Mrs. Avery Of San Antonio Gives Novel

Painting in words the picture of simple family of Weish pe who carned their living by h work and asked no quarter of all work and askel no quarter of ally man, Mrs. Sherwood Avery of Sas Antonio reviewed "How Green Was My Valley" by Richard Liewellyn at the Settles hotel Fri day night. The review was spon scred by the 1930 Hyperion club, Telling the story dramatically Mrs. Avery spoke without a nota and held the attention of the audi-ence as she gave highlights of the book and at times gave pages of the story to show the style of the author. author.

author. The story is told by an old man who had lived in the valley all his life and is at last forced to abandon the house because of the sing from the coal mines that is pressing down on the building, making it unsafe. As he leaves the house he back in his mind to his child back in his mind to his childhood and the days spent in the little house and he tells the story of family life in the days of Victoria. Mrs. Avery compared the story of the family, the Morgans, with family life of today and pointed out the differences in sense of values in earlier times. "They had good food, good work, and relica-tion," she said, "and they had the more abundant life."

The reviewer gave many lines in the boo kthat showed the poetic style of the author. She was introduced to the group by Mrs. E. V. Spence. A group of over 100 par-sons attended.

Battlefront: 1836, 1940

Today is San Jacinto Day.

It was 104 years ago that a valiant band of Texans achieved a decisive victory that enabled them to free themselves of oppression and set up a government designed to give men free opportunity and security of life.

Texas has come a long way since 1836. It has experienced remarkable cares of growth, has established itself as one of the brightest stars in this nmonwealth of nations-but, in taking its rapid strides of progress has failed to close all the gates opened in the upward rush and has neglected to pause and take account of what must be paid for progress.

Without being pessimistic, it can be said that Texas faces a sort of oppression again; an oppres sion brought about by burdensome government costs, an oppression resulting from continued broadening of governmental services and protections and boun-

The growing debt should be an object of con cern for every citizen, because every citizen, whether he realizes it or not, is carrying a share of that debt. And now we have at least one major candidate for office proposing additional levies to yield from $55,000,000 to $60,000,000 per year-this sum to pay social security, improve elecymosynary institutions and retire the general fund deficit. Now these gen eral aims are not to be condemned. Reasonab's sums must be provided for cocial security; the people want to see their elecymosynary institutions equipped and maintained to meet the demand; certainly the pub lic debt must be retired.

But there must be some accompanying reduc tion in governmental expenditures in many places, and there must be better planning as to the source of taxation. Texas wants to industrialize, and it cannot achieve much in this line if it is to crush industries with excessive taxes on resources and on business. This state needs to find sources of taxation that will not be exhausted or crippled; it needs taxes not based on political expediency, but on sound governmental theory. This finance problem is Texas' 1940 battleground.

HOLLYWOOD-Memos to me: You libeled Joe Pasternak, you lug, when you said he had produced "Rio" along with his Durbin hits. You ought to have remembered that Joe planned "Rio" for Danielle Darrieux-but had nothing to do with the picture made when Danielle couldn't come over. Stupid, to say things like that about Joe. . . .

Tell Clark Gable where you buy your suits. He ought to appreciate it, complaining as he was in "Boom Town" about that safety pin in his coat collar-the one they pinned there to mar the perfect fit so he would be in character as a new-rich oil man. "Wardrobe," said Clark, "is so used to turning out perfect clothes they forget to botch them a little for character stuff. This suit-without the collar pin-is one I could wear anywhere."

Can you make something of the fact that Bing Crosby had to have a voice double in "If I Had My Way ?" No, you guess not-you would have to explain that the dubbing was done for a deep-down as laugh, mock-villainous, when Bing couldn't hit the low notes to suit David Butler. Butler, the director, hit 'em himself, suiting Butler fine. (But Gloris Jean still thinks Bing is WONDERFUL!)

Speaking of Gloria-can you figure out why Basil Rathbone holds such a fatal appeal for women? The guy is Miss Jean's idol-she squealed with dewhen Bing gave her a medallion decorated with profile of Rathbone. Gloria thinks Basil Rathbone is WONDERFUL.

Get whimsical, why don't you? Do a piece about the man who carries time in a bucket-ageing new nets to make them look old. Scholar-ships have so far been offered this year by Texas Christian university, Baylor university, Hardin-Sim-mons university, Howard Payne college, Abliane Christian college, McMurry college and the Central School of Oratory at Brownwood. Caldwell has announced that the young Home Town entries will be divided into three groups for running off of the preliminaries. The judges will select two finalists from each preliminary, and the six finalists will appear before the convention's last general assem-bly of Saturday morning, May 18th. The preliminaries will be held at 2:30 Thursday, May 16; 9:30 a. m. Friday the 17th, and 5 o'clock Friday afternoon. The Fri-day afternoon setting was made at 5 in order that the group may be free to march in the All-Youth parade, another big convention feature this year-especially big this year, for it will theme on the priceless heritage of American citizenship—the "American Way of Life"-to be expressed by the boys and girls of West Texas to their parents lining the parade narch
