FIGHT ON UNIFIED AIR SERVICE IS OPENED

HIGHWAY MONEY PROVIDES FUEL FOR SENSATION

Charges Relating to Maintenance Contracts for Immense Sums Are Circulated

By WORTH S. RAY

The center of the stage, politically speaking, was occupied by the convention of county judges and commissioners, which met at Amarillo some days ago, whereat the letting of road contracts by the members of the present highway commission came in for a airing. Two members of the highway commission were present at the convention and were given an opportunity to defend the charges that were laid before the meeting by L. W. Kemp, former secretary of a contractors association, who, it seems, lost his position as such secretary for reason which he appears to attribute to the members of the highway commission, who, he charges, refused to let him have access to certain files in the department containing information about contracts that had been let in recent months.

No Competitive Bidding.

Kemp in many words charged that the members of the state highway department had let a number of highway resurfacing contracts to contracting firms favored by them without the formality of seeking competitive bids on the work. This charge by Kemp was admitted by members of the highway department, who stated, however, that the need of hasty action in getting the work done on the highways that were rapidly deteriorating during the summer months was the cause of such action on their part, and in substance the claim was made that the commissions had been doing the best they could considering the circumstances.

It was shown at the informal discussion between Kemp and Chairman Lanham of the subject up for review that a contract had been let in Harris County at a price of 32 cents per yard, and that a responsible contracting firm of South Texas had expressed a willingness to do the work for 17 cents per yard, whereupon the 32-cent contract had been cancelled and the 17-cent bid accepted by the highway commission.

Tied Up in Law Suit.

Meanwhile, an injunction had been issued by a district court in Harris County and the matter of that particular contract is now being argued in court. County Judge Chester Bryan of Harris County lead the fight in the convention at Amarillo, favoring the letting of all highway contracts by the respective county commissioners of the different counties of the state instead of the highway department, and that sentiment seems to have been popular with the members of the convention.

The gist of all of the charges and counter charges made before the convention was that certain contractors had been favored and that among these firms particularly was an organization incorporated in another state by Texas contractors, under the name of the American Road company, having a capital stock of only $50,000, but which had suddenly been awarded some $2,000,000 worth of highway contracts in a few days after it obtained a permit from the secretary of state to do business in Texas and out of which it was charged the company would make a profit of from 100 to 200 per cent.

It was further charged that the same company now had contracts aggregating $5,000,000, covering over a thousand miles of Texas highway resurfacing.

Other Rumors Afloat.

There is another well defined rumor afloat among the political circles of the state at this writing which may or may not bring forth sensational developments in regard to the letting of contracts for highway maintenance in the last few months since the highway commission has taken over the supervision of such contracts and lettings. There is statute on the law books of Texas prohibiting members of either branch of the legislature from being interested in any contract made by the state by virtue of any law or appropriation passed while they were members of the law-making body, and this rumor is to the effect that this law has been violated by some half-dozen members of the legislature who are either directly or indirectly implicated or interested in such contracts.

If this is true, it is understood that the attorney general either has been or will be importuned to make an investigation of the facts, and, if found true, to institute court proceedings to cancel such contracts and recover monies that may have been so far paid out on such in violation of the law injunction.

Administration Attacked.

This whole airing of the doings of the present members of the highway department is considered by the friends of the present state administration as a slam at Ma Ferguson and her system of conducting the state's business. In the Amarillo convention the name of James E. Ferguson was frequently mentioned and by innuendo, at least, he was charged with having influenced the members of the highway commission in the letting of contracts, the principal witness to all these matters being (Continued on page six)

Washington Wins First Game of World Series

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 7.—Striking out ten men to Lee Meadows' five, Walter Johnson won the first game of the world series today by a score of 4 to 1. Johnson got eight hits to Meadows' five. Pittsburgh played an errorless game, Washington having one error charged against them, Joe Harris for Washington in the second inning and Traylor for Pittsburgh in the fifth, hit home runs. A capacity crowd of 45,000 saw the game, many thousands being turned away at the gate.

The complete lineup for today's game:

RANGER MAY HAVE A NEW COTTON GIN

Survey of Conditions Being Made Looking to Erection of Modern Plant.

Local capitalists, headed by J. A. Pitcock, have in mind the erection of a new cotton gin in Ranger before the picking of next year's crop. Mr. Pitcock, who has the matter in hand, is making a survey of local conditions and farmers' planting plans with that in view, it is stated.

"We will be governed entirely by conditions," Mr. Pitcock said. "We are going to ascertain what acreage it is contemplated farmers will plant to cotton, the probable yield and the demand and need of another gin to take care of the crop."

It was further stated by Mr. Pitcock that the gin, if installed, would be a modern plant of ample capacity to warrant farmers in going as far as they like in the acreage planted, with full assurance that at no time would any local congestion hinder taking care of their staple. Funds for the undertaking are already in hand, it is stated. A full and free expression from farmers is invited according to Mr. Pitcock, who called attention to the fact that Ranger, once one of the leading cotton growing communities of Texas, had dropped from around 10,000 bales a year production to less than a thousand and was scrambling back so that it gives promise of attaining its old position.

MITCHELL ISSUE MAY BREAK OUT IN CONVENTION

OMAHA, Neb., Oct. 7.—The Mitchell issue, suppressed during the visit of President Coolidge yesterday, threatened to break out again today before the American Legion convention. Friends of the fiery colonel said they would introduce a resolution for a unified air service. They want the Legion also to vote confidence in Mitchell.

James A. Drane, national commander, today said he would try to keep all matters of political nature off the floor. He is depending upon the favorable impression made by President Coolidge at the convention yesterday.

SELECTION OF JURY TO TRY MARTIN CONTINUES

DALLAS, Oct. 7.—Three more jurors remained to be chosen when the trial of W. A. Martin of Denton, charged with slaying Deputy Sheriff R. B. Parsons, adjourned at noon today. Selection of the remaining jurors will probably require the rest of the day and the introduction of evidence begin tomorrow. The jury selection has been under way since Monday and 10 have been chosen.

HIGHWAY CONSTRUCTION MEN SEE GOVERNOR

AUSTIN, Oct. 7.—Thurman Frank of the state highway maintenance commission and F. H. Youmans of the Sherman-Youmans Construction company, holding the contract for the construction of highways in Harris county, arrived in Austin today and are in conference with the governor in connection with the procuring state aid for the construction. It is not known what success their efforts have met.

STYLE SHOW WONDERFULLY ENTRANCING

Liberty Theatre, Ranger, Filled With Large Audience to Enjoy Displays.

By RENA B. CAMPBELL.

Climaxing the "Marriage Whirl" last night at the Liberty theatre, Ranger folks faced the footlights and an enthusiastic audience for one hour, while three of Ranger's merchants offered one of the best and most complete style shows ever staged in Ranger. It was indeed a promenade of fashion and the living models had a beautiful garden setting for their promenades. A real old-fashioned garden with tiny white painted picket fences, and walks outlined in white stones, with old-fashioned flowers nodding their heads as if in harmony and approval of the styles displayed.

Brilliant with the beauty of its floral setting, glowing with many soft hued lights, with the whole length and breadth of the stage a facsimile of a colonial garden, when the curtain rose for the first act of the style show and as it should be in all properly trained gardens, there were children, gay, dashing little youngsters, who looked as though they had stepped from some fourteenth century frame, and become habituated in 1925 styles.

The first number was displayed by the Boston store and the curtain rose on little Vivian Champion, James Ratliff and Jane and Jack Dutton. Vivian Champion, who is pretty enough to turn the head of any gay young chap of 5 or 6, looked like an airy fairy pinned down to earth, her golden curls topping her dear little face, set off to a finish, a mile wool canton, two-piece suit, trimmed with black velvet embroidery combination.

Little James Ratliff was one of the most attractive stars of the evening, doing his swagger step with all the abandon of his 2 or 3 years, while clothed in a modish two-piece jersey sport suit, with crushed hat. Jane Dutton's pretty blonde loveliness was intensified with the suit she wore, a jade ensemble, very chic and beautifully designed. Jack Dutton was the "fapper" with his stylish suit, and his "longies," sporting an overcoat on his arm in a regular "man about town" air. This number was very pleasing and the clothes displayed showed that even the kiddies' clothes these days receive the same attention to detail, style and fabrics as do the clothes of the grown-ups. Two larger girls joined the "youngest set" in the garden. One of these, Mary Edlo Davenport, was particularly charming in a pergamum red pin point coat, trimmed in Hudson seal, and a black velvet hat to match.

Sport and Evening Gowns.

The looker was Elizabeth Valliant, who looked very fascinating in a rust gerona colored pin point coat. (Continued on page two)

Labor Federation May Oppose Baking Companies Merger

By United Press.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Oct. 7. Opposition to the pending $400,000,000 merger of baking companies, against some of which complaints have been filed by the federal trade commission, occupied leaders of the American Federation of Labor today. Sentiment thus far expressed points to a demand on congress for investigation of the combination. Labor leaders oppose any groupings of non-union bakeries and there is opposition also to a huge bread trust.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—The first steps in the gigantic baking merger, which has been impending for some time, have definitely taken place. The General Baking corporation with 5,000,000 shares of class A, no par value stock, and 5,000,000 shares of class B, no par value, common stock, has been incorporated at Baltimore, Md., to effect this merger, with which names of General Baking company, the Ward Baking corporation and the Continental Baking corporation have been linked. Paul H. Helms, of New Rochelle, formerly secretary and treasurer of the Ward Baking corporation is president, and J. W. Rumbough of New York is secretary-treasurer of the new corporation. As far as could be learned no chairman of the board has been elected. The Bankers Trust company is registrar of stock for the new corporation and the Corporation Trust company is the transfer agent.

