SET DEADLINE APRIL 15 FILING RELEASE FORMS

Amendment Enables Redistribution of Unused Cotton Acreage

The state AAA office at College Station has announced brand new "frozen cotton" regulations for 1939 enabling the County Committee to redistribute unused cotton acreage allotments to farms in line for increases.

Last year the unused allotments which were released by individual farms had to go into a state reserve to correct errors in original allocations. A similar reserve is provided for under the new set-up, according to W. O. Rieger secretary of the Lamb County committee. The new regulations, permitted under a recent amendment to the national farm act, provide that where a county's unused acreage accumulation adds up to 100 acres or less, all of it may be redistributed within the county to farms designated by the county committee. Where the total released in a county is more than 1000 acres, a certain percentage must go to the state office to be used in correcting mistakes.

April 15 Deadline

The State Committee set April 15 as the last date on which farms signifying release of all or part of 1939 allotments may be filled in the county office.

Rieger explained that the deadline is necessary to make possible reapportionment of the released frozen acreage before it is too late to plant.

Payment Figure on Allotment

He explained further that the release of 1939 allotments may or may not be an advantage, depending on the type and history of the farm concerned. In some cases, he pointed out, an operator might penalize himself by releasing any of his cotton allotment, since price adjustment or "parity" payments are figured on the basis of the total cotton allotment, regardless of the

6 Additional Whiteway Lights Being Installed

Littlefield's down town lighting system is being greatly improved this week by the Texas New Mexico Utilities Company.

Six Additional Lights Installed

Six additional Whiteway lights on West Fourth Street are being installed as follows: One at corner of Phelps Avenue; one at the Post office; another across the street from the postoffice between the Yellow House Land office and the Rosebud Beauty Shop; one at the Hewitt Chevrolet corner; another in front of the Littlefield Truck & Tractor Co., and one further up and on the south side of Fourth Street.

Standby Current for City

In an interview with Sam Bat-

ton, manager of the local office of the Utilities Company, he said they had also changed the highline off of Highway 7 and into the alley south of Highway 7, in order to clear the junction of Highways 51 and 7; and had also carried out operations enabling them to offer "standby current for the City Water Works." This enables the City Water Works system to use the Texas Utilities current for the pumping of water, in case of emergency.

In this connection Mayor Pat Boone stated that "in case something went wrong with the City Power Plant, or if we had our gas cut off, we can go right ahead and pump the water without any interference."

AGROL PLANT DISCUSSED IN LITTLEFIELD

New Industry Will Benefit Small Grain Farmers Of Area

A meeting to discuss details and plans contingent upon the promotion of an Agrol plant for the South Plains, was held at the Littlefield High School auditorium last Monday night with about 50 farmers and business men of this section in attendance.

The meeting was called to order by W. H. Cunningham of this city. Mr. Cunningham told those present that he had been at work on this project for more than a year and that he felt that it would prove one of the greatest boons to the small grain farmers of this area if a plant of this kind could be located here. He asked Dave Schein to preside at the meeting. Mr. Schein presented the speaker of the evening who was Dr. Harry Miller of Kansas, who until recently was associated with the Chemical Foundation of America at their Agrol plant in Atchison, Kansas. Dr. Miller made a most interesting talk on the processes involved in the production of power alcohol, and outlined the history of the Chemical Foundation as well as the record of the Agrol manufacturing industry.

Russell Myrick of Lubbock who is at the head of the company which is trying to promote the South Plains Agrol Plant, outlined the tentative plans and explained the organization set-up. Mr. Myrick invited those present to discuss with him the feasibility of the plan as he had explained it. Quite a number responded with questions and viewpoints. In answer to questions Mr. Myrick informed his hearers that the plant contemplated

MORE BOOKS NEEDED AT CITY LIBRARY

Committee Makes Appeal For Book Donations

According to a report made by the library committee of the Woman's Study club, the month of March was one of the busiest in the history of the local library. Thirty-three books were added of which 16 were purchased and 17 donated by friends of the library.

There is an ever-increasing demand for books of all descriptions at the library and the ladies in charge are trying hard to cope with the situation. Quite a few more books are being purchased by the Woman's club but even with this addition it is almost impossible to satisfy the large demand.

Those in charge urge all book-lovers to check up on their private collections and donate as many volumes as possible so that this situation may be relieved.

Pioneer Landmark Destroyed When Hotel Burned

of undetermined origin completely destroyed one of the few landmarks of pioneer days left in Lamb County when the old hotel and three other business buildings burned. Flames broke out at 10 o'clock Sunday night.

The hotel built in 1923, was unburned. Adjoining the hotel on the west was the General Merchandise store, owned by N. Ray Keller. The store building was owned by W. Kelly, T. L. Kimmel's store and Malone's cafe were also destroyed. As the fire raged, business men and women of Earth pulled a two room building from the fire, with a loss was unknown, but it is said to be several thousand dollars. Modern buildings will probably replace the burned structures.

The Growth of a Word

A few months ago there were—in all probability, not over fifty laymen in the state of Texas who had ever heard of or read—the word "chemurgic."

From the very first—we have been sounding the tocsin and trying to blaze the trail which lies ahead of all the farmers of Texas.

We started in to discuss the rapid growth of the word "chemurgic" and what is of much more interest, the general acceptance of the great things that this word stands for.

Monday night—here in Littlefield a number of farmers and business men listened to plans for a large chemurgic industry on the Plains, a plant for the production of Agrol which will automatically furnish the small grain farmer with better prices and better marketing facilities for their easiest grown crops.

In the light of recent developments we experience considerable pride and satisfaction over having done our bit in broad casting information about this timely and most interesting subject.

Death On the Highway

Now that Spring is here the annual slaughter of men and women on the highways of the nation begins to climb toward its peak.

There are a couple of million more cars on the roads this year than last year and greater incentives to motor travel in the attraction of the two World's Fairs in New York and San Francisco.

In 1937 more people were killed in motor accidents in the United States than there were soldiers killed under the Stars and Stripes in the World War.

Last year's record of motor deaths was something better, only 31,500 fatalities in 1938.

Everybody concerned with the problem of how to reduce this disgraceful toll of highway deaths seems to be agreed that there are three major causes for the annual holocaust.

There may be no such thing as a foolproof road, but some of the European countries have built highways which come close to being safe for any driver at any speed.

EIGHTH INSTALLMENT

SYNOPSIS

When the wealthy foster parents Marjorie Wetherill both die she receives a letter telling that she has a sister, that she was adopted by her own parents couldn't afford to support both of them and her real name is Dorothy Gay. In the world but with a fortune of her own, she considers looking after her own family whom she never seen. A neighbor, Evan Reaver, tries to argue her out of it, tells her that he loves her and asks her to marry him. She refuses to think it over but desires to see her family. She goes to their address, finds that they are destitute and gradually persuades them to accept things they want. When the doctor calls to see her she notices that he seems very interested in her sister. One day Marjorie goes to church with her brother, Ted, being unwell. She persuades her sister to go with her to the minister whom her father never met and whose church was located near Brentwood, the place in which her family lived when they lost their money.

Some time back in Aster Street Evan was having a time of her own. He had a hawled arose.

She came flying down stairs, her face flushed. She beheld a crowd of children.

