EARTHQUAKE BRINGS RUIN IN JAPAN

Italy Appears Trying to Get War Started

Seizes Island of Corfu and Other Greek Possessions and Has Athenians Inflamed to Danger Point. League of Nations Appealed to and Using Its Good Offices. Will Be Test of League's Power.

By United Press.
LONDON, Sept. 1.—Europe today faced the most menacing situation since the days preceding the World war. Italy has seized two islands. The Italian flag flies over Corfu, following a bombardment in which 15 refugees were killed. The Balkans are stirring. Queen Marie of Roumania is hurrying back to Bucharest from Paris. Jugoslav reservists, who have been on leave of absence, have been ordered back. Italy plans to call out two classes. Those in London have been ordered to prepare to return. The Greek legation in London cannot regard the occupation of Corfu as anything other than an act of war. While chancellors are bending every effort to ease the situation, Premier Mussolini continued to carry out his plans for humiliating Greece as retaliation for the assassination of five Italian members of a boundary commission. A new note was sent to Greece today and was unrelenting in its demands for 50,000,000 lire and other points set forth in the original demand. The hope was expressed by the Italian government that Greece's residents would not do anything untoward. Allied authorities are becoming more alarmed over the situation.

League of Nations To Consider Greek-Italian Dispute

By Associated Press.
GENEVA, Sept. 1.—A communication from Greece submitting to the League of Nations the dispute arising between that nation and Italy was received today at headquarters. This automatically brings the conflict before the council of the league, which now is in session here. The council of the League of Nations today decided to take up the Italian-Greek differences next Tuesday and expects that meanwhile the two countries will permit no act of such a nature as to aggravate the situation. ATHENS, Sept. 1.—Greece will abide by the decision of the League of Nations in the dispute with Italy, the Greek Premier Conatas said after the cabinet meeting today.

ITALY'S PRECIPITATE ACTION IS CONDEMNED IN GREAT BRITAIN

LONDON, Sept. 1.—Italy's action in bombarding Corfu and occupying the island is in contravention of the treaty of 1864, in which Great Britain ceded Corfu to Greece and is considered in diplomatic circles as constituting a flagrant violation of international law. The gravest apprehension is felt over possible further action by Italy. If the Italians should ignore the efforts of the League of Nations and of the allied council of ambassadors for an amicable solution of the dispute, military experts here believe there is great danger of war spreading throughout southeastern Europe. ITALIANS BLAME CORFU FOR FIRING ON FORTRESS ROME, Sept. 1.—The authorities at Corfu were blamed today by the Italian government in a semi-official statement for the necessity of firing on the fortress. The statement said the Italian admiral did not fire until he had given the Greek authorities time to effect evacuation of the fortress and remove refugees and civilians.

YOKAHAMA CITY IN FLAMES AND FIRE SPREADING

Fears for Safety of Americans There Following Devastating Earth Tremors.

By United Press.
OSAKA, Japan, Sept. 1.—Practically all of Japan was shaken violently for more than an hour by an earthquake of almost unprecedented power. Severe damage was suffered in Tokio. The railway and telegraph communication for many miles around the city was disrupted. SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 1.—Yokohama is being devastated by fire, following an earthquake shock of unusual intensity, according to a radio message received by the American Radio company here from Japan. Virtually the entire city was reported in flames with many casualties. Yokohama is the center of business and social activities in Japan. The city has a population of about one million. It is located on the eastern shore of the Bay of Tokyo, 17 miles from the imperial city. WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—Much anxiety has been caused here by reports of a severe earthquake in Japan and the destruction of the city of Yokohama by fire. A large number of Americans make their home in Yokohama. It is said that probably 1,000 Americans who have business connections in Tokio live in Yokohama as their place of residence, it being only about one-half hour ride from the nation's capital.

GREECE PROTESTS AGAINST OCCUPATION OF CORFU

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—Greece tonight protested to the United States against the occupation by Italians of the island of Corfu. A similar protest was filed with other world powers.

LABOR DAY MESSAGE

Grand Chief of Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers Calls on American Labor to Unite for World Peace.

CLEVELAND, Sept. 1.—The menace of the next war overshadows all other issues which confront the laboring man and "the achievements of centuries of human progress will be swept away by another red tide unless the workers exert their political power to banish forever this scourge of mankind," Warren S. Stone, grand chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, said in a Labor Day message today. "American labor can render no greater service than to secure the co-operation of forward-looking men and women in this country as well as in other lands, for the maintenance of permanent world peace," Mr. Stone asserted. Struggle in Industry. The second great issue in which the workers of America are involved is the struggle between autocracy and democracy in industry. The stability, the harmony, and the prosperity of the nation's economic fabric is at stake. There cannot, there should not be industrial peace until the men who invest all they have—their labor and their lives in the nation's basic industries, have a voice in directing the destiny of those industries, at least equal to that of the men who merely invest their money. "Democracy in government goes hand in hand with democracy in the industry. Because we have ignored the latter, we are in danger of losing the former. If the workers of America are not to slip back into a state of economic serfdom, they must organ-

Coal Miners Quit Work; Strike Is Begun

About 150,000 Men Obey Order in Anthracite Region and Silence Hangs Over Collieries.

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Sept. 1.—Not a wheel turned in the collieries of the anthracite regions today. Practically a total of 150,000 miners obeyed the strike order, which went into effect at midnight. An ominous silence hung over the mining properties, where in other times, the hum of industry is heard. The maintenance men, allowed by union men to remain on the job, put the finishing touches on closing the mines. PARLEYS BEGUN BETWEEN OPERATORS AND MINERS HARRISBURG, Sept. 1.—The first parley between coal operators and representatives of the union coal miners was begun here today at the request of both parties. The conference is to resume consideration of Governor Pinchot's peace plans. It adjourned at 11 o'clock to meet again at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning. Governor Pinchot at the close of the session described himself as much pleased with today's progress. The suspension of mining will be in effect, he said, during the recess, which was agreed to by both sides. ITALIAN SUB FIRES ON GREEK STEAMSHIP ATHENS, Sept. 1.—The Greek steamer Gerogif was fired on by an Italian submarine in the Gulf of Corinthenza, damaging the ship. The submarine commander told the Greek captain that the Italian admiral had orders to allow no Greek ship to leave Corfu and none to proceed to Corfu.

STYLE FOR STYLE SHOW

Beauty Always Desirable, but Beauty Enhanced by Stylish Gowns Especially Popular; Coming Display Expected to Far Excel All Others.

Ranger girls who are on the threshold of young womanhood, and young women who look stylish in an evening gown, a smart cloak, or a tailored hat, will be the models for the style show here, September 26 and 27. Girls, not because they are simply good looking but for their loveliness in a gray squirrel fur trimmed fabric, for example, will be selected. Her beauty will be an asset, the style show committee declares, but she must withhold, look attractive. Charm of personality, a requisite recently emphasized by judges of American beauty at Chicago, will be in a prospective model's favor. She will have to pass the discriminating eye of the style show director before she becomes eligible. The models will be the production of master stylists. There will be rich fabrics. The silhouettes will be slim-like, tubelike and wrappy. The colors will be rich. There will be innovations. The models will be seen at the Liberty theater both nights. Ranger has put on three style shows, but the merchants have never been completely satisfied that they have reached the summit of their ambitions. The coming event, they hope, will be greater than the preceding ones.

