Farm 'Strike' Suggested By Two Senators

Bankhead, Smith Say Agriculture Due More Money

WASHINGTON, March 19 (AP)—Senators Bankhead (D-Ala.) and Smith (D-Sc.) today suggested a general "strike" by farmers as a possible means of gaining agriculture a larger share of the money distributed by a national defense spending.

The suggestion came at a hearing of the senate agriculture committee after Secretary of Agriculture Wickard refused to support a proposal for government loans to peg prices of cotton, wheat, corn and tobacco at higher levels.

Bankhead developed by questioning Wickard that huge surpluses of cotton and wheat had piled up despite farmer cooperations with government programs to reduce production.

Secretary Wickard interrupted to say that farm income was more than $9,000,000,000 last year and predicted it would increase another $500,000,000 this year.

Senator McNary (R-Ore.) attempted to learn administration plans for use of some of the $7,000,000,000 British aid fund for export of agricultural products.

Other sections east of the Rocky mountains, particularly in the upper Mississippi valley, showed marked changes to warmer weather.

Denison Dam Fight Goes To Top Court

WASHINGTON, March 19 (AP)—Constitutionality of the construction by the federal government of the $54,000,000 Denison dam across Red river in Texas and Oklahoma was challenged today in a petition filed with the supreme court by Governor Leon C. Phillips of Oklahoma.

He sought a review of a decision by a three-judge federal court in eastern Oklahoma upholding the construction and denying an injunction to stop further activity.

The petition stated that the hydroelectric and flood control project violated state rights, would inundate approximately 100,000 acres of Oklahoma land and would destroy many miles of highways and a large number of bridges.

Commodities Hit New High Levels In Market Rise

CHICAGO, March 19 (AP)—Prices of many farm commodities particularly dairy products and grains, advanced again today to the highest levels in several months in a broadening of buying that mirrored trade interpretations of war developments and the United States' democracy-aid role.

Increasing industrial activity, which market statisticians expect to stimulate domestic demand for foods, was coupled with the prospect of stepped up export of certain products under the lend-lease law in forming a strong background in the commodity trade.

Butter and grains, which have been advancing for several days, reached new high prices for the season. Producers traders said reports that the government was planning to send $450,000,000 worth of agricultural commodities to Great Britain, principally dairy products, was the principal factor in the trade.

Although no wheat shipments were contemplated under this program, British demands for meats, fat and oils and dairy products were expected to affect grains indirectly. Corn advanced about a cent to around 65 cents, highest since November. Oats and rye prices were at about the best levels of the year.

Greeks Tell Of British Raids On Port Of Valona

BELOGRADE, Yugoslavia, March 19 (AP)—Eleven Greek soldiers, headed home from the war in an exchange of prisoners, declared today British bombings they witnessed at the Albanian port of Valona had reduced the town to wreckage, the port to a shambles.

The Greeks, most of them mere boys and all legless, passed through Belgrade in an Italian Red Cross train of 18 cars carrying prisoners home for exchange. They were in a hospital at Valona awaiting transportation when British planes concentrated on the port in a recent raid.

"It was the most terrific bombing conceivable," one young Greek said. "The whole city seemed to tremble. How they avoided hitting our hospital I cannot imagine. Every other big building seemed to be wrecked."

Valona is the southernmost Albanian port still in Italian hands. It lies 28 miles from Tepelen, a pivotal point in last week's fighting.

Ten of the 11 lost legs as a result of frost bite. The other lost his legs when machine-gunned.

Double Help for WOMEN!
When periodic functional distress begins to make you miserable, why not do as thousands of women and take CARDUI? It may be used 2 ways. First: To help relieve periodic distress, start 3 days before "the time" and follow directions. Second: To aid in building energy, strength—through better appetite, increased flow of gastric juice which helps digestion—take it by directions as a tonic. Try CARDUI! —adv.

A "HEAD-AND-SHOULDERS" STANDOUT FOR

THERE'S just one way to know how much this year's Ford car has done for comfort in the low-price field. And that's to get in and ride!

Soft, "slow-motion" Ford springs, with improved shock absorbers, new stabilizer and frame, give riding quality that's new in quiet, levelness and comfort over good road or bad, front seat or rear. On the word of a host of enthusiastic 1941 car buyers... here's a ride you don't want to miss! And here's new roominess, too! Entirely new Ford bodies for this year, on lengthened wheelbase, give the greatest passenger room, the biggest windshield and rear window, in the Ford's whole price field for '41!

If you're going to get a new car this year, you'll do well to size up this new Ford. Then ask about a "deal," and learn how little it will cost to own the big '41 Ford!

ITS RIDE!

ITS ROOM!

ITS VIEW!

FORD FEATURES THAT STAND OUT AT THE PRICE

EIGHT-CYLINDER PERFORMANCE. With proof in many tests that Ford owners enjoy extra cylinders without extra cost for gas or oil.

ROOMY BODIES. Roomiest in the field in total inside length, total seating width, total passenger room.

THE NEW FORD RIDE. A soft, quiet, level ride, wholly new this year, and based on new springs and ride stabilizer, stiffer frame and improved shock absorbers.

BIG HYDRAULIC BRAKES. Biggest of any car near the price. For greater safety and longer brake-lining service.

BIG WINDOWS. Biggest windshield and greatest total window area in this price field.

NEW STYLE. Not just a new front, but entirely redesigned this year in hood, fenders, bodies and interiors.

Miss Laneous Notes

By MARY WHALEY

A man getting in and out of an overcoat is a study in how to be awkward. There are two and seemingly only two methods of shucking the o'coat.

The first method is most commonly used.

The man gets inside a building and shrugs out of one sleeve, letting the tail of his coat drag along the floor as he walks inside.

Then with a twist of his other arm he gets completely out of his coat, catches it by the neck and the job is done.

This might be referred to as the one, two, three method. It's neat except that the tail of his overcoat is likely to accumulate with the months a miscellany of gum, sticky paper and dust curia.

The other method is used usually by the neat but portly gentleman. He tears at one sleeve and then the other until his coat is sagging all around. Then he finally gets one pudgy arm outside and wraps it around his body to catch hold of the other side of his coat. He manages to get the other arm out eventually, and keeping the coat suspended in the air, he finally reaches a hangar.

