FATAL ACCIDENT AT THE MAGNOLIA PLANT

OLD DAYS ARE SUGGESTED BY RANCH STOCK

435 Young White-Face Steers En Route to Stock up Thomas Ranch.

The unloading of a fine herd of 435 young white face steers, coming two days for today in Ranger suggests old times in the cattle country. These steers are being brought in from the west to restock the ranch of Randall Thomas, about six miles east of Ranger. They are said by cattle men to be one of the finest herds of young Herefords seen in these parts for some time.

This is the first of three shipments arranged. Another herd is expected in a few days and the third shipment about November 15. The returning high prices of cattle and some very good grazing are said to be contributory factors in the restocking of this ranch.

Echo of Wood's Presidential Boom Heard In Court

CHICAGO, Sept. 25.—More depositions designed to prove William C. Proctor, Cincinnati soap manufacturer, was the directing genius of the presidential boom of Major General Leonard Wood in 1920 was read by the defense attorneys today in the suit brought by Proctor against Colonel A. A. Sprague of Chicago for $50,000.

The "angel" of the Wood camp claims that both he and Sprague signed a note for $100,000 to raise money for the Wood boom, and Sprague left him holding the bag for the entire amount.

In an attempt to prove that Proctor took the entire responsibility, John E. Miller, Sprague's attorney, read numerous letters written to Proctor while he was out of the country. All indicated that Proctor was regarded as active head of the campaign.

COOK COUNTY JAIL SCANDAL AIRED IN COURT

CHICAGO, Sept. 25.—Frankie Lake, debonaire Chicago "beer baron," took the witness stand in federal court today and began "spilling the beans" in the Cook County jail scandal.

"It cost me $1,000 to get transferred from a dirty cell to the jail hospital," Lake told Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson, who is conducting a contempt inquiry into jail conditions, which are said to have made it possible for wealthy prisoners to serve their sentences amid all pleasures and comforts of home. The money was paid to Henry Forest, secretary to former Warden Wesley Westbrook, said Lake.

ALLEGED PICKPOCKET IS FOUND DEAD IN CAR

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—New York's tangled "jungle" produced another of their mysteries today. In the back seat of a expensive closed automobile, which had collided with their car, a taxi driver and his fare found the body of a man believed to be David Bram, arrested by the police as a pickpocket.

Almost at the moment of the collision three men had leaped from the automobile. Two with pistols in their hands, shouted "mind your business," and fled, abandoning the car. For hours the police did not know the victim, but finally the finger prints were taken and his identity established.

EDGE WILL ENDEAVOR TO ABOLISH SHIPPING BOARD

Army Officer Says Previous Testimony Was Mere Assumption

LAKEHURST, N. J., Sept. 25.—His theory that the failure of two engines brought about the destruction of the Shenandoah was admitted to be pure assumption by Colonel Charles G. Hall, army officer, recalled today to the stand before the naval court inquiring into the disaster to the dirigible.

Lieutenant Commander Charles E. Rosendahl, senior surviving officer, was permitted to question Colonel Hall, and the army officer admitted he did not know when the engine had failed.

"I think there have been no more reliable engines developed," Chief Machinist S. S. Halliburton told the court. He said he knew of nothing that had happened to the engines and that if they had failed the ship's speed would have been reduced to five miles an hour.

Witnesses previously testified that the dirigible had slowed down during the storm.

HORSE KILLED IN COLLISION ON HIGHWAY

Car Runs Headlong Into Team Belonging to Hugh Roper, in the Dark.

A Dodge roadster, which police said was driven by G. W. Rodgers of Cross Plains, accompanied by Mr. Duncan of Cisco, ran head-on into a four-horse team driven by Sherman Jordan, belonging to Hugh Roper of Eastland, on the Bankhead highway, two miles west of Eastland, killing one of the horses, seriously cutting and mauling others and leaving the car a total wreck. The accident occurred at 10 o'clock last night.

The car struck the team with such force that it was driven clear up over the tongue and almost into the wagon, it is said, making it necessary to cut the harness off the horses in order to extricate them. The occupants of the car and truck escaped without serious injuries.

GANG OF PROWLERS GET HOLLYWOOD MUCH EXCITED

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Sept. 25.—An exciting gun battle was fought on the grounds of the Mary Pickford estate in Beverley Hills today between a gang of prowlers, who were seeking to enter the home of the film star, and the night watchman. Tony, the night watchman, had his flashlight shot from him and he believes that he wounded one or more of the night raiders. More than a dozen shots were fired before the raiders fled. A posse of movie actors and directors, headed by Douglas Fairbanks, are searching the countryside for the raiders today.

Guards Liquor

Day in and day out, the Ginocchio stands outside the door of the room in the courthouse at Memphis, Tenn., where seized liquor is stored. For years before the prohibition act went into effect he made it a hobby to collect bottles of rare liquor. The police recently raided his home and while Ginocchio's lawyers are fighting through the courts the seizure of liquor, he stands guard over his collection. When anyone enters the liquor room, he enters also.

FRENCH APPEAR DOWNCAST OVER TERMS OFFERED

The American commission went into secret session at 11 a. m. The French commission arrived at the treasury at 11:30, but were not admitted to the conference until 12:25.

