Little man, you're right from start to finish. Be as skeptical as you like about the anti-knock

TIPS ON CANNING

COLLEGE STATION—If homemakers are to have high-quality canned products and reduce spoilage to a minimum there are several problems they need to recognize. These problems are brought on principally by several successive dry years in some portions of the state, according to Grace I. Neely, specialist in food preservation for the Extension Service of Texas A. & M. College.

For instance, vegetables produced in a dry season have less moisture content.

"This means," Miss Neely points out, "that they will soak up liquid during the canning process. Therefore, looser packs or use of less food and more liquid in the can, should be the general rule with vegetables during a dry year." Foods canned in this way, especially corn and root vegetables, will keep better. The specialist also recommends adding a few minutes to the precooking time of vegetables such as corn, root vegetables, and field peas in excessively dry seasons.

Another suggestion to home canners is that they can all vegetables during the early stages of production; that is, when the vegetables or fruits are in prime conditions for eating and canning.

Time tables for pressure cookers appearing in the Extension Service publication, B-5, "Canning Fruits and Vegetables," which Miss Neely prepared, are those tested and recommended by experiment station laboratories over the nation. These are available free upon request from county home demonstration agents or from the Extension Service headquarters.

An international band concert, featuring American, Mexican and Canadian bands, is being planned for Army Day, at the State Fair of Texas, which observance will be on Sunday, October 8th, when a huge defense demonstration will be held.

The Mexican Tipica Orchestra, Mexico's finest musical organization, with 100 entertainers, will be a feature at the 52nd Annual State Fair of Texas, October 5 to 20. Two free concerts daily will be given by this internationally famous orchestra.

Four-H Club boys and Future Farmers chapters of Texas will hold encampments at the 1940 State Fair of Texas. Both groups will also participate in livestock, agriculture, and poultry shows.

"Deck" Wells, Candidate for Congress, Makes Good in His Old Home Town

By CURTIS COOK

WELLINGTON, Tex.—When Deskins (Deck) Wells, Wellington's publisher, farmer and first citizen, announced his candidacy for Congress from the 18th Texas district, Wellington staged a celebration which resembled a fete to armistice, or, in Texas, a crowning of a football team to championship.

Rarely has the Panhandle witnessed such a sight as an entire community unified in the determination for any special goal. In all the community there is not a soul who is not wishing Deck Wells success in his campaign for congress.

Just Friends

The remarkable crusade of purpose to recognize a native son, its former mayor and for many years the interpreter of Wellington's thoughts, developed spontaneously. It is not an organized and high pressure drive. It is merely friends joining together to see what they can do for their good neighbor.

The man on the street talks for Wells. The business man leaves his commerce to distribute literature and boost the home town boy. Farmers and ranchmen who have known him all his life have become missionaries for his cause. These friends and neighbors are laying siege over the Panhandle, carrying the gospel about how much they think of the man they have known for so long.

This unified voluntary backing is a tribute to the brilliant young publisher who is fighting for his candidacy.

Born Near Wellington

Deskins Wells had nothing to do with the selection of his birthplace in the Texas Panhandle, but he has been proud of it all his life. He was born in Wellington and when he finished a brilliant college career, he came back to Wellington to make his permanent home.

Almost fanatical in his belief that the Panhandle is the greatest spot on the face of this turbulent globe, Wells will stand up and fight stubbornly in defense of the section.

He has fought for his area, which is vast enough to be an empire and bigger than some of the world's important nations, in his own newspaper, The Wellington Leader, in his representations to the leaders of the state and nation and in his leadership among his own people.

His purpose in asking for nomination is sincere. No one can doubt that who has known him. Recognized all over the Northwest by newspaper men as one of the most progressive publishers in the state, Wells is also recognized by the friends and neighbors, who have known him every day of his life, as a man whose progressiveness has brought wide recognition to Wellington and the Panhandle.

