SPECIAL SESSION FACES PROBLEM

Governor Allan Shivers rightly sticks to his guns in making care of the state hospitals and special schools the single topic for the special session of the Legislature called for January 31. The matter is vital. It will take all of the care and attention that the Legislature can give it to work out a satisfactory program of enlargement, rehabilitation and finance.

The state is reaping where it has sowed. Both official and unofficial surveys of Texas mental institutions agree that deplorable conditions exist which defeat the aims for which the institutions are provided. They agree that in many instances housing is a risk to the patients. The system is undermanned. It is not doing its job.

Still worse, we are having to deal with the psychopathic results of failure to perfect an adequate psychiatric program to forestall them. Nearly a decade ago, the Legislature authorized a North Texas psychiatric hospital to take the impossible overload off the single institution at Galveston. This was on the urgent plea of competent mental experts who pointed out that at some time in life one out of every five human beings becomes a mental case. A high percentage can be preserved to sanity with proper psychiatric attention. The authorized hospital has never been built. There are no figures on the number of Texans condemned to mental breakdown by this neglect, but it must be tragically high.

In the meantime, jails continue to fill with helpless mental cases for whom other facilities are unavailable. Many merely need psychiatric care and their condition is certainly not helped. Every Texas sheriff knows and many have openly declared that some of these people are only senile. Their callous families are passing the buck of care under the plea of insanity, which can well become fact instead of theory under the conditions.

The Legislature must provide, not a stopgap but a permanent program. This should be based in adequate psychiatric housing and staffing for treatment, an investment that will pay returns. Only a limited number of psychiatric patients need become permanent or even temporary charges on psychopathic care. Save the psychiatric case to useful citizenship and the gains are enormous.

Unless the program is permanently set up and financed, the existing conditions will recur. This has always been true. We can point to a long history of intermittent discoveries of appalling situations, public indignation, temporary attention, subsequent lapse.

The special session should consider this: The one-out-of-five-mental-case percentage applies to everybody. Any legislator may well be one. Do you want psychiatric prevention or psychopathic care?—Dallas News

SAND LOVE GRASS SEED 75c Per Pound

Now is the time to plant your old fields and lay-out land back to grass. The S. C. S. will pay a big part of the cost; see your county agent.

Sand love grass pasture at the Woodward Experiment Station produced the greatest gains per acre and per head compared with all other grass stands. Sand love grass produced 120 pounds of beef per acre in a year. Also, yearlings gained over 400 pounds in a year, almost doubling their weight.

You can plant the seed with a wheat drill. If government drills are not available just mix maize chops with it.

It takes only one pound of Sand Love Grass Seed per acre to give a stand.

Get it a Ward Implement in Wheeler or contact Geo. Tubb; Canadian, Texas; Box 247 or telephone 297-J.

"Doctor said to keep you warm"

You'll fill the doctor's "prescription" perfectly with adequate, vented, automatic natural gas heating. You'll like gas heating for other reasons, too—for its cleanliness, its dependability, its low cost. Heating the home is only one of the many jobs natural gas does for you—efficiently and economically!

Natural Gas Service Is a Planned Service

Gas company technicians are continually exploring for new gas fields, drilling new wells, building new processing plants and compressor stations, and laying hundreds of miles of new pipe lines. This is all part of the service—costing the gas industry millions of dollars each year—that assures Gulf South residents a continued supply of the world's finest fuel, for only a few cents a day.

Wheeler County Reaps Benefits From Veterans Training Program

250 Former GIs Learn Vocational Skills At School

By GARLAND SMITH
News-Globe Farm Writer
WHEELER—Veterans, captains as well as privates from Salerno to Okinawa who came back home to farm, are moving ahead here in a program of progressive agriculture.

Some 250 ex-GIs, including a former WAVE, since V-J Day have done more than adjust themselves to the countryside they left behind after the Japanese had smashed Pearl Harbor.

They have taken the lead to make farming and ranching in Wheeler County more profitable today—and more secure for their children who must work the land tomorrow.

Commercial fertilizer, for example, is used extensively on local farms for the first time, largely because veterans tried it first to show others artificial stimulation of soil would pay.

A standard soil conservation district today serves the Wheeler-Shamrock area. Veterans aided launching the movement to organize the district and recruited land-owners with more experience to help them.

Local ex-GIs also have proved a veterans program of vocational education, considered by some persons elsewhere as an "easy ride on the gravy train", can be a real benefit to the community, worthy of the money taxpayers must spend to pay the bill.

Since its inception June 1, 1947, the Wheeler County school has become one of the foremost in Texas. Eleven instructors are teaching agriculture, trades and bookkeeping in classes at Wheeler, Shamrock, Mobeetie, Allison and Kellon.

