WISE MEN FRAMED THE RANGER CHARTER

WHAT A LIFE! IN FLORIDA, SO FAR, FAR AWAY

Three Classes of Migrants Make Up Bulk of Population Swarming Into State.

(By Paul G. Teal) TAMPA, Fla., Oct. 3.—Real estate men say, "there is no boom in Florida—it's a migration." This is the first thought that strikes the migrant or boomer—take your choice of terms. He sees automobile license plates from all over the United States, some from Mexico, a few from Canada. The appearance of the people, the clothes they wear, their actions and faces, bespeak the fact that all states and many countries are represented here.

There are myriads of colored folks to start with—not only the Southern darkey, but black men from the North, from India, and from Australia and New Zealand. These latter speak cockney English and seem very out of place with their "gblime sah," "blooming bloody 'eat," the dropping of H's in their speech and other English and Australian characteristics. If you are doubtful about Tampa being cosmopolitan, witness the following signs on a downtown restaurant: "English, French, Spanish, Greek, Turk and Egyptian spoken here."

All Smoke Cigars. Tampa seems to be at least half Cuban—quantities of cigar factories have brought them. They are some lighter than the negro and shout Cuban Spanish at each other between grinning lips and white teeth. They are happy and never seem heat worried like the Florida immigrants, or even the Southern negro, who allows the heat to "get him down" when the sun shines brighter than usual. They nearly all smoke cigars, from the 10-year-old youth to his grandfather.

Then come the hundreds of business men, climate seekers and financial tourists from up North—from California, Iowa and other states—a few from Texas, and quantities of Southerners from Georgia, Alabama and Mississippi, who believe there is more money to be made farther South.

High Class Messengers. A man who must make money to exist here has three classes of opportunities. The first and poorest paid workers are clerks, stenographers, bookkeepers, unskilled labor and those who can do "anything." If they stick to their trade they must take starvation wages. A hundred per month is good, eighty is usual, some make as little as $60; $150 is unheard of without long service behind it. This excepts telegraph messenger boys, who make from $25 to $30 a week on foot and from $40 up with a car. The messenger boys are all ages and many of them appear qualified for business executives, tradesmen or merchants, but comparatively, the high wages call them. Telegraph companies do a stand-in-in-a business from morning until night.

The second and most fortunate class as a whole are the building tradesmen. Carpenters make from $8 to $15 per day; plumbers, painters, floor finishers, the men and others of this ilk have more jobs and money than any with the exception of good miners and those who came here wealthy. It is said that bricklayers are getting $20 for eight hours work in Miami, and that men of all stations in life there, from the lackey boy to the college grad, are laying bricks or carrying a hod, so that they may learn.

Four Real Estate Lines. The biggest thing, of course, is real estate, and those most in evidence on Tampa's downtown streets are salesmen, investors, speculators and suckers. The salesmen—good ones—are usually marked by a mahogany complexion, for Florida's sun tans in wonderful shades. They have a purposeful though somewhat languid stride, and mostly wear white shirts without ties, linen golf knicker, squared in black stripes, and far-crying stockings of vivid hue or pattern, with tennis or polo visors as head pieces, or tropical hats, shaped like a half watermelon with a rim, and made of straw or ducking. Hardened investors and speculators dress like this but then there are the new ones who may become suckers or reap fortunes, depending on their luck and judgment. They are many times pompous men from the North with pink and white complexions, wearing straw hats and gray alpaca or palm beach suits, looking bewildered, wise, interested and dumb, all at once, and carrying coats.

Jack Baker Returns From California Full Of Loyalty To Texas

There is great rejoicing in the Baker family out on First street, and the only reason there will be no fatted calf slain by the parents is, according to Mr. Baker, because they have no fatted calf to slay. The cause of the family rejoicing is the return of their son, Jack, who has been in California the last two and one-half years. He will be remembered by his old Ranger friends, having been with the Prairie Oil & Gas company in Ranger immediately after boom days.

Fort Worth Investor Looks With Favor On Property In Ranger

L. R. Barton, Fort Worth realtor and owner of several valuable properties in various parts of Texas, was in Ranger, Friday, looking over his latest purchase, the Southland hotel property. This was purchased by Mr. Barton several weeks ago. Asked his estimate of Ranger and his holdings he said: "I like it much better than when I bought it. I would not part with it for a price anything like what I paid for it. In fact, it is not on the market. I contemplate buying more Ranger property. Ranger looks good to me."

Ranger Has Fewer Than 300 Canines

Average of One Dog to Each 40 Inhabitants Reported in Tax Records. A recent survey showed the number of dogs inside the Ranger city limit to be somewhere between 250 and 300.

This is based on actual figures covering the period from Feb. 28 to Aug. 4, the period when the bulk of dog taxes are paid, with some figures covering other months and fairly dependable estimates for months not yet tabulated. Dog licenses paid from Feb. 28 to Aug. 4 aggregated $233. In September, exactly $4 was collected. Estimating an average of $4 per month for the remainder of the time and allowing liberally for the slight excess during January and February during which months the average is said to be slightly larger, it is estimated that the total amount will run somewhere between $250 and $300. And the rate is $1 per dog for males and $1.50 for females.

Counting Ranger's population as 12,000, which is not very far amiss, this makes one dog to every 40 inhabitants. Ranger is singularly free from the street dog nuisance. Only dogs of respectable lineage and good habits are generally seen in Ranger. Even the dollar a year tax coupled with a general tendency to keep the city free from dogs at night, save for the auto noises and other city sounds, seems to have possessed Ranger dwellers to a marked degree. A dog fight on the streets is so rare an event as to make it big news. And hydrophobia is a thing unknown to Ranger.

Board of City Development Tried Plan

Commission May Act This Week to Put Ranger in Front Rank With Other Cities. Definite action to organize the board of city development, which will absorb and take over the Chamber of Commerce, may be taken this week by the Ranger city commission. The matter has been before the commission during a large part of the summer, two large delegations of business men have appeared in advocacy of the proposition; opportunity for the opposition to be heard has been given, and nothing has been said, indicating possibly there is no opposition, and the time has come, as the waltz once said so wisely, for action.

When comparisons are made between property valuations and tax rates in Ranger and other cities in Texas, large and small, it will be found that Ranger has both lower property valuations and a lower tax rate. Possibly property in Ranger is not assessed at a lower level than is proper, although this may be doubted in some instances where the income from property is large and the value rendered for taxation is small in proportion, but anyhow the tax rate is low. This being undisputed, an additional tax of $2 on the $1,000 valuation for the support and maintenance of the board of city development will not be begrudged by any, least of all by the business men of the city who are now paying far more for the support of the Chamber of Commerce than they would pay in increased taxes for the board of city development. In every Texas city where the plan has been tried it has been so successful there is no wish to depart from it. The framers of the Ranger charter were wise and inserted a provision for a board of city development tax, so that all now necessary is action by the city commission, the action the business interests of Ranger are demanding. Mineral Wells wants such a board of city development, but the charter of that city must first be amended to authorize the tax. Other cities would like to have boards of city development, but their charters, too, must be amended. It is likely the next session of the legislature will see many requests for charter amendments, all relating to boards of city development, but Ranger does not have to wait. The Ranger charter was framed by wise men.

BIBLE THOUGHT
ASA'S PRAYER.—Lord, it is nothing with Thee to help, whether with many, or with them that have no power: help us, O Lord our God; for we rest on Thee and in Thy name we go against this multitude. 2 Chronicles 14:11.

NATIONALIZATION OF LAND.
 Before an audience of 30,000 people who stood in the rain for more than an hour at Exeter, England, Mr. Lloyd George declared that the time had come for the state to assume legal authority over the land. While not actually proposing nationalization, he contended that if the soil of Great Britain was properly cultivated, two-thirds instead of one-third of the population could be fed, at least another million of the present workless employed on it. In other words, he holds all future increased land values should accrue to the benefit of the farming community.
 In America this is known as the single tax theory, originally promulgated by Henry George. The plan is most enthusiastically endorsed by many of the leading political economists and business men.

DEMANDS MEDICAL FREEDOM.
 In California a child may attend the kindergarten, grammar school, high school, and normal school without having to submit to vaccination, but he loses all rights guaranteed by state law upon entering the university unless he then submits to being inoculated. Ralph Wallace, a freshman, has appealed the point to the state court and the case has become of nationwide interest.
 The question at issue does not involve the efficacy of vaccination, but it does involve the question of individual determination—whether any medical practice can justly be made a condition of education. Time was when religion was considered a question of state, but that day is long since passed. It may be that medical freedom will also come to be regarded as an inherent right of the people.

