

FROM THE HOPPER

BY HOP JR.

For some reason I have long been on the mailing list of the University of Michigan department of Journalism. Among other things, I regularly receive The Michigan Journalist, a laboratory publication of the department, which reminds me of the Christian Science Monitor in typographic appearance.

However, its contents seldom resemble anything else that comes in MY mail, as the Journalist, in my estimation, is a good example of what some of us die-hard conservatives mean when we say socialist, leftist, even Marxist philosophies abound on our major college campuses.

Imagine my surprise, then, when I read the headline on the lead story of the current issue; "Residents Reject $188,252 U. S. Grant". You could have knocked me over with a feather. This story had to do with a nearby township called Ypsilanti, which had been singled out by the government as a "pocket of poverty."

A fellow named Gordon Mattson dressed up as Paul Revere and rode a horse through the community, shouting (in effect) to prepare to fight -- the government was coming. All of this stunned the university writing brass, no doubt, but they stuck to their guns and reported it. This news even took precedence over a report on homosexuality (under a 3-column heading, here is a sampling from that story: "A modern democratic country should have considerable leeway for individual idiosyncrasies -- as long as they're harmless.")

While "Paul Revere" grabbed the headlines for a few days, my prediction is that his influence will not last too long. After all, he probably has a job to hold down and kids to raise. Meanwhile, the government interventionists will continue their unceasing efforts to solve everybody's problems with Uncle Sam's money.

"How is your wife?" the man asked a friend he hadn't seen for years.

"She's in Heaven," replied the friend.

"Oh, I'm sorry," he said, but then realized that was not the thing to say, so he added, "I mean, I'm glad."

And that was even worse. He finally came out with, "Well, I'm surprised."

If I were a public relations consultant for the United States Brewers Association, I would spend all my time trying to get beer drinkers to stop throwing their bottles and cans on other people's property -- including the public's.

As a group, I think the beer consuming public is the most thoughtless, most flagrant violator of ordinary good manners and conduct in the country. The guy who flips an empty beer container out the window as his car rolls along in that instant does more to damage his image than all the sermons every preached on Demon Rum.

There is no more revolting sight than a pile of beer cans or bottles thoughtlessly dumped along the road. What's more I'll bet a jury would be pretty sympathetic with a homeowner who took out after some dumpers with a shotgun and homicide was the unhappy result of his wrath. Having a beer bottle smashed on your sidewalk is about as infuriating as having four-letter words painted on your fences.

Walter Harrison writes to thank us for the story in last week's Tribune on the purchase of Kemp Lumber Company by the Joe Crumes. He points out, though, that he spent 51 1/2 years with Kemp -- not 5 1/2 as we reported.

Word has been received in Farwell of the death of Mrs. J. P. Phillips, 95, mother of Mrs. E. A. Berry and grandmother of Mrs. Ray Campbell. Mrs. Phillips passed away in Roswell on Monday a week ago. Services were held in Roswell.

ALL THESE AND PRIZES TOO -- Troy Christian and Don Gerles, local Jaycees, display only a few of the 7,000 candy Easter eggs which Texico-Farwell small fry will be hunting on Saturday at the gigantic Easter egg hunt, sponsored by Jaycees. The candy eggs will be hid along with prize eggs contributed by local merchants and 20 dozen boiled eggs contributed by Jaycee members, in the 40 acre plot east of Radio Station KZOL, for small fry to hunt.

CHIEF PROUD EAGLE TO VISIT--

Gigantic Easter Egg Hunt Saturday

For the second consecutive year the local Jaycee organization will be sponsoring a gigantic Easter egg hunt and Chief Proud Eagle of KFDA-TV fame will be here to visit with the area small fry.

The hunt will be held Saturday morning at 10 a.m. in the 40 acre plot east of the AA Bowl and Radio Station KZOL. Two hunts will be held simultaneously -- one for the pre-school set and another for the six to 12 year old group. The hunt was held in the city park last year -- however, the area was not large enough to accommodate the crowd and with Proud Eagle's visit Jaycees decided on the larger area.

Some 7,000 candy Easter eggs will be hid along with prize eggs contributed by some 35 local merchants and 20 dozen boiled eggs for the small fry hunt. Finders of the prize eggs must take the egg to the business whose name it bears to collect the prize. No prizes will be given to the children finding the largest number of eggs.

Chief Proud Eagle will arrive in the Twin Cities early Saturday morning and will visit with the small fry prior to the egg hunt and possibly in the downtown area following the hunt. He will bring music for entertainment.

Local businesses contributed prize eggs include Radio Station KZOL, The State Line Tribune, Bradshaw Real Estate, Oklahoma Lane Farm Supply, City

Cleaners, Capitol Food, Holiday Store, Red's 66 Service Station, Farwell Equipment, Rose Drug, AA Bowl, Cathy's Restaurant, Piggly Wiggly, Dial's Variety Store, Clara's Spur Restaurant, and Shuman-Hasehoff Insurance Agency. Also Campbell Electric, Gladys' Ready to Wear, Bradley's Beauty Shop, Humble Oil Co., Aldridge Insurance, Golden West Seed, Helton Oil Co, Shirley - Anderson - Pitman Grain, Three D Drive In, Gifford - Hill Western, Worley Grain, Karl's Auto Clinic, Kelly Green Seed, Farwell Fertilizer, Hughes Auto Parts, Tom Paul's Beauty Salon, Billington Barber and Beauty Shop, Mill and Mary's Truck Stop and George's Barber Shop.

All Jaycees are asked to meet at the hunt site at 8 a.m. Saturday to hide the eggs and assist with the hunt at 10 a.m., says Troy Christian, chairman of the egg hunt committee.

In the individual events, Larry Donaldson placed first in the 100 yd. dash, and second in the 440. Bobby Fields was fourth in the 220 and Cal Wilkinson was sixth in the 100. Larry Lee took seventh in the 100.

Budget Approved By Texico School Board

At the recent meeting of the Texico School board, members approved the budget for the coming school year, subject to changes or alterations by the Chief of Public School Finance Division. The budget hearing will be in Clovis on May 4.

In other business resignations were accepted from two teachers, Billy Bratton-mathematics instructor and Gerald Tiffin, band director. Neither of the young men have announced their plans.

