury held that he had killed himself. Besides Mrs. Adeock, a nineteen-year-old girl, the police arrested Mrs. Grace Jeffries, her sister, and Newton Sloan, her father, charged with being accessories.

The police, in arresting the trio, acted after a careful investigation which, they said, included testimony by neighbors that Mrs. Adeock shot her husband during a quarrel. It also was said, the police declared, that Sloan struck Adeock with his fist and then threw stones at him when he ran from the Adeock home after being shot.

Adeock died two days later after stating that he had shot himself. Neighbors, however, said, according to the police, that they overheard Adeock plead while running through the street to not let her "shoot me again." Mrs. Adeock is said to have followed her husband into the street where Sloan took a revolver from her.

The three who were arrested declined to discuss the charge against them.

SOCIALIST HAD HIGH PLACE IN HEART OF KING

ROME, June 1.—(By Mail.)—Leonida Bissolati, the leader of the reformist socialists who has just died, was a friend of King Victor Emmanuel of Italy, notwithstanding his socialistic ideas. A story told the king illustrates this.

When Bissolati, in 1913, was a candidate for the chamber of deputies from that part of Rome in which the king's palace is located, Victor Emmanuel allowed it to be understood that he would be pleased if the socialist was elected. One of the king's personal attendants, however, refused to vote for one who seemed to him subversive and anti-monarchical in his doctrines.

On election day, the king asked his attendant, according to the story: "Well, did you vote for a candidate today?"

"No, your majesty," replied this hard-shell conservative, "I could not bring myself to vote for my socialist."

There was silence for a minute or two and then King Victor said: "I will bet you cannot tell me who are my three enemies. They are first of all the Austrians, then the clerical fanatics for temporal power and the monarchists."

Little Benny's

If it wasn't for summer there would be only 3 seasons instead of 4, and there would be 1-4 less variety about the weather.

Summer comes but once a year And we wait 8 months to get it. And some of the people that wanted it most

Are some of the first to regret it. Berds start to fly back in the spring so as to get here in plenty of time for summer, knowing well its spring by their instinct, proving that if our instincts was good enuf we wouldnt need any callenders.

Summer comes but once a year O hark to that bee buzzin! If just one bee can do all that, Imagine half a duzzin!

A good place to be in summer is the country, on account of the wind having more room to blow there. The country would be a more ideal place than wat it is, if it had more city life and less tourists.

Summer comes but once a year Just smell the pritty flowers And be as gratefull as you can For your perfect smellin powers. Education is a grate thing but it don't make hardly anybody sad to think there ain't any school in summer.

"No," said the old man sternly, "I will not do it. Never have I sold anything by false representations, and I will not begin now."

For a moment he was silent, and the clerk could see that the better nature of his employer was fighting strongly for the right.

"No," said the old man again, "I will not do it. It is an inferior grade of shoe, and I will never pass it off as anything better. Mark it 'A Shoe Fit for a Queen,' and put it in the window. A Queen doesn't have to do much walking."—London Tid-Bits.

WAR HEROES ARE TO BE GIVEN PARTY BY ENGLISH KING

By Associated Press

LONDON, June 3.—(By Mail.)—King George has decided to entertain the holders of the Victoria Cross, Britain's highest war honor, at a garden party at Buckingham Palace. The date is not yet fixed.

Each recipient will probably be invised to take one or more members of his family with him. The guests will include all those surviving to whom Victoria Crosses were awarded in previous years.

At present there are about 117 surviving who received the cross before the last war and since August, 1914, 580 further awards have been made. Only about half of these are now living, so it is expected that the attendance at the coming event will be approximately 400.

MAKING MUDDHOLES INTO HISTORY.

With the horrible mudhole at Marston and Main converted into history, concrete laid past the site of the old post-office, pavement on Marston to Pine, concrete on Pine to Rusk and grading well along on Rusk and Austin streets south, the city street improvement program is moving along well enough. As soon as the brick arrives, it will be laid. Meantime, grading and concrete work keeps ahead of schedule.

One or two eye-sores remain. The concrete dip on Austin street, north, which is a raging flood with every hard rain, stays a mudhole in bright weather because there is no drainage for it. Its condition now is better than usual, as workers cleaned out a small ditch for it after the last shower.