From 10 to 15 complaints against fraudulent stock companies are received each day by the attorney general of New York state, who reports a total of 500 since the first of this year. About half of the bogus stocks and bonds sold in this country are marketed in that state, the total sales being estimated at $500,000,000 per year.
 William Mc Andrew, superintendent of Chicago schools, contends that more important than tests in arithmetic and spelling, the function of the public school is to teach good citizenship. He says the American public school teacher is not servant of parents but a public official, a trainer in better government.

British newspapers generally commend our state department for revoking the visa of Mr. Saktlatvala, appointed by the British parliament as a member of the interparliamentary union. Two other British members declined to serve with the communist member, and the odium and responsibility of barring the "radical" was dumped on the United States. Senator Borah contends that Mr. Saktlatvala's crime is that of discussing conditions in India. He tells too much truth.

OPEN HOUSE AT HIGH SCHOOL FRIDAY NIGHT.
 There use to be an old song that ran like this: "What can the teachers do if the parents don't visit the school?" Even as far back in the dim past as when that song was written, the lack of parental co-operation with teachers was felt and doubtless voiced by some despairing teacher in rhyme and music. The same lack is still felt. The High school particularly feels this need as during the past two years they have had very little co-operation

FREE MILK TO THE UNDERNOURISHED.
 The Child's Welfare club, beginning Monday, will furnish one-half a pint of milk at the recess hour each day to those children in the first and second grades who, in the recent health survey for first graders, were found to be under-nourished. The public health nurse, Miss Joyce Connally, has kept a strict account of these children and the number to whom milk will be served daily will run about 50. Last school year milk was furnished to a number of children and the results were most gratifying. This work of feeding little under-nourished bodies and bringing them up to their standard weight, so that their physical well being may not retard their mental progress, is just another one of the things that this club is doing for "the least of them."

from the parents. The Parent-Teacher association functions, of course, but there are only the faithful few that can be depended on. The High school has a number of orphan boys and girls as students—Ranger has a number of men and women that have not had a child to bless their homes—surely this would be a worthwhile step on the part of meet who have no children of their own, to work with the mothers of children and to sponsor these boys and girls who do not have parents to take an active part in the association. Teachers do all they can but they are not super-human. The parents must do their part so for that reason the Parent-teacher club will keep open house Friday night from 7:30 to 10 o'clock, and every man and woman in Ranger who is interested in the High school is asked to be present and to enjoy the good program that will be rendered at that time, by the pupils of the High school.

Keller, third vice president. Plans were made for a Bible study class, to be started next month, under the supervision of Mrs. M. H. Hagaman, which will be open for members of the class and any one else interested in the study of the Bible. Mrs. Hagaman will teach this class at some hour during the week, time to be announced later. A bazaar was also planned, to be given along about Christmas time, the proceeds from which will go to the Orphans Home at Waco.

WHAT IS MUSIC ?

Tremendous Strides in Science of Acoustics Open New Vistas to Art of Musical Expression.

WHAT is music? It is surprising how few people can give a coherent answer to this question. Yet in a way it is not remarkable that the music embodies far more than the simple physical elements of which it is composed.

The dictionary says: "Music is the science and art of the rhythmic combination of tones, vocal or instrumental, embracing melody and harmony for the expression of anything possible by this means, but chiefly anything emotional." That, perhaps, is as good a general definition as one can hope to formulate. But even that leaves much unsaid.

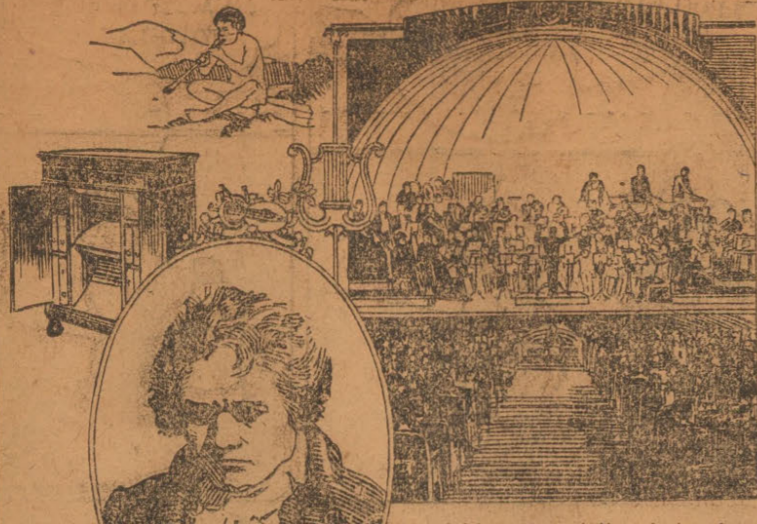

The truth is that so many radical changes are being made constantly in the composition and reproduction of music, that our ideas about it are forced to change with them. There was a day, in the dim beginnings of recorded time, when primitive forest dwellers regarded the harsh monotonic screechings of their bone flutes and the thumpings of their crude drums as music of the highest order.

Today we have our highly organized sonatas and symphonic poems rendered by great orchestras containing scores of varieties of instruments, and not only produce but reproduced any number of times by the talking machine, or spread instantaneously over the face of the globe by the radio.

The Dawn of Music

The first music undoubtedly was the modulation of the human voice in song. In the beginning man found that he could get more out of his vocal cords than the guttural grunts which constituted his primitive mode of speech. He discovered that he could produce sounds both higher and lower than those used in the accustomed intercourse of the spoken word. Charmed with the novel and not unpleasant effect, he experimented in various arrangements and combinations of these new notes. This simple melody, echoing in some smoky cavern, was the first music.

The invention of the various musical instruments followed at a much later date. Tradition has it that the lyre, or harp, was discovered by the vibration of the wind in the dried membranes stretched across the shell of a dead tortoise. The development of the flute and other wind instruments is supposed to have originated in the sound made by the river breeze blowing across hollow reeds on the water's edge.

Distinguishing the violin choir from the flute section, or the violoncellos from the French horns.

Even this difficulty has been met, however, by the steady advances of musical science. Today the great physical and electrical laboratories of the world are applying themselves as never before to these questions, and only recently a series of brilliant investigations resulted in the invention of a new device for sound reproduction called the orthophonic talking machine which has succeeded in reproducing accurately all the necessary overtones, a feat never before accomplished. The basis of this discovery was an entirely new principle, called "Matched Impedance."

A Long-Felt Need

By such advances the science and art of music progresses. Such achievements are to music what the development of printing was to literature—a means of disseminating on a far-flung scale, and for all time, the temporary and ephemeral accomplishments of man. Had these devices been in existence as long as printing, who knows what great geniuses of the instrument and the aria would have been preserved for our present-day pleasure and instruction? How many unnumbered virtuosos have lived and been forgotten in the past for the lack of a permanent recordation of their skill?

As the various means of playing music are developed, as more and more is known about the basic vibrations which constitute musical sound, there will be corresponding progress in the art of composing. These notes, or vibrations, will be gathered into new and untried combinations which were impossible with the old instruments, and the form of musical compositions will expand just as they did when orchestration superseded the more primitive instrumental arrangements of the Middle Ages.

This last-named quality is one of the most elusive of musical problems, particularly in the field of sound reproduction. In attempting to capture and release a series of musical notes such as a vocal or instrumental selection, it always has been found more difficult to distinguish between various instruments than their loudness or pitch. Thus, a talking machine record of Beethoven's Fifth Symphony, while successful in reproducing the volume and pitch of the vibrations, may leave something to be desired in the matter of dis-

Three Factors in Sound

The three qualities which characterize every sound vibration are: (1) Intensity, or loudness, (2) Number of vibrations per second, which determines its pitch, or place in the ascending scale of notes, and (3) Overtones, by which the hearer distinguishes the violin from the piano, and the tenor voice from the bass, even when striking notes of identical pitch.

The Baker Hotel In Dallas, Rising On Site of "The Oriental," To Open Oct. 9

DALLAS, Oct. 3.—Announcement is made that what is declared to be "The South's Finest Convention Hotel" will open in Dallas Oct. 9—just ahead of the Texas state fair. By a queer coincidence the Baker, the new $5,500,000 hotel referred to, picked for their opening date the thirty-second anniversary of the opening of the Oriental hotel whose site the new hotel occupies.

The building is 18 stories in height, of reinforced concrete construction faced with brick, terra cotta and stone. It is located on the corner of Commerce and Akard, extending through to Jackson street and is passed by every interurban car coming into and going out of Dallas.