Clean-up campaign begins at home for Jerry Bradshaw, general chairman of the drive, as he grabbed a hoe on the first day of the campaign to cut the unsightly weeds at his place of business. The Twin Cities Council, sponsors of the campaign urge all businesses and town residents to contribute to success of the campaign by cleaning up all of their property. Five prizes will be given to persons contributing the most to the success of the campaign.

Clean-Up Campaign Begins In Twin Cities

A general clean-up, paint-up campaign is underway in Texico-Farwell under sponsorship of the Twin Cities Council. Jerry Bradshaw of the Jaycee organization is general chairman of the drive. He is being assisted by Mrs. Wesley Engram-Texico Woman's Club and Mrs. Hattie Boling-Farwell Study Club, with details of the campaign.

During the campaign business men and towns residents are asked to clear all rubbish and other debris from any vacant lots near them and from their own property. In addition they are asked to mow unsightly weeds and grass from such areas.

Residents are asked to paint property which is in need of such treatment in general to give their property a face lifting.

Prizes will be given in the amounts of $25, $15, $10 and $5.00 to the persons who have done the most in the opinion of judges to beautify their property by clearing vacant lots, vacant buildings, and in general beautifying their homes and the surrounding area.

The Jaycee organization is also contributing a $25 prize to the high school student who has a before and after photo of a project in which he has assisted (which is judged as the most improved area).

Further details of the campaign will be announced later. It gets underway today (Thursday) April 15 and will continue through May 15.

For any further details of the campaign residents are asked to contact one of the committee members.

Twin Cities Festival Set For May 7

The Twin Cities Festival will be staged in Texico-Farwell on May 7, complete with a beauty contest, tractor driving contest and a box supper.

The Festival is an outgrowth of the box supper which was held in the Twin Cities last summer for the first time -- and which proved to be such a great success financially and in generating a neighborly feeling among the people of the two communities. All money made from the Festival will be used by the Twin Cities Council to defray the indebtedness on the Little League Ball Park and to finance future projects. Plans are underway to make the festival an annual affair.

charged all contestants in the tractor driving contest, which will have two divisions. In addition to the entry fee each contestant must have the written consent of his parents to enter. The Farm Bureau and Rotary Club will set up rules and regulations for the drive with John Spearman heading the committee.

As in the beauty contest entries may be made until May 1. Winners in both divisions of the tractor driving event will receive trophies.

In addition to the contests and the box supper merchants will be assisting in the success of the occasion by giving away tickets on several prizes, including a portable TV set, a tandem bicycle, a single bicycle, a hair dryer and a baseball glove. The articles will be given away at the box supper. First of the articles will be given away at 7 p. m. on May 7, with the auctioning of boxes to follow. Additional prizes will be presented during the evening and the Beauty Queen will be crowned as a final highlight.

Further details will be given in later editions of the Tribune. Committees to be in charge of publicity, entertainment and other phases of the Festival were appointed at the Tuesday meeting of the Council.

Honesty Is The Best Policy

Young Kelly Norrod, 10, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Norrod is not only one of the happiest youngsters in Farwell this week, but also the most surprised. He was presented with a check for $20, as reward for the return of a watch early last week. The watch was lost at the Bovina-Sundown bi-district football game on Thanksgiving Day.

The watch was lost by Mrs. Mike Montgomery, while she and her husband Dr. Mike Montgomery, were attending the game as guests of Mr. and Mrs. G. D. Anderson Jr., of Bovina. At time the watch was lost a reward was offered for its return, by the finder.

However, when young Norrod found the watch on March 15, many months after it had been lost, he had not heard of the reward offered and did not even know the story of the lost watch. School was out for TSTA Convention when Kelly found the watch, but realizing that "Honesty is the Best Policy", on the following Monday morning he took the watch to Principal Jack Williams and told how he had found it while playing around the football field the previous Friday.

Williams immediately recognized the watch as the one lost by Mrs. Montgomery and returned it to the owner, who had long ago given up hope that the watch would be found. Value of the watch is not known -- however, it was valued highly by the owner since it had been a birthday gift from her husband.

Although Young Norrod had always known that "Honesty is the best Policy" he is doubly sure that it always pays off after receiving the handsome reward this week.

HONESTY IS BEST POLICY -- Kelly Norrod, 10, looks with awe at the check for $20, which had just been presented to him by Principal Jack Williams, on behalf of Dr. Mike Montgomery, Wolfin-Georgia Center, Amarillo dentist, for the return of a watch lost by his wife at the bi-district Turkey Day game between Bovina and Sundown at the Farwell football field. Kelly is a fourth grade student in Farwell, and the presentation was made at a special assembly of fourth and fifth grade students on Tuesday.

Entered as second class matter at Farwell, Texas, under the act of March 3rd, 1879. Published every Thursday.

Easter Sunrise Service

The Easter Sunrise Service will start at 5:30 a.m. on Easter in the Pioneer Amphitheatre in the Palo Duro Canyon State Park.

Since the service this year is to consist of scenes from the Bible leading up to the events of Easter, the earlier hour has been chosen to allow the opening in the stark shadows and new vistas which artificial light brings out in the canyon. Starting in darkness, the story will unfold as dawn breaks.

Following a custom started more than ten years ago, the members of the Canyon Christian Youth Council are presenting this service. They are being assisted by Mr. Bill Rhew and Joe Batson who are preparing the tapes which control the light and the music and are working under the supervision of Mrs. William A. Moore.

John Brantley is the president of the council this year. The advisor is Jack Boyette of the Calvary Baptist Church. The script for the service was compiled from Biblical quotations by Lillian and Lou Ann Cowart.

It made the highest yield among all hybrids tested by Texas A & M last year. ● Hybrid 846, an earlier variety, proved itself at the 3 High Plains dryland or limited irrigation test locations (Cone, Plainview, and Bushland). Comparing average yields of hybrids entered at those three sites, 846 ranks second -- only 66 pounds short of first place.

From The Bible

Now therefore, our God, we thank thee.--(1 Chron. 29.13).

If we can gather the courage to say "Thank You, God, for everything!" when we experience a trial or tribulation --and mean it--then we shall have taken the first step toward overcoming the difficulty. Every challenge is an opportunity to prove our faith in God and His goodness.

Accent On Health

You can't sleep! You have lots of company.

There are millions of "insomniacs" in America. Even though they are tired and weary, they toss and turn for hours - or wake up four or five times during the night. And they face the early morning with all the pep and enthusiasm of a wet dish cloth.

