EXPECT THROG AT GREAT CIVIC COUNCIL HERE

Long List of Speakers Announced by Chamber of Commerce.

An attendance that will tax the capacity of the Summer Garden is expected Tuesday night at the civic conference of the Chamber of Commerce. The nature of the affair, the list of speakers, the interest in the forward movement, and the good fellowship features all promise success for the first big public meeting of the reorganization campaign.

The main address will be by Dr. Leonard J. Rothstein of Pine Bluff, Ark. He is a noted minister of the Southwest who has given much time and thought to civic and commercial organization work. Because of his leadership he was made president of the Chamber of Commerce of Alexandria, La. He is an inspirational speaker of great ability.

L. S. Franklin, editor of the Texas Highway Magazine, Dallas, will make a short address. He, too, was invited by the campaign committee because of his ability as a speaker and his interest in civic work.

Mayor Hagaman to Speak. D. H. McFarland, manager of the campaign, will make short talk concerning the campaign plans. The local speakers will be John M. Gholson, chairman of the Greater Ranger committee, F. D. Bostaph, and Mayor Hagaman.

The music will be by the Summer Garden orchestra and there will be community singing by the audience, led by a special male chorus formed for the occasion.

The meeting is set for 8 o'clock sharp. Because of the length of the program guests are requested to be at the meeting not later than that time. No Chamber of Commerce membership pledges will be asked, the campaign committee has announced.

This week is to be of much importance in the preparation for the community wide drive to finance the new Chamber of Commerce. The drive will begin on Wednesday morning, April 21. It is planned to have 150 or more team workers so that the campaign can be completed in a few hours time. The teams will be organized the present week, and will be given special instructions for their duties.

Team Workers Meet Daily. Each day during the campaign there will be a luncheon at which all teamworkers will be present. These luncheons will have special speakers and it is expected that they will set a new mark in local enthusiasm.

Work on the official statement of the plans and purposes of the new Chamber of Commerce with a tentative budget showing the needs of the organization, is near completion and will be presented to the campaign committee by the subcommittee for approval early this week.

The campaign committee has received considerable commendation for fixing the goal of the effort at $50,000 a year for a period of three years. This will be a national record for a city of this size, it is said, but business men reply that this is a record-breaker community. There is general confidence that Ranger can reach this unusually high figure.

It will mean, according to the campaign committee, strong support from every interest in the city. The oil interests, the supply houses, the lumber interests, the banks, and all other businesses and individuals must make large subscriptions to reach the desired amount.

Attract Younger Men. That they will do this, no doubt is expressed, for under the plan which has been adopted, they will be enabled to bring into the chamber the younger men of the community who will be the business and industrial leaders of the future.

"We have never entered upon a campaign of this character under more favorable conditions," said D. H. McFarland, the campaign director. "The people of Ranger seem to realize that this is their opportunity and if they do not improve it it may never come again. Everything points to a highly successful campaign."

Mr. McFarland said he had just heard from Ardmore, which has in the week past made a Chamber of Commerce expansion drive of the same character that is being set up here. Ardmore claims a population of 25,000. Its new Chamber of Commerce has about 1,300 members. Ranger may therefore easily outrank its Oklahoma rival both as an oil center and with its new Chamber of Commerce.

NEW REVOLT IN SAXONY AS RUHR TEMPEST ENDS

By Associated Press

BERNE, April 10.—While order is being restored in the rest of the Ruhr region after prolonged disorders, a new revolt is reported today from the industrial town of Plauen in Vogtland, Saxony. Communists there on Friday attacked the police and Reichwehr and, after hard fighting, occupied the police posts, barracks and railway station.

FRENCH PREMIER SAYS GERMANY IS STRIKING AT TREATY OF PEACE

By Associated Press

PARIS, April 10.—Premier Millerand, in a statement issued today, declares that Germany's request for permission to send troops to the Ruhr district was merely for the purpose of violating the terms of the peace treaty. He said that Belgium had approved the course taken by France because Belgium, like France, was in danger from a German and understood the danger.

No official communication from Washington concerning French occupation of the Rhine cities has yet been received at the foreign office. From the exchange of views between the French premier and American Ambassador Wallace, however, the American viewpoint is said in official circles to be that while it is incumbent on Germany to restore order in the Ruhr region, the United States deems that troops must have serious reasons to advance on the Rhine right bank and expresses a desire to be informed of these reasons. Brigadier General Hirschauer, director of the military aeronautics cops and senator of France, writing in a Metz newspaper, says: "The time has come to act fearlessly to put an end to the German game."

"The French occupation has driven a wedge between northern and southern Germany and opens a route to Bavaria, leading straight to the heart of Germany."

"As long as the German army remains in the Ruhr, the wedge will be maintained. Our allies have demonstrated to us that direct action is still the only good way. The occupation of Trieste by the Italians and of Constantinople by the British only date from yesterday."

France's Note to Britain Not Step to Break

By Associated Press

LONDON, April 10.—Notwithstanding the insistence by France that there was no alternative for her in the circumstances except occupation of German territory and her denial of statements that she had acted without warning, officials here view the French note as conciliatory because of the expressed desire of France for a conference of the allies.

This view is emphasized by the fact that Premier Lloyd George left today for San Remo, although it was stated yesterday that he might postpone his departure. He did not attend the meeting of the supreme council here today. Declarations that the allies declined to sanction the advance of French troops east of the Rhine and that statements made by French diplomats gave the impression that France did not take the step alone were contained in the note sent to Paris, outlining the British attitude, says the London Times.

Emphasis was laid on the fact that grave problems in connection with the execution of the Versailles treaty may arise, the Times says, and the London newspaper assumed that "France will not act again on her own initiative, otherwise the work of the peace conference may become futile."

PARIS, April 10.—The note France sent in reply to the British note was somewhat concisely and says that the allies were not constantly informed of France's policy and that France had always opposed the entry of the Germans into the Ruhr region.

"How could France have been satisfied with the German promise to withdraw troops when order had been restored," the note asked. "Neither from reparations nor from delivery of the war guilty, nor for coal, have the allies received the stipulated satisfaction."

NO, NEVER! NEVER WOULD SHE OFFEND 'BEST FRIEND'

International News Service

TOPEKA, Kan., April 10.—Police Chief Hamon was given another insight into the queer ways of women the other day.

When Hamon answered a prolonged ring on the telephone an excited woman's voice gasped: "My neighbor's chickens are ruining my garden. Come right down here and shoot them."

The chief explained that a complaint would have to be sworn out. "Oh, I couldn't do that," fairly shrieked the owner of the garden. "She's one of my best friends. I wouldn't offend her for the world."

No, the chief didn't swear—that is, not until after he had carefully replaced the receiver on its hook.

LOVE FOR DOG ALMOST COST BOY HIS LIFE

International News Service

EMPORIA, Kan., April 10.—Love for his dog, "Jack," nearly cost Owen Szegondollar, aged 9, his life here recently.

When the dog fell into a well the boy immediately jumped in after him. Fastening one hand in the dog's collar, the lad held on to the chain with the other.

Passersby heard the boy's cries for help and pulled Owen and Jack to the top and safety.

Litigation Halts Work on Potash Riches of Texas

LEUBROCK, April 10.—The prodigious potash resources of the lakes of Terry, Gaines, Lynn and other adjoining counties are being delayed in development by litigation, according to a statement made here recently. An effort at compromise is now being made in California, but in case it fails to produce an agreement the matter will be taken to the federal court for trial at Abilene this summer.

Capitalists have been interested so that they are now willing to spend hundreds of thousands of dollars, but they cannot proceed until the land controversy has been settled. Thorough testing of the lakes here and there from these rich lakes here and there from these shallow saline bodies of water were analyzed in northern cities. The analysis showed considerable soda and salt, as well as potash, says the West Texas Chamber of Commerce. Wells were sunk to a depth of 200 feet in these lakes, with the result that the potash formation was stronger as the well was deepened. The estimated daily production of the lakes is ten carloads or between 400,000 and 600,000 pounds. The lakes contain also some medicinal properties which might be profitably developed.

America until recently was almost totally dependent upon Germany for its supply of potash, which is valuable in the manufacture of explosives, matches, soaps, dyes and fertilizers. This country annually imported $12,000,000 in 1913. The world's present consumption is about 15,000,000 tons annually.

Recently vast deposits of subterranean potash have been discovered in parts of New Mexico. The presence of potash was known for many years, but did not appear in sufficient strength at that time under existing reduction principles to make it a commercial venture.

In addition to giving America its own supply of potash for laboratory, factory and other purposes, it will provide a nearby, valuable soil food for the myriad acres of land in the country which are losing their fertility because of the neglect to rotate crops from year to year.

LIQUID EXTRACTS SOLD TO BOYS, SAID TEACHER

MIAMI, Okla., April 10.—The sheriff here is on a "still hunt" for the person who sold liquid extracts to boys of the sixth grade in the Roosevelt school.

The other day Mrs. W. W. Lynch, sixth grade teacher, reported that several of "her boys" were drinking certain extracts alleged to contain 82 per cent alcohol. One boy became so ill he had to be sent home, and others "acted funny," she said.

BROKE INTO CITY JAIL, MYSTERIOUS MAN VANISHES

TOPEKA, Kan., April 10.—Henry Bauman, known as the "man of mystery," who broke into jail, has departed for parts unknown.

The city jail became "home" to Bauman when he was found in the act of throwing a brick through a store window.

Upon finishing a light sentence, Bauman, who showed himself to be a willing worker, asked to be allowed to remain at the lockup permanently. This was granted. The only word ever spoken by Bauman during his stay at the jail, officers say, was "hungry."

A. F. L. PRESIDENT IN HURRIED TRIP TO SETTLE TIE-UP

Samuel Gompers.

Mr. Gompers is in Cleveland, O., today, having hurried there from Washington when the railroad strike situation became serious. It is reported that his visit to Cleveland was for the purpose of conferring with officers of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, whose headquarters are in Cleveland, on ways of bringing about a settlement of the trouble.

NEGRO KILLED, ANOTHER HURT, IN GUN FIGHT

One negro is dead and another seriously wounded as the result of a shooting affray supposed to have resulted from a gambling quarrel at a railroad construction camp south of Barber's crossing at midnight Saturday. The dead negro is Tony Harris, a teamster. The wounded negro is Jesse Davis, who is in the Ranger hospital.

Harris and a negro named Robert quarreled outside the tent in which Harris and Davis lived with several other negro workers. The black called Robert drew a pistol and shot Harris once through the heart. A second bullet went through the tent and struck Davis, who was lying in a bunk. It entered his abdomen and ranged upward, lodging below his heart.

Police investigation was made at an early hour this (Sunday) morning, but the negro who did the shooting was not found. Justice of the Peace McFatter is in Haskell and the inquest will not be held until his return.

The injured negro was brought to the hospital in Jones-Cox & company's ambulance.

Mr. Gambill has been in Ranger for the past fourteen months. For the past three months he has been chief of the detective force. Before that in offering himself to the constabulary.

He came to Ranger from Temple, where he had resided for ten years. During the most of the time he was a peace officer and assistant chief of police. For a period of three years he was an officer in the employ of the state.

The city commission of markets late today declared there were enough supplies in New York warehouses to meet the needs of the city for six months.

With the reports that agents of the department of justice were investigating the situation here, railroad officials

GOVERNMENT WILL ACT TO END RAILWAY TIEUP IF UNION WAR CONTINUES

By Associated Press

CHICAGO, April 10.—Several more railroad centers were affected today by the insurgent strike of switchmen and passenger service was officials in some places, notably New York city, while strikers returned in small groups at several places.

Large areas of the country have not yet been invaded by the strike, which, union officers declared, was an effort to overthrow the unions and make way for a new organization.

The switchmen in New England, in all the northwestern states and in the upper Mississippi and the Missouri valley remained at work, those in Denver, St. Paul and Minneapolis formally voting to remain at work. On the other hand, hundreds of men in Cleveland, the headquarters of the brotherhood of railroad trainmen, today broke away from official restraint and quit work.

The walkout in Cleveland took place despite the fact that Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, arrived in that city today for the reported purpose of conferring with officers of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen on ways of bringing the trouble among railroad employes to an end.

Conflicting Figures Given. Reports of the number of strikers were confused by the variance between the numbers said to be out by union officials and those declared by the strikers to have quit. Unofficial figures from the various railroad centers affected showed 14,000 men on strike.

Industries were indirectly affected by the strike through the closing of steel mills, packing plants and other industries dependent on the railroad for coal and raw materials.

The insurgent forces were Federal intervention in the strike with the possible utilization of the Illinois National Guard to protect property, was forecast today by the action of District Attorney Clynne, strengthened by nearly 8,000 today when switchmen in twenty-two additional cities and towns struck and further walkouts occurred in large railroad centers. Against this gain, about 1,000 strikers returned to work in a half dozen places.

More than 4,000 joined the strikers already out in Toledo, Detroit, Columbus, Indianapolis, Fort Worth and other cities.

STRIKERS DENY BREAK

In the Chicago area, claims of railroad heads and officers of the brotherhoods, who urged a break in the unauthorized walkout, that the strikers were returning to work and that freight traffic were gradually approaching normal were met with denials by officers of the Chicago Yardmen's association, the revolvers' new union, who asserted that the tie-up was complete and that the strikers' ranks were being augmented.

Mr. Clynne would not discuss possible government action. "I will say, however," he stated, "that the United States is not entirely powerless in a situation that affects the food and fuel supply of the country, and that drastic action will be inevitable unless conditions are altered materially within the next forty-eight hours."

The general managers association representing the railroads today announced that it would refuse to treat with representatives of the strikers.

FOOD SUPPLIES DEPLETED

By Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 10.—Reserve supplies of foodstuffs at principal distributing centers already have been depleted as a result of the railroad strikes, the department of agriculture today announced.

Large shipments of meats, live stock and produce here in transit today and that traffic action will be inevitable unless conditions are altered materially within the next forty-eight hours.

NEW YORK, April 10.—With most of its arteries blocked by the railroad strike, New York passes through the third day of its local food without feeling the touch of hunger and today began taking a count of stock.

The city commission of markets late today declared there were enough supplies in New York warehouses to meet the needs of the city for six months.

With the reports that agents of the department of justice were investigating the situation here, railroad officials announced they had sought in vain for leaders of the walkout. No demands they said have been made upon them.

U. S. INQUIRY STARTS. WASHINGTON, April 10.—Orders went out today to United States district attorneys to investigate the "unauthorized" railroad strikes in their districts to determine whether there has been any "joint action" designed to interfere with the transportation of necessities or whether such interference was contemplated.

Attorney General Palmer, who is at Savannah, Ga., said that such a joint action would be unlawful. He added that the federal government would take no steps until a careful inquiry had been made to ascertain the exact facts.

Instructs Ames to Act. Mr. Palmer instructed Assistant Attorney General Ames to act on his own judgment should the situation be found to warrant it.

Mr. Ames steadfastly refused to comment on developments in the strike situation. Although the strike apparently was spreading rapidly in the middle west, administrative officials believe the authorized leader of the railroad unions would be able to control the situation without the government's interference. Government machinery, however, was ready to move should this finally be decided on.

What the first step would be was not decided. The Senate interstate-commerce committee completed plans today for investigation of the strike hearings will begin Tuesday.

While Mr. Ames refused to discuss the situation, other officials of the department pointed out that two sources of procedure were open if the government decided to take a hand in settling the strike. The government, they said, could seek criminal indictments under the Lever act because of interference with the interstate food shipments or it could employ methods similar to the injunction proceedings of the bituminous coal strike.

Although there has been no stoppage of United States mails, according to the reports to the department it is known that officials are watching strike developments from the angle also.

JUDGE A. E. FIRMIN OUT FOR ELECTION AS COUNTY ATTORNEY

Judge A. E. Firmin has announced himself as a candidate for the office of county attorney. In the event of his election Judge Firmin stated that he would make only one promise and that was to enforce the law as it is written, regardless of whether or not it pleased him or his constituents.

Judge Firmin has practiced law continuously for forty years. For twenty-four years he was located in Dallas, Texas. Before settling in Dallas he practiced his profession in Limestone county, having been at one time district judge of that district.

Two years ago he came to Eastland. A few months later he moved to Ranger, where he has been located for the past fifteen months.

Judge Firmin was counsel for the Chamber of Commerce before it became incorporated. Later he handled all the legal affairs of the city while in the formative stage. In asking the people for their ballot, Judge Firmin offers his past record, both in business and in private life, as his strongest recommendation.

He said that the people of this country could not do the work here in twenty-four hours of twenty-four years. He explained that from 50 to 70 per cent of the workers in industrial plants are foreign born.

BORDER STATE ON VERGE OF INDEPENDENCE

Congress Repudiates Central Government, Prepares for War.