A special feature of the hotel is the convention room on the second floor that has a seating capacity of 1,750 persons. The roof garden on seventeenth floor has a seating capacity of 2,100 persons. The entire second floor of the hotel is given to public rooms, the convention room, banquet rooms, mezzanine lounge, ladies' parlors and Akard street veranda, and has a capacity for public receptions or convention parties of 3,500 persons.

The kitchen and dining facilities of the hotel are the largest in the state if not in the entire south. The capacity of the kitchen is 7,500 persons per meal who will be served through the main dining room. A coffee shop, cafeteria, seven private dining or banquet rooms, and two convention banquet rooms.

Don Bestor's Record orchestra will broadcast a daily dinner hour program from 6:30 to 7:30 over WFAA from the Dallas News-Dallas Journal studio, which will be in the Baker hotel after the first of November.

Dixie series, with the exception of two, would be in Eastland this afternoon, so fans who attend the game will be given an opportunity to see their favorite players in action.

FORT WORTH PANTHERS DIVIDE SERIES MONEY

By United Press. FORT WORTH, Oct. 3.—The Fort Worth Panthers tonight knew what their hard season's playing meant. They divided the Dixie series pennant fund with the result that each was $1,621.12 richer than they were when the Texas league season ended. The rewards were the largest ever received by the players in the history of the series.

RINKEY DINKS DEFEAT EASTLAND TEAM, 12 TO 7

At a late hour after it was thought neither team could find a foe worth its steel (or its heels) the Rinkey Dinks of Ranger and the Rinkys of Eastland finally came together on the Eastland gridiron Saturday afternoon in one gory conflict. And when the smoke of battle had cleared away it was found that the Ranger Rinkies had defeated the Eastland Dinkies by a score of 12 to 7. Reports vary as to the stars of the Eastland aggression. For the Ranger Rinkies, Billy Torrell made one touchdown after a line plunge through a hole made by the husky center, James Smith. Rex Alworth made the other touchdown by a sensational end run. Neither of these teams has had

BAYLOR BEARS DEFEAT NORTH TEXAS TEACHERS

By United Press. WACO, Oct. 3.—Coming from behind a six point lead in the first half and featuring the work of the former Waco High stars, Kelly and Nash, the Baylor Bears celebrated their 1925 gridiron return by a 20 to 6 victory over the North Texas Teachers' college of Denton here today. The Bears shoved over two touchdowns in the last half. Kelly was in a large measure responsible for the two Bears' scores.

for property that may or may not increase in value. High pressure salesmen and quick closers are here from all over the states, and they work hard. It is said that in some instances the strong willed man who refuses to buy has been told to "cut and walk," but if this is true it is only so in very rare instances, as non-buyers as a rule are treated as cordially as buyers. The salesman hopes that they will change their minds and return with money on the barrel head.

Many of the subdivisions are well under way, the homes on them having all the appearance of the millionaire daughter's home in the movies. They have golf clubs, swimming pools and recreation halls, the lawns of these decorated with gaily striped umbrellas and rustic benches, also a la mode.

Islands for Sale.

Also we have islands for sale here. Mostly natural but one of them, Davis Island, commenced a mere speck of sand in Tampa Bay. Dredges and laborers by the hundreds were put to work to enlarge the island and put a sea wall around it. Now the island builders are having a difficult time filling the demand of the lot buyers. It is expected that when the island is finished it will become an exclusive winter resort for 20,000 people and have enough land left over for a business district, golf course, parks and whatever you wish.

Real estate business is good here and the best man wins. Many a salesman and operator has started with nothing and made a big stake or a fair fortune, success depending on luck, his nerve to push through deals—some of them a trifle shady—his personality and how hard he works. Many are just making a living, some of these work hard and seem to have all the prime requisites, but they just don't connect. No one knows why.

Nearly everyone sells real estate in connection with their regular job or while waiting for one. A woman who runs a small restaurant in an auto camp here talks a certain subdivision to all her customers. The realty bus calls at the camp and if any of her clients buy she gets two and one-half per cent or half the commission. She is said to have made $4,000 selling real estate in this manner this year.

Tip to the Wise.
This is straight dope for those who are thinking of coming to Florida:

If you have money to invest and honestly believe you are smart enough to avoid paying too much for property or being done entirely, come look it over. You can buy some pieces of property for as little as $100 down and pay for some on the installment plan at $3 per month. Speculators buy stuff this way and try to sell out before the first monthly payment is due. Money is still being made in land and it looks as though there is much more to be made.

If you want to trade your climate for one where freezing weather is almost unheard of in winter but where you stay in continual perspiration for three months in summer, come down and look this over.

If you are a fast real estate man—the shorter on conscience the more money—you'll like this fine. There is good money for honest realtors and there are those kind—I knew one.

If you care to build houses for good wages, be winking wet with sweat all summer but work all winter, this is your country.

Food is cheaper than most places in Tampa but high on the east coast. Living quarters are high and uncomfortable. Fifteen per week for a room, double, without bath or running water is considered reasonable, or from $80 to $100 a month for a small mediocre apartment. It is said that living quarters are much higher on the east coast. An acquaintance told me he paid $10 a day for a room over a store in Miami. Other things in Tampa cost about the same as they do where you come from.

RECORD CROWD EXPECTED TO SEE PANTHERS PLAY

Reports from the towns and rural communities of Eastland and adjoining counties would indicate that there will be a record crowd at Connelley Park this afternoon to witness the game between the Fort Worth Cats, winners of the Texas League pennant for the past several seasons, and also winners of the recent Dixie series, against Atlanta, Ga., team of the Southern League, and the Eastland Tigers.

Manager Fairbairn of the local club has strengthened his team by the addition of a number of players from surrounding towns, and it is expected that the Tigers will at least give the Cats something to do if they win the game.

Word from the manager of the Cats is to the effect that all members of the team that played in the

Learn how quality is attained with modern production methods! This week we are making a special photographic exhibit illustrating the precision methods by which quality is achieved in the manufacture of the modern motor car.

Showing the Reason for Quality at Low Cost

The exhibit consists of 40 remarkable photographs of the most interesting processes in modern automobile manufacture. It will provide the same interesting knowledge that you would get by taking a trip through the plants where Chevrolet cars are built. Each picture is accompanied by a full description of the operation it illustrates. It is an exhibit of unusual interest and value. Bring the children.

KANSAS WINS GAME FROM AGGIES OF OKLAHOMA

LAWRENCE, Kan., Oct. 3.—Playing at midsummer temperature, Kansas downed the Oklahoma Aggies in the first conference game of the season here today 13 to 3. The Jayhawkers eleven scored first. Just before the half closed, McCoy, star halfback of the visitors, booted a pretty field goal from the 34-yard line. In the fourth quarter and during the last few minutes of play, Anderson, Kansas back, intercepted an Aggie pass and ran 20 yards to the 28-yard line. McCarty, fullback, plunged over for Kansas' touchdown. McCoy was the outstanding star of the Aggie eleven.

FRECKLES AND HIS FRIENDS

Billy Evans Says

UNUSUAL CASE. NO pitcher in either major league, not excluding the great "Dazzy" Vance of Brooklyn, has a better fast ball than "Lefty" Groves, yet Mack's southpaw has been a disappointment.

Not since the days of the great Rube Waddell have I worked back of a left-hander with more stuff yet Groves has been unable to win consistently. As a matter of fact, Groves has pitched only two complete games this year. It is a rather strange coincidence that I called balls and strikes in both of them. Last season, Groves, with the Baltimore club, champions of the International League, won 25 and lost only six games. He was the premier pitcher of the organization. It hardly seems possible that there is such a difference in the standard of play, that Groves, the outstanding pitcher of the International League, could only win about one-third as many games in the American this year. Recently, when Chicago was playing its final series with Philadelphia, I put the question to "Chief" Bender. In his day, the present White Sox coach was one of the greatest of pitchers.

LACKS CONTROL. NO pitcher, no matter how much stuff he may have, is of any great value to his club unless he can get the ball over.

"A pitcher who lacks control is working under a 50 per cent handicap. Always in the hole, he invariably is forced to ease up to get the ball over. When he does, he is easy to hit. Groves has a great fast ball but it is of no particular value because the batters know that he is seldom over with it and wait him out. When he gets in the hole, due to lack of control of the fast one, he is unable to experiment with his curve. It is only when the pitcher has an edge on the batter that he can gamble. It is just possible that Groves tries to get too much on his fast ball. This may cause him to be thrown off his proper stride and when such a thing happens, the pitcher is bound to be missing the plate. Another handicap to Groves is the fact that the major league batters wait him out. They refuse to offer at balls that would be swung at in the minors. If Groves ever acquires control and I believe he will, was to the position. The fact that Groves used only medium speed in his best pitched game of the year, a victory over New York, rather than his best speed, is a reflection. He's probably using too much for speed.

