Jury List District Court is Released

Names Grand and Petit Jurors for November Term Announced by Clerk Artie Lee Hunt

Artie Lee Hunt, courteous and accommodating court clerk, released on Tuesday the list of names drawn for grand and petit jury duty in the approaching fall term of district court here. The term opens this year on Nov. 10, for a seven weeks session, terminating shortly before Christmas Present indications, it is learned, point to another comparatively light docket, similar to that of the past three of four terms of court. The schedule of civil and criminal weeks has not as yet been made known, other than the first week which is non-jury, according to usual custom. District Judge W. R. Ewing of Pampa is expected to visit Wheeler the latter part of the month and set the docket.

From the list of 16 grand jurors named, 12 will be chosen for service. Petit jury duty will depend, of course, upon the number and nature of cases brought to trial.

The panels are as follows: Grand Jurors

SPECIAL SUBSCRIPTION OFFER IS POPULAR

To say the special new and renewal subscription offer preceding advanced subscription rates on The Times is popular, states the case mildly. Good taste forbids revealing all details concerning its reception by the public, but it may be said with simple candor that scores of present and several new subscribers have already accepted the opportunity to save 50 cents per year on their subscription to the county seat newspaper in periods of time from one year up to five, with a number in the latter group as well as between the two extremes mentioned. The comment of one eminent county barrister aptly illustrates the situation. Monday morning, Atty. Clayton Heare hailed The Times man near the court house and said: "Here's a check for $5.00, advance my subscription that amount. I'm having a birthday soon, and I don't know of anything I'd rather have to remember it by more than this subscription to The Wheeler

LIGHT FROST ON DATE PREDICTED BY TIMES

This paper has just learned, on undisputable authority, that a light frost occurred Oct. 11, the date predicted by that "first norther" legend and reluctantly published in the Sept. 11 issue of The Times. Three of the Wheeler county commissioners and two or three other equally reputable citizens have so declared. Of course it was not the killer type and was noticeable only in low places. Little or no damage re-

The Times takes keen delight in reporting this bit of information. It is directed especially to the attention of that impetuous young whipper-snapper who had the temerity to charge, in the neighborhood exchange cast from Amarillo last Sunday morning, that The Times editor was "hedging on his frost date." There is no quarrel whatever between this paper and the Amarillo i. y. w.-s., but that word hedge conjures odd connotations. For instance, Webster says:

"To arrange a way of escape from any position taken. To use reservations and qualifications in one's speech to avoid committing one's self definitely." Sounds just like the intimate description of an exchange commentator, doesn't it?

County Tax Rate is Same; Values Lower

Local Levy Remains at $1.00, but State Decrease of 11c Gives Total of $1.58 in 1941

According to final figures compiled by the commissioners court and released yesterday through the office of Terrell Gunter, tax assessor and collector, county, state and common school district valuations in

Wheeler county are revealed. Wheeler county's valuation last year was $10,972,519 and this year is $10,867,194.50, showing a reduction of more than a hundred thousand dollars, or $105,324.50, to be exact.

This is in line with a steady decrease in valuations extending back to 1936, when the figure was $13,-652,067. Thus in a five-year period county taxation values have declined close to three million dollars. State valuation of taxable property in the county is $9,720,419.50, comparable to $9,831,929 in 1940.

Common school district valuations total $6,134,227, as against $6,419,-158 last year. Poll taxes for 1941 number 3,811, and 3,553 in 1940. Of the $1.75 charged for poll tax, $1.50 goes to the state and 25 cents to the county. Revenues expected from the four tax divisions in 1941 are as follows: County, $108,671.99; state, $56,379 .-Meeting Held Monday 15; common school districts, $53,-231.35, and poll taxes, state and

RUDE AWAKENING LOOMS

Next March 1, a good many Americans will have a rude awakening. They will learn, for the first time, that war and defense are an incredibly costly business. For, on that date, the highest income taxes ever levied in this country will be due and payable. Everyone knows that the new tax bill is severebut it is probable that relatively few know just how much of their income it will take.

A comparison of the old tax bill with the new tells the story. Under the old law, a single person with $3,000 net income paid the federal government $84 in direct taxesunder the new law he must pay $197. Bert "Pecos" Carpenter, 68-yearold cowboy, was kicked to death by a horse on the Brainard Ranch in Roberts county early Saturday. He had been dead about four hours when found by other cowhands, it was said. Carpenter won the prize as the "most typical cowboy" riding in the parade at the Anvil Park Rodeo held at Canadian in July. Carpenter was reported to have gone to the corral stable to pick cockleburs out of a horse's tail, a routine chore, performed "a thousand times" by all cowboys.-Miami Chief.

The sweetest music heard since the 80,000-bale crop in 1928 began this week as gins throughout this area began grinding out dollars in the form of baled cotton from the biggest crop (if something doesn't happen) in a number of years. How About That Roof?