If the dip system of drainage is successful, full outlet for the water that must pass thru it in a storm must be provided. There are many who oppose the use of dips in preference to culverts. The theory is that the dip construction is less expensive, less liable to washouts and although the dip may be closed to traffic during a downpour, as soon as the rain is over, the water runs away and the street is clear again. Never since the first rain after the opening of the Austin street paving has that dip been free of water, mud and flood litter.

On Lamar street, a block that carries most of the heavy Strawn road traffic and all the travel to and from the business district and the residence additions east, is a pool for a week after every heavy rain. Grading will put this block in condition to withstand rainfall. It is just now getting in shape so that traffic may venture into it with no fear as to its depths. In a few days of fair weather it will be ready to work and the city may take up grading that was started during the last dry days.

The city grader is at work on a stretch of good road, when worked—the Sinclair highway north. It has been in need of attention and it was a part of the city's agreement to keep it up.

When that work is completed, the blocks east of the tracks deserve immediate attention.

TOO MANY CONFERENCES.

Business today, public and private, is suffering from a surfeit of conferences, complains an old-time business man. In confirmation of his theory he offers his experience in trying to get into communication with other business men who have the "conference habit," and the difficulties he met in his attempts.

The complainant does not deny the value of the conference when it is confined to the discussion of necessary business, and results in action for the betterment of the individual concern and improvement in its relations with other firms. But he has been doing a little quiet investigating, and believes that consciously or unconsciously the conference staged to accelerate business is too often used as an excuse for neglecting it.

In his condemnation of malignant conferences he includes the various departments in Washington. The capital, he believes, spends so much time conferring that it has none left for action. The majority of the people will agree with him.

Reform is needed all along the line, from the national government to the private household. The conference may be all right as a means of interchange of ideas, but when it comes to getting things done there is a little motto which beats it to a frazzle. It is: "Don't talk—work!"

CHIC OUTFIT OF HAT, FROCK AND COAT TO MATCH

Here is a very chic outfit made of tan silk. There is a smart straight line frock, a loose coat made on graceful lines and a large brimmed, large crowned hat all harmoniously trimmed with applicable designs of colored fruit and flowers. The coat is lined with a pretty shade of green silk, making it convertible and a charming wrap whichever side is worn out.

There's many a "private stock" in the attic that's worth more than the one in the cellar. It's the stock of old clothes that a little attention would make wearable.

Sugar doesn't cost so much as booze did, and does, at that. And in a general way it serves the same purpose.

Whatever may have been the moral defects of that California man who married twenty-three wives, he certainly had courage.

MR. AND MRS. BADGER COME FACE TO FACE.

Tinker Bob was still on the roof of the palace watching the actions of Mr. and Mrs. Badger. It was all very interesting. Now the fact that Tim the Ground Squirrel had made his escape without Mr. Badger knowing it, made it more interesting still.

Mr. Badger was very angry to think that Sammy the Tree Squirrel had nipped him on the tail, and he was after him as fast as he could go. Of course, there was little use in his running after him at all because he could never catch Sammy, for this young Tree Squirrel was too fast; and then Mr. Badger was not much on climbing trees anyway.

"If I catch you I'll eat you alive," cried Mr. Badger in anger.

"All right," answered Sammy, "but don't eat me alive 'til you catch me." Then Sammy laughed at the slow Mr. Badger.

"I'll fool you! I may not catch you now, but when you are not thinking about it I will get you, and then you'll laugh another way." Indeed, Sammy would laugh another way if Mr. Badger ever caught him, but up the tree he ran and was soon out of danger, leaving his enemy to take his anger out on someone else.

As long as no one was being harmed, Tinker Bob, the King of the Forest, remained silent to see what further might happen. Mrs. Badger was digging with all her might, for she still thought Tim was in his den and they would soon reach him. Of course she did not know what happened to Mr. Badger.

When Mr. Badger found that it was impossible to catch Sammy, he returned to the place where he had been digging at the front door of Tim's house. He began to dig again, but he thought it strange that Tim did not throw any more dirt in his face.

"Maybe Mrs. Badger has captured him and is waiting for me," said he to himself. But he kept right on digging for fear he might be mistaken about Tim being captured.

As Tim the Ground Squirrel was on his way to a new hiding place he met his friend, George the Black Snake. Says he, "George, Mr. and Mrs. Badger have driven me out of my house. One of them is at my front door and the other at the back door."