LEGION WILL OPEN ARENA NEXT MONDAY

Strong Card With Nationally Known Wrestlers and Free Boxing Will be Features.

Things will be looking up at the Legion Arena Monday night. A regular wrestling match, featuring Cyclone Hedwick, who claims the title, champion of the South, and Al Williams, whose challenge is out to all comers, north, south, east or west, will be staged. Both these men are said to be high class contenders; the palm and fans are expected to give them a rousing reception. Not to be outdone by any little old town where they still get by with their paid boxing bouts, the legion is going to give a treat, it is said, to those who like the fistie art. The boxing bouts are to be free and the boxers unpaid, it is stated. They are going in for the sport and to give the legion fellows some of the old time thrills. Freddie Wilder and Jack Ercanbrack, Al Lewis and Jack Wallace, Dicky Green and Battling Burke will try their prowess. Some of these men are well known in Ranger, notably Green and Ercanbrack, who have shown some of the gamest fighting ever seen in these parts, and are favorites. That they will have no walkovers Monday night, however, is the opinion of the fellows who know. All in all, the legion promises the public something rare in the way of entertainment, both the paid wrestling match and the free bouts.

GREAT GAME IS PLAYED THOUGH ISSUE CLOUDED

Lions or Golden Eagles Have Exciting Contest With Bear Cats.

An exciting game of football was played yesterday afternoon in Nitro Park between the Bear Cats and a team known to some as the Lions and to others as the Golden Eagles. The Bear Cats insisted they were playing the Lions, while members of the opposing team insist they are named the Golden Eagles. Witnesses were rather conflicting in their claims and the issue is in doubt. Some difference of opinion exists, too, as to the time of the game. The Bear Cats insist that it lasted only about one and one-half hours, while members of the Lions, or Golden Eagles, insist that it lasted between two and three hours, declaring the lapsed time was due to a terrific thirst that possessed the Bear Cats. It is true they drank nothing stronger than water, but, according to the Lions or the Golden Eagles, not less than one hour was occupied with drinking. The game started about 1:30 o'clock and it was agreed it should end by 3 o'clock, for the Lions or the Golden Eagles had engagements they said they must keep. They stretched the time a little and played until 3:30, so it was said, and then declined to play longer. So the issue of time is in doubt. There is some question, too, as to who won the game. It appears that T. L. Bumpers started out as referee, but later surrendered that office to Ed Perry and went into the Bear Cats' line. Three quarters were played, but the Lions or Golden Eagles refused to play out the last quarter, claiming the time allowed for the game had run out. The score then stood, according to some of the Bear Cats, 12 to 7 in favor of the Lions or Golden Eagles, and, according to members of the latter team, was 18 to 7 in favor of the king of beasts and the American bird. But when the Bear Cats were yet ready to play and their rivals had retired, the referee, according to the Bear Cats, declared the game forfeited to them. So the issue of victory is in doubt. But, according to all accounts, it was a glorious victory. The Bear Cats lineup included Clarence Moss, center; Conley and Smoot, guards; Bishop and Owens, tackles; Horton and Burns, ends; Long, Bumpers, Bowdin and McKeehan, back field. The lineup of the Lions or the Golden Eagles included: Roy Plumley, center; Phillips and Herman, guards; Grant and Baker, tackles; McLaughlin and Mills, ends; Higgenbotham, Black, Onker, Plumley and Ernest Nentwig, back field.

Breckenridge Ties Brownwood In First Conference Game

BRECKENRIDGE, Sept. 3.—More coaches, outside players, dopsters and others interested in the opening of the conference season's games saw today's game between Breckenridge and Brownwood High schools, probably, than ever were present at an opening game. What they saw was a game which left matters exactly where the players found them. The score when the last gun was fired, stood 0 to 0. One reason for the record breaking attendance from out of town was the fact that this was the only conference game in this division scheduled for the day. Practically every other team in the conference had one or more representatives on the grounds. All the dopsters got from the game may be summed up in the following resume of plays and plays: Brownwood played a strong defensive game, but seemed utterly indifferent to advances or offensive plays. Only one first down stands to their record while Breckenridge got about a dozen. But that was all the good it did them. Always, at the crucial moment, Brownwood's line held them and invariably when Brownwood got the ball, it was punted back far across field only to repeat the same performance. Both teams put in many substitutes. Each tried the forward pass several times with about the average results of a few completed, many incompleated and only one or two intercepted. Harrison, Breckenridge's fullback, featured in some distance making line plunges and Zafonotis, quarterback for Breckenridge, made some brilliant off tackle plays and plays around the ends. Lagrone, Breckenridge's 210-pound right guard showed up strong as did also Christenson, left end for the home team. Brownwood's players were practically all mass plays, no individual player starring except as a unit in the impenetrable mass. Both teams are huskies. Breckenridge started with a first string averaging 176 4-11 pounds to the man. Brownwood's first string averaging being 163 10-11 pounds.

John Tarlton's Huskies Go Down Before Bull Dogs

Those who hoped to get done for the conference games from Friday's playing between Ranger and John Tarlton College's second team, were doomed to disappointment. In fact, there hasn't yet been a game out of three played which has put the Ranger men to the test. For instance, not one single team has yet gone through Ranger's line in the entire three games. And in each game, it has been a question of whether to run the score up to almost any desired figure or give the second string men their needed practice. The actual score Friday on the Ranger grid was 25 to 0. The single touchdown made by the college men was in a free field after a fluke by one of Ranger's second string men. As usual, while the first string was left in, Mills, Harvey, Walker and Shell starred. Other players who came in for a large share of the crowd's enthusiastic approval were Phillips, both the Glenn brothers, Shipp, Grubbs, Gholson—in fact, nearly every player in the Ranger line and backfield, at some time, had his chance and made good, with a liberal sprinkling of fumbles on both sides and far too many penalties on Ranger for safety, had there been any material opposition. Coach Cherry asked for, and probably got, the best material John Tarlton could supply without using their first string men. They far out weighed the Ranger players. They lacked speed, however, and were weak in team work and tackling.

Bulldogs Trying to Schedule Game With Fort Worth Eleven

Coach Cherry left for Fort Worth Friday night to try to arrange a game with one of the Fort Worth high schools for his Ranger Bulldogs. Under the present arrangement, the Breckenridge-Brownwood game played in Breckenridge Saturday was the only conference game in this district, and the Breckenridge-Eastland game will be played next Saturday, leaving a lapse of two weeks before Ranger will have her first conference game. In the interim, it is desired to find at least one team before the regular conference season which can and will give the Ranger players something more than first string amusement and second string play. In the absence of Coach Cherry, Assistant Coach Davis attended the Breckenridge-Brownwood game Friday, taking notes for the team. Several of the Ranger players also went over to see the opening fight.

Bogus Tickets For World Series Games Reported Circulating

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Oct. 3.—Warnings that a flood of bogus world series tickets had been turned loose in Pittsburgh have been issued by the police. While officers say they have not yet seen any of the bogus tickets, they have been informed that such tickets are in circulation. Odds of 10 to 8, with the Senators on the long end, are being offered in some quarters, while in other sections bets are being made with bets favoring the Pirates. All bets indicate that by Monday all bets may be even. Individual checks in payment for world series tickets are believed to have caused the sharp spurt in local bank clearings, which went to $34,623,070, the greatest since September 16, when income tax instalments came through.

Cisco Takes Game From Graham By Score of 25 to 0

CISCO, Sept. 3.—The Cisco High school team had easy picking with Graham High here today, winning by a score of 25 to 0. Graham is one of the strong contending class B teams in the conference and are hoped to have a look in on the final play-offs when it is possible they may again play some class A team. They are game fighters but could not make dents in Cisco's line or prevent the frequent advances for touchdowns. The game was well attended. This will probably be Cisco's last pre-conference game this season.

KENTUCKY PLAYS GOOD GAME AGAINST MAROONS

STAGG FIELD, CHICAGO, Oct. 3.—The University of Kentucky put up a strong game here this afternoon, losing to the Staggs' big maroons only 9 to 0. Except for a field goal in the second quarter and a touchdown in the third quarter the southerners held the heavy maroons scoreless.

EASTLAND MAVERICKS DEFEAT THURBER ELEVEN

The Eastland Mavericks defeated the Thurber football team by a score of 39 to 0 in a game at Connellee Park in Eastland Friday afternoon.

