Marketing One of Big Needs

We need a cooperative produce marketing association to insure a better market for butter, eggs and other farm products.

Just as soon as the producers are compelled to peddle their products from door to door, just so long will the prices be low. If a cooperative association was in operation the eggs could be shipped to points where eggs were bringing the best price. Then too much of the competition with shipped-in cold storage eggs could be overcome with the proper advertising.

Knowledge Is Education Only When It Is Put To Work, Says H. S. Mobley

The greatest art is living a wholesome life and being able to support a wholesome standard of life. Knowledge is a very essential thing, but a greater thing is the use of knowledge. Those who stand out among us are those who know how to use their knowledge. Education is simply a tool. Its value is the use made of it. No amount of school training can make a boy accomplish much unless he uses what he knows. We always admire a winner, but a winner is only a man who puts what he knows into action. It is not, "What do you know?" It is, "What are you going to do with what you know?" No one can give us knowledge. No one else can use our knowledge. If anyone uses it, it is his knowledge. A little knowledge used is better than a lot of knowledge not used. The one who handles big things begins by using what he knows about little things. I do not believe that opportunity comes but once. Often we do not recognize it because we look for it as a child of ease, robed in splendor, but it is a child of hard work, clothed in overalls.

This entertainment was indeed a musical treat, and one of the highest class programs that has visited the city in many months.

Tires for the new Ford are specially made to give long wear

When the new Ford was designed, it was immediately apparent that a new tire would have to be made to match the car's performance. It was distinctly a new problem, for here was a car with quicker acceleration, greater speed and more braking efficiency than any car of similar size or weight. So that every Ford owner might be assured of maximum tire mileage at the lowest cost, the Ford Motor Company devoted many months to research and experiment in conjunction with the leading tire manufacturers. As a result, certain definite specifications were developed for tires for the new Ford. These specify cords of certain strength and texture, a large volume of tread and side-wall rubber, sturdy non-skid design, and reinforced plies for protection against bruise breaks—all the strong features of construction formerly considered for only the largest tires. Great care also was taken to secure the best riding qualities in connection with the transverse springs and the Houdaille shock absorbers.

At the end of each mile, when you have front wheels packed grease, it is a good idea to have the wheel checked. This will prevent premature wear. When punctures occur they will with any tire, will find the Ford particularly well-equipped to make repairs quickly at small cost. See him for replacements, you will be sure of a tire built specially for Ford cars to definite specifications.

Viaduct Award May Be Delayed Day Or More

Fourteen firms submitted bids on the viaduct across the Texas and Pacific Railway tracks on Highway No. 9. After the opening of bids was under way one bid was withdrawn. Due to the fact that the bids were on three different sections of the work, steel construction, concrete and fill, and brick paving of the approaches, it required some time to arrive at an exact status of the low bidders. Then too, the bids were by square or cubic yards as to concrete and paving, so much per ton on steel and all these had to be totaled, and this was being done as we go to press, with the likelihood that a day or so may elapse before the successful bidders are announced.

Outdoor Band Concert and The Town Spirit

A woman voiced a thought that has probably come to many Coloradans besides herself the other day when she expressed a yearning for the good old outdoor band concerts Colorado used to have. There seems to be nothing that inspires a citizen with more town patriotism than to hear a well-rendered concert by his home-town band outdoors on a summer evening. Those who knew the old days in Colorado when the citizenship of the town gathered around a roped-off section of one of the main streets to thrill to the spirited playing of martial airs look forward to their return with the new advantages given this musical organization with the voting last year of the band tax. It's work for the band boys though, and not play, and that must be remembered.—Colorado Record.

Strange Things Do Happen

Big Spring folks would appreciate open air band concerts and many voted for a tax to support the band which was won by such concert. What say the members of the band? Claude Arnold, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Arnold, while on an outing Sunday picked up a terrapin egg and stuck it in his pocket. He had forgotten all about the terrapin in egg until he stuck his hand in his pocket and found a live terrapin. He said he was thinking of renting this coat as an incubator and see if it could keep up the record for making quick hatches.

They Are Counting On You

That big Clean-up and Paint-up Campaign is the next thing we have to tackle. It won't be a burdensome job if we all pitch in and do the job right. The job will be worthless unless we all cooperate—for a city just half-cleaned up is not much better than one where no clean-up has been attempted. We will all be benefited by doing our part in the clean-up and paint-up campaign.

WE HAVE REASON TO BE THANKFUL

One by one we are securing the projects which will help to make Big Spring the big city of West Texas. Things have been looking fine for us, and we should be encouraged to go after everything which will tend to promote our growth and stability. Our constantly expanding oil field, and the four big refineries here warrant a wonderful growth. And here are a few of the other big things which have recently come our way: the solution of our water problem by securing possession of a tract of land near our present source of supply which insures us sufficient water for a city of 50,000; the securing of the division point on the air passenger lines of the Texas Air Transport, Inc., which places us at the "Crossing of the Ways," for airplanes as well as auto travel; the erection of a twelve-story addition to the Crawford Hotel to be started soon; the erection of a 100-room addition to the Douglass Hotel; securing an appropriation for a $35,000 Federal building; the rumor of an immense sum for improvements by the Texas & Pacific Railway Company is likely to be forthcoming soon. One fine church building just completed, another being completely remodelled, and two additional church structures to be started soon are a part of the big building program which includes the six-story office building, many large business buildings and many modern homes. Dairying and poultry raising in our county are being encouraged in every way. Plans to bring a number of factories here will be the next big project to be tackled.