Acquisition of the concerns mentioned, if consummated, would mean that the new organization would become the largest bakers of bread in the world, with an estimated total sales volume of $200,000,000 annually, and with a value, based upon conservative estimates of the companies to be included, of about $400,000,000.

Farmers Reports Much Of Eastland County Cotton Crop Gathered

Seventy-five per cent of the cotton crop in Eastland county has been gathered and two more weeks of pretty weather will see the balance of it picked, according to farmers from over the county who have been in Eastland this week attending court and on other business.

D. J. Neill of the Kokomo community states that many of the farmers in his community have not more than a bale or so of cotton yet to pick. The gin, which has been running about 20 bales per day, is now not running more than 10 bales per day and within a few more days will be running only part time. Mr. Neill says, "I have made $1,000 worth of cotton and enough feed to do me two years, and other farmers have also had good crops this year," Mr. Neill said.

Rufus Cox of the Okra community says that at least 75 per cent of the cotton in his section of the county has been picked and that a few more days of good weather will see most of the remainder of the crop gathered.

EPISCOPALIANS OPEN TRIENNIAL CONVENTION

Important Church Matters to Come Before Body Meeting in New Orleans.

Special Correspondence.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 7.—Whether the Episcopal church in the United States shall shorten its budget by $1,200,000 and, through a policy of retrenchment, curtail its educational program, reduce the salaries of missionary workers in all its fields, and abandon some fields entirely, is one of the pressing questions which will be decided at the forty-eighth triennial general convention of the church which assembled here today. Other vital questions which the convention will consider are those establishing a definite order of deaconesses in the church, of affiliating with the Federal Council of Churches in the United States, and of creating a provincial system, which has been agitated since the organization of the church 140 years ago.

Prayer Book Revision.

The revision of the prayer book, begun in 1913, will be continued, and this convention will be called upon to pass finally on the proposition to eliminate from the marriage service the promise of the bride to obey her husband, and another proposal under which the service for the burial of the dead will be permitted in case of those who have taken their own lives. Matters involving divorce and the general questions of home and family life, of the relations of capital and industry, and the ever-present question of the elimination of war, will also be discussed by the 130 bishops from all parts of the world, and upwards of 500 deputies who will continue in session in New Orleans, during a period of three weeks.

The New Orleans convention will mark the first occasion since the church was organized when it will have gone to the far south for a place of meeting. Previous conventions have been held in St. Louis and Richmond, but for the most part northern cities have always been selected as gathering places. The growth of the south, and particularly the fact that the south is today the strongest religious center in the United States, prompted this selection of New Orleans for this year's triennial meeting. A southern bishop, Rt. Rev. Theodore Du Bose Bratton, D.D., bishop of Mississippi, will have the notable honor of preaching the convention sermon at a great open-air service in Audubon park, which will formally open the convention.

Church Head to Be Chosen.

Not the least of the important tasks which will fall to the convention will be the selection of a presiding bishop, who in rank, if not in title, will have the same standing as regards the independent church in the United States, as that of the (Continued on page six.)

Friends of Walter Johnson Expect Him To Win His Games

Whatever the fate of the veteran baseball pitcher, Walter Johnson, in the world series now being played, there are two men in Ranger who will be for Walter, win or lose. At least both of them were in Ranger Tuesday and one of them is permanently located here. These two Johnson fans who held a love feast over their idol Tuesday are C. E. Harvey of Ranger and N. Caplinger, traveling salesman who makes Ranger territory weekly.

Mr. Harvey, of the Hagaman Refining company, is from the Washington twirler's home town, Coffeyville, Kan., and has frequently seen him pitch on the cross lots here. Mr. Caplinger played on the Washington team with the indomitable Walter some years ago. Both men are optimistic over the winning of at least Johnson's share of the games by the Washington team during the present series.

RANGER TO GET BOARD OF CITY DEVELOPMENT

City Commission Adopts Resolution to Make Levy for Its Support.

By unanimous vote, the Ranger city commission yesterday afternoon adopted a resolution to make a levy of two mills on each dollar of assessed valuation in Ranger, as authorized in the charter, to provide for the maintenance of a board of city development. Mayor Hodges and Commissioners Teal, Terrell and Brashear were present. Commissioner Brown being out of the city.

The city commission has had this matter under advisement for several months. Three committees of citizens, largely business men, have appeared in advocacy of the proposition and a petition signed by more than 150 large taxpayers, also supporting the board of development, had been filed with the commission. A committee from the Chamber of Commerce, headed by John M. Gholson, president, and including O. D. Dillingham, W. W. Housewright, M. H. Hagaman, M. K. Collie, and Secretary C. C. Patterson, appeared before the commission yesterday to plead immediate action. Mr. Gholson made the chief argument, and was ably seconded by Messrs. Housewright, Hagaman, Dillingham and Collie. Members of the commission, already personally favorably to the proposition, saw no reason for longer delay. During the several months it has been under consideration not a single voice has been heard in opposition.

Ranger Will Insist Upon Prompt Payment Of Its Water Bills

That Ranger water users who allow their water to be disconnected for non-payment of water bills, will, in all probability be penalized to the extent of having to pay a dollar for reconnection, is indicated by an order issued by the city commission yesterday to City Attorney Diehl, to draft an ordinance to that effect.

Attention was called to the fact that this charge is made in the case of the gas service, telephone service and all other services except the water service. It was argued that water fees go to the city and that those in charge of the city's affairs should be as diligent in looking after the city's interests as public service corporations are in looking after their interests.

REAR ADMIRAL MOFFETT WANTS LARGER DIRIGIBLE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—Immediate replacement of the dirigible Shenandoah with an airship three times as large, was recommended to the aircraft board today by Rear Admiral Moffett, who defended the performances of the Shenandoah and the Los Angeles, but said they were too small.

MARINE CORPS HEAD OPPOSES MITCHELL PLAN

General Lejeune Tells American Legion Convention Aircraft Is Essential to Army and Navy.

By United Press.

OMAHA, Neb., Oct. 7.—Major General John A. Lejeune, commandant of the United States marine corps, took the fight of the opponents of the unified air service plan right into the open today when he told the American Legion convention that air service is an essential part of the army and navy. "Tearing the air service from the army or navy would be like tearing a man's leg from his body," said Lejeune. A storm of applause greeted his statement.

"The air service has become an essential and vital part of the army and navy," he said. "It can give eyes to the navy and save the lives of thousands of men on the battlefields."

MRS. LANSLOWNE TO TESTIFY BEFORE COURT OF INQUIRY

By United Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—The naval court of inquiry investigating the Shenandoah wreck will convene here tomorrow. Scraps from the wreck of the dirigible have been sent to the United States bureau of standards for tests and examination.

Mrs. Lansdowne, widow of the dead commander of the airship, also will testify before the court, according to Rear Admiral Hilary P. Jones. It is expected her testimony will clarify the situation arising out of her statement and subsequent denial of it, following the disaster.

SENIOR AT VASSAR COLLEGE TAKES HER OWN LIFE

By United Press.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Oct. 7.—Depression occasioned by over-study was blamed today for the suicide of Anna Frances Bailey, 21, Vassar senior, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stearns, of Cleveland, Ohio. She was well known at Vassar as a poetess. Her body, suspended by a silk scarf from a hook in her closet, was found yesterday when she failed to appear for classes.

RESOLUTION AIMED AT NATION'S CUSTOMS BARRIERS

By United Press.

BIBLE THOUGHT.
Let Us Give Thanks—Blessing, and glory, and wisdom, and thanksgiving, and honor, and power, and might, be unto our God for ever and ever.—Revelation 7:12.

Prayer—All praise, O Lord, to Thee, we give for all the blessings of this life.

TAKE THE GUN FROM WEAK-MINDED.

The madman with homicidal tendencies is running wild among us and his victims are falling on all sides.

How grave the conditions are the casual reader of the dailies probably does not stop to consider, though the shortest competent memory will be able to recall, with a little prompting, a long list of the most horrifying episodes, chargeable to persons either insane or obviously degenerate, feeble-minded or diseased. Records show that the mentally or nervously deranged take more lives every year than are lost in all the vendettas, bootleggers' wars and gang feuds with which our civilization is shamed. The maniac is more deadly than all the professional criminals ever born.

Every crowd surging through the streets of our cities, every knot of people gathered at a rural crossroads, every audience in a theatre and every congregation in a church hides among its numbers some unsuspected or disregarded madman, degenerate, half-wits and defectives. Thus the potential murderer walks everywhere among us and the almost certain criminal prowls about at will, his evil portent unguessed by either the police or the public.

How much longer shall we permit from five to seven thousand citizens to be slain every year by this class of people?

How much longer will we permit them to secure automatic revolvers without hindrance or license? Take away the gun and you have at least partially destroyed their danger.

