By John

Lately we have been reading of the everwidening attempt to lower food prices by boycotting certain grocery stores. We cannot help but be amazed, dumb-founded, and no little disappointed at this inability of the public to recognize the real fault behind our ever rising price structure of everything we buy, not just groceries.

There is only one cause of the more rapidly rise in the tide of inflation. It is simply government deficit spending. Raising Ned with your local grocer is not going to substantially reduce prices, but raising Ned at the ballot box in two weeks could substantially lower prices in the future.

We came across a very cogent defense of the grocery business by W. H. Graham in his Lovington paper.

We quote portions of his column here:

"The modern food store retailer literally has to be a genius -- or else be benignly smiled upon by Dame Fortune -- to keep his shirt in one piece these days. Of ALL the merchants (no exceptions) his markup, which is the charge he adds over his cost, is the smallest. Only volume permits him to do this. If he doesn't move the goods his fixed expenses will eat him alive.

"Food prices undoubtedly are higher than they have to be. The groceryman could offer his wares from a boxcar or a tent instead of a modern building where lighting, arrangement, air conditioning, and cleanliness make shopping a pleasure. The grocery merchant could fire his sack boys, throw out the push carts, leave the aisles unswep, slice the tops off of boxes, and just let you come through and hunt for what suits you.

"He could cancel his ads in the paper, throw out trading stamps, let the windows go unwashed, and stop giving to the 219 worthwhile causes that come around with their hand out.

"While he's at it he could skip his Chamber of Commerce dues, let his clerks come to work in their street clothes, and hire bums off the street to do the stocking.

"All these things and a hundred more could and would reduce food prices. But -- and this is the vital question -- is that what the American consumer really wants? Does the American housewife really want retailing at its lowest cost? Before she answers, she might look at Mexico, where meat is still sold unrefrigerated, out in the open, and covered with flies.

"She might visit any middle or far eastern country and see the squalor of the central marketplace. Or she might visit any modern European country, where she will find that to fill the family food basket she must go to the butcher's for the meat, the baker's for the bread, the dairy for the milk and cheese, and so on ad infinitum. Very quaint but very inefficient.

