Navy Saves Noted Army Rescue Pilot

By C. YATES Mc DANIEL. ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Australia, May 28 (AP)—Capt. Alvin J. H. Mueller, United States army air corps veteran of numerous aerial rescue missions in the southwest Pacific, is safely back in Australia, thanks to the U. S. navy, after he was forced to crashland a big bomber on his last hazardous mission to Mindanao.

the wrong way in the southwest Pacific Mueller and co-pilot Paul E. Cool of Pontiac, Mich., have had dozens of opportunities to put trial and error experience to good use. For months their has been the job of picking up stranded or isolated air personnel from islands in the wake of Japanese advances—from Timor, New Guinea, and Mindanao.

He knew the chances of making a safe landing on the narrow beach of the island in the darkness were small, but he had never let his crew down and he did not do so this time. Somehow Mueller flattened his big craft out on the mangrove-fringed beach without injury to his occupants.

School Shows Profit With 5-Ct. Lunches

Nearly 10,000 lunches at five and a fraction cents each were served at Midway school during the past year—and yet the lunchroom program netted a small profit.

Average revenue per lunch served was figured down to 5.37 cents for the 9,548 meals served as a result of the school lunch program. Yet, things were so managed that instead of losing, there was a slight margin of profit figured at .136 of a cent. Thus, for every eight lunches that were served—the hefty amount of one cent profit was returned.

But the program is not operated for profit. If there is any—and it amounted to $120.05 over the stretch in this case—it goes back into the lunch program for improving lunches and equipment.

For the year, revenue stood at $502.01 for the program. Of this, $448.71 went for groceries other than those supplied by the Surplus Marketing Administration. Laundry costs were $7.50, and kitchen help cost $36.15. In addition to this item, WPA furnished two trained cooks and a supervisor.

Dishes, equipment, etc., cost $48.30, which added to the operating cost of $512.66, whittled the profit to the 13 cent—still quite remarkable at that.

Tire Conservation Favored Ahead Of Gas Rationing

AUSTIN, May 28 (AP)—Texas' tire conservation program would be substituted for gasoline rationing as a rubber saving measure under a resolution by the Texas Safety association.

In a meeting of its administrative committee, the association yesterday petitioned the Texas congressional delegation to give the tire conservation plan a chance to prove its effectiveness.

The Texas plan seeks voluntary compliance in the conservation through share-the-rides, reduced speeds of 40 miles on highways and 30 in cities, more efficient use of mass transportation, staggered hours of work and elimination of non-essential driving.

Warm Weather Hints Given On Care Of Poultry

By GEO. F. MCARTHY Extension Poultryman, Worms

Rain plus warm days are increasing worm infestation in most poultry flocks. If the flock has not been recently treated for intestinal parasites, it is well that they be wormed, using a reliable powder in the mash for two or three days. Follow instructions of the manufacturer as to amount to add to the mash. Repeat the treatment in about 30 days. Keep 'em healthy and you can keep 'em laying.

Green Feed
Green feed is a balance—it picks up where management may fall short. See that they always have plenty. If tender green feed is not available, feed alfalfa hay. Two pounds per day per 100 hens is sufficient. Soak it over night in water. This makes it tender, restores color and adds to its palatability. Feed in a trough or shallow box.

Grain
Laying hens don't need as much grain in the summer as they do in the winter. An easy way of figuring grain for the day's feeding is 1 quart for each 25 hens. Hens over-fed on grain store it up in excess fat which undermines the health of the birds. Many chickens die during the summer as a result of fat plus heat. Excess feeding of grain reduces mash consumption and retards egg production.

Mash
Keep 'em eating mash. This one food stimulates egg production. Don't try to be "scotch." Let her have all she wants. Give her a wet mash at noon—3 pounds dry weight per 100 birds, mix with milk or water until crumbly. A good home mixed mash made of home grown and concentrates simplifies the feeding program—can be fed growing stock and laying hens. A good mixture is as follows: 100 pounds (82-86 per cent) protein concentrate, 100 pounds ground yellow corn or maize, 100 pounds reground oats or barley, 50 pounds wheat gray shorts or ground wheat, and 15 pounds alfalfa meal if green range is not available. Grain is to be fed with this same as any other mash.

Houses
Now is the time to open those ventilators on the poultry house. Floor line ventilators reduce inside temperature of the house. A cool house will result in more eggs, less colds and fewer losses in the flock. While you are opening those ventilators, lower the roosts, this reduces injuries and will have you money.

MAINTAIN EGG QUALITY DURING THE SUMMER
Produce Only Infertile Eggs
Losses from fertile eggs are costing poultry farmers of the United States $15,000,000 annually. This money would buy 15,944 Browning machine-guns or 857 guns of the 105 m.m. class for the army. Let's stop these losses by removing all male birds from the flock and produce only infertile eggs.

Caring for Eggs
1. Keep a good clean litter in the nest.
2. Provide one nest for each five hens.
3. Gather eggs at least twice daily during the summer.
4. Keep eggs in a wire basket and in a cool place—recommendation M. S. 433—Jestless Refrigerator for holding eggs to check evaporation and reduce temperature.
5. Market eggs at least twice each week.

Confine Broody Hens
Broody hens on nests reduce egg quality, break eggs and cut into the profits.
Shell Texture
Keep clean oyster shell or ground limestone available in open hopper. If shells are thin, sprinkle a handful of oyster shell on top of the feed every few days until condition is corrected.

Preparation Now For Tomato Supply In Future Urged

Civilians will have difficulty in buying processed tomatoes over the grocery counters this fall and winter, forecasts Jennie Camp, specialist in home production planning of the A. and M. college extension service. An abundant crop in Texas is indicated, but advance orders from the quartermaster general's department of the United States Army will absorb practically all of the 100 million cases of tomatoes produced in the nation this season.