M. S. BROOKS OF RANGER NAMED JUSTICE OF PEACE TO SUCCEED LATE JUSTICE ROGER FENLAW

M. S. Brooks, of 801 Strawn road, has been appointed to fill the unexpired term of Roger Fenlaw, former justice of the peace, who was drowned early in June. Brooks, who was named to this office Saturday, will serve in precinct No. 1. There were several other applicants from Ranger. The appointment was agreed to unanimously, it was said. He made his application on June 23. Brooks name for appointment was put in the form of a motion by H. S. Stubblefield and seconded by M. W. Burns of the county commissioners' court. He is a veteran of the Confederate

LABOR DAY TO BE OBSERVED IN RANGER AS GENERAL HOLIDAY

Monday, Labor day, will be observed in Ranger as a general holiday. All retail merchants in the city have agreed to close their doors for the day to enable their employees to enjoy the day set apart as a token of the dignity of labor. Baseball, golf, tennis and other games and sports will occupy the holiday makers during the day, and the Ranger Lions have arranged an entertainment for the evening.

COAL MINERS PREPARE FOR LONG STRIKE AHEAD

HARRISBURG, Pa., Sept. 1.—Anthracite mine union chiefs made preparations tonight for a long strike against coal operators. While the negotiations of Governor Pinchot were at a standstill until Wednesday, the district mine workers' heads went back to their men to take word of temporary failure. The two factions are about as wide apart as they have ever been. The debate at the conference today became very warm, it was said, and the meeting was adjourned to allow the two sides to go over the points at issue more calmly. Pinchot issued a statement tonight, in which he said he was encouraged. "Negotiations still going on," the statement said. "This is not a private quarrel. Neither miners nor operators have any right to overlook the public suffering which would follow a strike."

ITALIAN WARSHIP HEADED TOWARDS GRECIAN WATERS

ROME, Sept. 1.—Naval units stationed at Venice and Spezia are steaming for southern Adriatic waters in full war status and eight transports are held in readiness in case of further eventualities. The Italian government has announced that the occupation of Corfu will be the limit of her enforcement of her demands and that there will be consequently a short breathing spell.

47 COTTON GROWERS HAVE BROUGHT COTTON TO RANGER

Forty-seven cotton growers had marketed their cotton in Ranger up to Saturday noon, according to a check of the number of busses paid to farmers by the Ranger Chamber of Commerce. The chamber is paying bonuses of $5 each to the first 50 farmers marketing their cotton here.

TOKIO, CAPITAL OF NIPPON, LEVELED BY EARTH TREMORS, NOW IS WRAPPED IN FLAMES

Earth Tremors Continue for Hour. Buildings Crumble Into Ruins; Water System of City Out of Commission; Fires Break Out in Many Places at Once and Conflagration Sweeps Over City and Extends to Other Towns and Villages. Yokohama Also Burning.

By United Press.
SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 1.—Tokio, capital of Japan, and Yokohama, one of the principal seaports, have been stricken by fire, following an earthquake which leveled many of the chief buildings and scattered the people in terror, according to radio messages from the Tomioka station, received by the Radio Corporation of America. The earthquake last night shook with terrific force the entire eastern side of Japan, being centered apparently in the district in which Tokio is located. The city's water supply was made useless almost with the first tremor, and fire that started at almost the same time could not be fought successfully. Early radio messages said that Yokohama was afire. A radio message at 6:30 o'clock tonight told a harrowing story of the situation at Tokio. At the first earthquake shock many buildings fell and fire broke out in many places. Several of the smaller towns near Tokio are reported completely destroyed. Refugees from Tokio reported the dead in the capital city numbered thousands. Flames were reported spreading in every direction. Headquarters of the Metropolitan police force were destroyed and several of the imperial buildings reduced to ashes. The flames of the burning city could be seen for a distance of seven miles, it was stated. Bridges in many places have collapsed. A message also was received tonight from Iwaki, which is 144 miles from Tokio, which told of scenes of great confusion in Tokio, which had been changed in a twinkling from a busy, bustling capital to a place of horror. "Tokio is burning," said the report. The latest word from that city, it was said, indicated that the conflagration had spread to every part of the city and from there to neighboring towns. Tokio In Ruins. From the description, although it is brief, it appears that much of the business section of Tokio has been destroyed. Many buildings were leveled to the ground at the first earth tremors and others were burned to the ground as the fire gained headway, sweeping a clean path. Twelve-story buildings, department stores, railway stations were wiped out by the flames. The fire broke out in many places at once. What the real situation is can only be conjectured, but it is believed every bit as bad as the reports indicate and perhaps worse. The earthquake force is believed to have been confined largely to the eastern side of the Hondo, where Tokio and Yokohama are located, and did not extend to the western side. The harbor of the imperial city always is crowded with shipping and many foreigners live there. If the shipping survived the wall of water that probably was thrown up by the earthquake it is possible that many Americans found safety on vessels in the harbor. People Bewildered. The people of Tokio and Yokohama appear to have been completely bewildered by the horror of their situation. People, said the report, were running about in all directions. Scores of small towns are reported to have been destroyed by the flames that followed the earthquake. The railroads and wire communication have been demoralized. Several trains that were nearing Tokio at the time of the earthquake are said to have met with disaster. The only reports that have come from Japan relative to the earthquake and fire that followed have been so brief that it is probably only an outline of the disaster that has overtaken Japan has been brought out, but this has been enough to indicate that Japan has sustained a great loss, both in life and property.

The registration dates, set for the Ranger High school for the session of 1923-1924, are Sept. 5 to 8, closing at noon on the latter date, according to J. W. WEST TEXAS COTTON CROP FAR ABOVE LAST YEAR SWEETWATER, Texas, Sept. 1.—A 6,500-bale increase in the amount of cotton raised in 23 West Texas counties this year over the amount gained last year, despite lack of rain during the major portion of the growing season, is the forecast gathered by the Sweetwater Reporter and San Angelo Standard. Old cotton is deteriorating over this entire section with the exception of especially favored parts of Coke county, and parts of Runnels where heavy rains fell during July. In other sections the cotton is off considerably from earlier reports. Worms have done but little damage, according to the correspondents of these papers.

FLOWERS FOR THE LIVING.

Ranger must say goodbye this week to two families well known here for their helpful and inspiring activities during the last several years and who will be greatly missed by the many friends they have made during their residence in the metropolis of the West Texas oil belt.

The Rev. A. N. Stubblebine, pastor of the Ranger Presbyterian church, Mrs. Stubblebine, and their daughter, and their two sons will leave Ranger early this week for Philadelphia, Pa., their old home. They have planned to drive through in their automobile. Mr. Stubblebine will continue in the ministry in Pennsylvania.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Fouke and their two children will leave this week for Los Angeles, where Mr. Fouke will continue in the oil refining business.

For several years the Rev. Mr. Stubblebine has been a spiritual leader and adviser in Ranger. He has received many new members into the church and given letters of dismissal to many who have gone away. It was dispiriting at times during the transition from boom days to normal conditions, for so many more appeared to be going away than were coming in, yet seldom has any seen him depressed or despondent, no matter what obstacles or difficulties were confronting him. His daily greeting for those he met, whether members of his church or of another or none at all, has been inspiring and has helped to chase gathering clouds away. He has been such a friend as all wish to see come and none wishes to see go.

Mrs. Stubblebine is such a helpmate as would assist any minister of the Gospel. She has been a real leader and instructor among the women. Accomplished, gifted, possessing a fund of information for every emergency, she has occupied a niche in Ranger that will be difficult to fill. Her unflinching cheerfulness, too, must have been an inspiration to her husband as it has been to others.