Meanwhile the American commissioners discussed the counter offer. The French mission, headed by Joseph Caillaux, spent only 15 minutes with the American commissioners. As the French delegates filed out of the room with the counter proposal, disappointment was written on their faces. They appeared downcast by what appeared to be a flat rejection of their first terms and the stiff agreement proposed by the Americans.

SALE OF FARM SHOWS HIGHWAY LAND VALUES

Lands on Highway Command $50; Shade Below $20 for Adjoining Acreage.

That the Bankhead highway gives land material value was demonstrated in a sale just closed by Beverly S. Dudley, Ranger attorney, of a 142 acre farm to Mr. Donley, in which deal the price paid for bulk of the farm was shade less than $20 an acre while the seven acres abutting on the Bankhead highway, which went into the sale and were recently purchased to round out the tract and give it a pike frontage, brought $50 an acre.

WOMAN KILLED, FIFTY INJURED IN COLLISION

Two Express Trains Meet in Head-on Crash in Tennessee. Orders Misunderstood.

CHATTANOOGA, Sept. 25.—An investigation was under way today to fix the blame for a head-on collision of two express trains on the Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis railroad near Worley, late yesterday.

Mrs. H. C. Beyer of Claret, Minn., was crushed to death while playing cards and fifty others, including a number of trainmen, were severely injured. Officials of the railway who gathered at the scene of the wreck after the crash said the collision was due to the failure of the southbound Dixie Limited to remain at Chickamauga until it met the northbound train. The two trains met at Worley and the impact was so great that nearby residents said their houses were shaken. Both trains were wrecked, one turning over and rolling down the embankment on one side and the other landing upside down on the other side.

Every available ambulance was called to the scene to get the injured, and an indescribable panic ensued as passengers extricated themselves from the wreckage. Most of the injured trainmen were hurt badly, many being scalded by steam, but few of the passengers were seriously injured.

OPENING DAY SUCCESSFUL IN SPITE OF RAIN

Attendance at the Central West Texas fair, which opened at Eastland yesterday for a three days' run, was approximately 3,500 according to conservative estimates, it having been impossible to keep an absolutely accurate check at the gates because of the more or less disorganization caused by the rain, which began falling Wednesday night and continued throughout the entire day and into the night.

A number of community exhibits failed to arrive in time to be placed on display because of the rains. A delegation of Callahan county people in 14 cars, started for Eastland but were unable to get here on account of getting stuck in the mud on the unpaved roads between Cisco and Baird. Monday being Cisco day at the fair, a delegation from that city, accompanied by their band, visited the fair yesterday afternoon.

Today is Ranger day and Breckenridge day at the fair and large delegations are expected from both towns.

BIBLE THOUGHT.
 Self Denial: Whosoever will come after me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross, and follow me. For whosoever will save his life shall lose it; but whosoever shall lose his life for my sake and the gospel's, the same shall save it.—Mark 8:34, 35.
 Prayer: We thank Thee, O Lord, for the lesson so marvelously illustrated in Thy life, except a corn of wheat fall into the ground and die it abideth alone, but if it die it bringeth forth much fruit.

PRAYING AND PLAYING.
 (By the Fence Rider.)
 The old brone is a bit stiff in the spavined joints this damp day. The doggies were all right last night. With the exception of a steer or two which showed a disposition to stray over into other pastures, everything was lovely all along the barbed wire line. No mavericking was going on worth speaking of. So, today, I'm going to hang up the old spurs, tal-low my boots, let the tal-low soak in by a good fire at the ranch house, hang the old sombrero on a peg on the front gallery and meditate over two of the biggest things on anybody's ranch—praying and playing.
 Lord help a man or a nation that never prays and never plays. A calf that strays away from its mother out among the doggies is no worse off than a fellow who strays clean away from that great power that made him and never acknowledges that power by some form of devotion—some petition to Deity—never prays. Scarcely worse off than the fellow who never prays, is the fellow who never plays. The good Lord made us kittenish—playful. The greatest character that ever trod this globe, told a bunch of sour-as-lemons that until they got to be like kiddies, they couldn't get into His kingdom. And kiddies play. So do grown-ups unless they're made of cold mud never quickened.

All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy. We all know a nation which tries to take itself too seriously and got the whole world into a nasty war. Your plodding fellow who never takes a day off to frolic, is a dangerous citizen. The superintendent of Ranger schools, yesterday, told a bunch of club fellows he was strong for football as an adjunct—and related how some schools had brought the number of boy graduates up to the number of girl graduates by injecting good, wholesome play into it.
 This rider of the fences goes farther than that. Play is an adjunct—a prop—a means to an end. But it is also an end. It is the one thing which makes a fellow fit to live. It is the sugar in life's big vinegar pot—the spark that ignites the dry kindling wood and makes a fire to warm up the human race and keep folks from turning into cold stones. On that, we are about all agreed these days. That is evidenced by the way the crowds flock to the bulletin boards or go to the games. That will be shown tomorrow when you see them flocking to that game out in Nitro park. That is one reason why any newspaper worth while, gives a lot of space to the games. Sport pages never lack thumb marks. That is why America is a nation that has learned to give and take and be a good sport among nations.
 So far, we are all agreed. But somehow, a lot of folks who mean to be good sports, get most awfully wrothy when a fellow won't play his game—and plays some other game. Lawmakers try to regulate just how you and I shall amuse ourselves. Not long ago, when the Fence Rider was riding another range, a man came to him in great excitement, and said: "What do you think? I saw Brother _____ last Sunday out playing golf! I was out driving past the _____ course and there he was."
 "What were you doing?" I asked him.
 "Out driving with my family to take the air—" And then he stopped and looked sideways and walked off.
 It's wonderful how it feels to have