"What are you doing? You naughty, naughty boy!"

He seized Bud's arm and jerked him back from the sink, but a subconscious reaction compelled him to keep his hold on the dish which he had been trying to wash and when Betty removed him from the sink the dishpan with its dripping water came along, splashing Betty who had just changed her kitchen dress for the little house dress Marjorie worn her that morning. She went upstairs getting into a room to meet the doctor when she heard the tumult downstairs.

She looked down at herself in a mirror and gasped, the more so as she saw the element that was over her was gradually removed by the dregs of dirt in the tub.

She suddenly Betty looked up at the doctor standing in the doorway with the most comical look of amusement and pity on his face that a man could wear. All at once Betty knew that she was crying! The utmost indignation that life could bring descended upon her. The young doctor had seen her this, wet and dirty and all limp and dirty as she sank down into a kitchen chair and burst into real weeping. If she could have seen the doctor's face at that moment she would have been surprised. The comical look of amusement vanished utterly and a look of utter tenderness and sympathy came into his eyes. In one motion he set down his medicine case on a chair in the hall behind him and strode over to Betty.

"Poor child!" he said. "You've been working too hard. We'll have you down in bed the next thing if you don't look out. Here!" he said seizing upon a towel that hung on the rack above the sink.

The doctor wet the end of the towel and came over to Betty, lifting her face very gently and wiping off the tears with the wet towel.

"There!" he said cheerfully. "You'll feel better now. Nothing like cool water to brace one up."

Suddenly Betty looked up and laughed. Laughed with the tears streaming down her cheeks.

The doctor came over to her again, taking a clean handkerchief out of his pocket, and lifting her chin with one hand gently wiped the tears away.

Betty stopped laughing and her face held something almost like awe.

The doctor smiled indulgently as he hurried upstairs. Betty smiled to herself and wondered if all doctors were so cheerful and comforting. It was probably just because he was a doctor that he had been so nice to her. But it thrilled her to think of his wiping her tears, of the touch of his smooth fingers lifting her chin so gently. It was that sense of being cared for that touched her, brought the tears to her eyes.

"Fool!" she told herself bitterly. "It didn't mean a thing! He was just kindly and impersonal! He's probably in love with some charming nurse, or maybe married to an heiress. Any good man might have done just what he did and think nothing of it. He was just being kind and helping me out of a mess."

She stared after him wistfully as he went out to his car and drove away, and then she hurried upstairs to take off the pretty dress.

Marjorie sitting in the pretty little old stone church of a hundred years ago, and listening to the young preacher making salvation plainer than she had ever heard it before, was happier than she had ever been in church before.

It was as if a strong sea breeze were blowing through the little audience room, waking up and refreshing every mind to keener intelligence. As if a holy kind of glory pervaded the place. She heard one woman explaining to another:

"Why, The Holy Spirit is here!"

Then, too, the singing here seemed to have a different sound from that in ordinary churches. The people sang the words as if they meant them, and the music rose like incense from an altar and seemed to mingle with the heavenly choirs above.

But now suddenly it seemed that the Bible was the guide book for the Christian's way, the indispensable source of all knowledge, the deep hidden treasury of a Christian's wealth.

So she sat and listened wide-eyed to the eager young preacher with the wonderful holy eyes who seemed as he talked to be looking into another world.

When the sermon was over she felt breathless as if she had been privileged a glimpse into Heaven itself, as if God had been there speaking to her soul through the lips of this young man. She was filled with awe. Her heart throbbled a response as though she wanted to answer a high sweet call she had heard for the first time.

"You have shown me so many things," she said to him afterward as they stood together at the door a moment, waiting for Ted to gather up the hymn books and straighten the extra chairs for the night service. "Things I never knew could be! I never knew the Bible was a book like that!"

He gave her a startled look. "Oh, didn't you? I'm glad I helped," he smiled. "I hope you'll come again."

"Oh, I will!" she said fervently. "What you have said seems to be something I've been searching for a long time."

His face lit up with a kind of glory light.

"Oh, I am glad!" he said quietly. Then came Ted with his shy smile of adoration.

"I wish I could run you home in my car, Ted," said the young preacher wistfully, "but I have a funeral in half an hour, and just barely time to get to it. Sorry, I'd enjoy taking you."

He included Marjorie in his smile. "Oh, that's all right, Mr. Reaver," said Ted shinningly. "I'm going to take my sister over to see our old place. She's never seen it, you know."

And then as the minister looked at her inquiringly, Ted explained: "You know she's been away a long time. She's never seen it."

"Oh," said the minister looking at Marjorie quickly again, "then you're not the sister I saw before? I thought there was something different about you. You're not twins, are you?"

"Yes," smiled Marjorie, "and I guess we're quite alike in looks at least."

"Well, isn't that interesting! I'll have to take time off some day and come and call and get acquainted with you both. But you know, I really thought you were different—somehow—when I didn't know you weren't!"

They all laughed and then the minister looked at his watch and said:

"Well, I'll have to be off. Hope you come again, Miss Gay."

"Oh, I will!" said Marjorie, a bit breathless from hearing herself called a new name.

Then the brother and sister walked on in silence. Finally as they turned the corner and the minister went driving by in his car, bowing to them and smiling as he passed, Marjorie followed her with jealous eyes. She had liked his minister, now would she like the house he loved? These were the two tests he had set for this new sister, although perhaps placed just right to make a picture of the house. The long slope of snowy lawn, the shrubbery and hemlock trees heavy with their burden of snow making a delightful screen from the street, all added to the picture.

Ted led her around to the back and opened a loose shutter to let her look into the long low living room with its great fireplace, flanked on either side by bookcases reaching to the ceiling, and her enthusiasm for the house mounted till it equaled the boy's own.

As they turned away from the gate at last Marjorie took note of the sign board and made a mental memorandum of the name of the real estate agent.

Could she possibly make some arrangement with the people who had taken it over whereby they would transfer it back to her father's name, dear, so that she could hand him the deed of it without any obligations for him to pay whatever? How she would love to give it to him for Christmas! Could a thing like that be done so quickly? There was still almost a week to Christmas!

So she carried on an undercurrent of thought while Ted rambled on, giving now and then a bit of information about the house that fitted right in with her thoughts.

"Suppose, Ted," she said finally, "that tomorrow morning some great man should send for you and tell him with her eyes until he turned another corner and was out of sight and then she said slowly, gravely:

"He's rather wonderful, isn't he?"

"You're telling me!" said Ted in a reverential tone.

The Brentwood house made a great impression on Marjorie. As they approached it Ted watched he did not realize that he was testing her at all.

"Why, isn't it occupied?" she asked as they came in sight of the "For Sale" sign.

"No," said Ted with a heavy sigh. "I've been expecting every time I come this way to find that sign gone, but it stays."

"It's lovely!" said Marjorie, taking in the tall elm trees that were

Home of Outstanding CCC Cooperators

In the picture above, trees are shown that have been planted for a windbreak, at the farm of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn D. Young of five miles southwest of Littlefield. The beautiful rock house was built in 1936. Mr. Young is one of the best cooperators of the CCC camp. In the picture are Glenneta, Peggy Ann, Patsy Mae, and James Orren Young and the dog, Spot. Inset — Mr. Young.