George Gandy, a patient, serious graduate of West Texas State College, Canyon, and a public school teacher for 14

graduate work in vocational agriculture at Texas Technological College. Mrs. Margaret Clepper, formerly a WAVE and the only woman in veterans training in Wheeler County, puts biscuits into the oven at home. She is studying bookkeeping. Her husband, James, is an instructor and sponsor of the Wheeler High School, Future Farmers of America.

years, gave up a superintendent's job to start the first class of 20 trainees at Kellon.

Sam Thomas, Jr. opened the second class five days later at Mobeetie. After so many veterans had enrolled during the year ending June 1, 1948, Gandy was appointed coordinator for the county, the position he holds now. Thomas also is still teaching.

Standards have been kept high. "That's the way our fellows want it," Gandy said. "I never would have come into the program if I had thought they had been looking for a free ride; that is, accept their GI subsistence without accomplishing something worthwhile in return."

Trainees who fail to comply with assignments automatically are marked off the rolls for being absent without reasonable excuse. This means subsistence is terminated immediately, too.

"Somebody leaves the program every once in a while," Gandy said. "But the big majority is conscientious, trying hard, doing fine work. We sort of like to let the record speak for itself."

Just how interested the veterans are, perhaps, might be measured by this incident:

Gandy at the beginning of 1949 posted a list of official holidays, including Labor Day which falls on Monday. None of the instructors announced the holiday in advance. It was taken for granted there would be no classes.

About 7 o'clock Monday evening however, the classroom in the war surplus building on the campus of Wheeler High School was jammed with veterans. Gandy found them seated with notebooks and pencils ready.

"Don't you fellows know this is a holiday?" he asked.

"We knew it was Labor Day," an ex-GI replied. But that's no holiday for us."

"Okay," Gandy said. "Let's have a session in the work shop."

Ninety percent of the veterans said in an opinion poll they would attend classes even though government subsistence should be withdrawn. Only 84 percent of all Texas veterans indicated they would attend under similar circumstances.

Fourteen veterans have completed their own farm shops at home. They applied knowledge which they obtained in the school's five shops, always open whenever trainees feel like putting in extra hours. Eighteen ex-GIs have REA-type farm welders.

"With these tools and equipment, they can overhaul machinery during the slack periods and keep it in good repair," Gandy said. "A farm shop enables a farmer to cut down production costs more than he might think at first."

Until the veterans, as a group, jumped at the idea in 1947, nobody here had paid much attention to Texas A&M soil experts and agricultural agents who for decades had preached the value of fertilizers.

No large amounts of fertilizer were available locally. The ex-GIs made up an order to buy out of town, at a discount. Today commercial mixtures are sold around the courthouse square like pinto beans and corn meal.

In 1947-48 the veterans purchased $8,000 worth of fertilizers, including compounds with phosphate and nitrogen, about 200 tons in all. Authentic records show an average increase in crop yields of 30 percent.

They paid $12,000 for approximately 300 tons of fertilizer in 1948-49. Yields are up again. Exactly how much production has been increased will be figured when gins have finished processing the 1949 cotton crop.

Veterans aided the movement which resulted in organization of Wheeler County Soil Conservation District. They circulated petitions, supported the measure at public hearings and campaigned before election. The district has been active since July 10.

Dusan Pakan, son of a pioneer immigrant family, who makes conservation farming pay in the Pak-an community, 13 miles northwest of Shamrock, was elected chairman of the board of supervisors.

Billy Cantrell, farmer 4 miles northeast of Twitty and formerly gunner in the Army Air Force, was named vice-chairman. Clarence Zybach is secretary, and two other veterans, Jap Bailey, Mobeetie, and Willard Rogers, Wheeler, are members of the board.

Improvements on individual farms are co-ordinated through the soil district and veterans schools. Trainees have more than 300 approved practices they may adopt to augment operations at home.

"These include everything from turning under green manure crops to building a new home," Gandy explained. "Nobody knows how many terraces we have run. The distance would extend for miles and miles."

Gandy said he is encouraged by the high percentage of veteran farms who continue approved practices following graduation. Nearly all of them keep records up to date as instructors suggest, he said.

While the veterans educational program is scheduled to end in 1956, Gandy doubts whether the Wheeler program will last that long. In three years, or possibly four, he predicts, all eligible farmers will have received maximum training under the law.

If and when veterans training ends, facilities here probably will revert to the public schools. Buildings and equipment used by ex-GIs throughout the county are worth about $35,000. This sum includes the value of a bus and a concrete mixer.