Mr. and Mrs. Fouke have been leaders in the civic and social life of Ranger. As president of the Ranger Country club, likewise an enthusiastic golfer, active in the work of the Ranger Elks, the Ranger Lions and the Ranger Shrine club and a capable business man, Mr. Fouke will be missed by those in Ranger who have known and learned to love him. Both Mr. and Mrs. Fouke were sorry to go, having learned to like very much both Ranger and the Ranger people, and this feeling is reciprocated.

But while friends may be far away they are no less friends. They would be kept here if it were possible for those who know them to keep them, but as the call has come for them to take up their residence elsewhere then the good wishes of Ranger go with them in their new homes. As they have made good friends here, so there is the surety they will make other equally good friends wherever they go. Those who remain behind will always be glad to hear of their success and prosperity.

"Pop" Endicott and Mrs. Endicott, who went away early in the summer and whose departure left a void in the musical life of the city, have written that they are happy in their new home but miss their many friends in Ranger. Just so others who go will find new happiness in new activities elsewhere, and those who regret their going would not wish it otherwise.

The best wishes of the people of Ranger go with the pastor and his family and with the business man and civic leader and his family in their new homes, one in the east and one in the west. Should they ever return to Ranger they may be assured of a welcome here second to none they will receive anywhere and that will be both heartfelt and sincere.

Want Understanding On Donation of the Hospital Grounds

E. S. Prichard, judge of the Eastland county commissioners, has been named by the court to confer with the city commissioners relative to a former contract between the city and county for the joint erection of the City-County hospital. He will probably be over Tuesday or Wednesday to confer with a representative of the city. He desired to come over Saturday, but a speaking engagement in Putnam prevented him from coming. As the court will convene Monday to agree on the final details with the Chapin-Kemp Construction company of San Antonio relative to the contract given to this company last Saturday for the improvement of 51 miles of state highways in the county, he will not be able to come on that day.

V. V. Cooper, a commissioner from Ranger told a Times representative Saturday night that the court considered the hospital matter every day it was in session last week. The court met Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

He said that H. S. Stubblefield stated to the court that he understood the hospital board had applied some of the money given by the city and county towards the purchase in part of the hospital site. When Stubblefield and two other members of the board conferred with the city commissioners here two weeks ago, he asked the city commission whether the agreement between the city and county called for the presentation of a site by the city as an inducement to get the hospital.

Prichard, when he meets with a representative of the city, will bring this question up, it was indicated by Cooper.

Commissioner Cooper said he has wanted to see the court agree on a plan of operation from the start. "I brought this up before the members," he said, "it always seemed there couldn't be any agreement. One member can hold it up."

METHODIST MINISTER MAKES COMPLAINT AGAINST BISHOP

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 1.—A summons, charging Bishop W. F. McMurray of the Methodist Episcopal church, with disturbing the peace, has been issued at the request of the Rev. Charles McGehee, who declares the bishop ejected him from his church office because of his activities in connection with the Ku Klux Klan.

JURY NOW HAS STARKEY CASE IN ITS HANDS

Foreman Sends Word to Judge to Return in Day or Two.

EASTLAND, Sept. 1.—"Tell the judge to come back tomorrow or the next day," was the foreman's answer to a question by Sheriff J. D. Barton if they jury had a report to give on their deliberations over the fate of L. J. Starkey, tried a second time this week for the killing of E. D. (Pet) Brown in a Cisco road construction camp here last May. The case was given to the jury at 6:45 p. m. Saturday.

When the jury retired for deliberations, there was an understanding that if a report was to be made, the sheriff or his representative would call for it at 9 o'clock.

At 10:30 o'clock, a light was still burning in the little room on the top floor of the courthouse, where the jury was wrestling for a verdict of guilty or not guilty.

Announcement of the verdict is not likely tonight. Judge G. L. Dav-enport, before whom the case was tried, is reported to have gone to his residence at Ranger.

B. B. Poe, deputy sheriff, who accompanied Starkey to the construction camp the night of the tragedy, testified during the afternoon. Senator Burkett vigorously interrogated the witness in an effort to shake his testimony given in the other trial. Mr. Poe's testimony substantially follows: "I went to Leeray with Mr. Starkey about sundown and returned to Cisco about 1 o'clock and went with Starkey to make a raid on the negro camp. We approached the tents and stood a while and listened to the negroes playing cards inside the tent. After standing there a few minutes, a negro came by us and went into the tent and I said to Starkey that I thought the negro saw us and that we had better go on in as it was our chance. As we went in seven or eight in the tent and told the negroes scattered but we kept them that we were going to take them to jail. A negro came to the door and said: 'Wait a minute; we will get Mr. Brown and he will pay our fines.' Mr. Brown was sent after. When he entered the tent he said, 'Hello, men,' and asked what was wrong. Starkey said: 'We have some of the negroes for gaming and that we are going to take them to jail if fines are not paid.' Brown then said: 'What did you do with the $20 you collected from my Mexicans?' I spoke up and said: 'I have all the names of any fines that we have collected and if you will go to the justice of the peace office I can show you all the money that has been collected has been turned in.' At this time Brown said: 'I know something on you birds any way,' and took me by the arm and says, 'You have no right here; this is my tent,' and jerked me three times toward the door. I pulled back and the third time he let me go and I fell back toward the back side of the tent; then Starkey spoke up and said: 'Lay off him, Brown; we don't want any trouble.' Brown then picked up the lantern, that was sitting in the middle of the floor, with his right hand and stepped to Starkey and reached for him with his left hand and raised the lantern with the right hand—about half way up and the lantern went out. I heard a crash and then a gun shot. I reached in my pocket and drew my flashlight and Starkey walked around or over Brown's feet and said: 'Let's go, Poe.' I turned Brown's body over as he was lying partly on his side and he looked up at me and I said: 'I am sorry this happened as I have nothing against you.' He did not answer. I helped carry him outside of the tent and a negro took my place and Starkey and I left and came to Eastland."

B. W. Patterson, of defense counsel, asked the witness if he saw a bruise on Starkey's face and hand after he got to Eastland. Poe replied: "Yes, there was, but I did not see it until we got in the light at Eastland, when I turned him over to the jailer." In answer to questions of the defense attorney, Poe testified practically to the same statements as in the former trial.

Joe Burkett, special prosecuting attorney, led the cross-examination. He asked: "You had no search warrant when you went to the negro camp?" Poe replied that he did not. "Did you talk to Tub Wilson, a policeman at Cisco, that night about the killing?" The witness said that he did.

"Well, then, why did you not tell him then about the lantern in the case?" Mr. Poe said: "I don't remember."

All the World Music In Your Home With a—

PHONOGRAPH

The ingenuity of man through the aeroplane has matched the eagle in its flight through space. On land the automobile in its race against time, outruns the fleetest-footed animal—here again man has conquered; but of all the inventions of modern times the phonograph for sheer wonder surpasses them all.

The phonograph brings within reach, of even the most humble, the means through which all the world's music may be enjoyed in the home. It preserves for posterity the golden voices of our famous singers and provides entertainment and diversion of inestimable value at a cost within easy reach of the most modest purse.

Truly the phonograph and its records have a rightful place in our every-day lives, bringing as they do the sunshine of happiness and cheer that music alone can provide.

FINE CANDY MADE WITH KELLOGG CORN FLAKES

The nicest and most delectable confection in all the world is a delicate macaroon, and the best ever tasted can be made by the following recipe, which calls for those delicious Kellogg Corn Flakes, the kind that just melt in your mouth.
Walnut Macaroons.
Two and one-half cups toasted Corn Flakes, 1 cup of sugar, 1 cup chopped walnut meat, 1 cup shredded coconut, 2 eggs well beaten, 1 teaspoon vanilla.
Beat eggs, add sugar and other ingredients. Roll in small balls, flatten out and bake on greased sheets in moderate oven until delicately browned.

trouble there that night. He had always regarded Brown as his friend, he said, and he shot to protect his own life from the negroes. He said he thought the negroes were going to jump on him when the light went out. His statements of the incidents leading up to the trouble were practically the same as told by Mr. Poe. He was cross-examined for over an hour.

