FRANCE WELCOMES GERMANY INTO LEAGUE

DISARMAMENT IS THEME OF OLD ENEMIES

Canadian Delegate Leads In Welcoming Return Of Old Power

By United Press.

GENEVA, Switzerland, Sept. 10.—Germany assumed a place beside the powers of the world composing the League of Nations today. Foreign Minister Gustave Stresemann, in his maiden speech before the league holding its seventh annual convocation here, declared that fact, Germany is now entering into the midst of nations against which it waged the world war, proves that the league is capable of directing the political developments of mankind along new channels.

Stresemann's appearance on the rostrum drew applause from the delegates, which continued at intervals during his speech. The first German ever to deliver a speech, as an accredited member of the league was given an ovation.

Stresemann emphasized that disarmed Germany, desired to further world disarmament.

Versailles Treaty

Germany was welcomed into the League of Nations today, by her enemy, France, and at the conclusion of speech making and hand shaking, Sir George Foster, Canadian delegate, arose and led the enthusiastic statesmen and spectators in three cheers. The old enemies pledged peace. It was the first time undignified but expressive means have ever been adopted by the assembly to express approval.

Foreign Minister Stresemann and Foreign Minister Briand, of France, spoke from the rostrum after President Ninth of the assembly had briefly expressed the pleasure of the league at receiving Germany.

Elaborate precautions were taken to prevent any unforeseen incidents during the historic session which marked Germany's return to a position in the major world powers.

TEXAS FIDELITY PRATT WELL IS HOLDING OWN

Pratt No. 1, of the Texas Fidelity Oil Corporation, one mile east of Lacasa, which has been in the limelight ever since it was announced that it was making 41,000,000 feet of gas, last week, gauged 275 barrels for 24 hours, on last night's reading, according to Frank Barnhardt, one of the company's associates, who was in Ranger today.

The well is now 90 feet in the sand with 20 feet more to go, cannot be drilled in yet as the gas pressure blows the tools out of the hole. It is making about 25,000,000 feet of gas now and the driller will have to wait until that pressure weakens before they can drill in.

No new derricks have shown up in the Pratt vicinity but it is rumored that some locations have been made and other well spudded in at an early date.

Fidelity Oil Corporation is now ready to begin on two wildcat tests, near Scranton, and their tools already are on the ground. This is a new part of the county for this pioneer shallow field company to sink a test and the log of their wells will be watched with interest on account of their former luck in striking the pay.

TEXAS FIDELITY DERRICK BURNS
The derrick at the Judge Ed Pritchard well being drilled in the Flatwoods community, four miles south of Eastland by Neil Moore and associates, burned this morning. It is stated that gas, which had been struck unexpectedly at about 400 feet, ignited. No one was injured.

IDENTIFIED AS MEN WHO STUCK UP IRVING BANK

Three Women are Held By Ranger, Found In Dense Woods Asleep

By United Press.

CLARKSVILLE, Sept. 10.—Officers of the Irving State Bank, robbed three weeks ago, early identified the two slain bandits, who yesterday attempted to hold up the Red River National Bank here.

The bodies of the two men have been identified as A. M. Slayton, 45 years old, of Fort Worth, Texas, and T. L. Smallwood, also of Fort Worth. They are being held at the undertaking parlors here for relatives.

Excitement has not entirely died down here today, although the robbery and shooting took place nearly twenty-four hours ago. The event will be town talk here for years.

Three Women Held

Three women arrested at Crystal Springs, 16 miles north of here, last night were taken to Dallas to be questioned by Captain Hickman. They are believed to have been associated with one of the slain bandits.

They were found asleep on army cots in a densely wooded section. According to advices received here from Fort Worth, these women left there with the men. A search had been made for them in Fort Worth.

Mrs. Slayton, widow of one of the men, had separated from her husband and told the police about Slayton associating with another woman.

Slayton had a police record, while Smallwood was thought to have been a dairy farmer near Fort Worth. He did run a dairy farm on the Alamo Road, out of Fort Worth, stated the information from there.

Smallwood was identified by his brother-in-law, Bud Whiteman, a farmer, who lives a short distance from Clarksville. Whiteman is a brother of Mrs. Smallwood.

Slayton was identified by a poll tax receipt found in his pocket, issued by Deputy Tax Collector Cox of Tarrant county.

The car the men drove bore a Tarrant county license tag, No. 752567.

COAL MINING BILL IS DUE IN NEXT CONGRESS

By PAUL R. MALLON, United Press Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.—The bill designed to regulate coal mining and prevent fuel starvation in times of strikes is to be pressed by its author, Senator Royal S. Copeland, democrat, New York, at the coming session of congress.

Repeatedly during the final month of the last session of congress Copeland attempted to force action upon his measure but always the opposition led by Senator Newby, democrat, West Virginia, was able to prevent even consideration of the measure.

The measure has strong support with the exception of one feature, and Copeland believes it will be adopted before the adjournment of the short session in March.

The one provision which did not have support of the majority of the education and labor committee reporting the measure was the section which would permit the president to seize coal mines for operation after other pressures for settlement of strikes might fail. The committee pointed out that there was grave constitutional doubt as to the authority of the president to take over a private business and adopt the following resolution upon that feature of the bill:

"In all human probability if the people of the United States should have forced upon the country a condition so critical as the menace of a coal famine, the congress would be convened. In the face of dire necessity it would not take long to pass the laws essential on a measure so advanced as this."

With this feature eliminated, and perhaps some other changes, it is believed, however, that the bill may pass.

It provides first that a fact-finding agency be employed by the bureau of mines, commerce department, to keep tabs on the coal industry; that employers and employees should be granted every reasonable opportunity to settle their disputes but when the president sees fit he may use existing agencies to force the disputants to submit to voluntary arbitration; that should these friendly offices come to naught, the president could create an emergency coal board to investigate necessities for fuel; that should the board decide the public is in want the president could appoint a federal fuel distributor to expediate the movement of coal.