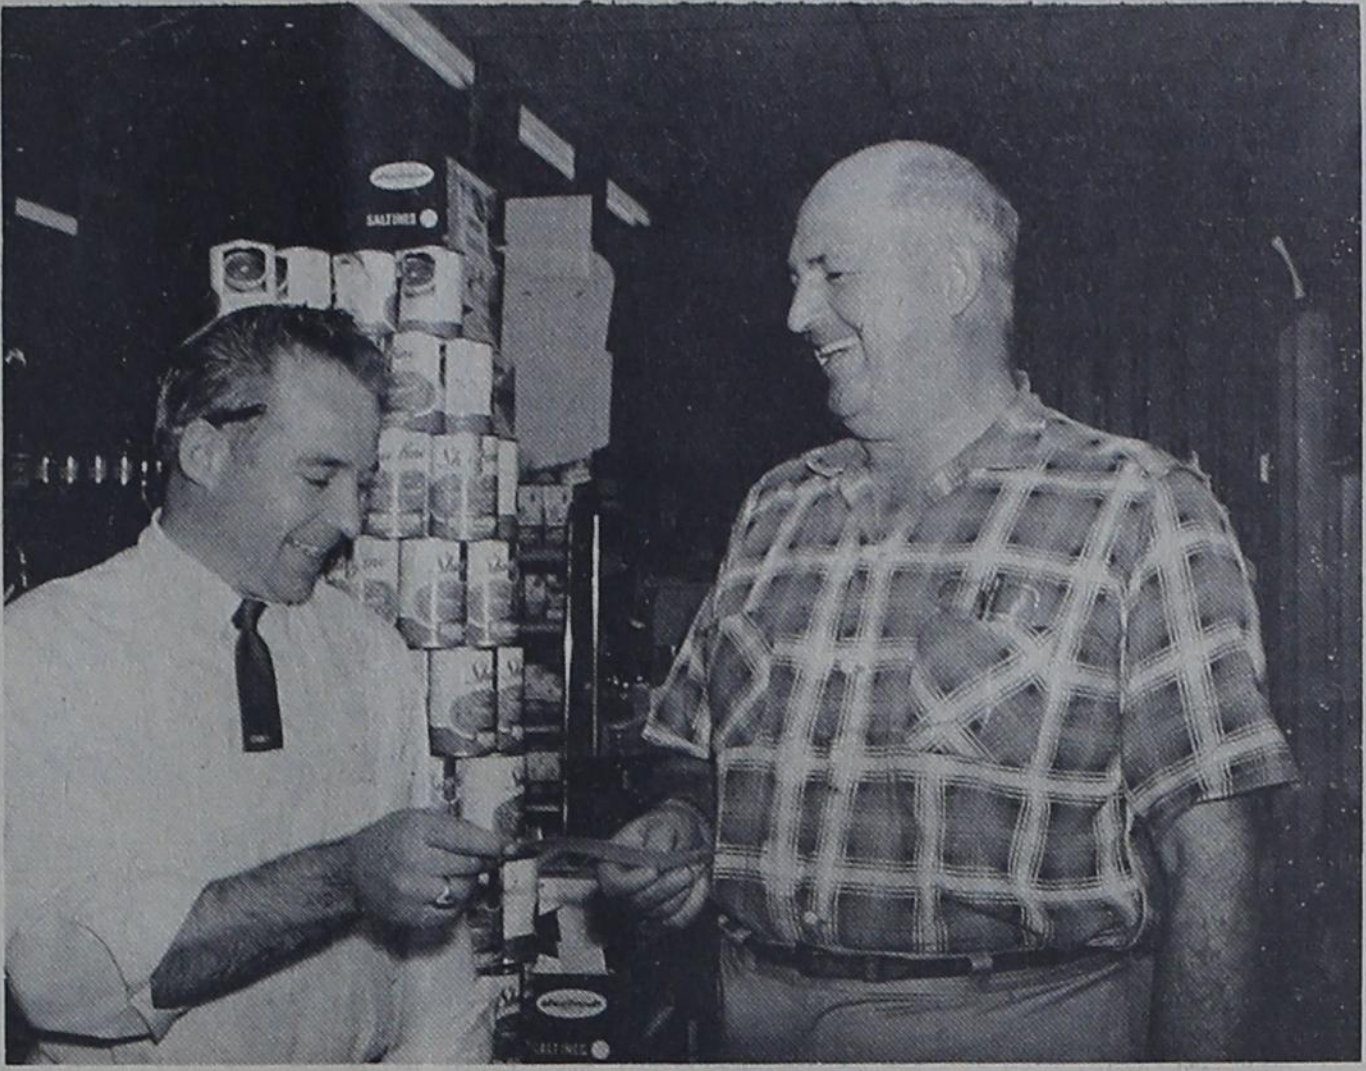

"High food prices aren't made by the profits added on at the food store. They are born the moment the food leaves the farm and starts its long road to the store shelves.

"The trucker wants more for his haul. His labor and expenses are up, you know. The processor is confronted with a thousand new tasks he never faced before. He finds the customer sends him signals he is to homogenize, pulverize, pressurize, and sanitize the products.

"They need to be sorted, cut, stacked, smoked, seasoned, and flavored. Don't forget the preservatives, artificial coloring, vitamin additives, and easy-opening containers. Housewives don't do much real cooking any more, so let's roll her dough, flavor her beans, whip her potatoes, mix her cake, and bone her ham.

"Naturally, by time all these and hundreds of other 'built-ins' are added, the value of the product -- or at least the cost of it -- has been increased many times. From there through the warehouses of the wholesaler, and on the truck to the local market, every truck driver, landlord, billing clerk and tax collector who can get a bite on the deal gets in his licks.

"Each and every one of us has contributed to higher prices by being unwilling to offer our

I FINALLY DID IT -- Ray Bauer, right, owner of Ray Bauer Auto Supply in Clovis, extends thanks to Charlie Bell, owner of Capitol Food in Farwell, and all other merchants who make the merchants football contest possible, by sponsoring it each year as he accepts a check for $5 from Bell for first place weekly award. Bauer has been trying to outcall his wife, Dorothy, since she first won the weekly contest some two years ago. "It's a lot of fun," said Bauer who picked ten winners this week.

Mrs. Kittrell Joins Norton In Lead --

Ray Bauer Calls All Games Right

Ray Bauer, a Clovis businessman and a regular in the local merchants' football contest for the past several years, called all of the games right this week to win the weekly first place in the event. Bauer failed to pick a score for the tiebreaker game, but due to the fact that no one else called the games 100 per cent, was able to garner the top prize.

Tying for second and third place in the weekly contest were three ladies, Mrs. Joe Hughes, Mrs. John McFarland and Mrs. Leroy Kitten. All of the ladies called eight games right and missed the tiebreaker score only three points. Mrs. Kitten and Mrs. McFarland are regulars in the contest (for several years) but Mrs. Hughes has only entered the past two weeks.