Three Old-timers Remember Days Way Back When . . .

Three men have been in the CCC Camp since 1935 and are now considered old-timers.

Willie L. Welch came here August 24, from Olton. He is now a senior leader in the projects. He married Miss Mildred Street of Littlefield.

Alvin N. Poke, better known as "Pop," came September 30, and he now is a senior leader of the enrollee staff of the technical service, and is assistant blacksmith.

Sergeant J. D. Sanders is in charge of the entire enrollee personnel. He has had many jobs since his arrival here October 26, 1935—truck driver, company clerk, assistant educational leader, mechanic, technical service clerk, and is now sergeant.

Leldon Phillips Named Secretary For Area 1 of FFA

Leldon Phillips of Littlefield was elected secretary for area one of the Future Farmers of America at the convention in Lubbock Friday. Other officers elected were R. C. Hill, Slaton, Watch Dog; Cecil Morris, Clarendon, parliamentarian; O. T. Ryan, Lubbock, supervisor; Wade Turnbaugh, Meadow, second vice president; and Kenneth Dopson, Spur, president.

Tulia vocational agriculture judging teams won highest honors in the 44th annual judging contest at Texas Tech Friday.

Six boys from the Littlefield FFA Chapter and their instructor, W. H. Frazier, attended the contest. F. H. Glazener, Sam Blessing Darrell Odell entered the horticulture contest, and Lester Hanks, William Lee Moore and Alphonse Resnik were contestants in plant producing.

Deliver 11,531 Buicks in First 20 Days of March

Flint, Mich., April 6.—Domestic retail deliveries of Buick motor cars during the first 20 days of March totaled 11,531 units, a gain of 3,988 or 53 per cent over February, and 3,304 or 40 per cent over the corresponding period a year ago, according to figures released today by W. F. Hufstader, general sales manager.

Hewitt Buick Company are local dealers for the Buick automobile.

Mr. Hufstader said that sales of 5,943 units during the second 10 days of the month exceeded those of the strong first period of 355 units and were 2,317 greater than a month ago.

Meanwhile Buick dealers reduced used car stocks to a 30-day supply, used car sales during the first 20 days of the month totaling 21,532 cars.

SOFTBALL—BOXING—BASKETBALL ALL ARE A PART OF CCC CAMP LIFE

Athletes at the CCC Camp will start practicing for the Softball season about April 15, George Hull, director of athletics, announced recently. Only three of players from last year's team will be here this year.

The Camp Softball team won the Littlefield League last summer, and who could forget Greer, the best pitcher of the entire team. Greer will be back in the pitchers box this year, even better than last. Deveryl Cecil and J. B. Sanders are others from last year's team.

Sports should play a large part in the routine of camp life, but there are only about thirty-five or forty boys who are interested in athletics, Mr. Hull said.

Last September five boys from the local CCC Camp entered the five state Boxing Tournament at Hobbs, New Mexico, and these five eager stalwarts who held large measure of the stuff called courage—came back to camp with one champion, Joe Alins in the lightweight division, with two runners-up, Wayne Farris, lightweight slugger, and Chicken Connally, flyweight. Grady Logan was battered to defeat in the flyweight division, and Roy Bennett, another flyweight, won the consolation prize.

In the Littlefield Invitation tournament in February of this year, the CCC boys helped to make the fights more interesting, and they won their share of the gold boxing gloves, although they did not take the winning places. In the district tourney at Lubbock, still Smith was a runner-up in the lightweight division.

Officials who have conducted

Golden Gloves tournaments throughout the country this season have nothing but the highest praise for CCC men who have participated. Reports indicate that the sportsmanship exhibited by the men of the camps has been of the finest type. All of them couldn't win—but they'll be back in 1940 trying harder than ever.

Basketball also has a place at the camp. The 1938 team won 75 per cent of the games they played, playing at least two games a week. This year the camp had a good team, but did not play very much.

BUT NOT XYZ ABC—CCC

Believe it or Not—Letters of the alphabet are significant in the local camp—And the CCC is another part of the great program planned by Congress about the time the other letters, NRA, PWA, FSA and RFC, with their respective programs, were established.

CCC not only means the Civilian Conservation Corps, but the three C's also stand for Charles C. Cook, Lieutenant of the Infantry Reserve, who was stationed at the Littlefield camp for two years. Captain C. B. Keever took his place.

Coincidentally, A. B. Chapman teaches Safety at the camp, and when the letters, ABC are mentioned he doesn't know whether they are speaking of him, or the Camp slogan, Always Be Careful.

Otha Key Buys House Formerly Occupied By Walker Family

The deal was closed last week, whereby Otha Key purchased the six room residence on Phelps Ave. formerly occupied by W. H. Walker and daughter, Eddythe, and owned by S. H. Scott of Lubbock. Mr. and Mrs. Key and young son moved Sunday into their new home.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

Roy Shahan, Pastor
 As we look about us we see nature giving many evidences of life. The grass, flowers and trees, have unconscious life. Though their life is unconscious to them, their growth, fragrance and beauty, prove to us they have life. Man also has life. He has self-conscious, soul-conscious, and God-conscious life. Is it possible that man, created in the image of God, is letting nature give more evidence of real life as God intended, than he is? Christ, the Son of God, Our Saviour and our Lord is alive. "He is Risen." He is alive for ever more. Rev. 1:18. Is He real to you? Easter Sunday, the day of His resurrection. Find your way to the Lord's house in service to Him and for Him. Sermon subject for the morning hour, "The Living Christ." Evening subject, "The Afterglow of Jesus." Come to the Bible school at 9:45 a.m. Also the church training service at 7 p.m.

CHURCH OF CHRIST

 T. M. Cummings, Preacher
 Sermon subjects: "The Sower, the Seed, and the Soil" (morning); "And the Ten Commandments (Including the Sabbath) in Force Today?" (evening). The evening sermon is to be a discussion of a disputed question, not to further dispute but to teach truth that is vital in the Christian life. We believe that this sermon will interest you as well as instruct. A special invitation to come is given to those who believe that Saturday as the Sabbath should now be observed. If you feel that the Ten Commandments (including the Sabbath) are now in force, you will do well to hear this sermon, take notes, and re-study the question. This is not a matter just to argue about; it is important in living the Christian life.

GOOD FRIDAY PROCLAMATION

To All To Whom These Presents Shall Come:
 Again, as we approach the Easter Sabbath, our hearts and minds are filled with thoughts of our Saviour and His Supreme Sacrifice that all mankind might have life eternal. We see Him as He approached Calvary Mountain, as He suffered the agonies of the cross for our Redemption. Then we see Him again on the glorious dawn of the day of His Resurrection, triumphant over death and the grave, and because of His teachings and His Victory, we through faith are led to hope for immortality. In remembrance of Him, therefore, I, Pat Boone, Mayor of Littlefield, do hereby set aside and proclaim the Friday before Easter Sunday, April 7, 1939, as Good Friday in our city, and ask all Christians to reverently observe and commemorate the day in meditation and prayers. "For God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth on Him should not perish but have everlasting life." In Testimony whereof I have hereunto signed my name officially, this the 3rd day of April, A. D. 1939.
 PAT BOONE, MAYOR, City of Littlefield.

