Basketball benefit

A benefit basketball game was held on May 16 between the Farwell School faculty and the school's chapter of Fellowship of Christian athletes.

It was to raise money for the McKinney family, of Amarillo, which recently suffered a tragic vehicle accident and have incurred heavy medical expenses.

Angela Thompson, of Farwell, is a sister to Mrs. McKinney.

J.R. Ivins took these photographs.

Farwell, Lazbuddie principals resign

Farwell and Lazbuddie schools lost their high school principals this week.

Bill Bizzell resigned as Farwell principal, after serving in the post for four years.

He already has a New Mexico educational pension, having worked for New Mexico schools for 20 years.

On Tuesday morning, a site-based committee met and recommended that Weldon Killough, who has been the school counselor for the past seven years, be the new principal.

Farwell Supt. Larry Gregory said Killough still must be officially approved by the school board when it meets on June 13.

Gregory is trying to work it out that Killough will keep some of his counselor responsibilities, with the part-time assistance of a teacher.

Gregory also reported that longtime Farwell Elementary School secretary Eva Ancira has retired.

She will be replaced by her longtime assistant, Maria Arce. And Flo Davis moves into Mrs. Arce's position.

At Lazbuddie School, Mark Scisson has resigned to take a job as industrial arts teacher at Sudan School. He also will be an assistant coach in track and football.

Scisson was at Lazbuddie for 17 years, and was head football

Farwell, grassland taxes increase

Curby Brantley, of the Parmer County Appraisal District, told the Tribune there was a 5 percent increase in tax appraisal notices on homes in Farwell due to the higher prices for home sales in the city.

This is the second straight year for increased taxes for Farwell homes.

There also was a $5 an acre across-the-board increase on grass land in Parmer County.

Otherwise, Brantley said there were no other increases other than for new construction or additions.

As a side note, Brantley urges all land owners with water wells to provide the appraisal district with a copy of their current well readings.

For more info on this, call him at his office in Bovina, (806) 251-1405.

Gregory, Cargile receive Farwell Schools' top honors

Gage Gregory was awarded the Loving Cup at the Farwell School graduation on Friday.

The award, first presented in 1928, is given to the best All-Around senior and is accompanied by a $100 check. The award is decided by the teachers and is based on scholastic ability, citizenship in school and community, sports achievements, leadership, character and interscholastic accomplishments.

Tara Cargile received the Carlos Nicolas Citizenship Award and a check for $100. This honor is given to a senior who has shown outstanding citizenship, giving time and effort unselfishly for the good of their class and school. The student is picked by the teachers based on honesty, dependability, courtesy and cooperation.

It was an outstanding senior class. Of the 37 graduates, 16 graduated with honors.

David Norton, who served 12 years on the school board before leaving it recently, was honored with a timepiece.

Receiving scholarships were: Knights of Columbus, $100 - Luke Schwertner. Billy Roberts Memorial 4-H - D'Anna DeLeon. San Jose Catholic Church - Raquel Cabello and Erica Rivas, $600 each; and Anna Quezada, $1,000.

Lazbuddie School selects Students of Month for May

Lazbuddie School Students of the Month for May are:

Jeffrey Phillips, 18, son of Rosa Davis. His motto is that he doesn't care what people think of him. His survival tip for high school is looking forward to graduating. His favorites include "My Sacrifice", Texas Tech University, "Gulliver's Travels", Snickers and the color blue.

Jodie Coker, 18, daughter of Roy Don and April Coker. Her motto is when you see a turtle atop a fence post, you know he didn't get there by himself. Her survival tip is to try not to wait until the last minute to write your research papers. Her favorites include "The World I Know", West Texas A&M University, "A Separate Peace", Scooby Doo, Mr. Goodbar, and the color turquoise. Her pet peeve is people who work hard at doing nothing instead of just doing what they are supposed to do.

Jesse Gomez, 14, son of Jesus and Maria Gomez. His motto is to treat others like you would want to be treated. His survival tip is "no swirlies." His favorites include Usher, "My Way", University of Texas, ESPN Sports, Jim Carey, chocolate and the color blue. His pet peeve is when people are mean to others.