Eleven other persons including Gene Ezell, John Porter, Al Phillips, Mrs. Ray Ford, Robert Haseloff, Greg Hargrove, John Adams, Carliss Woods, Frances Boling, Craig Phillips, and Kyle Sheets also picked eight games right. However, they were too far off on the tiebreaker score to break into the winners column.

Most contestants had no trouble picking the winners in the high school tilts listed last week however, the college and pro games were a different matter.

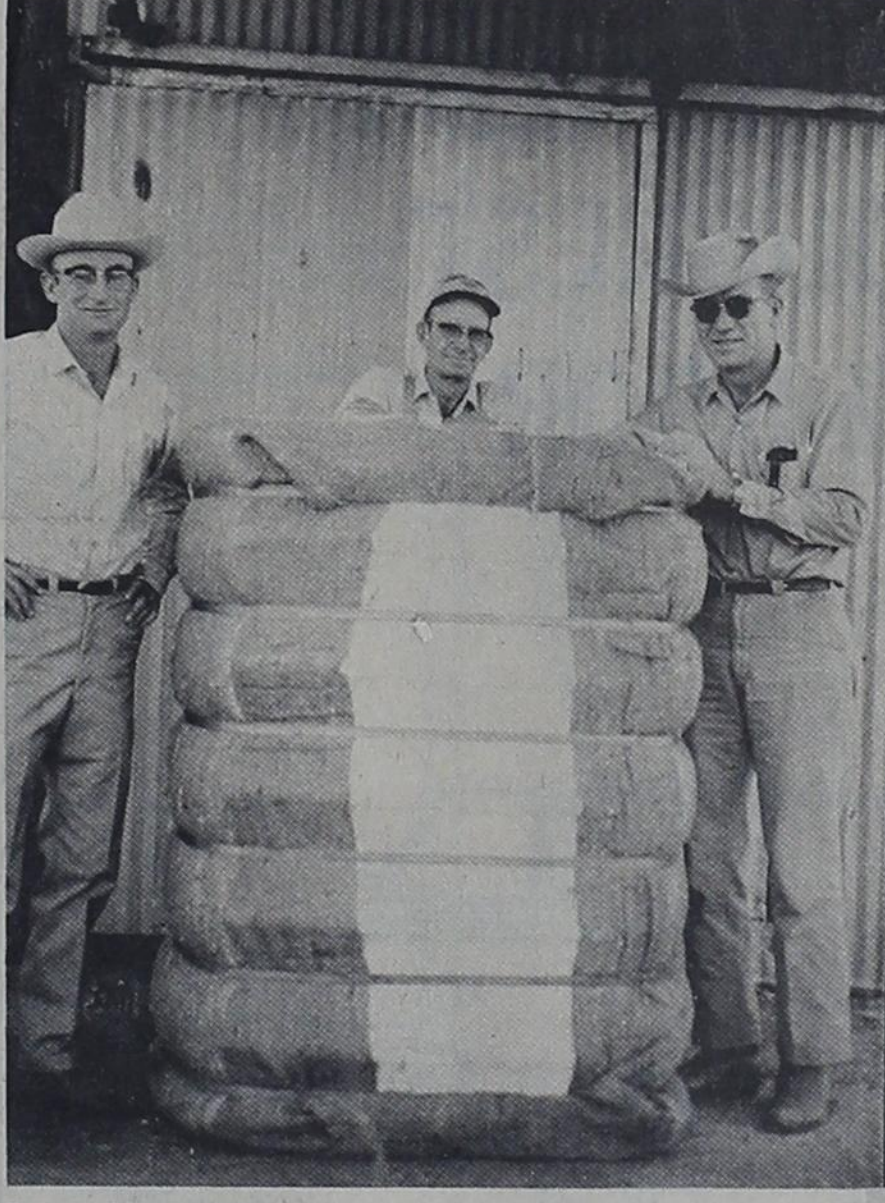

Jimmie Norton, in first place in the overall contest last week, was joined in that position by Ysleta Kittrell, who was in second place last week. Both Norton and Mrs. Kittrell have called a total of 48 games right while missing 22 games in the past seven weeks.

In second place with 47 right games are Dorothy Bauer, Gene Ezell, Greg Hargrove, Doug Harriman, Bobby Hart, Dargin Kirk, Dee Owen, Edwina Owen, Mark Williams and Peggy Hargrove.

In third place with 46 games to their credit are Debbie Chandler, Buck Gregory, Robin Mahaney, Jerry Mathis, Bernice Norton, Pat Owen, Bill Prince, Georgia Rundell, John Schell and Maxine Williams.

