

RED REVOLT FLAMES IN GERMANY

UNNAMED BOY STILL UNCLAIMED; IS NOT BRECKENRIDGE LAD

"Father, He Is Not Our Son," Mother Tells T. D. Teakell When Her Keen Vision Detects Discrepancies; May Go Back to Dallas.

Twice claimed and twice disowned, the body of the blonde-haired boy who was killed in Ranger last Saturday afternoon, is lying today in a Breckenridge morgue as much as a nameless waif as he was the day that he entered the house of H. P. Earnest in Ranger and was later killed by E. H. Kelley as he attempted to escape with his pocket full of loot.

Yesterday the body arrived in Breckenridge, positively identified by T. D. Teakell as that of his son Clarence. He had had it returned from Dallas, where it was first shipped as that of Arthur Norton.

Even as the faith of Mrs. Teakell denied ownership of the lifeless form, a message came from beyond the rim of her world telling her that her son was alive and well and would be home shortly to see her. He had read an account of his supposed death in the papers and hastened to deny the statements.

Mother Knows Difference.

But without the message, the mother, with the keenness of a mother's vision, had established the fact that the dead boy was not her son. Clarence's teeth, she said were wider apart than those of the dead boy and her son had never been vaccinated, as the dead boy's arm showed, had been done in his case.

The body may go back to Dallas today again as Arthur Norton.

On its first trip to that city it was identified by young Norton's grandmother as that of the son of her dead daughter. But while she accepted the sad truth, Teakell appeared and apparently established the fact beyond doubt that it was his son, and shipped the body back to Breckenridge.

Advices will be sought from Dallas today as to whether the body of the unidentified boy will be shipped back to Dallas as the grandson of Mrs. McWhorter of that city.

Youthful Derelict.

A youthful derelict on the troubled sea of life, the nameless youngster has apparently had a checkered career for one of his tender years.

To the sheriff of Breckenridge, where he spent several weeks in jail in company with Willis "Buster" Brown, whose name he was given a few hours after his tragic death, he had told a tale of having spent two years in a training school for boys at Monroe, La. While there, he told the sheriff he went by the name of Durham.

While he was known by his companion in jail as James Williams, of Dallas, he had told the jailer his name was Arthur Norton.

It was this story, told to Ranger authorities by the real "Buster" Brown, which furnished the clue that resulted in sending his body to Dallas, where it was claimed by his aged grandmother.

MASONS TO MEET IN OBSERVING SOLEMN RITES

Maunder Thursday Ceremonies to Be Celebrated Tonight Throughout World.

Celebration of Maunder Thursday observances will be held this afternoon by members of Scottish Rite lodges in Ranger, from 4 to 6 o'clock. The observance of Maunder Thursday rites in some form is obligatory upon Masons throughout the world.

In those cities where chapters of Knights Rose Croix are located, the ceremony is impressive, and includes the extinguishing of the seven symbolic lights in ritualistic form.

On the next Sunday, chapters of Rose Croix are assembled and the ceremony of relighting the lights is performed.

Ranger Masons are expected to gather this afternoon to promote the spirit of Masonic fellowship.

By virtue of an official proclamation issued by Samuel Poyntz Cochran, grand master of ceremonies of the supreme council, sovereign grand inspector general, Orient of Texas, Valley of Dallas, for the southern jurisdiction of the United States of America, Mother Council of the World, brethren are commanded to meet, celebrate the feast, drink the statutory toasts, and exchange sentiments of brotherly love; but they may not perform the ceremony of extinguishing and relighting the lights.

SPARKS SHOWER BUSINESS DISTRICT; SMOKE SCREENS TALL BUILDINGS FROM VIEW

Barber Chairs Only Fixtures Saved From Structure; Loss Probably $15,000; Firemen Protect Adjacent Structures From Rush of Flames.

Another relic of boom day building went to destruction by flame last night. The old Opera House and adjoining wooden structures, lying between the Reavis building and the Black building, were destroyed, and today the place where they stood is a mass of half-burned debris.

None of the contents of the buildings was saved except five barber chairs from the Club barber shop. These fixtures were owned by E. J. Barnes Sr. He had $3,500 insurance. Other fixtures included a soda fountain, chairs and table in a building next to the Opera House, owner unknown. The other two storerooms were vacant.

