KOLCHAK'S FIGHT AGAINST ODDS TO SAVE THE FUTURE OF RUSSIA

How an American admiral saved Admiral Kolchak from a Russian prison—The shimmering sword that fell in the sea—The speech that unlocked a prison door—Kolchak's visit to America and his apparent premonition of tragedy—The most funeral banquet ever held in Washington—How the Russian patriot was executed by lamp-light.

The Black sea fleet remained a cruising fleet in winter, owing to the open conditions in Black sea latitudes; soon its men were in a better frame of mind—they had had less confinement, less unoccupied leisure and hence less occasion and opportunity for grumbling and growling and getting disgruntled.

Black Sea Men Mutiny. Through the spring, and, indeed until the middle of June, the Black sea fleet remained loyal to the provisional government, and was still a formidable force.

But in June, 1917, a little group of agitators from the Baltic fleet arrived in Sebastopol, and began to talk and harangue. They told how the Baltic fleet were now wholly in the control of committees of sailors; how no officers had any right to order them around, and how much happier everybody was under the new system.

Admiral Kolchak was popular in the Black sea fleet; his personality exercised a powerful influence over the men; they were reluctant to mutiny against him.

NEW ICE CREAM PLANT STARTS COMING WEEK

Cost $50,000, Will Create Market for Milk in This Section.

The Hub Ice Cream and Cold Storage Company will have its first product ready for the market next week. Only a few minor details remain to be attended to before this factory built by Ranger men at a cost of $50,000 will begin turning out ice cream at the rate of 1,000 gallons a day if that amount can be consumed in this territory, and the men who built the factory believe it can.

When the wheels of the twelve-ton ammonia compressor start to functioning a market will be created for from 300 to 500 gallons of milk daily, much of which will be purchased from Ranger folks or those living in this section. An average price of forty cents a gallon will be paid for the milk, thus creating an income for the city of $120 to $200 a day.

Storage Capacity. The storage room at the plant will have a capacity for twenty car loads of perishable goods. This means for example that produce men can ship a carload of bananas and other perishable goods into Ranger and store them where they will keep fresh until disposed of. Only one room of this storage space is now available, but two other rooms will be completed soon.

The factory is complete from boiler to hardening room. Only the most improved machinery has been purchased and it is all new and paid for with cash, according to a statement of one of the promoters. The steam is furnished with a 25 H. P. boiler. An ammonia pump and an auxiliary pump have been installed. A mixing vat and a cooling vat for the ice cream, of 300 gallons capacity, are now ready for operation, as is a freezer that can turn out 40 gallons of ice cream an hour. Several men will be employed regularly.

It is doubted if there is a more complete ice cream factory in all West Texas.

Carry Dairy Products. In the building with the company in the Hankerider-Keith-Cooke Company of Fort Worth and the Abilene Fruit and Produce Company of Abilene. Both firms are doing business from the plant and the Fort Worth concern is keeping two traveling salesmen here regularly. J. W. Jennings, secretary-treasurer, and manager of the cold storage company will care for the house duties of the two firms. Between the two cold storage companies is handling three carloads of perishable goods each week. Mr. Jennings said that his company would also carry a complete line of dairy and fountain products.

Last winter W. J. McFarland began construction of a straight cold storage plant. Plans were changed and the present company organized, of which Mr. McFarland is president, and Dr. W. C. Palmer is vice-president.

In Fort Worth is an ice cream that is known over the state and it carries the name of its home city wherever it goes. So it is hoped and believed by Mr. Jennings and his associates that shortly Ranger will duplicate that feat. The least expectation is that it will dominate West Texas.

RANGER SHRINE PATROL CONFERS NEW DEGREE AT MOSLAH CEREMONIAL

FORT WORTH, April 30.—Three hundred novices crossed the burning sands of the Sahara desert at Moslah temple mosque on the shores of Lake Worth today.

Dr. B. A. Swinney Jr. of Breckenridge was the ring. The Ranger patrol of twelve put on the yeknom degree, a new Shrine ceremonial originated by Nelson Hemman of Ranger, and several other stunts. Members of the patrol were: Nobles W. R. Jarvis, captain; Stienham, Wilson, Kinard, Hagaman, Owens, Black, Petty, West, Hemman, Clemm, Tankersley and Crawford.

The road is finished into Lacassa, and the outfit is now working two miles beyond, though there is one stretch of about a quarter of a mile that has been passed over for later treatment. It will be finished over Cook mountain by next Saturday, Pippin announced, and it is expected that all culverts will be filled in so that the major portion of the new Eastland county highway toward Caddo, being built by W. S. Fleming, can be opened to traffic by that time. Mr. Fleming announced several days ago that this work would be done immediately and the road opened to traffic. The rock crusher is at work however, and a detour will have to be made around its operations.

BELLE DORA DUNN GRANTED NEW TRIAL

EASTLAND, April 30.—Judge E. A. Hill of the Eighty-eighth District court today heard the motion and granted a new trial in the Belle Dora Dunn murder case on grounds of incompleteness of the charge to the jury and admission of evidence as to the sanity of the defendant not of an expert nature. County Attorney Dunningman stated the case would be set up on the docket for immediate trial.

MAN FACES CHARGE OF COMPLICITY IN MURDER OF FLIERS

MEXICALI, Lower California, April 30.—A man accused of complicity of the murder of Lieutenants Connolly and Waterhouse, American aviators, when they last their way and landed in Lower California more than a year ago, have been arrested at Loreto, according to information received by the American consul here today. Loreto is in the southern district of Lower California.

SURE THEY FALL!

If one would impress the ladies, he should see to it that he dresses properly and choose the circumstances with care. But it can be done, if one is young enough.

For instance: One young man of four or five summers, neatly attired in blue and white negligee and with a straw hat atop his curls, had three of 'em hanging on his every word, right in the middle of a Main street sidewalk, Saturday afternoon.

He was lost, and wanted his mamma, from whom he had wandered away. And distress signs stood in his eyes and picked a tortuous course down his cheeks. And they capitulated. Down in the sidewalk dust they knelt, to console and cheer him and find out what was amiss. And shortly his eyes cleared, his confidence in his ability to battle the world reappeared, and he wasn't even properly grateful when his mother appeared to rescue him from his new found friends.

WASHINGTON, April 30.—Senator Penrose, chairman of the finance committee, notified the Senate tonight in reporting the emergency tariff bill that that measure would be called up Monday or Tuesday.

WAGE CUTS ARE ORDER OF DAY OVER COUNTRY

Labor Opposes Them; Back to Farm Movement Is on Increase.

CHICAGO, April 30.—A general tendency toward a reduction in wages throughout the country combined with a tendency on the part of labor in the East to resist the cut, and a general feeling that the peak of the unemployment has been reached, are the outstanding indications contained in reports on the industrial situation from almost every state in the Union.

The only labor troubles that has shown up previous to this May day appears in New York and Massachusetts where strikes of a rather serious nature have been in progress and where more are threatened as the result of the proposed reduction in wages in several trades.

BELLE DORA DUNN GRANTED NEW TRIAL

The troubles in the eastern section appear to be peculiar to their own locality, the only nation-wide controversy appearing in the printing industry, where some printers are attempting to put a 44-hour work week into effect and in the railroad situations. It is believed, however, that arbitration agreements in the majority of the newspaper establishments will prevent walk-outs while the National Typothetae of America has officially gone on record as against the reduction of the work week to 44 hours.

UNITY OF ALLIES SPLITS ON PLANS TO COERCE GERMANY

LONDON, April 30.—A sharp difference of opinion between the French and the British and Italians on the other, developed today at the meeting of the supreme council called to consider enforcement of the treaty of Versailles and steps to be taken to enforce payment of the indemnity.

By Associated Press WASHINGTON, April 30.—The administration's first step toward placing the United States on a technical legal basis of peace, was taken tonight by the senate in adopting the Knox peace resolution. The vote for adoption was 49 to 23.

Three Democrats voted for the resolution and although no Republicans voted against it, Senator Nelson of Minnesota, was paired against it. The Democrats voting for the resolution were Myers of Montana, Shields of Tennessee and Watson of Georgia. Two other Democrats, Reed of Missouri and Walsh of Massachusetts, were announced as favoring the resolution.

To House Next. The resolution now goes to the House with prospects of quick action there. An effort to amend the resolution was made by Senator Townsend, who moved the elimination of a clause repealing the war declarations and the substitution of a declaration that the United States would not "abandon" the Allies.

Senator Lodge in opening the debate said that resolutions repealing the state of war with other central powers would follow the Knox resolution. He also gave notice that the United States would not "abandon" the Allies. A substitute of the Knox resolution prepared by Senator King of Utah, Democrat, was not offered. The Republican majority was determined to pass the Knox resolution, he said. Neither did Senator France offer his plan for a general world conference to consider various questions concerning rehabilitation. He promised to offer it later, however.

MAN CHARGED WITH ASSAULT SURRENDERS

He and Woman Victim Relate Conflicting Stories of Alleged Affair.

Jack C. Ames, charged with criminal assault on Mrs. Onie Davis, last night came into Ranger and surrendered himself to Deputy Constable John Barnes. Shortly afterwards both he and Mrs. Davis made a statement of their respective sides of the affair at an examining trial held before Justice of the Peace Roger Fenlaw. The woman directly accused Ames of coming to her bedside and through force and fear committing the offense with which he is charged.

Ames denied that any threats had been used and swore before Justice of the Peace Fenlaw and Assistant County Attorney Barnes that everything that happened was with the woman's consent and after she had made flippant advances toward him.

The affair happened Thursday night, April 28, at the home of Ames, where Mrs. Davis was staying as a guest.

IMMIGRATION RESTRICTION BILL TO COME UP NEXT WEEK

WASHINGTON, April 30.—The immigration bill, restricting admission of aliens to 3 per cent of each nationality registered in 1910, and effective fifteen days after enactment, was reported to the senate tonight by Senator Dillingham, of Vermont, chairman of the committee. At the request of the senate immigration committee it will be taken up next week.