George thrust his fiery tongue out a few times and said, "Hiss, hiss! Why let me have your house if I can drive the badgers away?"

"Sure, you can have it," answered Tim. "It will never do for me to live in it again, and I'd like to see some one else drive those fellows away from the Forest."

George the black Snake started on his way to the house that Tim built. In the meantime, Mr. and Mrs. Badger had been digging steadily, while Tinker Bob was watching closely. And just before George arrived, what do you think happened? Well, Mr. and Mrs. Badger came face to face in the middle of Tim's house—but Tim was not there!

The Woman Who Saw

Pulling Her Leg.

The Woman had just read Compton Mackenzie's "Poor Relations" and enjoyed the hero's many skirmishes with his "in-laws," and with her mind still dwelling on the book, was treated to a further "relation" grievance of a decidedly unique nature. She was the guest at a little Thursday Afternoon club, where a few young matrons gathered to knit and sew—and talk. But first they conscientiously discussed "Topics of the Day," with much originality. "Yousee," confided a thin, worried-looking brunette, "one does get so rusty without something of the sort." And the Woman amiably agreed that "one does."

Then at last they dropped into their natural environment, talking on all the subjects close to their hearts, and all at once. Fashions, H. C. L. in general, sugar in particular, were brought up, and finally the mother-in-law question got its inning. These young matrons all seemed kindly disposed toward this much maligned class.

A demurely pretty blonde critically inspected a half-knitted sweater of a delectable rosy color. "Jack's mother isn't my problem," she sighed. "It's my own aunt. Twice a year she makes us a visit and I'm exactly half dead when she goes home. I weigh if I live to be 65 years old, I'll never want to stir outside my own house. Aunty never seems to be happy unless she tries to go everywhere, and of course, it's up to me to take her."

The speed at which her needles flew indicated the little blonde's mental disturbance, as she further relieved her spirit. "But all the rest is a mere nothing compared with aunt's knee trouble. Every little while the joints slip a cog or something, and I have to pilot her to the nearest doorway or semi-secluded spot and pull her legs until the knee joints go back where they belong." The speaker glared at her listeners as though daring them to laugh; which they all proceeded to do, frankly and hilariously, without even a murmur of sympathy; their remarks savoring of genuine joy at the tale.

"Don't be so tragic, Alice," giggled a venturesome friend. "I'd give a month's allowance to see you in one of your doorways doing the Good Samaritan act to aunt's poor knees." "You certainly are a sympathetic bunch," pouted the blonde sufferer. "I'm glad someone thinks it funny," she added crushingly. "I do not. Aunt has killed all my humor."

Not His to Reason Why.

While the Woman was having tea with a certain delightful professor and his wife the bell rang, and the professor went to the door. A feminine voice was heard, and he ushered someone into his study, adjoining the room where the tea party had gathered.

"A fond parent; commencement time, you see," murmured Mrs. M., and then she smothered a laugh, for the first sentence from the other room was: "I know you will be interested, because anyone in educational work must want to increase his income."

"Er—excuse me," mildly interrupted the professor. "I am sure it is my wife you want to see."

"No, indeed," answered the visitor emphatically. "It's the man of the family I wish to present this thing to. Women attend investments of this kind, you see, the company."

Once more the professor tried to get in a word: "Really, you know, my wife—"

But his quiet courtesy could not stem the tide. So he listened patiently until the first opportunity was given for comment or question, and then remarked: "But, my dear young lady, won't you please allow me to tell you that it is really my wife who attends to our investments. You see she has a position with the Trust company." A moment later he was able to join in the gale of laughter around the tea table.

In a quandary.

Salvatore, that sunny-faced child of Italy, with an infinite capacity for devising ingenious forms of mischief in the school room, will, according to the prediction of the Woman, who is kept well informed of his exploits by a school teacher friend in New Jersey, grow up to be either a crook or a diplomat.

Last week, after a series of carefully devised deprivations and punishments had failed to curb him, Teacher decided upon new tactics, and accordingly summoned Salvatore to her desk for a heart to heart conference, which ended with tears on the part of the pupil and the gift of a cake of sweet chocolate on the part of the teacher.