W. B. Statham, city secretary of Cisco, testified about the cave-in on Sixth avenue. He said Mr. Brown and wife and himself and wife went to the scene of the cave-in—that they remained there some time—and while there a negro laborer sustaining a bad injury to his foot and that they took him to the hospital and afterwards took him in the car to the road camp about 10:30 p. m. He said Mr. Brown helped carry the negro into his tent. While Brown was undressing the injured negro another negro came into the tent and told Brown that Starkey had arrested some of the boys at the tent. Mr. Brown went out, he said, and he (Statham) remained in the tent and within three or four minutes heard a shot fired. He rushed to the tent where the crowd was. He said it was the third tent west of the one where he had been.

On cross-examination, the witness was asked if Brown had not said a few days before the tragedy that Starkey was bothering his negroes about gambling and that he was going to stop it. The witness said that he did not remember Brown ever saying that. On the direct examination he said that he did not remember hearing Brown make any remark about Starkey.

The defense rested late in the evening and the state began its rebuttal testimony. The witnesses were: Fred Jackson, negro; Cora Hamilton, negro; Ed Mosley, J. T. Stamps, Mrs. W. J. Armstrong and Fred Davenport.

J. T. Stamps, of Cisco, testified as to the position of the lantern that night shortly after the killing. He said it was on the ground close to where Brown fell and that the glass was broken. There were small pieces of the globe lying in a space about a foot square, he said.

Mrs. W. J. Armstrong told of the defendant distributing circulars pertaining to the mayoralty race there in the spring. She said that Starkey came to her back door and gave her a circular and said that he thought it a dirty trick for Brown to be voting his negroes against the white voters of Cisco. The circular identified and introduced by the state bore the head lines: "How the Pet Brown negroes hold the balance of power." She was asked how the state secured that information and she replied that she thought her husband had told some one. She said she did not know that she would be a witness in the case until 30 minutes before she went on the stand.

Court adjourned at 6:30 o'clock and was reconvened for a night session at 8 o'clock.
First witness sworn was Claude P. Smith, court reporter. He identified and read some of the testimony of several witnesses in the former trial. Judge Burkett introduced it in evidence in this trial.
The state had two witnesses to be used before they closed their rebuttal testimony. They were Frank Pugh of Ranger, and Bud Copeland of Eastland. Both witnesses were absent and the court ordered attachments issued for them and imposed a fine of $25 against them.

Judge Davenport Saturday morning at 8:30 read his charge to the jury. It was along the lines of first degree murder and quoting the law with reference to self-defense. The attorneys for the defendant had prepared several special requested charges which were presented to the court to be embodied in the main charge.

Each side was given three and one-half hours for arguments.

The Cut Makes The Difference

You see at once the difference between Society Brand Clothes and all others. It's the cut, that gives their unequaled air of smartness. This is true of every model.

The Cornell sack suit is loose, easy, broad shouldered, with a long, low roll to the lapel. The Robinhood, a single-breasted box coat with a flare to the skirt, is the thing for early fall.

The New Hood White Arrow Cord and Hood Red Tubes

PURE rubber plastic. A straight tube of PURE rubber becomes round with two pounds of air, and a tube so made functions without strain AT ANY POINT.

The shape of a tube when made has no bearing upon eventual stretching or weakening in use. These troubles are caused by improper blending or vulcanizing.

A HOOD Tube retains its life because:—

- It is pure rubber (floating) which guarantees maximum return to position, and insures the greatest resistance against tear or splitting when blow-out does occur.
- HOOD Tubes have a breaking strength of 2,700 pounds to the inch.
- HOOD Tube Stock will stretch 8 times its length without harm. It is required to stretch but twice its length in a tire.
- A HOOD Tube will return to its shape indefinitely under running conditions—in other words it will age well.
- A HOOD Tube may be patched and vulcanized as often as necessary without detriment to the original stock.
- The thickness and weight of a HOOD Tube is scientifically accurate. Bulk in a tube gives indication of its performance. In fact a tube that is too heavy and too big does not work or wear well, and may indicate a "loaded" instead of a pure rubber stock.

The Style You Want for Fall
Hart Schaffner & Marx
Clothes have it all

NO matter how stylish a suit is, if it isn't the style you want, you don't want it.

Men's tastes differ; and we take these differences into account when we buy clothes for you.

You may prefer the loose, easy model called the "English" type. It isn't very English, but it's very smart with that "well dressed" look. Or you may like the snug, soft draped style or the closer fitting models for very young men.

You may have definite preferences as to lapels, buttons, the drape of the coat, the cut of the trousers. All these things are included in Style. Young men who know what they want and can describe it; older men who know what they want and can't describe it; men who know what they don't want; all men can find the right style here in—

MOB IN CONNECTICUT ATTACKS KLAN MEETING.

NEWCASTLE, Conn., Sept. 1.—Two men were seriously shot and wounded when a mob broke up a meeting of the Ku Klux Klan, while a class of candidates were being initiated. A burning cross was torn down and robes stripped from the klansmen under a barrage of shots last night.

With shouts of "down with the Klan," a mob of 1,000 charged the klansmen in an open field. The first shot is thought to have been fired by a member of the mob while a klansman was firing blank shots after the cross had been put into position.

KOCH AND KING PITCH SPLENDID BALL IN 4 TO 1 WIN FOR RANGER

Charlie Koch was invincible against the Thurberites at the city ball park yesterday and bunched hits by his teammates in the third inning won for the Snappers in a fast and clean game of baseball. The score was 4 to 1, and Koch should have had a shut-out. Lonnie King allowed two hits less than his pitching rival, but he was unfortunate enough to let four of the six hits come in one inning. This proved to be his undoing. Yesterday's win makes the season series stand 4 to 3 in favor of the Snappers. The two teams meet again today at Thurber.

So spoke "Happy" Schertz, who has been training J. B. Houghton for the fight at the Liberty theatre tomorrow night.

boxing shows for Ranger are planned and those directly concerned in the show want nothing untoward to happen.

Followers of the two boxers are declaring for them as its natural, and when they enter the ring in their trunks Monday night they undoubtedly will get a glad hand. And any successful jabs, uppercuts or hooks the participants land will be naturally cheered. But the spirit of it, the promoters of the show insist, is friendly.

Pirtle Shadow Boxes. Last night, Pirtle did shadow boxing and afterwards he did light sparring with Pug Seale, who is matched with Roy McCleskey in the preliminary bout.

Houghton didn't don the gloves yesterday but he kept himself limbered up with brisk walks. He will take things easy today and tomorrow.

Pirtle will do some rope skipping and walking today and Monday. Both men will guard their diet, exercise and rest carefully in the next 36 hours.

Because of the interest aroused in the bout and the fact that they are both well known in Ranger and vicinity, they naturally want to show their "stuff" tomorrow night.

A new device for pre-cancelling stamps is being tested by the post office department.

MAIN DRAG STUFF

Side Notes on Labor Night Boxing Bout Sponsored by Ranger Lions; Style at the Ringside; Cool Weather by Comparison.
BY P. G. T.

Everything is set now for the Rainey-Houghton battle at the Majestic theatre tomorrow night. The Lions club, which is putting on this fictitious combat, has assured us that these cuts are in good fighting trim and eager for the fray.

