SAMMIES GIVE CAUSE FOR GAS RATE INCREASE

Commissioners Are Working Out Schedule To Be Adopted

The Sammies Oil corporation again appeared before the city commission yesterday asking that it be allowed to raise its rates for gas not only in Ranger, but in the other oil fields in the county. The plea was made at the meeting of the commission last week and at that time it was promised that it would be taken under consideration. At the meeting yesterday the commission, on the evidence furnished by the company, came to the conclusion that the gas company was entitled to raise its rates. They, however, reached no agreement as to what the raise should be and are trying to work that out today.

V. K. Sparks, general auditor of the Sammies company, from Oklahoma City, and Fred S. Dudley of Fort Worth, its attorney, in conjunction with J. B. Owens, local manager, were before the commission presenting the claims of the gas company.

It was set forth that the Sammies' oil corporation, since being granted a franchise to furnish Ranger with gas, had shown a profit of but $1,900. As an offset to this it was stated that at present the company has $7,500 in delinquent accounts.

In addition, it was stated that the company was on the eve of having to go further into the oil fields to get gas to supply the winter's demand and this it could not do unless it was allowed a rate that would justify this expansion. This expense, it was said, would have to be added to an investment that now stands in excess of $300,000.

According to a schedule worked out by the officials of the company and presented to the commission, by the new rate the company is asking, 700 domestic consumers would not be affected by the change and 300 additional domestic consumers would only have to pay an average of 50 cents more each month for gas.

The burden of the raise, they pointed out, would come on the large users of gas. The plea set forth the fact that Ranger only consumed 23,000,000 cubic feet of gas last month and 16,000,000 of this was used by large present sliding scale which starts consumers, who got the advantage of at 50 cents per 1,000 cubic feet of gas and descends to 14.72 cents per thousand. This gas, the company claims, costs 20 cents to deliver. The schedule as prepared did not meet the approval of the commissioners and they will try today to work out an increased rate that will be fair to everyone concerned.

BERLIN DOES NOT HOLD ATTRACTION FOR RURAL PEOPLE

BERLIN, June 4 (by mail).—As a center of attraction for visitors from outside, Berlin is on the wane, said Chairman Landau of the city's foreign travel bureau, which held its annual meeting here recently.

Landau stated that although in the year under review 1,389,000 strangers visited the capital, they were on the whole not the class of visitors that were desired. Berlin, he added, had become hated in the provinces and no traveler came to Berlin for pleasure. Moreover, there was an alarming exodus of industrial undertakings from Berlin.

Democratic Convention Snap-Shots

THE STORY OF 16 NOMINATIONS

By A. H. Vandenberg

THE CONVENTION OF 1908.

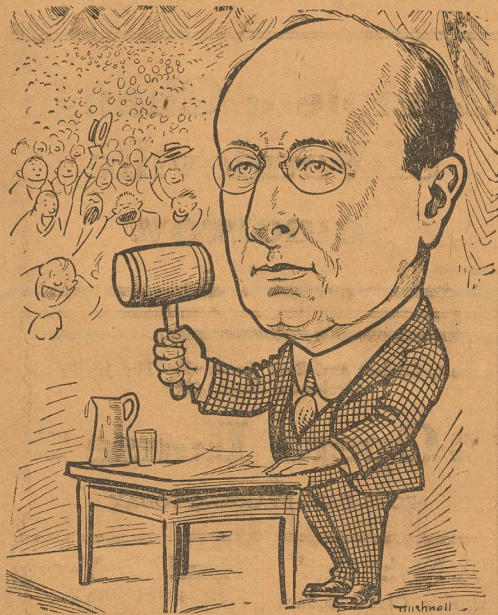

The Democratic National Convention of 1908, which assembled at Denver on July 7, was loyal to the leadership of William Jennings Bryan of Nebraska from first to last. It gave him his third nomination for the Presidency on a single ballot at 3:20 o'clock in the morning of Friday, July 10—although according to a mendacious clock on the wall facing the platform, it was still Thursday midnight. Such was the reputed concession to a superstition which sought to avoid any unlucky day. On this one ballot, Bryan's vote was 89-1-2. His only opponents were Judge George Gray of Delaware with 59-1-2 and Governor Johnson of Minnesota with 46. On motion of Minnesota, followed by Delaware and Georgia (which had also been faithful to Gray) the nomination was made unanimous.

With similar unanimous unanimity, John W. Kern of Indiana was nominated for Vice-President by acclamation after three other prospective candidates had withdrawn. In this latter tie were Charles A. Towne (formerly of Minnesota, but then of New York), Arthur M. Bryan of Georgia, and Clark Howell of Colorado. The words were full of rebuffs. Vice-President number until after the Presidential nomination was out of the way. At that point a "long distance" conference with Mr. Bryan clarified the atmosphere. The temporary chairman was Theo-

Three Men Leading Convention Affairs

EX-SPEAKER CHAMP CLARK looks cool, confident and vigorous as he does a little footwork down the avenue to keep in trim during the convention. The former Speaker is a power in party confabs and his name has been mentioned recently as a possible candidate.

HOMER S. CUMMINGS, chairman of the Democratic national committee, will make the keynote speech at the Democratic national convention. He will give to the voters of the United States their first real impression of what the Democrats are planning and of what material the platform will be composed. The construction of the platform promises to present problems as serious as those that confronted the Republicans.

SENATOR ROBERT L. OWEN of Oklahoma is the only real "American" candidate for the presidential nomination at San Francisco. He is a direct blood descendant of Calumma (the Raven), the great chief of the seven clans of the Cherokees, who reigned early in the eighteenth century.

Wage Revision For Rail Men Is Being Made

WASHINGTON, June 23.—President Wilson today sent a message to the railroad labor board at Chicago urging that it make immediate award in the wage controversy.

CHICAGO, June 23.—Judge Barton, chairman of the railroad wage board, authorized a statement today that all things possible are being done to expedite a decision in the railway wage controversy.

The board's decision revising wages of all railroad employes probably will be handed down within the next two weeks, it was understood. Barton said the impatience of railroad men is only delaying the case.

He declares the board's deliberations are being interrupted scores of times daily by delegations of railroad men asking that a date for decision be set. The board's publicity department declared the delay in reporting the decisions has nothing to do with the present statement and the board believed that strikes would continue after the wage case is settled.

The strikes are prompted by international fights for control of the railway unions and are not due primarily to dissatisfaction with wages. The wage question, it was intimated, was injected to deceive the public.

GREAT FALLS, June 23.—Speaking here last night, William Jennings Bryan declared that no candidate should be nominated by the democrats at San Francisco who stood against prohibition. Bryan leaves tomorrow for Butte where he will join the Montana delegation for San Francisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 23.—Rumblings of Democratic discord over prohibition became hourly more ominous today as delegates and party chiefs arrived in increasing numbers for the party convention.

Hope that the gathering storm may spend itself behind closed doors of the platform committee is virtually abandoned by leaders who are prepared to face a tempestuous debate on floor. Already the overshadowing issue in pre-convention conferences on prohibition took almost the entire stage today as the gathering delegates heard Postmaster General Burleson's announcement for modification of the Volstead act. By many accustomed to regard Burleson as political spokesman for the White House the development is accepted as a warning of the way administration influence will go.

LINCOLN, Neb., June 13.—Predictions that the Democratic national convention will witness fights over the peace treaty, profiteers and the liquor issue was made by William J. Bryan, in an article in his newspaper. "Chances are its arrival at the gathering of delegates without reservation. The platform will be against the profiteer and the saloon issue," he said.

WATER COMPANY DOUBLES CAPACITY OF PUMP SYSTEM

The Ranger Waterworks Company will soon have installed an additional pump of 500,000 gallons capacity at their plant at Huganum lake. It is in transit and will be installed immediately upon its arrival. The present equipment of pumps consist of two whose combined capacity is only 500,000 gallons daily. It requires each of them in constant use to maintain the present pressure in the mains. If either of them should get out of order, naturally the pressure would drop. To overcome the possibility of this happening the additional pump will be installed.

Its capacity is such that it could alone supply the water mains.

The equipment to be added with its engine will cost about $8,000.