THE AIR SERVICE.
The successful operation of railroads demand supervision by practical and experienced men. Most of the failures are due to misfits and incompetents. The management of steamship lines is not subject to political favoritism or entrusted to farmers or lumbermen. The successful management of a navy depends on the experience and judgment of men brought up and educated in that particular business. The management of 150,000 land forces of the army is an entirely different business requiring an entirely different training. If it was proposed to unite the army and navy under one head there would be a howl of protest that would shake the nation. Navigation of the air is a profession entirely different from any or these—and from present indications will become greater than all others combined. To subject it to the whims and fancies of a horde of inexperienced incompetents means to cripple proper development and entail tremendous expense on the stockholders of the nation by way of taxation. It is because of these simple facts that the business men of this country endorse the opinions expressed by Colonel Mitchell. The navy, the army and the transportation departments are all essentials in time of war but are not united under one head. The evidence is that they have enough to do to perfect their own affairs without loading them with something entirely out of their spheres of operation.

Italy has exempted from taxation all dwelling houses, hotels, stores and offices for a period of 25 years from their completion. This has now been modified and after August, 1927, they must pay one-fiftieth of the normal tax, increasing by the same amount each year until the full tax becomes operative.

TWO NEW GIRLS IN RANGER.
There are two new girls in Ranger, both winsome little ladies, and while both are just a little too young to enter the Better Babies contest at Eastland, this week, still they are both reported to be "fine girls." One, who is yet unnamed, came to the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Dodson last week, and the other one arrived at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Grady Wilson, yesterday.

EXECUTIVE BOARD TO MEET.
Executive board of the New Era club will meet tomorrow afternoon following the Delphia club meeting, in the green room of the Gholson. Members of the board will please take notice.

PERSONALS.
Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Jones and little son Alfonso, and the late Jones, have returned from Tulsa, where they went last week to attend the Oil Exposition in that city. They also visited among their many friends there, as Tulsa was their home city before coming to Ranger.

W. L. Keith is spending a few days in Cross Cut. Mrs. R. B. Campbell today vacated the Norton home, where she has pleasantly summered and is now at the F. D. Farquhar home, at 417 Pine Street.

Mrs. Charles Norton and daughter, Virginia, will arrive this afternoon from their four months stay in the East.

STYLE SHOW WONDERFULLY ENTRANCING.

with fitch fur trimmings and hat to match. Other models displayed by the Boston store were a canna red charmeen frock, trimmed in gold with side flare skirt, emphasizing the most important style features. This was modeled by Miss Helen Howdeshell, who wore a gold metallic lace hat, carried a smart black bag, and wore a tan kid Laird Schober pump. Miss Marie Flahie modeled a brown velvet and carton crepe, two-piece sport dress, which was very striking, being made with a straight back, with full pleated front from waist line, with a short velvet jacket, trimmed in bands of viatical squirrel, which completed the neck and the long sleeves, and also trimmed in gold buttons. She wore with this a brown velour hat, and woodland brown kid pumps, by Smaltz Goodwin. Mrs. Mann wore a black satin back crepe, with full flare skirt, with trimmings of leopard fur. She wore a pirate shape hat in black, with gold trimmings and carried a black purse and black gloves. Her pumps were gun metal, by Johnson-Stevens and Shankle.

Miss Howdeshell again modeled, this time a princess style black satin with a boa being caught at the left shoulder with a lovely buckle, this bow, coming to the bottom of the skirt and the same brilliant rhinestones repeating themselves on the sleeves. Three hand-made silk flowers in rose, lavender and orange at lower waist line completed this charming frock. Her hat was a black picture hat, and she carried a quaint little Jap vanity, which gave a startling note of color to the entire costume. Her black satin pumps were made by Laird Schober.

Coats Displayed.
The coats displayed by the Boston store were beautiful, slenderizing models, smart and attractive. Mrs. Mann displayed a Vorinthian colored pin point coat, showing the side flares, with grey squirrel collars and cuffs. She wore a black satin hat and black satin pumps.

Miss Howdeshell modeled a grey squirrel coat, lined with grey crepe, with a banding of blue cut velve broche completing the design of the lining. She wore a silver and lace hat, touched with blue. This was an extremely handsome coat and brought a hearty round of applause.

Miss Flahie modeled an elaborate dinner gown, showing a gold lace metallic foundation, with Bohahara crepe chiffon, combined with velve broche over dress, trimmings were beaver, two odd-looking Japanese buckles at the waist line. With this striking gown she wore a black velvet hat and her shoes were black velvet, made by Pettigo-Webber.

Of course the men's styles were modeled also—for Boston store caterers to the men as well as to the women. G. C. Coleman wore a grey two-button Style-Plus suit that showed the popular flare trousers and with this wonderfully tailored suit he wore tan Nettleton shoes and a Stetson hat on ocean metal color. In his second appearance he wore a three-button Style-Plus topcoat, that fairly bristled with style.

Juliana Shop Styles.
One always expects smart styles from the Juliana Shop, as it has always favored of the exclusive, and its name alone makes it distinctly "Frenchy," and those who watched the promenade of fashions were not disappointed last night when their models displayed gowns, hats and coats of the most assured vogue.

Miss Iva Williams modeled a terra cotta frock, of great charm. It was of rick fabric, with trimmings of popular side fullness, with embroidered medallions at both sides. A small hat of velvet of the same shade, with metallic trimmings, completed this effective and stunning costume.

Miss Alpha Winston of Eastland wore a blue charmeen two-piece jumper style frock, that was chic in every way. Mesh bag bandings around the lower part of the waist-line were its trimmings, while a blue and silver hat added the necessary touches to complete its effectiveness. It was a long sleeved, high necked model.

A midnight blue satin, with deep pockets of velvet, embroidered in gold, with bands of the same embroidery on cuffs and high collar, was worn by Mrs. J. A. Shackelford. This frock showed a straight front, with pleated sides, and its trimmings were a smart departure in designing. With this charming frock, was worn a black and gold lace hat of fetching style.

Miss Bess Chastain wore a strikingly beautiful work of black crepe back satin, with full tucked skirt and recordion pleats, with a jump style neckline. Pockets were of red and gold, embroidered in red and gold beads, which designs were cleverly carried out in the high neck and the tips of the long sleeves. A black hat completed this smart costume.

An afternoon dress that stressed the fashion's trend, was worn by Miss Alpha Winston. It was a combination of rich fabrics and trimmings. The skirt of the dress was a handkerchief effect, of blonde crepe with edges picoted. This was over an underdress of the same material, trimmed in copper bandings of panne velvet. An overwaist, almost basque-like in effect, was in the shades of copper, green and lavender velvet, and terminated in scalloped, a long waistline, through which was interwoven a copper panne velvet sash. A black and gold hat completed this charming ensemble.

Another distinctively lovely dinner gown was worn by Miss Bess Chastain. It was a blonde lace creation, trimmed with plumes of black satin, made over an apple green underdress, banded in black. A black and gold lace hat was featured with this costume. In coats, two distinctive models were displayed. Miss Iva Williams appearing in a mahogany brown needle point, flare side coat, trimmed with a brown fox collar, and finished with brown fox on the bottom of the full flared skirt, a age hat in the same colors was worn his handsome coat.

Miss Shackelford modeled a handsome needle point coat, showing brown fox collar and cuffs, with patches of the same fur on the skirt lapels, which were also embroidered in a lovely two-toned effect. She wore with this an imported velour. E. H. & A. Davis Styles.

Display of styles were not confined to those who deal in women's wear, for E. H. & A. Davis made a splendid showing. Their clothes were modeled by Gus Coleman, of the Southern Ice Utilities company, and Mr. Fletcher of the Tee Pee C. & O. company of Thurber. However, they did not confine themselves to men altogether for their models, for it required women to show to advantage those splendid coats that Hart Schaffner & Marx have made possible for women's wear. Miss Bess Chastain and Miss Iva Williams appeared in two splendid coats. Miss Williams displayed a coat of large checks, in heather shades, trimmed smartly with leather, and with its smartly patch pockets topped with two wooden-like buttons, with a grey squirrel collar completing its effectiveness. This model suggested autumn in its lovely shades and is a creation that any designer could well be proud of. Miss Bess Chastain wore a good looking tan sport coat, of Hart Schaffner & Marx make, which showed an orange stripe running the length of the coat, and was striking for its simplicity and its wonderful tailoring.

Gus Coleman said "it with a smile" as he trod before the footlights for the first time during the evening, clad in a dark blue, two-button, double-breasted Hart Schaffner & Marx suit that was called an "extreme sport suit." It was, for it boasted the new bag Oxford trousers and all the hall marks of a real sports suit. Mr. Coleman wore with this suit a Dobbs gray hat, trimmed in black. In his next appearance he wore a three-button, peaked lapel, straight trousered business suit, in a ground color, showing an invisible stripe. He also displayed a Hart Schaffner & Marx sport overcoat, in gray, the reverse side of which showed a pretty plaid design. He wore a hat to match and carried light tan gloves, and wore light tan oxfords.

Mr. Fletcher wore a gray plaid wool topcoat, showing tiny stripe, and wore a grey Stetson hat. This was a natty coat with all the hallmarks of good tailoring. Another suit that was displayed by Mr. Fletcher was a double-breasted Hart Schaffner & Marx model in grey, coat showing three buttons, peaked lapels and the trousers the popular flare bottom. A brown Hart Schaffner & Marx suit made single-breasted style, with two-button sack coat was the third clever model displayed by Mr. Fletcher.

Tonight J. M. White, the S. & H. store and The Globe will display further styles and the Liberty theatre will show a splendid program. "Sun Up" is the title of the clever play billed for this evening, with a splendid cast. Style show begins at 8:30 and lasts one hour. Friends and patrons of the various merchants and of the Liberty theatre are cordially invited to be present.