The heart to heart session was not devoid of result. The next day Salvatore edged up to her desk and placed a white, newly-laid egg thereupon. "Here's a present for you, Teacher," he said, nonchalantly, as he slouched away.

Now a new-laid egg, fresh from the nest, was a pleasant if dim memory to Teacher, and her thanks were in accordance with that memory. The gifts continued and her indebtedness to Salvatore increased. So one day she remonstrated with him.

"Your mother ought not to send me all these eggs," she dissuaded, thinking of the market quotations which she had seen that morning.

"Oh, she don't use many eggs," Salvatore assured her airily.

Two days later Angelo, Salvatore's neighbor and classmate, raised his hand and asked permission to speak to her. The permission granted, he leaned over her desk and whispered, "Say, teacher," he breathed, "those eggs that Salvatore brings you—he steals them off'n the hens. His mother wonders to my mother why the hens don't lay." The last sentence was uttered in a triumphant crescendo, as though by one stroke he had paid off all outstanding scores against Salvatore.

What shall the Teacher do? Shall she obey that adage about not looking a gift horse in the mouth and continue to enjoy her daily soft-boiled egg, or shall she impugn the honesty of the cherubic-faced Salvatore and take up the matter with mother?

Pertinent.

In her many wanderings the Woman has discovered that the section between Fortieth and Forty-fifth streets in the early hours of the afternoon, when theatregoers are matineward, is perhaps the most fascinating of her bailiwicks. She was picking her way down one of the traffic-infested streets in this section and as she came to Broadway she hesitated and watched for the signal denoting a clear passage. An apparent out-of-towner, theatre bound, started to cross the street, obviously unconcerned about the traffic regulations. Then came a sharp scream, and the Woman looked up to see that the out-of-towner visitor had been knocked down by a hurrying taxi.

The crowd rushed to the scene, the Woman arriving just in time to hear the victim, fortunately unharmed, tell the policeman: "No, officer, it was all my fault. I should have paid more attention to where I was going."

Then the harassed taxi driver said his say: "That's all right, lady, but if you'd a-been killed who the hell would have lived to tell the cop that!"

REST AWHILE.
I hold by the advice of the Divine Master who told His disciples to go a-fishing, and said to them when they were weary, "come ye yourselves apart in a desert and rest awhile." I remember the unconquerable French Poilus I saw in their dugouts playing cards and in the citadel of Verdun enjoying merry vauville shows. I recall the soldiers whom I saw deliberately fishing on the banks of the Marne and the Meuse while the guns roared around us. I remember Theodore Roosevelt (no slacker) who when-ever the chance came rejoiced to go a-hunting, and to tell about it afterwards. I believe that the most serious men are not the most solemn. I believe that a normal human being needs relaxation and pleasure to keep him from strained nerves and a temper of fanatical insanity. I believe that the new Social State, whatever it may be, will not endure, nor be worth preserving, unless it has room within it for simple play, and pure fun, and uncommercial joy, and free, wholesome recreation.

Thracian Benefits Of French Rule As Boost For Mandate

By Associated Press
ADRIANOPLE, June 22.—The French administration, accompanied by a small army of occupation in Western Thrace, is being pointed to here as an example of the benefits a mandate would accomplish under the League of Nations.

The French civil administration began its work in the latter part of last November, and into a country full of warring bands of various nationalities, it has brought peace and order, permitted the planting of crops, and the normal pre-war life of the country to be pursued.

When the French took over the country every man's hand was raised against the other. Alarmist rumors about the arrival of the British and Greek, Bulgarian and Turkish troops were circulated frequently. The French took over the Bulgarian administration, and for the most part the Bulgarian civilian employees, who in the French found efficient. In order to insure the honesty of these officials, the French have adopted the system in many localities, where the Greeks are in majority, of putting alongside of a Greek chief official, a Bulgarian secretary and vice versa in localities where the Turks or the Greeks are in majority.

The French have in all, including constabulary, not more than 500 of their own chief administrators. These are generally officers detailed from the army who have had experience in the French colonies. Thus with the skeleton French staff, the French have been able to obtain a reasonable efficiency.

When the French came they had 1,500,000 francs put at their disposal by their government, administrative expenses but so far they have not spent one franc of this sum. They immediately levied indirect taxes and for the period they have been in the country these have been practically double the expenses of the civil administration.