PROFITEER HUNT IS TO CONTINUE WITH NEW VIGOR

WASHINGTON, June 23.—Application for a temporary injunction and stay in proceedings instituted by the government under the Lever act against C. A. Wax and the Saltbush Clothing company, both of New York, has been denied by the United States supreme court, department of justice officials were informed today by Associate Justice Day.

Officials declared a vigorous prosecution of violations of the Lever act would continue, as the result of this decision. While no hindrance is removed from the anti-profiteering campaign, officials said an "insurmountable obstacle" was kept from being placed in the way.

JEWEL COLLECTION WILL BE SOLD FOR CHARITY BENEFIT

PARIS, June 23.—The jewels of the late Gaby Deslys, famous French dancer and actress who died in February were placed on exhibition here today pending the sale for the benefit of the poor of Massachusetts as provided in Gaby Deslys will. The collection comprises, according to connoisseurs, the finest assortment of pearls ever seen in Paris, with many other precious stones.

Police Clean Up Cabarets, Order Of Commission

All the cabarets in the city were closed yesterday afternoon by the Chief of Police Byron Paris acting, he said, on orders of the city commission. He also declared that they would stay closed until the commission gave the order that they be allowed to open again.

Since the boom struck Ranger, this is the second time that the cabarets have been closed. The first time was several months ago when they were forced to close by a court injunction issued against them. At that time, they opened again within a day of two after the closing order.

IRISH BATTLE CONTINUES ON IN FULL FORCE

LONDONBERRY, June 23.—There was no cessation today in the battle between Unionists and Nationalists factions which has kept Londonberry terror-stricken for several days. During the night rival factions erected new barricades and kept up a continuous firing. Malcontents today are in full charge of the city and it is impossible to learn the extent of casual forces. The Irish volunteers are about to take a hand.

The military remained passive and watched the bodies of armed men march through side streets to battle positions. It is supposed that the Bryans are gathering outside the city and other Irish volunteers are about to take a hand.

Vice-President number until after the Presidential nomination was out of the way. At that point a "long distance" conference with Mr. Bryan clarified the atmosphere. The temporary chairman was Theodore A. Bell of California. The permanent chairman was H. D. Clayton of Alabama. The only friction of moment occurred in connection with the seating on contesting delegates from Pennsylvania. In this grapple between Bryan and Anti-Bryan forces, the Bryans were sustained by a two-thirds vote of the convention.

The platform adopted covered a multitude of important subjects—but is particularly interesting historically because of the fact that it did not propose "free silver." It was the first Bryan Platform to turn its back upon this monetary issue, and it was the first convention since 1896 in which Mr. Bryan did not himself insist upon "free silver's" dominion.

OILBELT ROAD SUNDAY SERVES BRECKENRIDGE

Regular freight and passenger service will be extended to Breckenridge Sunday, officials of the Wichita Falls, Ranger & Fort Worth railroad announced today. Two passenger trains daily will be run into the Stephens county seat and adequate freight service maintained. Mixed trains over the road will be discontinued.

The extension of service into Breckenridge marks the completion of the south half of the Wichita Falls, Ranger & Fort Worth railroad. Through service to Dublin will soon be extended to Fort Worth and sleepers will be set out at all important points on the line for the accommodation of travelers.

J. M. Strupper, general freight and passenger agent for the new road, has returned from Washington, where he was successful in persuading the interstate commerce commission to grant the same passenger fare from Ranger to Fort Worth via Dublin as is charged over the Texas & Pacific railroad.

The Hamon & Kell road is now carrying 600 passengers a day and with the operation of trains into Breckenridge this number will be greatly increased. Between seventy-five and a hundred carloads of freight are now being handled daily on the new road.

The date for the start of operation of trains over the Frisco to Fort Worth has not been announced but the extension will probably be made within a few weeks.

RECORD IS MADE IN RAYS OF DRILLING

Special to The Times. BRECKENRIDGE, June 23.—Forty-two drilling days is the record established by the drillers of the A. J. Johnson well, the Henry Riley lease, which has come in for a settled production of 1,300 barrels, reported. This well is nearly eighteen miles northeast of Breckenridge and four miles northwest of Ivan, Stephens county. Lime was struck at 3,245 feet and the pay was penetrated seventeen feet. Initial production was about 1,700 barrels.

In the same locality are other producers, notably the Leyden. Within a radius of five miles there are thirty-six wells being drilled.

Lightning Strikes Wires

Lightning struck the storm early today struck the service wires of the Oil Cities Light & Power Company, burning out switching apparatus at the Ranger plant. The lights were out of commission from 3:45 a. m. to 6 a. m., when emergency repairs were completed. The plant is running again, although all damage has not been repaired.

Groans Over Telephone Tells of Double Murder

SIoux FALLS, S. D.—A groan heard over a rural telephone was the first alarm given in the killing of Mr. and Mrs. Claus Loof on their South Dakota farm by their insane son, Everett Loof, who a short time before had returned from the state hospital for the insane at Yankton. He had been released in the belief that he had permanently recovered.

Alarmed by the actions of his son, the sheriff tried to telephone another son, who lived a short distance away, but just as he got an answer he was struck down by his insane son, who crept up behind him and crushed his head with an ax.

The groan uttered as he was struck down was heard by the daughter-in-law at the other end of the line, and hearing no more from her father-in-law she suspected something was wrong and hurried to the Loof home.

After killing his father the son turned on his mother and struck her in the forehead with the ax later arrested him. The murderer did not offer resistance, when he got back to the house with the sheriff he said: "I've killed the old devil."

Appearance indicated that after striking his father the insane man had dragged the body outside the house. The body of the mother was found lying near the telephone.

When the sheriff questioned Loof about the tragedy the man did not appear at first to understand. He would hesitate and look blankly at the sheriff.

He finally told the sheriff that in the morning his father had ordered him to hitch up the horses and go into a field and plant corn. The son argued it was too wet and refused to go. The father, according to the story of the slayer, procured a stick of wood about three feet long, and when the son again refused the father struck him, inflicting a gash on his forehead and another on the back of his head. Everett then got an ax, he said, and killed his father with his mother when she tried to dissuade him. Many do not believe that the father struck the son. The father and mother had resided on the farm for about thirty years and had accumulated much property, including 240 acres of land.

Young Loof is supposed to have lost his mind through disappointment in a love affair. Soon afterward he was sent to the state hospital for the insane. He had been industrious and had deposited in a bank between $2,000 and $3,000. He has been returned to the asylum.

SUNDAY PICTURE LAW IS UPHOLD BY COURT

AUSTIN, June 23.—Validity of the law which prohibits the operation of motion picture shows on Sunday was upheld today by the court of criminal appeals in affirming the case of J. M. Ealey, from Wichita county. "Nothing appears in the record save every evidence of a flagrant effort to trample on the law," said the court opinion.

AIR DELIVERY FROM TULSA TO RANGER FIELD

Airplane express service was instituted yesterday by Crowell Brothers, dealers in oil well supplies to deliver a spiral packer from their Tulsa office to the Phillips Petroleum Company of Ranger.

The oil company needed such a packer for a well on the Carey lease north of Ranger. They applied to the local office of Crowell Brothers which is located with the National Supply Company. The packer was not in stock and a wire was sent to Tulsa. Because of its weight it could not be shipped by express and with the need so great a freight shipment was too slow.

The result was that an aeroplane left Tulsa yesterday morning at 11:30 o'clock with the equipment aboard. Pilot Wohler landed the plane at Strawn, before the storm last night. Delivery of the packer to the lease was made by truck today.

AUSTIN, June 23.—The constitutionality of the act authorizing Texas cities and towns to construct permanent street improvement and assess the cost against abutting properties and providing enforcement of collection of the assessments, was upheld by the Texas supreme court in the case of Spears against the city of San Antonio. The court affirmed the decision in a similar case from Dallas.

AUSTIN, June 23.—Moccasin snakes are causing trouble in the vicinity of Livingston by eating gambusia affinis, or top water minnows, which are being placed in lakes and pools to devour mosquito larvae, according to E. H. Magoon of the international health board, who is connected with the anti-malarial work in that district. Otherwise, he said, the campaign is moving smoothly and is proving successful.