In view of this, Miss Camp says, "every patriotic housewife, institutional manager and dietitian; every school lunch room supervisor, and restaurant and hotel dining room manager should collect and get in readiness immediately every available glass and second-hand tin container, and see that sealing supplies for these are on hand. They should obtain the latest approved recipes, improve water bath containers, for processing tomato products, and supply themselves with some kind of efficient juicer and pulper-making equipment so that as many persons as possible may have tomatoes 'some way every day,' unless citrus, melons, raw cabbage or strawberries are available as substitutes.
Miss Camp suggests that farm housewives and other buyers should pool their needs under the neighborhood, community, and county agricultural victory leaders. Interview local wholesale and retail vegetable distributors and contract with them to supply the high quality tomatoes they will need in addition to what their own gardens will produce.

Ripe or green tomatoes are a rich and cheap source of Vitamin C which prevents bleeding gums, loose teeth, sore joints, and loss of appetite and weight. Ripe tomatoes have abundant Vitamin A which guards against "dry eye" and night blindness.

Large Crop Of Lettuce Provides Diet Opportunity

By FONTILLA JOHNSON
An unusually large crop excellent quality of lettuce—at least 5,000,000 crates this season—makes it possible for housewives to buy this very valuable vegetable often at a very low cost. Local stores have been featuring lettuce specials during May.

Lettuce belongs to the family of green, leafy vegetables, and according to the Texas Food Standard, the daily diet should include one or more of these vegetables daily. Lettuce is a good source of Vitamin A and C and also iron and calcium.

Lettuce is a perfect vegetable salad used with a favorite dressing. It is also delicious when wilted. The following recipe is sufficient for six servings of wilted lettuce. Into a heavy skillet, put about 1-4 cup fat, or, if bacon is on hand, cook several slices brown and crisp, and use the bacon fat. Add to the hot fat a small onion, chopped. Cook the onion until it turns yellow. Then add 1-2 cup vinegar. When this is heated, add 2 quarts of garden leaf lettuce or shredded head lettuce. Cover and cook until the lettuce is just wilted. Season with salt and pepper and serve hot—with bits of the crisp bacon added to it if at hand.

Cash To Farmers Hits A New High

AUSTIN, May 27 (AP)—If farms had cash registers they would ring a merry tune in Texas. Continuing its upward trend, cash income to Texas farmers hit $49,199,000 in April, 60 per cent more than in April of last year, the University of Texas bureau of business research reported today. Sales of cattle which yielded $20,526,000 compared with $11,978,000 in April a year ago accounted for most of the gain. Cash income for the first third of the year reached $160,379,000, nearly 70 per cent above the $94,968,000 reported in the first third of 1941.

Mobile trailer laboratories of the Public Health Service are used to examine milk and water samples in some Army maneuver areas.

Broadening Of Lease-Lend Means Giant Pool Of War Resources

Women Throng Recruiting Offices To Get In WAAC

By The Associated Press
The Women's Army Auxiliary Corps, which is going to take 400 officers from over the whole nation, could get that many in Texas and still be particular.

Five hundred applied at Houston yesterday, the first day application blanks were available. Twenty-two women were waiting when the office opened, and there was a line in front of the desk all day.

Two hundred put in their bids at Dallas. The office was jammed in the morning, and business was brisk all day. Among the applicants were housewives, teachers, models, clerks, stenographers, factory workers, a cafe owner, soda girls, carhops and debutantes.

Many applicants said they had sons in the armed services.

A hundred applied at Fort Worth and 80 more telephoned, only to learn that blanks had not been received.

Three hundred filled out questionnaires at the San Antonio office.

Women who are not selected as officers will have an opportunity later to serve as privates in the WAAC.

Russian Pact Is Like That With Britain

WASHINGTON, May 28 (AP)—A gigantic pooling of economic resources on a worldwide scale, first for the winning of the war and later for the winning of the peace, is indicated in lease-lend agreements consummated in process of negotiation between the United States and more than a score of anti-axis countries.

The broad principles of lease-lend assistance and cooperation in the achievement of victory and establishment of a healthy world economy after the war were laid down in the agreement signed last February by Great Britain and the United States.

Tuesday the draft proposal for a similar agreement with Soviet Russia was handed to Ambassador Maxim Litvinov by Secretary of State Hull, and yesterday the draft of a proposed lease-lend pact with China was transmitted to Chungking through Foreign Minister T. V. Soong, who is in Washington.

In discussing the proposals offered Russia and China, Secretary Hull told his press conference that the provisions generally were the same as those already entered into with Britain.

The agreement with Britain provides, among other things, that the precise and detailed terms of settlement of lease-lend accounts shall be deferred "until the extent of the defense aid is known"; that full account shall be taken of all aid rendered to the United States, as well as aid rendered by the United States, and that the final terms and conditions of settlement shall be such as to promote world trade rather than hinder it.

Lease-lend aid in the form of ships, planes, tanks, guns and other materials already is flowing to Russia and China as well as to widely separated parts of the British empire, including the United Kingdom itself, India and Australia.

In other words the 132,000,000 people of the United States have buckled down to the job of producing and shipping weapons of war for belligerent allies aggregating more than 1,000,000,000 in population. In addition, defense materials are flowing to 16 American republics with which the United States has signed lease-lend agreements.

Lease-lend aid, as interpreted in the master agreement signed with Britain, is on a reciprocal basis. In this connection it is significant to recall that President Roosevelt some time ago remarked that the value of United States aid to Soviet Russia could be measured in German troops killed and tanks destroyed.

In other words, resources of all kinds are being pooled in the common war effort: American tanks and Russian soldiers, American planes and British pilots, American guns and Chinese gunners.

In the final settlement of lease-lend accounts, therefore, less emphasis is likely to be placed on striking a bookkeeper's balance than on cooperative measures to get world economy on its feet again.