But whether he is the number one or number two variety, he assumes a look of pleased cunning that he has again mastered the process.

It is only with summer that he is once more master of the situation. Then with the superiority of the species he can wholeheartedly make fun of woman's trials and tribulations in dress—such as hats!

New C. R. Anthony Department Store Opens Thursday

Firm Leases Sparenburg Building

A new department store, part of a 65-store system owned by its operators, opens here Thursday when the C. R. Anthony Company begins its business life in Big Spring.

New in all respects, the Anthony store will boast a complete new line of merchandise, new fixtures, new interior appointments in the Sparenburg building opposite the courthouse.

All departments of the unit carry complete lines of first quality merchandise at popular prices, and customers may find a wide selection in modern styling in the hat, men's furnishings, work clothes, shoes, ready-to-wear, piece goods and women's furnishings departments of the Anthony store.

Entrance of the store into Big Spring brings the number of C. R. Anthony stores to 65 and the number in Texas to 11. Originally an Oklahoma institution, the Anthony stores now are a big southwestern institution which now is expanding rapidly in this state with locations at Brownwood and Brownsville in the making.

In addition to carrying a line of Anthony goods, the store here will offer many outstanding standard brands in clothing and furnishings. Whatever it is, the Anthony policy is to maintain its constant efforts to be a value giving institution with fair treatment to the public.

That Anthony intends to become a permanent part of the Big Spring business structure is evidenced by the securing of a 10-year lease on the Sparenburg building. Moreover, in keeping with the company's mode of operation, its managers here are men interested in community and civic affairs.

The store, renovated to Anthony specifications, will be one of the most modern in this section. It has efficient lighting, ample heating for winter and air conditioning for summer. The entire floor will be given over to merchandising, and the office space has been relegated to the balcony.

In charge of the store will be Culin Grigsby, manager, and F. H. (Hutch) Adam, assistant manager, both experienced Anthony men.

Manager of the C. R. Anthony store in Big Spring is Culin Grigsby, associated with the company since 1929 when he started in as part-time worker while attending Okla. A.S.M. In 1934 he moved to Cleveland, Okla., as assistant manager and in 1935 became manager of the store. Mrs. Grigsby and their children, Culin Grigsby, 8, Wesley Lynn, Grigsby, 15 months, and Merline Merwin, 14-year old stepdaughter, will join him here when school is out. Grigsby was born in Dexter, Texas in 1910 and lived for 13 years around Gainesville, where his folks still reside. He lived at Snyder when he finished high school and is "glad to move back to Texas for I always have felt that it was my home state." —Perry Photo.

C. R. Anthony Stores Have Spread Far In 19 Years

It's been 19 years now since an Oklahoma business man decided to go into business for himself with an idea for building business in which his associates would share.

Today C. R. Anthony can look upon the fruits of that precept which has netted 65 stores through the Southwest, all functioning much according to his original plan.

Migrating from Tennessee with his parents in 1898 to the Oklahoma Indian Territory, Anthony early became a clerk in stores. He was not satisfied with clerking as such, however, and used his evenings to attend business school. Later he became secretary to Governor Brown, tribal governor of the Seminole Nation at Wewoka.

In 1910 he married and to the union was born five children, two of them sons who are now assisting the founder in operation of the Anthony system.

Not long after his marriage he conceived the idea of opening a series of businesses with his managers as partners. This arrangement persisted until 1922 when the Assistant to Manager of the new C. R. Anthony store here is F. H. (Hutch) Adam, 38. Experienced in his line of trade, Adam has been with the company for one year at Duncan, Okla., but in that space of time has had a varied experience. He is married and to be and Mrs. Adam has been born one child, Donnie, 4.—Perry Photo.

Big Spring Was Long Studied As Store Location

Opening of the C. R. Anthony store in Big Spring is by no means a development of current opportunity.

L. D. Webber, vice-president of the company, points out that Big Spring has been under consideration as a marketing point for at least 10 years.

It was around 1930 that representatives of the company became interested in Big Spring. Since that time complete studies have been made of the trade area and the result was that officials concluded there was no better place in West Texas for location of an Anthony store. To back this belief, a 10-year lease was taken on the Sparenburg building here, where the firm is located.

J. K. Barfield, Stanton, Now In Commission Work

STANTON, March 20 (Sp)—J. K. Barfield, who recently sold his ranching interests in Martin county to Dr. Y. D. McMurry of Monahans, is devoting his time to selling livestock on a commission basis.

He is preparing to greatly improve his home place on a 35 acre plot adjoining town on the north by installing feed pens and building extensive shed rooms to accommodate local ranchmen who care to feed out their stock for shipment.

Barfield reports the following livestock deals in this area closed last week:

Pete Tom, Martin county ranchman, purchased 75 head of short yearlings from Ralph McWhorter, Andrews county ranchman, at $45 per head; Tom also purchased the calves of a Mr. Houston, ranchman at North Hobbs, N. M. Some of the Tom calves will be placed in the Barfield feed pens and the others placed on his ranch.

The Curt Flanagan ranch adjoining Stanton on the north was leased to B. B. Free of Knott who also purchased 700 head of the Flanagan sheep.

Barfield expects to have from 100 to 120 head of calves in his feed lots on a 30 to 60 days' feed period, within the next few days.

Petaim Says American Aid Is Necessary

VICHY, France, March 19 (UP)—Chief of State Marshal Petaim told his nation today that American aid is necessary for feeding France. He also announced that a new French constitution would be drawn only after European peace is concluded.

"I have no need to tell you that the question of taxes, the lack of food and the depletion of stocks are the object of all our pre-occupations and we count much upon American aid," Petaim said.

Speaking before a Grenoble audience and addressing the nation at the same time by radio, the chief of state said, "My duty is to prepare for the day when France will become free again, a treaty of peace and a new constitution."

$610,000 Work At State Hospital Here Recommended

AUSTIN, March 19 (UP)—A $610,000 building program for eleemosynary institutions is proposed in a $16,636,744 biennial appropriation bill sent to the floor today by the senate finance committee.

