

McADOO LEADS ON THE SIXTH BALLOT

SEVEN APPLY FOR PLACE AS POLICE CHIEF

Seven applications are on file with the city commission asking consideration when appointment of a permanent chief of police is made. Those whose applications are on file are: W. E. B. Sherwood, Lon Garner, C. S. Hamilton, Aaron Martin, Lee Hemphill, J. B. Ames and Tom W. Pigg. Homer C. Gambill, who had applied for the place, has withdrawn his application.

The present acting chief of police, Eugene Reynolds, has not applied for the place but has stated that if the commission should appoint him he would accept. Mr. Reynolds has been with the police force since its organization in the capacity of desk sergeant. Before coming to Ranger he was connected with the adjutant general's department at Austin.

The application of Mr. Sherwood states that for two years he was sheriff of Logan county in Oklahoma, and is experienced as a peace officer. At present Mr. Sherwood is connected with a local ice company.

Lon Garner set out in his application that he had been for fifteen years a peace officer in El Paso, holding during that time the positions of constable, deputy sheriff, captain of the police department and chief of police. In Ranger, Mr. Garner formerly was special officer for the Bank of Ranger.

C. S. Hamilton is an old resident of Ranger, having lived here several years prior to the oil discovery. For the past year or more he has been connected with the police force as a plainclothes man.

In submitting his application, Aaron does not give any history of himself. Lee Hemphill has been in Ranger for about two years and for a short time was assistant to the chief of police of the local force. Mr. Hemphill's application does not set out his experience as a peace officer.

The application of J. B. Ames states that for six years Mr. Ames was employed by the city of San Antonio. During that time he was with both the fire and police departments and when he resigned he held the post of traffic lieutenant.

Tom W. Pigg is at present special officer for the Texas & Pacific Railroad company. Prior to accepting this position he was on the police force of Ranger. According to information submitted with his application, Mr. Pigg was reared in Painesville and has had considerable experience as a peace officer.

The majority of the above men also submitted petitions signed by citizens of the town asking that they be appointed. The city commission has not stated when an appointment will be made.

BONE HUNTERS START OFF TO RIVER BOTTOM

By Associated Press
EDMONTON, Alta., June 18.—(By Mail.)—Another expedition to look for the bones of great prehistoric reptiles in the Red river valley of Alberta is on its way here. This time it is under the direction of Dr. W. A. Parks, of the University of Toronto and the Royal Ontario museum. For a number of years these expeditions have been an annual summer journey for three months. Two years ago the almost perfect specimen of the Kritosaurus incurvimanus, which has just been finally clipped free from the rock and presented to the museum, was found, making a distinct addition to the records of science, and giving to Toronto the only specimen of this species yet discovered. Three incomplete skeletons of the Kritosaurus and a great horned head of a Brontosaurus, four feet, six inches in length, were found by the professor but have not yet been carved from the rock. It is the hope of Professor Parks to collect ultimately for the Royal Ontario museum one of the finest exhibits of dinosaurs in existence.

The locality and the methods of finding the specimens are described by Professor Parks. "The river cuts right through the flat prairie to a depth of 400 feet, forming a whole lot of broken buttes, and it is among these that the bones are discovered. One of the difficulties in obtaining complete specimens is that the bones cannot be obtained until they are partly exposed by the action of natural decaying causes. Sometimes you are disappointed then, for after exploring you may find only a single bone. You dig down as close as you can and pack the rock in plaster paris for shipment."

The Red river valley 3,000,000 years ago was the scene of a great inland sea that stretched from the Gulf of Mexico to the Arctic ocean. "The sand along the shallow, brackish shores of this great body of water formed a splendid preservation for these huge reptiles which inhabited the world at that time. Our Kritosaurus was found in what we call the Belly river formation of the Upper Cretaceous system," explains Professor Parks.

TAKE ACTION TO PREVENT PEOPLE FROM QUITTING

BERLIN, July 3.—So great is the falling off in church membership here that the Berlin Synod of the German Lutheran church has voted a general measure against persons who withdraw. Reports read at a recent meeting of the synod showed that while in 1915 there were only twenty-five defections, the number last year reached 5,257. As many women as men withdrew, most of them being young, and the majority members of the Social-Democratic party.

The synod resolved that all those withdrawing should be excluded from the privileges of the church, their children to be denied baptism and to receive confirmation instruction only on certain conditions. To make these measures effective the synod voted to introduce cards to show that the holders are bona fide church members.

Escape from church taxation is said to be the principal reason for the withdrawals. Every German citizen is assumed to be a member of the state church and is taxed for his upkeep. Formerly there were few withdrawals owing to the difficulties placed in the way of those wishing to do so and also to the social discredit that accompanied the act. But under a new law all a person has to do is appear before a designated official and state his desire to give up his church membership. Thereafter he is exempt from the payment of church taxes.

QUEEN REFUSES TO PAY PRICES FOR CLOTHING

BUCHAREST, June 7.—(By Mail.)—Queen Mary served notice on all Rumanian merchants today that she was not a war profiteer and would refuse to pay the prevailing prices for food and clothing. The queen made known her attitude when she returned to a local establishment an afternoon dress which she had selected and for which they demanded the equivalent of about $60.

Writing the store proprietor a protest in her own hand, she declared she was not one of those whom the war had enriched and she desired all Rumanian shopkeepers to know that she would refuse to pay the present extravagant prices. The shopkeeper then offered to cut the price in half but the queen declined to accept the dress at any price.

When a Fellow Wants a Car

JAPAN NOW HAS ALL GIVEN HER BY THE TREATY

LONDON.—Speaking generally, Japan had secured beforehand everything she became entitled to under the Treaty of Versailles. In fact, she was in the unique position of being under pledge to restore to China part of what she took from her under cover of the expedition against Peking. That restoration has not yet been made.

Under articles 156-8 Japan obtained the transfer to her by the Allied and Associated Powers what did not belong to them, namely "all Germany's rights, title and privileges—particularly those concerning the province of Kiaochow, railways, mines and submarine cables." Further, "all German rights in the Tsingtau-Peking railway, including its branch, together with its subsidiary property of all kinds, stations, shops, fixed and rolling stocks, mines, plant and material for the exploitation of the mines, are and remain acquired by Japan, together with all rights and privileges appertaining thereto." Further, "the movable and immovable property owned by the German state in the territory of Kiaochow," together with archives, plans, title deeds and documents of every kind—everything to be Shantung Peninsula.