All buildings were owned by Nelson Heming and Leon Wilson, as were the furnishings of the Opera rooming house, which was unoccupied. They had $3,000 mutual insurance. A $10,000 policy had been cancelled on March 4. The loss is substantial. The structures probably cost $25,000 a few years ago.

Wires Broken.

The telegraph and telephone companies also sustained some losses through destruction of cables, which ran up the alley. The Western union had only one wire working this morning and 200 local telephones were put out of commission. These probably will be working some time tomorrow, the company said.

Smoke floated over the business district for some time before the blaze could be located. Police Captain Tom Weeks and Patrolman Ingram gave the first alarm, shortly after 3 o'clock. At that time they were in front of the Boston store, having rushed over from the east side in the face of an increasing volume of smoke. They were still uncertain where it was coming from.

When the firemen arrived at the scene, the flames were already eating across through the flimsy construction in the rear of the buildings, from the west toward Austin street. Early arrivals said it appeared to have started in the rear of the Opera House, next to the Western Union office, but they could not tell whether on the first or second floor. The front of the buildings was of heavier construction than the rear, and resisted the flames until they had swept across the rear of the burned section.

Firemen, directed by Clint Barrett in the absence of Chief Buttmer, concentrated their efforts in pinning the fire in. Fighting from the top of the Reavis building and the alley in the rear, they kept it from spreading toward the stores and big filling station on Marston street and across the alley to the Ranger garage.

For a time it appeared likely that the Black building on Pine street might catch. It was licked by flames, but a screen of water was kept playing down the alley, and so excellent was the protection that a lace curtain in a broken window is hanging there today, unscorched.

Smoke Thickens.

Penned in at the corners, the blaze yet towered in the center, throwing a rain of sparks all over the business section. Watchers on the roofs guarded against sparks, but were not really needed, as everything was damped from the rains of the preceding days. Finally the front buckled and fell inward, and then the firemen bored in. It was only a short time until the fire was quenched under water pouring from five lines of hose.

As the flames dwindled, the smoke became thicker and lower, filling the streets so that one could hardly pass along Austin from Pine to Marston, and on down Main to Rusk. The Guaranty bank building and the Ghoslon hotel were directly in the drift of this smoke, and at one time the bank building could not be seen by a spectator on Pine street. While this condition lasted, an awning burst into flames, and a city across that the building had caught. It burned out in a few moments, however, and the alarm subsided. In all, four awnings on this building were set afire by sparks.

Hospital Smoke-Filled.

This was a dramatic moment in the hospital on the top floor of the building. All the windows had been lowered to keep out the smoke, but when the awnings caught it was necessary to raise two in order to extinguish them. Thus some smoke entered. The light and power wires had been cut off at the plant, and in smoke-tainted air, in total darkness except for the gleam of a few flashlights, and with a roaring conflagration seemingly closing close, the nurses and patients held their breath. John Milford, who rushed there to the bedside of his wife, said there was no panic or excitement, though all were relieved when the fire was subdued and the lights again came on.

MURDERERS IN GHOSTLY GARB OPERATE OPENLY UPON RUSSIAN PEOPLE

RIGA, March 24.—A new style of costumed robbery has been invented in Russia, according to a report from Moscow.

In Petrograd and Moscow strange companies have been seen, consisting of "ghosts" of devils and angels who rob belated passers-by in the streets, plunder apartments and murder the people.

The inventive genius of these diabolical companies went so far as the invention of special jumping board for "flying" over high fences.

One of the "ghosts" who was recently caught, confessed that his company consisting of seven persons, murdered hundreds of people and kept the property stolen from them in coffins at the cemeteries.

The inhabitants are helpless against these murderers and no help can be expected from the authorities because it is said that in many cities the authorities themselves are involved in these enterprises.

'Hijacker' Also Thought He Was Being Robbed

A mutual suspicion of hijacking on the part of two men added considerable excitement to the fire.

With smoke pouring into every crevice and the flames almost licking the windows, guests at the Southland hotel came trooping down stairs, feeling their way in total darkness.