Knows His People

Only a boy who has lived through the trying days of farm life and watched the prosperity of the land come and go through many years could interpret the feelings of the citizens of the area as he does in a column which he writes for his paper. It is one of the most widely read regular features in the district, and it is popular because the Panhandle people have come to know it as an expression of their own thoughts and hopes.

Wells retains the simplicity which has made him a good neighbor in Wellington all the 38 years of his life.

Even with the crush of work attendant to a congressional race and the multiplicity of duties accompanying the publishing of a weekly ranked as one of the best in the state, he has time to stop and take notes on simple personals, news items which are of little note, but important to those concerned. Farmers stop him on the street and talk about their crops or their new litter of pigs. Stockmen discuss pasturage and feed with him with the same feeling of confidence they have always had in the "man who has raised pigs and cows."

Always Sympathetic

He has always found time to go to the farmer and ranchman and talk about the problems of those men who have struggles with the shifting fortunes of the West. And after he has talked with them, he has given them a voice both in his personal insistence that they be recognized, and in his writings. He understands them, because he is one of them.

Never before has a home town been so solidly behind a man in the race for any office.

There is something finer than just average when a man can make his whole town admire him and wish for his success.

1941 Crop Insurance Program Underway

COLLEGE STATION—The 1941 all-risk wheat crop insurance program is underway over most of the Texas wheat section with only a few county AAA offices not yet accepting applications.

More than 100 county offices have received their wheat acreage allotments for 1941 and are accepting crop insurance applications with prospects bright for greatly increased participation during the program's third year of operation, according to E. R. Duke, state crop insurance supervisor.

"Better understanding of the program on the part of the producers and proof of the soundness of wheat crop insurance assure us of a substantial increase in participation this year," the supervisor observed.

On the 1939 crop 3,700 Texas producers insured their wheat production of 2,516,168 bushels and collected indemnities totaling 1,020,788 bushels. Approximately 11,000 producers insured their crop of 5,227,699 bushels with indemnity payments to date amounting to more than 500,000 bushels under the 1940 program.

Federal Crop Insurance Corporation reserves in Texas are stored in Gainesville, Wichita Falls, Fort Worth, and Amarillo, but these stocks are being distributed to other points for the sake of convenience.

Crop insurance rates are calculated on an actuarial basis with the rates varying for different farms and different counties according to crop loss experiences and yields in those localities, Duke explained.

SHRUNKEN EXPORT MARKETS HAVE INTENSIFIED FARMERS' PROBLEMS

FACTORS BLOCKING FOREIGN TRADE

1. TARIFFS, TRADE BARRIERS, ETC.
2. SCARCITY OF CASH AND CREDIT ABROAD
3. WAR MEASURES
4. TREND TOWARD SELF-SUFFICIENCY ABROAD

One of the big reasons for America's farm problem is the decline in the farm export market which has fallen off sharply.

Prior to the World War, the United States was a debtor nation, and paid her debts by selling her agricultural products to her creditors.

After the war, America changed to a creditor nation. Up to 1929 at least part of the foreign market was held by making loans to other nations.

War measures, the tendency of other nations to become more self-sufficient, and trade barriers in retaliation to America's tariff system aggravated the system.

France guaranteed her farmers a dollar a bushel for wheat; Italy raised the ante to $1.50 a bushel; other nations followed suit.

Coronado and the Seven Cities of Cibola

IN 1540 Don Francisco Vazquez de Coronado left Mexico, leading a band of fellow-adventurers north into the unknown wilderness to extend the Spanish empire by half a continent. Before the English Pilgrims first landed at Plymouth Rock, Coronado and his successors had built a royal palace in Santa Fe.

Crossing southern Arizona, New Mexico, visiting the Grand Canyon, Taos, and on across the Texas panhandle into Kansas, Coronado and his army failed to find the fabled "Seven Cities of Cibola," and considered their expedition a failure because they did not find gold.

But the brave exploits of Coronado and his men will be celebrated in a score of communities in New Mexico, Arizona, Colorado, and other states in 1940.