At least ten persons have 45 games right and several persons have called 44 right. It is still anybody's guess who the winner of the grand prize, two tickets to the Cotton Bowl and $50 expense money, will be. To date 321 persons (a record number) have entered the contest.

FIRST BALE AT LARIAT -- Gilbert Kaltwasser, right, received a premium of 50¢ per pound on this 560 lb. bale of hand stripped cotton which was received at the Lariat Gin on Tuesday. Congratulating Kaltwasser are Calvin Meissner, gin manager, and J. M. Dale, ginmer.

Mrs. Leavell, school secretary and president of PTA, says, if no one is at the building, call the high school office and arrangements will be made to open the building in order that the rummage may be left.

Mrs. Howard Whitener, vice-president of the PTA, is in charge of the sale. She will be assisted by Mrs. Roy Snodgrass, Mrs. Jack Eshleman, Mrs. Leavell and Mrs. D. Smith Day.

Funds derived from the sale of the rummage will go into a fund to assist in sponsoring a boy to Boys' State sessions and to buy books for the school libraries.

CASTING ABSENTEE BALLOTS -- Mr. and Mrs. Jake Lamb, Friona, study the ballot carefully before marking their ballots early this week. The Lambs, who will be leaving on a fishing trip prior to the Nov. 8 general election, have always been firm believers in voting. Lamb said, "It does make a difference how and for whom one votes." Nov. 4 is the final day to cast an absentee ballot.

Dee Miller, Democratic candidate for Congress from the 18th District, campaigned in Farwell on Monday. He was accompanied by his wife, Joan. Candidate Miller was entertained with a luncheon at the Gateway Restaurant, given by the local Miller for Congress supporters.

In a talk at the luncheon, Miller emphasized the importance of agriculture to his district and stated his belief that the farmer needed help in assuring him a fair share of the income from the crops he produces. He also stated his opposition to the repeal of section 14-B of the Taft-Hartley Act.

Choose The Right Ones

As the accusations and counter-accusations of all of our deeply moralistic politicians reverberate across the land, we are reminded that once again election time is drawing near, so perhaps it would be a good time to examine the issues and try to decide which candidates are really the good guys and which are the villains.

In reality however, it's not quite that simple. I suspect that most political candidates tend to exaggerate a little about the unworthiness of their opponents as opposed to their own goodness and nobility. If the antics of some of our politicians were not so tragic, one could consider them almost amusing. For instance, a candidate in Georgia has withdrawn from the race because he cannot run on the same ticket with what Life magazine calls a "rabid racist". A touching gesture perhaps but we live in an age of too many "touching gestures", and too little good sense.

Hundreds of local races across the nation this year will undoubtedly center around the slightly tarnished theme of humanity versus bigotry, with anybody advocating a cautious approach to the problems of race immediately being labeled an undercover agent for the Klu Klux Klan. Beware of the candidate with the halo of love for mankind shining brightly above his head, for he is usually the one who would vote for slavery, if public opinion polls indicated that the majority of voters in the country favored slavery.

Perhaps the greatest danger in this country today is the grandiose picture painted of the great awakening of mankind to the cries and needs of the poverty stricken and less fortunate and that by simply voting for the right candidates, we as a nation can hoist the world on our broad and righteous shoulders and carry it forth into a Utopia built on the foundations of peace and love.

Those who believe the preceding are merely victims of a massive paranoia complex; they suffer from delusions of grandeur and are blind to the realities of today, as distinguished from the dreams of tomorrow.

Now this is not to say that a world of peace and brotherly love is not desirable, for it surely is, but mankind has dreamed of such a world for ages, and I suspect will remain dreaming for ages more before it becomes a reality. It is something that must come forth from the heart and cannot be legislated into existence, especially in this day and age, for regardless of what the proponents of the great society say, our world is just as barbaric and uncivilized today as any day that has gone before it. I dare say that we are even more uncivilized, for if the number of human lives taken with malice by other humans is any measure of the level of civilization attained, then we fall far short of any preceding society. Our world is simply not advanced enough to approach such noble goals.

Now somebody will surely say, "But that does not stop us from trying to attain such a world."

No, it doesn't, but the manner in which we work for that world is extremely critical; one wrong move and we set ourselves back ten steps for every one we have taken forward. Approaches to problems of this nature must be undertaken with extreme caution. We must be sure that every move we make is the right one, even at the expense of time, for we simply cannot afford to do the wrong thing. If we do, the much dreamed of world of peace will move even farther into that far off mist of the future.