WILL SPUD IN NO. 1 ON BROWN, CRYSTAL FALLS

Entrance of Snowden-McSweeney Company Excites Interest of Oil Men.

Special to the Times.

CRYSTAL FALLS, April 30.—The entrance of the Snowden-McSweeney company into the Crystal Falls pool during the past week is looked upon with interest by oil men in this field. These operators, who were very successful on the Higginbotham and Ackers tracts in Breckenridge, have completed their No. 1 derrick on the Brown, two and one-half miles east of the Falls and expect to spud in during the coming week. Sixty acres, it is understood, is controlled in this lease, which is one mile west of the latest producer to be added to the Crystal Falls pool. This well, the Harry Taylor No. 1 on the Brown although a small producer, has increased confidence of operators who believe the pay said crosses the river in this locality. After considerable water trouble this well was drilled to a depth of 3,270 feet where it was shot with eighty quarts, which caused the hole to bridge in several places. Cleaning of this well is now under way and it is expected it will be completed within a few days' time. It is estimated that this well is in the 100-barrel class.

To the north of the Taylor well a race to the pay is on between the Breck Brazos Oil Syndicate and its neighbor the Breckenridge Drilling Corporation, both wells now fighting it out around 1,600 feet.

On the Yeaman survey, two and one-half miles southwest of the Falls, the Gilbert Johnson No. 1 is being watched by a large number of operators, this well now being on the lime and expected in within the next three days. Striking the lime at a depth of 3,278 feet, this well drilled into a distance of two feet where operations were suspended at the request of the railroad commission, due to the large amount of gas being made. The line found in the Johnson well appears to be identical with the gray lime of the Breckenridge pool, from which the largest production has been obtained, and it is the belief of oil men that this well will be in the 5,000-barrel class.

CHURCH MUST WORK TO BEAT MODERN DEVIL

By Harold D. Jacobs. United Press Staff Correspondent.

NEW YORK, April 29.—"The devil is working 365 days a year; the church has got to work to beat the devil," Rabbi Aaron Eiseman declared in an interview with the United Press today.

The young rabbi, who recently stirred New York with a sermon in which he declared "our social environment is rotten" and characterized vampires as "she devils," summed up present conditions as follows:

"Religion may be regarded as practically a failure, unless it gets down off its pedestal and mingles with the people on a common ground.

"The church must be liberalized and humanized, and its representatives must preach less along doctrinal and theological lines and more upon everyday life.

"People are turning away from the church because it is too undemocratic, and because it lives too much in past centuries, rather than the present.

"Clean and wholesome pleasures and recreations should be encouraged by the church. The people are going to dance, play cards and attend the movies anyway, so why not give them these things with the sanction and supervision of the church?"

Rabbi Eiseman declared there is but one solution to present day moral laxity—religion and its attendant moral training. He said he regarded the great number of divorce scandals as the worst of modern evils, with immoral dancing, salacious movies, immodest dress, gambling and vampires—both on the screen and in real life—close behind.

"The world apparently has made no moral or intellectual progress over the ancient Egyptians and Assyrians," he said.

"We are living in a generation just as money-mad and material as ever; a generation perhaps more sensual than ever, because it shows its sensuality in every form. It is displayed in the craze for immoral dancing; in the demand for immoral plays and movies; in the lack of modesty in conduct, dress and demeanor, and in the painted, powdered, rouged, kalsomined and varnished faces of our women and girls.

"This is an age of vampires. There are countless she devils who go about seeking to destroy homes and robbing women and children of their husbands and fathers. Even our conversation eventually becomes salacious. Among our women, among our girls of 16—who know more about life in their adolescence than our grandmothers did at 60—this has become an accepted fact.

"From top to bottom, through and through, our society is rotten."

Eiseman pointed to the Salvation army as a religious organization which "gets results" through hard work and democracy and cited Billy Sunday, who is not afraid of courting ridicule to "save souls."

"The trouble with most of us is that we are too timid," he said. "We are afraid of rolling up our sleeves and doing something that might be regarded as undignified. True religion always has dignity, regardless of what guise it is in.

"The devil is working all the time. If we are going to beat him we have got to work just as hard, or harder."

ARTISTIC COPPER'S NOVEL CRIME WAVE ROUSES CHIEF'S IRE

By United Press.

PORTLAND, Ore., April 30.—Lavender ring pirates cruising Nob Hill; pink confidence games in Lone Fir cemetery; a green murder at the home of the chief of police; orange bootleggers operating at the mayor's home.

All this—yes, even more—because some doughty copper, flat of feet and purest ivory of head, sought to amuse himself by moving some little colored pins about on a map at Portland police headquarters.

Portland had just installed the Berkeley system, made nationally famous by Chief of Police August Vollmer of the California city. Portland's chief, L. V. Jenkins, had just returned from Berkeley after completing a thorough "course" under Vollmer.

The map was one of the first Vollmer innovations to be installed. It had the entire city laid out, and each recent crime "pegged" with a colored pin. Coppers were supposed to inspect it daily, and find out how their various beats were faring.

But the cops weren't supposed to rearrange the entire criminal situation of the city to suit their ideas of color harmony.

"Them colors was all mixed up," the offender protested to Chief Jenkins, when yanked on the official carpet for violating all Vollmerian ethics. "I only straightened 'em out and fixed 'em pretty."

"You made 'em look like the seat of a Chinaman's pants in the Ming dynasty," roared the chief. Which meant nothing to him of the artistic soul, although the next statement "registered" all right.

"Get outa here, and patrol that beat from Two Hundredth street east—to the state line! Make it snappy. Wurrri!"

TREASURE SEEKERS ACTIVE IN RUSSIA

By Associated Press.

WARSAW, April 30.—Treasure seekers are to begin work soon in an effort to recover a wealth of gold and silver reported to have been hidden from the enemy by French soldiers in a lake near Vilna during Napoleon's retreat from Russia in 1812. The task is to be undertaken by French and Polish engineers under supervision of the two governments.

Many guns and flags and even carriages and other articles belonging to the emperor himself were slipped into the lake at the time, it is said, to prevent their falling into the hands of the pursuing Russians.

COL. JIM HUNT LOOKS BACK A FEW MONTHS

Burned Alamo Bar Was Once
Site of Smithy; Gin Hummed Nearby.

Workmen repairing the structure next to the burned Alamo bar and tearing away part of that building recall to the mind of Col. Jim Hunt conditions when he operated a blacksmith shop, then a garage in the old building, since used by the Alamo.

It must have been a picture of primitive industry the way Col. Hunt tells it, with the flaming forge at his location and the hummin' of the gin at the corner of Pine and Austin—a half block away. Nor has this been so long ago. Even though those who are classed as new comers may not believe it, Col. Hunt's word and those of many others have been given that lines of wagons stood at that night and day until the cotton crop had been gathered.

Many Wagons Came.

The gin stood in the block bounded by Elm, Pine, Austin and Rusk streets and it is said by those who were here in those days that wagons loaded with seed cotton have stood so thick in that block that it was almost impossible to pass among them. That was not the only gin, and there was one also at Lacassa, a short distance to the north.

It may not come true but the old-timers have faith that this condition will return again. Of course they do not expect that there will ever be a blacksmith shop on Rusk or a gin on Pine, but they do believe that those long strings of wagons loaded with cotton will again be coming to Ranger some time. "It is inevitable," one of them said Saturday, "that the condition shall return. Farming is a fundamental. It must go on and folks of the farm choose to follow their callings in localities where markets are assured for their products."

"Such markets exist here. No one could doubt that when it is known that last spring the express company brought in an average of 100 cases of eggs each day.

"That it is coming is certain but it could be hurried by some system of helping the landowner and tenant to get together."

The time signals sent out by telegraph from the Naval observatory are seldom in error by as much as two-tenths of a second, while the average error is less than five-hundredths of a second.

STANDING ARMY IS REDUCED TO 150,000 MEN

By Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 30.—Holding a side front against a Republican spread, Democrats forced through the House today an amendment to the army bill cutting down the enlisted force to 150,000 men. The Kahn proposal for a bigger force never got to a vote.

The bill was approved by Secretary Weeks carrying 168,000 men, 12,000 more than the number fixed by the measure passed last session and vetoed.

There was no certainty that the 150,000 figure would stand, for the vote today was in committee of whole and the house may demand a separate vote on amendments when the bill comes on the floor.

The House previously had rejected an amendment for an army of 156,000.

Salt water rain has frequently been reported during the prevalence of a tropical storm. This is explained by the fact that the spray from the great waves which the storm generates is often carried many miles inland by the wind.

YANK SECOND LOOEY ON RHINE GETS BIG PAY

Exchange Rate Makes His Stipend Equal to That of Foch.

By Associated Press
COBLENZ, April 30.—The pay of a second lieutenant in the American army on the Rhine is equivalent at present rate of exchange, to that of Marshal Foch.

This may explain in part why the American army of 15,000 men casts Germany more than 80,000 French troops in the Mayence zone. It accounts also for the exaggerated statement from German sources that America's fighting forces cost a many more than all the allied armies of occupation.

Marshal Foch's salary is 43,000 francs. A second lieutenant in the American forces in Germany receives $2,120 a year which extra allotments bring up to about $2,300. At the rate of exchange of 14 francs and a half to the dollar, the second lieutenant draws about 33,350 francs a year.

The buck private receives $36 a month; a corporal $51.50; a sergeant $63, and a technical sergeant $72.20. The French poilu at Mayence has to be content with 75 centimes a day; a corporal receives 90 centimes and a sergeant two francs.

With the rate of exchange about 60 to 65 marks to the dollar, the American soldier in Germany draws a larger salary than many of the high German city officials.

They Fare Well.
The American soldier in the Coblenz lives better than the average bourgeois family of either France or Germany. At each of the ten huts managed by the Young Men's Christian Association in Coblenz, the soldier can obtain better and cheaper food than in the average good restaurants of Paris or Coblenz.