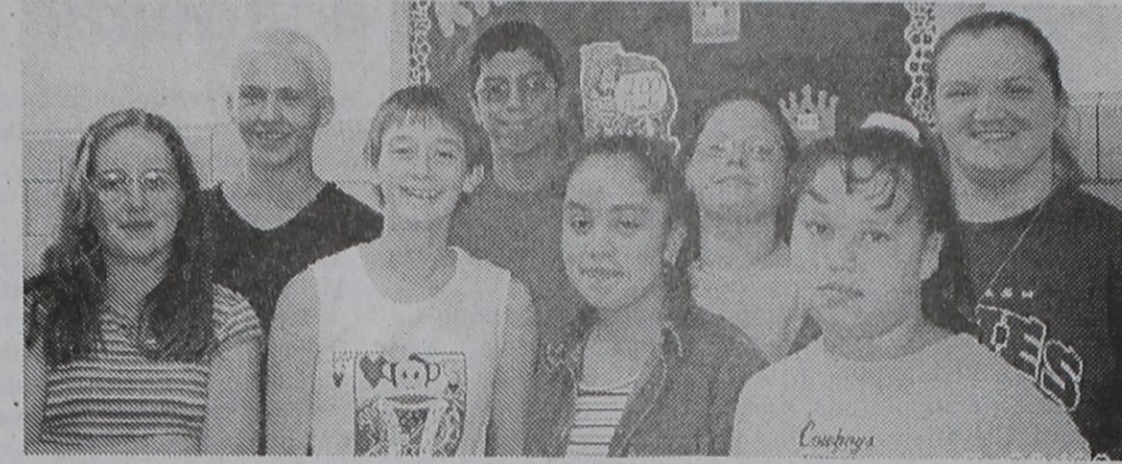

Regina Mata, 12, daughter of Eraul and Valentina Mata. Her motto is to treat others how you would like to be treated. Her survival tip is not to get your teachers made at you, and have to do homework. Her favorites include Fat Joe Ashanti's "What's Love", West Texas A&M, "Going Home" by Nicholassa Mohr, Mary J. Blige, chips and the color blue. Her pet peeve is people now minding their own business.

Davis wins stereo drawing

At Farwell Junior High this year, the jungle theme was used for the Accelerated Reader program.

There was a bulletin board called "The Wall of Fame" in the hallway indicating the points each student had earned. The theme was "Roaring into Reading -- Wild for A.R." When students received 200 points, they were moved to a separate bulletin board that read "King of the Jungle" and a crown was placed on that board with their names and the numbers of points they earned.

Students earning 200 ore more points were: Jon Beaubien, 443.7; Hayley Fowler, 287.3; Alisha Wauson, 266.2; Crystal Garcia, 249.1; Emanuel Pereda, 216.9; Kamari Schmidt, 214.3; Shanea Davis, 209.7, and Yvonne Favila, 200.1.

What is important in the program is not just the number of points earned, but the percentage of their goal that is achieved. Each student has a different goal determined by a computer test they take twice a year. It's based on their reading ability. Reaching 100 percent of goal each six weeks is what is important, even if it's only a few points.

At the awards program on the last day of school, all students who had earned 120 percent of their goal each six weeks were eligible for a drawing for a stereo. Twenty students qualified for the drawing, and the stereo winner was Shanea Davis.

Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor,

A few days ago as I sat reading an article written by a long-time resident of Texico, I became bothered by some things.

I have been a resident of Texico for 26 years now, my entire life. Throughout these 26 years, I have lived and learned that there will always be that somebody who deems him or herself superior to the rest of us. Whether it be because of the type of car that he or she may drive, a financial situation, or, sadly to say, the color of his or her skin. Why is it that people are always so quick to judge and discriminate?

A good example would be the situation concerning the apartments that are being built on the south side of town. I live on this side of town. As a matter of fact, I live across the street from where these apartments are being built.

I, myself, consider these apartments a blessing. It is a shame that some people miss out on blessings because they are "too good" for the rest of us.

You can call these apartments "low income", "grand avenue homes" or whatever terms you feel are necessary. Who gave any individual on this earth the power to be judgmental upon anyone?