Almost every one has a pet remedy for sleeplessness. If you have one that works - use it.

Charles Dickens could sleep only in a bed that faced north. A physician once said he found counting sheep did no good, but he had success starting at 1,000 and counting backward.

If you are one of those who find themselves staring dejectedly at the ceiling at three in the morning, maybe some of these suggestions will help. Make yourself as comfortable

Elementary Band Rated I At Music Festival

The Farwell Elementary band (5th and 6th grades) received ratings of I (superior) in sight reading and concert work at the Muleshoe Music Festival on Saturday.

Several of the students received ratings of I (superior) in solo work with others receiving ratings of II (excellent) and III (good).

Rated I were Johnny Hughes-trombone; Johnny Franse-clarinet; James Hobbs - bass clarinet. Ratings of II went to: Jean Kirk - clarinet; Trummie Christian-clarinet; Anna Herrington-clarinet-Will Anderson-cornet; Buddy Foster-cornet; Randy Gregory-trombone; and Penny Phillips-flute.

Rated III were Bobby Hart-baritone; Gwen Rundell-flute and Jay Herrington-cornet.

The 5th and 6th grade bands were combined last year, according to band director Tommy Mayfield, when they received ratings of II in concert and III in sight reading at the Canyon contest.

"In general they are a more solid group and have better and more individual good players than last year," he commented. He continued "more interest is being shown with many students practicing after school."

Judges at the Muleshoe Festival were Jim Williams-Lamesa; Jim Sudderth-Lubbock and Barbara Lovett (SR) Ropesville.

The high school band was in Amarillo on April 7 where they participated in the Caprock Music Festival in sight reading and concert work contests. They received a III rating in concert work and a II in sight reading.

At the same time the 5th and 6th grade band was in Amarillo for the Festival with the fifth grade receiving ratings of II in both events and the sixth grade band receiving a II in concert work and a I in sight reading.

Judges at the Amarillo (Caprock Festival) were Norvell Howell, Clovis; Douglas Wiele, Big Spring; and Joe Haddon-Midwestern.

The high school band is playing harder music than it has in the past, according to Mayfield - adding that judges commented "The Farwell Band is improving - good woodwind sounds and nice styles".

The sight reading rating was higher than last year.

HEALTH AND SAFETY TIPS FROM THE AMERICAN MEDICAL ASSOCIATION

Any medicine can be abused. Many medicines if misused or grossly overused can cause serious problems.

Abuse of medicine is behind the nationwide problem of goof balls and pep pills.

Goof balls are known medically as barbiturates. Pep pills are called amphetamines. These are non-narcotic drugs which serve important purposes in medical treatment. It's their abuse that has caused a serious public problem.

Amphetamines are abused by those who want to stay awake longer than the body can stand, and by youngsters looking for a lift or kick. The normal feelings of exhaustion and drowsiness are masked.

Barbiturates produce an effect of drowsiness and drunkenness, and often a quarrelsome, hostile disposition.

Both types of drugs can be obtained legally only on a doctor's prescription. Most persons who misuse them get their supply through illicit channels.

The amphetamines are taken by millions of people under physicians' supervision with no improper effects. They are often a part of a weight-control program. One of the astronauts took an amphetamine tablet during his orbit around the earth, on order radioed by a doctor.

The barbiturates are depressants, used medically in sleeping pills and to relieve nervous tension and other health problems. There is little risk in either family of drugs in proper amounts under doctor's orders.

The American Medical Association this year testified before a congressional committee in support of legislation that would tighten federal controls over manufacture and distribution of barbiturates and amphetamines.

At the same time the AMA pointed out that legislation alone may not be the answer. Much misuse is founded on lack of understanding of the serious consequences which may result from abuse of these drugs. The medical organization recommended a widespread program of education among the youth of this nation.

Goof balls and pep pills are valuable tools in the doctor's armamentarium to deal with a variety of physical ills. Under doctor's orders, there need be no hesitation in using these medications as prescribed. Used improperly, or abused, these medications can cause very serious health problems, sometimes even death.

STILL HUNTING -- Sam Sudderth, former Bovina resident and avid sportsman, who now lives at Dumas is shown with one of the biggest mountain lions in New Mexico which he killed recently. The animal was killed in the mountainous country southwest of Raton, N. M. Hunters and ranchers in the area had been tracking the cat for two days when Sudderth joined the hunt. ## Highlights and Sidelights From Your State Capital

AUSTIN -- Biggest job of the 59th Legislature -- writing the $3,600,000,000 biennial budget for state government -- was being quietly wrapped up in conference committee this week.

Conferees were playing a game of "beat-the-clock" to wind up before Easter holidays. If they fail to make it, such important issues as teachers' pay raises and balancing tax measures would be postponed until dangerously late in the session.

Both Lt. Gov. Preston Smith and House Speaker Ben Barnes urged committee chairmen to turn on the speed.

Rep. Bill Healy of Paducah, chairman of the House group, doubted the task could be completed by April 15, previous deadline set by Barnes. But Healy said 15 solid hours of work would do the trick -- if conferees can find the time between busy floor sessions.

Completing the 59th legislative meeting by the end-of-May cutoff time may depend on whether the conferees find that 15 hours for showdown decisions on vital money matters.

REDISTRICTING NOW OR NEVER -- Sub-committee chairmen of the House redistricting committee huddled this week to compare notes on how legislative and congressional districts should be carved up under court order.

Senate already has passed two versions of a plan to increase its membership from 31 to 39 to help the work along.

Indications are that the House plans to give big counties the minimum representation allowable. This to make the painful task of reapportionment as easy as possible on rural areas which must yield representation any way you look at it.

State lawmakers are hopeful dessert at a recent meeting. Speaking of recipes, Audrey Kittrell tried one that she borrowed from Mary Dell Brown that was colorful and pretty. Audrey gave me a sample -- and it is such a pretty dessert, sort of a congealed ambrosia. No juniors are eligible for Regional events.

Other schools in addition to Farwell participating in the Literary meet were Hale Center, Kress, Springlake, Silverton, and Sudan.

CHAMPION TYPIST -- By typing a total of 56,60 net word per minute with 90.42% accuracy for a total score of 147.02 in the district Literary meet last week, Jeannie Blair a first year typing student in Farwell, won the championship. She will compete in the regional typing contest in Lubbock on April 24.