L. Theo. Harris of the Ranger cafe and a traveling man came in contact on the bottom flight of stairs. Each thought the other was trying to grab his valuables, police were told, and the stranger struck Harris, inflicting a cut over one eye. Harris emerged into the lobby with blood streaming from his face, and there were immediate cries for the police, who were asked to arrest him on a charge of robbery. He was taken to the station, where he spent the remainder of the night, but this morning was able to establish his identity and reputation and was released. Mr. Harris, after the excitement had subsided, refused to make a complaint.

The suspected hijacker is a traveling salesman for a supply company and had been with his firm eight years.

He and the coppers parted on good terms. He said his action, especially in making a show of resistance and the circumstances gave them the right to take him in.

As the flames dwindled, the smoke became thicker and lower, filling the streets so that one could hardly pass along Austin from Pine to Marston, and on down Main to Rusk. The Guaranty bank building and the Ghoslon hotel were directly in the drift of this smoke, and at one time the bank building could not be seen by a spectator on Pine street. While this condition lasted, an awning burst into flames, and a city across that the building had caught. It burned out in a few moments, however, and the alarm subsided. In all, four awnings on this building were set afire by sparks.

LOVE LAUGHS AT LAWS AND LOCKSMITHS ALLIES FIRM IN DEMANDS ON GERMANY

The cold hand of the law came perilously near yesterday interfering with the plans of the clothesless cherub sometimes known as Dan Cupid. Dan sped an arrow, and the young man, being sufficiently "kicked," fared forth and swiped the lady of his dreams.

The girl being young in years her guardian contended that the god of love was trying to double-cross somebody—that he had never launched the love-shaft at the would-be-bridal. The result was that the heavy hand of the law lay for a moment on the shoulders of the potential bridegroom.

However, after such persuasion, and probably a few tears, the guardians of the girl were convinced that young Dan Cupid never missed. "And so they were married," and everybody was happy, for a time at least.

KANSAS CITY JAIL IS NOT STRONG ENOUGH TO HOLD 'WILD WOMEN'

International News Service
KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 24.—The women of Kansas City are so "wild" they're going to build the jails stronger, according to W. H. Taylor, superintendent of the welfare board.

The superintendent said steps would be taken to build the cells stronger at the women's reformatory after thirteen women escaped by filing their way to freedom.

The women, all confined in the "honor ward," were captured later. Taylor said the cells weren't strong enough to hold them.

Pending new and stronger cells, Taylor is seeking to have all women prisoners sent to the county jail.

KATY THAIN BANDITS ESCAPE; LEAVE NO CLUE

International News Service
M'ALESTER, Okla., March 24.—Search for the pair of bandits who looted two Pullman cars on the M. & T. limited near here Tuesday night has failed to develop any clues, the sheriff's office announced today.

The men fled eastward in an auto, it is believed, and are heading into the Arkansas foothills.

Investigation disclosed that a racing car followed the train for some distance south of McAlester and it is believed was driven by a confederate who picked up the bandits on the outskirts of this city.

PALL OF POLITICAL UPHEAVAL MENACES TEUTONIC NATION

Carnival of Plunder, Sabotage, Violent Death in Many Towns Launched on Word From Communist Headquarters in Moscow.

International News Service.
BERLIN, March 24.—Martial law has been proclaimed in Hamburg as a result of the communist uprising, and Senator Hense has been appointed dictator, said a dispatch from that city today.

Nearly a score of persons were reported to have been killed while the communists were occupying shipyards and attacking government buildings at Hamburg. Four men were killed and twelve were wounded when workmen attempted to disarm the police at the Vulcan shipyards.

A mob, using stones, beer bottles and pieces of metal as missiles, attacked the police in the center of Hamburg. Police-men opened fire, killing and wounding over fifteen persons.

Five persons were wounded in a riot in the Holsted platz. Many persons were killed and wounded when communists, armed with rifles and revolvers, gave battle to the police at Eisleben. The mob was victorious. The police took refuge in a barricaded building while the mob pillaged grocery and meat shops and banks. The ringleaders of the mob sent an ultimatum to the police demanding their surrender and the surrender of all their arms. The mob leader threatened to burn the city if the ultimatum was not accepted.

Entire Nation Ablaze.