COTTON BELT MERGER IS PROTESTED

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.—A protest petition against the proposed grouping of the Kansas City Railway company, the Missouri, Kansas & Texas Railway company, and the St. Louis, Southwestern Railroad company, was filed today with the interstate commerce commission by the minority stockholders of the St. Louis & Southwestern Railroad company.

The minority group contended that the linking of the three roads would be contrary to public interest, would disrupt an existing route of commerce, and eliminate competition, and would make neither for economy nor efficiency, and would greatly damage the minority stockholders.

DALLAS MAN SEES THINGS IN AUSTIN

AUSTIN, Sept. 10.—Representative George C. Purl of Dallas arrived in Austin today and is not making any predictions as to what the special session of the legislature will do other than validate the road bonds.

"It seems to be quiet now," Purl said, "but insurance men say that lightning strikes in quiet places. Indications are that something besides bond validation legislation may be expected."

Purl has hinted at various times that certain state departments should be investigated by the legislature.

Plant Small Grains For Winter Grazing; Builders of Soil

A. K. SHORT.
 Small grains are used very extensively as a winter grazing and cover crop. Owing to their many fibrous roots, that form a network throughout the soil, they gather in all the plant food that becomes available throughout the winter, and when plowed under the entire mass of stems and roots soon decay and give back the plant food they contain to the crop that follows in the spring. Owing to the rooting system of the small grains, they are very desirable to prevent winter washing of the soil.

Winter barley and oats are grown successfully as a winter cover and grazing crop over most of the state. This is especially true throughout all the central section. Oats are possibly the most popular as a winter crop in the eastern and southern section, while wheat is the leading winter grain in the northwestern section. Rye will prove the most successful winter grain crop on any poor land. It makes better winter growth than does the other grains in the poor sandy section of east, west and central Texas, and also produces the best growth on the poor clay soils of the state.

When planted for winter cover crop and grazing alone, small grain may be sown at least twice as thick as when sown to produce seed. Wheat and rye may be sown at the rate of two and one-half to three bushels per acre, oats at the rate of four or five bushels and barley three or four bushels per acre. Thick planting will give more grazing per acre and produce more roots and stems to be turned back as humus in the spring. If the grain is sown with drill, it is

Get Up On Wrong Side Of The Bed?

Feel grouchy? Headache—sour taste in your mouth—no appetite—feel lazy and can't think?
 You are CONTIPATED! Maybe you don't feel the need of medicine—but constipation doesn't merely mean failure of the bowels to act. You must have a THOROUGH movement each day, or you will become clogged up with foul wastes which breed disease and fill your system with poisons.

Better correct that constipation with KLOK-LAX. If you don't, it may become chronic, and lead to serious disease and the sick bed. Constipation is a bad habit—A dangerous habit. Produces stomach trouble, biliousness, indigestion. Often leads to painful piles.

best to sow one-half the amount in one direction then the remainder at right angles to this. This method will insure an even distribution of the seed and will make a closer sod.

If it should be desirable to leave the thick planted grain for seed, it may be thinned out in the spring by streaking it off using small sweeps on back beams of cultivator.

Planting winter legumes with the fall grain increases the amount and quality of grazing, and increases the amount and quality of humus turned into the soil.

Shack of Queen Alexandra Must Be Torn Down

SANDRINGHAM, Eng.—A two-room shack which a queen built is being torn down.

In beauty it is about equal to a Tennessee Mountain shack and the same can be said for its size and its comfort. But Queen Alexandra designed it and like to go there for afternoon tea, to escape from the rigorous punctilio of Sandringham House, where later she died.

There are only two rooms in the bungalow, which stands on a wild and windswept spot a few miles from Sandringham. One room was for the Queen and her guests, the other for the servants. The walls, instead of being papered or smoothed, are decorated with seashells and the backs of crabs and turtles. In front of the modest building, facing the beach and the sea, the Queen converted an old boat for use as a garden seat and there she often sat at tea when the weather was fair, talking to the children who wandered along the sands.

It was hoped that the shack would be preserved as a local memorial of Queen Alexandra, but it has been decided, instead, to pull it down. The decision came as a great disappointment to residents of the vicinity, among whom Queen Alexandra had often shown herself in more human terms than is usually possible for members of the royal family.

Broadcasting Face is Latest Thing in Science

LONDON.—"I knew it was you by the sound of your face" may soon become a common salutation. Already radio listeners all over England know the somersaulting face of Captain Hutchinson's. It is a low dropping sound, like a far-away airplane. Captain Hutchinson has been broadcasting his face on a 200 meter wave length for several weeks, experimenting in the new science of "television," sending motion pictures by radio broadcast.

His face registers in ordinary re-

Bill Tilden will seek his seventh straight national tennis title this season. And, though the lanky Quaker appears to be slipping, he still stacks up as the best bet once again. West Texas Towns Beginning to Use Natural Gas Fuel

STAMFORD, Sept. 10.—West Texas oil and gas fields will soon be supplying every city in West Texas territory with natural gas for industrial uses as well as for conveniences, according to reports which come in to the West Texas Chamber of Commerce office from all sections in this part of the state. West Texas cities and towns will not have to be dependent on distant fields for their gas resources, but gas lines will be laid from the wells in the Central West and Northwest districts of their own territory.

Numerous cities in West Texas have recently granted franchises for gas to be piped into the city for general use. In several instances official celebrations have been held at the opening of the gas mains. Particularly interesting were the celebrations held recently at Vernon and Comanche. Torches were burned along the highways leading into Vernon, and all citizens viewed the spectacle of gas burning in their own city for the first time.