Here is the menu of one Sunday dinner at the Bahnhof hotel, conducted by the Y. M. C. A., which the soldier could buy for 30 marks, or about a half dollar: Cream of pea soup, roast Dutch turkey, nut dressing, cranberry sauce, potato croquets, Jersey sweet potatoes, creamed cauliflower, shrimp salad, radishes, olives, pickles, rolls, butter, marshmallow ice cream, cake, coffee or tea.

There has never been a soldier in any army who has had at his disposition the organization of welfare which the American soldier on the Rhine enjoys. Officers say the boys are living the lives of gentlemen and are behaving as such.

Although prohibition does not exist in Coblenz, the correspondent has yet to see a drunken American soldier in the city and yet pay day, the dread of the military police has come and gone.

The Germans seem to bear them no animosity and they are very popular with the frauleins and spooning might be added to the outdoor sports which find favor with many soldiers.

WEALTHY BRITISHER GIVES HIS PROPERTY TO LESS FORTUNATE

By Associated Press

HYDE, Eng., April 30.—Austin Hopkins, a member of the house of commons, has just given to the local governing council of Hyde his mansion valued at $150,000 and 20 other houses and he has gone to live in an old barn on what was once a part of his estate. He has taken this action because of the spirit of self-sacrifice he believes that a manifestation on the part of public servants would avert any danger of a revolution in England.

Mr. Hopkins's other deeds of generosity include the disposal of his furniture to friends and the needy, partly by sale at bargain prices, and partly by free gift. He gave his handsome automobile to his chauffeur. The latter has now started in business with it. His former employer, the donor of the machine, is one of his best customers.

To questioners, Mr. Hopkins said his intention was to live the life of a simple workingman and to help others as much as possible. In his own workshops, he has introduced a profit-sharing system that is without precedent inasmuch as the higher the yield, the less he receives, and after a certain sum is reached, he is to receive nothing at all.

During the war, Hopkins was an officer. He was discharged as unfit, but rejoined as a private.

STORY OF HOW A TALKATIVE PARROT UPSET THE BOSSE'S EQUILIBRIUM

Our boss sometimes gets "hard-boiled." The light of battle comes into his eyes when something that shouldn't be done is being done. There was for example once when he heard a news-kid's voice crying the Daily Times on the afternoon before as being right off the press. This peeved the boss because it was not fair to the Times readers. He read the law to the circulation man.

Upsets the Boss.
Early Friday morning he was passing down Elm street to the office. He was in a happy humor, when on his ear struck the shrill cry of "Ranger Daily Times; read all about the murder; Ranger Daily Times paper." The boss was not in a happy humor any more. He never looked to the right or left. He could only hear that shrill cry at a time when he knew no news-kid should be on the streets. He strode on to the office. He exuded belligerency from every pore. He walked in and gave the circulation manager one glaring look and demanded to know what that kid was doing selling the Times at that hour. The circulation manager denied any knowledge of the happening, but said he would go and see. He did and shortly he returned with a sly grin on his face.

Ha! the Villian!
"Your news-kid," he said, "is Mr. Murphy's parrot over on the corner of Elm and Austin streets. And it was that parrot. He has the edge on any kid in town when it comes to the salesman's cry of the news boys. But he always hollers about a murder, which is something the management cannot give the kids every day."

BOUNDARY DISPUTE IS ON IN SOUTH AMERICA

By Associated Press
BUENOS AIRES, April 30.—A mixed commission representing Paraguay and Bolivia probably will be appointed to investigate the truth of reported encroachments on the disputed territory known as the Paraguayan Chazo, boundaries of which have never been set between the two countries, says a dispatch from Asuncion today.

Each of the two governments have recently accused the other of encroachment.

POUNDING IN PINCHES GIVES NITROS RUNAWAY GAME, 13 TO 4

Tommy Harding Shifted to Mound and Turns Bronc Hitters Back; Angelo Hurlers Wild But Nitros Tame Them; Five Homers Hit.

Showing a changed lineup, a rejuvenated batting eye in the pinches, and a general reinvigoration throughout, the Nitros went out yesterday and copped themselves a baseball game, by the ample score of 13 to 4.

It was the first time in almost a week that Nitro fans have had a chance to rear back and enjoy the comedy features of a pastime, secure in the conviction that the serious matter of winning was in good hands and no chance for any jinx to throw a brick into the cogwheels.

San Angelo folk had a happy time in the first third of the first half of the first inning. After that, any joy they may have felt came purely from the honor of pastime with the Nitros. It is not probable that Daddy Luke enjoyed the afternoon. But then, he's paid to do the worrying, so can't worry over him.

Harding Hurls. The biggest surprise of the day was to see Tommy Harding, taken off short yesterday because he had a sore arm, doing the serving for the Nitros.

Tommy didn't look like any world beater for the first few moments of the picture. Rather, he looked as if slated to be the finished product of an egg beater. For Truesdale picked Tommy's first offering for three bases. They're at it again, thought the crowd, remembering the unpleasantness of the day before.

Plate Too Small. Treadway's indifference to accuracy was the prime cause of the Nitros knotting the score in the first and second rounds.

MINERAL WELLS, April 30.—Sweetwater failed to hit Cantrell today, while the Resorters continued their hitting and won the game, 8 to 1. Langford's home run in the third featured. Fleaharty was put out of the game in the first inning for using rosin on the ball.

WINS BOSTON MARATHON IN RECORD TIME

Frank Zona of the Paulist A. C., New York, is being proclaimed the champion distance runner of the United States after the easy manner in which he showed his heels to a field of sixty-eight of the foremost distance men in the country in the American marathon over the famous Ashland-to-Boston twenty-five mile course.

In winning the race in 2 hours 18 minutes and 58 seconds Zona broke the old record, which has been standing since 1912 of 2 hours 21 minutes 18 1/5 seconds. Zona, a plumber and overseas veteran, stands 5 feet 11 inches and weighs 160 pounds. The above photo was made as Zona crossed the finish line.

Beard. Beard's came in the sixth with the bases full, which was the real start of the fireworks. Lefty Henkle proved successful with the visitors, holding them to four hits and striking out nine men in the seven innings he worked.

MAY DAY FINDS 4,500,000 MEN WITHOUT WORK

Most of Those Unemployed Are in Large Industrial Centers in East.

By Associated Press

CHICAGO, April 30.—Slightly more than 2,000,000 men will be found unemployed in nineteen states of the union this May Day, according to estimates given to The Associated Press by government, labor state and industrial officials.

A large percentage of those who are unable to obtain work are in the big industrial sections of the eastern and central states, included in these nineteen states from which unemployed figures could be obtained, but reports from the other 29 states where figures were unobtainable, all show that unemployment exists and the estimated unemployment of the country, made by experts including labor leaders, range from 3,000,000 to 5,000,000 persons.

How States Stand. The estimates in the states where unemployment flourishes most at the present time show the number of employed to be: New York. 450,000 Illinois. 430,000 Pennsylvania. 250,000 Indiana. 250,000

Most In Five Cities. New York City, Philadelphia, Chicago, Detroit and Cleveland stand out as the centers of the unemployment wave.

INFORMATION. The report of the United States government employment service showed that on January first of this year, the leading cities of the country with a population of 32,560,953 had a total of 1,802,765 unemployed and subsequent bulletins issued by this service indicate that this number has increased somewhat in these cities during the last few months.

THIS TIME LAST YEAR. Brooklyn lost to the Boston Braves and went into second place in the National league race. Yale played a game without an error against Johns Hopkins. Cornell beat Amherst in an 11-inning game.

the four months according to the monthly bulletins of the industrial service. The remainder of the state, however, has not gone unscathed by any means, for the reports from Albany show that 364,000 of the state's 1,500,000 factory workers including New York state cities report unemployed on about the same scale.

The United States employment service figures for Illinois shows a somewhat like condition. While 86,000 were unemployed in the city of Chicago in January yet the rate of increase in the last four months would indicate that this has been increased to more than 100,000 by today. In the state of Illinois, however, the figures move upward. The government puts them this way: On January 1, 1920, 1424 concerns employed 943,000 persons. On January 1, 1921, these same firms employed 539,313, showing a reduction during that year of 414,087. Chicago firms were included in this survey. No figures for the next four months on these concerns, is given but an estimate based on 107 concerns, each employing more than 500 men or women, show a decrease in employment of about 3 per cent, on April 1, as compared with January 1, 1921.

Condensed reports from the various centers show: Approximately 364,000 of New York state's 1,500,000 factory workers will be unemployed May 1 as a result of industrial conditions. Factory wages average 10 per cent lower than in October, 1920, when the high point was reached. Wage reductions are expected all along the line May 1.

Approximately 65,000 workers of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America are on strike in New York City—largest strike in the city. Sev-

Table with 2 columns: State and Unemployed count. Michigan 100,000, Ohio 210,000, Wisconsin 140,000, West Virginia 50,000, New Hampshire 35,000, California 30,000, Rhode Island 21,300, Washington 20,000, Oklahoma 18,000, Nebraska 12,000, Oregon 11,000, Idaho 12,000, Kentucky 10,000, Arizona 6,000, Utah 4,000.

In a number of states the reports gave no estimate of the number of unemployed but the officials noted that the unemployment was large. In Massachusetts, for instance, the estimate was lacking although figures compiled from two trades ran the total of funemployed in these up to 32,000.

James H. Maurer, president of the Pennsylvania State Federation of Labor estimates that about 5,000,000 are unemployed in the United States, but government statistics and individual reports from almost all states do not quite bear out this figure, although they do indicate that the total is somewhere between 3,000,000 and 4,000,000.

Approximately 364,000 of New York state's 1,500,000 factory workers will be unemployed May 1 as a result of industrial conditions. Factory wages average 10 per cent lower than in October, 1920, when the high point was reached. Wage reductions are expected all along the line May 1.