Chairman A. M. Aikin, Jr., of Paris said the committee is attempting to complete a four-year building program in the next two years in order to remove numerous insane persons now housed in jails because of lack of institutional facilities and otherwise improve the system.

Construction recommended by the committee included: Big Spring State Hospital—four ward buildings and equipment, $130,000 each; chapel and recreational building $50,000.

Louis' Foe Ballyhoos His Win Hopes

DETROIT, Mich., March 19 (AP)—Ponderous Abe Simon, never knocked off his feet in 50 tough battles, presented a one-man ballyhoo in his own behalf today over his chances of accomplishing the seemingly impossible — defeating Joe Louis.

Simon, stretching 6 feet, 4 inches and weighing 255 pounds, has the physique to stand up under a terrific bombardment. He has powerful shoulders and arms, and a bulging chest, and not an ounce of fat on his huge frame. He has the biggest pair of hands in boxing, each measuring 14 1/2 inches. "I realize I'm perhaps alone in my own convictions," Simon said today, "but I'm sure Louis can't hurt me."

Both boxers wind up their training today. Louis, supremely confident of victory, planned to breeze through four rounds of boxing, with Simon also shortening his work with the gloves to four rounds.

Promoter Mike Jacobs arrived from New York to superintend the final details of the battle. With tickets selling from $1 to $5, Jacobs figures on a $50,000 net.

NCAA Cagers Hit Stride

KANSAS CITY, March 19 (AP)—The Missouri Valley conference, made up of schools the Big Six parted company with in 1928, carried the Midwest's banner in the eight-team hunt for a new NCAA basketball champion.

Creighton, king of the valley remnants, won that privilege by spilling Iowa State, one of the half dozen schools that succeeded a decade and a half ago.

The Cyclones, best the Big Six could offer, lost a 57 to 48 verdict last night to the Omaha Bluejays who switched from their usual fast break to neat passing and the scoring of Ed Besser, powerful center, for the triumph.

By its victory, Creighton became the opponent of Washington State in one of Friday night's two games here in the opening round of the western finals. Coach Jack Friel of the Pacific Coast champions, left the Cougar train in Montana and flew here in time to see the game.

Arkansas, Southwest conference king, and Wyoming, topnotch five of the Rocky Mountain area, are the other western finalists.

Down But Not Out—Detroit Is A '41 Threat

LAKELAND, Fla., March 19 (AP)—Ever since the Detroit Tigers gasped their way to the last American league championship, and then were beaten into a state of exhaustion by Cincinnati in the world series it has been customary to regard them as dead pigeons.

Illinois Kegler Has Nothing On Gus Hepner

SHELBYVILLE, Ind., March 19 (AP)—Eck Stanley, league bowler at the Shelby Recreation alley, had a strictly "average," but distinctly uncommon, three-game series.

Gus Hepner of Big Spring went the Illinois bowler one point better in a meet at Midland on March 11 in that he tallied a count of 183 in a three-game series and his average for the season is also 183.

Softballers Parley Fri. On Plans

Organization of two softball leagues will be completed at a called meeting Friday at 7:30 p. m. in the city courtroom. Malcom Bridges, city recreational director, said Wednesday.

Efforts will be made at the meeting to complete the league roster for fast and slow groups, and steps taken toward drafting of schedules.

At a previous meeting, tentative regulations and rules were adopted, including a 15-pitch limit, a $5 entry fee, and a 50-cent per game umpire charge. Each team will be required to furnish a good ball for every game.

Lined up for the fast league are: Phillips Tire Co., Birdwell, manager; Montgomery Ward, Jennings, manager; NTA Center, Joe B. Harrison, manager; City Employees, Emmon Lovelady, manager; Prospects are Standard Oil Co., Hack Wright, manager; Fossan-Chalk, Blackwell, manager; Ackerly and T and P shops.

In the slow league teams are A. B. Club and the NTA Center second team. The Herald and the Lions club are prospective entries.

EAT AT THE CLUB CAFE "We Never Close" G. C. DUNHAM, Prop.

realization that big Hank Greenberg, the Tigers' greatest slugger, was due to be drafted any minute has availed the dirge for Del Baker's team.

After looking them over in training camp here, the suspicion arises that the Tigers might have been planted a little prematurely. They feel they have an even chance of repeating, with or without Greenberg. It probably would be rash to pick them over either Cleveland or the New York Yankees, but it would be equally foolish to think they will not be a powerful factor in the coming race.

Looking back on the Tigers last year, they won out partially because the strife-torn Cleveland Indians collapsed and partially because they (the Tigers) had two great pitchers in Buck Newsom and Lynnwood Rowen and three tremendous hitters in Greenberg, Rudy York and Barney McCosky.

They lost the world series, which they entered tired and weary. But they made it as close as the next breath and it might have been a vastly different story if Rowe had not fallen down completely in his last series starts. He still doesn't know why. He simply had nothing on the ball.

If and when Greenberg goes (and he says "I'm ready to go the minute they call me") it can't help being a blow to the Tigers. Yet it will not necessarily prove a knock-out. They still will have three dangerous hitters in McCosky (340), York (318) and Charlie Gehringer (312). They still will have Newsom (21-6), Rowe (18-3) and Tommy Bridges (12-9) to pace their pitching staff, which includes several promising youngsters. And they still will have a fine pair of catchers in Billy Sullivan and Ernie Tobetta.

Greenberg's replacement would be Ned Harris, brought up from Beaumont of the Texas league, where he hit .318 and was second in total hits and runs scored.

Cats Welcome Fred Marberry

DALLAS, March 19 (AP)—Baseball's grand old Fred (Fip) Marberry, the man who announced his "retirement" two seasons ago after a sensational year, will start another season with Fort Worth in a few weeks. Down at Brownsville, the Cats' spring training ball, he reported late, threw three balls at Ed (Beatracks) Greer and holled:

"Okay, I'm ready to start the season—when do we hit?" On the same Fort Worth pitching roster is a six foot, six inch rookie named Bill Gray, who, according to a place turned out by Scriber Lorin McMillen, could be anything from a Class D relief hurler to a $100,000 gem on the open market in three seasons. The Cats are holding their collective breath; they just don't know how good this giant could be. But he's developing a fast ball and handles himself well. He just wandered in for a tryout.