Today these and hundreds of other communities in the mountain states are united by telephone wires which speed your voice in a split second over mountains, deserts and plains . . . vast expanses which Coronado's band needed months to traverse. Although Coronado did not discover the "Seven Cities of Cibola," today your voice may be hurled over the seven seas. Telephone pioneering and research have blazed trails to bring you a service which connects with 93 per cent of all the telephones in the world.

ELIMINATES GUESSWORK

COLLEGE STATION—Jelly makers used to cross their fingers and hope for good luck this time of year, but modern science has taken much of the guesswork out of jelly making. Grace I. Neely, specialist in food preservation of the A. and M. College Extension Service, has compiled a list of rules for each step in the jelly-making process, and if these are conscientiously adhered to success in the undertaking is virtually assured. Here are the rules.

Select good quality fruit that is fresh and firm. A mixture of ripe and slightly underripe fruit is usually best since overripe fruits are low in acid. But they will make jelly if one tablespoon of strained lemon juice is added to each cup of fruit juice.

To know when the syrup forms the jelly is important in cooking it the right length of time. The jelly test most commonly used is called "sheeting off". To make the test, dip a large

National Defense
And Agriculture

COLLEGE STATION—Agriculture's part in the defense plan will be carried out without the establishment of new federal agencies.

This was pointed out in a letter received by H. H. Williamson, director of the Texas A. and M. Extension Service, from Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace.

Agriculture is represented on the Council of National Defense by Secretary Wallace and Chester Davis of the Federal Reserve Board.

The Council, reestablished by the President, is composed of six cabinet officers and seven advisory commission members. Its function is to correlate efforts of industry and government.

The letter stated that the Secretary and Mr. Davis, after thorough exploring the relationship of agriculture to national defense wanted to report immediately that:

"It will not be necessary to set up new government agencies or new organizations of farmers, to carry on agriculture's part in the national defense program. Farm people themselves, through county extension organizations, AAA committees, land use planning committees, and so on, and the government agricultural services, both in the Department of Agriculture and the land grant colleges, are set up and staffed to do whatever needs to be done."

The Secretary commented that the present farm program could be adjusted to increase the acreage of any crop that is needed in the national defense scheme. When and if the need comes, he added, the people and the organizations now operating farm programs will be called on to do the work.

EARL BOOTH

SHERIFF—ASSESSOR—COLLECTOR

FARWELL, TEXAS

July 16, 1940

To the People of Parmer County:

As the date for the Democratic primary approaches, I am reminded anew of the debt of gratitude I owe to the voters of this county who have seen fit to allow my name go on the ballot without any opposition for renomination.

I am truly grateful to you for this consideration. It means that I have been allowed to devote more time to the important duties of the office you have honored me with during the past years.

I am also mindful of the responsibilities involved in this honor. To me it means that I must hereafter devote more and more of my energies in making you a worth-while official, and I want to pledge you my untiring efforts to that end.

The measure of success I have achieved in making a public official worthy of your support and continued confidence is in no wise due to my ability nor that of my assistants. But all the credit must be given to the people of the county who have cooperated with my department in such an unselfish manner.

I consider it a distinct honor to be allowed to go before the voters unopposed on the ballot, and I want to pledge to each and everyone of you anew my determination to serve even better than I have in the past.

Sincerely yours,

spoon into the boiling syrup and lift the spoon so that the syrup runs off the side. Stop cooking when syrup no longer runs off the spoon in a steady stream, but separates into two distinct lines of drops which "sheet" together. If the jelly is not cooked long enough, it will be soft and runny. And if it is cooked beyond the point of jelly formation, it will become a gummy mass.

In preparing plum jelly one-half cup of water to each pound of prepared fruit is the best proportion for extraction of juices. Time for boiling C. or the Extension Service, Texas for the extraction should be from 15 to 20 minutes. In extracting juice from grapes the boiling time is from five to ten minutes, Miss Neely says. Concord grapes will require from one-fourth cup of water to none for each pound of prepared fruit, and wild grapes will require about 1 cup per pound.