SATURDAY.
 Public library open from 9 to 11 a. m. and 1 to 5 p. m.
 Stag dinner at the Cholson for members of Country club at 8 p. m.

COFFEE SHOPPE NEWS.
 In giving the coffee shoppe the "once over" with our eagle eye, one concludes that the management of the Cholson is spreading itself to make its opening Monday night just a little bit superfluous. It's a busy place and a pretty place and it will open Monday night with a flourish. "The best of food and the best of music" seems to be the slogan and it seems that some one also said "nothing too good for our Ranger friends." They did vary the program this year by not sending out invitations. Manager Jury stresses the fact that it is not an invitational affair but that the opening of the coffee shoppe and the dinner-dance is for the friends and patrons of the hotel, however, since only 150 can be accommodated, it's going to be wise to get in reservations right away.

HONORING MRS. RAREY.
 Mrs. A. N. Harkider entertained the Thursday Bridge club and a number of other guests yesterday afternoon at her home on Main street, in honor of her guest, Mrs. Frank Rarey, of Los Angeles. Mrs. Rarey was formerly a member of this club and one of the happiest features of the afternoon was her greeting of old friends and former club members. One always expects flowers at the Harkider home, as they are linked with all of its traditions, but it seemed that yesterday afternoon the floral decoration surpassed any former ones. One thing was their oddity and rareness. Two floor baskets were filled with blood-red cockscomb, whose plum-like spikes blended with the greenery of ferns in a most pleasing whole attracted every eye. A vase of exquisitely rose colored zinnias received a great deal of admiration and after the party were were carried home by one of the members to brighten the day for a shut-in. Many other floral offerings from the hostess' garden were noted, all in flaming reds. In bridge the high score club prize, a bridge table, went to Mrs. Frank Brabant and the low score club prize, a hand embroidered guest towel, went to Mrs. J. T. Gullahorn. The high score guest prize, a picture, "Hope," went to Mrs. Charles Milliken, and the low score prize, a dainty "hanky" to Mrs. H. B. Wilson. As a pretty courtesy to the guest of honor, the hostess presented Mrs. Rarey with two Italian cutwork towels. An attractively appointed two-course luncheon was served to the following club members and guests: Meses. Charles Milliken, Harry Logsdon, J. T. Gullahorn, E. E. Crawford, Roy Jameson, Frank Brabant, John Thurman, C. C. Patterson, Walter Burden, W. C. Palmer, J. P. Little, Eastland, H. B. Wilson, A. G. Jury, Gus Coleman, C. C. Craig, A. J. Shackelford, Herbert Stafford, R. B. Campbell, B. S. Dudley, Charles Conley, M. H. Hagaman, R. W. Thomas, C. O. Terrell, and the guest of honor, Mrs. Frank Rarey.

CHILD'S STUDY CLUB.
 Mrs. S. P. Boon was hostess to the Child's Study club yesterday afternoon and at which time a very interesting and instructive program was rendered. Mrs. M. R. Newham was present and gave a talk on the teaching of the Dunning system of music, and two of her pupils gave piano numbers, which demonstrated very forcibly the rapidness and thoroughness of their advancement under this method. One was Mildred Moor man, who played in a duet with Mrs. Newham and the other was Nannie Kathrine Newham, who played a piano selection. Mrs. L. A. Hartung gave an interesting paper on "Ear and Ear Troubles," followed by Mrs. F. L. Carroll in an article on "Obedience." Gladys Larsen gave a reading, "Mamma's Bangin'." Mrs. John Remonte conducted the study lesson, which was taken from chapter

8 of their study book, "The Child, His Nature and His Needs." One new member was taken in, Mrs. Frank Green. At the end of the program refreshments were served to the following members: Madames John Remonte, A. N. Larsen, John Morrison, C. S. Bronstad, C. E. Maddocks, L. A. Hartung, M. R. Newham, F. L. Carroll and Frank Green. The next meeting will be with Mrs. C. S. Bronstad, October 22.

A NEW CLUB.
 There is a new club in Ranger Clubbdom, namely, "Pre-School Study Club," which had its initial meeting with Mrs. F. L. Carroll Wednesday afternoon at her home at 425 Elm street. Mrs. C. E. Maddocks, state president of Mothers Congress and Partent-Teachers clubs, presided over the meeting. The object of this club is to prepare children of pre-school age for coming school work and to prepare their parents for co-operation with the schools and with the parent-teacher work. Officers elected were as follows: President, Mrs. F. L. Carroll; vice president, Mrs. T. B. Scott; secretary, Mrs. Saunders Gregg; treasurer, Mrs. W. R. LaPrele. CABINET MEETING.