I thank God that I had to work hard to get to where I am today because it made me appreciate people as well as life situations. For those of you who were born with a silver spoon in your mouth and don't know how to appreciate, I just hope that one day that silver spoon doesn't fall from your mouth and cause you to be in the same situation of that very person that you cast judgments upon.

Remember that what you spread around is coming right back your way!

Telephone co-op to assist Texico anniversary

At last week's Texico City Council meeting, the council had requested Mike Pomper to check and see if any local cooperatives could help finance banners to celebrate Texico's 100th birthday.

The council itself approved allocating $200 to buy banners to be placed on the float in the Border Town Days parade.

Pomper had also suggested small banners to be placed on electrical poles along the highway in July.

A check with Xcel Energy resulted in approval given for banners to be placed on their poles, except for any wooden ones.

Pomper then contacted Nathan Tharp, of Texico, who is a member of the Roosevelt County Rural Telephone Cooperative Board.

Tharp reported back that the cooperative agreed to pay for up to $200 for the smaller banners.

City Clerk Teresa Harth will order the smaller banners to be placed along the highway.

It's a Boy

Your electric water heater may be giving you the cold shoulder.

It typically takes an electric water heater longer to heat up water than it takes an LP-gas heater with the same size tank. Sometimes a lot longer.

So while others are enjoying a nice, hot shower, your electric water heater may be giving you the cold shoulder.

Of course, speed is only one advantage. Because Philgas is a very efficient way to heat water, it can cost you less than electricity. Shower after shower. Month after month.

LP-gas also uses considerably less natural energy than electricity.

And conserving energy is something we are all concerned about.

So when you've got a job to do around the house or farm, give us a call. Because if Philgas will heat water better, imagine how well it can do a multitude of things better than you're doing them now with electricity.

State Representative, District 67 -- Brian Moore, 275. He has no opponent in November.

War on terror:

Part II

This is Part 2 of the column I began last week about our war against the terrorists.

The FBI recently announced that they are beefing up their anti-terror units.

Good - but that isn't enough. They need to streamline the process so that information from field agents gets to the top brass quickly, instead of being shuffled from desk to desk.

Instead, we have to deal with the same entrenched bureaucrats. And that means continuing problems. Disgusting!

There is so much work to be done to step up our fight against the terrorists. But we have to wait for more tragedies before more steps can be taken.

That's sad, but a political fact. The American public is not ready to accept the fact that we are fighting a major war, and what it will take to win it.

I watched "Apocalypse Now" on TV the other night. It's one of the greatest war movies ever made, because it involved moral lessons (the movie was based on Joseph Conrad's "Heart of Darkness").

A major point made in the movie was that the Viet Cong were willing to commit any atrocities it needed to in order to march toward a victory. This included cutting off the arms of children after the U.S. troops had given them inoculation shots against diseases.

Meanwhile, U.S. troops were sent to Vietnam for 12 months, and for most of them, the goal was simply to stay alive for their tour and get the heck out of there.

Who had the will to win that war? You tell me.

Once again, we are fighting a determined foe. One who feels no guilt about suicide bombers killing innocent people.

And what of our side? How strong is our will?

Yes, there was an outpouring of support for the victims of 9-11, and that was super.

But it will take a whole lot more to win this war. Sacrifices will have to be made by us, in the area of civil liberties.

I know the attorneys don't like to hear that, but it's true. And until we make those sacrifices, which are just a matter of time, we will take some horrible blows to our nation.

For example, we have to look at nationalizing much of the insurance industry for the duration of the war.

Sound far-fetched? Only in that it's something we don't want to do.

It's commonly agreed that some terrorists are already in the U.S. Add to that the fact that our borders are extremely porous. So more will come.

Know what the No. 1 "crop" in Ecuador is? Illegal movement of folks to the U.S., using fake passports. And Arabs constitute a large part of that exodus into the U.S.

Will that continue after the next two or three tragedies? I doubt it. Only then will we take the safeguards necessary to halt this. And that means a loss of certain civil liberties for the duration of the war.