Lookin' em Over With Jack Douglas

C. A. (Rocky) Randall, former Robstown football coach, was elected Tuesday night to fill the post vacated by San Angelo's Coach Harry Taylor, with the entire school board happy about the whole affair.

Randall was named for the job out of a list of applicants that numbered approximately fifty. School Supt. Bryan Dickson suggested Randall as the one and only nominee for a job that bids fair to be rather tough and go far at least the 1941 season. Arthur (Tonto) Coleman, currently associated with the athletic setup at Abilene Christian college and former coach at San Angelo, was approached with respect to the opening but decided to decline, owing to the evident fact that the place is not on the permanent basis such as prevails at A.C.C.

At one time freshman football coach at Texas University, where he left a record as a bang-up guardman, Randall has been in charge of athletic endeavors at Robstown for the past 11 years. During that time his teams have given the big boys in Class AA football a healthy souflee in every engagement.

Randall's job at San Angelo isn't going to be easy by any means but he is scheduled to give the Bobcats a bit of action during the '41 season.

Bobby Savage, Big Spring's offering to Coach Wisdom's classy crew of John Tarleton basketballers, tells us that there seems to be a difference of opinion concerning the squabble between the Tarletonwrong way on the track. Now the son of Discovery-Swiftly, although still regarded as temperamental and nervous, apparently has been broken of the bad habit. He was a sensation at Hialeah Park, winning the Bahamas handicap and the $50,000 Flamingo stakes.

Max Hirsch, who trains Dispose for Richard J. Klobarg's King ranch stable, disclosed that Dispose ran most of the distance in the Flamingo with only three shoes. "I don't know where Dispose lost that shoe," he said, "but I wouldn't be surprised if it was in the first turn."

According to Bobby, San Angelo played a series of games with teams that, if they weren't setups, bordered closely on that classification. In fact, Savage advanced the idea that San Angelo played only three good teams throughout the year.

Tarleton did not object to the quality of opponents met by San Angelo but there were steadfast objections to the San Angelo claim for top honors in the west some of the Texas junior college cage rounds. San Angelo held the Flawboys in the deciding game but a protest gave credit to Wisdom's lads.

Bobby reports there has been some talk of severing athletic relations with San Angelo as the result of the trouble about the title plus considerable ire on the part of the Flawboys because of treatment they received at the hands of the same losers.

Favorite Spilled By Darkhorse In AAU Tilts DENVER, March 19 (AP)—A scrappy Minneapolis Ascension club team uncorked the biggest surprise of the 34th National A. A. U. basketball tournament by spilling the St. Louis Rangers, a red hot pre-met favorite, 40 to 26 last night.

Hank Luttrell's San Francisco Olympic club team and the national champion Phillips 66 Oilers preceded the Minnesotans into tomorrow's third round schedule. Hank sank 17 points to the delight of 5,000 fans and paced the San Francisco club team he captained to an easy 66-36 triumph over St. Louis Neboc last night.

The Wings "O" team and 15 others, moved into today's third round play for the surviving 16 teams, beginning at 1 p. m.

Phillips will open the night show at 7 p. m. against Kansas City College of Commerce. Southern Methodist of the Southwest conference, competing as the Dallas Wildcats, will tangle with Denver Legion, runner-up at the 1940 A. A. U. tourney.

Good Scores, Poor Showings By Golf Pros.

PINEHURST, N. C., March 19 (AP)—That the best golf pros in the business can score well without actually playing good golf had been proved once again today as the North-South open championship went into its second 18-hole round.

Leading the list were Harry Cooper and Lloyd Mangrum, the one from Chicago and the other from its suburbia. Neither was consistent in yesterday's opening round, yet both put 68's on the scoreboard.

A stroke back at 69 were the twop ro champions, open titleholder Little and P. G. A. champ Byron Nelson, with Sammy Snead and red-haired Al Brooch of Farmingdale, N. Y., and not one of them produced for the entire eighteen holes the kind of golf expected from the masters of this ancient, troublesome game.

Cooper's case probably was the most surprising since Lighthorse Harry usually turns in his best scores when he is in a near-perfectionist, mechanical groove. Recently "Coopie" has been having trouble, though, and the trouble has led to experimentation. That in turn led to his borrowing a driver from Horton Smith for a practice round two days ago. Cooper did quite well with that driver.

Wyoming U. Names New Football Coach LARAMIE, Wyo., March 19 (AP)—The University of Wyoming, 1941 Big Seven conference basketball title winner and anxious for gridiron success, chose Bernard F. (Bunny) Oakes last night as head football coach.

Oakes, 42, was dismissed a year ago as Colorado's grid coach.

Army Camps Built By Wasteful Methods

Over in a neighboring city is a new army camp built with your money and ours at an enormous cost—perhaps a cost unjustified by speed or emergency.

Speed is no doubt needed in the pressing defense program now being carried out. But speed does not justify such wanton waste.

Men have been worked 10 and 12 hours per day, with time-and-a-half being paid for all over eight hours, while other men equally as skilled vainly waited outside the gates for work that never came. This increased cost—and the percentage.

Men have been kept on the payroll when their services were no longer needed—when, in fact, regular army troops had arrived to take over their duties.

In plain language, the mongrel cost-plus system has resulted in paying commissions for wasting money in many instances.

Such waste cannot conceivably help us weather the current crisis. It is time that the public demand of its leaders that such practices be ended. We may need this waste for more defense before this business is all done.

Alsop and Kintner—Sale Of British Securities Ends Long Fight

WASHINGTON, March 19—The sale of the British-owned Viscose company by a syndicate headed by Morgan, Stanley and Dillon, Read marks the end of the most prolonged and embittered controversy that has so far troubled the relations between London and Washington. To be sure, like Polonius, the hatchet has been "interred, higger-mugger," but the main point is that it really is buried at last.

The disposal of Britain's direct investments in this country was the issue that produced so much friction. From the beginning of the war, the British have been selling their American securities.