Longhorns Defeat Mississippi, But Stallter Is Hurt

AUSTIN, Oct. 3.—Confused by a combined aerial attack and perplexing snift, Mississippi university went down to defeat today, 25 to 0. A 55-yard run through the Mississippi team for a touchdown featured the game. No score was made in the first half, but Texas made two touchdowns in each of the last quarters. King missed three goals out of four. The Texas victory was costly, as Stallter, star halfback, wrenched his arm and may not be back in the line up this year. Mississippi fumbled considerably.

BARGAINS--BARGAINS--BARGAINS

BOOM TOWN'S RESTAURATEUR MAY COME BACK

Mrs. A. P. Humphreys, Who Made Fortune in Ranger, Visits in City.

During these days when deeper drilling, developments of natural gasoline and other items are bringing Ranger back to its former boom status without the objectionable atmosphere, of those rough and tumble days, no one of the former citizens who has come back or looked around for a location in which to relocate, suggests more forcefully the memory of those early days than Mrs. A. P. Humphreys, who came to Ranger with $50 and left with $60,000 when the boom seemed to have passed. She is now in Ranger looking for a location and says very frankly that after visiting numerous cities since disposing of her Corsicana hotel, she finds Ranger the best of the lot.

Mrs. Humphreys opened a small restaurant 12x20 feet in 1918 and it soon grew into a 120x120-foot establishment known as the Oklahoma restaurant. The first oil well, the McCleskey, had just been drilled in and crowds from all over the world were pouring in, clamoring for food and lodging. There was no time to buy fine furnishings. Tables made of rough boards were improvised and board seats laid across wooden "horses." It is said that at no time anywhere near regular dining hours there was an opportunity to get a seat without a long wait in the lines, which often extended from the location of the Oklahoma at Main and Marston streets, for a block and more down Main street.

And across those plank tables or standing in those waiting lines, conservative people estimate that deals worth millions. Feeding millionaires off those boards was an every-day occurrence. Seating owners of interests ranking high in the United States was no rare event. The eatings were very democratic affairs. Scouts, oil magnates, well dressed ladies who were in the city of flowing gold trying for fortunes, drummers, prospectors, merchants and business men from cities all over the nation were here looking for locations in the coming oil metropolis. These took their places in line and stood patiently for hours sometimes, waiting for an opportunity to get in and snatch a bite before going out to close some deal.

This hard working restaurateur managed those crowds, contrived to keep her help in line, worked daily and nightly from 5 a. m. to as late as 2 a. m. next morning very frequently outlasting both crews of help and never showing signs of fatigue, it is said. And in between jobs, she had her eyes open and her lines out for Ranger real estate which she brought and sold in large and small blocks, cleaning up a fortune while feeding the masses.

W. E. Davis, who had a place of business next door to the Oklahoma, says he never once saw the proprietress idle for a minute during those strenuous years. No citizen recalls a single day for years when the waiting line did not, at some time, overrun the restaurant and string out down the street.

S. J. Dean and E. A. Ringold recall vividly the bustling activities of the woman who is said to possess an uncanny sense of values and coming prosperity for a town.

Once the boom began to settle down into something less boomlike, a tempting offer for her properties, and the scent of a boom in Homer, La., led to the disposal by Mrs. Humphreys of many of her Ranger holdings and the removal of her business to that new oil town. But the move proved disappointing, as she frankly states. Later she went to another Louisiana oil boom, Hainesville, opened a restaurant and did much better. Still later, through relatives, she was induced to go to Bowling Green, Ky., where she ran a hotel until she came back to Texas and opened up a hotel in Corsicana, when the shallow wells gave way to deeper production near by.

Several weeks ago she sold her holdings there and is in Ranger after prospecting in numerous Texas cities.

That Mrs. Humphreys is looking for an opening in the city, which, of all Texas cities, is showing best for stable oil movements and a substantial comeback, as she firmly believes and openly asserts, is significant, whether she succeeds in obtaining the location she seeks or not.

There probably is not an old-time boom-days Ranger citizen who hasn't some reminiscence to tell connected with "Mother" Humphreys' place.

PRIZES FOR SUGGESTIONS TO AVOID FIRE

Ranger Chamber of Commerce Makes Offer for Fire Prevention Week.

"No other city in Texas has such grave reasons for observing national fire prevention week as Ranger," remarked M. K. Collie, member of the committee appointed by President Cholson of the Ranger Chamber of Commerce to arrange for the observance of National Fire Prevention Week, Oct. 4 to 11. The committee called attention to fire losses and fatalities in Ranger within the past year and a half, and announced that it had been arranged to give prizes aggregating $50 during the week which will be distributed as follows: Twenty-five dollars for the best trimmed demonstrating the need for fire prevention; $15 for the best essay written by a student in any public or high school in the Ranger independent school district, on the necessity for fire prevention, and $10 for the best original drawing or painting by any student of any Ranger school showing a fire hazard. Suggestions for window trimming and points on the essays will be supplied by any member of the committee, it is stated, data being on display at the Chamber of Commerce and at M. K. Collie's insurance office on Main street, Ranger. The committee is composed of M. K. Collie, Fire Chief Murphy, C. E. May, C. E. Maddocks and Wade Swift. The tragedies to which Mr. Collie alluded included the McCleskey hotel fire in which 70 persons lost their lives; disastrous fire at the Wooten-Hughes gas plant in which two men were burned to death, and an explosion caused by a small fire in which two died and four were injured. Add to that the fact that 15,000 people in the United States lost their lives in 1925 and more than $548,000,000 in property went up in smoke, $25,000,000 of which was Texas property, and the need for greater caution and better co-operation in fire prevention would seem to be sufficiently impressive. Hence this national observance and Ranger's participation in the general campaign for greater safety to life and property. BROADCAST SCHEDULE FOR FOOTBALL SEASON by United Press. New York, Oct. 3.—Station WJZ, New York, announces the following schedule of football games which it will broadcast during the 1925 gridiron season: October 2—Amherst vs. Princeton. October 17—Army vs. Notre Dame. October 24—Pennsylvania vs. Chicago. October 31—Pennsylvania vs. Illinois. November 7—Harvard vs. Princeton. November 14—Yale vs. Princeton. November 21—Yale vs. Harvard. November 26—Cornell vs. Pennsylvania. November 28—Army vs. Navy. A sugar mill at Eleele, Kaula, Hawaii, now has an electric furnace which is used to anneal the roller shafts. It has been found that these roller shafts will last considerably longer if annealed after they have been in service for some time. This annealing relieves the strains and crystallizations caused by rolling sugar and makes the roller shafts once more usable. One of the large electric service companies of the United States is now directly supplying electricity to 1,311 different communities in the United States and Mexico.

FAKES FURNITURE COMPANY HAS MAGNIFICENT NEW HOME

FORT WORTH, Texas, Oct. 3.—October 16-17 has been set as the date for the opening at Fort Worth of one of the largest and most complete retail and wholesale furniture stores in the entire Southwest—Fakes & Company, which will occupy the first five floors of the beautiful 12-story Fort Worth Club building at West Seventh, Throckmorton and West Sixth streets.

The firm is a pioneer in Texas. It will celebrate its forty-ninth birthday simultaneous with its occupancy of the new home.

The store's organization is composed of the officials and 75 employees, headed by Fred A. Martin, president; John B. Laneri, vice president; N. A. Rudnose, treasurer; L. B. Brown, Jr., secretary. These with Mrs. George E. Cowden, J. T. Pemberton, W. I. Parr, C. D. Lusk and R. L. Dyer, make up the board of directors.

Following are the department heads:

L. B. Brown Jr., head buyer; H. C. Wallin, sales manager; John Douglas, living room department; Steve Morris, bed room department; R. L. Dyer, dining room department; Emory Morris, house decorative department; George Morris, carpet department; L. A. Dickson, interior decorating; Alvin Watson, superintendent of delivery; W. I. Parr, superintendent of wholesale and warehouse; O. A. Johnson, superintendent of workrooms; E. E. Turner, wholesale credit manager; W. E. Brock, retail credit manager; N. F. Rudnose, cashier and auditor; Joe Montgomery, bookkeeping; Miss Grace Mason, advertising; Miss Oulta Cole, Victrolas; James V. Tabibian, oriental rugs; Mrs. Emma Riggins, superintendent of drapery work rooms, and W. W. Martin, manager of the Hall of Mirrors.

Many of the staff of department heads and employees have been with Fakes & Co., for many years—one of them for 39 years.

"It is with the loyal and efficient co-operation of all of these employees," Martin said, "that we have been able to make of Fakes & Co. what it is today from the small beginning it was but a short time ago."

All of the space in the new store, with the exception of a small portion of the fifth floor, will be used for sales, display and demonstration purposes. That portion of the fifth floor not so used will house the drapery and upholstery work-rooms and the rest rooms and shower baths for employees of the department.