Contour farming and high-speed highways have put curves into fence building. A straight fence dividing a pasture and a field farmed on the contour wastes either a great deal of pasture or farm land. The mechanics of building fences on the contour is explained in a new publication, "Farm Fences", Farmers' Bulletin No. 1832, which may be secured from county agricultural agents or by writing either the U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C. or the Extension Service, Texas A. & M. College, College Station, Tex.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON
(Consolidated Features—WNU Service.)

NEW YORK—Howard Lindsay needed makeup to play "Life With Father." Dr. Charles Phillips Cooper, managing editor of the New York Evening Sun, around the turn of the century, could have walked right into the part without taking off his hat. As he retires as professor of journalism at Columbia university, after more than 50 years of practicing and teaching journalism, he still commands affection and respect from his one-time proteges, an emotion somehow filial, and somehow belonging in that nostalgic picture which the late Clarence Day and Mr. Lindsay and Russell Crouse have recreated for the stage.

They used to set the type for the old Evening Sun in the local room. Charles A. Dana ordered some lino-type machines, found workmen delivering them to the World instead, got into a row about it and said to the devil with the whole business, or words to that effect. At any rate this classic of newspapers for many years thereafter kept clear of all technological entanglements, including typewriters.

Dr. Cooper's spouting mustache was electrified during the ordeal of getting out the paper. Reporters used to say it was like sensitive antennae, catching impulses out of the air. This was the only way they could explain his way of spotting a red-hot news story in some bit of trivia, moving across his desk. They called him "The Human Sieve." That was due to his trick of sifting bugs, libel suits, and sloppy writing out of a piece of copy with a swift slash of his pencil.

When a reporter was beaten on a story, or made a serious error, or otherwise offended, Dr. Cooper would clutch both sides of his desk, lean back, close his eyes and howl. And when one of the boys really put something over (it had to be good) Dr. Cooper would croon and cluck over him affectionately.

He was always yelling for copy and the boys, if the story was hot, had to write it in short fakes. There was always a blizzard of copy paper loose in the city room. As press time came near there were yells, bleats, running foot-beats and a bedlam which could be heard all up and down Park Row. Out of all this came a paper as cool and neatly fashioned as a daisy in the meadow—human, subtle, civilized and deftly done. The noise, smells of ink, grease and tobacco, and above all, Dr. Cooper's rip-snorting energies seemed to make a formula for newspaper "oomph."

Dr. Cooper, short and stocky, with his bright brown eyes alert and narrowly focused behind his glasses, joined the Sun staff as a reporter in 1889, after a year with the Hartford (Conn.) Post. He was with the Sun 24 years as city editor, news editor, assistant managing editor and managing editor. He retired to become a teacher of journalism in 1919.

Rounding 74, Dr. Cooper never moans over the good old days, and has no regrets for the passing of personalized journalism. He thinks newspapers of today are doing a better job than their predecessors. Among his colleagues were Arthur Brisbane, Richard Harding Davis, Woodford Patterson, now secretary of Cornell university, Nelson Lloyd, O'Neill Sevier, George Cartaret, Stephen French Whitman, Homer St. Gaudens and a score of other long-remembered names.

IT'S a long stretch from Gen. Adna R. Chafee's small-arm Indian-fighting equipment to Brig. Gen. Adna R. Chafee's new mechanized army corps—a father and son saga. The father was one of the greatest Indian fighters in our history, battling the Kiowas and Comanches along the 900-mile trail to the Sierra Madre in New Mexico. The son, schooled in the mounted service, was a cavalryman like his father, but in recent years has specialized in studies of mechanized warfare.