First Applications Approved for Free Cotton Classing

The first applications for free cotton classing to be approved in the Cotton Belt for the coming season was announced today by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics. These applications represent the Rincon One-Variety Cotton Improvement Association and the Taft Farms One-Variety Cotton Improvement Association, both of Taft, San Patricio County, Texas, of which county R. R. Gibb is the Agricultural agent. This area is in the territory served by the Bureau's classing office at Austin. George E. Miller, who is in charge of the Austin office, reports that the San Patricio county improvement groups represent 54 farmers who have approximately 6,000 acres planted to improved seed of Delfos cotton for this year's crop. This is the first season that these groups have availed themselves of the free classing supplied by the Bureau for growers who have organized to grow better cotton. A large number of other applications are pending. The classing service, inaugurated by the Bureau last year after early ginning was under way, provides free classification of a sample from each bale of cotton produced by an approved improvement group. A sample from each bale is sent to the Bureau office for classing as to both grade and staple length. Notification of the class is returned to the grower or to an official representative of the group. As a supplement to the classing service, the association will receive daily market news information on prices for the various grades and staple lengths. Mr. Miller points out that 312 organized improvement groups in the cotton States used the free classing last year despite the rather late date at which the service was made available. "This year," he said, "as many as 900 to 1000 groups are expected to apply for the classing. And, groups that want the service are advised to apply just as soon as their cotton is planted." Application forms may be had by writing to the Bureau's office at P. O. Box 1140, Austin.

you that he had been watching you and he liked the way you were doing, and he had a fine position ready for you at, say, ten thousand or so a year, and he would give you some of it in advance if you wanted it. Would you think you were great if you decided to use that money for your home and parents instead of buying yourself a Rolls-Royce?"

Ted grinned. "Fat chance!" he said. "Of course, smiled Marjorie, "but if you had it I think I know you well enough already to know that you would just delight to turn in every penny you could to the family treasury and make them all comfortable before you thought a thing about any luxuries for yourself."

"Sure thing!" said Ted with shining eyes.

"And if some unheard-of relative off in Europe or somewhere should die and leave you a million dollars, I wonder what is the first thing you would buy? I wish you would tell me that, Ted. I'd like to know what it is."

Ted looked up and without hesitation replied:

"I'd buy the house back and give it to Dad!"

"Thanks!" said Marjorie with starry eyes. "That's the way I feel. Now, brother, do I belong to the family or not?"

"You belong!" said Ted solemnly.

"All right!" said Marjorie. "I appreciate that. And now, suppose we keep this to ourselves for awhile, shall we?"

"Okay!" said the boy solemnly, as they went up the steps of the home, and only a quick smile passed between them to ratify the contract, but both knew that something fine and sweet had happened.

I've got to go into the city and do a little shopping," said Marjorie the next morning.

Marjorie went first to the real estate firm whose name had been on the signboard yesterday at Brentwood.

"I've come to ask about a house you have for sale in Brentwood," she said, and the man looked her over keenly, noted her handsome attire, and said "Yes?" in an eager tone.

He gave her a good sales talk. "That's a bargain," he said, "it's just been thoroughly done over and modernized, and because the owner was caught in the depression we can sell it for a mere trifle."

Marjorie let him talk for a few minutes and then she said: "Could I see the house?"

REV. NORWOOD TO ATTEND MEETING IN KANSAS CITY APRIL 26 AS NORTHERN AND SOUTHERN METHODISTS UNITE

The largest Protestant Church in the world will be formed the last few days of this month and the first of May, when the United conference meets in Kansas City April 26, and the Northern and Southern Methodist Churches are united.

The eyes of all Methodism are focused on Kansas City, and it is with enthusiasm that Rev. Marvin B. Norwood, local pastor, is looking forward to attending this conference.

This meeting is not only the center of interest for all Methodists but is drawing the attention of all the Christian world, for the union that is to come about through that meeting is the largest union of churches ever accomplished.

The United conference has more or less the nature of a constitutional convention. It is composed of 900 delegates, 400 from the Methodist Episcopal Church, 400 from the Methodist Episcopal Church South, and 100 from the Methodist Protestant Church.

At this conference plans will be presented, difficulties ironed out, and the machinery set in motion for the establishment of a mighty Methodist Church with some eight million members.

Whitharral High Nine Wins Over Cooper Baseballers

Coach Bulldog Hale's Whitharral High school baseball nine established itself as a favorite in the district race Friday by defeating Fred Rich's Cooper High team, 20 to 7, in a seven-inning contest on the Cooper diamond. Alverson, pitching for Whitharral, gave up but seven hits, but three were triples and one was a double to account for the seven runs. Whitharral collected 15 hits off the Cooper staff, headed by Phillips, including half a dozen two-baggers.

Waters caught for the winners, Richardson for Cooper.

Coach Hale said his team was open for four or five games, and would like to communicate with any teams of the South Plains interested in playing on a home-and-home basis.

Cooper and Whitharral play each other at Whitharral next Friday.

YOU'VE probably noticed that most of the folks who drive Buicks come back again and again to this great automobile when it's time to buy a new car.

There are two reasons for that. One's a money reason, the other's a pleasure reason.

Sticking to Buick means you're sure every year that you're getting top value, and no hunting all over town to find it.

Repeating on Buick means that season after season you ride behind the ablest eight of its size in the world—the Buick valve-in-head straight-eight, that Dynaflex power-house that's livelier and smoother and thrifter than engines of other type.

Year after year you'll travel in comfort—the smooth, easy, level-going comfort of the torque-tube drive and BuicCoil Springing, sailing along on a staunch and sturdy chassis that holds you true and steady to your course.

You always have room in a Buick—and this year you've a new and broader outlook through 412 added square inches of safety plate glass. And you're leading the style parade—no doubt about that—with appearance that's like a leaf from tomorrow's book.

All of which adds up, you'll find, to satisfaction so complete that once you've got the Buick driving habit, no other car quite seems to measure up.

Now this big strong resilient straight-eight costs less than you think. It's priced lower than a year ago—even below some sixes.

So why not simplify your car-buying for all time—get that smart Buick riding habit now.

In no other way that we know can you make sure of having so much fun. Or of getting so much value for every penny you spend!

Better buy Buick!

PNEUMONIA TREATMENTS NOW VERY MUCH MORE EFFECTIVE

But Coughs From Colds Break Down Resistance

The scientists and doctors of the world have made great strides in the diagnosis and treatment of the dreaded pneumonia. They have learned the various types and almost every city has hospital facilities that are fast reducing the death rate.

Most doctors agree that when a person's resistance is low he is much more susceptible, and that coughs following a cold certainly break down your resistance.

At the least suspicion of pneumonia, call your doctor at once, and at the first sign of a cough due to a cold start taking Mentho-Mulsion immediately.

Mentho-Mulsion is that time-tested cough remedy, made from ingredients used by many doctors for years. Now fortified with both Vitamins "A" and "D." Mentho-Mulsion, at only 75c, is recommended, sold and guaranteed by good druggists everywhere.—adv.

Agrol Plant—

Mr. Myrick asked those present to give some thought to the organization of a Lamb county group which will work with the major organization comprising 15 South Plains counties.