A passenger train from Halle was held up and seized by the communists at Eisleben. Communist disorders are reported spreading. The strike movement is growing and over all hangs the black menace of a political revolt. Plundering, sabotage, death by violence, and dynamite outrages were reported from many towns in middle Germany.

Alarmist dispatches were printed in Berlin newspapers in which it was declared that the communist uprising began on direct orders from Moscow. Communist emissaries have ordered a general strike throughout central Germany to tie up industry and the railways. The government is worried over the outbreak and measures were being taken to combat the menace. Five dynamite outrages were reported today from Saxony, a communist stronghold. The city hall and Rodewich was blown up and half of it destroyed. A bomb was exploded in the city hall and Auerbach. The court house at Leipzig, where the trial of German war criminals is scheduled to open in May, was damaged by a dynamite explosion. Two bombs were thrown against the superior court building at Dresden. Parts of the railway lines were torn up. Miners who had refused to obey the strike order were driven from the mines by force. Trains were derailed near Dieskau and Annandorf and more than half a dozen persons were injured.

Heavy guards are patrolling Berlin. This city was still quiet at noon. The communists have called a mass meeting for this afternoon to take action to support the Bolshevik sympathizers in middle Germany. An attempt will be made to bring about a general strike. It is reported that a dispatch from Moscow asking when a red revolution in Central Europe could be started on a big scale has been intercepted.

JAS. GIBBONS, AGED PRELATE, IS DEAD AT 87

International News Service.
BALTIMORE, March 24.—Cardinal James Gibbons, archbishop of Baltimore and one of the leading Catholic prelates of the world, died here at 11:33 today in the 87th year of his age.

The venerable prelate's death had been expected since late yesterday afternoon when he lapsed into a state of coma from which he did not rally up to the time of his death.

The death of the cardinal was due to a general breakdown which had been superinduced by a heavy cold and which first became pronounced while the prelate was delivering a sermon on Dec. 12. Following the attack Cardinal Gibbons went to home of Thomas Shriver, a lifelong friend, for a rest and an attempt at recuperation. His condition, despite the best medical and personal attention, grew worse, and at the beginning of the new year the life of Cardinal Gibbons was despaired of by his close associates and his legion of friends.

The reparations commission has sent a long note to the allied governments containing recommendations that further penalties be assessed against Germany.

HENRY B. TERRELL, NOTED TEXAS POLITICIAN, DEAD

By Associated Press
SAN ANTONIO, March 24.—Henry B. Terrell, former comptroller of Texas and prominent in state politics, died here today after a prolonged illness. Terrell served two terms as state senator. He was mentioned as gubernatorial candidate in the last campaign but his failing health prohibited. The body will be sent to Austin.

RAILROAD OFFICIAL DIES ABOARD TRAIN AT GALVESTON

GALVESTON, March 24.—A. C. Torbert, secretary of the Gulf, Colorado and Santa Fe railroad, was found dead in his berth on a Santa Fe train today. He had been to Fort Worth on company business and when leaving for his home in Galveston last night asked the porter to awaken him before reaching Houston this morning. He had been with the Santa Fe more than thirty years.

But Temperament Does Not Wait on Appetite—

TEMPLE.
 "Straight is the Way," which will be the cosmopolitan production to fill the screen of the Temple theatre, starting today is a crook comedy drama that is highly diverting and offers one hundred per cent entertainment. While it is a perfectly obvious little story of the redemption of a pair of crooks, yet it is so well developed, radiates so much humor and wit and is acted so naturally that it will be certain to interest.

A couple of crooks find it too hot for them in New York so they make their way to a certain hamlet to rest and ply their trade more safely. They stumble onto a deserted wing of a house which was once a very wealthy homestead but is not heavily mortgaged. Which is the point where the fun begins. Or the other side dwells a kindly old dame and her charming niece. The humor maintains itself in the desire of the women to call on a departed spirit whom they think has left some money hidden somewhere with the aid of the ouija board while the crooks are listening on the other side. The ouija board is utilized and the conversational by-play between the gullible women and the unobserved crooks is a riot of laughter.