S. & H. STORE TO HAVE DISPLAY OF FUR COATS
The S. & H. store has brought to their store for the style show and for stock some of the finest fur coats ever shown west of Fort Worth or Dallas. These wonderful coats will be displayed tonight and tomorrow night at the style show at the Liberty theatre. These coats are the most exploited styles and are fascinating in their luxuriousness and colorings. One coat is a $3,000 natural mole skin with collars and cuffs of grey squirrel, lined with bright fuschia crepe, with hand-embroidered designs. Another is a $2,000 grey squirrel coat, very beautiful in style and quality. A mink coat that retails for $1,800 is another handsome coat. This model is trimmed with fox. A natural squirrel with grey fox trimmings, which retails for $2,000 will also be displayed at the style show tonight. These are indeed handsome coats, the very last word in correct fur wearing and the S. & H. store is to be congratulated in presenting this handsome collection of fur coats for the pleasure of its friends and patrons in Ranger.

BRAZIL TO CONTRACT FOR NEW SUBMARINE

RIO DE JANEIRO (By mail to the United Press).—Jornal do Brazil, daily newspaper of Rio de Janeiro, states that the Brazilian Government has decided to contract with the Fiat San Georgio Company of Spezia, Italy, for the construction of a modern submarine for the Brazilian navy. With this new ship the submarine fleet of the Brazilian navy will consist of four vessels. It is understood that the new submarine will cost Brazil something like 12,000,000 mil-reis or approximately $1,200,000.

Stage Setting For Ranger Style Show Wins Admiration

At a total cost of less than $20 for equipment and property, Earl J. Brewer, a Ranger newspaper man, connected with the advertising department of the Times, did all the stage settings and decorations for the style show at the Liberty theatre in Ranger last night, evoking admiration from visitors within and out of the city and creating a real sensation in stage decorations.

Given a few flowers and ornaments picked up here and there, going to the native forests for the sylvan settings, and utilizing one back curtain of suggestive import, Brewer made a garden scene with trellaces, flowers, vines, forest trees and tea tables on the lawn pronounced by connoisseurs one of the most charming stage settings seen in any city. The work was a labor of love, it is said, for which Ranger merchants are warm in their praise.

MAY SEYMOUR FOOT LOOSE

by BEATRICE BURTON ONEA

THE STORY SO FAR:

May Seymour, whose husband, Dr. John Seymour, killed himself because of her love affair with Jim Carewe, returns to her home town after a year's absence.

Heavily veiled, she comes late one fall night to the home of her lawyer, Dick Gregory, and Gloria, his wife. She tells them how the story of Dr. John's suicide has cast a shadow over her life. And so she has made up her mind to "sell out" and go to Europe where no one will know her story.

She asks Ulysses X. Forgan, a wealthy widower who is in the real estate business, to sell her house. Forgan advises her to live in it and face the people who have slandered her, but May says she wants to be footloose.

She begs Dick to sell her holdings at once for whatever they will bring. All she wants, she explains, is enough money to keep her afloat for a year while she hunts a new husband. She frankly admits that she is going to marry for money, if possible.

A week later, with $8,000 in her handbag, May sets out for Atlantic City, for a rest before sailing for Europe. On the train she shyly flirts with a handsome blond man. He registers at her hotel as "Herbert Waterbury," and May sees him that evening in the restaurant. He follows her out onto the Boardwalk, and tries to speak to her.

May hurries back to the hotel, and sits down in the lobby to listen to the orchestra. A small, fair-haired woman sitting next to her, asks her some questions about the music. And while they are talking, Waterbury comes up and addresses the little blond woman as "Carlotta."

"Carlotta" asks him to sit down, and tries to draw May into their conversation.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY: The little blond woman laid one of her plump hands upon Waterbury's coat sleeve.

"Herbie," she said, in a pleading voice, "do take me away from this music. If I listen to much more of it, I'm going to burst into bitter tears or chew up the lobby, or sump'n, would you, Herbie?"

May heard Waterbury give a deep laugh. "Well, you know you don't have to stay here," he said, and then the booming tide of music drowned out the sound of his voice.

May leaned forward in her chair and stole a look at him. Yes, without doubt, he was very handsome seen thus, at close range. True enough, the corners of his mouth were loose, but the thick mass of his hair was like a bronze helmet. And his deep-set eyes were startlingly blue in his tanned face.

They met May's suddenly, and she felt her heart give a leap. She looked quickly away.

Then the sound of his voice came again. He was saying something in an undertone to the woman whom he called "Carlotta." And she turned abruptly to May.

"You're like I am—all dressed up and no place to go," she said brightly. "How would you like to step out for an hour or so, with me and my friend, Mr. Waterbury? We thought we'd take in a movie or a show, perhaps."

It was on May's lips to refuse. But with a willful little toss of her head, she said: "All right, I'd love to go!"

Where, she asked herself, was the joy of being footloose if you couldn't do what you wanted to do? To go anywhere? To have adventures? The words, "Live dangerously," flashed through her mind. This was not "living dangerously" exactly—but still, it smacked of danger!

After all, she knew nothing of these two people. They might be a pair of deep-dyed crooks, for all she knew. For all she cared!

"I didn't get your name, Miss—?" the little blond Carlotta said, questioning.

"It's not 'Miss.' It's 'Mrs.' Mrs. Seymour," May answered, her eyes fixed on Waterbury's, as she spoke.

"And I," said Carlotta, "am Mrs. Frolking."

Her eyes swept May's mourning gown and her black lace scarf. "I'm a widow, too," she added, dimpling. "Not so, though. Grass!"

She laughed as light-heartedly as a child, and her eyes twinkled up merrily at May.

"Well! Where do we go from here? March!" she said and stood. Waterbury's eyes questioned May.

"What would you like to do, Mrs. Seymour?" he asked. "Movies? Theatre? Or for a walk?"

May raised her chin defiantly. "I've had my after-dinner stroll, Mr. Waterbury," she said. "I think I should like to go to see Adoree dance, if you don't mind."

"Adoree it shall be, then!" he answered. And the three started down the long lobby, arm in arm.

Adoree's little supper club was a few doors away from the Boardwalk, in a noisy side street.

Its walls were white, and it was carpeted with brilliant red velvet that muffled the footfalls of the trio, as they followed a waiter to a table in the corner.

Tonight it was almost deserted. "It's only 10 o'clock," Carlotta said, consulting the little jeweled watch on her wrist. "Terrible, awful early, isn't it?"

"I like the quiet, for a change. The clatter and the chatter get to be pretty tiresome after a while," Waterbury said in a low tone. He had not taken his eyes from May's face since they had entered the restaurant. And May was thrillingly aware of it.

She leaned back in her chair, longing to look at him, again—but not daring to!

She tried to fix her mind upon Carlotta Frolking.

Was Carlotta in love with this Waterbury man, she wondered. Was he in love with her? And how did they happen to know each other so well?

These questions pattered through May's brain, while her eyes studied Carlotta's face. It was not a young face, despite its youthful color. The red mouth was lined with hardness, and there was a network of fine wrinkles at the corner of each eye.

As May watched her, she frowned and groaned.

"Don't look, Herbie," she said. "Dan Sprague's over there all by himself in the opposite corner. If he sees us, he'll come over here—and I don't want to talk to him!"

She burst into a sudden radiant smile and turned to May. "One of my suitors—Dan Sprague!" she giggled. "And I just get bored to death with his do-you-love-me-today-as-well-as-you-did-yesterday way of wooing me! Honestly, he's sickening!"

Neither May nor Waterbury answered her. And after a moment she heaved a great sigh.

"Well, I suppose we may as well send the waiter over for him," she said. "He's sure to see us sooner or later, anyway. Call the waiter, Herbie."

Waterbury's eyes met May's, and he winked at her and laughed. May noticed how very white and even his teeth were, and what a nice smile he had—quite the nicest smile that she had ever seen, she decided.

"I hope you're not taken in by this little vaudeville skit of Lotta's, Mrs. Seymour," he said, chuckling. "As a matter of fact, she's wild about old Dan, and is dying to get him over here. All right, Lotta, we'll let you have your way."

He summoned the waiter with a slight lifting of his head.

"Please ask the gentleman in the corner to come over to Mr. Waterbury's table," he said.

May watched the long, lean figure of Dan Sprague rise from its table in the far corner and come toward them. He was not at all good-looking in the ordinary way. But there was something curiously attractive in his sallowness and sharp black eyes. His face seemed familiar, too. Who was it that he resembled, she wondered as she shook his hand.

"King Alfonso!" she said aloud. The other three laughed.

"What d'you mean, King Alfonso?" Sprague asked, in his drawing voice, as he sagged into a chair beside her.

"You look like him," May answered.

"I wish I had his money," Dan Sprague observed dryly.

The word "money" brought a sudden thought of her own $8,000 to May's mind. She passed her hand quickly over the beaded bag in her lap. Yes it was still there—the roll of $500 bills. Thank goodness!

Her heart almost stopped beating as she thought of losing it! It was not the money she would mind losing, but the things it could buy for her—clothes, jewels, perfumes. She made up her mind, decisively, to go shopping in the morning. She would show this Herbert Waterbury how really stunning she could be!

She turned to him and spoke rapidly in a low tone.

"How long are you going to be here in Atlantic City?" she asked, boldly.

Just as she found it, the heavy bag

slipped from her lap, and fell on the floor.

"I'm going to be here as long as you're here," she said, smiling into her face.