I'm sorry if this is a "downer" column. I just wish we had government folks who had enough brains to look long-range, instead of looking at politics on a day-to-day basis as is the current case.

When we think of our government officials, we like to think they have intelligence.

Alas, some do, some don't. It would scare the bejesus out of you if you really knew how utterly stupid many of our government bureaucrats and leaders were.

Saluting the DAIRY INDUSTRY

JUNE IS DAIRY MONTH

by Teresa Mesman

June celebrates National Dairy Month and it is fitting that an entire month be tagged to commemorate the many facets of this thriving and growing agri-business.

In the days of yesteryear, people would hardly call milking cows a "big business." Milking the cow (or cows) twice a day was often times the most begrudgingly done chore on the family farm. Milking cows often evokes vivid memories of cold mornings, spilled milk buckets and sore hands and knees from when "Bessie" would kick.

Milk cows were a necessity and rarely looked at as a prime source of income. They provided milk to drink and cook with and cream to churn for butter.

Through the years, however, milking cows has taken on quite a dramatic change. Automation and high technology have replaced the milk stool and bucket. Herringbone milk parlors equipped with automatic milking machines have since become the standard. Sixteen to twenty cows milked at a time have become the minimum numbers, while 32 or 48 cows at a time have become the standard. The milking barns of today are gleaming examples of concrete, stainless steel and hydraulic engineering.

Marketing milk and other dairy products has also become a science of sorts. Milk cooperatives aggressively seek processing opportunities and selling points to distribute dairy products. Milk, cheese and ice cream have become three of the most competitively marketed products in the food business. Each product has had to find its own niche in the particular markets they are sold in. Milk is no longer just "milk." It must compete as a drink, a staple in the food pyramid and as a wholesome, healthy product that is multi-marketed as whole, low-fat and skim milk. Cheese enters into these arenas as well.

And what about the people who choose to earn their living by dairy farming? Some may call them crazy for choosing the long, arduous hours that are required to operate a dairy, but most dairy farmers have willingly and earnestly chosen the profession.

The majority of American Dairy Farms are owned and operated by families that have generations of experience in the field. The dairy farms in this area are a prime example of this fact. However, there are some farms that are operated as privately and publicly owned corporations.

This region has seen a growth "boom" in the last several years that is in a word: "phenomenal." It has gone from a handful of medium-sized dairies located in the area, to a virtual dairy capitol. The largest influx of new dairies has been from California dairymen leaving the tight confines of a growing and somewhat overpopulated state to an area of vast land and opportunity to grow.

And grow they have. The standard size of most of the new dairy facilities being built in the area is of the size to milk 1200 to 2400 cows; not to mention including the space to pen and house calves and heifers. The small family farm has become a major industry in itself.

The dairy industry has had to go with the flow of change in recent years. The government has put many restrictions and requests on dairies in the areas of waste management, usage of medications and antibiotics, importing and exporting policies and participation in the commodity programs.