NIGHT WORK IS CAUSE OF COURT CASE IN OMAHA

OMAHA, June 23.—Tenants of the El Bendor and Morris apartments, the former probably the most expensive in the city, have gone to court to get nine hours of quiet.

The city is engaged in a $1,000,000 grading project to cut Dodge street hill and the contractors decided it would be necessary to work nights.

Three locomotives, a steam shovel, a blacksmith shop and other machinery were to operate between the two apartment houses, and the 355 tenants lost sleep and temper. They called the police who declined to interfere. They appeal to the city council. Then they tried to reach an agreement with the contractor.

The contractors agreed not to operate their machinery between the hours of 11 p. m. and 6 a. m. This was not satisfactory. The tenants insisted that the work stop at 10 p. m. and not begin before 7 a. m., and obtained a temporary injunction to restrain work between those hours.

JOHN-A-DREAMS

LVI. TRUNKS AND DRAWERS ARE HOME-LIKE DREAMS.

Often it happens that, in our dreams we rummage in old trunks and scan the contents of chests and drawers. This act in itself has significance, irrespective of the contents of these receptacles and the incidents which may amplify vision. To rummage in a trunk, or to handle one, is a certain sign of a trip to busy yourself with a drawer means without fail, that you will visit a friend or relative and make an extended stay.

Naturally, the things you handle in the course of such a dream, determine its meaning more particularly. It may ever be that the basic interpretations given above are entirely vitiated and the best way to judge is to think carefully whether it was the trunk or drawer, or else their contents, which occupied most of the dreamer's attention.

If it is clothing which seems to predominate, you will make preparations for your wedding, or, if you are a married woman, for that of a relative. If letters pass through your fingers, you will receive messages from people you have not seen in years. Emery of the flimsy sort especially undergarments, are a sign of trouble through an attachment which would not bear the light of day. If you take a doll from trunk or drawer, a child will die, and if a hat or bonnet, you will say farewell forever to some one you hold very dear.

To lock a trunk means that you will close a chapter of your life which has long been a burden. In the case of married women, it means divorce, in that of girls, the end of a romance which gave you more care and anxiety than delight. A married woman who addresses the tag on a trunk will leave her husband. If a drawer which she has opened, falls to the floor, she will have a violent quarrel with him, and if the clothes belonging to him tumble out, he will leave her.

To open trunk or drawer and to be amazed at finding it empty, is a sign of money troubles. If something disgusting reveals itself, there will be sickness in the house. If some one stands beside you in one of these dreams, you will be in need of help and will seek it with tears in your eyes. Too soon a trunk had rolled by a man, carried out, thrown down, or smashed, is considered a omen of a settlement, of a problem which may have live your separating yourself from many of your present associations. If you see many trunks piled up as in at railway station, you will in all likelihood become one of a party on a pleasure tour of many days' duration. To buy a trunk means to a certainty, that your days of peace and rest are numbered and that there are many difficult tasks and nerve-racking days in store for you. But to receive a gift of a trunk is quite a different matter. This means that you will be made the object of a lasting friendship. It is as though someone were giving all his or her belongings in your keeping.

In the next chapter I will tell you of Linens and Things of Linen.

Mrs. Lulu R. Y. — Your dream is extraordinary and the usual storm and fire interpretation does not fit it. Yet, it is easy for me to read its meaning. There will be a considerable change for the better in your husband's condition, you will in all likelihood leave your present home or, if you stay there, you will be enabled to make many improvements and additions. This fortunate change, however, will be preceded by a short period of great anxiety.

Days — for — An occurrence in your home will give you much concern and you will ask your mother's advice. The advice she will give you is likely to displease you, however, it will be the best for you to follow it. Her wisdom in this case will come "from far-off," which means that it will be inspired by deep insight. As to your sleep-tears, do not worry about them, because they have nothing to do with your dreams, nor do they imply anything tragic. They are due to a nerve condition which will pass away. Mrs. B. — You will undertake a journey which will mean a large sum of money loss to you. It will be a very unpleasant experience. The trip will take you to a city far larger than the one you live in.

FARMERS ASSERT THEMSELVES FOR NEW GOVERNMENT

MILWAUKEE, June 23.—Every man to own his home, his machine and the fruits of his labor; these are the aims of the Producers-Consumers Anti-Profiteering league, as announced at headquarters here by its chairman, F. L. McGowan. The league is a Wisconsin organization about two years old.

To achieve these ends the league is organizing, Mr. McGowan said, "the greatest co-operative and co-ordinate organization that the farmers and laborers have ever been connected with in this country."

"The league is going into politics," he said, "to get laws on our statute books that will allow two farmers living on the same side of the road to trade horses and not be hindered before the United States courts as the milkmen were in Chicago last year."

It has twelve men on organization work in Wisconsin, is supporting the head of a farmers' society for governor, and has its state ticket almost completed, Mr. McGowan reported. It is now looking, he added, for 100 men of the right sort for the general assembly.

Mr. McGowan remarked of himself that as a farmer, high school principal, a merchant and a student of the world's progress during the last fifty years, he became imbued with the three great problems of human existence—production, consumption and the twilight hour of pleasure.

6 Cases of Liquor Taken to College Weekly By Meads

HAVER, N. H.—No instances of liquor bootlegging have occurred at Dartmouth College except that carried on by Robert G. Meads, declared President Ernest Martin Hopkins.

"We have put our finger on the one definite spot," he said. "All has been centered in North Massachusetts Hall and Meads' room has been under suspicion as the source. Any indication that there has been any extensive bootlegging here is absolutely false."

High Sheriff Claude A. Murray of Grafton County made public the details of the illicit liquor importations from Montreal made by Meads. Under suspicion for some time it was not until Meads killed his fellow student Henry E. Maroney of West Medford, Mass., over a quarrel about whiskey that it was learned Meads was the bootlegger. Got Six Cases Saturday

His operations embraced a period of several months, starting with comparatively small importations. Later he enlarged his scope and brought over the booter from two to six cases every week-end. He said Crie Wise of Akron, who helped him in his attempted escape after the shooting with another unnamed student brought six cases of whiskey here from Montreal in an automobile last Saturday night.

They hid the liquor on college property, until they could arrange for its disposal. Wise is held by the local authorities until $1,000 bail is received from his home, when he will be handed over to the Federal officers and taken to Concord to await action there.

Meads, the confessed slayer of Maroney, spent a quiet day at the Woodsville County Jail. He was calm as usual. His father, a Chicago lawyer is expected here tomorrow. The body of Maroney was shipped to his home in West Medford, Mass., this morning.

Wouldn't Sell Quart for $8. It was learned that Maroney and his friends purchased from Meads one quart of whiskey for $10 and later returned to Meads' room for more. Having only $8 Maroney offered to pay the rest in the morning. Meads refused to give him the quart, but offered to pour out $8 worth from a bottle which he valued at $20.

Maroney acquiesced, but when the $8 worth had been poured out he seized the remainder and, passing it to H. W. Whitaker of Somerville, Mass., his companion, told him to heat it. The two men stepped out of the window, two feet above the ground, and went across the campus to the Theta Delta Chi Fraternity House.

INK SCRIBBLE IS EQUAL TO STATE'S GREAT SEAL

SPRINGFIELD, Ill.—Legality of the organization of 24,000 corporations in Illinois, formed under the corporation law of 1919, was upheld by the supreme court when it decided unanimously that a seal scribbled with pen on incorporation papers is just as effective as the "great seal of the state of Illinois."

The law was passed to encourage Illinois interests to incorporate at home instead of going to other states. Under the law the secretary of state has collected $800,000 in fees and another million is due July 1. In making out the papers, however, the secretary of state neglected the great seal and affixed a scribble.

RUBE GOLDBERG'S BOOBS—Where Are You Going to Spend the Summer?