Japan's title to all this property belonging to China consists of a secret treaty with France, Great Britain and Italy during the war, into which Japan entered, according to Premier Okuma, the day on which Japan declared war "with no ulterior motive, no thought of depriving China or other people of anything they now possess." Adding "my government and my people have given their word and their pledge, which will be as honorably kept as Japan always keeps her pledges."

HOOK WORM WAR HAS RESULTS IN ISLAND NTION

KINGSTON, Jamaica, June 18.—(By Mail.)—Effects of the campaign against hookworm conducted by the government and an earnest for the Rockefeller foundation already are felt. In Vere one of the largest sugar centers of the colony the laborers now work six days a week, whereas formerly they were able to work but three.

PARIS ACCEPTS ICE CREAM AND ITS COMPANION

PARIS, June 16.—(By Mail.)—The ice cream soda has invaded Paris. With office from 12 p. m. to 4 p. m., July 7, the arrival of the first of the American tourists have sprung up numerous shops which boast that within may be obtained "real American ice cream sodas." Prices for this American drink range from three to six francs according to the character of the shop.

JAMAICA RUM HOUNDS PROTEST AGAINST A PROHIBITION THREAT

KINGSTON, Jamaica, July 3.—Thousands of residents of this island, the home of Jamaica rum, have united in a protest to the government and legislative council against prohibition, state control of the liquor trade or alteration of the present licensing system.

GERMAN PILOTS ARE HIRED FOR DANGEROUS TRIP

LONDON, June 16.—(By Mail.)—In spite of the publicity given to her in press and parliament the obnoxious German pilot continues to patrol and tout off Dungeness, and there seems to be no way of getting rid of her, says the Evening News.

MINISTERS PUT BAN ON SUNDAY FUNERALS

CORNING, N. Y., July 3.—Protestant ministers of this city, members of the Corning Ministerial association, are on strike against Sunday funerals. By formal resolution, the divines have gone on record as refusing to accept Sunday funeral engagements in the future except in cases of necessity.

PALMER AND COX NEXT, BEADLOCK HOLDING OFF A POSSIBLE DECISION

Sixth Ballot—No nomination. Leaders: McAdoo 368 1/2, Palmer 265 1/2, Cox 195.
Fifth Ballot—No nomination. Leaders: McAdoo 357, Palmer 244, Cox 181.
Fourth Ballot—No nomination. Leaders: McAdoo 339, Palmer 254, Cox 178.
Third Ballot—No nomination. Totals: McAdoo 323 1/2, Palmer 252 1/2, Cox 177. Others widely scattered. It was a big gain for McAdoo over the second ballot last night.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 3.—The fifth ballot still found McAdoo, Palmer and Cox leading, although there had been no large breaks and no signs of a slide to anybody. On the fourth ballot McAdoo had 335, Palmer 254 and Cox 178. McAdoo made gains on the first ballot of the day, but the predicted slide to him failed to develop. Most of the original votes stood fast through the third and fourth ballots. On the third ballot McAdoo gained 34 1/2 votes, Cox 18, and Palmer lost 12 1/2 votes.

North Carolina furnished the first break to McAdoo, the delegates swinging from Senator Simmons. A change was expected. The three leaders made small gains on the fourth ballot without appreciable change in their standing. Nebraska, Nevada and South Dakota made small breaks, splitting for the three leaders.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 3.—The ground cleared of preliminary balloting and a rolling administration victory in the platform fight in which Bryan's dry plank was defeated and the platform adopted with no mention of prohibition just as it came from the committee.

The convention assembled at 11:30, Texas time, to select its nominee. McAdoo had a slight lead in two ballots last night with less than 300 votes, Palmer was a close second with Cox below 200, but there was no evidence of a McAdoo landslide as predicted. Predictions of an early McAdoo victory today were met by a stiffening of the opposition.

McADOO GOES TO BED
HUNTINGTON, N. Y., July 3.—McAdoo went to bed early last night manifesting little interest in what the San Francisco convention was doing. McAdoo learned the result of the first two ballots from a morning paper, retiring last night before the first vote was announced and remaining in bed today long past his usual hour of rising. He announced he would remain at home today.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 3.—Despite the three to one defeat of his dry plank, Bryan was given a tribute of almost unanimous ovation. Last night was given over to planning by field marshals and opposing forces. Efforts to find a Harding for the Democratic convention was unavailing. McAdoo's opposition also failed to find a candidate for a rally. The names of Cox and Meredith are being mentioned with McAdoo as possible vice presidential nominees, but there was nothing definite when the convention opened today.

ALLIED CHIEFS IN CONFERENCE AT BRUSSELS
BRUSSELS, July 3.—The Allied conference in session here received the alarming news regarding the progress of the Russian Bolshevik in the offensive against Poland and will consider the military situation of the new republic. It was learned today that Foch, Allied commander-in-chief, and Marshal Wilson, head of the British general staff, have been consulted by conference on the subject.

An agreement was virtually reached by the Allied premiers in conference here with regard to the division of German reparations on a basis of fifty-two per cent to France, twenty-two per cent to Great Britain, ten per cent to Italy, eight per cent to Belgium and five per cent to Serbia, with the remaining three per cent divided among the other allies including Rumania, Portugal and Japan.

Italy also receives certain economic and financial advantages. A tentative settlement was declared made by the French, British, Italian and Belgian delegates.