 2. Not attending Sunday picture shows, Sunday baseball, dancing or playing cards for prizes.
 3. By living the Christian life as neatly above reproach as possible.
 The teachers and officers are to be commended because they voted this themselves without any solicitation on the part of the pastor.

 The marriage of Verne Peterson and Miss Ruby Ellie Whitley, daughter of a farmer living near Ranger, was solemnized Wednesday afternoon by the Rev. W. H. Johnson, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Ranger, at the parsonage. It was a quiet wedding, with only a few witnesses, following which the bridegroom and his bride went to their new home near Ranger. Mr. Peterson is employed in the construction department of the Phillips Petroleum company.

A STAG DINNER.
 The entire membership of the Ranger Country club, will swoop down on Manager Jury tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock and take possession of his newly decorated dining room to enjoy a five-course dinner, a smoker and a meeting of the membership with the board of directors. Tickets for reservation can be had from Dr. Carl Willson, chairman of the entertainment committee, Eben Finney or Al Cameron, at the Baltic offices, Ray Calvert at Chestnut-Smith corporation office, or Gifford Legg at the Oil cities Electric company's office but they must be obtained by 10 o'clock Saturday morning. So Manager Jury will know how many to prepare for. President F. G. Yonker will preside as toastmaster and a program of unusual interest will ensue. Since the plans and policies of the Country club for the winter season will be formulated. Toasts will be from Walter Murray, C. E. Maddocks, Dr. W. C. Palmer, Gus Coleman, Harry Logsdon and others.

MURRY-LAWRENCE WEDDING.
 A childhood romance that culminated in a wedding, was that of Mr. Owen Murry and Miss Emma May Lawrence, whose marriage was solemnized last night at 8 o'clock at the Central Baptist church parsonage. Rev. A. L. Leak pronouncing them man and wife and using the over lovely fine economy. There were a few intimate friends present. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence of the Merriman community and attended school in Ranger. The groom is an employe of an oil company and both Mr. and Mrs. Murry are very popular in and around Ranger. The bride looked very lovely in a brown satin frock with brown hat and other accessories to match.

The FLAPPER WIFE

by Beatrice Burton © 1925 NEA SERVICE INC.

THE STORY SO FAR:

Gloria Gordon, beautiful flapper, marries Dick Gregory, struggling lawyer. Her idea of marriage is fun and fine clothes, but no work or children.

She refuses to do her own housework, and hires a maid. But Dick has to let the maid go. For Gloria has swamped him with debts for her clothes and a new automobile.

She becomes infatuated with an actor, Stanley Wayburn, and follows him to New York. But he spurns her. Then she tries to get a job as a chorus girl and fails. Discouraged, she comes home to Dick. He takes her back, but not as his wife.

Gloria begins to suspect that he is in love with his secretary, Susan Briggs. When he works late she accuses him of being out with Miss Baigge. And the breach between the two widens daily.

Finally Gloria makes up her mind to be a good wife to Dick. She tries to cook, and keep the house clean. But she does a poor job. Then she insists that Dick discharge Miss Briggs. And when he refuses she leaves him. She goes back to her father's house, but is very lonely and unhappy. One day she visits her own house, and puts fresh roses in the vases and cleans Dick's little smoking stand. It almost breaks her heart because Dick has put the house up for sale.

That night when she goes home, her mother gives her a letter from Dick. In it is a check for $50. Gloria takes it back to him, and gets a job as stenographer in the office of Ulysses X. Forgan, a wealthy real estate operator.

On Saturday night while Gloria is all alone in her father's house, the telephone rings. A man's voice greets her over the wire.

He held a can opener in one hand and a tin of baked beans in the other.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY:

"Is this Miss Gordon?" the voice asked again.

Gloria knew at once that it must belong to Ulysses X. Forgan. She had given her name to him as "Gloria Gordon" when she started to work in his office.

"Yes. It's Mr. Forgan, isn't it?" she asked.

His voice sounded pleased when he answered. "It is. Thanks for recognizing me," he said. "I wonder if I could see you for a few minutes? Perhaps you'd like to go for a little drive."

Almost without thinking, Gloria answered: "Of course. I'd like to go!"

The thought of a drive on this sweltering night was refreshing—just to lean back against the cushions of a car, and feel the wind in her face! It would be heavenly.

"But I can't go. What was I thinking about when I said I would?" Gloria suddenly asked herself. She was halfway up the stairs, by that time, on her way to get dressed for the drive.

But she turned and went back to her corner of the porch swing.

Here she was, a married woman, going driving with her "boss!" What would people think of her if they found out that she had done such a thing! What would Dick think? He would never forgive her! But then, he was through with her forever, anyway.

After all, what difference did it make to anybody what she did?

Nobody cared. Here she was alone and deserted by everyone in the world! On Saturday night, too!

She stood up, suddenly. "I just will go!" she said to herself. "I'll have every bit of fun that comes my way! What's the diff?"

If she couldn't have love, she could still have gaiety!

But her decision came too late. She wasn't dressed!

