HUGE GAS WELL IS DRILLED IN AT CHANEY

BROTHER WIRES CONVICTED MAN IS NOT GUILTY

Russell Scott Is Granted Reprieve to Prevent Miscarriage of Justice.

By United Press.
CHICAGO, July 17.—Russell T. Scott, former millionaire, was not summoned to the gallows at daybreak today for the murder of Joseph Maurer, a young drug clerk, of which he was convicted. Having been granted a reprieve of one week a few hours earlier, the condemned man had fallen into a sound sleep. Scott had abandoned all hope, had gone through a final parting from his wife and aged father, and had made a last statement denying he had anything to do with the killing of Maurer. He had prepared and nerved himself to meet his doom five hours later when word of the reprieve was brought to him. A telegram from Detroit signed "Robert Scott," a brother of Russell, accepting blame for the murder and promising to surrender reached Springfield near midnight. The telegram read: "Delay hanging of my brother Russell. I will be in to surrender myself. I am the man who shot Joseph Maurer." Governor Len Small was located by Will Colvin, head of the board of pardons and paroles, and extended the week's clemency to make sure there would be no miscarriage of justice. Russell told newspaper men he did not believe the telegram was from Robert. "If Robert actually sent the wire he would have got word to me," Russell said. "I do not believe he will show up."

Police of Detroit have been asked to find Robert Scott, for until he is found the governor and his advisers hesitate to believe the telegram is genuine. Some believe friends of Russell sent the telegram in an effort to gain another stay of execution.

Schools and Highways To Get Gasoline Tax

AUSTIN, July 17.—It is held unequivocally by the attorney general's department that the gasoline tax has not been divided but must continue to go to the highway fund and the school fund, three-fourths and one-fourth, respectively, therefore, Comptroller Terrell was advised that in no event does the tax go to the general fund. Mr. Terrell thus gets the information before the state automatic tax board meets next Monday and state tax rate must be made without any possible income from that source. The opinion was written by Assistant Ernest May. Had the attorney general's opinion been otherwise, a special session of the legislature would have been inevitable to provide funds for the highway department. The gross income for the next two years is estimated at $9,000,000.
The question arose because the original gasoline tax act appropriated the money for two years expiring next Sept. 1, and Mr. Terrell asked if the appropriation continued or should the income go to the general fund.
PIONEER SOON TO HAVE NEW SCHOOL BUILDING.
Special Correspondence.
PIONEER, July 17.—A contract for Pioneer's new $25,000 school building has been awarded and construction work is to begin at once. The building is to be of handsome finished brick, one story, but sufficiently large for commodious classrooms and a big auditorium.

Three Gassers Drilled In Near Eastland

Root and associates have a big gasser in their R. Q. Lee No. 1, located southwest of Eastland, according to reports it is making several million cubic feet of gas daily.
The Landreth Production Company's well on the Elliott tract, north of Cisco, is reported in for a 15,000,000 gasser.
Mook et als have a producer just in at Cross Plains, which is reported flowing several hundred barrels per day. This well is west of the town site and almost within the city limits, according to reports.
Mack Anderson of Rising Star has let a contract for a new test in the territory southwest of Rising Star a few miles.

ELEEMOSYNARY INSTITUTIONS HEADS NAMED

Program Will Continue Thru Today and Tomorrow; Large Number Present.
Special Correspondence.
AUSTIN, July 17.—Several changes were made in the appointments by the state board of control, Thursday, of superintendents of the state eleemosynary institutions. These appointments include:
Girls' training school at Gainesville, Mrs. Agnes Stephens of Corsicana, succeeding Dr. Carrie Weaver Smith, who was not reappointed. Mrs. Stephens was for about 10 years a teacher in the boys' training school at Gatesville.
State epileptic colony at Abilene, Dr. William Thomas of the United States veterans' bureau at San Antonio, succeeding Dr. T. B. Mass.
Boys' training school at Gatesville, C. E. King of Corsicana, a former superintendent, to succeed Dr. E. P. Repp, deceased.
Confederate home at Austin, A. W. Taber of Austin, succeeding Judge E. W. Winfree, resigned.
Confederate women's home, Mrs. Jennie Burleson of Austin, succeeding Mrs. S. J. Thomas.
State orphans' home at Corsicana, Donald McDonald of Crockett, succeeding Dr. Odie Miniata.
Austin hospital annex, where senile patients are cared for, Dr. W. M. Shyles, now superintendent of the state insane hospital at Rusk. His successor at Rusk has not yet been named.
Southwestern insane asylum at San Antonio, Dr. W. J. Johnson, transferred from the Austin hospital annex, succeeding Dr. Charles W. Castner.
Insane asylum at Wichita Falls, Dr. Charles W. Castner, succeeding Dr. F. S. White.
Superintendents reappointed are: Drs. J. G. Springer, state insane asylum, Austin; T. M. Scott, state school for deaf, Austin; M. B. Brown, state school for blind; Dr. J. W. Bradfield, colony for feeble minded, Austin; Dr. J. B. McKnight, state tuberculosis sanitarium, Garlsbad; E. B. McCordie, home for dependent and neglected children; J. D. Martin, deaf, dumb and blind institute for colored, Austin; Dr. George F. Powell, Terrell state hospital, Terrell.

A. W. Taber, special agent of the state banking department of Austin, is in Ranger for the last several months, has been appointed head of the Confederate veterans home in Austin, according to an announcement today.
Mr. Taber at the present time is attending a special agents meeting in Austin and is expected to return to Ranger in a few days. He will probably remain in Ranger until the affairs of the defunct Peoples State bank of Ranger are liquidated, and then take charge of the home at Austin. Although not a confederate veteran himself, Mr. Taber is the son of a confederate veteran.

PRICE OF CRUDE RUBBER BEFORE STATE DEPARTMENT

WASHINGTON, July 17.—The rapid increase in the price of crude rubber and the alleged British monopoly was officially brought to the attention of the state department today by representatives of the Rubber Association of America, Inc.
A conference of the rubber men was held with Secretary Kellogg today on arrangements made through President Coolidge at Swampscott.

WELL NEAR DELEON NOW DOWN TO 3,200-FOOT LEVEL

DELEON, July 17.—The Lloyd well, five miles northwest of DeLeon, is at 3,200 feet, and still drilling in black lime, not having encountered the Desdemona pay at the usual depth.

RATE REVISION ORDERED

WASHINGTON, July 17.—The interstate commerce commission today ordered a revision of rates to most points to and from Louisiana, Texas, Oklahoma and Kansas to Galveston and New Orleans on commodities which are destined for export, import or coastwise traffic. The commission found that the rates are prejudicial to Galveston and helpful to New Orleans.

CLUB WOMEN OF TEXAS AROUSED, VOICE PROTEST

May Appeal to Governor to Retain Present Head Girls' Training School

By United Press.
DALLAS, July 17.—Texas clubwomen may appeal to Governor Ferguson from the action of the board of control in dismissing Mrs. Carrie Weaver Smith as superintendent of the girls' training school at Gatesville, according to Mrs. W. P. Zumwalt, chairman of the joint legislative conference, here today.
"All Texas women are interested both in the reason for the dismissal of Dr. Smith and the manner in which the school will be operated in the future," said Mrs. Zumwalt. "Texas women want to know if the girls are to be placed under a penal system, or treated, as in the past, as delinquent children who can be trained in the right path. We feel that the board has acted unjustly."

COUNTY CLUB BOYS AND GIRLS ENJOYING CAMP

More than 150 Eastland county club boys and girls are in Eastland for today and tomorrow attending the fourth annual encampment of the federated agricultural clubs of the county. The program for the meeting, which opened Thursday afternoon, is being carried out as announced. A free motion picture at the Connellee theatre was a part of the program last evening.
In company with County Agent E. H. Bush, the club members are today judging livestock and grain and engaging in other contests on the program. The winners of these contests will represent the clubs of Eastland county at the state contest to be held at the A. & M. college during the latter part of this month.
The program will continue throughout the day tomorrow. For this afternoon and Saturday it will include a number of addresses by different speakers.