SHOTS AT REPUBLICAN TARGET

AUDITORIUM, San Francisco, June 28.—Assertions that brought cheers during the "keynote" address of Homer S. Cummings today included the following:
"Between March 4, 1913, and the outbreak of the World War, we placed upon the statute books more constructive legislation than the Republican party had placed there in a generation."
"Has not the time come when all Americans should praise the achievements of our country, rather than criticize them?"
"What was there in this war to compare to the typhoid infested camps and the papered shoe controversy of 1898? What was there to compare to the 'unhallowed' but scandalous of the Spanish-American War?"
"The power of the Republican party upon a bare majority of one obtained through the tainted senatorial vote from Michigan."
"The meeting at Chicago was not a convention, but an auction. The highest bidder, however, did not obtain the prize."
"The record of the present Congress is without parallel for its incompetencies."
"The enemies of the President repeated every slander that envy could invent, and scarcely could control their glee when the great man was stricken. Congress did not find time, amid the bickering, to extend one kindly inquiry as to the fate of the President."
"It is all one with him—he is immortal."
"Until the critics of the League offer a better method, they are not entitled to one moment's consideration."
"What nations stand outside? The United States, Bolshevik Russia, Unspakable Turkey—and the Republic of the United States."
"No blacker crime against civilization has ever soiled the pages of our history. The last chapter was written at Chicago."
"We decline to compromise. We seek no avenue of retreat."

Something Is Wrong. Who Is to Blame? What Are YOU Going to Do About It?

The Daily Times has no axe to grind, no candidate to elect; no favors to show anyone. It is indebted to no one except the public and that debt it to expose wrongful acts and corruption in both city and county politics. Its only interest is in the proper growth and prosperity of Eastland county and the proper administration of the government. It is for the best men, entirely regardless of political beliefs. It is, however, forced to admit that there are men seeking office in the coming election who are utterly unfit for the positions to which they aspire. These men who seek office may expect the Daily Times to tell the truth about them. The voters of the county have a right to know the facts as to the character and capacity of those who ask for their suffrage.

 TEMPLE—"The Poppy Girl's Husband."

FAIRBANKS RELEASE CRAMMED WITH JOY, ACTION AND BEAUTY

Did you see Doug Fairbanks in "Double Trouble?" That was years ago, before he was the husband of America's sweetheart, even before he was a member of the movie royalty. In that film, and it was very good.

Times have changed since then. Standards of picture making, of film plot development, of photography, have taken enormous strides. And the leader of them all—a masculine man and a favorite by reason of that as much as by his infectious joy in life, can be depended on to keep abreast of picture progress.

When "The Mollycoddle" was seen a week or so ago in Los Angeles, press critics said it was ten years ahead. Certain it is that it is jammed full of flawless photography in unusual and breathtaking settings, that it makes telling use of an entirely fresh device in presenting a film story, and that it contains the tightest fight in which Doug even risked his fame for the delectation of Fairbanks fans. Small wonder that he nearly lost his life in it.

Douglas Fairbanks, in "The Mollycoddle," from the story by Harold MacGrath, appears at the Lamb theatre today and tomorrow. The picture was shown at a preview at the Lamb last night.

That fight which marks the picture's high spot, starts with a one-sided pistol duel fought from the top of a pine tree, to the rock cliff alongside. Shells zone, the fisticuff starts, with one of those leaps for which Doug is renowned. It's a flying tackle that makes your heart skip a beat and he and his opponent, Wallace Berry, who makes one of the easiest villains to hate that you'll find anywhere, fight from there on out.

They fight through a fall from the tree, through a house top, through the side of a wall, down a cliff, into a mountain stream and over a spray mantled waterfall. Battered and bleeding and bearing the scars of conflict, real enough, "The Mollycoddle" emerges from the pool at the foot of the falls, victorious.

It would not be fair to you to tell you of the prelude, sketching briefly the hard-fisted forebears of the "Mollycoddle," of the introduction, in Monte Carlo, of that splendid American stock, of the development of that "exquisite" into the Fairbanks that is the model of more Americans than any candidate of either convention, or to tell the pretty love story which concerns also Ruth Ricker, playing opposite him.

The Fourth of July was the start of the making of an American of the Mollycoddle. Coincidentally, the picture plays the Fourth in Ranger.

WOMAN CHARGES THEFT OF PISTOL FROM ROOM
 J. B. Jones has been arrested and placed in the city jail on a complaint filed by Marie Bye in justice court, charging that he unlawfully entered her room in a house in the rear of the Phoenix hotel, and took a pistol belonging to her. Jones will be given an examination today before Justice of the Peace McFatter.

SCHOOL TAX IS NEARLY READY COLLECTOR SAYS

Work of assessing property for city and school taxes for the coming year will be almost completed today, A. E. Ringold, city tax collector and assessor, together with two deputies have about finished the work. Naturally some property was missed but it will be assessed as soon as possible.

Tabulation of the property valuation has not yet been made but Mr. Ringold gave it as his opinion that it would be in excess of $10,000,000.

In taking readings from the workers from the assessor office kept the valuation of real estate, improvements and personal property separate.

THIRTEEN DAYS USED IN TRIP ACROSS THE U. S.

NEW YORK, July 3.—The world's record for a coast-to-coast trip by motor truck was established when a three-ton truck equipped with pneumatic tires arrived in New York from Los Angeles, California, having made the entire distance of 3,457 miles in thirteen days, thirteen hours and fifteen minutes.

The previous record made in 1918 for a coast-to-coast trip stood at seventeen days and three hours. The entire trip was made on one set of pneumatic tires without change.

One of the most interesting things about the record is the fact that it was made by a truck which was not especially constructed for the test. This truck already had rolled up a mileage of over 120,000 miles. It was originally planned to make the trip from Los Angeles to Akron, Ohio, but when the truck reached Akron it had made such good time it was decided to send it on to New York for a coast-to-coast record.

Even with the low time made smooth running was not experienced all the way. At Seligman, Arizona nearly four hours were lost while a tunnel was made about thirty feet long and one foot deep in hard pan to enable the truck to go under the Santa Fe railway.

Outside the Albuquerque, New Mexico, high water of the Rio Grande necessitated considerable detouring, culminating in the breaking of a bridge over an irrigation ditch, which made it necessary to use thirty-two hours of time to travel thirty-four miles.

In New Mexico almost impassable roads were encountered. The truck was driven by Hoyover Schuler and Elbert R. Temple, of Akron, Ohio. They were accompanied from Akron, Ohio to New York by Carl Stuhig, also of Akron.