Just then the headlights of an automobile swung down the street. They threw their white glare into Gloria's face, as Ulysses X. Forgan turned his car and stopped it before the little house.

ing his hat in his hands. "Are you sure you don't want to go for a drive?" he asked. "It's a wonderful night, Miss Gordon."

Miss Gordon! Gloria knew that this was the moment to tell him that she was not "Miss Gordon," but "Mrs. Richard Gregory." But somehow she couldn't bring herself to do it.

"After all it's none of my business," she thought.

And yet, it was his business! To work for a man under your maiden name was one thing. To have him come as a caller—an admirer—thinking that you were unmarried, was quite another.

"Mr. Forgan," Gloria said, and her voice trembled a little, "I'm not 'Miss Gordon.' I'm married—separated from my husband. I should have told you, before."

Even in the darkness she could feel his eyes on her—shocked and startled. "You certainly should have told me!" he said sharply. "It's not my habit to become friendly with young women who work for me. And if I had known you were married—"

"Better let me explain," Gloria broke in. "My—my husband didn't want me to work. He provides me with money, but I won't take it from him. So it seemed to me unfair to let people know that his wife was out earning her own living—as long as I really don't have to do it. Do you see?"

He didn't answer. There was a long, heavy silence.

Then Gloria spoke again. "I'm afraid I won't be able to work for you, after this. Goodbye, Mr. Forgan," she said quietly, and held out her hand.

He took his dismissal without a word—just pressed her hand and went away. Gloria watched the red tail-light of his car disappear into the darkness.

"Poor lonely old bird!" she said to herself. "With his sporty clothes and racy car—trying to kid himself that he's still young and gay!"

She almost wished that she had gone for a drive with Ulysses X. It couldn't have done any one any real harm, could it? And he had seemed pathetic in his loneliness.

But no, she couldn't have any men friends—married, as she was! Of course, there would always be men who'd fall in love with her, so long as she was young and kept her looks. But she never would want any of them.

There was only one thing in the world that meant anything to her—one thing that she really wanted. And that was Dick's love. But she had found it out too late!

She'd lost it, and it never would come again.

"I wonder where Dick is tonight," Gloria wondered.

Perhaps he was having dinner somewhere with Susan Briggs.

Gloria thought of the little dinners she and Dick had had in restaurants. How he had resented the admiring glances of men who stared at her.

She giggled, in spite of her heart-ache. "Well that's one thing he won't have to worry about when he's with Miss Briggs!" she thought. "No one would look at her twice. She's as homely as a mud fence!"

There was undeniable comfort in the thought of Miss Briggs' plainness.

But Dick was not having dinner with Susan Briggs that night.

He was not having dinner with anyone.

At the very moment when Gloria was wishing Ulysses X. Forgan good-night and good-bye, he was tearing along green country lanes in the little car he had bought for her.

He came back to town against the wind. It set the blood racing in his veins, and burned his face. It was good to be challenged by the wind—to defy it with his own speed.

All day he had been "blue"—low in his mind. Everything in his life, lately, seemed to have gone stale and flat.

It was 9 o'clock when he got back to town. He drove down the street toward home.

"Home" these days meant his mother's perfectly ordered house. Perfectly cooked meals—always on time.

His ties were always pressed and folded neatly in his drawers. His socks were always mended. There never was a single button missing.

But, nevertheless, there was something distinctly missing from his life. He didn't know just what it was, either.

As Dick swung his car into the driveway, he saw that another car was parked there. His father and mother evidently had guests.

He backed the car out of the drive.

Announcing the Sequel of-- "THE FLAPPER WIFE"

MAY SEYMOUR FOOT LOOSE

by BEATRICE BURTON
SEQUEL TO "THE FLAPPER WIFE" ONEA

Surely you recall May Seymour. Her doctor-husband ended his life about the time—Gloria Gregory decided that Dick, with his pipe and book in an easy chair was more desirable than the passing thrills of an auto ride in the country with a man who turns yellow when danger threatens.

May has been traveling. She found the home town too "cool" after the gossips began telling about her relations with the parasite, who also deserted her in her hour of need.

May wants to sell her home, and turn all her stocks and bonds into cash.

She expects to marry again, but seems somewhat dubious as to how this may be brought about.

May is the leading figure in "May Seymour" (Footloose,) sequel of "The Flapper Wife," another story about local folks.

Perhaps you've heard about it. This is to confirm the report. Gloria has presented Dick with a bouncing baby boy.

May Seymour, when she called upon her return to the city, said: "He looks just like Dick."

Friends and relatives, especially on Dick's side, maintain that he is the very image of his father.

Now who would have thought that Gloria, The Flapper Wife, would settle down and actually enjoy the many demands of raising a child?

This paper has obtained, in response to almost universal demand of its readers, exclusive publishing rights for the sequel to "The Flapper Wife."

The new story is named "MAY SEYMOUR" (Footloose.) It starts in this paper October 2nd.

If you are not a regular subscriber fill in the coupon below or phone the circulation department and the paper will be delivered to your home.