Census To Be Taken
The scholastic census? It is a mistaken idea to have a scholastic census. Some people think that it will cost less to give all information and quickly to the census than to make a census of the state. This makes the problem of the census a difficult one. The census must be taken in the month of March, as a state law. It is a method the state uses to apportion the funds for the support of the schools. In other words, the enumeration of all of the children within the scholastic age, within a district, is the state uses to determine the amount of money the state is to pay for the school-children of the district. The child enlisted legally the day he is born in the Big Spring School District next year, and possibly the following year, it is necessary to secure the school enrollment of every child within the district in this district. In the census which I have given you, it is absolutely necessary that we get all the money every source possible to maintain our school next year.

An Interesting Session of B. M. Club

Fifty-six members and ten visitors thoroughly enjoyed the fine session of the Business Men's Club at noon today.
Many were attracted by the announcement that some big news of much interest to Big Spring was to be given out by President Woodward, but he was not on hand to elucidate and the news must wait a day or so.
J. M. Radford of Abilene, made a short talk in which he stated he had a number of interests in Big Spring and had always been interested in the growth of this city. He said he had every faith in the future of Big Spring, and would always be glad to do his part toward advancing the interests of the same. He said he had been visiting Big Spring for many years and was indeed gratified to note its splendid growth.
C. T. Watson told of the success of the Farmers' Short Course which came to a close last night. He said the attendance was around 3000, and the lectures were the best ever heard here. He called on G. L. Smith of the International Harvester Company, to give his impression of the Short Course here. Mr. Smith stated that in his 4 years' work in conducting these community chautauquas he never saw such fine interest as was shown by the people of Howard county. He said this deep interest and the good attendance had been an inspiration to everyone on the program. He praised Big Spring considerably, and predicted a wonderful future for the city. He said he would like to return here in ten years to check up on the wonderful growth the city had made.
Following these talks, the meeting was turned over to the chairman of the program committee, Rev. R. L. Owens, who announced that music was always needed to start a gathering off in good order, and he called on Mrs. Riggs for a piano solo. The crowd appreciated this and insisted that Mrs. Riggs play an encore.
Mr. Pratt of Midland, made the principal address of the session on the subject of "Builders." He pointed out that people must have vision in order that progress be made and he stated he saw every evidence that the citizens of Big Spring had vision. His speech was filled with terse and timely admonitions on the importance of cooperation.
Rev. Murphy, pastor of the Presbyterian Church of Midland, made a brief talk in which he had some nice things to say of Big Spring. He said it was fine to see such a large attendance at the noon luncheon as the number was just twice as large as on his last visit.
Edwin A. Kelley, president of the Chamber of Commerce, told of the clash between the Texas and Pacific Railway Company and the Santa Fe system to secure permission to build extensions to points in New Mexico, and urged the need of every town and city along the T-P Railway joining in the fight to aid the T-P. He said this had ever been the territory of this line and the primary markets for their principal products could be more quickly reached by the T-P. By a rising vote the membership of the Business Men's Club pledged their aid to the Texas and Pacific Railway.
Announcement was made that J. L. Lancaster, president of the T-P, made a brief talk in Big Spring Thursday.
Rev. Claud Wingo announced that a big revival meeting was to be started at the Christian Church by Evangelist M. A. Buhler on Sunday, March 17, and extended everyone present an invitation to attend the services each evening.
The following were named on the program committee for next week: Rube Martin, V. H. Flewelen and H. L. Rix.
Paint and varnish in small cans, Cunningham and Philips.

San Angelo To Have Unified System of Parks

SAN ANGELO, Mar. 14.—The first definite step to be taken in San Angelo toward a unified system of parks was taken Tuesday evening when A. A. Glover, president of the Board of City Development, was authorized to appoint a committee of 15 men and women to thoroughly consider the problem from the standpoints of size, location and demand.
Four groups from municipal, civic and commercial organizations were represented at the meeting. Those present were: Mr. Glover, C. C. Wild, Mrs. W. W. Carson, P. C. McGlasson, J. Miles O'Daniel, and D. J. Burke, all representing the Board of City Development; J. Culbertson Deal, Wayne D. Tiner, and L. W. Walker, all of the city plan commission; E. E. Lowrie, Mayor W. D. Holcombe, both of the park board.
Mr. Glover has not appointed the committee of fifteen, but advised that he will make an announcement within a few days. "It is a question," said Mr. Glover, "that will require some time and thought in order to select people actually interested in the park situation here and to find people that are willing to spend a little time in working out the details."
The meeting was called in the Board of City Development office to attempt a unified plan in one way or another interested in park and playground development in San Angelo. On several occasions, it was pointed out, the four bodies meeting Tuesday night have all been working toward a common goal, but often times at cross purposes, which tended to defeat the entire plan.
"Of course," said Mr. Hobbs in urging the appointment of a large committee, "each of the bodies represented here has a certain specific work cut out for them, but in the city, the park board, the city plan commission, or the Board of City Development does not know just how far to go without encroachment upon the other fellows ground. It seems to me that the only way of correcting the situation is to inaugurate a unified policy for mapping out the entire course of procedure and then let the four organizations fit into their respective notches."

A Dictator and a King Go Into Conference. NEA Paris Bureau

A rare picture is this of dictator and a king in conference. The dictator is General Primo de Rivera, militant head of the Spanish government, and the king is the quiet-mannered Alfonso. The subject of their meeting is a grim one—they're discussing what punishment should be meted out to the chiefs of the recent revolt which was squelched by authorities.