Nutrition Students Suggest Recipes That Are Low In Cost

This week's menus by Jackie Coelle Hampton of Clyde and Elizabeth Heath of Austin, advanced students in nutrition, were made and tested under the supervision of Dr. Ruth Leselle, University of Texas department of home economics. This dietary includes some simple outdoor cookery. Since more evening daylight hours are now available, more meals should be eaten outdoors, either in the parks or in the back yard. The cost of all food material used in these menus, exclusive of costs of preparation and serving, based on current prices in Austin stores is 42 cents per person.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

Our army spells and pronounces it pontoon, not "pontoon", as you do. Pontoon bridges cost all the way from $15,000 to $700,000. The smaller bridge using individual metal pontoons is pictured here. The largest pontoon bridge is 1,060 feet long and is made of rubber instead of aluminum.

One small bridge has a weight capacity of 25 tons, using about 2,000 individual metal pontoons. The smallest is used only to take troops over smaller streams. But whether our army uses the smaller or largest pontoon, our engineers need plenty of them. If you and every American invests at least 10 percent of income in War Bonds every pay day we can supply our fighting forces with these essentials to a victorious war.

Five Share In County Orders

Five local oil distributors will share in Howard county's purchases of grease and lubricants for the coming year, by order of the commissioners court after competitive bids were examined.

Commissioners said the lowest bid was not accepted in each case, but that the bids accepted were the lowest for each comparable quality of oil.

For motor lubricating oil, the contract went to T-P Coal and Oil company for its T-P Aero oil, at 52 cents per gallon.

Humble bid 40 cents per gallon to get the transmission grease contract.

Continental will sell the county chassis lubricant at 10 cents per pound and hypoid grease at 10 and 3-4 cents per pound.

Track roller grease for the caterpillars will be bought from Magnolia at 7 1-2 cents per pound.

Diesel engine lubricant will be bought from the Texas company at 48 cents per gallon.

O'Daniel Files For A Place On Ticket

DALLAS, May 27 (AP)—Senator W. Lee O'Daniel yesterday applied for a place on the democratic primary ticket, sending his application and $100 filing fee to State Democratic Committee Chairman E. B. Germany.

Den Moody and James V. Allred, both, like O'Daniel, former governors, have also filed as senatorial candidates.

W. W. King of Bronson filed as a candidate for commissioner of agriculture and paid his fee.

Use Of Bonuses To Evade Taxes Under Close Scrutiny

WASHINGTON, May 28 (AP)—The treasury, it was learned today, will lay before a private meeting of congressional leaders tonight evidence of excessive corporate salaries and bonuses, extravagant promotion expenditures, and other devices used to evade war taxes.

At the same time, the treasury delegation, to be headed by Secretary Henry Morgenthau, Jr., and Assistant Secretary John L. Sullivan, is expected to discuss with the congressmen means of punishing evasion cases or holding down salaries through drastic enforcement of some old, little-used statute. The congressional group will be the members of the joint house and senate committee on internal revenue taxation.

Since details were guarded, the nature of the treasury's data could only be judged from the fact that they were to be presented by Morgenthau in person at a Wednesday noon meeting.

One informed source, when asked if the material was "sensational," replied: "I don't think people will lay down their papers before they have read every word of it."

This also implied that the findings might be made public after the meeting.

Meanwhile Edmund Toland, counsel for the house naval affairs committee, disclosed he had been ordered to turn over to the internal revenue bureau a transcript of testimony taken yesterday which showed that a Cleveland company gave out $2,000,000 in employee bonuses last year.

Toland said the orders came from Chairman Vinson (D-Ga.), after the committee heard James F. Lincoln, president of the Lincoln Electric company, contend that the bonus system had saved the government $30,000,000 on war contracts for welding equipment and electrodes by stimulating worker efficiency and thus reducing costs.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

Every Friday night a bunch of us fellows get together over at Bill Webster's place. We wouldn't miss those weekly get-togethers for anything.

You mightn't think that just settin' and talkin' would be so much fun. But it is. Particularly when a man begins to get around to the age of reason. Like us.

There are seven in the group—Bill Webster, Judge Cunningham, Pete Swanson, Old Doc McGinnis the dentist, and young Doc Mitchell the M.D., the government man Bob Newcomb, and myself.

'And it's wonderful how a few glasses of good beer help bring out good talk and good sense when men get together. There's something peaceful and friendly and human about beer that brings out the best in a man.

We don't play cards. We don't bring or carry on.

We just sit quietly and talk—and drink a glass or two of beer.

I guess we discuss just about everything under the sun—politics, business, family affairs, music, farming, hunting, fishing, and what not.

They call beer the "beverage of moderation." That "moderation" idea is good philosophy... maybe that's why good beer and good fellowship go together so well.

But mostly we like to chaw the fat about life's experience and a man's philosophy in these times.

Seems to me there ought to be more of this quiet talk over a glass of beer. It sure straightens out a man in his thinking.

To sort of help out the conversation, we've found mellow beer particularly relaxing. Every one of us likes the tangy taste of beer... and now and then Judge Cunningham insists on ale for everybody.

Anyhow, men ought to get together and be friends. That's the way we were made. Why not try it more often—all of you!

Miss Laneous Notes

By MARY WEALEY
This month all over the country the high school graduates will stand in line for that bit of sheepskin that entitles them to say they have finished school and are ready for the world.

A small percentage of these will go on to college but to the majority, this is it. They've spent a lot of years learning English, grammar, history, and science and now they are qualified to go to work.

It's a good thing the young are so egotistical and confident, otherwise, they would probably faint from fright at the world they face. Right now there isn't a one who doesn't think he has the world by the tail and confidence in his own ability to slay the dragon with a golden sword.

Classes before this one have faded wars, rumors of wars, depressions and crime. But somehow or other, this class of 1942 has even a bigger thing to face.

During their four years in high school they've seen a transition from one era to another, from peace to war that is world wide, from an economic depression to wages that are eyebrow raising.

Where boys before looked to jobs in stores, in business and in private concerns now they seek the ship yards, the airplane factories, the defense plants. Where girls looked for jobs as stenographers, typists, and waitresses, they find those and men's jobs thrust at them.