"I see," May answered flatly.

She watched the waiter set down a bowl of cracked ice, some glasses, and ginger ale upon the table.

"I think I saw you in the train this afternoon, Mr. Waterbury," she said.

He laughed. "You more than think you saw me. You know you did!" he said. "And you saw me in the dining room at the hotel tonight, didn't you? You knew I was looking at you, didn't you? And you wouldn't look at me."

May gave a keen, inward sigh. "You spoiled my appetite," she answered. "I couldn't eat—because you stared so!"

Again Waterbury summoned the waiter. "Four club sandwiches, and some stuffed celery and ripe olives," he ordered.

Then he looked down at May again. "Poor little thing! Did it miss its dinner? And is it hungry?" he asked.

May flushed with embarrassment. "I'm not hungry!" she said. "And you expect me to eat four club sandwiches?"

Waterbury shook his handsome head. "I thought the rest of us might help you out with them," he said. There was a flicker of humor in his light-blue eyes.

"What will you have in your ginger ale?" he asked, sliding a silver flask from his pocket.

"Nothing, thanks," May answered. "I never drink."

She wished, at that moment, that she had not come out with these strangers. If she had been cold and dignified, Waterbury would not have dared to "kid" her about her loss of appetite.

She felt a slow flush creeping over her face. And she bent her head, and fumbled in her bag for her powder box.

Just as she found it, the heavy bag

slipped from her lap, and fell on the floor.

May bent to pick it up, but Waterbury had it in his hand almost instantly. "Allow me," he said, and laid it on the table.

The draw-string had loosened, and above it showed the edge of May's huge roll of bills, like the edges of wilted lettuce leaves.

"Holy Mackinaw!" Dan Sprague exclaimed suddenly. "What's Mrs. Seymour been doing—robbing a bank?"

May laughed nervously. "Hardly that!" she said. "If I were going to bother about robbing a bank, I'd get more than $8,000, I hope!"

Waterbury's eyes, wide open with amazement, were fixed on the roll of bills with a glassy stare.

PEOPLE AVOID YOU IF YOU ARE PIMPLY

A boy or girl may have ever so perfect a face, neck and pose, but if even one little pimple, blotch, bump or red spot shows, it ruins their whole appearance.

These things are no longer to be endured, however, because thousands of people are getting rid of the worst and most stubborn cases of such skin diseases easily and quickly by using Black and White Ointment, and Soap.

Dealers everywhere are recommending Black and White Ointment and Soap, now. They are economically priced in liberal size packages.

THOUSANDS OF WOMEN BEING RELEASED DAILY

The Nurturing Work of the Nation's Authorities, Brings Freedom From Hereditary Bondage for Women.

The age-old impression of the natural inferiority of women to the prowess of man has been too readily and almost wholly indulged in by women themselves.

St. Joseph's G. F. P. is making female weakness, painful and irritating periods, headaches, depression, melancholy and the attendant imaginations of inferiority a shadow of the past.

St. Joseph's G. F. P. will help nature fulfill the obligation which she is due you. Thousands of grateful girls and women are praising it as only the tender hearts of our mothers, daughters and sister can convey.

DRAMA OF POCAHONTAS WILL OPEN RING PROGRAM AT AL G. BARNES WILD ANIMAL CIRCUS

For those who love stories of the Indians, and the strange and perilous adventures of white men in dealing with the forest tribes, a remarkable anecdote of life in the Virginia woodlands three centuries ago, brilliantly portrayed by a gigantic staff of living actors, including three tribes of Indians, will be seen at Ranger, Wednesday, Oct. 21, when the Al G. Barnes largest wild animal circus in the world comes to town.

The historic feature, "Pocahontas at the Court of Queen Anne," an extravaganza, opens the big program in which 2,000 wild educated animals from every clime under the sun is represented in daring and thrilling acts.

Indians from the famous "Painted Desert" of Arizona, the cactus-covered plains of Nevada and the wild, rolling hills of New Mexico, are included in the gigantic pageant.

There will also be 100 bathing beauties from the "sunkist" shores of Southern California, all of whom have been trained extensively for their parts in some of the best motion picture, dramatic, dancing and singing studios on the west coast.

The celebrated "Sacred Snake Dance" enacted by Hopi Indians clad in skins of wild animals, will be seen.

The savages, crazed by the beating of tom-toms, actually wind squirming, deadly rattlesnakes about their half-naked bodies and thrust the heads of the poisonous reptiles in their mouths during the weird ceremony.

You will also see the giant gorilla man—Joe Martin, himself. And last, but not least, you'll see Lotus, five-ton, largest and only blood-sweating hippopotamus in the world.

BEAUMONT—Bids requested for ferry across Neches river, connecting two links of Port Arthur-Orange highway.

Eastland Getting Ready For Game With Breckenridge High

By JAMES C. NUNN Jr.

Coach Adams of Eastland High is whipping his men into shape this week for the game Saturday with the Breckenridge Buckaroos, which, it is expected, will be the most severe combat that will be seen at Connelley park this season, with possibly the exception of the Cisco game.

Although the Mavericks expect to win, they are preparing for a tough fight. This will be the first class A game to be played here this year and the winner has a good chance to be the champion of the oil belt district.

A large crowd will witness the game, as all Eastland is backing the Mavericks and confidently expect them to win. It is also understood that a large delegation of boosters and football fans from Breckenridge will accompany the Buckaroos to Eastland for the game.

Ed Cox is now at his best, weighing 190 pounds. He will probably participate in the entire game. The Mavericks are pinning their hopes on their two "fleet-footed" halves, Seastrunk and Hunt, to advance the pigskin down the field.

Harrison and Zaratofnetis, the Buckaroos' main stays, will not be able to gain much territory on Matthews and Garrett or around Day and Laffoon, thereby lessening Breckenridge's chances of crossing the goal line.

The outcome of the Breckenridge-Brownwood game last week put added confidence in the Mavericks' camp since the Buckaroos had heretofore been reported as irresistible.

Longhorns To Play Vanderbilt This Week

Special Correspondence.

AUSTIN, Oct. 7.—With two preliminary games out of the way as victories, the University of Texas Longhorns turn this week-end to Vanderbilt, the big game of the early season.

The Commodores, still smarting from the 1923 defeat at the hands of the Steers, are expected to send their full force of brains and brawn against Texas at Nashville Saturday, and from all early season indications, the Longhorns go into the game as the underdogs.

Two first string men are out of the Texas line-up as a result of injuries received in the victory over Mississippi here last week. Maurice Stallter, halfback, went out of the game with a crippled arm, and Ox Higgins, tackle, sustained body injuries. Neither of these men, both of them capable performers, will be able to take the field against Vanderbilt.

Johnny Estes, fast and heady back from the 1924 freshmen, will likely be called on to fill Stallter's shoes, and either Murray Moore or Bob Homan will replace Higgins.

Thus the Texans will probably line up about like this when they take the field at Nashville: Newell and Baldwin or Terrell, ends; Moore or Homan and Thompson, tackles; Sewell and Penney, guards; Pfankuche, center; Wright, quarter; Saxon and Estes, halves; Rufus King, fullback.

Substitutes sure to see service before the game is over include Gooch, tackle; Joe King, half, and Coffey, end. Fred Thompson, one of the best punters on the squad, is still out with an early season injury.

RANGER TIMES BOYS ORGANIZE FOOTBALL TEAM

A new football team was organized by the Ranger Times boys to play the other teams. The lineup has not been made yet, but will be announced later.

The players are as follows: Onia Mills, Allan Baker, Tom McClanahan, Ed Baker, Moorman Wagoner, Charley Black, Estes Horton, D. M. Case, Fred Grant, Paul Higginbotham. The other play will have to be picked out.

SUCCESS MUST BE BUILT ON SOMETHING REAL

Chesterfield has earned its present position among the world's cigarettes on taste alone

YOU never heard of a red-blooded person—man or woman—becoming a nervous wreck! And you never will. You never saw anybody with healthy, rich, red blood, get wearied by the activities of daily life. Did you?

No! Its weak blood—lack of healthy, rich, red blood. That's the whole trouble with those whose nerves are overwrought. They lack the resisting powers—the stamina that healthy, red-blood-cells give that enable us to stand up under the strain of daily life.

S. S. S. is the salvation of those unhappy people. It is just the thing needed to strengthen the nerves, restore muscular power to the body, and increase the endurance of weak, falling, run-down women and men.

Don't keep on going down simply because your blood is starving for want of healthy, red-blood-cells. You can get back your nerve power with S. S. S. You can do it just as surely as thousands have done for the past century.

S. S. S. also clears the skin of pimples, boils, eczema—hollow cheeks fill out and firm flesh takes the place of flabby muscles. Why, you'll begin living all over again. Get S. S. S. today from any good druggist. And get the larger bottle. It's more economical.

Twenty Millions Already Expended on Cleveland's Projected Union Depot

By United Press.
CLEVELAND, Ohio. — Working like mites on some huge yellow leaf, gangs of men are scratching a great scar on the earth here for one of the largest undertakings of its kind in the world.

More than 200 buildings have been torn down and nearly one fourth that many more are to come down to make room for the gigantic project. Twenty millions of dollars have been spent, armies of workmen and tons of machinery have sweated and steamed for more than a year on the new Union Depot here is still in its preliminary stage.

When the project is completed a tower will pierce Cleveland's skyline 50 stories from the ground. The Cuyahoga River will be spanned with a 200-foot bridge carrying eight railroad tracks, all equipped for electric operation of trains.