Hudspeth To Urge Hoover To Attend Meet

EL PASO, March 14.—Congressman Claude B. Hudspeth will introduce a bill in congress within a short time to secure coining of a special 50-cent piece commemorating the 76th anniversary of the Gadsden purchase, he told H. L. Birney, president of the El Paso Chamber of Commerce, D. A. Bauden, general manager, and L. W. Hoeffcker, following a conference here relative to the celebration of the purchase of Old Mesilla.
Hudspeth assured them that he would do everything possible to help get President Herbert Hoover to attend the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention, and felt that if it could be postponed that he would attend. Hudspeth also said he would handle things at the Washington end.
The plan is to secure a special coin, such as that used in the Stone Mountain Memorial campaign, to be sold as a souvenir of the occasion. A bronze tablet and monument is to be placed by the El Paso Chamber of Commerce in the southeast corner of the plaza in old Mesilla, for it was at this point that the American flag was raised on July 5, 1854, following the purchase of the more than 47,000 square miles of territory. This purchase gave the United States a strategic strip of territory and opened a more accessible route for railroads to the west coast. Mexico was paid $10,000,000 for the land acquired under the purchase.
It is planned to hold the celebration at the same time as the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention. Plans for the program are being made and as soon as the dates are definitely announced, will be completed.

Vincent Items

Miss Cantrell visited our school last week and graded it. Although we were lacking in some essential points, we rated fairly high. Such things as the lack of a flag, flagpole, and a level playground prevented our school from grading still higher.
Preparations for building the new teacherage will begin this week, we understand.
Owing to bad weather Sunday School was not so well attended as usual, but we hope for a better attendance with the arrival of the spring weather.
Jim Redout and Coleman Siler have just returned from a stock show at Worth, Tex. Wonderful time.
Mrs. Ted Bishop and Miss Edna Earle Guffee spent last week with the friends and relatives.
The boys and girls basketball teams played the R-Bar teams at R-Bar last Wednesday afternoon. The Vincent girls won their game, but the boys lost to the R-Bar team.

Creamery Said To Be Unable To Utilize Cream

We were somewhat surprised to hear this week that the Snowhite Creamery was informing many with cream to sell that they were unable to utilize any more cream as they were securing all they had any demand for.
We were under the impression that the Snowhite Creameries in coming into a community provided a market for all the cream that could be produced, and usually devoted much effort to promoting dairying so that a sufficient supply would be assured the creamery.
Looks like we have another community problem to solve.

GRAIN LETTER

With a weather and crop scare market on, an extremely nervous feeling prevails in the wheat trade and until it is possible to ascertain the condition especially in the southwest, the disposition on part of pit element is to sell on all indications of weakness. Commission houses advised caution and in the main favored buying on breaks.
Corn traders are in a position where new speculative buying, is necessary to go advance and maintain any higher level due to the slow cash demand and to continue buying of cash corn in other markets to come to Chicago.
The latter is the drawback, but there are many corn traders who believe that ultimately values are to work higher.

Feeling Glad

The rains of this week will prove an unmixt blessing to every part of West Texas lucky enough to get in on them. For many weeks drilling has been halted in some localities because of a lack of water. Farmers needed the moisture for pre-planting work; stock water was scarce, owing to a very dry winter.
But now the rains have come (at least to most sections) and the outlook is decidedly brighter. They put a different complexion on business, which depends on farming, stock raising, oil drilling, and fruit, poultry and a dozen other factors.
It is true the rains were not of the gully-washer variety, but they were large enough to help out a lot, and give promise of more just ahead.
West Texas is a miracle country when it gets the rain. It can stand drouth better than any other section, and it reacts to rain quicker. After all, we depend on the weather for our existence and prosperity.

Remodelling of Old Postoffice Building Started

No sooner had the postoffice moved into the new quarters than the work of remodeling the building just vacated was under way. This building is to be thoroughly overhauled both inside and out, and made practically new.
The First National Bank, owners of the building, needing more room on account of rapidly expanding business, will occupy the greater part of the first floor of the building. One business space will be provided near the west end of the structure.
The exterior of the building will be finished in brick with stone trimming to conform to the portion of the building now occupied by the bank.
A. P. Prendergast, mechanical superintendent of the Texas & Pacific, with headquarters at Dallas, was here Monday on a tour of inspection.

NO SURPRISE

The eastern newspapers and politicians who profess to be surprised by President Hoover's assertion that his long-awaited prohibition investigation would be limited to seeking ways of making enforcement more rigid, instead of suggesting modifications in the dry law, are doing Mr. Hoover scant justice.

Throughout the campaign Mr. Hoover made his position just about as clear as words could make it. He said that the whole situation needed study, but that the law itself was a good law and that he supported it.

To suppose now, as some of these people seem to be supposing, that Mr. Hoover planned to suggest modifications in the law once he was elected—that he was not quite as dry as he said he was, in fact—is to accuse him of double dealing.

His announcement that the law will be preserved and enforced is absolutely in keeping with his campaign declarations.

THE SHORT STAVE IN THE BARREL.

Every man knows that if a barrel has a short stave in its construction, he can fill the barrel only up to the top of the short stave, after which any additional water poured in will run out. The short stave is the limiting factor.

This illustration suggests the importance of locating the short stave, or the limiting factor in the production of our crops. This may apply to soil conditions or to soil fertility, and will vary, sometimes, according to the crop produced.

Certain plants require more nitrogen than others. Certain soils are deficient in potash. Many soils are deficient in humus. The growth of the plant is stopped and its fruiting ceases when the limit of its requirements in any one of plant food elements and moisture is reached. The plant can't go over the top of the short stave in the barrel.

When a farmer notes that his cotton, his corn or other crop has quit growing; when it is not fruiting abundantly, he should know that there is something lacking in his soil. Maybe moisture is the limiting factor. If it is, he should consider terracing to hold and conserve moisture. Perhaps he needs more nitrogen, more potash or phosphate acid. If he does, then for quick results he should consult a fertilizer specialist. The chasses are his soil lacks humus. Lack of humus prevents the saving and holding of moisture and lack of moisture keeps the plant from taking its food from the soil. The soil may be rich and then not produce profitably because of its poor physical condition.