According to West Texas Chamber of Commerce officials, it will be only a matter of time until every city and town in West Texas will be equipped with gas lines which will be connected with fields in the near vicinity. Among the towns which have recently granted franchises, or have been equipped with natural gas mains are: Quanah, Childress, Chillicothe, Memphis, Clarendon, Claude, Lubbock, Plainview, Tulia, Happy, Kress.

Mercury, Hale Center, Abernathy, Woodson, Vernon, and Comanche. Slaton is in line for an extension from the Lubbock gas mains, and Throckmorton plans for a supply from wells within Throckmorton county.

THEY NEVER KNEW

by TOM SIMS
 AFIKA FICTION 1926 NEA SERVICE

THIS WAY NOW:

Gee, but it's warm. This is just about the hottest summer since away back yonder in 1925. Anyway, Jim marries Pearl, because he wants Pearl for his wife. They start on their honeymoon, and this is the sixth chapter, and you haven't missed much because the story doesn't get good until today or possibly tomorrow or the next day. Anyway, Pearl is the daughter of Mr. Handle, and his wife, Mrs. Handle. The old man objected to the match and continues to object. He shoots at Jim (Jimpson Weed, in full) every time the author gives him a chance. That's to make the story more interesting. Gee, but it's warm weather.

STEEP GRADE AHEAD: CHAPTER VI

Well, the last installment of this great and glorious novel ended yesterday in a shipwreck. They thought a sea serpent hit the runner's ship. It was smashed into 999,999,234 pieces. Really, it was smashed into two more pieces than that, but the other two pieces floated away before they could be counted. No fooling now, that wasn't any sea serpent. Honest, it wasn't any sea serpent. It was Detective Gumshoe's pipe. Remember how strong the pipe was? Oh, it was so strong. If you don't believe it could smash a ship just think back to the time it came in carrying a dozen elephants instead of eggs. It was strong. One time Gum's pipe got arrested for impersonating a volcano. It was in South America. Gum had climbed a mountain to look over the country. Natives thought the pipe was a volcano. That's how strong the pipe was. So it smashed the ship. Our Jimp tumbled into the raging waters of the ocean with a mighty splash. These raging waters were now running red with the thousands of barrels of bootleg booze which had perished when the ship was rent asunder. Into this seething mass our Jimp tumbled from his former height of several hundred feet. Luckily, he had presence of mind enough to open his mouth as he hit the turbulent liquid.

The ocean at this point was a whole gang of fathoms deep. Down went our Jimp. Down, down, down, through fathom after fathom, until finally he sat upon the bottom of the Atlantic ocean because it wasn't the Pacific. And as our Jimp sat there upon the bottom of the Atlantic because it wasn't the Pacific, he closed his mouth. It was time. He was pickled as well as soaked. The thousands of barrels of bootleg stuff, some of which was several days old, had done its work well. A cat fish passed by, hot upon the trail of a dog fish. A devil fish, softly humming a hymn, came staggering up with only about 210 or 12 legs touching the ground. Realizing it was almost time for dinner, our Jimp arose to the surface of the Atlantic ocean because it wasn't Lake Erie. There, a strange sight greeted his eyes. The ocean was covered with bathers. They were drinking the waters in which the thousands of barrels of bootleg had perished. So they drank a big hole in the ocean. So Jimp walked ashore.

Pearl was in their room at the hotel, weeping. She thought her loving husband drowned. Being a stranger in Atlantic City, she had no one to marry in her hour of need. Oh, if only she were back in Omeomy, Ohio, just for once more. There she would find plenty of marrying material. That's what she would do. She would return to Omeomy, Ohio, where she knew several men well enough for matrimony. Hastily packing her bag, she summoned a bell boy and sat down to wait. The quiet room brought such memories. There upon the floor lay the half of her handkerchief. Jimp had been with her when it was torn to make a bathing suit. Jimp, poor Jimp! His clothes were scattered about the floor just as if he had pulled them off to put on some more. Weeping softly, she opened the door for the bell boy. He came in to take her bags. A gust of wind entered by an opened window and slammed the door. The bell boy sat the bags down. "Pardon me," he said to Pearl while the door to the hotel room was closed. "No gusts of wind are allowed in this hotel." Saying which, he chased the little gust about the room. It dashed under the bed, but he poked it out with a broom. Finally, the little gust of wind was cornered. Seizing it, the bell boy kicked it back out of the window. "Stay out of here," he shouted at the little gust of wind, as it turned to make a face at him. "Stay out of where? Open that door." Someone in the hall was pounding at the closed door. "Quickly," whispered Pearl. "It's my husband, Jimp. He isn't dead. You must hide. He never would understand."

Jim in a corner. "I must get my breath before I kill you." Jimp, however, had not taken into consideration one important fact about which he knew nothing. It was pay day at the hotel. The bell hop had no desire to be killed on pay day. So he rushed into the hall and escaped. Jimp was really angry now. He lost all control of himself. Seizing his beautiful young wife by the hair he began to beat her with his fists and without mercy. A few minutes later, when Pearl realized Jimp was beating her, she poked him one in the jaw. She was so mad she refused to help him untangle himself. "Fire! Fire! Fire!" yelled the people in the street. It was true. The hotel was burning. It had caught from the heated words used in the argument between our Jimp and Pearl. Frantically, the guests fled, leaving their valuables behind. One fellow left as much as a gallon. Even more frantically, Pearl and Jimp dashed about the hotel corridors. They were caught like rats in a trap. The smoke and flames drove them to the floor above. They appeared on the roof, dimly visible to the gasping throngs below. "Help! Help! Help!" screamed Pearl, but to no avail. The firemen's longest ladders were several stories too short. A moan went up from the crowd. The building was about to fall. It would throw our Jimp and our Pearl into the seething furnace. "Weep! Weep! Weep!" wept Pearl as the story was continued. (Tomorrow Pearl and Jimp escape by a clever ruse. Read it. The story hasn't been much, but it gets better tomorrow.) (To be continued.)