Highlights--

Congress soon will pass a bill authorizing a 15 per cent variation above and below the mathematical average population per district. Speaker Barnes, on advice of Texas congressmen, predicts U. S. Supreme Court would yield that far in its one-man-one-vote edict.

YOUTH CORPS PROJECT APPROVED -- First federal grant for a Neighborhood Youth Corps project in Texas has approval.

Governor Connally announced clearance of all state preliminaries to grant of $135,570 from U. S. Labor Department for Corpus Christi Independent School District. Program will enable 675 youths from low-income families to stay in school. They will be employed on part-time basis at $1.00 an hour -- or 83 cents, considering required hours of counseling and vocational guidance.

Wage is an exception from regulation requiring federal minimum wage to be paid on corps projects. Such exceptions, Connally noted, can be made on presentation of "convincing evidence."

COLLEGE LOANS APPROVED -- State-financed college loan plan has final legislative authorization for submission to Texas voters.

If statewide election carries, an $85,000,000 bond program will be established, enabling students from junior college to graduate and medical school level to borrow needed funds to complete their higher education.

Rep. George Hinson of Mineola, author of the proposed constitutional amendment, estimates up to $32,000,000 will be borrowed in next two years.

MENTAL FACILITIES REVAMPED -- A bill calling for massive reshuffling of all state facilities and programs for mental health and retardation has been signed into law.

Legislation brings services under new Texas Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation. It anticipates gradual shift in next decade from institutional care in state mental hospitals and special schools to "community care" in or near homes of patients.

Governor already has signed bill to place tuberculosis control and eradication facilities in State Health Department. These two bills in effect abolish the present Board for Texas State Hospitals and Special Schools which had administered mental hospitals, special schools and hospitals.

WACO A&M UNIT ASKED -- Governor Connally called on the Legislature to authorize establishment of a vocational-technical training institute at Waco's Connally Air Force Base, to be administered by Texas A&M University. Base is scheduled for deactivation in 1966.

Bills to carry out Connally's request promptly were introduced by Rep. David Haines of Bryan and Sens. Murray Watson of Mart and Bill Moore of Bryan.

Governor asked appropriation of $1,100,000 to prepare base for first classes in September, 1966.

APPOINTMENTS ANNOUNCED -- Carlos Cadena, a law professor and former city attorney of San Antonio, was named associate justice of the South Texas 4th Court of Civil Appeals by Governor Connally.

Governor named Jimmie L. Mormon of Mesquite and reappointed pointed Walter E. Wilkins of Corpus Christi as trustees of Texas Municipal Retirement System.

Robert Pesek and James Beska of Hallettsville were reappointed to board of directors of Lavaca County Flood Control District No. 3; and Donald C. Webb of Port Arthur was picked as a member of the pilot commissioners for the Sabine Bar, Passes and Tributaries.

Dr. Everett D. Wilson of Huntsville was appointed and Dr. Paul C. Witt of Abilene was reappointed to State Board of Examiners in Basic Sciences for six-year terms.

FLOOD CLEARS WEED -- When flood gates broke at Corpus Christi, near Mathis, thousands of acre feet were lost and the lake dropped drastically. However, not everything was damaging, says a Parks and Wildlife Department biologist.

Dropped level left high and dry thousands of hyacinths, which the department had been trying to eradicate for years. A nuisance to fishermen, the plants had been almost impossible to control.

MEXICAN GOVERNOR VISITS -- Gov. Praxedes Balboa of the neighboring Mexican state of Tamaulipas (which borders on Texas from about Laredo to Brownsville) got abig reception on his visit to the capitol last week.

He and Governor Connally said they will ask federal officials to begin working on development of standard laws and regulations for Lake Falcon and the lake to be impounded by Amistad Dam upstream from Del Rio.

By having standard regulations, fishermen and sportsmen from either nation can use the facilities of the lake without worrying about violating the law when they inadvertently cross the waters of the other country.

Balboa said that, thanks to the cooperation from Texas and the U. S. government, the screwworm has been virtually eradicated in his state. He said the pest has been done away with in a zone 90 miles from the border, is being finished in the next 90 miles and the work is progressing satisfactorily in a third 90-mile zone.

"65" INSURANCE REOPENED -- Governor Connally has declared April as Texas 65 Month in recognition of the third open enrollment period of Texas 65 Health Insurance Association, schedule for April 15-30.

During these two weeks, all Texans 65 years old and over again are eligible to enroll in the health insurance program, regardless of age or health condition.

Accent On Health

Use a comfortable mattress, not too hard or too soft; good bedsprings that won't hop coils into your ribs and won't sag in the middle; and fluffy, light blankets rather than heavy ones.

Take a brief, relaxing walk before turning in, or do some mild exercising to help tire you enough to relax.

Again, there are all sorts of theories. Some people say coffee keeps them awake. Some prefer warm milk or a light snack. Many people read themselves to sleep, using everything from comic books and mystery magazines to rhythmic poetry.

If you do encounter a sleepless night now and then, don't fight it. Just lie there and relax. The rest will do you good.

Chances are, you will rest well, and get enough sleep when you do drop off. Worrying about not sleeping will only make you more wide awake than ever.

If insomnia becomes a real health problem, see your doctor. He may be able to help you find relief.

COTTON PLANTING
The cold norther last Monday morning should serve to remind us that we can still have these cold spells. For cotton producers this means to not get in too big of a hurry to get those seed in the ground.

This is especially true where seedling disease has been a problem before.

By following the practices listed below, cotton growers can decrease their seedling disease problem this spring:

1. Plant only high quality seed when soil temperatures are above 60 degrees F. for three days at planting depth. Low quality seed should not be planted until soil temperatures are above 68 degrees F.

2. Avoid using more than 30 pounds of seed per acre to further reduce seedling disease. We noticed some fields of Verticillium wilt last summer and these fields should have plants spaced uniformly 4 to 6 per foot of row. Seed should be treated with a recommended seed protectant.

3. Properly mix fungicide spray or dust in the covering soil at planting time. We are going to have some demonstrations with new fungicide materials this year so be on the look out for them.

SCREW WORM ERADICATION FUNDS

Joe Jones, treasurer of the County Screwworm Eradication Committee, reported that as of Monday he still needed $230. from local livestock producers for the screwworm eradication fund drive.