It's a cock-eyed world from any standards, this 1942, and if youth weren't born with brazen self assurance that is only knocked off through the years, we'd say pity anybody who looks at the world with a bright face and smile and chooses senior mottoes like "for- ever forward."

Lettuce, Rich In Food Value, Now Plentiful

Local stores are now featuring exceptionally good buys on lettuce and local homemakers are taking advantage of excellent crops this year, according to statements of Howard county merchants today.

Ralph Link, chairman of the food industry committee, said the lettuce crop is especially abundant this year and he urged local homemakers to serve as many lettuce dishes as possible.

According to nutritionists of the United States department of agriculture, green lettuce is a good source of carotene which the body changes into vitamin A. In addition it has some vitamin B1, some riboflavin and some vitamin C. Besides these vitamin contributions, lettuce is a good source of the minerals, iron and calcium. The white leaves, called bleached lettuce, are not as good a source of these food values as are the green leaves. As far as iron and carotene are concerned, the thinner and greener the leaf, the more of these the lettuce contains.

Link passed on these "tips" from the department of agriculture about the preparation of lettuce:

"Cut out the core of the lettuce with a sharp pointed knife. Then put the head under running water and let water run in where core has been removed. This loosens and freshens the leaves—making it easy to slip the leaves off—each leaf, whole and unbroken—for use in preparing salads and sandwiches.

"Naturally, a lettuce leaf under a salad or in a sandwich will not contribute a whole lot of food value. To get the good from lettuce eat more of it.

"There are many ways to fix lettuce. It is a perfect vegetable for salad and it gets along well with almost any vegetable combination. With shredded head lettuce or leaf lettuce in a heavy skillet with some well-flavored fat and season it with vinegar and chopped onions. Or cut head lettuce up in fourths and braise it just like you do cabbage."

GET HEP, GALS! Men like their food straight.

Here's Some Straight Talk From The Men, Bless' Em, About Food

By CLAYTON J. IRWIN
Wide World Features Writer

It's about time they took the "Ladies Only" sign off the kitchen door and let the men in—just long enough to offer some advice.

No unprejudiced male will stand up and tell you that, dish for dish, he's a better cook than his wife. You can grant a few exceptions on this, but when the average man can fry bacon and boil or scramble eggs.

Maybe he has a specialty that he believes he can prepare better than any one else. But invite him to get up a complete dinner and, by the time he juggles a half-dozen pans and watches the oven regulator, the fire department will be there demanding to know what's burning.

So, we don't want to take over the culinary chores; we only want to be helpful.

More Food, Less Glamor

It's the glamor in the menu that we object to. We can stand dizzy duds and feminine foibles. We'll cheer for glamor in our gals. But in the food, no.

The anonymous pundit who said the way to a man's heart was through his stomach didn't mean the food had to be so fancy and so artfully disguised that Ecocifer himself couldn't identify it.

He meant, if he was any pal of ours, that a good cut of meat needs no improvement, that in preparing if you can lay off all those spices, pastes and go that belong strictly in, and on, a cupcake.

He meant that you can't find a better dessert than good old apple pie. And nothing fancy, either; just two crusts and a sliced apple filling flavored with cinnamon. You can keep the prune-delight-with-marshmallows - and - whipped cream.

I Says It's Spinach
We're willing to accept our vita-

mines as dutifully as we accept our draft classification. But we'll take 'em straight. No matter what the recipe book says, there never was a way to fix spinach so it tasted any less like spinach. If spinach is a subject for contention in your household serve its equivalent instead.

Don't get the idea, ladies, we're hard to cook for. We're EASY to cook for. All we ask is the simple foods, simply prepared, and shuffed with reasonable frequency.

We'll prove it by sitting down any time to a menu of a good, thick soup; a roast (beef, lamb or pork); boiled potatoes and gravy; a fresh vegetable (spinach, even); bread and butter, coffee—and apple pie. Lady, now you're cookin'!

Girls Awarded For Reading The Entire Bible

Big Spring pastors today signified their appreciation of an achievement of two young women in having read the Bible through during the past nine months by having Bibles presented to them at the concluding session of a high school class given over to study of the Books.

To stimulate interest in the class, members of the Big Spring Pastors association offered at the beginning of the year to make a gift of a Bible to any student who would completely read through the Old and New Testaments during the school year.

Polly Roberts, daughter of Mrs. T. A. Roberts, and Brookline Nell Phillips, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Phillips, were the two who achieved the objective.

Mrs. Homer W. Haislip, who teaches the non-sectarian class, said that around 15 others came near qualifying, but had missed out reading some few parts of the Bible.

During the year, enrollment totals for the class stood at around 57, and the percentage coming so near reading all the Bible was considered encouraging and reflected considerable interest in the study—optional with students and made possible by cooperation of several Big Spring churches.

The Bibles given the young women by Mrs. Haislip on behalf of the association, said the Rev. R. E. Bowden, secretary, were of higher quality print and binding, contained concordance, and were autographed by every member of the pastors' unit.

Shipments in Jam At Mexican Border

LAREDO, May 28 (AP) — Railways and other interested agencies sent representatives here today to confer on freight congestion on both sides of the United States-Mexican border.

The Laredo port commission asked the War Production Board government requirements branch yesterday for assistance in relieving the jam, saying that the shipping situation in the Gulf of Mexico had caused diversion from water to rail routes.

More Liberal Sugar Rationing Announced For Canning And Preserving This Summer

DALLAS, May 28 — In a move designed to conserve American fruit crops, instructions concerning the new liberalized provisions for rationing home canning sugar have been sent to local county rationing boards in the southwest, Max L. McCullough, region OPA administrator, said today.

Time and place for receiving applications will be announced by each local board. The new amendment nullifies the original provisions which allowed five pounds of sugar for home canning purposes to each consumer who held a rationing book.