Until last fall, however, when Lord Lothian announced that the British war effort would have to be financed in this country, there was no question of selling such direct investments as the Viscose company, Lever Brothers, the American branches of the large British insurance companies, British owned American real estate, and so on. The question was raised by Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau, Jr., immediately after Lord Lothian's public declaration that Britain would need American credits.

After Lord Lothian's declaration, Sir Frederick Phillips, one of the chief officials of the British treasury, was sent to this country to present the British balance sheet, and to arrange for the needed credits being made available. Sir Frederick's balance sheet convinced the Treasury. The result was the lease-lend bill. But Sir Frederick's balance sheet included some $900,000,000 of direct investments, which, as part of the economic foundation of their empire, the British were at first reluctant to sell.

Churchill's Response Morgenthau forced the issue for the first time shortly before the lease-lend bill was offered to congress. Warning the British treasury that his position would be politically untenable if no effort to liquidate the direct investments were made, he demanded that some one empowered to undertake the liquidation to be sent to this country without delay.

Accordingly Sir Edward Peacock was named for the job, and hurried to New York. Meanwhile, in his testimony on the lease-lend bill, Morgenthau included the $900,000,000 of direct investments among the assets the British were prepared to throw into the pot for supplies from this country.

Then followed a long period of investigation and negotiation, during which Sir Edward, his colleague, Carlisle Gifford, and their American advisors explored the situation. Selling large properties of great value, for which there is no ready market, is an extremely difficult affair. Delays arose, and the delays rightly or wrongly generated in Washington the suspicion that the British were attempting to put off the evil day and perhaps even trying to hang on to their properties. As an important element of British banking opinion was bitterly opposed to sale of the direct investments, and this banking faction was represented by several officials here, the suspicions were not ungrounded.

Fortunately, Winston Churchill and the real leaders of the British government regarded sale of the direct investments as a rather trivial sacrifice to the war effort. Consequently they responded with the utmost promptness when Morgenthau and the president sent a warning to London that because of the congressional lineup, at least one important sale must be made before debate began on the $7,000,000,000 appropriation for British aid. Preparatory orders appear to have been sent to Sir

Edward Peacock from London. In obedience to them, he called at Morgan, Stanley last week, told the partners that he wished to dispose of the Viscose company by Sunday at the latest, and suggested the formation of a syndicate for the purpose headed by Morgan, Stanley and Dillon, Read.

Because of the need for extreme haste, the transaction had to be very unusual. There could be no valuation of the big factories and other assets of Viscose, the leading rayon firm in this country and a subsidiary of the British company, Courtauld's Ltd., instead the low basic price of $40,000,000 was set and an agreement was made to give the British 90 per cent of any sums above that obtained for the property. The prospective sale was announced in time to meet the deadline, and the authorities here were filled with pleased satisfaction.

Questionable Policy The episode is exceedingly interesting in two ways. In the first place, the remarkable promptitude of the British Leader's response to the treasury's informal warning shows that they are completely single-minded in their prosecution of the war effort, whatever subordinate officials or London bankers may think.

In the second place, the fact that it was politically necessary to insist on such a sale casts a dubious light on our own relation to the British war effort. For Britain's direct investments, here and abroad, are essential to her economic health. If she liquidates all her direct investments, her port economic position will be infinitely difficult. And surely it is more than a little short-sighted to destroy Britain's economic health, while giving all-out support to her battle for democracy. (Copyright, 1947, New York Tribune, Inc.)

Hollywood Sights and Sounds—Gable and Wife Get Along On Clothes Issue

HOLLYWOOD—One of the reasons, admittedly a minor one, that Clark Gable and Carole Lombard get along so famously is that both see eye to eye on the matter of "dressing up" and putting on the ritz.

Farmer Gable goes for those rusty old trousers and sweaters in his real farm life as well as in the still pictures, and Carole, he says, will have no part in that general feminine conspiracy which aims at getting the male into white-tie-and-tails at the slightest provocation.

Gable's new picture, with Rosalind Russell, is "The Uniform," but the title doesn't mean he'll be dressed up any more than usual. Gable is not one of our clothes-conscious stars—"Don't have to be," he says, "with the kind of parts I play."

The relegation of wardrobe to the minor matters file in Gable's life impressed Walter Pidgeon on their first meeting some years ago.

Gable had been instrumental in having Pidgeon cast in a leading role with him, and Pidgeon—who has worked with clothes-conscious stars—sought him out to confer on wardrobe.

"Tell me what you're wearing," said Walter, "and I'll pick out suits that don't conflict."

"You name it," said Gable, "and I'll steer clear of what you choose."

For "dress" occasions Gable compromises on a tuxedo whenever possible. He has an old suit of tails—bought, as he recalls it, for the academy award dinner in 1938, the year he won his Oscar for "It Happened One Night."

"I've had the thing on about three times since," he grinned with an air of minor triumph. "Once the vest ripped on me as we were leaving the house, and Carole found a safety pin to hold it together."

Gable's quite a farmer out there in the valley—with his alfalfa, his citrus fruit, his avocados.

"That's the way it goes," he said. "A kid works his fool head off to get away from a farm, and then he grows up and works his fool head off to get back on one."

A young movie swain was ambitious to escort Linda Darnell to a film function and tried to telephone her on the set.

He was unsuccessful. Miss Darnell was in school between love scenes with Tyrone Power. Pupils at their studies cannot be interrupted even for the important matter of date-seeking.

Added romantic note: Carole Landis, whose divorce becomes final in November, has an agreement with her employers, 20th Century-Fox, under which the studio promises not to interfere nor to offer suggestions of any kind regarding any future matrimonial plans.

Man About Manhattan—Harsh Words Surround Judging Of Painting

NEW YORK—A friend of ours who spends a good part of her time prowling through galleries was in the Grand Central galleries, No. 15 Vanderbilt Ave., recently, waiting for a friend who was a few minutes late, and she found herself unexpectedly in a room where four men were huddled in a conference off to one side.

She didn't even know they were there until she heard a masculine voice say, "Let's throw out the impossible ones first."

Just a wee bit startled, her first inclination was to retreat, but she stood her ground, and gradually the meaning of this recommendation made itself clear.