"SCANDAL" CHORUS DRESSED IN PAINT AND LITTLE ELSE

By BURN MANTLE
NEW YORK.—One of the minor scandals in "The Scandal" of 1920, which is the second of the series of summer shows inaugurated a year ago by George White, is a song entitled "Swat the Profiteer." To illustrate the point of the song six of the more decorative members of the ensemble slip out near the footlights carrying six high chairs, with foot rests such as bootblacks use. Nourishing the chairs, they proceed to sing the newer economies that are being practiced in their set, including the painting of socks upon the flaps of the new pair.

While they sing a second sextet, with paint brushes and pots, decorate their jackets and ensembles with polka dot and lattice work designs in varied colors, and when the job is finished those who had appeared most naked at the start of the song come away as completely clothed as need be for the rest of the evening.

Being a good idea, Mr. White tries it again. This time the song is called "On My Mind the Whole Night Long," and relates the troubles of a young seamstress who just could not sleep after she had met and been charmed by a new sweetheart. Under canopies in the middle stages are posed four statuesque beauties in shining tights extending from their slippered feet to their waists, one in green, one in orange, one in black, and another in blue. With the spotlight turned on them they appear to be engaged in the brightest of patent leather. Then they step down, and just as they leave the stage each reaches down, draws her hand across her thigh, and turns the palm toward the audience. It is smeared with paint. A novelty in chorus lady decorations is thus achieved that is fraught with possibilities. If the girls escape lead poisoning and do not object to the smearing, the painted chorus will probably become a popular feature of most productions—until Dr. Stratton and the vice squad get after them.

HOME BUILDING IS NEXT

With Ranger well on the path toward stability comes a time for greater activity in the matter of home building, an endeavor that has not been altogether neglected; an effort that has been discouraged largely because of the cost of building.

The major part of the city's population lives in tents, rooming houses and in shacks.

These three were made available when the rush first set into the new oil field and continue to serve because there is nothing better.

When they were built they presented the only possibility in the direction of living accommodations, and remain so to a marked extent today. When these places were established, neither the time nor money was available to build for greater permanence, had there been desire to do so on the part of the early comers. Living quarters had to be provided in a hurry. Attractive homes were not in demand and had they been, the cost of construction, at that time, would have been prohibitive.

This is not all past yet. Building is still an expensive venture to be engaged in chiefly by those who are more fortunately placed and who fully recognize the fact that Ranger is permanent and that they are permanent residents here. Attention is today being directed to home building by the family men who are making Ranger their headquarters.

Greater activity in this section is highly desirable and should be recognized as such more fully. There are a great many people here who will not leave Ranger, but who believe they are here for a day only. They should take a far sighted view of conditions, recognize their connection with the oil field and prepare to establish more permanently.

There is a double primary advantage to be derived, one is personal, the biggest element, the other altruistic. It is not necessary to dwell on the latter; it is the matter of throwing a little more weight behind the wheel that carries the city's load. The matter of making Ranger a more domestic community.

The personal feature resolves itself about the pocket book. A man and woman can not live in Ranger on less than sixty-five dollars a month. This estimate holds probably even for the near parsimonious. It applies to those couples, the majority here, who are boarding. House keeping estimates for Ranger are not yet available.

However, the average probably prevails here as elsewhere in the United States, housekeeping is a less expensive living system. Should the profit obtained from moving into a home not be greater than $150 a year it would be well worth while.

Building is the thing. That $150 invested in a home is not only an investment of $150, but is a start of a year, for it will not be long before home making will increase in popularity. Then there is the advantage of a quiet home and home life to be enjoyed during the year. It is true the cost of building is high, but there is little prospect of a reduction immediately.

Married men should look into the building market, look over home sites and decide that their wives will derive greater enjoyment from life in managing a household than in decorating a boarding-house sitting room.

TAFT THINKS REPUBLICANS WILL RATIFY THE LEAGUE WITH LODGE RESERVATIONS

BALTIMORE, Md., June 23.—Former President Taft, who was the guest of honor last evening of the Maryland branch of the English Speaking Union at a dinner tendered to Sir Auckland Geddes, the British Ambassador, before leaving the city talked with newspaper men concerning the national political situation. Asked about the League of Nations issue in the campaign he said:

"I think the Republican plank promises ratification of the League of Nations. And I think the Republicans, if they win, as I expect them to, will ratify it—after the elections, you know, when the wicked cease from troubling and the Irish and the Germans are at rest.

"The history of the adoption of that plank briefly is this:

"Former Senator Crane of Massachusetts strongly argued for a plank promising ratification of the League with the Lodge reservations. Senator Lodge did not support that. He was not for a plank indorsing his own work. His course was dictated, I presume, by necessity for party unity as he saw the situation.

"When the discussion was at its height Odgen L. Mills of New York took out of his pocket a draft and told the committee when he submitted it that it was drawn by Elihu Root.

"The plank calls for a world association of nations, which certainly may mean the League. You will recall that months ago Mr. Root in his letter to Chairman Hays approved much of the League of Nations as framed. He was not satisfied with Article X and he thought the covenant did not provide sufficient machinery for the creation and upbuilding of a world court and of a sound body of international law.

"Now Mr. Root has been called to Europe to begin work on the court and the law features of the League. He has been recalled to share the task by the statesmen of Europe and they are working under the League itself. I look for results that will satisfy his ideas of what the judicial machinery of the League should be.

"With the Lodge reservations covering his ideas as to Article X, and various other points, the League will be in shape to meet the Republican plank, and I believe that in that shape it will be ratified."

BEAUTY HINTS

Neither is it a thing of beauty nor a joy forever—a nose with a shine or dotted with pores. Only is it a thing of adornment when the skin is clear and fine and of a dull finish. Like highly polished furniture, the highly polished nose is a thing of former popularity.

Everybody wants it dulled to an elegant turn. Some in their enthusiasm do it to a marshallow turn, which is sinning in the other direction quite as grossly. You've seen the marshallow noses that are being worn on some of our best boulevards, haven't you? Well they're not in good style at all, at all! They make the face look all nose, which isn't fair to either face or proboscis. They bear the same relation to good style as a flaming hat on a red-headed girl—overdoing it.

Rinse in Cold Water.
Now, one may not think that the way one washes her face has anything to do with a shine, but it has. After soap is used, a rinsing in warm water is necessary, and then a cold water rinse. The warm water takes all the soap off, and the cold closes the pores. So that one is taking care of the enlarged pores as well with every proper washing.

The nose harbors most of them. A scrubbing brush of camel's hair is advisable to use, for the large pores are most susceptible to dust and grime, and result in blackheads if not scrubbed out immediately. The hot water scrub is best; then the hot water rinse, and then the cold. And, finally, the ice rub.

Diluted alcohol, rubbed over the face a couple of times a day, will serve to kill the shine on a nose, as well as act as an astringent. But ice is easily with-in most folk's reach in summer time, and after washing the face rub it with a little piece of ice wrapped in a clean handkerchief end or a bit of cotton, or, if you can hold it in your hands, never mind the cotton holder. Ice is a wonderful skin tonic.

Daily Bath Good for Skin
Haven't you noticed yourself that people who make the daily bath a morning prayer have much finer grained skins than those who are neglectful? Particularly is this true of those with the cold shower habit.

Witch hazel is another astringent with much value. It is more effective when warmed. It may be heated by immersing the bottle in hot water.

The following lotion will correct enlarged pores and is at the same time recommended for illness of the skin or shiny noses: Orange flower water, six ounces; tincture of benzoin, one-half ounce; witch hazel, two ounces. Mix the witch hazel and the orange flower water, shake lightly, and add to the tincture of benzoin. Apply night and morning with a piece of absorbent cotton.

"Do you think Senator Harding, if elected on the Republican plank, will favor the ratification of the League under those circumstances?"

"From his record in the Senate in the fight over the League I should say so."

Thinks Mr. McAdoo Will Win.
"What of Senator Johnson and Senator Borah? Do they not look upon the Republican plank as meeting their views and conforming to their position?"

"Whom are the Democrats going to nominate?" Mr. Taft asked before answering the question about Johnson and Borah. When told that the "dope" in these parts was that William G. McAdoo would be the nominee, he said that was the way he saw the situation. The fight would be between Mr. McAdoo and Gov. Cox, he thought, and Bryan's opposition to Cox would defeat the latter and lead to the choice of Mr. McAdoo.