Joe said he had received $350. in donations from County producers during the two week fund drive being conducted over the State.

Jack McCracken, County Committee Chairman, points out that our part of the $300,000. state fund drive is $584. This is a mighty small investment for livestock producers when they consider what their returns have been and should continue to be.

Every farmer and rancher is being asked to contribute 10 cents per animal unit for this fund drive. An animal unit consists of 1 beef or dairy animal, 1 horse, or 5 sheep, goats or hogs.

Livestock producers can send their donations to Joe Jones, Security State Bank, Farwell, Texas.

DR. JAN BONSMA

Several cattle producers missed part or all of the cattle clinic in Hereford last month where Dr. Jan Bosma presented a very interesting program and they wanted to know where he would appear on a similar program.

The only other public meeting that he will take part in will be in Wichita Falls, April 22 from 6:00 p.m. to 10:30 p.m.

BROWN WHEAT MITE

We continue to see some Brown Wheat mites in some wheat fields.

However, this is nothing to get alarmed about because chemical control of the mite has not been practical nor economical in past experiments.

Without any rain, an irrigation is a good, practical control for the mite. The mite is round, dark brown and about the size of this newsprint period. When magnified the front pair of legs can be seen to be about twice as long as the other three pair of legs.

4-H HORSE PROGRAM

Future plans and activities for the 4-H Horse program were discussed in an adult leader meeting last Thursday in Bovina.

Saturday afternoon on May 1

THE HIGH PLAINS FARM AND HOME

was set as a dry-run practice session in preparation for the County Show at Bovina Roping arena.

The County 4-H Horse Show was set for June 12 in the Bovina Roping Arena. For this year only contestants in the County Show do not have to meet all District and State Show rules. The exception is that members will be allowed to use borrowed horses for the County Show. However, winners representing the County in district competition must meet all the rules.

The leaders also discussed the awards of 4 free breeding service donated by Jess Walling, Bovina Quarter Horse breeder. These breeding services will go to outstanding members in the county 4-H Horse Program.

The Bovina, Farwell and Friona horse groups have meetings set for Saturday afternoon, April 17 in their regular meeting locations. Persons interested in more information about the 4-H horse program should see one of the following Horse leaders who also attended the meeting Thursday:

- Bovina: C.E. Trimble, Robert Read, Wendol Christian, Farwell: Mitz Walling, Pike Jordan, Delbert Garner, Friona: Homer Linderman, M.H. Meason, Lazbuddie: Jack Templar, Jack Smith.

Sulphur Reactions in the Soil
Sulphur is normally added to a soil as either elemental sulphur or in the sulphate form. The reactions of these two sources of sulphur in the soil are somewhat different.

Elemental sulphur when added to the soil is reacted upon by sulphur-oxidizing bacteria in the soil. These sulphur bacteria use the elemental sulphur as a source of energy.

The initial step in the oxidation of sulphur is usually the longest. The first compound formed is sulphur dioxide which is subsequently oxidized to the sulphate of SO4 form. The speed of oxidation of sulphur will depend on the fineness of the grind of sulphur, the presence of the bacteria and the amount of moisture and level of temperature. The activity of sulfolying bacteria is similar to most other bacteria in that their activity will increase with increasing temperature and with adequate moisture.

When the elemental sulphur has been oxidized to the sulphate form it then reacts with calcium in the soil to form a calcium sulphate similar to the reactions of other active sulphate forms which are applied.

When active sulphate forms are applied, the sulphate will undergo a chemical reaction to form calcium sulphate. Calcium sulphate is only very slightly water soluble, hence, the sulphate form will take active calcium and precipitate it as calcium sulphate thus making it less active in the soil. The sulphate form will usually take this course of reaction with the exception of the sulphate form added as a calcium sulphate.

Success is never blamed,
-Thomas Fuller

Recreation Workshop Set For April 26-27

A workshop for Recreation Leaders, will be held at the Hub Community Center, April 26-27, 9:30 a.m. until 3:30 p.m., according to announcement from Mrs. Cricket B. Taylor Parmer County HD Agent.

Special seasonings for familiar foods know no season, reminds Mrs. Gwen Clyatt, Texas A&M Extension consumer marketing specialist.

These seasonings can provide year-round enjoyment. For example, when frying chicken, sprinkle the coated chicken pieces with chopped chives or onion and a little thyme and rubbed sage. Then cook as you always do.

If you are preparing pork chops for dinner, after browning sprinkle the chops with curry powder, or, if you are not a curry fan, sprinkle the browned chops with dill seed. Then add a little water, cover and cook until fork-tender.

The workshop will be conducted by Miss Lucille Moore, Recreation Specialist of A&M Extension Service.

The training will consist of new materials, how to develop leadership, and how to lead games. Adult 4-H Leaders from Home Demonstration Clubs and 4-H Clubs will attend this workshop and will be responsible to carry information and training back to their individual clubs.

FFA members from each of the county schools display the trophies won at the SCS District Land Judging meet held in Friona last week. Farwell was winner of the event with 510 points followed by Lazbuddie with 479; Bovina with 426 and Friona with 376, in that order. Highest possible score was 720. Left to right: Dennis Fallwell, Friona; Bovina boy (not identified); Danny Miller, Lazbuddie and Greg Martin, Farwell.

Gardening Is Fun, But Guard Your Health

Home gardeners by the hundreds and thousands emerge with the coming of warm spring weather to spade beds, plant seed, spread fertilizer, mow grass--and the other countless minor tasks attendant to keeping the lawn neat and attractive.

And gardening is excellent therapy for both mind and body. For those who enjoy digging in the dirt, gardening offers good exercise, fresh air and sunshine after a winter of being cooped up indoors.

Remember, though, to follow a few safety pointers and precautions and your gardening will be a healthier experience.

First, don't let your enthusiasm carry you away your first time out. Take it easy, at least for the first few sessions. Don't try to work a 10-hour day at hard manual labor on the first warm weekend. Take frequent rest breaks and work at a pace that isn't too tiring. As the season advances, your muscles will limber up and toughen, and you will be able to do more with less discomfort.

are the fate of most gardeners. Usually they aren't serious. Clean minor cuts with warm water and soap and cover with a light bandage.

Tetanus lurks in the soil. If your immunizations are not up-to-date, see your doctor about a booster shot of tetanus toxoid at the beginning of the gardening season.