Two fast passenger elevators and one freight elevator have been installed for the exclusive use of the store, separate lifts being provided for each of the two wings of the building, one of which will be occupied by the Fort Worth Club and the other by the general offices of the Fort Worth and Denver City Railway Company. A private stairway also connects the five floors to be used by Fakes & Co., while there are two other sets of stairs connecting all 12 floors, which also are accessible from the furniture store's portion of the building.

Fire Precaution
Built of steel and concrete and faced with stone and brick, the building is fireproof in every detail. As an added precaution against fire, however, the Fakes & Co. floors have been equipped with an ornamental sprinkler system.

One of the outstanding features of the new store will be the display windows. Facing 200 feet on Throckmorton street and approximately 100 feet on both West Seventh and West Sixth streets, the three sides of the store have solid plate glass fronts. A space 15 feet deep back of each of these windows will be devoted to the display of goods carried in the store. Few if any stores in this section of the country have a greater amount of window display space and frontage.

Other features of the establishment include the Budget Cottage, a palatial Spanish bungalow, the Hall of Mirrors, a brilliant lamp display, and the Art Gallery.

Visitors and customers will be greeted at the main entrance of the store by a smiling, neatly uniformed young lady who is to be the personification of an information bureau. She will direct callers to any department of the store, or to any official or salesman they desire to see and give out general information concerning the establishment. There also will be an information desk near the store's private branch telephone exchange on the first floor.

The northeast section of the ground floor has been given over to one of the best equipped drapery departments in this section of the country, for which some especially designed fixtures have been designed and built. In the northwest section of this floor will be located the oriental rug department, which will have a permanent oriental rug display in the adjoining show window. The stock of oriental rugs with which the new store will open is said to be the most complete and beautiful of any ever shown in the South.

The south half of the ground floor will be occupied by the art pieces and Victrola departments. There will be sound-proof booths for the demonstration of the machines and a counter equipped with the Audax system for the demonstration of records.

Fixtures of Walnut
All fixtures on the first and mezzanine floors are of American walnut. The ground floor will be covered with a Wilton carpet in solid taupe, and a rubber tile aisle in mahogany and cream will extend the full length of the floor from north to south and from east to west. The walls have been given a mottled finish of ivory, tan, green and rose, which blends harmoniously with the color scheme of the floor.

The grand stairway in the center of the west wall of the ground floor leading to the mezzanine floor has a walnut handrail and is finished with terrazzo marble. Offices of both the wholesale and retail departments are located on the mezzanine floor, the spaces being separated with partitions of translucent cent glass set in walnut frames and panels.

Here, in addition to the executive offices, are located the cashier, credit, bookkeeping, advertising and employment departments.

Wholesale on Second

The second floor has been given over to the wholesale sample department and the Budget Cottage, which will be refurnished each week with every needed piece of furniture required for the small home.

The third floor is alive with interest for lovers of the beautiful, containing almost everything imaginable to satisfy a keen decorative sense. There is, for example, the eight-room Spanish bungalow which has been designed and equipped to display the store's finest wares. It is strictly a living room furniture sales and display room, from which all daylight has been excluded. The entire space, like the ground floor, is covered with a Wilton carpet of solid taupe.

Here also is the Hall of Mirrors, where is assembled for the convenience of customers all of the store's stock of mirrors from the inexpensive to the finest. And the lamp department, also, which will be a "perfect blaze of glory," aglow at all times with 215 electric lights. The art gallery also is located on this floor of beauty, the various departments being separated by walnut panels. The darkened windows of the floor will be used to display the newest ideas in draperies.

Breakfast—Baked apples, cereal, thin cream, broiled bacon, stewed tomatoes with toast cubes, crisp whole wheat toast, milk, coffee.

Luncheon—Meat and vegetable pie, endive salad, graham bread, grapes, butter-scotch cookies, milk, tea.

Dinner—Beef broth with rice, broiled halibut steak, baked sweet potatoes, creamed cauliflower, peach souffle, rye bread, milk, coffee.

MEAT AND VEGETABLE PIE
One cup coarsely chopped left-over lamb or beef, 16 tiny onions, 1 cup tomato pulp, 1 tablespoon flour, 3/4 teaspoon pepper, 1 tablespoon minced sweet green pepper, 1 cup flour for crust, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon butter, milk.

Peel onions and cook in boiling water until tender, but not broken. Simmer meat in water to cover until tender. Drain and save broth. Put a layer of onions into a well buttered baking dish. Sprinkle with flour and dot with bits of butter. Cover with a layer of meat. Cover with minced pepper. Rub cooked tomatoes through a coarse sieve to remove seeds. Add meat broth to tomato pulp with salt and pepper and pour in at one side of dish. Mix and sift flour, salt and baking powder. Rub in butter with a fork or tips of fingers. Cut in milk with a knife, using enough milk to make a soft dough. Pat or roll on a well floured board, making the dough about 1/2-inch thick. Cut two gashes through the dough and cover meat with it. Bake twenty to twenty-five minutes in a hot oven and serve from baking dish.

ENTIRE BIBLE WRITTEN ON ONE SHEET OF PAPER
By United Press.
Karuzawa, Japan, Oct. 3.—A Japanese Christian, one Ishizuka, a member of the Friends Mission, has just completed a transcription of the Bible, Old and New Testaments, on a single scroll of fine Japanese paper, "kakemono."
The scroll is described as "six shaku, four sun in length and two shaku nine sun wide (six feet by two and one-half feet). The work of printing was done by hand with a Japanese writing brush and required "four years and three months and 10,000 prayers," according to the artist. The letters stand out beautifully distinct under a microscope.

CORINNE GRIFFITH IN NEW FIRST NATIONAL DRAMA

Admirers of the enchanting Corinne Griffith have an opportunity of seeing that talented actress in a tempestuous dramatic role Monday and Tuesday, "The Marriage Whirl."

Never has the beautiful Corinne enacted a more trying role, and never has her triumph been greater.

Foremost in her support are Kenneth Harlan, Harrison Ford and Nita Naldi, each of whom contributes a striking characterization. New York and Paris form the background of the picture, which is a screen transplantation of the J. Hartley Manners stage offering, "The National Anthem."

With Kenneth Harlan, Miss Griffith portrays an American couple typical of hundreds who annually fall under the soul sapping spell of the pleasure-mad French capital, while the rising sun alone brings a respite from revelry. Clinging faithfully to a husband caught in the whirlpool of Parisian night life, the heroine fights a vain battle to save him, only to be forced in the end to turn herself for succor to the staunch friend who once had hoped to win her hand. The latter is skillfully etched by Harrison Ford.

And the soulless interloper, a species with which Paris abounds, is presented with uncanny fidelity by Nita Naldi.

For a real insight into the vagaries of Parisian night life, see this latest picture, so ably directed by Al Santell and cleverly acted by Miss Griffith and her cohorts.

IMPROVED FORD CARS ATTRACT MANY BUYERS

Give Big Incentive to Ford Weekly Purchase Plan; Appeal to People.

Every day new evidence comes in of the popularity of the improved Ford cars. It is not only expressed in the crowds which fill dealer show rooms all over the country and the groups which pause to inspect the cars wherever they appear on the streets, nor alone in the thousands of orders being booked for immediate delivery, but also in orders entered for future delivery.

Probably the best index to future deliveries of these cars is found in enrollments in the Ford weekly purchase plan, which have shown a remarkable increase since the cars made their appearance. This increase was first noticed the last 10 days in August, during which the announcement of the cars was made. In that period enrollments under the plan reached a total of 13,167, and in the 10 days following, the first in September, the number of new purchasers under the plan totaled 16,054.

Those enrolled under the plan at the time the improved cars were announced all benefited by the change, for they will receive the new types and will be given preference when they desire delivery of cars. More than 175,000 are now enrolled under the plan and with others coming in at the rate of 16,000 a day, it will not be long before the enrollment list will exceed 200,000.

Those who are ordering cars under the plan at the present time for the most part contemplate delivery either during the coming holiday season or for early spring next year.

ON THE RANGE AT RANGER

By THE FENCE RIDER.
(Items for this department must be phoned in to the Fence Rider, by 12 o'clock daily in order to insure their insertion. Don't be bashful. Jingle the telephone bell.)

Two star players on the side lines at Friday's game were Mooney and Murphy. How they did sling that b-ball on the side lines!

Reduced to simple language, that Kansas man's estimate of Ranger along with other cities is, they first swell up, then they "swing up," then they fill up and stay put. Well, this burg is doing the filling out act. Mr. Kansas man. You hit the nail on the big end and drove it way into the plank when you made that observation.