By Associated Press

AGUA PRIETA, Sonora, April 10.—The Sonora state congress convened in secret session at Hermosillo today, repudiated the Mexican central government and adopted a resolution declaring the state would take steps to resist any invasion by troops and infringement of state rights attempted by the Carranza government, according to word received here today.

A telegram telling of the congressional action was sent after an all-night session. This is taken to mean in military circles that Sonora is making open declaration of independence and is in line with the action referred to be in progress by the state to defy President Carranza to discharge the custom house workers at the port of Agua Prieta.

Governor Huerta of Sonora in a telegram to General Salvador Alvarado here said:

"In view of the replies of President Carranza to the governor and congress of the state of Sonora it was decided to suspend relations with the central government until such a time as the causes leading to the determination have ceased to exist.

The state authorities of Sonora called upon President Carranza to halt the mobilization of federal troops within Sonora. They charged he Mexican president was plotting to establish a military dictatorship in the state and take over the state government. It had been openly barred this was a plot against the presidential candidacy of General Obregon. Carranza's position in the state authorities that he had no special attention but thought the troops were being ordered to Sonora for the general welfare of the country.

CUSTOM HOUSE SEIZED. DOUGLAS, Ariz., April 10.—The custom house of Agua Prieta across the line from Douglas was seized today in the name of the Sonora state government and tonight armed men were guarding the building. The custom office and the post office also have been taken over by state authorities.

The employees of the custom office and of the other federal departments have declared their loyalty to the state government. All able-bodied men in Agua Prieta between the ages of 18 and 60 have been reorganized into state militia and they are ready on short notice to assist in to protect the town against invading forces.

Trenches have been dug on the eastern, western and southern outskirts and there are 200 militiamen a watch in their tonight.

FACTORS IN FIGHT

WASHINGTON, April 10.—While no reports had reached Washington tonight on the repudiation of the Mexican central government by the Sonora state congress, factors undoubtedly led the congressional action are known to officials.

The state of Sonora is the home of General Obregon, the candidate in opposition to the Carranza administration whose struggle has grown steadily since General Obregon began his attacks on the president. Political managers fanned the flames with charges that Governor Huerta's promises would be renegeed and that federal troops would assume control of the state.

With the feeling running high the strike of employees in the Southern Pacific Mexican railroad came, and a Carranza-appointed judge issued notice that unless the strikers returned to work within seventy-two hours the federal government would take over the road. The Sonora authorities blocked such action by asking over the railroad before the federal government would act. He then there were circulated that the administration would withhold the judge and seize the railroads by the use of troops.

LAMB. New York Life in All Its Phases is Shown in New Film, "On With the Dance." Many-sided New York was reproduced accurately in a motion picture studio during the filming of "On With the Dance," the new photoplay featuring Mae Murray and David Powell at the Lamb theatre during the latter part of the week and which ended today. This is George Fitzmaurice's first personally produced cinema. It is peculiarly a story of New York in both its lighter and sombre moods. To drive the story home, Mr. Fitzmaurice incorporated scenes from every phase of life in the big city. In the studio he built a Fifth avenue modiste's shop, crowded with gorgeous creations, gaily dressed customers and pretty models. The stock exchange, a tough dance hall on the Bowery, a cheap prize fight, luxurious apartments, Battery park and of course the famous myriad-lighted skyline all there. In the cast with Miss Murray such famous players as David Powell, Alma Tell, Robert Schable, John Milner, Ida A. Werman and Zola Talma all appear. The scenario was by Ouida Berners and it is a Paramount-Artcraft picture.

OPERA HOUSE. Vaudeville Bill for This Week is Promising. The Gelli Troupe, a French family in sensational feats of tumbling. The little midget keeps the audience laughing while the balance of the troupe does some remarkable hand balancing, head balancing, tumbling and acrobatic work that is above the average. Roach & McCurdy give a touch of nature. Two old rubes, magician who have been barnstorming with poor results and are working their way back to mother. The yestop on the street and give a display of their ability. One is the musician and the other is the assistant. The latter is always curious and exposes the tricks as fast as the other does them. They have an exceptionally good line of comedy and keep the audience in a continuous uproar the whole while. Irene Trevette, "Maid of the Allies," a beautiful girl wearing stunning costumes in a repertoire of Italian, French and English songs. And she has a charm and personality that wins her audience from the start. Frank Shields, billed as "A Lariat Novelty." It is every bit of that. He does several very novel and difficult tricks with different ropes. He is a good dancer and does the rope twirling and dancing at the same time. He also takes you on a trip around the world with his rope. Another novelty is a tale in knots. Paton, Yantis & Rooney are three pretty girls with some very stunning gowns. They have good voices and some new songs. They do solos, duets and trios and are very pleasing.

LAMB. Cross Continent to Play in Film. Marjorie Daw and Jane Novak will be seen in Marshall Neilan's production of "The River's End," a James Oliver Curwood story, distributed by the First National at the Lamb theatre on Monday. When selecting the cast for the film Mr. Curwood and Mr. Neilan agreed that the roles of Mary Coniston and Mician Kirkstone could find expression through no better artists than the Misses Daw and Novak. Accordingly, both of the artists crossed the continent to the studio where the picture was to be filmed. "The River's End" is the first in independent effort of Marshall Neilan as a producer. The story carries a love interest that is genuinely startling.

HIPPODROME. A woman's selfishness and disregard of conventions is at the bottom of all the trouble in "The Blue Pearl," a screen mystery play, which is to be shown at the Hippodrome today. The woman takes the pearl as a gift from another woman's husband, and she permits her own husband to see it. He goes further and flouts the jewel in the face of the wife of the man who gave it to her at a dinner party given by her wife. While she is a guest of the wife, the jewel disappears from her neck and there is a hue and cry. Everyone present is suspected, and there are several present whose grounds of suspicion are well founded. How the pearl is recovered and who took it, provides six reels of interesting situations that hold and thrill. "The Blue Pearl" is a Lawrence Weber production and is portrayed by a New York cast consisting of Edith Hallor, Florence Billings, Fair Binner, Lumsden Hart, Carlos Giles, and Richard Halliday.

LONE STAR. Beautiful Kathleen About to Leave U. S. One of the most beautiful scenes ever presented in motion pictures, and one which has occasioned much favorable comment, is seen in Kathleen Mavourneen, the William Fox special production which tonight ends its run at the Lone Star theater. The scene in question is that in which Terence is coming to the rescue of his sweetheart, Kathleen—played by Theda Bara.

In his mad rush to save the girl Terence literally climbs up the face of a beautiful cascade, clinging with bare hands and feet to the rocks, made dangerously slippery by the rushing waters and ignoring the torturing pains over him. The feat of doing this noteworthy in itself; but it is the beautiful setting it wins almost a new genre of appreciation as it loses of its tension.

After a brief program the musicians were escorted about the studio by J. Parker Reed, Jr., and the magnificent Thoms H. Unusually, Lerdo gave the signal and in one of the staves Miss Glaum was ensconced upon a lane and the musicians, now in festive mood, romantically serenaded the actress.

C. Gardner Sullivan, the screen author, appeared on the set and was

TO GIVE BONUS IN 500-MILE SWEEPSTAKES

INDIANAPOLIS.—An additional purse aggregating $20,000 is being gathered by Indianapolis business men and manufacturers to be divided among leaders during the next international 500-mile race on the Indianapolis speedway, on the basis of $100 for each lap that any contestant heads the field.

The father of the plan is George M. Dickson, president of the National Motor Car and Vehicle company, whose blue fliers were supreme on road and speedway until the firm retired from racing, following the victory of old No. 8 in the Indianapolis race of 1912.

Dickson's idea was that with $100 a lap as an inducement to stay in the lead, every contestant would go to his utmost to get out in front and stick, knowing that one hundred additional iron men would accrue to his personal fortune every time he passed the judge's stand in the van of the procession.

The result of course would be to speed up the race considerably, as well as make for closer competition, since every contestant within striking distance of the lead would not be content simply to hold his position, but would constantly force his mount to the limit to grab off some of the extra money.

Indianapolis business men immediately seized upon Dickson's idea as an opportunity for the city to get behind the race and to make it an even greater event than it now is, with the result that the proposed fund is well on the way toward completion.

With the additional lap prizes of $20,000, and the usual necessary prizes of around $10,000, the speedway's prize money promises to aggregate around $80,000 this year, the greatest fortune that has ever been distributed for an automobile racing event, either in the United States or Europe.

STAMFORD, April 10.—The limit of the quarantine against the pink boll worm in Texas will probably be narrowed to the affected areas instead of embracing the entire state, declares the chairman of the federal horticultural board, in a communication to Porter A. DAMASCUS HAS SNOWFALL BUT ONCE IN DECADE

DAMASCUS.—Snow lay thick on the bare brown slopes of Jebel Kas-yun when Emir Feisal looked from his bedroom window in Salehiyeh recently. Muffled, half-frozen figures picked their way over treacherous, ice-floated streets; in the bazaars merchants huddled around their braziers of glowing charcoal. The beggar outside the door of my hotel was too benumbed to ask for his morning alms.

It was the first snow storm here in ten years.

All the fascination of Damascus fled before the gale which swept down from Mount Hermon and the barren hills hemming us in on three sides.

There is no other city in the East quite like it. Constantinople, Tunis, Cairo, Tripoli, none of them has quite the same atmosphere of mystery and romance as pervades this great nerve center in the Moslem world.

It is a city of magnificent palaces hidden behind high walls and massive carved doors. In the covered bazaars you meet every type of follower of the Prophet. Turks, Kurds, Bedouins, Hadjis fresh from Mecca, Ule-mas from the Sudan, Druses from Hauran, dervishes and negroes, Circassians, mingle in the street called Straight. It is a city of great wealth and extreme poverty; of intrigue, and gloomy, religious fervor; a halting place for all the devout who pass to and fro on the great desert high-ways linking Egypt, Mesopotamia, Persia and Turkey, a city curiously mingling modernity with the conservatism of centuries.

Tram cars whirl through the new quarter of the city, an English telephone adorns the postoffice, the railroad station would do credit to any European city of like size. Yet the women, who are more jealously guarded than anywhere else in the Near East, wear impenetrable veils and live as remote from the twentieth century as in the days of Mahomet.

There is no more devout city in Islam. Merchants read the Koran between bargains. Priests confront you on every hand. The musical, penetrating cry of the muezzin wakes me at dawn, and his call to prayers resound from the minarets at intervals until nightfall.

"Allah is great; I testify that there is no God but Allah, and Mahomet is the prophet of Allah; come to prayers." The mosques are crowded all the day long; worshippers haunt the chapel of saints—the tomb of Bilal-el-Habeshi, "the Abyssinian," Mahomet's muezzin, and those of other great men of Islam.

A new note is perceptible in the life of Damascus, despite her tenacious hold on the past. Everywhere one meets the khaki-clad soldiers of the Hedjaz army—the army of King Hussein, father of Emir Feisal and Son of the Prophet. The caftan of a chief conceals an officer's uniform of British pattern; beneath his gold or silver girdle is a Sam Browne belt. The British army has gone, but its influence remains. A militant Syria is rising up, and the heart of it is this remote Oriental city of Damascus.

Life in Damascus is full of interest—and in curious ways. I do not suppose there are more than half a dozen Europeans here, including two consuls and two liaison officers. There is a British non-political representative, Lieutenant-Colonel Easton, who occupies a tiny house in the Salehiyeh quarter; a French liaison officer, Colonel Courte, who lives and works in a more ornate mansion between the palace and the Military Serai.

The air is full of politics; of talk, independence. Mysterious undercurrents link Damascus with the north, with the south, most certainly with the east, quite probably with the west. One feels that it is an atmosphere charged with electricity. For the moment, however, calm broods over the capital, calm that is a little sinister and oppressive, it is true; for beneath the surface of things there is a deep anger and rekindled hatred of the West.

TOMBSTONE, ARIZ., NAMED BY JOKING PROSPECTOR

TOMBSTONE, Ariz., April 10.—A prospector's curious sense of humor was responsible for the naming of this town which recently has gotten into the news dispatches because of the Bisbee deportation trials being held here.

According to James F. Duncan, who came here in 1879, the town was founded in that year by Ed Scheffelin, a mining prospector. He called his mine near the site of the present courthouse "Tombstone mine" Duncan said, because the region was full of dead rocks that resembled tombstones.

Tradition has it, however, that Scheffelin's friends frequently rallied him for his faith in the locality, and told him that he would find his tombstone here. After the prospector had made his fortune here, in good natured irony he is said to have named the town after the fate that had been predicted for him.

Deep Pecos Test at Crogan Well of Sunshine Co.

PECOS, April 10.—The Crogan well of the Sunshine Oil corporation will be charged into a deep test. This well, located on section fifteen in the same block as the Bell well No. 2 of the H. & G. N. railway survey, was first directed to seek out the shallow sands at which the Bell well struck oil. The well has been drilling for two weeks. This will be the sixth deep test of the Sunshine company, the pioneers in the Pecos field.

The firm has ordered steel rigs with the exception of the derrick for their Laura No. 3, which is to be drilled on section 69, block 4, H. & G. N. railway survey just northwest of Pecos.

At a meeting of the stockholders, Alfred Tinnally was elected president, Ben T. Biggs and John B. Howard vice presidents, Roy D. Barnum treasurer, and Bert E. Mackley secretary.

Contracts that call for the ultimate expenditures of over $500,000 for the development in the Pecos valley have been made by the Dominion Oil company. This company, which has operated only in proven fields, is the first of the larger producing companies to enter the Pecos field as a result of the Pecos strike.

Vice-President and General Manager C. A. Owens and Chief Geologist Jewell and a corps of assistants have been in Pecos and vicinity for the past week and have opened offices here. Their first drilling contract has been made in section twenty-one of the Bell well block. Their site is just west of the discovery well.

"It looks like an oil country in the recent tests of the Bell well naturally encourages any operator to venture into the district," said Mr. Owens. "The Dominion Oil company confines its operations to the drilling of wells and producing oil. If the land and lease holders do not make the fatal mistake of holding for too high prices, I am confident many of the larger producing companies will feel inclined to enter the Pecos field."

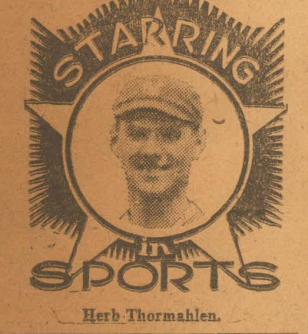

L. M. White of the Toyah Bell Oil company has made a drilling job for his company in section 2, block 55, township three in territory just west of the Bell well and plans to start drilling in a short time. Bur Brothers & Senle of Desdemona are the contractor. Mr. White purchases other acreage lying near the Bell well during his trip here. The company has holdings in the Toyah shallow field where they expect to drill. Their headquarters are in Fort Worth.

The town site of Porterville has fallen a victim to the oil boom. This village was laid out several years ago and is now under negotiation for purchase by a group of California oil men who plan to develop it for oil. This town is situated northeast of the Bell well about four miles and is owned by the E. L. Stratton interests of the Toyah Valley Oil company.

C. R. MANUEL PURCHASES O. K. APARTMENTS HERE

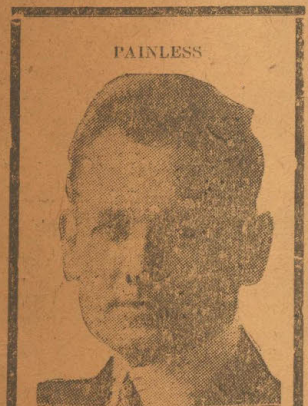

C. R. Manuel of McAllister, Okla., has purchased the O. K. Apartments located on West Main street. The deal was made directly between Mr. Manuel and T. G. Baker, the owner. Mr. Manuel stated Saturday that he will have sewer connections installed and make other improvements. There are forty rooms in the apartment house.

Umpire's Woes Deepened Because Fans Fail to See Some Vital Points in Play Revealed to Close-up Eye of Ball Czar

By DONALD M. BANGS.

There have been times in the life of fandom when everyone has disagreed with some ruling or other made by an umpire. There are also times when fans are positive that they are correct in their judgment against the umpire on some play which is contrary to that of the judge of the play. At such times fans are not backward in expressing their views. Nor is the method used in conveying such an impression complimentary. There are many cases where an umpire may feel certain that he has rendered the proper ruling, yet, as an umpire, he is forced to, like all other judges of plays to stand the criticism that invariably results on close plays.

Many times during the career of an umpire he is subjected to all kinds of criticisms on a ruling; that he knows is positively correct, a ruling that does not involve some question of judgment but depends on some ground rule. Knowing that the fan is partisan and a bit prejudiced in his viewpoint, most umpires try to bear in mind the viewpoint of the fan, because from observation in the stand many plays look entirely different.

Hard Ordeal for Umpire.