His new armored divisions are said to be similar in organization to the German panzer units. Army men say they fill a long-felt need in the service. Brigadier General Chafee was born at Junction City, Kan., in 1884, and was graduated from West Point in 1906, a few years too late for the Spanish-American and Philippine work-outs, but he is a veteran of our later military engagements in Europe, holding the Distinguished Service Medal and is regarded as a good organizer and fighter—as "boots and saddles" changes to "man the gear-shifts!"

Lively arguments will trail themselves right out of the dining room and continue over the dishpan, but that's exactly what you want. Drill them all in Americanism.

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

PERHAPS you are one of the mothers—the many, many mothers!—who are vaguely worried today for fear that a "fifth column" is forming, or is already formed, in America, and that Nazism and Fascism and Communism are about to break out in our midst.

"Fifth column," you know, is one of the phrases coined in the late Spanish war. It means those enemies within our own ranks, those quiet forces that operate underground, winning converts and gaining strength that is someday to be used against America.

How strong these elements are, in our country, I don't know, and I don't suppose anyone else does. When I was young it was the Socialists who were appealing to the restless and rising generation. But they never put a candidate into office; they never formed anything like a formidable party. And so much more violent, radical and unnatural are the isms of today that much that the Socialists advocate has come to seem to us quite practicable.

America Has Progressed. For although we never adopted a socialist platform, our ideals have changed. Working hours and wage scales and living conditions have all undergone changes. Time doesn't bring about ALL that the reformers want, but it does much, and to read Henry George's great land value classic "Progress and Poverty" today is to realize that the world really HAS grown better—at least in America, since 1878.

If fear for Americanism, our institutions and ideals, our Constitution and our Bill of Rights, really haunts you, there is a simple thing that you can do to check, combat and eventually destroy the last shred of anti-American activity in our midst.

For these foreign doctrines, brought here by the disaffected from other lands, reach our rising generation first. In other words they reach your children and mine. And those children, like the children of every generation, are looking about the world critically, wondering why so many things are stupidly done, wrongly done; why there is so much preventable poverty and idleness and suffering and sin. When strange panaceas are presented to them they accept them gladly, neither able nor anxious to criticize them too keenly.

The cure for this situation, which is actually worrying America very much, was suggested to me a few days ago by a fine old American woman who has raised sons, taken an active part in the hundred civic and social activities, and who served America as one of California's representatives in congress for many years. I see no reason to conceal her name: Florence Kahn.

Study the Constitution. Mrs. Kahn and I were talking about the recent awakening—or beginning of awakening, of American women to a sense of civic responsibility and civic power, and I told her that many of our groups in the National Legion of the Mothers of America were taking their first interest in the Constitution, and had formed clubs to study it.

"I wish," she said, "that they'd go a little deeper than that. I wish they'd take the matter right into their homes, read the Constitution aloud at the dinner table, discuss it, get the children to discuss it, and keep it up—keep it up—keep it up!"

"Until," she finished, "every growing American girl and boy would realize the simple truth, that there is no reform, no desirable change, to benefit humanity and right wrongs, to control privilege and extend opportunity, that they can't accomplish right here in their own country, under their own flag."

If our worrying parents, alarmed at the half-baked red doctrine that so many of our college students seem to be imbibing today, would take this simple suggestion to heart, we should soon see not only the decline of anti-American influence, but the healthy growth of new American movements that might bring our country back once more to the standards of the great Fathers of the Constitution.

Revive Dinnertime Discussions. It has often occurred to me that it is a pity that the old fashion of good talk at dinner-time has gone out. Judging from old American books and biography and letters it was a pretty usual custom a hundred years ago. It may do the whole family good to have you revive it.

The father or man of the household may greet this idea with a groan.

"Darling, I'm dead tonight. Do we have to have politics at the table?" he may plead. But persist anyway. The best system is quietly to produce the book that is to be read; handing it from one to another, and keeping steadily to a 10-minute program, night after night. Of course it will presently run to far more than 10 minutes, and lively arguments will trail themselves right out of the dining room and continue over the dishpan, but that's exactly what you want. Drill them all in Americanism until there remains no question as to the potentialities of their own Constitution that they need leave unanswered. Don't warn anyone of what you are doing, for both husband and children have a deep-rooted objection to being educated, but make your dinner-table a little political forum for a few months, and you'll find that they want to keep it up longer than you do.