"Will the proposition to modify the Volstead act be a vital issue?"
"Yes," it will be prominent in some sections of the country. The United States Supreme Court seems, however, to have settled this question.

"Will the labor unions be factors in the campaign?"

"If members of the unions break their rule to vote as individuals and vote en masse as unions they will, of course, be powerful factors to whatever party they may attach themselves. I am a thorough believer in the labor unions. I believe they fill an important place in our economic life.

When Unions Are Wrong.

"When, however, the unions, in whole or in part, go so far as to cause public utilities, upon which the existence of the people, especially in our cities, to cease to function, the people have something to say. They have their rights as well as the labor unions have theirs. How far this phase of the labor question will go in the campaign I am not prepared to say.

"Senator Harding stands for all that is best in the Republican Party. He is conservative. Now don't get the impression that conservatism means stagnation. Not by any means. Mine was the last Republican Administration. During that period Congress enacted more progressive legislation than during any corresponding period in its history.

"Gov. Coolidge stands for law and order. He stands for the protection of life and property. His position is the opposite of radicalism," and emphatically the former President declared that the paramount issue in the campaign would be conservatism versus radicalism.

"I do not see how the labor question can fail to get into the campaign or become a leading issue," he said. "Senator Harding's stand on the general labor question and his vote for the anti-strike clause of the Esch-Cummins bill, and police strike, and, on the other hand, Mr. McAdoo's attitude toward the railroad men and his letter criticizing the mine operators when the mine strike impeded, form an issue that cannot be escaped, and that probably will occupy the large place in the public mind.

"With the labor question to the fore and such problems as getting down the cost of living in the people's minds, it seems to me that the League is not likely to figure greatly in the campaign. And that being the case, what can the irreconcilables do? Where do they come in?"

Thinks Democrats Will Help.
"You take it for granted," Mr. Taft was asked, "that if the Republicans lack a two-thirds majority in the Senate the Democratic Senators will help them ratify the League in the form you expect it to be in?"

"Yes," replied Mr. Taft. "Only seven more Democratic Senators were needed to ratify on the last vote. There really is no material difference between what the Democratic Senators proposed and what the Republicans insisted upon. The Democratic Senators would have agreed but the President did not, so enough of the Democratic Senators did not vote to ratify. As the President himself says, his mind did not go along."

CANNING THE EARLY FRUITS

As all the soft fruits are canned like strawberries (with the exception of the consistency of the sirup—I will give the rule for canning strawberries as a model.) Hull and wash fresh berries and pack them into hot jars which have just been lifted from the washboiler canner where they have been boiled for 15 minutes. Do not bleach the berries. Fill the jars solidly to within 1-4 inch of the top of jars, being careful not to crush the fruit. Hold rubbers for a few seconds in boiling water then put them on the jars.

Keep hot sirup ready in a double boiler after it has been made (it should consist of 2 parts sugar and 1 part water) and pour this over the fruit until the jars are full to within 1-4 of an inch from the top. Put on cover, pull up bail but do not clamp the spring. Lift the jar into the washboiler canner, having the water well over the top of the jar. Leave in the canner for 10 minutes, not beginning to count until the water is boiling again after putting them in.

After the 10 minutes are up, remove the jar, place it on a cloth which has been wrung out of hot water, fasten the clamp of the jar, and place it upside down for a while to be sure there is no leakage.

The sirup for sweet fruits should consist of 1 part sugar to 2 parts water. For slightly acid fruits, have the sirup 2 parts sugar to 3 parts water. For medium acid fruits make the sirup 1 part sugar to 1 part water. And for very acid fruits make the sirup 2 parts sugar to 1 part water.

On June 16, I gave the Time Table for blanching and processing the common fruits and vegetables with a washboiler canner. If any housekeeper-reader missed her newspaper on this date and would like to have a copy of this Time Table, I will gladly send it to her if she will write to me personally, requesting it and enclosing a stamped and self-addressed envelope. With the above-given directions and the Time Table, any woman can put up her fruits of the "cold pack" method without fearing a mistake. The following are some of the recipes for preserving the early fruits:

Preserved Cherries.—Remove the stones from sour red cherries. Put the cherries in alternate layers in the preserving kettle with half their weight of sugar and one-fourth their weight of honey (all sugar may be used if desired, instead of the honey). Let stand 24 hours and then simmer gently until the cherries are tender. Put in glass jars, adjust rubbers, partially seal (that is, do not seal tight) and process for ten minutes in the washboiler canner. Then completely seal, label and store.

Preserved Strawberries.—Hull the berries and measure them allowing an equal quantity of sugar. Place berries in alternate layers with the sugar in the preserving kettle allow to stand a few moments, then bring to the boiling point rapidly, stirring constantly, and let boil for 10 minutes. Put in sterilized glasses, cool, and seal with paraffin.

Rhubarb Conserve.—3 pounds sugar 3 pounds rhubarb, 3 oranges sliced finely. 1 pound raisins, 1-2 pound pecans or other nuts cut fine. Cook all together for 3-4 of an hour or until very thick, then put into jelly glasses and cover with paraffin.

GEORGE ARRIVES

Tinker Bob was very much surprised to see George, the Black Snake approaching the place where the two Badgers were digging. "Surely," said he, to himself, "Mr. Black Snake will not try to enter Tim's house while the two strangers are there." But Mr. Black Snake was a fearless fellow and Tim was a friend of his, and now that he knew that Mr. and Mrs. Badger were going to kill his friend he was still more fearless.

The Badgers of course did not know that any one was near. They were so much interested in the thought that Tim the Ground Squirrel had escaped, that they could not think of much else. "What's happened to the Ground Squirrel?" asked Mr. Badger. "I saw him and he threw dirt in my face, but where is he now?"

"I saw him myself," said Mrs. Badger. "when I rolled the stone away from the door of his house. It is very strange how he has disappeared." At this moment, George, the Black Snake came along and thrust his head into the hole where Tim had lived. He hissed a time or two and that was enough for Mr. and Mrs. Badger. They knew exactly what that meant, but Mr. Badger could not turn around. The only thing he could do was to dig for his life and that is just what he started to do.

Mr. Black Snake hissed a few times more and Mr. Badger knew just what he said. This was it, "Come out of there, Mr. Badger, or I'll snap the end of your tail right off." Such words did not sound good to the Badgers so there was some fast work. Mr. Badger made the dirt fly till he had a place large enough to turn around in, then he faced George, the Black Snake and said, "Please tell me where Tim the Ground Squirrel has gone."

"Tim, the Ground Squirrel cannot be caught," replied George, "and then he is a friend of mine and if anyone does him harm I will surely punish them. I can't see why you are all the time trying to catch him."

"We wanted him for dinner," said Mr. Badger as he came out of the hole. "He is a fine fellow and would make us both feel good."

"Just for that I have a notion to squeeze you to death." Tim has had to change his home a good many times because you have been after him but he never did any harm to you. He just has to keep on the lookout all the time for fear you will catch him,

We want him for dinner, said Mr. Badger

Now both of you get out of here, for this is my home and don't you ever come here again after Tim for he is not here. I'll not hurt you this time, but remember, the next time you go after Tim I'll be there.

You may well believe that Mr. and Mrs. Badger came right out of that hole and went away about other business.

Tomorrow—A Call From the Tree Top.

TESTED RECIPES

Braised Shoulder of Lamb

The so-called roasting pans are more like braising pans. In true roasting the vapors escape from the meat, leaving the surface crisp, while basting with fat keeps the inside soft. To prepare a boned shoulder of lamb for one of those pans it would be best to tie it up so as to make as long a roll of it as possible.

sible, perhaps leaving part of the leg bone for a handle. Skinned, boned, tied up it may be treated like the leg of a lamb, boned or not. Even a leg of a lamb can be more economically served if boned and tied up in an even roll. Either the leg or the shoulder can be boned and tied so as to resemble a duck. Serve with peas, carrots, of a mixture of vegetables and mint sauce.