I remember several years ago a certain umpire in the Northwestern League that ran into a storm of criticism during the season's window of the finals for the pennant. I don't ever remember an umpire that was more just in his rulings or considerate to fandom than he was. And to make matters worse, he was well liked by all the clubs in the league, so the upheaval was anything but pleasant for him. The game was being played at Tacoma and a tremendous crowd had turned out for the final inspection of the Tigers.

In the eighth inning with the bases filled, two out, two strikes and three balls on Sutherland, the hard-hitting pitcher, and the score standing two to one against them, the umpire was placed in an embarrassing position.

The pitcher took a long chance on a curve. It looked good as it neared the plate. Sutherland started to swing, and the ball began to break away from the plate. It was quite evident to Sutherland that the pitch would be called a ball, entirely; him to first and sending in the run that would tie the score. He decided to hold his swing, but his bat grazed the ball as it passed, converting the pitch into a foul, and, as the catcher held it, it became the third strike and ended the inning.

Not Heard in Grandstand.

No one in the grandstand heard the tick and I doubt if any of the players on the bench or in the field heard it with the exception of the umpire, catcher, pitcher, batter and two or three of us on the bench.

At this moment when Sutherland was called out the men jumped from the bench and started toward the plate. As they neared it, Sutherland who was trying to argue the umpire out of his ruling, turned to the boys and said, "He's right, fellows." Then he tossed his club towards the bench and started out to the box.

So, even though it sounds strange, there are times when the player will confirm the umpire's ruling when he has every advantage to further his end on his side, such as his teammates and fandom.

War Wounded Get "Hard Boiled" Care From Federal Board

(By Marquis James, in the American Legion Weekly.)

There is nothing new or surprising in the instructions to the "hard-boiled" which the federal board for vocational education has issued to its agents to guide them in their dealings with wounded and maimed veterans whose hopes for future happiness unfortunately have been entrusted to the board's care, when one peruses a letter to the American Legion Weekly from Mrs. Janette Logan Jacobs of the Red Cross.

The hard-boiled order, which was quoted in the preceding issue of the Weekly, far from being a sudden inspiration and an exception to the rule, appears merely as a confirmation of a practice long in effect. Wounded men have been treated virtually as impostors, branded as a "poor spirited lot," who come "asking for charity."

The letter published herewith sets forth conditions as they existed last fall, which renders its evidence of peculiar significance. In August and September the Weekly investigated the board and found the nation's "belt of honor" paid with a worthless check. Now comes the New York Evening Post with a disclosure of the situation as it stands at present. The history is complete, each new episode corroborating the one preceding. The board was negligent and incompetent last fall; it is negligent and incompetent now. The worthless check has not been redeemed.

For months, Mrs. Jacobs, whose home is in New York City, has devoted nearly all of her time to the alleviation of distress among our neglected disabled—without pay and without reward of satisfaction which comes from the gratitude of the wounded men she has aided. Her letter:

"My work in connection with the vocational board for education has continued for several months and began purely as a side issue arising out of the regular Red Cross canteen service. The first case came through an accidental meeting on top of a bus with a wounded soldier who was apparently so downhearted and in trouble that I immediately inquired into the cause. I found that he had applied for vocational training and that several weeks had elapsed in which he had received no answers of any kind, no financial assistance of any kind, and was entirely out of funds.

"From that time on I handled many so-called hard cases and arranged their affairs with the board in personally conducted visits. That is, I went on each occasion with the boy once or repeatedly until he finally obtained what he was clearly entitled to. This varied experience has shown clearly what the faults in the board are, and naturally are of two kinds. First, the inadequacy of the law itself providing for vocational training. Second, the administration of the law as envisioned by the New York City board.

"The most glaring fault is the attitude of more than half of the examiners and advisors toward the boys themselves. They are plainly repelled and made to feel that they are practically charity patients and that anything that is done for them is in the nature of condescension. They are made to wait for hours and hours, and often for several days in succession, sitting in chairs before they even receive a first hearing. After their cases are taken up they are frequently obliged to wait days or weeks before any action is taken so far as resulting good or even personal concern is concerned. The following examples in quotation marks are, substantially correct. They are, as nearly as memory will serve, in the exact words used in my hearing by various examiners and advisors:

"I said, 'But you don't understand the psychology of the soldier.' Answer, 'No, thank God, and I hope we never shall!'

"Think of what the rehabilitation of the soldier would have been under army control—militarism, fatal to the country."

"Why should we do more for the returned soldier than the man on the street? You don't support him. Why should you do more for a man who has lost a leg in battle than for one who lost a leg in a factory?"

"They (board employees) are nearly all ardent pacifists and wish no good to come to a man who has fought."

"They keep the men waiting days, weeks, months. Hours and hours are spent by the applicants for vocational training in a little walled-off outer space. There is no welcome and but scant courtesy. If, on seeing the advisor, they complain of the wait or the treatment their cases are often marked 'unworthy,' and the man is dropped for that reason. Their spirits are often nearly crushed by the long long wait, and then they are flamed for this. One advisor said to me: 'I've come to realize that no real red-blooded man, no man with any pep or fight in him, no matter how badly wounded, would ever come in here asking for charity. You ought to see them, they are a poor spirited lot any way. I've got no sympathy for them.'

"An advisor admitted that they had made mistakes, but he said, 'We are probably too late now to help many of the wounded soldiers, but that makes very little difference anyway, seeing what we have learned here of vocational needs will be of great benefit to the coming generation.'

"An advisor said: 'It is the crime of the century the way some men try to get an education out of the government. Sometimes a man who has only lost a thumb or a couple of fingers or a hand will try to get the government to educate him through the board.'

"The medical situation is very bad. If a man asks for medical care, he is sent to the war risk. They send him from doctor to clinic, and from clinic to hospital. He is often too poor to buy himself food that in any way nourishes him. He then becomes too sick to receive vocational training and, therefore, is no responsibility of the federal board. They cross his name off the active list, and as far as the board goes, his case is finished. If you ask them about such a case the answer is likely to be, 'we are not here to do a charity business.'

"Often an advisor will explain to the wounded man the terrible expense the country is put to to rehabilitate soldiers and thereby discourage the true blue American. One time I met a big soldier on crutches with one leg, leaving the board. I asked him if he had got what he wanted. 'No, ma'am, he said, 'I went for to fight for my country, not to bankrupt it. If the country is as hard up as that, I don't going to have it spent on a half man like me.'

"Sometimes the fighting blood of a man is aroused. Another day, I met a big marine, again on crutches, again with one leg gone. I asked him if he had what he wanted. 'No, ma'am,' he said, 'not yet, but I expect to. Fighting Jerry was hard but it wasn't nothing to this battle of Fifth avenue.' He had a wife and he had to fight.

FOWL MOTIVES

We was standin' in de trenches And de foech was elst at hand, While in front of us was terror And boh-wires of No-man's-land. When our cap'n gave de order To advance an' swipe de hill, Not a nigger stirred or stated, Fo de bullets hummed to kill. The cap'n sent a word o' mouth A startin' down de line, "Do you' dunt by yo' country, "Don't be scairt of shell or mine!" But de heebies was poundin' And de faces was burnin' bright And de bullets thick as skeeters In a Texas swamp at night. We were shooshy but embarrased Skeeered to stand and skeered to run, We was lousy and not amot gracie, Twist de cap'n and de Hun.

Den de heebies stop their roarin' Like they mebbe go to sleep, And we hear a chicken cackle On de hill de Germans keep. Plain and clear as in de ban yard When de big owl fly and flap And de moon rests in de tree-fork On de edge of Cedar Gap. All de niggers hear dat cackle And dey heave a mighty sigh, And dey think of chickens roastin', And der mouth no longer dry.

Shore, we start to sit dat chicken And we're yellin' like a witch, All de Germans try to stop us, And we drop 'em in de ditch. "Don't you throw dat 'tater digger, "Use de bayonet, you pupp, "Don't you know dat 'tater digger Like to blow de chicken up?"

TO CORRECT SERVICE RECORDS.

The adjutant general of the army has announced that his office is prepared to investigate claims of soldiers whose discharge certificates fail to give them credit for specific battles and engagements. If the records support the former soldier's claim and show that he was not absent from his unit on the day of its participation in a battle he will be given official credit and a statement to that effect will be endorsed upon his discharge certificate. The proper method for making such a claim can be learned by addressing "Service."

TOO MUCH TALK.

(The Home Sector)

More than a century ago, Thomas Jefferson said:

"I served with General Washington in the legislature of Virginia, before the revolution, and, during it, with Doctor Franklin in congress. I never heard either of them speak ten minutes at a time, nor to any but the main point, which was to decide the question."

"They laid their shoulders to the great points, knowing that the little ones would follow of themselves. If the present congress errs in too much talking, how can it be otherwise, in a body to which the people send one hundred and fifty lawyers, whose trade is to question everything, yield nothing, and talk by the hour? That one hundred and fifty lawyers should do business together ought not to be expected."

Multiply the above by four, add several hundred new subjects for debate, divide into two parties, and you have the national legislature in the year of grace 1920. Probably it could be calculated by an efficiency expert that the amount of energy, time, money and lung power wasted in one session by congress would be enough to drain every swamp in this country, irrigate every barren acre and rescue and educate every child laborer, with enough left over then to support and train every wounded doughboy. As it is, small wonder that gentle knocks at the door of congress are drowned out by the oratorical uproar inside.

Railroads Using Motor Trucks on Short Hauls

The increasing interest of railroads in the use of motor trucks to facilitate freight and passenger transportation on short hauls is evinced in the recent addition of motor lines by several roads. Prominent among these is the Palatine, Lake Zurich and Wauconda railroad which is using a 3-ton FWD truck, equipped with flanged wheels, and passenger body on its 16-mile track from Wauconda to Palatine, Ill. The truck, which has a capacity to care for 80 passengers, also hauls a trailer loaded with freight and baggage weighing five tons. When not pulling a trailer the round trip of 32 miles is made on six gallons of gasoline. At one point on its route the truck climbs a 7 per cent grade with full load. It is operated continuously from morning until night. In a recent letter Thomas J. Lee, vice president and general manager of the Palatine, Lake Zurich, Wau-

Studebaker Has Big New Plants

The new $15,000,000 plant of the Studebaker corporation here has observed an anniversary. A year ago Wauconda railroad said: "I think there is a great field for a truck which will operate successfully on a railroad as there are about 250 short lines in this country, which would be in need of them if the right car is built." According to a report from Poplar Bluff, Mo., the Butler county railroad has also opened up a motor line from Fergus, Mo., to Tipperary, Ark. Whether or not the railroads, with their return to private ownership will universally adopt the motor truck as an aid to the freight and passenger hauls is a question that is at present uppermost in the minds of truck manufacturers. It is the opinion of some that with a resumption of the old time competition the railroads will add motor trucks to their transportation system in an effort to get all possible business, rather than see it go into outside hands.

On March 19, 1919, to be exact—ground was broken for the South Bend plant, latest addition to the Studebaker plant system, the biggest factory construction job in the automobile industry and the home of the new Studebaker light-six soon to be forthcoming. One of the striking innovations and efficiency ideas in the new plant is to be found in the building where final assembly will be carried on. Cars will be assembled on a conveyor as they progress from one operation to another. Materials will be stored on upper floors and will be dropped to each station of the assembly line, piece by piece, in the number required for each individual car. The arrangement of this progressive assembly provides for the mechanical handling of all material and reduces to a minimum the cost and confusion of moving stock. The subassembly building, of reinforced concrete construction, is four stories high, 192 feet wide and 528 feet long, with an interior bay open to the roof. This bay is covered with a glass skylight and is equipped with crane service and landing balconies on all floors for quick and economical handling of materials. The bay also has a depressed unloading track with accommodations for 10 freight cars. In this subassembly building will be located the storerooms, tool departments, machinery maintenance and repair departments, together with factory administration offices and employe's restaurant. The third building erected during the past 12 months accommodates the stamping department. It is 183 feet wide and 628 feet long, one story high, of steel frame construction with tile roof and glass sides. Heavy metal forming presses are being installed in it for the manufacture of frames, fenders, hoods and other stamped parts of the car. It also is equipped with huge ovens in which engine parts are baked. The other buildings of this complete manufacturing unit, in which finished automobiles will shortly be produced, are the machine shop, 742 feet long and 161 feet wide, and the power house serving all these buildings. Some idea of the enormity of the construction job performed since ground was broken may be obtained from the following figures: One building completed has a total floor space of 1,206,799 square feet. In their erection and equipment 8,778,197 pounds of reinforced and structural steel were used; 60,883 cubic yards of concrete; 2,000,000 feet of lumber; 131,881 square feet of glass; 1,350,000 bricks; 120,000 barrels of cement; 153 miles of electric wiring; 6,640 feet of water mains; 6,169 feet of sewer lines; 3,081 feet of tunnels for carrying steam and water lines and between the various buildings; 3,500 square feet of concrete pavement; 18,080 feet of surface railroad track and 1,528 feet of depressed rack for handling materials.

TIRE PRESSURE IN RACE IS TERRIBLE
Goodyear Cord Makes 104 Miles Per Hour Leap Without Injury. But Steel Spokes Collapse.
The unbelievable amount of punishment sustained by automobile tires in speed races where wheels are revolving at the rate of twenty-five times per second when the car is making 100 miles per hour, is not appreciated by the average racing fan. A remarkable incident in the recent Los Angeles race brings this point out in a striking manner. Art Klein was leading the field on the 180th mile, cleaving the air at 104 miles per hour. Suddenly his right rear wheel collapsed, the steel spokes being sheared off close to the rim. Rearing wildly, the car scrambled crazily about on the remain of the wheel, but the fully inflated Goodyear cord tire, perfectly mounted, swept on down the track at terrific speed in the direction the car had been taking. When it finally came to a stop it was found uninjured. This is the first time that such a freak performance, demonstrating the ruggedness of tires, has been witnessed during a race. In the United States there are now eleven women members of state legislatures in five different states.

TAX-EXEMPT BONDS.
(By Harold F. Greene, Manager Bond Department, Guaranty Trust Co., of New York)

Tax exemption is of vital importance to investors in view of the fact that the income from their investments is fixed and does not increase with increases in the cost of living. In the case of a wealthy investor, the percentage of net profit on investments after paying taxes is very small, and it is therefore almost essential for such individuals to purchase tax-exempt securities. The selection of investments under such circumstances is often a difficult matter; therefore it is advisable, when investing, to consult with someone who is thoroughly familiar with the provisions of the revenue law pertaining to tax exemption. In the following article some of the features of this problem are outlined. It must always be remembered, however, that a decision as to the proper investments to make will depend in each instance upon the particular circumstances of the case.

Under our federal revenue law the interest on all domestic railroad, public utility, and industrial bonds is subject to income tax, whether owned by residents or non-residents. The interest on all bonds of foreign countries or corporations is also subject to such tax when these bonds are owned by citizens or residents of the United States. However, because of the prevailing high rates of surtax, the net return to wealthy investors on such securities is comparatively small, and in consequence there is a large demand for bonds the income from which is exempt from taxation.

Included among tax-exempt securities are the obligations of states, territories, or any political subdivision thereof, or the District of Columbia. Political subdivisions of a state or territory as defined by the commissioner of internal revenue include special assessment districts such as road, water, sewer, gas, light, reclamation, drainage, irrigation, levee, school, harbor, port, improvement, and similar districts, and divisions of a state or territory. The interest on bonds issued by any such districts is exempt from taxation under the federal laws, but if a state or municipal bond is bought at a discount the amount, in excess of the price paid, received when the bond is sold or retired at maturity is a taxable profit. Conversely, if such a bond is bought at a premium the difference between the amount paid and the amount received is deductible as a loss in the income tax return.

Prior to the flotation of the Liberty loans, the interest on all obligations of the United States government was exempt from taxation; except estate or inheritance taxes. The first Liberty loan 3 1/2 per cent bonds were issued on that basis; but in view of the large amount government was financing that appeared inevitable, it was realized that it would be impossible to continue issuing tax exempt bonds indefinitely; therefore issues of government bonds, after September 1, 1917, were only exempt from taxation in limited amounts and for periods of two and five years as provided in the laws authorizing the various issues. These provisions make it possible for an investor to own a maximum principal amount of $100,000 of the 4's and 4 1/2's exempt from all income, and excess profit taxes. The Victory 3 3/4 per cent notes in any amount like the first Liberty 3 1/2 per cent bonds are exempt from all taxation, except estate or inheritance taxes.