Disastrous Flood Raging in China

HONG KONG, July 17.—Disastrous floods sweeping down on Hong Kong today added to the plight of the community still afflicted with the big Chinese strike. Seven houses containing 30 Chinese families were washed away. Many are believed to have been drowned, including an legislator with most of his family.

THE WEATHER

West Texas—Tonight and Saturday generally fair.

Elopers

Missing since June 25, these two are believed to have eloped. Charles Kirkpatrick, 35, was a Sunday school teacher in McGregor, Mich., and Miss Ruby Bopra, 17, was formerly a maid in his home. Kirkpatrick has three children.

Dallas Negro is Freed by Court, Flogged by Mob

By United Press.
DALLAS, July 17.—Authorities here today were investigating the flogging of Clarence Brown, negro, who was seized here last night by a mob of about 30 men after he had been released from jail where he had been held on a statutory charge. Brown told officers that many of the floggers were masked.
More than 30 lath wounds showed on his body today, but physicians said he had not been seriously hurt.

GRAND JURY SUMMONED INDICT MISSING MAN.

MINEOLA, N. Y., July 17.—With Phillip Knok Knapp, army deserter and alleged "thrill murderer," variously reported as having been sent to North Carolina, Washington, D. C., Indiana, Ohio, and crossing the Canada border within the last 24 hours, a Nassau county grand jury was summoned here today to indict him for the killing of Louis Panelli.

EASTLAND WILL EFFECT SAVING OF LARGE SUM

Interest Rate Lowered and Total Amount of Interest to Be Reduced Each Year.

The Eastland city commission, after negotiations that have extended over a period of several months, have closed a contract with Brown-Crummer Investment company, bond dealers, by the terms of which the latter are to refund the city's bonded indebtedness, which will mean a saving to Eastland city taxpayers of $707,000 in a period of 37 years, the length of time the bonds are to run. This service is to cost the city absolutely nothing.
The city's bonded indebtedness is $815,000, which is in the form of 6 per cent 40-year bonds. These are what are termed term bonds and no part of the principal can be paid until the entire lot has matured, unless the 20-year option is exercised, which would make it necessary for the city to pay interest on the full amount of the bonded indebtedness for 35 years, which is the number of years the bonds are yet to run. This interest amounts to $48,900 per year or $1,711,500 on the 35 years. The city must also set aside one-fourth of the amount of the bonds each year as a sinking fund with which to pay off the bonds when they have matured. This sinking fund cannot be paid to the bondholders, but remains a liability to the city for the entire time.
By refunding these bonds and exchanging for the 6 per cent term bonds a like amount of 5 per cent serial bonds, the great saving is made because of the fact that the serial bonds are paid, interest and principal, yearly, thereby eliminating interest. They also draw a lower interest rate because of the fact that the buyer gets his money and interest yearly and therefore prefers the serial bond although the interest rate is less than on the term bond.
The company undertaking to refund these bonds is able to make more or less money out of the transaction because of the fact that they are bond buyers and already own or control a large portion of the bonds. Those that they do not own they can buy at a discount because of the greater demand for the serial bonds and can sell the new bonds at a premium for the same reason, it is said.
Negotiations between the city commission and a number of bond companies have been on for some time and this contract, approved by the state officials, was finally closed a few days ago.

TEXON OIL CO. SENDS MONEY FOR UNIVERSITY

AUSTIN, July 17.—The Texon Oil company Friday remitted $132,807 oil royalty to the university of Texas for June. This brings the grand total in escrow to $659,678.

DARROW MAKES CRITICISM OF COURT RULING

DAYTON, Tenn., July 17.—In a grand display of verbal fireworks in which Clarence Darrow was nearly threatened to be held in contempt of court, the Scopes trial, through a ruling by Judge Raulston, neared dissolution today. The judge held that scientific evidence in the case was inadmissible, which left little to do except to hear closing arguments and the jury's verdict.

The defense, however, put forward a proposal that the testimony should be submitted for benefit of the court, with the jury barred. The judge agreed to this, whereupon William Jennings Bryan interposed with a right to cross-examine the scientists. It was finally decided that the testimony will be put forth in the form of affidavits, and meanwhile the trial stands adjourned until Monday morning, while the affidavits are being prepared. Judge Raulston said that if he should change his mind, he would give it to the jury.
Darrow indignantly remarked that it was strange that Judge Raulston always ruled in favor of the prosecution.
"I hope you don't intend it to be a reflection on this court," said the judge.
"You can hope," replied Darrow, looking up from his beaming brows. "I can do something else, too," retorted the judge, but the matter went no further.

MISSING RANCH WOMAN ESCAPES FROM CAPTORS

Tells Police Three Chinese Kidnap Her to Be Wife of Aged Mexican.
By United Press.
CALEXICO, Calif., July 17.—Dramatic details of her asserted kidnaping by Orientals were related to the police here by Mrs. Virginia Lee Cookson, beautiful ranch woman and magazine writer.
Mrs. Cookson, sought since last Tuesday morning in San Diego canyon by deputy sheriffs and forest rangers in the belief that she has been murdered, walked into the police station today and told a weird story of her abduction at the hands of three Chinese.
Mrs. Cookson said she had been brought by her abductors to the border and thrown into a dungeon, there being held for marriage to "Old Don," an aged Mexican character. With the aid of a Chinese lackey whom she had befriended, Mrs. Cookson escaped from her captors before they had a chance to take her across the border, she said.

Multipled Tragedy Follows Crash and Wrecking of Plane

MILAN, Italy, July 17.—Capsizing an airplane above Tradate, in one of the strangest accidents of aviation history, brought death and a factory fire in its trail. The machine, occupied by two flyers, struck the chimney of a plant, ignited and spread flames to the inside of the factory. The flyers were burned to death and the owner of the plane and one of his workmen were seriously injured.

Landmarks in Ardmore Destroyed by Fire

By United Press.
ARDMORE, Okla., July 17.—Fire early today destroyed four grocery stores and a vacant hotel, causing loss estimated at $300,000. The Randall hotel destroyed was the one in which the late Jake Hamon made his headquarters and where he was shot to death by his secretary, Clara Smith Hamon. All of the buildings were landmarks.
Another fire at Eufaula, Okla., today destroyed the county courthouse and many valuable county records. The loss was estimated at $50,000. Origin of the fires in both cases was undetermined.

Immense Gasser is Flowing Near Graham From 715-Foot Level

GRAHAM, July 17.—One of the biggest gassers ever found in Young county was uncovered Thursday afternoon at 715 feet by the Hubbard Drilling company on its Tom Price No. 14, 14 miles south of Graham, on Fish creek.
The gas flow measures more than 20,000,000 feet and may rank the well as the biggest shallow gasser in the country.
The well is a wildcat, three miles south of the Bashara pool and several miles east of the Ray shallow gasser in Throckmorton county, which was discovered a year and a half ago and is still producing over 5,000,000 feet of gas.
Incidentally, the Hubbard discovery with reference to the Ray gasser may prove up the biggest shallow gas field in the world.

GAS AND GASOLINE GET MIXED IN NEWS REPORT

By United Press.
AUSTIN, July 17.—"Newspaper reports that the Travis county indictment of Thursday was based on gasoline price fixing is incorrect," said Attorney General Dan Moody, who drew the indictment in question. Until an arrest is made, the name of the man will not be made public. It was learned Friday that the person indicted is connected with a large gas company and the reporter thought the word gas was the usual abbreviation of gasoline.

LONE STAR GAS COMPANY WILL EXTEND PIPES

Daily Gas Production in Chaney Field Now About 65,000 000 Cubic Feet Daily.