That the Ranger-Breckenridge turnpike will be completed by January 1 is the estimate of those who seem to know. But when will Stephens County listen to the plea of those Caddo folks and the farmers along the way who want a real road connecting with their trunk line trading point—Ranger on the T. & P?

Here in Ranger, we call them "Fire Weeds," and they almost grow wild—spring up all over vacant lots from the tiny seed Nature has supplied them with, and make those vacant lots things of beauty with their woolly green foliage until they turn red when the "mock the bush" Moses saw. In the cities they buy them, pay big prices for them, and call them "Japanese wool plants."

Foolish question No. 6,748 was asked The Fence Rider Friday: If a fellow spans a girl on her birthday, giving her a lick for every year of her age, and then gives her a kiss for every blow, have the neighbors a right to call the police?

The other day The Fence Rider rode the old bronc out on the three principal roads leading to Ranger, alongside a real Ranger booster. On the Ranger-Breckenridge road we met a man. I asked, "Where's he going?" "To Ranger, of course," the booster replied. Then a man passed us and I asked where's he going? "He's coming from Ranger," the booster replied.

So it was on the other roads. Every man we met and every man we passed or who passed us was either on his way to Ranger or from Ranger. That any of them might have been going to some other town was never admitted for an instant. The Fence Rider likes that spirit. If ever it is his lot to land in that place of bad repute and hot climate after death and he is privileged to send back a report, he'll boast of the fact that there are no snow storms there. If a fellow won't boost his own home town what will he boost?

CHRYSLER CAR FINDS READY MARKET ABROAD

President of Company Says Success in America Duplicated in Europe.

Walter P. Chrysler, president, Chrysler corporation, sailed Saturday, September 26, on the French liner "Paris," for Havre and Paris, and before returning to America, October 17, on the Cunard liner "Beringia," will visit Saint-Dider in Paris, distributors of Chrysler cars in France, and the nineteenth International Motor Exhibition, organized by the Society of Motor Manufacturers and Traders, Ltd., in connection with the Royal Automobile club, at the Olympia in London.

J. E. Fields, vice president in charge of sales, and Fred M. Zedler, vice president in charge of engineering, of the Chrysler corporation, sailed September 23 on the Cunard liner "Mauretania," and will return with Mr. Chrysler.

"The motor car knows no national boundary lines," said Mr. Chrysler, before sailing. "The llama in Peru, the donkey in Colombia, the pony in Iceland, the ox in Scandinavia, the coolie in China, the jinricksha in Japan, the camel in Egypt, the elephant in India—are all being gradually replaced by the motor car. Wherever people live and progress motor cars will be found. European cars are to be seen in America and American cars in Europe. The world is the market of the motor car manufacturer."

"No intelligent manufacturer ever reaches a point where he can't learn from some one else. Europe can teach American manufacturers and America can teach Europe. I look forward to this opportunity of making another visit to France and England to see what our friends in the motor car business in Europe have learned and have done."

"I wanted to make this trip also to express my appreciation personally to our overseas dealers and distributors who will meet in London, for the splendid work they have done in marketing the Chrysler car in Europe. The success that the Chrysler car has enjoyed in America has been almost duplicated in Europe, despite high tariffs, luxury taxes, high excise taxes and the high cost of gasoline."

"When the Chrysler car was in the making we profited by much of what the European manufacturer had learned. The result was that we produced a car that was not only acceptable and approved in the United States, but one which has won worldwide recognition. The Chrysler car is found today in nearly every country where motor cars are sold."

"Our ambition has been to manufacture a car that would be universally known and approved."

AMERICAN PUBLICITY TO RESCUE MUSSELS

LONDON, Oct. 3.—Mussels, a favorite dish with gourmets of the Victorian era, are losing their popularity so rapidly that skilled officials in the ministry of agriculture and fisheries are engaged in thinking out schemes to make people eat more of them.

They are seriously thinking of engaging the services of an expert American publicity agent to launch an intensive propaganda campaign on the delights of the delectable mussel, and these officials opine if that fails, mussels are doomed.

Many years ago it was thought that mussels were not being eaten in consequence of the old-fashioned methods used for cleansing them, and fantastic schemes were launched to remedy this defect. Official stations were established at Conwy and Lymstone, in Devonshire, where mussel fishers could immerse their catches in government tanks at a cost of one shilling, but the trade continued to lose ground.

Authentic Modes for the Style Show

Setting the keynote of smartness for the season, correct in every detail are the Fall costumes designed and shown by J. M. White & Co., at the Style Show.

Animation—activity—a fluttering flare line—this is the picture of the Autumn mode. The back-flare, most recent arrival, the flare at both sides, the flare that encircles the frock or coat and the subtle flare of pleats in the more tailored frocks. White's sponsors the new freedom of motion for Fall in gowns, and frocks, in coats and ensemble costumes.

The Mode Is Movement In Women's Gowns for Fall

Every gown sways with a flare of some kind. Evening gowns of metal cloth, chiffon, metal lace, and Satin crepe roma, flat crepe and crepe de chine in crepe satin, velvete and crepe roma reveal the subtle flare in godet and kick pleats.

Women's Frocks Emphasize Skillfully Arranged Fullness

Dozens of frocks—and almost as many varieties of the flare—for daytime, afternoon and evening wear. Sati ncrepe roma, flat crepe and crepe de chine in silks, jerseys and twills. Blue, wine shades, green, tans and blacks.

The Straight-line Silhouette Dominates the Fall Coat Modes

Soft luxurious fabrics drop into straight lines or wrap around one's form. And the colorings—many shades of brown as well as navy blue and black harmonize with the furs—squirrel and fox natural or dyed, and many others.

BRITISH ROTARIANS NOTE VALUE OF PROHIBITION

A group of British Rotarians recently completed a tour of the United States. After their return to England, according to a report, they made the following statement concerning American prohibition:

"Our impression of prohibition is that in the main it is a success. Prohibition is enormously increasing and we saw very few signs of drunkenness, or breaking of law, except the frontier places, where smuggling take place. In inland places we were struck with the cleanliness, sobriety and energy of the people."

MAY SEYMOUR FOOT LOOSE

by BEATRICE BURTON ONEA

THE STORY SO FAR:

MAY SEYMOUR, whose husband, DR. JOHN SEYMOUR, killed himself because of her love-affair with JIM CAREWE, returns to her home town after a year's absence.

Heavily veiled, so as to escape recognition, May comes late one rainy fall night, to the home of her lawyer, DICK GREGORY, and GLORIA, his wife.

She tells Gloria, who is her close friend, how the story of Dr. John's suicide has followed her everywhere. And so she has made up her mind to convert everything she has into cash and go to Europe, where no one will know her . . . and where she may be able to "land" a husband.

Dick promises to sell her holdings for her.

Next morning she goes to see ULYSSES X. FORGAN, a wealthy widower who is in the real estate business, to ask him to sell her house. She breaks down when she tells him why she wants to sell the house and leave town for good.

(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

In his time Ulysses X. Forgan, like many another man, had seen many a woman cry.

And the sight of tears had come to have no more effect upon him than the sound of laughter. The passing years had made him hard—hard, and cold as Bessemer steel.

His dead wife, Sarah, had always cried when she wanted her own way. His only daughter, Sally, had always cried when she wanted her own way. Ulysses was used to tears. For thirty years his life had been dampened by them.

But the weeping of the slim woman who sat beside his desk at this moment, was not like any other weeping that Ulysses had ever witnessed.

For one thing, May made no noise when she cried. She did not, as Ulysses put it to himself, "blubber." Her nose did not swell. Her eyes did not redden.

The tears simply rolled from them down upon her ivory cheeks, and her scarlet mouth trembled. She cried beautifully, dabbing her eyes with a small handkerchief.

"There, there!" Ulysses found himself saying in the soothing tone a father might have used to calm his crying baby. "Don't cry. Don't cry." May drew a long sobbing breath. "All right," she faltered, "I won't—"

She raised her eyes to Ulysses in an April smile. Then the smile faded from her face, leaving it very grave.

"You, Mr. Forgan," she said, as if a sudden, arresting thought had come to her, "are a man of iron. I saw that the minute I laid eyes on you. There, I said to myself, 'is a man of iron.'"

Ulysses moved uncomfortably in his swivel chair. It was years since a woman had taken the trouble to talk to him about himself to flatter him.

"It's true," he answered stiffly, "that life has made me more or less stony, perhaps, Mrs. Seymour."

"No, no," May shook her head. "Stones crumble, sometimes. Iron doesn't! You're iron! You wouldn't care if people said cruel, scandalous things about you. You wouldn't feel it, would you?" . . . And certainly you wouldn't be cowardly enough to run away!"