Among the other issues that are tax exempt under the federal revenue law are bonds issued by federal land banks and joint stock land banks which are exempted from all taxation, because they are "instrumentalities of the United States government." The object of the federal farm loan act was to stimulate the development of agriculture, and to provide the farmer with funds at a low rate of interest. If bonds issued to obtain such funds had been subject to taxation it would have been much more difficult to sell them, and the cost of the money to the farmer would have been much greater. Bonds issued by the war finance corporation are partially exempt from taxation, the interest on any amount of these bonds being exempt from normal federal income tax, but subject to surtaxes and excess profits taxes. The interest on a principal amount not exceeding $5,000 is, however, exempt from all federal taxation, except estate or inheritance taxes. There is a big demand for tax-exempt securities because of the decided advantage to wealthy investors of owning them. The advantage, however, is not the same in all cases, owing to our graduated rates of surtax. For instance, an investor having a present taxable income of $10,000 per annum would obtain as good a return from an additional investment in 5.10 per cent taxable bonds as he would from 4 1/2 per cent tax-exempt bonds, whereas an investor having a taxable income of $100,000 per annum would have to receive 11 1/4 per cent on an additional investment in taxable bonds to give him the same net yield after taxes as he would obtain from 4 1/2 per cent tax-exempt bonds. To investors with incomes over $100,000 per annum an additional investment in 4 1/2 per cent tax-exempt bonds is equivalent to a taxable investment yielding about 16 1/2 per cent.

In the case of the small investor, it is more profitable to invest in the high yield bonds that can be obtained at the present time, than in tax-exempt securities, and, even in the case of large investors, a certain proportion of taxable securities can be owned to advantage. In view of the possibilities of subsequent appreciation in value if tax rates decline, it might be desirable in many cases to own taxable securities giving a lower net return at present. Any reduction of tax rates would, of course, tend to increase the market value of taxable securities, but not that of tax-exempt securities.

Many corporations have invested in state and municipal bonds, because of the exemption from taxation of the interest received thereon. Under the excess profits tax law, however, stocks and bonds, the income from which is exempt from taxation (other than United States government bonds) are considered "admissible assets" for the purpose of computing "Invested Capital." The result is that a corporation owning such securities has to reduce its "Invested Capital" as provided in the revenue law. As a reduction in "Invested Capital" reduces the amount of the exemption from excess profits tax and increases the amount taxable at the higher rate, a corporation pays more tax by reason of owning state and municipal bonds. If a large percentage of the corporation's assets are in tax-exempt securities, the additional tax may amount to more than the interest received on the bonds.

While the bonds previously referred to are the only securities that have complete or partial exemption from taxation, there are so-called "Tax-Free Bonds" which give the holder the benefit of having the normal federal income tax up to 2 per cent paid for him by the other federal corporation. Such bonds, which include railroads, public utilities, and industrial, contain covenants which usually read about as follows: "Principal and interest of this bond will be paid without deduction for any taxes that the corporation may be required to withhold or retain under any present or future law of the United States." It will be observed that a corporation only agrees to pay its bond holder whatever tax it is required to withhold or retain. To protect the rights of holders of such bonds the revenue act was framed so that withholding of the tax is required in the case of bonds containing a tax-free covenant. The amount that has to be withheld in such cases is, however, only 2 per cent instead of the 4 per cent, or 8 per cent normal tax that has to be paid by the bond holder, for the reason that if debtor corporations were required to pay the higher rate it would involve a considerable hardship which was not contemplated when the bond was issued, and the bond holder would be obtaining a benefit that he had not paid for. Under a recent ruling of the treasury department, however, the bond holder does not obtain the benefit that he formerly did, as he is required to report as income the amount of tax paid for him by debtor corporations, and as such taxes paid are not allowable deductions under the federal income tax law, no deduction can be taken for this tax. The tax paid for bond holders in such cases is, however, allowed as a credit against the amount of tax payable to the United States.

Servants Robbing New York's Rich, Who Let 'Em Do It

NEW YORK, April 10.—An increase of 25 per cent in burglary insurance rates which has just been put into effect has brought to light the fact that employers, made timid by the shortage of domestic workers, are tolerating thefts from their wardrobes and wine cellars in order to retain the few servants they have "in captivity." Officials of indemnity companies who give this explanation declare that in many cases employees have refused to allow the servants in their households to be questioned about thefts, through fear that they will quit if annoyed.

Emboldened by this situation, dishonest servants are reported to be helping themselves to their employers' effects, such as wine, clothing and jewelry. "Servants are privileged characters in the homes of the wealthy throughout New York," said the head of one surety company. "In many cases holders of burglary insurance policies have cancelled their claims against the company rather than to prosecute a guilty servant, knowing that this would mean the loss of his or her services."

One New York lawyer recently refused to allow his servants to be questioned regarding a $100 theft, saying: "Don't go near the house. If the maids suspect you, they will leave."

One investigator reported a case in which a young servant girl had, in two weeks, disposed of eight cases of champagne and eight cases of whiskey by holding wine parties in the kitchen for her friends and entertaining them with choice liquors from her employer's private stock. Although the owner knew he could not replace the missing beverages, he refused to prosecute.

Style Permanency Enhances Hudson's Famed Endurance

Lasting Design is the Natural Complement to the Durability of the Super-Six Motor

However mechanically good, a vast satisfaction is lost to the owner, if design changes in succeeding models mark his car out of date. * Thus style permanency must be a major factor in a car that serves for years. Its value is exemplified by the earliest Super-Sixes, built nearly five years ago. In all essentials they are modern cars today. They are modern in appearance. They have lost none of their operating smoothness, flexibility or power. Their performance is characteristic of all Hudsons. Few would see in their looks or performance anything but a car of recent production.

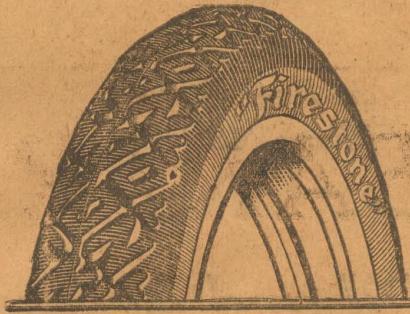

Think Ahead When You Buy a Car

Time will bring you, too, the keenest appreciation of Hudson's mechanical endurance and style stability. Usually you will find new worthwhile ideas first in Hudson. But they must earn their place by merit. They must effect a real improvement. Undoubtedly, thousands of Hudson owners chose it primarily for its beauty of design, its luxury and distinction of appearance. But let nothing blind the real issue. It is performance; and endurance is foremost. Speed and power have their place. But they are secondary. Hudson has no cause to underrate them. For it holds the stock car speed and power records. And the Super-Six motor has beaten the world's fastest racing cars, not once, but many times.

When the Super-Six Principle Gives the Mastery

The records prove it is open champion. It draws no distinction of type, size, cylinders or price. It has won against the field. But Hudson could not hold such supremacy without some basic advantage that others cannot use. Its dominance lies in the Super-Six motor which controls vibration. Perfection would mean a vibrationless motor, free of friction. No machinery is that. But the Super-Six motor comes within 10 per cent of it—closer to the ideal than any other type. Nearer approach seems impossible. In the exclusive Super-Six motor, power is increased 72 per cent and motor efficiency 80 per cent. Endurance is practically doubled. Naturally such a car is in demand. Since it was brought out five years ago, it has been the largest selling fine car in the world. This year, as in all years previous, many who want Hudsons will have to wait for delivery.

Times Short Story

DECEMBER AND MAY

By CRAWFORD LUTTRELL.
(Copyright, 1920, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Jerry Wells Jr. was her latest and most important admirer. His holdings in Steel alone made him a veritable young Midas, and Eloise was sophisticated enough to believe that no Cupid waxed fat and healthy with the years unless his tender flesh was swathed in silk and protected from cold by wrappings of ermine and sable. So far her father had only been able to allow her dyed muskrat and skunk! She was ambitious. She had hopes of hitching her mortal clay to a star of riches.

"I hate even the thought of being old," she said one day when she and Jerry had been horseback riding together and he had stopped in the old-fashioned frame house to chat for a while. Then at the quick look he gave her, fearing that she had made a rash statement, she appended, "You know what I mean. I dislike the idea of old age. Lift your jolly when one is young. Now, there's Henrietta. She's beginning to be so material in all her ideas. Instead of sitting here talking to us and being gay and everything, she's trotted off to make sandwiches and to fix something cool to drink."

"That sounds jolly to me, all right," laughed Jerry happily.

"Henrietta is 26, you know, and I suppose that is time to settle down. When I'm that old, this with a little shrug of horror, 'I dare say my own thoughts will soar no higher than wherewithal shall we be clothed and wherewithal shall we be fed. Surely I won't be tearing along country roads and taking ones like I did today. That is certainly a fleet-footed horse of yours that I ride."

He looked at the glowing and before him. There was the sheen of gold in her hair and the color and texture of a pink rose leaf in her cheeks. Her eyes, looking at him from under lashes that seemed long enough to tangle, were as dark as patches of a midnight sky. He had never seen such beauty, such health, such vitality.

"I'm glad that you enjoyed the ride. It gives me a lot of pleasure to make you happy."

Eloise thrilled at that. Already the star toward which she was straining her eager young eyes had begun to twinkle. It seemed to draw nearer at the look in the man's face before her.

"I'm going to give a dinner dance at the club Saturday night," he told her. "Sort of a farewell affair before I sail for the Orient on business for dad."

Eloise choked down a gasp of fright that seemed to swell her slim, white throat. "Oh, I'm sorry that you're going away so soon," she managed at last.

"It will be six weeks before I sail," he explained, watching her flushing face with a sort of satisfied smile lurking around his wide straight mouth. "I am planning to make the trip west rather leisurely, stopping off every day or two to break the monotony of the thing."

"I can't think of any trip being monotonous in a wonderful private car like yours," chirped Eloise. "Well, here's dear old Henrietta at last! I'm simply starved." She tossed her riding hat and whip on the porch floor beside her and languidly stretched a hand for the little white napkin that Henrietta's own hands had made and laundered, too.

"When I get to be as old as you, Henrietta, maybe I'll do lovely things like this for thankless young folks," she laughed.

Jerry saw a slow blush burn the older girl's olive cheeks. Her fine hand, pouring the icy drink from the beaded silver pitcher, shook a bit. The laughter died in his own eyes.

"She's relegating us to the shelf, Henrietta," he said calmly. It was the first time he had ever used her Christian name. He took the pitcher firmly from her hand. "You sit down! I'm going to serve you."

"I'm really very good at this sort of thing. I'm certainly not ornate every day of it and doesn't care, geniarians simply because—"

"Why, the very idea, Jerry!" interposed the pretty girl. "I didn't say a word about you. We're about the same age. Henrietta don't mind my telling her age. She says she looks every day of it and doesn't care. Don't you, old dear?"

"I've learned not to care," said the older sister patiently.

"I'm much older than Henrietta," Jerry told the startled girl in the smart riding habit. "I'll soon be 35."

"Oh, I didn't dream it. You look so awfully young and are so young. But then, I'm sure, 'men never show their ages, do they?'"

"I was just telling Eloise," said Jerry, taking several sandwiches and a glass of lemonade and going to sit down by the surprised Henrietta, who, from force of habit, occupied the hard bench instead of one of the comfortable rocking chairs. "I am giving a dinner dance on Saturday night; just my best friends here. I dislike the affair—crushes—you know. Since Eloise has been so vehement about hating old age and as I, myself, have come to see that Deember and May are too far apart—oh, every way—for comfortable companionship, I'm going to send Henry Martin for her and take you myself, Henrietta, if you will honor this staid, elderly gentleman." He laughed good-humoredly, apparently enjoying the horrified expression that somehow took the beauty from the young girl's face. "I'm leaving Monday for the coast on my way to the Orient," he added, turning to look at Henrietta.

"How lovely!" cried Henrietta, enthusiastically. "What a wonderful time you will have!" She did not add that she was sorry or that she would miss seeing him around.

"You know," he said earnestly, "I'm going to remember all the good things to you've fixed for me. It's the first real home cooking I've had since I was a kid. Sometimes I've been greedy. You've noticed it, of course, but a chap does get so infernally tired of hotels and French chefs. And then, there's something about a woman's cooking for you—a pretty woman like you."

Henrietta turned smiling gray eyes upon him. "It's nice of you to tell me such agreeable things. I like to serve, doubly so, when the poor service is so charmingly appreciated."

"As if nobody ever appreciated you before!" interrupted Eloise icily. "Oh, I didn't intimate that," Henrietta gently chided.

"After all," mused Jerry quietly, "the brute in every man loves real service in a woman, in his own woman," he added, his suddenly disconcerting eyes looking straight at Henrietta. "You know I think it would be great to have a real home like this—"

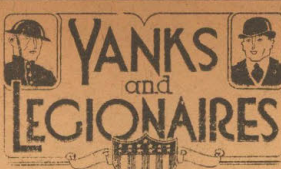

he indicated the rambling old house with the paint almost blotted off of its shabby walls, "open fireplaces, flowers as only a woman who loves them can hope to arrange them—like you do, Henrietta. You are the most capable woman I ever knew. Say, I wonder if it would be too much to ask you to go down to my car now, it's on the tracks, ready to pull out any time, and show my chef how to make chicken salad like we had here last Sunday night—"

"Why, of course I will. The idea of your remembering it!"

"Remembering?" he echoed. "How could a man forget?"

A few minutes later as they went down the worn old steps, Eloise turned up her nose disdainfully. To her mother coming out to ascertain the facts of the amazing news that Henrietta had gone out with Jerry, she said, "He talked to Henrietta about her cooking as if that had been bringing him here all the time. Men are pigs, all of them. She's talking Hindu literature to him now—I heard her start. Wouldn't it be a perfect scream if she managed to go to the Orient—with him?"

Which is the very thing that Henrietta did, only Jerry did the managing, and he did it with increasing assiduity and with the ardor of a young man very much in love.

"ICELE SLIM" IN WEST OIL FIELD ACQUISITION

WICHITA FALLS, TEXAS, April 10.—Police blotters and sheriff's records in the north Texas oil fields contain many novel names, the most recent discovery being "Icele Slim."

The sheriff who apprehended "Icele Slim" on a charge of petty theft could not ascribe the origin of this name; but he said that "Springtown Jimmy", who was also recently arrested, derived his cognomen from his operation around Springtown.

"Bover Jessie" is alleged to have earned his name by his ability to ride the "sidedoor pullmans". There are "Slims", "Blackies" and "Blondies" by the dozens throughout the district. Other favored nicknames are "Oklahoma Sam," "Rambling Dick," "Arizona Charlie." Among the fair sex are found "Black Eye Susan" and "Diamond Mary."

Through Rest Places of Nature's Construction, a New Highway Will Call to Adventures in Contentment

(By Ernest W. Sparks.)

In the narrow trails called streets, men of the city are hurrying, ever hurrying in quest of the will of the wispsuccess. Business goes forward on a current that flows as swiftly as the passing moments. It is a game for men, and the game they love to play. But it wears them down, little by little. As an upstream fight weakens the boatman, and there come times when a breathing spell must be had.

There swells, then, the undefined longing which may be translated into the hunger for the quiet of open spaces, the majestic grandeur of stately hills, the stealing impressiveness of silence-filled chasms, the soothing rhythm of singing brooks.

There is a desire to leave the dust and rattle of traffic and the chase of success behind and follow silver ribbons that wind and unwind through open glades and wooded valleys, that carry the follower on and on until the softly falling twilight calls to roadside rest.

Giant oil corporations may be selfish. Sentiment may be little in evidence on the leigers and pay rools. But the men who make up the machine feel human promptings and some dream dreams.

The little town of Wiles lies, as the crow flies, seven and one-half miles to the north. Along the Strawn highway it is nine and one-half miles of going that is a night-mare to those who have to travel its length. From Wiles to Strawn it is a matter of ten miles.

Because it wanted a short cut to Ranger one of the oil companies built three miles of road of lasting quality and the construction engineer who was in charge of the work asked for $20,000 to build four additional miles. Wiles, because it liked Ranger and wanted to be neighborly, subscribed part of this money. Business men and oil companies along the route and of Ranger contributed until only $4,000 of the amount needed remains to be subscribed. For two miles two other corporations undertook and are building the road.

When completed 400 families living in Wiles will have a boulevard into Ranger. To the extent of $40,000 a month will they spend within the gates of the city. This move is all the work of one man. This man has vision.

He had a dream of giving the people who strive in the dust and heat of the city a boulevard that winds and twists through such scenic beauty as no other county of Texas and only one other state can boast. His dream is coming true. Yet it does not end there. To make Palo Pinto creek a mecca of pleasure seekers is his ultimate aim. His reward will be the happiness of all the people of whom he is one.

The beauty of the route as it is being built is a call to the pen of Washington Irving. Opening glades give a fleeting vision of misty hills beyond deep valleys with here and there a broad stroke of flashing white of oil camp. No dust is breathed, no roar is heard. Dense, scraggly cedars, pungently fragrant, give way to masses as smooth as well-kept lawns.

The road will not be the customary oil field highway, which permits no enjoyment of the surrounding beauty. In many places it will be surfaced with gravel, and for its length it will be cut down and graded up until its windings will be almost as smooth as city streets. To follow it to its end will be the delight of resident and stranger.