Stop and think about safety - before handling garden tools, especially power equipment such as lawn mowers. Always turn off the mower when you leave it, even if it is only for a few seconds. Always turn off the mower, saw or whatever when you add gasoline to the tank.

Never use electric equipment in wet or damp grass. And always read the safety instructions that usually accompany power tools.

Pesticides can be a gardener's best friend if he uses them wisely, but careless use and storage of pesticides can cause serious accidents. Always read the instructions on the package carefully and obey their safety warnings. Pesticides are safe, if properly used and kept away from children.

Don't let carelessness rob you of the enjoyment gardening can bring you this spring.

CAROLYN HERINGTON -- Top winner in District Favorite Food Contest in Canyon last Saturday. Carolyn won over some 16 participants in the Junior division of the Bread and Cereal group with her exhibit of Muffins. Carolyn is in her second year of 4-H work and is a member of the Farwell 4-H Club. Her leader was her mother, Mrs. L. C. Herington who worked with a group of seven girls in Food and Nutrition projects this year.

Other blue ribbon winners in the Junior Division were Niel Christian and Brag Jordan. They won with their Beef judging demonstration and Ernestine Templar won a blue ribbon in the Contest on Quarter Horse judging. The three were first year 4-H members. It is really an achievement when youngsters can give a demonstration and compete for honors and come out first place winners in a district representing 22 counties. Although these Junior boys and girls do not participate beyond the District the experience in competition and the educational value received from the experiences are valuable to boys and girls at this age.

A total of 18 members of 4-H Clubs in Parmer County were represented in the District Contests Saturday. It is hoped that leaders and parents can see the value of this phase of 4-H work and will give more help and encouragement to this phase of our program.

Leaders and parents working with those in the contests are to be recommended for their effort in the training of youth.

buddie is the leader for a 4-H Home Improvement project in the Lazbuddie Community. She met with seven girls last week in her home, and they discussed the lesson guides and what each girl would like to do according to needs, in addition to those things in the planned outlines. Of course parents must be interested in helping girls carry out plans or else the results will be disappointing. Some of the benefits from this project can be a creative outlet, and inspire a desire for achievement and accomplishment.

Girls who are enrolled in the Home Improvement project were: Marilyn Fred, Ann Blackstone, Delayne Steinbock, Patience and Maxine Broyles, Cathy Coker, and Charlotte Davis.

POTATOES - BAKERS OR BOILERS

Have you often wondered if your potatoes were the baking or boiling kind?

A good baked potato is one that is mealy and flaky and keeps its shape. Researchers have given us some guide lines for separating the baker from the boilers. A container of salted water (about 1 cup salt to 11 cups of water) is needed for the test. Dump potatoes in the solution--if the potato floats, it has a low solid content and is best for boiling. If it sinks, it's a baker. . . . Its simple, we can use the sink or swim test to determine the use of each potato.

Guard Food Quality With Proper Care

The quality of food home-makers serve can be no better than the quality of food they buy -- but it can be a lot worse.

Proper handling and storage of foods is important, says Mrs. Gwen Clyatt, Texas A&M University Extension specialist in consumer marketing.

Potatoes need careful storage, and they keep best in a cool, dry, dark, well-ventilated place. If put in a warm place, potatoes shrivel and sprout. In a cold place, the starch in potatoes changes to sugar.

Citrus fruits, melons and pineapples actually have better keeping quality when kept out of the refrigerator, at a room temperature of 60 to 70 degrees Fahrenheit.

It's advisable to refrigerate eggs in the original container or some other covered container because uncovered eggs lose moisture through their porous shells.

Salad dressings should be kept in the refrigerator unless they're used within a few days. Even jellies, jams and peanut butter -- once opened -- keep best in the refrigerator.

There's little or no danger of food becoming unsafe to eat when it is kept in a refrigerator with a temperature of 42 degrees Fahrenheit or below, because food-poisoning bacteria can't grow at these temperatures.

Weevil's appetite for cotton squares can be curbed by painting squares with substance extracted from calyx of rose of Sharon, a landscaping shrub related to cottons. USDA scientists say substance reduced boll weevil feeding significantly for more than 20 hours. Although substance has not been chemically identified, it is water-soluble and easily obtained by soaking rose of Sharon calyxes in water. In future investigations, scientists hope to develop ways of using feeding deterrent to control boll weevils.

Geographic center of Texas is 15 miles northeast of Brady, in McCulloch County.

Reports Success With Flame Cultivation

"Take everything away but my flame cultivator and I'll still make money!"

J. S. Hale, Jr., a farmer from south of Floydada, has been using flame as an economical weed control method since 1962. In tribute to the effectiveness of the use of flame cultivation, Jay told Jack Parks, flame cultivation engineer for the High Plains Research Foundation at Halfway, that if all of the farming equipment he had was his knife planter and his flame cultivator, he would still make money.

Hale has been using flame cultivation on his Floyd County farm since 1962 with the objective in mind of total weed control. Working closely with Hale has been his local L.P.G. dealer from Floydada. These two have put into practice on the Hale farm the research developed by the Foundation and have cut the weed control cost.

One of the original supporters of the flame cultivation research program at the Foundation, Hale says of flaming, "I just cannot understand why other farmers will not use flame cultivation. I am in this farming business to make money and flaming does it -- it works!"

Jay's wife, Kay Hale, is a trained bookkeeper and keeps full records on all of the expenditures of the farm. When Hale speaks of the saving he has received as a result of the use of heat, he gets down his record books for each year and looks it up. This is not guesswork farming, but a well-planned business.

From his records, Hale told Parks that in 1960 he spent over $10.00 per acre to hand-hoe his cotton. In 1961, his cost was in excess of $18.00 per acre, and in 1962, the cost of hand-hoeing his cotton was $10.20 per acre. Compare this to his 1964 cost of 76¢ per acre by using flame cultivation. This cost included operator's time, fuel cost, cost of repair to the equipment and depreciation.

The 1962 weed control cost in grain sorghum was $8.00 per acre and Hale said that he still has not recovered from the shock of this high cost. His flaming cost in 1964 was $1.28 per acre for his first flaming and $1.02 for the second. This cost includes fuel and operator only.