Is Your Skin Dry or Sallow?

You will be enthusiastic over a new French Process Cream for whitening and beautifying the skin. It is so pure and different from other creams. Savex cleanses clothes softens water and bleaches all at once Less work but cleaner, whiter clothes and easier washing! Isn't it a pleasant thought? And so easy to make a reality with Savex!

Savex is a good soap, cleansing easily and thoroughly. It's a water softener, taking all the deadliness out of hard water. It's a mild, safe bleach, making things snow white without bluing.

Use Savex in a washing machine without rubbing or soaking; use in tub or hand basin and only soak and rub badly soiled things. You need never boil or blue.

And Savex is perfectly safe. Cherished linens retain their natural white whiteness. Colored things keep their brightness. Silks and wools retain their textile beauty.

Savex is a delight to use, too, for it will both protect and whiten your hands!

But he realized the danger of the situation because he had been a bell boy several weeks. So the bell boy crawled under the bed. "There's a man in here," shouted Jimp, rushing into the room when Pearl opened the door. "There ain't," snapped Pearl, beginning to cry again. "There is," cried our Jimp. "And your suitcase is packed. You were going away with him." What could the poor girl do? What could she say? How could she get rid of the bell hop under the bed? What is so rank as a hot day in July? How old was Ann's youngest sister? All these problems, and many more, bewildered the wife. She was glad to see her husband alive. She loved him, dearly. It was a terrible situation for any author to wish upon a poor little girl. It spoiled her first trip to Atlantic City. "I heard a man's voice," screamed our Jimp, gesticulating. "You are a darn liar," sobbed Pearl. It was their first fight. Both were broken-hearted. Jimp was so mad he dashed around the room kicking out the windows. Pearl was so mad she jerked off her wedding ring and flung it to the floor. Oh, what a serious mistake it was for her to do so. The ring rolled under the bed. "That isn't paid for," shouted our Jimp as he dashed after the ring. "You dropped your ring," said the bell hop under the bed, handing Jimp the ring. "Yes, thanks," said Jimp, taking the ring. "Would you mind coming out from under the bed so I can kill you more easily?" "No," said the bell boy. "I'll be glad to come out. It's warm under here." "Stand there," said Jimp, placing

Park Committee Out After Coin For Nitro Park

Pay as we improve—or improve as we pay, probably will be the slogan adopted by the Park committee of Ranger, that is making valiant efforts to sell season tickets for the Bulldog conference games.

The committee, which consists of Mayor Boh Hodges, Steve A. Lillard Jr., Raymond Teal, J. T. Gullahorn and Marvin Collie, is determined not to go in debt to put the grounds of Nitro Park, Ranger, in order.

"If we are to have them in good shape for the first conference game, on October 2, we've got to have more co-operation," Steve A. Lillard Jr. said today, and that ain't all, he strongly intimated that unless the kicking in was pretty strong, that the committee would get out and go after a public donation from Ranger merchants.

Very little co-operation has been encountered yet by the park committee. The tickets are only $5 for the four conference games that will be played in Ranger, and the price includes reserve seats.

The committee is striving hard to make Nitro Park a real ball park but its going to take some cold hard cash to do it, and the cold hard cash has to come out of the public's jeans—so folks who know the committee had just as well go down and hand 'em a five spot when they come 'round and then stop worry about a good seat at the conference games.

Lillar Home From Meeting Of Democrats

"Plenty of peace and hominy," Steve A. Lillard Jr. of Ranger, said today when asked about the state democratic convention, at San Antonio, which he attended as a delegate from Wise county. Mr. Lillard said that it was a great convention but that he felt that they should have adopted Moody's platform, without changing it. He stated that he talked with the democratic nominee for governor of the state of Texas on several occasions, and that naturally he felt that way also.

He said that Moody's participation in the convention was very modest. Mr. Lillard said that he saw a number of Eastland men at the convention including Judge N. N. Rosenquest, and Judge Fundenburg.

New Manager Of Poultry Men Holds Meetings

The Bankhead Poultry Producers Association is holding a series of meetings over the county for the purpose of acquainting the members of the association with the new manager, Harry De Lane; to explain the policies of the board of directors of the association, and to discuss some very important problems that the association is having to meet.

In addition to the triple purpose of the meetings, the committee which went to Petulama, Calif., to study poultry raising that place, also are making the trip and giving reports on what they learned from their visit to the famed poultry center.

The meetings for the coming week are arranged as follows: Carbon, Tuesday, September 14, at 8 o'clock, at the Woodmen's Hall.

Scranton, Wednesday night, Sept. 15, at the Scranton Fair, at 8 o'clock.

Gorman, Friday night, Sept. 17, place of meeting to be announced later but all interested in the meeting are asked to assemble at the poultry show, which will be held there on that date, and go from there to the place of meeting.

County Agent Bush, is very anxious that every member of the association in these places attend, as well as their friends, who might enjoy hearing what the association has to report.

Maverick Team Will Be Lightest And Youngest

Besides being the lightest team in the state, the Eastland Mavericks bid fair to be the youngest as well. Of the 31 members of the squad, one is 14, two are 15 and 12 are 16 years old. Thus it will be seen that virtually half the candidates for places are 16 or under. Six are 17 years of age.

Young players are more likely to become nervous and confused in a critical situation than veterans. With only two letter men back from last year, with a team averaging 16 years in age and around 142 pounds for the team average in weight, the Mavericks will face an uphill battle every time they step on the gridiron.

Coach Pena is working hard to impart the fundamentals to his charges, many of whom never put on a football uniform until 10 days ago. The squad is without a tackling dummy and a charging machine but these appliances have been ordered and should be here shortly.