On the edge of a sheer precipice one will stop for a moment and look into the depths of a circular valley surrounded by frowning hills whose expanse awes one into silence.

Beyond the valley the road will come to the edge of the circle and go down and slant. On one side will be plunging slant. On the other a solid wall rises for several feet. Only one vehicle can pass at a time. At the foot of the descent lies the Palo Pinto creek valley. In that valley there is a pool, fed by the running stream, that is several hun-ded feet in length and thirty to forty feet wide.

It is here that the man who is responsible for it all sees a place that will give joy to the worker. In his vision are parties coming out from town with basket sappers to be eaten under the spreading trees, then a drive home in the moonlight.

A little beyond this spot is Wiles. Here one comes suddenly upon a little village set against the background of a majestic hill that seems that it is there to guard the life that goes on beneath it. It is here that a real thrill may be experienced.

To ascend the hill, which is several hundred feet in height, a single track road has been built, that is more than one-half mile in length.

To follow it is to realize one of what has been said of the big, great Trail of the Grand Canyon of Colorado. One side is a wall, the other is almost a sheer descent. A car out of control could only mean disaster. Yet to reach the top is look out over miles upon miles of panoramic beauty.

The man who is doing this thing has no ulterior motive. He began it to serve those by whom he is employed. His other efforts are the results of a dream of little vacation jaunts for many, to rest havens in the quiet of nature's guest chambers.

Plain Girls Now Replace Beauties in London's Shops

International News Service. LONDON, April 10.—Mannequins can be too beautiful.

When mannequins are too beautiful the feminine buyer takes her newly-purchased gown to its first social function, is disappointed because it doesn't look so well as it did in the shop, and the establishment which sold the gown may lose her patronage.

The dressmakers are awakening to the shortsightedness of their past practice of securing the country for beautiful girls, and the coming season may see other than sylphlike figures parading their showrooms.

WOMEN SOON WILL SIT ON JURIES IN ENGLAND

LONDON, April 10.—Women are to sit on juries in England, though not, probably, until September.

But they are already interested in inquiries as to what the jurywomen may or may not wear while in the jury box. Large hats have been ruled out.

Aigrettes, elaborate coiffures, brightly-colored clothes, low-necked dresses and other eccentricities of fashion will, doubtless, be barred," said a woman qualified to judge. "I do not think a uniform will be necessary."

PLAY EXPERT WINS HONORS IN POLITICS

By EDNA HUBER CHURCH.
 WASHINGTON, April 10.—The drama of politics should be easy for Miss Elizabeth Marbury, for she has been for some time recognized as a leader in the field of drama in America.

Miss Marbury was born into the Democratic party. Her father was one of the original members of Tammany Hall in the days of John Bigelow, Samuel Tilden and Abraham S. Hewitt.

Born in New York and educated in private schools, Miss Marbury became greatly interested in literature and the drama, and she has been for number of years one of the leading authors' representatives in this country. She has represented in this country the leading playwrights of England and France, and has been twice decorated by France for her services to the authors of that country. Many of the successful plays produced on Broadway have been produced by Elizabeth Marbury.

The name of Elizabeth Marbury is not unknown to the men who fought for their country. Hardly had congress declared war before Miss Marbury became a leader in the movement to make war as light as possible for the soldier, sailor and marine. When the armistice was signed she was sent to France by the then secretary of the interior, Franklin K. Lane, and travelled more than 4,500 miles over trenches and in and out of dugouts and billets telling the boys of the farm movement and urging them to return to develop the unclaimed lands of this country. At the ports of embarkation and in the huts of the American army of occupation the name of Miss Marbury became well known. She spoke and the men listened. No greater tribute can be paid to her speaking ability.

It is highly probable that Miss Marbury will be a delegate to the national convention at San Francisco, although she is having some little difficulty in that matter. But Elizabeth Marbury can account for herself in politics just as she has accounted well for herself in every other undertaking, her friends declare.

SYMPATHY FOR SOLDIERS, HE SAYS, COST HIM JOB

WASHINGTON, April 10.—Arthur W. Griffin, former head of the New York office of the federal vocational rehabilitation board, assigned to care for injured soldiers, told the house education committee today that he was asked to resign for "being too sympathetic to soldiers." The committee is investigating the board's activities.

Germany's Plans to Bomb New York Told by U. S. Flier

By Associated Press.
 WASHINGTON, April 10.—Details of plans of the German general staff for bombing New York from the air are contained in an article by Col. William M. Hensley, Jr., of the air service, made public today by the war department.

Colonel Hensley visited Germany after the armistice. He says the German efforts were scheduled to take place about Thanksgiving, 1918, and that the L-72, which he described as the largest airship in the world, was expressly constructed for the raid. Measuring 775 feet from tip to tip and equipped with six engines of 200-horsepower each, the L-72, the colonel said, was capable of carrying five tons of high explosives and military material.

"Action for every hour and minute of the trip was seen," every possible contingency of weather fuel exhaustion damage to ship or machinery failure had been reckoned. Three hundred and sixty-seven times the large voyage was made on paper. The chances of real success were 267 to 1."

Cisco Feels Rush of Building Boom; Town Grows Fast

Special to The Times.
 CISCO, April 10.—Cisco is now enjoying a real building boom in both residences and business houses. New modern type bungalows are going up all over the city as fast as expert carpenters can do the work. The airplane design of residences are now being adopted by Cisco builders of modern homes. Large numbers of new families are locating here now.

In the business district some twelve or more new fireproof brick structures ranging from two to four stories are being erected. Recent relief given shippers of building material here is given as a reason for the present building boom on at this time.

Building material has been hard to secure in car lots. Lumber dealers are now receiving some relief in the shipment of lumber and other building material. The embargo was lifted some three weeks ago and since this was done the local Chamber of Commerce is seeing that local shippers unload their freight immediately upon being parked on sidings which keeps down the congestion of freight in the local yards.

Nitros Drop Two; Spudders, 15 to 5, and Judges, 8-1

Special to The Times.
 WICHITA FALLS, April 10.—Jimmie Zinn proved too much for the Ranger Nitros and Walter Salms' Spudders overwhelmed Jim Galloway's crew in a one-sided game here today, 15 to 5.

For seven innings Zinn pitched airtight ball and the only Ranger player to nick him for a hit was Smith, shortstop. In the eighth, Jimmie cased up, and four hits chased four runs across for the Ranger nine.

Boyer and Holland pitched for Ranger, and neither had much success. Johnny Mokon slammed a home run over the left field fence with two men on and won him a suit of clothes, as his drive cleared the space on which a suit is offered to the player who knocks the ball over it.

Jack Brown caught for Ranger. Galloway may sign him.

The score:
 Ranger 0 0 1 0 0 0 4 0—5
 Wichita Falls 0 0 3 7 0 2 3 0—15
 AND ONE MORE.

EASTLAND, April 10.—Eastland took the first game from Ranger this afternoon, 9 to 1. The game was Eastland's after the first inning. Lynch, pitching for Ranger, was hit at will and did not seem to have anything that the Judges could not hit.

Dillard, playing in center field, was the only feature of the Nitros' playing. Dorough, pitching for Eastland, held the Ranger team hitless for seven innings. The only hit the visitors made came in the eighth and was a scratch.

Score:

 Ranger 000 001 000—1 1 5
 Eastland 420 000 300—1 1 5

DYING FROM BULLET AFTER REAL AFFAIR OF HONOR

International News Service.
 ATCHISON, Kan., April 10.—Atchison was the scene the other day of a real, old-fashioned duel. It all came about when Felix Lopez and Pete Puablo, Mexicans, stood back to back, walked twenty paces, wheeled and each tried to perforate the other.

The field of honor was a railroad right of way. The affair was over a woman—the former wife of Lopez, the present spouse of Puablo. The weapons were .38-caliber revolvers. Lopez is in a hospital with a bullet in his right lung. Puablo is a fugitive from justice.

More than 1,200 former soldiers, sailors and marines have filed applications for government land in Wyoming.

WOMEN UNDRRESS FOR DINNER, SAYS PASTOR

International News Service.
 LONDON.—"The woman's evening dress today is immodest, unhealthy and as ugly as it is expensive," is Rev. Vaughan's latest broadside against the dress craze, delivered during a sermon.

"Girls of up-to-date fashions are ruining their own and their neighbors' souls as well as their own bodies."

"To my way of thinking, women's dress ought to serve the three purposes of decency, warmth and ornament. But today there is a mad race for what some women call the 'emotional gown' and dress sins against every canon of good taste."

PAGE A NEW MIRACLE MAN FOR THE BRAVES—THEY NEED ONE

This photo, taken during a practice game a few days ago at Columbus, Ga., between the Braves and Tigers, shows Hank Gowdy, one of the Braves' few stars, reaching out to put ball on Tiger runner who overslid the plate. Donie Bush, at bat, has stepped clear of the play and is seen with bat at the right. The umpire is Finneran.

The coming National league campaign holds little joy for the Boston Braves. They'll be lucky to finish higher than they did last year. That was in sixth place. Herculean efforts of Manager

Stallings and Owner Grant to bolster up the team by trades were in vain for the reason that every club owner wanted Rabbit Maranville (75 per cent of the club) in any deal made. The Braves have a good catching staff. Rudolph, Pillingim, Scott and one or two youngsters will give them a fair hurling staff. But the infield and outfield will be weak. Maranville is the only star in either section.

WARNS COTTON GROWERS MUST HAVE FAIR PROFIT

By Associated Press.
 WASHINGTON, April 10.—Warning that the Southern farmer will not consent to toil twelve months a year in the production of cotton for which he cannot get a fair price was given today by Representative Aswell of Louisiana, speaking in the house.

"If he is not permitted to grow cotton at a profit," Mr. Aswell said, "the problem of the production will not be how cheap cotton, but the question with the cotton mills and consumer, how to get cotton at any price."

For fifty years, Mr. Aswell said, the southern farmer has received less than one-half of the actual cost of producing cotton with the result that families have been slaves, the farmer's children toiling in the fields when they should have been at school, "and yet it has been charged," he said, "by the press of New England and of Europe that the cotton land owners were making excessive profits."

FIFTEEN NEGRO SOLDIERS ON BORDER ARE INDICTED

By Associated Press.
 SANTA FE, N. M., April 10.—The federal grand jury today returned fifteen indictments against members of the Twenty-fourth colored infantry regiment stationed at Columbus, N. M., for the past three years, and recommended to the war department that this regiment ought to be removed from the Mexican border.

The report states that authorities were unable to cope with the situation as regards bootlegging and gambling.

Letter Carrier,
Many Years Old,
Stays by His Job

International News Service.
BOSTON.—Although his eyesight is failing fast and despite the fact that he has been working for the United States postoffice for fifty-nine years, James Bartholomew, seventy-seven years of age, continues to work because he cannot afford to quit.

He is the oldest letter carrier in the United States in point of service and is one of the men who will be benefited by the Sterling-Lelbach bill, now before the United States Senate, if it becomes law. It provides for old age pensions for civil employees of the government.

"I wanted to stop working five years ago," said Mr. Bartholomew, "but I could not afford to."

Mr. Bartholomew's eyesight is now failing so rapidly that he cannot read the names and addresses on letters, so he has been given the special job of facing letters all one way so that they may be properly run through a cancellation machine.

He went to the Roxbury postoffice as a clerk in 1861 and until 1865 worked inside, sorting mail and delivering it to the "penny post" men, who used to carry on a private business of delivering the mail before the government took it under its own jurisdiction.

"There were two men in Roxbury who were penny postmen in the old days before there were any letter carriers," says Bartholomew. "They would come to the postoffice and get the letters and deliver them to their customers at a penny apiece, in addition to the stamp.

"In 1865 I began to work as a letter carrier. The Roxbury postoffice had only two clerks then. When the carrier system was inaugurated the office had four carriers. One of them was one of the penny postmen and I was another. Now the office has over seventy carriers.

"I had to make four deliveries a day at first. Two of the deliveries were what were called halves; that is, we didn't cover all the route on these two deliveries. So, in a day, I walked about twenty-five miles.

"I was sickly in my youth and had weak lungs. That is why I took this outside working job. They would not accept me for the army during the Civil war, I was in such bad shape. I can truly say that I owe my long life and very good health to the fresh air and exercise which I have had for fifty-five years.

"I did collecting for five years, and that is the hardest work a letter has to do. It not only means heavy loads, but there is no chance to rest, and a deliverer of letters has a chance to stop and chat and sometimes to sit down for a minute. Then they abolished collecting on foot and out on trucks, so I was put back in the delivery department."

British Colonel Calls the Japs Huns of the East

By FLOYD MacGRUFF
International News Staff Correspondent.

LONDON, April 10.—The British did not get along with the Japs in Siberia, who ostensibly were supporting the late Admiral Kolchak, much better than the Bolsheviks themselves, according to Colonel John Ward, British labor member of Parliament, who was the chief British officer in Siberia. He has written a book of his experiences. New light is thrown on Japan's activities.

"The Japanese," says Colonel Ward, "looked with suspicion upon the efforts of the other allies, especially British and American, and tried to exclude them from their counsels."

"No orders were ever given to the allied commanders (the Japanese had complete charge of the allied G. H. Q.) until too late for them to take part of offer suggestions."

Colonel Ward states that when he interposed because Japanese sentries were treating civilian Russians "like a tribe of conquered Hottentots," an officer at the Japanese headquarters seemed astonished and inquired if a sentry had ever treated him like that.

"I told him," says Colonel Ward, "that the first Japanese who touches an English officer or soldier in my presence will be a dead man. That also surprised the Jap, who pointed out that the Japanese were in occupation of Siberia and therefore entitled to do what they liked."

Colonel Ward also reveals that Admiral Kolchak, his army and his "national Russian government" were simply an allied pawn against the Bolsheviks.

"It is certain," Colonel Ward declares, "that Admiral Kolchak would never have gone to Siberia and become the head of the constitutional movement and government if he had not been advised and even urged to do so by the allies."

promises of wholehearted support and early allied recognition before he agreed to take up the dangerous duty of head of the Omsk government.

Had these urgings and promises been ungrudgingly performed, a confident assembly would now be sitting at Moscow, hammering out the details of a federal constitution for a mighty Russian republic or a parliamentary system similar to our own.

As to the Japs' treatment of the Russians, Colonel Ward says:

"They treated the Czech commanders with the most scanty courtesy, the English officers' carriages were invaded by their private soldiers, who would insolently ask what business we had in Siberia and when did we propose to go home; but they reserved their supreme contempt for the Russian people. These poor wretches they drove off the railway platforms, using the butts of their rifles upon the women as well as the men.

"I did not understand this behavior on the part of our eastern ally, and felt that it could only be the irresponsible bullying of a few individual men and officers. Later on, I found it to be the general policy of the Japanese army to treat every body as inferior to themselves; they had learned this Hun policy to a nicety.

"I admire the workmanlike way the Japanese go about their soldierly duties, but it is impossible to ignore their stupidity, studied arrogance toward those who are anxious to be on terms of peace and amity with them. It is unfortunately true that many were misled into believing that Germany was ordained to dominate the world, and believing this they shaped their conduct upon this awful example. They quite openly boast that they are the 'Germans of the East.' Let us hope that they will read aright the recent lesson of history.

During the last three months I was in Siberia their arrogance was simply sublime, but after the armistice with Germany—upon whose power to defeat the allies they had banked so far as outward appearance and conduct were concerned—they talked of their alliance with England; their friendship with Russia and their love for France.

A RANCH SPECIAL
7,100 acres, just the right size, at the right price and in right place—Stonewall and King Counties, Texas, where the farm and ranch meet and where all conditions combine to make an ideal stock-farming and stockraising country. No ticks nor other infections common to livestock in counties farther west and east; not too cold in winter, meaning less feed and more calves. The feed, too, can be raised on the place. Then, too, 3, 000 acres or more of land may be sold out of this ranch, at any time, for farm purposes, and at farm prices,
where farming can be conducted successfully.

Wouldn't you like to own such a ranch? It would mean independence much more certainly than to own an oil well, and be a great source of satisfaction and pleasure. Then why not? The terms are easy, the cattle would "terrify" you out. Can you imagine a sight more inspiring than an even bunch of Herford cows, with calves at their sides, eyes alert, bodies erect, full of life and vigor,
as you find them here, ready to scamper off through the weeds and grass at the least provocation? Such have been the source of the most substantial fortunes in Texas in the past, and are today.

If you have money made out of the oil business, take our advice,
"salt" some of it away in this ranch;
it will be there when you need it,
and more. Then who knows? Oil may exist under this land. The land owner's side of the oil business is not bad.
Look at the map.