Keep this in mind when considering which candidates to vote for. Don't be misled by those who advocate spending billions of dollars in a massive headlong rush against problems which have plagued mankind since the dawn of time, for in all probability they are merely trying to assure themselves of election, and could care less about the underprivileged Indians of the Andes. Instead, support the man who makes no glowing promises of the future but who will work in a cautious manner toward solving what some would consider "the petty problems" that beset us today, for big problems are in reality made up of a bunch of little problems, each and every one of which must be solved before the larger problem is licked.

Just remember, the odds are a million to one that this is the "chosen" time that mankind will rise to his greatest heights and destroy once and for all, poverty, disease, and war. Instead, reality dictates that all we can do is to attempt to choose leaders of honesty and integrity, utilize our reasoning powers instead of our emotions, and hope for the best.

own talents and labor at what they really are worth. Basically, we are selfish and want more than we deserve for our little bitty part in the great big picture. Thus we are victimizing ourselves in the long run and some of our chickens are coming home to roost.

WHAT A STORY this old wooden water tank perched atop the first water tower built in Farwell (1927) could and would tell if it could only talk. The storage facility is being replaced by a modern steel storage tank, at a cost of approximately $6,400. In tearing away the old tank, workmen found the name "Margaret" painted on the side of the tank and made dim with the passing of years. The name brought forth the following story from some of the citizens (mere kids at the time). It seems that on a dare a senior boy and girl scaled the tower and while the girl held the paint the boy painted the word "Senior and the year" and as an after thought and a memento of the occasion, the name of the girl. The name of the boy so daring in his prime has not been disclosed.

Senior Play Set Nov. 4

Characters have been selected for the Texico senior play, "Girls are Like That," and rehearsals are now in progress. Directing the play are Mrs. Winnie Cobb and C. B. Stockton.

The play, a three act comedy, which will be presented on November 4 in the high school auditorium, revolves around the antics of Mary Jane a 16-year old who creates havoc by pulling first one stunt and then another.

Central figure in the comedy is Virginia, sister of Mary Jane, who has been awaiting a meeting with her fiance who is away at college. Just about the time he is scheduled to arrive and meet an aunt who has promised Virginia $20,000 when she announces her engagement, he decides to resolve the engagement.

Poor Virginia -- "What is she to do?" but friend and little sister fix it all up by providing not one, but TWO, fiances by the time the aunt arrives. To further complicate matters the estranged fiance decides to put in an appearance, but, "All's well that ends Well."

For an evening of laughter and thrills plan now to see "Girls are like That."

THE TRICKER AND THE TRICKED -- Although Sonya Thigpen, three, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Thigpen, is enthralled with the idea of Halloween, she was just a little "leery" of the mask being modeled by "mamma Glenda" which she will don for "trick or treat" time on Halloween.

OUT IN FORCE -- Pirates, goblins, elves and other characters from story book land along with witches, skeletons and various other fantastic creatures will be out in force Monday night as small-fry of the Twin Cities visit the homes of friends and relatives for "Halloween Tricks or Treats." Jack D. Wardlaw, four, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Wardlaw of 111 Manana, tries a little early "tricking" on his mother.

On The Farm In Parmer County

By RONNY MCNUTT
County Agent

HELLO FOLKS

My wife and I would like to take this opportunity to say hello to all of the people in Parmer County. It is our aim to meet all of you in the near future.

It is a real privilege to be your County Agent and I am looking forward to serving you in this capacity.

This past Thursday I had the opportunity of meeting A. L. Hartzog. Mr. Hartzog was kind enough to take all Thursday afternoon and show me around the Bovina and Rhea communities. I also had the opportunity of meeting several people in these communities.

Also had the privilege of meeting Jack Patterson and Billy Sifford out in the Rhea community. Mr. Patterson is chairman of the Wildlife subcommittee of the Parmer County Program Building Committee. Mr. Patterson informed me that the pheasant crop in the county is looking real good.

GRAIN SORGHUM DEMONSTRATION

We stopped by to meet and visit with Carl Schlenker also while in this part of the county. Carl was just finishing the harvesting of a grain sorghum variety and seeding rate demonstration in cooperation with the County Agent. There were 24 different varieties in the variety demonstration. Results of the yields on this demonstration will be published at a later date. On the seeding rate demonstration T. E. 88 was used on this test and it was double rowed. The seeding rates used were 5.6 lb/acre, 7.3 lb/acre, and 11.1 lb/acre. The moisture content was converted to 13% in determining the yield on these three seeding rates. Results of this test are as follows: 5.6 lbs/acre yielded 6,681 lb; 7.3 lb/acre yielded 6,960 lb; 11.1 lb/acre yielded 6,889 lb.