The players' ages are: 14, Joe King, Cheatham; 15, Everett; 16, Osborn, Vaught, Wight, J. C. Day, Smith, Dabney, Simmons, Earnest, Vaughan, Brock, Lee Cox; 17, Jimmy King, Mackall, Daniel, Oberbey, Cory, Kitley; 18, G. C. Smith, Harrell, Condeley, Thompson, Leonard Cox, Rust, R. Brown, Jones; 19, Harris, Fox; 20, Turner.

French Swimmer Establishes New Channel Record

By United Press. ST. MARGARET'S BAY, Eng., Sept. 10.—George Michael, forty-five years old, a French swimmer, broke the world's record for swimming the English channel early today when he completed the crossing in 11 hours and 6 minutes.

Michael left Cape Griz Nez at 8:20 last night and landed here at 7:38 today, thus lowering the record of Ernest Vierkötter, the German swimmer, made on August 30.

It was Michael's eleventh attempt to swim the channel.

Michael's negotiating the channel is the fourth successful trial made this season, and the third time the record was broken.

Miss Gertrude Ederle was the first first to swim the channel and break all previous records. Miss Ederle was also the first woman swimmer to successfully cross it.

The second successful attempt was made by Mrs. Clemington Carson, a mother of two children. She did not break a record but established the present of being the first mother to make the trip.

The third successful trial was by the German swimmer Ernest Vierkötter, who broke the record made by Miss Ederle.

There were several unsuccessful attempts made by women and men, including the Egyptian giant who helped to train Miss Ederle for her trial.

HARNESS STOLEN
A pair of wagon harness was stolen from the Oil Cities Electric company in Eastland last night. They were taken from a harness house at the ice plant near the Texas & Pacific depot.

Seek Old League Flag

These fellows have pennant aspirations—Jack Hendricks, at left, opines as how his Cincinnati Reds are going to crash through and cop that old National League gonfalon; Joe McCarthy, boss of the Chicago Cubs, feels the same concerning his club. To be frank, each has a good chance to turn the trick. The Cubs have been one of the surprise teams of the majors this season. Joe McCarthy, remembered as the chap who gave Louisville a rompaway in the American Association last year, has done wonders with an outfit that finished down in the depths in 1925. The Reds have likewise accomplished more than the spring experts predicted, due to a great extent, to the managerial ability of Hendricks.

50 Applicants For Positions On Mustang Team

DALLAS, Sept. 10.—There is going to be a battle royal for positions on the Mustang football team this fall. Fifty men will report on Armstrong field on the tenth of this month and from this half hundred the eleven will be chosen by Ray Morrison to represent the red and the blue.

Eleven letter men from last year's squad and some 40 others comprise the material for this year's Red and Blue team. There is abundance of green material but the question is will there be enough experienced men on the club to steady the youngsters and thus make a real combination. Veteran linemen will be missed. The team as a whole shows fair defensive possibilities with a world of latent offensive power.

There will be only a few faces missing from last year's squad. The backfield that carried through the season last year with only two losses will be back intact. The flashy little Mann at quarter is due for a great year; the big Chris Cortmequin playing his last year has just found himself and is waiting to show some real power this season; Wade, the smashing interference and defensive man of the backs, has returned, and Craig, the fleet half back, is as speedy as ever. Bishop and Kimbrough are determined to break into every game. Dawson and Key, the two ends that bore the brunt of the burden last season will be back fighting for their old places and the youngster that replaces them will have to show some real talent.

It is in the center of the line that weakest link, according to Coach Morrison, and the Mustang line will need lots of work of it does not prove to be the weakest link in the Red and Blue team. Assistant Coach McIntosh has the task of developing men to support the veterans Ford and Tatum. He, however, has material in abundance. Ray, Trigg, Daniel, Brown, Schaedel, Roach, Mays, Bowman, Baccus, Bennett, Wilmeth, Hudson and Bristow furnish men with all physical qualifications.

The Mustang schedule includes Centenary, Trinity, University of Missouri and five strong conference clubs. Just how well this material will stand the gaff can not be told until the sun sets next Thanksgiving.

Be on hand when the revival begins at the Church of Christ Sunday, Sept. 12, 11 a. m., Morgan H. Carter will do the preaching.—Adv.

Golfers Are Out Training for The Thurber Game

Ranger Country Club greens are dotted with players every afternoon this week, each one intent on winning another victory from the Thurber golfer when they meet them Sunday afternoon at Thurber.

The committee insists on all who are going to participate in the tournament to get out to the links and limber up between now and Sunday, as the game at Thurber is expected to be a strenuous one. Ranger players saw how Thurber played last Sunday and realize their mettle. The tournament will start promptly at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon at the Thurber golf course.

Historic Arsenal Center Gives Way March of Progress

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 10.—Allegheny arsenal, center of Pittsburgh's war activities since 1914, today was placed on the auction block.

The historic landmark, viewed by all important personages who have visited Pittsburgh since the days of Lafayette, will go to the highest bidder, its usefulness having disappeared.

The old pile of masonry was never the scene of battle action, but was the site of one of the disasters of the civil war. Seventy-four children, 70 of them girls, were killed there when engaged in making cartridges for use by the union army. Several buildings in the arsenal were demolished by the terrific explosion, but were soon rebuilt.

When the United States entered the world war in 1917 and Pittsburgh became one of the centers of munition manufacturing, the arsenal was utilized as a warehouse. The war ended, the arsenal was cast for commercial purposes, and it will now be sold outright.

The old arsenal was built at a cost of $300,000. It was surmounted by a watch tower, 120 feet high.