SAFE IS BUILT THAT IS PROOF AGAINST CROOKS AND THEIR TRADE EQUIPMENT

By International News Service

WASHINGTON, July 3.—The Federal Reserve Board is planning to thwart "yegmen" equipped with jimmies and oxy-acetylene torches, who attempt to burglarize banks in the vaults of which Government money is kept. Using money appropriated for experimental purposes, the board is constructing a number of experimental concrete bank vaults. When the work is complete and the vaults allowed to stand while the concrete "sets" it is proposed to reverse the proceedings and, with all the knowledge and skill Government scientists can muster, break into the vaults. The vault which stands the test may be adopted as a standard and others modeled on its construction.

Work on six of these model vaults is nearly half completed at the Bureau of Standards. The work is kept secret, although the models are in full view of all persons passing along Connecticut avenue.

The vaults are of concrete, reinforced with every material known to more impregnable the already staunch walls. There are big plates of hard steel which will be placed inside the concrete. There are iron and steel rails which are thrown in for good measure, and there is in one of the vaults a quantity of hard glass. This glass, it is asserted, will dull the point of the sharpest drill and repeated contact with the crystalline substance will sand down the instrument.

When the vaults are ready for the test, concrete specialists and scientists from the Bureau of Standards will be allowed free rein. They can do anything imaginable to break down the concrete wall. They may use dynamite to begin with, and gradually "work up" to the use of higher and more powerful explosives. While the destruction experts are at work on one vault, others will attack another with drills and various devices for boring through the heavy walls.

Officials at the Bureau deny the rumor that experts from Sing Sing will be called upon to lend a hand in the most approved method of getting on the inside when admittance is absolutely forbidden. They also scout the tale going the rounds that to lend interest to the work, a keg of brew—once known as beer—will be placed within the walls of each vault, to become the property of the man who breaks down its defences.

Dive Thru Fire Added Feature At Shamrock Park

Sam Mann, life guard and swimming and diving instructor at Shamrock park, has promised an additional thrill during the fireworks program at the park tomorrow and Monday by a spectacular dive from the new tower.

The water of the lake below the tower will be covered with gasoline and the gasoline set fire. Through this lake of flames, Mann will dive. It is an unusual stunt but one that Mann feels confident that he can go through with safety.

Congressions and additional soft drink stands have been erected at the park by the man in charge of the celebration. Swimming and diving races, in the competition for the Shamrock team, start this afternoon and continue tomorrow with finals Monday.

Nitros Outslug Buddies, Even Up Series, 8-4 Win

OPENER WITH ABILENE SUNDAY. After today's session at Gorman, Ranger's Nitros are back on the home turf Sunday and open the second half of the new season against the league leaders, Abilene. The Eagles are here for only one game, tomorrow, then off to their home, to battle Gorman. Four Nitro pitchers are rarin' to work—Hill, Edgar, Hudspeth and Carter. Frank Hudspeth probably will be Jim's choice for Sunday, with Nick Carter second out.

Special to The Times. GORMAN, July 2.—Smoke Boyer was hit more freely than his wont, by the slugging Buddies, but his teammates also got to Wood freely, Money for three bingles, one a double, and Lovelace for a circuit wallop and the Nitros evened up the series with a victory, 8 to 4. It was a free hitting game, Gorman taking twelve hits for fourteen bases and Ranger eleven for fifteen bases. Taylor of Gorman got four hits in as many trips to the plate.

Score by innings: GORMAN. AB R H PO A E. Taylor, lf. 4 2 4 2 2 0. Gray, 3b. 4 0 1 1 0 0. Fuller, 2b. 4 1 3 3 2 0. Gressett, cf. 4 0 1 4 0 0. Sturdy, lb. 4 1 2 10 0 1. Burkhead, ss. 4 0 0 2 4 0. Emberton, c. 4 0 0 3 1 0. Wood, p. 4 0 0 1 4 0. Smith, rf. 2 0 1 0 0 0. Totals 36 4 12 26 14 1.

Special to The Times. ABILENE, July 2.—The Eagles hit Cheeves hard and opportunely and made it two in a row from the judges, 5 to 1. Gomez Hill was on the mound for Abilene and held the visitors to five hits.