The same principle can be applied in the feeding of dairy cows, hogs, poultry, and other livestock. Protein may be the limiting factor in growth and production, or perhaps some other food. The cow makes milk from what it eats. If she cannot get the required food, she decreases her production. There is always a limiting factor. Look for the short stave in the barrel.—Farm and Ranch.

THE ARMY OF THE FUTURE

The World War saw more soldiers brought into combat than any other war in history. Troop movements dwarfed anything ever seen before. Armies of three, four and five million men were the order of the day.

Most military men, naturally enough, have concluded that any future war between great powers will bring into being armies just as large.

General Von Seeckt, until recently the commander-in-chief of Germany's post-war army does not agree with this viewpoint.

This man—considered one of the ablest military leaders in Europe—believes that the army of the future will be a small one. The day of tremendous masses of troops, he says is over. He has recently written a book setting forth his views.

According to General Von Seeckt, the war of the future will be fought by small, highly trained professional armies. Furthermore each army will use large bodies of cavalry, which will play as important a part as they did in the old days before trench warfare.

Warfare as practiced in France between 1914 and 1918, he continues, sacrificed mobility to the mania for large armies. The gigantic masses of troops fell into a deadlock that was not broken for more than four years. Military men, he believes, have learned their lesson. In the future they will want smaller, more highly trained armies, equipped with cavalry, swift tanks, motor transport and mobile artillery; what they lose in size they will gain in efficiency.

All of this runs directly counter to what most of us have been believing. Yet perhaps we could all breathe more easily if military men everywhere should adopt General Von Seeckt's views.

Large standing armies would be done away with. The cost of military preparations would be vastly reduced. And war, if it came, would be less frightful than before. It would still be a major calamity; never doubt that, while bombing planes can lay waste defenseless cities. But it would not quite be on the murderous scale of the last one. It would not kill quite so many young men.

The exhaustion of the water supply in the Texas & Pacific lake made it necessary for the railroad company to call on the city to furnish them water, and the city was ready to meet the emergency.

If one and all would take a little pride in cleaning up the premises, paint that weather-beaten house and interest others in the Clean-up and Paint-up Campaign, Big Spring would be a better appearing and a more healthful city. It pays to clean up.

JUST TO REMIND YOU OF YOUR UNIMPORTANCE

We must adjust our ideas to the new estimates of the number of stars in our own stellar system. About ten years ago an estimate based on counts of the stars on a photographic chart of the heavens placed the number at 1 1/2 billion. We are now obliged to increase this number thirtyfold—to more than 40 billion.

To reach this estimate, photographs are taken of small sample areas well distributed over the sky. Counts are made of the number of stars of each separate magnitude, from the bright stars down to the faintest that can be seen on the plate, stars of the twenty-first magnitude.

An idea of this stellar opulence may be gained by holding a dime at arm's length directed toward the central line of the Milky Way, when the coin will cover nearly 15 million stars. Although the coin would hide fewer stars as we turn away from the galaxy the number still remains far beyond the possibility of our conception.—Century Magazine.

BIG BUSINESS IN THE SADDLE

If the Hoover inaugural is read between the lines, Big Business will continue in the saddle as it has for eight years without scandal attached to the doings of the chieftains of big business in or out of office. Private ownership is to be given the inside track and complete control in all things.

Muscle Shoals, which cost the American people hundreds of millions, will be operated by private capital. Furthermore, the Boulder Dam will be built by money taken from the public treasury and then the plant will be operated by private capital and directed by private citizens and not government employees. There isn't a word in the inaugural relative to the sordid scandals of former administrations. Government ownership is bludgeoned in many places. As to the foreign policy of the government, Henry L. Stimson, the new secretary of State, was the trusted agent of Coolidge in Nicaragua and the Philippines and elsewhere.

He is committed to the Coolidge foreign policy and he is just as close to the new president as he was to the old. A gentlemen lawyer and educator, and farmer from Missouri is the head of the department of agriculture. A civil engineer, a big manufacturer, a leading banker and a prominent figure in the inner council of the United States Chamber of Commerce, will direct the department of commerce activities for the Hoover administration.

This is the machine age, this is the big business age, this is the age when a Wall street banker, the head of one of the greatest financial institutions in America or the world, is able to add $33,000,000 to his immense fortune in three days by the rapid enhancement of the price of his bank stock.

President Hoover has ideals and aspirations. Beautiful platitudes fall from his pen but he has undertaken the most tremendous job that he has tackled in his remarkable career. He is honest and he is able, he is ambitious to place his name in the list of immortals who have filled the white house chair, but in the long run the practical politicians and concession seekers have broken the heart and pride of many of his illustrious predecessors.—Cisco News.

SOUTHWEST EXTENSIONS

News that the Texas & Pacific is considering extension of its line into New Mexico through Roswell is cheering proof of the interest the great railway systems are taking in the development of the southwest. Such an extension would be to the advantage of El Paso, as well as directly eastern New Mexico.

Survey has been made for an extension of the Frisco system from Quanah through Lubbock and on to El Paso. This would give this city a shorter route to Kansas City and the east. It would open up a rich and fertile territory, which needs only transportation facilities to become one of the most prosperous sections of Texas.

This would be the biggest new railway construction in the United States for two decades. It benefit the Frisco by giving it splendid southwestern terminal, which the system now lacks.

Eastern New Mexico is fast developing. Oil and gas are being produced in large quantities and it is expected the output within a short time will be much greater. Such a line as proposed to Roswell would probably produce a large amount of profitable freight traffic.

It is plain the big banking interests which finance railroad extensions are making a careful study of southwestern possibilities. New rail construction has lagged in recent years. It looks as if this section of the country would see its first and most important revival.—El Paso Herald.