It is a great tragedy that with a governmental system as flexible and as inspired as ours; with a beginning only 165 years ago that startled the whole world with its ideals of universal suffrage, equality and humanity, we should let our children grow up with the idea that we are just about as reactionary, as filled with class distinctions and social injustices as are the old nations of Europe. It is surely no fault of America's founders that we know so little of our own country's ideals, and use so imperfectly those that we do know.

History's Greatest Experiment. Truly, injustices and suffering have long had a foothold here. We have slums, we have unemployment, we have crime. But we also have, as an excuse, the largest international population that the world has ever seen; we are making history's greatest experiment in the amalgamation of races, and incidentally succeeding at it.

It is inevitable that to the top of our great melting-pot scum shall arise. The laws of all the European countries are far from being the same; it is for us to reconcile them.

America must teach us the lesson that Europe never has learned, that all these may live together in peace. Meanwhile, if that hot-headed revolutionary boy of yours can be made to read the Declaration of Independence, the Constitution, the Bill of Rights, and if you ask him temperately and sympathetically what he and his new red friends want from their country that is not obtainable under these franchises, you will be taking a great step to reduce all our little scattered disease spots of foreign isms to our one great ism: Americanism.

AROUND THE HOUSE

To keep bread in the best condition store in a clean, well-aired, covered, ventilated container and keep in a cool place.

A slice of lemon in the water in which clothes are boiled will make them whiter.

Tumblers that have been used with milk should always be washed in cold water before they are washed in hot. When this is done the milk will not stick to the glass and they will not have a cloudy appearance.

Wash the leaves of a rubber plant with warm water and castile soapsuds. When dry, rub each leaf with a cloth wet in olive oil.

Scorched Linen—The marks can be taken out by rubbing with a cut onion and then soaking in cold water. This takes out both the smell and the marks.

Sometimes perspiration stains on dresses can be removed and the color restored by holding the stained portion of the garment over a bottle of ammonia.

Pomanders, oranges stuck with cloves, will scent dresser drawers and clothes closets.

To remove mustard stains from table linen, boil stained part in a quart of water to which one teaspoon of washing soda has been added.

For added flavor, spread your cake with peanut butter before frosting it.

Speeding Light

Scientists are worried. They have checked the speed of light, which they thought was constant, and find that it varies. We learned at school that light travels at 186,000 miles a second. But in 1926 Professor A. A. Michelson, the renowned physicist, clocked it at 186,284 miles a second. The experts of the U. S. geodetic survey have checked and rechecked this in sunshine, rain, and fog, in summer and winter, and they say that fog and damp can slow light up as much as 12 miles a second, which makes a big difference when calculating the exact distance from here to the most distant stars.

"Been at it long?" he asked.
"Yes," sighed Brown, dejectedly; "since seven o'clock."

"I wouldn't, either," Brown explained, casting a nervous glance towards his house. "My wife thought of it."

All types of soil conservation, use of the land, and other phases in connection with good farming were discussed at the adult meetings, held on Thursday and Friday, Agent Gordon reported.

Gilbert Watkins, of Oklahoma Lane, represented the 4-H club boys while among the ladies present were: Mesdames A. H. Boatman, Tim Mandercheid, Blackburn, J. C. Robertson, E. M. Deaton, and E. G. Williams, and Miss Ruth Boyd, agent.

High-Test Cow Listed In Tri-County Ass'n.

"Nigger," a Holstein cow belonging to Leslie Pattison of the Claude community, is in first place on production, at the end of the first official test of dairy animals in the Roosevelt-Curry-Parmer Dairy Herd Improvement Association, according to Borden Ells, official tester of the association.