Public order has been so easily maintained that in the district of Karagatch only three French gendarmes, each with twelve local men under him, were required.

According to the French, the country would be reasonably prosperous, in view of its fertile soil, if order were maintained and the various nationalities were prevented from fighting.

SECRET SERVICE MAN FINDS WHERE SING SING IS

OSHING, N. Y., June 22.—To a Mr. Seward, a secret service agent, was handed in New York a letter, the contents of which, it was thought, might aid in running down a criminal the department of justice was seeking. The return address on the back of the letter read "354 Hunter street, Ossining."

The secret service man called at that address and to his surprise found it to be Sing Sing prison, from whose 1,400 inmates he is sure he would not obtain the desired information. Seward did not tell the return what was in the letter.

COOK COUNTY MEN PLAN U. S. LARGEST ZOOLOGICAL GARDEN

By Associated Press
CHICAGO, June 22.—Three commissioners of the forest preserve of Cook county are to leave tomorrow for the east and Canada to develop plans for one of the largest zoological gardens in the country. This is the new Chicago zoo recently set under way by a gift of 300 acres from Mrs. Harold McCormick, a daughter of John D. Rockefeller.

The tract is wooded land situated between the Des Plaines river and Salt Creek on the southwest of Chicago. It is just northeast of La Grange, and 39th street extended would run into it. It is accessible but the forest preserve commissioners hope to make it more so.

The gardens make an important addition to the many acres of wooded land that are being set aside for the public in the country around Chicago. The forest preserve district has already acquired 17,000 acres, extending from the north to the south of the city. It is trying to get hold of all the remaining wooded tracts in the country and eventually hopes to hold upwards of 30,000 acres. The commissioners leaving here tomorrow go to Cincinnati, Washington, Philadelphia and New York to inspect zoological work in those cities. The party is to return by way of Montreal and Ottawa. At the Canadian capital it will interview the authorities with a view to procuring animals and birds from the noted game preserve of the north.

Harold F. McCormick is a member of the McCormick harvester family. He and Mrs. McCormick were in Switzerland when Mrs. McCormick tendered the land to the forest preserve districts. She gave the name to the gardens.

FORMER PRESIDENT'S HOME NOW OHIO STATE BANK

Fremont, Ohio, June 22.—Spiegel Grove, the home of President Rutherford B. Hayes, is now a state park and has been placed under control of the Ohio Archaeological and Historical Society. The property comprises five acres of virgin timber surrounding the beautiful Hayes mansion.

Col. Webb C. Hayes, son of the former president, who acquired the property from the other heirs following his father's death, made the gift, and a deed conveying the property to the state has been filed for record.

Mrs. Bettie Chism Tells How Cuticura Healed Grandson

"My little grandson broke out in small waterlike pimples all over his body and later they developed into large eruptions. The itching and burning caused him to scratch and he could hardly bear his clothing on him. He could not sleep at night and he was very cross and fretful."

"He had been in this condition for about three weeks so I decided to try Cuticura Soap and Ointment. He began getting relief and after using two full-sized cakes of Cuticura Soap and one full-sized box of Cuticura Ointment, he was healed."

(Signed) Mrs. Bettie Chism, Battletown, Ky., July 30, 1919.

Daily use of Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Talcum usually prevent skin troubles.

Sample Each Free by Mail. Address: "Cuticura Laboratories, Dept. R, Malden, Mass." Sold every where. Soap 25c, Ointment 1.25 and 50c, Talcum 25c. Cuticura Soap shaves without mug.

Takes Tanlac On Advice of Son-In-Law And Started
Working On Farm After Taking Third Bottle.

"Another well-known Villa Rica, Georgia, farmer to come forward with a strong statement as to the remarkable merits of Tanlac as a medicine is Robert H. Cooper, who is one of the oldest residents of that locality and who recently made the following statement:

"I don't believe I had to take a thimbleful of medicine in all my sixty-six years until a year ago, when I had a very serious illness and was laid up in bed for fourteen weeks with catarrh of the throat and stomach. I wasn't able to eat a thing scarcely and got as weak as a kitten. I was so nervous that I used to shake like a leaf at the least little thing. I got the best advice I could and took various medicines, but it was all to no purpose and I never thought I should pull through.