The climax shows the mortgage about to shape itself, with the women trusting to the ouija board for the aid of the departed spirit. The listeners conceive the plan to plant enough stolen wealth to make the kindly souls free. They lay their scheme very skillfully and the money is found in due style, and to make the situation still better the holder of the mortgage is mistaken as being a crook, while a pretty romance develops between the niece and one of the crooks. Matt Moore plays the leading male role, with George Parsons as his pal and Gladys Leslie as the girl.

MAJESTIC.
 Zara Carmen Trio—A gentleman and two ladies in one of the most captivating novelties seen in many a day whirling, flashing, dancing and sensational hoop rolling and the attractive gowns worn by the ladies all combine to make this a very pleasing offering.

ANYBODY WANT JOB TASTING THIS 'HOOTCH'?

International News Service.
ST. LOUIS, March 24.—Assistant city chemist R. H. Moellenhoff, official "hootch" sampler and custodian of an appalling array of "bottled suicide" taken as evidence in liquor raids, has discovered a new stunt by which moonshiners and bootleggers hope to evade conviction.

The stunt is the dropping of a box of chewing tobacco into their supply of hootch when caught, the object being to evade the dry law clause which provides that liquor must be proved fit for beverage purposes to obtain conviction of the vendor. The chewing tobacco, it is claimed, makes the hootch nauseating, and therefore unfit for drinking. The stunt has not yet been tested in court.

CHINESE IN HONOLULU OPPOSE LOAN TO CHINA

RANGER'S 'CAT AND BIRD' CASE IN COURT TODAY

Special to the Times.
EASTLAND, March 24.—"The cat and bird" case, as it is commonly known, is up for trial in the county court today, having been brought here on appeal from the justice court at Ranger.

A party there owned a canary bird, which was devoured by a neighbor's cat. The cat was killed by the irate owner of the bird, whereupon the owner of said cat applied some choice epithets to the owner of the bird, thereby infracting the law and disturbing the peace and dignity of the state, it is charged. Following this, a fine was imposed by the justice of the peace.

CATHOLICS ARE OUSTED FROM IRISH SHIPYARDS

By Associated Press.
BELFAST, March 24.—The ranks of the 7,000 Catholics who were expelled from the shipyards and factories here last summer have been swelled by 3,000 more owing to the economic depression. Thousands of Protestant workers are also out of work.

Since the rioting last September there has been no renewal of disturbances on a large scale here, but predictions of outbreaks are often heard. On several occasions Protestant employes have been stoned by small groups of the unemployed, whose bitterness and discontent due to many months of idleness and deprivation is said to be reaching an alarming state.

Any prohibitionist must abhor the "jake" traffic.

No matter how much a man detests prohibition, no matter how he may rave against the iniquities of the eighteenth amendment, he cannot but be horrified at the results of the jake traffic, if they come to his attention.

No matter if a man can condone dealings in "good" illicit liquor, he cannot condone dealings in man-wrecking beverages such as jake, if he has any love for humanity, any regard for his fellows, in his bosom.

For these reasons, the call from the Carpenters' union for the co-operation of officers and private citizens in putting an end to this piratical preying upon the weakness of mankind is timely and should be responded to.

The "jake" traffic is wrecking men every day, destroying them in mind and body and perhaps in soul. It takes no professional analysis to determine this. Nearly every man knows at least one and more probably half a dozen, who have at times come under the influence of this damnable concoction, and he knows what it does to them.

Better by far the open saloon than the jake joint.

Advocate of liquor and the right to use it a man may be, and yet when he advocates this poison as a beverage, advocates its use as an evasion of "tyranny," he advocates insanity and horrible death. Read what the Carpenters' union has to report of one of its members and the cause of his unhappy end:

This man's death followed a protracted spree during which it is a known fact, easily proven, that he patronized some "drug stores" to the limit of his means and while in this condition of irresponsibility he secured endorsements of several checks after he had exhausted his cash. He was removed from his room by a local physician and given treatment at the Ranger hospital, and after more than two weeks, most of which time he was, according to the physician, insane, he died. The physician upon being asked just what was the cause of his illness stated that it was directly the result of drinking "jake."

That is a horrible story. A man killed, a family bereft of protector and provider, because someone saw a chance to make a few paltry dollars. Yet it is not unusual, it has become a commonplace occurrence.