A MEAN IDEA

Congress did well when it rejected the proposal to cut from $5000 to $1800 the annuity which the government will pay to the widow of Leonard Wood.

The proposal was made in the interest of economy. Some profound statesmen, whose name escapes us for the moment, felt that $5000 a year was too high a sum for the richest government on earth to pay to the widow of a highly deserving major general. Fortunately, Congress as a whole did not agree with him.

A great many silly things are said and done in Congress during the course of any given session. But we can't seem to remember anything much sillier than this. It was one of the meanest, smallest penny-pinching suggestions that Congress has ever listened to.

The best way to keep things moving forward is to do more hustling and less howling. The fellow who is hustling hasn't the time to do much grumbling and complaining.

May Peterson To Give Concert at Simmons U.

ABILENE, March 13.—The favorite soprano of the American stage, known in New York as "The Golden Girl of the Metropolitan," will appear in Abilene Friday evening, March 15, when May Peterson gives a concert in the Simmons University auditorium.

This famous Broadway prima donna has scored one sensational triumph after another on the principal stages of Europe and America and for the past six seasons has starred with the Metropolitan Opera Company in New York City.

In Europe Miss Peterson is even more widely known than in America. She is one of the three American sopranos ever to make good on the Paris stage. After studying several years in Europe she made her debut in the Opera Comique in Paris and played there two seasons.

She gave over five hundred performances in the larger cities of Europe before returning to her native America. Her European career consisted of several appearances in Italy, the home of the opera, where musical critics united in praising her voice.

Since returning to America Miss Peterson has thrilled large audiences from coast to coast and is promising West Texas something new in music Friday evening.

COMMUNITIES ARE MADE OF FOLKS—MOBLEY SAYS

Farm Expert Makes Splendid Address At First Methodist Church Monday Evening.

Mr. H. S. Mobley, in beginning his talk on "Communities are Made of Folks" pointed out that this town, "is not your town, or my town, but our town." It is something in common to all of us living in it—a community proposition, and to have a real town we must have a community spirit, not a one-man spirit.

"To many of us," he said, "the word 'town' mean a group of buildings separated by streets and alleys, containing some stores, some factories, some banks, some residences, a few churches and school houses, but that is not the proper idea of a town. It is in accordance with the dictionary definition of the word, but it is not in accordance with a community idea of a town.

"There are two elements that in voicing human life under civilized conditions," he explained. "They are production and distribution. Some people must labor to produce, others must labor to buy and sell. The two are essential; either, alone, is a weakness, in fact, impossible.

"The place we usually call a town is merely a business district or trade center. Around it are the farms, or the mines, or the fisheries, where men labor to produce and from where they come to this business district to sell and buy and transact the business end of their labor. I have heard it said that the town and country are separate; that their interests are not mutual. This is a great mistake. Each depends upon the other. Each is as necessary as the other. The country cannot live without the town; neither can the town live without the country, but the town and country, by uniting what they have of production and distribution, can create such a condition of comfort and happiness as will constitute a real community of human beings.

Mr. Mobley declared he was not under-estimating the importance of the physical phases of man's life, but was striving to emphasize the human side.

"Communities are made of folks," he said, "and not of houses and farms and factories. The houses, farms, mines, factories, banks and stores are all necessary to the human life and energy and intelligence back of them determine what they are to be. The higher the type of the people, the better the physical plant of the community.

"The difference between this community today, its houses, its farms, its mines, its factories, its stores, all its physical conditions—these are the same community when the Indians lived here, is to be traced to the difference between the people who are here now and the people who were here then."

Mr. Mobley suggested that we study our town. In some communities, he said the people look on their town as though they are not responsible for it and as a result they are dead and their town is dead.

"Too often we have to go away from home to learn the news," he said. "Do you know the things in your town that should be boasted, and the things that should be corrected? We work ourselves into the frame of mind that the things at home are not worthwhile. There is a lifetime study in this community, that is of utmost value to you. Every bit of it is full of practical knowledge. Every bit of it refers to your community."

Some of the things you should know about this community are the home, school, church and the work-day life of this community, the government of the community, the health conditions, the division of boys and girls in educational matters. "All these things," he said, "are to be found on the greatest page in history—the open page of everyday life. Without a good, wholesome social life there can be no wholesome school life, church life or home life—no wholesome government."

Mr. Mobley described a town that "moved away" when the mines that supported it, played out. The buildings were still there but the people were gone. The town had been composed of people and two other things—productive labor and business transactions. When labor quit, business quit and the people had to move away. "Land in this community wouldn't be worth 15 cents an acre if it were not for the human mind," he said. He next told of attending an Old Settler's Meeting and talking with a man who ran a refreshment stand. He asked the man if he had been required to pay anything for the privilege of running the stand, and the man said he had and told him how much he paid. Mobley then asked him how much he would be willing to pay to run the stand the following day, and the man replied that not only would he not pay anything but that they would have to pay him to run it, because the people would all be gone. "So you see," said Mr. Mobley, "everything depends upon the human element."

He declared that the stubborn, selfish, unreasonable person is never of much good to a community, because he never works with anyone else or will let anyone else work with him.

"A. E. Winship," he said,

Drilling Has Been Resumed On Meriwether

The Meriwether Oil Company reports that drilling was resumed on their test well on the L. S. McDowell ranch this morning.

With this test now at the 2960 foot mark it is quite possible that they secure an oil well within a few days. It has been found in that territory near the 100 foot mark, and it may be that this test is located in a favorable spot to tap a pool.

The brown shale formation now being encountered is a favorable indication at any rate, according to J. S. Meriwether, president of the company.

Mr. Meriwether and head driller, Bob Helms, say that if the 3100 foot formation does not give them a commercial producer they still have the 3670 foot oil sand to bank on and they feel certain they are going to get an oil well if the stockholders will "stay in and pitch."