Under the revised setup, consumers who have registered may obtain sugar for canning for their own use in an amount of one pound per four quarts of finished canned fruit. For preserving, one pound per person will be allowed for use in preparing preserves, jams, jellies or fruit butters.

The amendment provides that consumers may make application for sugar for canning, even though they are in possession of "excess sugar" which at the time of registration prohibited the issuance of War Ration Book No. 1 to them.

"The amendment gives the local boards broader discretionary privileges for home canning and preserving purposes, which is necessary since these boards have knowledge of conditions peculiar to their own localities," Mr. McCullough stated.

Amendment No. 1 to the Sugar Rationing Regulations makes the following provisions:

Consumers who have registered may obtain sugar for canning or preserving fresh fruits for their own use in an amount of one pound per four quarts of finished canned fruit, and one pound each year per person for use in preparing preserves, jams, jellies or fruit butters.

In no event may an individual or family unit be permitted more sugar than is necessary to can the quantity of fruit which the board thinks is reasonable, giving due consideration to the season, the practices of the individual and the community, and all other pertinent information.

Application shall be made on OPA form No. R-315 by one adult member of a family unit for the entire family, or by a consumer not a member of a family unit. The applicant shall state the names of consumers for whom the application is filed, and their war ration book serial numbers, the number of quarts of fruit canned in 1941, or if a previous application for canning has been made, the number of quarts of fruit canned since that application, the number of quarts of fruit in possession of the applicant, the number of quarts of fruit to be canned during the period for which application is made, whether sugar will be used for preserving, and excess sugar supply as of time of registration, and any reduction since then.

If the application is for sugar for use in preparing preserves, jams, jellies, or fruit butters, it shall so state, and no statements about canning are required.

The local board shall fix the times and places at which, and the periods for which applications shall be made. The board may appoint qualified persons to act as deputies examining applicants and issuing canning certificates.

In the case where the board approves the application of a consumer who has an excess supply of sugar, if the excess sugar is more than the amount allowed, a certificate may be issued, or the excess sugar reduced by the amount allowed. If the excess sugar is less than the amount of the application, the excess shall be cancelled and a certificate issued for the difference, and war ration books may also be issued immediately to such applicants whose excess sugar supply has been cancelled.

Sugar allowed under this amendment shall be used only in the quantities, during the period, and for the purposes for which it was allowed.

If sugar allowed under this amendment is not used during the specified period, the applicant shall within 90 days after the end of that period report the fact to his board. If a certificate was not used, it shall be returned to the board for cancellation.

If a certificate was used, but the sugar bought was not used for canning or preserves, the war ration book or books of the individual or the family shall be returned to the board. The board shall remove from the ration book or books stamps having a weight value of stamps to which a value has already been given, the book or books shall be retained by the board until stamps in weight value equal to the amount of sugar not used for canning or preserving become valid. If the sugar was allowed against an excess inventory, the board shall revoke this allowance. If another application for sugar under this amendment is granted, the appropriate adjustment shall be made.

Hogan, Laffoon Tangle In Feature Of Second Round

ATLANTIC CITY, May 28 (AP)—The outstanding match in the second round of the Professional Golfers association championship at the sprawling Sen View club today appeared to be the one between Ben Hogan and Ky Laffoon, each of whom has been a seven-day wonder among the country's big golf winners in recent years.

twentyn Craig Wood, the national open champion, and Leland Gibson of Kansas City, Mo., little known in big-money circles but who has been shooting more than anybody's share of golf here.

Ray Robinson And Servo To Tangle

NEW YORK, May 28 (AP)—The Navy took Red Cochran and his welterweight championship out of circulation just about the time Ray Robinson was due to get a crack at the crown, so the Harlan hammer is going to try to take this loss out on Coast-guardman Marty Servo in Madison Square Garden tonight.

Yank Tosser Gets Seventh In A Row

By JUDSON BAILEY Associated Press Sports Writer

The most coveted pitching goal in the major leagues is 30 victories in a season.

After Bob Feller traded his baseball top for a navy uniform last winter there didn't seem to be a pitcher with a remote possibility of gaining the pinnacle this season.

Yer, Ernie (Tiny) Bonham, big right-handed ace of the New York Yankees, apparently has found the right trail and his chances look about as good as Feller's ever did.

Bonham bagged his seventh straight victory yesterday, 8-5, from the Philadelphia Athletics.

He may not win 30 games, because there are only 24 weeks in a season and he may not get to work often enough. But with a team like the world champions behind him he is not likely to lose many—and at present he is right on the beam—approximately one-fourth of the victories in approximately one-fourth of the season.

Dodgers Play Offensive Ball In American League Power Style

By DILLON GRAHAM Wide World Sports Editor

NEW YORK—The National League is becoming American league-minded. It's going in for power.

The Dodgers are the Yankees of the loop. They're definitely an attacking unit. And for the first time other senior circuit clubs are putting more emphasis on offense than defense this season.

Bombers Even Series With Evans Allows Seven Blows, Fans Eleven

LUBBOCK, May 28.—First three Big Spring batters to bat got singles and scored, the fourth got a walk and stole home, and those four runs would have been enough, but the angry Bombers got two more in the seventh to win a 6-3 victory over Lubbock and square the West Texas-New Mexico league series here last night.

Lanky Bill Evans, a right-handed curvball specialist, looped them over and around the plate to the almost complete consternation of the Hubbers, fanning eleven of them and otherwise pitching a good game. He gave up seven hits, only two of which figured in the scoring.

Big Spring seventh inning runs came as result of Martin's homer over the left field wall, scoring Timmons, who had singled, ahead of him. Lubbock got those two runs back in the next inning, but otherwise Evans, and the errorless fielding of the Bombers, stifled Lubbock's attack.

Homeers Play Vital Part In Texas Scores

Mr. Lobert Gets Lots Of Advice, Even To The Use Of Bridge Tactics

PHILADELPHIA, May 28 (AP)—The Phils can get out of the National league cellar, says one of Hans Lobert's grandstand coaches, by playing ball like bridge—"leading their aces."