Hand hoeing in onions in 1961 cost $28.55 per acre to control the weeds. In 1964, his flame cost for weed control in the onions was $1.36 per acre. This is the cost of fuel only. This same year his hand-hoe bill was only $2.01 per acre.

Jay Hale does not limit his modern farming to flaming, but is also a strong worker in his area for water conservation and is a member of the Floyd County Water District. On his farm south of Floydada, Hale has leveled large areas that once were sloping land. Along with all of this, he has also used a 120-acre lake as a tail-water irrigation pit from which he has irrigated one field of 320 acres.

The cost of the flame cultivator is spread out on the Hale farm through using the high clearance machine for several different jobs. These include: flaming of crops, defoliating of cotton; non-selective flaming around barrow ditches; and broadcast flaming of onions.

New Regulations On "Redbed" Wells

The continued decline of the water table in the Ogallala Formation of the Southern High Plains of Texas has promoted an increased interest in exploring for and developing water from the sands in the Triassic Formations. (Normally referred to as the "Red Beds.")

Exploratory holes and/or production wells drilled into the deeper Triassic sands, when not properly constructed, create a passage from which water from the Ogallala Formation can recharge into the lower sands, resulting in even greater declines of the water table, possibly drying up the Ogallala sands in the vicinity of the well. Other problems are that the water from the Triassic Formations are sometimes under Artesian pressure and in some cases this pressure will push the water up into the Ogallala Formation. In some areas this water is high in salts, polluting the fresh waters of the Ogallala.

These pollution and conservation problems have resulted in the necessity for the Board of Directors of the High Plains Underground Water Conservation District to pass a rule to prevent and arrest this waste. The rule reads as follows: "Rule 16(A) PLUGGING TRIASSIC WELLS. Any water well or test hole drilled through the Ogallala into the underlying Triassic or Red Bed formation shall be so completed as to eliminate any movement of Ogallala water into the underlying Triassic Formation.

I. If it is proposed to produce the Triassic water, then casing must be set through the Ogallala and into the Triassic a minimum of 10 feet and cemented to the surface.

II. If it is proposed to abandon the Triassic portion of the well, then the following procedure will be observed:

1. If no casing is placed in the well below the top of the Triassic, the hole will be filled with dirt, rock, mud or similar material to a level no less than 50 feet below the base of the Ogallala, and sufficient cement added to fill the hole to the base of the Ogallala.
2. If casing has been set through the Triassic with perforations below the Ogallala, all such perforations shall be closed with cement and a cement plug at least 10 feet in height placed in the casing below the base of the Ogallala, and above the highest perforation in the Triassic.
3. If blank casing (no perforations) has been set into the Triassic, then either (a) cement shall be pumped below the shoe of such casing in sufficient volume to fill the annulus between the casing and the wall of the hole up to the base of the Ogallala, or (b) the casing shall be removed from the well and the Triassic formation plugged in accordance with pp. II (1) above."

Mr. Jones says, "When our former heating system turned on it was so noisy that I had to raise the volume on our TV set. Now, our electric heating is so quiet that we never hear it when it's on."

Mrs. Jones says, "I like the individual room control. Living areas, bedrooms, baths, all need different temperatures. This is easy with our electric baseboard. We get the temperatures we want."

Cotton Research Moves Ahead

Renewal of four research projects aimed at producing information to help growers cut production costs and improve raw fiber quality was announced today by the Cotton Producers Institute.

Announcement of grants for the projects was made by Roy Davis, Lubbock, and Jack Funk, Harlingen, Texas trustees for the Institute.

Support of research on the biochemistry of the cotton plant has been boosted from $100,000 to $130,000. Located at Texas A&M University, the project is amassing a detailed picture of how cotton grows and produces fruit.

Aim is to gather information pointing toward elimination of bottlenecks in cost reduction and quality improvement.

Researchers already have uncovered significant data. The processes whereby plants capture and hold minerals for storage in cottonseed and then release them following germination have been partially explained.

Differences in amino acid composition have been detected between bacterial blight resistant and susceptible varieties of cotton. Also, bacterial blight resistance was found to be influenced by certain minerals, and temperature has been shown to affect the plant toxicity of certain systemic insecticides.

In another project several promising methods and practices are being investigated to modify plant growth for better adaptation to locations with critical temperature problems. Results are being evaluated for usefulness in helping growers maintain high quality fiber and seed.

The Institute grant for this project totals $37,620. It is located at the Texas Experiment Station in Lubbock, Texas. Scientists at the University of Arizona are working under a $25,700 grant to determine how to get cotton plants to set more bolls at the proper time. Laboratory and field tests indicate certain acids and sugars play an important role.

A project to develop a rapid method of determining the strength of cotton fibers was renewed in a $10,000 grant to Stanford Research Institute.

An engineering model of a strength tester has been completed, and its performance now is being checked. This test is a vital step in improving cotton's competitive position.

All Institute projects are serviced by the National Cotton Council. Thus, all funds from growers participating in the Institute are used for research and promotion work.

FARM LABOR LUNACY

Some of the most influential and knowledgeable members of both houses of Congress, representing both Republicans and Democrats, individually and in hearings, have asked Secretary of Labor Willard Wirtz to permit the importation of sufficient supplemental labor for the production and harvest of our nation's food and fiber. The Secretary refuses.

It has been demonstrated to the Secretary that growers in Florida, Louisiana and California already have suffered crop losses into the millions of dollars because not enough harvest labor was to be found when needed, and that more losses are inevitable. The Secretary says there is no shortage of agricultural labor.

Our own Texas Employment Service, actually a part of the U. S. Employment Service, has advised the Secretary that there is no likelihood that sufficient irrigators and other farm workers can be found for the production of our cotton crops. The Secretary pays no heed.

The Secretary has been shown that to date tomato processors have been able to contract for only 24 per cent of last year's tomato plantings because growers and their finance agencies fear the lack of enough labor to complete the crop. The Secretary says there is no need for foreign workers.

The Secretary has been supplied with the record of six Michigan pickle grower associations utilizing 28 recruiters of their own in addition to State and Federal employment services, travelling 62,000 miles, visiting 100 cities, spending $60,000, and being able to recruit only 3,300 of 20,000 needed workers. The Secretary maintains there is an adequate supply of domestic workers ready and willing to go to work.