Thirteen tracks and six platforms are to be provided. Each of the platforms will be 29 feet wide. The tracks will be from 1,140 to 1,500 feet long.

As viewed from the main entrance, the building will present a concave front. The tower will rise up from the center of the concavity on a wide platform on each side with lower building structures. The entrance of the building will be at the base of the tower. An emerald loggia, 60 feet high, will shelter pedestrians who enter.

Five of the arches will lead into a large entrance lobby, 150 feet wide and 50 feet high. From which easy access may be had to all station facilities, including the station concourse.

Two side entrances connect with commuter and rapid transit facilities. Trains entering Cleveland will be changed from steam to electric drive. This will be done by the Nickel Plate Railroad, for which Cleveland is the terminal point. Other tracks operating tracks into the station will be the Erie and Big Four.

The station is being put up by the Van Swearingen brothers, and will cost $60,000,000.

approval to "abolish the terrible national disgrace" of the Yoshiwara.

More than 150 social organizations are participating in the campaign, which will be in full swing this month.

Probably no country in the world has more licensed prostitutes than Japan. And Japanese who have traveled in Western countries are keenly aware of the criticism of the Occident against the great red light districts.

It may be explained that the Japanese hitherto have not looked upon red light districts with the same feeling as Westerners. In fact, heretofore a mother could legally sell her daughter into a house of the Yoshiwara; it was deemed simply a business transaction. And, sometimes the girl came out later with a comfortable income assured her, and without any brand of shame.

Estimated that Grayson County will produce not less than 50,000 bales of cotton this year.

REFORMERS IN JAPAN ATTACK WHITE SLAVERY

By United Press.

TOKIO, Oct. 6.—Japanese reformers have started a movement to eliminate the Yoshiwara, center of "white slavery" in the Orient.

Certain members of the privy council have been approached by the reform leaders and have agreed to support the campaign for gradual elimination of white slavery on the basis of the league of nation's convention for prohibition of the traffic in women and children for immoral purposes.

A section of the council is reported in favor of approving the convention "with reservations," while others, including Dr. Baron Yamakawa, advocate full and immediate

Special Exhibit

You are Invited to take a picture trip through an automobile plant

Learn how quality is attained with modern production methods! This week we are making a special photographic exhibit illustrating the precision methods by which quality is achieved in the manufacture of the modern motor car.

Showing the Reason for Quality at Low Cost

The exhibit consists of 40 remarkable photographs of the most interesting processes in modern automobile manufacture. It will provide the same interesting knowledge that you would get by taking a trip through the plants where Chevrolet cars are built. Each picture is accompanied by a full description of the operation it illustrates. It is an exhibit of unusual interest and value. Bring the children.

SKUNK SERVED AUTHOR AS COLLECTION AGENT

Carl Clausen, in the October McClure's, has told us fiction a story of a remarkable hold-up of a moving picture director. The anecdote has gone the rounds of the studios in almost the same form that it has been written as a short story.

The hero of the story and of the adventure collected the balance due him upon a repudiated contract by "sticking up" an entire studio office. But instead of a revolver he used as his weapon a tame skunk.

EXCLUSIVE MODELS

Interpreted By J. M. White & Co. For Fall Wear

Coats—Fur Embellished

—Fur embellishes the most luxurious Fall and Winter Coats. Rich new fabrics in the colors—tanager, queenbird, swallow, russet and shades of blue, brown and green. Bright blacks are much favored. Gay embroideries or with no trimming at all will be worn to a great extent. Flares are important in coats as well as dresses; the circular flare is most used.

Lovely Woolen Frocks

—Lovely Woolen Frocks of mirrolean, charmeen and poiret twills, flannels and sport flannels in the new Fall shades await your selection. Sleeves are long and are most of them tight fitting, others are tightly cuffed. When the flare isn't used the inverted pleat in front or back or both front and back is used very effectively.

Heavy Silk Frocks

—With the coming of cool weather the heavier Silk Frocks will be worn. Heavy satins, satin back crepes and heavy novelty crepes will feature these Silk Frocks. Fur is used to a great extent. Sleeves are loose and tightly cuffed, skirts flare or are full all around. Neck lines reveal the collar effect, drawn tightly about the neck with a ribbon tie. Blacks are most favored, russets and blues follow.

The Small Fall Hat

—The small shape is being worn by so many this Fall. Turban effects in brimless and with the small upturned brims, in front or on one side or up and down on the other. Feathers and bright pins very cleverly used add that much coveted touch of individual charm. Blacks, russets, purples, blues and greens lead. Bright applique flowers and metallic braids claim their own.

New Gloves and Purses

—Kid Gloves in wrist lengths with the turn back fancy cuff in browns and black will be worn with the coat, wooler and heavy silk frocks. Tight wrist Gloves will still be a stand by, priced $3.50 pair and up.

—Hand Stamped Leather Bags, in browns and shining blacks, with an inlaid pattern of many colors.

BAKER HOTEL IN DALLAS WILL RANK AMONG FINEST IN SOUTH

Special Correspondence.

DALLAS, Oct. 7.—The Baker hotel, said by many to be the "south's finest convention hotel," rising on the site of the Oriental hotel, long the famous hostelry in this city, is to be formally opened next Friday. The hotel is 18 stories in height, built of reinforced concrete, faced with brick, terra cotta and stone, has 700 rooms and cost about $5,000,000. Its convention hall on the second floor has seating capacity for 1,750 persons. Its roof garden, occupying the seventeenth floor, has a seating capacity of 2,100 persons. The entire second floor of the hotel, occupied by the convention room, banquet rooms, mezzanine lounge, ladies' parlor and Akard street veranda, has a capacity of public receptions or convention parties of 3,500 persons.

The hotel has the largest kitchen and dining facilities in the state and probably in the south, being able to care for 7,500 persons each meal time. It has a coffee shop, cafeteria, seven private dining or banquet rooms and two convention banquet rooms.

Highway Money Provides Fuel for Sensation

ing L. W. Kemp. The friends of the administration, of course, question the motives that actuate Kemp in telling these things and in going before the county judges and commissioners with his story. They say that he has been in the employ of the Texas Company and that he has an axe to grind, as the saying is usually employed.

It is apparent, however, that the enemies of the Ferguson administration have seized upon the charges made by Kemp as good political campaign thunder and that the real facts will sooner or later be brought to light in regard to the letting of these contracts, so that the public may be informed before they do any voting or elect another governor of Texas in 1926.

Frank Lanham Chairman.

The chairman of the present highway commission under the present administration is Frank V. Lanham, a son of a former governor of Texas and a brother of Congressman Fritz Lanham of the Fort Worth congressional district. Mr. Lanham, before his selection as chairman of the highway commission, was a paving contractor, who had at one time been connected with the Bithulithic company, and whose experience as a paving contractor, road builder and business man, eminently qualified him for the position he holds. The inference drawn from the charges made in regard to irregularities and favoritism in the letting of contracts, so far as Mr. Lanham is concerned, is that he has been partial to friends and possibly former business associates engaged in the same line of endeavor as himself, which he emphatically denies, answering his critics by saying that he has never taken and never will take a dishonest dollar in the conduct of his business.

In refutation of the charges made in regard to the American Road company, Mr. Lanham mentioned the name of a well known contractor connected with that company, known to be his warm friend, as being above reproach in all things. It is known in this connection that shortly after taking office of chairman of the highway commission, Mr. Lanham made this same man refund to the state a sum in excess of $17,000, which had been overpaid to him through error, which seems to show that even if the man was his friend he nevertheless made him "come across" with a big refund.

That "Supplemental" Contract.

The firm of Haden & Austin, of Houston, who bid 17 cents per yard on the Harris County resurfacing contract, appeared before the highway commission last Friday, ready to take over the 32-cent contract previously let by the commission to another firm, and it developed that there had been a "supplemental" contract with the firm doing the work that at the time did not appear to show on the minutes. In the absence of a peep at this supplemental agreement, the new firm refused to sign the contract, Chairman Lanham, stating that he thought the supplemental agreement had been sent to Houston for use in the law suit pending there. The firm bidding 17 cents per yard very naturally wanted to see all of the contract before undertaking the work, but expressed a willingness to put a check for bond and sign the contract as soon as the contents of this supplemental agreement had been examined, provided it contained nothing more onerous than the minutes of the highway department showed with reference to the work.

Meantime, there is much talk of a "probe" of the whole matter and Attorney General Dan Moody has secured from the highway department data for examination, which indicates that some move may be made by him as the chief legal adviser of the state of Texas. The public is evincing much interest in these matters and will await the outcome with more or less impatience.

archbishop of Canterbury in the Church of England, Rt. Rev. Ethelbert Talbot, D.D., bishop of Bethlehem, is the present presiding bishop of the Episcopal church, by right of seniority. Rt. Rev. Thomas F. Gaither, D.D., bishop of Tennessee, is the president of the national council of the church, that being the executive and administrative body of the communion in the periods between the meetings of the general conventions. Under the constitution of the church, this year's convention will select a head of the church in the United States, who will combine at once the offices of both presiding bishop and president of the council, who will serve for a period of six years.

The makeup of the Episcopal convention parallels that of the congress of the United States in that it is composed of a house of bishops, comparing with the senate, who are the heads of the dioceses and missionary districts of the church throughout the world, and a house of deputies, who correspond to congressmen elected to represent the church at large in the various dioceses. This parallel with the federal government is carried out in the national council, the president of which corresponds to the president of the United States, while the heads of the six departments of the council stand in the same relation to him as do the members of the cabinet at Washington to the president. All legislation enacted by the convention must secure a majority vote in both houses.