(Continued from Page Five) eral thousand boot makers out as well as 6,000 misses and children's dress and waist makers. Several thousand custom tailors are out, including those in Fifth Avenue and Broadway shops. All strikes against wage reductions and for union recognition. Numerous other smaller shop strikes. Few Schedules Changed. Situation quiet in building trades industry in New York City, but approximately 50 per cent of the organized 115,000 building trades workers without employment. The majority of the union agreements run to fall or next spring. No attempt by employers or employees to change wage schedules. Only labor trouble of importance just settled when 15,000 union painters signed new agreement with employers after strike of many weeks. Marine situation unsettled. Thousands out of work on the water front. Only six thousand of the 15,000 marine workers on railroad and other floating equipment in harbor working. Federal conciliators attempting to arbitrate controversy between the coastwise tugboatmen and owners. These workers protesting against wage cuts of $35 and $50 a month. 120,000 members of the International Seamen's Union taking strike votes in protest against wage reductions proposed by the American Steamship Owners' Association. More than 5,000 actors and vaudeville performers on the Rialto without work. May Day finds the employment situation in Pennsylvania improving, Robert J. Peters, director of the state employment bureau, estimates the total number of unemployed in Pennsylvania early in April did not exceed 250,000.

BLACK LIME AT 840 FEET NEAR PECOS FOUND

Carries Gas and Some Oil and Has Excited Much Interest.

PECOS, Texas, April 30.—A black lime formation at 840 feet in the Owens No. 2 on the western edge of the Pecos field has excited considerable interest among oil men. This lime carried gas and a little oil. About twelve miles to the north and east the Lewis Jones syndicate has gone beyond a gas pocket found at 600 feet, and is drilling just beyond 700 feet near where they had a showing of oil in another hole, which had to be abandoned because of a bad fishing job.

The good weather which followed the high winds of two weeks ago has permitted nearly every rig in the Pecos territory to be at work, and the chief hope of the eastern section of the field seems to be the Bell No. 1, which has been bothered by caveins for the past two weeks in getting through a gas rock at 1740 feet, but which is now working on a heavy gumbo well impregnated with gas, and giving every indication of oil in the near vicinity. Around the Bell, three wells in as many directions are speeding after the Bell drill and all are now around 900 feet. The Los Pecos is setting casing at 880, the Helen S. is underreaming at 880, and the Texoil Syndicate is at 870 feet in a blue shale and drilling.

CHILEAN PORT SUFFERS FROM LONG STRIKE

ANTOFAGASTA, Chile, April 30.—Strikes have been in progress among the maritime workers here almost continuously for the past ten months and are reported to have caused heavy losses to the steamship lines. Business interests are much concerned over this situation and it is feared that Antofagasta, which is the principal port in northern Chile, may lose most of its shipping business as a result.

The British government is reported to have made representations to the Chilean foreign office to the effect that British steamship companies would be forced to suspend calls here unless there was early improvement in the port's labor conditions. The newspapers assert Lloyd's, London, has threatened to refuse to insure cargoes destined for Antofagasta owing to thefts of merchandise which are alleged to be widespread in the port. It is asserted that certain groups of port workers have now established a virtual boycott against all steamship companies that are known to be transporting liquors. This is part of an agitation against the sale of liquor, which already has resulted in refusal of the port workers to load or unload it here.

RECEIVER APPOINTED FOR CLAY BOILER & MACHINE CO.

Judge Davenport of the Ninety-first District court granted a petition in involuntary bankruptcy yesterday in the case of the Clay Boiler and Machine company of Ranger, and R. R. Stafford of Ranger was appointed receiver. W. D. Clay, president of the company, is in Dallas where he is confined in a hospital by illness. The plant will be closed pending the taking of stock, which will begin Monday, Mr. Stafford said.

The inventor of the marine chronometer, John Harrison, received a reward of £20,000 from the British government for his invention.

WHEREABOUTS OF TWO MEXICAN REBELS AND FOLLOWERS UNKNOWN

MEXICO CITY, April 30.—Messages received by the war office here from the Mexican consul at Del Rio and from Washington agents at Nuevo Laredo, say that rebel leaders General Francisco Murguia and General Sadio Aguilera and six of their followers were arrested by American authorities several days ago at Candelaria, Texas.

No details of the present whereabouts of the men was contained in the message.

Lake Baikal in Siberia, the deepest fresh-water lake in the world, contains several species of fish not found anywhere else. Some of these species are very ancient, and are supposed to be survivors of a geological age when the region in which the lake is situated enjoyed a semi-tropical climate. One of the strangest fishes of the lake, called the golomyinka, is almost one mass of fat, and was formerly caught in immense numbers for the production of train oil, but is now scarce.

CHARLIE CHAPLIN IN "THE KID" AT THE TEMPLE

Charlie Chaplin in a scene from "THE KID"

Charlie Chaplin in "The Kid"—the season has produced another picture like it. After more than a year's absence from the screen in a feature picture, Charlie Chaplin is back again in "The Kid," proving himself the king of comedy, the same old Charlie, with the twisted smile, the buggy trousers and the shuffling walk, yet a new Charlie, flashing across the screen like a new comet in the sky. He doesn't have the picture all to himself, however, but shares honors with "the kid" himself, little Jack Coogan, a sturdy youngster who will go straight to the heart of every audience, and Edna Purviance, beautiful feminine lead of other Chaplin successes, plays a part.

"The Kid," a First National release, will be the feature attraction at the Temple Theatre for three days, starting today.

Charlie Chaplin's antics, the marvelous acting of little Jackie Coogan, the story itself—any one of the three alone would make a picture of interest, but the three together surpass beyond a shadow of doubt anything that has ever been attempted before in a comedy. This story of a little foundling baby and the tramp who adopted him is one that will tug at your heart strings and sometimes you'll smile and sometimes you'll cry.

In the rear of a tenement alley, amid dirt and trash, falling refuse from the apartment above and the sordidness of the slums, Charlie introduced, shuffling along almost gaily in his shabby reserve, pausing to pry open a sardine can in which he carries a variety of cigarette stubs, takes a light and thence down the alley, twirling his broken cane. In a garbage can he finds—the Kid—a precious bundle of humanity. The plaintive cries smite Charlie's heart and he hastens to rescue the baby with the intention of returning it to the mother. But no mother is forthcoming, and he is accused by the vigilant cop of trying to do away with the baby.

that must be followed. You cannot abuse your body and have it last no more than you can mistreat any other delicate mechanism and have it survive for long. But the rules are so simple, and before long become so enjoyable, that obeying them is not a task but a pleasure. Here they are in four lines:

Don't overeat.
Don't overwork.
Don't overplay.
Don't oversleep.

There you have them—work them out your own way. But think youth all the time and you will have it.

AMERICAN CHORUS GIRLS CHALLENGE RIVALS IN FRANCE

By EDWIN W. HULLINGER (United Press Staff Correspondent.)

PARIS, April 30.—The American chorus girl, whose beauty and graceful dancing have made her the envy of stage folk throughout the world, is to have a chance to measure up against the Parisian stage beauty for the first time as a permanent drawing card for Parisian theatre crowds.

An all-American musical comedy house, putting on exclusively American produced and American executed shows, will be opened in Paris soon under the same management as the Folies Bergeres, Paris' Winter Garden.

The Theatre Apollo, on rue Clichy, has been leased for this purpose and performances will begin in the near future. The theatre Apollo is one of the larger and popular Parisian playhouses. It will be remembered by many American doughboys as the Bal Apollo, for it was converted into a Dansasant after the armistice.

It may also be remembered on account of a leak. Impending during a bombardment, when a bomb dropped through the roof during a performance, landed in the deep cushions of a fauteuil and nestled there quietly without going off or injuring a soul.

This will be the first time an all-American house has tried to compete with French theatres in their own field on a permanent basis.

Exponents of the American stage predict an immense success for the venture.

Nearly everyone who has had opportunity to compare the American chorus with its European stage equivalent has been struck with the superiority of the former. American chorus girls dance much better collectively and probably quite as well individually and they are very far from being inferior in "pep" and vivacity for which the French stage beauty is renowned.

French chorus girls frequently are graceful as individuals but they do not know how to dance together. They lack that collective unity of movement which has made American chorus and drill teams famous the world over. Viewed from the galleries the average Parisian chorus resembles an American caste in an early rehearsal, before the director's sharp tongue has lashed the kinks out of the beauty line-up and forced a stage-full of dancers to move like one person.

The American colony in Paris is jubilant at the prospect of having a chance once more to slip into a first row seat for an evening feast of real American beauty and song.

LAMB.

Will Rogers, the eccentric screen star, never had a part that fitted him so well, and in which he scored a greater hit, than his latest role as "Peep O'Day," in "Boys Will Be Boys," by Irvin Cobb, a Goldwyn picture being shown at Lamb theatre.

To lovers of Cobb's Southern character stories—his Judge Priest series—the appealing tale of his adventures of Peep O'Day is familiar. It is the story of a "town character," who, having been reared in an orphan asylum, grew to a ragged and drab manhood without a taste of real boyhood. Then, unexpectedly, he falls heir to a fortune in far-away Ireland and determines to make up for lost time and buy the red-topped boots he craved as a boy, and all the candy he could eat.

It was this queer manner of spending his fortune that aroused the avarice of a money-lender, who plans to have Peep adjudged insane, and obtain control of the money. Another schemer, a woman neighbor of Peep's, also has designs in the same direction, but her plan is to get Peep away to marry her.

A delightful love story, centering about a young lawyer in the town and the school-mistress is interwoven in the plot, and the lovable old Judge Priest has the chance to straighten things out in his humorous, homely, but altogether satisfying way.

The picture is well worth seeing. The cast is excellent. Rogers sets a high standard for the others, and they live well up to it.

LIBERTY.

"If you would remain young long, long after the allotted time for its passing has occurred, think youth," advises pretty and youthful Norma Talmadge, the popular motion picture star, who will entertain the patrons of the Liberty today in her latest big success, "Yes or No?" a First National attraction.