Another big gasser was drilled in last week near Chaney, about 10 miles southwest of Ranger, when the Motes No. 2 of Parsons, George & Delaney was drilled in for about 25,000,000 feet of dry gas at a depth of about 3,100 feet.
The drilling in of the Motes No. 2 for a huge gasser makes the sixth producing gas well of the field and brings the total production up to about 65,000,000 feet of gas daily, if the gas was being used. At the present time virtually all of the wells are capped and awaiting completion of the big 12-inch main of the Lone Star Gas company to the field. A contract, it is said, between owners of the wells and the Lone Star Gas company calls for the big main when the total production of the field reaches 60,000,000 feet of gas. With the completion of the Motes No. 2 the mark was reached and passed with several more wells being drilled in the immediate vicinity.
Meanwhile drilling for oil is continuing, with several locations being made by Parsons, George & Delaney, who own the producing gas wells. The owners of the wells believe firmly that oil will be found in paying quantities somewhere in the field. Meanwhile they are drilling in gassers in order to have the line laid by the Lone Star company and to utilize the gas that is being wasted. The main to the new gas field will supply part of Fort Worth and Dallas with gas. It is said, and from indications the field will hold up several years. Rock pressure of from 1,250 to 1,300 pounds exists in the gassers drilled in.

SHEPHERD GETS SHOCK IN FIGHT FOR FORTUNE

CHICAGO, July 17.—William D. Shepherd today lost his fight for the fortune of his foster son, Billy McClintock, when Judge Horne refused to admit Billy's will for probate. Attorneys for Miss Isabelle Pope, the youth's fiancée, and nine cousins of Billy's made a bitter attack on Shepherd and his wife, charging undue influence.
Judge Horne said that while there was no evidence, there existed a presumption of undue influence.

WAR IN CHINA

Among Washington authorities the outbreak in northern China is looked upon as an expression of China's fierce determination to emancipate itself from foreign oppression and double-dealing.

For nearly two years, in accord with its traditional policy, the United States has left no stone unturned to liberate China from the burdensome international yoke.

Foreigners in China are not subject to the jurisdiction of Chinese law courts, but only to tribunals consisting of their own nationals. This was the policy that Turkey rejected, China has been promised relief by the powers, but delay after delay has ensued. France is understood to be chiefly responsible for obstructing matters.

It is such exhibitions of bad faith with China by the outside world that have fired the more aggressive elements in that country to resist them by every force at their command and demand absolute independence.

Japan is backing the old monarchist forces and Russia is said to be furnishing arms and munitions to General Feng, the Christian leader. Many things are possible as a result of this revolt against exploitation by foreigners.

LIVELY SESSION OF CONGRESS

The next session of congress will be lively. Spicy debates are scheduled on the St. Paul tragedy, and the federal reserve banks' $200,000,000 credit to London. The latter was not explained lucidly enough to the public. The former was not taken up as it should have been with the interstate commerce commission before the road was thrown into bankruptcy and thousands of small stockholders "skinned." Politicians are already sharpening their spears for an attack upon the "capitalists" responsible for these two happenings. Two other questions of vast importance to the taxpayers are the Mellon proposition for tax reduction and the disposition of Muscle Shoals.

OUR LUXURY ACCOUNT

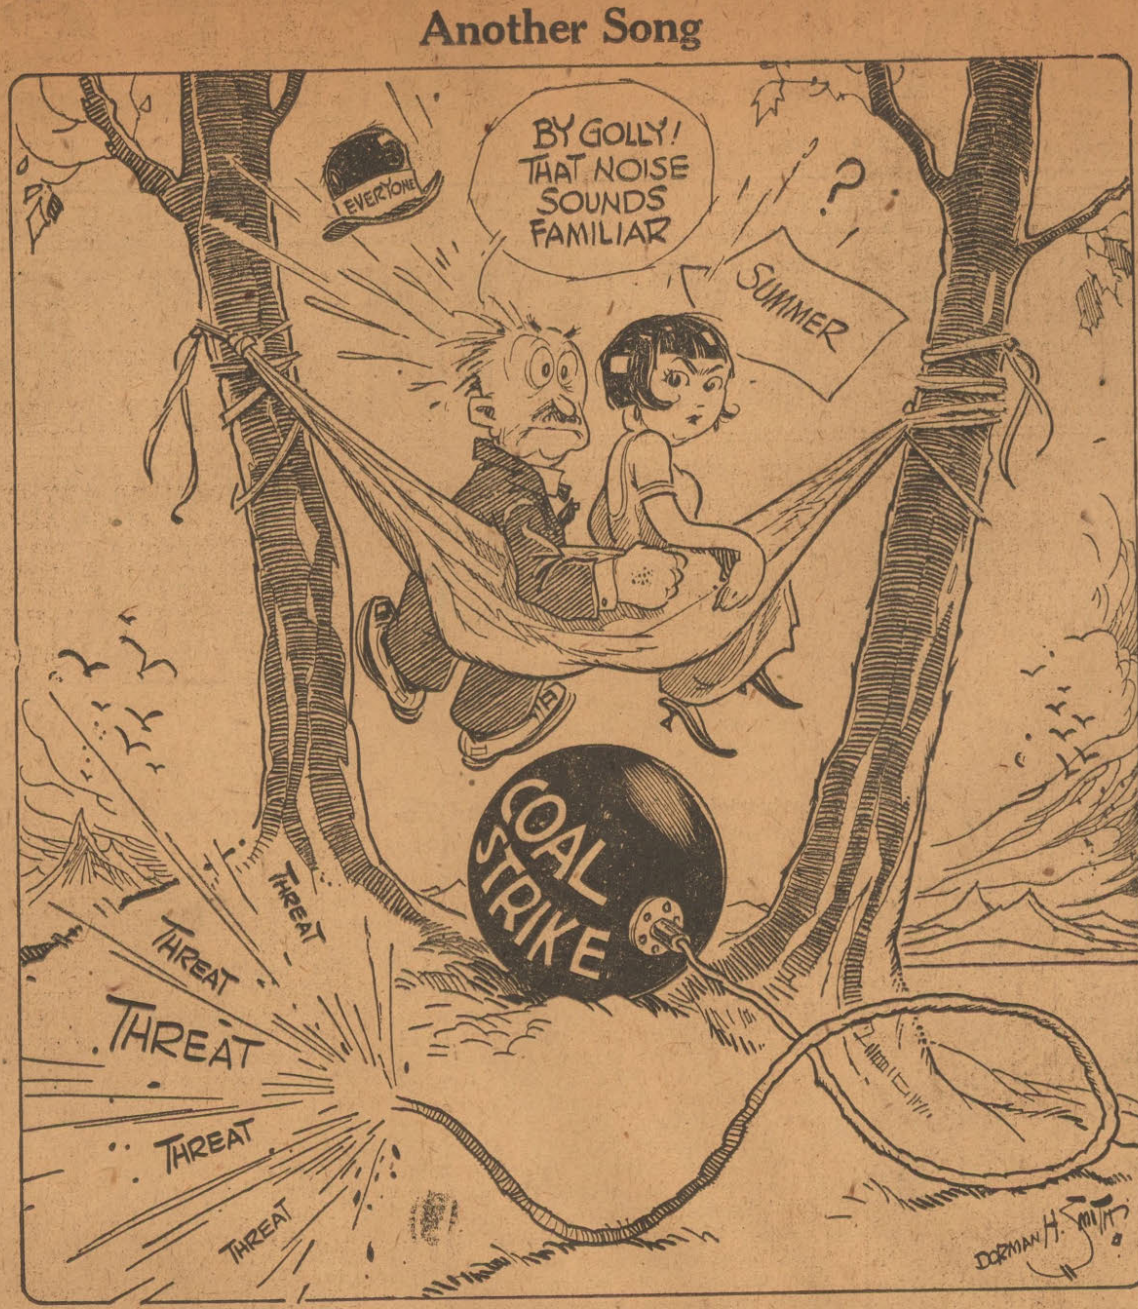

The average bill for electric lights and appliances operation in the American home is $25 a year.

The same home spends $95 a year for tobacco, and $88 a year for gasoline, $50 for ice cream, and $48 for candy.

If there is any moral to this, it is use more electricity—for the benefits of a well lighted and fully appointed home are not luxuries.