It is time that all citizens combined to end this menace. It is time the druggists fought this trafficker in evil and ruin who shelters himself behind the profession's good name. It is time that the Chamber of Commerce, the Merchants' association, the Rotary club, the women's clubs, all civic organizations, line up to demand the end of this business whose profits come from human blood and tears.

It is not a question for debate. It is a question that demands action, if weak-willed men are to be saved from wreck and ruin. It may be impossible to entirely prevent the use of "jake" as a beverage. It may be impossible to entirely prevent its sale as such. But certainly its sale can be rigorously watched. Those who make that a principal activity, in places more or less camouflaged, can be made to find their traffic unhealthful. All it takes united citizenry behind the peace officers. We have local police, we have the constables' office, we have the sheriff's department, and we have the rangers. That's quite a lot of men. What one set can't find, another should. And between them, if it is demanded with firmness and determination, these pirates who sell men insanity and death should be "sent away" or driven away. But it takes action, not talk. If you believe in action, talk quickly and firmly.

Which I went over and started to do, standing on my hands with my feet against Mary Watkinses wall, her saying, O lizzent that perfectly wonderful, arent you afraid all your blood will go to your hed?

Wat do I care if it does? I sed, And I kepp on standing on my hands as if that was all I ever stood on, Mary Watkins saying, My goodness, its just like a circus, you must be terrible strong.

Which I am, and I kepp on standing on them and jest then Puds Simkins came up, me seeing him upside down and sayin, Hello Puds, heers something I bet you cant do.

And I got off of my hands and stood rite, Puds saying, Aw, who wants to do that? I bet I could if I wanted to, any who wants to?

Puds is too fat to do it, hee hee, sed Mary Watkins, and Puds sed, O I am, heh, well do you want to see me do it?

Yes, sed me and Mary Watkins, and Puds sed, Well jest for that I wont, and I sed, Watch me do it agen, everybody. Which I did, and Puds took 4 cents out of his pocket and started to jiggle them, saying, Hay Mary, come on erround to Mommy Simminses with me and you can pick out 2 cents werth of eny kind of candy you want.

O how perfectly luvly, I know jest wat kind allreddy, sed Mary Watkins. And she wawked down the street with Puds Simkins, leaving me standing there on my hands as if I was jest somebody not doing anything special.

Tinker's Bob Stories by Carlyle H. Holcomb

SILKY OUTWITS THE JAY BIRD.

"I'll fix you for that Jerry, said Silky as he returned from searching for Mr. Ant Bear and found Jerry eating his breakfast. Jerry thought he would be quick enough to get away from Mr. Monkey but alas he was not. Silky took him by the tail feathers and held him so tightly that he had a hard time to get his breath. "Now I'll teach you a lesson," he said.

"O Mr. Monkey, please let me go for I was only playing a joke on you." "This is a nice joke! To eat a fellow's breakfast up after telling him a story that wasn't true. I don't like jokes of that kind." Then Silky shook Jerry till he was dizzy. "Now what do you think about it?"

"O Mr. Monkey, tell me which way I am going. Don't let me fall, or I'll fall right off the earth. Just hold me still a minute and I'll tell you where your friend, Mr. Ant Bear, is, but I can't tell you when I feel this way." O Mr. Monkey, I am so sick I wish I hadn't taken that food of yours. I feel as though I would die. Hold me tight, Mr. Monkey, hold me tight." Silky was a tender hearted fellow and did not wish harm to anyone. He only wanted to teach Jerry a lesson for stealing his food that the King had given for breakfast. Now to hear Jerry say that he felt as though he would die was more than Silky could stand. If he felt this way Silky didn't want him to die in his arms so he dropped him on the ground. Of course Silky didn't know, or he would never have done such a thing in all the world, for the moment he let go of Jerry he flew to a tree near by and began to cry out: "Thief, thief, I was just fooling you Mr. Monkey, for it doesn't make me dizzy nor sick to be whirled around." I tell you Silky was angry.