"All right, here's one that's impossible—let's throw it out," another of the men said.

"And this one," a third member chimed in.

What was happening was that a jury of four had gathered to select the winner in an exhibition given by art students. The winner was to be rewarded with a check for $500 and an assignment to paint a portrait of Eleanor Roosevelt.

The judges at first had been a bit hesitant as to how the selection should be made. It was then that one of them suggested "Let's throw out the impossible ones first."

After the impossible ones had been consigned to ignominy the four then went into another huddle and discussed ways and means of arriving at a just choice.

"I like this one," one of them said.

"So do I."

"That one with the blue feathers is nice too."

"But don't you think we'd better have another look at that portrait in the corner?"

"Maybe you're right."

The winning went on from there, and so did our friend, who about that time was joined by her tardy companion, and they proceeded to an exhibition in another section of the gallery.

Two hours later, however, passing that way again, our friend was surprised to see the room a mass of spectators. And standing in front of the portrait of a lady with an evening gown stood a young man bursting with pride.

His name was Darrel Brown, and he was the winner.

Probably he was already spending that $500, and rehearsing the things he would say to the First Lady when she comes to pose for him.

The last our friend saw of Mr. Brown he was still standing there, gazing at his handiwork, the whole mystic riddle of success in the hallow of his hand.

It was the idea for Eggbert to borrow $1000 at the bank because of personal friendship with the president's son!

Chapter 21

MARCIA TAKES IT WELL

"Here's the big shot. The boy friend in other words!" Lovely introduced them. "Roger, these are the kids I played around with in town. You've met Katie and Bill and Joe. Call the others—" but their voices drowned Lovely's!

"When it's time to eat!" Katie, little and dark, like a rosebud with its petals still tightly closed, stood beside Roger.

"I tried to keep them from coming," she said in her sweet voice. "But they would. You know how people are when they get out at night, half in the bag."

"I know. And I'm glad to see you." Roger was glad to see Katie again and he reminded that Lovely's closest friend before her marriage had been such a thoroughly nice girl. Sweet, sincere, sensible.

"I think Joe was the one really started it," Katie said. "He had to see Lovely. I guess. See how it is with her. Torture herself with how happy she looks." It was almost as if she were warning Roger, telling him that Joe had not forgotten the beauty and lure of Lovely.

Marcia appeared then. She had put on soft blue corduroy slacks and a sweater and was on her way to the kitchen to get food for the unexpected party. Her mood, as she faced the young people, was light and smooth as a rose petal.

"Our mother, brats!" Lovely said as she put her arm around the smaller and more delicate woman. "Isn't she a swell sport coming down to meet you guys?"

"Hi-yah, mom!" someone yelled. "Hi-yah! Hi-yah! Hi-yah! Love-ly's mom!" They all joined in the cheer and Marcia waved her hand appreciatively at them. Katie still standing close, was examining Marcia with approval. She turned to Roger.

"Your mother's lovely," she said. Roger's "Thank you, Katie," was almost drowned out by the song that started spontaneously. Faster and faster, louder and louder went the voices until they reached the last line.

Marcia laughed and hurried toward the back of the house. It had been a long time since she had done anything in the big kitchen with its ample equipment. But she wouldn't disturb any of the help. It would be fun to do things herself.

She was busily at work when Kar poked his head down the back stairs.

"What's the rumpus?" he called.

"Lovely's friends." She went on slicing the roast left from dinner. "Well," Kar said slowly, "seems we're to know we've got a daughter in the house."

"Darling, make coffee," Marcia turned to him laughing. "That is if you haven't forgotten how? Or did you ever know, my pal? No talk of the camp pot. We'll need lots. It sounds as if we've got both the army and navy in there!"

"There are eighteen." It was Katie. She and Roger had followed Marcia to the kitchen.

"I guess I know more about these things than you do," she said as she started expertly to flip the eggs Marcia had put in the pan.

"Gee, it sure is sweet of you folks to let us come in here and get you up this way. They're a bunch of nuts. They don't mean any harm but they're goofy just the same."

"You're not." Roger looked at her with interested appreciation. "Sometimes I'm not."

Roger carried in the huge silver tray heaped with generously made sandwiches. His gather carried the large and fragrant coffee pot. Lovely's friends needed no second invitation to come to the dining room.

"I could like this place," one of the boys said, taking in the large, luxurious room. "I can see it growing on me just like a weed!"

"Not you, you lush!" from a girl. "Oh Lovely! She's the one that's gone glamor-girl."

Their capacity for food was a major marvel. They were like a pack of ravenous young hounds. Exclaiming over their food. Snatching from one another. Passing their cups for more coffee. Dropping the loaf sugar from Marcia's lovely silver container with reckless abandon.

When Marcia got up and went to the kitchen, Katie followed her. "Don't," she said, as she saw Marcia start more eggs and bacon and bring out a loaf of bread. "Don't get anything more for them. They'll eat forever, as long as you put food on the table. They don't need it. That's just the way they are. Gluttons. Pigs!"

Katie had taken both of Marcia's hands and was drawing her out of the kitchen.

"But they seem hungry yet," Marcia said puzzled.

"They're not. They couldn't be. Not after all they've had here. They're just that way. Wolves!"

Marcia allowed herself to be persuaded.

And finally the cars rolled down the Cosgrave drive to the Albany Post road as dawn was pointing its fingers over the Hudson. Lovely told Marcia and Kar they were grand sports, tops, and she loved them. She hugged Roger violently, took off the trailing velvet negligee and dropped into bed and immediately to sleep.

But Roger lay staring at the ceiling.

Emily would arrive tomorrow. Emily with her quiet ways and sweet consideration. Emily who was so restful. Emily who always said quietly: "If you want it, dear—anything you want." Self-effacing, gentle Emily.

He looked at Lovely, sleeping soundly. She was beautiful. And so young as she slept. He could wait. He could wait until some of the fierce young energy wore out. She was worth it.

In the morning he followed the maid with the breakfast tray into his mother's room.

"Marcia, it was sweet of you to let that wild mob come in here and feed," he said sitting on the edge of her bed.

Marcia smiled. She was pretty even in the morning.