THE HOTPOINT Automatic Range (OVEN TEMPERATURE CONTROL) is the Main Feature that is being demonstrated by Mrs. Ida Chitwood at the TELEGRAM COOKING SCHOOL Eastland. The HOT-POINT RANGE is not a mere assemblage of miscellaneous parts. It is a finished product built to a standard, the result of years of development in electric range construction. So modern a product is the HOT-POINT RANGE that it could not be built by ordinary machinery. Special machinery had to be built and hundreds of thousands of dollars invested. Today our factories, where HOT-POINT RANGES are built, command the respect of the most modern industrial engineer. Throughout the entire plant is evidence of the carefully studied plans for standardization and quantity production. It is because of this careful study that the HOT-POINT RANGE justly commands the title of the Best Electric Range in the World. ST. JOSEPH'S G. F. P. MAKES THIN, NERVOUS WOMEN GROW STRONG Overwhelming Burden of Pain and Suffering Is Being Lifted From Thousands of Women Here.

"Out of sight, out of mind" is an old and true saying. Because we cannot see what is going on inside this precious body of ours we forget it. But try as we may we cannot keep away the results from such neglect. Just as men hang out red lanterns to warn others of hidden dangers, so nature puts out danger signals such as headaches, backaches, pains in the sides and legs, cramps, nausea swelling of the limbs and joints during pregnancy, nervousness, dizzy spells and that awful languid, drowsy feeling of weariness and depression, to warn women to look out for trouble unless they give their health needed attention.