As a rule the newspaper is only a mirror of community life. It may be full of crime news and rank reading matter, but that is what you evidently want. When they are on the front page its because more readers want them there. The new-age editor endeavors to give the people what they desire. He doesn't pose as pastor of the flock nor as a Sunday school teacher—he's just the mirror of your ideals. If that were not true he wouldn't be in business.

The United States League of Building and Loan association reports a total membership of 8,554,352, with assets aggregating nearly $5,000,000,000. Last year the gain in membership was 18.76 per cent and assets 20.87 per cent over the previous year. The growth of this business during the past 15 years has been more than 500 per cent with a smaller loss account than banks record.

ACTIVITIES IN SOCIAL CIRCLES IN EASTLAND

SATURDAY EVENT.
 Last day of encampment, boys' agricultural clubs and girls' canning clubs. Program on grounds of pecan grove, Brelsford tract.

YOUNGER SET ENJOYS DANCING.

The handsome lobby of the Stanley hotel teamed with young life last night the occasion of a party given by Miss Evelyn Taylor, and Jim Golden, in honor of sweet little Miss Catherine Gilbert of Okmulgee, Okla. here for a visit with the family of the Goldenes, and others. A big crowd of onlookers outside the hotel gave an additional space to the pretty setting of bright dresses and happy young faces. During intermission, Mrs. Alberta Golden served a daintily arranged supper of sandwiches, salad, olives, pickles, lovely cake and iced tea to the young revelers on the roof of the hotel, which, under Mrs. Golden's clever hands, has assumed the attractiveness of a roof garden, with tables and comfortable chairs.

Those present: Misses Catherine Gilbert, Evelyn Taylor, June June, Eda Lindsley, Ezma Miller, Ouida Williams, Glenna Gillespie, Nell McConnell, Helen Hilton, Maud Sly, Genevieve Lyons, Ruth Morris, Margaret Spillers, Mary Cox, Valera Hargus, Opal Afton McQuary, and Virginia Weaver; Harold Parvin, Cullen Gilbreath, Tom Harris, Bob Vaught, Donald Teatsorth, Donald Downtain, Dave Ernest, Royce Waters, Guy Harrell, Paul Rumbaugh, Noble White, Allen Harwood, Francis Jones, Wayne Stokes, Buford Webb, Alfred Jones, Dickie Bowen, and Jim Golden.

SUSAN STEELE PICNIC.

The Susan Steele Bible class picnic held Thursday night, was a largely attended event, about 60 in all, including the husbands and personal guests of members, those from out of town. The plans were changed and the picnic was held in the beautiful location which the Lions are making into a play ground, a grove just east of the E. E. Freyschlag residence, and, it is said, donated to the Lions by C. U. Connellee. The luncheon was served on the "hit or miss plan," each member taking one special kind of edible, and the supper was a bounteous feast, including salad, fried chicken, rolls, potato flakes, iced drinks, ice cream, cake, all enjoyed from a long table laid by the men.

Among the guests of members were Mr. and Mrs. Tom Caton and family, Mrs. Luther Mitchell of Clarksville, Texas, guests of Mrs. J. A. Caton, as also were Mrs. Van Morgan and son, Miss Gussey, guest of Mrs. Peters. Local guests were Rev. J. H. Stewart and wife, Prof. Hob Gray and Miss Sallie Hill.

NOTES AND PERSONALS.

Miss Elizabeth Garrett, who is visiting the W. B. Suttons in Tulsa, is having a continued eventful visit, filled with little teas, lawn parties and dances. The entire Sutton family will take Miss Garrett as their guest to the Ozarks in a few days for a two weeks stay.

The camping party composed of Ranger friends of Judges and Mrs. George L. Davenport of Eastland, broke camp the fourth day after arrival, finding the location too warm and dry for comfort. A member of the party had to leave on account of sickness in her family at home, and this started a home exodus. The Davenports made the run of over 200 miles in nine hours.

Mr. and Mrs. Garrett Bohning returned home Wednesday night from a motor visit of three days in Dallas.

Mrs. Harder's mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. Grubb, and their two small sons, George and Harry, who were visiting their daughter, returned to Tulsa, Okla., overland on Wednesday evening.

DR. BACON SAUNDERS, NOTED FORT WORTH SURGEON, DIES

Fort Worth, July 17.—Dr. Bacon Saunders, 70, long one of the most successful surgeons in North Texas, died Wednesday night at Colorado Springs, Colo., after an illness of about 10 months. He was a graduate of the Carlton college at Bonham and later of the medical school of the University of Louisville, Ky. He had been a resident of Fort Worth since 1893 and for 25 years was chief surgeon of the Fort Worth & Denver City railway. He married Miss Ida Caldwell of Bonham, who survives him with two children, Dr. Roy F. Saunders and Mrs. Charles F. Reimers, both of this city.

Mrs. M. V. Gibson of Rising Star will be hostess this afternoon and over Friday to the Eastland friends who will return Saturday or Sunday: Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Beard, Mrs. May Harrison, and latter's brother, Mr. Hob Gray. A very charming dinner was given in their honor by the hostess the day of their arrival.

WEDNESDAY BRIDGE

Mrs. Frank Brahoney entertained the Wednesday bridge club, Wednesday morning, at her home in the Cooper addition. On account of a number of the club members being out of town, only two tables were arranged and the high score prize, a breakfast table set, hand embroidered, went to Mrs. J. T. Gullahorn, and the low score prize, a book, to Mrs. Charles Conley. A salad and ice course followed the game and was enjoyed by the following ladies: Mmes. J. T. Gullahorn, F. A. Brown, H. B. Wilson, Gus Coleman, Chas. Conley, E. L. McMillen, Frank Champion, Fred Yonkers. The next meeting will be with Mrs. W. R. Bowden.

LADIES ONLY

Retreating from the heat last evening, a party of ladies drove out to Lake Leon for a swim. The water was reported as "delightful" and after their swim they drove for a long time, thus routing the heat altogether. In the party were Mmes. J. T. Gullahorn, F. A. Brown, C. O. Terrell, John Thurman, Frank Brahoney.

CHRISTIAN CHURCH WOMEN HOLD MEETING.

The Women's Missionary society of the Christian church met Monday afternoon with Mrs. N. Atkinson. A very interesting program was given. Mrs. Pickett made a good talk on "Books" and Mrs. Shipp gave an interesting talk on foreign missions. A short business session followed and it was agreed to have a bake sale, Saturday.

GOOD TIMES.

Miss Catherine DeBeauford entertained last night with dancing, followed by a slumber party, which ended up with an early morning swim in Lake Leon, an outdoor breakfast, and a watermelon feast. Guests were entertained at the family home on Pershing street, until a late hour with dancing, during which time the cooling punch was served. The young men who shared the dance with the young ladies of the house party were Messrs. Bill Healer, Troy Grubbs, Eugene Nourse, Harry Byers, Ross Wilkins, Arthur Jones, Byron Reeves, and Carl Pratt. The young ladies who participated in the slumber party and the good times that followed were: Misses Mary Leigh Brooks, Pauline Lowe, None Mae Jones, Betty Wallace, Thelma Jamison of Coffeyville, a.k.a., Rose DeBeauford and Mrs. Bob Hamilton. Members of the slumber party arose at 4:30 a. m. and motored out to Leon lake for a swim and breakfast. Before returning home the hostess served ice cold watermelon.

COUNTRY CLUB DANCE TONIGHT.

Everything is in readiness for the Country club dance tonight. It's their annual mid-summer dance and quite a lot of time and thought, as well as money, has been spent on making it a epochal event. The orchestra tunes in at 9:30 and broadcasts until 2:30. Cards for those who do not dance—easy chairs for lookers-on—just everything for comfort and pleasure has been arranged. A goodly crowd is expected, however it's an invitational affair, and is expected to be rather exclusive.

in Ranger last night. In honor of John Howard Payne, author of "Home, Sweet Home," the national federation of club women built in Washington a concrete replica of the original Payne home. Herbert Hoover broke dirt for the foundation and the late President Harding dedicated the building.