The test showed that "Nigger" is producing at the rate of 1722 pounds of milk and 67.2 pounds of butterfat per month, which, according to officials, an excellent record for any association.

Pattison's herd also led in the number of cows producing over 1,000 pounds of milk monthly, with six out of the total of 21. Other 1,000-pound producers were owned by: John Humphrey, G. T. Watkins, O. G. Williams, Claude Elder, two each; H. C. Wells, O. G. York, H. W. Curtis, D. J. Brown, Tom Halslip, C. V. Smith L. H. Cooper, one each.

Seven cows out of the total number of 250 tested averaged over 50 pounds of butterfat for the month, it was reported. Of this seven, Pattison owns three, with Cooper, Elder, Johnson and Wells having one each.

It was pointed out by Mr. Ells, however, that a good many factors entered into the 18-month-test-cows entered into this first month test, and that it would take several months, averaged together, to really show the superior cows. Each herd of the twenty-five is checked monthly, with complete records being kept.

Ells went on to state that he was getting the very best cooperation from all members, and that he was well pleased with records the cows were making. He will start the second round of tests the latter part of this week.

The association was originally set up for 26 members, and at present could serve three, or possibly four, more herds. The cost of membership is a $3 minimum, plus 20c additional charge for each cow over eight in number. Any dairy producer interested in becoming a member should contact one of the directors, or his application may be taken at the county agent's office in Roosevelt Parmer, or Curry counties.

Wood county has produced more than 5,000,000 pounds of cucumbers this year, and Joe Adrian, a farmer living near Quitman, planted two acres of dill on contract and produced more than 11 tons on the plot.

Homemaking Class Ends Summer Work

The summer homemaking class of the Farwell school, which has been directed by Miss Eunice Graham, was brought to a close in the home ec building, July 11, with a program consisting of reports and exhibits of work done.

After lunch at the watertower park the party visited exhibits of seven girls, whose work was not transferable. Refreshments were served at the homes of Merle Lovelace, Billie Sharpe and Jane Lokey, and pictures were made of most projects.

Two guests, Miss Eunice Florence, of the FSA office in Muleshoe, and Supt. T. J. Carter, of Farwell, were present.

Those completing projects were: Pat Bagley, care of wardrobe and grooming improvement; Dorothy and Jewell Cassidy, making summer clothes; Dorothea Deaton, helping paper, paint, and improve home;

Maxine Justice, carrying for home and preparing lunch for two weeks; Rosalie Kelln, making clothes for herself and little sisters; Jane Key, care of the home; Jane Lokey, keeping house and preparing family meals; Emma Ruth Miller, improving bedroom and wardrobe;

Virginia Hines, improving sewing; Lenora Birchfield, providing clothing for herself and sister, and preparing lunch for eight days; Oneoia Cole, beginning a hope chest; Merle Lovelace, making outdoor fireplace; Elwanda Ham, making clothing for herself and sisters; Emma Lue Herlington, painting new fence, and care of yard; Lynette Ramm, helping with garden and making summer clothing.

Part of the group enjoyed a very pleasant overnight outing to Ceta Canyon, Friday and Saturday, July 12-13. Miss Mary Lovelace and Frances Tompkins were guests.

Sixty years ago three out of every four farmers in the United States owned the land they farmed, but today nearly half of our farmers are tenants or sharecroppers.

Locals Win from Elida, Play Melrose Sunday

After seven innings of real baseball, during which the score was tied and untied many times, the Texico baseball club finally managed to overpower the visiting Elida club here last Sunday afternoon and win by a decisive score of 4 to 14.

A rally in the 7th, when McDonald slapped out a three-base hit with two aboard, proved to be the downfall of the Elida crew. The visitors used three pitchers in an effort to check the slugging locals. J. R. Hyatt pitched throughout the game for the locals, with McDonald behind the plate.

Next Sunday afternoon, the Texico crew will entertain the Melrose team on the home grounds, and another good game is in prospect.