Gandy's faculty includes the following:

Frank Wofford, Wheeler; John Peterson, Allison; Fred S. Farmer, Shamrock; W. C. Collins, Kellon, and Sam Thomas, agriculture; Owen B. Harvey, agriculture and shop for the county; Albert Thomas, Wheeler, auto mechanics; Roland Bratcher, Shamrock, and fender; Earl Woodrock, auto mechanics; fender; Woodrow Sims, and Henderson Coffman, bookkeeping, and Vocational secretary.

"Put Up Or Shut Up" Is Title:

Wheeler County Pioneer Publishing Second Book

BY MRS. GEORGE L. STANLEY

Millie Jones Porter, who herded sheep on the hillsides of Wheeler County, more than half a century ago, is bringing out her second book, "Put Up Or Shut Up," which has captured the spirit of people who lived by and believed in true human values.

MILLIE JONES PORTER

Mrs. Porter who has resided in the Texas Panhandle more than 60 years is also author of "Memory Cups of Panhandle Pioneers." Her first book was written with special emphasis on Wheeler County. In 1940 she became alarmed at the fast diminishing rank of old-timers, and began this history, which after four years of constant work, resulted in a book which has received wide acclaim.

"Put Up Or Shut Up," which will be ready for distribution about the middle of January, covers a wider scope of the Panhandle and is told through the eyes of an old-timer and the modern day tourist, giving good points and bad points of the high plains section.

This Wheeler County pioneer woman is a native of Missouri, but came to this section with her parents in 1886. They made the 700 mile trip in a covered wagon. She knows what it means to face a hard winter in a tent and the joy of moving into a dugout. She has waded through buffalo walls, battled with rain and snow, and has made her bed on a lonely hillside near where her flock was bedded for the night, and slept alone out under the stars.

Millie Jones Porter can give a true picture of the old-timer from personal experiences. In her new book she has used pictures, letters, poems and experiences, as related by those who knew this country when it was young, with the story covering 65 Panhandle counties.

This pioneer woman is one of the most interesting and beloved women of Wheeler County. She was the oldest of 10 children of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Jones, who settled not far from the center of the county, a few miles south of Sweetwater creek in the 80's.

Millie Jones Porter herded sheep for her father while he hired out to work or hauled freight. At 14 years of age she had nine months of school work when the family moved to Mo-beettie, but while she had herded sheep, she carried a book under her arm, and was ready to enter the eighth grade at that time. She had read Barnes History many times, and learned much teaching the younger members of the family. Finally she attended one term of school at Old Fort Worth University, from which she returned home to teach at Rock School House, which still stands near the banks of Sweetwater Creek.

After she and the late Jim Porter married, for 37 years they worked side by side. She helped to build fences, rode the range, and climbed the windmill towers. She helped to harvest crops and it was said of her that she could stack more hay on a wagon than any man in the county.

The Porters gave their children a college education and assisted 31 other boys and girls to get an education.

Millie Jones Porter has studied hard all her life, and although she is a great-grandmother has recently completed a college course in creative writing. She is an ardent church worker, taught a class in Sunday School for many years and is a leader in the work of the Women's Society of Christian Service. For more than 30 years she has been a member of the Board of Stewards of the Wheeler Methodist Church, and served a number of years on the Methodist Camp Board. She is a member of the Order of Eastern Star, a charter member of the Wheeler Study Club, belongs to a home demonstration club, a charter member of the Penhandler's Club of Shamrock, and belongs to the Panhandle Pen Women which meets quarterly in Amarillo.

Aside from her two books, Mrs. Porter has written enough verse to publish a volume of poems.

Her spacious home at Wheeler is filled with rare pieces of antique furniture, a valuable collection of old china and glass, representing every section of the United States.

Although her childhood days were spent in poverty, Millie Porter remembers little of the real hardships. She is a happy person with a merry ring to her laughter often prompted by her keen sense of humor.

Her daughters are Mrs. Virgil Caperton of Shamrock, and Mrs. Cora Hyatt of Wheeler. The recent death of her son, Glenn, of Wheeler, was a great blow to this courageous mother.

Mrs. Porter admits that Texas brags, but like the old-timer, she is willing to put up or shut up. She has resented other states ridiculing her adopted state, and accusing its citizens of so much bragging, but in her new book she has tried to be fair-minded and give both sides of the question. She has tried to see through the eyes of the new-comer today as well as to give the vision of the early settlers of the Panhandle area, in a book written to entertain as well as to give the reader in this age, something of what has gone before in this section of the Southwest.