BOXERS HIT RANGER EN ROUTE TO BATTLE BRECKENRIDGE MONDAY

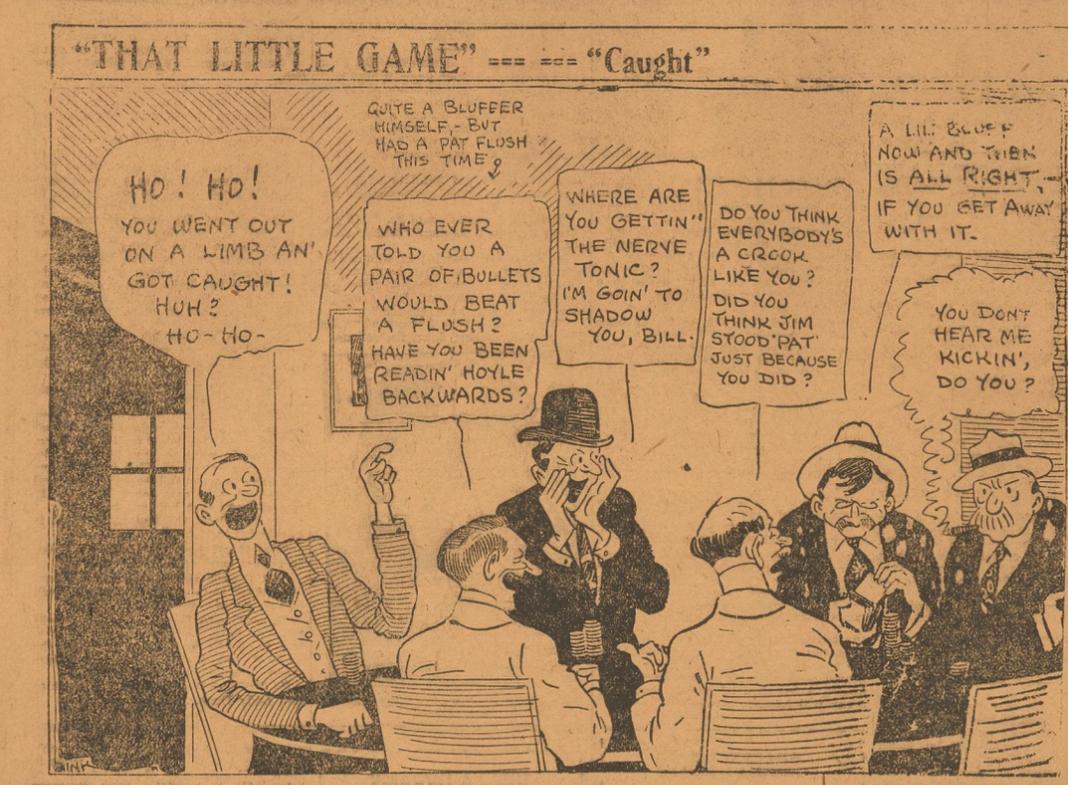

Johnny Fleming of St. Louis, and Soldier Graham of Dallas, who will mix at 142 pounds in the main go of the July 5 program at Breckenridge, passed through Ranger today on their way to the Stephens county town. They will travel twelve rounds, but, according to Fleming, the bout will be shorter. His record seems to bear out this assertion, as his last twelve encounters have been won a layo.

NEGRO IS CHARGED WITH ASSAULT IN WOMEN'S COMPLAINT. Lee Davis, negro, is being held by the police department on information furnished by two women from the Opera House rooms who claim that they were criminally assaulted by a negro. According to their story, the negro came to the rooming house and asked for a job. He was told that he was not needed whereupon he made advances toward one of the women. He then entered the room of the other woman, according to their story and violently pushed her until she fell upon the bed in the room. Davis will be arraigned today before Justice of the Peace McFatter.

A suspended romance of a delegate from Missouri in the Japanese tea garden, Golden Gate park. No telling how far this flirtation would have gone had the bridge been stronger.

Porto Rican delegates seem to find the 1920 sugar crop a more interesting topic for discussion than the list of possible candidates.

SENATOR GEORGE E. CHAMBERLAIN of Oregon hopes the convention will become hopelessly deadlocked over Palmer, McAdoo and Cox, thus giving him a chance to win the nomination as a single horse.

MISS ELIZABETH MARBURY, at the San Francisco convention as a delegate from New York, says: "I am outspoken, unequivocally and determinedly in favor of liberalizing the Volstead prohibition enforcement act."

Hard boiled delegate at large from the cow country enjoying the luxuries of life at the Palace Hotel. "Gosh, if the boys from the Bar-O quinch could see me now."

THE "WOMANLY WOMAN"

Among phrases that infuriate, none is perhaps more potent than the "womanly woman." She went out with Mid-Victorianism, together with unhygienically long skirts that swept the dust, and the tendency to faint at opportune moments. To the woman of today she is the object of impatient scorn—a helpless, selfish, useless, ornament of an insipid and autochthonous society. There is nothing attractive about her. To the man of today, however, she still preserves a certain charm. He knows that his sister is really a finer woman than the Lady Clares of Tennyson or Thackeray's Amelia; yet the average man would rather like Amelia if he knew her. Some men go farther and frankly admit that for them the womanly woman is still an ideal. And if women of today were not so eagerly bent upon fulfilling a destiny of theirs which has so long been denied them, they might consider less impatiently the apparently perverted taste of so many men. It is not all selfishness and a sense of superiority that makes a man sometimes use the old-fashioned phrase, nor is the man himself necessarily old-fashioned; yet in the hatred of the womanly woman there is, one is forced to admit, the lingering result of many centuries of the arrogant superiority of one sex and the intellectual responsibility of another. No wonder the phrase needs defense.

Today there are, of course, many women that are neither fine nor clever, but, although I see many women, I see very few of these. They are not, whatever their virtues or their faults, womanly women. Of those whom I do see, almost all fall rather naturally into two groups, in each of which there is a distinct weakness—the fine women that lack grace, and the clever women that lack restraint. If grace is not a necessity in this selfish old world, it is, at least, a joy. And among the big hearted, honest, capable, many possess real grace? There is a reserve, a sense of haste before the business of life, a devotion to duty that kills much of the graciousness of social contact. It is as if these fine women had worked too hard to obtain their heritage and have not yet become accustomed to it! From "The Point of View," July Scribner.

A Sunday Night Guest Supper

"Can you give me a menu for a very fainty guest supper for a Sunday night?" writes a reader of this column. "We often have friends drop in on us on Sunday afternoons and I like to ask them to stay to supper, but sometimes am at a loss to know what to give them. In three weeks some friends are coming specially for supper and I would appreciate your building a 'very special' menu for this particular occasion."

There is nothing daintier to serve as a main dish in warm weather than chicken mousse. The following Sunday Night Guest supper is, I think, about what my correspondent wishes:

- Celery Chicken Mousse Olives Tomato-Cup Salad Lily Cake Cold Tea Chicken Mousse—Dissolve 1 tablespoon of gelatin in a little water and add to it 1-2 cup of strong chicken broth. Put this into one cup of cold chicken hopped finely and fold in 2 cups of whipped cream seasoned with a little salt and paprika. Mould and set away to harden. Tomato-Cup Salad—Peel 6 medium sized tomatoes, chill and scoop out a little pulp from the center of each. Fill the cavities with cream cheese, which has been seasoned with salt and mixed with a very little finely-chopped green onion, then moisten with French dressing in crisp young lettuce leaves and top each with a dab of mayonnaise dressing. Lily Cake—1-3 cup butter, 1 cup sugar, 1-2 cup milk, 1-3-4 cups flour, 2-1-2 teaspoon baking powder, whites of 3 eggs, 1-2 teaspoon lemon extract and 2-3 tablespoon vanilla. Cream butter and sugar together, add the beaten whites vanilla and lemon extracts, add alternately the flour (in which the baking powder has been sifted) and the milk. Bake in a moderate oven for 45 minutes. Cover with boiled frosting.

High School Girl—"A cousin of mine is getting married and I would like to give her a silver mesh bag as a wedding present, but first wish to ask you whether or not she could keep it clean by cleaning it in a silver cleaning pan? One sees so many women with tarnished silver mesh bags that I have come to the conclusion that they must be hard to clean. I have given a silver cleaning pan as a wedding present; do you suppose she could clean the bag in it as well as her table silver?"