The picture at the Lamb showed the original home of Payne, gave a few views of countries he saw in his travels and then showed the construction of the memorial building. It illustrates the value, the beauty and the sentiment of a home. It is being shown to arouse more interest in homes and may be shown again next Tuesday.

Burt Howdeshell
Dies After Illness
Contracted in War

A death message brought to a sad ending the fishing and camping trip of which the Roy Jamesons were a party, down on the Llano, Wednesday afternoon, when it brought the news that Burt Howdeshell, Mrs.
Jameson's brother, was dying at the family home in Waco.

Mr. and Mrs. Jameson rushed to Waco but he passed into the great beyond before they arrived.
Mr. Howdeshell was just another of the boys who gave their lives for their country in the World War, contracting a heavy cold, followed by pneumonia while in camp, and never recovering his strength. His death was not unexpected, as Mrs. Jameson has been to Waco several times recently to see him when he would have a turn for the worse. He was buried Thursday morning at 9:30 o'clock in Waco.

The many friends of Mrs. Jameson,

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

By E. R. Waite, Secretary Shawnee, Okla., Board of Commerce.

That some people should use their thinking caps more often. That if they did they could save more money. That a whole lot of them are always thinking that they will start saving tomorrow, but that tomorrow never comes. Start saving today. That a small amount will open a saving account in a bank. That a savings account has ever been the best friend of the person in moderate circumstances. That when they are in need, it will tide them over until they get on their feet again. That in case of an emergency, are you prepared? If not, get prepared and start a savings account today. That a savings account will give you peace of mind and a great feeling of security. Old Pictures of Ranger Athletes Are Being Sought Pictures ranging in age from five to 100 years old are being sought by the Ranger Chamber of Commerce, according to C. C. Patterson, secretary.

If she had married the man she wishes she had maybe he wouldn't have been the man he is.

Always make a lot of noise at a party and they will ask you to come back again.

A little chloroform sprinkled on the coat lapel will attract rouge and make it stay.

These pictures must pertain to old athletic teams of Ranger, such as baseball, football, basketball or track, and residents of Ranger who have such pictures are requested to get in touch with Mr. Patterson. The pictures are wanted by a state paper for publication and will be returned in good shape to their owners.

PTOMAINÉ POISON IN CAN OF MILK CAUSES DEATH

LUBBOCK, July 17.—One member of a Lubbock family is dead and five others are in a hospital in a precarious condition as the result of drinking canned milk 10 days ago, which caused attacks of ptomaine poisoning.

Loys Hamby, 8, died Wednesday afternoon after a week of suffering. His father, T. R. Hamby, 39; three brothers, 10, 12 and 15, and his uncle, T. C. Plant, 17, are in the hospital.

Dr. H. L. Garland, one of the attending physicians, stated Wednesday night the recovery of one boy, 10, was doubtful.

YOUNG WOMAN SUFFERING FROM DOSE OF POISON

MUSKOGEE, July 17.—Miss Louise Poston, 20, of Fort Worth, was critically ill in a hospital here today, the result of an alleged dose of poison. The young woman was taken from an M., K. & T. passenger train last night. Members of the train crew said she drank the contents of a vial said to contain poison. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Poston of Fort Worth.

Billy Evans Says

BY BILLY EVANS BABE RUTH is far from through as a player, all reports to the contrary. In all probability the Babe has passed the peak of his game, but as long as he can wallop the ball he will be one of baseball's greatest cards.

The Babe should profit as the result of his illness of this spring. He should pay some attention to his diet, constantly watch his weight.

Too Much Food Ruins Many Players. Ruth's legs, he has small under-pinnings for so huge a torso, will handicap his work much sooner than falling eyelids.

The spring reverses suffered by the Yankees, the failure of the club to strike its stride, caused Ruth to re-enter the game when he should have still been in the hospital.

I AM told that when Ruth rejoined the Yanks, two incisions as the result of a major operation, were still unhealed.

Ruth's Legs Waver Under Added Weight. Ruth, however, insisted that he was able to play and as the club was going poorly, his return to the lineup was wellcomed, even though he was not in fit condition to deliver.

Had Ruth rested for a month more, and during that time taken road work such as indulged in by

The FLAPPER WIFE

by Beatrice Burton © 1925 NEA SERVICE INC.

THE STORY SO FAR.

"Where you ran a carpet sweeper, I'm going to run an automobile," Gloria Gordon tells her hard-worked mother on the eve of her marriage to Dick Gregory. She has made up her mind that through Dick she will gain the luxury and easy life that her butterfly soul craves. He has already given her a house.

On the night before the wedding, Dick begs Gloria to come downstairs to kiss him, after she has retired. She refuses—but only because she doesn't believe in surrendering to a man's wild whims. So Dick waits for his kiss until after the wedding, when the two leave on their honeymoon.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

Her honeymoon was the most wonderful time of Gloria's life.

She slept the mornings away, and breakfasted elegantly at noon.

In the afternoons she and Dick hired a fiacre to take them far up the steep road to Mount Royal, or out into the country.

They ate in quaint little French restaurants.

And Gloria shopped!

She bought beads and earrings and more than a dozen bottles of French perfume, while Dick stayed in the hotel reading.

Gloria had never known anyone who read so much as he.

"For a rising young lawyer, you're quite a high-brow, it seems to me," she said one morning.

She was lying back in a long chair while the hotel hair-dresser marcelled her reddish gold hair. She laughed almost scornfully.

Dick made no answer. He sat down and picked up a book, only to put it down. He filled his pipe and laid it unlighted, on the dresser.

"Come here, restless soul, I want to talk to you," Gloria held out to him a slim hand. "Do you know, it's awfully cold out doors? I nearly froze yesterday. I need a coat. I'd like a fur one. I've been looking at one in that little shop down the street."

Her voice trailed off. The hair-dresser had finished her work and was putting her iron and brushes away in a little black bag. Glory paid her.

"Do you think you can afford the coat? It's four hundred dollars—the one I want, dear," she said coolly.

The moment the door had closed behind her, Dick stepped across the room. He put his hands under Gloria's elbows, holding her away from him.

"Look here, please don't have people hanging around here all the time," he said. "You're beautiful enough without having your hair curled every time the wind blows. I want you alone, all to myself."

With sudden passion he pulled her to him, and kissed her eyelids, her mouth, the little hollow of her throat.

"Wonderful! Beautiful!" he said. His voice was choked and queer.

Gloria could feel the beating of his heart against her own, and the quivering of his hands.

With one of her own she pushed him away from her. She smothered down her ruffled hair.

"Do you think you can afford the coat? It's four hundred dollars—the one I want, dear," she said coolly. "It's a jacket of Siberian squirrel."

She laced her fingers at the back of his neck, and held her face up to his. "Say you'll get it for me," she said.

Without a word Dick nodded and turned away. He picked up his pipe and his book.

"I'm going down to the men's lounge for a while," he said shortly. "I'll meet you at the elevator at 2. We'll hunt up a new place for lunch, shall we?"

And so it happened that the new Mrs. Richard Gregory came home from her honeymoon wearing a costly fur coat, fragrant with scent.

They went to dinner that first night with Dick's father and mother in the old homestead.

"Roly-poly pudding," said Dick when Maggie, the maid, brought in the dessert, "I'll bet Mother made it just for me."

"She certainly did," answered old Mr. Gregory. Mrs. Gregory beamed at Gloria.

"Dick sometimes has nervous indigestion, as you probably know, my dear," she said in her rich contralto voice, "and when he has an attack, I always cook everything for him myself—very carefully. You undoubtedly will, too."

"I can't cook," Gloria said in a very small voice. "I can't cook at all."

Mother Gregory frowned. Then her wide brow cleared.

"You will learn," she smiled comfortably. "You will learn."

And Gloria smiled back at her ripe lips. But there was no smile in her amber eyes. They were like pools of water that no sunlight has warmed.