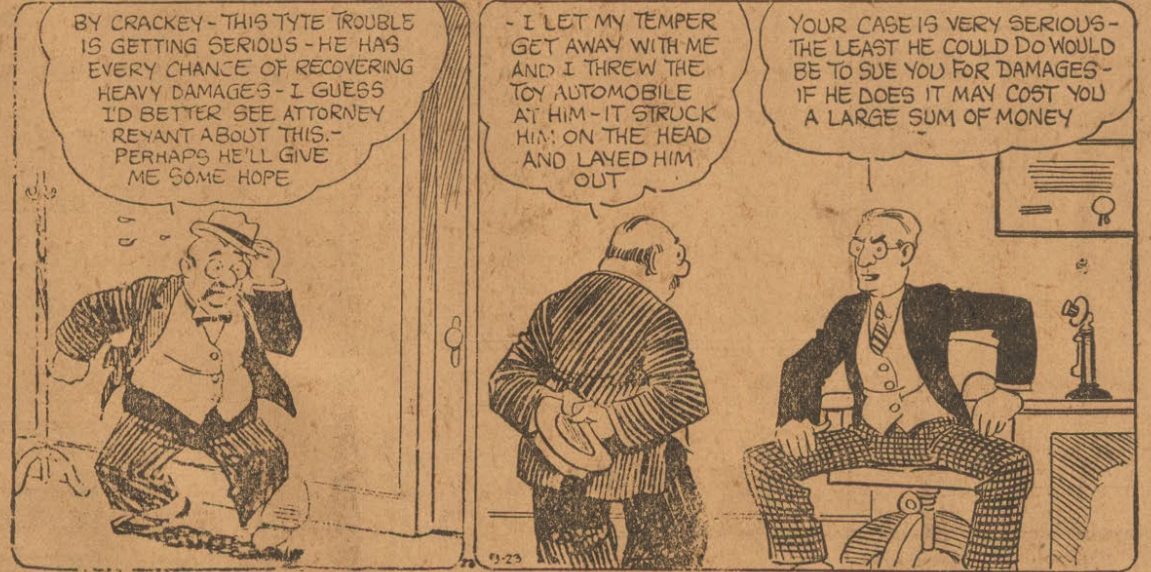

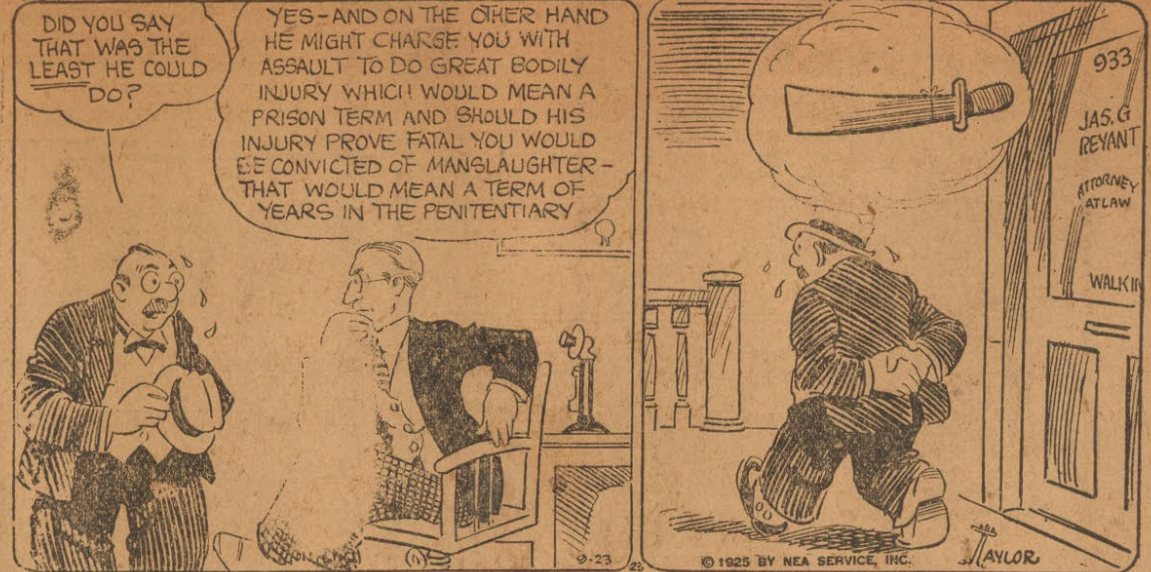

"If there were no such thing as catarrh of the generative organs," says the representative of the discoverers of St. Joseph's G. F. P., the phenomenal medicine which is now creating such a sensation throughout the country, "there would be little, if any, suffering from so-called 'female disorders.' I say this because it has now been definitely proven that this dreaded malady is the cause of nine out of every ten cases of weaknesses, so common among women and girls today.

"Great principles are always very simple when they are explained, he continued. "The simple fact that G. F. P. is able to overcome and stamp out catarrh of the generative organs accounts for the astounding success this wonderful medicine is enjoying here, and wherever it is being introduced, in relieving sick, weak and undernourished women from pain and suffering and restoring them to health and happiness with plenty of energy, vigor, vitality and youthful buoyancy."

Special Correspondence.
ABILENE, Sept. 25.—The jury in the case of Lit Chapman, charged with the murder of his former wife here last April, returned a verdict of 99 years in the penitentiary Thursday at 9 a. m. The case went to the jury Thursday at 12:45 a. m. Chapman was unmoved when the verdict was read. The state had made a strong demand for the death penalty. The defense pleaded for mercy and sought a verdict of not guilty on the contention that no evidence had been introduced to prove that Chapman did the shooting; that he was insane. An appeal will be made. Mrs. Chapman was shot while at her home here last April 5.

HOW DOCTORS TREAT COLDS AND THE FLU

To break up a cold over night or to cut short an attack of gripe, influenza or sore throat, physicians and druggists are now recommending Calotabs. The nascent Calomet tablet, that is purified from dangerous and sickening effects. Those who have tried it say that it acts like magic, by far more effective and certain than the old style calomet, heretofore recommended by physicians.

One or two Calotabs at bed time with a swallow of water—that's all. No salts, no nausea nor the slightest interference with eating, work or pleasures. Next morning your cold has vanished and your system feels refreshed and purified. Calotabs are sold only in original sealed packages, price ten cents for the vest-pocket size; thirty-five cents for the large family package. Recommended and guaranteed by druggists. Your money back if you are not delighted.—adv.

That business concerns who advertise are builders of better cities. That firms who boost their business are city boosters as well. Boost our boosters!

That the ever-increasing sale of quality goods is due to the everlasting advertising they get. That constant advertising has impressed the public with a desire to buy quality goods. That advertised goods, when used, have inspired the public with confidence in them. That confidence brings increased sales. That it is the advertiser that has faith enough to keep advertising who really learns what advertising can accomplish. That the printed page is a medium of proven advertising power. That it has been proven by bringing profitable results. Good advertising keeps business moving smoothly along. (Copyright, 1925.)

The thought of talking to a roomful of people was intolerable to him just then.
A half hour later he was in the kitchen of his own house. He had tied a clean dish-towel around his waist for an apron.
He held a can opener in one hand and a tin of baked beans in the other. A wedge of Yorkshire cheese, a loaf of rye bread, and a baker's pie were on the kitchen table.
For this "delicatessen" meal, Dick had foregone chicken pie and raspberry shortcake at his mother's house that night.
He had come home straight from the office to get his car. And then he had driven out into the open country. Like all people who are beset with loneliness, he had wanted to be alone.
But he was cheerful enough now, pattering around his own house—the house where Gloria had so lately been. He ate his cold, indigestible food with gusto. He whistled as he rinsed his dishes and piled them on the drainboard.
Then he took his "General Dawes" pipe from his pocket, and when into the living room. He switched on the lights there, and stopped short, staring.
There was a vase of wilted roses on the table that stood beside his arm-chair. They had not been there a week ago! His smoking stand was in perfect order.
And beside it on the floor lay a square of crumpled cambric—Gloria's handkerchief. She had been in the house! She had come back! But why? And when?
And how had she managed to get in, without a key? Dick tried the living-room windows. They were all locked. Then he went into the sun-room.
He saw at once the window that Gloria had pried open. There were marks on the window sill where the clothes pole had scraped it.
Dick sat down in his arm-chair, and looked at the handkerchief in his hands. The initial "G" was embroidered in one corner of it. And it smelled faintly of mimosa flower.
He put it against his nostrils, and the perfume of it brought back to him the memory of Gloria so keenly that it seemed she must still be there in the room with him!
Dick could almost see her there, putting the long-stemmed roses in the vase, dusting off the smoking-stand with her fluttering little hands. He could hear her lilting voice saying "Rikky-Tikky-Tavvy, I need a new hat," or "Oh, Dick, why worry about the bills?"
He found himself staring at the telephone on its teak-wood table in the hall.
All he had to do was to give a number—tell Gloria that he wanted her. And in a few minutes she would be here. Here in his arms!