"Then my son-in-law, Arthur Henslee, got me to taking Tanlac. He's always recommending it to people because it did so much for his wife. Well, it just seemed as though that medicine had been made specially for me. Every dose of it seemed to do me good and before I had finished the third bottle it had put me back into such good shape that I was back at work on the farm and able to do a day's work with anybody. I now eat as hearty as you please, my nerves are steady and strong and I feel more like a boy of sixteen than man of sixty-six. I consider Tanlac the greatest medicine on earth and I don't hesitate to recommend it to everybody."

Tanlac is sold in Ranger by Phillips Bros. and in Eastland by Butler Drug Co.—Adv.

BETTER FOREWOMEN NEEDED IN INDUSTRY

By Associated Press
TOPEKA, June 22.—The need of better forewomen in industry and of improved training for the women workers was emphasized here recently by Miss Linna Bresette, secretary of the Kansas welfare commission.

"Often at present," said Miss Bresette, "there is scarcely any training for the women. An applicant frequently is taken to a department where she is given practically no instruction by the forewoman and placed on a machine. The number of new workers of this kind is not limited. I often find a large group of girls all 'green.' This means loss of production, waste of material, discouragement to workers and confusion to forewomen."

"Not long ago I visited a factory where the payroll showed a full week's wage for less than 25 per cent of the girls. Asked the reason, the foreman said, 'Oh, the girls are always changing jobs, they are never satisfied; and with that much the subject was dismissed. There must be an answer.'

"Labor turnover, absenteeism and tardiness are some of the reasons for the greatest loss in industry. In the first place the forewoman is often not instructed in her own job, and therefore does not understand the great necessity for studying all jobs carefully for making proper selection of workers for the jobs."

Miss Bresette declared a better selection of forewomen is needed—women who recognize and appreciate the human side of industry and not concentrate alone on production.

NIGHTMARE CHOKING NOT CRUEL JUDGE OPINES; DISMISSED

International News Service
CHICAGO, June 22.—Judge Jesse Holdom, in dismissing a divorce suit in the circuit court recently, handed down an official opinion of a nightmare.

Mrs. Ellen Harris, in suing her husband, William A. Harris, testified that one night while she was asleep he grabbed her by the throat "and almost killed me." It wasn't until Mr. Harris' attorney began to cross-examine her that Mrs. Harris recalled that the choking had been an incident of one of her husband's nightmares, and that he had not awakened after he'd choked her for ten minutes.

"That's not cruelty," said the judge. "That's a nightmare, and cannot be used."

Other charges were denied by Harris, and the suit was dismissed.

MCALISTER, Okla., June 22.—The two-year-old daughter of H. A. Reid, a mining engineer, was buried here the other day. The child's death came as the result of a peculiar accident.

Reid started his car suddenly while the tot was leaning against a rear door. The jar caused the door to fly open, throwing her under a rear wheel.

COUNTY JAIL EMPTY.

BELLEVILLE, Kan., June 22.—The county jail here is an empty human cage. Not a single prisoner now looks through its barred windows. The jail, which has been facing a prisoner shortage for some weeks, was entirely deserted the other day when its single remaining occupant was taken to the state penitentiary.

Stingaree's Column---

Advertisingly speaking, some fellows bind and gag themselves until they can't squeak, and not being able to squeak—no one knows they are in town.

Modesty ceases to be a virtue when it comes to being afraid to put your name and business before the public.

Awake! Awake! the day dawns fair. A business advertised is sure a bear. Shakespeare.

Women are better advertisers than men because they like to talk about themselves. At that we're for them.

A business "failure" can usually win in a tobacco spitting contest.

The reason many storekeepers never wash their windows is probably because they're afraid someone might walk through them the next day. Why they never advertise has never been answered.

A dog, sleeping peacefully in a merchants' doorway, is absolute evidence its owner never indulges in publicity.

A fellow's business indifference is what starts the smaller town citizen calling him Old Man Smith or Uncle John instead of referring to the store as The John Smith Company. Get the idea?

You may be an old timer and know the country round but this "old established" idea won't hold your trade when the right kind of an advertiser busts loose.

The fellow who moans around that his newspaper is no good for advertising is generally frozen with fear when his competitor starts using it.

A flea-bitten monkey evidences more ambition than some humans. He's always scratching around, anyway.