Briefly, the ranch is described as follows: Located, fronting on Brazos river for one mile in the northeast corner of Stonewall and Haskell counties, about 20 miles due west of Knox City. The ranch is all good grass land—has a solid turf of mes-quite grass—no barren land on it.
Fully half of it is choice farming land, with a deep reddish loamy soil.
There is a considerable growth of scattered mesquite trees over it, some hackberry and some elm. There are some small breaks, or canyons, which afford good winter protection for stock. It is one of the best val-eured ranches in Texas. In addition to the Brazos river on which it has a mile frontage on the east, there is a creek of water crossing it from east to west which empties into the Brazos on this ranch. Then there are five surface tanks and one good well with windmill and all needed equipment for watering stock; also there is a good cistern at the house. The ranch house is substantially built,
has four rooms, and at it a good barn with all needed corrals, stock sheds and outbuildings.

There are on the ranch at present, about 200 good, white-face cows, very high grades, which can be bought well worth the money, with the ranch, if wanted.

The price is $12.50 per acre. It can be bought on liberal terms.
If you are interested, and will write us, we will be glad to send you a map and very complete description.
It would be a pleasure for us to show
you this ranch.

Home Efficiency Plan of Husband Breaks up Home

International News Service.
DETROIT, Mich., April 10.—So impressed was William Economo by the workings of an efficiency course he studied at the factory where he works that he decided to place Mrs.
Economo's household tasks on the same basis, according to witnesses in the Economic divorce case, heard before Judge Harvey Tappan in circuit court here.

Questioning by attorneys for Mrs.
Economo introduced the schedule. It revealed that she rose at 5 a. m. Fifteen minutes were allotted for dressing; twenty minutes for getting breakfast; twenty minutes for eating; and so on during the rest of the day. She was given five minutes for sweeping each room. On certain days hours were set aside for the washing and ironing. At 4 o'clock she began preparing for supper, but it was a part of the system to leave from 9 o'clock Saturday night until the dishes unwashed until morning, 9:30 was the bath period.

For some reason the schedule did not work out well, apparently, for Mrs. Economo left and went to the home of her parents, taking her two children with her. She said her husband threatened her.

Economo charged that his wife was cruel and had a violent temper. He also alleged that she did not attend to her household duties, and that he had to make clothes for the children.

"Is it true that he had dresses for the little girls?" Mrs. Economo was asked.

"Yes, he made two for Mary and one for Dorothy. He said he could do it better than I could."

"Did he ever make anything for you?"

"Yes, he made me a night dress."

Mrs. Edith Winegarden and Mrs.
Elizabeth Grace, neighbors, testified that the Economo children always looked as good as other children and not neglected. Judge Tappan dismissed Economo's petition. Mrs.
Economo filed no cross bill, stating that she did not want a divorce. The court ordered Economo to pay $10 a week for the support of the children.

EMBARRASSED FRENCH EVE
FLEES GAZE OF MULTITUDE

PARIS.—All Paris is laughing at the accident that befell Mile. Dherlys, beautiful music hall dancer, whose adventures with Tod Sloan put her into print here. She appeared on the New York stage.

Billed as "La Belle Dherlys," the dancer has been appearing practically nude at the Casino de Paris and also in a new spectacle, "Quo Vadis,"
at the Theater des Champs-Elysees.
The two showhouses are about two miles apart, but the management has put a limousine at Dherlys' disposal so that she may keep both engagements in one evening.

The other night the Casino curtain rose late and Mile. Dherlys had but a few minutes in which to make the Theater des Champs-Elysees. Instead of dressing she put on a pair of slippers and enveloped herself in a big fur coat. As she emerged from her limousine in front of the Theater des Champs-Elysees her foot slipped on the wet pavement and she fell right under a glittering eye light.
A big crowd saw an embarrassed
"Eve" rise hastily, recover her fur coat and disappear through the stage door.

Price of Overalls Is Sent Skyward by "Overall Club"

By Associated Press
BIRMINGHAM, April 10.—While the high cost of clothing, was working over-vanced the price of overall trousers from $2 to $6 a pair.

Peal Boxing "Fugs"
PUEBLO, Colo.—Boxing as a means of curing insanity has met with such success at the Colorado State Hospital for the Insane that James Tillman, director of the institution, plans to inaugurate an extensive program of athletics for the inmates.

Tillman believes rugged physical exercise is highly valuable in restoring the mentality of defectives.
Up to date he has only used boxing in his efforts to strengthen the minds of his derelict charges, but he expects to have many inmates indulging in all branches of outdoor sports during the coming summer.

Inmates of the state institution here who are physically sound have been permitted to don fifteen-ounce boxing gloves and, under Tillman's close supervision, "go" two and three rounds. As a result, Tillman says, six patients already show marked improvement.

Midgets Want Bouts.
PUEBLO, Colo.—A new class in pugilism, the midgetweight, may be established if boxing promoters succeed in finding suitable opponents for Frank and Philip Atwood, five-year-old twin milt wonders of this city.

TORNADO LEAVES TRAIL OF DEATH AND WRECKAGE IN OHIO; ONE PERSON KILLED AND TEN INJURED IN ONE HOME

Typical view of one of scores of homes wrecked at Nashville, O., and wrecked home of Park Shade.
The violence of the section of the recent tornado which swept through the western part of Ohio is shown by the above pictures.
Four persons were killed and many injured at Nashville, O., near Dayton. Houses were blown flat.
When the wind hit the home of Park Shade eleven persons were sitting in the house. One person was killed and all the other injured. The house was destroyed.

Finds Professors in Colleges Feel Pinch of Poverty

CINCINNATI, Ohio, April 10.—An assistant professor of the University of Cincinnati who cooks his own supper in order to take the place of a servant and cut down living expenses, a migratory professor of the same university who has been forced to move almost monthly every time his house rent was raised, and a professor who has been "skidding" financially for the past several years because his income could not meet the outgo, are revealed by a survey of University of Cincinnati faculty budgets just completed here. Results of the survey were given out at the two-million endowment fund campaign headquarters.

"Our professors and scientists are reluctant to discuss their extreme poverty, because they do not want to place their appeal for better pay on the basis of charity," said Dr. Charles W. Dabney, president of the university, who made the survey. "They realize, as everyone must, that the type of work they do deserves decent financial reward, altogether, irrespective of their personal need. But the need does exist, much as they dislike to admit it."

One assistant professor, for instance, it was shown by the survey, has a salary of $1,200 a year. To obtain respectable clothing and to buy the technical books he requires, it is his custom to act as a house chambermaid.

An assistant professor now earning $2,400 a year has a wife and two children. His rent is $47 a month; food consumed in the household eliminating all but the absolute essentials, is $55 a month. This means that he has been unable to keep out of debt, although outside store clerking and janitor work was obtained secretly to help meet the situation.

When his rent was raised from $35 to $40 a month, another faculty member whose salary is $1,800 moved only to be confronted with the same necessity when his rent was again raised shortly after he occupied his new apartment. Should it happen again this professor contemplates the obtaining of a moving van as a permanent dwelling place.

A Massachusetts law provides that ex-service men shall be given preferential treatment in the stockyards.

Japan Is Facing Serious Situation Says London Man

International News Service. LONDON, April 10.—Behind the curtain of censorship and cable interruption Japan is passing through a crisis comparable in gravity to that of 1868, in the opinion of Hugh Redwood, writing in the Daily News. The revolutionary movement which ushered in the Meiji epoch—the period of "enlightened rule," began in 1868 and marked the death of feudalism in Japan.

"It would, of course, be going too far," the article says, "to seek an exact parallel in the conditions existing today, but there are certain significant points of resemblance. In the first place the workers of Japan have been deeply stirred by the victories of labor in the western world."

Inventor's Novel Instrument Tells the Sex of Plants

By Associated Press. LOS ANGELES, April 10.—An instrument that can determine the sex of a plant or an animal merely by being held suspended over the subject, has been invented by Joseph Milburn, a Californian, according to his claim. He calls it a "seximeter."

It is composed of a small, red bell-shaped object on the end of a card having a metal base and being filled with a carefully guarded secret composition. The ball swings into a rotary movement when held over a female of the species, and merely remains passive when suspended over a male subject, according to a demonstration of it.

Milburn claims the instrument will even forecast the sex of unborn babies. San Mateo poultry raisers say they have used it with success in determining the sex of unhatched chickens.

A farm school is to be opened in Germany for American soldiers desiring to take up agricultural pursuits.

Secondly, not only the workers but the middle class as well, have been exploited shamelessly by profiteers. And thirdly, side by side with this ferment, the product of the war and contemporary happenings, there exists an agitation of longer standing—the demand for universal suffrage. It is necessary to look at the situation as a whole if the true importance of such incidents as the dissolution of the diet and the strike riots at the great Yawata ironworks is to be appreciated.

"The immediate trouble, however, is probably economic rather than industrial or political. But for the cesses of capitalism, students of Japanese affairs would have considered any considerable spread of socialistic doctrines almost unthinkable among a people holding the throne in such peculiar reverence. As it is, three translations of Karl Marx have been published in Tokio in as many months, and organizations which aim at advancing the powers of the proletariat report, despite persecution, a steady growth of membership. It would seem, nevertheless, that the great majority of the people are far from ripe for a revolution in the Russian or even the German sense. Opposing parties, like the two great student leagues, one of which is progressive and the other avowedly reactionary, are prepared to join forces in sweeping the capitalist class bodily away, but the emperor has hitherto been held free from blame for the evils of the times. It remains to be seen how far and in what direction the imperial rescript dissolving the diet will modify the position.

"When the curtain is lifted on current events, I expect to find three actors playing important roles in the drama. First there will be Sen Katayama, the Socialist leader, a well-known figure in the Second International. Then there will be Mr. Imai, an Osaka lawyer, who heads the Redo Domekai, the most influential of the organizations formed for the betterment of the workers' lot. The third will be Mr. Oka, the head of the Japanese police system and a man of iron, who has long been making ready to fight to the death any attempt at a revolt or general strike, and whose methods have been widely criticized."

280 ENGLISHMEN MADE 200 MILLION POUNDS IN WAR

International News Service. LONDON, April 10.—During the war 280 men in Britain made a total of 200 million pounds, according to inland revenue estimates which are revealed in a parliamentary hearing. The total increase in wealth during the war was four billion pounds.

Esthonia Thanks Americans for Generous Help

By WILLIAM L. MALLABAR, International News Service Staff Correspondent.

LONDON, April 10.—"I am very glad to have the chance of sending this message of gratitude to the American people for the noble assistance they have rendered to our country, both economically and medically; for the most excellent work of the American Red Cross and relief administration in Esthonia; for the feeding of the children by the children's relief fund."

This was the opening statement made to the correspondent of the International News Service by Professor Antonius Piip, late foreign minister of Esthonia, in the course of a message he desired should be delivered to the American people. Professor Piip was foreign minister last year and had personal charge of the committee which consulted with Litvinoff, the Bolshevik delegate. In explanation of his work at that time, Professor Piip said:

"When, on the collapse of the old Russian empire, the Bolsheviks seized the reins of government and concluded peace with Germany, Esthonia was never a party to this arrangement. Russia fell to pieces and Esthonia declared her independence. Though invaded by the German army Esthonia made no concessions to jubilant German militarism, but sent representatives to allied countries to plead the cause of free and independent Esthonia. It must not be forgotten that Esthonia raised national legions who fought in the allied armies against Germany. In the country itself resistance was organized, and although many prominent Esthonia politicians were arrested, imprisoned and banished, the plans matured to such an extent that on the very day of the general armistice—November 11, 1918—the Esthonian government overthrew German rule in the country and took control into their own hands.

Following this, Esthonia was forced to commence a heroic and desperate fight for her existence. The Bolsheviks started to invade the country. The first detachment Esthonia sent against the Bolsheviks consisted of 120 college students armed with rifles and with the one machine gun we had been able to hide during the German occupation.

"The Bolsheviks invaded our country, but we did not lose our hope or our courage. Esthonia started to advance against the Bolsheviks in the beginning of 1919, and in less than a month Esthonia was freed from the Bolsheviks. We were the first to inflict defeat on Bolshevik Russia.

"The Esthonians, being an industrious and hard-working people, have lost no time in entering upon commercial relations with Russia. In the peace treaty made at Riga Esthonian ports are declared free to trade with Soviet Russia, no licenses from Esthonia being required and no import or transit duties levied.

"On their part the Bolsheviks have recognized the independence of Esthonia in full, have granted large concessions for the construction of the Riga-Moscow railway and have given the rights of exploiting one million desiatines (2,700,000 acres) of forest land, in which the Soviet government has already given its sanction for the investment of American capital. This is a great opportunity and holds out the brightest prospects for American industrial genius.

"For the present, and for the future, Esthonia will play the role of intermediary between Russia and the rest of the world. Her stable and firmly established government has been effective in bringing its internal life back to almost pre-war level, thus affording to foreign traders the opportunity of establishing their headquarters in Riga and other Esthonian ports for trade with Russia until such time as conditions in Russia itself become normal—which will, obviously, take many years.

"They Are Putting New Life in Me"

Mr. W. H. Pennington, Wharton, Ark., writes: "I am taking Cadomene Tablets and they are putting new life in me. I had a bad case of the grippe the last winter, and my physician's prescription did me no good. I saw that Cadomene was recommended for a case like mine and I sent twenty miles to get them. Now, after using only one week, I am gaining strength, eating with a relish, and sleeping like a baby," etc. Any nervous, weak impoverished man or woman can take Cadomene with certainty of helping them back to strength and vigor. Every purchase guaranteed satisfactory to the purchaser. Sold by druggists everywhere.—Adv.

GET INTO A STRAW—

From a standpoint of coolness and hot weather comfort it's just like diving into a cool tank of water, at least it has the same heat-defying effect. But it's not their coolness alone that makes these hats so attractive—almost any straw hat is cool—but it's the blend of coolness, good style and good appearance that makes these hats so preferred over the ordinary sort of straw hats.

Some Unusual After-Easter Values Are Being Offered Next Week Beginning Monday Morning

While the savings offered in this After-Easter selling are of great importance, we would particularly emphasize the style desirability and the character of the garments offered.

This event has been specially prepared to meet the needs of hundreds of women who every year plan their spring apparel selections immediately after Easter when lower prices prevail and choice can be made without hurry.

The suit selections are indeed noteworthy. In the lower priced suits are jerseys and heather mixtures suitable for business hours, yet with an air of jaunty that speaks of sports apparel. In the higher priced lines you will find tricelines, velour checks, silver-tones, men's wear serges—straight tailored models—finger-tip coat lengths predominating—semi-tailored—smart ripple and flare effects; and all very much be-braided and embroidered.

Beautifully lined with plain and fancy silks. Each suit distinguished by some novel touch of individuality, some feature to appeal. Models for matron or miss. Sizes 16 to 44.

SOME SAVINGS OF STRIKING IMPORTANCE IN BLOUSES—

Fortunate are the women who will choose blouses just now. Here are values that are exceptionally interesting. Charming styles fashioned of tricoline, georgette with lace, embroidery and beading trims, crepe de chine in plain tailored models of smart simplicity and dainty batistes and voiles. Smart over-blouses and tie-ons. These may be had in white, flesh, bisque, navy, coral and gray.

SELDOM WILL YOU FIND FROCKS MORE LOVELY THAN THESE WE OFFER—

A specially assembled group of fascinating French serge, wool jersey, satin, taffeta, plain and fancy georgettes, tricelines, foulards, and admirably appropriate for every daytime occasion. Jaunty, youthful frocks and sober, matronly ones—and any number of stages in between.

Styles with flared and bouffant skirt or the straight silhouette—ruffle, lace, head and embroidery trims.

Special prices now prevail in our Dress Goods Department. Not a sale, but prices lower than you would expect when you see the quality and beauty of the fabrics. Beautiful Gingham, Voiles, Silks, Georgettes, Taffetas, in a hundred varied designs are here displayed to help aid the well dressed woman in preparing her new wardrobe for summer.

School for Quarterbacks.
COLUMBUS, O.—A school for quarterbacks.

This is the recommendation made to Ohio State university athletic officials by a local sport enthusiast. He points out that the first and last requisite of an efficient quarterback is good generalship and that it can be taught just the same as business management.

"After all, the quarterback is nothing more than the business manager of the football team," says the local enthusiast. "He directs the play, and he must call the right play at the right time or he isn't a good quarterback. A team is no stronger than its quarterback's generalship."

Necessity Gusher Gives 2,000 Daily to Ranger Owners

BRECKENRIDGE, April 12.—In block 4, in the old town of Necessity, a 2,000-barrel gusher came in Friday. This well is owned principally by W. P. Flippin a barber and P. C. Jones, a rig contractor both of Ranger, and is connected with the gulf.

The Gulf Production company owns another big well in Necessity, situated in the rear of the old school, which is in deep sand. This is extraordinary in that the wells in this section have always been in the lime and it is a question with the geologists as to whether this is a freak sand or whether it is a continuation of the Breckenridge sand.