The forthcoming convention will call together about 4,000 representative workers of the church in their various capacities, including every field of business and professional activities in the United States. Meeting concurrently with the church convention, the triennial convocation of the women's auxiliary will also be held in New Orleans with about 500 delegates, representing half a million women from all parts of the world. The approaching convention will be one of the most important and interesting that has ever been held by the Episcopal church.

NIMROD NEWS

NIMROD, Oct. 7.—Almost everyone in this community is busy picking cotton.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hardin of Ballard were recent visitors in the community.

Mr. and Mrs. Pete Pollock of Rising Star were Sunday guests at the Ben Westerman home.

Word has been received here of the death of C. M. Erwin of Snyder. Mr. Erwin was a former resident of Nimrod and has many friends here, who extend sympathy to the bereaved wife and children.

Miss Carrie Brown of El Dorado, Ark., is visiting her mother, Mrs. Emma Brown.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Grady of Gunsight were guests of Mr. Grady's sister, Mrs. W. N. Compton, Sunday.

Rev. Mr. Richardson of Seranton filled his regular appointment here Saturday night and Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Harrelson of Romney attended church services here Sunday and were dinner guests of their daughter, Mrs. Alton Westerman.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Tucker of Pleasant Hill visited Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Hardin last Friday.

Roy Townsend of the Cook community was in this community recently, looking for cotton pickers.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Laster were called to Long Branch last Saturday to the bedside of Mrs. Lasater's grandfather, Mr. Grist. He had a stroke of paralysis and died Tuesday.

Mr. Allen, who is employed by a motor company at Cisco, visited homefolks here Sunday.

Harl O'Brien of Lamesa is visiting here.

Mr. and Mrs. Noah of Carbon were here Sunday evening. Mr. Noah is the principal for the Nimrod school for the coming term.

MOVIE PICTURES SHOW DEFECTS IN FOOTBALL

AUSTIN, Sept. 24.—Faulty plays made by University of Texas Longhorns will be brought home to them when they see themselves in the moving pictures which have just been taken of their practice plays under the direction of Coach E. J. Stewart with a movie camera owned by Luther Stark of Orange, chairman of the University Board of Regents and an ardent football fan. About 150 feet of film were exposed showing some of the greatest defects among the Longhorns.

Coach Stewart took moving pictures of his men while roach at the University of Nebraska with success. He finds the men will work harder when they see their own faults. It is said that Texas is the first school in Texas to adopt this method of instruction in football.

Ceremony Uniting Church and Its Auxiliaries at Central Baptist Church

An impressive ceremony to unite more close the church with its auxiliaries attracted a record attendance at the Central Baptist church Sunday night service. In the family pews, roped off in front of the pulpit, sat the officers of the Women's Missionary union with their husbands; Mr. and Mrs. Haden Neal, as the father and mother of the bride, and Mr. and Mrs. J. N. McFatter as the parents of the bridegroom.

The pulpit and choir platform were prettily decorated with potted plants and cut flowers, the vines about the posts making an altar where the pastor, Rev. A. L. Leake, awaited the arrival of the bridal party. Miss Joy Leake sang "My Savior" and "O Promise Me," with organ accompaniment by Leo M. Underwood.

The attendants, preceding the bride, were: Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Bruce as Mr. and Mrs. B. Y. P. U.; Mrs. B. D. Clark as Mrs. Alathean Class; B. D. Clark as Mr. Men's Bible Class; Roger Shook as Mr. Deacon's Son; Miss Emma Stephens as Miss Senior B. Y. P. U.; Timothy Tuettt Wier as son of T. E. L. Class, and Miss Zella Drake as Miss Church, sister of the bridegroom.

Miss Cublan Swoveland (Miss Fidelity) was maid of honor and Ray Boliver (Mr. Botham) was best man. Six little flower girls, beautifully dressed and spelling the word, "Sunbeam," were: Dorothy Jean Bruce, Dorothy McNeil; Irene Myers, Nona Fay Ervin, Mary Alice Pearson and Irene Myers. Elaine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Taylor, was ring bearer.

Mrs. W. M. Cross, as the attractive bride, was dressed in white net over satin, with veil and orange blossoms, representing Miss Women's Missionary society, entered on the arm of Mr. White, Sunday school superintendent, who gave her away to the bridegroom, Mr. W. M. Cross, who was Mr. Church.

The pastor read the ceremony, exacting promises from both the W. M. U. and the church that they would work together in union and support each other.

This impressive wedding was like a sermon in pictures. The idea has been carried out in a number of Baptist churches, it is said, and always is effective in teaching the lesson to be conveyed. Mrs. L. McNeil, president of the W. M. U., is given much credit for the success of the program.

A reconstructed dinosaur, that moves and seems to breathe, has just been built. Inside this lifesize model of the famous lizard-like animal that lived upon the earth millions of years ago, there are a number of electric motors. These move the head and tail and generally make it seem to be a living, a breathing animal instead of a prehistoric monster known only by grace of what fossilized remains have been unearthed.

ATE TOO FAST

South Carolinian Took Black-Draught For Indigestion, and Says He Could Soon Eat Anything.

Ballentine, S. C.—Mr. W. B. Bouknight, of this place, gave the following account of his use of Theford's Black-Draught.

"Just after I married I had indigestion. Working out, I got in the habit of eating fast, for which I soon paid by having a tight, bloated feeling after meals. This made me very uncomfortable. I would feel stupid and drowsy, didn't feel like working. I was told it was indigestion. Some one recommended Black-Draught and I took it after meals. I soon could eat anything any time.

"I use it for colds and biliousness and it will knock out a cold and carry away the bile better and quicker than any liver medicine I have ever found."

Eating too fast, too much, or faulty chewing of your food, often causes discomfort after meals. A pinch of Black-Draught, washed down with a swallow of water, will help to bring prompt relief. Bloating sensations, eructations, bad breath and other common symptoms of indigestion have disappeared after Black-Draught has been taken for several days. NC-164

THIS IS A STUDEBAKER YEAR

Pledge to the Public on Used Car Sales

All used cars offered to the public shall be honestly represented.

1. All used cars offered to the public shall be honestly represented.

If a car is suitable only for a mechanic who can rebuild it, or for some one who expects only a few months' rough use on a camping trip, it must be sold on that basis. Each car must be sold for just what it is.
2. All Studebaker automobiles which are sold as CERTIFIED CARS have been properly reconditioned, and carry a 30-day guarantee for replacement of defective parts and free service on adjustments.

This is possible because tremendous reserve mileage has been built into every Studebaker, which it is impossible to exhaust in years.
3. Every used car is conspicuously marked with its price in plain figures, and that price, just as the price of our new cars, is rigidly maintained.

The public can deal in confidence and safety only with the dealer whose policy is "one price only—the same price to all." For, to sell cars on this basis, every one of them must be honestly priced to begin with.
4. Every purchaser of a used car may drive it for five days, and then, if not satisfied for any reason, turn it back and apply the money paid as a credit on the purchase of any other car in stock—new or used.

It is assumed, of course, that the car has not been smashed up by collision or other accident in the meantime.

Not only to the public, but also to The Studebaker Corporation of America, whose cars we sell, we pledge adherence to the above policy in selling used cars.

OILBELT MOTOR CO.

The Studebaker Corporation of America takes pride and pleasure in announcing that the above Pledge is being carried out by

OILBELT MOTOR CO. INC.

RANGER EASTLAND WEST TEXAS BRECKENRIDGE

THE Pledge speaks for itself. It is a formal declaration of the fair and square attitude of Studebaker dealers toward the public. It is an assurance of honest dealing in a line of merchandising which in some times and places has fallen into ill repute. It is an assertion of confidence in the reserve mileage built into the sturdy "one-profit" Studebaker automobiles.

Firestone

Safety and Mileage For All Roads and Seasons

OPERATORS of large truck, bus and cab fleets must have rugged, long-mileage tires if they are to make money. That is why so many of them have standardized on Firestone. Experienced race drivers, almost to a man, equip with Firestone. Car owners can have this same extra safety and economy—by using Gum-Dipped Cords.

Gum-Dipping, the Firestone extra process, impregnates and insulates every fiber of every cord with rubber—insures greater safety and comfort over rough and sandy roads—builds extra strength and flexibility into the sidewalls—an exclusive feature that adds thousands of miles to the life of a tire.

Come in—let us save you money by equipping your car with a set of these wonderful tires—prices are still low.

WHY SO MANY TEACHERS QUIT THE PROFESSION

Five Leading Reasons Why Cause Of Education Suffers Annual Loss

This is for all Americans, but especially for parents and teachers. What is the matter with Education? Why do the most thoughtful and experienced educators annually discuss the problems of education, and yet—

One hundred and ten thousand teachers leave the profession every year? That number abandoned teaching in 1924. That number or more will give up teaching this year. A few of those who left were a good riddance but in losing many others the schools were drained of the finest teaching material America has produced.

Who will pay for this loss? Your child and mine.

In this generation of prosperity and materialism we have come to imagine that good education rests on foundations of brick and mortar and towering walls. We boast that we have the finest school buildings in the world. That is a splendid gesture, but it is not enough. In some places, where the fine buildings have been turned into educational factories for quantity production, it has become an irony, a farce. We have in mind a well trained, high-souled teacher from such a beautiful school building who in desperation recently said: "I do not even get a chance to learn all their names, I can not do justice to them or to myself. The whole system is wrong."