Youth, like countless other things, in life, depends largely upon our mental attitude toward it. If you refuse to allow yourself to be old, it will surprise you how long age will be in approaching. Your thought will frighten the dread monster away. I know a charming old lady well passed her eightieth birthday, who does not look a day older than fifty—and why? Simply because she has refused to allow herself to grow old.

She is the constant companion of her grandchildren and enters into all of their pastimes and social gatherings with the zest and understanding of a girl of their own age. And in doing so she unconsciously imbues the spirit of youth which is reflected in her physical and mental condition. I truly believe that she will live to be well over a hundred.

"And there is another chap I know—a man in San Francisco who is fifty-four. He goes in for dancing, athletics and the companionship of men and women fully twenty years younger than himself. When I last saw him, not quite a year ago, he did not look a day over twenty-five. At that particular time he was taking a ten to fifteen mile hike over the foothills every morning and returning from them without the least sign of fatigue.

But of course there are other rules

DALLASITE TO BE DIRECTOR OF YELLOWSTONE

Frank Reedy Will Guide Visitors to National Park This Summer.

DALLAS, April 30.—The appointment of Frank Reedy of Dallas as educational director of Yellowstone National park will be approved by the new administration for the coming summer, according to communications received by Mr. Reedy from Stephen T. Mather, director of National Park service. Mr. Reedy is the first person to hold this position. He made the place for himself by his interest in the park and his knowledge of it, acquired through twenty years of study. Mr. Reedy has traveled over 25,000 miles through the park on foot, and has shown it to more visitors than any other person, according to H. H. Hays, president of the Yellowstone Camping company. He began his visits to Yellowstone when he was a youth, happening to visit it with a friend he made at an Epworth league convention in Colorado. His work as an educator and church man since then has not interrupted his devotion to the park. He has collected a group of the park have received the praise the Indians who originally inhabited the reservation, and the stories he tells visitors concerning the features of the park have received the praise of all educational officials connected with the service. He is an old-timer, and has seen the value of the national reservation dawn upon the public through years of indifference and neglect.

Mr. Reedy will begin his twenty-first year of service in the park in July when he takes up his new duties as educational director. Lectures on the beauties of the reservation, explaining the various phenomena also, will be given to the tourists every evening. Mr. Reedy has been urged by government officials to extend his study to other national reservations, and will begin to do this as soon as he completes the summer work at Yellowstone. Stephen T. Mather, in asking him to extend his tour to other reservations, wrote: "My recent tour of the national parks and especially of Yellowstone, has brought conspicuously before me your work during the past twenty years as student, explorer and interpreter of the park. Aside from what you have done to afford happiness to the persons who have visited the park

SOCIETY AND ORGANIZATIONS

WIENER ROAST

Ten couples of the Baptist Young People's Union of the East Baptist church enjoyed a wiener roast Thursday evening at T. P. springs, east of Ranger. The party was chaperoned by Mr. and Mrs. Carpenter and Mr. and Mrs. Rhodes. After a delicious out-of-doors supper, the evening was spent in games and telling stories. Those present were Misses Lillian Neal, Verdie Jones, Vera Smith, Zuelena Johnson, Messrs. Jack Garber, J. E. Harvin, Dewey Jones, Willye Eastland and the chaperones.

PERSONALS.

A. Joseph of the Boston Store has returned from McAlester, Okla., where he attended the Scottish rite reunion. D. Joseph of Joseph Dry Goods Co., is in Fort Worth attending the spring ceremonial of Moslah temple, Nobles of the Mystic Shrine. W. E. Davis is in Dallas this week on a business trip.

ATTENDS REUNION.

A. L. Williams of the Joseph Dry Goods Co., returned Thursday from McAlester, Okla., where he attended the Scottish Rite reunion. Mr. Williams reports over 2,000 attended the convention from various states, including Texas, Oklahoma and Louisiana.

under your guidance, your services have been of inestimable value to those of us who are charged with their care and supervision. If every American citizen could see the park under such leadership as yours, and could be given the opportunity to understand and interpret it that your parties have, this great playground would mean vastly more to the nation at large."

CRYSTAL FALLS, April 30.

One of the finest camps in the North Texas oil fields is now being constructed by the Roxana Company south of Crystal Falls. The company, pioneers in this field, have recently completed a modern community club house for its employes and visiting officials. A number of new residences are also being constructed, these being modern in every respect and it is announced that a ball field for the men and play grounds for the children will be added in the near future. This company, at present, owns what is considered to be among the finest leases in the north Stephens field and on which they are carrying on an active drilling campaign.

"BUSINESS IS BETTER," THIS MAN DECLARES

Feed Man Sees Increasing Activity in Provender He Sells for Teams.

"Ranger folks may not believe that business is showing a decided increase but I know it is because of the greatly increased teaming activity." This statement came Saturday from one of the city's feed dealers.

"I think I must be selling feed for twice as many teams as I was a month ago," he said. "To me this is a sure sign that things are doing in the adjacent oil fields. Another thing I note too, is the again familiar sight of long strings of wagons hauling casing. I see this most every day and Friday I counted fifteen in one outfit."

While the speaker probably would be termed an optimist, he is certain that much new development is going to start in the immediate Ranger fields. He bases his prediction on the additional teaming activities he sees in progress.

Other proof that things are on the upward trend is found in the fact that every day or so some one is on the street hiring men. Further proof is that quite often nowadays a man will be approached to work and he will evade the issue, saying he is sick or something of that nature. This has happened within the past day or two.

CRYSTAL FALLS POOL TO HAVE 14 MORE WELLS

Special to the Times.

CRYSTAL FALLS, April 30. — Fourteen additional wells are to be drilled in the Crystal Falls pool. This announcement was made by H. Burt, representative of the Consolidated Oil Industry company, of San Antonio, Texas. This company controls 147 1-2 acres close in to the Stribling wildcat well of the Tex-Oil Oil syndicate, three miles west of Crystal Falls.

Contracts have been let for two wells to be started by May 15, according to Mr. Burt yesterday, the others to follow in the near future. Mr. Burt was accompanied on his trip by T. M. and A. H. Word of Atlanta, Ga., both of whom are very prominent in oil circles in the south and who feel confident that large production will be obtained in the northwest extension of the Crystal Falls pool.

COOPER-HENDERSON TO TRY HAULING STUNT TO SETTLE WAGERS

BRECKENRIDGE, April 30. — To settle a controversy and wagers among employes the Cooper-Henderson Company will try to transport a full string of six inch casing in five wagonloads with a caterpillar tractor to the Newton well, twelve miles out on the Ivan road. If the project is successful it will save $100 over the ordinary cost of hauling the supplies with small trucks.

Prairie Dogs Soused.
By the Staff

CHEYENNE, Wyo., April 29. — Wyoming prairie dogs are the latest victims of illegal booze traffic. When a sheriff's posse visited the country west of Cheyenne recently in search of moonshine stills, members of the band saw staggering prairie dogs, unable to find the "front door" of their holes. Investigation showed that several pints of whiskey had been "cached" in various prairie dog holes and had been broken with the consequences of a spree in dog-town.

ECZEMA.
Also Called Tetter, Salt Rheum, Puritus, Milk Crust, Weeping Skin, Etc.

ECZEMA CAN BE CURED TO STAY, and when I say cured, I mean just what I say—CURED. I do not merely patch for a while, to return worse than before. Remember, I make this broad statement after putting ten years of my time on this one disease and handling in the meantime a quarter of a million cases of this dreadful disease. Now, I do not care what all you have used, nor how many doctors have told you that you could not be cured—all I ask is just a chance to show you that I know what I am talking about. If you will write me TODAY, I will send you a FREE TRIAL of my mild soothing guaranteed cure that will convince you more in a day than I or any one else could in a month's time. If you are disgusted and discouraged I dare you to give me a chance to prove my claims. By writing me today you will enjoy more real comfort than you had ever thought this world holds for you. Just try it and you will see. I am telling you the truth.

CATS TRAINED TO BECOME EXPERTS IN FIREBUG'S TRADE

Credit Men's Investigation of Commercial Frauds Tells of New Way to Commit Arson; Fussies So Trained Sell For $250 Each.

NEW YORK, April 30.—How cats are taught to upset lighted lamps, thus setting fire to buildings was related by C. D. West, manager of the investigation and prosecution department of the National Association of Credit Men. This is one of the many ingenious schemes used by commercial swindlers to get insurance money or to gain through fraudulent bankruptcy, said Mr. West. He added that the number of such swindlers had greatly increased since the beginning of the present business depression.

"It was while I was investigating a case in Patterson, N. J., not long ago, that I became interested in the disappearance of a dozen satchels which had been used for transporting cats to New York," said Mr. West. "I decided to trace them and found that they had been shipped to Philadelphia, and from there to Chester, Pa., where the father of the man under suspicion in Paterson, was mysteriously interested in cats.

"My investigation brought to light the amazing fact that the cats were trained to overturn lighted lamps on sight. When their training was completed they were sold to men in various cities at $250 each, a pretty large profit on a wandering cat picked up in the street.

"If a man wanted to fire his store, from which most of the best stock had been secretly moved, all he had to do was to buy one of these cats, put it in his place with a lighted lamp and then go home, assured that while he slept the cat would knock over the lamp and set fire to the store.

"But the scheme that in my judgment outclass all others in ingenuity," Mr. West continued, "was that of a man on the east side, whose indictment I procured some time ago. He was the head of a gang of arson specialists who for a specified fee undertook to set a fire whenever and wherever requested.

"This man or his aides would set a lighted candle in an empty lard bucket. Hanging down inside the bucket were little bags of gasoline suspended by strings. Cotton was placed about the edge of the bucket's top, and when the contraption was closed the cotton was ignited and an explosion followed which set fire to the building, and, at the same time blew the bucket to pieces, destroying the evidence of the arson.

"During the period of business prosperity, according to Mr. West, the commercial swindler almost vanished because it was comparatively easy to make money honestly. Now that conditions have changed, crooked failures and successful fires have greatly increased. The National Association of Credit Men, Mr. West added, now have 110 men waiting trial for such practices.