AAA Office—

For example, take a farm with 250 acres of cropland, a 1939 cotton acreage allotment of 100 acres and a general allotment of 80 acres. That would give it a total soil-depleting allotment of 180 acres. Suppose that it had produced cotton in 1938, that its 1939 normal yield was 100 pounds of lint to the acre, and that its adjusted rate of payment on general crops was 90 cents an acre.

Now suppose that the operator of this farm decided he would plant only 50 acres of cotton in 1939. How would his payments run if he (1) did not and (2) did release any of his cotton allotment?

1. If he kept his full allotment: The cotton conservation payment would be 2 cents times 62 acres (125 per cent of what he planted) times 100 pounds—$124.

The cotton price adjustment payment would be 1.6 cents times 100 acres (this is paid on the full allotment) times 100 pounds—$160.

The payment on general crops would be 90 cents times 118 acres (total soil-depleting allotment minus the acreage used in computing the cotton conservation payment)—$106.20.

Not taking into account payments for soil-building practices, that would give him a total payment of $386.20.

2. If he RELEASED some of his allotment:

He would be allowed to release not more than the difference between his cotton allotment and 125 per cent of his 1939 planted acreage, because if he released any more than that he would be penalizing himself. Therefore this operator, whose allotment is 100 acres and who intends to plant only 50, would be allowed to release as much as 38 acres. That would leave him with a reserved cotton allotment of 62 acres, and the other 38 acres would be added to his allotment for general crops.

In this case, the cotton conservation payment would be the same—$124.

The payment on general crops would be the same—$106.20.

But his cotton price adjustment payment would be 1.6 cents times 62 acres (the reserved cotton allotment) times 100 pounds—$99.20.

And he would get a total payment of only $329.40, as against $386.20 in case he kept all his cotton allotment.

However, if this same farm had had no planted acreage of cotton in 1938, and the operator did not intend to plant any in 1939, nothing would be gained so far as payments are concerned, by holding on to the cotton allotment, Rieger said.

In this case, the farm would not be entitled to any cotton price adjustment payment anyhow, since this payment is made only to farms on which cotton was planted either in 1938 or 1939. It would get no conservation payment on cotton, if no cotton was planted on it in 1939. And the payment on general crops would be the same, whether the operator kept the cotton allotment or let it go.

Attention of farmers is being called also to the fact that a bill now being considered in Congress would amend the act for 1939 in such a manner as to do away with the so-called 80 per cent ruling used in figuring conservation payments on cotton and other crops for which special allotments are set up. This bill has already passed the Senate and was being considered by the House Committee on Agriculture on March 15, according to a letter from I. W. Duggan, director of the Southern Division of the AAA.

Such an amendment obviously would cancel the effect of the present regulations permitting the release and redistribution of frozen cotton acreage, since it would provide for both conservation and price adjustment payment to be figured on the total 1939 cotton acreage allotment, regardless of the acreage actually planted.

with less than three inches of rain on terraced field. To the left, W. Wells, and W. W. Mayfield, who are also cooperators of the soil conservation service in this area. They practice strip cropping, terracing and pasture furrowing. They also have field windbreak and tree planting.

JOHN I. BOWLING SAYS HE TIRED OF HIS FARM MOVING TO OTHER PARTS; TAKES ADVANTAGE OF SOIL CONSERVATION

"The Soil Conservation Service forms one of the links in a great chain that helps promote the progress of our great nation, and without it and its applications, agriculture would suffer severely," John I. Bowling, Lamb county farmer, who resides six miles north of Littlefield, told a Leader reporter last week.

"Farmers have received unknown value from the services of the CCC Camp, practical and technical. The main purpose of the camp is to combat wind erosion as well as water erosion. These purposes they have demonstrated beyond a doubt to be of special value to Lamb county and to adjoining counties. Our western soil erodes some at the best, so anything we can do to preserve the soil is priceless."

Mr. Bowling started a strip crop demonstration in 1933, (his first crop to make and harvest on the Plains). He had heard much about the damage that the wind was doing to the land here, so he decided to do something about it. He started stripping his crops, some 40 rows resistant to wind erosion. The farm was contoured to a strict water level. The next year the strips were narrowed, which showed better results, but these two years his farm blew badly, even though he was trying to find some method to prevent it.

Then the CCC Camp was established in Littlefield. The SCS advocated even closer strips on Mr. Bowling's farm, so he tried 14 rows cotton and six rows of sudan grass. The technical side of the SCS teaches that an object breaks the wind twice its height, or twice up the wind and five times its height down the wind. Therefore maize or any sorghum crop headed, where the rows or on a general contour are properly stripped, will almost keep the wind off of the ground and by so doing prevent the wind from picking up sand and valuable humus and carrying it away to other parts of the state.

Mr. Bowling was tired of real estate moving, and especially was he tired of seeing his own land blow to parts unknown.

"Since my crops are cotton and sudan grass," Mr. Bowling continued, "and the latter is usually harvested with a row binder, I was delighted when I was informed that the old wheat header could be manipulated in such a way that only half the stalk will be cut, cutting just under the heads. This leaves the stalk or stub about three feet high on the land for protection. It can readily be seen that if the strips are close enough and the stubble high enough the wind cannot get to the ground to erode the soil. Of course the credit goes to the SCS. Where a field is stripped well, I find that the cotton strips will blow some if left too long before plowing in the spring. Upon the suggestion of the SCS, I find border planting in some instances is the thing to do. Terracing tight land is essential; however, stripping sandy rolling land is just as essential."

Ex-CCCers Make Good Business Men in Littlefield

Among the many former members of Company 3802 of Littlefield who have secured good jobs since leaving camp, are Paul Hyde, O. D. (Rug) Yeager, and L. C. Wood. Hyde was in the local camp a year, coming here from his home in Cordell, Oklahoma. He worked in the SCS office, as office engineer, until he was employed in November 1937 as clerk in the Littlefield Piggly Wiggly. Last week he was made assistant manager of the store.

Yeager was most interested in the mechanics at the camp, and for seventeen months, he drove a caterpillar and trucks and worked in the shop. He is employed at the Higginbotham-Bartlett Lumber Company at the present time.

L. C. Wood, whose time in the camp expired Friday, started to work for the Foxworth-Galbraith Lumber Company in Littlefield Saturday.

"THE OKLAHOMA KID" TO BE FEATURED AT PALACE SATURDAY MIDNIGHT, SUNDAY AND MONDAY

An action-packed drama of America's great westward surge, "The Oklahoma Kid," with James Cagney as the title character, has been scheduled as the next feature attraction at the Palace Theatre Saturday midnight, continuing through Sunday and Monday.

A stirring cavalcade of the opening of the great southwest, it is one of the year's largest productions, and numbers over 3,000 people in its huge outdoor scenes, besides the featured cast which includes Humphrey Bogart, Rosemary Lane, and many other noted players.

Thought he wears the sombrero, buckskin jacket and high-heeled riding boots of the frontier gunfighter of the nineteenth century, though he carries a brace of old Colt six-shooters on his hips instead of a modern automatic in a shoulder holster, though he discloses that he is a real hell-for-leather horseman, Cagney is fundamentally the same sort of fellow as thrilled audiences in such memorable productions as "Angels With Dirty Faces," "G-Men" and "Public Enemy."