Mint Sauce

Add a cup of cold water to a large tablespoon of cornstarch, put over fire and stir all the time until the mixture thickens. Have ready four tablespoons or more of chopped fresh mint to which a scant teaspoon of sugar has been added. Put this into the cooked part with a pinch of salt and two tablespoons of vinegar, more or less, according to taste, and let whole simmer for fifteen minutes. Strain and serve in mint pitcher.

Roast Lamb

Lamb must be roasted quickly in a brisk oven. Its shape as well as the degree of heat applied will determine how long per pound. Since it has no great amount of fat, the best way to seal the outside of the meat, if it is not rolled up in a fat cover, is to pour hot fat over it. A little butter, a little beef dripping from a seasoned roast, a little of its own fat, are good for this. To prepare the roast the outside skin or fell must be removed, whether the meat is boned and tied or not.

Four Kids at Sea 25 Hours; One Hero

DETROIT.—With the prayers of 1,000 male passengers mingled with the sobs of hysterical women, the four children who had been adrift in a small rowboat for more than twenty-five hours in Lake Erie were rescued by the steamer City of Toledo last week, thirty miles from shore.

The children drifted from Lakeside, Mich., at 9 o'clock in the morning, and while they were far from land two of them who got out of the boat were rescued by nine-year-old Merwin Daso, one of the party.

The children are: Robert, aged three; Richard, six, and Merwin, nine, sons of Merwin Daso, 2409 Maplewood avenue, Toledo, and Violet Sperry, their first cousin, eleven years old, who had been living with the Daso family at Lakeside. Squatting on the second deck of the steamer, the hero of the adventure told the passengers just how it happened. They started out from Lakeside with a broken oar and two sticks, intending to push themselves along the shallow shore. Soon they were a long way out, he told the passengers, and with a wind blowing they could not get the boat headed for Lakeside.

Violet was suffering from the sunburn Saturday afternoon and did "a lot of crying," Merwin said. Late in the afternoon she conceived the bright idea to get out and push the boat.

She could not touch bottom, of course, and Merwin was afraid she was going to drown. When she was unable to climb back into the boat and the boy found it impossible to pull her in he placed a rope around her waist and tied it to the bottom of the boat.

For a long time it looked as if "it" would have to trail along the shore, but Merwin finally succeeded in getting her into the boat. With her clothes soaking wet Violet was "about all in," Merwin told the passengers and soon went to sleep.

Saturday night "Bob" got into trouble. He insisted on prowling about the flat bottomed craft and fell overboard. Merwin at once plunged into the lake and keeping one hand on the boat caught Bob by his rompers and pulled him back in.

Bob soon went to sleep and Violet woke up. Violet proceeded from the rear to the front of the boat to see how Bob was getting on and nearly fell overboard. Merwin insisted that she "turn in" after that.

As it began to get dark they all became frightened, but Merwin decided to take "command," and ordered the others to go to sleep, telling them he would wake them up after he had "done the watch."

During the night "Dick," Violet and little Bob took turns at watching for ships. Dick says that during his watch two tugs passed them and Merwin confirms this for he was awakened by the "first mate." They did a lot of hollering, Merwin said, but the tugs went on their way.

With the rising of the sun Merwin decided to take off his undershirt, and placing it on the end of a stick, he held it for hours hoping that a passing ship might pick up his party. The sun soon became too hot, and Merwin, unable to stand the heat of the rays on his bare back, pulled down the signal and again took to paddling.

When the City of Toledo hove in sight Merwin and Dick, one with the broken oar and the other with a stick, were doing their best to send the rowboat along. They were going with the wind in a northeastern direction and drifting farther into the lake.

Not in a Religious Sense.

In the Zone Finance Office a letter was received inquiring about a bond which the soldier had purchased. His letter was rather incoherent and the office was unable to identify the case. So the letter went back to the soldier asking for more information and incidentally inquiring whether it was a converted bond.

"Naw, the bond wan't converted," wrote back the soldier, "and I don't want it messed up in religion either. You just send it on to me like 'twas." —New York Evening Post.

WHY IS THE ORANGE LIKE AN EGG, SOPH?

International News Service. DETROIT, June 23.—Is the orange a fruit or a berry?

The question started a fight in one Detroit family, according to a divorce bill filed by the wife. She alleges that the discussion arose at the breakfast table.

"Berry," said she.

"Fruit," said he.

Suddenly, the wife says, her husband digressed from orange, picked up a fried egg and massaged her wit hit on her face and in her hair.

All this last January, when eggs were a dollar a dozen.

Tale of A. E. F. Graphically Told In Paint, Pen and Ink, And Pencil On Walls of National Museum

WASHINGTON, June 23.—The story of the American expeditionary force is told in pictures on the walls of the National museum here in a permanent exhibit just opened to the public.

Drawn from life, pen and ink or pencil, by American artists commissioned and sent to the front for that purpose, the collection of nearly 500 studies detailing almost every phase of life in the army overseas is spread over the walls of half a dozen great, well lighted rooms. It is a tale of stirring action which they disclose.

Among the scenes depicted are ruined French villages made sacred forever to Americans because of American blood freely given to tear them from German hands. There are the homely, appealing scenes from behind the lines with happy-go-lucky youngsters of Pershing's division in billets mixing among the people of France, the very old and the very young people. Here and there are grim reminders of the great tragedy in groups of huddled dead in wrecked enemy trenches over which the tide of victory had poured. Again, half glimpsed through a downpour of rain, a trudging, sodden infantry column is moving onward through a sea of mud as the artist saw it; or an endless line of weary gun teams drags forward the batteries to blast the road to triumph.

At one point the artist caught and held for his fellow countrymen the breathless intensity of a forest outpost, peering through the leafy screen of his covert towards the enemy lines, his rifle hugged close with fingers clinched about the trigger; at another a slash of light from a half-opened door has painted on the screen of night just a hint at a column, tramping on toward battle, just a young ace or two in the line, weary, dirty but with jaws grim set with purpose. Again it is a hospital that has gripped the artist imagination, a twisted, writhing form under the tumbled blanket with agony in every line and over it the steady-eyed surgeon or the merciful figure of an army nurse.

In rooms around the picture display are shown all the countless things with which the army and navy dealt in the war; the guns, the bombs, the uniforms of ally and enemy alike, captured weapons and German war gear of many kinds. These form a striking setting for the epic tale the war artists have pictured, probably the only such record ever assembled for it began with the army and runs on to the departure of the homeward bound transports at the close.

Artists who made the pictures, all of whom held the rank of captain in the American expeditionary force, include Wallace Morgan, Ernest Peixotto, Julius Andre Smith, Harry E. Townsend, Harvey Dunn, Walter J. Duncan, all of New York City; William J. Aylward, Fairport, N. Y., and George M. Harding, Wynnewood, Pa.

ONE HUNDRED BUCKS IS JUST THAT—RIZA, NO MARK WINS CASE

International News Service. DETROIT, June 23.—Twelve jurors decided that $100 is $100, war or no war, in a suit against a local bank brought by Mufdi Zada Ali Riza, a Turk, who objected to the bank's return of $5 for the $100 he had given the bank before the war to send abroad.

Testimony in the case showed that Riza had ordered the bank to send $100 to his brother in Turkey just before the United States entered the war and that the bank had bought 500 marks at the then prevailing rate of exchange and had wired it to the proper destination. The brother had left for Palestine, however, and the money was sent back unclaimed.

When Riza went to the bank recently to receive his money he was given $5 as the present equivalent of the 500 marks which had been wired abroad. He brought suit and a verdict was rendered in Judge Scott's court requiring the bank to return the full $100.

Most Embarrassing.

"I notice Miss Yowles closes her eyes when she heaches for a high note."

"So she does, but don't think there's any safety for you in that."

"What do you mean?"

"The last time she reached for a high note, and I stopped up my ears, she opened her eyes and caught me in the act." —Birmingham Age-Herald.

BEARDED FIRE "LADS" COME TO LIFE AGAIN

International News Service. CHARLESTON, Mass., June 23.—Fire which started in the cellar of the garage of Stanley Harlow, on Main street, Charlestown, was extinguished by the Charlestown veteran firemen, using a "hand tub" which had been retired for thirty years.

Deputy Chief Riley, of the local fire department, who arrived with his men after the blaze had been put out, paid a tribute to the old-timers for their efficiency.