She would never learn to cook! She would never be a household drudge, her hands shriveled with washing dishes. Her nails, broken. Her dresses smudged with pastry flour. If Dick's mother thought this was the kind of girl her son had married, she was jolly well mistaken!

Gloria widened her eyes. She turned to Mother Gregory.

"By the way, I'll need a cook right away," she said sweetly. "I wonder if Maggie would know of anyone who wants a place. If Dick has a weak stomach, my efforts at cooking would kill him, most likely."

After dinner she and Dick walked home to the new house. It was white with green shutters, and it nestled among the evergreens that surrounded it. Everything in it was fresh and new. Dick and she had spent happy months buying furniture for it.

They had just come into the little house. Glory switched on the lights and sighed with joy. The house with its Chinese rugs and yellow silk curtains was a dream. A dream come true!

"Afford a cook? Why, of course we can afford a cook," she said.

It was absurd that a successful lawyer couldn't afford a cook for his wife!

"I'm not so sure," Dick said. He set their bags on the floor and dropped into a chair.

"You see, dearest," he went on, "the furniture isn't quite paid for. And our honeymoon sent a thousand dollars to the four winds. Then there was the fur coat I gave you—"

"Well, for goodness sake, what did you want to get married for, if you couldn't afford to keep up a home?" Gloria asked with sudden fury. She was tired, and she was sure that Dick's mother hated her.

"Your mother thinks that I ought to spend my whole life cooking, so you think so, too! Well, I'm not going to—d'you hear? I'm not going to fry all the color out of my cheeks standing over a red-hot stove for hours and days and years." Gloria's voice rose in a scream.

Then she burst into wild sobbing and ran upstairs.

She threw herself on the bed in the room, and waited for Dick to come to her. She wanted him to comfort her, to forgive her, and to tell her she could have a cook.

But he didn't come. She listened. No step on the stairs.

Then Glory began to laugh. Not as she had ever laughed before in all her life, but with great gasps that shook her from head to foot.

And as she laughed tears rolled down her face.

All at once she was aware of Dick standing at the foot of the bed. He had a big pitcher in his hands. Then she felt the sting of ice water in her face!

It choked and blinded her. But she went on laughing and crying. She tried to stop. She couldn't stop!

Presently she heard the low rumble of Dick's roadster under her windows. And the next thing she knew it was broad daylight. She lay in her own bed, very tired and hungry.

"What's happened?" she asked herself. For she felt blue and unhappy as if something dreadful were hanging over her. Then she remembered last night.

"Dick!" Gloria called. "Oh, Dick!"

Immediately he appeared in the doorway. His face was covered with lather, and he held a shaving brush.

"Dick Gregory, why did you throw that water into my face last night?" Gloria asked. Dick grinned.

"Because I thought you had hysterics, and I guessed right," he cheerfully answered. "I went out and got Doc Seymour, and he gave you some pills to put you to sleep, or you'd probably be crying yet or laughing. I'll admit that the laughing got my goat."

"Well, don't you ever dare to throw one drop of water at me ever again, no matter what I do," Gloria said solemnly. "or I'll walk right out of this house and never come back. O'you understand?"

Instantly he was beside her bed holding her close, stroking her perfumed hair.

"Darling, I was a brute to do it, but I'd always heard that ice water was a sure cure for hysterics."

Dick stopped talking and put a finger to his lips in warning. From the stairway came the tinkle of dishes and the aromatic smell of fresh coffee.

Maggie, Mother Gregory's maid, walked into the room carrying a huge tray!

"Here she is! The world's best cook!" Dick said with a flourish. "Mother has promised to lend Maggie to us for a few weeks, until you get your bearings, Glory."

"Indeed, I wanted to come, Mr. Dick," Maggie said heartily. "I phoned Mother last night that you were ill, and Maggie came over first thing this morning." Dick explained when the door had closed upon Maggie's broad back. "And she sent word that you are not to worry about her. She says she can get along beautifully, alone, for a few weeks."

It had not occurred to Gloria to worry about Dick's mother in a maidless house. She seemed so large and capable—so adequate to any of the small worries of life.

There was breakfast for two on the big tray—chilled grapefruit, shirred eggs, and coffee with thick cream.

Gloria beamed at Dick over the rim of her cup. Her eyes were soft as a child's, once more.

"Darling, I was dreadful last night, wasn't I? Tell me I don't deserve such a duck of a husband," she cooed. She was yielding and adorable now that she actually had a cook in the house.

For she had had her own way, as she always had since the day she was born!

"I'm afraid my Glory is a spoiled child," Dick said, but his voice was deep with love.

"Next time she has a tantrum I'm going downtown and play poker all night with the boys," he finished.

"Just you try staying out nights!" she cried. "Just you try to pull anything like that one me! Do you know what I'll do?"

Dick laughed good-naturedly.

"Well, what would you do if I committed such a crime?" he asked. "Breaking a butter dish, or something like that?"

"I'd be off in a flutter of dust, right back to my mother and father! And you could keep bachelor's hall here all by your lonesome," Gloria told him. "I'm not going to be like poor Lola Hough, waiting alone night after night for Bill to stop gambling and stagger home!"

"She meant what she said. She'd show him a thing or two!"

Lola Hough, with her tried wrinkled face, might have to take such treatment patiently. But she, herself, didn't. Not for a minute! With her looks!

Besides she knew she could manage Dick. He was helpless, because of his love for her.

As soon as Dick had left for the office, Gloria put on her kimono and went downstairs. In the kitchen Maggie was singing "Mother Machree" as she washed dishes.

"Maggie," Gloria said politely. "I'd like you to plan all the meals while you're here, and order the food, as well. Will that be too much extra work for you?"

Maggie considered.

"Mrs. Gregory told me I was to come here to teach you to cook and keep house," she answered. "She always does her own marketing. And she can cook the grandest meals!"

"I know," Gloria said, "but I'm different. I don't know a thing about running a house. I couldn't plan a meal if my life depended on it. And I wouldn't know a tender chicken from one as old as the hills."

She laid her manicured hand pleadingly on Maggie's rough one.

She knew that the old woman was flattered by this offer of new dignity and power.

"All right," Maggie said finally. "I'll do it for you."

Gloria breathed a smile of relief. She ran upstairs and started the steaming water for her bath. There was a large bottle of rose-bath-salts on the glass shelf beside the tub.

Gloria threw in two big handfuls. The bath-water began to smell like a Persian garden.

Out in her bedroom the French clock on the dressing-table chimed. Twelve o'clock!

A month ago 12 o'clock would have found her out on her way to lunch with hundreds of other pretty girls who worked for a living.

Now she was Mrs. Richard Gregory, pampered and idle. She hadn't a trouble in the world! Her greatest worry was to decide what kind of earrings to wear with the dress she had chosen for that day.

Ah, this was the life—this was what she was born for!

She smiled at her enchanting face behind her pink ears.

The telephone rang.

"Hello, sweet thing!" It was May Seymour's light voice that came over the wire. "I heard you were home. How's married life?"

"Wonderful of course! You should just see all the things I bought in Montreal! Come over, can't you? I have the darriest bottle of perfume for you—Chinese waterlily. Right from Paris it came!" Gloria said.

"I'll be right over to get it," May laughed. And by the time Gloria was dressed, May's smart little car was at her door.

Gloria brought treasure after treasure from the unpacked trunk—lipsticks that were indelible, geranium rouge, stockings the color of sun-burnt skin, a three-strand pearl necklace, and the new fur coat.

She held the coat up for May to admire.

"My dear, you remind me of the Queen of Sheba, and nobody else!" May exclaimed in her cheerful slang way. "I've got to trot along now. I have a heavy date with the hairdresser. But first I'm going to open this wonderful perfume you've given me, and douse it all over my coat. Mmm! Isn't that the most heavenly smell?—Just think, angel, you wouldn't have all this sudden wealth if it hadn't been for me!"

It was true. For Gloria had met Dick through May and her husband.