Clovis Having Difficulty As WT-NM Club

The membership troubles of the West Texas-New Mexico league are not over with yet. Word comes out today that Clovis is faced with the problem of continuing operations in the face of poor crowds and many have to consider removal of the franchise. The Pioneers have been playing winning ball, staying close to the top of the standings, but that apparently has not been enough.

Hollywood Team Gets A Score!

HOLLYWOOD, May 28 (AP)—No matter if they did lose the ball game, the Hollywood stars of the Pacific Coast league at least scored again. Up to the eighth inning of last night's game with San Diego they had scored only three runs in 23 innings. Then Johnny Dickshot powered a homer with one on to knot the score at two-all.

Editorial -- Bomb Rolling Instead Of Log Rolling

Seldom in this day of log-rolling does Uncle Sam see an example of plain unselfishness on the part of cities, counties or individuals. But something is happening up in Grayson county that makes us think unselfishness is not a dead virtue. There Uncle Sam is preparing to spend up close to $100,000 to pave a road from Sherman to Perrin Field, a war project. And, believe it or not, a group of Sherman people are petitioning Uncle Sam not to spend that money on a road for them. It isn't necessary, they say, so why waste the money? Most communities grab all they can from the government whether the project is actually needed or not. After all, the road would be of value to the county through the years if not to the more urgent war effort of today, they feel. In addition to pointing out that a present route would serve the field well if repaired a bit, the Sherman petition points out that construction of the new road would take needed laborers off the farms. More of this sort of "No, thank you, Uncle Sam," answers should be forthcoming. Unnecessary expenditures of money and labor should be avoided now. Log-rolling should be replaced by bomb-rolling for a while.

Washington Daybook—Buck Private Gets His Dues In This War

By JACK STINNETT
WASHINGTON—The capital in wartime: When Mr. John Q. Public hears the name National Archives, he naturally thinks of dusty files and ancient documents. There is nothing dusty about National Archives—its building on Pennsylvania avenue is (inside and out) one of the unmissable in Washington. Its files, so far as years are counted in the history of this nation, are ancient. But time and again they have played a starring role in preparation for all-out war. The last time, I think, is the best. National Archives probably has done more than any other single agency to give the Navy its needed experienced manpower for vast expansion. With ships sliding down the ways faster than they could be manned, the Navy was in a spot. Somebody thought of National Archives. In it were buried the thousands of service records of men who had been honorably discharged from the Navy in World War I and the years since. Emmet J. Leahy, director of records there, said that without giving away any military secrets as to actual numbers, he could state this much: "From the lists supplied by the National Archives and other record sources, we were able to get in touch with enough (experienced) seamen to supply 20 per cent of the manpower needed for our two-ocean navy."

Man About Manhattan -- Feeding Gotham's Millions

By GEORGE TUCKER
NEW YORK—Chambers Street, Warren Street, Murray Street, That's me, I'm New York's bread-basket. They dump it on my sidewalks every night. All night. In piles 20 feet high. Cabbages. Potatoes. Onions. In boxes, crates, gunny sacks. They bring it in in trucks. Big high-toned moving trucks. And in horse drawn carts. They make barricades out of carrots and castles out of lettuce and pyramids out of apples. Citrus Lane they call it. Along about 4 a. m. By sun-up it's Cabbage Row. Then they take it away. To the restaurants. To the hotels and cafes. To the markets and the green grocers and the chain grocers and the independent grocers. All over town. All over Manhattan, and the Bronx. They take it to Staten Island, to Queens, and to Brooklyn.

cigarettes dangling from their lips. "I got 600 crates of grapes." . . . "I got 200 crates of cranberries." . . . "I got 171 bags of potatoes." . . . That's Max talking. Max is 51. Been there long? You bet. Seventeen years. Does he like his job? You bet. Wouldn't do anything else. People hafta be fed. People gotta be fed. When people get hungry, they reach for the bread basket. That's Chambers Street. And Warren. And Murray. That's Max. You come along there, say after midnight, and you'll walk in the street, or else. Ain't no room on the sidewalks. Not after midnight, when the tomatoes and the cabbages and the carrots come in. Not when the celery and the grapefruit get there. You'll walk in the street, and not in a straight line either. You'll weave in and out of vans and hacks. You'll get out of the way of horses, and you'll go home with the aroma of onion in your hair. For a boutonniere you'll wear a radish. That's the bread-basket. New York's lower west side. Right by West Street. If you've got a good arm, you can stand on Chambers, or Warren, or Murray, and pitch a potato into the Hudson. Sure, you can see shows on Broadway. Any old Broadway. Good shows and bad. Past shows and smug shows and very, very dumb shows. Tell you what. If I were a visitor to New York, I'd take in a show on Broadway. You bet. But not until I'd seen the bread-basket show. Not until I'd gone down there at night, and seen a real drama, where the actors are turnips and tomatoes and cabbages, and not just hams.