Navy Promotions.
WASHINGTON, April 29.—A selection board to nominate line officers for permanent promotion in the navy has been ordered convened at the navy department, it was announced yesterday. The board will select eight rear admirals, thirty-five captains and eighty-nine commanders.

ALL DATED UP.
This took place—or they say it did anyway—at Camp Dix.

Private Manicure had stepped into O. H. Q. from Fifth avenue and, for talking back to an officer, had drawn a week's assignment at K. P.—Karl's Potatoes. Even then he wasn't satisfied and expressed his opinion of the detail with sharp words.

"Just for that," said the officer, "you get another week."

Manicure fished in his pocket and brought forth a small notebook.

"I'm sorry," he said, fingering the pages, "but the best I can do for you is the first week in July, 1919."

At last accounts he was still on K. P.

PIGEONS ARE SMUGGLERS OF DRUGS, BELIEF

Bird Falls in Storm With Cocaine Tied to Its Leg.

KANSAS CITY, April 30. — A search for the "master mind" of a nation-wide drug smuggling ring—a criminal genius whose cunning has led to the use of carrier pigeons to transport narcotics—is in progress in Kansas City.

Federal agents are convinced that this city is the narcotic headquarters of the gang. Federal Narcotic Agent Joseph M. Bransky, in charge of the Northwestern division, with headquarters in Minneapolis, is in charge of the investigation.

Bransky came here recently following a raid at a hotel in Minneapolis in which drugs valued at $40,000 and letters and other evidence tending to show that the narcotics had been sent there from Kansas City, were seized.

Six men and a woman are being held in Minneapolis as a result of the raid. Agents believe they are mere pawns in the hands of a "directing genius," whose headquarters is here. During the last six months drugs valued at more than $2,000,000 have been confiscated in raids in Midwestern cities. Federal agents declare they have information that all of the narcotics passed through the hands of ringleaders here.

The first clew that carrier pigeons were being used to convey drugs came following the storms last week when a bird was forced to earth at Fargo, N. D. One of the pigeon's legs was broken. Two aluminum capsules containing cocaine were strapped to the pigeon's legs. Since then other pigeons similarly "loaded" have been found in Minnesota and Illinois.

Bransky declared today that the agents have discovered that drugs are being smuggled into the United States from Mexico in oil tank cars and by airplane. Sealed bottles containing narcotics have been found in tank cars, the agent asserts.

Malady Victim.
WALLA WALLA, Wash., April 29. — Violet Couch, 11-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Couch, of Wallula, is dead from sleeping sickness.

Oh, Absolutely.
"Madame," said the medium, pocketing the fee, "I find your fears for your husband's safety are groundless."

"It's quite possible," agreed the anxious one. "He is a sailor."

RETIRE THAT CAR TODAY

Some FACTS About

THE UNIVERSAL CAR

Here are authentic figures from the Ford factory at Detroit. They show you just how many Ford cars and trucks have been built each month since January 1, 1921, and how many have been sold to retail customers, in the United States.

	Produced	Delivered to Retail Customers
JANUARY	29,883	57,208
FEBRUARY	35,305	68,603
MARCH	61,886	87,221
Total Production	127,074	Total Retail Sales 208,032

showing that actual sales for the first three months of 1921 exceeded production by 80,958 Ford cars and trucks!

April requisitions already specify 107,719 additional cars and trucks and the estimated April output of the factory and assembly plants combined calls for only 90,000!

These facts clearly show that the demand for Ford products is growing much faster than manufacturing facilities to produce and were it not for the dealers' limited stocks, which are now being rapidly depleted, many more customers would have been compelled to wait for their cars. It will be only a matter of weeks, therefore, until a big surplus of orders will prevent anything like prompt deliveries.

If you would be sure of having your Ford car or truck when you want it, you should place your order now. Don't delay. Phone us or drop us a card.

THE WOMAN WHO SAW

Where ignorance of spelling is bliss, it is folly to inquire too closely into laws of phonetics. At any rate, never before had the Woman perceived such indifference to any mere word's claim to its proper initial.

Idly turning the pages of a magazine, preparatory to purchasing it, to the Woman in the stationery shop came the sound of a gentle, elderly voice expressing manifest deprecation and embarrassment. "My daughter asked me to bring her a special fashion magazine, but the name has completely slipped my mind."

Smiling sympathetically, the Woman glanced from the customer to the ardent proprietor behind the counter. No flickering emotion disturbed the serenity of that stern visaged haughtiness. The white-haired little lady a trifle more embarrassed, exclaimed: "Perhaps you could help me out? I do remember it begins with an E."

Then came a suggestion, ungraciously: "Was it the Review?" "No, no. It is spelled with an E." "Is it the Bon Ton?" "No, that isn't it. It's spelled with an E. I have it! The Elite! Have you the Elite?" "Boredom." "But," scornfully, "that's spelled with an A."

The blessed spirit of humor alone in the little lady's eyes as she exchanged an amused glance with the Woman, but all she said was: "Oh, is it? Thank you. May I have it, please?"

Of all the prerogatives of adulthood, so says the Very Modern Girl, the best is to be left in charge of the household when father and mother go away. So it was with a pleasurable feeling of excitement that she and her good-bye from the wicket at the Pennsylvania station one day last week, and then stopped in at Huyler's on their way home.

The Girl could not help contrasting this visit with others she remembered. There was the time when Dickie came down with the measles, and she spent nights of fear beside the little white crib and all her money in frantic telegrams to the two travelers; and another, when the absence of parental authority seemed to have set loose a dozen imps of wickedness in her small charge, and the question of an adopted aunt's right to make use of the maternal slipper upon her honor.

But now Dickie constituted himself her host and guardian and entertainer. He showed her all his most precious possessions, including the button from the uniform of a German prisoner given him by a "real sergeant," he took her on delightful excursions to see the new baby bears at the park, and as soon as school was out rushed home to tell her the news of his small world.

"Miss Martin told us about an awful funny man today," he announced in the assured tone of one who carried news of importance. "He was going to make a speech, and he was scared the people would laugh at him because he stuttered, and what do you s'pose he did?"

"Why, he put pebbles in his mouth." As the girl smiled down into the earnest little face beside her she saw the look of enthusiasm change to one of bewilderment and awe.

"How did you know?" demanded Dickie.

IT'S GOING ON RIGHT UNDER UNCLE SAM'S NOSE

Joseph Daniels Tells
Story of American Navy's
Exploits in World War

agitators at last prevailed. On June 20 the sailors of the Black sea fleet called a meeting and adopted a resolution deposing Admiral Kolchak, and electing a commander-in-chief from their own ranks.

When the admiral was notified of what they had done, he appeared on the quarter deck of his flagship and addressed the men.

It was a dramatic scene, and a tense moment. The admiral appealed to the men to remain loyal in simple, but eloquent language. He made his plea in the name of Russia and of the cause of justice and democracy for which she was fighting with the Allies and the United States.

The men were moved but not to repudiate their action. They were touched, but they stood by their purpose.

Casts Sword Into Sea.
The admiral said that it was in vain to plead with them. There was nothing for him to do but to give up his command, abandon his ship, leave the fleet, in which he had taken a just pride, to be managed by a committee.

But Kolchak, although surrendering would not turn his sword over to any representative of the mutinous sailors. They demanded it, but he would not give it.

Instead, drawing it from its scabbard for a single moment in salute to the Russian flag, and then, with a quick gesture, sent its shimmering blade spinning through the air and watched it fall into the sea.

There was a gasp from the sailors as they realized what he had done, but there was not a man among them who did not honor him the more for it.

Turning upon his heel sharply the former commander-in-chief came down from the quarterdeck, climbed over the side of the flagship into a waiting boat, and was taken to Sebastopol, where he was put in prison along with Smirnof and other officers.

What might have been the fate of Kolchak we can not tell, although it is not unreasonable to think he would, in time, have suffered the fate of the commander-in-chief of the Baltic fleet. "Execution by order of the sailors' soviet" is quite as deadly as assassination.

American Mission Arrives.
But it happened that while these things were going on in the Black sea, other things had been happening in Petrograd. The Root diplomatic mission, appointed by President Wilson and headed by Elihu Root, reached Vladivostok on June 3 and went straight to Petrograd on a special train provided by the Kerensky government.

The naval member of this mission was Admiral Glennon, who, after reaching Petrograd, with little delay, set out for Sebastopol to visit Kolchak and the Black sea fleet, wholly unaware of the serious situation which had developed.

report, "so the American officers left their swords in the train."
The American officers were taken to the flagship from which Kolchak had been disposed the day before.

Admiral Glennon stood on the quarter deck, where Kolchak had stood in his final appeal and spoke to the sailors on the meaning of democracy. He paid a generous tribute to their ships. He spoke of Russia's bravery and urged the sailors to stand loyally by the cause for which the allies were fighting.

with the greatest affection and gratitude. A few weeks later Kolchak came to the United States at the head of a Russian naval mission, and his renewal of acquaintance with Admiral Glennon was like the meeting of brothers.

The visit of the Russian naval mission had for its primary purpose, probably, a study of how discipline was maintained in the navy of a republic. However, its officers told us many interesting things about the organization and operation of the Russian navy.

I had a chance to see a good deal of Kolchak while the mission was here. It was said of him that he was of Tartar descent, and his appearance gave some weight to this rumor. He was of medium height, very dark, with piercing eyes and a determined expression. He was famous for his resolute purpose in all undertakings, and his face gave clear evidence of it.

He was intensely Russian and patriotic, but broad-minded, simple and practical. He admired Farragut greatly, and made a special trip to his tomb to place a wreath upon it. He was also a great admirer of our arctic explorers, probably because of his own polar service.

Not Man for Leader.
But he was not fitted for the sort of leadership the Russians required after the revolution. Valorous and fine-tive and too class-conscious to inspire the sympathy and confidence of millions of Russians who had vowed they were through forever with aristocracy and militarism.