Aged Minister Performs Ceremony Of Noted Interest

Rev. Randolph Clarke, veteran minister and educator, was called to Wichita Falls to perform the ceremony yesterday of Miss Fay Boyd and Joe Carrigan, and thereby hangs a tale. Years ago when Dr. Clarke was president of Randolph College at Lancaster, the bride's parents attended that college and became sweethearts and afterwards married. Judge A. H. Carrigan and his wife, parents of the groom, also were old time friends of the minister, so when it came time for the children of these two couples to take the marriage vows, it was the wish of both of the young people, that Dr. Clarke pronounce the wedding ceremony, which was held at the First Christian Church yesterday.

Austrian Town Claims Record For Old Police Chief

By United Press. VIENNA.—Klosterneuburg, a picturesque little town near Vienna, claims the distinction having as its police chief the oldest policeman in the world in active service. Gustav Smazal celebrated his seventy-fifth birthday during August by reporting at his office punctually, as is his usual custom. In the evening he was given a banquet by his fellow citizens.

For fifty-four years Smazal has spent his time making things unpleasant for lawbreakers, and during this period he has had a hand in running down quite a number of notorious criminals. For forty-two years he was a member of the Vienna police force.

On receiving his pension in 1914 he retired to live at Klosterneuburg. Being too old to enlist in the army when the war broke out Smazal volunteered to take charge of the Klosterneuburg police work so that the younger men might join the colors. Despite his age he filled the post so efficiently that no one thought of supplanting him when hostilities ceased and younger men became available for his position.

She Bared Her Soul!

To the man whose kindly tolerance and sympathy have put thousands back on the road to happiness

AND she was one of hundreds who have done the same—told secrets she would not tell her mother—or perhaps her husband—but in the confidential of the Judge's chambers she revealed all. Her story and those of scores of others—men as well as women—are now being retold for society's good in

Mrs. Philip Lydig Reveals Secrets of New York Society

ALMOST since girlhood, beautiful Mrs. Philip Lydig has been an unquestioned leader of New York's ultra-smart society. Now for the first time Mrs. Lydig proceeds to turn the spotlight on that society—telling in great detail why she finds it futile, false and corrupt. The statements she makes will astonish you—story after story of tragedies heretofore never publicly disclosed. If chronicles of the real lives of the prominently fashionable—heretofore known only to those on the inside of that group—are of interest to you, then you must read Mrs. Lydig's revealing article, "Marriage Without Love."

'HONEYMOON EXPRESS' A WOV

"The Honeymoon Express," a Warner picture, starring Irene Rich and Willard Louis, now at the Lamb Theatre, is one of the most decided bits of screen realism of the season. It depicts the home life of a typical American family, so amusingly, so humanly, and with such insight that your critic feels constrained to acclaim James Flood, the director, as one of the real masters. Irene Rich, as another type of mother, the worm-that-turned type, is a delight. Willard Louis as the philandering papa is a rib-tickler. The supporting players give variety and the result is a picture of unusual distinction. By all means see "The Honeymoon Express."

Englishman's Tub Is Myth, Says Europe

LONDON.—The traditional Englishman's "tub" is a myth and nearly anybody bathes oftener than John Bull, according to reliable evidence quoted by continental hotelmen.

The "Hotel Record," published at Zurich, states that almost every American traveler asks for a room with bath and 75 per cent of the French and 40 per cent of the Germans require private bathrooms with their accommodations. Englishmen, however, even of the highest station, seldom ask for a room with bath.

This view is supported by an English traveler in Marlow, England, who in a letter to the editor of the London Evening News declared that Continental and American hoteliers assert that Englishmen "make a lot of noise about bathing, but do little else." He stated that Englishmen make use of the general bath-rooms in hotels and that, more or less, for the purpose of shaving.

"The sponge-bath and the towel parade," he said, quoting the Record were not so common as the English friends. They love exercise. "In some American hotels an entire floor is reserved for English visitors. It is known to the staff as 'Four-Flush Alley.' On these floors there are six bathrooms to every 100 sleeping rooms. "No house, palace, mansion, or otherwise, boasted a bathroom before 1886. In that year I returned from America with the Earl of Dunraven, who brought with an American bathtub.

"I remember that 'Punch' devoted a page cartoon to Lord Dunraven's statement that 'an entire room' was given over to the purpose of the bath in American houses." It was some years before even Queen Victoria would 'give over an entire room' for that purpose.

Tennessee Lady Had So Little Strength She "Couldn't Get Around." Took Cardui With Benefit.

Gassaway, Tenn.—"I wasn't able to do any of my work, and it seemed like I had so little strength I just couldn't get around," says Mrs. Frank Murphy, who lives near here. "My mother knew of the good Cardui could do, so she told me to take it. I sent and got a bottle, and seemed like all the time I grew stronger."

"I had been suffering with pains in my sides all the time, and Cardui helped this wonderfully. I needed a tonic for female trouble, and Cardui just fitted the need. I was awfully restless and could not sleep at night, but after taking two bottles of Cardui I could sleep 'like a top.' I got along all right, and I know it was due to Cardui. I can certainly recommend it to women suffering from women's troubles. "My present health is just fine."

Ranger Water Tests Show It Bacteria Free
Turn on the faucet and drink. Ranger water following the doctrine of Coue, grows "better day by day." Six samples of water from Hagaman Lake, near Ranger, which furnishes Ranger's water supply, are sent each week to the laboratories of the state health department at Austin. Each sample is tested six times, and then reported on. The last six tests sent were taken from six different taps in Ranger, and show the lowest bacteria content to be 20 count and the highest 70, as compared to the lowest count of 40 and the highest of 130 in other waters that are being used for drinking purposes in Ranger. These tests show that the Ranger drinking water contains fewer bacteria than any other water in use in the city. The existing bacteria are harmless but still the state department's requirements are that a water to be safe for drinking purposes shall not contain bacteria over 100 count. For many years Ranger people have been skeptical of Ranger water and have bought other water for domestic consumption. The figures given out each week by the state board of health show that their prejudice is without a leg to stand on when it comes to actual bacteria count—and "figgers" don't lie, even when they are applied to a bacteria count. W. C. Blackond, engineer at the Hagaman plant is tireless in his work of improving Ranger city water so as to bring it to a perfect test. These tests are kept on file at the city hall, Ranger, and are open to the inspection of the public.