The engine was part of the Brooklyn, N. Y., fire department thirty years ago, and during the past thirty years, while taking part in many musters, has done no real work.

GREAT LAKES STEAMER STARTS HOME FROM SEA

South Haven, Mich., June 23.—The steamer Iroquois has started her return trip from Seattle, Washington, to South Haven, Mich. Her course takes her down the Pacific Coast, through the Great Lakes to South Haven.

The Iroquois was sent to Seattle for coastwise traffic seven years ago. It is planned to put her in freight service between South Haven and Chicago for the present season.

BR'ER JACKRABBIT CARRIES A PUNCH IN HIND FOOT

OTTAWA, Kan., June 23.—Br'er Jackrabbit carries a knockout punch in each hind foot. If you doubt it consult J. A. Canfield, of this place.

The other day a jackrabbit chased by dogs ran close to Canfield, who reached out and caught it by a hind leg. Canfield's remaining hand was so badly lacerated by the animal's other hind foot that a surgeon's services were required.

FOUR GUILTY AND FINED ON INSANITATION

On charges of violating the sanitary laws of Ranger, Scott's cafe, the Model market, R. A. Sullivan, who is in charge of a rooming house at 105 Commerce, and Nellie Hickey, who operates a rooming house at 412 Walnut street, were tried this morning in police court before Judge George L. Davenport and found guilty.

Sanitary Company Blamed. In each case with the exception of that of Sullivan, the defense was of that the sanitary company had not picked up the refuse as the defendants believed it should.

Nellie Hickey, who owns the Walnut rooms, admitted that the testimony of W. H. Stowe, sanitary inspector, was correct to the effect that she kept an uncovered tub in the rear of her place in which was dumped all the refuse of the rooms from the hotel.

Humble Panthers Trim Prairie Tigers, 6 to 2. Humble Oil & Refining company, "The Panthers," defeated the Prairie Oil & Gas company, "The Tigers," in an exhibition game, 6 to 2. Ladies' hitting, with two triples and two singles in five times up, and Bonham's pitching featured.

LEGION POST IN ARGENTINA GIVEN NAME OF SOLDIER

BUENOS AIRES, June 1 (by mail).—The recently organized Buenos Aires post of the American Legion will be known as Spencer Ely post. Spencer Ely was the first American residing in Argentina to volunteer to serve his country in France and the first to fall of the Argentine contingent.

On his arrival in France, Ely joined the 15th Infantry (the old Fighting 69th of New York) and was killed at Chateau Thierry. After having been wounded in action he was carried to a dressing station, from which he refused to be removed until more seriously wounded comrades had been taken to the rear.

PARAGUAIAN MAY BE DRUNK THREE TIMES IN YEAR

ASUNCION, June 1 (by mail).—Persons arrested for drunkenness more than three times a year in Paraguay will be considered confirmed drunkards and their photographs posted in saloons and police stations, under the provisions of a bill which has been approved by the senate and is now before the lower house.

The law would also forbid the sale of liquor in theaters, moving picture houses, race tracks and other places of public gathering and within 200 meters of places where laborers work. The president is empowered to issue a decree determining the alcoholic content of intoxicating liquors and fixing other restrictions tending to make their consumption less injurious to the public health.

GREATEST HIT GETTER IN BASEBALL IS WHAT ALEXANDER CALLS THIS FELLOW

fool him in every way and it can't be done. He times the fast ones, the teasers and curves to a T. When Alec made this statement he had pitched to Hornsby eleven times this season and the Cardinal star had slammed out a home run, two triples, a double and a single. This gives him a batting average of .410 for those eleven trips.

There's no doubt about Hornsby being a great hitter and his infelding adds greatness to his name. He ranks with the best the National league has produced, not excluding the great Hans Wagner. In grace Hornsby rivals the one and only Napoleon Lajoie.

Two years ago the Cubs wanted to give the Cards $75,000 for Hornsby. Last winter McGraw tried to tempt Rickey with $100,000. Now the New York owners have offered 150,000 iron men for the beauty and Rickey is again saying no.

Alec's dope doesn't listen far from wrong when these figures are considered.

Rogers Hornsby in action.

Other defendants were instructed by the judge that the burden of keeping their alleys as clean as their places of business clean was upon them, regardless of the fact that they claimed that they were at the mercy of the sanitary company.

Mr. Stowe testified that the place kept by Sullivan on Commerce street had filthy floors, beds, sheets and pillow cases. Judge Davenport told Sullivan that the city could not tolerate any such place as he kept and that he would advise him to give it a thorough cleaning, burning all old quilts and mattresses that were insanitary.

BUENOS AIRES, June 1 (by mail).—The ministry of war has refused to grant permission to the Argentine aviator, Captain Angel Zuloaga, to attempt a flight across the Atlantic ocean from Lisbon via St. Vincent to Pernambuco, Brazil, on the ground that the "expenditures would be disproportionate to the end to be attained" and because the aviator proposed to use an airplane instead of a hydroplane.

Independent Oil Operators Protest Price Ranger Crude

Independent oil producers of the Ranger field are smarting under a loss of $40,000 a day from the low price they are getting for crude oil. Threats of closing down their wells and refusing to sell the oil to the large companies have been made. Several of the larger independent producers and a number of the smaller ones, including the Pennsylvania, Breckenridge, Desdemona and Sipe Springs pools discussed the question here today.

The independents control about twenty-five per cent of the entire Ranger field production which is now close to 100,000 barrels a day. They say they are losing at least $40,000 a day because the big companies with pipe line facilities who are buying their oil to refine will not pay them the same price less the pipe line transportation cost, that crude of the same grade is bringing in Pennsylvania and other eastern fields.

Present Price $3.50 None of the large companies are paying more than $3.50 a barrel for oil in the Ranger field. Pennsylvania crude tested at the same as Ranger crude is selling for $6.10 with around 50 to 75 per cent bonus a barrel. The pipe line transportation cost from Ranger to the large refineries, it is said does not exceed $1 a barrel. The 25,000 barrels a day they are getting from the Ranger field independents at $3.50 a barrel should be selling for $6.10 to $6.85 a barrel, the operators say. They are losing $2.60 a barrel over the Pennsylvania operators.

The independent producer of no other field in Texas has sustained so great a loss as the operators in this field. Independents of Wichita county, operators here assert, control virtually seventy-five per cent of the production in a very compact area. They have built refineries and pipe lines and are paying contract bonuses of from 50 to 75 cents a barrel above the Standard companies.

In the Ranger field the big companies have the small refineries, their own pipe lines and their own oil facilities. There are at least a dozen of these small refineries in the Ranger field that would buy from 1,000 to 3,000 barrels of oil a day, but nearly all of them are closed down now because they can no longer buy oil. The Haganam Refining Company of Ranger is the only exception. This refinery is getting enough oil to operate part of the time by paying a bonus of 65 cents a barrel for the crude, while officers of the same company who own some production are compelled to sell it to the pipeline companies at $3.50 a barrel.

PLAN SUGGESTED FOR RED RIVER OIL SETTLEMENT

By Associated Press WICHITA FALLS, June 23.—Fredrick Delano, federal receiver for that Red river oil lands, today made public a contract in which he asks the operators in that district to sign before he will turn back the property under his supervision. Pending final disposition of the case the contract provides that the receiver designate a price the operator will accept for the purchase of oil and the pipe line to carry it away. The operators vigorously protest federal control prices and the naming of purchasers.

GOOD GROCER GOOD MEDICINE

An East Nashville Grocer Says He Has Used Black-Draught for Years, Whenever Troubled with Torpid Liver.

East Nashville, Tenn.—"You ask me about Black-Draught. It is without doubt the best liver medicine made, and I don't believe I could get along without it," declared Mr. W. N. Parsons, recently.

Mr. Parsons, who is a prominent grocer at 243 North First street, says further: "I take it (Black-Draught) for sour stomach, headache, bad liver, indigestion, and all other troubles that are the result of a torpid liver. I have known and used it for years and I can highly recommend it to every one. I won't go to bed without it in the house. It will do all it claims to do. I can't say enough for it."