Moreover, he was lacking in faith, lacking in optimism and enthusiasm. When I heard he had become leader of the counter revolution, I expressed my belief that it was doomed to failure. You can not win a great campaign with a man upon whom melancholy and hopelessness have set their seal.

I remember the dinner Admiral Kolchak gave at the Shoreham hotel in Washington to the secretary of the navy and prominent officers of the navy department just before the Russian naval mission took its departure in 1917.

Beyond all question it was the gloomiest, most funereal occasion I experienced in all my eight years in Washington.

News had just arrived of a German victory over the Russians in the Baltic. The Kerensky government was in a perilous situation. These facts were reflected in the lugubrious countenances and solemn words of those who sat at that banquet table. I did my best to cheer Kolchak, predicting a wonderful future for a democratic Russia when the Allies and America had won the war.

Kolchak Without Hope.
"Do you really believe Russia can again have peace?" he asked me, and the tone of his question spoke his own despair.

You have read of the depression which sometimes wrote itself upon the face of Lincoln in his darkest hours. I never saw Lincoln, but accepting the most depressing accounts, his sadness must have had a ray of hope in comparison with the utter hopelessness which sat upon the somber face of Kolchak.

I think the premonition of tragedy was in his soul.

At the end of October, 1917, he sailed from San Francisco for Japan, intending to return to European Russia by Siberia. When he reached Japan he found the Bolsheviks had seized power, and Kerensky was a fugitive. The Bolshevik government offered him and his officers safe journey to Petrograd if they would recognize its authority and swear allegiance. Kolchak refused.

MRS. THEODORE ROOSE-VELT, JR., MAY ENTER POLITICS

Another Roosevelt looms on the political horizon. Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., providing it meets her approval and provided the women voters of Nassau county, New York, can arrange it, will follow her husband's footsteps as a member of the New York assembly. Mrs. Roosevelt took an active part in the campaign for her husband, then up for re-election. Mr. Roosevelt was elected and later appointed assistant secretary of the navy by President Harding. In speaking of her possible nomination to succeed her husband, Mrs. Roosevelt said: "I would feel highly honored, of course, but before I could say anything I might better wait until I am asked."

and dissipated, leaving him alone. The Allies had abandoned him.
Captured and Executed.
One day in January, 1920, a revolutionary group raided the village of Inokentievskaya, near Irkutsk, and found Kolchak. They took him prisoner and turned him over to the Bolshevik commissars.

There was a perfunctory court-martial, and the predetermined sentence of death.

In the early dawn of Feb. 7 he was led from his cell to the court yard of a building in Irkutsk, where he was stood with his back to the wall.

According to the story which has come to us it was too dark to see his face distinctly, so a soldier held a lighted lamp near it for the better guidance of the firing squad.

When the command to fire was given the squad failed to obey. Perhaps it was the fearless defiance in his eyes that held their fingers untightened on the triggers.

Angered at their soft-hearted reluctance, a Bolshevik commissar, who was supervising the execution, pushed the squad aside, strode to close range of Kolchak and shot him down.

At least that is the tale that is told, and, knowing what we do of Russia under the red regime, it may well be true.

So died a brave, honest, patriotic Russian.

How many of them have died! How many more must before the salvation of Russia is wrought?

(Another article by former Secretary Daniels will be printed tomorrow.)

By DR. WILLIAM E. BARTON
My train pulled into Baltimore just as another train pulled out, and I saw on the platform on the side next the ticket office a woman in a wheeled chair. A man with a red cap was wheeling the chair.

She was to be taken aboard another train on the farther side of the station, and our train had run in between the train from which she had alighted and that which she was to take. Just then a second train ran in beside ours, and my two train-people between her and where she wanted to go.

An official approached the wheeled chair and had a word with its occupant and the red cap ran—yes, ran—to a telephone, which I suppose was connected with the office of the train dispatcher.

"Hold 83 for an invalid!" I heard him call.

THE HUB OF THE OIL FIELDS

There is no doubting the appropriateness of the nickname Ranger has chosen for itself.
From maps I have studied and from what I have been shown I need no proof to make me believe that the number of oil derricks within a radius of 40 miles out of Ranger is the greatest for equal territory in the world.

I have looked over a few hundred of them and it is a sight worth coming across the country to see. I do not wonder that in his new romance of the Texas oil fields, beginning in a current magazine, Rex Beach sends his hero to Ranger in the second chapter.

I hope Rex had so good a time while he was down here that Ranger may get the full value of the advertising possibilities of this story.

No doubting that in location and in the popular estimation Ranger is the hub of the Texas oil fields.

All that is needed now is to have good spokes—those good highways radiating from Ranger of which every man in Ranger is dreaming and talking. Roads running into Ranger from every neighboring field: Breckenridge and Jinkum, Caddo, Thurber, Desdemona and others.

To have such a group of roads would be an assured and permanent future handed to Ranger on a platter.

Ranger has taken up bravely the task of getting these roads. The five million dollars recently voted in the county for road development proves that.

Does Ranger realize that she need not fight single handed for the roads that are to make it in fact this Hub of the Oil Fields? At Ranger's side is every other community in the county, since by its strategic location a road that runs from Fort Worth to Cisco; from Breckenridge to Desdemona, from Caddo to Eastland, must logically pass through Ranger.

At Ranger's back is the whole state of Texas. Texas' dream of being in fact the great empire it is in possibility will be realized by the state's solid support of any project which builds up any part of it.

At Ranger's back, too, is the United States government, reaching dollar for dollar of road appropriation if the thing is gone about rightly.

It is a big job, to get the roads that make Ranger a hub whose spokes are not mired. But Ranger has done big jobs from the day of its awakening, and can continue to do them.

But not only in roads, though dependent largely upon them, is Ranger the potential Hub of this part of the universe. It must be, and it can be, an industrial center. Brick kilns, a glass factory, a marble yard are being talked about. If outside capital will not start these, local energy can, as Senator Barrett recently suggested.

Ranger can be a financial center. How many millions a year do local business men, and those of Eastland county and round about send east and north in the way of insurance money? Why not a West Texas insurance company located at Ranger? I have seen the sum of seventy million dollars cool money passing through an insurance club at Hartford, Connecticut, as the receipts of Hartford insurance companies in a single week.

As a distributing center, and as a farm produce center, Ranger has equal opportunities with any city in the region, and a head start over most. Moreover, to repeat, I believe Ranger has the brains and energy to keep that lead, or take it.

It has got to happen that anybody who wants to sell a thing or buy a thing west, south or north of Ranger must get it directly or indirectly from Ranger.

Then Ranger will be in fact as in location the Hub of the Oil Fields, and the development that is to succeed them.

To achieve such an end, no task is too small. It may be hard doctrine to warn Ranger not to despise "the day of little things." It has had a flourishing day of big things.

But whether it be securing the county farm agent now talked of and locating him in Ranger; or "repatriating" a single family which once moved away from Ranger for some reason; assisting the improvement of suburban telephone lines; or finding a job for the young man who may otherwise move away; or resisting the impulse to buy shoes and hats in Fort Worth; or writing cheerful letters about Ranger to your friends, though ever it may be, no item is too small to merit attention.

All Ranger has to do is to WORK and KEEP WORKING—and to whistle while it works.

With vision, a program, and team work, I foresee the day when from the top of every one of Eastland county's forest of oil derricks, though they then be dry as Sahara, may fly a banner inscribed:
"Ranger the Hub of West Texas."

'HOLD 83!'

By DR. WILLIAM E. BARTON
My train pulled into Baltimore just as another train pulled out, and I saw on the platform on the side next the ticket office a woman in a wheeled chair. A man with a red cap was wheeling the chair.

She was to be taken aboard another train on the farther side of the station, and our train had run in between the train from which she had alighted and that which she was to take. Just then a second train ran in beside ours, and my two train-people between her and where she wanted to go.

An official approached the wheeled chair and had a word with its occupant and the red cap ran—yes, ran—to a telephone, which I suppose was connected with the office of the train dispatcher.

"Hold 83 for an invalid!" I heard him call.

Then he ran to another box, which I conjectured communicated with the bridge where the signals were displayed, and again he shouted, "don't let Eighty-three out till I call you again."

Then he ran up the steps of a car on our train and opened the vestibule on the other side, and entered the vestibule on the second train and opened that on the farther side and shouted to the conductor of the train farthest over, the one that bore the number, Eighty-three:

"Eighty-three!" he called. "Hold your train! There's an invalid here must be got on!"

They actually cut one train in two, and waited for the other to pull out, in order that that woman in the wheeled chair might get on board. And everybody was interested in the accomplishment of it.

Railroads are managed by corporations, and trains are run on schedules, and these take no account of invalids and wheeled chairs. But railroads and corporations and train schedules are managed by men with hearts, and hearts control many enterprises.

DO FOLKS QUIT DYING DURING TIME OF BUSINESS DEPRESSION?

Do folks refrain from dying as the barometer of business begins to register stormy trade conditions? One would think so if talked to some of the traveling men who "make" the two undertaking establishments of Ranger.

Saturday there was such a salesman in town selling embalming fluid. Or at least that was his business here but he did not sell any, and he confidentially told a Times reporter that his business was just half what it had been during the past few years.

When asked for an explanation of such a situation, the traveler said that his only explanation was that folks just refrained from dying in times of business depression. If he did not know other men in his line were having the same trouble he would think that he was a poor salesman, he said, but he did know that many of them were not selling enough stuff to make their expense account.

Embalming fluid might be explained, but a few days ago a coffin man was in town. He had traveled nearly all over the state and said himself that he had not sold enough coffins to pay his railroad fare. Nor could he explain the condition. All he knew for certain was that the dealers would not buy because they were not selling any coffins.

When the question was put to one of Ranger's undertakers, all he could answer was that in Ranger folks were not dying. He cited the fact that since Jan. 1, there had hardly been a death from natural causes. Against this he stated that during one month two years ago he handled thirty-one funerals.