Both camps have been working hard. Looks as though they have been gardening lately though. Both contestants are showing cauliflower leaf ears around town. Kind of late for a truck patch but these cauliflowers are in full bloom.

A bystander who is not familiar with the art of growing vegetables by box fighting wanted to know if these birds were carrying around miniature radio sets. Another bird thought they were both deaf and that the ear dressings were a pair of these don't-talk-loud-I-can-hear-you-perfectly-now dinguses.

With both of the battlers ears in this condition the reports of the fight will probably read: Round 1—Rainey looked a short jab to Houghton's left ear; Houghton waded in with a left swing to Rainey's right ear; Rainey came in with a crashing uppercut to Houghton's left ear. Round 2—Houghton opens with swift haymaker to Rainey's left ear, etc., etc., etc.

Both the boys know that the listeners are the weakest part of their anatomy and the ears will probably have it.

Each camp is stout in the belief that its champion will win. Some one reported that there was betting going on, but that is hard to believe, because in Texas, prize fights are boxing exhibitions and a decision is prohibited. At least that is the news the drug store lawyers have been putting out lately.

That is about all the lies we can think about now folks. But don't neglect to see this exhibition of the manly art. Somebody is going to get knocked coo-coo and it won't be you. Ringside seats are going fast and if you haven't purchased already now is the time to get busy.

We forgot to say that this is to be a 10-round bout and that there will be a water boy in each corner, a timekeeper and a referee. You'll also get a chance to see these boys in action for your buck and a dime. Incidentally we have preliminaries before the main event and the Lions are going to have a roaring contest. The Lion who can roar the loudest and shake his mane the hardest gets a rubber necktie which can also be used as a belt, a circingle for a horse, or will make a good strap for a suitcase. We pick Aubrey Jameson for the winner of this contest.

Ladies, don't forget to have your evening gowns laundered or pressed or whatever you do to make 'em look nice. Sew all the hooks on tight because you are supposed to cheer with the crowd at an affair. Ladies, don't pull this, "Oh, isn't fighting just horrible; I think that man is perfectly brutal" stuff any more. Their favorite expressions are: "Bust him on the beeper, handsome," "Oa, sheik, paste that Arabian phonograph, he's talking too much," and lots of other sugarish expressions.

It was a hot and sizzling day in Yumo. The thermometer stood at 120 just as the westbound train pulled in.

A party of engineers stood at the station, dressed absurdly for such weather. They were clad in fur caps, overcoats, arctics, and their hands were encased in heavy woolen mittens.

The train laid over an hour there and the passengers dismounted to hunt a saloon for schooners of refreshments. (Time was B. P.—One by one as they detrained they gazed in astoundment at the garb of the only Americans in sight. Curiosity showed in their faces but who among them had the courage to ask questions of these strangely garbed maniacs.

The heavily clad men followed the travelers into the saloon. The passengers asked for beer. One of the engineers, in a husky voice said, "Say, Jack, gi'me a hot toddy."

This was too much for a corpulent, perspiring easterner in the crowd. "Beg pardon," he said respectfully, "but why are you gentlemen bundled up this way? Are you ill?" "Naw, we're all right," answered he with the hot toddy. "Trouble is," he continued, "we just come up from El Centro an' it's so hot down there that when we got to this cool climate up here we just had to get out our winter duds."

TIFFIN

A box supper and ice cream social will be given at Tiffin school Tuesday evening at 7:30 p. m. The object is to raise money to pay Mr. Williams for the singing lessons given the past month.

Each lady is requested to bring a cake or if preferred, a box. A cake will be auctioned off for the best looking girl. Everybody invited.

Tiffin Sunday school has grown to over 40 in membership and a great deal of interest is being shown by the older people.

PARTY OF TOURISTS FROM RANGER AT FREDERICKSBURG

F. R. Senor, secretary of the Fredericksburg Chamber of Commerce, reports that a tourist party composed of Jim Young, Mrs. Pearl Young, Mat Rice, Mrs. Zeldia Rice, and Mrs. Rilla Walton of Ranger, were in that scenic section of South-west Texas enjoying the cooler temperature at the altitude of 1,700 to 2,000 feet.

They registered number 21,304 in the 1923 tourists' directory at the Chamber of Commerce.

While they were in the mountains at Fredericksburg, this group had an opportunity to visit many points of interest, including the Enchanted Rock, a solid granite formation covering 640 acres and being the largest single rock in the world. Also the famous Balanced Rock, a huge red granite boulder 12 feet high, 30 feet in circumference, weighing 70,000 tons suspended on two small pins about the size of a man's wrist. Other attractions are the only tunnel in Texas, 910 feet long; the quarrying of the red granite that was awarded first prize at the World's fair in 1905; the widest paved street in the United States, and other unusual sights.

GALVESTON.—New one-man street cars are being added to the equipment of the Galveston Electric company here to assist in handling the increasing traffic.

EASTLAND COUNTY RED CROSS CHAPTER HAS SPECIAL CHARGES

The Eastland county chapter of the American Red Cross has under its care and supervision nine phychiatric cases, men whose present condition is a direct result of the World war. The youngest of these men is only 23 years old and the eldest 34.

Six are receiving institutional care, with the American Red Cross, the connecting link between the man and home. Ofttimes letters come to the Red Cross secretary from some far away institution, saying this Eastland county boy is restless and unhappy, he longs for home and questions relating to the home life of his family will follow. The executive secretary is asked to make a full report on all questions.

Again the Red Cross may be asked to see that a guardian is appointed promptly in order that the man's compensation claim be adjusted without delay.

At other times it may be only a letter from a bed-ridden mother, written by the executive secretary. These letters mean so much to a lonely home-sick man.

Compulsory School Law Requires Children Between 8 and 14 Years Of Age to Attend School 100 Days

Superintendent McNew has obtained from the county superintendent, Miss Ulala Howard, the complete school census of the Ranger school district, and has had the lists of the pupils of compulsory age made for the different school principals. Every child between the ages of 8 and 14 must be entered in the public schools Monday, Sept. 10. Pupils attending parochial schools are exempt from attendance upon public schools, but actual attendance is essential to this exemption. Superintendent McNew said:

"It is not the desire of the school authorities to cause any well meaning parent any trouble, but the law must be enforced. A district is justifiable in taking one man's money to educate another man's children only upon the theory that educating all the people renders all property safer. If, after thus taking the money of all alike, for educating all the children, a district permits even a small part of its children to grow up in ignorance and crime to prey upon society, it has fallen far short in its duty to society. The school looks both to the good of the individual child and to the good of society as a whole. A small criminal element in any community may render the possession of property insecure. If parents and the local schools cannot accomplish proper results with children who are criminally inclined, then the state must see to the placing of such pupils in reformatory institutions.

At great expense the Ranger district has employed more than 50 teachers. Now it is the duty of every parent or guardian to see that the children under his charge are given every advantage offered by the schools. No child who enters school late can accomplish the maximum of good from his school course."

The compulsory school attendance law says:

"Every child in this state who is 8 years and not more than 14 years old, shall be required to attend the public schools in the district of his residence, or in some other district to which he may be transferred, as provided by law, for a period of 100 days. The period of compulsory attendance at each school shall begin at the opening of the school term, unless otherwise ordered by the district school trustees prior to the beginning of such school term."

The Ranger school board has not changed the time mentioned by the law governing the case, hence the compulsory attendance period will begin with the opening of school, Sept. 10.

Due to the crowded conditions the past three years, little effort worthy of mention has been exercised in enforcing this law. Beginning in September, the school authorities expect to see that the law is observed. Parents should, therefore, govern themselves accordingly.