Answer—Silver mesh bags can be beautifully cleaned in a silver cleaning pan. You are right in guessing that they are hard to clean by hand. I would suggest that you at least consider giving your cousin a gun-metal mesh bag. These are extremely practical hand bags because they never tarnish and are stylish in appearance as well.

TESTED RECIPES

Chicken Pie

Prepare chicken as for fricassee and make gravy in the same way, but shred the chicken, not putting any bones into the pie. To extend the chicken or make it go farther you may allow about one cup of cooked rice to each pint of chicken in gravy, putting in a layer of chicken. There may be an under and upper crust for your pie or just an upper. Made exactly like baking powder biscuit. It is most wholesome. Holes should be left in the top for the steam to escape through. A cup of nice gravy should be poured in after the pie is baked, to take the place of that which will be absorbed.

In making small pies with some rice or potatoes this is more necessary than in the case of the large ones. In making chicken pie economically use only the dark meat, saving the white for other purposes.

Ramequins

Shredded chicken in the nice smooth gravy described in chicken fricassee recipe may be served in little table ramequins with a small baking powder biscuit on top.

Curry of Chicken

One of the old American adaptations of may be whole joints or shredded to go spoon of cury to each pint of thickened gravy. The chicken served in the gravy in that way will be absorbed. A so-called boiling chicken is fat. Save fat for a roux. The cury should be mixed with the flour which is dissolved in a small amount of water and then thinned to pour into to thicken a large amount of gravy. But the butter should be added, as in thickening gravy with a roux of butter and flour, since it improves the flavor of a chicken gravy, whether it is seasoned with cury or not. A little cream at the end does as much for the cury.

A so-called boiling chicken is fat. Save fat for a roux and use it in making gingerbread by the following recipe: Mix together one-half cup of corn syrup, one-fourth cup of molasses (you may use more molasses and less corn syrup), one-third cup of chicken fat or more if you have it, one-half cup of hot water. Sift and fold and stir into this two cups of flour which have been sifted with one-half teaspoon of soda, two teaspoons of cinnamon, one teaspoon of ginger, and

BEAUTY HINTS

Sometimes when I watch a group of young girls I have an idea that they are deliberately cultivating old age. If you will be very observant and look closely at the young girls you meet in the next few weeks you will see what I mean better than I can explain it to you.

One of the greatest faults that young girls seem to have nowadays is the habit of frowning. You will see them when they laugh or talk, twist the muscles of their faces, express emotions with their eyebrows, twist their mouths and frown when they are laughing, when they are trying to think, or when they are annoyed. This brings on wrinkles at a very early age so that sometimes girls in their early twenties have deep lines drawn across their foreheads or around the corners of their mouths.

I would not have you for worlds try to get along without changing your facial expression! Some lines are necessary; without them the face would be a blank. But lines over the forehead and deep wrinkles over the mouth add nothing to one's expression and are unnecessary until middle age. We all know the different methods of treating wrinkles—massage, cosmetics, stimulation and astringents. Some of these hint and most of the same methods are worth trying; but in this case, as in all others, the very best thing to do to prevent the premature wrinkles, and the first way to do this is to avoid unnecessary exaggerated facial expressions.

In Terms of Art

At a dinner in New York, James Montgomery Flagg, the clever artist, told this story to illustrate the influence of the artistic atmosphere. "You can't escape the artistic atmosphere. Even my cook cannot escape it. She came into the studio today and said: 'About the potatoes for lunch, sir—will you have them in their jackets or in the hood?'—Truth Seeker.

"Tinker Bob" Stories by Carlyle H. Holcomb

TINKER GOES TO FIND LADY DUCK.

Tinker Bob enjoyed watching Dr. Coon catch crawfish, but he knew it was time that he should say something about the operation that was necessary, in order to make Mr. Black Snake a fit fellow for the Forest. Three Lews, the Musk Rat, was down the river a little way, diving under the water every little while for something, the King did not know what Dr. Coon did not like to get around wet, so he fished in the shallow water.

"Hello, Dr. Coon!" said he. "Are you having good luck fishing?" Tinker called out.

Dr. Coon was startled at first till he saw it was the King. Then he answered: "Yes, I have caught six fat crabs and I have a lot of sport, just about six more and I will have enough."

He Never Catches Anything But a Few Roots.

"Oh, he never catches anything but a few roots that grow out in the bottom of the river," replied Dr. Coon, as he went on feeling under the stones for more crawfish.

"We are in need of your services, doctor," said Tinker Bob. "There is a serious operation to perform, and you will have to do the work."

Dr. Coon came out of the water at this announcement, surprised indeed to think the King would come all of this distance to see him about a serious operation. It surely must be very serious to claim the King's attention all this time.

"Do tell me, Oh King, if anyone is hurt. If I had only known I would never left my house to go fishing."

"No one is hurt, but Mr. Black Snake has threatened the lives of Rufus the Tree Mouse and Lady Song Sparrow, and I have come to you to see if you can pull his teeth out so he cannot do them harm."

Dr. Coon sat on his hind feet and scratched his head with his hand. Said he: "I will do what you want me to do, Oh King, but I never liked that Black Snake, and if I had my way, I would cut his head off."

"Well, that would never do, you know, for he has as much right in the Forest as any of the Dwellers," replied the King. "We merely want to keep him from doing anyone any harm. You know he has a terrible temper and he cannot control it, and when he gets angry he is apt to bite anybody that happens to be near. I think Dr. Coon, the best thing to do is to take his teeth out."

"But if you have all of his teeth out, he cannot eat," said Dr. Coon.

"All I want you to do is to take out his poison teeth—the other small teeth will do no one any harm."

"I see," said Dr. Coon. "But I will have to have Lady Duck to help me. You know she is the best nurse in the whole Forest. I will be at your Palace shortly after sunrise tomorrow."

So Tinker Bob the doctor and went to find Lady Duck. To Be Continued.