"I didn't mind a bit, Roger," she said. "I thought they were rather fun. Katie's a sweet little thing."

"Yes," Roger was thoughtful. Lovely was still sleeping like a tired baby.

Marcia handed him a piece of toast with orange marmalade on it. Roger ate it slowly. Merry, Marcia's Bedington, looked wistfully from one to the other until Marcia gave her a piece of toast.

Shock From Emily

Finally Roger said the thing that had been on his mind:

"It's going to be tough for Emily, isn't it?"

"Terribly." Marcia turned away and Roger knew her eyes had misted. She had learned to think of Emily as her own daughter.

"You don't think it could have been an accident?" Marcia asked after a long silence.

"How could it?" Roger asked. "I've driven up there so often. The street ends and you have to drive right across a little park to reach the cliff. No one could make a mistake."

"But if their brakes—" Marcia's voice trailed into silence.

"If he'd just lifted his foot and there'd been no brakes the car would have stopped."

"I know." Ghosts walked in Marcia's pretty voice. "And their hands clasped like that. Poor Emily. I can't think why they'd do it."

"Tough for her," Roger said thoughtfully as he stroked Merry's soft fur.

"We must be kind to her. I wonder—Lovely—" Marcia started but Roger's words came quickly.

"She'll be all right. She hasn't

Southwestern Boys Make Best Soldiers, Says Army Official

WASHINGTON, March 18 (AP)—The army couldn't afford to say that any one state turned out better soldiers than another, but an official in the selective service system at a party of Texans let it be known that in his opinion youths from Texas and the southwest developed into the best fighting men.

Two reasons were advanced by this official, who insisted he would have to remain anonymous, even though it made his views weightless to some persons.

First, he said, was the fact that young men from the southwest on the average were in much better physical condition than those from other sections, particularly the east. Proof of this, he added, was in the fact that there were far fewer cases of rupture incurred by boys from southwestern states than from those of other areas. He attributed this to the probability they had been used to much heavier work.

The second reason he advanced, laying less emphasis on this, was the slightly better morale that the youngsters from the west seemed to have. He ventured this might be attributed to the fact that on the whole they grew up in less populous centers, away from large elements of foreign populations, and less familiar with the many "isms" found in the east.

Story

Continued From Page 1 a jealous or mean thought in her head. "I know, Roger, but you'll have to be careful. Women never keep their love apart from the rest of life. You'll never be just a man at work or at play to Lovely. You'll always be her husband—her man. You see I know." She smiled at him. "I'm a woman, Roger."

But it wasn't as hard to meet Emily as Roger had thought it would be. She wasn't changed in the least, unless it was that suffering seemed to hang like a very thin veil over her. Roger brought her up from the station. Lovely had been to the kennels. Winthrop Ramsey had been showing her which dogs might make something at Madison Square Garden in February and why. Perfect coat. Excellent jaws. Small stance. Fine dark eyes. And Lovely was fascinated.

"I like to watch him with the dogs," she said. "He has that fascinating, steeped in iniquity, look; world battered, if you see what I mean. He's probably been in every wicked spot in the world and taken something of each one away with him."

"I wouldn't be surprised," was Roger's comment, for he knew Win's set of dog handlers left little of life unexplored. And Win found Lovely's conspicuous beauty pleasant to have around while he groomed Blue Streak or Merry or Blaze. It would be nice to have her at the shows, too.

And so Lovely breasted in from the kennels just a moment before Emily came down from the South guest room which she always occupied. "Emily! Lovely's voice was a high cry of delight. People were a passion with her. She loved having them about. "But how slick or swell you look! Like a model or something!"

"Mostly 'or something," Lovely, Emily said. "But I am part of the great galosh wearing public now! I walk to work every morning and feel very worthy and ambitious and things like that."

"You mean you did, Emily," Marcia said, aware of a little feeling of relief at seeing the girls meet as if here had never been heartbreak between them. "You're not going back to that doctor's office," Marcia added. "Oh, but I am going back! I may as well tell you—there wasn't a cent left. Nothing!"

Regrets were wired from Roy Pool, Amarillo, president of the state association, saying he could not attend. He was to have been on the Thursday morning program. The public was invited to hear E. E. Brown's talk on "vitamins" Thursday at 10 a. m.

Opening the Wednesday meeting was the Rev. Homer W. Halibut, pastor of the First Christian church, who pronounced the investigation. Mayor O. C. Dunham welcomed the visiting druggists and E. W. Anti-Strike Measure Due In Washington

By The Associated Press

The federal government was reported today to take definite steps towards eliminating strike delays in the production of defense equipment.

Before leaving for a southern vacation, President Roosevelt was expected to issue an executive order establishing a federal mediation board which would bring labor and management together to adjust their differences.

The war department, determined to get construction under way again at the army air corps experimental laboratories at Wright Field, Ohio, was reported by a spokesman to be considering the possibility of taking the $3,900,000 building program into its own hands, if a strike there is not settled quickly.

One source said the department might requisition building mechanics from the civil service rolls to complete the job.

In conference at New York City, major steel operators and representatives of the CIO-United Mine Workers continued their discussion over terms of a new contract to replace one which expires April 1.

A conference was scheduled at Pittsburgh this afternoon between CIO representatives and officials of the Aluminum Company of America, on the strike which has halted production at the firm's Edgewater, N. J. plant since last Wednesday. The strike, which is holding up production of airplane parts, was called over a dispute involving overtime pay.

A ship carpenters local union walked out at Galveston, Texas, dry dock yesterday, halting repair work on 10 ships. The union was critical of the alleged treatment of men by a foreman.

At South San Francisco, Calif., 150 CIO steel workers called a strike last night at Edwards Wire Rope Co., which manufactures steel cables for the navy. A union representative said the sole issue was refusal of company officials to enter into a collective bargaining agreement. Officials of the firm withheld comment.

A strike of 120 men ended early today at Los Angeles' Bethlehem Steel company fabricating plant, engaged in fabricating sheet metal for use in airplane plants. Employees walked out 19 days ago in a dispute involving discharge of four CIO workers.

James G. Thimmes, state director of the Steel Workers Organizing Committee, said the company agreed to recognize a grievance committee representing the CIO local and had promised to negotiate a contract if the union wins a bargaining election.