In two of the productions mentioned, it will be recalled, Cagney was outside the pale of the law, and in the other he was a vigorous agent of law enforcement. The comparison is interesting because in "The Oklahoma Kid" he is depicted as alternately on both sides of the fence.

At the outset of the story he is a bandit but not just a conscienceless robber and killer. He is an adventurous youth who has become a sort of Robin Hood of the Southwest. Eventually he is, in effect, enlisted on the side of law and order, although he has really taken the law into his own hands. However, he performs a necessary service of public vengeance so bravely and so completely that he is forgiven all his past misdeeds.

Rosemary Lane, lovely and vivacious brunette, plays the romantic lead opposite Cagney—and it is no milk-and-sugar heroine that this flashing-eyed member of the acting Lane family plays—but a real girl of the old West. Humphrey Bogart, ace bad man, furthers his screen reputation, playing the leader of a band of "Sooners" who are really a gang of treacherous gunmen. In the story he is a deadly foe of the "Oklahoma Kid." Among the many stirring scenes in "The Oklahoma Kid" is the land rush with which the picture opens. Land-hungry pioneers are lined up for miles waiting for the Federal Troops to give the signal that the new territory in Oklahoma is opened for settlement. They camp for the night, and to while away the hours they have a big square dance, a huge colorful scene that will cause the years to roll back for many folks.

Other members of the cast besides Cagney and Bogart and Miss Lane, include Donald Crisp, Harvey Stephens, Hugh Sothern, Charles Middleton, Edward Pawley, Ward Bond, Lew Harvey, John Mijan and Trevor Bardette.

The production was directed by Lloyd Bacon from a screen play based by Warren Duff, Robert Buckner and Edward E. Paramore on an original story by Paramore and Wally Klein.

Camp Has Library, Magazines, Daily Papers, Recreation Hall for Boys

A library consisting of more than 1,000 volumes, mostly fiction with fifty weekly and monthly magazines is always available to the enrollees of the camp. Ten daily papers arrive from areas nearest to the boys' homes.

The magazine, LIFE, wins a fairly easy walk, with Reader's Digest second and many lengths in front of the field. The enrollees also read the Saturday Evening Post, Esquire, Colliers, Pathfinder, Time, True Stories, Westerns, Cosmopolitan, American, Popular Mechanics and Popular Science. There are others, but those named above are the most popular.

This library is housed in a clean, well-lighted, home-like reading room with facilities for letter writing and study. It is open at all times, except work hours.

To the rear of the library is located the Recreation Hall. Here one will find a pool table, game tables, piano and radio. Like the library, it is intended for the use and enjoyment of every enrollee in camp.

Glenn D. Young Is "Sold" on Soil Conservation Work

"Oh, yes, I believe in diversified farming, and I am completely sold on the idea conveyed by the Soil Conservation Service," Glenn D. Young, one of Lamb county's most prosperous farmers told a Leader reporter last week.

Mr. Young started terracing his land three years ago, and he feels that his crops have been increased at least a third each year. Last year his maize yielded a ton to the acre, and his cotton one-half bale to the acre, which far exceeded most crops in Lamb county. He farms two labors with a tractor and team.

"Terracing has protected my farm from wind erosion, as well as keeping the water, instead of having it run into a lake when it rains," Mr. Young said. He has a beautiful rock house on his farm five miles southwest of Littlefield, which he built in 1936 with rocks from Bull Lake.

The large barracks of feed means protection for the 64 head of livestock, including nine horses, ten milk cows, six calves, and 29 pigs.

Mr. Young had the men from the CCC Camp plant a large number of trees on two sides of his farm, which serves as an excellent wind-break.

ENROLLEES LEARN TRADES AT CAMP

Tremendous training possibilities are involved in the development of high standards of work at the CCC Camp. Some of the boys are very interested in manual training, and they have built everything from tie racks to coal boxes and the buildings they use.

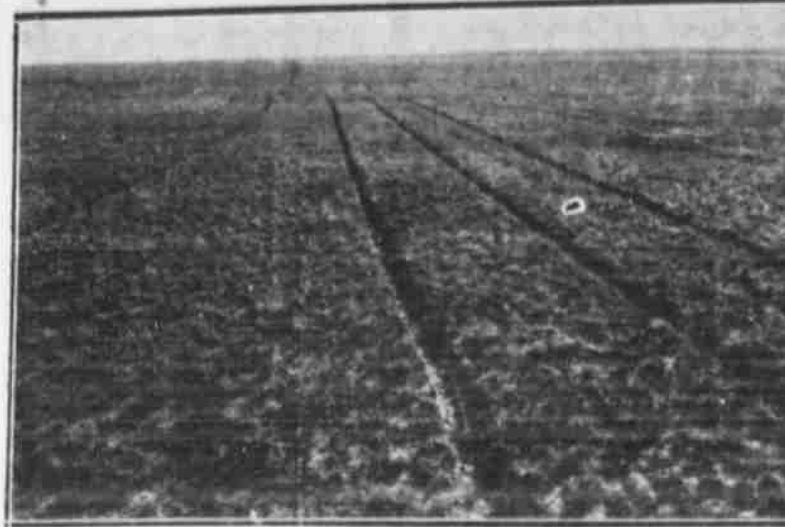

They are taught acetylene welding and other phases of blacksmithing, and amateur photography, besides their academic studies. They work six hours each day.

There are four chefs in the kitchen, and members of the camp, during the course of time they are there, are on the kitchen police. The leaders and assistant leaders do not work in the kitchen. A baker works five days a week.

CCC Visioned 20 Years Ago by F. H. Olmstead

Something very much like the CCC was envisaged in 1919 by Frank H. Olmstead when he wrote "A Report on Flood Control of the Gila River."

In commenting on check dams, Mr. Olmstead declared, "The building of the small retarding structures... preferably should be handled by force account, using young, active men interested in conservation work. If there could be a great army of the youth of the nation encamped in the glorious mountains of the upper Gila and on the wonderful canyon lines of the Mogollon, Black, San Francisco and Tularosa Mountains for, say one year under competent instructors and subject to drill and obedience not alone in the use of arms but of tools and in building some hundreds of thousands of these little structures, the young men would be better off and the nation would be fully enriched. There could be recreation and sport of occasionally killing a black-tailed deer or a wild turkey or the gray squirrels, which we saw almost every hour of every day while in this region. Our national life would not only be reinforced thru a pronounced conservation achievement along material lines, but the spirit of true national defense would have a new birth."

With the exception of training which is not the CCC, Mr. Olmstead effected in substantial years later, in 1933.

Improvements On White Ranch A Fine Example Of C. C. C. Work

One of the outstanding examples of the fine work being done by the Soil Conservation Service may be found in the improvements that have been effected in the past three years on the George L. White Ranch, located about 12 miles south of Littlefield. Work on this ranch was started about three years ago and there is still about two years more of work to be done in compliance with the original agreement between the owners and the government.

The 23,000 acre ranch belonging to George L. White was one of the tracts of land to be taken under agreement, by the Soil Conservation Service in the vicinity of Littlefield. Before the owner decided to cooperate with the C.C.C. Camp, the ranch was badly over-grazed and very heavily overstocked. There was not enough grass produced to support the amount of livestock on the ranch. One of the first plan-measures was to make a grass survey to determine the proper number of cattle this ranch would carry without damage to the soil. When the work was first started on this ranch, cattle had to trail several miles, tramping out grass that could be grazed, before they could get to water. Now—by the development of several stock water ponds, the travel distance to water has been greatly reduced, consequently raising the carrying capacity of the several pastures.