Another unusual well is the Buyers well, which came in of itself about a week ago, without having to be shot, and is producing 8,000 barrels. Most of the wells in this vicinity, after passing the shale, strike the lime and have to be shot, but the Buyers' well is a notable exception.

Stephens county is making the best showing of any of the deep sand wells, at this time, there being 400 producers making about 30,000 barrels a day. The rate of decline is less in Stephens county than in any of the other fields. The field, as a whole, is estimated to have produced oil enough to pay for the expenditures incurred.

GYPSUM MILL ADDS TO BRIGHT OUTLOOK NOW IN SWEETWATER

SWEETWATER, April 10.—Stipulating Sweetwater's employees' pay roll by not less than $350,000 the first year and adding property with a physical value of not less than $1,000,000—this is what the United States Gypsum company is going to do for this city in the next twelve months, following the signing of a contract here a few days ago involving the purchase of 225 acres of virgin gypsum deposits. Actual work on erecting the first unit of the immense plant will start within the next sixty days.

The new plant will be located two miles east of the city where the Santa Fe line overpasses the Texas & Pacific, having trackage with both lines. The gypsum deposits are so valuable and extensive that they will provide material for the mills far at least a hundred years.

AMERICANS GIVE CHINA FIRST AIRSHIP SERVICE

By Associated Press. HONG KONG, April 12.—Sixteen aviators and mechanics, mostly Americans, have arrived here and eleven American airplanes are on their way from New York to the Orient to establish the first commercial aviation enterprise in China. It is announced that this aerial service will connect Hong Kong, Canton and the Portuguese colony of Macao. Later, it is stated, the company plans to extend its activities to Manila and Tokio, touching at centers on the Chinese coast.

The airplanes to be used in this service are understood to have been built originally for the United States navy and equipped with Liberty motors, but have been remodelled and are said here to be capable of making continuous flights of 600 miles, carrying fourteen passengers. Walter Bunker, a veteran of the United States naval flying corps, is to be general superintendent of the new company, which has been financed through the efforts of C. E. W. Ritten, a Macao capitalist.

Twenty-Four Gowns That Forecast This Year's American Fashions Worn by Louise Glaum

AMUSEMENT SECTION

Elements That Make "SEX" a Remarkable Motion Picture Drama

"Sex" is startling, even bold, in spots, out very, very nice.

The picture at the Liberty this week has undeniable virtues and just as undeniable vices but they belong to the characters in the piece for "Sex" has a "soul."

We have heard a great deal during the past year about "pictures with a soul" but we never quite "got" the significance of the "soul-picture" until we saw "Sex," with Louise Glaum as the star.

A problem, beautifully presented and cleverly analyzed that leaves us with a sense of the infinite at the end which is entirely free from the sticky-sweet sentimentality of too many photoplays, is the theme of "Sex," produced by J. Parker Read, Jr., and directed by Fred Niblo.

The story of "Sex" is universal. Its treatment by that brilliant young producer who likewise starred Miss Glaum in "Sahara" and "The Lone Wolf's Daughter," is unusual. We never quite appreciate, before seeing "Sex" how skillfully such a subject could be handled and yet with what vivid power. There was nothing overdrawn, neither is there anything evasive about "Sex" which discloses Miss Glaum as an actress of supreme attainments and great personal charm and versatility. The art of the producer, applied with lavish, yet discriminating hand and the talents of the star make "Sex" superlative entertainment and food for thought. In the cast supporting Miss Glaum are our old friends Irving Cummings, Myrtle Stedman, William Conklin and Peggy Pearce.

Couldn't Keep 'Em Away From "SEX" With A Smallpox Sign, Says Wid's

Wid's Daily: "Sex" is a picture blessed with a big story; excellent star performance and extravagant production. You won't be able to keep the public from seeing this picture if you displayed a smallpox sign over your door. A wonderful audience picture... startling in originality and effectiveness.

Exhibitors Trade Review: "Sex," of which Louise Glaum is the star, is a lavish, arresting and at times startling piece of entertainment which will serve nicely in any theater. This picture will make the public "sit up and take notice." A good story with a highly original twist. The settings are lavish and in harmony with the general theme of the picture and it is evident that expense meant not a thing with the producers. Beautiful gowns and women dazzle the eye and present one glittering spectacle after another. The picture is an epic in luxury.

Screen Star Learns Styles Full Season in Advance of Their Vogue

The women's fashions for 1921 will represent a new, though primitive tendency is the statement made by Louise Glaum, screen celebrity, who canvassed the opinions of Europe's leading authorities in search of advance costume information which she had applied in the "dressing" of a forthcoming production.

"Animalisms" are to reign next year, according to one designer who afforded the effectively gowned film star such an insight into the sartorial trend that she created, for "Sex," a screen play in which gowns play a vital psychological part a series of costumes expressing the ideals of Douillet, the world-famous modiste.

One was inspired by Sarah Bernhardt. The divine Sarah wrote to America, conveying to Miss Glaum a thought for a costume that she believed would prove the rage in a year. Another is a sheer chiffon house gown in two tones, plume and bisque, cut rather low and in which the original influence of 1921 is prophesied in the use of the kimono sleeve and a leopard skin girdle. A primitive essential to this creation is an old-gold chair studded with sapphires.

Monkey fur, the latest fad from abroad, is the distinctive feature of Miss Glaum's Algerian red duvetyne costume worn in "Sex." It is a three-piece outfit trimmed throughout with monkey fur, the bodice being of black and gold brocade with three-quarter sleeves.

The coat is fashioned along new redingote lines with collar and sleeve ends of monkey fur. This cotume is augmented by a purse of jet and rubies with silver trimmings, and topped by a hat of maline with burnt peacock feathers.

Rest robes and tea gowns for 1921 are going to more and more resemble evening clothes, according to Miss Glaum's "tips." One orientally-inclined costume in "Sex" is designed in peach and shellpink georgette with Siberian squirrel trimming. Large tassels of silver beads finish the sleeves. The draped turban of silver cloth gives an ultimate touch of the Near East. One clever costume distinctly on the French order is a bodice-conception in flesh-colored georgette in bloomer fashion with apron panel and streamers of blue and silver satin ribbon finished on the ends with sprays of tiny silk rosebuds. The trimming, an unusual brocade of black silk valenciennes lace, is a distinctive novelty that promises to prove vogueish in 1921, according to the star.

Twenty-four distinctive costumes punctuate the dramatic action of J. Parker Read, Jr.'s newest Louise Glaum play. The story actually is described in its sartorial reflections, the action reaching its most frivolous theatrical moment when Miss Glaum appears in an amazing slender creation of pearls and jet beads and its most poignant phase finds the star in a domestic costume of black silk with ruffs of silk net at the hips—indicative of the return of the banner in 1921, by the way. Gorgeous dressing robes, nappes, millinery and "underthings" constitute the fashion show existing in the vaperama of "Sex," the story of which, however, is never for a moment subordinated to the chameleon-like sartorial changes of its leading character.

LOUISE GLAUM POINTS GREAT MORAL IN "SEX"

"Just because a woman has erred," declared Louise Glaum in discussing with some prominent New York critics the surprise ending of "Sex," her new W. W. Hodkinson special release, "is no reason why she should be denied a woman's happiness. Just because her environment and manner of living—the result of course of her being dependent on the plaudits and attentions of men for her fame and fortune—has eventuated into her becoming a creature who must fight other women for what she wants—this is no reason why she should become an outcast and be destroyed by one she had befriended.

"Women are projected into the whirl of life by impulse and the urgency of a certain type of man, who should know better. Then they are deserted that they may suffer the 'consequences' alone. I make this point for my sex, for I think that all the unfairness lies on the side of the male, the aggressor and the cause. Woman is merely the recipient and the object of man's influence.

LOUISE GLAUM TAKEN CAPTIVE BY MEXICAN BAND Famous Star First Awed Then Amused by Lerdo's Troupe of Troubadours.

Culver City rubbed its eyes in amazement when twenty-three Mexicans, in holiday serapes and sombreros, descended on the Thomas H. Ince studios, doffed their straws and struck of a lively tone.

"What a peculiar invasion," commented Hobart Bosworth as he emerged from his dressing room well-reeled and awaiting developments.

But the situation was clarified when Louise Glaum made her appearance with Miguel Lerdo de Tejada, the noted composer-conductor, who had brought his troupe of world-renowned troubadours to pay tribute to their screen favorite.

The visit of the musicians was sponsored by T. L. Talley, the First National Exhibitors Circuit vice president and Los Angeles theatre impresario who contrived to have the orchestra play at both the Tally houses in Los Angeles en route to Paris where it is to make its annual appearance.

J. Parker Read, Jr., the film producer, was on the receiving end. It is under the sponsorship of Read that Miss Glaum produces her films, the most recent of which, "Sex" distributed by W. W. Hodkinson, had evidently excited the warm admiration of the artists.

So it was that on the greenward in front of the Colonial studio, in which J. Parker Read, Jr., makes his productions, Lerdo and his players and dancers honored Miss Glaum. The customary pipes of peace were replaced by a sombrero of the visitors who complimented Miss Glaum, Read, (continued on page 2.)

POSTMASTER ADOPTS NEW EFFICIENCY PLAN

The present system and a system of grading the work done by each employe has been adopted at the local postoffice, J. F. Connell, Ranger postmaster, stated Saturday. Mr. Connell believes this innovation will result in better service. McManus and Parton will make every effort to have the new postoffice building ready for occupancy by the first of May, he said. A shortage of certain materials may cause work to be delayed so that it will not be ready then.

Cost of Jakehamon Junket Cut Today By Excursion Train

In the past to make a trip to Jakehamon has cost all the way from $7.00 up, depending on the state of the weather and the disposition of the jitney drivers. Today the round trip can be made on the excursion to be run over the Wichita Falls, Ranger and Fort Worth railroad for $1.60.

This road will run excursion to both ends of their road today. The first train for Jakehamon will leave Ranger at 7 a. m. The second train leaves at 2 p. m. Going north to Frankell the first train will leave at 11:55 a. m. The second train goes at 5:40 p. m.

In making the trip to Jakehamon passengers may stay until 5:40 in the afternoon. The last train leaves Frankell for Ranger at 8 p. m., allowing the entire afternoon for visitors to visit Caddo, Necessity and Breckenridge. Jitney drivers will meet all trains.

Many people have expressed their intention of making the first excursion over the Hamon & Kell road.

Ranger's Freight Traffic Heavier Than Ever Before

Business in the oil field towns is increasing over that of the boom days of 1919 as was evidenced here the other day when figures were made on freight tonnage for March.

Comparative figures show that 69,734,436 pounds more of freight was handled in Ranger in March this year than in March, 1919. Cash receipts for freight handled locally showed a gain of nearly $7,000.

Not as much oil is being shipped out by rail as was the case in 1919, but this is explained by the fact that additional pipe lines have been laid since March last year, through which the volume of oil is handled.

ANTI-CHINESE FIGHT AGAIN STARTS AMONG MEXICAN WORKMEN

JUAREZ, Mexico, April 10.—Anti-Chinese agitation in Mexico, which recently had been reported subsided, has again broken out, according to reports received by Mexican officials in Juarez. It was reported that Mexican workmen, incensed over the Chinese coolies and tradesmen are securing in the industries in Juarez and other states in Mexico, are driving the Orientals out of the towns and districts and confiscating their properties.

Representations have been made by the Chinese charge d'affaires protesting against the outrages. The Mexican government has promised to make an investigation.

Richard Croker's young wife is not an Indian princess at all, as he thought she was when he married her in 1914, according to declarations of the former Tammany chieftain's children in documents supporting the Florida suit to have Croker declared incompetent to handle his business affairs. TEXAS.

Texas leads all other states in the percentage of enlistment for the National Guard. The latest figures give Texas 98 per cent. war strength. Minnesota, Oklahoma and Maine follow in the order named with enlistment strength of 96, 77 and 77 per cent., respectively.

Texas is the only state in the union to recruit a cavalry division. It will be used for patrol and combat duty along the Rio Grande border.

Several states have raised only a fractional part of the National Guard permitted them, and two or three states have taken no action toward forming a National Guard. Under new laws, National Guard troops receive the same uniform, equipment and training that the regular army receives. Officers and non-coms from the regular army are assigned to the guard units as instructors. The federal government bears at least three-fourths of the expense of raising, equipping and training the guard.

It should be a source of pride to all patriotic Texans that the Lone Star state leads the rest of the union in preparedness. Those who are familiar with the splendid achievements of Texas troops, many of whom were National Guardsmen, will not be surprised at the fine showing made in reorganizing the guard.

The ever-present menace of the border makes it imperative that Texas have troops ready to repel invasion and do guard duty along the Rio Grande. A cavalry division, on account of its greater mobility, is more suited for this work, perhaps, than an infantry division.

Attempts to abolish the National Guard, and propaganda skillfully carried on by men in high places in the war department aiming to discredit the work of the guardsmen, have failed miserably and today the system originated by our forefathers and guaranteed in the constitution of the United States is more firmly established than ever.

Changes leading to uniform equipment and training under federal supervision will prove a blessing to the militia of the different states. Unless compulsory military training is adopted—and this event now seems remote—the National Guard will form the support of our regular army of about 300,000 men in any future war.

MEANINGLESS PROFANITY.

The needless use of profanity is a subject deserving of the criticism of others than men of the cloth. Needless profanity is a failing common to men and particularly apt to thrive in communities with a population dominantly masculine, as Ranger's was.

and, in proportion to other cities, still is.

The indiscriminate use of profanity, not only is objectionable to many ears, but is its own defeat. By repetition, the words lose their strength and become meaningless. Profane expletives designed to express strong emotion have little power when they appear in every spoken sentence. They are the evidence of an impoverished vocabulary, or a lazy mind, to inactive to find the word wanted.

The result on the ear of the hearer if not offense is at least lessened opinion of the speaker.

Profanity, in its common use, is a failing caused by carelessness. The youngster, picking up words that he thinks bespeak maturity, moves his hearer to horror by the grotesque incongruity of his language. He is less to be censured, though more often chastened, than the mature person who was his mentor.

By older men with a perverted idea of humor, he may be encouraged. He may develop a sulphurous store amazingly complete and vivid.

From this store may remain a few of the more common expletives as he grows up. And these, with a carelessness he would abhor in his personal cleanliness, he mixes into his talk.

The selected use of sturdy oaths, free from the taint of the stables, is not indefensible. As able proponents of forceful English as the Century magazine have risen in defense of Anglo-Saxon swear words, used in the right company, on the right occasion, by the right man. Profanity from feminine lips recalls the unfortunate beauty of Grimm's fairy tales, whose words, spell-begun, became loads.

A Woman's Verdict

Tells of Suffering Greatly with Kidney and Bladder Trouble and How Balmwort Brought Relief.

Her Letter Well Worth Reading.

Mrs. Nellie McGinn, 609 East 138th street, New York City, writes: "For the last year I had suffered greatly from kidney and bladder trouble, distressing pain in the back and hips, with rheumatic twinges and frequent severe headaches, accompanied by nervousness, chills and fever; also a frequent desire to eliminate, a smarting, burning sensation, with pain in the region of the bladder. I would frequently have to arise at night, sleep being disturbed by the pressure and inflammation in bladder. Beginning the use of Balmwort Tablets, I noticed almost instant relief, and continuing to use them I am now totally well and relieved of all pain and distress from which I suffered. I am glad to recommend Balmwort Tablets as a reliable, beneficial medicine and trust others may find relief and freedom from pain and distress as I did, etc."

The above letter is a true statement and is now on file in our office. Balmwort Tablets bring relief when other medicine has failed. Sold by leading druggists, $1.00 per tube.—Adv.

Ranger's Boy Scouts to Live Idyllic Life for Whole Week This Summer in Camp Along Banks of Brazos River

RANGER'S BOY SCOUTS—DC30 Children speak a universal language, one that varies little in different lands and different ages—the language of play. And playing war has been one of the delights of childhood since the days of the Stone Age. The heart of childhood is belligerent; pacifism rarely parades in short pants.

But playing war is only one manifestation of the imperative need of childhood and youth for action. Modern psychology has taught that the character and welfare of the man depend on the channels into which the spirit of play of the boy turns. Perverted and led into wrong channels, a boy's urge for action, his imperative need for some outlet for his energy, will often cause him to become a criminal or a degenerate. It is therefore of the utmost importance that his energies be directed along lines which will prove healthful, physically and mentally.

The Membership Grows Fast. To fill this need for right direction, the Boy Scouts of America came into being. The success of the organization has been astonishing and its results in terms of better health, cleaner morals, increased interest in physical development and in the fascinating life of the outdoors, little short of marvelous.

This is a story of Ranger. Without the "blare of bugles and muffle of drums" usually associated with an enlistment campaign, enlistments in the Boy Scouts have increased fifteen hundred per cent in the last three months, which is to say that the muster roll now numbers forty-five scouts, where it numbered three in January.