May and Gloria had gone to business college together. Then May had found a job in Dr. John Seymour's office and had married him. And at one of their parties, Gloria had first seen big, quiet Dick Gregory, and had marked him for her own.

Her eyes were dreamy as she thought of that long-ago night—Dick had driven her home from the party, and had roughly kissed her good-night at the door.

She had known instantly that he meant it—that he was not just "petting."

"I can marry that man!" she had told her mirror that night, with the memory of Dick's hard kiss still on her mouth. "I can marry that man and all his money, if I want to."

Well, she had wanted to—and so she had married him.

After May had gone, Gloria put on her hat and the new fur coat to go to see her mother. She hadn't telephoned her since she had come home.

"Don't bother about getting lunch for me," she told Maggie. "I ate a big breakfast, and I'm afraid of getting fat."

"Have just a cup of tea and a bit of salad," Maggie said. She couldn't understand these women who were afraid to eat, lest they gain a few pounds. She thought they'd all look better if they had a little flesh on their bones.

But Gloria shook her head.

As she walked down the street, she met Lola Hough.

She was wheeling a baby buggy with one hand and carrying a market basket with the other. Behind her trotted the twins, Billy and Betty. Lola's tired face was wreathed with smiles under her last year's hat.

"How nice to see you!" she kissed Gloria warmly. "Are you all settled in your lovely new house? I walked past it the other day, and I thought how lovely that big back yard will be for your babies—when they come!"

Gloria raised her eyebrows.

"I hope you're not going to be one of these foolish women who can't be bothered with having children," Lola said. "She had caught the look on Gloria's face at the word 'babies.'"

"Because they're not a bother! They're the greatest fun in the world," Lola went on. "A woman thinks she loves her husband. But she doesn't even guess what love is until she has a baby."

Lola raised the hood of the buggy, inside, in a little nest of pillows, lay Teddy Hough, who was not quite a year old. His long lashes lay in a dark shadow on his cheeks; Little Gold wisps of hair curled from under his bonnet.

"Isn't he a love?" Lola asked.

"Nice baby," was all Gloria could find to say. She said good-bye then and walked on.

The little house of her girlhood looked shabbier than ever before when she came down the street. The paint was scaling in places, and the snowy lace curtains had been darned in a dozen places. A card tacked up beside the doorbell, read: "Bell out of order. Please knock."

Gloria knocked. Her mother opened the door. The minute she saw her daughter she began to cry.

"Whatever in the world's the matter, mother?" Gloria asked. She pushed the door shut, and patted her mother's gingham shoulder with one hand in its white kid glove.

"Oh, I don't know," her mother sobbed. "I guess I'm so happy at seeing you married off so well to such a good man that I just have to have a good cry."

She wiped her eyes with one corner of her white apron.

"You've always been a worry to your dad and me, Glory," she went on. "All your life. You were too pretty always. And you began to have beaux when you were too young for them. Then, last year we were deadly afraid that you were going to run away with that good-for-nothing cior. What was his name?"

"Stanley Wayburn," Gloria answered promptly. "But you needn't have worried about him. He didn't want to marry anyone who didn't have a million dollars!"

Stanley Wayburn was still a bitter memory in her heart.

He was the one man who had never lost his head over her. He had told her frankly that he would never marry for anything but money. But he was perfectly willing to make love to her, Gloria, in the meantime. Only he wouldn't fall in love with her—had finally stopped phoning her or taking her out to supper.

And then, at the end of the season, he remembered how she had cried all night. What a fool she had been to care for him!

Mrs. Gordon was enchanted with Gloria's new fur coat.

"Dick's a fine husband," she said. "So don't kill the goose that lays the golden egg. Don't run him into debt! By the way, that good-for-nothing Wayburn is back in town. I see by the papers that he's heading a new stock company."

"Is that so?" Gloria asked innocently. But her heart leaped. Stanley Wayburn here, playing! And this was matinee day!

Gloria glanced at her wrist watch. Two o'clock. If she hurried she could get to the theatre in 15 minutes.

"Well, I must be going. I just stopped in on my way downtown to see Dick," she fibbed, and kissed her mother goodby. On the way to the theatre she bought a bunch of violets and pinned them to her coat.

The house was sold out except for two chairs in an upper box. Gloria bought one of them. Just as she entered the box the curtain went up.

The play was a western one.

When Wayburn walked out onto the stage with his spurs clanking, Gloria leaned forward. She wanted to call out to him. "Hello, there, Star! It's Gloria!"

For he felt sure he would never recognize shabby Gloria Gordon in the bejewelled, befringed creature she had become.

Just then Wayburn looked up. He looked straight at her. And he smiled.

A few minutes after the curtain had gone down on the first act an usher came into the box. He gave Gloria a folded sheet of paper.

"You are Miss Gordon, aren't you?" he asked. Gloria nodded.

"Gloria, dear. It's good to see you again. Can't you run down to my dressing-room for a minute or two? The boy will show you the way," the note read. It was signed "Stan."

Gloria took her gold pencil from her bag.

"I can't come. I'm not Gloria Gordon any more. I'm married," she wrote on the back of the note Wayburn had sent up to her.

Then she hesitated. Should she send it? Or should she run down to see him?

Menus for the Family
BY SISTER MARY

Breakfast—Orange juice, creamed dried beef on toast, graham popovers, milk, coffee.

Luncheon—Jellied veal loaf, brown bread and butter sandwiches, ginger cookies, lemonade.

Dinner—Lake trout stuffed and baked, scalloped potatoes, buttered string beans, cucumber salad, peach shortcake, whole wheat bread, milk, coffee.

JELLIED VEAL LOAF

Knuckle of veal, 1-2 pounds lean veal, 3 hard-cooked eggs, 1 medium-sized onion, 2 tablespoons minced parsley, 2 scant teaspoons salt, 1-2 teaspoon pepper.

The knuckle must be opened in several places. Have the butcher saw through the bone. Wipe with a damp cloth and put into a kettle with the lean meat and onion. Cover with boiling water and simmer over a low fire until tender. Remove meat from liquor and chop very finely. Reduce stock to 1 1/4 cups and strain. Put slices of the eggs in the bottom of a mold. Sprinkle with parsley and cover with a layer of meat. Season with salt and pepper. Continue layer for layer of eggs and meat until all is used. Season each layer with salt and pepper and a sprinkling of parsley. The last layer should be of meat. Pour over strained stock, press with a plate and let stand several hours until cold. Put in the ice box to chill and turn fat side down on a platter to serve.

Care should be taken to remove all particles of skin or tissue when preparing the meat for chopping.

PEOPLE AVOID YOU IF YOU ARE PIMPLY

A boy or girl may have ever so pretty a face, neck and poise, but if even one little pimple, blotch, bump or red spot shows, it ruins their whole appearance. You know how true this is, because you just naturally avoid people whose appearance is not pleasing.

These things are no longer to be endured, however, because thousands of people are getting rid of the worst and most stubborn cases of such skin diseases easily and quickly by using Black and White Ointment, and Soap. It seems like magic to eczema, ring-worm, itch, "breaking out," etc.

Dealers everywhere are recommending Black and White Ointment, and Soap, now. They are economically priced in liberal size packages. The 5c size Ointment contains three times as much as the liberal 25c size.—Adv.

SEARCH AND SEIZURE LAW TO BE TESTED

By United Press. DALLAS, July 17.—A test case of the new search and seizure act, which went into effect June 18, will probably result from charges filed in Colorado county against F. A. Rudler, Eagle Lake city marshal, it was announced at the closing session of the chiefs of police and city marshals' association here today. The provisions of the law, which was severely attacked by the association yesterday, requires possession of a search warrant by an officer in searching premises.

SHOWMEN RESIST OFFICERS BUT GET WORST OF FIGHT.

PILOT POINT, July 17.—What a north Texas paper described in a headline as a "near riot" resulted

Stewart's Washington Letter

BY CHARLES P. STEWART, NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON—Ex-Representative "Alfalfa Bill" Murray of Oklahoma is disgusted. He writes from South America to friends here that the spirit of the old-time pioneers is dead in North American breasts.