Approximately twenty per cent of Mr. White's ranch has been pasture contour furrowed. These furrows were constructed with several implements ranging from a lister to a nine-foot grader blade. The larger type furrows, the ones made with the nine-foot grader have the best results. Just recently a check was made on five laborers of furrowed grass, and on five laborers of unfurrowed grass in the same pasture. It was found that the treated area produces 20 per cent more grass for the cattle to eat than the untreated area.

The "Repeat Pictures" elsewhere in this section, show furrows made with a nine-foot blade at the beginning of the growing season, and the same plot of grass at the end of the growing season.

In addition to pasture contour furrowing and stock pond construction other work which has been done includes fence building, vegetation of denuded areas, spring development and wildlife planning.

Mr. White not only feels that the C.C.C. work has stabilized his ranch, but he also feels that it has greatly increased the value of his land.

GENERAL DESCRIPTION OF THE CCC CAMP

The camp is laid out with the building facing on either side of the Company street which runs east and west. A parkway planted with native grass and cacti and bordered with uneven rocks down the center of the street.

On the north side of the street is the Recreation Hall, Mess Hall, Infirmary, Technicians Quarters, in the order listed, while on the south side are the Headquarters and supply building, School building, and four barracks. Between the buildings are fire racks, consisting of six barrels, six buckets and a ladder. All the streets, drives, and walks are graveled with white gravel. To the north of the camp area, the technical service buildings consisting of an office building and a combination blacksmith shop, tool room, seed rooms, and garage building. The drive to the garage building graveled and grass and shrubbery has been planted in the front of the office.

An athletic field is laid off south of the camp buildings. A quarter mile track encircles a softball diamond, basketball court, boxing ring, and tennis court.

A. B. Chapman Is Camp Superintendent; Here Since Oct. 1937

A. B. Chapman, who is assistant Agriculture Engineer, at the Littlefield CCC Camp has been here since October 4, 1937, coming from the Memphis camp. He is also Camp superintendent.

Mr. Chapman has a degree in Civil Engineering, Bachelor of Science, from the Southern Methodist University in Dallas. He studied in the Co-operating Engineering School there.

He first started work with the Civilian Conservation Corps in June 1933, immediately after the CCC was established and he was first stationed at Gainesville. He is vitally interested in the Soil Conservation, "but the conservation of the youth of the nation is more important," Chapman stated to a Leader reporter. "I can safely say that at least a million boys have been enrolled in CCC camps since 1933, and each one of these boys have gained something from their stay in camp. The objective of the CCC Camp, first, to enroll the boys and give them an opportunity to associate with other future citizens of tomorrow, and, second, to keep the boys busy with some kind of work."

For those boys who cannot go to college, the CCC is a great thing," Mr. Chapman said, "it isn't a reform school." There isn't anything in the United States like the CCC, and enrollees are given golden opportunities to fit themselves for life after a time spent there.

Mr. Chapman also stated that the CCC had proved successful, both in training the boys, and the work they are accomplishing, especially in the soil conservation in this area. The training tends to lead the boys toward being better potential citizens.

NAGGING BACKACHE
 May Warn of Disordered Kidney Action. Don't Neglect It!

Modern life with its hurry and worry, irregular habits, improper eating and drinking, exposure, contagion, strains, keeps doctors busy. The after effects are disturbing to the kidneys and oftentimes people suffer without knowing that disordered kidney action may cause the trouble.

After colds, fever and similar ills there is an increase of body impurities the kidneys must filter from the blood. If the kidneys are overtaxed and fail to remove excess acid and other harmful waste, there is poisoning of the whole system.

Symptoms of disturbed kidney function may be nagging backache, persistent headache, dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes — a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of strength and energy. Other signs of kidney or bladder disturbance may be burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

"Always Be Careful" Is Slogan at Camp; Chapman Heads Safety

One of the most intensive programs at the CCC Camp is the study of Safety. Enrollees are all safety conscious, and they ever have in their minds their slogan, ABC "Always Be Careful."

A. C. Chapman is in charge of the Safety department at the camp, and one hour each week he gives lectures at group meetings, teaching the boys the meaning of safety and how to apply their slogan to every day living.