That woman reluctantly gave up teaching and entered the commercial world.

Her case is typical of thousands of others. Last year the National Education Association sent a questionnaire to one thousand teachers, just like her who had abandoned their profession. The answers the Association received revealed five conspicuous weaknesses in the teaching profession. Contrary to expectation, low salary was not the first of these. The chief causes for desertion were, as the teachers themselves expressed it:

1. "There is little respect for teachers. The public holds them in contempt."
2. "There is little hope for advancement. The average pay of a teacher does not make it possible for her to travel or to continue her higher education."
3. "Tenure of office is uncertain because of politics in many of the school systems. In many parts of the United States teachers hold their jobs not by competence, but by the will and the pleasure of an untrained, often illiterate, school board."

4. "Living conditions are intolerable for rural teachers who are required to live around with the various families during the year."
5. "The rulings against married teachers are unjust."

And in one year, for these and other reasons, one hundred and ten thousand fine, alert, inspired men and women equipped to mold a finer race were lost to the most important work that life holds.—From the Delinquent for October.

OUT OUR WAY

WHY MOTHERS GET GRAY— TAKING CARE OF THE NEIGHBORS CANARY.

BY WILLIAMS "LOST NIGGER MINE" LEGEND TRAILED BY HISTORIAN

AUSTIN.—After a month spent in trailing down legends, as he terms it, in the Big Bend country, J. Frank Dobie has returned to take up his duties as adjunct professor of English in the University of Texas.

Dobie is especially interested in the legend of the "Lost Nigger Mine," a version of which appeared in his collection of legends, issued in 1924. Dobie talked to 15 or 20 men from San Antonio to El Paso concerning the legend and secured many different versions of it, some of them from people who had hunted for the mine. Some few persons, he said, claim the mine is on the Texas side, but most people think it to be in Mexico across from Peagan Canyon. This legend, Dobie said, is more alive, more dramatic, and has more variations than nearly any other Texas legend.

In speaking of the publication of the Texas Folk Lore society, to be issued next spring, Dobie said it had not yet been determined whether or not it would be a miscellaneous volume, cowboys songs, legends, negro folk songs and the like. It has been stated that the society hoped to issue a volume of cowboy songs.

Devil's Food Cake

A delicious recipe by Mrs. Chitwood, who conducted the Cooking School Classes for the Telegram recently.

- 1/2 cup Crisco
- 2 cups sugar
- 2 sq. chocolate, in 1 cup boiling water; let simmer two minutes
- 2 eggs beaten separately
- 2 1/2 cups flour
- 1/2 teaspoon soda in 1/2 cup of sour milk
- 1/2 teaspoon salt

Cream Crisco thoroughly. Add sugar gradually. Add egg yolks beaten thick and lemon colored. Beat well. Add a little flour, then chocolate and water alternately with rest of flour. Add sour milk, and soda. Fold in whites of eggs. Bake in moderate oven for forty-five minutes.

Icing: 1 cup sugar, 1/2 cup hot water. Boil to soft ball. Pour one-third syrup over two well-beaten egg whites. Continue beating while remainder cooks until it spins a thread. Add to egg mixture. Add one teaspoon vanilla. Spread over cake, when cool.

Mrs. Chitwood Says:

My Crisco cakes are always lovely. Hardly anyone who eats them can tell they were made without butter. And they stay fresh and delicious a wonderfully long time.

REAL OPTIMISM.

Referring to "Loafers in Hollywood"

A handsome men's suit model named Basil came to Hollywood some time ago and withstood quite a siege of enforced "loafing."

Yesterday he told a friend of mine about his great good fortune.

"I've got a job," related Basil, "and in Mr. Buchowetzki's picture, too. It's going to be a big picture, and I have a big part."

"What do you play?" my friend asked.

"Oh, I'm a cadet. It's a Russian picture, and there are 29,000 other cadets in the picture, but I've been promised a real opportunity in it."

"But," protested my friend, "they can't pay you much; after all, it's only an extra part. What do they give you—$5 a day?"

"Oh, no," exclaimed Basil. "I get $10 a day, and last week I worked two full days."

"I've just rented an apartment, and my prospects are so good, I'm going to get married next week!" And that's a true story. Talk about Bohemia—oh, you Hollywood.

(Items for this department must be placed in to the Fence Rider by 12 o'clock daily in order to insure their insertion. Don't be bashful. Jingle the telephone bell.)

Not long ago The Fence Rider rode the old bronc out to a football game and heard Dick Maverick explaining the game to his old friend, Bill Saddlewise, who hadn't got the swing of it like Dick had.

"You see, it's like this," Dick told him. "Them fellers with red socks on air our herd o' cattle an' them other dogies is 'tother herd, trying to break into our paster. An' our herd is tryin' to break into their paster. An' them big posts you see air the paster gate posts an' that long chalk line running out from them posts is the paster fence. They call it the goal line.

"Now if our herd can git that ball over that paster fence, it counts six."

"How do they git it over?" Bill asked.
"Any way except kick it over," the old cowpuncher told him. "If they kick it over an' it don't go betwixt the gate posts, the whole herd is draw back 30 yards an' they lose the ball. It goes to the other herd. If they kick it over an' it goes betwixt the posts, it counts three 'ceptin' after they have carried it over when they git one chanet to kick it over and count one."

"Wall, I don't see much kickin'," Bill snorted. "I thought they called this game football."

"That's one reason they call it football," the other cowpuncher told him, "cause they don't have to use their feet much. An' every time they do, they lose the ball."

"Wall, why don't they stampeed an' go right on over? Why don't they ketch 'em an' hold 'em? What air they doin down on their hanches?"

"That's the way they have to play the game," Dick told him. "They gon down on their hanches—seven of 'em, an' them seven they call the line. The one in the center they call center. He's got to snap the ball back twixt his legs an' that little fellow back thar callin' out them numbers, they call him quarter, he gits it an' hands it to somebody who tries to git as fur on towards that air pas-ter fence as he can afore they down him."

"Whut's 'e callin' them numbers fur?" old Bill asked.

"Them's signals," Dick told him. "Hits jest like a ol' cow mooin' to her caaf. Her caaf 'nos her moo an' the other caaves don't. Them numbers is all secrets. When the quarter sings 'em out, his whole herd 'nos whar they air expected to be an' whut they air expected not to do."

"Is that feller a fore quarter er a hind quarter?" Bill asked.

"Hind quarter," Dick replied. "He's allus behind the line till after the ball is snapped back. So is everybody else an' if a contrary ol' steer breaks over the line afore the ball goes across, the whole durned herd is draw back five yards. An' if any ol' steer gits nasty and horns another steer er treats him too rough, the whole herd is draw back 20 yards. So you see, Bill, they have to play the game clean. "As I was tellin' you, them seven men in the line air the center and two steers guardin' him they call guards, and two steers next to the guards they call tackles an' next two to them the ends. Them four fellers behind air the quarters, two haaves an' a full back.

"Now them fellers git four chances to git that ol' ball 10 yards along an' if they don't git it that fur, the other herd gits it an' they do the pushin' an' shovin'."

Just then Cooper made a hole in the line, Buster Mills broke through and started through a broken field down to the goal line. And the old cowpuncher caught the infection. He threw his old sombrero up in the air, jumped three feet high, let out a cow yell that was heard for a mile or more and called out: "Go it White Face Tromp on them dogies. Git in their way thar you big pided steers! Ketch 'em an' hold 'em!"

"They are not allowed to hold anybody except the man with the ball unless they make a mistake an' accidentally git hold o' the wrong feller," Dick told him, once he had cooled down after the touchdown.

That made old Bill look thoughtful. After a moment's silence he said: "I tell you whut, Dick, I believe I'd git plum ignorant ef I was in that game an' made a lot o' mistakes!"

Menus for a Family

BY SISTER MARY

Breakfast—Orange juice, cereal, thin cream, broiled bacon, soft cooked eggs, bran muffins, milk, coffee.

Luncheon—Meat balls, celery hearts, raisin bread, grape tapioca pudding, milk, tea.

Dinner—Spanish steak with fresh mushrooms, mashed potatoes, creamed corn, tomato and pepper salad, jellied pears with whipped cream, white bread, milk, coffee.

Use the coarse outer stalks of celery for soup or creamed celery. And now is the time to dry the celery leaves that are well bleached. The dried leaves are excellent for winter soups when fresh celery is high in price and not always at hand.

MEAT BALLS
Two cups mashed potatoes, 1-2 cup finely chopped, cold cooked meat, 1 tablespoon minced parsley, 1-4 teaspoon pepper, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 2 eggs.

Combine potato, meat, parsley, salt and pepper. Add yolks of eggs well beaten. Beat mixture well and fold in the whites of the eggs beaten until stiff and dry on a platter with a wire whisk. Shape in small balls, brush over with melted butter and brown in a hot oven.

Left-over ham is delicious used in this way.
The balls may be sauted in a frying pan if preferred.

The reply to this letter was this:

"Sandwich, Ill., May 12, 1869.

"Hon. Horace Greeley,

"Dear Sir—
"Your acceptance to lecture before our association next winter came to hand this morning. Your penmanship not being the plainest, it took some time to translate it; but you succeeded and would say, your time, February 3, and the terms, sixty dollars, are entirely satisfactory.