Tinker Bob had watched with interest the actions of Silky and Jerry to see just which one would outwit the other, but it wasn't over yet. While Silky the Monkey was angry he was wise enough to see that it didn't pay to show it so he ran to a tree not far away and began to chatter as though talking to someone behind the tree. That was a very strange thing for Silky was a Tender-hearted Fellow him to do. Even Tinker Bob did not understand it at first. Surely there was no one there to whom he could talk, but he went right on chattering and the very thing happened that he wanted to happen. He pretended he was very angry with someone and he swung his arms and chattered with a loud voice, till Jerry's curious eyes could stand it no longer. He had to get closer to see the reason for all of this chattering.

Forgetting that Silky was angry with him he flew down close to the scene of this terrible chattering, and that was just the thing that Silky wanted him to do, and when Jerry least thought of danger Silky grabbed him again by the tail and began to laugh for he had outwitted the Jay.

BRITISH WAR WIDOWS ARE REMARRYING FAST

LONDON, March 24.—British war widows are re-marrying so rapidly that the chancellor, Austen Chamberlain, expects to be able to reduce pensions appropriations in this year's budget by 10,000 pounds. This, however, is only one of the factors contributed to the anticipated reduction but it is stated that thousands of women made widows by the war have again become wives and thus automatically taken their names off the pension list. The pensions granted to widows of soldiers who died in active service are withdrawn when the widows remarry.

THE MERRY JOURNEYS OF MARY JANE

Mary Jane and the Woodpecker

ONE day after school was out, Mary Jane was going home when she heard somebody hammering away up in the tree. Mary hadn't any idea what anybody could be fixing away up in the tree, so she stopped to look, and walked around and around the tree. Finally she saw old Pete Pecker away up at the top of the tree hammering away and looking for beetles under the bark. Pete Pecker looked down on her and said, "Have you anything good to eat in that lunch basket of yours? I haven't found a beetle for an hour, and I'm aw-ful-ly hungry."

Mary get her basket open. Pete wiped his bill off with his feet, and said he was all ready to eat at any time. So between them, they finished every crumb of the lunch that Mary had left from school. And then they told stories and gossiped until it was time for Mary to go home and help her mother get supper ready. Mary made up her mind that Mary Jane Syrup is so very good that she ought to tell everybody in the world about it, so as not to be selfish. And that's why folks everywhere today are using Mary Jane Syrup on their waffles, pancakes and corn bread, and say it's the best syrup anybody ever tasted.

"I'm awfully hungry," says old Pete Pecker to Mary Jane. LOOK FOR the next story about "Mary Jane and Old Baldface the Horse."

RIPPLING RHYMES By WALT MASON

HAVE PATIENCE.

My hopes are not disappointed, I do not fuss or fret, though I've not been appointed to any office yet. The postman comes each morning and leaves a stack of duns, conveying threat and warning that he may read who runs, but he has brought no letter that bears the White House seal; ah, well, I'm not a 'retier, I make no plaintive spiel. I know that Brother Harding has many things to do, old furniture discarding, that he may put in new. This moving graft is beastly; like Warren, I've been there; one's morals must be priestly if he declines to swear. The rooms must be repaired, the woodwork must be grained, and, where the crowds have capered, the stairways must be stained. But when such chores are ended, and everything's all right, I look for something splendid—the softest snap in sight. For I stood up for Harding when he had little fame; I said fine things regarding that statesman and his game. 'Twas I, the present yawper, discovered Warren G., and it seems only proper that he discover me. But I'm a patient dufer, and I can twirl my thumbs, and watch and wait and suffer, till my appointment comes.

BRAZIL SEEKS TO CURB BOLSHEVIK AGITATORS

RIO DE JANEIRO, March 24.—As a result of a number of bomb explosions in various parts of the city during the last few months, the government is taking stern measures to curb the activities of alleged foreign anarchists and Bolsheviki.

President Pessoa has just signed a decree providing for heavy punishment for persons propagating subversive doctrines as well as those connected with or inciting bomb outrages. Meetings held under false pretenses may be dissolved and those responsible imprisoned. The government is empowered to close up societies and organizations whose action is opposed to the public good and dissolution of such bodies may be ordered by the courts.

GOVERNMENT DECLARES HUMBLE MOUSE HAS USES

WASHINGTON, March 24.—The old question "Why is a mouse?" seems to have been answered at last. He's a seed planter, according to the forestry service, and with the chipmunk, plays a big part in restoring forests in the West.