Arrest Man For Investigation

Frank Bask, a Mexican, was picked up last night for investigation. Officers believe he may know something about a cutting scrape which was pulled off in the Mexican section some time ago.

"We went down into Kefauver through his folk songs that will live as long as the heart of man beats true to the impulses of higher emotions, and I expected to hear them sing some of those heart-moving songs, but in Kentucky they sang to me, 'Carry Me Back to Old Virginia,' and in Virginia, a land of romance and poetry, they sang like they meant it, 'Out Where the West Begins.'"

"And when we went to South Dakota, there is a great school building, they gathered from all parts of the state and out there, where the West is, where it lies spread out under the heavens and is fastened down by the Black Hills and the Rocky Mountains so that it cannot get away—out there they sang with gusto and with soul-moving pathos, 'I Wish I Was in Dixie!'"

"People, this 'somewhere else' is a wonderful thing but we cannot put our hearts on other places and other people and dream dreams and see visions of things foreign to our

Big Spring To Aid T. & P. Ry. In Fight

The directors of the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce have decided to aid the Texas and Pacific Railway Company in every way possible in their fight to secure permission from the Interstate Commerce Commission to extend their branch line now being built from Monahans, Texas, on to Lovington, N. M. The Santa Fe Railroad is attempting to block this extension by building an extension from Seagraves.

Edwin A. Kelley, president of the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce, and Garland A. Woodward have been named to collect data for presentation to the I. C. C., showing wherein the section through which the new rail extension is to be built can best be served by the T. & P. extension. The nearness of markets for the principal products of that area can more quickly be reached by means of a direct T. & P. connection than by the round-about eastern and northern route of the Santa Fe, and these points will be brought out in the brief to be prepared. Messrs. Kelley and Woodward were given authority to call on others to assist them in gathering and assembling data for the brief.

A Dream Come True Is Meaning of Film Work to Phyllis Haver "I went into the movies," says Phyllis Haver, "because I wanted to act. There are fifty other reasons generally but in my case I was caught by the glamour of the screen—and am still caught by it. Whenever I told people all that I thought it would mean to work in pictures, they said I was suffering from day dreams—that nothing turned out as you expected it to. "I went to Hollywood with my parents after I left High School. It seemed wonderful to me the second I saw it and it has seemed a great place ever since. It wasn't easy at the beginning—there were many other girls much prettier than myself trying to enter the studio. However, I got the first chance as a bathing girl and from the ocean, I got into the studio. "I played very small parts for a time, but gradual, through the experience I had gained in working and watching, more important roles came along. I shall always count my role as Shanghai Mabel in "What Price Glory" as the turning point in my career. I almost turned that role down. Often producers had said to me, "Phyllis, this is only a bit, but see what you can do with it. I am sure you can make something of the part." When the Fox Studio called me over to talk about the part of Shanghai Mabel this remark in substance was repeated. I was told the part was colorful, but that, of course, it was a bit I heard this so much—this was the last straw. But I thought about the part and studied its possibilities and finally decided to take it. And that role was the turning point. "Since that time I have played several roles which I have enjoyed immensely—in "The Way of All Flesh" and "Chicago." I sincerely believe that any part in D. W. Griffith's "The Battle of the Sexes" is one of the best things I've done. "Motion pictures are a riddle—you don't know just exactly how you happened into them—you don't know just exactly why you stay—but there's a fascination about picture work that cannot be denied. Every minute of my time in the films has been thoroughly enjoyable—and if I had to do it all over again I'd do it exactly the same way. Miss Haver will be seen at the Ritz Theater on Friday and Saturday, when "The Battle of the Sexes" is shown. The other stars appearing in the picture are Jean Harlow, Belle Bennett, Don Alvarado and Sally O'Neil.

Conservation of Wild Life Taught In Schools AUSTIN, March 11.—To teach the protection of wild game life is the object of a pamphlet now being printed by the Game, Fish and Oyster Commission, which will be sent to the schools of Texas upon application by teachers or pupils. The little booklet describes the game birds of the state and a few of the resident and transient game birds and is suitable for supplementary reading in class work. It contains a brief statement of what the game department is doing and a short drama which illustrates the enforcement of the law by a court trial. A conservation program which includes the play is suggested for one day of the first week of May when the fishing season has just opened. The entire program can be handled in forty minutes' time. This work was prompted by many calls from teachers and pupils over the state who are interested in conservation and supplies a need of long standing. The Department is fully aware that education which stimulates interest in wild life and prevents violations of the law is better than punishment after the law has been violated and this form of enforcement is also far more economical to the state.

Huge Salary Paid Al Jolson as Star of "The Jazz Singer" No one can attribute the success of Al Jolson in "The Jazz Singer" to a lucky break for Warner Bros. The producers certainly deserve some credit for the manner in which they went to work on the picture and the means they took to obliterate chance from everything connected with it. To begin with, it must have taken a lot of nerve to have signed up Al Jolson for the picture. The black-face comedian recently turned down an offer of $20,000 for a week's work in New York, so his plain he knows his own value. What the Warners paid Jolson for his labor in Hollywood they are not telling and probably no one outside of the Internal Revenue Department of the government ever will know. The thrilling and emotional story is that of the son of a cantor who runs away from home and becomes after years of struggle a Broadway sensation—returning when almost too late to sing in place of his father on the eve of the Day of Atonement. The play follows closely the life of Al Jolson, the star, who makes the triumph of his life in the role. As for the cast, it looks to have been "hand picked." Surrounding Jolson are a number of stars. The leading woman is the dainty May McAvoy and after her comes the character star, Warner Oland, Eugenie Besserer portrays the mother, and others in the cast include Otto Lederer, Bobby Gordon, Richard Tucker and Nai Carr. The celebrated cantor, Josef Rosenblatt is also in the cast. Alan Crosland, who established his reputation as the director of "Don Juan," "When a Man Loves" and "Old San Francisco," has had charge of the filming of "The Jazz Singer." Al Jolson in "The Jazz Singer," comes to the Ritz next week for a run of four days.