MEET ALL NIGHT TRAINS

IT MAY BE TOO LATE

Sometimes, when people see the wonderful achievements of Chiropractic in restoring health where recovery seemed impossible, they become so imbued with their faith in Chiropractic that they believe it will "cure" anything.

But this is not true. Every science has its limitations and so has Chiropractic. We say Chiropractic gets you well, and this is true, but that does not mean that a condition cannot become so bad as to be beyond all human help.

When one says, "water will extinguish fire," you know this to be true, but, at the same time, you know that a building may become so nearly consumed by flame before the fire department is called that they cannot physically get water to it quickly enough to save the building.

The health and function of the body are completely under the control of the nervous system and so long as this nerve force is being normally expressed the body will be more able to resist disease and repair damage done by it.

Some diseases are more rapid and insidious in their progress than others, and since most people come to a Chiropractor only as a last resort, it would be remarkable, indeed, if Chiropractic did not fail in some cases to restore the health.

The brain is the source of all your bodily energy, and this energy is distributed by the nerves that branch off from this spinal cord along the course of the spine.

If a segment of the spine becomes slightly displaced it pinches some of the nerves and reduces their carrying power, which results in a weakness or diseased condition of the organs supplied by the affected nerves.

Nature is a great builder. When the Chiropractor adjusts the displaced vertebrae in the spine, Nature begins at once to repair and strengthen the organs or tissues supplied by the nerves that have been released.

If too much damage has not been done, complete recovery may be expected, but Nature cannot rebuild a tissue when it has once been completely destroyed.

A Chiropractor can build only with the material you furnish him. He puts nothing new into the body, but he does release the life forces that are resident in the body and makes them available to Nature.

If you are feeling badly, begin taking adjustments today. Let the Chiropractor release the pent up energy within you so that Nature can restore you to health before it is too late to say—

MRS. RUSSELL HONORS MISS PANSY GARBER.

Mrs. T. B. Russell entertained Friday at her home with an elaborate shower and party for Miss Pansy Garber, whose marriage to Mr. Frank Pugh will take place Monday morning at the Central Baptist church.

The house was beautifully decorated for the occasion, and the guests were met at the door by Miss Lillian Neal, each one being given a pencil and paper on which to draw a picture representing some important event supposed to happen on Miss Garber's wedding trip. These were kept by the bride-elect for remembrance, and served as a register.

Wishbones stencilled and tied with ribbons and a small piece of paper bearing the name of some city the bridal couple would pass through, were passed around and those having similar names were found to be partners. The game consisted of a puzzle made from clover leaves on which had been written the name of the town that each table represented, the leaves having been cut in pieces. The table matching the names first progressed. Mrs. B. D. Clarke, with the use of illustrated cards told the bride's fortune in a very clever way. A toast to the bride was given by Mrs. Clarke, to the bridegroom by Mayme Ruth Langston, to the girls left behind by Blanche Niver and to the bride's mother by Vera Blackwell. Punch was served during the afternoon.

After the toasts a tea wagon was rolled in by the hostess, and a huge wedding cake brought in and placed on it. The bride was requested to cut it and found that it was a large hat box iced like a cake and inverted to cover a number of beautiful gifts. More gifts were placed around the table, many beautiful and useful things being given this popular young lady. Refreshments of sherbet and angel food cake were served, and pink and white mints in baskets tied with pink and white.

Mrs. Russell was assisted by the Misses Bessie Faye Irion, Addie McCorkle, Mayme Ruth Langston, and Blanche Nivers.

The following guests were present: Mmes. J. L. Jones, C. C. Hock, C. W. Hargrave, Barney Carter, R. E. Barker, W. H. Wiggins, B. D. Clarke, W. J. McFarland, Fred Tibbels, C. T. Ware, J. T. Bobbed Hair Is Here to Stay Say Those Who Know

"Bobbed hair must go." This is the edict of the National Hairdressers' association, sent out of New York city last week. "Bobbed hair is here to stay," said Mrs. L. T. Summers, Gholson hotel beauty parlor proprietress, in answer to a question of a Times reporter. "There may be some who will let their hair grow long. It is not a fashion. It's a matter of convenience. Short hair is cooler and cleaner."

"If you had long hair in the hot weather, you'd appreciate what bobbed hair means," she added. All the reporter could do was to nod affirmatively.

Mrs. Summers believes some girls and young women will do their hair up when cooler weather comes but will exercise their prerogative of shearing it again next spring. "That means little to me," said one young girl, shorn of her tresses recently, when told of the decision of the National Hairdressers' association. She said it as if she really meant it.

After Hudson Had Gone 80,000 Miles Actress Buys It

Three years after Marjorie Dougan became famous as the central figure in probably the most gruelling automobile test ever made, the production of "The Trail of the Arrow" moving picture, she amazed Harold L. Arnold, Hudson-Essex distributor at Los Angeles, by walking into his private office the other day and asking him how much he wanted for the old "S-X Arrow" which she had driven across the Mojave desert wastes in southeastern California into the depths of the Devil's Punch Bowl.

"That old Arrow!" gasped Arnold, ed almost 80,000 miles and been "Why Marjorie, that car has traveled, hammered and racked worse than any other automobile on the American continent."

"I know it," calmly replied the young woman. "Why shouldn't I? Wasn't it I that gave it the hardest part of that hammering? But I've just given it the once-over and got the boys in your service department to let me take it out for a short test run, and I want to tell you right here, mister, that it's a bear of a car yet. I think you'll agree with me that nobody else is half as much entitled to that old Arrow as myself."

"Well," musingly commented the distributor, "merely as a matter of sentiment you certainly are right. In any event, I don't know of anyone else whom I should like to see get that car half so well as yourself. Name your own figure and it's yours."

Miss Dougan placed so high a value on the car that Arnold was surprised, then sat down, drew her check in payment and drove away with the car.

LENGTH OF SERVICE PROOF OF QUALITY IN CARS, SAYS MCGINLEY

"The proof of motor car quality is length of service. And it is a proof that is easily understood. No technical arguments are necessary to back it up, no engineering theories need be advanced, no discussion of materials and methods have to be indulged in. Actual service speaks for itself."

In this manner, a recent bulletin put out by the Buick Motor company, described the service expected of Buick cars. W. L. McGinley, manager of the Goad Motor company, Ranger Buick dealer, says there are any number of Buick cars in Ranger, bought four and five years ago, in active service today.

"Today there are several hundred thousand Buick cars in service, and among these are thousands of cars that have been in use for many years. You will find a great many enthusiastic Buick owners in all sections of the country, but nowhere does this enthusiasm run higher than among the owners of these veteran cars whose usefulness is not yet done."

"The reason for this enthusiasm is obvious. The cars have far exceeded the fondest expectations of their owners at the time of purchase, and the measure of service that they have rendered has built up a standard for Buick cars that is unique in the extreme."

YOUNG MAN SMASHED IN FACE AND FINED FOR IMPROPER CONDUCT

For forcing his unwelcome attentions upon a young woman at the Lamb theatre early Saturday afternoon, a 21-year-old youth received a smash in the face and a fine of $15.75. The chastisement was inflicted by the woman herself, the arresting officer, Jim Ingram, said.

At the police station, where he was taken by Officer Ingram, he gave his name as John Gholson. He is not related to the family of John Gholson, former mayor of Ranger.

After hitting Gholson, the woman left her seat to look for the manager. She found William B. Palmer, manager of the Lamb in the lobby, and together they returned to find the young man. In the meantime, Officer Ingram, who happened to be a spectator in the show, saw Gholson hurrying out, and placed him under arrest.

