RANGER COTTON GIN SOON WILL BE BUSY AGAIN

New Equipment Will Increase Production and Good Season Expected

The Moss gin of Ranger, A. H. Stewart as superintendent, will be ready to begin ginning cotton as soon as the staple is picked, and it is thought that the latter part of this month will be about the time when cotton will be about the time when cotton will be coming in so fast the gin will be kept busy. Mr. Stewart will have a capable ginner working with them and promises the work turned out will be up to the highest standard.

Because of the large increase in business last year, when more than 1,000 bales were ginned, it was thought best to install new equipment, all of which is now ready. No expense was spared, because Mr. Stewart expects the gin will be called on this year to handle between 2,000 and 2,500 bales. Reports from the farms indicate a large cotton yield this year throughout Eastland county, and especially in the Ran-

Agriculture has been revived in and about Ranger during the last two or three years. Before the oil boom, this territory was regarded as the banner farming section in East-land county, and with renewed in-terest in farming it is likely to re-cover its former prestige and go far ahead. Farms that were deserted for a few years, following the dis-covery of oil near Ranger, have been reoccupied and the fields retilled, cattle again have been brought in and dairying is arousing renewed interest and silos soon will be replacing derricks. The increased interest in farming may be judged by the cotton crop. In 1923 about 500 bales were ginned in Ranger, in 1924 a little more than 1,000 bales, and this year probably more than 2,000 troduced by the prosecution, showed this year probably more than 2,000 bales, and troduced by the prosecution, showed the opinion that Lieutenant Thompson were three cotton gins in Ranger and all were busy during the picking a victim of minor deviation from normality. But the season. The time appears approach-

More people die from cancer than from tuberculosis. The cause of cancer has never been definitely ascertained, and therefore no remedy has been perfected.

From time to time medical men have announced "cures", but so far the knife seems to be the only, and as a rule, partial remedy. Time was when the knife was looked upon with horror, but today it is a mercy.

Many learned men have devoted a lifetime of patient investigation in an attempt to solve the cause of cancer, but there seems to be several. Many cases have been traced to decayed canned fruits or vegetables, to adulterations, and to meats canned or frozen for years before reaching the heat of the stomach where putrification ensues before digestion is possible, resulting in uric acid poisoning of the system and disease wherever there may be a weakness:

Every medical authority in the world agrees on the one fact that simple living, sunlight and fresh air, with plain, common foods in moderation, will render one almost immune from cancer, tuberculosis, or any other chronic disease.

But he wanted to see the "seamy" side of life, and for three months he collected his $25 and rations, the first wages he ever earned except at his writing. On his return to Pasadena, Kim-brough did not sit down at once and start pounding a typewriter. Instead he went job-hunting, in search of something to occupy the major part of his time and energy, rather than de-vote his entire efforts to recording his experiences.

CAM SLIP MAY CAUSE ENGINE OVERHEATING

Among the causes of automobile

Among the causes of automobile engine overheating is this obscure but important one: It sometimes happens that the cam in the breaker box on the shaft of the distributor slips out of place, due to a worn or broken key. This will cause improper timing, known generally as a "late spark." That being the case, the result will be quite similar to driving with a retarded spark. The only difference will be found in the difference will be found in th

BY CONDO - AND ANOTHER

Gloria Gordon, beautiful flapper, marries Dick Gregory, struggling young lawyer. Her idea of marriage is fun and fine clothes, but no work or children.

Dick borrows his mother's maid, Maggie, to teach Glory to cook. But she refuses to learn.

Dick has an attack of flu. While he and his secretary, Miss Briggs, are working at home, Glory plans a house-warming. She asks Stanley Wayburn, an actor with whom she once was in love, to be one of the guests. He accepts.

When Dick meets Wayburn he is instantly jealous, although the actor craftily devotes himself to Mrs. Myra Gloria drinks too much and faints away while dancing with Dr. John Seymour, whose wife, May, is in love with Jim Carewe. The party breaks up when Lola Hough scolds Bill, her husband, for petting. Maggie, disgusted, leaves and returns to Mother Grogery.

Then Gloria hires Ranghild Swan-son, although Dick says they can't afford a maid. And she orders $400 worth of new clothes, and insists upon a new car, loading Dick with

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY: "Why do you have need of me, just now?" Stan asked when the car was under way again-slowly, this time,

Glory laughed gaily.
"Oh, I don't know," she answered,
"unless it's that you're always a sort of mental cocktail to me-you pick me up."
"You picked me up, just now,"

Stan parried.
"I did. I never was so glad to see anybody in my life. I was feeling blue. But tell me, what were you doing, rambling around the country all by yourself?" the girl asked. Stan's hand in its suede glove came down on the wheel over hers.

"I was thinking of someone whom I loved—and lost," he said.

"It was your own fault that you lost her—that is, if you mean me," Glory answered. She could feel her heart thumping in her breast.

"You know I was mad about you a year ago, and that I'd have married you like a shot, if you'd asked me," she went on with difficulty. "But Glory knew that she was pretty that day. The wind had made her eyes and cheeks glow. And more over she was wearing her new clothes—the clothes she had bought with Dick's money so that she should be beautiful for Stan's eyes!

"I'm a bad wife," she said in an undertone. "I've no business to be here with you, Stanley, when I've a husband of my own."

Wayburn laughed a little. He pressed her hands, so that it seemed that the little bones in them would snap.

WASHINGTON—The 7 monkey trial hasn't alone entertained the rest of the world. It has even puzzled some foreign governments.

Official diplomatic reports have gone confidentially from Washington to several of them, it leaks out, seeking to analyze, for wondering old world statesmen's benefit, the psychology and mental slant of a people among whom so amazing a case was possible.

THAT the anti-evolution pro-L ceedings actually have cost America a certain amount of International prestige is the opinion of some state department officials who make it their business to keep posted concerning the country's standing abroad.

If you don't believe it, they say, look at the foreign newspapers which are beginning to come in with their stories and comments on the Dayton trial. Certainly these papers do bear out the officials' contention that no country ever was the butt of such worldin the last few weeks.