Dr. Youngblood will assume his new duties sometime this month, after he has made his report on his work in cotton marketing. It was under his guidance that the station reached its present high state of development and efficiency, the department here states.

Simms Oil Co. Employs To Share In Stock Dividends A cash dividend of 40c a share of the company's stock, entailing a total disbursement of more than $322,000, is announced by officials of Simms Oil Company of Dallas. The dividend is payable on March 15, to stockholders on record as of Feb. 28. Many Simms Oil Company employees share in this and previous dividends through the company's employees' stock purchase plan. This is the quarterly dividend paid by Simms Petroleum Company. The company is operating, through its producing department, in the five southwestern states of Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas, Louisiana and Arkansas. Retail sales of the company are confined to the city of Dallas, where it is operating twenty-nine official service stations, and to Smaekover, Ark., where two retail stations have been opened. The wholesale distribution of Simms' products, however, covers the states of Texas and Arkansas. More than seventy bulk distribution plants are being operated in the two states and others are being added as fast as conditions warrant to supply the independent dealers who distribute Simms' products. Conservation of Wild Life Taught In Schools AUSTIN, March 11.—To teach the protection of wild game life is the object of a pamphlet now being printed by the Game, Fish and Oyster Commission, which will be sent to the schools of Texas upon application by teachers or pupils. The little booklet describes the game birds of the state and a few of the resident and transient game birds and is suitable for supplementary reading in class work. It contains a brief statement of what the game department is doing and a short drama which illustrates the enforcement of the law by a court trial. A conservation program which includes the play is suggested for one day of the first week of May when the fishing season has just opened. The entire program can be handled in forty minutes' time. This work was prompted by many calls from teachers and pupils over the state who are interested in conservation and supplies a need of long standing. The Department is fully aware that education which stimulates interest in wild life and prevents violations of the law is better than punishment after the law has been violated and this form of enforcement is also far more economical to the state.

Huge Salary Paid Al Jolson as Star of "The Jazz Singer" No one can attribute the success of Al Jolson in "The Jazz Singer" to a lucky break for Warner Bros. The producers certainly deserve some credit for the manner in which they went to work on the picture and the means they took to obliterate chance from everything connected with it. To begin with, it must have taken a lot of nerve to have signed up Al Jolson for the picture. The black-face comedian recently turned down an offer of $20,000 for a week's work in New York, so his plain he knows his own value. What the Warners paid Jolson for his labor in Hollywood they are not telling and probably no one outside of the Internal Revenue Department of the government ever will know. The thrilling and emotional story is that of the son of a cantor who runs away from home and becomes after years of struggle a Broadway sensation—returning when almost too late to sing in place of his father on the eve of the Day of Atonement. The play follows closely the life of Al Jolson, the star, who makes the triumph of his life in the role. As for the cast, it looks to have been "hand picked." Surrounding Jolson are a number of stars. The leading woman is the dainty May McAvoy and after her comes the character star, Warner Oland, Eugenie Besserer portrays the mother, and others in the cast include Otto Lederer, Bobby Gordon, Richard Tucker and Nai Carr. The celebrated cantor, Josef Rosenblatt is also in the cast. Alan Crosland, who established his reputation as the director of "Don Juan," "When a Man Loves" and "Old San Francisco," has had charge of the filming of "The Jazz Singer." Al Jolson in "The Jazz Singer," comes to the Ritz next week for a run of four days.

High Money Rate Affects Stock Market The seriousness of the money situation was again emphasized by the increase of $140,000,000 in broker loans and the advance to call money to 12 per cent. The money situation continues to be the governing influence in the price fluctuation although the late rally was impressive it was considered due to the technical conditions of the market itself. Further irregularities may be expected. The current heaviness is considered by important people to be only a temporary reaction in a major upward movement.

Time to Rejoice The securing of the viaduct across the railway tracks is going to be the biggest civic improvement Big Spring has ever put over. More people will be benefited and a great menace to life and limb will be eliminated.

Just Like An Ostrich A medical authority says that a person who tries to cover up skin blemishes and pimples with toilet cream and powder is just as foolish as an ostrich that buries its head in the sand to avoid danger. Skin eruptions are nature's warning that constipation is throwing poisons into your blood stream and weakening your whole constitution. Remove the constipated condition and you will strengthen your system, regain disease and clear up your disfigured skin. PAINS In Side and Back I HAD BEEN miserable for a long time. My health was poor, and I suffered a lot from weakness. At times, my strength was so little that I could not stand on my feet. I would have to give up and go to bed. My sides and back hurt dreadfully. "I grew discouraged, for I could do so little. I worried about myself, and almost gave up hope of ever being strong and well. I could scarcely lift a bucket of water. My housework went undone, for I was not strong enough to do it. "After I had taken Cardui for a little while, I began to feel better. I grew stronger, soon found that I could do my work with less effort, and the pains in my back and sides left me. I think Cardui is a wonderful medicine. My health has been excellent since then."—Mrs. D. L. Beckner, W. Main St., Salem, Va. CARDUI Helps Women To Health

Never Disappoint An Audience, Says Jolson, Warner Star

An example of Jolson's do-or-die spirit harkens back to 1912 when he was appearing in "The Whirl of Society," his first starring vehicle under the Shuberts, in Chicago. It was a Labor Day matinee.

Before the curtain rose, Jolson looked over the orchestra and saw a scant 50 patrons comprising the entire house. Instead of calling the show off and refunding the few dollars in the box office, he ordered the show to go on. When his entrance came, he called everybody in the theatre to come down into the first three rows.