At Home In Parmer County

By CRICKET B. TAYLOR

Bovina 4-H'ers have plans for a lot of fun on Saturday, October 29th, when they will have their Halloween party. The party will be held in the Wayne Magness barn, with spooks and witches galore. Game committees, decoration committees, and about everyone in that club has been working to make this a big event.

4-H COUNTY COUNCIL - will also meet on the 29th at 10 a.m. in the Bovina Bank. This is the last meeting of the present Council members as the new Council will be made up of next year's membership. On the agenda will be plans for Achievement Night Banquet and election of officers.

Mrs. Earle Hise, 4-H organizational leader, project leader, and 2nd grade teacher at Bovina School, seems to have time always for the things she wants to do. She has started work with 4-H girls in the Child Care project already. Of course this is in addition to her job as a homemaker, mother and all the many things that this involves.

Employed homemakers - those with many outside interests are seldom bored with household tasks -- they don't have time.

4-H ADULT LEADER SYMPOSIUM - to be held in Hereford on November 17th for the four County Area, Castro, Randall, Deaf Smith and Parmer. The idea is to make more efficient use of time and give better training to 4-H Project Leaders, and the meeting on the 17th is a most important one. Leaders and parents who may be considering being a leader will need to put this date on their calendar. Contact me here at the office for more information.

Find ways to do boring jobs faster so you can get to more interesting jobs; take a hard look at the way you work. What changes can you make?

Big Doings are in store for two outstanding 4-H'ers here in Parmer County November 12th, the Gold Star 4-H girl and boy from Parmer County will be honored, at a banquet in Amarillo. After this they will be honored at the Parmer County 4-H Achievement Night also. Their names are still a big secret though.

Keep things within easy reach -- kitchen utensils stored at point of first use, duplicate cleaning materials kept in bath, ironing equipment close to where you iron, omit some steps in the job as draining dishes rather than drying.

Compete with yourself -- time yourself on a job. Try to beat your record. Alternate jobs - iron a while -- mend a while.

Moving for the long one, Lewey Bradshaw, Steer back, beginning the running portion of a 66 yard pass, run that put Farwells first score on the board early in the second quarter of last weeks game with Kress.