An attempt to explain the Secretary's stubborn stand on agricultural labor would be as futile as presenting the Secretary with further evidence, of which there is an abundance, that his stand is in direct opposition to the facts. The Secretary has the authorization to permit and power to implement the importation of supplemental labor under Public Law 414, but it is clear that he has no intention of using either. He has in effect said that regardless of crop losses to farmers, regardless of impending shortages and higher prices for perishable food products, regardless of what the representatives of the people think best for the country, sufficient workers will not be allowed to enter.

Ed Dean, Labor Relations Representative for Plains Cotton Growers and Texas Director to the National Council of Agricultural Employers, recently returned from an NCAE meeting in Washington. He reports that: "The prospects for any use of foreign labor being permitted in other than perishable crops is very, very dim, and it is the consensus of NCAE members that there will never be a stable, dependable labor supply under Public Law 414."

This feeling of NCAE members and the Secretary's record to date bear out the fact that there is but one recourse — a new law. And if it is to permit growers enough workers to produce and harvest crops, and new law obviously will have to be written in such clear and unmistakable language as to prohibit the circumvention of its purpose by the Secretary of Labor.

COTTON LEGISLATION

The failure of President Johnson to recommend a cotton program along with programs for other commodities in his farm bill April 5 could be an indication of things to come (or not to come) unless the cotton industry itself is able to make peace between divergent views and gather its forces behind a single legislative approach to cotton's difficulties.

So believes Donald A. Johnson, Executive Vice President of Plains Cotton Growers, Inc. "Otherwise," Johnson says, "the battle for cotton legislation might well be lost by default." He continues by pointing out that the major controversy of the moment is that existing between champions for two different methods of protecting producer income. There are some who would follow the traditional method of non-recourse loan at or near a level in keeping with producer income needs, taking into account costs of production, supply, demand, parity etc. Others propose a low loan level at about the world market price with direct compensatory payments to producers. Johnson admitted there were logical arguments on both sides of the question, but said: "It appears highly unlikely that producers across the cotton belt can be easily persuaded to accept a program which they have consistently opposed because of a fear of limitations."

If a new cotton bill should fall to pass Congress before the current program expires in 1966, the production and marketing of cotton would revert to the Agricultural Act of 1958, Johnson said, and explained that: "This would mean essentially the same program as was in effect in 1963 before passage of the Cooley Bill in 1964 — a national minimum allotment of 16.3 million acres, the same as now; an export subsidy but no consideration of the price domestic mills pay for cotton, and other administrative changes which might be made relative to skip-row planting and release and reapportionment." He also noted that: "In the opinion of many, a return to this kind of program at this time with the resultant loss of markets and other problems, would mean certain destruction for the cotton industry."

With respect to the current program, Johnson said that in spite of some dissatisfaction, it has restored confidence in the domestic textile industry and halted the rapid loss of cotton's markets to synthetic fibers. And, observing that textile spokesmen have stated on numerous occasions that that industry will not again shoulder the burden of two-price cotton, Johnson said: "It seems obvious that the principles of one-price cotton must be retained."

Seniority outranks ability as the basic for selecting chairmen for most of the important committees in the U. S. Congress.

Bulls May Rival Steers In Beef

Bulls are for breeding and steers are for eating, according to tradition. But animal scientists at Texas A&M University claim that tradition may once again step aside for progress in the future, due to research conducted at experiment stations across Texas and the nation in young bulls versus steers for beef production.

This research indicates that bulls may actually be superior to steers in certain areas of commercial beef production.

"Producers and feeders of beef cattle have long recognized that young bulls gain faster and more efficiently, weigh heavier, and have a higher percentage of lean to fat in the carcass at slaughter than steers of similar breeding and age," says L. D. Wythe, Jr., assistant professor of Animal Science at Texas A&M. "These facts have been established on the ranges, in commercial feedlots and in carefully-controlled feeding trials."

Despite these facts, slaughter and feeder cattle buyers discriminate in price against young bulls as compared to steers of similar breeding and age. This practice supposedly dates back to the time when cattle were sold at more mature ages and to the general idea that bull beef is naturally tough and lacks quality. The inherent disposition of bulls and their age limitation also contributes to this discrimination. "Today, the increasing demand from the housewife for more lean and less fat, the need for at least a 25 per cent increase in beef production by 1980 to feed the predicted population increase, and economic pressures which are forcing us to produce beef more efficiently, demand us to take a critical and unbiased look at young bulls for beef production," explained Wythe.

In tests comparing young bulls with young steers, the bulls as a rule made more rapid and economical gains than steers and had less fat trim and a higher proportion of edible meat.

Will it be more economical in the future to feed and fatten young bulls rather than steers? The answer at the present seems to depend primarily on the discrimination against the bulls at the markets where the animals are sold.

As an aid to the USDA's stepped-up program of research and education in fields of pest control, a pesticide center has been established in the Department's National Agricultural Library. This center, Secretary of Agriculture Freeman said, is pioneering development which marks significant advance in making widely available masses of scientific and technical information on pests and their control.

Check Dietetic Food Labels Carefully

If you are among the one-out-of-four-women or the one-out-of-five-men who are overweight, perhaps you'll want to consider some of the low-calorie foods available. It may be worth your time, however, to be informed about what these foods actually are, says Mrs. Gwen Clyatt, Texas A&M University Extension consumer marketing specialist.

Some of these foods are on the dietary food counter only because they are salt-free, and not because they are any lower in calories in the dietetic form than in the regular form. Dietetic canned vegetables and dietetic juice -- which generally cost about one cent more per serving -- are examples of salt-free foods.

It's important to read the labels on these products to know exactly what they do contain and to note their caloric value. Some show little caloric difference from their non-dietetic counterparts. Other foods, such as salad dressing and gelatin desserts, do reduce caloric values considerably.

Another consideration is to determine if the caloric reduction is significant in relation to cost. A dietetic gelatin, for example, might cost 1 1/2 to 2 1/2 cents more per serving. Homemakers can make low-calorie gelatin desserts for less by combining plain gelatin and unsweetened fruit juice.

low-calorie dietary foods are worth the extra cost," Mrs. Clyatt says.

When you have some fully cooked ham to slice and you want to serve it hot, you may want to try this method. Spread prepared mustard over the ham slices cut a fourth to three-eighths inch thick. Then sprinkle on brown sugar generously. Broil the mustard-brown sugar topped ham slices until hot and the topping bubbles.