HADACOL IS HELPFUL TO FOLKS OF ALL AGE GROUPS

Countless thousands have proved that HADACOL is beneficial to folks of all ages. That is the reason so many purchase the large economy size bottle so all the family can benefit from nature's vitamins and minerals in HADACOL.

For instance, Miss Ethel Guidry, 322 Montgomery St., Port Neches, Texas, only 17 years old, was "feeling nervous, had little appetite, her face was pale and drawn and she suffered from gas on the stomach."

Her system lacked the B Vitamins and Minerals which HADACOL contains and this may cause digestive disturbances such as heart burns, indigestion, and often times Miss Guidry says she could not eat the kind and type of food she wanted without feeling terrible afterwards.

Miss Guidry, who recently graduated from high school, is already working in a bank. She said that after taking several bottles of HADACOL she is now "feeling wonderful," and has "lots of pep and energy."

Most folks take HADACOL because it has worked such wonders for relatives or friends. Miss Guidry took HADACOL because her mother had taken 12 bottles with excellent results.

In nearby Port Arthur, Texas, Mrs. W. M. Thompson took HADACOL because it had done her husband so much good. He, in turn, had taken HADACOL because an elderly neighbor told him of "feeling so much better after taking several bottles of HADACOL."

Mrs. Thompson's normal weight is 135 pounds but she was down to 110 pounds before taking HADACOL and after taking a few bottles of HADACOL she regained her normal weight.

"I was bothered with stomach trouble, gastric disturbances, I had lost my appetite and was bloated," said Mrs. Thompson.

She had tried several preparations before taking her husband's advice on HADACOL and now she enthusiastically recommends HADACOL to her friends.

She, too, like Miss Guidry and the others, was suffering from the lack of the B Vitamins and Minerals in her system which HADACOL contains.

A lack of only a small amount of the B Vitamins and certain Minerals will cause digestive disturbances. . . . Your food will not agree with you. . . . You will suffer from heart burn, gas pains, and your food will sour on your stomach, and you will not be able to eat the things you like for fear of being in misery afterwards. Many people also suffer from constipation. And while these symptoms may be the results of other causes, they are surely and certainly the symptoms and signs of the lack of the B Vitamins and Minerals which HADACOL contains. And if you suffer from such a disorder, there is no known cure except the administration of the B Vitamins and Minerals which your system lacks.

HADACOL contains not only one, but five of the B Vitamins. HADACOL contains not only one, but four of the necessary Minerals. It comes to you in liquid form, easily assimilated in the blood stream so that it can go to work right away.

It is easy to understand, therefore, why countless thousands have already been benefited by this amazing tonic, HADACOL.

So, it matters not who you are. . . . it matters not where you live. . . . or if you have tried all the medicines under the sun, give this wonderful preparation a trial. Don't go on suffering! Don't continue to lead a miserable life. Many persons who have suffered down to 10 to 20 years or even longer, are able now to live happy, comfortable lives again because HADACOL supplies the B Vitamins and Minerals which your systems needed. Be fair to yourself. Give HADACOL a trial. —Adv.

FARMERS HAVE CHANCE TO USE
AC PROGRAM

Farmers of Wheeler County have an opportunity in 1950 of making better use of the Agricultural Conservation Program than ever before, says George L. Close, chairman of the county PMA Committee.

With allotments on cotton, wheat and peanuts and the need to shift production on some of the acreage in these crops, farmers have an opportunity to use the Agricultural Conservation Program in the seeding of grasses and legumes. In this, cooperating farmers will not only be helping to bring production into balance, but they will be building reserves in the soil for future needs. The seeding of grass and legumes is only a part of the job of most effective conservation. To obtain the maximum in stands and growth, the chairman points out, most soils require lime, phosphorus and potash, and the agriculture conservation practices for the application of these materials are an important part of the current conservation effort.

ACP assistance for these practices is available to all farmers in Wheeler County, says the chairman. With these practices as tools in the effort to control erosion and build soil fertility, farmers of Wheeler County are in a position to make greater and more effective use of the program than ever before.

To help farmers use the program to best advantage, elected farmer committeemen are available in every farming community. The chairman urges all farmers to use these men in analyzing conservation problems and in helping to select practices to meet them.

Urging full use of the program to take advantage of the current conservation opportunity, the chairman says: "Because the conservation of our soil and water resources is of such vital importance to all the people of the county, the ACP has been provided as a means of getting the job done through cooperation of the farmers and the people who depend on his land for a living. Farmers cooperating in the ACP must realize that 15 to 20 city people are helping them and are depending on the farmers to protect their heritage in the soil. The present period of adjustment offers a real opportunity for farmers to assure the nation of their wholehearted effort to assume continued abundant production."