Through the vista of dreams are perceived the truths of life. France Refused Plan Now Taken Up by Germany International News Service. PARIS.—Stephane Passet, a well-known scientist, accuses French army chiefs of having refused to take advantage of a method of aerial defense of Paris invented by him in 1918. M. Passet in a book describing his invention declares the details are known in Berlin and German aviation experts are now working out the system.

The defense system consists of a special gun which fires long wires maintained in the air by parachutes. The wires, launched when an attack by airplane is expected, form a kind of network in the air all around the exposed area. They are practically invisible and experts have agreed that the fall and destruction of any aircraft entangled in them is certain.

M. Passet complains that when he offered his invention to the French government for use in the defense of Paris and other cities the high army officials who examined it approved the idea, but attempted to steal the invention. The inventor, however, had patents which protected his property and then, according to M. Passet, the officers in the invention bureau of the war office placed all kinds of difficulties in his way, with the result that nothing was ever done to put the idea into practice.

Governor Edwards, with bottle of champagne in hand in cockpit of flying boat before christening. Gov. Edward I. Edwards of New Jersey, who is openly for "beer and lots of it," recently officiated at the christening of the largest flying boat in America. It was the "Aeromarine," launched at Keyport, N. J. It accommodates ten passengers. Real, honest-to-goodness champagne was used to christen the craft. With Governor Edwards in the cockpit of the Aeromarine is L. M. Uppercu of the company.

TELLS STORY OF SPILL IN DITCH NEAR BALL PARK

W. H. Curry, an employee of the Thurber Earthen Products company, who was injured in an automobile accident at the creek opposite Municipal park, is nearly recovered. This morning he superintended the removal of his wrecked machine from the creek bed. Beyond a sprained leg and a scalp wound, he is none the worse for the experience.

Mr. Curry said that he was going to Tiffin in the car at 6:30 yesterday morning. When he reached the bridge near the ball park he turned to one side to avoid a wagon and drove close to the right of the bridge, which has no rail. He said he was driving slowly. Something went wrong with the steering gear, he says, which caused the wheels to veer sharply over the edge of the bridge. The ditch is about eight feet deep. Curry was pinned under the car.

RANGER FIELD HAS 20 YEARS OF LIFE AHEAD. REPORTS OF DRILLING IN OIL FIELDS.

The rise and fall in production of an oil field is very similar to the ebbs and flows of contending forces in a series of battles. A stranger viewing the Pleasant Grove field, for instance, would be astonished at the array of derricks visible from a high ridge and the first impression would be that the district was still in its infancy from a production standpoint.

"There is a wide space with not a derrick on it," he would see. "Don't try to tell me this field is drilled out." But pipe line figures would tell him that production in the entire field has slumped very sharply during the last few months.

Then what? Will the output diminish until the vast machinery connected with the oil industry is idle? Here again the statistician comes in with his figures. He points out that where there is a limit of increase and the peak of production has been passed, there is also a limit of decline which can be at least approximated for any period of a few months.

Many factors point to the probability that production in the immediate Ranger district will hold up for years. Fewer wells are being drilled even in neighborhoods of heavy production, and this insures longer life. Many wells abandoned in the past and which are now being reworked and are proving good producers.

An eminent geologist when on a visit to this city remarked that the Ranger district will be producing oil in large quantities twenty years from now. The figure was made of this remark and went to work to figure it out. He kept the result of his calculation a close secret.

what I must have suffered when I tell you that I fell off of weight from two hundred and twenty-five to a hundred and thirty-one pounds. When I was repatriated and finally got my discharge in February, 1919, I was little better than a living skeleton. I had no appetite and my digestive system was so upset that what little I did eat always gave me severe pains in the pit of my stomach. Before I joined the service, I never knew what nerves were, but after what I went through my nerves were so shattered that I couldn't pick up strength, and so weak that any attempt at work tired me out completely. I began to think that I should never be a well and strong man again.

MORE DIAMONDS SOLD THAN FOR OTHER NATIONS

Chicago, July 3.—The United States is still the world's greatest diamond buyer, according to Dr. Frederick Kunz's summary of the production of precious stones for 1918 recently published. Dr. Kunz is America's foremost authority on precious stones.

The imports of diamonds for 1919, Dr. Kunz says, probably exceed those of any year in the country's history. Imports were valued at $20,000,000 in 1915; $35,000,000 in 1916; $31,000,000,000 in 1917, and $20,000,000 in 1918.

Dr. Kunz points out that a notable feature of importation in recent years has been the increasing proportion of rough diamonds, which is evidence of the progress of diamond cutting in the United States.

"It remains to be seen," says Dr. Kunz "what will be the effect of the revival of industry in Belgium and the efforts to develop in England. There are 675 diamond cutters in the United States and their wages are from $50 to $75 a week."

A new demand for diamonds is developing in the East. Japan's imports in 1918 were double those of 1917. China is becoming a large diamond buyer. The demand for diamonds in India has awakened. In Europe the diamond market was less seriously affected by the war than had been expected. Germany, Russia and other countries that stand on the brink of bankruptcy, are buying all the diamonds they can get on the theory that in an unstable world diamonds represent investment values.

CHILD STRANGLES UNDER OVERTURNED AUTOMOBILE

MIDDLEBURY, N. Y., July 3.—Caught by the neck under a wrecked auto driven by her father, Hazel Lawrence, twelve year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Lawrence of White Sulphur Springs, N. Y., was choked to death. The car skidded from the road in the darkness, mounted a bank and turned bottom side up. The accident occurred near Strangtown.

When the auto turned over Mrs. Lawrence alone was able to extricate herself from the wreckage after great difficulty. Groping her way to the nearest farm house, she gave the alarm. When assistance arrived the child and her father were taken out, the former dead.

DAILY TIMES SHORT STORY

WHAT A TROUT BROUGHT ABOUT

BY CORONA REMINGTON

"Stop that! Stop that, I say, or I'll shake you myself!"

Charlie Dawson stopped it at once and in amazement looked up into the purple face of a very pretty, very young girl who was standing at the water's edge.

"Can't you see those signs, 'Don't trespass,' all around the lake?"

"Oh, you call this a lake, do you?"

"Yes. It's my lake. Don't get flippant."

"I'm not. I assure you that I had no idea of making trouble and I most humbly apologize."