Theford's Black-Draught, which has been in successful use for more than seventy years, is a medicine especially adapted to the treatment of many liver troubles. It has proved helpful to thousands and thousands of persons suffering from stomach and liver complaints, and should be helpful to you.

Black-Draught is easy to take and has not the bad after-effects so common with many mineral drugs.

Good druggists sell it.—Adv.

The well has been making 250 barrels natural at a total depth of 3,185 feet. The line was struck at 3,100 feet.

CLEVER FORGERS FLOODED MARKETS WITH BIG NOTES

VIENNA, June 2 (by mail).—With the rapid issue of new currency, the country is recovering from the panic that followed the discovery that enormous amounts of 1,000 and 10,000 crown notes were in circulation with forged overprints.

As there is no note between the denominations of 100 and 1,000 or between 1,000 and 10,000, business became completely paralyzed when the forgeries were discovered. No one would accept the large notes. The hotels and banks in taking them from clients took the name of the note and entered it against the giver's name. The 50 and 100-crown notes soon gave out and business was done with tens and twenties. The government redeemed the forgeries around seventy.

About 6,000,000,000 crowns of new 1,000 and 10,000-crown notes will be issued to retire the old ones.

Bootleggers Suffer, Negro Trade Shows Marked Decrease

The eyes of dusky sons of the old South have taken on a brighter hue in the last few days and leading bootleggers of the town are complaining of an alarming slump in their trade with negroes. The ebony ones are saving their quarters and dollars just the same, but not to buy moonshine whiskey.

The first alarm spread around town and found negroes incredulous. It couldn't be so, they said—watermelons were not on sale at a fancier's store. But investigation proved the truth of the report; watermelons in large quantities were selling in the open market.

Immediately several bank officials held whispered conferences. The ebony ones were drawing out their money to the last dime. Danger of a run on the banks, some one said. But a bank official who is familiar with the longing of negroes for the luscious, tempting melons which seem to carry stored within their minds the essence of all good dainties of the South made hurried investigation and came back and drew a check. He departed again and in a few minutes returned with a watermelon weighing forty pounds. The mystery was solved.

Restaurants are now selling a thin slice for forty cents. As the season advances the price will come down. But with the ebony ones price is no object. Nobody but the bootleggers will suffer.

The Woman Who Saw

Fit for Andreyev.

In quest of a modest package of brass headed tacks, the Woman invaded her favorite hole-in-the-wall hardware shop the other afternoon. The customer were waiting with impatient glances at the wall clock which indicated the close approach of the dinner hour. And while they waited a third customer, a stoop shouldered, middle-aged man, continued to monopolize the proprietor. He was bent on a rat trap, he announced to the man behind the counter. Not a flimsy contrivance that would break before you could set. No, sir—what he requires for his business was a good stout affair capable of catching a real rat. The buyer bent his stoop-shouldered figure over the counter, and weighed each of the specimens submitted for approval in curiously long, talon-like fingers. All these he evidently found wanting.

"Fit for nothing but mice," he chuckled slyly. The electric globe overhead threw his lantern-jawed face into comic, or was it sinister, relief? The Woman could not help wondering at the zeal of this modern Pied Piper. Perhaps, she speculated, he was a professional exterminator, hired to rid apartments and warehouses of pests.

The shopkeeper, who had been submerged among the mysterious boxes under his counter, came up for air at this juncture with a large steel cage. It was a prodigious affair, house room for at least six of the bewhiskered ones, the Woman estimated. As he tested the strength of the wires the customer's deep eyes reached for his pocket, and the Woman noted that the carefully brushed suit was a bit green at the seams, the linen cuffs white but frayed. Clapping the big bundle under his arm, this strange individual stalked away to the door. There he turned abruptly with a queer twinkle in his eyes, and called out to the proprietor: "Well, I'll be fresh meat on the supper table tomorrow night—for a change! And sardonic laughter sounded as the door slammed.

"Was this a bit of grotesque humor over the h. c. of L. or grim reality? The Woman tried to smile, and suddenly felt as though she had been let down into the murky third act of a Russian tragedy.

The Limit of Endurance.

The Woman looked forward to the rare visits of her busy friend, the Social Worker. Close contact with the highest and the lowest has given her a store of rare experiences. Never discouraged, always displaying the joy of her faith, sometimes the glad heart of her is a bit troubled.

"I've tried so long," she told the Woman sadly, "to keep Mr. O'Brien from straying too often from the straight and narrow path, and Mrs. O'Brien in a state of wifely leniency. She has been a good mother, and at best a charitable wife to a drunken spendthrift husband. But I am afraid the O'Brien's have come to the parting of the ways for Mr. O'Brien has aroused the ire of his unusually generous spouse.

"Why, ma'am," said Mrs. O'Brien yesterday, "I can't stand it no longer. He's that mean he went out to the cemetery and stole my gravestone."

"Her gravestone!" And the Woman looked amazed.

"Yes, said Mrs. O'Brien, 'I've been buying a grand big stone for years on the installment plan, scripman' and savin' so's I could die in style. Now

I suppose it's in some no account hook shop."

And the Woman could not help agreeing that Mrs. O'Brien had reason for feeling that she had reached the limit of endurance.

Tera Avis.

They were flat dwellers, all of them, and each one had a hard luck tale to tell of raises and inattention to the crying need for repairs on the part of the landlord. So hired finally became the stories, so frank the more than unattering comments, that the Woman found it necessary to remind the guests that one of the discussed clan was present then and there in the person of our dear Mattie, the only one who owns her house she lives in.

"Not any more," interjected Madame Mattie, "not since poor mother's bad heart has forbidden stair climbing. We, too, are cliff-dwellers like the rest of 'em. We occupy a flat, a ground floor 'flat' of which the rent is as high as the rent brown stone stoop is low. I do fill own the house we used to live in," he continued, "and consequently 'got it in the neck,' as my slangy oldest boy says, at both ends of the housing problem. For, while our flat rent steadily rises, the taxes, building stuff, paints, plumbing repairs and labor are nearly doubled, I am not raising the rent of the tenants in my own house.

"No, I cannot," she stilled the protests of her friends, "and neither would you were you in my place. You see, mother's sisters—two old and feeble unities whose combined income barely covers their living expenses—occupy the upper floor. The basement and parlor floors are let to the hard-working father and mother of five. The father, poor soul, finds it well nigh impossible to pay the twenty-two per cent I first charged him three years ago, and I've not the heart to charge him any more; so I am really suffering at both ends, and on the rent question am neither flesh nor fowl nor good red herring."

"But a rare bird, my dear—a white row!" cried an admiring friendly horn, "a snow-white crow among other rows as black as ink."

Pep!

It was a lazily warm June day and he Woman resented the confines of the cinderly local train that was to bear her jerkily through the wilds of New Jersey. One by one the commuters ailed in, puffed and seated themselves resplendently. And two by two the lady hoppers bustled in and arranged and rearranged their bundles. Altogether a dull, uninteresting crowd, wearing clothing too heavy for the day.

A cheery voice rang through the car, bundles dropped, necks were craned, babies suspended their crying. A remarkably homely urchin with enormous reckless, a button nose and the widest mouth the Woman ever saw, hove into sight, wearing a grin that split his face from ear to ear, and carrying a great basket of candy in yellow boxes.

"Here 'y'are folks!" he croaked. "The new kind of molasses peanut candy. An 'advertisin' package at an advertisin' price. Only fifteen cents a package and such package double. No more than two boxes to a customer. So get your money out, folks. And to avoid arguments don't ask for more than two packages. It's the kind of candy that mother tried to make and couldn't. Here's your way to cut the high cost of living with a big double box at an advertisin' price."

Everybody grinned; many fished in their pockets, and most everybody took two boxes, the boy cautioning each customer loudly that "No one couldn't have more than two boxes."

As the woman sat back and nibbled a bit of the "kind mother couldn't make," she couldn't help comparing this enterprising youngster with the peddler of old who ambled through the cars with fly-specked candy boxes tied with faded pink ribbon, yelling in a bored manner, "Fresh choc'lates-bombons! Don't forget the little flocks at home."