UNFAIR TO LOVE

By Watkins E. Wright

Chapter 16
"Hello, stranger!"
Kathleen gave Uncle Frank a quick kiss. "It's going to be wonderful!" she said. "You playing host at the farm. The perfect country gentleman entertaining as his country estate."
Uncle Frank chuckled. "Country estate, my eye!" he said. "But, go on—have a good time. Nothing like a healthy imagination."
He got out of the car, and hurried into a nearby office building. Kathleen, smiling happily to herself, was just about to release the brake and drive off, when Joe came up.
"Hello, stranger!" he greeted.
"Hello," said Kathleen. "It's your fault I'm a stranger."
"Gosh, honey, don't tell me you're still touchy!"
"Of course not!" Kathleen opened the roadster door. "Can I drop you anywhere?"
"No, thanks," said Joe. "But you can come over to the drug store and have a soda with me. Mind?"
"Of course not," Kathleen said. "A soda will be fine — after all my work out at the farm."
"What farm?"
"Uncle Frank's. We're going to have a barbecue a week from Sunday — and guests for overnight."
"Well, well!" said Joe. "Do tell!"
"Will you be free then?" Kathleen asked.
"Meaning I'm to be invited?"
"Naturally. I'd certainly not leave out an old friend."
"Sure, I'm free. Tell me about it."
Kathleen did so — but not until they found a table in the din coolness of the corner drugstore.
"Uncle Frank's got to have a barbecue for the theatre people," Kathleen began.
"His idea?" said Joe.
"And mine," said Kathleen. "I thought so," Joe shrugged.
"But go on."
"The barbecue will be late Sunday afternoon — after we've all had a swim in the pond," Kathleen explained. "Then we're having people stay overnight. There will be several town people out to the barbecue, of course — but our overnight guests will be the theatrical people mostly."
"I see," said Joe. "Impress them, so to speak."
"Put it that way, if you wish," said Kathleen calmly. "I'm asking Fred, Paul, Ruby, and Daisy. I'm also going to ask Mrs. Buxton."
"Why? To supply an air of respectability?"
"Perhaps. Anyway, it'll make eight of us — four couples."
"Am I invited for overnight?"
"Yes."
"Do I get paired off with Mrs. Buxton?"
"If you wish. Or there'll be Ruby and Daisy."
"You, I suppose, will be tied up with Paul or Fred."
"Part of the time, yes."

Hollywood Sights and Sounds—English Studio Said Ronald Colman Wouldn't Screen

By ROBBIN COONS
HOLLYWOOD—Fragments and figments: Hollywood has made some bad guesses in its time, but there's an English studio which has done worse. The one which recorded in its casting files this note after the name of a dark-haired young man who wanted movie work. "Doesn't screen well."
The young man landed in New York in 1920 with $37, expecting to sustain himself in the theatre. He did, barely. Then in 1922 Henry King discovered him for a hit with Lillian Gish in "The White Sister"—thus launching the phenomenal career of 20 years' stardom for Ronald Colman. If he "doesn't screen well," he certainly "screened long."
And he will screen longer. A few years ago he decided that one film a year would be enough. This year, after "Talk of the Town" and "Random Harvest," he will do yet another, to kick in more taxes. The demands for Colman, as for other older stars, is likely to increase for the duration. For obvious reasons. . . .

Tyrone Power is swash-buckling through "The Black Swan," an apt title for a swan song, as he prepares to leave for Navy duty. The picture is one of Rafael Sabatini's blood-and-thunder pirate romances, its course swabbed with gore, love and history in about equal proportions. Henry King is directing it (directors last long too) with a light, tongue-in-cheek approach, using this week—one that was a flop on Broadway a year or so ago.
"I remember," said Joe. "A sort of farce-comedy, 'Let's Call on Letty.' Ought to get a laugh or two out of it."
"Fred says Ruby's really good in the hole of Letty," said Kathleen. "Daisy plays a sort of minor role—but it's just the sort I'd like to play."
"You mean you prefer a minor role?"
"Of course not. mean the role's that of a younger sister who's always trying to fix things up, and getting people involved."
Joe took Kathleen's arm to help her up the narrow steps. They found their seats in the front row, and sat down. Kathleen examined her program, but Joe looked about the reconstructed barn.
"Shh!" said Kathleen.
The lights went out. The curtain was going up.
"I hope," said Joe. "I won't have to pan 'em too much."
He settled back in his seat. So did Kathleen. He felt for one of her hands and found it. She did not object. And the play went on. It was one of those farces that are practically actor-proof. Only the worst sort of actor or actress could hurt it. And the performers there in Ye Old Barn Drama House weren't the worst. There was a lot of room for improvement—but they managed to keep the comedy going at a good speed. When the curtain lowered upon the second act, Joe and Kathleen went out into the open—out into what had once been the barnyard—for a smoke.
"Isn't it delightful?" said Kathleen. "I love it."
"Not bad," said Joe. "Not half bad."
Kathleen frowned. "How sweet of you," she said, "to be so generous."
"Well, you asked me, didn't you?"
"Of course. But you needn't be so condescending."
Ruby Howard stepped out through the stage entrance. She saw them, and waved.

There are straws in the wind which indicate that the buck private, in this war, is coming into his own, and I don't mean only because the House of Representatives has voted to up his pay to $50. The attention of Congress has also been called to the fact that sometimes a buck doesn't get his mail as quickly as he would if he were a commissioned officer. And quite a point has been made of (Raleigh, N. C.) Editor Josephus Daniels' blast at the fact that non-commissioned men are not allowed to have dates with Army nurses. The stories of democracy in the Australian army where privates often call their superiors by their first names and of the effectiveness on morale of breaking down the old walls between privates and officers in the Nazi war machine are being cited frequently these days. My guess, however, is that the root of the

When you walk along there, say, about eight o'clock, in the morning, on your way to the office, you don't see much. . . . Oh, you see enough, but not so much as you see in the afternoon. . . . In the morning you see the white onions and the red onions. . . . The people who put the onions in their loosely woven sacks know what they are doing. . . . They emphasize color. . . . They put the white onions in the white sacks, and the red onions in the red sacks. That's what they do. It makes the white seem whiter, and the red redder. Ask the shipping clerk and the receivers who stand around checking the items, in their long white robes. If they had on rubber gloves and if they wore white masks across their faces, they'd look like surgeons. . . . Except for the mud on their shoes. And the tomato stains on their white aprons. And the oniony smell. And the wet

Tropical Fruit Importers Face Major War Problems

By ALEXANDER R. GEORGE, Wide World Features Writer

WASHINGTON—If that banana split appears a bit emaciated on the banana side this summer, you can blame that, too, on the war.

Heavy reductions in imports and advances in the price of the popular tropical fruit are the result of wartime shipping difficulties. Big banana steamships, which formerly carried the fruit in specially-refrigerated hold are now transporting war materials.