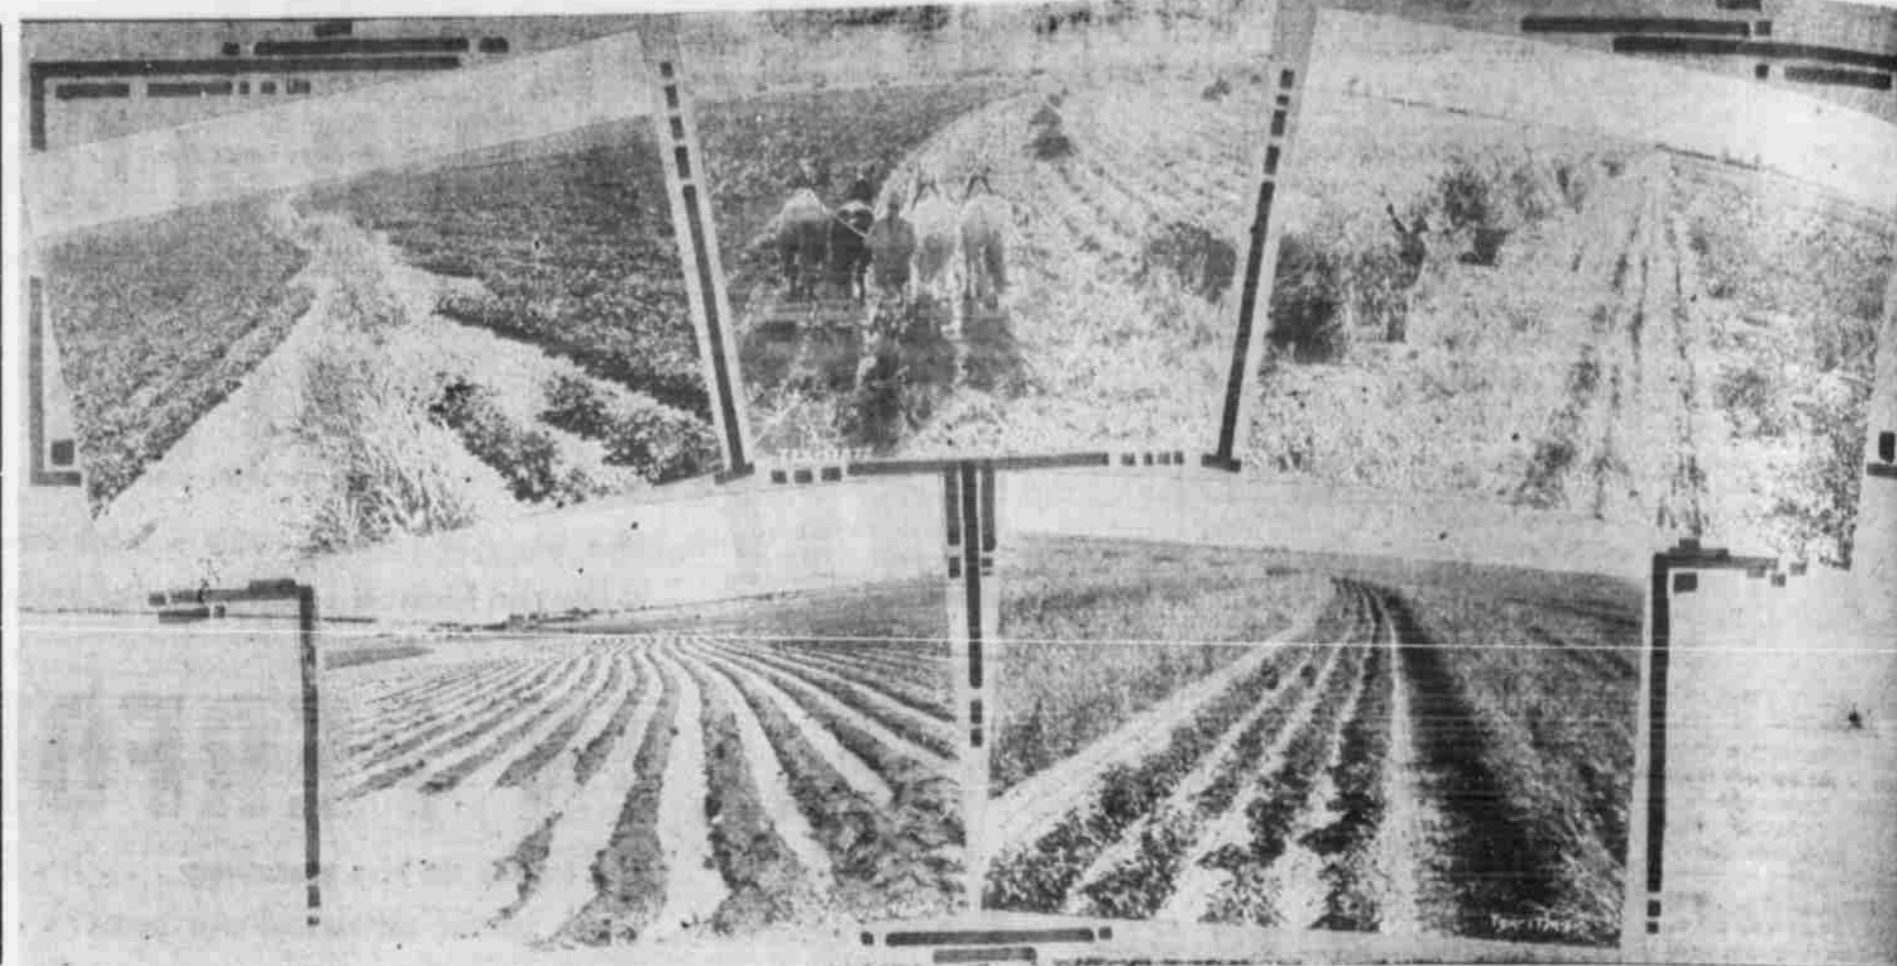

Every enrollee must take a course in driving, and at the end of the study, if they pass the examinations, they are given certificates by the State Highway Department. More than 75 per cent of the boys pass these efficiency tests.

Most of the boys are interested in learning how to drive the trucks, to and from the jobs in the country. An expert mechanic, Walter Tice, who has been at the Littlefield CCC Camp the past two months, instructs a class, whereby the enrollees learn to drive these trucks. But to drive a truck, the enrollee must pass another examination.

There has not been an accident in the field in a year, Mr. Chapman reported. Enrollees have driven the trucks more than 200,000 miles during the past year, and each of the boys are taught to handle the nineteen pieces of equipment. The trucks each haul twenty-five men to the work in the field, with the tools and water kegs. Each truck is in charge of a foreman, and the speed limit on the trucks does not exceed 25 miles per hour.

"Our Creator just naturally looks after CCC boys," Mr. Chapman said, "for last year a truck turned over with two of the enrollees, across the line in Hale county, and neither of the boys had even a scratch on them."

Wind and Water Erosion Practices in This Camp Area

CAMP ENROLLEES GIVEN OPPORTUNITY TO LEARN TO LIVE 'MORE ABUNDANT LIFE'; J. A. VON LANKIN EDUCATIONAL ADVISER

J. von Lankin is the CCC Camp educational adviser, and is in charge of the camp school, and he is very much in favor of helping enrollees attain what President Roosevelt termed as "the more abundant life."

The educational objectives of the Civilian Corps are fourfold: (1) to increase employability of each enrollee; (2) to increase the enrollee's ability for civic and social participation; (3) to remedy former educational deficiencies; and (4) to train for worthy use of leisure time.

In order to attain the first objective, that of increasing employability, emphasis is placed on vocational training. During the past year classes in various phases of agriculture, classes in auto-mechanics, photography, oxy-acetylene welding, carpentry and masonry have been conducted continuously in this camp. Classes in citizenship, government, ethics, conservation and allied subjects have aimed at the attainment of the second objective. Arithmetic, algebra, spelling, composition, geography, history, and reading have been taught in the elementary and high school sections of the educational program during the past year in order to remedy educational deficiencies, while such subjects as cabinet making, current events, reading courses, and the pursuit of general information have aimed at encouraging a worthy use of leisure time.

Every boy wants to know WHY he is building a dam, terracing a hillside, or running a survey, and it is nature for them to do a better job of their work. The technical foreman in the camp gives carefully planned instruction in the field, both in how the boys should do their work, and why. In addition to this field training, the boys attend classes in camp during spare time in which the general theory of soil conservation is made clear to them.

Every outfit must have leaders. In the Civilian Conservation Corps leaders are trained in-so-far as it is possible to do so. As life in the Corps is made up of three main activities, living together, working together, and learning together, it is necessary to have leaders in each of these fields.

For this reason courses are offered in leader training, foreman training, and teacher training. Before one can possibly become a good leader, however, it is first necessary to learn to become a good follower. Opportunities are offered whereby the enrollees can learn both... what they do with these opportunities is entirely up to the individual.

Classes are held four evenings each week, and during the past year the enrollment in educational work has been approximately 98 per cent of the camp's enrolled personnel. The teaching staff consists of the technical service personnel and the Army personnel, and is under the direction of a Camp Educational Adviser?

Civilian Conservation Corps Established Six Years Ago

In 1933 thru the co-operation of the Departments of War, Interior, Labor and Agriculture, centralized in the newly established office of

Mr. Robert Fechner as director, a comprehensive program of CCC Camps was established. Young men between the ages of 18 and 25 were given an opportunity to enroll for a minimum of six months and provision made for transportation to rural and forest camps, of which some two thousand were soon set up throughout the nation, with every state, Alaska and Hawaii represented. These provisions have changed from time to time but the essential and original pattern of the CCC has been maintained. It is unique and not to be compared to the work camps of Europe for the ideals and methods employed are entirely different.

The CCC work programs of reforestation, soil conservation, flood control and similar activities have been projected by skilled technicians and have made a direct contribution to national well-being. It has built sturdy self reliance in the enrollees and has established for most of them a high standard of daily work activity.

The CCC is maintained as a non-military institution.