Ulysses took off his horn-rimmed glasses, and looked sharply at May. "Is that what you're doing? Running away?" he asked. "Is that why you want to sell your house? So you need never set foot in this town down into the noonday bustle of the street.

Ulysses got up and walked over to the window

"Now, about your house, Mrs. Seymour," he said in an ordinary tone, pulling himself together. "Of course, I can sell it, if you've really made up your mind to get rid of it. Although I think you're foolish not to hang on to it, for a while . . ."

He stopped abruptly, wheeled, and sat down at his desk again.

"Look here," he went on, "why do you run away like this? Why don't you stay right here in your own town, and face all the talk and scandal? . . . You've been away for a year. Have you been happy all of that time?"

"Oh, no!" May gave a tiny shudder. "To tell the truth, I've been very unhappy and very lonely. But anything—anything—is better than staying here, here people know me—"

"How do you know, when you haven't been here for a year?" Ulysses interrupted. He drew a large, old-fashioned gold watch from his pocket and looked at it. "You haven't tried to face things."

"It is now exactly one o'clock," he went on slowly. "You are going to bathe your eyes, or powder your nose, or whatever it is women do to themselves when they've been crying—and then, you're going out to lunch with me in the biggest restaurant in town. You are going to face your problem . . . that's the only thing for you to do. And I'm going to make you do it!"

May drew in her breath with a hissing sound.

"Indeed I'm not going to do any such thing!" she said. "Not on your daily dozen! I've been going around this town veiled ever since I got here, so nobody would recognize me! . . . I never would have come here except to see you and Dick Gregory on business. And I'm going to get away again just as soon as I can . . . tomorrow perhaps."

She picked up her gloves, tucked her little, damp handkerchief into her handbag, and rose. She had a feeling that if she stayed a moment longer, she would obey this forceful, middle-aged man who talked to her as if she were a small, naughty child.

After she had gone, Ulysses X. Forgan sat a long time at his desk, staring at the chair where she had sat. It seemed still to hold the figure of a pale, slender woman with a lovely face that was all the lovelier for its pallor and the look of weariness in the blue-gray eyes.

Ulysses was not a profane man, but presently he swore.

"Well, dammit!" he said. "A beautiful, sweet woman like that gettin' herself talked about the way she has! Upon my word, I don't believe she ever did a wrong thing in her life, either! There must be some mistake, somewhere!"

He shook his leonine head. And then he began to wonder whether he had told May to "hang on to" her house because it was good business to keep it, or because he wanted her to go back and live in it . . . here in the town where he knew he would live so long as he lived.

"Sure, I'd like to see her every now and then!" he said defiantly to himself. "I don't know when I've taken to a woman like I did to her—right off the reel, too!"

The cold truth was that in all his matter-of-fact life, Ulysses never had "taken to" a woman as he had to May Seymour. He was completely bowled over by her, but he didn't know it—yet!

He settled down to his interrupted work, forgetting that he had not had his lunch.

"May," Dick Gregory began that night at dinner, "I'm afraid that if I sell those railroad bonds now, I won't get much for them. The market's sagging."

"Well, sell something else then. I've just got to have some ready money," May answered airily.

She leaned forward, crossed her arms on the table, and half closed her eyes.

"All I want is enough money to buy me a room at a good hotel and plenty of pretty clothes for the next year, Dick," she said frankly.

Then she turned to Gloria with a crooked little smile on her red lips. "Gloria will understand what I'm going to say to you, Dick," she said.

"It may sound brutal to a man, but . . . I've made up my mind, whether by hook or by crook, to get a husband. There are thousands of women in the world in exactly my state of mind . . . but they won't admit it. They'll say they're lonely and let it go at that. What they want is a man of their own . . . they want marriage."

She looked at him with impudent defiance.

"Well?" Dick asked, "And then what?"

"And then," May finished, "I want bait to catch a man with money. I

EPISCOPALIANS WILL MEET IN NEW ORLEANS

Bishops and Auxiliary Bodies of Lay Leaders Begin Sessions Next Week.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 3.—Arrangements are under way here for the accommodation of thousands of delegates and church workers expected to come here for the three weeks' convention of the Episcopal church and auxiliary bodies which begins sessions here Oct. 7 with an open air meeting under the mammoth oaks in Audubon park.

Warren Kearny, chairman of the arrangements committee, is in charge of the work of securing accommodations for the visitors.

Kearny has broadcast a request that delegates or others planning to visit the city in connection with the gathering of church executives communicate with headquarters of the committee at 622 Canal-Commercial building, this city, so that arrangements can be made for their accommodation.

Many of the church leaders will be accommodated in private homes of the city which have been thrown open for the occasion. However, the hotels are expected to be filled to capacity and the committee needs a few days advance notice in order to arrange quarters for the "overflow" crowds.

The gathering is expected to be the most brilliant church assemblage this country has ever known and many subjects of vital importance to the Episcopal church are to come up for discussion and disposal during the convention.

The proposal to eliminate the word "obey" from the Episcopal marriage ritual is one of the subjects expected to arouse unusual interest in the proceedings.

The woman's auxiliary, which will hold its sessions in Trinity church, is engaged in an effort to excel previous records by raising $1,000,000 in a single session for the carrying on of its part of the church work.

Holy communion for the house of bishops and the house of deputies at Christ church cathedral will precede the opening ceremonies.

CHEVROLET IS STARTED ON ITS FALL CAMPAIGN

General Sales Manager Sends Message by Phonograph to All Agencies.

A unique address to more than 20,000 members of the Chevrolet selling organization scattered throughout the United States was achieved recently by R. H. Grant, general sales manager of the Chevrolet Motor company.

Mr. Grant announced the opening of the Chevrolet fall selling campaign by means of duplicate phonograph records which reproduced his voice in the show room of every Chevrolet dealer.

Under Mr. Grant's direction the phonographic address plan worked out smoothly to complete success.

In each of the thousands of Chevrolet salesrooms was gathered at exactly the same hour an interested group of salesmen. Their ranks were augmented by numerous members of the Chevrolet organization not directly interested in selling, who attended because of curiosity over the novelty of the meeting.

At a previously established "zero hour" the thousands of records were started simultaneously and Mr. Grant's voice was heard in every state of the union.

"The present selling campaign, the most ambitious in Chevrolet history, is of such importance that I wished to attend personally every meeting of every sales group," said Mr. Grant. "This being impossible, I chose the best substitute—the phonograph."

"Thus every salesman received a personal message by which he was informed of all the campaign details. Through this campaign and because of the gratifying sales volume of recent months, I expect that Chevrolet will do a record fall business."

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

By E. R. Waite, Secretary Shawnee, Okla., Board of Commerce.

That the progress of many cities is held back by petty jealousies among its citizens. They get a good start on the road to better things and then tie up and fuss a while.

That petty jealousy about trivial things is all foolishness. It only brings about discord and strife where harmony should prevail.

That the importance of the industries of a city should never be forgotten. No opportunity should be lost to encourage and assist in their growth and development.

That in the success of home industries rests the development of a community and the prosperity of all who live there.

That every citizen should believe in the greatness of his or her home city, its industries and the future that is ahead of it, and should give to it their whole-hearted support and never waver in this duty.

Some foods are long on taste but short on nourishment.

Some clothes are long on looks but short on quality.

Some people are long on promises but short on performances.

Some cities are long on good intentions but short on actions.

Some organizations are long on plans but short on results.

Many cities are long on good starters but short on good finishers.

HIGH SCHOOLS MUST SHOW SPORTSMANSHIP

Special Correspondence.

AUSTIN, Oct. 3.—Attention of the high schools of the state is being called to the fact that schools may be dropped from final consideration in the University of Texas interscholastic league contests if it is apparent that a school is dodging real opposition by not arranging a representing schedule, according to Roy B. Henderson, athletic director of the league. So far, he said, good schedules seem to be the exception rather than the rule.

A defeat by a non-participating high school, regardless of conference, also counts on the team's percentage, Henderson stated.

FACTS ABOUT TEXAS.

Texas is the largest state. It has an area of 265,896 square miles. It is fifth in population with 4,663,228 people. If it had the same density of population as Ohio, for instance, it would have a population of 37,305,000.

There are 110,000,000 acres of land in Texas capable of producing crops. Of this less than one-third has been brought under cultivation.

The total value of Texas farm crops is more than a billion dollars a year which is about 11 per cent of the total value of farm crops for the entire United States.

Texas people use more than half a million telephones and there is more than 1,250,000 miles of telephone wire in use within the state.