"But why are you trespassing?" she asked, still unappreciated but inwardly melted by the earnest, tanned face looking down at her.

"Well, to tell the truth—" He hesitated. "To tell the truth, my one mania is fishing, and I believe I'd almost risk my life if I thought the chances were fair for a good catch. And there were so many signs not to trespass around this—er—lake that I was convinced the fishing was good. The more stringent the warnings the better the fishing—always?"

"Did you catch any?" asked the girl.

At that instant she heard a vigorous flopping in the grass at her feet and stooping saw one of her most beautiful trout gasping its last. With a shriek she grabbed it and threw it back into the water.

"We only put those fishes in there yesterday and they have to multiply before we start fishing them out."

"Heavens! It's getting worse and worse!" the man said desperately. "I assure you my intentions were not as bad as my actions. Is there anything I can do to prove my contribution?"

His face was so serious that the girl was tempted to laugh for the first time during the interview.

"Yes," she said after a moment's thought, "but it's awfully big pay for one little trout."

"Name the price," he answered unmoved, "and if it's within human power to do it, I'll do it."

"I think you're awful nice," she said irreverently.

"Thank you," he smiled. "I think you're—"

"Let me tell you all about it. We'll sit down here," she interrupted, moving over to a fallen tree nearby.

"First, I'm Miss Marjorie Randall."

"What! Lawyer Randall's daughter, from Condon?"

"Yes. Do you know dad?"

"I should say I did. We've played many a game of billiards together at the club."

"But let's get down to business. This is awfully important," the girl went on. "To begin with, poor mother's had a dreadfully severe breakdown, and the doctors said she'd have to go to the country, where there'd be no noises. Sounds almost kill her, so dad bought this place, and mother and I have to live here a whole year with no one but the servants. It's pretty dull for me, but dad comes out week-ends, and he's trying to help fix things so it'll be more interesting. This lake's one of the things he's fixed, and now I'm crazy to have a real little canoe, so I can go out on it, but I asked for it before mother, and she went into hysterics, said I'd get drowned and made dad promise not to get me one. But I just know that if someone else made it for me and showed me how to paddle it, I'd be perfectly safe."

The girl paused out of breath and waited, her face pink with excitement and her blue eyes dancing.

"I see, said the man, in a flash. "Not a word now to worry your mother, but I'll guarantee you'll be safe and I'm sure your father'd be satisfied if he knew I was looking after the matter."

"How wonderful!" said Marjorie eagerly. "Will you really do it?"

"Under one condition."

"Name it."

"That you promise not to go out in it alone until I give you permission."

"I promise," she said almost solemnly, as she placed her hand in his.

He held it a second, then: "Good! Meet me here at, say, 2 o'clock, Friday."

"I'll be here," she answered as she capered away through the bushes, her wavy brown hair shining in the sun and her red middie tie adding a touch of color to the scene.

"Wait a minute," he called after her. "You don't know who I am yet."

"That's so," she answered, flashing him a smile. "Who are you?"

"I'm Charley," he said at last. "All right. Good-by, Mr. Charley. Friday at 2 o'clock."

"Good-by, Miss Marjorie. Friday at 2."

That evening Marjorie's mother tried wearily to understand the cause of her daughter's dancing eyes and suppressed excitement. An explanation could she get out of her.

"I'm just dreadfully happy, mother," was her only reply.

"And I was afraid you'd be lonely out here after the life you've been accustomed to," her mother answered.

At last, after ages of waiting, Friday came and the two appeared punctually at the lake. On the surface of the water lay a beautiful little canoe, evidently just cut out of the trunk of a huge tree. A seat was in each end and on the side a place had been smoothed, and in large green letters were painted the words, "The Marjorie."

"I just can't believe," she said, her voice thrilling with happiness, and at the sight of her joy the man felt fully repaid for his blistered hands.

"All aboard!" he said, trying to hide the pleasure in his face.

It was a wonderful afternoon they spent together, he paddling and she watching him while her fingers trailed through the cool water.

"I feel as if I'd been to heaven," she said when at last they had to get out.

"I do, too," he replied. "Can we do it again tomorrow?"

"Indeed we can, and the day after, and the day after that."

It soon became a habit for the two to meet every day at the lake, and, being thrown together as they were, it was natural that they should confide in each other, and at the end of a short while they knew each other better than they would have after months of ordinary acquaintance.

Once in a while he came to the house, but not often, for everything had to be kept very quiet around Mrs. Randall.

"As the summer waned he began to dread going back to town. The days seemed to slip through his fingers like precious stones, and once he went to town for the day and, unknown to the girl, had an interview with her father. When they met the next day his face was glowing.

"Marjorie," he said gently, "I must get back to work tomorrow, so this will be our last trip. Do you want to try it alone or shall we agree to paddle it together?"

He looked at her earnestly, but her eyes fell beneath his gaze and he felt her hands tremble in his.

"Did ever a chap have such luck!" he exclaimed blissfully; then after a few joyful minutes he said:

"I wish I could find that fish I caught. I'd put a bell on his toes and tie a ribbon around his neck."

THIEVES TAKE FLOWERS FROM CHURCH HOME

International News Service. ATCHISON, Kan., July 3.—This city has the "meanest" burglars. Cut flowers to the value of approximately three hundred dollars were stolen from the First Baptist church, where they were assembled for decorating purposes, the other night. It is believed the flowers, which had been purchased with funds raised by public subscription, were carried away in a motor truck.

BOSSED WORK TRAIN: IS HEIR TO FORTUNE

International News Service. CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., July 3.—Thomas Neville of Connelville, Mrs. Mary Connolly of Duquesne, and Mrs. Isabella Dougherty of McKeesport, have fallen heir to $1,250,000, now in a London bank. The money has been bearing interest since 1862, when it was inherited by the mother of the three from an aunt.

Neville formerly worked on a section train for the Baltimore & Ohio railroad.

WE DON'T REMEMBER.

LONDON, July 3.—The latest complaint against American whiskey aired in London courts is this: It makes the legs drunk without moulding the head. Hence one's head is never conscious of how drunk one's legs have become. As an alibi it don't work; the defendant was fined.