75 Counties Plan Exhibits For State Fair
DALLAS, Sept. 10.—With indications for an agricultural show that will transcend anything ever before seen in the Southwest, with promise for a livestock display running the full gamut of the industry, and with the pledge of more free attractions and amusements than ever before offered, the presage of the fortieth annual state fair of Texas, Dallas, Oct. 9 to 24, is one of keen interest in every department. Fully 75 counties, it is expected, will be entered for the county exhibits contest and for the $10,000 cumulative premiums, the competition for which opens with this year's exposition.

Santos Dumont, Brazilian inventor to whom South Americans credit the invention of the aeroplane, has one great hobby—traveling between Rio de Janeiro and Paris. Dumont rarely spends more than two months of the year at his beautiful home in Petropolis, a mountain resort near Rio de Janeiro. Most of this time is spent in Paris and on steamers between Rio and France. Dumont also goes in for collecting models of aeroplanes, dirigibles, automobiles, locomotives of such in his Petropolis home.

West Texas Body Drive for Members Meets Success
STAMFORD, Sept. 10.—The present program of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce is meeting with favor throughout the West Texas Chamber of Commerce territory as indicated by the enthusiasm with which the various towns have responded to membership drives during the past month. Approximately 98 per cent of the members whose memberships expired during this time have renewed their affiliations, while some of them have taken double the membership held during 1925. The larger industrial companies of the state whose memberships expired during the month of August all renewed their memberships and several of them increased the memberships they carried before. Keen rivalry between Amarillo and Wichita Falls, which has been manifested in all developments and improvements of these two oil cities, has been a feature of the membership drive. Last year Amarillo led all cities in the West Texas Chamber of Commerce district, with the exception of Fort Worth, in the membership campaign, bringing in a total of 404 members.

VANITY CASE

by Carolyn Wells

1926 by G-P-PUTNAM SONS.

BEGIN HERE TODAY
Mysterious lights flash from the Heath bungalow one night and the next day Harbor Gardens, Long Island, is agog over the murder of Myra Heath and the disappearance of her husband, Perry.

House guests of the Heaths are Lawrence Inman, heir to Myra's fortune, and beautiful Bunny Moore, to whom suspicion points because of her queer actions.
Myra Heath never used cosmetics.

yet when her body was found she was heavily rouged. A rare old bottle from her collection of glass had been used to kill her. Candles were burning at her head and feet.

At the county call the murder is discussed by Sam Anderson, Heath's rival for the club presidency; Al Cunningham, who is trying to solve the crime, and others.

Bunny is amazed to get a phone call from Perry Heath, saying Inman is the murderer. Cunningham goes to Anderson's house and there, while waiting for his host, is confronted by Perry Heath, who then slips away in the darkness.

Anderson arrives soon after and upbraids Cunningham for letting Heath get away. Todhunter Buck, who is in love with Bunny, is witness to a nocturnal meeting between the girl and Heath. He tries to get Bunny to explain and when she refuses he calls in his friend Steve Truitt, a famous detective. Bunny tells Truitt she had gone downstairs the night of the murder and seen Myra Heath, not yet cold in death, and Inman peeping from behind a curtain.

Truitt questions Inman and then, inspecting the Heath home, discovers something peculiar about a window. He then rejoins Buck and the latter's aunt, Mrs. Prentiss.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XLVI

"I found practically nothing of importance," Truitt said, then, seeing Tod's blank look of disappointment, he added, "except Mr. Inman himself. He wouldn't admit he had seen you that night, Miss Bunny, until I told him that you had told me of it yourself. Then he loosened up a little, but he still feared a trap. However, he did admit that he went downstairs almost immediately after you came up, and said he went down to see what scared you so."

"He's," said Mrs. Prentiss, "a little fishy. But, see here, Mr. Truitt, that checks out the lights. You know the place was dark as a pocket at one o'clock. Then, Bunny comes down at half past one, snaps on a bright light, and in about fifteen minutes turns it out and goes upstairs. Then, long about two, Mr. Inman comes down. Big light again, and soon he snaps it off and goes upstairs. Then, no more lights all night."

"Except the two small sparks—"

"Yes—those the murderer put there—"

"The murderer being?"

"Inman!" exclaimed Tod. "You must have seen, Steve, how queer he was, how you know—furry, and that sort of thing. Sly, uncommunicative, until he concluded to say something, then his words came out in a perfect sluice."

"Not much of a psychologist, are you, Tod?" and Truitt smiled at him.

"Oh, get out. I know what I know. I know the thing rests between Bunny and Inman. I know—you know, Bunny didn't do it, there fore, and therefore, it was Inman."

"Going to take me over to the club tonight, Tod?"

And as Toddy agreed, the whole subject was dropped by common consent, and one of Mrs. Prentiss' justly famed dinners was enjoyed with no accompanying talk of horrors.

But after dinner, Cunningham telephoned that they were to come over to Sam Anderson's house instead of to the club, as he had invited a few chums there for billiards, and didn't want to go out.

So over they went, Truitt admiring as they walked briskly along, the bridge, the brook it crossed and the delightful, though different landscape on either side.

Sam Anderson was polite, even cordial, but it was plain to be seen that, as he was expecting guests, he must faint them to make their visit brief.

Cunningham was the embarrassed one, for he had brought about this interview with no reason but a hope that it might be helpful to himself, and it was a little difficult to explain.