If you believe regular advertising is too expensive, for the sake of your business, flirt with the head clerk. At least something to start people talking and show you've got some pep left.

The only thing sadder than seeing Little Eva going to Heaven is the blood hounds of pessimism and doubt chasing the non-advertiser out of business.

BLACKWELL TEST TO SOUTH HOLDS OPERATORS' INTEREST IN LINKING UP OF POOLS

Interest of the big operators and independent producers is centered on the E. T. Blackwell of Hughes et al., located a short distance southeast of Staff, and almost midway between the outlying edges of the Desdemona and Pleasant Grove districts. The well is in strictly wildcat territory, four miles from production to the north, southeast and northwest.
The Blackwell is now drilling at about 3,350 feet, forty five feet in a hard sand. At 3,335 feet it struck ten million cubic feet of gas, but the flow quickly declined to two million. The company will drill to 3,400 and, failing to find a big natural production will plug back and shoot with 500 quarts of nitro.

YEAR TO SHOW POSSIBILITY OF DEEPEST TEST

The next year will see the belief of prominent geologists that a "mother pool" exists in the Ranger field below any strata the bit has yet tapped either verified or refuted, according to present indications. It is known that at least two large companies are considering the advisability of putting tests to a depth of 6,000 feet or more.

NEW DRILLING COMPANY STARTS ACTIVE WORK AT BRECKENRIDGE

Adventurer, Guerilla Hellion, Bandit— And Follower of Life—William James

FORT WORTH, June 22.—William Wyeth James is dead. He died as he had lived—fighting—but his boots were under his bed, tactics of defense and offense he had employed successfully against opponents for nearly a half century were not effective against old age and disease, aided by wounds inflicted by other assaults in years gone by.

Captain, lieutenant, outlaw, bandit, guerilla hellion, William Wyeth James had earned and borne all these titles while fighting under three flags and without a flag.

His stormy career was woven through the history of the early South, Europe, Africa, Australia and South America in a wild and romantic pattern that will ever defy duplication.

A cousin of Jesse James, he was born in Lower Mississippi in 1848, and remained there until he was twelve years old. Here his only companion was "Old Natch," an ancient Natchez Indian who instilled into the boy his first knowledge of woodcraft. Being considered a weakling who was adversely affected by the climate of the Mississippi bottoms he was sent to live with relatives and attend school near Independence, Ohio.

A Rifle at Fourteen.

Early in 1862, the lad, then about fourteen years old, began his career of battle by killing eight men during an attack by Jay Hawks upon his relatives' home, according to traditions.

In July of the same year he joined the ranks of Colonel Charles William Quantrell at Independence, and as one of "Quantrell's Hellions," he was outlawed by the federal general staff with orders that he should be hanged or shot as soon as captured. His capture was never accomplished.

The first federal officer who had an opportunity to carry out this order was a recruiting officer, before whom James appeared in Fort Worth during 1871 in an effort to enlist for services overseas.

Throughout the civil war he served with guerilla forces of Quantrell and took part in many of the more notorious raids of that rebel. He was cited a number of times for individual bravery and won his lieutenant's bars in this service.

After the termination of the civil war, he next appeared as a member of the notorious James band under the leadership of Jesse James, and his memoirs are filled with sentiment of hatred for Kansas. During the reconstruction days he was also credited with having hidden under the fiery cross of the Ku Klux Klan.

To Franco-Prussian War.

In 1870 he went to London, officers of the law having made his stay in America hazardous. The Franco-Prussian war attracted the attention of the young former frontiersman, and he cast his lot with the French. French warfare was new to him, and his hardships and experiences instilled a bitterness against the Germans which lasted all his life. On his death bed he recounted the deeds credited to the Germans during the late war and expressed his regret that he had been "considered too far above the draft age" to take part in the conflict.

Following the termination of the Franco-Prussian war, the call of adventure led him to Australia where he declared that fighting bushmen in company with British soldiers was much like "hunting down Indians and sneaking Kansas in the United States." A native uprising in New Zealand next received his attention, and early in 1873 he was in South Africa, still in the British uniform and under the command of Governor Johnsmore. During this campaign he was promoted to the rank of captain, but after King Cartmago surrendered he left the English service and went to South America.

Would Exist—"Too Old."