Twins Born Seventeen Days Apart

Seventeen days after Mrs. A. J. Mayhugh of Toledo gave birth to a baby girl, a husky son was born to her. The girl (left) weighed five pounds and the boy eight.

How to stop BOILS!

There's only one way to stop boils. Stop the cause of boils! That's common sense—isn't it? All right. Boils arise because the blood gets so weak a healthy, red cells that it can't throw off the impurities that get into the body. There's not enough rich, red blood to purify the system.
Now—S. S. S. builds back the blood's fighting strength. S. S. S. builds red blood-cells—builds them by the millions! Boils dry up!
S. S. S. is the thing. Impurities that cause boils and other skin eruptions can't stand up against the rich, healthy, red blood that S. S. S. builds. That's all there is to it.
Stop boils with S. S. S. It's the way. Get it at any druggist. The larger bottle is more economical.

Clyde. Sever: Game Winner of Last Year, Will Put Ranger's Fast Team to Test.

The most novel feature of Saturday's football game between Clyde's sensational seven-game winners of last season and the Ranger boys, who are said to be developing speed at a healthy rate, is the popular price of

BILIOUS ATTACKS

From Which Kentucky Man Suffered Two or Three Times a Month, Relieved by Black-Draught.

Lawrenceburg, Ky.—Mr. J. P. Nevins, a local coal dealer and farmer, about two years ago learned of the value of Theford's Black-Draught liver medicine, and now he says:

"Until then I suffered with severe bilious attacks that came on two or three times each month. I would get nauseated. I would have dizziness and couldn't work. I would take pills until I was worn-out with them. I didn't seem to get relief. After taking the pills my bowels would act a couple or three times, then I would be very constipated.

"A neighbor told me of Black-Draught and I began its use. I never have found so much relief as it gave me. I would not be without it for anything.

"It seemed to cleanse my whole system and make me feel like new. I would take a few doses—get rid of the bile and have my usual clear head, feel full of pep and could do twice the work."

the admission tickets. The odd sensation of seeing a football game for 50 cents will bring some thrills within itself. It is an experiment, it is said, to try the Ranger public's pulse on a popular priced game. But if the dope spells anything, that will fall a long shot short of being the only thrills of the game.

Last year, counting pre-season games and all, Ranger won four games, tied two and lost two. Clyde won seven, lost two and tied two. Clyde kept 10 of her letter men for this season. Ranger lost all but eight of hers. Clyde's team is said to average 160 pounds. Ranger's team averages around 155. Ranger has had one game this year, which she won, over Stephenville.

The Ranger reboys have been at work all week developing fast plays and interference. It is said, This, added to their bulldog tackling and hard hitting of the line, as shown in the Stephenville game, should make them strong antagonists for the fast and seasoned Clyde bunch tomorrow. The pep squad hasn't been idle. They are developing lungs while the grid men develop muscles, it is said and the big noise will not be lacking on the streets and in the downtown sections of Ranger tonight and tomorrow. All indications point to a fast, snappy, hard fought game with the results all up in the air until the last gun is fired. The game is called for 2:30.

STEWART'S WASHINGTON LETTER

BY CHARLES P. STEWART
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON—From aviation's super-enthusiasts comes the complaint that only one member of President Coolidge's board of air inquiry—Senator Bingham of Connecticut—is a man of actual World War flying experience.

Bingham had it, as commander of America's biggest aviation field in Europe during the world conflict.

This isn't supposed to be a board hand-picked to declare for all the super-enthusiast's contentions. Impartial consideration is what's desired from it.

THE further complaint is made that Bingham is on record as considering Col. Mitchell's aviation claims exaggerated. So be it. Aren't the conservatives entitled to representation on the board, as well as the radicals? The latter are represented, too. Representative Vinson of Georgia fought hard at the last session of Congress for all they demanded.

JAMES G. HARBORD and Rear Admiral Fletcher, the army and navy members of the board, are retired, it's worth noting. Nobody will have any strings on them, to influence them in reaching their conclusions.

President W. F. Durand of the Institute of Mechanical Engineers is the strictly scientific and President H. E. Coffin of National Air Transport, Inc., is the pre-eminent practical member of the commission.

Dwight W. Morrow of J. P. Morgan & Co. is the business man. Congressman Parker of New York is the civilian aviation specialist and Federal Judge Denison of Grand Rapids gives the calm, judicial touch to the investigation.

On paper, at least, it looks like a well-rounded body, competent and fairly representative of all the different interests. But it will have to hurry to finish its work just started, before Congress meets.

GEORGE W. BRIGGS NAMED AS CROP OBSERVER

George W. Briggs of Eastland has been appointed crop observer in Eastland county for the Sears-Roebuck Agricultural Foundation Index, according to announcement from Chicago. He will form a link in the nation-wide chain of county agricultural observers to report farming conditions.

The Index, to which all observers will contribute is a compilation of the monthly reports of 3,650 observers in every section of the country, all chosen because known to be practical, fair thinking men in position to interpret farming conditions and having opportunity to observe needs of agriculture, each in his district.