"I wanted you men to meet Mr. Truitt," he began a little lamely, but Tod Buck threw himself into the breach.

"It's all right, Mr. Anderson," he smiled. "We won't stay but a few minutes. I know you've got a party on. But to come down to brass tacks, I'm told that you Park people suspect Miss Moore of the Heath crime, and I'm asking you if you have any real and definite evidence against her. And, if you haven't, if you won't—you, Mr. Anderson, as one of the most influential Park men—if you won't do what you can to squish that rumor—or suspicion, or whatever you call it."

"My dear boy," Sam Anderson smiled at him, "you're barking up the wrong tree! I haven't the slightest suspicion that Miss Moore did or could commit that terrible crime. Why, the mere idea is inconceivable. And I've said so every time I have been where the thing was discussed."

"Good for you, Mr. Anderson!" and Tod wung his hand. "I suppose not all the Park people think alike then."

"Whom do you suspect, Mr. Anderson?" Truitt asked, feeling that the time might be short, and he must learn all he could quickly.

"Why, I'm not sure I ought to voice a suspicion, and yet, if it's to help save the name and fame of a fair lady—of a young girl, I suppose I need not hesitate. I am quite willing to put it on record that such evidence as has been rehearsed in my hearings, leads me to think that the criminal was Mr. Inman. I may be wrong, I can only say he seems to me the most likely suspect, as far as I can see."

"You don't think, then," Truitt went on, "it could have been the in-Perry Heath did it?"

"How did he make a getaway afterwards? I understand the house was locked up like a bank."

Anderson seemed willing to talk, at last, until his guests arrived, so Truitt kept him at it.

"Yes, I hear it was. But why would Mr. Inman kill the woman he loved?"

"Do you remember a line of a famous poem, Mr. Truitt? It runs: 'For each man kills the thing he loves.'"

Not entirely true, of course, but a man might do that from jealousy, or unrequited love. And, too, Mr. Inman is the heir. Oh, I don't know, of course, but he seems to me a far more likely suspect than Heath. I've heard the Heaths were married for several years, and though as a bachelor such things are outside of my line, I don't think the average man is jealous enough to murder his wife after they have lived together as long as that."

"That's so," Truitt agreed, and then Sam Anderson's guests began to arrive and the callers left.

From Tod, from Bunny, from Mrs. Prentiss, and even calling in one or two of the servants, it seemed Steve Truitt would never cease his endless filing of queries.

On all sorts of subjects, seemingly with all sorts of objects, but all more or less connected with the Heaths or with other of the Harbor people.

At last, he went off by himself and smoked a cigar in silence and solitude.

He returned, smiling and debonair. And made himself so entertaining and agreeable, that he seemed no more a prosaic detective, but a gay and polly chum of Tod's.

But after Mrs. Prentiss and Bunny had gone to bed, Truitt turned to Tod with a serious face.

"Old man," he said, "that woman was killed by either her husband or her cousin."

"Right, oh, oracle! I'm glad you see it that way."

"Heath," you know, is still in the neighborhood."

"Wast last night. And tonight, my laddie, he will visit the house next door."

"Important, if true. Yes, that's just it. Maybe he won't. But I think—I strongly believe he will."

"Do you happen to know what he will come for?"

"I do. He will come to get a book out of the—there a library?"

"No, books are in the studio."

"All right, then. He'll come to get a book out of the studio. Shall we conceal ourselves behind the arras, and nab him when he arrives?"

"I was awake most of last night—"

"Oh, puddinghead! stay at home, then. I'll go alone, or, better yet, I'll get your aunt to go with me. I must have a witness."

"Of course I'll go. If I fall asleep, you can rounce me when he comes."

"Admitting to himself, but not to Tod, that it might be a wild goose chase, Truitt led the way and followed by his friend, went silently across the lawns to the Heath house.

"Sit there," he whispered, pointing to a lawn settee, "and don't move till I tell you."

Tod did so, and ten minutes later,

Truitt came to him and jugged his elbow. "All set," he whispered.

To Tod's amazement, one of the French windows in the studio was open.

"How'd you do that?" he exclaimed, but Steven only said, "Hush!" and pushed him inside.

WHEN

the world started expecting more of women, the old-time "sanitary pad" had to go. Doctors urge a new way. Millions employ it. You wear sheerest frocks without a second thought, any time, anywhere. You meet every day unhandicapped. It is called "KOTEX" . . . five times as absorbent as the ordinary cotton pad! Thoroughly deodorizes . . . thus ending ALL fear of offending. Discards as easily as a piece of tissue. No laundry. No embarrassment. You ask for it without hesitancy simply by saying "KOTEX," at any drug or department store. Costs only a few cents. Pimples

What can I do?

"Oh, why can't I have a skin like other girls? Why do I have to have these ugly pimples, blotches and blackheads?"

"If I could only find something that would clear up my skin and give me back my soft, rosy complexion, I know I would be the happiest girl in the world! What can I do?"

Is that you talking? If it is, you don't have to worry a minute! Just build up the rich, red blood in your body. Then your skin will be as clear and soft as anybody's.

That's what S. S. S. has been doing for generations—helping Nature build rich, red blood! You can build red blood-cells so fast that the impurities that cause breaking out on the skin hardly get into the system before the pure blood annihilates them—kills them right out—stops them from breaking out through the skin.

And then this rich, red, pure blood feeds and nourishes the tissues of the skin and keeps it looking healthy.

That's all there is to it. Healthy, vigorous, red blood such as S. S. S. helps Nature build, makes you healthy all over. It beautifies your skin—drives away pimples, blackheads, blotches, rash, boils and eczema—gives you back your appetite—builds firm, plump flesh and fills you full of new life and energy.

All drug stores sell S. S. S. Get the larger bottle. It's more economical.