The climate of South America did not suit the rover, so in 1880 he returned to the United States, and quietly settled down in Texas. The rifle and sabre was laid aside until the appeal for men to fight in the world war came. Then the grizzled old warrior made a formal surrender to his life-long enemy, a federal officer, in hopes that he would be allowed to enter the ranks once more. His writ of surrender showed that he had been wounded three times during the civil war, and the recruiting officers quenched his hopes by saying "Too old."

After fighting around the world William Wyeth James died in a hospital bed between clean sheets, while a gentle white-clad nurse eased his departure for "the greatest adventure of life."

The inability of the Galveston police to handle the longshoremen's strike in that city resulted in a hasty call for help. The Texas state guard responded and is shown marching into the city for guard duty.

Flood Here Swims Swollen Stream To Save Train

By Associated Press

OMAHA, Neb., June 22.—In the recent South Dakota floods John Williams, a section foreman, swam a swollen creek at night in a hailstorm to warn a passenger train that a bridge had gone out. He stripped himself and tied the danger signals to his back. After he had set them, he approached a nearby house, then remembered his negligence, and swam back across the 600 feet of swirling current.

The passenger train, it developed later, was stopped farther up the road at a point where the railroad men had little hope of halting it. Williams' heroism, however, was not overlooked by the railroad officials.

The bridge was the Burlington's over Hat Creek near Ardmore, S. D. The Hat Creek flood tied up traffic for eight days, cost seven lives, and did $500,000 damage to the one road.

Several days after the flood the section foreman was looked up by a newspaper man from the city. He found him directing a gang of laborers repairing the washout.

Williams related how it had been raining throughout the previous weeks and the April blizzard had left the ground soaked, so that when the last storm came on it ran off as if from a duck's back "and old Hat Creek started on a rampage."

"I kept watching the new bridge over the creek all afternoon," Williams told his visitor, "water kept comin' up and comin' up until it reached the ties. Then I got worried for fear the bridge would go out and I went back to town and reported about it to the operator. He told the dispatcher at Alliance about it. The telephone and telegraph wires runnin' west had all gone down and we couldn't get Edgemont or anyone west of the creek. Jack Welch, the dispatcher at Alliance, talked to me over the railroad phone and asked me if I could get to the west end of the bridge across the creek, and put out a red light and some stop signals so as to hold the night passenger train, No. 42, which was due at 9 o'clock. I told him I'd try and went back to the bridge.

"When I got there again the water was clear over the top of the bridge and it looked to me like one of the steel spans had gone out. We'd tried to phone the government farm on the other side to ask them to go out and put out a red light but their phone was gone and we couldn't reach anybody.

"Well, I just figured the chances was probably against me gittin' across but it was only my life against 150 passengers on No. 42, and I figured that the train would be runnin' pretty fast when they came up to the bridge, and they might be into it before they saw it, so I walked up the creek a half mile, stripped off my clothes, tied my red lantern, red flag and torpedoes to my back, and swam across.

"There wasn't so many trees out there and she was only about 600 feet wide but the water was full of timber and cold as hell. It was rainin' to beat the band and dark as blazes. I sure felt good when I hit that fence on the other side and drug myself on the bank."

"How did you get back to Ardmore?" Williams was asked, after he had related how he placed the signals.

"Well I walked up to the government house but when I got close to the office and saw the bright lights there I remembered I didn't have no clothes on and I thought I'd make a pretty lookin' sight bustin' in on 'em like that, so I walked back up the stream and swam back."

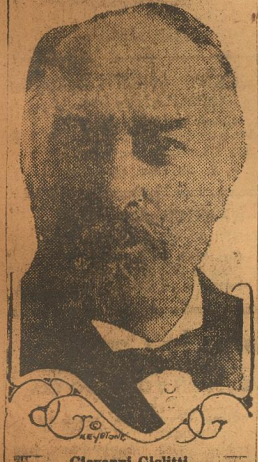

Marguerite, the four-year-old daughter of J. B. Owens, fell from the rear seat of an automobile last night at 8:30 o'clock and the car passed over the lower part of the child's chest, injuring her internally.

She was carried to the Ranger hospital, where an operation was performed by Doctors Lauderdale, Terrell and Stucki. The operation was without incident and the child was resting well today.

The accident was caused by the car hitting a hole in the road and throwing the child out of the rear seat.