Yearlings Defeat Kress B

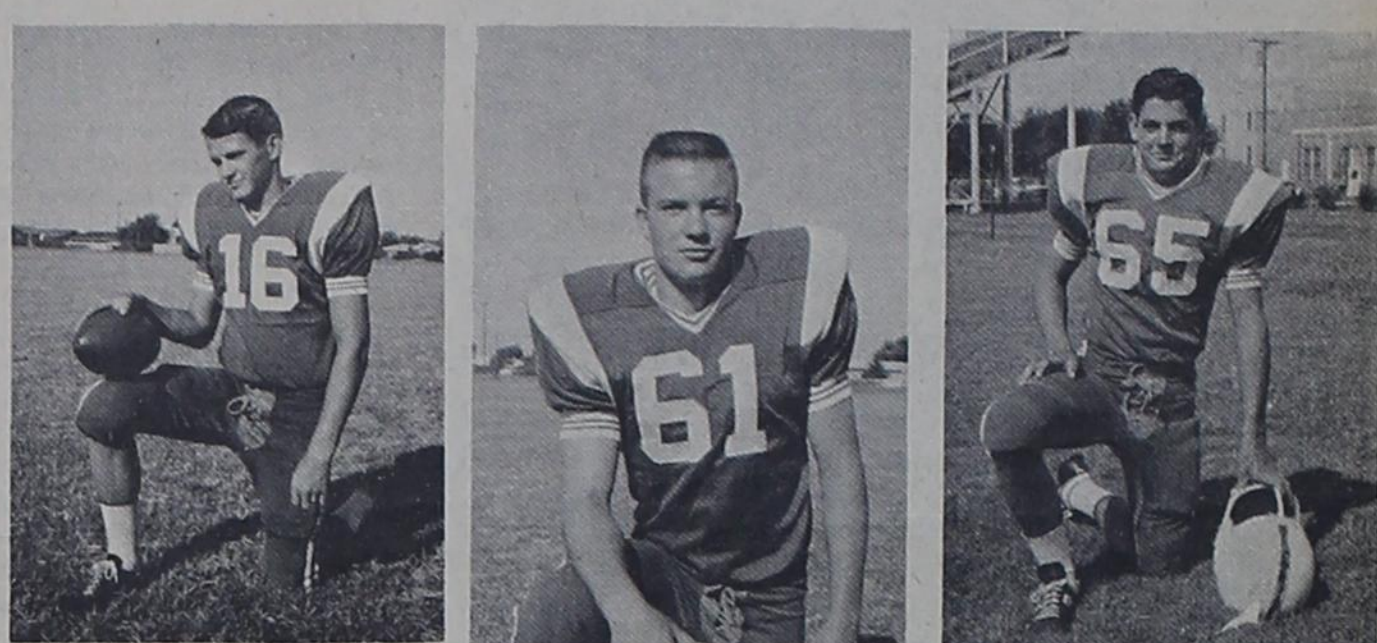

Although the Steers were unable to outdistance the Kress Kangaroos on Friday night it was a different story when the Yearlings met the Kress B team on Thursday night, Final score in this game was Yearlings 16, Kress 0.

Coach Bill Adams was high in his praise of the team effort made by the Yearlings stating that the entire team played well and had good control of the ball.

Second TD for Farwell came in the third quarter when Danny Prince went over from the one yard line. The extra point was again on a pass from Hargrove to Williams.

The Yearlings will meet Hale Center here tonight (Thursday) at 7:30 p.m.

Steers Of The Week

Selected as Steers of the Week for their performance in the Kress-Farwell game on Friday night were Kyle Sheets, center, for his defensive play; Bobby Field, quarterback, and Ricky Lunsford, guard, offensive players.

Rest This Week --

Steers Lose To Kangaroos

Farwell Steers, playing an erratic game and losing their scoring punch in the last half, lost their second district game to Kress by a score of 19 to 12 at Steer Stadium last Friday night.

ended when Johnny Schell intercepted a Kress pass on his own four-yard marker. Farwell offense was unable to get the ball out of the hole and were forced to punt.

their last, though not needed, touchdown for the night. They failed to convert and the scoring for the evening was completed at 19-12.

The Blue and White received the kickoff and rolled down the field to the Kangaroo 29-yard line before losing the ball on downs.

The fighting Steers mounted several drives in the fourth quarter that took them deep in Kangaroo territory, but failed to muster the muscle for any more score and the Blue and White lost their second league Kress soon punched over for a conference game, but more important, could not Farwell the Farmer County championship by beating both the larger county teams of Bovina and Friona.

The Steer offense again failed to move the ball as an interception gave the ball to the Kangaroos and they again scored but had their kick blocked and settled for a 13-0 lead.

Farwell scored a few minutes later with a pass to Lewey Bradshaw and a run that covered 66 yards from the line of scrimmage. The Steer attempt to run the extra points failed and Farwell trailed 13-6.

Playing tough football, the Steers forced Kress to fumble and the Blue and White owned the ball on the Kress 22-yard marker. The first play produced only short yardage but on the next play Bobby Field kept the ball and scampered over from 19 yards out. The Steer attempt at the PAT failed and as the half ended, they were trailing by a 13-12 score.

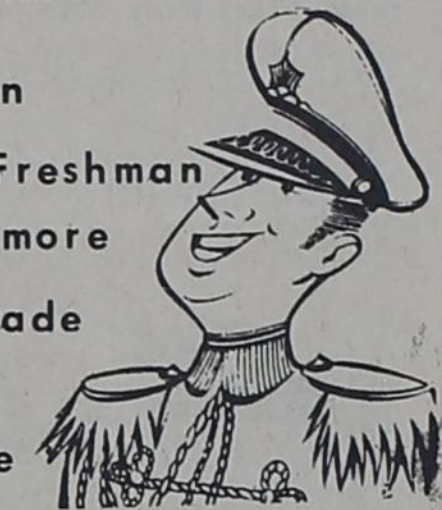

Second half opened with the Steers kicking off to Kress. The Kangaroos began a march toward the Farwell goal that was Farwell penalized, this pass interference by Farwell early in the second quarter cost the Steers a first down and gave Kress the ball on the Steers 18 yard stripe.

He served as a paratrooper in World War II, and farmed extensively in the area in addition to raising registered horses.

He is survived by his wife, Betty; two sons, Benny and Billy; and one daughter, Jana; all of the home. Also his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bruns; one sister, Mrs. Ruth Briscoe; and two brothers, Les and Don; all of Muleshoe.

In events held at the John W. Parker Agriculture Center on the Louisiana State University campus last week, "Yellow Mount" one of Bruns' fine horses, was named Reserve National Champion by the American Paint Horse Association. Shortly before his death, Jack was able to look out his hospital window and see the famous horse. The Bruns' home is filled with trophies, ribbons, and plaques Jack had won with his horses.