"We're going to have a little party, just the six of us," said the indomitable Al, "and we're going to have the whole show."

Before the week was over the show was a sell-out and Jolson was an acknowledged star.

At Jolson comes to the Ritz Theatre next week in Warner Bros' supreme triumph, "The Jazz Singer."

100 BARRELS IS ESTIMATE GIVEN ON FISHER WELL

Officials of the Cranfill-Reynolds Company, from Cisco, estimated yesterday that No. 1 M. M. Brown, brought in Thursday night in the part of Fisher county in conjunction with the Sun Oil Company, is worth 80 to 100 barrels without further drilling into the pay topped at 3,192 feet and penetrated three feet.

The well swabbed 46 barrels on Thursday night on the first test after being cleaned out. This well is more than two miles from nearest production, in the Stephens pool west of Hamlin and is near McCauley. The producing formation is believed to be slightly deeper than the pay from which the other wells are producing.

Oil from this hole tests 43 degrees gravity and is of higher grade than the output of any other Fisher county well. It logged very similar to Sinclair's No. 1 Steele, two and a half miles northwest.

Move Into New Post Office Building To Be Made At Once

We will be able to secure our mail in the new postoffice building Tuesday. Postmaster E. E. Fahrenkamp and force have their hands full in making the transfer from one building to the other and are going to request that all be as patient as possible during the next two weeks, until they get things straightened out. The big move will start tonight so all business can be directed from the new building tomorrow—so they may be a little late getting the office open and the mail distributed Tuesday morning.

Assigning boxes and giving the new combinations on 1000 boxes is going to require some little time and trouble itself.

Though double the floor space was secured in the new building compared to the old office, it is apparent that the new office is not going to be large enough if the town keeps on growing.

Right from the start the lobby is going to prove too small, because so many get their mail at the general delivery window, and we expect to see the front part of the lobby blocked by the long lines of folks.

The new building and fixtures present a most attractive appearance, at any rate, and we are going to try to be satisfied with it. We secure that Federal building.

To the Teachers of The Rural Schools

I wish to remind each teacher that college entrance examinations will be given in April or May. All teachers who have pupils to take these examinations are asked to please see me by March 30. These examinations will be held at two rural schools, centrally located, and also in my office. The schools selected will be designated later. The college entrance examination questions in home economics will be sent this year on request, therefore anyone who has a student to take these examinations must report same to me at once.

Please see me before March 30, as after that date it will be too late.

T. & P. Equips 567 Miles of Line During Last Six Months

Completing the installation of 567 miles of automatic block signals within six months, the Texas & Pacific Railway has performed a task in railroad construction that is unusual, both because of the extent of the territory covered and the rapidity with which the work was carried through. Frank Jensen, general passenger agent, said Friday.

The signal apparatus was purchased from the General Railway Signal Company and was installed by T. & P. crews. The main line is now completely equipped with automatic color-light signals from Texarkana to Toyah, a distance of 566 miles.

The recent oil development in West Texas gave the T. & P. a tremendous increased freight traffic over that part of the line. Mr. Jensen said, and to relieve congestion brought about by the number of trains required to handle this tonnage it was decided to replace the manual block system then in use with automatic signals.

Concrete signal foundations and cable pole foundations were made at Marshall and Big Spring. The foundations were set with a derrick. Seventeen power bonding drills, each drill operated by a gang of five men, were used and an average of 1,400 holes were drilled each working day. A special pole line to carry the signal wires was built and three earth-boring machines were used to dig the holes and set the poles.

Work on the signal system for the line from Longview Junction to New Orleans will be begun within a few weeks. Approximately one-third of this work has been done at the New Orleans end of the line, Dallas News.

A Great Discovery

When Pasteur discovered, in 1852, that the infection of wounds was caused by malignant bacteria, he performed a service of inestimable value to mankind. Since then medical science has been producing better and better antiseptics, to kill these germs that may enter the smallest cut and give us diseases such as typhoid, tuberculosis and lockjaw. Now, all you have to do to be sure that these dreadful germs will not infect a wound, is to wash that wound, however small, thoroughly with Liquid Borosone, the modern antiseptic. You can get Liquid Borosone, in a tin to fit your needs and purse, from CUNNINGHAM and PHILIPS, J. D. BILES, Druggist.

Lockhart Boys Fly To El Paso and Pecos

Five men sat at breakfast in the Hotel Hussman Monday morning. Each a millionaire, the "Lockhart boys," as they are known throughout the vast oil fields of California and Texas, are not only of one genealogical family, but of one business family, too.

For L. E. Lockhart is president of the Rio Grande Oil Company; L. M. Lockhart is secretary; Lynn and A. M. Lockhart are the vice-presidents, and H. L. Lockhart is president of Lockhart & Co., a subsidiary of the Rio Grande Oil Company.

They are in El Paso to attend a meeting of the stockholders of the Rio Grande Oil Company, to be held in the offices of the company Monday.

"Do I think this section of Texas will ever become an oil center? Well, about 200 to 250 miles from El Paso, there are some of the richest oil fields in the world which yet have not been fully developed," L. E. Lockhart said.

"In what is known as the Pecos river county, in Pecos, Ward, Reeves and Loving counties, oil has already been discovered. But the industry in this section of Texas has just started."

"I do not believe that El Paso will ever become the center of the oil industry in this section of the country, for it is too far away from the fields. But I do believe that this city will benefit by the activities," Mr. Lockhart said.

Following the stockholders' meeting, the five brothers with their wives, will fly to Pecos by plane, and will later leave in the same tri-motored Ford plane of the scenic Airways, Inc., for Phoenix.—El Paso Herald.