The woman told the officers he had annoyed her before. Gholson pleaded guilty to the charges and paid his fine.

BASEBALL MAGNATE IS CHARGED WITH PERJURY

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—C. A. Stoneham, president of the New York National League club, has been indicted on a charge of perjury by the federal grand jury investigating the E. M. Fuller & Co. bankruptcy case. Stoneham pleaded not guilty at an examining trial and his bond was placed at $5,000. Stoneham swore he only loaned $147,000 to Fuller & Co., the loan being made through a Tammany leader.

JEFFERSON.—The new $35,000 ice plant of the Jefferson Ice and Light company was opened here last month with a reception, appropriate addresses, and refreshments. James C. Kennedy, president, told about the plant and the work of the American Public Service company in the public service.

SALVAGING LUMBER IMPORTANT WORK AT FORD MOTOR CAR PLANT

Salvaging of approximately 90,000,000 feet of lumber annually at its Highland Park plant is the Ford Motor company's contribution to national forestry conservation, says a bulletin to the Leveille-Maher Motor company of Ranger.

Aside from the wood used in manufacturing automobiles, the company's requirements for packing and shipping run into enormous figures and to provide lumber for this purpose every bit of scrap is utilized through the salvage department even to the smallest possible pieces. The little that cannot be salvaged is used for fuel.

The department, formed principally as a means of reducing waste, is conducted purely as a conservation agency. While it was not the intention of the company to make it profit-producing, yet by putting it on an efficient basis, it has progressed to the point where it is now self-sustaining.

An average of 800 men are employed, working 24 hours a day in three eight-hour shifts, and the work includes the operation of the lumber yard, saw mills and the handling of all new and old lumber for shipping.

While every day the Highland Park plant uses more than 200,000 feet of new lumber in making shipments, the salvage department daily reclaims nearly 300,000 feet of old lumber and converts it into boxes, crates, cleats, braces and other pieces. Every factory unit in the Ford organization constantly strives for 100 per cent lumber salvage.

At the River Rouge plant, the Lincoln plant and at all branch plants throughout the country, every bit of lumber possible is used for shipping and what remains is sent by the carload and the truck load to Highland Park where facilities permit the utilization of smaller pieces than at any other place and where salvaging is carried to the extreme limit.

Lumber from more than 1,500 worn-out box cars from the D. T. & I. has found its way to the salvage mill to be converted into boxes and crates and other pieces needed for shipping. Only the other day a Ford foreman visiting some company work at Flat Rock, Mich., found a great pile of old logs which had been used as piling for a temporary bridge. These were immediately shipped to the salvage department and sawed into usable boards along with the old lumber used in construction work there.

Power to Stop! Buick Four-wheel Brakes

BUICK four-wheel brakes provide a factor of safety welcomed by every driver. No matter how careful he may be there are moments when the power to stop his car quickly and surely averts a serious accident.

Buick four-wheel brakes operate simply by light pressure on the foot pedal. There is no change in the method of operation over former Buick rear wheel brakes.

Buick rear brake construction has proved its dependability for many years. Identically the same principle, simple in its mechanism and effective in its braking control, now has been employed on the front wheels.

The adoption of four-wheel brakes by Buick on its 1924 cars is wholly in keeping with its policy of giving the owner everything that will increase his safety, comfort and satisfaction.

The 1924 Buick cars likewise are distinctive for their beauty, their increased power, ease of operation and comfort—giving features never before found on motor cars.

CULLING AND FEEDING FOR EGG PRODUCTION

(By F. W. Kazmeier, Poultry Expert.)

To make money in the poultry business, the first necessary factor is "the right kind of chickens." By this statement we do not mean any certain breed, but rather, the difference between mongrels and standard bred and between good layers and poor layers.

Many people still believe a chicken is a chicken, and that there is no difference. This, of course, is far from the truth. Some are good layers, and many are poor layers. Some are money makers and many are money losers. What kind do you keep? Ask yourself that question, and proceed to find out.

To prove that, mongrel, mixed or scrub chicken are inferior layers to standard bred chickens, an experiment station trap nested a flock of mongrels, and also a flock of standard-bred hens, and here are the results. Stop, look, read, and get the hatchet and act wisely.

Trap Nested Mongrels.
0-60 eggs—per hen per year—20 per cent.
61-124 eggs per hen per year—67 per cent.
125 and over per hen per year—87.5 per cent.

Trap Nested Standard Bred Flock.
0-100 eggs per hen per year—8.6 per cent.
101-220 eggs per hen per year—86.4 per cent.
221 and over eggs per hen per year—5.0 per cent.

If figures tell the truth, the above should convince the most hard-headed and stubborn believers in mongrel, dukes mixtures, crazy quilt, good-for-nothing, just eating, scrub, dinghill fowls are 50 per cent more inferior to standard-bred hens.

In the mongrel flock 20 per cent laid less than 60 eggs per hen per year. In the standard-bred flock, over 86 per cent of the flock laid more than 100 eggs per hen per year.

In spite of the above figures some people still do not believe there is such an animal as a good layer, and a poor layer. Does it pay to cull?

It certainly is true that a good layer looks and acts entirely different than a poor layer. It is reasonable that they should. There is a difference in the appearance of a factory that turns out 100 automobiles per day to one turning out 200 in the same length of time. That is common sense.

The best time to cull chickens is, in the fall of the year. Say in the months of July, August, September and October. In the spring time it is impossible to tell the good layer from the poor layer, because at that time they look so much alike.

The trap nest is the best way of separating the poor layers from the good layers. The expense for this equipment and labor is too great to interest the farmer at this time.

Selecting or culling, according to external characteristics, has been proven satisfactory and practical. For this reason, we will describe the poor layer and then the good layer.

- The Poor Layer.
1. More than two years old.
 2. Early moulters, perhaps half through the moult now.
 3. Not laying now, small, pale comb, face, and wattles.
 4. Bright yellow shanks, feet, beak, and skin.
 5. Last off the roosts in the morning.
 6. First on the roosts in the evening.
 7. Goes to roost with a partially empty crop.
 8. Squawky, seary, and flighty.
 9. Lazy and sluggish temperament.

and prominent eyes. It should be easy for any one to be able to cull the poor layer from the good layers. Give it a trial, and be convinced that it is almost as easy as falling off a log. Nothing hard to understand, no secret to be learned, just give it a trial, and follow the few previously mentioned rules.

Lazy Man's Way of Culling Chickens.
We always have a few more or less lazy people in our midst, hence this suggestion. Get out of bed, and walk to your hen house, about the time chickens come off the roost. (This is real early, about 5 o'clock). Open the hen house door for 10 minutes, then close it again. The good layers will be on the outside and the poor layers will still be on the roosts. Act accordingly.

Feeding For Eggs.
We breed egg production into a chicken similar to breeding speed into a horse. By proper feeding of a balanced ration, we feed the eggs out.

Feeding grain alone, which is a common practice, will not make eggs, because it is not a balanced ration. Too many people feed grain alone, expecting a good egg production. Remember, grain alone, does not make eggs. The grain feed must be supplemented with a good egg mash. The egg mash, composed of ground grains, animal foods, and other essential ingredients is what makes eggs, and more eggs. For the very best results, the hens should consume two pounds of egg mash to every one pound of grains. This is the great secret of getting large quantities of first class eggs. The egg mash is composed of various ingredients, properly balanced to induce heavy egg production. The egg mash should be kept before the fowls all the time. The grains should be fed sparingly, so the fowls will eat twice as much egg mash.

BRICKLAYERS GETTING SCARCE

DALLAS, Aug. 30.—An acute shortage of bricklayers in Dallas, which may become serious, has developed on the wave of construction which has struck this city.