Here is a "company record" of achievement, written in the crisp, whip-like English of a boy: "Three members three months ago, forty-five with forty-three present Friday night. Have secured boat, all flags, troop flag, U. S. flag, four patrol flags; half boys have uniforms; two blankets; half-shelter, canteen, sheaf knife, whistle and first aid. Have infantry drill; organizing baseball team with scouts of nearby teams; week's camp this summer on Brazos."

Two Days' Hike Planned. A dollar represents the same amount to a boy that a government bond issue does to Uncle Sam. These Ranger lads have been up against difficulties in securing the above equipment, but self-reliance is one of the cardinal virtues of the Boy Scouts, and again the never-say-die spirit of the oil fields is as strong in the younger generation as in the men and all difficulties are being overcome.

A two days' hike is planned for April 30. "Fall in, right dress front," etc., then down the road at "route step" to a campsite, place several miles from town. A week's outing at a shady spot on the Brazos, where the squirrels shindy up and down the cottonwood trees and the channel cut lie in the swift moving current at the head of a deep water-hole waiting for this summer. What an outing for a boy. Something to be talked of for weeks in advance and months afterward. Back with better health, better spirits, a greater knowledge of the fascinating outdoors, better in every way.

HERE'S MORE: From Ranger to Cisco, then to Dublin, or take the Wichita Falls, Ranger & Fort Worth (Hamon-Kell) Railroad to Dublin; then get the Frisco Railway south to Hasse, Texas. 105 miles out of Fort Worth. W. D. Gillett, drilling contractor and president of the Comanche Oil Association, says that he will begin next week underreaming eight-inch casing to shut off water from the 1500-foot level and on arrival of new sand line will bail out the well and drill her in. What will she make? The best oil man in the field can only guess. What will it mean? A NEW OIL FIELD—THE ONLY ONE ON THE FRISCO RAILROAD NORTH OF BROWNWOOD—and the Sturkie well is located one and one-half miles east of the Frisco Railway—BUT A LITTLE OUTSIDE THE OUTSKIRTS OF HASSE.

What Has Hasse to Make an Oil Town? Go See! Know for Yourself!

It has a bank, the Merchants & Planters; school, churches, several grocery and general mercantile stores, drug store, postoffice, telephone central, Western Union Telegraph at the Frisco Railway Station, with a station as adequate as was Ranger's station in her early boom days; good roads, natural watershed and surface drainage, natural resources for adequate water supply, high power electric transmission line from Dallas to Waco and Brownwood; has a small restaurant and an oil lease office and a garage—and a Chamber of Commerce backed up by the citizens of Hasse and community.

It will need quick, you, your money bigger restaurants, hotels, jitneys and garages and everything to make a new oil field. Plans are under way to drill another well which may be a second Comanche well. Another shallow well may also be put down.

LISTEN! EVERYBODY: It was said by a man who was there that the number of optimists recently at the Vernon well before it was drilled in did not exceed twenty people. All the others were pessimists and doubters. That well has attracted thousands and thousands of people there. The Chamber of Commerce of Hasse feels and believes that you have a similar opportunity in the vicinity and in Hasse in Comanche county, one of the biggest oil producing counties in Texas.

DUE TO THE GEOGRAPHICAL LOCATION OF HASSE AND THE STURKIE WELL ON THE LEON RIVER, of which the head waters begin in the wonderful DESDEMONA OIL POOL, twenty miles northwest, and following the map, from Vernon down through and between Caddo and Breckenridge in Stephens County and on through the NECESSITY POOL now perhaps as great as was ever the Desdemona field, and the line continues through the Ranger field on further southeast through Desdemona and the Duke-Knowles OIL POOLS and then to the STURKIE WELL. Boosters in Campaign for Ranger's Still Greater Chamber of Commerce; Stir Wide Interest in Undertaking

Ralph G. Stockman, chairman of the campaign committee in charge of the expansion of the Ranger Chamber of Commerce, said Saturday that the activities of the organization had aroused so much interest that the committee was extending a general invitation to the citizens to call at the headquarters in the Marston building and ask questions.

Development of the plans for the campaign had brought so many men into the chamber's temporary quarters to make inquiries about the movement that D. H. McFarland, the campaign director, said it had occurred to the members of the campaign committee that many others would like to know the real meaning of the undertaking. At all times there will be members of the committee or others in the headquarters who will willingly discuss the project with all callers. "Drop in and ask questions" is a new invitation which will hereafter have a prominent position on the door.

The present week will bring the matter more directly to the attention of many citizens of Ranger. In addition to the civic conference on Tuesday evening in the Summer Garden, Mr. McFarland and members of the campaign staff will meet various groups, and there will be meetings of the committees in the prosecution of their various specific tasks, so that by the end of the week the actual campaign will have taken very definite shape.

field of activity fortifies the optimism with a mass of intelligent arguments and another the pessimist under a mass of carefully collected facts which leave no ground for just criticism of a real Chamber of Commerce.

HOMELESS FAWN FINDS NEW MOTHER IN CITY COV

International News Service.

PORTLAND, Ore., April 10.—Any one who thinks a cow hasn't a strong maternal instinct should make trip to Multnomah Station, a Portland suburb, where a yearling fawn has been adopted by a cow of A. H. Fordyce.

Fordyce has no idea how the deer came to that place, but does know it journeyed to and from the pasture with its "mother" morning and evening.

It is believed the fawn's family was chased out of the woods or killed by hunters and that the fawn came cityward and, finding a new "mother," decided to stay in town.

Jesse F. Gelders, with the Newspaper Enterprise association of Dallas, was in town Saturday on his way to Des Moines.

RESULTS IN WORK TO END EMBARGO IN DELEON

Special to The Times.

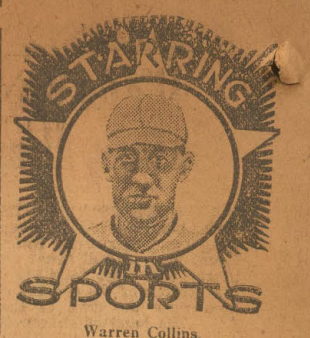

DELEON, April 10.—In response to an appeal of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce that the embargo against DeLeon be lifted and that a special representative of the commission be sent here to ascertain the facts represented by the local Chamber of Commerce, the state railway commission will send such a representative here in the next few days. Following this, proper action will be taken to break the embargo imposed against one oil field town.

Mr. and Mrs. John Taylor, local rig builder and oil man, residing in the Young addition, left Saturday for Drumright, Oklahoma, to spend Sunday with his family.

'Why Not White Girl Love Chinaman?'

Sweet, weak Miriam Kirkstone had allowed herself to fall under the spell of Shan Tung, Oriental mystic, who in his cunning relentlessness determined to kill the love of Chief McDowell of the Royal Mounted for her.

Campaign in Outline.

"So many persons have asked us in the past week just how we are going to handle this big task of enlisting many hundreds of members in the Chamber of Commerce, and what plans of largest interest will be adopted by the chamber as a result of the expansion and reorganization," said Mr. McFarland, that I have drawn up a little outline of the whole campaign. It is arranged under the headings that have been suggested by the questions which have been asked." Here it is:

1. Securing the necessary membership and income for three years:

(a) A carefully compiled list of the citizens of Ranger who should support such a movement, made in card index form.

(b) The number of memberships that each should carry, based upon the benefits to be expected and what corporations, firms and men of similar standing in other cities are doing, indicated on each card.

(c) This list to be examined carefully by two separate committees and passed upon by the executive committee before it is used.

2. Creating a working membership:

(a) During the campaign for membership and afterwards, a systematic method of acquainting the public with the proper functions of a Chamber of Commerce to be put in operation.

(b) A series of luncheons and meetings which ultimately become schools of organization, to be held; these open to all. At these gatherings specialists will present the steps necessary in successful organization management.

(c) The speakers to be aided by charts and other methods of graphic presentation. Everything reduced to a common sense basis and hip-hurrah devices to be avoided.

(d) This definite and methodical way of presenting a sometimes misunderstood

BRECKWALKER

This new town in the exact middle of the wonderfully productive and enduring Oil Fields of Stephens County—the fields that are daily proving the amazing potentialities of the deep sands oil areas of West Texas—

ON THE LINE OF THE NEW WICHITA FALLS, RANGER & FORT WORTH RAILROAD

—That is now operating through the great oil fields of West Texas from Dublin traversing Eastland and Stephens Counties—

WILL BE OPENED MAY 10

BRECKWALKER has been chosen as the best possible point in the oil fields to build a great center for production, processing and marketing petroleum and its products and for development of the great oil fields of Stephens County and the unexcelled farming region that centers about the city. The site is beautiful and the environments are picturesque. Breckwalker was named in honor of Breckenridge Stephens Walker, a native of Stephens County who has made millions of dollars in business and in the production of oil in the territory adjacent to Breckwalker.

The predominating present argument in favor of investment in this new oil fields and farming city is the amazing actual and potential production of petroleum in its immediate vicinity. It is in the exact center of the most prolific and greatest area of production in Stephens County, the county out of all the wonderful West Texas oil territory that stands unsurpassed and alone as the best oil region in the Midcontinent oil fields. Thousands of teams and trucks that haul materials to hundreds of drilling rigs will have their headquarters at Breckwalker and from there the haul is shorter than any oil field haul in the history of Texas oil development. This reduces the cost of production by avoiding the heavy expense of transportation that has in the past been involved in carrying materials to the leases after the railroads have completed their long haul from the forests and steel mills to the nearest terminals with respect to the fields.

The intrinsic merits of the West Texas oil fields are well known. Their possibilities are but beginning to be realized. The advantages of an oil fields city with transportation facilities designed to serve the oil fields are also well known. In Breckwalker the combination of a wonderful oil field and adequate railroad transportation mean rapid growth and amazing money-making possibilities for the investor and the business man.

The Wichita Falls, Ranger & Fort Worth Railroad is now operating trains regularly over part of its line. At Dublin, it has unexcelled trunk line connections, and construction will be completed into Breckwalker with trains in operation by the date of the opening sale of town lots there. The line has been in operation to Frankell, eight miles south of Breckwalker, for some time. This new transportation line brings to the oil fields and the farms of Stephens County in the vicinity of Breckwalker and Frankell the facilities of a modern railroad to take the place of the wagons that have in the past since the oil fields development began laboriously and expensively performed the service of transportation.

There is no better investment in the world than real estate in a suitably situated city that is growing as Breckwalker will surely grow. Lands and town lots have been the firm foundation for many colossal fortunes in the past. They will continue to be the unrivaled basis for future wealth. Breckwalker has every element for the making of a city that will return a thousand fold the investments that may be made there in real estate or in business. It is an opportunity such as comes but once in a lifetime. It is open and inviting with the welcome that an arena of big things always extends to doers of big things.

Breckwalker is priced right. Plats of the townsite with the prices of all the lots plainly printed thereon will be distributed on the townsite on the day of the opening sale. The sale will begin MONDAY, MAY 10.

It will continue from day to day on the townsite. Purchasers of lots may pay 10 per cent in cash and the balance in nine equal monthly installments.

FLORIDA WOMAN TELLS WHAT ENDED HER FIVE YEARS OF SUFFERING

Mrs. Marietta Wooten Had Tried All Kinds of Treatments Without Deriving the Least Benefit.

HAD TO STAY IN BED FOR DAYS AT A TIME

"After What Tanlac Has Done for Me It's a Real Pleasure to Recommend It to Others," Is What She Says.

"After suffering for five years and trying all sorts of treatments and medicines, Tanlac is the only thing that ever did me any good," said Mrs. Marietta Wooten, 1024 Fifteenth street, Tampa, Fla.

"For the past five years I had been troubled with a severe pain in my left side. My food disintegrated with me, and gas would form on my stomach, causing the pain in my side to get a great deal worse, which often was so severe I was compelled to remain in bed for days at a time. Finally I got so I just dreaded to eat, and ate as little as possible, on account of the extreme suffering and pain it always caused me. I was so nervous I could get but little sleep, and always got up in the mornings feeling dreadingly sick and so weak I would tremble like a leaf and hardly be able to move.

"My attention was called to Tanlac by statements of people I knew right here in Tampa, who said they had been greatly benefited by it, and I decided to try it myself. I realized after taking the first few doses I had at last found the right medicine for my troubles, so I continued taking it and continued to improve until now I am entirely free of that terrible pain in my side. I eat heartily, can eat anything I want and never have a sign of gas or any other trouble afterward. My nerves are in good condition, I sleep well and always get up feeling greatly rested. I can stand on my feet as long as I please without its tiring me and can do my housework with the greatest ease. After what Tanlac has done for me, it is a real pleasure for me to recommend it to others."

Tanlac is sold in Ranger by Phillips Bros., and in East by Butler Drug Co.—Adv.

Special to The Times.

STAMFORD, April 10.—Resolutions passed at the Abilene annual convention of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce in January calling for restoration of reduced passenger rates to Mineral Wells have been achieved their end and now Mineral Wells has the lower rates and been placed on a parity with other Texas resorts.

The railroads took the stand that reduced rates to Mineral Wells would result in ticket "scalping" beyond Weatherford to the oil fields. However, Ed P. Byars, traffic manager, and S. E. Miller, secretary of the Mineral Wells Chamber of Commerce, dispelled this idea.

Of the 2,000,000 excess females in England, more than 1,000,000 are between the ages of 20 and 60.

AIRPLANE FALLS, INJURING TWO MEN AT KELLY FIELD

By Associated Press
SAN ANTONIO, April 10.—Henry A. Strickland of Waycross, Ga., sergeant first-class of the air service, and William J. Briggs of Parma, Mich., chauffeur first-class, were seriously injured at Kelly field near here this afternoon when a stunt fell from an altitude of about 500 feet. Strickland probably will die, but it is believed Briggs may recover, medical officers at the field said.

KING IS SPONSOR IN BIG AUTO RACES

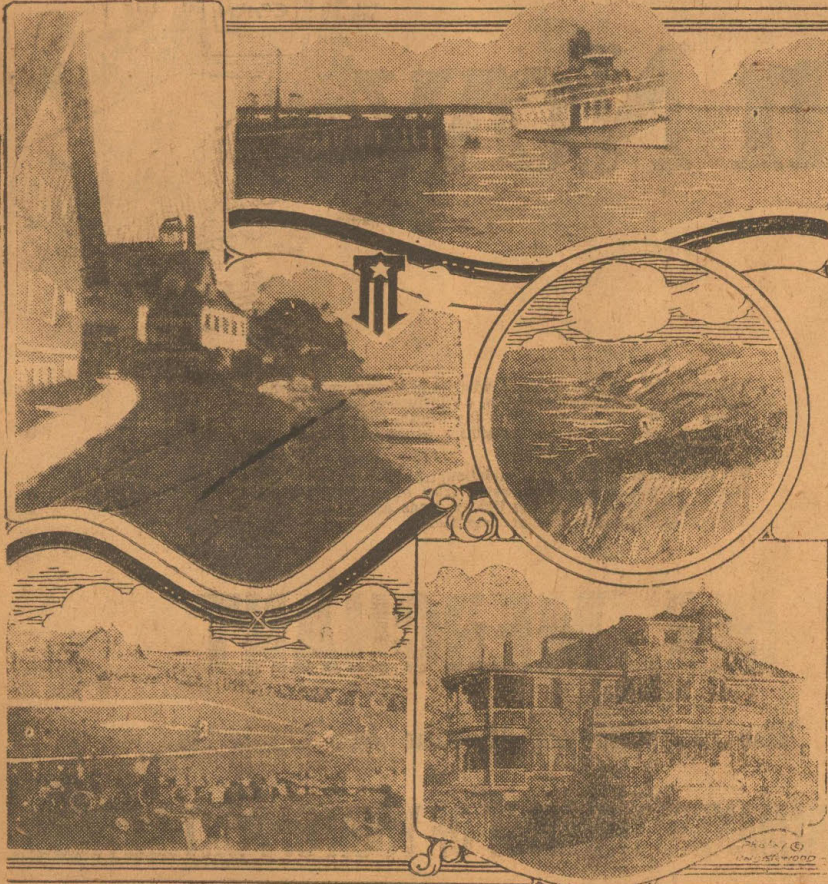

His Majesty the King of Siam, devotee of racing and other sports, was sponsor recently for the first automobile races ever held in Bangkok, Siam. Under the king's patronage, the races attracted widespread interest, and large crowds of spectators line the whole course, manifesting great enthusiasm throughout the racing. The speedway was around the grounds of the palace. It was arti-cially banked on the curves, and as a result, although the drivers were only amateurs, there were only two accidents.

The winning car was Firestone equipped and was awarded a large cup by the Siam Electricity company, Ltd., agents of the Firestone company.

The king of Siam has one of the most magnificent garages in the Far East. It is probably the only garage in the world that has the distinction of being supervised by a prince.