CIO leaders and Mayor F. H. LaGuardia reached an agreement today whereby the Transport Workers Union will resume negotiations with New York's two major bus companies in an attempt to settle the 10-day-old bus strike.

Philip Murray, CIO president, made the announcement after an hour's conference with the mayor. The direct negotiations, broken off after attempts to agree on disputed points failed, will resume at city hall today.

Here And There

Mark Washington, negro, was still trying to explain to police Wednesday how it was his car collided with the back end of a parked car, rammed it into another, damaging the front of the first and the rear of the second. In the middle of the block, he said, he suddenly saw a red light. There was nothing to do but stop and he did it the quickest way. Police thought it was too abrupt and that there was doubt of there being a red light in the middle of the block. Anyway, he was being held for questioning.

Snack thieves paid a call at the Bernie Freeman home on Dallas street. Missing with the elusive thief was a trunk. Likewise, Les Brownfield consigned a wheel and tire to an unwelcome visitor.

The Shine Phillips plan wasn't working just right at the Wednesday morning business session of the druggist convention. Shine drew up plans for a large attendance by lining the speaker's rostrum with pretty women. The feminine charm didn't show up and ditto for some of the pill-rollers.

Contrary to any snap-conclusions, there were no appreciable livestock losses from the Monday snow. Cattlemen reported no harm, and sheepmen were no more than normal. Fortunately, there is no great amount of lambing just now.

Speaking of the rain, Frank Covert, city lake supervisor, says that if the melting snow puts water in the Powell and Moss Creek lakes, he hasn't been able to detect it. What he needs out that way is a battery of paved streets on the watershed.

Lions To Buy Calf At Show

Lions club directors, in called session following the weekly luncheon Wednesday noon, voted to buy in a calf at the auction sale following the district club boy livestock show here March 26.

The club previously had bought a lamb at the Glasscock county show and had it served as the meat course on one of its meals.

At the meeting Wednesday, plans were launched to select Pascal Buckner, deputy director and past president of the local club, district governor at the district convention at Amarillo in June.

On a discussion of the morale of democracy, Joe Faucett, Ray Ogden and Joe Fickie spoke briefly, calling for more personal participation in democratic process, unselfishness, and in becoming actively engaged in preserving the American way of life.

Plans were developed for attending the Wink zone meeting in large numbers next Tuesday evening.

Lamesa Livestock Show Opens Thursday

Boys Enter 98 Animals In Exhibits

LAMESA, March 18. (Sp.)—All indications are that this year's junior fat stock show in Lamesa is to be the best yet.

The show begins Thursday morning and continues through Friday. Seed house of the old oil mill on North Lynn street has been equipped to house the show.

Judging will be started at 1 p. m. Friday by W. L. Stangel, head of the animal husbandry department of Texas Technological college. An auction sale will follow at 2:15 o'clock.

Steer calves will be classed as "milk fed" and "dry lot" and each classification is to be divided into junior and senior classes by weight. Fat barrows will be judged on type conformation and finish. Prizes are to be awarded in three divisions, based on weight—180 to 225 pounds, 226 to 300 pounds and above 300 pounds.

All lambs shown must be wethers, fine wool lambs, and must not be crossed with mutton breeds.

A hardman award will be made to the boy exhibiting steers who keeps his exhibit in the neatest, cleanest and most attractive condition.

Ninety-eight animals have been entered by Union and Spangsbury FFA classes and from Dawson county 4-H club boys. Spangsbury entered six calves, 13 barrows and 11 lambs. Union entered three calves, three barrows, 4-H boys entered 23 calves, 18 barrows and 23 lambs.

Executive committee of the show is composed of L. E. Vaughn, Raymond Lee Johns, C. E. Cameron, Charnel Jobe, M. E. Boren and Vernon Bryant.

U. S. Spending Soon To Equal Great Britain's

WASHINGTON, March 19. (AP) The United States armament spending may soon equal or exceed Great Britain's present monthly war outlay of $1,800,000,000 if congress votes the pending $7,000,000,000 lease lend appropriations.

To get this tremendous production program into high gear as quickly as possible, congressional tabulations showed, the government is pouring nearly $4,000,000,000 into airplane plants, shipyards, tank factories and other industrial facilities.

Interested legislators said they were informed that by June the vast armaments production machine—already enlarged by the expenditure of more than $2,000,000,000 for plant expansion since the defense program started—would be turning out implements of war for the army and navy at a rate requiring a monthly treasury outlay of $1,200,000,000.

While this was regarded as the temporary peak for strictly American needs, approval of British aid appropriations would call for the expenditure of an additional $7,000,000,000 during the next 18 months to produce equipment for other nations.

This aid program would boost the nation's monthly bill for arms to $1,800,000,000, about $100,000,000 more than Great Britain is spending now to prosecute the war.

1200-Pound Lamesa Hog Is Mountain Of Meat

LAMESA, March 17. (Sp.)—Lee Billingsley, hog and cattle buyer here, has been advertising for hogs for years.

This year he bought the granddaddy of them all—red Rex, a 3-year-old Duroc that weighs more than the average baby beef show calf.

It's almost unbelievable how big Red Rex is. If he were in England, the British meat problem would be practically solved, for Red Rex weighs no less than 1,200 pounds. Moreover, he stands 47 inches high and is nearly nine feet long.

Ben Baskin, Dawson county agent, says that Red Rex is the biggest hog he ever had seen. Baskin was "at Colorado City as Mitchell county agent when this particular line of Duroc hogs was started.

Houston Refinery Strike Averted

(Rogers Photo, Lamesa)

HOUSTON, March 19 (AP)—A strike at the Shell refinery here was averted last night when the company and local 367 of the Oil Workers union reached an agreement pronounced by Joseph E. Myers, federal labor conciliator, as "satisfactory to both parties."

Myers said officials and officers of the union had agreed not to disclose terms of the settlement.

The union voted over a week ago to strike if negotiations failed in demands for a 10 per cent wage increase and a discontinuance of "systematic discrimination against union workers."

The strike would have involved about 1,500 employees.