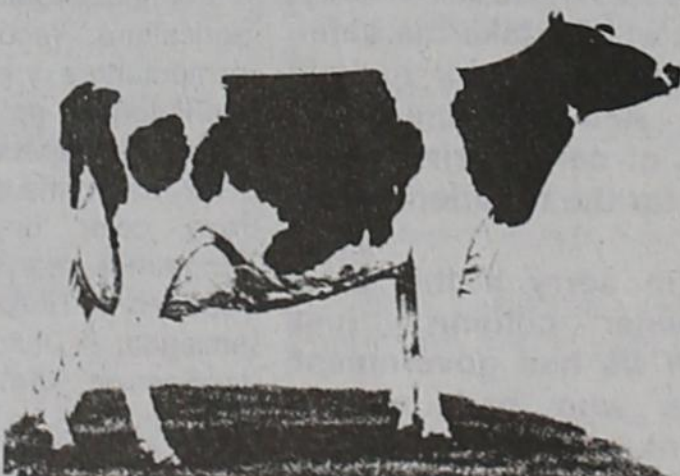

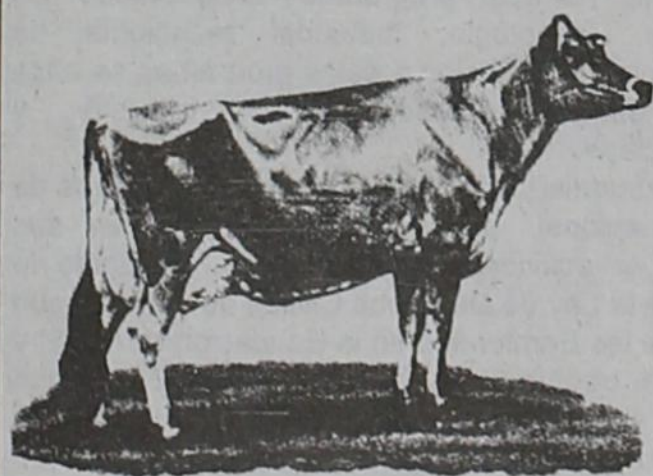

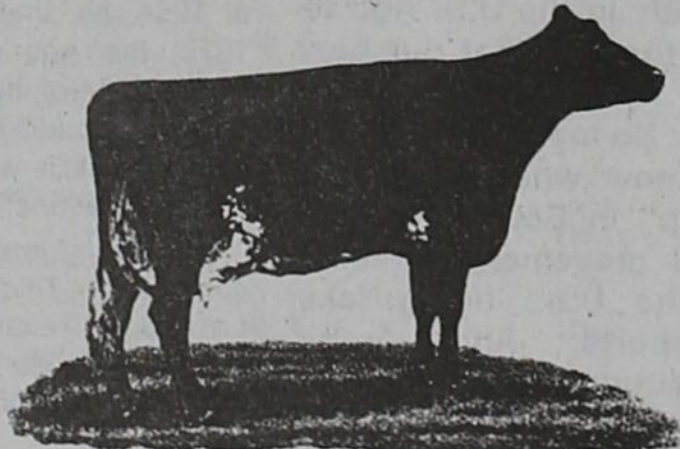

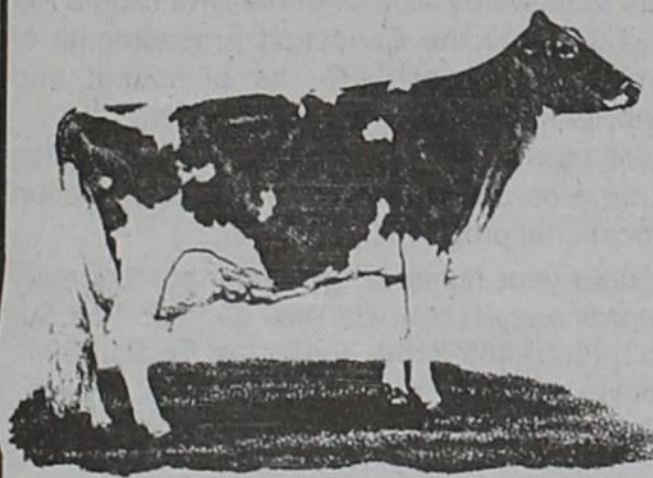

The industry was at one time more competitive among the milk cooperatives than it is at the present. The cooperatives have had to band and work together in order to have fair and profitable marketing of dairy products and government cooperation. The formation of the National Milk Producers Federation has been a huge step in the advancement of milk regulating and marketing. Individual coop's have also stepped up their efforts to deal with the federal and state governments on an individual basis.

Many area businesses have been given new opportunities and growth due to the dairy industry. Sales of feed products, heavy-duty trucks and feed wagons, and much more have been at an all time high. The area dairymen have found solid, friendly foundations in the area businesses that support the dairy industry.

The area dairies work hard at their industry and are proud of their accomplishments. A typical day for many is up at sunrise and down at "some time after everything is done" - that's if no calves have to be pulled or milk pumps go out! The rewards are not just financial in this industry.

It is a fitting time to salute this industry and the hard-working people that keep it going. In a day and age of getting something for nothing, it is refreshing to commend such a fine group of farmers and businesses for proving that hard work and determination can pay off and be rewarding to all those involved.