Some time ago Bill got a land concession in Bolivia—a tract the size of half a dozen Texas counties, at least. His plan was to colonize it with a lot of hard-fisted, tough-fibered frontiersmen from the "states"—men of the type of the by-gone "covered wagon" days.

"WILD WEST," in short, was what Bill was trying to create.

He loved the "wild west" in this country while it stayed wild, and pine'd for it as it began to grow more and more domesticated. Finally his year became so acute that he decided to see if he couldn't scare up a substitute for the real old thing to satisfy it. Somebody told him about the only unconquered wilderness, which nevertheless is a nice place to live in, was to be found in central South America.

ACCORDINGLY, away Bill journeyed to South America and hid himself, as nearly as he could, to the center of it.

There, indeed, he found a first-class wilderness, wholly unconquered, just the raw material for the old "wild west" he remembered so well—a little hotter, perhaps, but all the better, from an agricultural standpoint, for twelve months a year of crop-growing weather.

"NOW," thought Bill, "to get some wild westerners to locate here." For a "wild west" has to be something besides mere landscape. To conquer nature, conquerors are necessary, and conquest is what "Alfalfa Bill" Murray lives for. It isn't the wilderness in itself that he likes. The job of taming it is what he gets his fun out of. Having done so, he's ready to move on to a new one, just as he moved on from Oklahoma to Bolivia, when the former got too civilized for him.

"NOWHERE else in the world," said Bill to himself, "are there such pioneers as back in the 'states,' where I came from. Gosh! I remember 'em in the old days! How they'll jump at a chance to get back to 'em!"

He propagandized accordingly. He offered extremely favorable terms to the land-hungry, for it was recruits he wanted rather than their money.

He made pioneering sound blarney. He described the country as a cross between a garden of paradise and a storehouse of riches, which was true enough, but Bill rather slighted the detail that settlers would have to start from scratch on the task of developing the resources he was bragging about.

Probably he took it for granted that as experienced frontiersmen, they'd have sense enough to know that without having it diagramed.

WHAT Bill forgot was that the old-timers he had in mind either were dead or mostly too old to make fresh starts in a new country. He just happened to be an exception.

He got colonists all right, but they were the old hard-shells' sons and grandsons—two entirely different and progressively softer generations. A look at Bill's wilderness scared 'em.

No. 111048. SHERIFF'S SALE.

THE STATE OF TEXAS, County of Eastland.
By virtue of a certain order of sale, issued out of the honorable 55th district court of Harris county, on the 25th day of June, 1925, by O. M. Duclos, clerk of said court against F. H. Clawson and R. A. Comer, for the sum of One Hundred Sixty-nine and 42-100 ($169.42) Dollars and costs of suit, in cause No. 111,048 in said court, styled Texas Town Lot company versus R. A. Comer et al., and placed in my hands for service, I, R. W. Edwards as sheriff of Eastland county, Texas, did on the 6th day of July, 1925, levy on certain real estate situated in Eastland county, described as follows, to-wit:
Lots number one (1) and two (2) in block A, a subdivision of original block number XV in the town of Gorman, in the county of Eastland, state of Texas, as represented on the map of Central Heights (Gorman) as recorded in book 86 at page 250 of the deed records of Eastland county, Texas. Said judgment being a foreclosure of a lien as it existed on said property on the 3rd day of April, A. D. 1919, and levied upon as the property of said R. A. Comer and F. H. Clawson, and on Tuesday, the 4th day of August, 1925, at the courthouse door of Eastland county, in the city of Eastland, Texas, between the hours of 10 a. m. and 4 p. m. I will sell said real estate at public venue, for cash, to the highest bidder as the property of said R. A. Comer and F. H. Clawson by virtue of said levy and said order of sale.
And in compliance with law, I give this notice by publication, in the English language, once a week for three consecutive weeks immediately preceding said day of sale, in the Ranger Daily Times, a newspaper published in Eastland county.
Witness my hand, this 6th day of July, A. D. 1925.
R. W. EDWARDS,
Sheriff Eastland County, Texas.

BANDIT'S VICTIM NOTES ONE HAS BEAUTIFUL EYES
By United Press.
SAN ANTONIO, July 17.—"One of the bandits had beautiful brown eyes," was the only description of one of two holdup men, Irma Wahl could give police this morning. The two men, dressed as soldiers, entered a cafe on Duval street, intimidated the girl with pistols and took $35 from the cash register.

EVERETT TRUE

BY CONDO REV. A. W. HALL TO PREACH SUNDAY ON EVOLUTION

What is evolution? Can its teaching be harmonized with the teachings of the Bible? What would be the moral effect, especially on the young, of the acceptance of its teachings? Is there any positive evidence bearing on this question? If interested in any of these questions that are so much in the limelight today, don't fail to be at the Methodist church Sunday morning and hear Rev. A. W. Hall on these live questions. Rev. Mr. Hall said today: "Come to Sunday school and bring your child and ground him in the teachings of the Bible."

EVOLUTIONISTS DECLARED TO BE LIBELING THE APE

By United Press.
LITTLE ROCK, Ark., July 17.—A petition was filed here today citing Clarence Darrow and other defense counsel to show cause as to why they should not be held criminally liable for "impugning the character of the ape." The judge of the chancery court entered into the joke, although the petition was not placed on the court calendar. The complaint of the defense counsel that man is of a higher type than the lower animals slanders the lower animals is the basis of the charge.

With the erection of road banisters on Wynne mountain and other minor work, which will require only a few days, it was said one of the best highways in the state would be open for travel.

PLEADS GUILTY TO GIVING POISON TO TWO GIRLS

By United Press.
FORT WAYNE, Ind., July 17.—Joseph Robert Effert, 21, adopted son of Henry Effert, Chicago real estate dealer, pleaded guilty in city court today on a charge of administering poison to his two foster cousins, Beatrice, 11, and Rose Mary Clinton, 9. Effert declared a quarrel with Mrs. May Clinton, mother of the girls, over his gambling, led him to seek revenge. He is believed to be subnormal in mentality. He was employed as a prescription clerk in a Chicago drug store before he came here. Both the girls are expected to recover.

NEW ENGLAND WOOL MILLS POST WAGE REDUCTION

By United Press.
LAWRENCE, Mass., July 17.—A general ten per cent wage reduction was posted today in mills of four New England woolen companies. Conservatively estimated between 30,000 and 40,000 operatives are affected.

DIRIGIBLE SENANDOAH SPENDS NIGHT IN STORM

By United Press.
LAKEHURST, N. J., July 17.—After being out all night and most of the morning in severe storms which delayed its return from the Virginia coast, the United States naval dirigible Shenandoah, returned to its station today, landed and was housed in its hangar before noon.

The 'Rare Opportunity' Grasped

—Anything that will make our ice more efficient is what we want.

—We will take the agency for the city of Ranger for any ice blanket, wrapper, or cover subject to the following conditions:

- 1—Blankets must be guaranteed to be made of new material and free from contaminating or harmful chemicals.
- 2—Each must be accompanied by a guarantee that the blanket will
 - (a) Permit the same temperature to obtain in the refrigerator with the blanket on the ice as the temperature with the ice uncovered.
 - (b) Permit free circulation of air so as to not deter the ice from its usual function of removing impurities from said air.
- 3—The ultimate user must be allowed ten days in which to prove to his or her satisfaction that the blanket fulfills the claims made for it.
- 4—The parties from whom we take agency must put up a certified check in escrow with a recognized bank, or furnish a satisfactory bond of sufficient size to cover full selling price of our quota of blankets. This to protect us in case the blankets are not as claimed and money refunded to the ultimate buyer and the whereabouts of the above mentioned parties unknown.

—In consideration of above we will agree to sell a minimum of 500 blankets in Ranger within ten days after signing of contract and put nine salesmen to work in 24 hours after said signing.