LOCAL ODD FELLOWS OCCUPY NEW QUARTERS

The local order of Odd Fellows Saturday completed moving the fixtures of its hall from the Carpenters' hall on Elm street to the old Terrell building on Rusk street.

In its new quarters it will have a large lodge hall, an ante-room, or room for candidates and a rest room for the members of the Rebekahs. This latter room is equipped with comfortable chairs, a table, rugs, mirrors and other details for the use of women.

The lodge hall has a seating capacity of perhaps 100.

The move was necessitated, it is said, by the increasing numbers of the lodge.

One of Robert Louis Stevenson's earliest publications was a scientific paper contributed to the proceedings of the Royal Society of Edinburgh. It deals with the effects of forests on climate.

COLLEGE GIRLS ARE TOO FRISKY, IS THE VERDICT OF DEANS

CHICAGO, April 30.—College girls are exceeding the speed limit. So say sixty deans of schools for women scattered over Illinois who are in conference at the Northwestern University. Two things were dwelt upon which in their view have reached the "irreducible minimum," skirts and sleeping hours. The deans did not make any hard and fast rules but after discussing the reports they decided a reform was necessary and that a uniform standard of ethics should prevail.

SPRING IS HERE AGAIN
 Clothed in New Garments
 —This is the season when dreary scenes of landscape change to colored glory with foliage and flowers placed on trees and earth by Mother Nature.
 —Birds build new nests or remodel old ones and add song to the gladness of the season.
 —Certainly mankind should keep in harmony with such surroundings. After exposure to the ravaging elements of winter we find most every building in need of some repairing and painting. Now is the time to make a survey of your property and start to clean it up.
 —You clean up and paint up your home, rebuild the fence, place a rose trellis here and there and possibly a pergola over the drive and a flower box under the front window. Your neighbor next door and across the street will do likewise and soon the whole neighborhood and the entire city will take on a new appearance.
 —Let's all join in this movement now and make such improvements as we need or can afford. It will elevate our civic attractiveness and make Ranger a better place in which to live.
 —Further, it will add to your own happiness and pride and will actually enhance the value of our property beyond all proportion to the cost of such improvements.

GOT A BAD COLD? WELL, JUST GO UP IN A FLYING MACHINE

WASHINGTON, April 29.—Medical science has discovered a new therapeutic agent in the airplane.

The curative value of air plane and balloon flights in the rarified air regions was brought forcibly to the attention of the medical world by a recent incident in Washington. H. A. Renz Jr., who was rendered voiceless during the world war, was advised by Dr. Charles A. McEnerney of the Public Health service to make an airplane flight. Renz was taken up a government airplane at Bolling field and reaching an altitude of 14,000 feet was brought back to the field.

Renz recovered his voice and made the announcement to his mother over the field telephone.

The air service pointed out that Miss Grace Ford, a Roanoke, Va., girl, recovered her singing voice in a similar manner. Miss Ford was one of the first to volunteer for service as an entertainer for the soldiers. Early in 1918 her voice failed her. Every effort to find a remedy failed until in the fall of 1918, when she was in Lima, Peru, President Logan had asked her to sing. She was preparing to send her regrets and an explanation, when a former army officer asked her to accompany him on a flight.

When they reached an altitude of 8,000 feet, Miss Ford said she felt a curious sensation of the throat and nose. She said the sensation was akin to nosebleed. At 10,000 feet her throat and nose lost the peculiar sensation. She immediately thought of her voice and essayed a few notes. To her surprise her voice was clear and audible above the roar of the propeller. Miss Ford that evening sang at the palace.

Physicians attached to the public health service believe there is a tremendous field of possibilities in the investigation of flying for curative purposes. Many well known doctors are studying the effects of rarified air on certain diseases.

Back in 1786 the "Aeropaedia," the first handbook on aeronautics in the English language, was printed. It recommended balloon ascents for convalescents.

"The spirits are raised by the purity of the air and rest in this clear atmosphere," the author wrote.

He advised scientific investigation of the physical and mental reaction to tastes and odors at different altitudes and suggested the possibility that the tonic effect of change from hot and impure air to cool, pure air, impregnated with invigorating aerial acid, might contribute without the aid of drugs to the sick and invalid.

A surgeon in the Royal Air force, England, called attention to a number of cures of different ailments effected by flying. These cures ranged from the cold to phthisis, neurogolia and influenza.

The nerve specialist may find a wide field of operations, the air service experts said.

The near future was held likely to produce the aerial sanatorium and the aero-therapist.

APPOINTED COLLECTOR OF PORT OF NEW YORK

George W. Aldridge of Rochester, New York, has been appointed by President Harding to collector of customs of the Tenth district, New York, according to a report from Washington. Mr. Aldridge has for the past thirty years been a leader in politics. He was a member of the New York delegation to the Chicago convention and was a firm supporter of President Harding for the nomination.

A noted physician had recommended walking to a nervous patient. The nervous one started to cross the street after leaving the doctor's office. A truck skidded and hurled him against the curb, where he lay until the doctor, having seen the accident, hurried to his side.

"Aren't you hurt?" inquired the physician anxiously.

"Well," replied the patient, "I can't say I feel much better."

EXCURSIONS TO LAND OF 'MIDNIGHT SUN' ARE DISCONTINUED

SEATTLE, April 30.—Famous "Midnight Sun" excursions to Fort Yukon, taken every summer by people desiring to see the sun remain above the horizon twenty-four hours at one time, will not be conducted this year as the boats in which the excursionists were carried down the Yukon river were crushed in the ice last fall. The "Midnight Sunners," as the excursionists were called in the north, went by steamer from here to Skagway, crossed the White Pass by rail from Skagway to White Horse and went by river steambot from White Horse to Fort Yukon, which is about 10 miles inside the Arctic cir-

GERMANY'S TEXTILE MILLS AGAIN BUSY COTTON EXPORTS SHOW

GALVESTON, April 29.—Germany's textile mills, either idle during the world war or engaged in turning out munitions, again are humming with something like pre-war efficiency, cotton export figures indicate. During March, Germany purchased 105,788 bales of American cotton, of which 76,459 flowed through this port. Japan, the second biggest customer for the staple, took 87,030 bales from the United States. Only 10,850 bales, however, were handled through this port for ports of the Japanese empire.

Cotton and wheat were the principal exports through Galveston during March, cotton being valued at $19,399,229 and wheat at $14,608,645. Besides Germany and Japan, other countries taking cotton from this port were: Belgium, 783 bales; France, 23,697; Italy, 37,887; The Netherlands, 3,850; Norway, 300; Spain, 18,122; Sweden, 970; Switzerland, 400; England, 58,300; Mexico, 100, and British India, 300 bales. Great Britain led in purchase of wheat, her total imports through Gal-

SUBMARINE AGROUND

NEW LONDON, Conn., April 30.—The submarine O-10 was being slowly pulled off the Montauk point shoals today. She ran aground at 4:30 a. m. A cable was passed to her early today and a coast guard cutter and a tug boat began hauling her into deep water.

WE WISH TO ANNOUNCE

That we are beginning to stock those accessories for Fords that we can conscientiously recommend, and stand behind.

Of those, we now have:

- THE CELEBRATED VULCAN SPRINGS, seven and nine leaf.
- H. & D.'s—Real shock ABSORBERS. There is a reward for the user who doesn't think they are the best.
- AUXILIARY COIL SPRINGS for trucks.
- STAR MFG. CO.'S FENDER BRACES, front and rear.
- DURAL HOSE CONNECTIONS. They need no clips and are made of red rubber;

they stretch like an inner tube. (The above two items are just out; see them.)

PERFEX RADIATORS. This radiator is really and truly a heavy duty radiator, and is used on most of the tractors made, and especially on those rough riding Rocky Mountain Tractors. They stand the racket.

Marvel Carburetors. Consider their service on the Buick, Nash and many other high class cars.

MAY FURNITURE SALE

DURING THE MONTH OF MAY WE WILL FEATURE SPECIAL PRICES

—On a great many pieces of furniture which are particularly desirable at this season of the year and this May Sale should cause those to buy who are ready to buy but have just been waiting for such an event as this. We are prompted to launch this May Furniture Sale after considering the admiration and surprise expressed by so many ladies of Ranger at our new store and the wonderful new stock of Bed-room, Dining Room and Parlor Furniture, which we have received direct from the factories since moving into our new home in the Hodges-Neal building. Each week during the month of May we will have on sale a certain lot of choice furniture for the week only. This sale is not a general sale on our entire stock and is being given only with the idea in mind of stimulating interest in home furnishings and also in following an extensive advertising and publicity program which we have planned for the summer season. These special May prices are offered with a view to commanding your attention and making it more attractive to you to get acquainted with the leading Home Furnishers of West Texas.

$82.50

—A great many other articles are especially priced for the first week of our May Sale and will be mentioned in detail in our advertisements throughout the week. Limited space prohibits listing them now. However, they are marked in plain figures at the sale prices, and are now on sale. Plan an early visit to our store and perhaps just the things you want are being specially priced this week.

HALL FURNITURE CO.

Special Notice

—Our store has adopted the one-price policy and it is strictly adhered to in all our transactions. We mark everything in plain figures and you can send your little girl for something at our store and be assured she will be charged the same price as the person who dickers all day to get a cut price. Satisfactory terms can be arranged on your purchases or we allow ten per cent discount for cash, except Columbia Records, which are net cash only.

Purina Chows Save Baby Chicks

DON'T try to raise these tender chicks on grains, stale bread, meal and such grain products, any more than you'd feed a baby cornbread. Such rations, being deficient in protein and minerals, result in bowel trouble, slow feathering and scrawny development.

Chicks Saved Pay Feed Bill
Suppose Purina Chows saved just two more chicks out of every dozen hatched. That alone would pay your feed bill. But Purina Chows do more than just save chicks.

Double Development Guaranteed

Purina Chows are guaranteed to make your chicks grow twice as fast as grain feeds or you get your money back. Don't you owe it to yourself and chicks to call us up or drop in?