Smaller boats are being pressed into service in an effort to bring in fairly adequate supplies from Central American countries, but a decline of about 40 per cent—and possibly more—in our normal imports is expected. That would mean getting along with about two billion less bananas than we usually consume in a year. In 1940 we imported 52 million bunches which, figuring 100 bananas to the bunch after deducting for wastage, would be some 5,200,000,000 bananas.

Sixty years ago the banana was a rare delicacy in this country, although its use as a food in the tropics is ancient. The armies of Alexandria the Great found the fruit in abundance in the valley of the Indus in 327 B. C. and went on a banana orgy.

Bananas are not rated essential to civilian morale, but they are a Yankee food staple and a standard item in millions of lunch boxes. And you can expect Uncle Sam to facilitate as far as possible the importation of a commodity which is the economic life blood of such Good Neighbors as Honduras, Guatemala and Panama.

Mexico also is a big producer of bananas and sends the fruit to the states by the trainloads.

The banana import problem is complicated by the need for extra care in handling the perishable fruit and for distributing and selling it without much delay.

For pineapple, chief rival of bananas as a tropical fruit, the supply situation has been uncertain but looks more favorable. War conditions in Hawaii may curtail that crop but a large supply of canned pineapple is expected. The Hawaiian shipping prospect appears brighter because boats carrying military supplies to our Pacific outposts can bring in large loads of canned pineapple and other commodities on return trips.

Olives have been higher in price but no severe shortage is as yet indicated. There has been some reduction in shipments from Spain but that impoverished country is still sending us a lot of pickled olives. The harvest of olives in California has been large in the last two years.

Shortages in our tropical fruit supplies are offset, however, by tremendous production of domestic fruits.

Man-Eating Rooster Is Put Behind Bars

GLEN COVE, N. Y., May 28 (AP) Frank Doxey, the local dog catcher, was hailed as a hero today after capturing a man-eating rooster that had been terrorizing residents for several days.

Eating up their favorite rose bushes was not too bad an offense, rooster-owners said, but when the rooster took several bites out of Mrs. Maurice Cohen's legs and pecked at her back, that was something else again.

Summoned post-haste after the felonious assault, Doxey snared the wild bird with a neat cast of his net, and it now resides behind bars.

Memorial Day Service To Be At Cemetery At 2:30 Sunday

Memorial Day services will be sponsored by the Ray E. Fuller post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars Sunday at 2:30 a. m. at the city cemetery, officials announced today.

Judge James T. Brooks, a captain in the last war, will be the speaker of the afternoon, addressing the gathering before the memorial ceremony according to VFW ritual.

As is a custom with VFW, General Logan's Memorial Day order will be read by the post adjutant, and the commander-in-chief's general order will be read by Post Commander Raymer W. Brown. Invocation will be by Ulmer Powell, chaplain, and the bugle will call the group to assembly and dismiss with taps.

Appeals were voiced by Brown and other VFW officials for all families of veterans buried in the local cemetery to clean and mark these graves that they may be appropriately honored Sunday.

The post has a record of some 144 graves of men who were in other wars, but urged that attention be called to any which might otherwise be overlooked.

Post members were asked to meet at the VFW home at Ninth and Gould not later than 2 p. m. Sunday to proceed to the cemetery in a body.

Japs Lose 200 Planes During 6-Week Period

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Australia, May 28 (AP)—At least 200 Japanese aircraft have been officially reported shot down, destroyed on the ground or damaged by Allied planes in this theatre in the six weeks since General McArthur took command, a review of 41 communiques issued from his headquarters disclosed today.

Yesterday, headquarters said, Allied interceptors tore into a squadron of 15 Japanese Zeros which attempted to strafe the airfields at Port Moresby, New Guinea, shooting down one and damaging six. One Allied plane was lost.

The Japanese returned to the attack again last night, "but without effect," the communique said.

Allied personnel losses, meanwhile, were reduced when the seven-man crew of a missing American bomber arrived safely at an Allied operational base after a 45-day trek through the swampy weds of New Guinea. With them came an American fighter pilot who had been missing for 28 days.

Medical Fuss Continuing Under Study

GALVESTON, May 28 (AP)—Prolonged dissension at the University of Texas medical branch will be straightened out without the use of strong-arm methods, in the opinion of university regents inquiring into the school's affairs.

Entering the seventh day of virtual morning to midnight sessions, the board continued hearing witnesses, largely school staff members, on both sides of a controversy in which Dean John W. Spies and a number of faculty members are aligned on opposite sides.

The regents, at a press conference yesterday, declared their investigation was being conducted along democratic lines and asserted the disagreements would be acted upon in a similar manner.

They added it would be "prejudging" the case if they expressed any opinion on whether court action was contemplated by any of the principals involved and reiterated they could not estimate when they would conclude the inquiry or take action.

University President Homer P. Rainey, speaking for the regents, reported the board was progressing in establishment of a cancer research project which involved agreeing to a contract with the Anderson foundation of Houston, donor of $500,000 matching funds to a state appropriation.

"I am carefully considering qualifications of various persons in selecting a director for the project," Rainey said. "It will take some time to complete this task."

County's Grain Crop Prospering

In a small way, Howard county will contribute to the nation's oversupply of wheat this year.

Held back by cool weather until recent rains, the county's small grain crop is prospering, although the acreage is small. Probably not more than a dozen and a half farmers in the county have acreage that will more than produce a batch of chicken feed.

What should be ready for harvest the latter part of June, which at that is a bit late for this section of the country.

Indications are that shipment of wheat to commercial elevators will be restricted—perhaps completely banned—by the government because these elevators are overflowing now. However, local storage can likely be improvised for Howard county's nominal crop.

PORTLAND, Ore., May 28 (AP) Edward Albertson, home on a brief vacation, told friends how he tried to take a picture of the submarine that torpedoed his freighter in the Gulf of Mexico. When the torpedo hit, he rushed to his cabin, grabbed his camera, pointed at the sub and clicked the shutter.