The shortage has spread to small towns around here. Villages daily appeal to Dallas for assistance in getting bricklayers for necessary construction, but are receiving little help. Large jobs, where large forces are worked, have had little trouble but the small contractors are feeling the pinch.

MORGAN PLANS TO PUSH SEARCH FOR VIOLATIONS OF ANTI TRUST LAW

By Associated Press.

AUSTIN, Aug. 31.—Representative W. C. Morgan of Liberty county, whose petition to the railroad commission for an investigation of the oil business in Texas, was rejected by the commission, plans to continue gathering data and evidence of alleged violations of the anti-trust laws and submit the information to the next session of the legislature, it is understood at the capitol. Mr. Morgan charged the big oil companies of Texas with violation of the anti-trust laws in regulating the production of oil and freezing out the independent promoters.

Representative J. E. Quaid of El Paso, who had been invited by Mr. Morgan to become a party to the petition, has decided not to become associated with the plan since the railroad commission rejected the petition, he stated on a recent trip to the capitol.

Maturing Pullets Require Much Care

Must Be Kept Free From Disturbance When Beginning to Lay.

By SETH W. SHOEMAKER
Director, School of Agriculture, International Correspondence School, Scranton, Pa.

Systematic care of pullets that are beginning to lay and produce especially at a time of year when eggs are high priced, is one of the most profitable things that the poultryman can attend to. There are four or five things that should be looked after.

The pullets should be disturbed as little as possible. Any cockerels that have been allowed to run with them up to this time, should be separated. Failure to do this may worry the pullets out of as much as a pound of growth or egg production, which is actually just so much waste of feed.

Pullets should be separated according to age and kept in different runs. This greatly aids the growth of the younger ones because if allowed to run together the older ones will knock the younger ones about considerably and both lots will be worried.

Separate From Hens.
Most important of all, do not allow pullets to run with a lot of old hens, because the old hens will make a lot of trouble for the pullets, especially during feeding time.

Out on the farm where there is an abundance of room, the colony house is one of the best houses for pullets. Colony houses for this purpose may be of various sizes, but a convenient size is eight feet square or eight by ten feet, with the house supported on runners rounded at the ends so that they can be moved along the ground.

This helps to keep the pullets in a sanitary condition, especially where the ground is used as a floor.

Pullets should be allowed as much range as possible; at least, until they begin to lay eggs. Where large numbers are handled, they must necessarily be yarded.

Forcing Growth Is Dangerous.
Generally speaking, it is not advisable to force maturing pullets to an unusual growth for egg production because birds so forced are likely to produce only a few early eggs and then stop laying; also, if the weather should be warm later in the season, such birds may start a second molt, which will postpone their resuming egg production.

Feeding should be carefully done and the best results will be obtained from regular feeding.

A moderate amount of meat or bone may be fed. If this is not available, a good supply of milk, either sour or buttermilk, may be fed. A liberal quantity of dry mash and a good grain mixture should be given the birds. The latter should be fed in such a way that they will have considerable exercise in getting it.

Milk of almost any kind makes a splendid feed for pullets as well as for other fowls, and will produce good growth and keep the birds in Late Emerson Hough Called Apostle of the Southwest.

By BORIS BOLT
Lived life he described among pioneers, desperadoes and gunmen of Early West.

The late Emerson Hough might well be called "The Apostle of the Southwest", for to him, more than to any other man, is due the fact that we have authentic pictures of its development. Too often have the early West and Southwest been playgrounds for the fancy of authors without real knowledge of their people or conditions. And thus has grown up a lurid literature, stilted and unreal, through which move fabulous heroes and villains blacker than the night.

But Hough lived amid the conditions he describes. At the age of twenty-three he was practicing law in the bustling, little cow town of White Oaks, New Mexico. He knew the pioneers, the desperadoes and bad men of the early Southwest. In his new book, "North of 36", he has given us a magnificent and startling picture of the first cattle drive from Texas north to Abilene, Kansas. The herd belongs to a beautiful young girl, Taisie Lockhart, "an orphan", as her rough cow hands call her. She is broke—cannot pay her men—and a market for the small herd left her by the pilfering carpetbaggers of reconstruction days in Austin, is her one hope.

Rudabaugh, an outlaw of vision and state treasurer, who has been stealing lands in Texas, foreseeing their great value when the first cattle are driven "North of 36", fears that his plans will be annu-good condition.

Quarantine New Arrivals.

Many poultrymen purchase pullets to help improve their stock. This is a good practice if the proper precautions are taken. Any pullets or other stock purchased should be put in a quarantine coop for several days or a week to make sure that no diseases will be introduced into the flock. Each new bird should also be dusted with some lice powder, such as Dalmation Insect powder.

Pullets that are purchased simply with the idea of using them for breeders for the next season should be fed more moderately than those that are being fitted for egg production. Such pullets should have more green stuff and less grain. This will retard their laying until late in the fall and will put them in the prime of their laying period in the middle of the winter.

In cases where young pullets show a tendency to catarrh or running of the nostrils, this can be corrected to a certain extent by putting a pinch of permanganate of potash in the water. Onl enough should be put in, however, to give it a pinkish color. If necessary, this may be continued for several weeks without harm.

AUSTIN. — A race track for the horse races to be staged at the Texas State exposition, Oct. 1 to 6, is being constructed at Camp Mabry. A grand prize of $1,000 is to be given for the exposition derby winner. Over 20 horses have been entered.

The late Emerson Hough, who wrote only of the adventures he knew by actual experience.

ated if the herd wins through to Abilene. He pursues, with his desperadoes, the wild little caravan lead by Taisie through trackless wilderness, over swollen rivers which must be swum by cattle, horses and humans. Had it not been for Dan MacMasters, two-gun sheriff of Gonzales, the secret though misunderstood ally of Taisie Lockhart, the first herd could not have won "North of 36". And, by the way, this MacMasters is as picturesque a character of the frontier as any found in the pages of Bret Harte.

Hough's fame must rest largely upon this truest, most complete and stirring account of the opening of the great Southwest.

Women Must Have Babies, Says Doctor, To Be Beautiful

By WEBB MILLER
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

PARIS, Sept. 1.—"To be really beautiful after girlhood, American and other women must learn that they must have babies—and must nurse their own babies."

Such the dictum of Dr. Brettmon, French beauty specialist.

"Contrary to the usual belief a woman cannot be really beautiful in middle-age unless she has had babies," said Brettmon. "The Venus must have had several babies—she could not have been as beautiful as statues indicate, unless she had."

"The widespread custom of feeding babies by bottle is fatal to rich ripened feminine beauty. The act of nursing a baby is nature's own way and acts upon certain glands and the body in such a way that the whole facial expression is softened and beautified as nothing else can do it.

Also the same act improves the complexion through action on the glands.

"The American girl is wonderful, but I notice that too frequently the American woman does not retain her beauty past girlhood. If she has babies and nurses them herself and observes the ordinary rules of health, there is no reason why she should not retain that beauty and ripen it."

"A woman who has never had babies will never be really lovely in the way nature intended, no matter what she does."

"I know there is a prevalent belief among women that child-birth will ruin their figure. It is not true, if the proper care is taken, but on the contrary normal child-birth enhances the natural beauty of the figure. It is what nature intended and she developed the human frame with that end in view. Therefore, it is ridiculous to think otherwise."

FORT WORTH.—Bank debits in Fort Worth for the week ending Aug. 15 were $3,000,000 less than for the corresponding week in 1922, according to the bulletin issued by the Federal Reserve Board. The debits this year amounted to $12,337,000.