The appetite of rodents for pine and fir tree seed has often been commented upon, for fearfully and unfavorably, by those attempting to replant burned or logged areas, but J. V. Hoffmann of the Stabler, Wash., experiment station has found that young trees returning to such lands frequently come from "seed buried by small rodents beneath the duff of the forest floor."

COOPER SCHOOL KILLED 1,619 RATS, COUNTED BUT 718 TAILS

Successful Campaign Closes With Official Totol of 1,531 Rodents.

The rat campaign inaugurated by the 1920 club closed Tuesday morning. The campaign was a success, due to the hearty co-operation of Superintendent McNew of the public schools, and the principals and teachers of the four wards. Cooper ward carried off first honors by killing 718 rats, making an average of 2 1-5 rats per pupil.

Tiffin won second place and would have given Cooper a much harder race had they gotten in the race earlier. Unfortunately Tiffin did not receive notification of the campaign until it had been running three days. Tiffin's average was a little over 1 1-5 rats per pupil. Young ward followed with a little less than 1 1-3 rats per pupil. Central ward averaged a little less than one-half rat per pupil. The number of rats killed is as follows: Cooper 718, Tiffin 118, Young 359, Central 336, making a total of 1,531.

The club awarded a prize of $50 cash to Cooper school. Cooper deserves special mention, the committee said, for additional work done. Besides the 718 rats killed and tails officially counted that school killed 901 unofficially counted, making for them a grand total of 1,619.

The committee composed of Meses. H. R. Gholson, E. J. Barnes and M. H. Smith, voiced their thanks and appreciation to the principals, teachers, children and parents who helped in the campaign. Special thanks were accorded the principals who in every instance co-operated with the committee and gave freely of their time in discussing the campaign and in receiving reports from the children and giving these reports to the committee. The committee expressed thanks to the Times for its kindness in giving the campaign publicity and in printing the reports.

TRANSPORTATION ON RUSSIAN LINES STOPPED

HELINGFORS, March 24.—Transportation on thirty railway lines in Russia has stopped because of the fuel famine there, says M. Ahonen, the Finnish minister in Moscow who recently returned here. The Omsk line, one of the most important routes of food distribution is among those closed.

Most of the Russian factories had discontinued operation for lack of fuel before he left Russia, the minister stated.

HEN CACKLES LOUDEST NOT ALWAYS EGG LAYER

WASHINGTON, March 24.—The hen that did the cackling may not have laid the egg, government farm experts assert. They advise farmers to use trap nests in order to pin the cackler down to facts in the way of eggs.

By holding a hen on the nest until released, the announcement said, it was possible to keep tab on the good layers, regardless of the fuss raised by some hens on false pretenses.

There's Some "Pep" To This Boy.

Here FORCE isn't needed. This youngster radiates good health; he breathes it from every pore of his young, sturdy body, and is alive from the soles of his hair to the tips of his toes.

See how he goes after that punching bag, as though he were going to eat it up! What snap!—what ginger and vim!—the very personification of vigor itself!

But there are thousands of other boys who do need FORCE; who are pale, sickly and have no appetites; who are devoid of stamina, lacking in animation, languid, dull, and irritable.

From the soles of their hair to the tips of their toes, they need FORCE to develop naturally and normally. FORCE, the master builder, will help to build for him a firm, solid foundation of physical strength that will stand in his favor through life. FORCE is sold by reliable druggists everywhere.

Good for men, women and children.

CUTICURA HEALS ITCHING ECZEMA

In Pimples On Face. Very Disfiguring. Could Not Rest.

"I had been bothered with eczema for about two years. The appearance of the breaking out was little pimples, and when I rubbed them a watery substance ran out. I could not rest at night, the burning and itching were so great, and at times I would have to fan my face. It spread all over my face and was very disfiguring.

"I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment, which gave me almost instant relief, and when I had used two cakes of Soap and nearly two boxes of Ointment I was healed." (Signed) Mrs. Andrew Ingram, Alston, N. C.

Use Cuticura for all toilet purposes. Sample Book Free by Mail. Address: "Cuticura Laboratories, Dept. B, Malden 45, Mass." Sold every-where. Soap 2c, Ointment 25c and 50c. Don't use Cuticura Soap alone without ointment.