Pallbearers at the funeral were Kenneth Hall, J. G. Arnn, Cecil Mardis, Melvin Baden, Anthony Jesko, and J. W. Coffman.

Longhorns Outdistance Swifts

The Nazareth Swifts just weren't swift enough Friday night as they met the speedy Longhorns in the second conference game of the season. In the opening minutes of the game Timmy Foster dashed across for a Longhorn TD and Gary Matthews kicked the extra point. The 7-0 score stood unchanged until the last 17 seconds of the first half when Derrell Matthews got an opening and ran 80 yards to pay dirt making the play look more like a track meet than a football game, leaving the score at the half 13-0.

Third quarter action saw the Swifts picking up 7 points followed quickly by another long-distance run by the Longhorns as Terry Parham dashed 61 yards to goal territory, Buster Steinbock then plunged across for the two extra points.

Going into the fourth quarter the game was 21-7 when Terry Parham tossed the pigskin 37 yards to Timmy Foster who picked up still another 6 points. Another pass from Parham to Foster racked up the extra points leaving the score 29-7 in favor of the Longhorns. The boys travel to Happy this Friday for their third conference meet.

Afternoon Ceremony Unites Linda Phillips, Jerry Irby

Linda Luann Phillips, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Phillips, Jr., became the bride of Jerriel Wayne (Jerry) Irby, Abilene, son of Rev. and Mrs. V. B. Irby, Raton, in a ceremony at mid-afternoon Sunday.

The double ring ceremony was read by the father of the groom at Hamlin Memorial Methodist Church, Background for the ceremony was two spiral candelabra holding pink tapers centered by small candelabra, which held three wedding tapers, two of which were lighted preceding the ceremony. The center candle in this arrangement was lighted by the bride and groom, after they had been united in marriage, symbolizing their unity as one. Palms were interspersed throughout the entire altar setting. Focal point of the setting was a white wrought-iron kneeling bench.

Preceding the ceremony, Donna Cleek, organist, played appropriate nuptial selections. She also accompanied Pat Hamilton, soloist, as he sang "More" and "Because" prior to the entrance of the bride and groom. Candles were lighted by Ty Phillips, brother of the bride.

Best man was Hank Hardwick of Fort Stockton. Groomsman were Al Phillips, brother of the bride, and Michael Mulliken, Santa Rosa. Serving as ushers were Don Irby, brother of the groom, Hurst, Tex., and Dean Webb, El Paso.

Maid of honor was Connie Phillips, sister of the bride. Matron of honor was Mrs. Cliff Hardin, Plainview, life long friend of the bride. Bridesmaid was Linda Neeb, Abilene. Guests were registered by Pat Smith, Midland.

All of the bridal attendants were attired in street length dresses of American Beauty rose, styled similarly to that of the bride. Their minute veils of petal pink were attached to large pink satin rosettes. They wore shoes in matching hue and carried long stemmed pink mums.

THE BRIDE

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a formal length wedding gown of white peau de sheen, designed and made by Mrs. Leora Williams, a close family friend. The dress featured an empire waist, accented by a bandeau of lace and pearl drops, long tapered sleeves and a straight skirt. The detachable chapel train was held by minute covered buttons.

MRS. JERRY IRBY

Her elbow length veil of white silk illusion fell from a tiara of seed pearls. She carried a Bible arrangement of white gardenias surrounded by baby pink sweetheart roses with cascades of white rosebuds and Stephanotis. The Bible on which the arrangement was carried was a gift from Linda Neeb, Completing Miss Phillips' attire was a pearl necklace borrowed from an aunt, Mrs. Glen Phillips.

Following tradition, she wore for something old a ring belonging to her great-grandmother which had been worn by Mrs. Phillips at her wedding; new was her wedding dress; borrowed was a lace handkerchief from the mother of the groom; and blue were garters one of which was a gift from Donna and Jean Kirk and the other one which is being worn by several college friends at their respective weddings. For luck she wore in her shoes pennies minted in the year of her birth and that of the groom, and also a six-pence, a gift from her cousins, Craig, Cindy, Penny and Thad Phillips.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Phillips chose a dress of American Beauty rose with a hat in matching hue, her shoes and bag were mocha. She wore a pink rosebud corsage. Mrs. Irby was attired in a dress of medium blue with a hat in matching hue. Her shoes and bag were black. She also wore a corsage of pink rosebuds.