Is it prepared to stand the trials of autumn and winter rains and snows? The season of year is near at hand when economy, safety and good judgment suggest making that roof safe against weather uncertainties. We have the materials with which to put your roof in condition-red cedar shingles, roof paints, rubberoid roofing, patching compounds, etc. Let us show how economically a brand new roof can be applied to ward off the troubles incident to weather inclemencies of fall and winter.

Getting Ready for "Old Man Winter"

With winter approaching, there is no time like the present to check up on your natural gas equipment. A little precaution may save a lot of trouble, and everyone should check on the following points, some of which may be applicable to you:

RUBBER HOSE CONNECTIONS

While not recommended as the best type of connection, rubber hose to asbestos back and radiant type heaters is the most convenient. However, rubber hose eventually deteriorates and cracks and leaks from this source should be watched for. If hose becomes brittle it should be replaced. Chief source of leaks from rubber hose connections is where it is attached to the hose cocks. The hose is stretched where it slides over the cock and will eventually become brittle and leak. Such leaks can be corrected by trimming off about two inches of hose at each end. When attaching hose to wall connections and appliances, be sure it is on quite firmly and check for leaks after connection is made. Rubber hose connections should be tested for leaks at least three times a year.

STOP AND HOSE COCKS

Most gas valves of the stop type, whether thread or hose style, have a movable cone in the center sealed with hard oil or graphite grease. After use for some time this grease works out, leaving the cone dry. If your stop cocks are hard to turn, take out the cone and grease it with hard oil. Continued use of a stop cock which has lost its grease will cause the cone to wear and produce a leak that cannot be stopped. All stop and hose cocks, wall outlets and connections on heaters, cook stoves and lights should be given inspection and attention if needed.

scription rates. The management disliked to do this

Texas

It's An Actual Fact subscription rates have been advanced as much or more than hundreds of subscribers will dislike to pay the advanced rates. But, since there was no alternative, we will all have to make the best of it. After all, the advance amounts to slightly less than one cent a week. Just whisper to Old Santa what a nice gift for a relative or friend a subscription

It's an actual fact The Times realized a better profit under the former schedule of subscription rates and cost of operation than it will under the new scale, but that is something else which can't be helped.

The idea to be presented here is:

Beginning Nov. 1, the new subscription rates will be $1.50 per year in Wheeler county and $2.00 per year outside the county.

Until Nov. 1, anyone may subscribe as far ahead as they wish at the old rate of $1.00 a year in the county and $1.50 a year outside the county. Only 15 days, including Sundays, remain before this special offer, with its saving of 50 cents a year, closes.

Any subscriptions in arrears on Nov. 1 may be paid up to that date at the old rates but on and after Nov. 1 the new rates will apply to all subscriptions, whether paid up or not, all arrears remaining at the old rates.

The county USDA defense board met yesterday to study the tentative production goals for the county. From that meeting will go a report to the state board stating the goals as agreed upon by the county group. From now until Nov. 1 groundwork for the farm-to-farm canvass on production pledges will be laid.

During the first three weeks of November AAA county and community committeemen, working with and assisted by the USDA defense board, will contact every farmer and ranchman in the county with a farm plan sheet.

PEEPING IN THE WHEELER TIMES WINDOW

Variety to a marked extent has prevailed in The Times window exhibits during the past week, ranging from eggs and plants to vegetables of different kinds.

E. E. Rice, residing 6 miles east of Briscoe, brought in Saturday a tiny White Leghorn egg not much larger than an average-sized bird egg.

Also on Saturday, L. A. Mc-Whorter brought in a sample of crotalaria from his place 11/2 miles east of town. The plant is classed as a soil-builder and grown extensively in Georgia, where he obtained the seed. Bearing lovely yellow blossoms, crotalaria looks more appropriate to a flower garden than the field.

Another entry on Saturday was the 54-pound Nancy Hall sweet potato, brought in by Mrs. W. L.

The same day, James Earl Martin, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Martin, living 7 miles west of town, brought to the office two fine sweet potatoes, a Nancy Hall and a red potato. Introducing variety, W. H. (Uncle Bill) Martin submitted a half dozen fine large purple top globe turnips this week. Only a sample of these could be spared for the window, the

M. L. McWhorter, another good friend of The Times, presented early this week for display a nice-sized, smooth Nancy Hall potato with the remark it was not so large as some but that it was grown on very poor

Mention was purposely omitted last week of the 18-inch sweet potato brought in by W. J. Brumley and which beat John Henry Watts' 161/2inch tuber easily, to allow Watts a chance to make good on the boast that "when someone brings in a longer 'tater I'll get my post-hole digger and see what I can do." On good authority it is learned Watts has punched his nice truck garden tract in the east edge of town "plum full of holes," some of them resembling artesian wells-and yesterday he brought in a sample of his diligent labors. It is a slender tuber measuring (counting the 2-inch pencil sized root) only 20 inches.
